

The Weekly Monitor.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1st, 1882.

The recent agricultural and industrial exhibition throughout the Province has developed some very interesting facts which should suggest important considerations to our farmers in this valley. Yarmouth, Liverpool, Truro, Antigonish, and Sidney, have all been centres for the exhibition of the various products of which each of these places is a centre. Among them all no district is more eminently adapted for the production of fine agricultural products than that comprised by the Counties of King, Annapolis and Queen, and if the reports from the various exhibitions that have come to us through our exchanges be correct (with the exception of fruit) we have been quite equalled if not outstripped by these favored districts. This fact naturally leads us to inquire why, with all the great natural advantages of soil and climate we were not able to make a much finer exhibit of cereals at our recent exhibition at Annapolis than we did? It is quite true our preparations were of two hurried characters. The Committee in charge of the erection of the building did all they could to complete arrangements in time for a fair display of the exhibits and much credit is due them for accomplishing what they did. But the fault is not in the lack of preparation by the Committee.

With the exception of the fruit our exhibits fell far short of what might be expected in view of our great advantages. Thoughtful agriculturists have for some time been fully alive to the fact that they were devoting too much attention to fruit raising and too little to the production of other crops. The raising of grains of various kinds is by far too much neglected, as is also that of various root crops. The results that other less favored districts, by giving attention to the cultivation of these crops, are enabled to outstrip in the race for distinction in these departments of products. We trust an effort will be made by the various agricultural Societies throughout the County to bring these facts prominently before their members, and that the result will be a decided improvement in the departments now so much neglected. Unless some such measures be adopted our farmers may take it for granted that the time is not far distant when our fine County will be deprived of that distinction she has so long enjoyed by virtue of her great natural advantages.

School Examinations. The customary fall examinations of the two departments of the Bridgetown school were held on Friday last. A large number of visitors attended. The department under the care of Miss Boynton was examined during the forenoon session. The classes acquitted themselves creditably. In the reading and spelling exercises the children showed good care and thoroughly they had been trained. Even the smallest children seemed to understand clearly the ground principles of elocution, in grammar, geography and arithmetic equal proficiency was manifested. The recitations and oral exhibitions were exceedingly pleasing. It was obvious that all the visitors were well satisfied with the general character of the examination. Miss Boynton continues to sustain her well earned reputation as a superior teacher, and the whole appearance of her school indicates steady progress and cheerfulness. In the afternoon the classes under the instruction of Mr. Fields were examined. Some regret was expressed that the number of pupils present was not as large as the list of names on the register would lead the public to expect. It was stated, in explanation, that a few of the pupils were unavoidably absent on account of illness; but it is feared a much larger number were absent on account of culpable indifference on the part of parents as well as of the pupils. The examination, however, was a most praise-worthy one; nothing was slighted or passed over in a superficial way. Let what you do to do well, would seem to be the teacher's motto, and his classes certainly show that they endeavor to carry this principle into practice. The exercises in the various branches of study were highly satisfactory. To particularize is almost unnecessary, but it may be remarked that the exercises in British history and in advanced geography would have been creditable in any of our provincial academies. We are not at all surprised that so many of the pupils of Mr. Fields have successfully passed their examinations for teachers. Such thorough and careful training as he endeavors to give his classes cannot fail to lead the pupils to a high grade of scholarship. If those who sometimes indulge in the spirit of unjust complaint would attend these examinations and visit the school occasionally to see what is being done there, they would discover a common practice which does great harm to the school and great injustice to the teachers—we mean the practice of circulating unfavorable reports which have no foundation in truth. The one-sided theories of indolent and disorderly pupils are received at home, and parents without fairly investigating such cases take sides against teachers who are faithfully doing their very best to promote the intellectual and moral welfare of the children.

We have a first-class school and first-class teachers; let us therefore support and encourage them to the very best of our ability. The result will be that good work will be done in both departments of the school, and our young men and young women of the future will take a high rank intellectually and morally in the various spheres of usefulness to which they may devote their energies.

J. W. Beckwith's stock of Boots and Shoes is now complete and warranted to give satisfaction. He has Ladies' Best French Kid Button Boots at $2.50, and takes great pleasure in showing them.

Harper's Magazine for November, concluding the thirty-fifth volume of that periodical, is a brilliant number. Miss Constance Fenimore Woolson's new serial "For the Major," which is commenced in this number, promises to be even stronger as a work of art than her last novel "Anna," which has attained for her so high a place in American fiction. "The Early Quaker" in England and Pennsylvania is not only an interesting and valuable historical article, but is especially timely in connection with the approaching celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of William Penn's landing at New Castle. W. D. Howells contributes a dramatic poem of considerable length entitled "Ferdinand." "Across Lots" is a charming paper by William Hamilton Gibson, accompanied by the author's drawings. Mr. Gibson also contributes the frontispiece illustration for this number entitled "Deverie." William H. Bishop contributes an interesting and beautifully illustrated description of the San Joaquin Valley. Miss Ellen Mackay Hutchinson's poem "Bride's Toilet" is a bold and original conception. Miss Kate Hillard's article, "The House of the Doones," will be extremely interesting to those who have read Louisa Doone. Alice G. Howe contributes a beautiful description of Manchester by the sea (Massachusetts) in autumn. Mr. W. S. Stansie Kenney, in "The Vertical Railway," gives its history and improvements. Professor John Pike contributes an exceedingly interesting picture of Virginia in the Colonial Period. Mr. Junius Henri Brown treats the "Problem of Living in New York." Carleton, Burne and others contribute poems. George William Curtis, in "Editor's Easy Chair," discusses timely topics. The other editorial departments are well sustained.

We expected to receive a communication from the Secretary of the Association containing the minutes of the meeting, but it has not yet reached us. The following are the officers for the ensuing year: President—Lt. Col. W. E. Starratt. Vice President—Lt. Col. R. H. Parker. Secretary—Capt. James Elliot, Hanger Master—Capt. Jas. Letter of Condolence. To the bereaved Widow and Family of the late Mrs. Mary Ann Whittman. Reported Friend—We deem it our duty and privilege to address you on the occasion of the death of your beloved husband and father, and to convey to you some expression of our high appreciation of his worth, and also to sympathize with you in your bereavement. For more than thirty years our departed brother was connected with the Methodist Division, No. 14, South of Temperance, and through that long-continued period his unflinching attachment to the order was evinced. In sunshine and shade, in prosperity and adversity, his presence and counsels cheered us. His presence held its meeting at Granville Ferry he was seldom absent until through failing health he was unable to attend, and his genial and hearty cooperation helped us in our work. When the Division closed its doors and suspended operation for a time he mourned. He was one of the active agents in the removal of the meetings of the Division to Stony Brook, and in connection with the blessing of Providence, to its present prosperous condition. When increasing numbers rendered the necessity of holding a hall for the accommodation of the Division, he was the first to offer the use of his residence, and by a generous subscription. During his protracted illness, he fondly hoped to see the new hall completed, and that privilege which he had so long lived to see the cause in which he felt an unyielding interest greatly revived. He rejoiced in the adoption by the County of Annapolis, of the Canada Temperance Act, and in witnessing the advancement of temperance principles in the community where he resided. He lived to see, as the result of his influence and example, all his children identified with the order of Sons of Temperance, his sons with himself became members of the Grand Division, and until death removed his beloved son, John E., all were actively engaged in promoting the interests of the order. His death is greatly lamented by us all, not only by the older members, by whose side he has so long stood as a cheerful worker and a confidential friend, but also by the younger members, who always appreciated his cheerful counsel and companionship. We tender to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy, and mourn with you in your bereavement. May the presence and blessing of the God of all consolation comfort and sustain you, and may we all at last meet in that "land of pure delight," where we will not need to contend against the debilitating influence of the demon of temperance, but enjoy eternally the society of the loved who have gone before us. Above all, the commendation of Him who ever bids us "work while the day lasts." With much sympathy, we remain yours respectfully, (Signed) IRISH S. DELAP, J. STANLEY, J. STANLEY-MCKENZIE, M. C. C.

To the W. P. Officers and Members of New Brunswick Division, No. 14, Sons of Temperance. Reported Friend—We would hereby acknowledge the receipt of your kind and sympathetic letter in our sad bereavement, and express our appreciation of the sentiments which it contains. Hoping that others may be raised up to fill the breaches in your ranks made by death, and that our lives may never dishonor the name our lamented husband and father has left us. Signed on behalf of the family, C. A. ANDREWS.

A great advance has been made on Eggs this week by J. W. Beckwith. 11

The Daily Evening News of Oct. 23rd, says:—"The pioneer vessel of our Ocean Steamship Line, the Cedar Grove, is on her return voyage to Britain, having taken this complete her cargo at that port. So far the vessel has been very fortunate. She left British waters for this side the Atlantic with a fair cargo. She had a good voyage, sailing on a continuous high head wind, a swift voyage. She delivered her cargo at Halifax and St. John in excellent condition without any mishap whatever. Her arrival here was welcomed with much enthusiasm. The operation of interest has been taken in the enterprise which she is to aid in carrying out. She was unloaded with despatch, and returned, with a small band of respectable passengers, quickly obtained for her. She will probably have a rapid passage across the Atlantic. She is accompanied with all manner of good wishes."

This is the steamer which was expected at one time to obtain her load at Annapolis, but subsequently procured her cargo on the Halifax. We trust that on her return of the "Cedar Grove" sufficient inducements will be offered by our shippers to bring the steamer to Annapolis for her next load.

D. Banks McKenna is now a practicing physician at Salt Lake City. It was only a year or so ago he gave up lecturing on Homoeopathy as a student of a Baptist minister.

The Lunenburg Progress says: "The public should be on their guard against bills of the Bank of Acadia, of Liverpool, which filled some years ago, as some have recently been in circulation."

The only crown jewel that a country editor will ever wear will be the beads of perspiration which adorn his forehead when he gets through writing, with the hand-press after working off his whole edition.

"Too late to what the sword which the trumpet sounds to draw it? But never too late to what your appetite by taking Kidney-Wort, restoring health, and making yourself a well, strong hearty man. It is unacquainted as a remedy for all liver, bile and kidney diseases. All druggists keep and recommend it."

Santa Isabel Light. - The new light on the West end of Santa Isabel Island, the structure is 28 feet high, and is lighted by gas, twenty miles distant. This light is to replace the one destroyed last spring. It will be placed on the island than the old Santa Isabel Light.

Shirley Robinson, of Annapolis, while attending a party named Foster some days ago, was assaulted by him. The sheriff did not appear with a pistol, wounding him, after which he was lodged in jail.

Trusty Monitor. - Potatoes have been sent from Nova Scotia to the Editor of the St. John, N. B., Freeman, as a present. The Editor describes them as "Foster's potatoes," and says "each potato is enough for one day." Lucky Editor! He can live for 30 days.

The Scott Act was sustained yesterday in Fredericton, but the bill is highly objectionable. That Act is to be highly efficient needs to be sustained by an over-whelming force of public opinion. It is in operation. In 1878 the Act was carried in Fredericton by a majority of 100.

Church Conventions. - It was rather a remarkable coincidence that the Convention of the Episcopalian Synod for the Sunday evening services the week of the British visit to the Egyptian, contained the following passage: "The last saint of Egypt and destroyed by his host, he was slain by his army."

Mr. E. H. Brewer, Accountant of the Union Bank and Major of the 6th P. E. I. F. died in Halifax on Saturday last. He had been ill for some time, and had a long time in his death on Wednesday previous to his demise. He was sincerely regretted for he was well-known and very popular with the customers of the bank and with citizens generally.

On Monday last, two convicts named Perry and Breen escaped from the Penitentiary. The latter was stopped and compelled to surrender, but the former, having persistently disregarded the warning signs, was at length shot down by one of the guards, the bullet going right through his body and causing instant death. He was a mere boy, only seventeen, and under sentence of seven years for highway robbery at Sussex. The coroner's jury had earlier pronounced the verdict that the prisoner had committed suicide.

Managers of Fisheries. - A new feature among our trades is the shipping of live poultry to the Boston market via the Halifax line. We were informed on Wednesday last, by one in the business, that a handsome profit was being realized from this industry. It would be well for our farmers to consider this matter, and devote their leisure hours during the coming winter to planning for the erection of hen-houses as we believe, many a dollar might be turned in this direction. In no country can hens be raised more successfully than here; and the United States is a never-failing market for anything in the shape of poultry.

The Murder in Winnipeg. - Winnipeg, Oct. 27. - Archie McDonald, who lives on St. James street, N. B., and had been working at the Penitentiary, was arrested by Robert B. Garvin, a locomotive engineer, who formerly ran an engine on the Louisville and Nashville road. McDonald slapped Garvin in the face. One of the witnesses testified that McDonald walked four or five steps and dropped dead. He was arrested and brought before the coroner's jury yesterday, when the jury brought in a verdict of "murder."

Washington Letter. - (Regular Correspondence.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23rd, 1882. Washington has long been attracted beyond any city in this hemisphere, at least for the grandeur of its public edifices. It is no longer a generally known fact that it has a larger number of colossal bronze equestrian statues than any city in the world. But what I wish to write about to-day is the splendor of the private residences that have been erected in the last five years. These residences may perhaps be equaled by some private places that have been built in New York by the Stewarts, Vanderbilts, Tildens, and other millionaires; but for luxury, splendour, and an unassisted use of air, earth and sky, the width of street and park in the capital city presents advantages in building which no city of more commercial and manufacturing growth can rival. It is perhaps a mistake to call any of these houses recently built by Mr. Blaine and other millionaires state-ment private residences. It is true that the owner will have a sleeping apartment that will be, at certain hours, free from the intrusion of his admiring constituents, but the plans and appointments of Mr. Blaine's immense palace on Massachusetts avenue, are peculiarly adapted to the latitude, the life, the society and the politics of Washington. This mansion was never intended for that retirement from the mad-dening crowd and that ideal privacy and rest which poets and lovers dream about, and which sordid and disappointed people sometimes seek. Mr. Blaine's new house is in the fashionable West end, near the conjunction of Connecticut and Massachusetts avenues, and fronting Dupont circle, which is a pretty circular park, destined, at some time, to have a bronze statue of somebody, perhaps of Mr. Blaine, in it. No park in Washington can escape a bronze statue. But to return to the house, it is the largest residence in Washington, covering less than half an acre, but the house of the British Minister, but being two stories higher. It was designed by the same architect that built the house of the British Minister, but the original designs have been very materially altered by the suggestions of the owner, and it is said Mrs. Blaine has also had something to say about it. Perhaps the most distinctive features of the house is the spaciousness of its halls, its stairways, and its reception rooms.

On the second and third floors are many fine proportioned bed rooms, good closets and bath rooms. There are also a number of closets (see page 2) on the second floor. In one of these, for Mr. Blaine's use, is a Russian hot air bath. The wainscoting above stairs is of Georgia pine. The back staircases, while much smaller, of course, as in planning in its way at the ground one, it runs all the way up to what was first meant only for a lobby, but is now utilized for sleeping rooms, which are well lighted, for the servants, while the dark rooms formed by the slope of the steep roof admit of a large amount of light.

The elevator which is to be used for baggage and which only goes up to the third story, is a handsome finished as those below, and will be used by members of the family.

In the rear of the house are a cistern and a filtering apparatus, the main water from the roof passing through the latter before entering the cistern. This water will be used for drinking.

Terminal Report of the Brigotown School. - The average progress of pupils at the advanced department of the Brigotown School, with the number of days lost and time tardy during the past term will be found in the subjoined table. Names of those in attendance but a few days do not appear.

Persons who may feel shocked at the position of any names for a average progress will please make, when necessary, a liberal deduction from the number of days absent. Any one desiring average for a particular subject can be accommodated at the school room. Further information respecting the division of time, arrangements of studies, amount of work done, or particular management of either school will be cheerfully given, and will probably be more reliable than if otherwise obtained.

All pupils in attendance at either department will hereafter be expected to prepare work during absent absence as regularly attending school, or otherwise take a place in a lower grade; and pupils are kindly requested to attend to this matter.

It is a rule to excuse no scholar coming with unprepared work, and to dismiss none before the regular time without a written request from a parent. All pupils are requested to be punctual in order to ascertain the number sent by each parent, and should irregularly in this way be fostered to as great an extent in the future as the past, it may form a feature of our success.

It will be seen by the table that some pupils are not only very often absent, but occasionally tardy. We are willing as teachers to answer for the attendance of the advanced department of the school, but positively decline any responsibility for the progress of late attendants.

What pupils are not in attendance on a regular basis, but positively decline any responsibility for the progress of late attendants.

THE ROMANTIC STORY OF TWO OHIO PEOPLE.

Eleven years ago Charles H. Martin and Martha Spencer were married in Cleveland, Ohio. After their wedding the young people, with their joint savings, bought a small farm near Berlin and became residents of Lorain County, where they lived for a year. Martin was then attacked with Western fever in its most acute form, and selling his farm, started for the Rocky Valley, Kan. Mrs. Martin was left in Ohio, intending to remain until her husband should locate a farm and send for her. Martin, when he struck the boundless West, caught the fever in least earnest and in six months was sick at Otago City. When first prostrated he wrote for his wife, but the letter never reached her, and shortly before his recovery he received his own mail. He wrote again, but received no response, and when able to travel started for Ohio again with a much lighter purse. He went to Oberlin and found that his wife, after waiting vainly for her husband, had gone to Chester to be aunt's. To Chester Martin proceeded at once, and there was informed that the aunt had occupied a lot in the village cemetery for four months, and that Mrs. Martin had gone to Cleveland. The anxious husband came to Cleveland and advertised and searched, but in vain. Heartbroken and discouraged Martin again departed westward. He lost that little money he had remaining, and roamed about for two years aimlessly. The Black Hills excitement caught him, and he was one of the first to stake out a claim therein. He located several in succession, selling them in turn to newcomers, and at the end of three years found himself worth in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars, which he invested in a stock ranch in Southern Kansas, and settled down to the life of a cattle grower.

For the Ladies.

Do Not Marry a Man to Save Him.

Any girl who marries a man to save him makes a great mistake. Do not do it. The probability is that instead of saving him you will throw yourself away. The man has been the almost universal experience in the past. But the odds are very different with those who already have husbands who drink, or are becoming addicted to this or any other bad habit. Treat him as you would your brother in this respect. Labor with him. Show him you are deeply interested in his welfare, and how earnestly you desire to 'save' him from the evil consequences of his habits. If he is half a man he will be able, with your assistance, to overcome his appetite. Not easily, however. It will require all the manhood he can command, and all the help you can possibly give him. But if a man, and one who respects himself as such, and whom you can respect, he will succeed at last. Such a habit is terrible, however, and your heart's sympathy goes to that wife who has this trial to contend with. You are truly 'an enemy' to her, and you are, and the worst of it is that it is only half conquered when it seems to be entirely so. Many an appetite is only sleeping, and will be awakened in all its original activity and force by a single glass of wine that has been given by a friend. 'Do not' marry a drunkard in hopes that you may 'save' him. But if you are so unfortunate as to have a husband who drinks, leave no possible stone unturned, and strive from no possible effort that will help him out of his evil and terrible habit.
