CHAPTER XII.

It was an unwise and unfortunate argument. Diana's face, that had been pale a moment before, now grew crimson, and a light came into her eyes which he had never before seen shining in them.

"You are unjust, Aunt Mary," she said, in a low voice, but it rang with a note of indignation. "You don't know him—you judge him by hearsay. And—and—if it were true, it would make no difference, it would not influence me."

"No difference? Would not—?" "No!" rejoined Diana, her face pale again now, but the light burning more brightly in her eyes. "If—if I loved him, nothing any one, or the world, could say against him would matter. It would not matter if—if he were really bad!"

Mrs. Burton stared at her with painful intensity.

"Are you mad, Diana?" she whispered.

Diana was silent a moment, as if she were thinking; then she looked up.

"No; it would not matter. Where her heart goes, there a woman must follow. She doesn't wait to ask herself whether the man is good, bad, or indifferent; she loves him, and that is enough." She panted a little, as under the strain of the emotion that thrilled through her words. "For better or for worse—ah, yes, that is it!"

She rose as she spoke and went to the window and looked out at the stars which were shining through the dusky night; and she still saw Vane's face, heard his voice.

Mrs. Burton sat with lowered head and twitching lips; then, with a deep sigh of despairful resignation, she said:

"I can say no more, Diana. You will follow your own will, I know; but—but—I have warned you!"

Diana went to her and put her arm round her neck.

"Warned me! Oh, why do you speak so sternly; why do you look on the dark side of everything—everything? Oh, forgive me, Aunt Mary! I have made you unhappy—I did not mean to do so! I know you love me! I did not mean to distress you!"

"No; it's not you," said Mrs. Burton, almost inaudibly. "Not you, Diana. It is—not your fault. What ever happens—" She rose and, putting Diana's arm from her, went out of the room.

Diana lay awake through the night, listening to the striking of the hours by the great clock in the turret at Shortledge, the house, where Dalesford lay—thinking of her, she wondered?

Mrs. Burton did not come down to breakfast. Diana went up to her room; but the door was locked, and in answer to Diana's tender inquiry, Mrs. Burton said that she had a headache and wished to be left alone.

With a sigh Diana went down and tried to eat some breakfast; but she could not; and her eyes strayed to the window and across the lawn to the river. How soon would he come! And her answer? Oh, her answer!

Presently she heard the dip of the sculls, the boat glided to the landing-place, and, pale and red by turns, she watched him come quickly across the lawn. Even in that moment her heart thrilled with pride. How tall and graceful, how handsome, he was. She had never seen any one like him—and he loved her!

She went through the open window to meet him, and he met her eyes raised to his for an instant, with an intent, questioning gaze.

"I am here," he said, in a low voice. "No; not the house—" as Diana turned. "Come into the garden."

He did not say "Will you come?" she noted. He spoke in the tone of a man on the brink of the most momentous hour in his life.

They walked side by side, but he leading the way, all the same, to a seat in the shrubbery overlooking the placid river, and with a gesture he motioned her to be seated.

"I have come for my answer, Diana," he said, gravely, quietly, but his eyes sought hers with an earnestness and eagerness that belied his apparent calm. "I love you—but you know that. Will you give yourself to me?"

Diana's heart throbbed, but she tried to still it; to answer the question put so masterfully, and yet so gently; but her aunt's words haunted her.

Diana's heart throbbed, but she tried to still it; to answer the question put so masterfully, and yet so gently; but her aunt's words haunted her.

"Lord Dalesford, have you thought—have you considered the difference between us, the difference in rank?" He looked at her with faint surprise.

"What on earth has that to do with it?" he asked.

"Your people—" she said, in a low voice. "They will think of it, if you have not—"

"Let them think," he said, calmly, even with a smile. "I'm not asking you to marry my people. And you do them an injustice. Do you think they won't be proud of you, Diana?"

"Proud of me!" she echoed; but her heart glowed at his words, at the tone in which they were spoken.

"Why, yes!" he said. "Is that your only objection? Good heavens!" he laughed rather sadly. "I could find ever so many much stronger ones. Here's one of them. I'm not worthy of you, no man is; but I least of all. My life—" His face darkened and he bit his lip. "But let the past go. Since I met you and loved you, I've been a different man. It rests with you whether I go back to—that fool's life again or not. You can make of me what you will. But you know that, too. Dearest—his voice broke and he flung himself beside her and caught her hand—"don't hesitate! Have some pity on me. It's life or death for me—this answer of yours. Let it be 'yes,' Diana, let it be 'yes!' I'm a bad lot, I know; but—but—" His voice failed him completely, and he sprang to his feet and caught her up to him. "But I love you, and I want you! And I'll spend the rest of my life in making you happy. No, no, it must be 'yes'; I'll not take no."

She felt his arms tighten round her; felt his lips on hers in a passionate kiss; and as they touched hers something seemed to go out from her soul to his. A moment before she thought that she had not known her own heart; but at the touch of his lips she was conquered, if the indescribable joy of surrender can be called vanquishment.

With a low cry he pressed her more closely to him, and she hid her face on his breast.

"Now, dearest!" he said, with infinite love, with the tender wistfulness of a man's passion, "tell me now!"

"Yes!" she murmured, raising her face and looking at him through veiled eyes.

"Dearest!" he whispered, his voice hoarse and trembling. "I—I can scarcely believe it. It seems too good luck to be true. Diana, give me one kiss, of your own accord, so that I may really know!"

It was the first time in her life that her lips had ever been raised to meet any man's; and, panting a little, she hung her head, longing yet dreading to bestow this sign of her heart's conquest. Then she slowly put her arms round his neck, and with her solemn, joy-lit eyes gazing into his, kissed him on the lips.

It is such moments as this that transform this transient world of ours into an earthly paradise and make life worth living. These two mortals sat side by side, hand in hand, rapt in a joy beyond the power of words to describe.

The man asked himself why Heaven had bestowed this angel upon him; the woman why this man, this kind of man, had bent down to love her, to raise her to his heart, his chosen, his mate.

Time glided by unheeded; the music of the river, the singing of the birds, the very rustle of the leaves made a harmony which sang of love divine, immortal. All the world lay between their hands; as they glanced at each other there flowed from their eyes a stream of electric sympathy, of mutual understanding, as if each had known the other since very childhood, as if they had been mated by Divine decree from the beginning of time; twin souls here in this garden beside the silver river, to flow, like it, until they were lost in the ocean of death.

"And you doubted, hesitated, kept me in doubt," he said, at last.

Diana hung her head, then raised her eyes to his.

"No. I never doubted," she said innocently. "I only thought I did. It seemed so marvelous, so—so—impossible that you—you should love me."

He laughed, but not loudly.

"Do you never look in the glass?" he asked. "Don't you know that you are one of the most beautiful women—"

"In your eyes," she whispered. "Oh, I'm glad you think so—glad!"

"And so—good! Good as gold!" he said, in a lower voice. "I think that's why I love you, Diana. Jolly name—Diana. And it fits you. You weren't easy to get, dearest! But nothing worth having is—my treasure!"

She grew grave in a moment.

"That makes me remember—you calling me that. Your father—"

He drew her to him and pressed her warm, soft cheek against his.

"See here, Diana. My father will be delighted. He has always wanted me to marry. Good Lord! I should have done so many years ago, if he had his way. And as for you and him, why"—he laughed—"he simply worships beauty, and will make no end of a fuss over you. There's only one thing—" He paused a moment, and looked down at her with a smile.

"Tell me," she said.

"Of course," he responded. "No secrets, no concealment between us. We start on that basis, eh, dearest?"

"Oh, yes, yes!" assented Diana.

"Right. Well, look here; you haven't made much of a match of it. You might have married a duke—oh, yes, you might. If you'd run a season in town—Lord, how glad I am you didn't—there's no knowing how high you might have flown. But you're my bird now, the captive of my bow and spear. Where was I? Oh, yes," he went on lightly. "You have done very badly in a worldly sense, Diana. For we're as poor as Job. Fact!" as she stared at him. "Poorer than Job, for I don't remember that he was in debt. We are—up to our necks. You and I will have to economize. It will be love in a cottage, don't you know."

She looked up at him quickly and her lips moved. She was going to tell him that she was that hateful thing, a millonair. Hateful! No, blessed! For could she not pour her money at his feet? A golden sacrifice on the altar of love. But she kept back the words. It was so sweet to be loved for herself alone, that she clung to the flattering fact, to the delicious picture of the love in a cottage, which his imagination had drawn.

"But we shall get on all right," he said easily. "We always have. And if we don't, who cares? Not I!"

"Nor I!" she whispered, a little guiltily. She would tell him tomorrow.

They sat and talked—for even when their lips were silent their eyes were eloquent; and the subject never altered, though they rang an endless variation on it, until a shadow fell on the path before them, and they looked up and saw Mrs. Burton.

She looked white, ill, and anxious; and Dalesford sprang up with a dash of color in his face, a proud look in his eyes.

Report on Improvements to Water Supply & Waste of Water, Oct. 30th, 1914.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 30th, 1914. The Municipal Board, St. John's, Newfoundland, Mr. W. G. Gosling, Chairman.

Dear Sirs:— I have been instructed by your Board to make a study of the water supply of St. John's, with especial attention to supply lines and distribution system.

This investigation was instituted because of the dangerous shortage of supply and lack of pressure in many parts of the city during cold winter weather and other times of unusual draft, and of the necessity during fires of resorting to the expedient of cutting off the supply from certain parts of the city in order to give adequate quantity and pressure at the fire. The conditions have resulted in many ways, both direct and indirect, in serious inconvenience and expense to the consumers and they constitute a serious menace to the entire city.

The main conclusions resulting from my study of these conditions are first, that a large part of the water flowing through the conduit to the city is wasted; and second, that the pipes, both supply mains and distribution system are entirely inadequate in capacity. In view of these conditions it is physically impossible with the present equipment to provide proper supply and pressure. I have had the opportunity of seeing these conditions at close range and wish to record my opinion that the City Engineer and his staff have done most conscientiously in maintaining the service as well as they have.

Investigation, have been commenced with a view to locating and reducing the waste of water, as possible. The matter of adequate capacity of the supply mains and distribution system has been thoroughly studied and the results thereof are embodied in the report below.

CONSUMPTION OF WATER.

Up to the time when my investigation commenced there had been no measurements made of the quantity of water being delivered to the city. A weir was therefore built in a suitable position in the basin and measurements taken thereon covering a period of about a week. These

From the records of the City Engineer's Office, the number of water services in the city are as follows:

Year.	No. of Services Jan. 1st.	No. of New Services Added.
1906	2,309	86
1907	2,335	145
1908	2,540	199
1909	2,640	129
1910	2,769	131
1911	2,900	130
1912	3,046	146
1913	3,277	173
1914	3,450	100
To Date	3,550

This is an increase of somewhat more than 50 per cent. in the number of services in a decade. There had been no measurements made of the quantity of water being delivered to the city.

With the enormous waste of water that is going on continually it is difficult to predict with confidence, what the consumption will be even a few years in the future. The following points all have an influence thereon. The rate of increase of the total consumption of water probably does not correspond to the rate of increase of the population. The legitimate use of water probably increases in about the same proportion as the increase in the number of services.

If the large waste of water is permitted to continue without decided restriction, it is likely to increase as the distribution system is extended. So little intense study has been given in the past to the problem of the detection and elimination of waste, that it should be comparatively easy to make a fair reduction in the amount thereof. The difficulties of making a large reduction in the amount of measurements gave the rate of flow throughout the twenty-four hours. They indicate that during that period of a week the average rate at which the water was flowing through the basin to the city was 5.3 Million Imperial Gallons per day which represents a per capita of 166 Imperial Gallons per day based on the total population or about 300 Gallons per capita per day based upon the population connected with the distribution system.

This rate is obviously excessive, far and away beyond the requirements of British and other European cities and even greatly in excess of the use in American cities where the quantity of water supplied per capita is generally greater than abroad.

The measurements of the water in the conduit to the city during the week of test was 5.3 Million Imperial Gallons per day. The minimum rate was 4.7 Million Imperial Gallons per day. It is reasonable to suppose that there is very little legitimate use of water between midnight and 5 o'clock in the morning; if the distribution system were tight the flow of water through the conduit to the city should during those hours reduce almost to nothing. The best of systems are never absolutely tight and there may always be a reasonable amount of legitimate use of water even during those hours. The flow during those hours therefore cannot be expected to stop entirely, but should be only a small percentage of the flow during the day-time. From the maximum and minimum rates of flow given above it is seen however that the water flows through the conduit to the city during the dead hours of the night at 30 per cent. or more of the rate at which it flows during the day.

The obvious conclusion from this is that a large quantity of water is being wasted all the time. There are but few manufacturing or commercial establishments that consume any considerable quantities of water regularly at night, and it is therefore probable that the waste is constantly going on, day and night, at a rate somewhat approaching the observed night rate flow.

The population of the city is given by the Colonial Secretary as follows:

1891	25,738
1901	29,594
1911	32,292

From the records of the City Engineer's Office, the number of water services in the city are as follows:

Year.	No. of Services Jan. 1st.	No. of New Services Added.
1906	2,309	86
1907	2,335	145
1908	2,540	199
1909	2,640	129
1910	2,769	131
1911	2,900	130
1912	3,046	146
1913	3,277	173
1914	3,450	100
To Date	3,550

This waste is formidable. While entirely possible, therefore, the assumption of a large figure for this reduction, as a basis for the design of the supply mains and distribution system, is too optimistic when satisfactory service and fully adequate fire protection are the important issues.

A consideration of all these facts and conditions leads me to the conviction that provision should be made at the present time, by an annual average supply of 6.0 Million Imperial Gallons per day.

It is important to emphasize the fact that if a fair reduction in the waste is not made, the term of years through which this amount will give perfect service, may not be long. On the other hand if the measures taken for the restriction of waste are vigorous, and a large reduction is secured, this amount will serve the city well for many years to come.

CAPACITY OF SYSTEM.

The demand for water is not constant at all times. Some months are certain to show a monthly average greater than the yearly average. Some days are certain to show a greater demand than the maximum monthly average. And the rate of demand at certain hours of the day is greater than the average rate for the day.

Taken in a broad way experience shows that the maximum draft of water for a period of a day exceeds the annual average by as much as 50 per cent. Considering the excessive waste of water in St. John's during freezing weather I consider this 50 per cent. margin is none too great to allow. The carrying capacity must be made for the maximum rate. In addition to the margin that must be allowed on the daily rate over the annual average rate, provision must be made for the fluctuations in rate at different hours of the day and night and also the large increase in rate that may be demanded in case of fire.

Adequate protection against any fire in St. John's short of a general conflagration, may be secured with the provision of a rate of 5.0 Million Imperial Gallons per day for that purpose. The maximum rate of draft is therefore much greater than the average rate and even much greater than the maximum daily rate. For St. John's the above basis indicates that the carrying capacity of the system should be about 15.0 Million Imperial Gallons per day. In order to give my falling satisfaction in quantity and pressure the system must be so designed as to be able to deliver water up to this maximum rate.

ARRANGEMENT OF SYSTEM.

The supply mains from the basin to the city, if no service reservoir is provided in or near the city, must have the capacity just mentioned, which is 2.5 times the annual consumption to be provided for. Some of the cost of this excess capacity may be saved with no disadvantage to the service, if a reservoir is used close to the point of drafts, combined with pipe-lines smaller in size than would be required without it.

Such a reservoir would be connected with the main supply lines and the distribution system by means of a pipe of suitable capacity. Its function would be to store water from the main supply when the demand in the city was less than the carrying capacity of the supply mains, and to furnish water to make up the deficiency whenever the demand exceeded the carrying capacity of those mains.

The capacity of a service reservoir should be great enough to provide available storage for the amount by which the maximum hourly rate during the day exceeds the average for the day, plus the large amount that may be required quickly at any time in case of fire.

With this provision made, the main supply lines need only large enough to carry water at the maximum daily rate, which for St. John's, on the basis above, would be 5.0 Million Imperial Gallons per day, or 1.5 times the annual average consumption to be provided for.

St. John's is fortunate in having close at hand a natural reservoir that will serve this purpose well. This is George's Pond which has in the past been used to some extent for water supply. It is admirably located for this purpose. Its drainage area, which is small, is devoid of human habitation and may easily be kept so. It has an area of about 13 acres and a good depth. Its elevation is such as to give good pressure for domestic and fire service along the water front, and for a considerable distance back into the city and hydraulic conditions that fit it in well with the elevation of the main supply at the basin.

The water level in George's Pond in its present condition fluctuates through the seasons. Some leakage through the old embankments that top the ground on the west of the pond is subject to considerable future fluctuation. This however is only at the top. In the use of this pond as a low reservoir it will not be necessary to maintain it at its highest level. The pipe should therefore be put low enough at the point of entrance to permit its satisfactory use as a reservoir when the natural seasonal variations would make the surface several feet below its high water mark. Taking into consideration the capacity of the pond and the requirements in fulfilling its functions as a service reservoir the top of the pipe should be placed 10 feet below high water level.

George's Pond lies at an elevation too low to serve the high part of the city in the neighbourhood of Merry Meeting Road. Under the arrangement here proposed that district will be served directly from the basin through the existing westerly 16 inch main.

The mains throughout the city are to be so arranged that the greater part thereof will be served by the present and the proposed new main by way of Rawlin's Cross and George's Pond and the district required to be served by the present westerly supply main will be reduced considerably from its present area.

These two services will therefore be separate and distinct and under ordinary conditions there will be no open gates connecting the two systems. The hydraulic grade line of the easterly mains will be such as to give pressures on Water Street of 100 lbs. or slightly higher, and somewhat lower but satisfactory pressures in the parts of the city further uphill.

CAPACITY OF SOURCE.

The source of supply of water for St. John's is Windsor Lake. In certain early reports this supply is referred to as "Inexhaustible". It is important for the city of St. John's to recognize the fact that the supply from this source is by no means inexhaustible, but, on the contrary, the limit of the average yield is not greatly in excess of the draft that is now being made thereon.

The water taken from any ordinary lake or impounding reservoir comes primarily from the rainfall and snow. The average annual amount of precipitation upon the area of the watershed therefore gives a definite limit to the quantity of water, which cannot be exceeded and for certain well known reasons cannot even be reached.

The area of the water-shed of Windsor Lake, including that of New Found Pond, which drains into Windsor Lake, is from the best information now available, 2,832 acres. Of this 1,048 is water surface. The rainfall in this neighbourhood averages 46.4 inches per year. If all of this were conserved and used it would amount to a total of 2,970 Million Imperial Gallons or an average daily amount of 8.2 Million Imperial Gallons. As stated above it is not impossible to hold and use all of this. The available yield is greatly influenced by the amount of evaporation which goes on throughout the year. Since taking up this work, I have sought information on this point, but no data can be found which gives a safe guide as to the amount.

Recognizing the inadequacy of these data, it is impossible to predict the yield with reasonable certainty, but in a general way it may be said that if the information as to the water-shed is correct the yield that may be depended upon, year after year, probably will not greatly exceed the amount now being drawn.

I am informed that Round Pond and its drainage area have been or are to be increased by the present sources. The drainage area of Round Pond is 375 acres, of which the pond occupies 84 acres. It immediately adjoins Windsor Lake. The surface of the pond is some four feet, more or less, below the level of Windsor Lake. In order to make use of this drainage area in conjunction with Windsor Lake it is therefore necessary to raise the pond to the level of the lake. No higher elevation than this is either necessary or desirable. The additional drainage area will be valuable but the storage capacity of Windsor Lake is already so great that the will be no advantage whatever in additional storage at any other point.

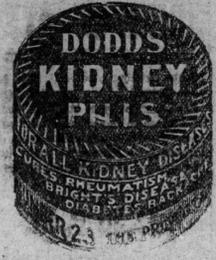

Having regard for the same uncertainty as to the future, it may be said in general terms that the addition of Round Pond will increase the yield by an amount approximately equal to the increase in drainage area, or about 13 per cent. over the yield of the present sources.

FUTURE ADDITIONAL SUPPLY.

In some time to come, the present sources of supply in Windsor Lake and adjacent developed areas, will be insufficient for the growing needs of the city. There are several other lakes and drainage areas near or adjoining that of Windsor Lake. If these are at a high enough level, they may when needed, be diverted into Windsor Lake in order to increase the supply. No information is at hand as to the elevation of these other lakes. In anticipation of future need, the city should secure this information at the present time, by survey if necessary, and should then acquire the right in water and lands of these drainage areas which could be economically used to supplement the present sources.

CAPACITY OF CONDUIT.

The upper part of the conduit leading from Windsor Lake to the basin, is a concrete channel of large dimensions for a supply of this size, with a width of 4 feet and a depth of 6 to 7 feet and a slope of 1 foot per 1,000. The new screen house and gate chamber is located at the lower end of this large upper conduit at a distance of 3,000 feet, more or less, from Windsor Lake. From this structure the water flows through a concrete conduit with a cross sectional area of 7.4 square feet laid with a minimum slope of 2 feet per 1,000. The entire conduit is therefore capable of carrying from Windsor Lake to the basin a quantity of water far in excess of that now being used, or of that which may reasonably be drawn from the present sources. ### Mine Own.

My concertina is a sobs and shakes, for it's in poor repair, and neighbors say the noise it makes would cause a saint to swear. My neighbors come, on protest bent, when I on it perform: "Why don't you buy an instrument that's up to date?" they storm. "Phanos now are in the reach of e'en the poorest man, and you might so and buy a peach on the installment plan. Pipe organs, too, on easy terms, are sold most everywhere; why play a thing that squeaks and squeals, and murders every air?" "Because," I answer, "tis mine own, all paid for, long ago; and though it has a beastly tone, that fills the town with woe, I'd rather hear its music and, that keeps me in a sweat, than own the fairest sweetest Strad, for which I'd gone in debt. I'd rather it should make me sore with discords, every day, than have collectors at the door demanding instant pay. The humble whistle, built of tin, by local plumber made, beats organ, fute or violin for which you haven't paid. My concertina seems a crime to folks like you, and yet, I find that music most sublime which doesn't hint of debt."

Is Your Back Full of Aches All Day Long?

That Stub-like Pain in the Back is Sure Indication of Kidney Trouble. Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia: "For a long time I suffered with falling strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky. I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such measures of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut." No greater medicine exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills for the cure of Indigestion, constipation, flatulence, liver, bladder and kidney trouble. ### Fads and Fashions.

Hudson seal coats are trimmed with fitch. The petticoat with a fringed edge is the thing. The string of pearls is worn as much as ever. Suede is the most fashionable evening glove. Very little trimming is used on evening waists. Military effects are seen even in children's clothes. Young girls are now wearing fringed corsets. There is a hint of the return of the one-button glove. The white waist is more favored than waists of color. Butterflies are a favorite motif in inexpensive jewelry. The new evening gowns are aglow with glittering trimmings. Very dark Roman ribbons are among the most beautiful. The new collars are higher in the back and open in the front. Fine cottons are used as much as ever for children's dresses. Various forms of shoulder capes are seen among the new furs. Plain and plaid serge combined makes excellent school dresses. Fashion continues to favor fine Oriental laces and tinsel laces. The newest ribbons are broadened with a stream of metal. Gowns should be selected to match the color of the boot tops.

Earning Golden Opinions.

It is gratifying to learn that the Newfoundland Regiment is earning golden opinions in England. They are held to be the best disciplined and best drilled battalion outside the Regulars. The War Office is well satisfied with the quality of the men we have sent out, and has offered to furnish their remaining equipment, ammunition wagons, and the like and to provide the commissariat free of cost. They also offered to furnish the complete equipment to provide for and to furnish the pay at the rates of the regular army of any future contingent leaving our own Government to supplement this to bring it up to the scale of the Canadian contingent, at which our own boys on Salisbury Plain are paid. The Newfoundland Government while accepting the offer considered that they should hold themselves responsible for the whole pay. A meeting was held last evening of those members of the House of Assembly who could attend with a view of offering their services to local patriotic committees with a view to the holding of meetings about the war and Newfoundland's connection with it. His Excellency the Governor is lecturing in Harbor Grace and Carboneau. Mr. F. J. Morris held a meeting at Placentia, and Mr. Morine and Mr. Coaker will address a meeting at Catalina on Sunday next, and other meetings will be addressed by other speakers. There is a special call for Naval Reservists, the Admiralty has accepted the offer to bring up the naval reserve to 1,000 men and the men are needed as soon as possible. We have about 450 naval reservists already about and about 200 on the Calypso. As our young fishermen settle up their season's fishery, they are offering their services, and we have no doubt as they grow alive to the need, they will more readily respond, and we shall have the naval reserve brought up and kept to a thousand strong. A fund has been started to supply our soldiers and sailors with tobacco from home, somewhat on the lines of the London Daily Mail scheme. His Excellency the Governor has started the fund with a cheque of fifty dollars. The idea is to send a packet monthly to each man on land and afloat consisting of 1/2 lb. of smoking tobacco, 40 cigarettes and a box of matches, as a reminder of home. The scheme will cost about $500 a month, and we have no doubt this will be gladly raised. Messrs. A. Macpherson, C. O'N. Conroy and F. H. Donnelly have been asked by His Excellency to take charge of the movement and they have already set to work energetically. Mr.

F. H. Donnelly asks that all subscriptions be sent to him addressed to the City Club.

Bazaar Closes.

A FINANCIAL SUCCESS.

The C. L. B. Bazaar was very liberally patronized again yesterday afternoon and night, and as a result the total receipts will be in the vicinity of $4,000. The stall-holders did a brisk business and succeeded in disposing of practically all the goods offered for sale. The dance which was held by the N. C. O's was largely attended the battalion band furnishing the music for the occasion. The bazaar on the whole was a great financial success, particularly in view of the present conditions. The proceeds will go towards the funds of the Brigade Armoury. To the ladies who promoted the sale, and prepared the attractive articles with which the stalls were filled, much congratulation is due on the results achieved. EARL OF DEVON BACK.—The S.S. Earl of Devon, Capt. Carter, returned from the White Bay Service, at 7.50 p.m. yesterday. The ship was as far north as Cape Norman, and reports very stormy weather all along the coast, considerable snow having already fallen at many of the ports. She brought a small freight and several passengers.

ANOTHER MILLION SOLDIERS WANTED.

LONDON, To-day.
 It is reported in Parliamentary circles that the Premier will on Tuesday ask Parliament to sanction the raising of one million additional troops for purposes of the war. It is understood the Government intends to issue a war loan of One Billion Dollars, probably at four per cent, redeemable within 10 years. It is estimated Great Britain is spending thirty-five million dollars weekly on war, and in addition to the war loan the Government may propose to raise a further $250,000,000 by increasing the income tax to half a crown in the pound. This would provide for necessary expenditure till next March, end of Financial year.

ABSENCE OF PARTY SPIRIT.

LONDON, To-day.
 The absence of party spirit was the conspicuous feature at the opening of Parliament. Bonar Law's admirably discreet speech was cheered in several instances by both Ministers and members of his own party. The appeal for more liberty for the press and more generous treatment for soldiers and their dependents were cases in point. Asquith's refusal to enlighten the extremists concerning allies pleased many members of the Opposition and the Times commends his attitude. Arthur Henderson, Labor Leader, upon the continuation of the debate on the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne, said that organized labor felt that the only course now open was to go straight through with the war until complete and final success had crowned the allies' efforts. When the end came he said labor would use its powerful influence towards a settlement on the lines of true nationalism and democracy. William Joyson Hicks, Unionist regretted the widespread anxiety concerning the presence of German spies in this country. The Home Secretary in reply, said the Government must be careful that injustice was not done any person. He said that at any rate his department in this matter was acting under the instructions of the military authority.

 A special from Dunkirk states that a French torpedo boat sank a German submarine off Westende, Belgium. The submarine, it appears was trying to torpedo a French warship, when the latter's commander caught sight of her periscope, put on full speed and charged down on the enemy which disappeared. A large quantity of oil rose to the surface marking the spot where the submarine sank. The torpedo boat sustained only slight damage and returned to port for repairs.

LONDON, To-day.

Lecture on the War.

BY HON. J. A. ROBINSON.

An interesting and instructive lecture entitled "The Cause of the War, and why the Empire is involved" was delivered by the Hon. J. Alex. Robinson at the Salvation Army Citadel last night. The lecturer reminded the audience, who listened with an attentive ear, that the cause of this great conflict is due to the half-crazed anarchist who assassinated the Crown Prince of Austria. This man, said Mr. Robinson, is no less than an Austrian, but because his people are of Serbian descent, Austria demanded recompense from Serbia. An ultimatum which made ten demands was served on Serbia, who complied with nine, but the tenth, they said we cannot comply with, but we are willing to send it to the Hague Tribunal and abide by their decision. Germany had an eye on the Balkan War, and could plainly see by the way their little differences were settled, that was getting her farther away from her purpose, she therefore urged, and almost forced Austria into this war. Russia who is known as the great bear, told Austria to keep her hands off little Serbia or she would compel her to do so. Russia was then drawn into the conflict. France and Russia being allied drew France into the fray. Germany therefore made a declaration of war on Russia and France.

The lecturer then continued, Germany's first object was to give a quick decisive blow to France, but in order to do so she had to send her troops through Belgium territory. Belgium had been the scene of many battles, but in 1870 the nations decided to keep the neutrality of Belgium. Great Britain asked France if she intended to adhere to the neutrality of Belgium, to which she answered, "We will keep the neutrality of Belgium." Germany was also asked but an unsatisfactory reply was given, hence the reason why the British Empire was drawn into the struggle. We are living in peaceful Newfoundland, continued the speaker. Our five hundred sons have rallied to the colors. Our naval reserve have gone to the assistance of Jellicoe. What would happen if the German Navy were bottled up in the North Sea, and we did not have British ships to protect us. Why we would wake up some fine morning and find a German warship off our coast. She would not come in the harbor but would send and demand the surrender of Newfoundland. Failure to do so would mean that our city would be bombarded and the city laid waste. But what would happen if the city surrendered. Our banks would be looted, our money stolen, our men from 17 to 45 would be taken and trained for the army and navy. Our language would be changed and those who use the British language shot. After the lecture Brigadier Morehen proposed and seconded a vote of thanks to the lecturer, and asked the audience to rise and give a hand-clap. The audience responded with enthusiasm after which the band rendered the National Anthem which brought the meeting to a close.

Evening materials most favored are velvets, satins, dull silks and laces. Tassels of metal thread add a pretty touch of richness to the blouse. ## Japan En Fete Over Tsing Tao.

Tokio, Nov. 7.—Tokio is celebrating to-day the fall of the German fortress at Tsing Tao after an actual siege of a few days more than three weeks.

It was in the middle of September that the real attack began, although the preparations for the taking of the German stronghold in Asia were begun immediately after war was declared by Japan on August 15.

Crowds collected everywhere to-day and many processions were formed, the enthusiastic population dragging about with them floats decorated with flowers as a symbol of victory. Japan and British flags are floating everywhere throughout the city.

The final and successful attack on Tsing Tao began shortly after midnight Friday morning, and the first inroad by the Allies' force, which was largely instrumental in the fall of the place, was the taking of the middle fort of the first line of defence.

This was accomplished by a brilliant charge of infantry and engineers led by Gen. Yoshimi Yamada.

Simultaneously, with the charge of Gen. Yamada, others were made, the troops dashing forward with cries of "Banzai." Taitungchen, the fortification on the east, fell at 5.35 in the morning. Chungchiawa was captured soon after, with its two heavy cannons.

A detachment of the first line occupied the Ilits, Bismarck and Moltke forts at seven in the morning and then the enemy hoisted the white flag on the weather astronomical station adjoining the Governor's office. Another white flag was hoisted on the coast forts at the mouth of the Halpo at 7.30 o'clock.

The closing hours of Tsing Tao and the fall of the forts there, are briefly but dramatically described in official reports sent to the Government by Vice-Admiral Sadakichi Kato, the commander of the Japanese naval forces, and Lieut-General Kamio, commander of the troops operating in Kiau Chau.

After the capture of the central fort, it appears from their statements, the left wing of the attacking forces advanced and occupied Chanshan at 5.10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Chanshan was the base of the right wing of the German line, and is a triangular fortification. Then the other forces at the point of the bayonet captured the forts of the first line, including the intricate and dangerous defence works connecting them. Other forces advanced in rushes on the main line of defence made up of the forts of Ilits, Bismarck and Moltke.

"Suddenly," says the report, "the flag of surrender ran up in the morning breeze on the weather bureau mount towering above the land."

In the last two days of the fighting, it is stated, the warships continued a terrific rain of shells on the fortress and the city from the east and south, inflicting great damage and havoc. Taisichen fort, the official accounts say, seemed to explode.

Von Moltke.

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Shwagh"

In 1800 there was born in the corner lot Duchy of Mecklenberg-Schwern a boy baby, who was promptly wrapped up by his admiring parents with the name Helmut Karl Bernhard von Moltke.

Eighteen years later young Von Moltke was a commissioned officer in the army of Mecklenberg-Schwern. But business was poor in the army line in that country. It was too small to lick any one and so small, in fact, that belligerent countries usually over-looked it and hostile armies marching against it were unable to find it and had to fight Denmark as a substitute. So Von Moltke travelled over to Berlin with his sword neatly wrapped up among his other baggage and got a job fighting for the King of Prussia at the age of 22.

Von Moltke was a very good soldier and was sent to Turkey to teach that nation how to fight. Giving it up as a bad job, he came back to Prussia and began to develop the science of making war by means of a map and a pair of compasses. Month after month he stayed in his office figuring out ways and means of serving hot dinners to large armies in the enemy's country and of getting said armies to a given spot several hours ahead of the other fellow. He figured through middle age and until his hair became gray. Then he was made chief of staff and at the age of 64 was asked to go over to Denmark and knock it into a cocked hat.

Denmark had always been a tough little nut for Prussia, but Von Moltke merely drew out a bale of plans and specifications, put on his helmet and started. A few months later Denmark was whipped and in 1866 he was asked to stroll over to the southeast and put a large Gothic head on Austria.

Austria was much more formidable than Denmark, but Von Moltke cleaned up the job before all of the Aus-

Hundreds of persons are complaining every day about the cough or cold they have had for a long time, and they are not able to get rid of it.

Don't let a cough or cold hang on to you day after day and run the chance of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to throw off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining "Phoratone Cough Mixture" at once.

Sold at Stafford's Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and Stafford's Pharmacy, Duckworth Street. Price 25c; post age, 5 cts extra.

trian army had had a chance to get shot at. And in 1870 war was declared against France and Bismarck sent a messenger boy over to Von Moltke asking him to go over to Paris and mess up the Champs Elysees.

Von Moltke hauled out another wheelbarrow load of plans from pigeon-hole No. 6 and started. For a thousand years no one had made this journey successfully, but Von Moltke celebrated his 70th birthday in Versailles and handed Alsace and Lorraine to the king as souvenirs of the trip.

When Von Moltke returned to Berlin he was made a Count, a field marshal, a member of the Prussian upper house for life and was given $225,000 and so many medals that he couldn't have hung them on a bill-board. In return he presented the government with a son who is running the present war.

Von Moltke remained in charge of the army to the age of 88 and died at the age of 90. He wrote many books, but never said more than one or two words at a time. He was a very talented, conversationalist with artillery, however.

Deaf to the Pleasure Call.

By BUTH CAMERON.

It is a sad thing to have ones ears closed to the call of duty. That is an axiom which we realize whether we act upon it or not. But is it not also a sad thing to let ones ears grow deaf to the call of pleasure? There is a time to work and there is a time to run away from work. To fail to recognize either of these times is to miss part of the flavor of life. The other day I begged a neighbor of mine to come out into the woods with me. It was one of those glorious autumn days when the tang of the first frost makes wine of the air; when the roadside was bright with the last of the golden rod; when the woods were a riot of gold and scarlet; when the autumn mist lay soft on the distant hills—a time when it was good to be alive and better to be outdoors. My neighbour heard the call of the wanderlust, no one could help that, but she steeled herself against it, turned the deaf ear of her heart towards it. "Yes, it is beautiful and I'd love to come," she said, "but I planned to put up those peaches to-day."

"Wouldn't they keep till to-morrow?" I pleaded.

"Yes," reluctantly, "but I planned to do them to-day."

And no amount of pleading would make her outrage that god of the careful housewife—a plan.

Do you know what I think—that never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day—is meant for pleasures as well as duties.

Happiness is an effervescent thing. It must be drained at the moment or the draught will go stale and flat. I have sometimes regretted putting off my pleasures as deeply as procrastinating my duties.

Once upon a time when I was a college girl I came home from college to spend the day away from the distractions of dormitory life working on a difficult thesis. I meant to get a great deal done, but before I had been there an hour my big brother came in from the city for one of these rare holidays he allowed himself, fetched his golf clubs and looked about for a comrade, whereupon I laid down the thesis and went.

If you are a sister you may know that when brothers are very much older and very busy, an afternoon of real companionship with them is rare. I suppose I wrote the thesis some time. I've forgotten that, and I don't remember even what it was about, but that afternoon I have never forgotten and never shall.

Neglecting ones duty at the right moment is a fine art. Stolen pleasures, like stolen fruit, are the sweetest. The guilty recollection of work at home adds a savor to the idleness that no primly planned pleasure could possibly have. Besides the unexpected pleasure that we snatch out of the routine is sure to be more satisfactory because it has no long anticipation to measure up to. Or, to be more accurate, our anticipation, being only of a day of routine work, the reality is sure to shine by contrast. Don't let yourself grow deaf to the call of pleasure. I am sure the Power who made such a beautiful world, with so many rich possibilities of pleasure in it, could never be pleased by that.

PIERCE-FIGHTING CONTINUES.

LONDON, Nov. 12. The Governor Newfoundland: Following from Press Bureau: There has been further fierce fighting on our left wing, and Sombartzyde has been re-occupied by us. The enemy re-occupied Dixmude, but failed to debouch on the left bank of the Yser. The British troops were attacked at several points, but checked the enemy everywhere.

To-night's reports say that a violent attack continues on our left wing. The British Army repelled the enemy's attacks, especially an offensive attempted by a body of Prussian Guards.

The Niger, a small torpedo gunboat, was sunk in the Downs by an enemy submarine. There was no loss of life.

ENEMY REPULSED.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—(Official.) To the north we have held on all our positions. The enemy has sought to debouch from Dixmude by a night attack, but were repulsed.

CAPTURED SUSPICIOUS CARGO.

PERPIGNAN, Nov. 12. A French cruiser, steaming off the coast, captured a German steamer, which had on board 150 men, and what was described as a suspicious cargo. The Germans on the steamer are interned here.

VIOLATIONS OF NEUTRALITY WILL NOT BE TOLERATED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. France and Britain have warned Ecuador and Colombia that violations of neutrality by those countries will not be tolerated.

OFFICIALLY PRESUMED.

LONDON, Nov. 12. The Admiralty to-day announced that, in the absence of further information, the loss of the Good Hope and Mommouth in the recent naval engagement off the coast of Chile, is now officially presumed. A list of the officers and men, serving in these vessels at the time they encountered the German ships, will be published shortly.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

BERLIN, Nov. 12. The German general headquarters has issued the following: The enemy advanced from Neuport as far as Lombartzyde, but were across the Yser. Our attack across the Yser canal, south of Dixmude, is progressing. In the region east of Ypres, we have advanced further, and captured 700 French soldiers, 4 cannons and 4 machine guns.

RUSSIANS ADVANCING.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 12. The Russian general staff has issued the following: In East Prussia on Nov. 11th, an action developed in front of Stalluponen and in the region of Soldau. Our troops have occupied Johannsburg, 70 miles south-west of Gumbinnen.

Beyond the Vistula, battles of secondary importance occurred in the region of Kallisz in Russian Poland, and Wischava, where the advance guard of the enemy sought to progress.

In the Carpathians, the Austrian rearwards maintained at Crossino on the Upper San, were attacked by our troops.

The siege of Przemysl, which was suspended during the period in which the Austro-German armies were on the offensive have been re-established.

LORD ROBERTS GOING TO FRANCE.

LONDON, Nov. 13. Field Marshal Lord Roberts is going to France. The official announcement in making this public says: The famous General is going into the war scene to see the Indian troops.

THE SITUATION AS VIEWED IN LONDON.

LONDON, Nov. 13. The critical stage of the battle in West Flanders has now been reached, and the next few days, if not hours, should produce something more decisive than has yet occurred. The Germans continue their attack with all the forces at their command on the British and French, who hold the line between Dixmude and Ypres, but with the exception of the capture of Dixmude, which occurred Tuesday, and some little progress around Ypres, they have not been able to make any material progress. The French official report issued yesterday afternoon, says that all attacks had been repulsed. The Germans are no longer utilizing green troops in this region, but have brought up the pick of their Army, including some Prussian Guards, who attempted an offensive movement against the British but without success. Both sides express satisfaction with the progress of the battle. Berlin says the attacks of the Allies have been repulsed, and that their own attack is making headway, while in London and Paris it is felt that so long as the Allies can hold the line of the canal from Neuport to Ypres, their position is a strong one. From northwest to south there have been engagements of lesser importance, which, according to French reports, General Joffre's armies have succeeded in gaining ground and strengthening their positions. The Germans continue destroying bridges and railways in Belgium, but with what object remains secret. It is thought, however, that they are making preparations to winter in that country, and they are taking every step to prevent their plans from becoming known to their enemies. The Russian Army, under General Rennenkampf, is fighting its way into East Prussia, and has taken Johannsburg, which is on the railway from Lyck to Saldau, both of which towns are already in Russian hands. This gives Russia control of an important railway line, which skirts the frontier of German territory and several branch railroads running into the interior. The central army which drove the Germans back from the Vistula, has had only one important engagement, but it is known to be pushing forward to the borders of Posen and Silesia, which the Germans are crossing. The Russian left wing follows the Kielce railway on the Austrian front, within a few miles of Cracow, the siege of which is imminent. The southern army under General Ruzky, is at Pzeszow, between Przemysl and Cracow. Its crossing of the San River is being opposed by Austrians. Another detachment continues the siege of Przemysl, whilst still another is operating against the Austrians, who are holding the passage of the Carpathians. The army of Armenia whose base is on the Kara trans Caucasus mountains is approaching the Turkish fortress of Serzerum. The manner in which Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian Commander-in-Chief is wielding these armies and the mobility they are showing are subject of admiration on the part of military men here. There is a steady flow of recruits for Kitchener's army, and it is expected that with the territorials who number 600,000, England before long will have an army of two million men. New armies are also being organized in India.

Sulphate of Ammonia.

St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure. Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer measure to use during a wet season. Yours truly, D. JAMES DAVIES, B.Sc., F.C.S. Analyst and Assayer.

Letter From Volunteer Stout Seamen and Soldiers.

Private G. Claridge, of the 1st Nfld. Regiment, writing from Salisbury Plain to Mr. W. Bugden, of Knowling's East End store, gives an interesting account of his impressions of military life. Having suffered considerably from seasickness on the trip, he rejoiced to be settled comfortably on the Plains. The letter was written in the canteen, which he said was filled with tables, at which were seated Canadian soldiers both cavalry and infantry, and Newfoundlanders all writing letters to their friends.

He refers to the kindness of the people of Devonport who gave them fruit, papers and other things as they passed by on their march through the town. At the different stations through which they passed on their way to Salisbury Plain, they were greeted with cheers and were again given fruit, cigarettes and candy. The idea of marching at the dead of night seemed strange to the lads at first.

Private Claridge says that our boys are as good at drill as any of the Canadians. At the time of writing they were quartered about five miles from the main Canadian contingent, but on a hill opposite them were a thousand cavalry men, and behind a small wood on the right about two thousand infantry. He expects to get leave to visit his home in Essex for a few days. He says that the Nfld. boys are now in good trim and hope to soon go to the front. He concludes his letter by sending regards to his friends in the city including those with whom he worked at Knowling's before enlisting with the regiment.

The "Octoroon."

FAMOUS OLD DRAMA AT NICKEL
THEATRE TO-DAY.

The popular old dramatic story "The Octoroon" is the main feature at the Nickel Theatre to-day. It is one of the best known dramas ever written and has been played in nearly every theatre in the English speaking world. When first produced it made a wonderful hit, and has been looked upon with great favor ever since. This is the first time St. John's folk have had the opportunity of seeing it at the 'movie,' and we feel certain it will prove attractive. The other two-reel film is "Lord Algy," which is a comedy drama an excellently staged play. Arthur V. Johnson, the matinee idol and Lottie Briscoe are seen to advantage. There are three other big subjects entitled "A Welded Friendship," "Hatching Chickens" and "Robby Builds a Boat." Arthur C. Huskins sang "The Old Plaid Shawl" last night and was given a wonderful reception. It is an attractive song and was well rendered. Don't forget to send the children to the big matinee to-morrow. Monday night there is another great Vitagraph special "The Girl From Prosperity," featuring pretty Anita Stewart. Shop hands not arriving until 9.30 will see a complete show.

W.C.T.U. Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held yesterday afternoon in the Girls' Department of the Seamen's Institute. In the absence of Mrs. Benedict, the 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Inkpen, conducted the meeting, which was largely attended. Mrs. J. Pippy opened the session with the usual devotional half hour, after which committees were appointed to deal with the Poor Asylum and Rescue Home. Arrangements were made for the observance of next Sunday as Penitentiary Sunday. Owing to the present conditions caused by the formation of Patriotic and other associations in the outports, it was decided to postpone the organization of branches of the Union outside the city until conditions become normal. The meeting adjourned at 5 p.m.

Kelly and Mack.

Mr. Jack Rossley has just received a cable from Kelly and Mack, stating they hope to arrive in St. John's during next week some time. Those two performers will give great satisfaction. They are singers, dancers, musicians, burlesque and pantomime artists; also good all round comedians. They come with a great budget of all the latest songs, jokes and comedies.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Berdie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Fell Overboard.

While trying to board a schooner at G. Neal's wharf last night, a Naval Reservist made a mis-step and went overboard. The watchman of the premises with the aid of a rope rescued the Reservist, who was later taken to the police station where he was sheltered for the night and given dry clothing.

That spirit is as alive and active amongst the smaller Colonies as it is in the great Dominions. "It is a long, long way to Australia," and a still longer way to New Zealand, and we know not when the fine contingents they are sending us will reach these islands. But Newfoundland is comparatively close at hand, and we may soon hope to see the men whom the "senior colony" has promised us for the common cause. The Newfoundlanders have pledged themselves to supply 500 men for service at the front, to keep 500 more under arms for home defence, and to increase their Naval Reserve from 600 to 1,000. That is a fine achievement for a little State with some 240,000 inhabitants. The people of Newfoundland are of a fine stock, hardened by the hardships of life in a stern climate and in stormy seas. We do not doubt that in all that goes to make stout seamen and soldiers they will proudly hold their own with the best of their fellow subjects from the Mother Country and the Dominions. They prospered greatly during the Great War, and we trust that they may not suffer during the greater war now upon us. Their arrival will be one more sign to friends and foes that all the free self-governing peoples under the flag, great and small, are alike resolved to do their full duty to their King, to each other, and to themselves.—The Times, Oct. 30.

A WAR SONG.
There's a mangled corpse by the moaning spring
As the water is fouled and red,
While, with grim beaks whetted and lazy wing,
Come the birds to a crop of dead;
And the weakest die by the grating score
With the thirst and hunger that plagues them sore.
But the slaving, howling beast of war,
He is given his drink and fed.

There's a bugle blare on the shining hills,
And the music is sweet and wild;
But the guns roar answer and death's tread kills
Where his feet are with blood drenched,
There's his glory's word, and a yell keen-nigh;
But the best's soon over, and by and by
In the dark is a woman's piercing cry
And the sob of an orphaned child.

There's a hearth bare-white to the smoking dawn—
Like a stone where the grave roads wind;
And the camp-fires cheery are strangely gone
From the field where the sheaves none bind.
O, it's black and chill when the morn'—breaks gray
Where the ghosts fit dimly, seeking they
For the things war ruined to burn a way
For the ashes that rain behind.

Obituary.

MR. JAS. J. BARRON.
We record with sincere regret to-day the demise of Mr. Jas. J. Barron, which sad event occurred at his residence Bannerman Street, this morning. Mr. Barron, who for a while was treated at the General Hospital, died as the result of a six months' illness which he bore with Christian patience and resignation. The deceased—who was a general favorite not only in the city but in many parts of the island, was a machinist of ability. Serving his apprenticeship with the late M. F. Smyth, he later conducted a business of his own on Water Street; afterwards represented the National Cash Register Co., of Toledo, Ohio and for several years was supervisor of the mechanical Department of the Royal Stores. Socially Mr. Barron was popular and will be mourned by many friends. A mother, widow and three children survive him and to them the Telegram extends its sympathy.

Obituary.

GEORGE GAMBERG.
We regret to note the almost sudden demise of Mr. George Gamberg, which sad event occurred at the General Hospital last night. He was in apparently good health up to less than a week ago, when he was taken ill, and on the advice of his physician went to hospital to be treated for a serious internal ailment. Yesterday afternoon he was operated on and following the operation passed away. Deceased was 52 years of age and one of the leading mechanics in the community. He was a painter by trade and an artist in his profession. His sign painting particularly was always the subject of admiration and some of his work will be a lasting monument to his memory. Probably his best effort was his artistic decorating of the windows in the R. C. Cathedral. Deceased was known to be a most inoffensive citizen and of a very gentle disposition. A widow, three sons and two daughters survive whom together with other relatives and friends much sympathy will be extended and in which the Telegram joins.

At the Crescent.

To-day the Crescent Picture Palace presents "The Winner" a great two-reel drama produced by the Victor Photo Play Company. This feature deals principally with horse men and sports generally, and shows horse racing in all its phases; also the crooked methods of book-makers and others who fleece the lambs. The frontier picture makers are responsible for "Maya just an Indian." This Indian drama relates the story of a gold seeker and an Indian Maid with a noble character. Hy. Meyers, the world-famous cartoonist, gives us some funny animated cartoons which he calls "Pen Laughs." "The Statue" is a clever comedy produced by I.M.P. Company. The sculptor hires a couple of wet souls to represent the masterpiece he is just after selling. Mr. Walsh sings "A Long Way to Tipperary." Mr. Walsh has the honor of being the first to introduce Tipperary on this side the water, and has been most successful wherever he has sung it. It's Mr. Walsh's favorite song. Mr. McDonald sings Irving Berlin's great ballad, "When I Lost You."

MRS. JAS. VAVASSEUR.

Yesterday morning, at the residence of her son-in-law, James J. Whelan, 217 Theatre Hill, there passed to her eternal reward Letitia, relict of the late James Vavasseur, of St. Lawrence. Deceased who was in her 66th year has been ailing for many months past, but not until quite recently did she begin to realize that her end was drawing near. Fortified with the rites of the Holy Catholic Church, and comforted in her last moments by the loving care of her daughters and friends, she peacefully breathed her last. Her happy death was an example of the true Christian life, led by her, and although suffering as she did the last few days of her life, she bore them patiently, and when told the end was near she said, "God's Holy Will be done." The funeral took place this morning to the railway station, and the remains are being forwarded on to St. Lawrence for interment as was her express wish to be laid in her family plot, there to await the last resurrection call. The remains are being accompanied by James J. Whelan as far as Placentia and will be met there by her son who will then take them in charge.—Com.

Mother Is Child's Stomach Sour, Sick?

If tongue is coated or if cross, feverish, constipated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

The boiling over of a pot of pitch in the yard of Mr. John Conker, on William Street, yesterday afternoon, worried some person—a great deal, as a fire alarm was sent in at the nearest box. The Central and East End Companies responded but their services were not needed.

No sensible man wants a Watch that is not reliable, it may cost him dearly. Any man who wants a Watch that is reliable, let him go to TRAP-NELL'S, where only reliable Watches are kept and sold at reasonable prices.—oct22.1f

Earlshall Puts Back.

With a hole punched in her bow, just above the water line, the boat, Earlshall returned to port yesterday afternoon about an hour after she had sailed for Pernambuco with a cargo of codfish from Job Bros. and Co.

While hoisting the anchor to the cat-head, something slipped and one of the flukes struck the side heavily, making a hole just above the water-line, which was not discovered until the vessel got outside the Heads and plunged into the sea. As she pitched, the water pouring into the fore peak at every dip she made.

When the Captain was informed of the trouble he immediately put back to port and anchored in the stream. She will resume the voyage as soon as the necessary repairs are made.

DIPHTHERIA CURE.

A nine-year-old girl, suffering from diphtheria, was conveyed to the fever hospital yesterday afternoon from LeMarchant Road.

England and Airship Raids.

Some Facts About the Zeppelins—Their Weakness.

A correspondent of the Times in an article on Zeppelin raids says that the troops in the field laugh at airships, knowing that the damage they can do is not worth considering, compared with rifle and gun fire.

The German stories about "75 Zeppelins to invade London" are very wide of the possible truth.

It is quite likely that besides Zeppelins other types will be employed. The Zeppelin airship is a thing apart. Its long, rigid body makes it impossible to transport by road and inflate at a base near our coast. Hence it must either make the full journey from, say, Cologne (Dusseldorf being broken up for the time being), or it must camp out in the open in daylight somewhere in Belgium, where it will be at the mercy of any of our aeroplanes which happen along. Also temporary sheds in Belgium are handy targets. Camping out is not a job that the skipper of a Zeppelin appreciates, for in the event of the wind rising to even half a gale it is practically impossible to prevent the machine from being destroyed. Therefore, if Zeppelins are to be used, they must make the journey at one trip or take very big risks.

"Further, in really heavy weather a Zeppelin is absolutely unmanageable anywhere near the ground, where it is likely to encounter severe gusts, or up-and-down currents, as was proved by the destruction of Germany's best naval Zeppelin in the North Sea not very long ago, and by the destruction of another in the Teutoburger Wald last year. Therefore any raid is only likely to be made during a spell of really calm weather. And there is always a sporting chance that though the weather may be beautiful along the Rhine valley it may be blowing a gale over the Channel.

"However, given calm weather, a Zeppelin or two may come over to make itself distinctly unpleasant, for a matter of two or three tons of explosives deposited over London would make quite a noise and do considerable architectural damage, but the deleterious effect on the national morale would be slight, and, as Mr. Runciman said, it would stimulate recruiting, and the actual financial damage could not be of any importance."

A Zeppelin, the correspondent goes on to say, cannot be built in pieces and put together in a hurry, "but by accelerating construction, as one can accelerate the construction of a warship, it may be possible to build one in perhaps four months from start to finish."

When the war broke out Germany can scarcely have had more than a dozen Zeppelins; it seems likely that at least three have been destroyed since, so that she cannot have more than nine or ten actually available now. There are, the correspondent believes, two or three others approaching completion. So "there may be a dozen in fit use in another six weeks or two months."

"Some of the airships, as, for example, those at Posen or Graudenz, are not likely to be spared from the Russian war area.

Besides the number of Zeppelins the Germans have a number of Parseval non-rigid airships. In addition, she has a Schutte-Lanz or two-rigid ships, but inefficient compared with the Zeppelins.

"In a few months Germany may be able to spare a whole dozen Zeppelins for our benefit alone, and perhaps another dozen Parsevals, but one may rest assured that our high angle guns and fast aeroplanes will increase in proportion much more rapidly. Therefore the longer the delay the bigger the smash up of the German aerial Armada."

How Long Will the War Last!
The whole world is asking this question. Lord Kitchener intimates it may last three years. Kaiser Bill told his soldiers they would be back in Germany before the leaves begin to fall. His prophecy seems more than likely to come true.

The Eyesight Specialist
Examines the eyes without DRUGS, DROPS or DANGER.
He not only finds the trouble, but with his perfect optical machinery he can grind the correct lenses to suit the most complicated cases, and do it quickly.
There was a time when all compound lenses had to be sent out of the country for, involving a delay of three or four weeks, but that day has passed; an hour or two is sufficient to produce any lens that may be called for.
Prescriptions filled or broken lenses replaced if you have the pieces.
