A Letter from Siberia

Siberia, March 15, 1919

Dear Friend,

Your most welcome letter and enclosure from "Saturday Night" received, and I must say I had expected a line for some time from you.

I heard Kirk was sick but did not know whether to write him or not as I thought he might easily move in a two months period, but I wrote home and they will forward it. I will also drop a line to Westminster. It is well that the other boys are with him. I have given up hopes of meeting them in Siberia as I hear Imperial troops, or the new Volunteer army, may replace us. I do not know how soon, but God give them speed, we are all ready to return to our country as we feel we do not want to make the army our home, and it is a task of many impatient, or patient, years out here I will say.

There about 20,000 Allied soldiers in this country now. I understand the ones which came last, the Infantry, will go first, leaving us last as we were first here and are the unit which has carried on the work according to the war plans. The boys get sick, shot, hurt and frozen, and we have to carry on no matter what comes or goes.

I have been working in the Hospital wards all winter, but thinking I might need some outside life I am now on the Ambulance section, driving and repairing, and I sure see the country for miles around. It is the most natural and artificial fortified harbor in the world. Hills and valleys to no end, and roads like trails in the West, all rough but good hard bottoms. Sometimes we find a nice smooth road which the German prisoners have built and are still doing so. They are quite contented since the Canadian and Americans have taken charge of them, and that peace is near at hand in their own country.

I am pleased to know you are all having a good time, so many dances and parties I am sure it will be a treat after such a long seige of confinement due to the flu.

We will have it much easier when the Infantry go home. I don't know that I have much more I can say as news is scarce. I hope the contagious diseases let us down light, and that we may spend our summer months in dear old Canada.

With best regards, I remain your old friend.

W. G. LANGFORD.

To an Ex-Pupil:—

With deep regret we have learned that you have severed your connections with our old and celebrated seat of learning, the Waterdown High School. The pangs of regret, which are coursing through our sensitive natures are genuine we can assure you, in fact, when we attempt to adequately express our grief at your departure, words fail to come to our rescue.

Till our dying day we will never forget your pleasant smile, your winsome ways and your many acts of chronic mischief, we beg to compliment you on the ease with which you acquired knowledge, and the readiness with which you could solve problems, which were indeed almost impossible to the rest of your associates.

And while your sudden departure has cast a gloom over our class, we mourn not as those without hope, because we feel assured that you will be back in September to prepare for your matriculation and your honor course.

Au revoir! don't work too hard this summer. When the hoe handle gets too hot, take a vacation under a shady tree and meditate upon the scholastic worries of your dear old fellow pupils, who are pouring over their geometrical theorems, ancient history and Latin Orations.

Farewell, farewell,

The Mock Trial

The entertainment last evening in the Roller rink under the auspices of the Public Library was indeed a decided success, and a well filled house greeted the entertainers.

The musical program during the first part of the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone, and all those who took part in it are deserving of every praise.

The comic mock trial, and comic is certainly the word, kept the audience in a fit of laughter from start to finish. The characters were all good and ably handled by our local talent, which is no. to be sneered at.

After the trial the remainder of the evening and part of the early morning was spent in dancing and a general good time.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $92 and are for the benefit of the Library.

Our Reporter, who was one of the Jury, has failed to send in an account of the proceeding, but we understand the case was settled out of court satisfactory to all, except Old Peedick, who is still looking for his dollar.

On Monday evening last the Epworth League had a very pleasant and interesting time. The special feature of the evening was a Baseball match, and the character discussed was Joseph. The leaders were Miss Flora Slater and Clifford Reid, the result of the score being 21 to 20 in favor of Miss Slater's team. Miss Ruby Church and Chas. Gallivan also gave musical selections. A silver collection was taken at the door in aid of the Missionary Forward movement, the sum of $11 realized. Refreshments were served and the meeting was closed by singing National anthem. Next Monday evening is the annual meeting and election of officers for the year.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. W. G. Spence on Wednesday May 7th at 2.30 p. m. This is the annual meeting and election of officers. There will be music and reading, and refreshments will also be served. We hope for a good attendance as this is the most important meeting of the year.

Iva Langton, Sec.

Mr. Henry Copp, a well-known and highly respected citizen, passed away at his home on Sunday morning April 20th, aged 74 years. The deceased was working around his lawn on Saturday afternoon, when he was seized with a stroke, and never rallied. The deceased was born in Devonshire, Eng., and came to Canada and settled in Nelson township where he lived for many years before taking up his residence in Burlington several years ago. He is survived by one son, George of Waterdown, and a daughter in Hamilton. The funeral which was private took place to Greenwood cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.—Burlington Gazette.

We presume there never was a newspaper in any locality that gave all the local happenings. It is often that someone comes and goes that the reporter does not see. It happens that the family is missed several times, they get the impression that the editor does not care to mention it. This is a mistake. In most country towns the local work is the hardest work connected with the paper. There are lots of people interested in your friends. You owe it as a duty to them to let your friends know through your home paper of their doings. Perhaps you think that the paper shows partiality, but just see if the paper doesn't treat you right if you give it a chance. We have no mind reading experts.

Hun Children Deceived

What Their Geographies Taught About Canada.

Germany has captured all the United States and a part of Canada, startlingly announces the Rocky Mountain News. The conquest took place ten years ago, all on the quiet and unknown to the inhabitants. The Kaiser at the time admitted the occupation and subjection of this territory and issued maps for the edification of the little Huns in the public schools of the fatherland, whose gullibility left them believing that the select and rich parts of the world belonged "by divine right" to the German people, and all the rest was inhabited by swine and heathen.

But America has at last come to the full knowledge of its predicament by reference to page 55 map No. 1, of the Volkshul-Atlas von C. Diercke (public school atlas), used in the schools of Germany ten years ago.

As the youthful Hun struggled through his geography lesson he became "enlightened" about the world. He knew Germany, for he had seen the great pompous dignity of its emperor reviewing the imperial troops. Germany was a reality to the child. But about the rest of the world, Bah! They were heathen and "low brows."

And then the teacher came to page 5 of the lesson and then to map No. 1. It is titled "Verteilung der Menschenrassen," or the division of the human race. In great, stirring red ink the pupil was at once attracted to a vast area covering the whole of the United States and almost half of Canada.

And across the whole was written "Germanen," meaning Germans. To the north was a strip of green designating that there was the home of the "Noramerikanische Indianer," meaning the North American Indians.

But the skillful art of lying, even in the face of an untruth, because they thought they could get away with it, led the authorities of Germany to step farther, and behold, the race that gave to Germany the first knowledge of telephones and telegraphs, the submarine and airplane, through American inventions, was transformed into "heathen."

Map No. 2 on page 5 shows the western hemisphere in another light—that of the division of religions. Here the miracle of miracles is being worked, for in a heathen country German missionaries are battling the elements and savagery of a hideous race to plant the imperial and holy flag of Germany upon its soil and to bring "Christian" enlightenment to their unholy souls.

Across the face of the United States and Canada dark shaded places are shown, with a footnote reading Gebiet deutscher Heidenmissionen," meaning spheres of influence of German missionaries to the heathen.

The Hun Spirit.

A series of trenches in front of Passchendaele in Flanders, were notorious among the boys for the quantity of slimy mud which always gathered there. One day after a heavy rain, a poor fellow sank into the sticky mixture up to his armpits and was fixed there for three days and nights, while the Hun snipers from a point of vantage kept up a constant fire on any who attempted to feed him or try to rescue him, although they, themselves, with true Hun cruelty, took good care not to hit him, preferring to see him suffer.

The poor chap begged his comrades to shoot him and put him out of his misery. At length the sergeant in charge telephoned to his colonel and asked permission to do this, but the colonel said: "Make one more desperate attempt to get him out." So that night, which fortunately happened to be a very dark one, the sergeant got a dozen volunteers with a bit of rope and quietly, inch by inch, they pulled him out and the stretcher-bearers, on the double, got him to the nearest dressing station.

Saskatchewan Co-op. Creameries. At the annual meeting of Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries the financial report showed the volume of the business for the last fiscal year was $1,887,318, representing an increase of almost 100 per cent. on the previous year's business. After providing for a dividend of 8 per cent. on paid-up stock, and making a final payment of one cent per pound on butter fat, and one cent per dozen on eggs, the surplus of the company, which includes the reserves of the individual locals at the time of amalgamation, now amounts to a considerable sum. During the year just ended the company has extended its field of operations in the cold storage branch by acquiring and operating plants at Saskatoon, Vonda, Regina and commencing the building of a plant at North Battleford.

Worth Knowing.
 A delicious soda biscuit to serve with afternoon tea is made as follows:
 A tablespoonful and a half of butter,
 two tablespoonfuls of cream of tartar, one tablespoonful of soda, one pint of milk, a little salt, and one quart of sifted flour. Mix the flour, salt, butter and cream of tartar together; then dissolve the soda in the milk, and add the liquid slowly to the flour. Work the whole mixture together well, roll the dough out to a quarter inch thickness, and cut it into rounds about the size of a quarter. Bake brown in a quick oven.
 A few drops of lemon squeezed in soap, then a few drops of chlorinated soda rubbed on the spots will cause them to disappear.

Some Good Ways to Use Healthful Article.

Lemon-Raisin Pie may be tried for a change. Simply cook two-thirds cupful ground seeded raisins in one and one-quarter cupfuls water about twenty minutes. Mix two tablespoonfuls each of flour and cornstarch with two-thirds cupful sugar, dilute with four tablespoonfuls water, add to raisins and cook until smooth. Take from fire, add three tablespoonfuls sifted cracker crumbs mixed with one tablespoonful flour and one teaspoonful butter. Let stand covered until cold. Cut one large banana in thin slices, add one-quarter teaspoonful cinnamon, add one well-beaten egg and two tablespoonfuls powdered sugar and three-quarters teaspoonful lemon extract.

Banana-Raisin Pie—Cook one-half cupful chopped seed raisins in one cup water until plump. Take from fire, add two tablespoonfuls sifted cracker crumbs
 mixed with one tablespoonful flour and
 one teaspoonful butter. Let stand covered until cold. Cut one large banana in thin slices, add one-quarter teaspoonful cinnamon, add one well-beaten egg and
 two tablespoonfuls powdered sugar and
 three-quarters teaspoonful lemon extract.

Raisin Puffs—Cream one-third cupful butter, add two tablespoonfuls sugar,
 two well-beaten eggs, one cupful milk,
 two cupfuls baking powder and one-quarter teaspoonful salt, one cupful seeded raisins cut in small pieces and dredged with one-quarter cupful flour.
 Turn into buttered cups. Steam about 15 minutes. Serve the plain or whipped cream, sweetened and flavored to taste.

Raisin Cup Cakes—Two-thirds cupful butter, two cupfuls sugar, four eggs, one cupful milk, three and one-half cupfuls flour, four level teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-quarter teaspoonful mace, one teaspoonful lemon extract, one and one-quarter cupfuls seeded raisins cut in halves and small pieces. Bake in muffin pans. Cover with frosting and put seeded raisins in centre of each.

WANDERING LAKE.
Strange Body of Water in Turkestan.

Lake Lop-nor, the wandering lake of the desert of Tayla-makan, in eastern Turkestan, is the termination of the River Tarkin. Like a pendulum, the lake has swung from the south to the north of the desert, and back again, since the memory of man. The wanderings of the lake are a tradition handed down from father to son for centuries. The natives of the lake shore have always followed the water.
 At present Lop-nor is in the southern part of the desert; a shallow reedy body of water hardly deserving the name of lake. Murky and unpleasant, it furnishes a livelihood to the inhabitants of its banks, the majority of whom are fishermen, in their frail shallow boats they cut through the reeds, fishing and hunting for water fowl along the banks. In some places the reeds are too thick to admit the passage of the boat; in such cases, however, it is possible to walk over the water on rafts of dried and rotting stems. The chief native delicacy is the eggs of the reed-birds.

A Packet of—"SALADA"
Tea, will go further on infusion and give better satisfaction than any other Tea obtainable.....
 Not a shadow of doubt about this. TRY IT!

Lake Lop-nor is one of the hottest places on the map in the summer and the coldest in the winter. During the winter months the lake is entirely frozen over, the temperature diving to 29 degrees below zero. In the summer the combination of a temperature of 106 degrees and the innumerable flies and mosquitoes which swarm on the banks make Lop-nor anything but a summer resort.
 The explanation of the lake's wanderings lies in the fact that Tarkin carries every year quantities of silt to the lake bed, which slowly rises in time, a hundred years or so, the river must seek a new outlet, and the pendulum swings to the north or south of the desert, as the case may be.

Sculpture by Photography.

A progress for producing bas-reliefs by photography is the fruit of the invention of an Italian scientist.
 The basis of the invention is the property possessed by a film of chromium gelatin of swelling in proportion to the intensity of the light falling upon it. The swelling is greater with a low than with a high intensity, so that the light passing through a photographic negative produces upon a chromium gelatin plate a positive in distinct relief.
 The transparency of an ordinary negative, however, is not truly proportional to the relief of the original model, but by an ingenious automatic device involving double exposure this difficulty is avoided and a negative is obtained having its lights and shades correctly graded to produce the effect of relief.

Scientific Discovery by Cat.
 While the cat has often served the purposes of science, it has generally been not to her own comfort and frequently with the loss of her life. One cat in Australia, however, proved her usefulness in the advancement of human knowledge without being compelled to sacrifice herself on the altar of science.
 This cat belonged to a member of an expedition into the interior of Australia. One day she brought to her master a strange little animal which she had captured among the rocks.
 The man handed the animal over to the naturalist of the party, who saw at once that pussy had made an important discovery. The animal she had caught was a new and apparently rare species of the tribe of insect eating marsupials belonging to the great family of which the giant kangaroo is the most conspicuous representative.

Franglais a New Tongue.
 "Franglais" is a new language that you hear in France to-day. The word is made out of Francaise and Anglais, the French words for French and English—and the language itself is made out of a fearful jumble of words that were perfectly good when they played by themselves, but don't always mix.
 Franglais is what you hear where Americans and English men and women without a very good knowledge of their hosts' own speech find themselves at work alongside of French men and French women—soldiers, nurses, relief workers, shopkeepers and all sorts of folk.
 American Red Cross workers say that when you gather up several hundred little French babies who have hardly begun to speak any language at all and several hundred little ones who are speaking the universal and universally incomprehensible language of babyhood, the results are one degree harder to understand than grown-up Franglais.

Fooled the Reporter.
 A good story concerning De Valera, the Sinn Fein leader, is going the rounds of London.
 It appears that recently a certain London newspaper sent a reporter over to Ireland to take shorthand notes of one of his speeches. The audience objected, but De Valera was all smiles and urbanity.
 "Let the gentleman remain," he said,
 "So far as I am concerned, he is at liberty to report my speech verbatim, if it pleases him."
 De Valera advanced to the front of the platform. Eyes glistened, ears were all attention, and the reporter's pencil was poised in the air. De Valera bowed one more benign smile on the newspaper man, winked wickedly at his audience, and began his speech—in the Gaelic language.—Pearson's Weekly.

BRITISH EMPIRE DELEGATIONS CONSIDER COMMISSION REPORTS

On Big Peace Subjects,
With Premier Borden Presiding.

Paris, Cable.—Cable from Leon Trepanier—Sir Robert Borden has presided at three meetings of the British Empire delegations at which the report of the Inter-Allied Commission on Ports, Waterways and Railways, and the amended draft of the covenant of the League of Nations, were under consideration.

It is understood that certain modifications in the report as to ports, waterways and railways were recommended for consideration by the Council of Four. Important proposals with respect to the treatment of German nationals and property, and as to the commercial conditions in former German colonies, which will become the subject of a mandate under the League of Nations, were also debated, and certain conclusions reached.

Sir George Foster and Hon. Mr. Sifton are engaged in a study of this report, especially as it may affect Canadian interests. On the same day the report of the Commission on Responsibility for the War will be considered, if time permits. This report is being studied by Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Mr. Doherty.

Mr. Lloyd Harris and Doctor Robert son are still in Paris, conferring daily with the Canadian Ministers, and with the various Inter-Allied and British Commissions, of which they are members, or with whose work they are brought into contact.

They Soothe Excited Nerves.—Nervous affections are usually attributable to defective digestion, as the stomach dominates the nerve centres. A course of Parmalee's Vegetable Pills will still all disturbances of this character, and by restoring the stomach to normal action relieve the nerves from irritation. There is no sedative like them and in the correction of irregularities of the digestive processes, no preparation has done so effective work, as can be testified to by thousands.

Some Signs of Rain.

The sweating of water pitchers and coolers indicate that much moisture prevails in the air. It is worth noticing and using in connection with other signs or rains. The dripping of eaves troughs is of the same origin, and is of some value.

CANCEL GERMAN RIGHTS IN CHINA

Jap. and Chinese Claims in Abeyance.

League of Nations May Settle Them.

Paris Special Cable.—The Council of Four decided to-day to discontinue its hearings on the Chinese and Japanese claims to rights in Shanghai province, and agreed merely to terminate Germany's rights in China in the peace treaty, leaving the settlement of the respective rights of China and Japan to the German concessions until a later date.

This agreement is subject to the approval of China and Japan, whose delegations have sent cablegrams to their Governments, and express the belief that their Governments will agree.

The postponement of the final settlement is a compromise which meets the demands of neither China nor Japan. Japan asks that the German rights be definitely given to her, with the understanding that Japan return them to China under certain conditions.

China urged that the German leases and concessions should be definitely recognized as belonging to China again, having been taken from her forcibly by Germany.

The postponement of the final decision leaves it uncertain whether the respective rights of China and Japan will be passed upon in the League of Nations.

For Fever Patient.

Hebe is a cooling drink for fever patients: Put a little sage, two sprigs of balm and a little sorrel into a stone jug, having first washed and dried it. Peel thin a small lemon, slice it and put a small piece of the peel in; then pour in three pints of boiling water Sweeten and cover it closely.

It Has Many Qualities.—The man who possesses a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is armed against many ills. It will cure a cough, break a cold, prevent sore throat; it will reduce the swelling from a sprain, cure the most persistent sores and will speedily heal cuts and contusions. It is a medicine chest in itself, and can be got for a quarter of a dollar.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many causes of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

ALL-RUSS ARMY IN BIG ADVANCE

Drove 190 Miles in Five Weeks On Ural Front.

Entire Bolsheviki Position Endangered.

London, Special Cable.—The Siberian army of Admiral Kolchak's Government, in making an advance of 190 miles in five weeks on the Ural front, has achieved a success which endangers the entire Bolsheviki position in Eastern Russia. According to advices from Omsk, the Siberians are now within 100 miles of the Volga, the most important river of Russia, and the new successes on the River Kama, in the centre of the 400-mile front, make untenable the Bolsheviki positions east of the Volga. The Bolsheviki troops opposed to the Allies in North Russia and those facing Gen. Denekine in South Russia, are affected seriously by the advance.

The Bolsheviki had clung obstinately to Sarapul, southwest of Perm, and its capture, together with much war material and a number of Bolsheviki leaders, is looked upon at Omsk as an important success. Both banks of the Kama River, which joins the Volga near Kazan, have been cleared of Bolsheviki for a distance of more than 200 miles.

Obliterated Mattie.

"If I have to come in here again to speak to you children I shall punish you well, mind that!" warned mother, angrily. "I don't want to hear another sound from either of you to-day." She went back to her work, and a most unhoping for silence followed. Finally, going back to the children's room, she found Edna calmly playing with her dollies, but Mattie had disappeared.

"Where is little sister?" anxiously demanded mother. "I'll explain about her," beamed Edna. "You remember you said you didn't want to hear another sound from either of us to-day, and I minded you nicely, but when I gave Mattie a few pokes she got ready to commence screeching again, so I pushed her into the closet and locked the door on her, and," she triumphantly added, "you couldn't hear a sound out of her now if she screeched her head off."

Nearly Every Girl Can Make Herself Pretty and Attractive

SOME WHOLESOME TRUTHS
EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW.

Probably you know just such a girl.

Perhaps she is sixteen—good to look at, and pretty—quite interesting because she reflects the graces and charm that give promise of happiness to herself and others. But she is not strong. The color in her cheeks, once so rosy, has faded away—her eyes are listless—the buoyancy of spirit and vigor she once possessed are sadly lacking. Parents, friends, this girl needs Ferrozene—needs it that her blood may be renewed—needs it to restore the nerve force that growth, study and the development of her fresh youth have exhausted. This girl will become a queen with Ferrozene—which will restore her color—bring back her oldtime energy—give brightness to her eyes and vivacity to her spirits. In Ferrozene every girl finds strength—then she can do things.

In Ferrozene there is endurance—It drives away morning tiredness and languor. For the girl or woman that wants to be happy, healthy, winning—who values rosy cheeks, laughing eyes and abundant good spirits, nothing can compare with Ferrozene, 50c. per box, or six for $2.50. Get it to-day from any dealer in medicine, or by mail from The Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

Australian Slang.

The term, a "bosker time," which the Australians use to describe a cheerful leave home to their birth-place, is the altered "Bosky" with a similar meaning that was an English colloquialism in the eighteenth century. And "Bosky" is still current slang in England, but implying a too generous use of the wine cup. There is one phrase in the book of slang which is decidedly pleasing, "Australian grip." It stands for the best of greetings, the honest, hearty handshake.

Beatrice's Aunt Marjorie was to be married and Beatrice was to be the flower girl. They were to have their pictures taken before the ceremony and the bride was looking sad, or so thought Beatrice. Looking around the room, Beatrice spied the Kewpie doll, dressed as a bride, which had been duty at a previous shower. Beatrice said, "Don't look so sad, Aunt Marjorie—smile. Smile like the Kewpie doll."

Bell Note Bird.

A remarkable piping bird is known as the bell-bird. Four species are known of which two are pure, glossy white; one is brownish with a white head and neck, and one is white with black wings. Its call is like the note, clear and melodious, of a beautiful bell. Sometimes it utters only one note, then rests. When several of these birds call and answer, the effect is beautiful. The bell-birds, which belong to the chattering family, are found in Central America south to Brazil.

MORE DETAILS OF RHYL RIOTS

Rioters, Dispersed, Fell Back and Re-formed.

Prisoner Attending Wounded When Arrested.

Liverpool, Special Cable.—Reuter Despatch.—The Kinnel court-martial was resumed here to-day. Pte. Geo. Alexander McLeod was charged with joining in the mutiny or attending a mutiny without doing his utmost to endeavor to suppress it. He pleaded not guilty. The accused, last week, was a witness for the defence in the case of another soldier. Testifying to-day, a witness named Bremner said that on the afternoon of March 5, a riotous mob came through the main gates of the camp carrying flags. When they reached the vicinity of the officers' mess some one said: "Let us start here." The picket immediately dispersed the rioters who pushed across the training ground opposite the Army Service Corps lines and re-organized. A captain ordered the witness to follow him and he went on to the training ground in pursuit of the rioters. Bremner continuing said that he captured one of the rioters and was taking him back to the guard-room when he recognized the accused approaching the Service Corps lines from the railway track, carrying rifle and bayonet. Between the time when witness returned to the guard-room and the time when the white flag was raised at the end of the riot the rioters had charged Camp 20 and been dispersed. The next time he saw accused he was standing with a party of Canadian soldiers on the training ground, where one man had been wounded. When the witness first saw the accused the latter was charging with other rioters.

Major Weyman, for the defence, closely cross-examined the witness regarding the accused's alleged movements. Major Weyman asked Bremner if he had said in the guard-room that the show was "just like going over the top." Witness replied that he might have said that, because it was what Lieut. Aylmer White, 4th Reserve Battalion, had said. When the rioters, said witness, were warned not to approach Camp 20 they jeered and threw stones. The accused acted very peculiarly, waving his arms. He seemed to be urging on the rioters, who after being rushed fired on the defence force, killing Private Gillen. After the defendant had retired the witness declared they followed them up and occupied the trenches.

The accused, giving evidence in his own behalf under oath, said that his father was a clergyman. He denied having participated in the riots, and declared that he was attending a wounded man when arrested Major and Quartermaster Gillies, for the defence, testified to the excellence of McLeod's character. He stated that on the morning of the day in question the accused helped the witness to protect the canteen from the rioters. The case was adjourned.

Miller's Worm Powders do not need the after-help of castor oil or any purgative to complete their thoroughness, because they are thorough in themselves. One dose of them, and they will be found palatable by all children, will end the worm trouble by making the stomach and bowels untenable to the parasites. And not only this, but the powders will be certain to exert most beneficial influences in the digestive organs.

RHEUMATISM CAN BE CURED

The Trouble is Rooted in the Blood and Can Only be Cured Through the Blood.

In the days of our grandfathers rheumatism was thought to be the unavoidable penalty of middle life and old age. Almost every elderly person has rheumatism, as well as many young people. Medical science did not understand the trouble—did not know that it was rooted in the blood. It was thought that rheumatism was the effect of exposure to cold and damp, and it was treated with liniments and hot applications, which sometimes gave temporary relief, but did not cure the trouble. In those days there were thousands of rheumatic cripples. Now medical science understands that rheumatism is a disease of the blood and that with good, rich, red blood any man or woman of any age can defy the trouble. Rheumatism can be cured by killing the poison in the blood which causes it. For this purpose the blood making, blood enriching qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is becoming every year more widely known, and it is the more general use of these pills that has robbed rheumatism of its terrors. In proof of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to cure this trouble, Miss Jennie Stockdale, Hall's Bridge, Ont., says: "Two winters ago I was taken with a bad attack of rheumatism, and was in bed for over two months, most of which time I could not sleep or enjoy rest day or night. The trouble also affected my nerves, which were very bad. I tried several remedies but did not get any help from them, and then, acting on the advice of a friend, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I soon felt that the pills were helping me, and after taking eight boxes I am glad to say I was able to go about again as usual, and am now enjoying the best of health with plenty of good, rich blood which makes me feel like an altogether different person. I earnestly advise those suffering from rheumatism, nervousness and kindred troubles not to delay using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as, like myself, I am sure they will find a cure through their use." You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WALES WENT OVER TOP.

Grenadiers.

The story of how the Prince of Wales went "over the top" with the Grenadiers is told by a correspondent of the "Western Mail," signing himself "Westminster." The correspondent says:

Too little has been said or written of the Prince's work across the water. There are those who think that he kept far behind the firing-line, and never came under shell or gun fire. Such is far from being the case.

Over and over again he was in the danger zone, and some day the Grenadiers may tell the store of the Prince's escapade, when he went over the top and did his share like a real hero.

From one who is in a position to know I heard that, to the consternation of the General Staff, he was found missing one afternoon, and their consternation was the greater when they learned that he had joined the Grenadiers in one of their periodical attacks, and gone over the top.

How relieved they were when the Prince, flushed with victory, came back, I need scarcely say.

Similarly, on the Italian front, the Prince was over and over again in the thick of the fighting, and it is to be regretted that for many reasons publicity has not been given to these exploits.

Far, far more is known abroad of the Prince's conduct than in Great Britain. The Prince's popularity bids fair to equal that of King Edward in La Belle France.

Mothers can easily know when their children are troubled with worms, and they lose no time in applying the best of remedies—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Some Fashions in Suits.

Plenty of box coat suits. And plenty, too, of the popular blouse suits.

Ever so many suits are braid trimmed or broad bound.

And the suit without a colored vest is almost a rarity.

The plainly tailored suits have crocheted buttons or frogs, or perhaps just enough braid binding to relieve them of severity.

Girdles on the suits sometimes look like sashes, for they go all the way round and then tie and hang down.

Flower Friends.

Flowers cost so little and they mean so much. We need not go to fashionable florists for our messengers. One rose bought from a tray on the street may mean more than the handsomest design on Fifth avenue. It is these little things, these beautiful personal expressions, that makes our flowers worth while. But they must have a message or they cannot deliver it. Remember that.

To be womanly is the greatest charm of woman.—Gladstone.

Help the Y.M.C.A. Finish its Work For Soldiers

Help the "Y" Construct the Manhood that will Re-construct Canada

ALL the world now knows that the Red Triangle of the Y.M.C.A. was the "Sign of Friendship" to thousands of your brothers, sons, nephews, cousins and neighbours' boys in the last four and a half years. Wherever the Canadian Soldiers went, the "Good old 'Y'" went too. And now it is coming back home with them!

For the support which has made possible the war work of the Y.M.C.A. we thank you. Your money has been well expended. We have rendered full account.

We ask now your continued sympathy and support for Red Triangle Service for our Soldiers during demobilization, and for Y.M.C.A. work for Canada generally during the Re-construction period. The Annual Red Triangle campaign will be held throughout Canada May 5th to 9th, 1919. The objective is $1,100,000.

The Y.M.C.A. will keep its chain of Service unbroken till the end.

For Our Men Returning

For the soldiers and their dependents, returning from Overseas, we have provided as follows:—

1. A Red Triangle man on board every ship when it leaves Great Britain, with a full equipment of games, gramophones and records, magic lantern, literature and writing materials. Where possible, also a piano or an organ. Lectures, concerts, sing songs, instruction re Government repatriation plans, and Sunday Services.
2. Red Triangle comforts and facilities for the men on arrival at Halifax, St. John, Quebec and Montreal, including coffee stalls, with free drinks, free canteens, cigarettes, candies, etc.
3. Red Triangle men on every troop train to provide regularly free drinks, eatables and cigarettes, organize games and sing songs, and furnish information.
4. Red Triangle free canteen service, information bureau, etc., at each of the 22 Dispersal centres in Canada.
5. Red Triangle Clubs in the principal cities of Canada in the shape of large Y.M.C.A. hostels to furnish bed and board at low rates and to be a rendezvous for soldiers.
6. Seventy-five Secretaries to superintend Red Triangle service in Military Hospitals, Camps and Barracks throughout Canada.
7. Tickets entitling soldiers to full Y.M.C.A. privileges for six months at any local Y.M.C.A. furnished.

In addition to our work for the returning soldiers, we have to maintain the Red Triangle service to the full for the soldiers in Siberia, as well as the work of special secretaries in Northern Russia, Palestine and Poland.

For Canada's Manhood

The Reconstruction program of the Y. M. C. A. includes the following vitally important developments:—

1. An increased service to 300,000 teen-age boys in the Dominion—the development of Canadian Standard Efficiency training; Bible Study groups; summer camps; conferences; service for High School boys, for working boys, in the towns and cities; for boys on the farm and for boys everywhere, who have lacked opportunity for mental, moral, physical or social development.
2. Inauguration of Y.M.C.A. work in the country, and the smaller towns and villages lacking Association buildings and equipment, on a plan of county organizations. This will include the establishment of Red Triangle centres for social, recreational and educational work among boys and men, in co-operation with the churches.
3. The promotion of Y.M.C.A. work among Canada's army of workers in industrial plants, both in Y.M.C.A. buildings and in the factory buildings, organizing the social spirit among the industrial workers of our cities by meetings, entertainments, games and sports.
4. The establishment of the Red Triangle in isolated districts where lumbermen, miners and other workers hold the front trenches of industry.
5. Besides these main fields of increased activity for 1919, we have to provide for enlarged work among railway men, college students and for our campaign to encourage physical and sex education. Under all our work we place the fundamental foundation of manly Christianity.

Canada-Wide Appeal

Y.W.C.A.

For the wives and children Overseas, dependent upon Canadian soldiers, and for Y.W.C.A. work in Canada generally, a sum of $175,000 from the Red Triangle Fund will be set aside for the Dominion Council of the Y.W.C.A., which is caring for the soldiers' women folk, and their little ones on the long journey, from Liverpool to Canada, and is also extending its work for Canadian girls.

For their sake also be generous when you make your contribution.

FOR the sake of our victorious soldiers and their dependents, and the happiness of their home-coming; for the sake of our future citizens, our teen-age boys; for the sake of rural life in Canada; for the sake of the social betterment of the toilers in factory and workshop; for the sake of lonely men and boys in our mines and forests; for the sake of Christian Society and Canadian manhood—we appeal to you. Give us your contribution, little or big. Be as generous as you can.

Hand your contribution to the canvasser when he calls, or if you live where it is difficult for him to call, send it by check, money order or registered letter to the National Treasurer, Red Triangle Campaign, 120 Bay Street, Toronto.

Please Note:

We are not asking for money to carry on our work Overseas, with the Army in Great Britain, France or Belgium. That work will continue at its maximum for some months, financially provided for by the liquidation of our assets Overseas, and will not terminate till the last man has sailed for home.

Lesson V., May 4, 1919.—Man Made in the Image of God, Gen. 1: 26-28; 2: 7-9. Eph., 4: 20-24.

Commentary—1. God's image in man (Gen. 1: 26-28; 2: 7). 26. Let us make man—the use of the first person plural may convey the idea of the Trinity. Some consider it a highly dignified form of speech, and others think that God may, in this manner, address the angels of his presence. After our likeness—in his moral and spiritual nature man was made like God. His physical nature was the same that Christ assumed when he came to earth as the Saviour of men. We note the fact that man, when he was created, was made a man in the complete sense of the word. He did not come up from a lower level of organisms, but came from the hand of God a perfect human being, intelligent, possessed of a moral and spiritual nature, and capable of fellowship with his Creator. Them—in man, whom God was to create, was embodied the race. Have dominion—Man was to stand at the head of earthly created beings. His intelligence and skill were to give him supremacy over all other forms of life on earth. 27. Male and female created he them—in these words we have the bare record of the creation of the first man and the first woman, the more extended accounts being given in Gen. 2: 7, 20-24. 28. God blessed them—Marked them as being under His special protection, and gave them power to propagate and multiply their own kind on the earth—Clarke. God had worked out His ideal and the pair enjoyed His favor. Multiply—God started the human race and endowed man and woman with ability to people the earth. He could have created myriads of persons, but His plan was to let the race be self-propagating. 7. The Lord God formed man—Man was formed from the material which God had already created. We are not told how God formed man. There is nothing in the narrative to show that his body was moulded out of clay, but this much is certain that the bodies of men to-day "consist of the very same elements as the soil which forms the crust of the earth." The breath of life—God formed man's body, but created his soul. Man is thus constituted a dual being, having a physical nature and a spiritual. A living soul—By God's act of breathing into man the breath of life, His own life, man became a self-conscious, living being, godlike in His spiritual nature, and endowed with intelligence, reason, conscience and immortality.

II. Man's needs met (2: 8,9). 8. The Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden—This is the first reference to location upon the earth. The word garden signifies a park, or paradise, and the word Eden means pleasure or delight. "The location of Eden is unknown. Beyond the fact that it includes at least portions of the Euphrates and the Tigris, we have no definite knowledge, nor do we know the extent of the district or province of Eden in which the garden was situated." Many different views are held as to its location, for the scriptures do not give definite information. The Garden of Eden was designed as man's abode. 9. Every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food—Full provision was made for the gratification of the nature with which God had endowed man. His sense of beauty was to be satisfied, as well as his desire for food. The tree of life—This was conspicuously placed in the middle of the garden, and was to be freely partaken of to prevent weakness and decay. It suggests the tree of life mentioned in Rev. 22: 2. The tree of knowledge of good and evil—This was not the same as the tree of life. It was a standing prohibition to the first pair. By obeying God's command they would enjoy his favor and companionship, but by disobedience they would come to know the nature and bitterness of sin. Our first parents were thus amply provided for. The earth had been formed for their abode, and animal life had been created. Everything that God had made he pronounced good. Man was the crowning work of creation and to him he had given dominion. Delightful tasks were his, and God placed responsibility upon him such as was not burdensome. Man was not afraid in the presence of his Maker, but delighted in communion with him. In his favorable surroundings he was richly blessed. There was only one restriction placed upon our first parents. They were forbidden to eat the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. They were not simply forbidden to eat it, but they were told that the punishment for the violation of this restriction was death. Thus man was subjected to a test. His faith and obedience were to be tested. Satan was present with his false statements.

III. Man created anew (Eph. 4: 20-24). 20. But ye have not so learned Christ—Paul, the writer of this letter, which is remarkable for its deeply spiritual and practical teachings, has just been describing the sinful condition of the people among whom the Ephesian church was bearing Christian testimony. The heathen religion of the Ephesians did not keep them from wicked acts. It did not affect their lives for the better. Paul would have his people bear in mind constantly that the gospel of Christ provided a remedy for sin. They who became Christians were transformed in both character and conduct. The sins of which the heathen were guilty did not pertain to the Christian. The way of life had been set before them, and that way meant separation from evil of every kind. 21. If so be—This language does not imply doubt, but is an affirmation. Have heard him—The Christians in Ephesus had heard Christ set forth by his apostles and by the Holy Spirit. They had been favored by the ministry of Paul for a period of three years and had been faithfully instructed in the way of life. Have been taught by him—Jesus is ever with those who bear his message to the world, and he gives effectiveness to their ministry. As the truth is in Jesus—Jesus is the fountain of truth, and says of himself, "I am the way, the truth, and the life" (John 14: 6). 22. That ye put off—This and the two verses which follow are explanatory of what the truth that is in place man? How did man fall? What is meant by "the former conversation"? How is "the old man" to be put off? What are the characteristics of "the new man"?

PRACTICAL SURVEY.

Topic.—The dignity and worth of man.

I. The dignity of man.

II. The worth of man.

I. The dignity of man. Despite all his marvellous endowment, his blurring, but not erasing. The magnitude of the ruin attests the grandeur of the original structure. There is a peculiar sublimity in the one satisfying and sufficient account of how he came to be, and his origin imparts permanent dignity to his being. His manifold capabilities express the two-fold act of creation and inspiration, and the latter placed a wide gulf between him and the sentient life surrounding him. The original fiat, "Let there be," from which creation spring, was changed to, "Let us make man in our image." Man's marvellous endowment enhances his dignity. He is one, yet threefold, bearing the triple stamp of the Creator. In his moral rectitude he was the true image of God. Man was designed to reflect the glory and holiness of the Creator. As created he was wise in mind, holy in heart and righteous in conduct. There was a habitual conformity of all his powers to the will of God. Hence his understanding saw divine things clearly, his affections were pure and his will yielded a ready and universal obedience. Man's spiritual nature is the ground of fellowship with, or of moral alienation from, Deity. In the former he secures his supreme delight; in the latter he experiences equal possibilities of misery. He is the happiest or unhappiest creature on earth, as he shall himself determine. The capability of sin inheres in the capacity for holiness. Even the Creator must respect the powers with which he is endowed, and neither by the operations of his grace or the inflictions of his justice can he transcend or destroy those powers. The place of man in the order of terrestrial creation imparts dignity to his being, and is a reflex of divine sovereignty. He was made "a little lower than the angels."

II. The worth of man. His dignity and value are inseparable and commensurate. The same factors enter into both. They must be determined by divine rather than human standards, and regard his original perfection rather than his fallen condition. He is not on the commercial plane, and must be weighed in the balances of the sanctuary. His person, place and destiny are factors. His fall has resulted in a disordered world which "groaneth and travaileth... together," and his redemption will secure the deliverance of even the creature from the "bondage of corruption" (Rom. 8: 21, 22; Isa. 11: 9). Redemption with all its glory and grace finds its explanation and creation. It was not an afterthought to meet an unforeseen emergency. Its provisions were eternally covenanted, and it justifies creation from the charge of short-sightedness or mistake. It is God's su-

Jesus is. In order that man may become what he should be, he must "put off" some of the things that pertain to the old life. Former conversation—The former manner of life must be abandoned. Conversation here refers not only to what one says, but also to his entire conduct. The old man—Your former unconverted selves. All that went to make up the sinful life is habit, desire, purpose and act pertained to "the old man." The putting off of "the old man" involves a radical change in one's moral and spiritual nature. Which is corrupt—The Greek expresses the idea that there is an increase in wickedness in the unconverted.

23. Be Renewed—The old self, the sinful self, has proved unsatisfactory. It brings no permanent rest. There is need for a radical change in the nature. The old nature is corrupt and is destined to eternal death. In the spirit of your mind—The renewal is not physical, but spiritual. The fountain of desires, ambitions and motives must be changed, and being changed by divine power, there is a disposition in the heart to be like Christ. The desire for the things pertaining to sin and the world is gone. 24. Put on the new man—The new nature is brought in by the operation of the Holy Spirit. It is a new creation. In righteousness—The new man is righteous. He is right at heart and is right in conduct. True holiness—As the believer walks in newness of life, he reaches a point where through faith in God he becomes pure in heart.

Questions.—In what image did God make man? What dominion was given to man? What command did God give to our first parents? How did God create man? Where did he

After Five Years of Heart Trouble

Mrs. Brewer Turned to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Now She is Telling Her Friends Who Advised Their Use, the Good Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Done.

Imrie, Alta., April 28th (Special)—Advised by her friends to use Dodd's Kidney Pills for heart trouble from which she had suffered for five years, Mrs. Marie Brewer, well-known and highly respected here, is telling how much she benefited from the treatment.

Heart trouble is nearly always caused by defective kidneys, which fall in their work of straining the impurities out of the blood. The work of the heart is made too hard when it has to propel blood thick with impurities of all parts of the body. The results, of course, weakness and disease.

That Mrs. Brewer's trouble came from her kidneys is shown by her symptoms. "I suffered from rheumatism, gravel, stiffness of the joints, backache and headache," she states. "My sleep was broken and unrefreshing. I was nervous and my limbs swelled. My skin itched and burned at night. It was after a doctor had failed to cure me I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. I must admit they did me a lot of good."

preme work, but not his "strange work." It is entirely in keeping with his nature as disclosed in the scriptures. He could not contemplate the moral catastrophe without moving every available agency for its remedy. The life of "his only begotten Son" was not too great a price for the rescue of a fallen and helpless race. One soul outweighs all terrestrial values (Mark 8: 36). The cross is the measure of its worth.

MEDICAL SCIENCE

APERIENTS.

One of the first steps to be taken at the onset of nearly all illnesses—particularly of the fevers—is the administration of an aperient of some kind. The retention in the bowels of the waste products of the body adds enormously to the gravity of these diseases, and the fermentation and putrefaction set up in them, hastened by the high temperature incident to the disease, create poisonous products which permeate the whole body. As disease is very likely to disturb the natural routine of digestion and elimination it is necessary at the earliest possible stage to clear away all refuse and leave the machinery clean and unlogged, that it may work, though under difficulties, with the utmost efficiency possible. Cascara, aloin, Epsom salts, any of these is good in such a case, and whichever is chosen must be taken in sufficient quantity to produce a quick and good result.

HOT WATER BOTTLE IN SICKNESS

Not everyone realizes the almost infinite amount of comfort and very large amount of restorative quality obtainable by the use of the ordinary hot-water bottle, especially in cases of feverish illness. Anyone who has been attacked by such diseases as pneumonia, or acute rheumatism, or influenza, must remember with a certain amount of horror the often severe pains and aches which, having afflicted one part of the body perhaps for hours, suddenly disappear, only to reappear in some remote and apparently unrelated part, there to continue their torture for what seems another few hours, and so on ad infinitum.

For the relief of these wandering pains, so fatal to sleep, so disturbing to peace of mind, and therefore so inimical to recovery, no single measure can compare in efficacy with a rubber hot-water bottle, kept refilled when necessary, and deftly applied to the spots of greatest discomfort. Many an hour's sleep can be had in this way, time which would otherwise be spent in miserable turnings and tossings, then which nothing does more to put off recovery.

HOW TO FIGHT THE COLD.

First of all, plenty of good nourishing food is wanted, easily digestible and heat-producing. All the farinaceous foods—oatmeal, sago, tapioca, and the fats, such as butter, cheese, margarine and particularly milk, are excellent heat-producers, and dishes prepared largely with them should Catching Turtle.

A curious mode of catching turtle is practised in the West Indies. It consists in attaching a ring and a line to the tail of a species of suckerfish known as the remora. The live fish is then thrown overboard, and immediately makes for the first turtle it can spy, to which it attaches itself very firmly by means of a sucking apparatus arranged on the top of its head. Once attached to the turtle, so firm is its grip that the fishermen on drawing the line bring home both turtle and the sucker.

Anderson, too astonished to reply verbally, walked down to the corner as he had been directed and found a lady in black, with a thick veil over her face, standing in the snow waiting for him.

Something about her figure, the turn of her head, told the man that he was looking upon high rank and hothouse breeding.

He removed his hat, and staring, kept it in his hand.

"Put your hat on," said the clear, cold voice. "I want to ask you a question or two, and if you answer me truthfully you shall not regret doing so."

"What do you want to know?" said Anderson, in a low voice, half sullen, half curious.

"First, the name of that man and person who drove off in the brougham which stood near mine."

Anderson thought a moment, his anger rising a little at the designation of Miss Montague as a person.

"I must ask first," he said, sullenly, "what you want to know it for, and what business it is of yours?"

"And a very respectable question to ask, my man," said the lady, with tones too indifferent to be contemptuous. "I am anxious to know why a friend of mine, the owner of the brougham, should be so polite as to send an actress home in his cab and walk through the snow himself."

"Oh," said Anderson, and a sneer flashed over his ill-tempered lips, "I understand. A friend of yours, is he? Then I don't envy your acquaintance."

He stopped abruptly, for the lady, with a gesture of disgust, had looked around as if beckoning her carriage.

"I see," she said, with a sigh. "I was wrong to speak to you, I might have known I should have been insulted."

"Stop a moment," said Anderson, who saw his mistake. "Don't go yet, ma'am; I'm out of temper, been riled out of my life. Confound him! I'll tell you if you want to know."

"Well?" she said.

Anderson knew by the movement of her arm that she had drawn her purse from her pocket.

"That gentleman's name was Montague—Horatius Montague, and the young lady"—he laid a distinct emphasis on the word "lady"—"is his daughter, Miss Annabella or Mary Montague."

"I thought so," she mused. "I thought so. One more question. I saw you looking at that young person if I mistake not, you were angry—shall I say jealous?"

He burst out passionately and drowned her voice.

"You may say what you please," he said, "you can say I am jealous if you a stupid fellow, Jack Hamilton, doing the best he could possibly do in the way of a mistake; and the young acting cad—There, there, I want a little fire and a glass of whiskey to set this straight. But the best of the joke is, Shalton, my boy, that you have netted the purse, and that it feels rather heavy."

When the well-appointed brougham stopped before the equally well-equipped villa, Lady Maud stepped out, and, turning to the coachman, said, in her low, clear and now very pleasant voice:

"Johnson, how long have you been in my aunt's service?"

"Nearly nine years," my lady," said the man, touching his hat.

"And in my uncle's, before that?"

"Ten, altogether, my lady; I have been in the service of the Pacewell family nearly twenty years."

"It is a long time," said my lady, thoughtfully. "Twenty years deserve confidence. I have trusted you tonight, Johnson. You will not betray me?"

"My lady," burst out the man, ready to die for this sweet-voiced daughter of the house he had served so long, "I have eaten the Pacewell bread too long to do such a mean thing. You can trust me, my lady, to die for you or any of the Pacewells, if it could do them any good."

Lady Maud laid her hand lightly on his arm—she knew better than to offer him any money—and inclined her head, saying sweetly:

"Good night, Johnson. I do trust you. We have been at Mrs. Leigh's."

"At Mrs. Leigh's, my lady," assented the man, and he would have stuck to his assertion at the stake.

"Why, Mary!" exclaimed the sweet little voice of Pattie, as Mary and her father entered the cozy sitting-room, the latter with a half smile sadly complacent upon his face, and holding his head assuredly half an inch higher.

"Did you come in a cab?"

Mary bent down over the chair and kissed the pinched face, and her blush was hidden by its wreath of golden hair.

"No, my dear," said Mr. Montague, throwing his cloak down and speaking with an effort at indifferent callousness. "We—er—that is, a gentleman was good enough to place his carriage at our disposal."

"Ah!" said the woman-child. "Hold your head up, Mary, you naughty girl. I want to look at you. Why, you are blushing. Placed his carriage at your disposal," continued the mite. "My dear, you talk like a duke, and look pretty nearly as grand. Come here

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZ, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep," or "it seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultz's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, nervous prostration of womb, and now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

this minute and explain!" The pirate, with his usual meekness, drew his chair up to the fire and sighed.

"Now," said Pattie, brushing the golden cloud from her forehead and looking after Mary, who had gilded from the room. "Now, dear, who's the kind gentleman with the carriage to spare for other people's disposal?"

"Er—er, I—don't know," confessed the man-child. "I—Pattie, my darling, I'm very hungry."

"Now!" said the little tyrant, shaking the miniature of a forefinger at him. "Don't my darling me, you wicked deceitful thing, how dare you! Hungry? You shan't have anything till I know everything; and you don't know what's under that plate," and she pointed to a dish lying before the fire, its contents screened from vulgar gaze by a plate.

"Eh?" said the pirate, sniffing. "Dear me. I—er—Pattie, my love, it is not macaroni cheese?"

"Never you mind what it is," said the child, drawing his hand to her cheek with a gesture contrasting yet harmonizing well with the mock sharpness of her voice. "You won't get any of it, nor Mary, either, if you don't behave yourselves. She's getting as close and secret as you. You are spoiling her, you wicked, abominably wicked thing!"

The father sighed and rubbed his head with his disengaged hand and kept his eyes fixed upon the plate.

"I'm sure I don't know what you mean, dear," he said, plaintively. "I'm not secret. I don't hide anything. I don't—er—know the gentleman's name. I—here's Mary, perhaps she knows."

But Pattie stopped him suddenly and shut both her eyes at the doorway through which Mary was just entering.

The old man, who seemed to obey even her gestures with the blind, loving obedience of a child, held his tongue immediately, and sat looking at the fire in silence.

Mary very quietly laid the supper cloth and set out the things, then she came and looked at the fireplace, the light falling about which threw a soft glow upon her face that elsewhere in the room was very pale.

"Supper is ready, dears," she said, presently, and the pirate, rousing with a start, lifted the golden-haired mite to the table and stood as he always did till the dish was upon the table and Mary was seated.

Then he glanced at the dish and glanced hungrily at his mistress by the elbow.

"You may take the cover off, Mary, my dear, and give this naughty boy a small piece—a very small piece."

Mary lifted the cover, and the old man's eyes brightened.

"Ahem," he said, "a macaroni cheese, and—er—very crisp and nice it looks."

"Much better than you deserve," said Pattie, sharply, stroking his hand as it lay upon the table with her soft ones. "Much better. Mary, give him a small piece more—ahem, a little larger this time, dear, I think."

Mary smiled and did as she was directed. Macaroni cheese seemed to have lost its charm for her. The first piece on her plate seemed intended for the last, and suffered little diminution.

The twinkling eyes looking out of the thin little face noted the paleness, want of appetite and dreamy thoughtfulness, but Pattie said nothing, continued to serve the old man while he felt hungry, and, directly he was satisfied, urged him with sharp tongue and persuasive hand to eat more, not desisting until he pushed back his plate with trembling decision and said humbly:

"Thank you, dear, no more; I really can't—I really can't."

"Very well," said Pattie. "I shan't make another cheese in a hurry, if this is the way it is appreciated. Come, sir, lift me back."

He lifted her back to the chair, pausing a moment for her to reach his cigar from the mantel and put it in his mouth as usual, and then the three drew up to the fire and placed themselves in Pattie's hands.

And she arose equal to the task, her mighty task, to amuse her tired loved ones, to cheer them, to make them forget the labors and worries of the evening, to throw about them the soothing value of home and bind them in one band of love.

Would that the good people would take much delight in relating the stories of the pious and impossible children who preach to men and women old enough to be their grandparents, who shower tracts and extracts from sermons upon the heads of their unoffending and unfortunate schoolfellows, and who wind up by dying in the centre of a crowd of sympathizing and no doubt rejoicing Sunday school children in flat caps and enormous collars, could have seen this suffering little being exerting all her tiny little self to win a laugh from the two tired ones, and never resting till the roses were in her sister's face and the light in her delighted father's.

The pattern Sunday scholar must make the angels weep sometimes, out a stray celestial hovering about that room that night must have soared upward with a happy, glad-some laugh chiming with the rattle of its wings and left a blessing with the little mirthmaker.

When she saw that the light of happiness had fallen upon them she proclaimed the time for bed, and the pirate carried her to Mary's room, kissed, exchanged blessings, and went off with the echo of her sweet, happy voice to lull him to sleep.

"And now, dear," said the artful mite, nestling on her sister's arm, "tell me who left papa the carriage."

Mary's face flushed and grew pale again.

"A gentleman, Pattie," she replied. "But there's so many people in the world of that name," retorted Pattie, with unconscious satire. "What's his other name? You didn't say, 'Thank you, Mr. Gentleman,' did you?"

Mary laughed, but timidly. "His name is Hamilton, dear," she said.

"Hamilton," repeated Pattie, thoughtfully. "I like it," emphatically. "Hamilton—Charles Hamilton?"

"No," said Mary, "John."

"Oh," said Pattie, "that spoils it. 'Now if it had been Jack—'"

"It is Jack," faltered Mary, and her face burned hotly.

"Hem!" said Pattie. "Jack! It sounds pretty. And pray who is Jack Hamilton? Don't say a gentleman again, my dear."

"I can't say anything else," said Mary, feeling that she had no chance in these loving hands. "I don't know what he is, where he lives, what he wants. Ah, yes, but I do that, Pattie," and a voice that was hurried and broken at times, but always grateful, she told Pattie of the conversation at the wings, using his very words, and even describing his looks and the expression of his eyes.

"Bless him! bless Jack Hamilton!" said the little, shrill voice, quivering. "Oh, Mary, fancy poor papa not being obliged to go out in the cold, wet, wicked streets to act to a noisy lot of people when he is so tired, and you, Mary?"

"Oh, never mind me, dear," said Mary, without a sigh. "If he will do what he has promised for papa, I shall be content to work always, to act till I die, and never, never work for anything else." Here came a sob, but it was stifled by her ardor. "But is it not good? Oh, Pattie, you should see his face and hear him speak. His eyes are brown, dark, and so kind looking. I can't think why he should be so kind to us."

"Can't you, dear?" said Pattie. "Hem! no, of course you can't. Dark brown eyes. I think I'll go to sleep. There, dear, good-night."

Paper Textiles.

They are new. The war needs produced them. The paper textiles have become a large group.

Among them are paper yarn, paper twines, paper leather. Paper cloth and paper carpets are now manufactured in Europe.

The paper yarn is woven into many useful fabrics for practical service. Among the variety of uses are conveyor belts, driving belts and girths for machinery.

School and market bags, children's clothing, men's and boys' "line" collars and shirt fronts are made of paper.

To these are added a long list, including workmen's suits, women's skirts, caps and hats for men, women and children, towels, scrubbing cloths, women's petticoats and corsets, suspenders, blouses, etc.
