VICTORIAN ORDER OF NURSES

Information Concerning Work Under Local Board of Management

This organization originated in 1897 as a National memorial in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria, and has a local branch in Wolfville for 2 years.

What are its objects?
To supply nursing, thoroughly trained in Hospital and Public Health Nursing, for the nursing of the sick, the prevention of disease, and the promotion of health.

Who are entitled to its services?
Everyone. The poor always receive first attention and the Order is primarily for such, also for people of moderate means: even the well-to-do are often so situated that it is inconvenient or impossible to employ a full time in the home (apartment or flat).

How much does each visit cost the Order, that is, on the average?
Each visit costs the Order about $1.00. Is this service free?

Many are unable to pay anything, some pay five or ten cents a visit, according to their means, up to the cost price. No matter how little is paid it helps to make possible a visit to someone who cannot pay.

People in good circumstances pay regulation nursing fees. As everyone pays in proportion to their ability, no one is robbed of his or her self-respect and pauperized.

Does the Order limit itself to strictly bedside nursing?

Although bedside nursing is its fundamental principal, its activities include all phases of work concerned with family and community welfare.

What does a V. O. nurse do besides acting bedside nursing?

Prepares for and assists at operations and confinements, does surgical dressings, teaches by demonstration how to carry out the physicians orders. Gives instruction to expectant mothers. Keeps in touch with the baby during the first year of its life.

In some communities she acts as school nurse, social service worker, tuberculosis nurse, industrial nurse, and mental hygiene nurse.

How many nurses on the staff in Wolfville? One.

How to obtain nursing service.
The nurse is on call all day between the hours of eight and five, and will take emergency night calls. Maternity cases are given special attention. Telephone the headquarters, No. 260, Miss Harry's phone.

Number of Visits.
Last year 165 free visits were made to the poor, and many other visits were made to comparatively poor families who were able to pay only small fees.

She made 2551 visits. 26 prenatal visits to expectant mothers.

Attended 12 maternity cases leaving the mother and infant clean and comfortable.

She made 26 post natal visits of instruction.

250 Infant welfare visits.
What are the expenses?
Last year (1922) $1511.51 (Salaries equipment and office supplies).

What is the source of income?
Town Grant, I. O. D. E., House to house canvass, nurse's fees.

Who supports this Order?
The community it serves. All branches must be self-supporting. Its continued existence depends in part on you.

The nurses return about forty per cent. (40%) of their salaries in fees.

Grants are generally made by the municipality, but a proportion of each year's budget must be contributed by philanthropic citizens.

All committees received are spent on the work of the district, not a cent is expended in executive salaries or expenses.

Endowments and contributions needed.

Think it over!
The Victorian Order has banded together doctors of good of a civic mind and a social conscience in an effort to bring skilled and knowing relief to patients without resources otherwise.

The Society is one that must commend itself to all those who have the welfare of the community at heart. It translates philanthropic sentiment out of the language of vague impulse into the scientific and practical need.

"Day by day, in all weathers, and no matter what the circumstances, these nurses make their rounds unassuming and unobtrusive. But the good they do is beyond valuation."

The usual opportunity for assisting in the work of the V. O. N. will be given next week. Envelopes will be distributed today and Saturday for the campaign and collectors will call for them on Monday.

The same generous response which has been made to former similar undertakings is confidently looked for. A modest donation from every one will furnish all the funds required for this important work.

THE SUCCESS OF A WOLFVILLE BOY

(From "The Free Press" of Owatonna Minnesota, U. S. A.)

Prof. John C. Jones, head of the English department of Pillsbury Academy, has just passed very successfully a military examination. The government has conferred upon him an "Officer's Commission" and Prof. Jones is now a Major in the United States Army.

Prof. Jones is a son of the late Dr. R. V. Jones of "Acadia University", Wolfville, Nova Scotia. He is an M. A. of "Acadia" and also of "Harvard". He has been teaching at "Pillsbury" for twenty years, where he has accomplished splendid service in the training of the students in "Military Science", as well as drilling them thoroughly in English in which he is an exceptionally fine scholar.

ACADIA ACADEMY WINS N. S. CHAMPIONSHIP

But Loses Maritime Title to Fredericton High School

Acadia Collegiate Academy won from St. Francis Xavier High School 11 to 0 at Truro on Saturday and annexed the Nova Scotia Senior High School championship. Acadia deserved to win, but the St. F. X. team were out of luck to have the score so high.

Acadia had the territory advantage practically all through the first period. Outhouse scored after ten minutes of play and Johnson failed to convert. At the end of the first period Berry made a second try almost out of touch. It was a close decision for Referee Bruce, former Dalhousie player. Johnson made a wonderful attempt to convert from the almost impossible angle and missed by inches.

After an invasion by Acadia at the opening of the second period, the half was practically all in Acadia territory. St. F. X. pounded relentlessly at the twenty-five yard line and at times in front of the goal posts, but couldn't get across. At the close Berry got the ball well in Acadia's territory and ran down the field near the side lines for a score, which was converted by Johnson, and made the score 11 to 0.

Johnson, the Acadia full back, played a star game. Preston was good for St. F. X. and made some dangerous runs. There was a lot of melee playing and too much blind booting. St. F. X. halves fumbled their passing.

Line-ups.
Acadia—Forwards, Corning, Smallman, Estey, Webber, Ferguson, Jenkins, Raymond; quarters, Rennie, Crandall, L. Jenkins; halves, Berry, Outhouse, Hutchinson, Tees; full back, Johnson.

St. F. X.—Forwards, Campbell, MacLennan, Howard, Butts, Thomson, Harriman, C. Macneil; quarters, Taylor, Macdonald, Powers; halves, McIsaac, Chisholm, Nolan, Preston; full back, Murphy.

Fredericton, Nov. 19—Fredericton High School successfully defended the Halifax Herald trophy, indicating the Maritime interscholastic rugby championship, this afternoon, when they won from Acadia Academy team of Wolfville, at the Trotting Park gridiron by a score of 3 to 0, the same score by which they defeated St. Francis Xavier High School last year in the first play-off for the title.

By a trick play which was successfully worked in the closing portion of the first half, Fredericton High School scored the only try of the game. Bill Putter plunging over for a try, when the visitors believed that schism was what Fredericton would catch on the ball went into touch on the visitor's ten yard line.

Fredericton High had much the better of the territory play throughout most of the game although they played the first half with a bright sun in their faces and a heavy north-west wind in the backs of the visitors, who won the toss. The yellow and black again made up in speed, skill and their trick plays what they lacked in avoirdupois, but they lacked the punch to get over for more than the one try.

The weather was bitterly cold and the conditions militated against the best kind of a display of rugby, fumbles being not infrequent during the play. In the second half Fredericton High School played largely a defensive game but through their superior kicking and taking full advantage of having the wind in their backs, the yellow and black were able to control territory play but while they got over Acadia's line twice it was not for tallies, but for a safety on one occasion and touch in goal on the other.

The teams lined up as follows:
Fredericton—Fullback, Hewitt; halves, Goodspeed, McMullin, McCordick, Steens; quarters, Hickson (captain), Rutter, Babbitt; forwards, Vaughan, Hurley, Boyd, Douglas, Chestnut, Hanson, Mills; substitute, Simpson.

Acadia—Fullback, Johnson; halves, Berrie, Hutchinson, Outhouse, Tees; quarters, Rennie, Crandall (captain), Jenkins; forwards, Webber, Ferguson, Neilson, Smallman; Raymond, Corning and R. Jenkins.

Editorial

Our pulpits are our work clothes. Each of us live some kind of a sermon every day.

THE TOWN BY-LAWS

For a long time we have been hearing about a revision of the town by-laws, which has so far failed in materializing. Special committees for the purpose have at different times been appointed to superintend the work, which have never even reported progress. Councilors have been made and un-made under the auspices of this long-promised undertaking and yet the work lags shamefully.

Pondering upon this fact recently we were prompted to investigate our present town ordinances, this office being the proud possessor of one of the very few printed copies of this code now in existence. We were rather surprised to discover within its pages a number of really good provisions, still in a good state of repair, and which if properly set in operation and made effective we feel sure could not but result in the betterment of civic conditions.

These by-laws were adopted in the long-ago when municipal rulers were inclined to regard more seriously the demands of their office than is evidenced today, and represent not a little consideration as to their application. They are probably, if duly enforced, equally as well qualified to meet conditions now as they were when at first enacted. At various times attempts have been made to require an observance of these regulations, with more or less success, but of late their provisions are made conspicuous chiefly by the lack of attention paid them until they furnish no admonition to citizens of the present, and their existence is probably in most cases unknown even by the "city fathers" themselves.

We would suggest that in view of the extreme difficulty experienced in their revision that a number of copies of the present town by-laws be obtained and placed in the hands of the public so that he that runs may read and understand.

THE MOTOR AGE

The tremendous expansion of the automobile industry in recent years, and the announced plans of the leading producers to greatly increase the output of cars next year, have given rise to active discussion of the economic effects of this huge expenditure. Questions being seriously considered by economists and business men are: Can the people of this country stand such a huge annual expense. Can the American worker continue to ride in luxury while "90 per cent of the workers of Europe are always hungry and generally cold"?

Like the proverbial man in jail, the answer is that the American public is standing the expenditure for automobiles and apparently prospering at the same time. The cry now raised, that too much is being spent on the motor car, was heard 10 years ago and five years ago, and even men in the industry thought then that the so-called "saturation point" had been reached.

In the face of these protests, the fact remains that the people have found the funds to build homes on an unprecedented scale in the past year; they have dressed better year after year, as witness the universal silk stocking and the fur coat; and withal their savings bank deposits are steadily being increased to new high records each year.

Doubtless our great-grandfathers, if they could have seen the expenditure on the electric light, the trolley, the piano and other so-called luxuries of 25 years ago, would have felt that our pace was too fast, and doubtless the next generation with their air-flippers and highly-developed radios will look back on these days as we look back to the mid-Victorian period, as rather tame.

PREPARE FOR CHRISTMAS TRADE

It seems hardly possible but it is nevertheless true that Christmas will be again with us in the course of a very few weeks time.

Christmas shopping will soon be in order and already some of our merchants are increasing their adv. space in our columns in order to the better be able to inform their patrons and the general public of their ability to supply desirable commodities. This year should see a return to old-time conditions and trade, such as has not been in evidence since the beginning of the war, and the wise business man will be prepared to reap the advantage.

While frequent complaint is heard of the scarcity of money there is little evidence in support of the statement judging by the lavish expenditures that are being made on every hand. In this valley the past season has been a favorable one and with good crops and even fair prices there ought to be no cause for complaint. During the next few weeks THE ACADIAN will endeavor to make special provision for our advertisers in the way of additional space and effective display, but judging from applications that are coming in we would advise that no time be lost in making reservations.

WATER SUPPLY SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Nothing has been heard of late regarding the proposal of the Town Manager to acquire additional land at the reservoir to the better protect the purity of the water supply. Unless something has already been done immediate action should be taken so as to have this most important matter attended to before the advent of winter. THE ACADIAN has repeatedly referred to the fact that at the east end of the new reservoir there is or has been no provision to guard the property from intrusion. In fact during our last visit the gate was standing wide open, affording easy access to town property, which is supposed to be carefully guarded from intrusion. In addition to this the property adjoining the reservoir land at this point is said to be in a far from sanitary condition and becoming worse as time goes on. This state of affairs has been in existence for years and demands immediate attention on the part of citizens. A visit to the premises on the part of ratepayers should ensure all the support needed when the matter again comes up for consideration.

There are those who continue to harp that women can never learn politics and will never know how to vote intelligently. We're willing to wager a few annual subscriptions to this great family journal that they will learn one and know the other just as soon as the men will.

MIGHT PROVE A PROFITABLE MOVE

We have no desire to die rich, but we could die happily if we felt certain our executors would be able to make some of our debtors come through.

D. A. R. TRAINS NO. 96 AND 97

Announcement is made that trains 96 and 97 running between Kentville and Annapolis, commonly known as the "Owl Train", will be discontinued after November 30th, 1923. Reduction of train services is said to be inevitable following the continued loss in the operation of these trains.

"ADS" AS NEWS

At the first American Advertising Exposition held at New York last week, Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, who was one of the speakers, said in part as follows:

No one who examines the remarkable specimens of advertising in this exposition can fail to be impressed by the magnitude of advertising as an economic force. When a philosopher said a grateful world would make a beaten path to the door of the inventor of a new and efficient mouse trap though his hut might be in a forest, the science of advertising had not been developed. In these days the advertising of such a mouse trap would give the inventor a mansion at the end of a broad paved road.

Good advertisements have news value, and there is need of study of copy with the purpose of using newspaper space for announcements containing the utmost of news. The use of space for posters is to be deplored. An advertisement presenting the merits of a worthy article in comparatively small space, the text of the point written with sincerity and strength, is capable of producing better results than a full page of mere words.

The reading of newspapers has come to be a habit in our homes. Advertisements are now so attractively printed and so carefully written, presenting in convincing language suggestions of merchandise needed by thousands of persons every day, that to many readers they are as interesting as the news. In fact, advertisements are of themselves news. They announce new books, latest styles, inventions which have been perfected for useful purposes, special prices. They suggest improvements to the home new ideas in business. They stimulate sales and are a useful, necessary force with a tendency to make human life easier, better, and more pleasant.

A LITTLE TREE'S LIFE

I never see a little tree bursting from the earth, peeping confiding up among the withered leaves without wondering how long it will live and what trials and triumphs it will have. It will be better and beauty the earth, love the blue sky and the white clouds passing by and ever join merrily in the movement and the music of the elemental dances with the winds. It will welcome the flower-opening days of spring, be a home for the birds, and enjoy the summer rain. And when comes the golden peace of autumn days I trust it will be ready with ripened fruit for the life to come. I never fail to hope that if this tree is cut down it may be used for a flagpole to keep our glorious banner in the breeze, or to be built into a cottage where love will abide; or, if it must be burnt, that it will blaze on the hearthstone in a home where children play in the firelight on the floor. —Enos A. Mills.

MOTHERHOOD

There is an old Jewish saying that "God could not be everywhere, therefore he made mothers." There is much of beauty and of truth in the thought. We can hardly concede the assumption that God is not omnipresent, but that the mother is His chief representative in the development of men can easily be substantiated by the records of human life.

"Men are what their mothers make them," says Emerson. "All that I am or hope to be I owe to my angel mother," said Abraham Lincoln. "My mother's influence in moulding my character was conspicuous," said John Ruskin. "She forced me to learn daily long chapters of the Bible by heart. To that discipline and patient, accurate resolve I owe not only much of my general power of taking pains, but the best power of my taste for literature." There was little sentiment in Napoleon, but "let France have good mothers," he said, "and she will have good sons." "The future of society is in the hands of the mothers," says De Beaufort. "If the world was lost through woman she alone can save it," and "if you would reform the world from its errors and vices," says another, "begin by enlisting the mothers," which recalls the sententious Spanish proverb that "an ounce of mother is worth a pound of clergy."

But if all this is true, and there can be no doubt about it, if, as the poet has said, "the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world," what a responsibility it places upon the shoulders of the mothers!

Save the Feet and You Save All

A good understanding is the secret of good health. See that the children especially are provided with sound, well-made, comfortable shoes for fall and winter. Shabby shoes bespeak the careless man. Maintain your self respect and the good opinion of others by wearing shoes that are in style, as well as in season. Let the summer shoes go the way of the straw hat.

No woman who claims to be discriminating will wear shoes that clash with the rest of her apparel. Street shoes are for the street and evening shoes for drawing or ball room. A well dressed woman's shoes correspond with her surroundings.

"How about your shoes?"

We still have a few special lines which are offered at very attractive prices and are worthy of your inspection.

WINTER COVERING FOR STRAW-BERRIES

Strawberry plants may be injured by alternate freezing and thawing, which tends to lift them out of the soil and thus injure or brake the roots. They may be injured during the cold of winter by the frost drying out the crown of the plant and the leaves. Heaving of the plants seldom occurs on a well drained soil, but on soils poorly drained the plants are likely to suffer considerably, particularly during the very early spring after the snow has melted. In certain situations there may be little loss from cold, as the drying effect of the cold may be lessened because of the natural protection afforded, or the snow may give the protection required.

In order to make sure of the plants carrying through the winter successfully it is wise to protect them with a mulch. A mulch of any material tends to hold the soil under it at a more uniform temperature. The soil will not freeze so quickly under a mulch and is slower in thawing than where no covering is given. Thus with a mulch the plants are better able to avoid the alternate freezing and thawing of spring, with its consequent disastrous results. If the injury is due to drying out, which often happens in exposed situations, the mulch will overcome this trouble. Plants exposed to the cold, and unprotected from dry, cold winds may be completely dried out. Under such conditions, if the air is dry, a heavier mulch may be necessary than where the atmosphere is humid and the consequent loss from evaporation less.

In situations with a fairly moderate climate a light mulch is all that is necessary, as too heavy a mulch may cause injury because of the plants being kept damp and mould developing. In the colder sections a good blanket of snow can usually be depended upon, and under such conditions a heavy mulch with the snow above may also produce satisfactory conditions for the plants.

Of all mulch materials good, clean straw free from weed seed is the best. This is scattered evenly over the plants at the rate of 2 tons per acre. A covering thick enough so that the plants are nicely hidden from view is usually ample, and careful scattering, giving an even light covering, is most satisfactory. A light covering of clean marsh hay may be used, but more care is necessary to give a light covering than with straw, as the compact hay may hold dampness in the spring and result in decay of the plant. Spruce boughs make a good covering, but it takes considerable time to gather and place them.

The mulch should be placed in November when the ground is nicely frozen, and is removed in the spring during the last week in April or early in May. It may be gathered when dry and used for bedding, or may be placed between the rows to serve as a summer mulch, thus conserving moisture and keeping the fruit along the edge of the rows clean from sand.

RESULTS SURE TO FOLLOW

A gray-haired mother uttered a cry of deep despair in a Boston court recently, when her son, 35, received a sentence of 10 to 12 years as a confessed bandit.

After deploring the length of the sentence, the unhappy woman exclaimed, "Oh, Georgie, why did you get mixed up with anything like this? Why didn't you take my advice and stay away from this game?"

This mother may have done her full duty as she understood it in the early training of her son. There are sons who run counter to all proper instruction; sons who seem bent upon going to the dogs no matter how wisely and anxiously their parents endeavor to guide them.

One point is certain, however, that a great many mothers in the present era are woefully neglectful of their boys and girls. Those mothers refuse to believe the evidence of their eyes and ears that their children are engaged in devilry. The boys get in gangs, swearing, swaggering, loafing, stealing, and planning to do bigger and worse things later on. The mothers and the fathers of such lads must know that all is not well, and they should know, if they do not, that sorrow will fall upon their own heads. Spry wisdom is corrected early. But it is simpler to let matters drift. One must go to the theatres and gossip with the neighbours, and do all the other important things. The children must look after themselves. Yes? And they must pay, at a subsequent date, with heavy interest, for the criminal neglect of which their parents have been guilty.

"The hand of God works slowly but surely. For every wrong you do you must pay." These words are not ours. They were spoken by the mother quoted above, when her son received the 10 year sentence.

The reason there were fewer wrecks in the old horse-and-buggy days was because the driver didn't depend wholly on his own intelligence.

GROW ONE-SEVENTH OF WHEAT OF WORLD

Canada Likely to Achieve That High Record With the Present Crop

It seems probable that this year Canada will produce one-seventh of the world's wheat, and break all records for its percentage of the world's total production. In the year 1914 Canada produced 161,000,000 bushels of wheat, or only 4.5 per cent. of the world's total production of 3,586,000,000 bushels of wheat. Last year Canada produced 400,000,000 bushels of wheat, or 13 per cent. of the world's total production of 3,105,000,000 bushels of wheat, which figure however did not include the unknown growth of wheat in Russia.

This year many of the important wheat producing countries of the world suffered declines in production. United States crop has dropped from 862,000,000 bushels a year ago to 789,000,000 bushels this year. Australia's crop, garnered in January, fell from 129,000,000 bushels to 109,000,000 bushels; Argentina's was almost stationary, rising only from 181,000,000 bushels to 188,000,000 bushels. India's was practically the same, the comparative figures being 366,000,000 bushels in 1922, and 369,000,000 bushels in 1923.

WHY MEN FAIL

Many men fail in business by ignoring a few simple rules.

They do not start out with the firm resolve to do their work as well as it can possibly be done. They lack, or do not exert, the foresight which enables a man to look ahead and make definite plans for the future. Always make a point of studying the work of your immediate superiors, so that you could, if necessary, step into a breach in their ranks. Men often fail because they neither trouble to improve their knowledge of the particular job in which they are engaged nor bother to think very deeply or intelligently about it. Everyone should cultivate the habit of deep thinking.

The question of health must also come into the reckoning. Many men break down in times of extra stress, just when their services are most needed. Fitness is a primary qualification for success in most men's lives.

No town can grow as it should unless its people work together in its upbuilding. The history of every town that has had rapid and substantial growth will show that united and enthusiastic work of the people has the greater part in making it grow. In towns where a few live men boost and work for the town's upbuilding, and many are indifferent and do nothing, the work of town upbuilding is made exceedingly difficult and the results slow in coming. If all boost and help to build up the towns and villages in Kings county it would not be difficult to push them forward. The beauty to be seen on all sides in Kings county is one of our chief assets, and every effort should be made to take advantage of the gifts which nature has so generously bestowed upon our beloved county.

Items Of Local Interest

All those interested in a hockey team to represent Wolfville, this coming winter will please meet at the Town Hall next Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock.

The best tea in the world can be spoiled in the making, so do not take any chance when brewing a pot of MORSE'S First you must be sure that you have fresh water and then you must be equally sure to pour it in the teapot just as it comes to the boil. Some people think that when water is steaming it is boiling. Water is not boiling until it bubbles.

John Kerwin, truck driver, was struck at Avonport blind crossing on Saturday. The truck, with its heavy load of gravel, was thrown across the track and turned over. Mr. Kerwin was picked up badly bruised and cut about the head and body. He also received serious injury to the right knee. Mr. Kerwin, who was driving one of Bishop's trucks, was conveyed to his home in Dartmouth.

On Friday evening last a Spelling Match was held in the Lecture Hall of the Baptist Church between the members of the Philathea class and the young men's class. The contest was a close one neither side possessing a decided advantage but finally resulted in a victory for the young ladies. Music and readings were also given and a collection taken for the benefit of the Sunday School library.

Mr. J. D. Chambers was nominated yesterday for the vacant seat in the Town Council caused by the retirement of Coun. Whidden to accept the position of Stipendiary. It was the only nomination and there will be no election. The term for which Mr. Chambers is elected ends in February when the annual election takes place. Mr. Chambers has before filled the position both of Councillor and Mayor and his experience should be of value.

At a meeting of the congregation of the Wolfville Baptist church, held on Wednesday evening, the report of the committee appointed to select a pastor was received, and it was decided to extend a call to Rev. A. N. Marshall, D.D., of Ottawa. Dr. Marshall, who is a native of Annapolis county, preached here last summer and created a fine impression. He is an able and scholarly preacher whose coming to Wolfville would be a decided addition to our town.

Through the public spirited endeavors of a group of Wolfville citizens the attractions of this town are being effectively presented through the columns of a publication known as "Canadian Opportunities and the Tourist's Guide", which is published in Toronto and circulated largely on both sides of the water, and undertakes to answer the enquiry of "where to go in Canada and how to get there". It will be of interest to our readers to note that Wolfville and Hantsport are the only two places in the Valley taking advantage of this valuable publicity. The Wolfville Board of Trade has the matter in hand and those who are contributing the necessary funds to finance the undertaking are: Edson Graham, Sterling Services, Davidson Bros., Williams & Co., Bishop Co., G. SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. HALIBURTON

The many friends of Mrs. Clara B. Haliburton were shocked and saddened by the news which was received on Sunday last of her sudden death at East Los Vegas, New Mexico, the previous day. Less than two weeks before the deceased had left Wolfville in apparently the best of health, intending to spend the winter in New Mexico. No particulars are yet at hand but apparently she contracted pneumonia on the journey and passed away soon after arriving at her destination. On Friday a telegram was received reporting her serious illness, followed on Sunday by the announcement of her death.

Mrs. Haliburton, who was a daughter of the late Smith P. Harris, of this place, was a most estimable lady whose sudden passing was learned of with sincere sorrow. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Barnes, of Wolfville, Mrs. Brown, of St. John, N. B.; and Mrs. Martin, Los Vegas, N. M.; and three brothers, George and Arthur in Los Vegas, and Fred residing in Alberta. Her husband, the late Capt. Louis Haliburton, predeceased her something over eight years ago, and an adopted son, James Higgins, lost his life in the Great War.

The remains will be brought home for interment and are now on the way accompanied by her brother Arthur, and the interment will be made on arrival at the cemetery of St. John's church Wolfville, beside the resting place of her late husband.

Eyes that Read - and Flirt!

He watched her eyes, gleaming above the cover of her book. Were they really absorbed in reading or were they half flirting, teasing, playing with him? The little mind!

The charm of expressive eyes is all the greater when they are veiled by luxuriant lashes. Make your lashes appear long and heavy with WINX—the satin-smooth liquid for darkening the lashes. Apply it with the glass rod attached to the stopper, an improvement over the old unsatisfactory brush method of application. So thin and smooth a liquid is WINX that it dries instantly and is invisible on the lashes. It lasts for days and is unaffected by perspiration, tears and even the daily "rub" for WINX is water and perspiration proof. It will not run or smear and is absolutely harmless.

The meeting of the Presbyterian and Methodist congregations in the school room of the latter church on Wednesday evening was well attended and most unanimous in its deliberations. Rev. G. A. Logan, of Canard, presided and opened the proceedings with appropriate remarks. Mr. B. O. Davidson, chairman of the joint committee, briefly narrated the incidents leading to the union of the two congregations, after which the necessary resolutions to give effect to the decision of the separate congregational meetings were unanimously passed. All the discussion was most cordial and a fine spirit of unity pervaded the meeting, which was thoroughly representative. The first union services for worship will be on Sunday, Dec. 2nd, at which services will be preached by leading clergymen representing both denominations. Details will be given later.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES

Won at School Exhibition—Address by Principal Dunlop

The presentation of prizes to successful competitors of Canning School Exhibition, held under the auspices of the Women's Institute, took place in the Armories on Friday evening.

1. "History of the Harold Borden Monument". Book prize offered by the President Mrs. A. A. Ward—won by Walter Woodburn.

2. "What High School Life Means To Me." Money prize offered by R. W. North—won by Miss Lois Porter.

3. "What The Girls and Boys of Canning Can Do To Beautify Their Town." Book prize, offered and presented by Lady Borden, who gave a delightful resume of the suggestions contained in contestants' letters—won by Miss Jean Miller.

4. "The World War." Book prize, offered by Mrs. A. J. Bigelow—won by Miss Dorothy Harris.

The School Quartette, Misses Madeline Covert, Marjorie Annis, Louise Woodburn, Leila Blankhorn, sang very sweetly, receiving an encore.

J. J. Dunlop, Principal of Canning High School, gave a very fine address on "The Co-operation of Parents and Teachers", and made a strong appeal, for the co-operation of parents in giving to our pupils, the five sides of Education, namely, Physical, Intellectual, Emotional, The Power of Will, and Social parts.

The Spiritual phase was left to Rev. Thomas W. Hodgson, who was the next speaker, to deal with. Mr. Dunlop then went on to show how this could be accomplished through Co-operation.

1. Physical. The speaker appealed to the parents to back up Athletics, by furnishing funds with which to procure place, and material with which to play.

2. The Intellectual. The tendency in our modern education is to develop intellect at the expense of the other four sides. Parents can assist in this by seeing that every day the students are present and on time with carefully prepared lessons.

3. Under the Emotional come self control and ambition. Here the parents were urged not to dandle with the children who received punishment for misdemeanors, but to realize, and impress upon the punished that punishment when given was justly due, and taught it's lesson—self control.

The Women's Institute, by encouraging the pupils to rise above their fellows, and win the much coveted prize, is greatly assisting them. We do not know the immeasurable distance that may be reached by ambition thus encouraged.

The next side of Education, to be sought, is the Power of Will. Under this comes concentration. This can be developed by the parents insisting that children concentrate in their every day tasks. As only 8 hours out of 24 are spent in school, Home Influence is absolutely essential to develop this trait.

The Development of the Social Side is absolutely necessary, because we learn by intercourse with each other. Here Mr. Dunlop made an appeal to the parents for the use of their homes to hold social gatherings for the pupils during the winter.

Mr. Dunlop closed by saying "We have talked over some of our problems, together. I have pointed out our ultimate Aim—An Educated community. If we co-operate we shall realize our ideal. Mr. Dunlop then announced the First Fruits of this co-operation. Lady Borden and Mrs. Gordon C. Hewitt, who are deeply interested in the welfare of the young life of the community, have expressed their intention of presenting in memory of the late Lieut. Harold Borden, a permanent Challenge Cup, for Debating in the High School.

Rev. Thomas W. Hodgson followed with a helpful address on "Tried Courage, and what it means, Its Development, and The Necessity of Honoring Our Parents and Those Having Authority Over Us."

The evening was one of much interest, and the General Presentation of Prizes by Mrs. James Kennedy, which followed, was greatly enjoyed. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close, after which the High School Classes under the Supervision of the Principal, Mr. Dunlop, and Miss Josephine Harris, held an informal dance, the Clasperones being Mrs. Halle Bigelow and Mrs. Victor Eaton.

The Committee which is the following is to be congratulated on the success of our school exhibition: Mrs. A. A. Ward, Mrs. Gordon C. Hewitt, Mrs. Halle Bigelow, Miss Dora Schafheitlin, Miss Marion Eaton.

Much regret was felt that owing to the illness of her mother, our President Mrs. A. A. Ward, was unable to be present.

EDITORIAL

The Canning ACADIAN is very glad to publish the letter from the secretary of the Literary Society and to report the activities of this very worthy local organization. May we suggest that by extending its operations so as to afford the public an opportunity of hearing these lectures the Society would contribute even more to community advantage than it is now doing. A small admission fee might be charged to defray necessary expenses and enable the Literary Society to undertake larger attractions than they are now able to present. Entertainment and instruction would then be provided that could not fail to be appreciated.

Readers of the Canning ACADIAN are invited to make use of its columns for the discussion of any matter of public interest which may affect this section. The mission of this department of the paper is to promote any agency calculated to advance the prosperity and well being of the people of Canning and vicinity. We would invite your co-operation in this undertaking and freely proffer the best service in our power.

CANNING LITERARY SOCIETY

To The Editor of THE ACADIAN. Dear Sir—In reply to your editorial of Nov. 16th suggesting community lectures in Canning allow me to make the following statement:

The Canning Literary Society, founded 1910, has since that date held weekly meetings during the winter months in which topics of common interest as well as literary subjects have been discussed by outside lecturers and by members of the Society.

The Literary Society aims to benefit the community at large. Anybody can become a member by paying the slight fee of fifty cents annually. Members always have the privilege of bringing their friends.

This year the Society is meeting in the Vestry of the Methodist church on Monday evenings at 8 o'clock. A report of the first meeting was given in THE ACADIAN last week.

The bigger you are than your work, the easier you will find it, and the swifter will be your progress in it. Certainly others will be attracted to help you along, or buy whatever you may have to sell in goods or services, in the measure that you are an allround human being—big, broad, and kindly—and not simply a machine, as a man always becomes who permits his work to master him.—Edward W. A WOMAN'S WISH

Would I were lying in a field of clover, Of clover cool and soft, and soft and sweet, With dusky clouds in deep-skies hanging over, And scented silence at my head and feet. Just for one hour to slip the leash of Worry, In eager haste, from Thought's impatient neck, And watch it coursing, in its heedless hurry, Disdaining Wisdom's call or Duty's beck! Ah! it were sweet, where clover clumps are meeting, And daisies hiding, so to hide and rest; No sound except my own heart's sturdy beating. Rocking itself to sleep within my breast— Just to lie there, filled with the deeper breathing That comes of listening to a wild bird's song! Our souls require at times this full un-sheathing— All swords will rust if scabbard-kept too long, And I am tired—so tired of rigid duty, So tired of all my tired hands find to do! I yearn, I faint, for some of life's free beauty, Its loose beads with no straight string running through! Aye, laugh, if laugh you will, at my crude speech; But women sometimes die of such a greed— Die for the small joys held beyond their reach, And the assurance they have all they need! —Mrs. Townsend.

THE BANKS

While all the world is leary now about the state of Banks, I'm glad I can't be classified with those bewildered cranks; we read about the turmoil down at Tyon-to-the-Good, and how the Banks from East to West are now "touching wood". Well, I was young and in my prime I got a rotten deal, from one ding-busted outfit, but you never heard me squeal. I gilded to another Bank to try and rise the wind, but he behind the gilded cage just looked at me and grinned: "Oh, ban to me a thousand plunks, Oh won't you, if you please?" But all I got was "Moosey off, you great big hunk of cheese." And so while Banks are crashing all around me right and left, it's not quite clear why I should tear my hair in grief bereft. For now when all my Harvest's in, and I flush with cash, I'll not run round to Banks and Things before my wad I smash. And when I've paid the butcher and the baker and the rest, and paid my rent and all my bills and bought some Sunday best; and after, my insurance and my rates and income tax, no Banks for mine I'll stow away what I've got left in Sacks.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

NOVEMBER 23 CHOOSE YE.—Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.—Romans 12:9.

NOVEMBER 24 THE INFINITE PROTECTOR.—If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me.—Psalm 139:9,10.

NOVEMBER 25 THE DAILY CLEANSING.—Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice.—Ephesians 4:31.

NOVEMBER 26 ADMIT THE MASTER.—Behold I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith.—Rev. 3:20, 22.

NOVEMBER 27 THAT WHICH SATISFIES.—Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good and let your soul delight itself in fatness.—Isaiah 55:2.

NOVEMBER 28 THE JOYFUL REWARD.—Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.—Matthew 25:23.

NOVEMBER 29 GIVE THANKS.—Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies; Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's.—Psalm 103:1-5.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

The widespread strike of the pressmen employed by the New York newspapers made it necessary for those journals to issue a "combination" paper of eight pages without any advertising save only the theatrical announcements. This condition of affairs proved that the reading public in New York would be lost without their newspapers. But it did more than that. It proved once more, and in striking fashion, that it pays to advertise. For instance, the Boston Post, commenting upon the strike and the inconvenience it caused, said: "The managers of the big department stores, the Wall Street bankers, the real estate men and a dozen other types of advertisers unite in declaring that their businesses have been seriously hurt by their inability to get their messages to the people. Some go as far as to say that if the present condition were to continue much longer, unemployment would result. In other words, as the Post points out, the absence of advertising in the New York papers proclaimed its lesson in very significant terms. No merchant who advertises intelligently and sincerely, and who is prepared to back up the claims he makes for his goods, doubts for a moment that it pays to advertise. When a well-known woman says girls are not built for knickerbockers, we can't help wondering where she has been doing her looking."

FOR THE CANADIAN MOTHER

It is a matter of interest to note the relative esteem in which Canadians hold increase of Canadian population by immigration and increase by natural processes. Although everywhere lip service is given to the principle of healthy increase of Canadian population by natural processes we find, if we consider our position frankly and from a detached viewpoint, that we are actually bending more effort to attract outsiders to our country than to the more important duty of making it possible for our own Canadian families to increase in healthy normality. Federal appropriations for the promotion of immigration projects are a great deal larger than the combined provincial appropriations for the conservation of health—a fact for which no one but the people of Canada themselves are to blame.

Important as our immigration problems are, it is undoubtedly more important that our problems of maternal and infant welfare be given full, immediate, and continuous attention. In the first place we find that our maternal death rate, although lower than that of the United States, is higher than that of England and Wales, higher than that of Norway, higher than that of a good number of countries which have given serious thought to the welfare of their citizen mothers. Our Canadian maternal deaths for 1922 were more in number than similar deaths for 1921. And the tragic, yet hopeful, feature of the situation is that a large percentage of these deaths—a great deal more than half of them—were preventable. Scientific knowledge has progressed to an advanced point, so that it is now possible to say, "If men and women are given the information easily available, and if there is careful supervision during pregnancy, and proper attention during and after delivery the maternal death rate of any country will diminish almost to the vanishing point."

Our problem in this generation, then, has become one of disseminating knowledge, of insisting on the observance of the simple yet vital rules of hygiene, and of providing adequate care of the expectant mother and of the mother who has already given birth to a child. If there were to develop a strong popular demand that these necessary conditions be met, we should soon discover that our Provincial Departments of Health could extend their activities so as to reach each most ignorant and helpless parent in our crowded cities, and each most remote and fearful mother in isolated rural districts.

What has been done already? The Federal Department of Health at Ottawa has prepared a booklet for mothers, available to any parent who wishes information. It describes simply and briefly the important things which every expectant mother should do. It tells also how to care for a very young infant. A whole series of booklets for mothers and fathers is prepared for distribution in this department, and these publications have been sent to thousands of homes.

But the Provinces have a heavier responsibility in the matter of health. What are some of the plans they are following for the reduction of maternal deaths? Some are increasing the numbers of their public health nurses. Others are establishing small hospitals in various localities where mothers may receive adequate care; Saskatchewan is training nursing housekeepers who will enter rural homes and take efficient charge of the whole family while the mother regains her strength. The Red Cross and the Victorian Order of Nurses are saving the life and health of many mothers annually. These are good beginnings.

But yet we are losing about five mothers out of every thousand who give birth to a child, and for no reason at all except that our mothers have not been taught to observe simple health rules, or they have not received proper care before, during and after delivery. The remedy lies in our own hands. It is to be found in a demand for increased appropriations for health work by provincial governments and a determination to keep on extending government and voluntary maternity welfare schemes until every family in Canada is within reach of proper help. Norway has reduced her maternal mortality from 8 per 1000 to 2.3 per 1000. Canada can reduce her maternal mortality from 5 per thousand to 2 per thousand if Canadians insist on it.

ABOUT BOOKS

(By THE ACADIAN'S Reviewer)

A biography that shows the greatness of its hero is good; a biography that shows why the hero is great is still better. In W. R. Nurse's "The Story of Isaac Brock", reprinted in the "Canadian Heroes Series" (McClelland & Stewart), we have an example of the latter. Whether the writer is telling of his hero's home or school life, or of his career as a soldier, he reveals heroic conduct and action as the result of character, character attained by effort and self-discipline. For this reason the book makes excellent inspirational reading for the young—and others.

G. H. Locke's "When Canada was New France" has been republished in "The Kings Treasures of Literature" series. This attractively-bound and very readable book, of interest to teachers, librarians, and general readers, contains the romantic history of the discoverers of Canada from Cartier to Radisson, the tragic story of the fall of New France and of Pontiac's futile attempt to reestablish Indian supremacy, interesting accounts of the missionary priests, the Indians, the Cour-de-des-bois and voyageous, the seigneur and the habitant, and a valuable new glossary of names.

MAN SHOT DEAD NEAR CANNING

That Basil Burns, the 23 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harding Burns, whose dead body with a bullet wound in the right lung was found lying by the roadway near Arlington at an early hour on Monday morning, came to his death by a bullet from a revolver in the hands of some unknown person, was the verdict rendered by a jury at an inquest held on Tuesday by Coroner Dr. Webster, of Kentville. Arlington is on the North Mountain near Canning and the incident has created not a little excitement in that vicinity.

The witnesses at the inquest were Alfred Cox, by whom the young fellow was employed, the father of the dead man, and Connors and Baxter, two of his fellow employes. Mr. Cox testified that he knew very little about Burns beyond that he was an employee engaged in working on his farm. Mr. Burns, knew nothing that might throw light on the tragedy and the only evidence of importance was that offered by Baxter, who said that early Sunday night young Burns came to the shack where a number of Mr. Cox's employes were gathered, and announced his intention of cleaning out the place, at the same time flourishing a revolver.

He appeared to be in a very angry mood, and shot at one of the occupants of the house, inflicting a wound in the leg. He then went out and no one saw any more of him until they found his body early the next morning.

A great many conflicting reports have been circulated regarding the tragedy but the theory which is most generally accepted is that the unfortunate young man fired the shot which ended his life. A revolver was found near his body with four empty chambers. The Attorney General's department has been called upon to fully investigate all the circumstances connected with the unfortunate affair.

SPEEDING THE VEGETABLE

The last symbol of a calm and serene life is about to be torn from us. Even the vegetable, it appears, will soon cease to vegetate. By the use of electric lights, developing an intensity one-fourth that of the sun's rays, flowers bloom and lettuce ripens in two to three weeks less than normal time. The cabbage and the carrot can be speeded to maturity. No longer will de luxe vegetables follow the daily cycle of the sun, and enjoy the sweetness of the cool dark. Scarcely will they settle to soft sleep before the lights pop on again and set them quite agog.

Jack's bean stalk will no longer be a legend. It will become a stark and startling reality, while the slow and the stolid human being will be put to shame by his prototype, the vegetable. He must perform join the wild race of the automobile, the airplane and the hitherto peace-loving pea. He can no longer consider even the lilies of the field, for they too are to be spurred on by electricity. Will not the scientists help him by a vibrating cap or what not to accelerate his thinking?

THE COW, THE MOTHER OF PROSPERITY

"Where the cow is kept and cared for, civilization advances, lands grow richer, homes grow better, debts grow fewer."

The above is an extract from the preface of a book entitled "The Cow, the Mother of Prosperity", copies of which are being distributed by the Bank of Montreal. This book is probably the best popular treatise on dairy farming which has ever been published. It has been written with a view not only to guiding the farmer in the selection and breeding of the best and most profitable types of dairy cows, but also to guiding him in the care and feeding of dairy cows in every condition of climate and soil throughout the continent of North America. The author, Mr. Ralph A. Hayne, in his foreword, describes the cow as one of the greatest blessings to the human race. "No nation or people," he says, "has become highly civilized without her. She produces the best human food on earth. She makes this health-building, strength-giving food from grass and coarse plants. Without her agriculture is not permanent or prosperous, people are not healthy or happy. Wherever the cow has taken her rightful place, and man has done his part we find farms furnishing an income every week of the year. We find homes with conveniences. We find intelligent, thrifty, debt-free people with minds and hearts alert from steady employment. We find a good citizenship, a good agriculture. Truly the cow is the mother of prosperity."

He proceeds to describe typical localities to which the cow would bring prosperity. Then he tells how to select the right kind of cows, describing in detail the good and bad points of cows from head to tail. The breeding, care, and feeding of cows, the best kind of feeds in various localities, the construction of barns, the making of silage, the testing of cows and their milk, methods of milking and the type and care of dairy utensils, the best methods of marketing milk, the care of calves, either for rearing or for the production of veal, the use of manure, the best breeds for varying conditions and the treatment of diseases are all dealt with fully and in plain language that anyone can understand.

A valuable feature of the book is the fact that every point dealt with is illustrated by photographs specially taken for the purpose or by diagrams. Over 250 photographs are reproduced.

The Bank of Montreal is doing a splendid work for farmers by having a special edition of many thousands of this valuable book printed for free distribution throughout farming districts in Canada. We understand that the demand for the book has exceeded all expectations, but that a reserve supply has been secured, so that a limited number is still available free of cost. Application for the book should be made to the local branch of the Bank of Montreal.

LARGE INCREASE IN TOURIST TRAFFIC

Sixty-Five Thousand Summer Visitors Entered Nova Scotia This Year.

At least 65,000 summer visitors entered Nova Scotia during 1923, according to estimates made public by Premier Armstrong. This is fifteen thousand in excess of the estimated tourists to this Province the previous year, and the increase is credited to the improved highways and widespread activities of Nova Scotia Tourist Association, which came into being at the opening of the 1923 season. The number of visiting cars to enter Nova Scotia by the Amherst, Digby, Yarmouth and Halifax gateways was 3,883, nearly double the figure for the previous year. The revenue from tourists during the past season is estimated at six million dollars as compared with five million last year.

ENEMIES

If a man has a persistent, inveterate enemy, the fault is generally very much his own. It is true that is somewhat of a hard saying; for it is bad enough to have a real enemy who is ready to do you a mean turn whenever he can without being held responsible for him. But it is absolutely true that it takes at least two persons to make a quarrel, and it is extremely difficult for any half-reasonable man to keep on being an active enemy toward you if you keep on being a kindly, courteous Christian gentleman toward him.

It may be that a few men can do it for a long time, and it may be that many could keep it up for a little while; but there must be very few who can persist in hating through the years in face of such treatment. Of course you may say that you are under no obligation to treat such men kindly and courteously, that they have absolutely forfeited their right to any such treatment, but you cannot get that idea from the teaching and example of Jesus Christ.

In fact, He was very explicit and emphatic that that was the kind of treatment you did owe to every man, and especially to the man who hated you. If you say that the task of treating your enemy handsomely after this fashion is a too difficult and taxing one, you will find that there is hardly anything in the world easier to do when ones you make up your mind to it and get started. And really there is nothing that you will find much more pleasure and satisfaction in doing.

CHOICE RECIPES

GINGER APPLE—Make a syrup with 4 lbs. light brown sugar and 1 pint of water, boiling until clear. Add 4 lbs. finely chopped apples and 1 oz. ginger and boil gently until thick. Seal in jars with melted paraffin.

RAW APPLE DESSERT—To make a novel and really delightful dessert slice very thinly enough fine flavored apples to make a quart, put in a glass dish alternate layers of apple slices and sugar. Add half cup water, press and weight down with a plate when let stand a few minutes. Serve with slightly sweetened whipped cream dotted with honey.

CRANBERRY AND RAISIN MARMALADE—Two cups cranberries, half cup raisins, half cup water, half orange and small amount peel, one and a half cups sugar. Grind the cranberries and raisins through the food chopper and cook in the water slowly for 30 minutes. Add orange and sugar and cook five minutes longer.

MOON CAKES—Cream a cupful of well-washed butter and add to it gradually, a cupful of heavy cream and enough finely sifted flour to make a firm dough. Knead the mixture well, and let it stand in a cool place over night. In the morning, roll out dough very thin in sugar, cut crescent shape and bake the cakes a delicate brown. These cakes may be frosted if desired.

LOAF COOKIES—Good for school lunch and more easily prepared than the common kind. Take one cup lard, or butter and lard mixed, four cups brown sugar, four eggs, one tablespoon cream of tartar sifted with seven cups of flour, one tablespoon of soda dissolved in one quarter cup of hot water. Flavor as desired. Mix in order given except it is more satisfactory to add the tartar to about 3 cups of flour and after other ingredients are added mix in remainder of flour gradually working it in on the board with hands as it becomes too thick. Divide the dough into two parts, shape into loaves two inches high by three wide, or make round. Let stand over night. In the morning cut them in thin slices and bake in a quick oven.

Don't worry over the bad business of yesterday. Use newspaper advertising and make it good tomorrow.

RICH OCHRE DEPOSITS OWNED BY HANTSPORT MEN

That extensive ochre deposits exist in Hants county may not be generally known but is nevertheless true. The property is located at Ardoise Hill and is only a comparatively short distance off the Halifax road. Messrs. F. W. Porter and J. Edward Borden, of Hantsport, are the joint owners of these rich deposits which have not yet been developed but which bid fair to become a source of not a little profit to the lucky owners.

Recently a careful and detailed examination of these interesting areas was made by Mr. A. E. Finlay, mining engineer of the C. P. R. The survey shows that the deposit consists of two separate areas about 150 feet apart. The larger area contains 2700 tons of ochre and the smaller area about 620 tons. These are within 150 feet of the main road between Halifax and Windsor. The analysis shows that the ochre compares favorably with the best ochre mined in North America.

The Hantsport ACADIAN extends hearty congratulations to our townsmen on the fine proposition which they have in hand.

GIVING GOOD SERVICE

Furness, Withy & Company as usual have been paying particular attention to the Nova Scotia apple business and every other day have had one of their fine steamers sailing from Halifax to either London, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow or Hull.

Around the end of November when the apple shippers send large quantities for the Christmas markets, they have made special arrangements for a London sailing about December 2nd, will have the fine high class 15 knot oil burning steamer "LONDON MARINER".

For Liverpool sailing about November 30th, another one of these fine vessels, the "LONDON CORPORATION", will serve the trade.

The famous "Manchester Regiment" will be sailing from Halifax about December 3rd for Manchester, while one of the newest type of steamers, the "ALLEGHANY" will be leaving for Glasgow around the same time.

The Furness Line are to be complimented on placing such fine tonnage at the disposal of the shippers, who also are to be congratulated on being able to have available this type, which is a great improvement over the steamers in use some years ago.

Lawyers probably show the greatest commiseration for the sins of the erring.

JOHN BUNYAN

Never was there a man who was more conscious of the drama of life than John Bunyan: never a man whose philosophy fell more pat upon the footprints of his earthly wayfaring. And the whole store of his simple meditations were derived directly from the Bible.

The Bible and Bedfordshire—in those two words we have the sources from which he drew all his inspiration; the grave, formidable sentences of the old Authorized Version working upon the imagination of a countryman whose days had for their background the familiar pastoral landscape of seventeenth century England with its fields and elm trees, its church steeples and turnpike ale houses.

There are two stories that illustrate very well the particular vein of shrewd native humor that is characteristic of him. It was his custom sometimes when the informers were more than usually active, to go to his meeting places in disguise. On one such occasion, when he was driving along on a wagon dressed in a farm laborer's smock, he was accosted by a constable who asked him if he knew "that devil Bunyan".

"Know him?" came back the answer, "you might well call him a devil if you knew him as well as I did once". Again, on being congratulated by some of his friends on the "sweet sermon" he had just preached, he replied: "Aye! aye! ye need not remind me of that; for the devil told me of it before I was out of the pulpit."—Lewelyn Powys.

SAHARA RAILWAY

The French are to open the Sahara to tourists and business. They are to build a railroad from the Mediterranean coast into Central Africa. The camels will be replaced by rails and steam; hardships and discomforts endured on the humps of the ships of the desert will be succeeded by luxurious parlor cars and their attendant comforts. Darkest Africa is succumbing to progress and civilization. It is today becoming better known than the interior of South America. Cairo and Cape Town are rail-bound. Victoria Nyanza is a pleasure jaunt. Now this great area of sand, this wilderness of desolation, is to be opened up. Sahara was at one time a fertile plain, with rivers distributing their riches. While the motive in this instance is largely military, enabling, as it will, the rapid transportation of African troops, there is no foretelling the results. Like our own deserts, Sahara only awaits a great system of irrigation to awaken to harvests such as have rewarded like efforts in South California. The Sahara railway as proposed will open up new markets, a new source of raw material and a new land to the traveller. A trip by white men from Algeria to Timbuctoo will cease to be the wild dream it has always been. So the world moves.

Lloyd George Enjoys Canadian Travel

1. At a wayside stopping place.
2. Lloyd George converses with J. J. Scully, General Manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, eastern lines, on the observation platform of his private car.

In appreciation of the arrangements made for his comfort while travelling over the lines of the Canadian Pacific, the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George wrote E. W. Beatty, President of the Company as follows:

"My dear Mr. Beatty,—
"I have had such a heavy list of engagements to fill since I arrived on this side of the Atlantic that this is literally the first opportunity I have had in which to write to thank you very heartily for the magnificent arrangements which you made for my journey west of Toronto. Every facility and every comfort were afforded to my wife and daughter, and also to the entire party, and I owe you a deep debt of gratitude.

"With all best wishes, believe me, ever sincerely,
(Signed) "D. Lloyd George."
The ex-Premier of Great Britain was much interested in things he saw en route, and lost no opportunity of adding to his store of knowledge of the Dominion. He is here seen at a wayside stopping place, and with him in the front row are Dame Lloyd George, Miss Megan, D. C. Coleman, Vice-President Canadian Pacific Western lines and Mrs. Coleman. In the smaller picture he is seen with Dame Lloyd George, Miss Megan and J. J. Scully, general manager Canadian Pacific eastern lines, viewing the passing scenery of North Ontario.

LOVE'S UNDERSTANDING

Louise was the "odd" one in a large family. Dainty and refined, she was a source of much amusement to her commonplace brothers and sisters. They laughed at her "fine notions", at her "swell" ideas, and Louise, resenting her family, resenting the place where she worked, with no way of meeting or marrying the man of whom she dreamed, no way of entering the society she read about in the daily papers, early drifted into matrimony with Henry, a round-faced, snub-nosed, pleasant clerk in an office.

Louise suffered; she rebelled at the fate that had placed her in such a lowly niche. She felt that she had been defrauded, and she spent too much of her time in dreaming of the things she did not have. When she and Henry sat down to the boiled dinner which he insisted on having so often, the cheap mission table, with its coarse cloth, a napkin covering the gray spot of three days before, would fade away and in its place she would see gleaming mahogany laden with shining glass and silver and then—"Some more of the corned beef, my dear; it is delicious, and Henry's round face would beam on her above the expanse of napkin covering his breast.

Always she longed for fine clothes, jewels, society, and she had—Henry and the ugly little flat; Henry who drugged away at his job and adored her;—Henry, with nothing but an honest heart to recommend him.

As he dashed into the apartment one evening, bubbling over like a school boy, he found Louise frowning over a letter.

"What is it, Sweetie? Why these?" He rubbed a caressing forefinger over her wrinkled brow. She pulled her head away and looked discontentedly out of the window.

"Oh, nothing, Belle has just written me, asking me to visit her for a month." Belle was an old school friend whose husband had been successful. Henry pondered. "Well, why don't you go? You haven't been away for a long time, and the change will do you good. I can get along all right—I'll just run over to Sarah's for my meals 'Course I'll miss you awfully"—taking her by the shoulders—"but just think how glad I'll be when you get back."

Louise looked at him coldly. "No, I can't go. Why not?"

"Don't you know that I have nothing to wear?" Her lips tightened.

"Nothing to wear!" Henry looked bewildered. "Where's that pretty dress you wore to the theatre last week? You looked peachy in that. I—" he paused helplessly, scratching his head.

"I haven't a thing fit to visit Belle in. Don't you realize that she is rich, and I should have to meet all her rich friends?"

"There, now," he soothed, an arm about her, "let's see what we can do. How much would it cost to fit you out?"

Louise thought a moment. "Well," she eyed him calculatingly—"I think I could get along with two hundred dollars."

Henry gasped and swallowed hard. He saw a gunning trip which he had long planned for, fading away into the realm of untasted joys.

"All right, tell her you'll come. Perhaps I can get away for a few days and bring you home."

So Louise visit her friend. Her new clothes, Belle's lovely home, the constant round of gayety, gave her confidence in herself. She sparkled into more than prettiness. She forgot the little flat, the boiled dinners, the scanty income, and gave herself up to this wonderful fairyland. And into this fairyland came a prince.

"Hands off, Max!" quietly warned Belle, as his attentions to the pretty Louise began to be commented upon.

"You know there is a husband in Boston, and Louise is my friend."

"Don't be provincial, Belle. Where's the harm. You want her to have a good time while she's here, don't you? What's this husband person like, anyhow?" He spoke lightly, but there was an eager look in his eyes.

"Like? Why—" Mrs. Deland reflected a bit. "Why, he's an ordinary, everyday sort of a man. I have met him only once."

Max's eyes sparkled wickedly. "All the more reason for giving her a good time."

"But not at the expense of her peace of mind, Max, and, besides, while he isn't the most brilliant man in the world, he loves Louise, and that's something nowadays."

Max did not cease his attentions to Louise. He was not so open about them, that was all, and Louise, flattered and stirred, wished they might go on forever.

Came the Manchester's dance with Henry, who had arrived in New York that morning, accompanying her. It was late in the evening before Max had a chance to speak to her alone in the deserted library.

"Louise—Louise, you aren't going back to that clod of a husband of yours, are you?" His voice was thick and his eyes frightened her, as he caught her in his arms. "I love you! I love you!" His kisses hurt her—she felt herself sinking—drowning, in the emotional sea which enveloped her, then—

"Oh, here you are! Where's Henry? Louise! Time to go home. And Belle breezed in. "Hunt him up, Max, while we are getting our things on." Her eyes blazed at him.

Later, chatting in the hall waiting for Henry to be found, Louise, so nervously excited that she scarcely heard a word, thrilled pleasantly. A little feeling of triumph possessed her. She was attractive enough to sweep the most desirable man present off his feet. She turned to Max, who was standing near, with a coquettish creasing of her head, but the gay little quip on her lips died at Henry's coming. Following the look of terror in her eyes, saw Henry coming from the library, a Henry in whose face all the easy good nature had been replaced by a stern, white dignity.

"Steady!" he warned.

Through Louise's mind flashed every possibility of what might happen if Henry had overheard. "Divorce! Disgrace! Every thing seemed swept from beneath her feet. Henry suddenly became something to cling to in this toppling world; her little flat a haven of rest and security. Oh, what had she done?

And then Henry's voice. "Sorry to keep you waiting, folks."

Louise dragged herself into her bedroom and sank into a chair, her pretty dress falling in graceful folds about her, her hands limp in her lap. There she sat, unconscious of the cold, incapable of thought. She roused herself when Henry came in a little later, and braced herself for what he might have to say. But he only yawned prodigiously as he removed his coat and vest.

With a shoe half pulled off, he looked up. "Aren't you going to bed?" She looked at him, miserably imploring. "Why? I'm tired," with another yawn. "Found a nice corner in the library and slept a couple of hours—just waked up when you saw me coming out." Another yawn and stretch. He tackled the other shoe, a knot requiring his complete attention.

The tumult in Louise's mind drowned the strain in the man's voice. Slowly her color came back as she realized what his words meant. The next instant she was on her knees beside him, her face hidden on his breast.

"Let's go home tomorrow, Henry. I'm tired of it here. I just want to be with you in our little home."

WHO IS SHE?

The identity of "The Wonderful Heroine", whose amazing life story appeared in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, is causing widespread speculation. Her remarkable achievements under appalling conditions, handicapped more often than aided by her great beauty, most certainly have justified the claim that she was "One woman in ten million."

It is now announced that a beautiful portrait of "The Wonderful Heroine", reproduced in all the colors of the original masterpiece, will be given free to subscribers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, that is, to those who subscribe in time.

The following is a resolution of a small community: "That a new jail should be built, that this be done out of the material of the old one and the old jail to be used until the new one be completed."
