B.I.S. Grand Drawing.

The B.I.S. Grand Drawing will take place without fail the last week in October. It is felt advisable to postpone it to this date because of the difficulty in collecting in the stubs. Those holding stubs are advised to hand them in immediately to the Secretary in order that everything might be in readiness for the Drawing. It is suggested to those of the public who have not as yet invested, to procure their tickets immediately as there is only a limited supply on hand.

DELCO-LIGHT

Specified and used by the U.S. Army and Navy
the Red Cross and the Y.M.C.A.

More than four thousand Delco-Light plants were delivered for war work. They were used to supply electric light in camps, storerooms, hospitals, Y. M. C. A. huts, airplane hangars, sub-chasers and other branches of the service.

In Red Cross hospitals at the front, Delco-Light operated life-saving X-ray apparatus.

Delco-Light was specified by the Government because it is dependable, efficient, simple to operate, requires little attention, and because it is AIR-COOLED.

The result of Government tests and the satisfactory use of Delco-Light on over 60,000 farms are your assurance that Delco-Light will give you the same dependable service.

It better living conditions—increases farm efficiency, and soon pays for itself in time and labor saved.

Christians Perishing on Smyrna Seashore.

Britain to Put 100,000 Men in Disturbed Areas -- Turks Capture Greek Guns and Ammunition -- All British Available Forces Being Concentrated For Instant Action.

TRKISH CRUELTY.

MYTILENE, Sept. 20. (M.T.L.E.N.E. OF THE ASIA MINOR) Sept. 20.—The British, French and Italian Consuls have telegraphed the Allied Commissioners in Constantinople the following:—"About two hundred thousand Christians still lying on the seashore at Smyrna awaiting help. The Turkish proclamation for war prisoners from seventeen to twenty-five means deliberately exposing Christians to death from hunger and massacre, as all identification papers have been burned. Unless pressure is immediately applied, nobody will survive. Please act promptly before too late."

A Constantinople despatch on Tuesday said permission to send vessels to Smyrna to take off Christian refugees had been granted by Mustafa Kemal Pasha to the Allied Powers, United States and the Greeks but that sales between fifteen and forty-five were expected, and it was presumed the Nationalists intended to use them for military purposes. A Smyrna despatch yesterday declared that Kemal had declined the request of the Allies to permit Greek ships to remove refugees, pending his submission of the matter to Ankara.

NO WAR.

PARIS, Sept. 21. There is a definite assurance that there will be no war and the calling of the Peace Conference for a settlement of the Turkish problem were the chief results of an Allied meeting here on Wednesday afternoon. Eight interested nations, including the Ankara Government will gather around the Peace table within three weeks, probably at Rome or Venice. These include Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Turkey, Greece, Rumania and Yugoslavia.

BRITISH IN STRENGTH.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20. All the British barracks here are evacuated and the troops are marching in streets headed for strategic points on the Straits. General headquarters issued an official order, directing the wives and families of British soldiers to prepare to embark tomorrow. Transports with reinforcements and supplies are already massed at the edge of neutral lines at Ismit and Chanak, and skirmishes are reported between advance patrols and British outposts near Chanak. General peile of the French Foreign Commission is in conference at Smyrna with Mustafa Kemal on the Turkish problem and the prolongation of their negotiations gives rise to a hope that the Turkish advance on the neutral zone will be delayed long enough to allow Britain to place reinforcements. It is understood that the French will police Constantinople and the Bosphorus, while the British defend the menaced areas.

BIG CAPTURE BY TURKS.

PARIS, Sept. 21. The Turks, in their campaign against Greeks, have captured a thousand field guns, five thousand machine guns and enough ammunition for two years campaign, according to French official advices from Kemal's headquarters.

MAY BOMBARD CHANAK.

LONDON, Sept. 21. British headquarters at Chanak have advised Christian, Moslem and Jewish civilians to evacuate the city, as it is likely to be shelled if the Kemalists attempt to enter, according to despatches from the Times Dardanelles correspondent.

THE BILL THAT FAILED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. The Soldiers Bonus Bill failed today, Wednesday, the Senate vote falling short of the necessary two-thirds majority. The vote was forty-four against twenty-eight, and came within a few hours after the House had passed the measure over the President's veto.

ROBERTS FOUND GUILTY.

YARMOUTH, Sept. 21. Omar Roberts was this afternoon found guilty of the murder of Flora Gray, his nineteen-year-old housekeeper, at North Kempton on August 28, and will be sentenced on Friday.

PREPAREDNESS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 21. The British are mobilising every available warehouse, man, horse, auto, cannon and rifle within reach of the troubled zone, and are preparing to meet a tremendous blow by land, sea and air if provoked by the Kemalists army, which, according to latest reports, is concentrating around Ismit and Chanak. Hamil Bey, Turkish representative here, told the Associated Press he was certain the Turkish army would declare war on the British if the latter attempted to interfere with the movements of Turkish troops across the Straits to Thrace.

SITUATION CLEARING.

OTTAWA, Sept. 21. The Near East situation is clearing, according to late cable despatches received by the Canadian Government from British authorities and from representatives at Geneva, according to the Prime Minister, after the close of a meeting on Wednesday evening. The messages from Britain were secret, and the text was not divulged.

Household Notes.

Save all the rubbish that accumulates during cooking—tea leaves, apple and potato parings, cabbage leaves, etc.—and wrap it up in a thick piece of damp newspaper, rolling it very tightly. Then put it on the fire with a little fine coal behind. This will burn brightly a long time.

A delicious relish is made with tomatoes and grapes. To 10 pounds sliced tomatoes add 1 pound seeded grapes, 4 pounds brown sugar, 1 quart vinegar, 1 tablespoonful pepper, 2 of cinnamon, 1 of cloves and a dash of mace and cayenne. The tomatoes should be cooked alone the last fifteen minutes.

Sour cream cookies are delicious for afternoon tea. Sift together two cups flour, three-eighths teaspoon soda, and one and a half teaspoons baking powder and a fourth teaspoon salt. To a well beaten egg add one cup sugar and three-fourths cup of thick sour cream. Then add the dry ingredients, and drop by spoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven.

THE LITTLE RIVER COAL MINING COMPANY, Ltd.

HEAD OFFICE - ST. GEORGE'S.
Incorporated under the Companies' Act.
Authorized Capital : $5,000,000.
Divided into 500,000 Shares at $10.00.

DIRECTORS:
S. H. BUTT, President and General Manager.
WILLIAM BRUCE, Vice-President, New Waterford, N.S.
EMANUEL PIKE, Port-aux-Basques.
SARAH BRUCE, Port-aux-Basques.
WALLACE McDONALD, Sydney.
S. BRUCE, Secretary-Treasurer, New Waterford, N.S.

The Little River Coal Mining Company, Ltd., has been formed for the purpose of developing the coal already known to exist at Little River. The Company have on the grounds at the present moment one of the leading experts of Great Britain, who is now engaged in boring on the outcropping in the endeavour to locate the main body of the ore.

"There is ample evidence of the existence of a large area of true coal, covering an area of ten (10) square miles and wherein several seams have been found outcropping. The deeper boring is to prove the continuity of these seams, which is a reasonable thing to do."—Signed, Robert Robinson, M.E., Sydney Mines.

The Little River Coal Mining Co. have decided to develop this property. They are determined that the investors shall have a square deal. They will not sell their rights to any individual, firm, company or corporation, no matter how flattering the offers they receive. Their intention is to develop the property and to place the coal on the market.

Are you a well-informed Newfoundlander? Then you know the extent of the Little River, Bay St. George and Central Coal Fields. You know that Newfoundland imports FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND TONS OF COAL ANNUALLY. Have you ever asked yourself why our coal fields LIE IDLE? Ask yourself the question now.

Are you a patriotic Newfoundlander? Have you FAITH in YOUR COUNTRY? Do you believe in our coal fields? Do you wish to see Newfoundland coal placed on the Newfoundland market? If you ARE and HAVE and DO, then it will pay you to inform yourself about the Little River Coal Company's properties. It will pay you to learn that from our shipping point we can place coal on the wharves in St. John's in less than FORTY HOURS.

In Bay St. George, a few miles from our coal properties, are great deposits of Hematite and Titanic ores. Have you vision to see the industrial future that awaits the West Coast? Have you love of country enough to help us bring that future nearer?

Food for thought—

YOUR thoughts are largely the result of what you eat. Grape-Nuts, the wholesome, healthful cereal made from wheat and malted barley, is a perfect food for constructive thinking. The delicate, nut-like flavor, and the natural sweetness developed from the grains in the 20-hour baking process, are a joy to the taste.

Rich in the elements required to build and maintain sturdy strength and robust health, Grape-Nuts with cream or milk is a complete food for body and nerves—a delicious breakfast, luncheon or supper.

Whistling Workers.
Happy is he who whistles at his work; happy she who sings at her task. There is the philosophy of contentment the spirit of happiness.

I've been listening lately for these kinds of whistlers and singers and have found or rather heard, more than a few as I'm pencilling these words near a hotel kitchen. I can hear the cook humming a cheerful tune, keeping a court of time unconsciously to the clatter of the dishes, a singing worker in a hot kitchen, watching a roast and a steam pudding at the same time.

Yesterday, our garbage man did his all important work of sanitation and health to a lively whistle tune, while I had grousched because it was the morning to carry the furnace ashes up the cellar steps to the alley-way.

The newsboy at the corner can scarcely turn off his sharp-keyed whistle to cry his wares, he's so full of the joy of life and the fun of living, and selling papers.

Our faithful maid sings a ditty of her own making whenever she's dusting the upstairs floor, and I've caught her humming an air between door ways.

Blessed be the whistling, singing workers! They cheer me out of my grumpiness, like a street organ; they always say: be happy in your work and cheerful at your task, that's the way to convert work into play, and toil into fun.

Sir Christopher Wren.

ARCHITECT OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

LONDON.—Sir Christopher Wren's name is indissolubly linked with St. Paul's Cathedral, in the crypt of which his body was laid almost 200 years ago, and on Monday, February 26 next, a notable gathering in St. Paul's will commemorate the bicentenary of his death, which occurred on February 25, 1723. The Royal Institute of British Architects has the matter in hand, and a committee has been appointed to arrange the details for the memorial service. This committee consists of representatives of Government departments, and of the great archaeological, artistic and scientific societies of London, also representatives of the leading universities. It is proposed to organize a procession from the Mansion House of St. Paul's, which will be followed by a service at the Cathedral and a visit to the tomb of Sir Christopher. The President of the Royal Institute for British Architects will lay a wreath on the tomb. On a tablet over a doorway leading thereto is the well-known epitaph in Latin to the effect that the Cathedral is Sir Christopher's monument, and under this tablet will pass many of the present notable men of Great Britain.

The architectural schools in London have been invited to produce a pageant illustrating the period of Sir Christopher Wren, preparations for which are already under way. Visits to various buildings erected by Wren will take place, among these being the Royal Exchange and the famous Bow Church, with its bells proclaiming all within sound thereof to be Cockneys. It is hoped by this means to draw attention to some beautiful examples of the work of the great architect, and to stimulate still further the increasing interest in architecture displayed by the general public.

Born at East Knoyle, Wiltshire, on October 20, 1632, the son of a clergyman, Sir Christopher Wren achieved renown as an astronomer, as well as an architect. He was Professor of Astronomy at Gresham College in 1677, and Professor of Astronomy at Oxford University in 1680. His undying fame, however, is connected with St. Paul's Cathedral, which he designed and built. Sir Christopher's opportunity came with the destruction of a large part of London as a result of the great fire of September, 1666. Almost all the churches in London were swept away by the flames, and old St. Paul's was left in ruins. Sir Christopher was commissioned to rebuild the Cathedral. The first stone of this new Cathedral was laid in 1675 and the last stone in 1710. Sir Christopher made designs also for fifty other churches which had been burned. The many-sided genius of this remarkable man, who was a scientist, as well as an architect, and astronomer, included statesmanship. He was a member of the House of Commons from 1685 to 1700.

GLOUCESTER SURPRISED AT ACTION OF TRUSTEES.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 14.—In spite of the action of the Canadian trustees of the International Fishermen's Cup in again barring the schooner Mayflower from competition for the trophy, the vessel will probably enter the elimination races to decide this year's American challenge. Chairman William J. McInnes, of the American Race Committee, said tonight:
A letter from the Canadian body was received here tonight containing formal notification of the decision to bar the Mayflower as a cup contender. A meeting of the American Committee was at once called for tomorrow night to consider the situation. In the meantime Mr. McInnes outlined the probable action of the American race body.
If the Mayflower is defeated in the preliminary heats it is held for Gloucester in October, the International contest waged as to her eligibility will have been decided, he said. On the other hand, should the Gloucesterman win and the Canadian trustees still persist in barring her as a contender, there would probably be no International contest this year.
Announcement of the action of the trustees was received with surprise at this port, where the American Race Committee has its headquarters, and which have several schooners in preparation for the elimination races. It was felt sure that as the Mayflower had participated regularly, winter and summer, in the fisheries out of Boston and this port, and on the Northern and Southern fishing grounds for more than a year, any question about her eligibility had been answered. The fact that the letter of the trustees announcing the decision gave no reason for the action caused Gloucestermen to leave discussion of further action to the Committee.

The above despatch from Gloucester, taken from the Halifax Morning Chronicle, followed receipt of a letter from the trustees of the trophy at Halifax, who, with the American Race Committee, decided that "Mayflower" one of the American challengers is not eligible for the race. The letter stated in the interpretation of the trust placed in them by the donor of the trophy, through the deed of gift, makes any other decision impossible, and "earnestly hopes that among the other new vessels of your fleet you will find a worthy competitor for whatever Nova Scotia vessel goes to Gloucester to defend the trophy."

North Pole Easily Accessible from London.

LONDON.—Modern airships of the German type could make the trip from London to the North Pole, a distance of 4,600 miles, within a week, says Major Richard Carr, aerial expert of the Shackleton Antarctic Expedition. Fuel for the entire distance could be carried, and no landings need be made. "I am fully convinced that we have left far behind the old-fashioned methods, so that in future, polar exploration will be done by aircraft during the summer months," Major Carr continues. "Very few persons realize how mild the Arctic and Antarctic summers really are, and the wonderful improvement in aircraft." Major Carr made important observations in flying conditions in the Antarctic. "During the seven weeks we were in the ice," he says, "the lowest temperature recorded was five degrees Fahrenheit and the average approximately 20 degrees. The wind average was from eight to ten miles an hour, and the air and sky were wonderfully clear. So clear was the air that mirage was very frequent. We had more than 300 flying hours."

English Women Campaigning.

FOR MORE SEATS IN PARLIAMENT. LONDON.—The women of England are preparing an intensive campaign with a view of securing more woman members of Parliament. They are quite satisfied with Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintringham, but they want women in the House of Commons to keep these two from feeling lonesome. They have now formed a committee to embrace all parties—except the Communist. They call it the Women's Election Committee. They are raising a central fund, too, to help women candidates. Any one who sends along more than a pound can have it earmarked for the support of a candidate for any particular party. The Duchess of Atholl has her eye on a seat and although her aristocratic friends are trying to dissuade her from entering in an electoral contest, it is understood she is preparing to stand for the Parliamentary vacancy that will occur if the expected promotion of the Lord Advocate to the Scottish Bench takes place.

Newest tailours are a combination of simple shirt and a jacket having a full, elaborately trimmed, peaked collar. Velvet and velveteen will be used for making day frocks; and satin finished crepe is also very good. To make ripe tomato relish, peel and quarter eight pounds tomatoes, and four pounds sugar, a quart vinegar, one tablespoonful white cloves, one tablespoonful of stick cinnamon, and a half-teaspoonful whole allspice. Allow, with to simmer two and a half hours.
Short fur coats of broadtail seal or mole will be seen this winter. They will be worn with or without belts. A black satin model is draped at left, with a splash of embroidery at right of skirt in grey and gay colors.

B.I.S. and Cadets for the 1922 Championship. The game was the fourth successive playoff between these two teams, which, we venture to assert, establishes a record unique in the annals of football.
 The Cadets won the toss and elected to attack the eastern goal with a strong westerly breeze in their favor. Play started briskly with a determined attack on the Irish defence. The wind made it extremely difficult to control the ball, and the result was that many of the tries went high and wide, while the Irish backs in order to clear sent the ball repeatedly to the touch line. As a matter of fact the first period was a game of "offs." 'Twas the first time in the series that John Phelan was given an opportunity to demonstrate his goal-tending abilities and he certainly showed he wasn't living on a reputation. His coolness and ability to judge the angles were favorably commented on.

By a pre-determined plan the Irish kept the play to the southeast corner of the arena making it well nigh impossible for the Cadets to be effective, but despite this, there were several narrow squeaks for the champions; in one instance a shot from Messy bounced near the goal line and ascending hit the bottom of the crossbar. Another dangerous moment was when the Irish goalie, with the ball in his hands was assailed by the Cadet forwards and though knocked off his feet by the rush, yet he managed to clear it for a corner. Another occasion, Halley, while stopping a pass in the penalty area handled the ball which the referee failed to see. Let it not be assumed that the Cadets had all the play their own way in the first period, for repeatedly the Irish forwards took the ball west in the eye of the wind but Clare was impregnable. During the last ten minutes the Cadets made every effort to score, even Galray, their full back, being in the midst of the fray, but the half-time whistle sounded without result. The second period opened with a rush to the Irish territory but their goals cleared easily. And then the bombardment commenced. The Harps opened up and got in some pretty football. But try as they might they could not beat Clare or Galray. The latter who played a star game right through through the whole series, gave a magnificent exhibition of defence and his work was loudly applauded. Such an insistent attack as the Irish were making effaced all hopes of a draw. Suddenly, on a pass from Fred Phelan, Burke shot a high one, which Clare fisted out. It hadn't bounced from the ground when Halley, shot a low one to Clare's left and the winning goal was scored. Redoubling their efforts the Cadets tried every means in their power to equalize, but Constantine, Fox and Brien upset all their tactics and wiles. After the score the Irish forwards took things easily and the remainder of the period was practically a succession of long shots.

The B.I.S. have achieved a well nigh impossible feat in winning the cup three years in succession and it is proven by the fact that it has taken nineteen years to do it. They have had a most remarkable season. Out of twelve games played they have won only three times—once of which was a penalty. The runners-up the Cadets—played the game manfully and well, and whatever sympathies they may have had for the B.I.S. in view of their being three years on the coveted silverware, they smothered in true sportsmanlike fashion and gave the Irish the hardest fought battles of the series. The personnel of the Champions: Goal, John Phelan; Fulls, Dr. Fox, F. C. Brien, S. Constantine; Forwards, W. Burke, Fred Phelan, Harry Phelan, Ed. Phelan, Ray Halley; Spares, J. Rawlins, G. Halley, and Bert Channing. To each and everyone of them the Telegram extends its heartiest congratulations. From tallenders in 1913, by dint of good management and earnest endeavor, Fred Brien, Harry Phelan, and the Phelan boys they occupied the top rung of the ladder on the three successive years and now the Cup. They won it before in 1905, 1908, and 1917, and of all who played then only one is in the game now, Billy Burke, who was only thirteen when they inscribed their name on it for the first time in 1905.

TEAMS ENTERTAINED.
 After the football game last evening the members of the B.I.S. held an impromptu celebration in their club room to honour the team which had succeeded in winning permanently the trophy. The full C.C.C. team, which had battled so well with the Irish lads, were present as guests, together with representatives of the other league teams. Mr. W. J. Higgins, President of the Society, was chairman, in a few well chosen words he welcomed all to the Hall and spoke of the pleasure it gave him to be present. The health of the winning team was enthusiastically toasted. Mr. Harry Phelan, on behalf of the B.I.S. team, thanked Mr. Higgins and the gathering for their congratulations. He referred to the pleasure he gave him to captain such a splendid team and was proud, indeed, that they had succeeded in winning the cup "for keeps." Mr. Jack Higgins proposed the health of the other league teams. He spoke of the good fellowship displayed by every foot baller this season. In particular he eulogised the work of the Cadet team, particularly during the last four games which had been really splendid. Messrs. Gus Galray and W. J. Clare, on behalf of the Cadet team responded and congratulated the B.I.S. on their victory. The Cadets did all in their power to keep the cup from the B.I.S. but "Cloro" Halley got ahead of them once and that was all. The result of the series was one over, which both teams had every reason to feel proud of. Mr. J. C. Pippy proposed the health of the remaining league teams and Messrs. E. B. Harris and J. I. Vintcombe responded. Congratulatory speeches were also made by Messrs. Ern Churchill, P. J. Scott, J. P. Crotty, E. Brophy. Mr. F. C. Brien proposed the health of the referee. To referee the games in the manner Mr. Hunt had during the season was an achievement of which anyone could be proud. Mr. Hunt responded to the toast. He had done his best to referee squarely. He thanked Mr. Brien for the sentiments he expressed and congratulated the B.I.S. on their win. The speeches were interspersed with songs by Messrs. Dobbins, Wallace, Crotty, Howe (of the Majestic) W. J. Harris, T. Kent, and a monologue by Mr. T. H. O'Neill. The Majestic Orchestra, with their well known generosity voluntarily offered their services which were readily availed of. In their own inimitable way they discoursed excellent music which kept the gathering in fine fettle. The members of the Literary and Amusement Committee served refreshments and a most enjoyable time was spent. It is the intention of the Society, at a later date to more fittingly acknowledge its appreciation of the team's prowess.

 Before closing our column for the season, we should like to congratulate the League not only on the most successful season it has known both from a financial as well as a sporting stand point but also on its wisdom in the selection of its official referee—Mr. George Hunt. His job—always an unenviable one in any game—was most difficult in handling a League series but when it is realised that in a crucial series of a four game play off with excitement of both players and fans at fever heat, he came through with flying colours it speaks volumes for not only his knowledge of the intricate rules but for the confidence reposed in him.

Agnes Ayres, Star is Featured in the Sheik.
 Favorite Paramount Luminary Has Excellent Role in Big Production.

Agnes Ayres, talented and beautiful, who won stardom by her artistic work in Cecil B. De Mille's Paramount production of "Forbidden Fruit," is featured with the brilliant young screen player, Rudolph Valentino, in George Melford's big Paramount production of "The Sheik," which is the attraction at the Nickel Theatre to-night.
 Miss Ayres has the effective role of Diana Mayr, a headstrong but brave and spirited English girl who encounters the sheik in the desert and learns finally to love him, after a somewhat harrowing experience and complete subjugation to his indomitable will. He is a veritable master of men—and women. None can stand against his power which in his empire of sand is almost invincible.

Wild riding and fighting, gripping scenes in desert panoramas, action piled on action—such are the ingredients of this photoplay by Monte M. Katterjohn, adapted from E. M. Hull's novel. And Miss Ayres has a role that is difficult, filled with hard work and tense acting, to which she does, it is said, more than full justice.
 The Nickel announces still another tremendous offering, "Why Girls Leave Home." This is a Mammoth production with a theme that strikes home. No one will want to miss this great story.

Vessels in Collision.
BRITISH FISHING STEAMSHIP SADDIE MAC SHOWS NO SIGN OF CRASH.
 The British fishing steamship, Saddle Mac, a former mine sweeper, arrived at the South Boston pier recently, showing no signs of the collision in which it figured with the British three masted schooner, Maid of Canada. The Saddle Mac came from Louisburg, C.B., with 175 swordfish. The Maid of Canada, carrying 540 tons of coal, from New York to Halifax, N.S., met the Saddle Mac off Samoro, N.S., in thick fog. The latter struck the schooner on the port side near the forward rigging and crushed the timbers. Capt. John Pettie of the Saddle Mac towed the Maid of Canada for nearly four hours, with all the pumps worked to their limit, but when it was certain that the latter would sink he took the crew on board his vessel. Almost immediately, the schooner disappeared in 60 fathoms, west southwest of Sambre Light.

Householders Complain.
 Householders who purchase eggs from the country have lately been complaining that shop eggs are being passed off on them for fresh ones. They claim that some country people buy case eggs from the shops and sell them as fresh at a large profit. One woman told the Telegram that the yoke was gone in every one of a supply of eggs which she recently bought from the country. Complaints of a similar nature were made about meat during the summer, when it was said that frozen meat was being sold as fresh by country butchers.

Another Bogey.

The querulous and credulous Advocate in its excursions into the realms of the whys and wherefores of the Humber Project, has unearthed another bogey. This latest discovery is Confederation and accordingly the line writers of that journal are throwing every kind of literary fit, and fairly froth at the mouth. Working themselves up into a proper frenzy of rage the "organ" manipulators play on all its keys at once, and with a great display of heavy black type, double leaded, springs the ancient bogey of Union with Canada upon an unsuspecting electorate. First the Canadian Pulp and Paper Interests, then the advocates of Confederation, What really wicked fellows these Confederates must be, to so far forget their patriotism as to desire to block the Humber Deal and its accompanying benefits to Newfoundland, in order to earn for themselves place and pay, when the rounding off of the Dominion of Canada is accomplished by the admission of Newfoundland as a Province. Does not the Advocate realise that there are not a dozen real Confederates in this Colony today? And does it not further realise that Canada does not want Newfoundland at any price Humber or no Humber. Of what use then to spread among the fishermen North such a cock and bull story that a deep laid plot is on foot to block the development of the Humber Valley for the purpose of forcing this island into the arms of Canada. If the Humber Proposition is a good one, why all the requests for financial guarantees? If the scheme on its face is attractive and promises all the returns credited to it by the "ballyhoo" scribes of the Advocate, why not the promoters go to it and make what they can out of it? So far the people have been told that there will be unlimited employment for them in the event of this deal going through. Yet no particulars have been given. The terms of the agreement have not been made known, therefore all that the mouth-piece of the Government has had to say about it so far is not based on any authoritative information or inside knowledge, and the blatancy of the daily roars of our Duckworth Street contemporary is based on nothing more tangible than imagination. The finding of another and newer Confederation bogey smacks rather of politics of the baser sort and proves that there is something afoot in the camp of the Government. To stampede the people into a panic, whether political or commercial has ever been the policy of the paper controlled by Mr. Coaker, and if ink and heavy display type will do it, the Advocate is persistent if not consistent. It might be interesting, some day, to quote Mr. Coaker, when in Opposition in 1915, on the Products Corporation Resolutions, practically the same thing as the Humber Proposition. His attitude then was not exactly the same as now, and he vigorously condemned the former in all its moods and tenses and with a flow of language that won the admiration of his followers. Why the change to-day? In 1915 the worst word in his vocabulary was too good for the Products scheme. In 1922 the Humber Development (same thing) is going to be the panacea for all our financial ills and labor troubles. Elucidate please, Mr. Advocate, and please don't let that bogey of Confederation alarm you too greatly.

Notable Events in History.

MARTYRDOM OF ST. MATTHEW.

The festival of St. Matthew, Evangelist and Martyr, is celebrated in the Christian Church to-day, Sept. 21. St. Matthew is traditionally supposed to have been slain with the sword at the city of Ethiopia.

DEATH OF KING EDWARD II.

King Edward II of England who had been compelled to abdicate the throne in favor of his son—Edward III—was secretly murdered at Berkeley Castle on Sept. 21, 1327 by the order of his Queen, Isabella, who hated her husband, and commanded two ruffians who had charge of the royal prisoner to kill him. King Edward II led a great army into Scotland, but was defeated by Bruce at Bannockburn, 1314.

PRESTONPANS.

The battle of Prestonpans was fought on Sept. 21, 1745 between the Jacobites under Charles Edward Stuart—the Young Pretender—and an English army commanded by Sir John Cope, the latter being defeated by the furious charges of the Highlanders armed with claymores and targe.

DEATH OF SIR WALTER SCOTT.

On this day, Sept. 21, 1832, Sir Walter Scott, author of the Waverley Novels and known as the Wizard of the North, because of his poetical works, died at Abbotsford.

Two Stowaways.

RELEASED ON SUSPENDED SENTENCES.

Two youths who had stowed away on the Rosalind, on her last trip from this port were brought back on S.S. Silvia and appeared before the Magistrate in the Police Court this morning. Accused with two others, left St. John's last week, but the latter escaped at Halifax and Harvey & Co. were fined $200 as a consequence. The two prisoners have proved a big expense to the company, but as stowaways had not previously been prosecuted they did not press for a severe penalty, but would do so in future. The Judge in letting the accused go on suspended sentence, said that the law called for a fine of $100 or 1 month's imprisonment, and in future he would inflict this penalty.

Shocking Tragedy

Under this caption one reads only too often of some sad affair, which leaves the mind in a state of depression. The world does not want any more sadness, and anyone who can distribute joy and gladness, is really a benefactor to the human race. Nature plays an important part in this respect and makes a benefactor over night. To illustrate this, Frost has caused an unprecedented offer to the Public of thousands of beautiful Giant Asters at a ridiculously low price of Twenty Cents a large bunch from The Valley Nurseries. "Phone 1513, only a few days left then up goes the price, act at once. Mrs. Molloy's, Winsor and Warfield's, Butler Brothers, Water St., and Blue Puttes, Rawlin's Cross, W. Was in Hurry.

OUTPORT MAN FINED.

Because he did not stop when ordered to do by a traffic constable, a man from a nearby outport was fined $2 and costs in the Magistrate's Court this morning. Accused said he had two passengers and was in a hurry to get them to their destination. The Judge said that he could not accept that excuse. The regulations were for the safety of the public and had to be carried out strictly if accidents were to be averted.

Game on Market.

EXPENSIVE LUXURIES.

The first game to be sold in the city this season was seen today, when people from the nearby settlements vendid partridge and rabbits around the street. The prices were very high owing to the same being the first to appear on the market. Partridge sold at $1.70 a brace and rabbits at 90c. to $1.20. Larger quantities on the market shortly when prices may be considerably less.

HIS DIARY.

Sept. 20th.—Come! Eves and tells me a strange tale, how, dreaming last night that he was being attacked by Turks, he did wake to find his wife pulling him out of bed to look for a burglar, and it naught but the cat that did overturn some dishes. Indeed, the fear of the Turks seems to be in all, but nothing yet come of the war that many talk of with Mr. O'Reilly on Duckworth Street, and the wind taking off his hat, I did urge him to run after it, which he would not do, and the reason of it that he waits always for some passer by to get it for him. This a mighty clever scheme and I will try it myself.

Advancing Power Line.

AVALON COMPANY EXTENDING SERVICE.

The United Towns Electrical Co. have their system now operating in Topsail and it is probable by early spring that the light and power lines will be run to the city. The Company are also preparing to extend their system to Bell Island and a special marine power cable to convey the current is being imported. The Company has also in view the development of power at Seal Cove, C.B., and the initial work will begin in a short while.

Silvia in Port.

S.S. Silvia arrived in port at 7 a.m. from Halifax and New York, bringing 90 round trippers and the following returning residents:—Miss M. Lamb, Walter Willis, Mrs. Willis, J. J. The Silvia sails again at noon on Saturday.

McMurdo's Store News.

THURSDAY, Sept. 21. The season for houseflies is by no means over yet—indeed it is now as the weather begins to get cooler in the open air, that they invade the houses in large numbers. So the arrival of a full consignment of Sapho Bugbane, the "sure death" treatment for house or other flies is quite opportune. Non-poisonous to human beings or animals, it is a certain exterminator of houseflies, and is easily and cleanly used. Price (in blower package) 30c. It is a good while since we have been able to offer a full sized tin of good face powder at 25c. but in Nylotis Face Powder we can do this. In the following tints, White, Flesh, Brunette.

A Scare Story.

DAMAGING FIELD. ABOARD. The following scare story which greatly exaggerates local conditions, has been syndicated throughout the United States from Sydney, N.S.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS FACE STARVATION.—FISHING DESCRIBED AS THE WORST IN 25 YEARS.

SYDNEY, N.S., Sept. 6.—Complete failure of the shore fisheries on the northeast coast of Newfoundland this season is threatening the people of the district with starvation next winter, according to reports received here. Schooners engaged in the northern fisheries this season, were only about one-third as many as 10 years ago, yet individual vessels report the scantiest catches on record. Reports from the Labrador coast describe the fishing there as the worst in 25 years. (The question is who send this stuff to the outside press. Advocate, please answer!)

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

DOMINIONS FOR SETTLEMENT BY LEAGUE.

GENEVA, Sept. 21. All the British dominions are declared by their representatives in the League of Nations, assembled here, to be favorable to the submission of the Turco-Greek affair to the League of Nations. Dominion delegations sent a joint telegram to Prime Minister Lloyd George, urging the submission of the question to the League, and it is declared among these representatives that the dominions will be disposed to retain their complete liberty of action if the British Government refuses to listen to their request.

LATEST FROM NEAR EAST.

LONDON, Sept. 21. While the Allied Powers are feverishly endeavoring to arrange a peace conference to clean the slate between Turkey and Greece and prevent more fighting in the Near East, rumblings of impending hostilities continue to come from Constantinople and the Dardanelles. A relatively small force of British troops is holding Chanak, the key to the position on the southern shore of the Straits while the Turkish Nationalists are eager for further conquests after overwhelmingly defeating the Greeks and are concentrated outside the Neutral Zone at Izmud and Chanak impatiently awaiting the word from Mustapha Kemal Pasha to advance. If their spokesman in Constantinople is to be believed the Turks are determined that the Allies shall not stand in the path of their drive to reconquer Thrace. An Associated Press despatch quotes this spokesman, Hamid Bey, to the effect that the Kemalists will certainly declare war on the British if they attempt to interfere with the movement across the Straits. Much hope is based on the result of the proposed conference in Smyrna between Kemal Pasha and General Pelle, French High Commissioner, and the consequent delay raises hopes that the Turkish attack if it takes place will be retarded until British reinforcements can arrive. If fighting breaks out before that time the question of the safety of the comparatively small British force at Chanak will become an anxious one here. Marshal Foch is quoted as saying that the position is absolutely untenable except by a very considerable force while Field-Marshal Finner, who has been inspecting the British defences, is said to have sent a message to the effect that he has great confidence in the results of collaboration between Brigadier General Harrington and Rear-Admiral Brooks. The opinion here for the moment is banking on the strength of British naval forces in the Dardanelles, which is considered sufficient alone to hold any possible attack by Turks.

Mr. Collishaw's Proposition.

TO BUILD WORKINGMEN'S HOUSES.

Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Seeing that my appeal to the Councilors Outerbridge and Dowden to interest themselves in this proposition have so far brought no response from these gentlemen, I have decided to again review the arguments already adduced to enlist their co-operation, as well as to bring forward additional pleas in the hope of inducing them to take an interest in Mr. Collishaw's householding proposition to the extent at least of considering and examining it, whether they go any further or not. I remind them that the people who want decent houses have no other way to present their petition except through the Councilors—they elect representatives—in the same way as the people of the country in general make their petitions through the members of the House of Assembly when they want any public improvements. If, after considering this proposition, they decide that nothing can be done, so much is deplorable, and time and further efforts are saved. To these young Councilors the people look for bold movements and modern improvements in the way of having a clean and better city. They are the new blood in an old institution, and it is the infusion of new blood that often saves a moribund institution or a business from becoming hopelessly stagnated in a rut. We want these young Councilors to get the Council out of the rut and the way to begin this programme is to take up this proposition and deal with it in the right spirit. They should study the great building movement that went on in New York a recent year. During the war, rents went up so high there that the City Council was only too willing to cooperate with a Citizens' Committee that demanded reduced rents and more houses and as a result exorbitant rents were reduced by a Rent Fixing Committee made up of citizens from each ward. They held meetings which were so largely attended that the aldermen were compelled to take action and co-operate, with the result that new houses at reasonable rents were erected to accommodate one million of New York. If Councilors Outerbridge and Dowden wish to know the sentiment of the citizens of St. John's on this subject, I suggest that they have only to call on me and I will be only too glad to be convinced on the question of what they ought to do in this matter. It is their duty to investigate. They are the responsible ones who should do so. If they find on going carefully to the whole proposition that it is not a good thing, then let them tell the people and that is an end to it. They will have done their duty and will be able to tell the people so when they seek re-election. I can inform them that there are scores of citizens every day calling at Mr. Collishaw's office enquiring as to the fate of his housebuilding offer and asking what the City Councilors going to do about it. Some have the means to buy houses outright and are disappointed in finding no chance of doing so. It is nearly the duty of the City Councilors under the circumstances to take up this offer and consider it. It is not because their salaries are merely nominal that they do not owe a full performance of their duty to the people as if they were being paid large salaries. They accept the honor that is conferred on them by the public in the use of money, and therefore this obligation is as great as the fully paid salary of any corporation. In fact it is greater, for the esteem and confidence of the public is a thing that is above all pecuniary value. I conclude then by again appealing to these gentlemen to take up this proposition in the Council meetings, and review and examine it on its merits. If it is wrong let them tell the public what it is amiss with it, and if it is right, which I contend it is, then there is no other course open to them as honest representatives of the people but to co-operate with Mr. Collishaw and agree to his proposition and let him go ahead and erect the 100 houses for the citizens who are to-day clamoring for them.

Yours truly,

PROGRESS.

SOME DRESS MISTAKES.

There is an old saying that the man or woman who makes the same mistake twice is a fool. It is a good saying to quote. I shall no doubt be moved to quote some day when it fits in my theme. But it isn't true. Or if it is, there are mighty few people in the world who aren't fools. I doubt if anyone ever the age of one day can lay claim to the distinction. In fact the only individuals I know who could honestly say that they hadn't made the same mistake twice couldn't say it at all because they hadn't yet learned to talk.

This Time Is Different.
The man who never learns anything from his mistakes is a fool but with most of us it is a slow process. One forgets so easily and then one always hopes that this time is going to be different.

I wonder if it would help us any to write down some of the conclusions that our most common mistakes lead us to and read them over one in a while.

I am going to try it, or rather I have been trying it. Perhaps you will smile when I tell you in what field. Perhaps you will decide to do likewise. That will probably depend firstly on your sex, secondly on your own liability to mistakes.

Not Just the Right Thing.
I have just made a mistake in the use of my dress allowance which, though small, is a mistake that I have made so often that I simply cannot excuse myself. And yesterday afternoon when I had it brought home to me by not having just the thing to wear for a particular occasion, when I could have had it if I had spent those few dollars differently. I sat down and wrote the following rules for myself.

"Don't get separate skirts. You never get the good out of them. You don't look so well cut in two as you do in a whole frock. You are always tempted by each new style and always sorry when you fall.

"Don't buy a winter suit. They are nice for some occasions but, on the whole, you get far better value out of a good looking coat and separate frocks.

The Dangerous Big Hat.
"Don't buy a large hat. You love them but they don't look well on you unless you are looking your best. Love them on other people."

"Don't buy too far ahead thinking you will stock up one year and not need to buy much the next. When the next comes you always want something else.

"Don't wander off from your regular color scheme. It costs too much in accessories to do that."

I wonder if these rules fit your case at all? Or, if they don't, I wonder if they suggest some similar rules for you?

Are you worried? A smoke of Edgeworth Tobacco will help you wonderfully.—sept19,21

The Flag.

By Lieut.-Col. A. E. Belcher.

In all past history of nations, tribes, clans and peoples, there has existed among them some emblem, token or signal, to declare to others who they are and where they belong; and sometimes their beliefs were signified by colors or blending of colors, or the selection of a signal of significance, which was either a rallying point for its members or to proceed them on the march either in peace or at war. This article was called a flag. There is an instinct in the human race that delights in the flying of flags. It seems inborn, from the babe in arms to the man of years. Perhaps its bright and gay colors at first attract the attention of the young, and the music of some sort attends to the carrying of the flag, whether it be the drum and war-whoops of the savage or the grand organizations we have in these later days, rendering the most attractive music that draws us together and inclines us to step out to its martial strains and, if duty should call, rally around the national emblem and follow it wherever it leads. We hoist it to show our allegiance, and this instinct in a man of an attachment to a national emblem and display is an evidence of his patriotic fervor. The colors floating on high give us a feeling of pride and inclines us to lift our heads higher and stick out our chests, feeling devotion and gratification. Flags are really the teaching of history by sight, and no matter what flag we see flying our mind turns to what belongs to the flag—its traditions, its history and its origin— for we find it even among the most primitive people, those who inhabited this beautiful Canada before the white man set foot upon it. These aboriginals were composed of different tribes and tongues, and each had their emblem. As a flag unfolds and is flung to the breeze, we see written upon it its aims and objects and accomplishments. Above all national flags there is none that bears upon its folds so interesting a story nor has its history so plainly written in its parts and colorings as the flag of dear old Britain. With the red cross of Britain flying over their heads, our sailors have swept the seas, and made the ships of all other nations do obeisance to it. They penetrated the distant oceans and planted it on previously unknown lands as a sign of the sovereignty of their king, and made the power of Britain known throughout the circle of the world. "It flutters triumphant o'er oceans as free as the winds and the waves, and bondsman from shackles unloosened 'neath its shadows no longer slaves." It is indeed the flag of the free. Wherever it floats it stands for and demands that men be free of a subject's indignity, and his rights infringed upon, no matter when or where, men and money are soon forthcoming to assert the "hail" that glorifies the traditions of its greatness. No wonder its subjects love it, for what it has done and will do in the cause of right and fair play. Its mission is a Divine one, and has been transmitted to our forefathers, and by them to us. Our national aspirations are of the highest order. On beholding the emblem of our faith and nation, the eye is gladdened by the sight of the three crosses, especially the red, "on silver white a plain red cross," as indicative of the great Christian, St. George, whose memory all Englishmen revere. The uplifted Cross of Christ offering to all who believe forgiveness of sin, and live everlasting. "So might it be."

ANGER.

In anger I rose, in the face of my foe, and called him a s o m e s u m p t u o u s name; I said they were fit for the bottomless pit, and sinful and dark were their games. My enemies smiled at my eloquence with, and said that my statements were absurd; they weren't disturbed by my passions uncurbed, for wind doesn't break any ribs. They all went down to their work or their play, to movie or office or home; and if they recalled how I thundered and bawled, they thought I had bats in my dome. But I have been sick since I made the big kick. I'm loaded with three-cornered pain; it's bad for a day when he's withered and gray, if his blood goes and boils in his veins. My nerves are unstrung since I brandished my tongue, and sleep has deserted my couch; my appetite's gone and I sit on the lawn, and cherish the ghost of my bringing. The doctor remarks, "I am grieving your bark, and buds from a sycamore tree, the which you will boil with a gallon of oil, and stir up your works with the tea. But medicine fails and no potion avails, if anger possesses your heart; be always serene, of benevolent mien, and pains will not rack you apart."

"WHY GIRLS LEAVE HOME."

Do You Know?

Adapted from the famous Stage Success.

The Second Battle of Ypres.

By JOHN BUCHAN.

The present writer first saw Ypres from a little hill during the later stages of the battle. It was a brilliant spring day, and when there was a lull in the bombardment, the sun lit up its white towers. Ypres looked a gracious and delicate little city in its tattered green. It was with a sharp shock of surprise that one realized that it was an illusion, that Ypres had become a shadow. A few days later, in a pause of the bombardment, we entered the town. The main street lay white and empty in the sun, and over all reigned a deadly stillness. There was not a human being to be seen in all its length, and the houses on each side were skeletons. While the whole front had gone, and bedrooms with light furniture were open to the light. There a 32 cm. shell had made a breach in the line, with raw edges of masonry on both sides, and a yawning pit below. In one room the carpet was spattered with plaster from the ceilings, but the furniture was unbroken. There was a Buli cabinet with china, red plush chairs, a piano, and a gramophone—the plenishing of the best parlour in a middle class home. In another room was a sewing machine, from which the owner had fled in the middle of a piece of work. Here was a novel with the reader's place marked. It was like a city visited by an earthquake which had caught the inhabitants unawares, and driven them shivering to a place of refuge.

Through the gaps in the houses there were glimpses of greenery. A broken door admitted to a garden—carefully tended garden, for the grass had once been trimly kept, and the owner must have had a pretty taste in spring flowers. A little fountain still splashed in a stone basin. But in one corner an incendiary shell had fallen on the house, and in a heap of charred debris there were charred remains. Most of the dead had been removed, but they were still bodiless in out of the way corners. Over all in a sickening smell of decay, against which the lilacs and hawthorns were powerless. The garden was no place to tarry in.

The street led into the place where once stood the great Church of St. Martin and the Cloth Hall. Those who knew Ypres before the war will remember the pleasant facade of shops on the north side, and the cluster of old Flemish buildings at the north-eastern corner. Words are powerless to describe the devastation of these houses. On the southern side nothing remained but a file of gaunt gables. At the northeast corner, if you crawled across the rubbish you could see the remnants of some beautiful old masterpiece. Standing in the heart of the Place, one was oppressed by the utter silence, a silence which seemed to hush and blanket the eternal shelling in the Salient beyond. Some jackdaws were cawing from the ruins, and a painstaking stalling was rebuilding its nest in a broken unshaded. An old cow, a miserable object, was poking her head in the rubbish and sniffing curiously at a dead horse. Sound was a profanation in that tomb which had lost all its arcades, most of its front, and there were great rents everywhere. Its spire looked like a badly whittled stick, and the big gilt clock, with its hands irrevocably fixed, hung loose on a jet of stone. St. Martin's Church was a ruin, and its stately square tower was so nicked and dented that it seemed as if a strong wind would people it over. Inside the church was a weird sight. Most of the windows had gone, and the famous rose window in the southern transept lacked a segment. The side chapels were in ruins, the floor was deep in fallen stones, but the pillars still stood. A mass for the dead must have been in progress, for the altar was draped in black, but the altar stone was cracked across. The sacristy was full of vestments and candlesticks tumbled together in haste, and all were covered with yellow plicic dust from the high explosives. In the graveyard behind there was a huge shell crater, 50 feet across and 20 feet deep with human bones exposed in the sides. Before the main door stood a curious piece of iron. An empty pedestal proclaimed from its four sides the many virtues of a certain Belgian statesman who had been also Mayor of Ypres. The worthy Mayor was lying in the dust beside it, a fat man in a frock coat, with side whiskers and a face like Bismarck.

Out in the sunlight there was the first sign of human life. A detachment of French Colonial tirailleurs entered from the north—brown, shadowy men in fantastic weather-stained uniforms. A vehicle stood at the cathedral door, and a lean and sad-faced priest was loading it with some of the church treasures—chalices, plate, embroidery. A Carmelite friar was prowling among the side alleys looking for the dead. It was like some macabre imagining of Victor Hugo.

The ruins of old buildings are so familiar that they do not at first demoralize the mind. Far more arresting are the remnants of the pitiful little homes, where there is no dignity, but a pathetic which cries aloud. Ypres was like a city destroyed by an earthquake; that is the simplest and truest description. But the skeletons of her great buildings, famous in Europe for 500 years, left another impression. One felt, as at Pompeii, that things had always been so; one felt that they were verily indestructible, they were so great in their fall. The clock of St. Martin was not needed to cover the nakedness of his church. There was a terrible splendour about these gaunt and broken structures, these noble, shattered facades, which defied their destroyers. Ypres might be empty and a ruin, but to the end of time she would be no mean city.

One of the truest of our younger poets, Rupert Brooke, who died while serving in the Dardanelles, wrote in his last months a sonnet on the consolation of death in war—

"If I should die, think only this of me: That there's some corner of a foreign field

Ranching in Bohvia
 NEWFOUNDLANDER HAS LARGE HOLDINGS.

Mr. Wm. Elliott, formerly a native of Fogo, but now resident of Santa Cruz, Bolivia, is at present in the city having arrived by S. S. Prospero from a visit to his native town after an absence of eight years. Mr. Elliott is quite a young man, who has met with much success since leaving home. He is engaged in ranching in the Southern Republic where his step-father, Mr. Wm. Downer, has amassed considerable wealth. In describing the country to the Telegram yesterday, Mr. Elliott said their ranch was situated some 45 miles from Santa Cruz city on a plateau 900 feet or more above sea level. The climate he said was somewhat similar to that of Newfoundland except that the winter lasts little more than a month. The spring there is now beginning, and in a letter received from his parents, written in July, they told him there was then about one foot of snow on the ground. He says that there is seldom more than a two feet of snow fall, but the weather is often severe by reason of gales. So frequent are these that dwellings and other structures are all built low. The country is mostly pampas without trees except along the gullies of streams. Land is reckoned by the league (6,500 acres). Mr. Elliott's holdings measure 10 miles long by six wide. On this extensive tract they have some 9000 sheep and a large number of horses. The sheep are never housed, yet they manage to live through the winter and keep in good condition. During the war sheep (mostly merino type) fetched $8 per head but since their value has fallen, and now they are worth little more than $1.50 of our money or $3 Argentine Federation. Although a fair country, living there is not all rosy and last winter saw much trouble with some bloodshed. During this time armed bands seized a large number of farm houses, making the owners, including the Elliotts, prisoners. State troops had to be called from Argentine and after some fighting the outlaws were dispersed and their prisoners released. Mr. Elliott says there are about 12,000 British settlers in Bolivia and the Argentine Republic. The majority of them are prosperous, evidenced by many of them possessing one or more automobiles, in addition to trucks to convey their produce to market. Transport is over the plains and where roads exist they are usually earthen tracks. Mr. Elliott shortly returns, and the journey to his home on the other side of the Equator will take about six weeks. He came to Newfoundland via Brazil to Liverpool, but will take in some of the Canadian and American cities on the way back. The Mr. Wm. Downer referred to is also a native of Fogo, which place he left thirty years ago. He returned on a visit some 8 years ago and married Mr. Elliott's mother.

With large hats is worn the long, elaborately embroidered veil; and with the draped toque the short nose veil is seen.

 1087—THE PHARMACY

"Society Protection Animals Tag Day."

The organizing arrangements for Saturday Society Protection of Animals Tag Day is practically now completed. Replies from the Principals of nearly all of the schools of the city have been received offering their kind help and the children that have been appointed to represent the schools to act as Tag Day Salesmen of Saturday will meet at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon in the Presbyterian School, being a central place, to receive their instructions for Saturday's work. The tags and collection boxes will be distributed there and the children will be given their respective stations which will cover the entire city. There will be about 300 workers engaged in the work including Boy Scouts Patrol under special instructions from Scout Master Mr. Robert Furlong. The Ladies Committee, with Mrs. J. B. Mitchell as convener will meet in the Presbytery on Hall Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and will also be at the Presbytery Hall on Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon as this will be the headquarters and where the Boy Scouts will act as orderlies. If the day is fine the children will start work at 8.30 a.m. until noon when boxes will be collected by the Committee by the aid of a motor car which will call at the stations. In the afternoon there will be another different lot of collectors who will begin work at 2 o'clock and will finish at 5 o'clock when another motor car with Scoutmaster R. Furlong will make the collection of the boxes from the collectors at the various collecting stations, so as to relieve the children from having to bring the boxes back to the headquarters at the Presbyterian Hall. Mr. Furlong, Scoutmaster of the Boy Scouts has kindly offered to act as Tag Day Treasurer. Unless the Society is well supported on Saturday by the general public it will curtail seriously their activities. A synopsis of the work of the S. P. A. has been furnished weekly in the press so that the public may judge the character of the work they are doing in caring for "Our Dumb Animals." The Society is trying to do its utmost the fill a useful place in the community in caring for our old and diseased dogs, tired, overworked and diseased horses and other animals and we hope the public will show their appreciation by generous response to Saturday's appeal.

The Canadian Dollar.

The value of the Canadian dollar is now practically on a par with that of the United States, after having been subject for some years to a substantial discount. No doubt one factor in bringing about this result is the large reduction in imports of coal. In the United States the interruption of transportation and production by strikes lessened the purchasing power of the dollar, while in Canada, as production has not been interrupted to the same extent, the relative purchasing power of the dollar has increased substantially. This does not necessarily indicate the advent of greater prosperity. The discount on the Canadian dollar in the United States, where our largest purchases are made, operated as a restraint on imports from that country and tended to restrict them to essential requirements. Now that this restriction has been removed, it is more than ever necessary for us to make a conscious effort to limit our purchases, as far as possible, to such articles as are required to further production in this country. This, of course, applies to the public as well as to personal and business requirements. It cannot be said in respect of any of these that we in Canada have practised severe economy. If the restoration of the value of the Canadian dollar to a parity with that of the United States has the effect of stimulating the expenditure of money in unproductive undertakings of any kind, post-war adjustments will be seriously delayed.—Bank of Commerce Circular.

Baffling Bolsheviks.

ADVENTURES OF A SECRET SERVICE AGENT.

The greatest insult you can offer a Russian Bolshevik is to call him a "radish," this being the scornful epithet invented by Trotsky to designate those who are red only on the outside.

The real Reds, the genuine Bolsheviks, that is to say, out and out followers of Lenin and Trotsky, are known as "beetroots." They are red all through.

Regarding both types, Sir Paul Duke has much of interest to tell in his book, "Red Dusk and the Morrow."

Sir Paul was for two years at the head of the British Secret Service in Soviet Russia, and speaking from experience with a false Russian passport, which declared him to be a commissary of the dreaded "Extraordinary Commission," and speaking Russian like a native, he was able to rescue several British subjects from Bolshevik dungeons.

Money was the key that enabled him to unlock their prison doors. Very few Red Guards were unbrilliant. But they wanted cash down—and plenty of it, for they were playing fast and loose with their lives, as they well knew.

It took, for instance, £1,500 in English sovereigns to get one English lady, Mrs. Lydia Marsh, out of the prison wherein she was waiting execution.

The bribed guard called her by name from the common-room of the gaol, where she was herded with about twenty other women. Such a summons, as a rule, meant but one thing, immediate death by shooting, and Mrs. Marsh came out resigned to her fate.

Instead, however, of being conducted to the courtyard where the executions took place, she was taken to a room where, lying in the corner, she saw a dark green shawl and a shabby hat, with two slips of paper attached. One of them was a pass in an unknown name, stating that the holder had entered the building at four o'clock and must leave before seven. The other had scrawled on it the words: "Walk straight into St. Isaac's Cathedral."

There she was met by Sir Paul, disguised, of course, and by him she was escorted across the frontier into Finland.

There were other ladies in the party, including two pretty girls of fifteen and seventeen, daughters of the Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, the Tsar's uncle, who had been arrested a day or so before.

The Bolshevik authorities soon learnt, through their spies in London, of the author's presence in Russia, and tried their hardest to catch him. Several times they nearly succeeded.

Once, while crossing the frozen Gulf of Kronstadt on one of his many journeys between Petrograd and Finland, the searchlights from the fortress found him. But, dressed all in black, with black gloves, and face blackened, he lay flat on an expanse of nearly black ice where no snow was, and so escaped their notice.

Eventually the quest after him became so hot that he took the bold step of joining the Red Army with a view to throwing the pursuers off his trail. He served for some months, and then got himself officially "killed" with the connivance of his commanding officer. And all the while, once a week for two whole years, he maintained interrupted communication with his chief in London.—Pearson's Weekly.

PIPING TALE ABOUT A MILLIONAIRE SKIPPER AND VAST SMUGGLING OPERATIONS AT HALIFAX.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Halifax is given some peculiar publicity by an article in the London Sunday Times, purporting to give some reasons why the United States is not as dry as it might be.

Thirteen is Lucky.

FAMOUS PEOPLE WHO LIKE THAT NUMBER.

There are plenty of notable people alive to-day, who so far as being afraid of "13" count it their lucky number.

One may doubt the story that the Customs authorities at Halifax entertain unwarlike vessels which have no proper papers to show their lawful occasions upon the high seas are, under international law, in the same category as pirates.

Baseball Through English Eyes.

"Gaddy" in London "Daily Herald." Having spent a quiet Sunday afternoon at Stamford Bridge amid a crowd of gum-grinding, but otherwise well-conducted American citizens, I am in a position to inform all whom it may concern and divers others, that the game of baseball, unlike knurr and spell, coddam, spillkins, and beaver is played by the spectators. This simplifies matters greatly.

It is true that two teams, numbering nine aside, and dressed like nothing on earth, ramble on to the field and proceed to knock a ball about.

A citizen known as a "pitcher" (poor old Arthur Binstead) add wearing an out-size in gloves, hurls balls with marked ferocity at another citizen, known as the "batter," whose life invariably is saved by yet another citizen, masked and padded like an Assyrian bull-fighter, and denominated a "catcher."

Also there is an umpire, who makes guttural noises at intervals. And there are the "also rans," uncouth-looking individuals who stand about the field and hope for the best.

Sometimes the batter, who is armed with a sort of over-fed truncheon, takes an unexpected swipe at the ball and knocks it into the adjoining borough, or, alternatively, on to the roof of the "homeplate" pavilion, on which it descends with unseemly violence. More often he lets the catcher absorb it.

All these things I learned when I visited the American University club versus London Canadians match in company with the talented artist, Lance Mattinson, with a view to studying the American in captivity. When we arrived on the stricken field the sun was shining in a manner of speaking, and the air was filled with a low rumbling sound which I attributed, wrongly, to the adjacent Underground.

It proceeded, as a matter of fact, from the mouths of the audience, whose jaws worked in and out rhythmically and regularly. No, they weren't saying anything, they were just chewing it.

As the clock struck 3, eighteen gladiators sauntered on to the "diamond," whereupon the spectators, like one man, swallowed their chicket, crammed their Stetsons over the top parts of their determined dials, and howled.

Encouragement? Not on your life. Your baseball "fan" would be excited to Buncombe, Bo., or sent to the electric chair if he was caught encouraging anybody. His mission is to tell the Other Side what he thinks of them, and this does with much vigor.

"If you listen hard," said Mattinson, who had already been initiated into the game, "you'll hear some good rooting." I heard it all right.

Before me and behind me, all round me and on top of me, the assembled citizens gave tongue. The pitcher flung his ball at the "home-plate" and the batter heaved his club at it and missed.

The umpire shouted something, but nobody took any notice. The "rooters" were prepared to do any shouting that might be required, and they sure did it. They said:—

"Half an hour late!" "That guy can't hit what he can't see!"

"Lean on her, boy!" "He swings like a rusty gate!"

"He's good, he's good, but he can't play BALL!"

These things I know they said, because Mattinson, who has been studying the language through the post, translated them for me. They also said other things, but Lance refused to translate these. He said they were too technical. Also that I was too young to know.

The pitcher, having discussed normally with the umpire at some length, repeated the dose, with a like result, whereupon the congregation tendered a little helpful advice, as thus:—

"Give this guy a tennis racket!" "He's got a hole in his hat."

"He thinks it's a Peace Conference!" "He don't know the game; he's read about it!"

It was about this time that I understood why the London Baseball League had gone to the trouble of erecting a net between the players and the audience.

That batter was beginning to look savage, and his club weighed a couple of hundredweight.

We stuck it like Trojans, did Mattinson and I, but the noise would have made a brass band look like a harpichord. When the rooters weren't rooting, the balls were crashing down on the roof like a young air raid.

When a citizen took up a vacant seat behind me, and feverishly unpacked a megaphone. I thought it was time to make for my own home-plate, and semaphored as much to my companion. He led the way. I'll admit he protested but the fact remains—he led the way!

"You'll like the game," he howled to me, as we made our way to the gates, "when you get to know it better. It's a faster game than cricket, and it's brighter.

"No blooming stonewalling, for instance. Everybody gets a chance to bat in the ball game, my lad."

"The bawl game is right!" I screamed back, but he didn't seem to see the joke. Which was, perhaps, as well.

As we passed through the turnstile I could still hear one bull-voiced "fan" announcing, "He's a fine pitcher, I'll tell the world!" I think he must have meant the next world.

But I'm going to the next match, for all that. And I'm going to take a portable steam-syrin along, in case I feel lonely like!

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

SAID FATHER TIME. Old Time comes sweeping down the way.

And says: "Well, here's another day! Another stretch of hours for you. To work and laugh and scamper through."

And when the last of them is gone, Will you be any further on? "To-morrow with the rising sun I'll come to see what you have done. Think you that I shall find at dawn That you have mowed your patch of lawn."

And fixed the gate which needs repair, Or put away that rubbish there? "To-morrow when I call again And find you in the haunts of men, Will you have anything to show For all the hours which come and go? Or will you still be sitting down With nothing done to your renewa?"

"To-morrow when I pass your door, Will all be as it was before, With nothing changed and nothing new."

To mark the day you've squandered through? Shall I go by and smile and say It's just the same as yesterday? "Let's mark the spot you're standing near."

To-morrow shall I find you here, The goal you seek as far away As now it seems to be to-day? Or when I call will you be gone, Fighting your battle farther on?"

English Newspapers.

A newspaper is not duly bound to point, anything that it doesn't want to print. There is no rule, says the Burlington N.J. Enterprise, that requires it to print something of absolutely no news value just because somebody wants it printed. It is not obliged to effusively laud some person where laudation is not earned, nor to lambaste some individual where adverse criticism is not deserved.

It is not printed for the purpose of satisfying selfish motives. There is not the remotest reason why it should give away its space to somebody who is running something for monetary benefit.

The mission of a newspaper is to print news of general interest. Advertising is not news. Something concerning a single individual is not news. An article skinning some private enemy or opponent is not news.

Numerous other things of a like nature that find their way into a newspaper office are not news. It is not hard for a trained newspaper man to draw the distinguishing line. It is not hard for anybody to draw a distinguishing line if he will stop a moment and give the matter a thought.

True it is, that a newspaper gives away much, especially where charity and the remotest reason why it should give away its space to somebody who is running something for monetary benefit.

"Der Tag": Nelson and Beatty.

By ROBERT BRIDGES.

No doubt 'twas a truly Christian fight When the German ships came out of the night. But it can't be said it was much of a fight.

That gray November morning, The wonderful day, the great Der Tag, Which Prussians had vow'd with unmannerly brag Should see Old England lower her flag.

Some gray November morning, The spirit of Nelson, that haunts the Fleet, Had come whereabout the ships must meet.

But he fear'd there was some decoy or cheat That gray November morning, When the enemy, led by a British scout, Stole 'twixt our lines . . . and never a shout.

Or a signal, and never a gun spoke out. That gray November morning, So he shaped his course to the Admiral's ship.

Where Beatty stood with hand on hip, Impassive, nor ever moved his lip. And touching his shoulder, he said: "My mate, Am I come too soon or am I too late? Is it friendly manoeuvres or pageant of state?"

This gray November morning? Then Beatty said: "As Admiral here, In the name of the King I bid you a good cheer: It's not my fault that it looks so queer."

This gray November morning, But there come the enemy all in cues; They can fight well enough if only they choose: Small blame to me if the fools refuse, This gray November morning.

"That's Admiral Reuter, surrendering nine Great dreadnoughts, all first-rates of the line; Beyond, in the haze that veils the brine This gray November morning, Loom five heavy cruisers, and light ones four, With a tail of destroyers, fifty or more, Each squadron under its Commodore, This gray November morning.

The least of all those captive queens Could have knock'd your whole navy to smithereens. And nothing said of the other machines. On a gray November morning, The aeroplanes and the submarines, Bombs, torpedoes, and Zeppelins, Their floating mines and their smoky screens, of a gray November morning.

"They rage like bulls sans reason or time, And next day, as if 'twere a pantomime, They walk in like cows at milking-time. On a gray November morning, We're four years sick of the pestilent mob — You've heard of our Biblical Battle in Gosh — At times it was hardly a gentleman's job."

Of a gray November morning, Then Nelson said: "God bless my soul! How things are changed in this age of coal! For the spiteful it isn't with you I'd contend."

This gray November morning, By George! you've netted a monstrous catch: You'll be able to pen the best dispatch That ever an Admiral wrote under hatch. On a gray November morning.

"I like your looks and I like your name; My heart goes out to the old Fleet's fame, And I'm pleased to find you so spry at the game. This gray November morning, Your ships, tho' I don't half understand Their build, are stouter and better mann'd Than anything I ever had in command. Of a gray November morning."

Then Beatty spoke: "Sir, none of my crew All bravest of brave and truest of true, Is thinking of me so much as of you. This gray November morning, And Nelson replied: "Well, thanks, your chat, Forgive my intrusion! I take off my hat And make you my bow . . . we'll leave it at that. This gray November morning."

Says Versailles Treaty. GREATER CAULDRON OF HATED. LONDON.—General Ian Hamilton has asked an "interesting" question. "Why is it," he inquired, "that the two last successful wars, one against the Boers in South Africa, and the others against the Germans, had such opposite results? How is it that the Boers put an end to the feuds, race-hatreds, bankruptcies, disorders and bloodshed which had paralyzed South African progress for a generation, while the Great War, on the contrary, has inflicted race-hatred, bankruptcy and murder over the best part of the world, from Ireland to the Near East, and turned Central Europe into a seething cauldron of hate?"

And the General has answered his own question, which was propounded at the recent unveiling of a war memorial. "It is because of politicians entirely ignored the ideals of those to whom we have raised war memorials by making a vindictive instead of a generous peace," he said. "This is not the place to set forth what I think of the Versailles Treaty," the General continued. "All I can say, that is spite of it, the cause of peace is not yet lost if only you will fix your minds rather on the intentions of the boys to whom this beautiful memorial has been raised, than upon the acts which have frustrated those intentions."

King George intercedes for man who would attack him. LONDON.—The moment ex-police inspector Syms gets out of jail he can do so safely, he is released. Recently he made a speech in Trafalgar Square and threatened to do for the king if the authorities did not right his wrongs for him. On falling to furnish securities for his good behaviour he was again sent to prison for three months, and at once declined to eat. King George is interested in Syms, and anxious that he should try to create a disturbance. When he is locked up he starts hunger-striking. When the prison doctors think he has gone hungry as long as he can do so safely, he is released. Recently he made a speech in Trafalgar Square and threatened to do for the king if the authorities did not right his wrongs for him. On falling to furnish securities for his good behaviour he was again sent to prison for three months, and at once declined to eat. King George is interested in Syms, and anxious that he should not stave himself to death. So his Majesty asked that he be released before he got too weak. So he is again at liberty, but the authorities are watching him closely.

It is easier to make mayonnaise dressing in large quantities than in small. Have everything very cold, and use three eggs to a quart of oil. When finished to keep dressing from curdling, add a tablespoon boiling water to every three eggs.

MAKING NEW WALLS.—Plans are being prepared for the erection of a retaining wall, where road improvements were made during the past summer. The new walls will be of concrete and replace those battered and by wooden piles.
