THE HERALD

FREDERICTON, SEPTEMBER 16, 1893.

ALDERMANIC ELECTION.

The new scheme for the election of aldermen has been carried at St. John by a very large majority, and in future most of the councillors will be chosen not from only a particular ward, but by the whole city.

With respect to Frederickton the scheme is much in favor. Most of the citizens believe that a similar change would be to the benefit of all and that the taxes would be lessened in great measure and the finances would be conducted in a more economical way.

The apportioning here proves this. Let a citizen walk through the streets and note where the best sidewalks are made and he must come to the conclusion that ward business, equal in principle to that of the Tammany ring, is carried on here, but of course to a very limited extent.

FREE LUMBER.

The lumbermen of Maine and New Brunswick are looking forward with confidence to a radical change in, if not the complete removal, of the import duties on lumber shipped to the United States from this country.

The late sale of crown lands here evinced this. There was a large attendance of Maine men here, and they took an active part in the proceedings, bidding high on any special piece of good land offered.

Maine men claim that with their superior machinery and closer proximity to the great markets, that they would not feel the rivalry of the maritime provinces, but that they could carry on the work of sawing with advantage if the stumpage were reduced to a reasonable figure, as it would be if free trade was assured.

THESE CERTIFICATES.

The rustler disaster, at Miramichi, is only the direct result of carelessness, not only on the part of the officials of the vessel, but on the part of the Dominion government. Perhaps the latter is the most culpable.

SCOTCH SETTLEMENT.

Sept. 11.—Harvesting is about finished in this section, and farmers pronounce their grain crops very good. By the number of carriages passing through this place yesterday, we would judge that there was a good attendance at the C. B. quarterly meeting held in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler, who have been visiting this place lately, intend going away this week, to visit other friends in the county, before leaving for their home in Wakefield, Mass.

POLITICS.

Political talk has quieted down for a time, each party watching the moves of the other. Many are of the opinion that Hon. George E. Foster will be the candidate for York on the Conservative side at the next election, while Dr. McLeod and J. S. Neil are also spoken of. Perhaps never in the political history of York has it been so difficult to forecast the future as at present.

UPPER MAGAGUADAVIC.

Sept. 13.—The farmers are nearly all done harvesting here. We are having very fine weather. Miss McLaughlin, from Massachusetts, was here visiting her uncle, Wm. Jamieson.

DURHAM.

Sept. 11.—Mrs. John Bradley and daughter, were visiting their many friends in Durham last week.

OUR RESOURCES.

Those who take an interest in the prosperity of the province, as all residents should, must be pleased at the rapid growth of certain lines of agriculture and in mining as well.

Take for instance the development in dairy work. It is only a few years since cheese was first made by factory in this province and now the output is large. Not only is this so, but the quality is excellent and fully equal to that of the old dairy countries of the world.

In respect to mining there is a rapid development. Not only are the coal mines being explored and opened up, but many other minerals such as gold, nickel, manganese, gypsum and copper are being mined, and it is only a question of a few years till mines will prove a source of large revenue.

It is now painfully evident that the much dreaded cholera has got a foothold in England and unless the most stringent measures are taken it will reach this side of the Atlantic.

KESWICK RIDGE.

Sept. 12.—The weather of late has been fine but cold. We have, however, expected frost so far, but we learn that over friends in the valley have not been so fortunate.

The farmers are now very busy harvesting. The crops are reported a good average. The wind and grasshoppers have done considerable damage to oats and buckwheat.

It is reported that the cheese factory of this place is about to suspend operations for this season. Much good work has been done by this factory considering the short time it has been running.

The late sale of crown lands here evinced this. There was a large attendance of Maine men here, and they took an active part in the proceedings, bidding high on any special piece of good land offered.

SOUTHAMPTON.

Sept. 12.—In my great hurry while writing you last, I unintentionally omitted the names of Jas. T. Masten, John Oldham and Chas. W. Dunham from the list of "probable candidates" for municipal honors this fall.

Two or three weeks ago Mr. John Fero decided not to milk his cows again this fall. They wandered so far, during the dry season through which we have just passed, that he was unable to get them regularly and about those few milk cows gave but a pint each. After they had not been milked for several days, he gave the whole of their milk to his two pigs, and it killed them both. "Uncle John" feels blue and is no wonder.

Mr. David Lutwick, wife and two children of Alma, Albert Co., are here visiting his sister, Mrs. Geo. Clywick. Mr. L. has been absent some thirty years, during which he has become "well fixed." He is one of the partners in a large mill concern.

Daniel Scriver, Jr., lost a very fine two year old colt one day last week under very strange circumstances. When found in the pasture the animal gave every sign of having its back broken. It was hauled to the barn and put in slings, but almost before the owner was aware it was dead.

Very few of our farmers will go to the exhibition next week for the simple reason that we (as you said in your article) are as far from Fredericton as the cities of Boston or New York.

Ephraim Clark woke the other morning and found himself all swelled up. He drove to a Woodstock doctor who told him he could do nothing for him, and he got to be drooping, but he gradually getting worse, and worst of all he has only his two small children to care for him.

A large hole, 4x6, and just two feet south of the channel post on Wm. Miller's front lawn was made by some party who, though seen, their names are unknown. A small tongue of land shoots out exactly west from the east shore of the river St. John. Behind this is the gravelly bed of a small brook and dry, except in one spot—a north of channel post one rod—a never-drying spring.

The libel framed against Professor Campbell has been sustained by the Montreal presbytery. The motion declaring that the second count was proved was carried, 27 to 2. The Professor will appeal to the Montreal and Ottawa synods.

Daniel Robertson, out of the house of correction, Sunday afternoon, when he served a sentence for wife beating, returned home and beat his wife to death. He was arrested, but claimed he had not been near his house that day.

Humphrey and Co. the large wholesale boot and shoe dealer of St. John, have had their attention attracted by the Montreal and Quebec houses are largely interested and the insolvent firm are offering 40 cents on the dollar secured.

Rev. Mr. Thompson has declined the call of the Tracy Mills F. C. B. church to remain with them for another year, and has tendered his resignation, having accepted a call to a church in Carleton Place. The Tracy Mills people very much regret his decision.

The demonstration to Sir John Thompson at Montreal Tuesday night was a regular fiasco. Although six bands had been engaged to draw the people from all parts of the city, only about two thousand attended, and there were mostly boys attracted by the music.

The Liberals had a monster political meeting at Shubenacadie, N. S. on Tuesday. Many hundreds of farmers assembled from outside districts and listened with much attention to addresses by Hon. L. H. Davies, M. P. Hon. A. G. Jones, Premier Fielding and Hon. C. Fraser, M. P.

GIBSON'S DEATH.—After an unusually hard season, the Nashua drives have been getting within reach of the mill so that there will be no further "shut-down" this season. It is said that one gang will work by night till late in the fall. There is a new working on the big mill near Jam Stanley, and it is being worked out.

SCIENCE AT NEWCASTLE.—A Chatham man named Crosby, was confined in the jail at Newcastle. He created quite a sensation Friday when the jailer entered his cell. With a handkerchief and a pair of braces he had attempted suicide by hanging and but for the prompt work of the jailer, would have succeeded in his object.

MERITED PRAISE.—The St. Croix Courier says: "The playing of the Infantry school band, which accompanied the Fredericton excursionists on Monday, was very highly spoken of by those competent to judge, and was much appreciated by the large and delighted audiences that collected in front of the Queen hotel during their open air concerts."

BAD FALL.—John Dennison fell from the roof of his house at Pennington on Saturday last, and hurt himself severely. He was standing on a staging, repairing the building, when it broke and he fell about twenty feet, alighting on a board. His face was very badly cut, the nose being almost severed. Although quite old, he is doing as well as can be expected.

WATERING CART, WHERE IS IT?—The first heavy shower of the summer, it will be remembered, broke down the city watering cart in front of the post office, and now it appears that it has been abandoned. It is not! It is the reply when any one enquires where it is. On Thursday and Friday the dust rose in clouds and the stores and residences got the full benefit.

WOOD LOCOMOTIVES.—Some of the locomotives of the C. E. R. have been fitted up for burning wood instead of coal, and are making their regular trips on the road. An enormous sled is to be crested just above the bridge at Marysville, where the short wood from the mills will be hauled till dry enough for the train. There will be a consequent large reduction in running expenses.

ST. JOHN ELECTION.—The new scheme for the election of aldermen at St. John, was placed squarely before the electors of that city on Thursday, and the result of the ballot shows that the people were almost unanimous in its favor. The vote stood 2,188 to 704, or over three to one. Carleton vote was strongly in favor of the scheme, being 305 to 34. Queens ward gave a majority of 10 to 1, while Dukes did about as well.

HALL-STUFF CASE.—The jury in the Hall-stuff case at Hampton, after three hours deliberation on Tuesday, found for the defendant Sipp on all the points submitted to them. Sipp, it will be remembered, was carrying on business in Woodstock in September, 1892, made an assignment. He was arrested for obtaining goods under false pretences but was acquitted at the trial in Charlotte county.

AMB TRADE.—Perhaps no heavier blow has fallen on the farmers of York and Carleton county than the total suppression of the lamb trade in Woodstock, and it is visited either good or market. There are hundreds of good lambs ready for market. The Americans say that they are not able to pay the price required for the animals and then to give one out of three to the custom authorities, the duties being about 35 per cent.

A NEW HOUSE.—The furniture firm of Willard Kitchen & Co. has added their name to the list of advertisers, and readers of THE HERALD will find something particularly interesting in their advertisement. The firm occupy the building, two doors above Peoples bank, Queen street, and carry a splendid and new stock of furniture of all kinds, pianos, organs and sewing machines. Careful attention paid to orders by mail.

RATTING AND LOGS.—At the various booms on the river the work of rattling has been pushed along as rapidly as possible, but owing to the very long spell of low water there has not been as much lumber rafted to date as there was at this time last year. It will therefore cause the company to carry on the work as long as there is open water. The corporation drive, under Fred. Moore, has been started, but little progress has been made as yet.

THE AGONY INCREASES.—Nothing has been heard from the honorable Mr. Wilnot since his visit to Ottawa respecting the appointment of fish commissioner for Sunbury. It is said that he placed the matter very plainly before Clark Wallace at the Gagetown picnic, but no acknowledgment was made to him by that worthy only the suggestion that perhaps the younger Tupper might carry out his wishes. Mr. Perley will also make a trip to Ottawa and the fun is becoming fast and furious.

THE EXHIBITION.

Special Features to be Seen at the Big Show.

On Wednesday evening next the full fire brigades of this city and St. Marys will turn out in a torch light procession, and on Thursday evening they will give the best display of fireworks ever seen here. It will take place on the exhibition grounds. A very popular feature will be the farmers' parade, in which all styles of farm machinery, ancient and modern, will have a place. Then there will be a hay rack decked with flowers, bearing forty children dressed in white, a corn husking party, with fiddler and dancers complete, will also be in the parade. Prizes are offered for the best displays, and some unique and very pleasing representations will be seen. The parade will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock on Wednesday. The horse races, a full programme of which appears elsewhere, will prove very exciting as some close contests are promised.

The display of field and garden crops will be especially interesting, while the cattle, swine, sheep and poultry display will be excellent. The fancy work department is filling up rapidly, and there are many novelties in this line that all ladies should see. Ask for excursion return tickets at whatever place you may enter any of the trains or steamers and you will be surprised at the low rates offered, the railways especially giving the lowest rates ever issued. The accommodating committee of the agricultural society have made arrangements so that all can find food and shelter at the usual rates, and ample stabling for horses has been arranged for.

One interesting competition of the show will be that in the cheese department when cheese from Woodstock, Sussex, Burnett's Corner, Prince William and Keswick Ridge will be put up for the prizes. York will have a hard struggle with Carleton for second, many believing that the first prize will go to Sussex.

At large expense the society has secured the following very popular attraction: The New York and Boston specialty company of artists the best that has ever visited the province. They will give exhibitions on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, on the afternoon and evening of each day. The company is composed of the following, each a leader in his own particular line: Burke & West, burlesque, trapeze contortion and balancing; the most wonderful antique juggler Eberhardt; Mr and Mrs Pendy in their rendition of choice comedy; the wizard of the north, Prof. Heller in astounding feats of illusion; the man serpent, Percival, founder of the age; the exceedingly funny grotesque clowns, Puck and Judge, in tumbling, leaping, summersaulting and vaulting; the European and witty, Messrs Alfrenno, in feats of agility on the flying rings; then comes the mimic, John Jeffries in songs, dances and bits of witicism; equine experts, West, cleverly balancing act on each, monarch of the invisible piano, Signor Auguste; the show to conclude with the humorous pantomime, "Quartette of admirers," characters by the whole company. At this troupe it is only necessary to say that it is considered the best that ever appeared before a New York audience. Remember it will be on the exhibition grounds and open every afternoon and evening of the exhibition. Everything will be of the highest merit and there will be nothing of an objectionable nature, the company having the best recommendations. Let every farmer and household in the country take a holiday and bring their families to the exhibition. The rest will do them good and many lessons in connection with farm work will be learned.

Grand Falls Murder.—James Mocker makes a statement in answer to press reports of the unfortunate affair. He denies that he, his brother and the Price boys made the bags that they would clean Theriault's house out. "Now, in justice to the English boys who were there, let me say that this statement is not true. Thomas Mocker and a few other English boys went to Theriault's wedding, uninvited, as is the custom of the country, without any thought or intention of fighting. There suit sold run to three of the boys, and to others also. Thomas Mocker and George Price did not drink. The consequence was that a row was started, as is usual at such places where the men stand without license. Maurice Sirois, the most important witness at the examination, swore that he did not know who struck the first blow, although he was standing within two feet of Theriault and Harry Mocker when the fight commenced."

Star Line Sued.—There is a fine brewing between G. H. Needham, commercial traveller, and the Star Line Steamboat Company. It appears that Mr. Needham sent his trunk to the wharf on Tuesday evening labelled for St. John. The trunk was taken charge of by the officials of the David Weston and placed on board. When Mr. Needham went to the boat on Wednesday morning to go to St. John, he was astonished to hear that the boat had gone to White Cove on a picnic excursion and his beloved trunk was with her. He returned to his hotel and was shortly after in consultation with a leading light of the legal profession and being advised that he had a good right of action against the company, he has instructed his lawyer to enter a suit at once.

Snook Thieves.—On Saturday night last some snook thief or thieves broke into the hotel in which Ezra Grant keeps things to sell at Southampton. Mr. Grant has fitted up one end of it into a kind of store which has two doors that lock together. With some instrument these were pried apart and an entrance made. Next morning coats, boots and shoes, clothing of all kinds, were scattered over the floor. Some money was taken. There was a "graveyard" money in one drawer but it was overlooked, although the drawer had been overhauled. Mr. Grant offers a reward of $100 for evidence that will lead to the conviction of the guilty.

Calais Races.—The races at Calais, which were witnessed by a large number of Frederictonians on Monday last, were well contested. The 2:28 class was won by Ross L., with Helena B. of this city, second, and Vichmont third; best time 2:30. Harold M. got first place in the 2:30 class, with Rattler second and Decided third; time 2:27. There was considerable talk over the decision in this race, as some considered that Rattler did not have a fair showing. Geo. Leavitt's stallion, Lycurgus, tried to beat the record made by Brazilian at St. Stephen last week, but fell four seconds short, doing the mile in 2:28.

District Meeting.—On Sunday the services by the third district F. C. Baptists will be conducted as follows: Rev. P. O. Hartley will preach at Marysville at 11 a. m. Rev. M. Halse in the afternoon at 3, rev. Jos McLeod in the evening at 7. Rev. Mr. Foster will occupy the Fredericton F. C. Baptist church in the morning at the usual hour, rev. Mr. Long in the evening. Rev. G. D. Downey will preach at the Gibson Methodist church at 11 a. m.

Sheriff Dibble's Funeral.—The funeral of the late sheriff Dibble of Woodstock, took place Wednesday and was very largely attended. The fire department marched in the procession. There were sixty teams which, with the large number on foot, made the greatest funeral ever seen in Woodstock. Rev. H. E. Dibble and canon Ketchum conducted the ceremonies.

The Nuptial Knot.

At St. John, on Sept. 13th, by the Rev. J. A. Gordon, Brazilia McLean, of Queens county, was married to Miss Lizzie Harned, of St. John.

At Kingsclear on Tuesday, the 12th inst., the Rev. Mr. Montgomery united in marriage K. C. Quarterman of Kingsclear and Miss Florence L. Stone of Millville, on Tuesday morning last, in the 12th inst., at the Exchange hotel, this city, in the presence of relatives and numerous friends. The bride was the recipient of numerous handsome presents. Mr and Mrs Harper will make their future home in Fredericton. They have the best wishes of a large circle.

On Monday evening last, Prof. and Mrs. Caldwell from St. John, were re-united by their many friends in a most substantial manner. It would be safe to say that there is no more popular couple than the professor and wife, and when the twentieth anniversary of their wedded life came round, as it did on Monday evening, their friends, to the number of sixty, thought it a fitting opportunity for an expression of their feelings. Many handsome gifts in silver, ranging from silver spoons to a silver service, were the tokens of esteem, found their way into the professor's residence. The Rev. Mr. Lodge, in his address on the occasion, said that though their married life had reached the stage when a chivalrous wedding was in order, yet their friends thought it could be more fittingly commemorated in silver, and so they had taken the liberty of adding the five years. A very pleasant evening was spent, and the friends of the couple in the field of both mental and physical refreshments were served. The Herald extends congratulations to prof. and Mrs. Caldwell.

The Rev. T. G. Johnston solemnized the marriage of Lewis Robinson, of Blisville, to Miss Maggie Colford, of Blackville, at the latter place on the 4th inst. Only immediate friends were present.

Called Home.—At North Colons, Queens county, the remains of one of its most respected men, James Barton, was laid to rest. The funeral service was by Rev. F. Fritzel. Death was the result of hemorrhage from an abscess.

Mrs. Benjamin Hanson, an old resident of Durham, died at that place on Monday morning, the 11th inst., at six o'clock, at the age of sixty-nine. She had been ill for a long time of consumption. Deceased was a devout christian and was highly respected. A much esteemed lady of Waterbrook, Queen's, Mrs. Ebon Slocum, died at that place on Wednesday evening last. Deceased was a daughter of John McCann, and was in her twenty-second year. Much grief is expressed in the community where she had many friends.

Shortly after eleven o'clock on Monday evening, Mrs. Daniel Meahan died at her residence, Regent street. She had not complained of being unwell but appeared in her usual good health. Heart disease was the cause of death. She was in her thirtieth year, and was highly esteemed. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Wednesday. The sympathy of all is extended to the grief-stricken family.

Marysville people were shocked on Friday to hear that at an early hour that morning Mrs. Russell, wife of Solomon Russell, had passed away by death. She had been in apparent good health till on Wednesday she complained of feeling unwell. Deceased was a lady well known in musical circles, as for years she carried on classes in this city and vicinity. All speak of her death with much regret. Deceased for some years had charge of the musical department at Sackville academy. Her native place was St. Andrews, where some of her relatives reside at present. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon from her late residence at Marysville to the Methodist church, led by Mr. Lodge to officiate.

Exhibition Races.—Those of our readers residing along the route of the C. E. railway and who intend visiting their friends in this city next week and seeing the exhibition, will find the following of special interest. The C. E. R. will sell excursion tickets from all stations to Fredericton on 18th and 19th Sept. at one single first-class fare for round trip, and on the 20th a special train will leave Chatham at 6 o'clock a. m., carrying the following low rates for round trip: From Chatham, Chatham Junction, $1.00; Blackville, Upper Blackville, Blisville, $1.40; Doaktown, McNamers, Ludlow, $1.20; Boletown, Asht, Crossing, Porters Road, $1.00; Cross Creek, Covered Bridge, 70c; Zionville, Durham, Nashwaq, 50c; Manzer's, Goodspeed's, Penniac, 40c; Marysville, 20c. The above-mentioned good on the regular train on the 20th. All these tickets are subject to return by regular train until Sept. 23d.

A. O. E. Excursion from this city to St. Stephen was undoubtedly the best outing of the season. When the train steamed out of the station, there were eight packed cars of excursionists, and although there was some overcrowding, yet it did not detract from the enjoyment. St. Stephen was reached at 11:30 a. m., and from that till seven the party took in the sights and scenes of the border towns. Calais and St. Stephen folks are remarkable for hospitality everywhere, and the right hand of fellowship was extended in the most cordial manner. The daily Times, of Calais, speaking of the excursionists said: "It was the best looking and best behaved lot of excursionists that ever visited the town." The day was fine and no accident marred the enjoyment of any.

The day was well patronized, though a large part of the holiday makers seen were visiting the many beautiful residences which adorn both banks of the placid St. Croix.

THE LITTLE FEET.

Across the lonely chamber floor, And down the passage, through the hall, The little feet resound no more!

CHAPTER VIII.

CONTINUED.

At that time a move was made in the direction of the hall room, which had been arranged to look like a fairy bower with delicate, lot-blossom flowers and ferns.

As she stood on the threshold, Nora came face to face with Lord Randall, and he laid a detaining hand on her arm.

"I have been seeking you; it is not fair to let you overtake yourself. Come with me into the conservatory; we shall be free from intrusion there."

"Nora, darling, have you ever thought of the wretched father who deserted you, the heart-broken husband, who sooner than look upon the child that so closely resembled the cherished wife he had lost, chose to leave her amongst strangers?"

"Nora, darling, have you ever thought of the wretched father who deserted you, the heart-broken husband, who sooner than look upon the child that so closely resembled the cherished wife he had lost, chose to leave her amongst strangers?"

"Nora, darling, have you ever thought of the wretched father who deserted you, the heart-broken husband, who sooner than look upon the child that so closely resembled the cherished wife he had lost, chose to leave her amongst strangers?"

"Nora, darling, have you ever thought of the wretched father who deserted you, the heart-broken husband, who sooner than look upon the child that so closely resembled the cherished wife he had lost, chose to leave her amongst strangers?"

Nora was standing close to a flight of marble steps leading down into the garden. The silvery moonlight fell in one straight line across them, leaving the wide balcony in comparative darkness.

"You have ruined my life, but you shall not live to glory in your sin," she hissed, and a low, hysterical laugh broke from her parched lips.

Before Nora could quite realize who it was that held her so cruelly and muttered such strange mad words in her ears, she felt herself being forcibly pushed forward so forcibly, that in her bewilderment she had no time to grasp the broad balustrade, but fell headlong down the marble steps.

"I mean it, Inez. Nora is not dead. Now, if you feel strong enough, I will tell you all—the truth you should have known long ago."

"What does it matter. She was cruelly false, not fit to live. I am glad she is dead, and glad mine were the hands to rob her of her life, as she robbed me of your love."

"CAN nothing be done? Surely there is life in her, her heart must beat, although you will not own it," said Roger, in a perfect abandonment of wild despair, as he bent over the couch where his darling lay.

"My poor boy! Did you love her so much?" Mrs. Clare whispered.

"Yes, I loved her dearer than my own soul, and would give all I possess in this world to see her alive and well before me."

"I had kept the secret so long, that I scarcely liked to tell her. Now remorse is weighing me down to the lowest depths of despair. Can I ever look at Inez, without thinking of her cheeks? Now no colour tinged them, and her eyes remained firmly closed."

ful form, and deep, heart-broken sighs escaped her. Presently a firm hand was laid on her shoulder, a touch that made her suddenly grow still and frightened.

"Except for an involuntary shiver, she looks no more of her husband's presence." "Inez," Oswald again repeated. "Have you nothing to say—no question to ask about the welfare of that poor child?"

"If I could give my life for hers, I would gladly do so. But what is the use of regret? She is dead, and I must forever bear the burden of a crime on my soul! Oh, Heaven! why did you not stay my hand, send better thoughts to my maddened mind?"

"Oswald drew closer to her. "My poor Inez! Suppose, after all, she was not dead, only unconscious? A wild hope sprang up in her heart.

"Do you mean it—oh, you are not trifling with me? For my boy's sake, tell me I have not this fearful sin upon my soul!"

"I mean it, Inez. Nora is not dead. Now, if you feel strong enough, I will tell you all—the truth you should have known long ago."

"What does it matter. She was cruelly false, not fit to live. I am glad she is dead, and glad mine were the hands to rob her of her life, as she robbed me of your love."

"CAN nothing be done? Surely there is life in her, her heart must beat, although you will not own it," said Roger, in a perfect abandonment of wild despair, as he bent over the couch where his darling lay.

"My poor boy! Did you love her so much?" Mrs. Clare whispered.

softly. "Ah! Roger, you can never know the happiness which fills my heart when I think of all I have gained this year—such dear, tender friends and such a beautiful love!"

"My own darling, your joy cannot equal mine. When I think how nearly I had lost you, a deep thankfulness is added to my love, making it doubly strong."

When Nora lifted her eyes, Roger saw that they were full of tears, but they were swiftly dried by his passionate kisses. There was no cloud, only a pure, radiant glow, on the face he so lovingly caressed.

How could she let the memory of that one trouble, sudden her when such a golden future lay in long, unbroken bliss before her?

"I shall know how to deal with him—traitor!" he muttered between his clenched teeth, and his wife tightened the soft grasp of her arms.

"You are not to be violent—promise me dearest. He has behaved like a coward, but remember he is my cousin, and thought he was doing right."

"I shall be as you wish, darling. I will deal with him gently, but not even for your sake will I consent to his entering this house again. He brought discord, and might have brought death, into our home. It is not his fault that Nora is not dead, and our two lives for ever sundered."

Lord Randall spoke vehemently, then, noting the pitiful quiver of his wife's lips, he bent and kissed them fondly. Placing her back in the comfortable chair, and arranging the cushions beneath her head with gentle solicitude, he quietly turned away.

"Rest awhile, dearest. I will return soon." Inez guessed whom he went to seek. Lying passively still, her eyes closed, she waited dreamily until he came back, which was not until more than an hour had passed.

SCHLEIFER'S MERRY FUNERAL.

He Made the Arrangements Himself—Rumor of Two Widows.

The funeral of Henry Schleifer of New York, which occurred on Thursday, was an occasion of joy rather than of mourning for most of the people who attended.

On Monday afternoon when he felt that his end was near he began to make preparations for his funeral. He was anxious that it should be conducted in accordance with his own ideas.
