NEW YORK, Sept. 17. Associated Press.)—The exact cause of the explosion, which in the twinkling of an aye yesterday at noon, transferred Wall Street, near Broad from a scene of bustling activity to one of dreadful carnage, remains to-night a mystery.

Official opinion as expressed by William J. Flynn, Chief of the Bureau of Investigations of the United States Department of Justice, and Fire Commissioner Thomas Brennan, is that the disaster was caused by a T. N. PRINCE REACHES TRINIDAD.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Sept. 17 .- The cruiser Renown, with the Prince of Wales on board, arrived here to-day and anchored among the gaily decorated shipping in the harbour. The Renown was escorted from Colon by the cruiser Calcutta, and was joined at Pecas Beltero by and was joined at recase Bettero by the cruiser Calioph. A tremendous ovation was given the Prince and his suite upon their landing. They were met by the Governor, officials and residents with a guard of honor composed of the Royal Sussex Regi-ment stationed here, marines from Calcutta, local constabulary, and a group of men who fought in the Great War. Addresses of welcome were made on behalf of the Government and the Municipal authorities, to which the Prince replied. An illuminated address presented by the Municipal authorities was the work of a French Nun of the local Convent, and was enclosed in a casket made by returned soldiers of the Island's woods. Amidst dense enthusiastic crowds the Prince drove through the principal streets

Characters to Order.

WEED OUT, YOUR BAD HABITS AND GIVE THE GOOD ONES MORE ROOM TO GROW.

Building a character is like making garden. The first thing we have to do s to set to work and pull out the

Everyone who has an allotment nows what this weeding business means. We never seem to get rid of them. We tear up, and dig up, and hoe out continuously, and in the dark, while we sleep, up spring new weeds, strong, lasting, poisonous, and flowerdestroying.

We must get rid of our characterreeds. What are the worst of them? Resentment is a big weed, extending not only to people but circumstances. Resentment cramps our energies and fills us with a bitter impatience. We must out with it, and plant tolerance and understanding in its place.

Attractive Bad Habits.

Indecision, this is a rather attracrive-looking weed; but it leads to a life of idleness and want of purpose. Fear, that is the most noxious of all our weeds. It leads straight to utter failure. It blossoms into the ugly flowers of meanness and cowardice and greed and crime. We fear poverty, and we become parsimonious. We fear ill-health, and we lose the health and energy we already possess. We fear everything, yet a great man once said: "There is nothing to fear but fear." It is quite certain that, if we bravely face our terrors, they often fade hefore our eyes. There are plenty of other weeds, such as anger and worry, and selfpairs. The schooner Barbara Barr, such as anger and worry, and self-John Snelgrove Master, is still on pity and envy; but we all know dock, and it is expected it will take them. It is the constant pulling up about three weeks more before the of them that will sweeten the garden that surrounds the building of our character.

I suppose we all have different ideas of what a great character means. Some of us think it means fame, or personality, or world-greatness in some form or another. To me it means the power of transforming the little ommon events of daily life.

What is Character?

It does not matter a twopenny-piece o me whether a man is a successful politician or a world-wide artist. All I want to know is, how does he treat his wife and his clerks, or his employer? Is he mean or generous? Can I trust him? Is he courteous? When he dies shall we say, "He was very successful, and he left half a million," or shall we say instinctively. "What a shall we say instinctively, "What a good chap he was!"

This may not be your idea of character, but it is mine. It is a character that will give a man Love to start another life with, if there is another life to start, and few of us really think in our heart of hearts that we shall just snuff out like a candle.

God is Love—that is the basic truth of all religions. Have we lived Love and gained Love-in other words, have we become God-like? If not, we cave merely erected an ugly, useless building. We shall probably have to pull it down somewhere else.

I believe one of the greatest aids to living is to live in the present. Drop the past with all its failures and silly mistakes. They were just part of the growing of your garden, when you did not recognise the weeds.

"It's as Easy to be Great as Small." Don't bother too much about the fu ure, remember when to-morrow comes it will still be "to-day." Live as well and cleanly and lovingly as possible to-day. We have been taught too much about that Heaven-to-be-let us try and make our own Heaven here and now. "The Kingdom of Heaven is within you." said the greatest of all into our kingship of Harmony. The future is not yet ours: the pro sent is. We must go on with our building now, for at this very hour we are making and building our own and our loved ones' to-morrows.

It is not easy to build a fine character. Was it not Emerson who said. "It is as easy to be great as small"? It may have been to him. He was probably born great, and had made his Thursday. character somewhere else. To-morrow again in all the Anglican Churches of the city special preachers will bring before the people the great question of the supply and the great question of the supply and training of the Clergy. The Bishop's appeal, together with a collection envelope, has been sent to all church members, and at the various services during the day the collection will be taken up for the

The objective set before the Church of England people of St. John's on Sunday is a big one, viz., $20,000, but there is no doubt of the urgency of need. Today, twenty million men never think of stropping or honing, because they find, with the keener edges of the Gillette Blade, the necessity has vanished.

It is evolution—the survival of the fittest. Away with all unnecessary parts, strops, hones, etc. They are becoming as obsolete as the starting crank on an automobile.

Went!-During the Course of a Fer

The man who is thankful if he can save a few thousand pounds as the fruits of a long life of hard work and thrift, may well gasp when he learns that there are men across the Atlantic who have thought nothing of adding £100,000 or more to their pile between breakfast and luncheon. "Fairly-tales!" you may say. Not a bit of it. It is a sober statement of

It is not long since we were read ing of the luck of Mr. Theodore Price who made £100,000 in five minutes by the clock, during a panic on the New York Stock Exchange. Later in the day he doubled this amount, and sat down to his well-earned dinner richer by £10,000 a year than when he ate his breakfast-eggs that morn-

During a recent boom on the New York Stock Exchange, caused by the utterly unexpected dividends declared by the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railways, many men made fortunes ranging from £100,000 to £500,000 in a few hours' operations.

Mr. Harriman is said to have made £400,000 in a few minutes; while Messrs. John W. Gates, William Rockefeller, H. H. Rogers, James Stillman, and half a dozen others cleared sums ranging up to £500,000. Mr. Abraham White, a well-known broker, as the result of a few hours' gambling, was able to make a birthday present to his wife of the gorgeous country-house near Long Beach, on the Atlantic seaboard, which its late owner, Mr. M'Call, had spent £150,000 in beautifying; while among the smaller fry an Irishman named Muldoon, a porter in the Harriman offices, cleared what was to him the stupendous fortune of £10,

And even these colossal gains have been eclipsed many a time-by the late Jay Gould, when he once made £800,000 (four million dollars) by five minutes' wild speculations in Wall Street; and by "Commodore" Vanderbilt when he netted a round million pounds by one deal in Har-

Few, if any, speculators even in America have had such an amazing career of luck as Mr. James R. Keens known to fame as "King of the Bears." In 1899 he cleared £300,000 by a big operation in Brooklyn Rapid sum before the day closed. On the Cotton Exchange, too, equally stupendous fortunes are made, as when Mr. Joseph Hoadley, a few years a few minutes, and quadrupled this

Some years ago Mr. Joseph Leiter, in a disastrous attempt to corner wheat, lost £320,000 in an hour, when the inevitable crash came; and he was glad to escape with a total loss of two million pounds. Messrs. Lyon & Co. once lost £2,000,000 in a sixmonths' attempt to control the wheat market; and Mr. Mackay, the "Silver King," and his partner, Mr. Flood, emerged from a similar adventure £5.000.000 the poorer.

More fortunate was Mr. James A Patten when he made a corner in maize a few years ago; for, in one frenzied day of panic, when the "shorts" were making frantic efforts to buy maize to meet their sales, he cleared £400,000 between breakfast and luncheon.-Answers.

Dining off Golf Balls.

"I cannot understand what there is in the state of an ordinary golf ball that proves such an irresistible temptation to children," said a manufacturer to an interviewer the other day. "There is nothing particularly appetizing either in the taste of gutta-percha or rubber; it strikes me as being rather sickly, and yet the fact remains that children invariably do bite them."

The query was raised by the report of the death of a twelve-year-old Blackburn schoolgirl from poisoning due to biting off the top of a golf
