After going five miles the enemy were found s'atrenched. The gunbosts fired among them and the entrenchments were carried. The troops then advanced to carry the fortified village with the bayonet, but the defence was so vigorous that they were thrice repulsed. Foward evening the French finding their attempts fruitless, decided to renew the disck next morning and the center column met with a faint resistance an'. occupied Hanoi. They there awaited the turning movement of the left colum. The latter advanced along left colum. The latter suvanced stong the road which the late Captain Rivere took. Four hundred Chinese accompanied the column, which reached Vong and there found the road barred by a strong entrench-ment of artillery. They then fired into the works. The column advanced with diffi-culty owing to the floods. The horses were unused to harness, and refused to drag the guns. The men took their places in drag-eing up the artillery.

ging up the artillery. When within three hundred yards of the enemy's entrenchments the French opened fire and for a time there was no return, but after some delay they opened with a tre-mendous fusilade, which checked the ad-vance. It was manifest that the position could not be carried by direct attack, and a fink movement was impossible, so the a fink movement was impossible, so the French retreated. The enemy shouting in a discontinue from the entrenchments and began a surrent. They pressed around both flanks of the retreating column. The French then fired shell into the ranks a of their pursuars, but they continued to follow. Some of the Oarsmen Row Over the Tourse Twice-Banlan Said to Feel Bad Over His Detent.

The following account of the race in which Hanlan was swamped at Fall River is from the New York Times. It is a much better account of the affair than any that has been telegraphed to Canadian paperse At 6.15 c'clock the contestants were got an position as follows: Elliot, Hanlan, Lee, 'Ten Eyck, P. N. Hamm, McKay, Hosmer, Ross, Driscoll, Treemer, Riley, Plaisted and Gaisel. When the signal "go" was given by the starter, on account of the indistinctness of his voice and the darkness, P. N. Hamm, Riley, Hosmer, Plaisted and Gaisel failed to start. The others rowed over the course, despite several signals from tainly demands our admiration, but with a the referee's boat to return. A man of such ability and liberality is combined will be greatly in demand at all our sea-side resorts as econ as enterprising landlords learn of his existence. These is andlords have hither to paid fair wages and drew to the front of the other competitor and made a pretty race as they sped along the course. Hanlan was soon far in advance of any other coatestant and was soon far in advance bera quite easily. He arrived at the turn fully two lengths in advance of Ross, who was followed by Teemer, but owing to a imishap when turning the buoy he was imishap when turning the buoy he was swamped and forced to go back to the boat house. Ross and Teemer took the lead and made a good race. Teemer worked hard and gradually gained on Ross to the finish, common in a leadth of the head coming in a length and a half ahead. McKay was third. The time was not taken, and when the men came to the finish they were surprised to learn that the race had to be rowed over.

More than the ordinary amount of diffi-culty was experienced in getting the rowers into position again, and on account of the exhausted condition of those who had pulled over the course they may allowed the over the contestants giving a stroke in concert, and Hanlan being in advance of the others. Ingenious persons are already asking if the doctor's schooner may not have been as fenian cruiser. Of course, such people confound the objective and subjective in a way that would bring tears to the eyes of a Concord philosopher. The question is, what is the doctor's favorit beverage, and where does he get it? It is to be hoped that in the interest of science and hotel keepers he will answer the question without delay.
A Bude of the Last Century. From the Boston Heraid.
A new kind of dandy appeared in 1770. It was customary in the last century for yourg men of rank to finish their education by making the gramd tour of the continent, and a number of them at the close of their travels formed a club in St. James street, which they called the Savior Vivre club. They had periodical dinners, at which they called the Savior Vivre club. over the course they were allowed ten min-utes to rest themselves. of them had to be destroyed and others sold for a small sum, there are still seven invalid horses cut at grass which are not yet unable to resume their usual work. The av-erage cost of these heavy horses is now, owing to the high price of horse flesh, about 8275 each and a prove a dram are last or $275 each, and as over a dozen are lost or acitated from work every permanently incapacitated from work every summer from nail pricks it amounts to a pretty large sum in the aggregate, but a large additional loss is sustained by the time which is lost by the horses while in hospital. It is probable that the aggregate annual loss sustained by the Shelden company, through the horses getting their feet pricked, will amount to over $4000, and if so large a loss is incurred by one company, how great must be the loss among all the carters throughout the city and suburbs.

AN ALLIGATOR IN FEATHERS. hat a Woman who Lost 11 of Her Children Found in Her Pillow. A Pittsburg despatch to the New York Sunday Sun says : Hundreds of people within the past four days have visited the house of Mrs. John Smith, on McLane aveaue, sttracted by stories of witchcraft in onnection with the death of a number of her children. Mrs. Smith, a woman of fair intelligence, was seen, and tells the following remarkable story, which is vouched for by r neighbors : "I have been married for nineteen years and in that time have become the mother of twenty children. Of the twenty only three are now living, the births and deaths having averaged one a year. The last death oc-curred a few weeks ago, the child being an infant. A week or so ago a neighbor, Mr. Caffrey, who had been sick for some time, Caffrey, who had been sick for some time, found a curious formation of flowers, roses and crosses in the pillow of his bed, made of feathers. After fluding them he became better. I came home and looked through my pillows and feather beds. My husband had been ailing for some time, and in his pillow I found an alligator woven out of feathers. It was about fifteen inches long and two inches wide, and the feathers were so tightly woven that I could hardly pull so tightly woven that I could hardly pul them out. I did not know what to make them out. I did not know what to make of ir, and asked some of the neighbors. They said it was the work of a witch. I kept the curious piece of feather work for a day or two, until I became an-noyed by the hundreds of people who called to see it. Some wanted to buy it. I burn-ed the alligator, with all my bedding, yes-terday. I don't know whether to account for the death of my ascentee children terday. I don't know whether to account for the death of my seventeen children through this evil influence or not, but think there is something in it." The superstitious are all agog over development. There are not less than three witch doctors in this city who practice strange mummeries, and they have large practice. Strange to say, half large practice. Strange to say, half a d zen similar cases have occurred in the last six months, one case resulting in a suit in Court. The story of the Smith woman regarding her numerous and fated progeny is as nuch a novelty as the witchcraft story she tells. Her husband is employed at Diver's wire mill. New York Markets.

A Grievance Among Horse Owners-Valnable Animals Injured by Nails. From the Montreal Witness, Aug. 21.

At noon to-day a number of gentlemen, including representatives of the various city papers, visited the stables of the Shedden company on William street, by special in. vitation of Mr. Hugh Paton, the manager of that company, who took this mode of
