How far Relief may be Given to non-appealing Party.—Usually where a party seeks to vary a judgment or order, he must himself appeal therefrom; but in some cases, however, a variation of the judgment in favour of a party who has not appealed has been made: see Toronto Junction v. Christie, 25 S. C. R. 551, which was an appeal in an expropriation proceeding, in which the arbitrators had fixed the damage at $100, which, on appeal, Mr. Justice Rose increased to $1,000, and on a further appeal by the expropriators, the Supreme Court of Canada increased the damages to over $1,800: and see Hunter v. Hunter, 24 W. R. 527; but see Stephens v. Chaussé, 15 S. C. R. 379, where it was held that in the absence of a cross appeal, damages could not be increased in favour of the plaintiff. Sometimes the result of a successful appeal necessitates a variation of the judgment in favour of a party who has not appealed; thus where judgment was recovered against a township corporation, and a contractor, restraining them from constructing a drain, and ordering them to pay the costs of the action, but directing the township to indemnify the contractor as to such costs, and the township alone appealed, making the contractor a respondent, which appeal was allowed; it was held that as no case for relief was made against the contractor, except through the township, and the case failing against the township, the action should be dismissed as against both defendants, and that the contractor was entitled to his costs of action, but not of the appeal: Challoner v. Lobo, 1 O. L. R. 156, 292; 32 S. C. R. 505.

In Atty-Gen. v. Simpson, 1901, 2 Ch. 671, a judgment was varied in favour of a respondent, where the appeal was being allowed on other points, although there was no cross-appeal.

See also Jud. Act, s. 12, and notes p. 107, supra.

Settlement of Judgments and Orders of the Appellate Division.—By the regulations of the Judges of 2nd January, 1913, the duty of settling the judgments, and orders, of the Divisional Court of the Appellate Division, was assigned to the Senior Registrar of the High Court Division: when settled, they are signed and issued by the Registrar of the Appellate Division.

Orders made by a Judge of the Appellate Division are to be settled by the Registrar of that Division: Rule 531 (5).

Order on or certificate of appeal—settlement of.

Where the Registrar considers a notice of settling the order, or certificate, of the Appellate Division to be proper, he appoints a time for the purpose, and one day's notice is sufficient.

Moving to vary minutes of certificate.

Any party dissatisfied with the minutes of the order of the Appellate Division as settled, may move to vary them: General Share and Trust Co. v. Wetley, 20 Ch. D. 130; and see notes to Rules 527, 528.

After the order, or certificate, of the Appellate Division has issued, the cause is no longer in the Appellate Division, except as regards any application in reference to the order, or certificate, but all subsequent proceedings are to be taken in the High Court Division, and any application to stay proceedings pending any further appeal must be made to the High Court Division: see Hargrove v. Royal Templars, 2 O. L. R. 126.

The Registrar in drawing up the order or certificate of the Appellate Court may introduce any proper and usual provision though not expressly ordered in the judgment delivered on the appeal, and this authority extends to the insertion of directions for the restitution of money paid in obedience to a reversed judgment: McKindsey v. Armstrong, 11 P. R. 200.

Where the order, or certificate, drawn up and issued, does not conform to the judgment of the Court, a motion may be made to amend it, so as to make it conform thereto: St. John v. Rykert, 3 C. L. T. 119; McKindsey v. Armstrong, 1 P. R. 200; and see notes preceding Rule 521, infra, p. 1139.

Where an injunction order had been varied by the Court of Appeal by suspending its operation for a time, it was held that a further extension might be granted by the Court below: Shelfer v. London Electric, etc., 1895, 2 Ch. 388.

(ii) Stay of Execution Pending Appeal.

Stay of execution.

495. The Judge at the trial may stay the entry of judgment or the issue of execution for a period not exceeding thirty days. New.

As a judgment cannot be enforced, or prosecuted, until it has been entered, a stay of entry is in effect a stay of all proceedings on the judgment, but not a stay of other proceedings, as for example, the settlement of the judgment, or the prosecution of the proceedings in appeal.

Stay of execution.

496. Unless otherwise ordered by a Judge of a Divisional Court the execution of the judgment appealed from shall, upon an appeal being set down to be heard, be stayed, pending the appeal, but if the judgment appealed from awards a mandamus or an injunction, execution shall not be stayed unless so ordered by the Judge of a Divisional Court. C.R. 827.

"Execution of the Judgment."—As to these words: see Monro v. Toronto Ry. Co., 5 O. L. R. 15; Uylaki v. Dawson, 10 O. L. R. 683.

After an appeal has been set down, from the judgment of a Judge, he has no jurisdiction to make an order that execution shall not be stayed: Mullin v. Provincial Construction Co., 16 O. L. R. 241; under this Rule such an order can only be made by a Judge of a Divisional Court.

Staying execution pending appeal

Staying Execution under Judgment appealed from:—

The setting down of an appeal, effects a stay of proceedings, and entitles the appellant to a certificate that any execution in the sheriff's hands has been stayed (a): see Rule 497; but if an injunction, or mandamus, has been grnnted, the entry of an nppeal does not effect a stay, unless expressly ordered; upon an applicatlon to stay, the Court may impose such terms as may aeem fit: Copeland-Chatterson Co. v. Business Systems. 14 O. L. R. 337; Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., 26 Gr. 352; Gossage v. Canadian L. & E. Co., 24 U. C. Q. B. 452; Barker v. Lavery, 14 Q. B. D. 169; Rombough v. Balch, 19 P. R. 123. Rule 496.

An applicatlon under thls Rule to stay a mandamus, or lnjunctlon, pending an appeal, muat be made to the Judge appealed from, or to a Judge of the Appellate Dlvlslon: see Grand Trunk Ry. Co. v. Ont. & Que. Ry. Co., 9 P. R. 420; Wilson v. Church, 11 Ch. D. 576; Otto v. Lindford, 18 Ch. D. 394; Cropper v. Smith, 24 Ch. D. 315.

Where it is desired to carry n judgment or order lnto executlon, pending an appeal, a specla! applicatlon must he made for the purpose to a Judge of a Divislonnl Court: see Rule 496 and Confederation Life Assocn. v. Labatt, 35 C. L. J. 443; Rice v. Rice, 35 C. L. J. 535; Uylaki v. Dawson, 10 O. L. R. 683.

Any order made hy a Judge of the Appellate Dlvlslon ln such matters is subject to appeal: Jud. Act, s. 31, supra. As to appeals from such orders made hy a Judge of the High Court Dlvlsion: see Jud. Act, ss. 24, 25, supra.

An order made under thls Rule is not merely discretlonary so as to preclude the rlght of appeal therefrom: Centaur Cycle Co. v. Hill. 4 O. L. R. 92.

An applicatlon to stay execution, or to allow exscutlon to issue should not he made ex parte: Grand Trunk Ry. v. Ont. & Q. Ry., 9 P. R. 420. But the Court may on such an applicatlon consider whether the appeal is frivolous: Norval v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 7 P. R. 462; or whether the respondent may suffer any injustice hy the stay: see Wintemute v. Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, 19 P. R. 6.

It would seem that an applicatlon under thls Rule for leave to proceed with an execution for money, or to compel the appellant to givs security therefor, will not be granted merely on the ground that the appellant is impecunious: Confederation Life Assen. v. Labatt, 35 C. L. J. 443; Wintemute v. Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. 19 P. R. 6.

An order that execution should not be atayed was refused where an appeal appeared to he prosecuted ln good faith, and upon substantlal grounds, and the effect of the removal of the atay would he practically to close the husiness of the appellant: Centaur Cycle Co. v. Hill, 4 O. L. R. 92.

After an appeal has been entered and execution stayed hy virtue of thls Rule, a Judge of the High Court Dlvlsion has no power to order that execution shall not be stayed: see Mullin v. Provincial Construction Co., supro, p. 1102.

The costs of an applicatlon to stay execution ln England, where there is no enactment similar to this Rule, are, as a general rule, ordered to he paid hy the applicant: see Merry v. Nickalls, L. R. 8 Chy. 205; Cooper v. Cooper, 2 Ch. D. 492; Morgan v. Elford, 4 Ch. 358. In Burdick v. Garrick, L. R. 5 Chy. 453, and Adair v. Young, 11 Ch. D. 136, however, they were made costs in the appeal. Costs of motion.

In Ontario, the costs of applications to stay execntlon, or proceedings, are ln the discretlon of the Court: Jud. Act, s. 74, and the general rule is to make the costs, costs in the appeal. Sometimes formerly they were ordered to be paid by the applicant: see Norval v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 15 C. L. J. 86; 7 P. R. 462; Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., supra, p. 1103; but there is no rule that the costs of an unsuccessful application to remove the stay of execution under this Rule are to be costs in the appeal; they have been ordered to be paid by the applicant: Wintemute v. Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, 19 P. R. 6.

Where execution is stayed under this Rule, the execution is not only stayed, but is superseded, so that it ceases to bind, if it has been issued and placed in the Sheriff's hands; Rule 497, and see O'Donohoe v. Robinson, 10 Ont. App. 622; Vigeon v. Northcote, 15 P. R. 171.

When money made under execution, will be ordered to be refunded, or possession of land be ordered to be restored.

Where the money had been made by the Sheriff, and transmitted to the respondent's solicitor, before an order staying execution was served the Court refused to order such money to be refunded, even though the order staying the execution was granted before the money actually reached the solicitor's hands: McDonell v. McKoy, 2 Chy. Ch. 354; and see Rule 497. But where a suit was brought to restrain an action of ejectment, and the plaintiff failed, and thereupon a writ of hab. foc. poss. had been executed before the proceedings thereon could be stayed, possession was ordered to be restored to the appellant pending the appeal, on his giving security as required by former C. R. 827: Campbell v. Royal Canadian Bank, 19 Gr. 477.

Where a judgment has been stayed pending an appeal, proceedings cannot be taken to enforce the judgment, or order, appealed from, pending the appeal, even against a third person: see Vigeon v. Northcote, 15 P. R. 171; and where the judgment or order appealed from directs a reference to the Master, the reference is stayed: see Monro v. Toronto Ry., 5 O. L. R. 15.

Stay of proceedings under judgment or order appealed from.

After the execution of the judgment or order has been stayed, only the issue of the judgment, or order, and the taxation of costs thereunder, can be proceeded with, unless otherwise ordered: Rule 498; but the stay does not extend to the proceedings on the appeal.

Injunction, when suspended.

Proceedings to commit a defendant for a breach of an injunction, will not be stayed pending an appeal from the judgment, or order, granting the injunction: Gamble v. Howland, 3 Gr. 281, 303; and see McLaren v. Caldwell, 29 Gr. 438; unless the operation of the injunction has been suspended under this Rule. If it has, proceedings for alleged contempt of the injunction will be also stayed: Copeland-Chatterson Co. v. Business Systems, 14 O. L. R. 337; and see McGarvey v. Strathroy, 6 Ont. 138; 19 C. L. J. 393, where Proudfoot, J., refused a sequestration to enforce an injunction restraining the defendants from permitting water to flow on to plaintiff's land, pending an appeal, after security had been given under R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 26; and see also Toronto v. Toronto Street Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 361; this Rule now authorizes the Court to stay an injunction, or mandamus, in any case.

Appointment of Receiver, when stayed.

Terms on which Execution of Judgment Stayed.—Where a sum of money was ordered to be paid, or in default a receiver was directed to be appointed, the appointment of a receiver could formerly only be stayed pending an appeal, on security being given for the amount ordered to be paid, as required by the former C. R. 804: Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., 26 Gr. 352; and see Polini v. Gray, 12 Ch. D. 438; such terms are not necessarily to be imposed under the present Rule.

Even before this Rule, in mortgage cases, simply for foreclosure, or ssle, proceedings were stayed pending an appeal without security being required: Bank of U. C. v. Potiroff, 8 U. C. L. J. 328. And it would seem that the Court appealed from, may, in its discretion, irrespective of this Rule, suepend the operation of its judgment in any esse pending an appeal: Cotton v. Corby, 5 U. C. L. J. 67. Rule 496. Mortgage actions, when stayed

As to the form of bond for security, and affidavits of justification, and execution, where the giving of security is imposed as a term of staying execution: eee H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1206, 1207, 1233.

Where an appellant proceeds to enforce an order, or judgment, sppealed from, pending the appeal, and hy his appeal he claims relief inconsistent with that given by the order, or judgment, appealed from, he will be held to have ahandoned hie appeal: International Wrecking Co. v. Lobb, 12 P. R. 207; Videon v. Westover, 29 Ont. 6; hut under some circumstances the compliance with certain terms of a judgment will be no waiver of the right to appeal therefrom: see Devlin v. Radkey, 22 O. L. R. 399; compliance with an order for security for costs, by giving security under protest, and proceeding with the action, was held not to he acceptance of, and acquiescence in, the order, which wsived the right of appeal: Duffy v. Donovan, 14 P. R. 159.

In Re Chorles Stark Co., 15 P. R. 451, a Judge in Chambers refused to enforce an order without prejudice to an appeal.

Money Paid into Court Pending Appeal.—Where money has been paid into Court for a specific purpose, and that purpose has been answered in fnvour of the party paying it in, it will he paid out to thst party; therefore, where security for coste of an appeal to the Appellate Division has been given, hy paying money into Court, the sppelisnt is entitled, in the event of the appeal proving successful, to have the money paid out to him, notwithetanding the respondent may desire to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada: McLoren v. Caldwell, 9 P. R. 118: Wilson v. Beatty, Re Donovan, 10 P. R. 71; Atherton v. British Not. A. Co., L. R. 5 Chy. 720; Lindsey Petroleum Co. v. Hurd, 3 Chy. Ch. 16; Billington v. Provincial Ins. Co., 9 P. R. 67; Crossman v. Shears, 15 C. L. J. 110; Centour Cycle Co. v. Hill, 7 O. L. R. 411; 617; and the respondent in such a case, if he desires to stop the payment out, must give security for damages consequent on its detention in Court: McDonald v. Worthington, 8 P. R. 554, and see Polini v. Gray, supra, p. 1104. Money paid into Court pending appeal—disposition of.

Similarly a hond given as security for the costs of an appeal to the Appellate Division may be ordered to be delivered up, where the appellsnt is successful in the appeal, all liahility upon it heing at an end, notwithstanding that an appeal to the Supreme Court may be pending: Burgess v. Conway, 11 P. R. 514; so also a bond given for security for costs in the action, where the plaintiff has succeeded in the Appellate Division: Morsh v. Webb, 15 P. R. 64.

This principle does not, however, apply to enahle a party who has paid money into Court ae security for costs in the High Court Division, snd has succeeded, to obtain payment of the money out to him pending sn appeal to the Appellate Division, as the appeal is a step in the original action, and the purpoee for which the money is paid in is not answered, unless the appeal is unsuccessful: Notional Ins. Co. v. Egle son, 9 P. R. 202; see also Badische Anilin, etc. v. Johnson, 1897, 2 Ch. 322; Seaton v. Burnand, 15 T. L. R. 342.

But where the opposite party was otherwise secured, payment out was directed: Napier v. Hughes, 9 P. R. 164. Similarly while an appeal to the Appellate Division is pending, a bond given for security for costs in the action, will not be ordered to be delivered up to a successful plaintiff for cancellation: Hateley v. Merchants' Despatch, 12 Ont. App. 640; 11 P. R. 9; nor delivered out for suit to a successful defendant: Coffey v. Scane, 16 P. R. 307; but where the plaintiff succeeds in the Appellate Division: see Marsh v. Webb, supra, p. 1105.

Money paid in by one of two appellants, but in the name of both, as security for the costs of an appeal, will not be paid out to the party who paid it in, on his abandoning the appeal, if his co-appellant wishes to proceed with the appeal: Centaur Cycle Co. v. Hill, 4 O. L. R. 493.

But where money was paid into Court as security for the costs of an appeal, and for the purpose of staying execution, and the appeal was dismissed, upon the appellant giving the further security required for an appeal to the Supreme Court, it was held that an order for payment out of the costs of the appeal, and of the action, on an undertaking of the solicitors to refund, should not be made: Agricultural Ins. Co. v. Sargent, 16 P. R. 397; and see Rombough v. Balch, 19 P. R. 123.

It has been held in England that the recovery of costs, payable under an order, will not be stayed by the Court of Appeal, pending an appeal to the House of Lords, if the solicitors to whom they are payable, give their personal undertaking to refund, in case of the order being reversed: Grant v. The Banque Franco-Egyptienne, 3 C. P. D. 202; Morgan v. Elford, 4 Ch. D. 352; The Khedive, 5 P. D. 1, but see supra and Atty.-Gen. v. Emerson, 88 L. T. Jour. 97.

Money paid in by an appellant as security for costs of appeal, where it becomes liable to be applied to pay the costs of the respondent, will generally be paid out to the solicitor for the respondent, on his undertaking to refund it if the appeal is allowed, by the Supreme Court: Kelly v. Imperial, etc., 10 P. R. 499; Steele v. York, 7 C. L. T. 170; but see Agricultural, etc. v. Sargent, 16 P. R. 401; Rombough v. Balch, supra.

The solicitor's undertaking may be enforced in a summary manner: Swyny v. Harland, 1894, 1 Q. B. 707; but where no such undertaking is given the solicitors are not liable to be called on to refund, even though their client is worthless, and is ordered to repay the money: Hood-Barrs v. Heriot, 1896, 1 Q. B. 610; 74 L. T. 372; Hood-Barrs v. Crossman, 76 L. T. 297; 1897, A. C. 172.

And where a sum of money has been paid into Court, not to answer any specific purpose, but generally to abide further order, then the Court has a discretion as to ordering the money to be paid out pending an appeal, and in such a case, may require security to be given to refund if required: King v. Duncan, 9 P. R. 61; Canadian Land, &c., Co. v. Dysart, 11 P. R. 51, e.g., where owing to the poverty of the successful party there is danger that it may not be recovered if the decision should be reversed: Re Airey, Airey v. Bower, 79 L. T. Jour. 95.

Where money was retained in Court to abide the res[illegible]h Rule 497. proceedings as the plaintiff might be advised to take in reference thereto, and the plaintiffs thereupon brought an action which was dismissed, and the judgment was subsequently affirmed by the Court of Appeal, and the plaintiffs then appealed from the Court of Appeal, a motion for payment out pending such appeal was refused: Toronto v. Toronto St. Ry., 15 P. R. 358.

Where a fund in Court is, by the judgment appealed from, directed to be paid out to the respondent, the Court may stay the payment out, upon the appellant giving security for the difference between legal interest and the interest which will actually accrue in Court: McDonald v. Worthington, 8 P. R. 554; Brewer v. Yorke, 31 W. R. 109; Bradford v. Young, 28 Ch. D. 18; but if payment out is not stayed, the mere pendency of an appeal will not prevent its being paid out: McMaster v. Radford, 16 P. R. 20.

Where money has been paid in as security for costs of an appeal by a party who is unsuccessful, it will be applied in payment of the costs of the appeal, and the balance will not be treated as that party's own moneys and applied to pay other costs of the action payable by him, if it is shewn to have been borrowed for the specific purpose of securing the costs of the appeal: McKenzie v. Kittridge, 1 C. L. T. 110; see also Worthington v. Johnson, 72 L. T. Jour. 373; but primâ facie it will be considered to be the money of the party on whose behalf it was paid in, and the title of any other person must be made clearly to appear: Evans v. Huntsville, 7 O. L. R. 540.

Where money was so paid out to a respondent to satisfy costs of an unsuccessful appeal, but the decision was reversed by the Privy Council, the respondent was compelled, in an action brought for the purpose, to repay the moneys so paid out for principal and interest, with interest on that gross amount at six per cent., and all sums otherwise paid for costs without interest: Citizens Ins. Co. v. Parsons, 32 C. P. 492; semble, that an action was only necessary in that case because the money had been paid out to persons not parties to the original suit as trustees for the creditors of the original plaintiff: Ib.: see McKindsey v. Armstrong, 11 P. R. 200.

Proceedings in an action upon an appeal bond were stayed, where a further appeal was pending and security had in it been given for the costs secured by the bond: McLaren v. Stephens, 10 P. R. 88.

When given a certificate to stay execution may be granted.

497. Where an execution has been issued and is thereafter stayed upon an appeal, the appellant shall be entitled to obtain a certificate from the Registrar of the Appellate Division that the execution has been stayed pending the appeal, and upon the certificate being lodged with the Sheriff the execution shall be superseded, but the execution debtor shall pay the Sheriff's fees; and the sum so paid shall be allowed to him as part of the costs of the appeal. C.R. 828. Amended.

See notes to Rule 496. This Rule has made an important variation in C. R. 828. That Rule merely provided that the execution should be "stayed." This provides that it shall be "superseded" and a supersedeas means that a writ is countermanded, and after it is superseded it is doubtful if it can be again put in force, and a new writ would appear to be necessary for the issue of which the leave of the Court would appear to be necessary.

Stay of further proceedings in actions.

498. Where the execution of a judgment is stayed pending an appeal, all further proceedings in the action, other than the issue of the judgment, and the taxation of costs thereunder, shall be stayed, unless otherwise ordered by a Judge of the Divisional Courts. C.R. 829.

See Monro v. Toronto Ry. Co., 5 O. L. R. 15.

A judgment on a special case by which the opinion of the Court is given, but upon which there can be no execution issued is not within this Rule. Where, therefore, the opinion of the Court has been asked on questions of law, "before proceeding to take further evidence," it was held that the taking of evidence was not stayed pending an appeal by virtue of this Rule, though it was considered that such stay existed by virtue of the terms of the special case: Toronto v. Toronto Ry. Co., 5 O. W. R. 415.

Although an appeal is a step in the action, it seems obvious that the stay of all further proceedings in the action can not be intended to affect the proceedings in appeal; but after a case has been carried to appeal a Judge of the High Court Division has no jurisdiction to grant an injunction, or receiver, in the action pending the appeal: Embree v. McCurdy, 14 O. L. R. 284; but semble a Judge of the Appellate Division may do so: Ib., see Jud. Act, s. 31, but see Mackenzie v. Toronto, p. 62, supra.

(iii) Default and Disagreement of Jury.

Setting aside judgment by default.

499. Where a party does not appear at the trial, the judgment may be set aside and a new trial ordered by the Judge presiding at the sittings, or by a Judge. C.R. 778. Amended.

Where a judgment was given at the trial for the defendant owing to the absence of the plaintiff, and an application to reinstate was refused by the Judge, it was held that the plaintiff might apply to the Divisional Court to set aside the judgment, and for a new trial: Wilson v. Irwin, 10 P. R. 598.

Though an appellate Court may have jurisdiction to hear an appeal from a judgment by default, such appeals are not encouraged. A party should apply to have the judgment set aside and the case retried: Flint v. Hudspith, 29 Ch. D. 322; Armour v. Bate, 1891. 2 Q. B. 233.

Where a defendant was not represented at the trial of an action, because his solicitor was ignorant of the fact that the action had with others been transferred from one Judge of the Chancery Division to another, Fry. J., held that the solicitor had therein been guilty of gross negligence, and that the plaintiff could not be relieved. But it was held, on appeal, that the judgment must be set aside, on payment of the costs of the day, Jessel, M.R., observing: "Solicitors cannot any more than other men conduct their business without sometimes making slips; and where a solicitor watches the list, and happens to miss the case, in consequence of which it is taken in his absence, it is in accordance with justice, and with the course of practice, to restore the action to the paper on the terms of the party in default paying the costs of the day; which include all costs thrown away by reason of the trial becoming abortive": Burgoine v. Taylor, 9 Ch. D. 4.

Where the Court was satisfied that the absence of the defendant and his counsel was purely accidental, a judgment by default was set aside on payment of plaintiff's costs of hearing, including reasonable disbursements to counsel, and the costs of the application: Wolfe v. Hughes, 17 C. L. J. 427. On similar terms an action dismissed was restored to the paper, where, in consequence of the illness of the plaintiff's solicitor, the necessary arrangments were not made: Birch v. Williams, W. N. 1876 168.

Where one counsel had been unavoidably detained by a railway accident, and the other had been prevented by indisposition from conducting the case (see Cockle v. Joyce, in Burgoine v. Taylor, 9 Ch. D. 3), and where the defendant had personally been guilty of no negligence, though his solicitor had neglected to attend to the defence, and the defendant made an application within six days of his having heard that the trial had taken place, the Court granted an extension of time, to enable him to make application to set aside the judgment: Mitchell v. Wilson, 25 W. R. 380. So also where one side had trusted to a reasonable expectation of a settlement of the dispute: Wright v. Clifford, 26 W. R. 369; 47 L. J. Chy. 544.

As to delay in applying: see May v. Head, W. N. 1880, 26; Wilkins v. Bedford, 35 L. T. 622; Webster v. Cool Consumers Co., 1 Chari. Ca. (Court) 131; Atwood v. Chichester, 3 Q. B. D. 722; King v. Sondemann, 38 L. T. 461, and notes to Rules 37 and 520.

Re-trial where jury disagree.

500. Where the jury disagree the action may be re-tried at the same sittings or at any subsequent sittings as may be directed. New.

In certain cases where the jury disagrees the action may be dismissed: see Jud. Act, s. 30.

If the Judge, notwithstanding the disagreement of the jury, is of the opinion that there is really no evidence to support a verdict for the plaintiff, he may dismiss the action, although he may have previously ruled that there was some evidence. An Appellate Court has the like power, but it will not be exercised unless the Court is satisfied that further evidence could not be produced on a re-trial: Jud. Act, s. 2 (a): Skeate v. Slaters, 1914, 2 K. B. 429; 110 L. T. 604.

Where judgment cannot be entered on answers.

501.—(1) Where a jury is directed to answer questions, and answers some but not all, or where the answers are conflicting so that judgment cannot be entered upon such findings, the action shall be re-tried as in the case of a disagreement.

(2) If the answers entitle either party to judgment as to some but not to all the causes of action, the Judge may direct judgment to be entered on the causes of action as to which the answers are sufficient, and the issues upon the remaining causes of action shall then be re-tried as upon a disagreement. C.R. 781.

The first part of this Rule is intended to set at rest the question which led to a difference of opinion in Divisional Courts in the cases of Stevens v. Grout, 16 P. R. 210, and McDermott v. Grout, Ib., 213, and see Faulknor v. Clifford, 17 P. R. 363; Brown v. Defor, 21 Ont. App. 466; and, in the case mentioned in the Rule, the action may therefore be taken down to trial again by a new notice of trial, as soon as it has been decided upon motion for judgment, at the trial or afterwards, under Jud. Act, s. 30, or Rule 501 (2), that judgment cannot be pronounced: see Moore v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 5 O. W. R. 211.

This Rule will not enable the Court to direct judgment to be entered contrary to the findings of a jury on any material question of fact. But, where the jury has found a fact entitling the defendant to a dismissal of the action, a new trial will not be granted merely because, notwithstanding such finding, the jury has also given a verdict for damages against such defendant: Kerry v. England, 1898, A. C. 742.

Under Jud. Act, s. 30, it would seem to be competent in a proper case for the Court to dismiss the action, otherwise it must be tried again. A dismissal will, no doubt, only be ordered where the Court is satisfied that the plaintiff has made out no case. The Court would, however, not arrive at that conclusion on conflicting evidence: see notes to Jud. Act, s. 26.

(iv) Appeals from Masters and Referees—Local Judges and Officers in Chambers.

Report, when absolute.

502. Every report of certificate of a Master shall be filed and shall be deemed to be confirmed at the expiration of fourteen days from the date of service of notice of filing the same unless notice of appeal is served within that time. C.R. 769.

The filing is a prerequisite to the report, or certificate, becoming absolute: Re Supreme Legion of Select Knights of Canada, 29 Ont. 708.

This Rule applies both to appeals, and cross-appeals from reports: Stewart v. Ferguson, 19 P. R. 21; notice of appeal given by one party, does not prevent the report becoming absolute as against another party: Ib.

As to appeals from Masters under the Dominion Winding up Act (R. S. C. c. 144), s. 110; Re Central Bank, 30 Ont. 320; Re Farmers' Loan & S. Co., 30 Ont. 337; the appeal in such cases is to a Judge in Court as in other cases of appeals from reports.

Reports and Certificates.—As to the reports, and certificates, which are the subjects of appeal: see notes to Rule 424, supra, p. 424. Orders made under Rule 433 are not included under the words "report" or "certificate:" Rule 504.

This Rule applies to the report, or certificate, of a Referee: see Freeborn v. Vandusen, 15 P. R. 264; Colchester v. Valad, 24 S. C. R. 622; and Rule 400. It is also considered to apply to all reports, including those of Commissioners to admeasure dower under The Dower Act (R. S. O. c. 70), s. 29. Rule 502.

This and the two following Rules apply only to appeals from reports and certificates. Where Local Masters are exercising jurisdiction in Chambers, under Rule 433, appeals from their decisions are regulated by Rule 505.

Where a reference was directed by consent to a Local Registrar with all the powers of a Master, it was held that his report was appealable in the same manner as a Master's report: Kennedy v. Haddon, 19 Ont. 240.

The certificate of a Taxing Officer of the result of a taxation between solicitor and client is a report, and only appealable in the manner pointed out in Rule 503: see Rule 508.

As to appeals under the Mechanics' Lien Act (R. S. O. c. 140), s. 40; that section, it will be observed, seems only to provide for appeals from the judgment in the action; no express provision is made by the Act for appeals from interlocutory orders, or reports, in such actions, which are apparently intended to be governed by the ordinary procedure of the Court in like cases.

Reports which require Confirmation.—All reports, and certificates, which are the subject of appeal, are, as a general rule, required to be confirmed before they can be acted on: Scott v. Livesey, 2 Sim. & S. 300; or any application can be made to the Court founded thereon: Hayes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546; Nichols v. McDonald, 8 Gr. 594; Croven v. Ingham, 58 L. T. 488. Thus a report on sale, where the sale proved abortive, requires confirmation before it can be acted on: Robert v. Coughell, 8 O. L. R. 381. There are, however, some reports, and certificates, which may be acted upon without confirmation on their being filed: see Re Yoggie, 1 Chy. Ch. 168. Reports which require confirmation, may be confirmed by special order before the expiration of the time limited for appealing therefrom, upon consent of all parties interested. An order confirming a report may be made by the Master in Chambers. Reports requiring confirmation.

Chief Justice Sir William Meredith, on 22nd October, 1906, on being consulted by the Accountant, expressed the opinion that the Accountant ought not now to act on any report whatever, even by consent, until it has been confirmed by lapse of time, or order.

Reports which do not require to be Confirmed.—All reports, or certificates, of mere calculation: Lewis v. Talbot St. Road Co., 10 P. R. 15; Boeck v. Boeck, 16 P. R. 213; and of matters of opinion, which do not require any further order from the Court to give effect to, or to sanction them—except reports on sales—do not require confirmation except where the Accountant is required to act upon them, and in such case they must be first confirmed: see supra. Under this head are included certificates of compliance, or non-compliance; with any order of the Master, or of the Court (but not certificates of insufficient compliance; e.g., that accounts filed are insufficient in substance and form: Foster v. Morden, 9 P. R. 70); certificates of scandal, or impertinence, in pleadings, or affidavits, referred to the Master; reports appointing Reports not requiring confirmation.

Rule 502.

trustees; and appointments of receivers, committees, or guardians, under Rule 458; but see Finkle v. Date, 7 P. R. 413; Foster v. Morden, supra; reports on passing the accounts of receivers, or committees; reports approving of conveyances; and other certificates and reports of a like description: see Smith's Pr. 2nd ed., Vol. II., 357-8.

No appeal after confirmation without leave.

No Appeal after Confirmation without Leave.—After a report requiring confirmation has been confirmed, no appeal from it will be entertained without leave first given, on special application: Thompson v. Luke, 10 Gr. 281.

After the cause or matter has been heard on further directions, the Court has no power to permit an appeal from the report upon which the order or judgment on further directions is founded: Re Dingman v. Hall, 13 P. R. 232; 17 Ont. App. 398. The judgment or order on further directions must be first vacated.

Effect of confirmation.

Effect of Confirmation.—After confirmation, the parties are concluded by the report; yet the Court, in its discretion, may refuse to act upon it, and may refer the cause back to the Master, or require additional information to be furnished: Taylor v. Craven, 10 Gr. 488; Baldwin v. Crawford, 1 Gr. 202; Harrison v. McSheehan, 80 L. T. Jour. 79.

Clerical errors may be corrected notwithstanding confirmation.

Notwithstanding confirmation, clerical errors, and accidental slips, in a report may be corrected at any time upon motion in Chambers, without appeal: Morley v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 453; King v. Connor, 10 Gr. 364; Watson v. Moore, 1 Chy. Ch. 266; and where the error was apparent on the face of the report, the application was granted ex parte: White v. Courtney, 1 Chy. Ch. 11. But although the error be apparent, it does not follow that the proper correction is apparent, and the motion therefore is usually required to be on notice or consent: Simpson v. Ottawa, 2 Chy. Ch. 12. Mistakes in a report, however, cannot be corrected by the Master mero motu, on any subsequent reference in the action: Crooks v. Street, 1 Chy. Ch. 78; but on a reference back upon an appeal, when the Court enunciates a principle, which is applicable to other parties, and other points, than those expressly concerned in the appeal, it is the duty of the Master so to apply that principle in all cases to which it is applicable in making his new report, even though it involve the readjustment of an account not appealed from: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 306; and see Gilbert v. Jarvis, 20 Gr. 478.

Report stands confirmed as to matters not appealed.

Even though an appeal be had, the report will stand confirmed as to matters not objected to by the appeal, and which the decision on the appeal does not affect: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 308; Ross v. Perrault, 13 Gr. 206. And when the report is referred back, an appeal will not lie from the further report, as to matters disposed of by the first report, and not objected to on the first appeal: Ross v. Perrault, supra, or affected thereby: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 308.

Waiver of objection that appeal too late.

Where notice of appeal is delivered, without leave, after a report is confirmed, the delivery of notice of cross-appeal is a waiver of the objection: Larkin v. Armstrong, 1 Chy. Ch. 31.

Report not to be dated before costs revised.

The report should not be dated before the costs have been revised, where revision is necessary: Waddell v. McColl, 14 Gr. 211. A report as to parties who, being entitled to notice, have had no notice, is a nullity: Fuller v. McLean, 8 P. R. 549.

Confirmation of Report.—A report requiring confirmation now becomes absolute at the expiration of fourteen days from the date of service of notice of filing, unless in the meantime notice of appeal is served: Rule 502. An application to extend the time for appealing from a report, even before confirmation, must be made on notice: see Hamilton v. Tweed, 9 P. R. 448; as also an application for leave to appeal after the time has expired: Peterborough v. Ireton, before Proudfoot, J., Nov. 11th, 1883. Rule 502. Confirmation of report. Notice.

Where it is desired to confirm a report before the expiration of the 14 days, a special application in Chambers may be made for that purpose, but such applications are granted only where all parties entitled to appeal consent: Patterson v. Gilbert, 12 P. R. 652, and it is considered undesirable that an officer should make an order confirming his own report: Ib. Special order confirming report, when made.

Filing Report.—A report must be filed before it can be acted on, and notice of filing must be given by the party filing it to the opposite party: Rule 429; and a report does not become absolute until notice of filing has been given (when necessary), and fourteen days have elapsed: In re Supreme Legion S. K. of C., 29 Ont. 708; but service of such notice on defendants who have not appeared in the action is unnecessary: Toronto General Trusts Corp. v. Craig, 2 O. L. R. 238. So also a report must be filed before an appeal will lie: Hayes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546. If it appoints a day for payment of money, it should be filed before the day for payment: Mills v. Dixon, 2 Chy. Ch. 53, and confirmed, if it is a report requiring confirmation: Mountain v. Porter, 1 Chy. Ch. 207. No proceedings can properly be taken on a report until filed, either by the issue of process, or otherwise: Beames' Ord. 293; Jellett v. Anderson, 8 P. R. 387; even though the report, or certificate, be one not requiring confirmation: Ib.; but such reports can be acted on, immediately on filing; it is not necessary to wait fourteen days: Re Yaggie, 7 U. C. L. J. 293; 1 Chy. Ch. 168. Filing report; time for.

All reports are to be filed in the office where the proceedings were commenced: Rule 428; and see Rule 761.

Appeal, when Necessary.—Ordinarily, where the objection to the report is not manifest on its face, an appeal must be brought, unless the report be a nullity: Fuller v. McLean, 8 P. R. 549; Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; Brown v. Dollard, 6 P. R. 113; where the report goes beyond the judgment, or order of reference, the report as to such matters will "not be respected" by the Court: Beames' Ord., 23, and therefore no appeal as to such matters would seem necessary; an incumbrancer claiming priority to the plaintiff, who is made a party as a subsequent incumbrancer, may either move to set aside the order making him a party (which appears to be the preferable practice), or appeal from the report on the question of priority: McDonald v. Rodger, 9 Gr. 75, and see Montgomery v. Shortis, 3 Chy. Ch. 69. Appeal, when necessary.

Mere clerical errors in a report may be corrected, even after confirmation, without appeal, by order in Chambers: see Rule 502 note; and where the Master who has made the report has also jurisdiction in Chambers, it would appear to be competent for him to make the order; but he has no jurisdiction to make any material alteration or amendment of the report, not being a clerical error: that can only be properly done on appeal: see Skead v. Holland, 9 C. L. T. 50.

Rule 502.

For the purpose of appeal, a Master's certificate stands on the same footing as a report: Re Molphy, 17 P. R. 247.

For the procedure on appeals from a Master's report: see Rules 502-506.

No appeal after confirmation without leave.

Leave to Appeal after Confirmation.—After a report is confirmed, leave to appeal from it may he granted on motion in Chambers. The application must be made on notice, or consent: Cozens v. McDougol, 1 Chy. Ch. 29; Cade v. Newholl, 1 Chy. Ch. 200; Peterborough v. Ireton, before Proudfoot, J., 11th November, 1883; all parties are entitled to notice even though they he in the ssme interest as the party seeking to appeal: Lorkin v. Armstrong, 1 Cby. Ch. 31. Where leave has been granted ex parte, the objection to the order may be taken on the appeal coming on for argument: Peterborough v. Ireton, supro. On such application it is necessary to account for the delay, and to show a primâ facie ground of appeal: Dickson v. Avery, 3 Chy. Ch. 222; Rowe v. Wert, 13 C. L. J. 326; Coisse v. Burnham, 6 P. R. 201; Dudley v. Berczy, 3 Chy. Ch. 81; Chard v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 120. It is not absolutely necessary that the grounds of the proposed appeal shonld be stated in the notice of motion for leave to appeal: Romanes v. Herns, 1 Chy. Ch. 363; hut reasonable, and probable, grounde of appeal, must be shown hy the affidavits: Ib., and a mere statement of the proposed grounds of appeal in tbe notice of motion will not suffice: De Blaquiere v. Armstrong, 9 C. L. J. 363; but costs unnecessarily incurred in making out a case on tbe merits were disallowed: Nash v. Glover, 6 P. R. 267.

What necessary to be shown on application.

Master in Chambers may grant leave.

The Master in Chambere has jurisdiction to entertain the application: Russel v. Brucken, 3 Chy. Ch. 488; Sievewright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200.

Leave to appeal was refused with costs, where it appesred that the object of the appeal, was to fix executore with interest upon a sum which they had invested, and upon which a loss hsd been incurred: Cootes v. McGlasham, 2 Chy. Ch. 218; so also where tbe matter had been heard on further directions, and an order pronounced founded on the report: Re Dingmon and Holl, 13 P. R. 232.

But leave wae granted where time was allowed to elapse through the mistake of the solicitor in supposing that hie clients would be entitled to the benefit of the appeal of their co-defendants: Re Gabourie, Casey v. Gobourie, 12 P. R. 252; and see Sievewright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200; hut see Blackstock v. McFarlone, 15 C. L. J. 137.

See also notes to Rule 176.

Time for appealing.

Time for Appealing.—An appeal from any report, ruling, or other determination, of any Master, other than the Master in Ordinsry, must now he brought on for argument, before a Judge in Court, within one month from the date of the notice of filing of such report or certificate: Rules 502, 503,—or within snch further time as a Judge may think proper; the vacations are excluded from the computation of the month: Rule 179. An appeal from a ruling of a Master, must he brought within the same time as is allowed for sppealing from a report: Mitchell v. Mitchell, 22 Gr. 23; formerly it had to be brought within one month from the date of the ruling, irrespective of the date of the certificate of such rnling: Maclennan v. Gray, 12 P. R. 431;

but quære if that is now the case, though it is obvious that it may be inconvenient in practice if it is not. Rule 502.

In Markie v. Ross, 13 P. R. 135, it was held under the then Consolidated Rules that there could be no appeal to a Judge in Chambers from a ruling of a Master because the provision of Chy. O. 642, had not been included in the Consolidated Rules; and that an appeal only lay from a report, by which was possibly meant a general report. It is, however, to be observed that unless a new meaning is to be given to the words "report" and "certificate" from that which they possessed under the former practice, there is nothing in the present Rules which prevent an appeal from a Master's ruling, as in the case of an appeal from a report, because, as we have already seen, a certificate of a Master is a report: see Rule 424, note; and a Master's certificate of his ruling is therefore a "separate report," and as such it would seem to be appealable in the same way as any other report: see also Re Crothers, 15 P. R. 92; and Re Molphy, 17 P. R. 247. Appeal from ruling.

Semble, that where it is not shown that a report has been filed, or that notice thereof has been served, an objection that an appeal therefrom is not in time cannot prevail: Re McLellan & Chinguacousy, 18 P. R. 246.

Notice of Appeal, and Setting Down for Argument.—Seven clear days' notice of the appeal: Rule 503; stating the grounds of appeal: Rule 218; must be given to the opposite party: Rule 503; Hoyes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546; and such notice must be returnable within one calendar month from the date of service of notice of filing the report or certificate: Rule 503; and the appeal must be set down for argument at latest the day before that on which the notice is returnable: Rule 234 (6). Notice of appeal and setting down for argument.

Such appeals from Local Masters are to be heard on Monday, Wednesday or Thursday: see Rule 234 (1).

Appeals from a Master's certificate of taxation are an exception to the usual rule, and must be brought before a Judge in Chambers: see Rules 508, 509, 234 (1), (3).

Where an appeal was set down for a dies non, but was placed by the Clerk in the paper for the next regular sitting of the Court, it was held not to be irregularly set down: McCaw v. Ponton, 11 P. R. 328.

Before notice of an appeal is given the report must be filed, and notice of filing served on the opposite party: Rule 429; and see Hayes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546. Report must be first filed.

The notice of appeal should set out seriatim the grounds upon which the appeal is brought, and should include all the grounds of objection intended to be urged: Rule 218; objections cannot be raised on an appeal from a further report, made in pursuance of an order to the Master to review his report, which might have been taken, but were not, on the appeal from the original report: Ross v. Perrault, 13 Gr. 206. Notice of appeal should set out grounds.

Who Entitled to Appeal.—Any person having a substantial interest in the question involved in an appeal, is entitled to appeal; but persons having no interest in the subject of appeal, cannot appeal, even though the report be erroneous: Thompson v. Luke, 10 Gr. 281; Who entitled to appeal.

Rule 502.

McCargor v. McKinnon, 17 Gr. 525; neither will an appeal lie from a Master's ruling, or direction, by a party who has complied with it, even though it be to escape commitment for disobedience: Mitchell v. Mitchell, 22 Gr. at p. 24; neither will an appeal lie, where the amount involved is of trifling amount, e.g., where not more than $10 was in question, an appeal was dismissed: McQueen v. McQueen, 2 Chy. Ch. 344.

And from Master's ruling as to evidence; or principle on which accounts to be taken; or on disallowance of a claim.

An appeal may also be brought, before the Master has made his report, from his ruling as to the admissibility of evidence: McDonald v. Wright, 12 Gr. 552; or upon his finding as to the principle upon which an account should be taken: see Court v. Holland, 29 Gr. 19, or by a creditor from the Master's ruling, disallowing his claim: Wood v. Brett, 9 Gr. 452; and he need not wait for a general report, but may at once obtain a certificate of disallowance, and appeal therefrom: Re Clogett, Fordhom v. Clagett, 20 Ch. D. 637; 46 L. T. 70.

No appeal from an award.

Where a cause had been referred to a Master as an arbitrator, by a consent decree, which provided that "either party should be at liberty to appeal against the award in the same manner and to the same extent that a report may be appealed from," it was held nevertheless, that an appeal from the award could not be entertained: Burns v. Chamberlin, 25 Gr. 148; and see Lemay v. McRae, 16 Ont. App. 348; but as to appeals to the Appellate Division in such cases: see The Arbitration Act (R. S. O. c. 65), s. 17; Re Graham, 25 O. L. R. 5. Where the order directing the reference was made without jurisdiction, the Court refused to entertain any appeal from a report made thereunder: Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; Brown v. Dollard, 6 P. R. 113.

Appeals on questions of fact; credibility; or weight of evidence.

Hearing of Appeal.—Appeals from the Master's ruling as to the regularity of proceedings in his office, in point of form, will not be readily allowed, even though the Court be of opinion that he might have properly taken an opposite view: Sculthorpe v. Burn, 12 Gr. 427.

On matters of fact decided by the Master who has had the witnesses before him, the Judge will differ from the Master with great hesitation, and only when it is manifest that he has fallen into error: Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. at p. 115; and the Judge will not, in general, interfere with the decision of the Master as to the weight of evidence, nor as to the relative credibility of witnesses whose evidence has been taken before him, viva voce: Doy v. Brown, 18 Gr. 681; Waddell v. Smyth, 3 Chy. Ch. 412; but see McArthur v. Prittie, 29 Gr. 500; Coghlon v. Cumberland, 1898, 1 Ch. 704. But if it can be shown that there is not only a balance of direct testimony, but also corroborative circumstances pointing strongly against the Master's conclusion, the Judge on appeal may review the evidence, and reverse his finding on a question of fact: Chard v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 358; Armstrong v. Gage, 25 Gr. 1; Morrison v. Robinson, 19 Gr. 480. Where the Master determines the question without seeing the witnesses, the Judge will, in such a case, be less trammelled by the Master's finding, and will dispose of the question upon his own judgment as to the weight of evidence: Fawcett v. Burwell, 27 Gr. 445.

As to whether a third party, who has obtained liberty to contest the plaintiff's claim, is entitled to be heard on an appeal by the plaintiff from a report: see Ewing v. Toronto, 18 P. R. 137.

Rule 502.

Order on Appeal.—The order on appeal should always recite or state in substance the grounds of the appeal which have been allowed: (see Downey v. Roaf, 6 P. R. 89, as modified by the directions of the Court, given to the Registrars 6th October, 1893), and where a reference back is ordered as to any ground of appeal, that ground is to be set forth in the order: Ib.

Grounds of appeal to be recited in order.

Where the report is varied, it is not proper to make any actual alteration in the original: Rule 187; Fox v. Beorblock, 45 L. T. 469; 17 Ch. D. 429; 46 L. T. 145; nor where the alteration is simple, need it be referred back to the Master to alter: Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85, the order on the appeal specifying the alteration made being sufficient: Ib.

Variation of report.

Where the report is referred back, and it is not intended that further evidence should be received, the order must contain a direction to that effect: Morley v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 453; 3 C. L. J. 21.

Reference Back.—Where a report is referred back, the Master is at liberty, as of course, to receive further evidence, unless the Judge otherwise orders, or the reference back is expressed to be for a purpose on which further evidence could not be material: Morley v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 453; see also Imp. Trusts Co. v. New York Security Co., 5 O. W. R. 641. Where the reference back is to ascertain a particular fact, the Master cannot open other matters in his report not objected to on appeal: Williams v. Houn, 10 Gr. 553. Nor on a reference back can the Master entertain a claim not previously made before him, unless specially ordered so to do: Romanes v. Herns, 22 Gr. 469.

Evidence back, further evidence on, when receivable.

When on an appeal from a Master's report a reference back to review the report is ordered, the appellant cannot appeal from the further report as to matters disposed of by the first report, and not objected to on the first appeal: Ross v. Perrault, 13 Gr. 206.

Matters not objected to on first appeal.

Costs of Appeals from Masters' Reports.—When some grounds of appeal are allowed with costs, and others disallowed with costs, the appellant is entitled to all the costs of the appeal that are exclusively applicable to the objections allowed, and to a proportionate share of those costs common to all the objections, according to the number of really distinct grounds of appeal on which he succeeds; and the same rule applies to the costs of a respondent: Bank of Montreal v. Ryan, 13 Gr. 204; Trinity College v. Hill, 8 Ont. 286. Sometimes, instead of giving costs to each party of so much of the appeal as to which he succeeds, the general costs of the appeal are awarded to one of the parties, subject to the deduction of a proportionate part of the gross amount, in respect of the partial success of the other party. Thus, where there were four distinct grounds of appeal embraced in eleven objections, of which objections only two were allowed, the Court gave the general costs of the appeal to the respondent, deducting therefrom one-fourth in respect of the partial success of the appellant: Ferguson v. Frontenac, 21 Gr. 188.

Costs of appeal from reports, how awarded.

In the disposition of the costs of appeals from Master's reports, the Judges will probably continue to follow the rules of the Court of Chancery. The general rule is, that the costs should follow the event of the appeal: Downey v. Roof, 6 P. R. 89; Huntington v. Fon Brocklin, 8 Gr. 421; and the word "event" is to be understood distributively: Bank of Montreal v. Ryon, 13 Gr. 204. But where the appeal fails on the principal point involved, and succeeds only as to General rule is that costs follow the event.

But secus when appeal successful only on a trifling point.

Rules 503, 504.

a comparatively insignificant one, the whole costs of the appeal may be given to the respondent: Brownlee v. Cunningham, 13 Gr. 586. And where the Court is of opinion that the finding of the Master was a fit subject for discussion in the circumstances, even though the appeal be dismissed, costs may be refused: Secord v. Terryberry, 14 Gr. 172, and costs have also been refused of a successful appeal, where the report was defective, and the solicitors appeared to have been negligent: Clouster v. McLean, 10 Gr. 576.

Costs when appeal dismissed or allowed on ground not adjudicated upon by Master.

Where an appeal was dismissed on a ground raised for the first time on the appeal, and not adjudicated upon by the Master, the Court refused costs: Heward v. Wolfenden, 14 Gr. 188; McDonald v. Wright, Ib., 284, and the same rule applies where the appeal is successful on a ground not taken before the Master: Goddard v. Jeffreys, 46 L. T. 904; see also cases, p. 1099, supra. Where an appeal by an executrix was allowed without costs; on the hearing on further directions, the Court refused to order the costs of the appellant to be paid out of the estate: Story v. Dunlap, 13 Gr. 375. Where the appeal was unnecessary, and the question raised thereby could have been disposed of on motion in Chambers, no costs were given: Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318.

Appeals from reports to be to Court.

503. An appeal from the report or certificate of a Master or Referee shall be to the Court upon seven clear days' notice, and shall be returnable within one month from the date of service of notice of filing of the report or certificate. C.R. 770.

C. R. 770 was repealed, and the Rule appears to be based on C. R. 771. The Court referred to in this Rule is the Weekly Court in Toronto, or as provided by Rule 239.

As to the time for appealing: see notes to Rule 502, p. 1114.

A month means a calendar month: see supra, p. 631.

As to whether appeals now lie from a ruling of a Master: see Muirkie v. Ross, and note thereon in the notes to Rule 502, p. 1115, and see Rule 504.

The Appellate Division has no power to hear an appeal from a Master's report, the appeal is to a single Judge: Clarke v. Jamieson, 9 C. L. T. 97; not even, it would seem, by consent: see In re Wilson, 16 P. R. 150.

On an appeal the Court will only recognize the note of the Master, or a certificate from him, as evidence of what took place before him; affidavits are inadmissible: Sykes v. Sykes, 1897, P. 306.

504. An appeal shall lie under the two preceding rules from every decision of a Master, except an order made under the authority of Rule 433. C.R. 1264.

Interpretation of "report or certificate."

C. R. 1264 enacted Rule 768*a*, which is that on which this Rule is based.

This Rule would seem to apply to orders made by Masters under Rule 404, where an appeal therefrom is brought; but a motion by the party added to set such an order aside, is provided for by Rule 405, and is not properly an appeal. Rule 505.

505.—(1) A person affected by an order of the Master in Chambers, a Local Judge or a Local Master, or other officer in Chambers, or of a Master under the authority of Rule 433, may appeal therefrom to a Judge in Chambers. Appeals from officers acting in Chambers.

(2) The appeal shall be by motion, on notice served within four days and returnable within ten days after the decision complained of.

(3) The appeal shall not be a stay of proceedings unless ordered by a Judge or by the officer whose decision is complained of.

(4) Where the judgment order or decision is made or given in vacation, a person affected thereby may, if the matter is urgent, appeal therefrom during vacation to the Vacation Judge, or may appeal after vacation in the same manner and within the same time as if the judgment order or decision had been made on the first day after vacation.

(5) Appeals in Chambers shall be argued by Counsel. C.R. 767 and 768.

This Rule only relates to orders made in Chambers, it does not cover or include Masters' reports, or certificates, as to which: see Rules 502-504.

This Rule governs appeals from the Master in Ordinary when acting in Chambers, under Rule 433; and from the Master in Chambers, and the Local Judges, and Local Masters, when acting under Rules 208, 209: Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 9. P. R. 188. or Rules 608, 610, 615: Stroud v. Sun Oil Co., 7 O. L. R. 704; 8 O. L. R. 748. What appeals within the Rule.

As to appeals from a Local Judge when acting under Rule 211: see Rule 506.

Appeals from a Judge in Chambers to the Appellate Division are governed by Rule 507.

Where a Judge or judicial officer decides a matter as a persona designata, there appears to be no right of appeal under this Rule: Hoare v. Morshead, 1903, 2 K. B. 359; Re King, 18 P. R. 365, save as provided by The Judges' Orders Enforcement Act (R. S. O. c. 79), s. 4.

There is no power to vary or discharge an order except in the manner provided by the Act, or Rules, e.g., by way of appeal or by motion under Rule 217, or 523: see Atty.-Gen. v. Llewellyn, 58 L. T. 367; and Re Adam Eyton, Limited, 36 Ch. D., at p. 301; Hood-Barrs v. Cathcart, 72 L. T. 184, and notes preceding Rule 521; or by an action: see Ainsworth v. Wilding, 1896, 1 Ch. 673.

Rule 505.

An appeal cannot be had direct to the Appellate Division from a Master, Local Judge, or other officer acting in Chambers. Ball v. Cathcart, 16 Ont. 525.

Any person affected by an order may appeal, and therefore an appeal lies from an ex parte order by a person affected thereby: Wigle v. Harris, 9 P. R. 276; Grand Trunk Ry. Co. v. Ont. & Que. Ry. Co., 9 P. R. 420; but an application to set aside an order, made ex parte, and without knowledge of the facts, is not an appeal, and not within this Rule: Hughes v. Field, 1 C. L. T. 702; and see Re Central Bank, 24 Ont. App. 470; and Rule 217.

A consent order of an officer in Chambers is within sec. 24 of the Jud. Act, and no appeal lies from it without leave: Re Solicitor, 18 C. L. T. 224, 261, and it is not clear that an appeal can be had from such an order even with leave: see supra, pp. 111, 116.

Discretionary orders.

The Master's discretion is open to review on an appeal under this Rule: Christie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529; Abell v. Morrison, 14 P. R. 210; but to be interfered with, it must be shown to be clearly wrong: Adamson v. Adomson, 12 P. R. 471; Odell v. Mulholland, 14 P. R. 180.

Time for appealing.

The time for appealing runs from the pronouncing of the order, and not from the day upon which it was issued: Miller v. Stillwell, 21 C. L. J. 96, following Dayer v. Robertson, 9 P. R. 76. The contrary was at one time decided in McNeil v. McGregor, 3 C. L. T. 3[illegible]; see Heatley v. Newton, 19 Ch. D. 326; Gibb v. Murphy, 2 Cby. Ch. 132; see also Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 9 P. R. 1[illegible].

Where the time expires on a Sunday or holiday, Rule 174 applies: see that Rule and Taylor v. Jones, 45 L. J. C. P. 110.

An appeal from a decision of a Master refusing to rescind a former order was held to be tantamount to an appeal from the first order, and dismissed as too late under this Rule: Jamieson v. Prince Albert Colonization Co., 11 P. R. 115.

The notice of motion by way of appeal must be served within four days, and be made returnable within the ten days: see Bell v. N. Staffordshire Ry. Co., 5 Q. B. D. 205.

Extending time for appealing.

Orders extending the time should not be made ex parte: Hamilton v. Tweed, 9 P. R. 448, and cannot be made by the Master in Chambers in the case of an appeal from an officer other than himself: Re Davies & York, 10 C. L. T. 186.

It has been held that leave to serve short notice of appeal should not be obtained from the Master in Chambers; he has no power to shorten the time on a motion not returnable before himself: Donovan v. Boultbee, 3 C. L. T. 501; and see 1 C. L. T. 614, 645.

Where an order was made on Friday, so that two clear days' notice of appeal could not be given for the next Chamber day (Monday), application was made ex parte within four days, for leave to bring on the appeal on the following Thursday, but leave was given instead for the following Monday, and no order was taken out extending the time. It was held not an application for an extension of time, and an objection that the appeal could not be heard as eight days from the decision (the time named under the original Rule), had expired, was overruled: Standard Bank v. Willis, 10 P. R. 153.

Owing to the longer time allowed by the present Rule (viz., 10 days), the difficulty is not now likely to arise. Rule 505.

The time was extended where there was the intention to appeal, but by misapprehension of the new practice, the time was allowed to pass: Dayer v. Robertson, 9 P. R. 78; also where it was supposed that Christmas vacation did not count in computing the time: Sievewright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200. But in Snowden v. Huntington, 12 P. R. 1, notice of appeal given Dec. 24 for Jan. 10, the first day after vacation when a Judge sat in Chambers, was held not good notice. The notice should have been given for a day within the eight (now ten) days, and then an extension of the time for bringing on the appeal should have been applied for, on an ex parte application as of course: see also Wallingford v. Mutual Soc., 5 App. Cas. 685; and Blaylock v. McFarlane, 15 C. L. J. 137; Lewis v. Talbot Road Co., 10 P. R. 15; Lowson v. Canada Formers, etc., 9 P. R. 185; Carter v. Stubbs, 6 Q. B. D. 116; Gibbons v. London Financial Association, 4 C. P. D. 263. But as to orders made in vacation: see now Rule 505, clause (4).

An application to enlarge the time should in general be made within the ten days: Stirling v. DuBorry, 5 Q. B. D. 65.

Neglect to set down an appeal through forgetfulness of the appellant's solicitors' clerk, has been held not sufficient reason for extending the time for appealing from an order refusing to dismiss an action for want of prosecution: Dunnard v. McLeod, 8 P. R. 343.

Where, on an application in Chambers, a party omitted to take an objection to the jurisdiction to make the order applied for in Chambers, he was held not entitled to raise the objection afterward on motion to discharge the order: Horton v. Bosson, 1899, W. N. 23, 33.

A right to appeal may be waived by acting upon the order appealed from: International Wrecking Co. v. Lobb, 12 P. R. 207; Videan v. Westover, 18 C. L. T. 83; 29 Ont. 1; Boulton v. Boulton, 5 O. W. R. 177; or otherwise recognizing it, e.g., by obtaining an extension of time for complying with it: Pierce v. Palmer, 12 P. R. 308, where a motion by defendant to set aside a judgment for irregularity was refused, but defendant was let in to defend on terms, and he was held to have waived the right to appeal from the refusal to set aside the judgment by obtaining an extension of the time for compliance with the terms. See also Re Smart, 12 P. R. at p. 638; Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249; and Phillips v. Belleville, infra. Waiver.

But mere payment of money as directed by a judgment: Phillips v. Belleville, 10 O. L. R. 178; and the mere compliance with the terms of an order by the party to whom an indulgence or relief is granted on terms: Anthony v. Blain, 5 O. L. R. 48; or the doing something to enable the judgment to be settled so that the appeal may be prosecuted: Devlin v. Radkey, 22 O. L. R. 399; do not operate as a waiver of the right to appeal from the judgment or order; and see Duffy v. Donovan, 14 P. R. 159. Formerly an appeal could not be brought without the appellant first obeying the judgment or order appealed from: Gilbert's Chy. 185.

Under the English Judicature Act an appeal is in all cases a rehearing, and fresh facts may be gone into: Anon, per Lush, J., 60 L. Fresh evidence on appeals.

Rules 506, 507.

T. Jour. 67; 1 Chart. Ch. Ca. 128. "Every appeal is now a re-hearing, and therefore fresh affidavits may be used on all appeals from a Master to a Judge in Chambers"; per Quain, J., Anon. W. N. 1875, 230; 1 Chart. Ch. Ca. 129. "This ruling has been held by other Judges and confirmed by the Court" (Coe's Practice in the Judge's Chambers, p 6). This would not seem to be the case in Ontario. Fresh evidence may be given by leave only under Rule 232: see Taylor v. Sisters, etc., of Ottowo, 11 P. R. 496. In re Neoth Horbour, etc., Works, 20 Sol. Jour. 26, it was said that each case must in this respect depend upon its own circumstances: fresh evidence was there allowed, also in Robinson v. Bradshow, 32 W. R. 95.

In Re Munns v. Longden, 32 W. R. 675; 50 L. T. 356, it was held that the Court will not receive further evidence on a motion to discharge an order made in Chambers, where the motion has been fully argued and disposed of: see also notes to Rule 232.

Where it is intended to apply for leave to use fresh affidavits or documentary evidence, notice should be given to the opposite party that such relief will be applied for on the hearing of the appeal: Hastie v. Hastie, 1 Ch. D. 562; see Bigsby v. Dickinson, 4 Ch. D. 24; and Dicks v. Brooks, 13 Ch. D. 654.

Costs of affidavits in answer to fresh affidavits were refused where the fresh affidavits were not allowed to be read: Mitchell v. Condy, W. N. 1881, 83.

Appeals from Local Judges in Court.

506. Any person affected by a judgment or order of a Local Judge in Court, may appeal therefrom to a Judge in Court, and such appeal shall be brought within the time and upon the like notice and proceedings as in cases of appeals from orders and decisions of Local Judges in Chambers. C.R. 48.

This Rule applies only to appeals from Local Judges when sitting in Court. The appeal in such cases is to the Weekly Court.

Appeals from Local Judges when acting in Chambers are provided for by Rule 505, and are to a Judge in Chambers.

By this Rule the procedure in both cases is assimilated.

(v) Appeals from a Judge in Chambers.

Appeal from Judge in Chambers.

507.—(1) A person affected by an order or judgment pronounced by a Judge in Chambers which finally disposes of the whole or part of the action or matter may appeal therefrom to a Divisional Court without leave.

(2) Except in cases in which a right of appeal is specially conferred no appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a Judge in Chambers which does not finally dispose of the whole or part of the action or matter, unless by leave of a Judge other than the Judge by whom the judgment order was pronounced.

Rule 507.

(3) Such lonve shall not be given unless:—

(a) There are eonflicting decisions by Judges upon the mntter involved in the proposed appeal, and it is in the opinion of the Judge desirable that an appeal should be allowed; or

(b) There appenrs to the Judgo to be good reason to doubt the correctness of the judgment or order from which the applicant seeks lenve to appeal, and the appeal wonld involve matters of such importanee that in the opinion of the Judge leave to appeal should be given;

(4) The application for leave shall be upon uotice served within four dnys nnd returnable within seven days from the judgment or order.

(5) If leave be given, the appeal shnll be forthwith set down by the applicant and shall be heard by a Divisional Court without further notice.

(6) No appeal under this Rule shall be a stay of proceedings unless so ordered by a Judge. C.R. 777.

This Rule applies only to appeals from n Judge in Chambers, not to appeals from the Master in Ordinary, tbe Master in Chambers, or Local Judges. or Local Masters. Appeals of the latter kind are governed by Rules 502-506; and see Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., 9 P. R. 185.

An order made at the Assizes on a motion referred from Chambers to change the venue, was heló to be in Cbambers. The Judge may treat the Court room as his Chambers if he chooses: Sarnia Agricultural Implement, etc., Co. v. Perdue, 11 P. R. 224.

A solicitor knowing of a preliminary objection to an appeal which he intenda to raise, ought, as a matter of professional courtesy, to inform his opponent, but tha omissaon to do so ia not sufficient ground for depriving tbe respondent of the costs of the appeal: Ex p. Shead, 15 Q. B. D. 338, not following Re Speight, 13 Q. B. D. 42; and Ex p. Blease, 14 Q. B. D. 123.

Judge as Persona Designata.—A Judge making an order under the Dominion Railway Act (R. S. C. c. 37), s. 219, for payment out of compensation moneys acts not for the Court but aa a persona designata, and no appeal lies to the Appellate Division from his order: Re Toronto H. & B. Ry. Co. and Hendrie, 17 P. R. 199; and see Hoare v. Morshead, 1903, 2 K. B. 359.

As to appeals from orders of a Judge acting as a persona designata under an Ontario Statute: see The Judges' Orders Enforcement Act (R. S. O. c. 79), s. 4; Re King, 18 P. R. 365.

Appeals from Judge in Chambers without leave.—Orders made by a Judge in Chambers are not appealable without leave unless they Rule 507. finally dispose of the whole, or some part of the action, or matter—mere interlocutory orders are not appealable except with leave. As to what orders are regarded as final, and what as interlocutory; see notes to Jud. Act, s. 25, and notes supra, pp. 117, 118.

An interpleader order, if finally disposing of the matter, is not an exception. An appeal lies by any party affected by such an order Rondot v. Monetary Times, 19 P. R. 23.

There is no appeal under this Rule from the order of a Judge in a habeas corpus proceeding recommitting the applicant to prison in a criminal proceeding: Rex v. Graves, 21 O. L. R. 329.

No express provision is made limiting the time for bringing an appeal under sub-sec. (1), nor is any express provision made for the length of notice, or the time for setting down such an appeal. Notice of such appeals must be served at least two days before the return day; Rule 215; and the appeal must be set down at least the day before the day of argument: Rule 234 (6).

The appeal is to the Appellate Division.

Where the appellant neglects to set down his motion he is nevertheless liable to pay the respondent's costs of the motion: see Regina v. Armstrong, 13 P. R. 306; and see Rule 660 as to procedure for obtaining costs of an abandoned motion.

The notice should be made returnable for a day named "or so soon thereafter as the Court sits, and the motion can be heard."

Appeals from Judge in Chambers with Leave.—An order, or judgment, made by a Judge in Chambers which is of a merely interlocutory nature is not appealable without leave. As to what orders are regarded as interlocutory: see Jud. Act, s. 25 and notes, supra, pp. 117, 116.

Leave can only be granted by some other Judge than the one making the order: see sub-sec. (2) supra; and only by him where (a) there are conflicting decisions: as to which, see Jud. Act, s. 32, or (b) where he doubts the correctness of the decision, and matters of importance are involved; sub-sec. (3): as to which see Robinson v. Mills, 19 O. L. R. 162; Dick v. Stondord, 4 O. W. N. 111; Bain v. University Estates, 6 O. W. N. 70. The conflicting decisions spoken of in clause (a) are conflicting decisions of Provincial not of English Courts: Ryckman v. Randolph, 20 O. L. R. 1, and see Robinson v. Mills, 19 O. L. R. 162; and for the purposes of this clause, decisions of Judges of the Appellate Division are considered decisions of the High Court Division: Re Rowland & McCallum, 22 O. L. R. 418.

The motion for leave must be launched within four days after the making of the judgment or order complained of, sub-sec. (4) supra. but judgments if final, of course, come within sub-sec. 1, supra, and are appealable without leave.

The motion should be made returnable within seven days, on a day appointed for holding Judges' Chambers: Rule 234, "or so soon thereafter as the motion can be heard," and it has been held in England not to be sufficient to give notice of motion within that time: see Fox v. Wallis, 2 C. P. D. 45; see also Jackson v. Gardner, 15 Gr. 425; Horris v. Meyers, 16 Gr. 117; McIlroy v. Howke, 3 Chy. Ch. 66; Taylor v. Jones, 45 L. J. C. P. 110; Hewson v. Mocdonold, 2 C. L. T. 348; McLaren v. Marks, 10 P. R. 451; Steadman v. Hokim, 22 Q. B. D. 16.

Setting Down the Appeal.—An appeal without leave is brought by notice of motion setting out the grounds: see supra, p. 1089, returnable before a Divisional Court two clear days after service. The motion must be set down within seven days from the date of the order appealed from. Where an appeal is brought by leave, notice of motion is unnecessary: see sub-sec. 5, supra, p. 1123, but the appeal is to be forthwith set down: Ib. Rules 508, 509.

As to the time of the sittings of the Divisional Court: see supra p. 1090.

An application for an extension of the time limited for applying for leave to appeal under this Rule must be made to a Judge of the High Court Division in Chambers: Rules 176, 207 (4), not to the Master in Chambers, or other officer having the like jurisdiction: see Rule 208 (13) s.-s. 2, supra.

And an application to extend the time for setting down the appeal where leave has been granted, should in like manner be made to a Judge in Chambers, and in ordinary course to the Judge who granted the leave.

The Court on appeal will, in general, not interfere on a question which is, by the practice, purely within the discretion of the Judge: McDonnell v. McKay, 2 Chy. Ch. 243; Neill v. Travellers' Ins. Co., 9 Ont. App. 54; and appeals from a Judge in Chambers made on appeal from the Master in Chambers on matters of pleading are not to be encouraged: see Dodge v. Smith, 1 O. L. R. 46; Bateman v. The Mail, 2 O. L. R. 416.

Where an order made in Court was issued as if made in Chambers leave to appeal therefrom to the Appellate Division was given; and the notice of appeal given on the assumption that the order was a Court order, was allowed to stand: Foss v. Fairgrieve, 6 O. W. N. 640.

(vi) Appeals from Taxation.

Solicitor and client taxations.

508. An appeal from the report or certificate of an officer to whom the taxation of a solicitor's bill under The Solicitors Act has been referred shall lie and may be brought in the same manner as in the case of the report of a Master. C.R. 773.

This Rule and Rule 3 settle the differences of opinion expressed in previous decisions: see Re Robinson, 17 P. R. 137; Re Mowat, 17 P. R. 180; Re Crothers, 15 P. R. 93; Exchange Bank v. Newell, 9 P. R. 528; and make it clear that Rules 681 and 682 only apply in case of party and party taxations: see Re Solicitors, 6 O. W. N. 625.

The procedure on such appeals is to be the same as on an appeal from a Master's report; as to which: see Rules 502, 503. The certificate should be filed, and notice of filing given, and seven clear days notice of motion must be given. The appeal is to a Judge in Court.

An appeal may be made from the taxing officer on a taxation between solicitor and client without carrying in objections under Rule 681: Re Solicitors, 6 O. W. N. 625.

Review of taxation by Judge on party and party taxations.

509. In other cases a party dissatisfied with the decision of a taxing officer upon any question of principle or as to any item respecting which objections have been duly filed, may appeal from the certificate of a taxing officer to a Judge in Chambers; the practice upon the appeal shall be the same as upon an appeal from the Master in Chambers. C.R. 774, 775 and 776. Amended.

See notes to Rule 508.

The Master in Chambers, and officers having like powers, have no jurisdiction to review taxations: Rule 208 (2).

This Rule applies both to appeals from the Taxing Officers in Toronto, and from the Local Taxing Officers: Rule 756.

No appeal lies from the taxation, under The Mortgages Act (R. S. O. c. 112), s. 30 (4), of a mortgagee's costs of proceedings under a power of sale: Re Vanluven & Walker, 19 P. R. 216.

No appeal lies from a taxation of costs pursuant to an order of Court made under the Cr. Code, s. 689: Re Constantineau v. Jones, 26 O. L. R. 160.

The procedure on the appeal is to be the same as on an appeal from the Master in Chambers as provided by Rule 505.

The objections referred to are those provided for by Rule 681.

Notwithstanding the terms of this Rule, it is competent for the Court or a Judge in a proper case to set aside a Taxing Master's certificate, in order to enable a party to adduce further evidence, or file written objections: Robinson v. England, 11 O. L. R. 385; Re Farber, 1898, 2 Ch. 533; 79 L. T. 266.

This Rule is in affirmance of what was held to be the practice in Stark v. Fisher, 11 P. R. 235; Ireland v. Pitcher, Ib., 403.

The time runs from the date of the certificate of taxation, and not from the date of each ruling in the course of the taxation: Re O'Donohoe, 12 P. R. 612.

The time may be extended under Rule 176: Clork v. Virgo, 17 P. R. 260; by the Master in Chambers, or officer having like jurisdiction, or by a Judge: Quay v. Quay, 11 P. R. 258.

Matters in discretion of Taxing Officer.

Discretion of Taxing Officer.—Where questions of taxation are in the Taxing Officer's discretion, his discretion will not be interfered with, unless it be manifest that he has failed to exercise it in a reasonable manner: The Neera, 5 P. D. 118; Hargreaves v. Scott, 4 C. P. D. 21; Smith v. Wills, 34 W. R. 30; 53 L. T. 386; see also Boswell v. Cooks, 36 Ch. D. 444; Re Hillyard and Royal Ins. Co., 12 P. R. 285; Gall v. Collins, 12 P. R. 413. Amongst items formerly placed by the tariff in his discretion, were instructions for motions, letters, attendances: McGonnon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555; see also Turnbull v. Jonson, 3 C. P. D. 264; see now, Tariff A, items, 6, 9, 11, 12, 13, 16, 17, 20, 21, 23.

The Taxing Officer's decision as to the number of counsel will not be interfered with where it is merely the officer's discretion that is in question, and not the correctness of his judgment in following any supposed rule of decision: Wheeler v. Fradd, 14 T. L. R. 440; so his decision as to the amount of counsel's fees, will not be interfered with, unless a gross mistake is made: Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 517;

Talbot v. Poole, 15 P. R. 274; see also Fox v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry., 7 P. R. 157; Betts v. Cleaver, L. R. 7 Chy. 513; Re Bethune & Co., 4 C. L. T. 251; Petrie v. Guelph, etc., 10 P. R. 600; Re Robinson, 16 P. R. 423; Rondot v. Monetary Times, 18 P. R. 141; Re Solicitors, 4 O. W. R. 302. The Court will slowly and reluctantly enter into all questions of quantum merely: Smith v. Buller, L. R. 19 Eq. 478; Morgan and Wurtzburg on Costs, 480; where they are taxable under a tariff: Re Solicitor, 12 O. W. R. 1074; Murphy v. Corry, 7 O. W. R. 363; and generally on appeals from a Taxing Officer the Court will not interfere with his discretion as to quantum and quoties of fees, and this rule covers any question of distribution, or allotment of charges, among different cases, or branches of a case: Conmee v. N. American Contracting Co., 13 P. R. 433; McDonald v. Grand Trunk Ry., 2 O. W. N. 748; see also per Burton, J.A., in Re Robinson, 17 P. R. 146; and Oliver v. Robins, 43 W. R. 137: Re Solicitors, 3 O. W. N. 194; but an appeal respecting only $5.32 was entertained where a question of principle was involved: Monk v. Benjomin, 13 P. R. 356; and where the items in question are not governed by a Tariff, and the Taxing Officer has to determine the value of the services, the Court will have less hesitation in reviewing his decision: Re Solicitors, 27 O. L. R. 147. Rule 609.

Certificate.—A memorandum at the foot of the bill shewing the result, upon which execution has issued, was held to be a sufficient certificate, when filed in the proper office: McCallum v. McCallum, 11 P. R. 179; but an informal certificate written at the end of the bill, shewing that it was fixed at so much, initialed by the Taxing Officer, and marked filed in his office, is insufficient: Gall v. Collins, 12 P. R. 413. It must be filed in the proper office for filing a report: see Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444; and Gall v. Collins, supra. Certificate of Taxing Officer.

Practice on Appeals.—An appeal from a taxation of costs in Appeal is to be made to a Judge of the High Court Division: Petrie v. Guelph, etc., 10 P. R. 600; Holmes v. Bready, 18 P. R. 79. Practice on appeals from Taxing Officer.

Two clear days' notice of appeal is sufficient: McCallum v. McCallum, supra.

An appeal will not be allowed as to any items not included in the objections brought in under Rule 681: Platt v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273; and where no objections have been brought in under Rule 681; the appeal will be dismissed: Snowden v. Huntington, 12 P. R. 1; Cameron v. Cameron, 9 C. L. T. 196; see also Hester v. Hester, 34 Ch. D. 607; Re Nation, 57 L. T. 648; Strousberg v. Sanders, 38 W. R. 117; except where the whole principle or method of taxation is the subject of the appeal: see Clark v. Virgo, 17 P. R. 260, and notes to Rule 681.

In Quay v. Quay, 11 P. R. 258, it was held to be a convenient practice (which was for some time followed), on an appeal from a Local Officer as to numerous items, or on the ground of general exorbitancy, to refer the whole bill to the Taxing Officer in Toronto; and where this was done no costs of the revision, and appeal, were usually allowed, unless substantially entire success was with one party or the other: Platt v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273; and where a taxing officer reported that the respondent should have had more allowed to him than had been taxed, he was not allowed the increased amount, as he had not appealed, but the appeal was dismissed: Loomis

v. Pearsall, 12 C. L. T. 19; but this mode of procedure has been held by a Divisional Court to be not warranted by the Rules, and no doubt it will no longer be followed: Campbell v. Baker, 9 O. L. R. 291. The Judge in Chambers before whom an appeal is brought may take the opinion of an officer for his own information, but must himself determine the questions arising on the appeal: Ib.

An appeal lies to Appellate Division from an order of a Judge in Chambers on appeal from a Taxing Officer: Talbot v. Poole, 15 P. R. 274; and see Rule 507.

CHAPTER XVIII.

FORMS OF JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS, ETC.

510. Judgments and orders shall be divided into convenient paragraphs, numbered consecutively. C.R. 620. Orders to be divided into paragraphs.

For Forms: see H. & L. Forms, No. 836 et seq.

Judgments against Executors and Administrators. — In an action against a personal representative for a debt of the deceased, if the defendant has not administered the estate, and has no defence, he should not allow judgment to go against him if the estate is not solvent, but should ask by counter-claim for judgment for administration, and for payment of the debt in due course of administration. Judgment in that form is the proper judgment in all actions in the Supreme Court, and in the County Court, where it has jurisdiction to order administration under The County Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 59), s. 22, against executors, etc., when there is a recovery of money, and assets are not admitted: see McKibbon v. Feegan, 21 Ont. App. 95. Judgments against personal representatives.

If he has duly administered he should plead plene administrovit, or plene administrovit præter, viz.: "That he has fully administered all the estate and effects of A. B., the deceased, which have come to the hands of the defendant as executor (or administrator) to be administered [except, etc.], and the defendant had not at the commencement of this action, nor has he since, any estate or effects of A. B. in the hands of the defendant as executor (or administrator), [except as aforesaid]." And semble, a personal representative may plead plene administravit, where he has paid his own debt out of the assets, without notice of any other claims, if that has exhausted the assets: see Re Fludger, 1898, 2 Ch. 562; 79 L. T. 298; but see The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 53.

If the executor thus pleads plene administrovit, he cannot, if he establishee his defence, be made personally liable; but if he does not so plead, he is taken to admit assets, and may become personally liable for the claim and the costs, if they cannot be levied on property of deceased. Judgment if plaintiff succeeds on plea of plene administravit, or where it is not pleaded.

If the defendant does not so plead, or if he pleads and fails to establish his defence, or disputes the right to recover, or pleads any defence which is false to his knowledge, such as a denial that he is executor, etc., and the plaintiff succeeds, the plaintiff is entitled to judgment for costs de bonis et terris testatoris, si, etc., et si non de propriis: Huyck v. Proctor, 10 P. R. 25; Lince v. Foircloth, 14 P. R. 253; Miles v. Brown, 15 P. R. 375; but semble, not for the debt, de propriis: see Wms. Exors., 9th ed., 1859-60.

If the defendant proves his plea of plene administravit he will usually be given the general costs of the action, as having succeeded on a plea in bar, although other issues may be found against him: see McKibbon v. Feegan, 21 Ont. App. at p. 94. To prove his plea he must probably shew due notice to creditors and distribution of the If defendant succeeds.

estate thus far come to his hands pursuant to The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 56, or in administration proceedings in Court.

If the plaintiff takes issue on a plea of plene administravit, and proves some assets unadministered, he may obtain judgment to the extent of the assets proved, and of future assets quando acciderint for the residue, if any, of his debt: 2 Wms. Exors., 9th ed., 1860, and in such a case the defendant may be ordered personally to pay the costs: 2 Wms. Exors., 9th ed., 1859. Where a judgment has been recovered in this form against a personal representative, it would seem that it would be open to the plaintiff, where the facts justified that course, to apply under Rule 523, alleging a devastavit by defendant and praying judgment against him personally to the extent thereof, so far as necessary to satisfy the judgment.

Judgment if plaintiff admits plea of plene administravit.

The plaintiff upon the plea of plene administravit being pleaded, may apply for judgment (for his debt and costs) of future assets quando, etc.: 2 Wms. Exors., 9th ed., 1862; Chitty's Forms, 12th ed., 540. He may do this at once, or after having obtained discovery: see Chitty's Forms, 12th ed., 290, 291.

Such a judgment may, after assets have come to the hands of the executor, and demand has been made upon him for payment, be enforced by applying under Rule 566 for leave to issue execution, or by action upon the judgment: 2 Wms. Exors., 9th ed., 1863.

Before The Judicature Act if a plaintiff took issue on a plea of plene administravit and failed, he was not entitled to judgment of assets quando, etc.; but this is no longer the case, and such judgment may be awarded, if desired, even though the plea be established: McKibbon v. Feegan, supra.

Judgments against trustees.

Judgment against a Trustee for Trust Moneys.—A judgment in the common law raform that the plaintiff "do recover" against a trustee, trust moneys, was held not to be equivalent to the form of decree formerly used in equity directing a defendant to pay: see Re Oddy Major v. Harness, 1906, 1 Ch. 93; 94 L. T. 146; and such a judgment was held not to be enforceable by attachment of the person as a judgment in the equity form would have been: Ib. This distinction is possibly of no importance in Ontario having regard to The Fraudulent Debtors Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 83), s. 13.

Sums to be stated in dollars and cents.

Form of Judgments and Orders.—In all judgments and orders, sums should be stated in dollars and cents.

The Court has no jurisdiction to award payment in anything but Canadian currency: Manners v. Pearson, 1898, 1 Ch. 581; 78 L. T. 432; and in taking account of money payable under a contract in a foreign currency, conversion into Canadian currency is to be made at the rate of exchange current at the time when the amount is ascertained: Ib.

Costs, and money of infants.

Judgments directing payment of costs are to direct them to be paid to the suitor and not his solicitor: Rule 514; and judgments and orders directing payment into Court of any money for the benefit of an infant, are also to state the date of the birth of such infant: Rule 513.

Liberty to apply, need not be reserved.

511. It shall not be necessary in any judgment or order to reserve liberty to apply, but any party may apply to the Court from time to time as he may be advised. C.R. 622.

It is said that all orders of the Court carry with them in gremio liberty to apply to the Court, per Fry, J., Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542; 42 L. T. 225; see also Re Roper, Taylor v. Ward, 39 W. R. 101, and How v. Winterton, 91 L. T. 763, 765. But this liberty was held in England not to be implied in orders of a final nature; Penrice v. Williams, 23 Ch. D. 353; 48 L. T. 868; nor, in favour of defendant, in an order dismissing an action, except for the purpose of enforcing the terms of the order: Huntley v. Link, 26 Sol. Jour. 59. Rule 512.

Where costs of an interlocutory motion were reserved "until the hearing or other final disposition of the cause," and an order was subsequently made allowing a demurrer to the plaintiff's bill for want of equity, but the costs of the interlocutory motion were not then asked for, it was held that a subsequent application might be made to the Court to amend the order by directing the allowance of the costs reserved: St. Michael's College v. Merrick, 26 Gr. 216; 18 C. L. J. 130; Viney v. Chaplin, 3 De G. & J. 281; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542; Blakey v. Hall, 56 L. T. 400; and see Gosnell v. Bishop, 38 Ch. D. 385; How v. Winterton, 91 L. T. 763, 766. Costs reserved to trial may be subsequently disposed of.

Liberty to apply is said only to extend to applications for further relief consequent on the order or judgment pronounced, and not to an application for additional relief which is not consequential on that already given: see Poisson v. Robertson, 86 L. T. 302.

512. Every judgment or order shall show on its face the day of the week and month on which it was given or made and every judgment shall also show the date upon which it is actually signed, and (except judgments signed by default and præcipe orders) shall show the name or names of the Judge or officer who gave or made the same, and shall take effect from its date. C.R. 623 and 629. Date of judgments and orders.

C. R. 629 provided that a judgment or order should take effect from the date it was pronounced.

Although that provision is omitted in the present Rule, it is probably not intended to work any change in the practice, as no other day is named on which it is to take effect.

Although a judgment or order takes effect from its date, yet it cannot be actively enforced until it has been entered: see Rule 515; but execution may be issued thereon upon its being left with the proper officer before it has been actually entered: Rossiter v. Toronto Ry., 15 O. L. R. 297.

Judgments and orders should be dated on the day on which they are finally made, and should not be ante-dated, nor contain recitals of affidavits sworn after the date of the order: Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768; nor upon an application by a defendant against the plaintiff, should the order be drawn up stating that a co-defendant appeared who in fact did appear, but who had not been served with the notice: Evelyn v. Evelyn, 28 W. R. 531.

Where an order is expressed to last until a particular day "or until further order," the words "further order" mean an order made on an earlier day than the day specified: Bolton v. London School Board, 7 Ch. D. 766.

Rule 812.

Name of Judge.

As to the manner in which the name of the Judge or officer is to be stated in the margin of judgments or orders: see Form No. 107; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 946, 947.

It has been held by a Divisional Court in an unreported case, that where a judgment is handed to the Registrar and not delivered in open Court, it is not to be deemed to be pronounced or delivered until the parties are notified of it; and see Fowkes v. Swayzie, 31 Ont. 261; Wallace v. Bath, 7 O. L. R. 542; but the well settled practice of the Court is, in such cases, to date the judgment or order as of the date on which the decision was handed to the Registrar, notice of its delivery being usually placed on the notice board of the Court on the same day; and see Atty.-Gen. v. Dunlop, 36 C. L. J. 607.

See Rule 568, and Winkley v. Winkley, 44 L. T. 572.

"Signing judgment."

The signing of the judgment referred to in this Rule is the marking of it as entered, with the date of entry, and the name of the officer in whose office it is entered, and not merely the signing of it by the officer who settles it, where he is not the officer with whom it is entered.

Delay in signing judgment.

A plaintiff who has obtained an order giving him leave to sign judgment, but who has not actually signed judgment, is not a judgment creditor: Re Gurney, 1896, 2 Ch. 864; but where a judgment has been actually pronounced it becomes an effective judgment from that time, so that it may be attached, though the judgment is not formally entered: Holtby v. Hodgson, 24 Q. B. D. 103; Dovidson v. Taylor, 14 P. R. 78; and see Moody v. Canadian Bank of Commerce, Ib., 258. The formal signature is only the record that it has been pronounced: Kelly v. Wade, 14 P. R. 66.

Where a judgment pronounced in 1880 gave a plaintiff an order for an account if he desired it, the judgment not having been issued, twelve years afterwards, leave to issue it was refused, in view of the altered position of the parties and other circumstances: Eaton v. Dorland, 15 P. R. 138; and see Re Leslie, 23 Ont. 143; and Finkle v. Lutz, 14 P. R. 446.

Entry of judgments, and orders.

This Rule was held not to apply when the judgment itself regulates the entry: McLaren v. Canada Central, 10 P. R. 328, where the judgment was, "I direct judgment to be entered after the 5th day of Hilary Sittings for $100.000;" but see Talbot v. Canadian Coloured Cotton Co., 17 C. L. T. 336. In practice, on such an indorsement, the judgment is dated as required by this Rule on the day it is pronounced, but it cannot be entered until after the day named in the indorsement.

Where a judgment is varied by a Divisional Court the judgment should be entered as of the date on which the Divisional Court pronounced judgment: Beckett v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 377.

Orders in Chambers should be dated on the day on which they are finally made: Ashley v. Taylor, 27 W. R. 228; so also the finding of a Master: Wallace v. Bath, 7 O. L. R. 542.

Death after argument, and before judgment.

Where a party dies after argument and while the cause is standing for judgment, the direction of the court should be obtained to date and enter the judgment when delivered, as of the date of the argument, otherwise it would appear to be defective on its face; see Rule 304, and notes.

Rules 513-518.

Where an application is mada and rafused, and on appeal tha order is reversed, and the application granted, tha order mada on the appeal relates back to the date of tha order raversed, so far as any intervening proceadings ara concernad: In re Donisthorpe & The Manchester S. & L. Ry. Co., 1897, 1 Q. B. 671; the litigant is not to be prejudiced by tha delay, or the mistake, of tha Court.

Effect of order on appeal.

In all cases tha judgment pronouncad by the Court may be signed forthwith, unless otharwise ordered.

Immediate judgment.

513. An order for payment of money into Court on bchalf of, or as the property of, an infant shall, unless otherwise directed, state the date of the birth of the infant. C.R. 411.

Dates of birth of infants in judgments and orders.

C. R. 418, provided that if this Rule was not obsarved, the order or jndgment was not to be acted on by the Accountant unless otherwisa ordered. No penalty is now prescribed for the non-obsarvance of this Rule.

514. All judgmcnts and orders directing payment of costs shall direct payment to the party entitled to receive the same and not to his Solicitor. C.R. 1313.

Costs to be ordered to be paid to suitor.

515.—(1) Every judgment, and every order pronounced in Court, shall be entered at full length.

Entry of judgments and orders.

(2) Judgment in causes and matters commenced in the Central Office, and all orders made in Court in Toronto, shall be entered in the Central Office. Orders made in Chambers in Toronto shall be entered in the office of the Clerk in Chambers.

Where to be entered.

(3) Judgments in causes or matters commenced in a local office and all orders made therein not entered at Toronto shall be entered in the office in which the cause or matter was commenced. C.R. 635.

Tha data of entry, and tha book, and folio, in which the entry is made, must be stated in tha margin of the order, or judgment, issued: Rule 517.

Place of entry of judgments and orders.

Place of Entry.—All orders made in Court, or in Chambers, in Toronto, requiring entry, are to be entered in Toronto. Orders made elsewhere, e.g., on circuit, or at the Weekly Courts at London, or Ottawa, or in Chambers, should under this Rule, sub-sec. (3), be entered at tha place where tha action or matter was commenced.

Except in the case of judgments in an issue (as to which see Rule 125), all judgments no mattar where pronounced, are to be entered in tha office where the proceedings were commenced: see clause (3), Rule 762; a.g., where the proceedings have been commenced elsawhere than in Toronto, the judgment must ha enterd in tha office of the Local Registrar, Deputy Registrar, or Deputy Clerk of tha Crown, in whose office the proceedings were commenced; and where the judgment is pronounced in a proceeding not commenced by writ, then the office of the Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or Deputy, or Local Registrar, in which the first document is required to be filed, is to be deemed the office in which the cause or matter is commenced; see Rule 761.

Entry of orders made in other Provinces under Dominion Winding-up Act.

Execution may be issued under sec. 127 of The Winding-up Act (R. S. C. c, 144), upon the order of a Court of another Province, upon the mere production to the proper officer of the High Court Division of a properly certified copy of the order; but entry of the order must be made in the proper judgment or order book of the High Court Division: Re Dominion Cold Storage Co., Lowrey's Case, 18 P. R. 68.

Lost order.

Where an order, which had not been entered, was lost, it was directed to be redrawn: Ex parte Dean of St. Paul's, 18 W. R. 724. No proceedings can properly be taken upon a judgment or order required to be entered, until it has been entered: see Ballard v. Tomlinson, 48 L. T. 515. But where an administration judgment had been issued before being entered, and was subsequently entered after proceedings had been taken under it, such proceedings were upheld: Re Morphy, Morphy v. Niven, 11 P. R. 321; but where a plaintiff in a redemption action obtained judgment, but neglected to issue it for twelve years, he was held to have disentitled himself by the delay, to issue or prosecute it: Eaton v. Dorland, 15 P. R. 138; and see Re Leslie, 23 Ont. 143; but see Finkle v. Lutz, 14 P. R. 446.

Issuing execution.

Although a judgment, or order, cannot be actively enforced until it is entered, yet execution may be issued thereon upon its being left with the proper officer for entry before it is actually entered: Rossiter v. Toronto Ry., 15 O. L. R. 297.

Semble, orders dismissing actions when made in Chambers whether in invitum, or upon consent, are in the nature of judgments and should be entered in full, in order that it may be possible to certify them at any future time.

Orders required to be entered in full, and otherwise.

516. Orders issued on præcipe and orders made in Chambers, shall not be entered in full, except:

Orders declaring persons Lunatics; or and with respect to Lunatics' Estates;

" for the Sale of Infants' Estates;

" for Payment of Money into or out of Court, or out of an estate or fund;

" for Foreclosure or Sale;

" for the confirmation of the report of a Master or Referee;

" vacating certificates of lis pendens or cautions.

Vesting Orders;

and such other orders as may from time to time be directed to be entered. C.R. 636.

This Rule is strictly confined to orders, and does not include Judgments. All judgments pronounced in Chambers are covered by Rule 515, and must be entered in full. They must be entered not in Chambers, hot in the office for entering judgments. As to orders dismissing actions; see note to Rule 515.

The orders enumerated in this Rule are, in Toronto, entered by the Entering Clerk in Chambers.

The practice in Toronto beretofore has been to make a brief note of the purport of all orders not requiring entry in full, and this practice seems to be continued by Rule 515. It is desirable that a similer practice should be observed in the local offices, but there appears to be no express Rule requiring it to be done.

By the words, "orders for foreclosure or sale," final orders, as well as judgments, are intended to be included; see Rule 486.

Entering.

517. The Entering Clerk shall note in the margin of the judgment or order book the day of entering, and shall at the foot of the judgment or order note the same date and a reference to the book in which the entry has been made. C.R. 637.

The absence of such a note of entry on the face of the order is irregular: see Lovell v. Taylor, 5 O. W. R. 525.

Divisional Court orders to be entered.

518. All judgments and orders of a Divisional Court shall he entered in the Central Office at Toronto, and if the action was commenced elsewhere also in the office where the action was commenced. New.

Former C. R. 635 (4) as enacted by C. R. 1262, was to a similar effect, but provided that the fees for only one entry should be charged; this is now provided for by Tariff B, item 7.

See also Rule 525.

General form of judgment for foreclosure or sale.

519.—(1) Any judgment in a mortgage action may direct in general terms that all necessary inquiries be made, accounts taken, costs taxed, and proceedings had for redemption or foreclosure, (or for redemption or sale, as the case may he) and that for these purposes the cause is referred to (naming the Master).

(2) Any judgment directing a sale may so direct in general terms and refer the action to the Master for that purpose.

For partition or administration.

(3) Any judgment directing partition or administration may be in general terms.

Effect of.

(4) Any jndgment in general terms shall confer npon the Master all the powers given by these rules and all other powers necessary to enable him to carry the judgment into full effect. C.R. 619. Amended.

A declaration that plaintiff is entitled to a charge is a proper preface to a judgment on mortgage debentures: Parkinson v. Wainright, 43 W. R. 420, but not after a winding-up order has been made, unless with the consent of the liquidator: Warwick v. Thurlow, Ib., 493.

Judgments under Judicature Act for foreclosure or sale, effect of.

Judgments for foreclosure, or sale, since The Judicature Act have been authorized to be drawn in a similar form to that prescribed by Chy. Ord. 441, from which this Rule is taken; see Forms Nos. 101, 102, 103; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 904, 905, 906, 908, 909 and 910. The Rules prior to 1888 did not expressly state that judgments so worded were to have the effect which Chy. O. 441 stated they should have, but in McDougall v. Lindsay Paper Mills Co., 10 P. R. 247, it was held that such was the effect of judgments so drawn.

In special cases.

Where the circumstances of the case are special, a judgment in the ordinary form prescribed by this Rule would not be appropriate. Thus, where a tender was pleaded, a special inquiry was directed on this point, and further directions and costs were reserved: Peers v. Allen, 19 Gr. 98. So also where the defendant pleaded payment in full, costs were reserved: Goodcrham v. DeGrassi, 2 Gr. 135. In such cases, this must still be done, or the judgment must provide for the dismissal of the action in case the Master shall find in the defendant's favour. So also, where the defendants were rival claimants to the equity of redemption, special directions were inserted in the decree: Ramsey v. Thompson, 8 Gr. 372.

Day to show cause.

When infants are defendants, a judgment of foreclosure must also ordinarily, reserve a day to shew cause: see notes to Rule 466.

Reference to take account, when unnecessary.

It is for the plaintiff himself to determine whether or not a reference is required. This will depend upon whether or not there are any subsequent incumbrances; of this he must satisfy himself by getting the proper certificates from the proper officers: see Rule 469. Where there are no subsequent incumbrancers, the account should be taken on entering the judgment; if the plaintiff takes a reference to the Master unnecessarily, he cannot recover the extra costs so occasioned: Hamilton v. Howard, 4 Gr. 581; Purdy v. Parks, 9 P. R. 424.

Where the plaintiff took a judgment without a reference, and, after obtaining a final order of foreclosure, discovered that there were subsequent incumbrances, the Court refused to make a supplemental judgment directing the usual accounts and inquiries against the incumbrancers, but amended the judgment by inserting the usual reference as to incumbrancers, which had the effect of nullifying the previous proceedings: Wilgress v. Crawford, 12 P. R. 658; and so also where after a final order, it was discovered that a parcel of land had by mistake been omitted from the indorsement on the writ of summons, an amendment was granted but only on the terms of vacating the judgment and final order: Clarke v. Cooper, 15 P. R. 54.

The reference, if directed, should be made to a Master in the county where the writ issued: Macara v. Gwynne, 8 Gr. 310. But the reference may afterwards be changed on motion, for sufficient cause: see notes to Rule 245, p. 706.

Reference, where to be directed.

A judgment to enforce an equitable mortgage of shares by deposit, should be in substantially the same form as a judgment to enforce an equitable mortgage by depositing title deeds: Harrold v. Plenty, 85 Rule 520. L. T. 45.

Same in effect as the Eng. (1683), R. 308.

520. Any judgment by default may be set aside upon an application in Chambers. C.R. 639. Judgment by default may be set aside on terms.

Notwithstanding this Rule, an action to set aside a judgment by default on the ground of fraud, will lie: Wyatt v. Palmer, 1899, 2 Q. B. 106; 80 L. T. 639.

A judgment for default of appearance, or defence, signed after an appearance or defence has been filed, but which has been mislaid by the officer, and not entered in his procedure book, is irregular: Moore v. Simons, 1 C. L. J. 183; Bank of Montreal v. Harrison, 4 P. R. 381.

Where a judgment has been obtained irregularly, the party against whom it has been obtained is entitled ex debito justitiæ to have it set aside: Anlaby v. Praetorius, 20 Q. B. D. 764; Voight v. Orth, 5 O. L. R. 443. The Court has only power to impose terms as a condition of giving him costs: Ib. This Rule applies, rather to cases where a regular judgment is sought to be set aside as an indulgence.

A judgment obtained by default in compliance with the terms on which leave was, under former C. R. 603, given to defend, was held to be a judgment, by default within this Rule: Badman's case, Re Portuguese, etc., Mines, 62 L. T. 180.

To set aside a regular judgment, an affidavit of merits will be necessary: Farden v. Richter, 23 Q. B. D. 124; but where merits are shewn, it is only a question of proper terms; see Wright v. Mills, 60 L. T. 887; Moore v. Kennedy, 18 C. L. T. 204 (Man.); and though the judgment be set aside, the Court may refuse costs of the application: Jackson v. Gardiner, 19 P. R. 137. Merits must be shewn.

The Court will not set aside a final judgment regularly signed by default, unless the defendant shews at least some prima facie ground of defence, such as would be necessary on a motion for judgment under Rule 57. The Court will not on such an application try the defence; but the defendant may be cross-examined on his affidavit, and his alleged defence may be shewn by documents under his own hand, not explained or answered, to be non-existent: Bourne v. O'Donohoe, 17 P. R. 522. A judgment by default signed for too much damages: Muir v. Jenks, 1913, 2 K. B. 412; 108 L. T. 747; or too much costs: Armitage v. Parsons, 1908, 2 K. B. 410; 99 L. T. 329; is amendable, but if the plaintiff neglects to apply to amend, it may be set aside: Muir v. Jenks, supra.

Mere delay is not in itself a reason for refusing to set aside a judgment by default. Some irreparable injury must be shewn to result to the plaintiff: see Atwood v. Chichester, 3 Q. B. D. 722; Watt v. Barnett, 3 Q. B. D. 183, 363, and notes to Rule 37; but lapse of time, and acquiescence, may be an answer to the motion: McLean v. Smith, 10 P. R. 145. Laches.

Where the action had been improperly brought against the defendant, and the plaintiff was aware of the impropriety, and had suffered no irreparable mischief, it was held that the lapse of time was no bar to the application to set aside judgment by default: King v. Sandeman, infra.

Terms imposed.

Where a judgment obtained on default of appearance at the trial was set aside, the defaulting party was ordered to pay the costs of the day, and of the application to set it aside, and to restore the case to the list: Cockle v. Joyce, 28 W. R. 59.

A plaintiff not being ready to proceed with the trial of his action when it came on unexpectedly, applied for a postponement, and upon its being refused let judgment go by default: a Divisional Court refused to set aside the judgment; but the Court of Appeal, upon fresh evidence offering a reasonable explanation of the plaintiff's unreadiness, set aside the judgment, and ordered the action to be restored to the list on his paying the costs of the day, including all costs thrown away, and the costs of the applications both to the Divisional Court, and to the Court of Appeal: King v. Sandeman, 38 L. T. 461; 26 W. R. 569; see also Williams v. Brisco, 29 W. R. 713 (where a judgment was set aside and leave given to defend upon payment of all costs of the action subsequent to the delivery of the statement of claim); and Ryan v. Fish, 9 P. R. 458 (where judgment of seisin signed in an action of dower, under a misapprehension of plaintiff's solicitor as to its effect, was vacated).

Where the defence had been struck out for wilful refusal to produce, and judgment by default obtained, the Court refused to set it aside on any terms: Haigh v. Haigh, 31 Ch. D. 478; and see Dunn v. McLean, 8 P. R. 156.

Strangers to judgment cannot apply.

A stranger to the proceedings cannot apply to set aside a judgment on the ground of irregularity: Balfour v. Ellison, 8 U. C. L. J. 330; Jacques v. Harrison, infra; Tait v. Harrison, 17 Gr. 458; but where it has been obtained by fraud to the prejudice of a stranger, it may be successfully attacked by him: Ib.; but semble, in such a case an action should be brought.

A judgment by default, in an action against a lessee for recovery of land on a forfeiture, was set aside under this Rule on the application of equitable mortgagees, although not parties to the action: Jacques v. Harrison, 12 Q. B. D. 136; but on appeal it was held that the order was technically wrong, as the applicants ought to have obtained the leave of the defendant to move in his name, or to have applied for leave to defend on terms of indemnifying defendant, and the order made was amended so as to allow the mortgagees to defend in defendant's name: S. C., 12 Q. B. D. 185. The Rule is designed to enable judgments by default to be set aside by those who have, or who can acquire a locus standi, and does not give a locus standi to those who have none: Ib.

An appeal does not lie to the Supreme Court from a judgment of the Court of Appeal granting or refusing a motion to set aside a judgment obtained by default: O'Donohoe v. Bourne, 27 S. C. R. 654.

See also notes to Rules 37 and 499.

VARIATION OF JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

(1) Before being Drawn up and Entered.—

Reconsideration by the Judge.

A Judge can always reconsider his decision until the judgment or order is drawn up: Re St. Nazaire Co., 12 Ch. D. p. 91; Miller's Case, 3

Ch. D. 661; Atty.-Gen. v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388; Canada Land, etc., Co. v. Dysart, 9 Ont. 511; Glasgow v. Glasgow, Ib.; Re Suffield and Watts, 20 Q. B. D. at p. 697; Re Adam Eyton, 36 Ch. D. 299; Re Crown Bank, 44 Ch. D. 634; 62 L. T. 823; Keith v. Butcher, 25 Ch. D. 750; Hipkiss v. Fellows, 101 L. T. 701; Re Thomas, Bartley v. Thomas, 1911, 2 Ch. 389; 105 L. T. 59. So also can the Appellate Division: see Cameron v. Walker, 19 Ont. 217; Hockley v. Grand Trunk Ry., 10 O. L. R. 363. Rule 520.

After an order made declaring that children took per stirpes, it was discovered that this was contrary to authorities, and by arrangement the matter was mentioned to the Court again, and an order altering the order so as to declare that they took per capita was made: Re Blackwell, Bridgman v. Blackwell, W. N. 1886, 97; sed vide Preston Banking Co. v. Allsup, 1895, 1 Ch. 144.

Even if a judgment has not been passed or entered, the Court will not always interfere, e.g., where from the nature of the ground on which the application is based, conflicting evidence would have to be gone into: Ainsworth v. Wilding, infra.

As to motions to vary the minutes of judgments and orders, see note to Rule 526.

(2) After having been Drawn up and Entered.—

A judgment or order, when passed and entered, can only be amended as provided by the Rules of Court: Blake v. Harvey, 29 Ch. D. 827; Re Beard, 69 L. T. 259. The Judge who made it has no authority to alter it, even so as to make his meaning clear: Fitzgerald v. Tilling, 99 L. T. 718, unless it can be said the judgment as drawn up does not correctly express the judgment of the Court as pronounced; see infra. It is irregular for the officer who issued it to take upon himself to vary it, even though it be defective or erroneous: Re Beard, supra; Sweetland v. Turkish Cigarette Co., 47 W. R. 511; 80 L. T. 472. Variation after entry.

After a judgment has been passed and entered, even where taken by consent, and under a mistake, the Court cannot set it aside otherwise than in a fresh action brought for the purpose, unless;

(1) There has been a clerical mistake or error arising from an accidental slip or omission within Rule 521, or,

(2) The judgment does not, as drawn up, correctly state what the Court actually decided, or intended to decide, in either of which cases, an application may be made by a motion in the action to correct the error: Ainsworth v. Wilding, 1896, 1 Ch. 673.

Semble, different considerations apply to interlocutory orders: Ib.

A Judge of an inferior Court was held entitled to amend his finding of fact, after delivery of judgment, so as to clear up an ambiguity: Lowery v. Walker, 1911, A. C. 10; 103 L. T. 674.

Clerical Mistakes.—See notes to Rule 521. Clerical errors.

Judgment not Correctly Stating the Decision of the Court.— In Lawrie v. Lees, 7 App. Cas. at p. 34; 46 L. T. 210, 214, Lord Penzance said: "I cannot doubt that under the original powers of the Court, quite independent of any order that is made under the Judicature Act, every Court has the power to vary its own orders which are drawn up mechanically in the registry, or in the office of the Court, in such a way as to carry out its own meaning, and, where language has Varying judgment to carry out intention of the Court.

been used which is doubtful, to make it plain"; see also Balfour v. Drummond, 4 Man. 467; Tucker v. New Brunswick Trading Co., 44 Ch. D. 249; Shipwright v. Clements, 38 W. R. 746; 63 L. T. 160; Rattray v. Young, Cassels Sup. Ct. Dig. 692; McMaster v. Radford, 16 P. R. 20; Sherk v. Evans, 22 Ont. App. 242; Milson v. Carter, 1893, A. C. 638; sed vide Fitzgerold v. Tilling, supra, p. 1139. Thus an alteration may be made so as to make the record truly contain what was adjudged: Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 30 Ch. D. 239, but where the defect is known before the order is passed and entered, the proper course is to move to vary the minutes, and if this course is not pursued the applicant may have to pay costs: S. C., 53 L. T. 206.

Where the Court intended to give costs, and the judgment as drawn up merely provided for their payment out of a sum of money, which the Court was informed, was in Court, the judgment was amended so as to direct payment of the costs forthwith after taxation, it appearing that the money was not in Court: Letourneau v. Carbonneau, 35 S. C. R. 701.

Other cases.

Other Cases.—Where a Judge has given an erroneous judgment, he has no jurisdiction to alter or amend the judgment, or order, which correctly embodies the judgment actually given, even although he has been induced to make it under a misrepresentation, or mistake of fact: Preston Banking Co. v. Allsup, 1895, 1 Ch. 144; except at the instance of a party who did not appear when the order or judgment was made: see Rule 217; S. C., 71 L. T. 708. Such mistakes can, where the party complaining was represented, only be corrected by appeal. Where a judgment, before being drawn up, had been appealed from by one defendant, and varied, it was held that the Judge had no power to entertain a motion to vary his decision as to the defendant who did not appeal, on the question of costs, even though the judgment or order had not been drawn up Port Elgin School Board v. Eby, 17 P. R. 58; McIlhargey v. Queen, 2 O. W. N. 916; sed vide, Re Blackwell, Bridgman v. Blackwell, supra, p. 1139, and Re St. Nazoire, and other cases, supra, p. 1138; but a supplemental order may be made: Scowby v. Scowby, 1897, 1 Ch. 741.

Where, however, an order is made in the absence of a party, the Court has jurisdiction to reconsider its judgment, or order, even after entry, and, if proper, to rescind or vary it: see Rule 358; Cousins v. Cronk, 17 P. R. 348; and where the application to vary a judgment or order is based on the discovery of new matter, see Rule 523, and notes.

Amendment of judgment on præcipe.

A judgment entered on præcipe cannot be amended on application in Chambers, by inserting therein any special direction which could not properly be included in a judgment issued on præcipe: Ross v. Vader, 3 Chy. Ch. 236.

Liberty to apply.

Liberty to apply is implied in judgments and orders: Rule 511; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 642, 561, but, semble, not where they are final: Penrice v. Williams, 23 Ch. D. 353; but see Rule 511. It is not implied in favour of a defendant against whom the action has been dismissed, except for the purpose of enforcing the terms of the order: Huntley v. Link, 26 Sol. Jour. 59.

Order made without jurisdiction.

An order made without jurisdiction, if not appealed against, must stand: West v. Downman, 27 W. R. 697; and a de facto judgment, which has not been set aside, cannot be objected to, as having been rendered ultra vires, in an action of trespass for acts done under it: see Bruce v. Canadian Bank of Commerce, before Osler, J., 26th September, 1882; Forrester v. Thrasher, 9 P. R. 383; 2 Ont. 38; but it was held that a party could not be committed for disregarding an order made without jurisdiction: McLeod v. Noble, 28 Ont. 528. Rule 520.

A consent judgment on a contract ultra vires of a company, where the question of ultra vires is not raised either in the pleadings, or on the facts stated, is of no greater value than the contract on which it is founded: Great North West Central Ry. Co. v. Charlebois, 1899, A. C. 114.

Judgment Obtained by Fraud. — Where a judgment has been obtained by fraud, the Court has jurisdiction, in a subsequent action brought for the purpose, to set aside the judgment: Cole v. Langford, 1898, 2 Q. B. 36; Wyatt v. Palmer, 1899, 2 Q. B. 106; 80 L. T. 639; but it will not be set aside on the ground alone that it was obtained by perjury: Baxter v. Wadsworth, 67 L. J. Q. B. 301; sed vide Johnston v. Borkley, 10 O. L. R. 724. Judgment obtained by fraud.

Variation of Consent Judgments and Orders.—Where an order has been made by consent, the consent given, without mistake, is binding, and cannot be withdrawn, even before the order is drawn up: Horvey v. Croydon, 26 Ch. D. 249; overruling S. C. W. N. 1883, 222; Elsos v. Williams, 52 L. T. 39; Re West Devon, etc., Mines, 38 Ch. D. 51, 55; Holt v. Jesse, 3 Ch. D. 177; and Rogers v. Horn, 26 W. R. 432, in which, as reported, it was held that the consent might be withdrawn before the order was passed and entered; and see Williams v. Meakins, Crump & Evans, Chy. Pr. 562; Roberts v. Donovan, 16 P. R. 456; but where counsel, being authorized by his client to agree to terms of an order, by mistake agrees to other terms, the client may withdraw the consent before the order is drawn up: Lewis v. Lewis, 45 Ch. D. 281; 63 L. T. 84. In Moore v. Peachey, 66 L. T. 198, a garnishee order made by mutual mistake of the judgment creditor, and garnishee, was set aside, and money paid under it, was ordered to be repaid; see also Marshall v. James, 1905, 1 Ch. 432; 92 L. T. 681. Variation of consent judgments and orders.

An interlocutory order consented to by mistake may be discharged, though the mistake was on one side only: Mullins v. Howell, 11 Ch. D. 763; and see Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259; but not because one of the parties finds it less beneficial than he expected: Cousineau v. London F. Ins. Co., 12 P. R. 512; Powell v. Smith, L. R. 14 Eq. 85; Midland v. Johnston, 6 H. L. C. 811.

The omission of a suitor to communicate a material fact to his counsel is no ground for the withdrawal of a consent to an order: Re Wedge, Wedge v. Panter, 98 L. T. 436.

After a judgment by consent has been passed and entered, it cannot be afterwards amended, except for reasons sufficient to set aside an agreement on the ground of mistake: Atty.-Gen. v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388; Davis v. Davis, 13 Ch. D. 861; and it would seem that it can not, even then, be set aside on motion, but that an action must be brought for that purpose: see The Huddersfield Banking Co. v. Lister, 1895, 2 Ch. 273; 72 L. T. 703; 12 R. 331; Wilding v. Sanderson, 1897, 2 Ch. p. 538; Bank of Hamilton v. Kramer Irwin, 3 O. W. N. 603; 20 O. W. R. 999. Thus where parties had consented to a judgment establishing a will, which afterwards turned out to be a forgery, it was held that they were not estopped from shewing the forgery, and setting aside After entry the compromise judgment on that ground, in an action brought for that purpose: Priestman v. Thomas, 9 P. D. 210; 51 L. T. 843. In Hickman v. Berens, 1895, 2 Ch. 638; 73 L. T. 323; where a consent order had not been drawn up, it was rescinded on motion, on proof that there had been a mistake in giving the consent: and see Lewis v. Lewis, 13 Ch. D. 281; 63 L. T. 84.

Consent disputed.

Where the Master had proceeded on an alleged consent of counsel, of which he had made no entry in his book, and of which the terms were disputed, the report was referred back, although the Master's recollection agreed with that of one of the parties: Beaudry v. Gallien 6 O. L. R. 73.

A consent judgment, or order, may be amended by striking out terms not consented to: Merchants Bank v. Grant, 3 Chy. Ch. 64.

The silence by a party in regard to a material fact which the party knowing it was not under obligation to disclose, is not a ground for a rescission of an agreement, or a compromise of an action: Turner v. Green, 1895, 2 Ch. 205; 43 W. R. 537; 72 L. T. 763.

Withdrawal of consent not permitted.

A defendant gave an undertaking at the hearing to make certain payments to the plaintiff; the order was drawn up two or three weeks later, and the undertaking was embodied in it; the undertaking was given under a misapprehension of fact; but application to discharge the defendant from the undertaking was refused, on the ground that the facts were ascertainable by the defendant, and that the application was under these circumstances too late: Attorney-General v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388.

A consent to a perpetual injunction was not allowed to be withdrawn, merely because the defendant afterwards discovered that he had a defence: Elsas v. Williams, 52 L. T. 39; 54 L. J. Chy. 336.

Where the Judge at the trial ruled adversely to the defendant, but in compliance with the request of his counsel modified his ruling, it was held that the judgment was not by consent, and defendant was not precluded from moving against it: Sweeney v. Sweeney, 16 Ont. 92.

An order arranged by consent between the parties, and not the result of an adjudication by the Court, should shew on its face that it is by consent: Michel v. Mutch, 34 W. R. 251; 54 L. T. 45; 55 L. J. Chy. 485.

Disobedience to a consent order, good on its face, cannot be justified by shewing grounds, which, if urged against the making of the order, might have prevented it from being made: Ribble, etc. v. Croston, etc., 45 W. R. 348.

No appeal can be had from a consent judgment, or order, except perhaps, by leave, see Jud. Act, s. 24 and notes.

Compromise.

The solicitor on the record, or his agent acting for him, has a general authority to compromise an action on behalf of his client, provided he acts bonâ fide and reasonably, and not in defiance of his direct and positive instructions, and, whether the compromise is made by the solicitor or his agent, the client will be bound, although there is no privity between him and the agent: Re Newen, 1903, 1 Ch. 812. And a client who induces his solicitor to believe that he has authority to compromise an action upon certain terms, is bound by the compromise, if the solicitor, in making it, reasonably believed that he had authority to make it, even though the client did not in fact intend to authorize a compromise upon those terms, and did not understand the terms: Little v. Spreadbury, 1910, 2 K. B. 658; 102 L. T. 829. See also Hockett v. Bible, 12 P. R. 482. Rule 521. Consent orders.

A solicitor has no implied authority before action to compromise a claim: Macaulay v Polley, 1897, 2 Q. B. 122; Duffy v. Honson, 16 L. T. 332; nor has he after judgment: see Re A Debtor, infra.

Counsel has full authority to compromise an action at the trial: Matthews v. Munster, 20 Q. B. D. 141; but see Watt v. Clark, 12 P. R. 359; and see 98 L. T. Jour. 489; but a compromise in intended pursuance of terms consented to by the client, but by misapprehension or intentionally not strictly following them, is not binding on the client: Lewis v. Lewis, 45 Ch. D. 281; 63 L. T. 84; Bennor v. Edwards, 19 P. R. 9; Stokes v. Latham, 4 T. L. R. 305; Neale v. Lennox, infra; and where, acting on general instructions to compromise, counsel consents under a misapprehension, such as, where intending to concede one thing he inadvertently concedes another, or where counsel are not ad idem, the compromise is not binding, and the Court will set it aside: Hickmon v. Berens, 1895, 2 Ch. 638; 73 L. T. 323.

As to the right to repudiate a verbal arrangement of compromise made at the trial, before it is recorded as a verdict, or judgment: see Brown v. Blackwell, 26 C. P. 43

Upon the question of the authority of counsel to compromise, the Court will take the statement of the counsel from his place at the bar without oath: see Hickmon v. Berens, supra; and Wilding v. Sanderson, 1897, 2 Ch. 534.

An action by an infant by his next friend cannot validly be compromised by the infant, or his counsel, without the sanction of the Court: Mattei v. Vautro, 105 L. T. Jour. 202.

As to the enforcement of a compromise by motion for judgment, or otherwise, in the action: see Pirung v. Dowson, 9 O. L. R. 248, and notes, supra, pp. 44-45.

A counsel has not authority to refer an action against the wishes of his client, or upon terms different from those which his client has authorized. Where a limitation has been placed by a client on the authority of his counsel with regard to the reference of the action, though it is not communicated to the other side, if his counsel agrees to a reference in disregard of that limitation, the agreement to refer is not binding on the client, whether it results in an interlocutory, or a final order: Neale v. Lennox, 1902, A. C. 465; 87 L. T. 341.

A consent order creates an estoppel between the parties: Re South American Co., 71 L. T. 334; unless procured by fraud: Priestmon v. Thomas, 9 P. D. 210; 51 L. T. 843.

Where a solicitor after judgment had, as the Court held, without authority, consented to an order affecting his client's rights as against third persons, the order was, on the client's application, set aside: Re A Debtor, 1914, 2 K. B. 758. Solicitor has no implied authority to compromise after judgment.

521. Clerical mistakes in judgments or orders, or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission, may at any time be corrected upon an application in Chambers. C.R. 640. Correction of mistakes in judgments and orders.

The same in effect as Eng. (1883), R. 319.

Rule 521.

A judgment by default entered against a married woman, not in the limited form prescribed by form Nn. 110, was held to be void and not amendable under this Rule: Orley v. Link, 1914, 2 K. B. 734; 110 L. T. 248; and see Re Hamilton v. Perry, 24 O. L. R. 38; where the judgment was entered by consent: and see Muir v. Jenks, 1913, 2 K. B. 412; 108 L. T. 747.

As to judgments entered by default under Rule 37 for a sum exceeding what is authorized by that Rule: see notes to that Rule.

Lapse of time is not necessarily a bar to the making of amendments under this Rule, where the rights of other parties acquired under the judgment or order will not be improperly affected; thus an action was brought to enforce a covenant, in an assignment of lease against carrying on a business, and the decree contained an injunction perpetually restraining the defendant from carrying on the business; after the lapse of 19 years it was amended by restricting the injunction "to the remainder of the term of the lease," which had previously expired: Shipwright v. Clements, 38 W. R. 746; 63 L. T. 160; and where a decree made in 1853, declared a party entitled to a charge on land for £500 and interest until paid, and it appeared in 1892 that the claim in question arose out of a bond in a penal sum of £1,000, the decree was amended so as to limit the charge for principal and interest to a sum not exceeding the amount of the penalty: Hatton v. Harris, 1892, A. C. 547; 67 L. T. 722; see also McMaster v. Radford, 16 P. R. 20; Milson v. Carter, 1893, A. C. 638; and where a judgment ordered costs to be paid out of moneys in Court, and it turned out that there were no moneys in Court, it was amended by substituting a personal order to pay such costs: Letourneau v. Carbonneau, 35 S. C. R. 701.

What kind of errors corrected.

Under Chy. O. 335, a direction necessarily consequent upon the judgment, but omitted from the decree drawn up, might be supplied, such as a direction (now unnecessary, see Rule 416), to settle a conveyance: Moffatt v. Hyde, 6 U. C. L. J. 94; Trevelyan v. Charter, 9 Beav. 140; or a reference as to title, in a decree for specific performance: Hughes v. Jones, 26 Beav. 24; and an error in an order arising from an error in the chief clerk's certificate which had escaped the notice of all parties: Eckersley v. Eckersley, W. N. 1884, 133; an error in a taxing officer's certificate by reason of disbursements (fees paid to a referee), by mistake, not having been carried in for taxation: Chessum v. Gordon, 1901, 1 Q. B. 694; 84 L. T. 137; a foreclosure judgment in the form without a reference as to incumbrancers, it having been discovered that there was an incumbrancer: Wilgress v. Crawford, 12 P. R. 658; Clarke v. Cooper, 15 P. R. 54; or other mistake or slip: Turner v. Hodgson, 9 Beav. 265; Askew v. Peddle, 14 Sim. 301; and see Eadie v McEwen, 14 Gr. 404; see also Ex parte Straight, 16 W. R. 661; Andrews v. Bohannon, W. N. 1869, 80; Jeffreys v. Smith, 11 W. R. 479; Re Glanville's Trusts, W. N. 1878, 21; Warman v. Zeal, W. N. 1871, 241; Re Tidl, 11 W. R. 351; but not any term which could only have been introduced by express direction of the Court, which was not given: Bird v. Heath, 6 Ha. 236; Whitehead v. North, Cr. & Ph. 78; nor any substantial addition except by consent: Willis v. Parkinson, 3 Sw. 233; but see Rule 522.

The application must, as a general rule, be on notice: Radenhurst v. Reynolds, 11 Gr. 521.

An error was corrected under this Rule, not because it did not correctly carry out the intention of the Court at the time, but because the parties were mistaken as to the fact upon which the judgment as it stood was founded: Barker v. Purvis, 31 Sol. Jour. 155; 56 L. T. 131; but see Re Leonard, 107 L. T. Jour. 409; so an order awarding costs against a defendant who had not appeared, the Court thinking he was represented, was amended by striking out such award of costs: Cousins v. Cronk, 17 P. R. 348; a clause giving special directions as to scale of costs was inserted in Doswell v. Norton, 18 T. L. R. 728. But in Klinck v. Ontario Loan & I. Co., before the Divisional Court, Ch. D., 28 June, 1889, it was considered that a Judge had no power to amend his judgment, after it had been formally issued, even on the ground of mistake (except to make it carry out the intention of the Court when it was made), and an order made in such circumstances was vacated, and a new order to the like effect was made by the Divisional Court: Broom v. Pepall, 23 O. L. R. 630. See also Glasier v. Rolls, 62 L. T. 305; Preston Banking Co. v. Allsup, 1895, 1 Ch. 141; McMaster v. Radford, 16 P. R. 20; Ainsworth v. Wilding, 1896, 1 Ch. 673; Port Elgin, etc., v. Eby, 17 P. R. 58; McIlhargey v. Queen, 2 O. W. N. 916. See also notes preceding Rule 321. Rule 521.

A motion to amend a decree in which the pleadings and evidence, or anything beyond the judgment pronounced, and the decree, is required to be looked at, must be made in Court: Lapp v. Lapp, 3 Chy. Ch. 234; 4 Chy. Ch. 3.

In Livingstone v. Wood, 29 Gr. 157, a decree directing an account was amended, by striking out a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to certain credits, which had not formed a substantive part of the judgment, so as to make the decree conform to the actual judgment, and enable the credits to be further investigated in the Master's office.

On motion under the corresponding English Rule, an order made under the Settled Estates Act was varied, so as to dispense with consents of tenants for life to leasing powers granted: Re Riley's Trusts, 30 W. R. 78.

Where an order had been made on the petition of several persons, two of whom had not authorized it, the Court, under this Rule amended the order by striking out the names of those two as petitioners, and treating them as not having been served with the petition: Re Savage, 15 Ch. D. 557.

Where the costs of a motion for an interim injunction having been reserved till the trial of the action, the plaintiff's counsel omitted to ask for them at the trial, and they were not provided for, it was held that the omission might be supplied under this Rule: Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542, 561. So, where the Judge inadvertently omitted to make any order as to the costs of the action: Hardy v. Pickard, 12 P. R. 428; and see Rule 522.

But where the decree did not direct the payment of costs "forthwith," and it did not appear that such a direction was intended by the judgment, an application to amend was refused: Wilson v. Robertson, 3 Chy. Ch. 100.

For amendment of orders so as to provide for costs omitted by mistake: see Blakey v. Hall, 56 L. J. Chy. 568; 56 L. T. 400; Viney v. Chaplin, 3 De G. & J. 282; St. Michael's College v. Merrick, 26 Gr. 216.

Where a judgment, order, report or certificate is varied, it is not the correct practice to make any actual physical alteration in the document: Rule 187; see Fox v. Bearblock, 45 L. T. 469; 46 L. T. 145.

Rules 522, 523.

Amendment as to matters on which there was no adjudication

522. Where a judgment or order requires amendment in any particular on which the Court did not adjudicate, the same may be amended by the Court on motion. C.R. 641.

Where the application was made after the time within which the cause could have been reheard without leave, it was held that the applicant need not apply for leave to move, but must, nevertheless, make out such a case as would be necessary, in order to obtain leave to rehear after the time had elapsed: O'Donohgue v. Hembroff, 19 Gr. 95. And see Fritz v. Hobson, and Hurdy v. Pickard; Blakey v. Hall, and other cases cited in note to preceding Rule, p. 1145.

Application to impeach judgments, etc.

523. A party entitled to maintain an action for the reversal or variation of a judgment or order, upon the ground of matter arising subsequent to the making thereof, or subsequently discovered, or to impeach a judgment or order on the ground of fraud, or to suspend the operation of a judgment or order, or to carry a judgment or order into operation, or to any further or other relief than that originally awarded may move in the action for the relief claimed. C.R. 642, amended.

Under C. R. 642 the application was required to be made by petition, under the present Rule it may be made by notice of motion which, however, should set out the grounds on which it is based. The Rule applies only to cases in which bills in Chancery could formerly be filed for the purposes mentioned in the Rule, and has no application to proceedings in a Surrogate Court to vacate an order made by the Surrogate Court Judge on the passing of an executor's accounts: Re Wilson & Toronto General Trusts Corp., 13 O. L. R. 82.

On petition under Chy. Ord. 330, security required.

Formerly a person presenting a petition under Chy. O. 330, from which this Rule is taken, in a case where formerly a bill of review or a bill in the nature of a bill of review, should have been filed, was required to give security for costs: Sadlier v. Doyle, before Proudfoot V.C., 19 and 26 Nov., 1877, and see Beames' Orders, pp. 314, 366, and see Ont. Order in Chy. 12th July, 1844, lxxix; but see Chy. O. 1; but it would seem that no such security is now required to be given, unless expressly ordered.

An order made for the payment out of Court of money in a winding up proceeding, was rescinded and the money ordered to be refunded, on the application of the Receiver General who had received no notice of the motion for the order, though having an inchoate interest in the fund: Re Central Bank, 24 Ont. App. 470; 28 S. C. R. 192.

Leave to move under this Rule is not necessary in any case: Duggan v. McKay, 1 Chy. Ch. 380.

For cases in which petitions have been presented under Chy. O. 330 see Bank of Upper Canada v. Wallace, 16 Gr. 280; Brouse v. Stayner, 16 Gr. 1; Dumble v. Cobourg & P. Ry. Co., 29 Gr. 121; Mason v. Seney, 12 Gr. 143; Colonial Trusts v. Cameron, 21 Gr. 70; Robson v. Wride, 14 Gr. 606; 15 Gr. 565.

Rule 523.

As to vacating a judgment on the application of the party in whose favour it is, where a third party might be affected thereby: see Toronto Dental, etc., Co. v. McLaren, 14 P. R. 89; and as to vacating a judgment or order at the request of the plaintiff in order to enable him to amend his proceedings: see Clarke v. Cooper, 15 P. R. 54; Wilgress v. Crawford, 12 P. R. 658.

Semble, the Rule is not imperative, and where consequential relief is sought, which could not be granted upon petition in the original action, a new action may be brought: Leeming v. Armitage, 18 P. R. 486; see also Wyatt v. Palmer, 1899, 2 Q. B. 106; 80 L. T. 639.

Application to impeach judgments on ground of fraud.

Applications to Impeach a Judgment on the Ground of Fraud.—A bill of this kind was, prior to Chy. O. 330, propar. where a decree had been obtained by fraud. Where the decree, however, had also been affirmed by the House of Lords, it would seem to have been necessary that application should be first made to the House of Lords for directions: Shedden v. Patrick, 1 Macq. H. L. C. 535, and see Tommey v. White, 4 H. L. C. 313.

In England, where no such practice as that prescribed by this Rule is in force, it is held by analogy to the former practice, that in order to set aside a judgment obtained by fraud, a new action must now be brought: Flower v. Lloyd, 6 Ch. D. 297; Priestman v. Thomas, 9 P. D. 210; 51 L. T. 843; Cole v. Langford, 1898, 2 Q. B. 36; Wyatt v. Palmer, 1899, 2 Q. B. 106, 80 L. T. 639.

Where it can be shown that a judgment, whether foreign, or domestic, has been obtained by fraud, it cannot be held to be binding on the party on whom the fraud has been practised: Johnston v. Barkley, 10 O. L. R. 724; Abouloff v. Openheimer, 1882, 10 Q. B. D. 295.

An order, obtained by the suppression of material facts, may be set aside on motion: Merchants Bank v. Sussex, 4 O. L. R. 524.

Application to suspend operation of a judgment.

Applications to Suspend the Operation of a Judgment.—Bills of this kind were formerly necessary whenever it was sought to stay the execution of a decree: e.g., where an appeal was pending from the decree. But relief of this kind has, since Chy. O. 330, been granted on motion in Chambers, without even a petition: Campbell v. Edwards, 6 P. R. 159; Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 418. In such cases security was generally required to be given: Ib. The staying of proceedings pending an appeal is discretionary. In a case where the Court refused to stay proceedings pending an appeal from an order allowing a demurrer, it directed that an answer filed should not prejudice the appeal: McMurray v. Grand Trunk Ry., 3 Chy. Ch. 125.

But where a judgment was not appealed from, and restrained the infringement of a de facto patent and ordered an account, the Court refused to stay the account, or the carrying out of the judgment, though the patent had been subsequently revoked: Poulton v. Adjustable Covers & Boiler Co., 1908, 2 Ch. 433; 99 L. T. 647.

Application to carry judgment into operation.

Applications to Carry a Judgment into Operation.—Bills of this kind were sometimes necessary where the parties neglected to proceed upon the decree, and their rights under it had become embarrassed by subsequent events, and it was necessary to have them settled by the decree, of the Court. See Mitford Pleadings, 3rd ed., 75.

Rule 823.

Motion to review.

Motion to Review.—Prior to Chy. O. 330, where a party sought to impeach a decree, either for error in law appearing in the body of the decree, without further examination of matters of fact, or in respect of some new matters arising after the decree; or on new evidence discovered after decree made, which could not possibly have been used when the decree was pronounced; in such cases, where the decree had been enrolled, a bill of review was filed, and where it had not been enrolled a bill in the nature of a bill of review was the proper proceeding: see Dumble v. Cobourg, etc., 29 Gr. 121.

When bill filed on ground of error, error must be apparent on face of decree.

Where the bill was filed on the ground of error, it was necessary to specifically assign the error complained of, and it must have been an error of law, apparent on the face of the decree, and not a mere error of judgment: Green v. Jenkins, 6 Jur. N. S. 515, e.g.; it could not be assigned for error that any matter had been decreed contrary to the pr[illegible]s: Mellish v. Williams, 1 Vern. 166.

For cases since The Judicature Act: see Synod v. De Blaquiere, 10 P. R. 1; Bank of B. N. A. v. Western Ins. Co., 11 P. R. 434; Boswell v. Coaks, 6 R. 167; and see Wilkins v. Wilkins, 100 L. T. Jour. 418.

Semble, an application to review will not now be entertained in any case in which the applicant could have appealed from the judgment or order in question: Bright v. Sellar, 1904, 1 K. B. 6; 89 L. T. 137.

An application under the present Rule is a proceeding in the cause, and is properly made in Court to the Judge who pronounced the judgment, or order, sought to be varied, etc.: Armour v. Merchants Bank, 17 P. R. 108; Bank of British North America v. Western Assurance Co., 11 P. R. 434; Synod v. De Blaquiere, 10 P. R. 11; but where new evidence is discovered within the time limited for moving before a Divisional Court, under Rules 491, 492, a motion for a new trial on that ground may be made to the Appellate Division.

A new trial was refused where the fresh evidence was only in corroboration: Howarth v. McGugon, 23 Ont. 396; Trumble v. Hortin, 22 Ont. App. 51.

A respondent may file affidavits in answer without the leave of the Court: Robson v. Wride, 14 Gr. 606; 15 Gr. 565.

On applications to open up proceedings, by way of review, on the ground of newly discovered evidence, the party applying must show (1) that the evidence is such that if it had been brought forward at the proper time, it might probably have changed the result; (2) that at the time he might have so used it, neither he nor his agent had knowledge of it; (3) that it could not, with reasonable diligence, have been discovered in time to have been so used; and (4) the applicant must have used reasonable diligence after the discovery of the new evidence: Hosking v. Terry, 8 Jur. N. S. 977; Mason v. Seney, 12 Gr. 143; Dumble v. Cobourg and Peterboro' Ry. Co., 29 Gr. 121; Colonial Trusts v. Cameron, 21 Gr. 70; see also Carradice v. Currie, 19 Gr. 105; Waters v. Shade, 2 Gr. 218; Murray v. Canada Central Railway Co., 7 Ont. App. 646; Synod v. De Blaquiere, 10 P. R. 11; Bank of B. N. A. v. Western Ass. Co., 11 P. R. 434; Boswell v. Coaks, 6 R. 167.

Res judicata.—A judgment obtained bonâ fide and not reversed is a bar to any further action for the same cause; but where res judicata is relied on, and in the former action a judgment by consent was pronounced, and it is impossible to say from the record what was the question adjudicated, the Court must needs go into evidence dehors the record in order to find out what was actually decided by the judgment relied on as constituting a bar: Re Ontario Sugar Co., 22 O. L. R. 621; 24 O. L. R. 332; 44 S. C. R. 659. Rule 524.

Where, in the former action the plaintiff might have recovered the damages sued for in a subsequent action brought by him, the judgment in the former action will constitute a bar: Furness v. Hall, 126 L. T. Jour. 284; and see Bador Bee v. Noordin, 1903, A. C. 615; but where a plaintiff was dismissed from his employment in October and then sued for, and recovered his October wages, it was held that the judgment was no bar to a subsequent action for damages for wrongful dismissal: Hayes v. Horshaw, 30 O. L. R. 157.

Where a defendant in a previous action on a contract omitted to set up the Statute of Frauds as a defence, and judgment was given against him, such judgment will constitute res judicata so as to prevent the defence of the Statute of Frauds being set up in any future action on the same contract: Humphries v. Humphries, 1910, 1 K. B. 796; 102 L. T. 492; 1910, 2 K. B. 531; 103 L. T. 14; Cooke v. Rickman, 1911, 2 K. B. 1125.

An order, or judgment, pronounced, may be effective as a defence of res judicata even before it has been actually passed and entered: see McNiven v. Pigott, 31 O. L. R. 364.

A judgment which it is shown was obtained by fraud cannot be relied on as constituting res judicata: Johnson v. Borkley, 10 O. L. R. 724, and such fraud may be shown as an answer to the defence of res judicata. Ib.

Further Directions.—Under the concluding clause of this Rule a motion for judgment on further directions would appear to be authorized, where a cause has been referred to a Master for report, and further directions have been reserved, and it would also appear to authorize a motion for judgment as to any matter in which the parties claim to be entitled to some further relief than that provided for or adjudicated by the original judgment, and which is consistent with the relief claimed by the pleadings: see p. 658, supra.

Certificate of result of appeal to be entered in judgment book.

524. Upon the production of the order of His Majesty in His Privy Council, made upon an appeal to His Majesty in Council, or of the certificate of the Registrar of the Supreme Court of Canada upon an appeal to that Court, the officer of this Court with whom the judgment or order appealed from was entered shall cause the same to be entered in the judgment book, and all subsequent proceedings may be taken thereupon as if the decision had been given in this Court. C.R. 1255 and 818 a and b, amended.

Under this Rule the proper officer of the High Court Division can, without order, enter in the Judgment Book, the Order of His Majesty in His Privy Council, or the certificate of the Registrar of the Supreme Court of Canada, and it may thereupon be acted on as a judgment of the High Court Division: see Lowson v. Canada Farmers Ins. Co., 8

Rules 525, 526.

Ont. App. 613. Process may then be issued on the judgment so entered, without further order: Lowson v. Canada Farmers, etc., supra. The judgment entered in the High Court must not be altered in accordance with the certificate of the Appellate Court, where such certificate varies the judgment appealed from. The inconvenience attending any physical alteration of the records of the Court are pointed out in 19 C. L. J. 302; and it is now forbidden by Rule 187, supra.

The certificate of the Registrar of the Supreme Court of Canada, or the order of His Majesty in His Privy Council, is entered in the judgment book verbatim et literatim, and a note referring thereto is made in the margin of the entry of the original judgment, or order, affected thereby; it should be entered in the same office in which the order or judgment appealed from was entered.

Where the order of His Majesty in His Privy Council directs costs to be paid, it is not competent for the Court below to direct under Rule 666; or for the Taxing Officer to allow under Rule 665, a set off in respect of such costs: Metallic Roofing Co. v. Jose, 17 O. L. R. 237.

The Supreme Court cannot go behind the certificate of the Privy Council as to the result of the appeal: see Booth v. Ratte, 21 S. C. R. 637.

Orders varying judgments, etc., to be entered.

525. Every judgment and order by which a judgment is affirmed, reversed, set aside, varied, or in any way modified, shall, in addition to any other entry thereof, be entered in the office where the original judgment or order is entered. C.R. 1262 and 635 (4), amended.

In addition to the entry required by this Rule, there is also to be made in the margin of the entry of the judgment or order affirmed, reversed, set aside, varied, or modified thereby, a note referring to the order, whereby the same is affirmed, reversed, or varied: see Rule 187.

Settlement of judgments at trials.

526. Judgments and orders pronounced in trials at Toronto shall be settled by the Registrar to whom is assigned the duty of settling judgments. C.R. 624.

By former C. R. 28 the settling of judgments made at any sittings of the Court in the County of York for trial was assigned to the Senior Registrar of the High Court Division. Under Rule 527 he may also, if desired, settle judgments pronounced in any other country.

By Registrar.

The Registrar referred to in this Rule, therefore, is the Senior Registrar of the High Court Division.

When a judgment is pronounced, or an order made, by the Court, a note is taken by the Registrar or other officer attending the Court for the purpose, and a similar note is indorsed by counsel on their briefs; and from these notes the draft or minute of the judgment, or order is prepared.

Judgments pronounced on circuit, are, when necessary, to be settled by the Deputy Registrar, Deputy Clerk, or Local Registrar, or by the Senior Registrar; see Rule 527.

This Rule only refers to judgments pronounced after a trial at Toronto; judgments pronounced on motions in the Weekly Court are settled by the Clerk of that Court, or other officer acting as Clerk thereof: see Rule 751. Rule 526.

The party on whose motion a judgment or order is made, if he obtains any relief or benefit thereby, is prima facie entitled to the carriage of it.

The party desiring to enter a judgment, or issue an order, the minutes of which require to be first settled, usually in practice prepares a draft, and attends the Registrar, or other officer authorized to settle the minutes of the judgment or order, for an appointment to settle it. The Registrar or other officer will, however, if required, himself prepare the draft of the judgment or order, and when it is ready will issue the appointment to settle it, if he deems one necessary: see Rule 528. Appointment to settle.

On the return of the appointment, the parties notified attend and make any objections they may have to the draft, which are disposed of by the Registrar, or the officer settling the minutes, who then marks the draft settled, and adds his initials. The minutes having been settled, the judgment, or order, is then engrossed, and having been compared with the draft and passed, it is then signed by the Registrar, or other officer, who has settled the minutes, and it is then ready for entry.

Where the Registrar or other officer thinks it necessary, he may give an appointment to pass: e.g., when any blanks have been left in the draft; or the terms of the order, or judgment, are complicated, and there is any danger of error in transcribing the draft. The passing of the judgment, or order, is merely the act of comparing the engrossment with the draft and seeing that it agrees with it, and signing and marking it for entry. Appointment to pass.

Where on an appointment to settle or pass a judgment or order the party served attends, but the party serving the appointment does not attend or is not prepared to proceed, the officer settling the judgment or order may proceed ex parte to settle the minutes, or pass the judgment or order; or if a party served asks for delay, the officer may grant the delay on such terms as he thinks reasonable. He would not appear to have any jurisdiction to make any order as to costs as he would not be acting as a judicial officer: see Jud. Act, s. 74 (4). Procedure where party makes default.

Where either party does not attend, it would seem that the officer is not justified in proceeding ex parte until the lapse of half an hour from the time appointed: Rule 225.

The officer in settling any judgment or order, may introduce such alterations as from his experience he believes the Court will sanction; and these alterations are binding on the parties: see Davenport v. Stafford, 8 Beav. 503; Hargrave v. Hargrave, 3 Mac. & G. 348; Seton, 5th ed., 164; McKindsey v. Armstrong, 11 P. R. 200. It is also his duty to bring to the attention of the Judge any defects he may find to exist in the proceedings. Thus, when, after judgment pronounced, it appeared before the Registrar that one of the defendants had not been duly served with process, on his bringing the point to the attention of the Judge the judgment was ordered not to be drawn up: Re Howard, 10 Ch. D. 550. Registrar may make alterations.

Where the Registrar finds that the judgment or order has been pronounced without due notice to a non-appearing party, entitled to notice, before drawing up the order or judgment he should obtain the direction of the Court: see Tilling v. Blythe, 106 L. T. Jour. 365; 1899, 1 Q. B. 557.

Where questions of difficulty arise, the Registrar may require the matter to be mentioned to the Court.

Where the judgment to be settled was pronounced at a trial, the Judge's indorsement on the record is the officer's guide and warrant for the terms of the judgment: see Rule 264, and in the case of orders, the entry in the Registrar's book.

Varying minutes.

Motion to vary Minutes.—After the draft or minutes have been settled by the Registrar, or other officer, but not before, any party dissatisfied may move to vary the minutes; and the Registrar, or other officer, should be previously informed of the application: Prince v. Howard, 14 Beav. 208; Hood v. Cooper, 26 Beav. 373; Tennant v. Trenchard, L. R. 4 Chy. 537, 545; British Dynomite Co. v. Krebs, 25 W. R. 846; and such application may be made at any time before the judgment, or order, is passed and entered; 1 Turn. & Ven. 319; Dan. Pr. 875; Seton, 5th ed., 164. The notice of motion should be served on all parties interested, and state the alteration desired.

The Court may refuse to permit any question to be argued on a motion to vary the minutes, except what was the actual order made, and whether the intention of the Court has been correctly expressed: South Wales Min. Co. v. Davies, 31 Sol. Jour. 110; unless both parties consent to an addition being made, or when it cannot be ascertained what order was pronounced; in which cases the Court may allow the case to be re-argued: see Seton, 5th ed., 165; Hendrie v. Beatty, 29 Gr. 423. The Court has, however, on a motion to vary minutes, varied the decree: Johnson v. School Trustees, 26 Gr. 204; and until a judgment has been actually entered a Judge may recall, or alter the judgment: Glasgow v. Glasgow, 9 Ont. 511, note; Conodion L. & E. Co. v. Dysart, Ib.; Re Suffield & Wotts, 20 Q. B. D. at p. 697; Re Adam Eyton, 36 Ch. D. 299, and other cases in notes to Rule 521; and see Munroe v. Heubach, 45 C. L. J. 252 (M.).

An appeal is not proper from the decision of the Judge on a motion to vary the minutes of his judgment, or order. The appeal must be from the judgment or order in its entered form: Jones v. Jones, 67 L. T. 584.

As the Registrar or other officer settling minutes has no jurisdiction to stay the entry of an order or judgment indefinitely, any motion to vary the minutes should be made promptly, after the settlement of the minutes; it should be made returnable at the next sittings of the Court at which the order or judgment was pronounced, if a Divisional Court; or before a Judge of the High Court Division, if the order or judgment was pronounced in the Weekly Court, or at a trial. Such motions are usually heard before the Judge by whom the order or judgment in question was made, and if he be not then sitting, the motion will usually be adjourned to be heard by him.

Costs of motion.

Any variation made on a motion to vary the minutes is embodied in the draft, and except where the costs of the motion are ordered to be paid, no further order need be drawn up by any party.

If there is fair ground for the application, and there has been no improper opposition, the costs are usually made costs in the cause.

and the judgment, or order, may be post-dated so as to include the costs of the day: see Seton, 5th ed., 165. Rule 526.

Where an order has been made in Chambers, it ought not to be drawn up as a Court order, even though the case be one which might have properly been argued in Court, unless both the parties and the Court consent: Re Henning, 11 P. R. 272; whether an order was made in Court, or Chambers, is important on the question of appeal therefrom: see Rules 502, 507; and see Joss v. Fairgrieve, 6 O. W. N. 640.

Where the minutes have been settled by a Local Officer they may be varied either on application to the Senior Registrar of the High Court Division, or on motion to "the Judge," presumably the Judge who pronounced the judgment: Rule 527.

Where, after judgment was pronounced, a mistake was discovered in the statement of claim, on a subsequent application to amend the statement of claim, the judgment was directed to be post-dated as of a day subsequent to the amendment: Winkley v. Winkley, 44 L. T. 572.

Under the former practice, if the suit abated after decree pronounced, or between hearing and judgment, the decree might be passed and entered notwithstanding the abatement of the suit: Seton, 5th ed., 165; Reamish v. Pomeroy, 1 Chy. Ch. 32. Abatement.

A party not producing his briefs when required, was ordered to do so within a limited time, and in default the order was to be drawn up without them: Yeatman v. Read, 14 W. R. 123. Delay in settling minutes.

A solicitor who has been discharged by his client before the passing and entry of an order, will not be allowed to withhold papers on which he claims to have a lien, so as to prevent the drawing up, or entry of the order: Simmonds v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., L. R. 3 Chy. 797; Clifford v. Turrill, 2 D. & S. 1.

An appointment to settle minutes, served one day and returnable the next, was sufficient under the former practice: Re Christmas, 19 Beav. 519. No time is prescribed by the Rules within which a judgment or order is to be spoken, and issued; under the former practice a time was limited by Chy. Orders 10, 11: see Holmested's Rules & Orders, 8; and after the lapse of the prescribed time the judgment or order was not to be issued without leave; but this practice was not very strictly followed. After the lapse of four years, notice of the application to issue an order was required to be given to all parties: Re Forrester, Messnier v. Forrester, 1 Chy. Ch. 29.

Entry of Judgments and Orders.—Before an order requiring entry can be enforced by attachment for disobedience, it must be entered, and such entry should have been made before the expiry of the time limited by the order for doing the act thereby ordered to be done: Ballard v. Tomlinson, 48 L. T. 515.

Proceedings under a judgment, or order, requiring entry, before it has been entered, are irregular and voidable: Tolson v. Jervis, 8 Beav. 366; Drummond v. Anderson, 3 Gr. 150; although in the case of injunctions and restraining orders, parties are bound by notice of the restraining order, however received, from the time when it is pronounced: see Seton, 5th ed., 456.

Rules 527, 528.

If a party having the carriage of a judgment neglects to enter it, the opposite party may apply for the carriage of it in order to have it entered.

Entry nunc pro tunc.

Orders may be made to enter judgments, or orders, nunc pro tunc: Donne v. Lewis, 11 Ves. 601; Lawrence v. Richmond, 1 J. & W. 241; Re Jones, Bullis v. Jones, 91 L. T. Jour. 127; 39 W. R. 619; and see Gunn v. Harper, and other cases in note to Rule 304. But where a defendant would be prejudiced by such an order it will be refused: Drummond v. Anderson, 3 Gr. 150.

Varying judgment.

A judgment, though by consent, is a solemn judgment of the Court, and cannot be altered by consent of the parties without the sanction of the Court: The Bellcairn, 34 W. R. 65; Blake v. Harvey, 29 Ch. D. 827; 63 L. T. 541.

After a judgment, or order, has been passed, and entered, it can, as a general rule, only be varied on appeal: see Pepper v. Pepper, W. N. 1868, 104; Re Robinson, W. N. 1873, 28; Andrews v. Bohanna, W. N. 1869, 80; Teil v. Barlow, 3 D. J. & S. 426; Mason v. Seney, 2 Chy. Ch. 30; Moffatt v. Hyde, 6 U. C. L. J. 94; Simmers v. Erb, 21 Gr. 289; Fawkes v. Swayzie, 31 Ont. 256; and where the applicant has neglected to move to vary the minutes in the usual way, an amendment will only be granted on payment by the applicant of all costs: Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 30 Ch. D. 239; 53 L. T. 205. In cases of clerical mistakes, or errors, arising from any accidental slip or omission, a judgment or order may be corrected on motion, without appeal: Rule 521. So also a judgment may be amended on motion where it has been obtained by default: see Kline v. Kline, 3 Chy. Ch. 79, or on præcipe: Nelles v. Vandyke, 17 Gr. 14. After the judgment or order has actually issued, such mistakes cannot properly be corrected, as of course, by the officer who has drawn up the judgment, or order; it can only be done on motion: see Re Beard, 69 L. T. 259.

Settlement of judgments by local officers, etc.

527.—(1) Judgments in cases tried elsewhere than at Toronto, shall be settled by the Deputy Clerk of the Crown, Deputy or Local Registrar, at the place of trial, unless any party affected applies to the Registrar to whom is assigned the duty of settling judgments to settle the same, or to reconsider the settlement of the same by the local officer.

(2) When settled the minutes may be varied by the Trial Judge on the application of either party. C.R. 625.

As to varying minutes: see notes to Rule 526.

In County Court cases there is no appeal to the Supreme Court from an order dismissing a motion to vary the minutes of a judgment or order: Taggart v. Bennett, 6 O. L. R. 74; and see James v. Jones, supra, p. 1152.

Appointments to settle minutes or pass orders, how to be issued.

528. Notice of settling minutes of a judgment or order other than a simple judgment or order for recovery of a sum certain with or without costs or dismissing an action or motion shall be given unless dispensed with by the officer by whom the judgment or order is to be settled, and the proposed minutes of the judgment or order shall be served or left in his office for inspection, and any party may take a copy thereof. C.R. 626, amended. Rules 529, 530.

Notice is usually given by an appointment to be obtained from the officer is to settle the minutes of the order, or judgment.

The officer may dispense with notice of settling, or passing, if he thinks fit; but, except where the order or judgment is simple, notice is usually required to be given; the minutes must be first prepared, and a copy may be either left with the officer, or served on the opposite party, the latter being the usual course: see Rule 527, and an appointment obtained from him: see Rule 526, note.

An appointment served one day for the next is sufficient: Re Christmas, 19 Beav. 519.

529. Where judgment may be signed upon the filing of any affidavit or production of any document, the officer shall examine the affidavit or document produced and ascertain that it is regular and sufficient. C.R. 631. Entry of judgment on affidavit, etc.

See Eng. (1883), R. 575.

530. Where a judgment or order is obtained upon a condition, and the condition is not complied with, the judgment or order shall be deemed to have been waived or abandoned as far as the same is beneficial to the person obtaining the same, and any person interested in the matter, on the breach or non-performance of the condition, may either take such proceedings as the judgment or order in such case may warrant, or such proceedings as might have been taken if the judgment or order had not been made. C.R. 638. Orders obtained on condition deemed to be abandoned so far as beneficial to party obtaining unless condition performed.

See Eng. (1883) R. 580.

Conditional Orders.—Under a former Rule, where a new trial was granted to a party on condition of payment of costs, or other condition, an application was prop[illegible]ade, on default in performance of the condition, for an order [illegible] the rights of the opposite party: see Carroll v. Booth, 11 C. L. [illegible]4. Under the present Rule no such order will be necessary.

Even before this Rule, where an order was made granting a new trial on payment into Court of $500 within a limited time, and in default dismissing the motion with costs, it was held that no further order was necessary: Story v. McKay, before Div'l Court, Chy. D., 6 Sept., 1888.

Where a plaintiff gave notice of trial for 2nd October, and on 23rd September the defendant obtained an order postponing the trial on payment of costs, it was held to be a conditional order, not staying plaintiff's proceedings, and one which the defendant was at liberty to abandon without paying any costs except those of the application:

Allen v. Mathers, 9 P. R. 477; Pugh v. Korn, 5 M. & W. 164; Brega v. Hodgson, 4 P. R. 47; Horton v. Westminster Commissioners, 7 Ex. 911.

Where a plaintiff in an action of tort recovered a verdict, and on motion of the defendant a new trial was granted in June, 1889, and the plaintiff died in the Spring of 1890, it was held on an application in December, 1890, by the defendant, to issue the order, that the delay afforded no evidence of an intention to abandon it: Kelly v. Wade, 14 P. R. 66.

Where a new trial is granted on payment of costs, it is the duty of the party obtaining the indulgence to get the costs taxed and paid, so as to enable the case to be tried at the next opportunity: Johnson v. Sparrow, 1 U. C. Q. B. 396; Grantham v. Powell, 1 P. R. 256; but see Van Every v. Droke, 3 P. R 84; Stocey v. McIntyre, 5 P. R. 205; Pocaud v. McEwon, 6 P. R. 20; Lyman v. Snarr, 3 P. R. 86; but where the solicitor of the party to pay the costs promptly applied to the solicitor of the opposite party begging to know what the costs were that he might pay them, of which communication no notice was taken, a rule subsequently obtained ex parte discharging the rule for a new trial, and the judgment entered thereon, were set aside without costs: Doe d. Arnold v. Auldjo, 6 U. C. Q. B. 21. A party to receive costs cannot insist on their being taxed: Stock v. Shewan, 18 C. P. 185. Where the costs were tendered, but refused because there was not sufficient time to give proper notice of trial for the next Assizes, which, however, the defendant offered to waive, it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to have the rule for a new trial rescinded: Rabidon v. Harkin, 2 P. R. 129; and see Thompson v. Sewell, 4 O. S. 16. The costs must be paid before notice of trial can properly be given: Stock v. Shewon, 18 C. P. 185.

Where an order for a new trial is not taken out, the original judgment stands, and proceedings to enforce it, before the order for the new trial has been issued, will not be stayed: Kelly v. Wade, 14 P. R. 13; and see S. C. Ib. 66.

Where an order is made on a condition which the party in whose favour it is made elects not to comply with, there is no jurisdiction to compel compliance of the opposite party: Talbot v. Blindell, 1908. 2 K. B. 114; 98 L. T. 859.

Signing of judgments.

531.—(1) Every judgment shall be signed by the officer in whose office the action was commenced, and if the action was commenced in Toronto the judgment shall be signed by the Judgment Clerk of the Central Office.

Signing of Court orders.

(2) Every order pronounced by the Court shall be settled and signed by the Registrar or officer attending the Court at which the same is pronounced, but the Judge pronouncing such order may himself sign the same.

Signing of Chamber orders, Judge.

(3) Orders made by a Judge of the High Court in Chambers in Toronto shall be settled and signed by the Clerk in Chambers (or in his absence by the Assistant Clerk), but the Judge pronouncing such order may himself sign the same.

(4) Orders made by an officer sitting in Chambers shall be signed by him. C.R. 628 and 634. Rule 532. Judicial officer.

(5) Orders made by a Judge of the Appellate Division shall be settled and signed by the Registrar of that Division or by the Judge. New. Appellate Division.

This Rule does not very clearly distinguish between the signing of a judgment for the purpose of authenticating it for entry, and the entry of the judgment which is also understood to be "the signing of the judgment."

According to the settled practice of the Court after a judgment or order has been settled by the proper officer, he adds his signature thereto, but this is not the "signing" referred to in clause (1), that is merely the "signing" referred to in clause (2), because the officer who settles the judgment is very often not the officer who enters it. Having the signature of the officer who has settled the judgment, unless he is also the officer to enter it, the judgment must be taken to the entry office, which in Toronto is termed "the Judgment Office," and it is there entered and marked as "signed" as of the day it is delivered for entry though it may not be actually entered in the entry book on that day. This latter "signing" by the officer entering the judgment is that which is referred to in clause (1).

With regard to orders made in Court, or in Chambers, they are signed by the officer as mentioned in clauses (2-5), and no other signing is necessary; but they have to be entered, and the date of entry, etc., is made thereon by the entry clerk: Rules 515-517.

The signing of orders in accordance with the requirements of the Rules is sometimes most important, and especially where the liberty of the subject is concerned; thus, where the former Rule required all orders to be signed by the Clerk, the signature of a Judge alone to an order for arrest was held insufficient, and the order was held to be a nullity: St. Croix v. McLachlin, 13 P. R. 438.

An order of a Local Judge sitting in Chambers must be signed by the Local Judge, not by the Local Registrar: see clause (4) and Lovell v. Taylor, 5 O. W. R. 525; but semble, when the Local Judge acts under Rule 219, the signature of the Local Registrar attending the Court would be sufficient.

532.—(1) In order to acknowledge satisfaction of a judgment, a satisfaction piece shall be signed by the party acknowledging the same or his personal representative, and his signature shall, unless the Court expressly dispenses therewith, be witnessed by some practising solicitor, expressly named by him, and attending at his request to inform him of the nature and effect of such satisfaction piece before the same is signed. Satisfaction of judgments, entry of.

(2) The solicitor shall declare himself in the attestation thereto to be the solicitor for the person so signing the same, and state that he is witness as such solicitor; Solicitor, how to attest.

Rule 532.

and in cases where the satisfaction piece is signed by the personal representative of a party deceased, his representative character shall be proved by the production of the probate of the will, or of the letters of administration, to the officer in custody of the judgment.

Where to be entered.

(3) The satisfaction piece shall be entered in the office in which the judgment is entered, and a note thereof shall be made in the margin of book where the judgment is entered. C.R. 643 and 644.

See Form No. 13.; H. & L. Forms, No. 939.

The plaintiff's signature may be dispensed with, and his solicitor in the cause may be authorized to acknowledge satisfaction, upon proof that the solicitor is authorized by the plaintiff to arrange the claim, and that the delay in obtaining the plaintiff's signature would be prejudicial: Rudell v. Hurd, 3 U. C. L. J. 14; Pawson v. Wrightmon, 2 U. C. L. J. 184; so also where the amount of the judgment is small and the plaintiff resides out of the jurisdiction: Bank of Montreal v. Cronk, 3 U. C. L. J. 32; or where the plaintiff resides abroad and has given his solicitor written authority to acknowledge satisfaction for him: Dorling v. Wright, 3 U. C. L. J. 50. When a satisfaction piece is executed before an attorney of another Province, a certificate of his due admission must be produced, and his signature duly verified: Moss v. Dayly, 3 U. C. L. J. 74; signature before a practising attorney of a foreign country is a sufficient compliance with this Rule: Abernethy v. Beddome, 6 P. R. 162.

An order to enter up satisfaction will not be granted where it is not clear that the judgment has been satisfied: Levine v. Savage, 3 U. C. L. J. 89.

After the judgment has been satisfied, the plaintiff's solicitor cannot be compelled by defendant to procure a satisfaction piece to be executed by his client; but the solicitor may be ordered to disclose his client's place of residence, so that the defendant may sue out a satisfaction piece for execution, and if the plaintiff refuses to sign it he may be ordered to do so: Corr v. Coulter, 2 P. R. 226.

Satisfaction by act of plaintiff.

Formerly the arrest of one of several defendants on a ca. sa. and his subsequent discharge with the consent of the plaintiff, operated as a satisfaction of the judgment, as to him, even though the plaintiff at the time of the discharge expressly stipulated that his other remedies on the judgment were not to be impaired: Hamilton v. Holcomb, 7 U. C. L. J. 40; but it was held not to be a satisfaction as to other parties liable in priority to the party discharged: S. C., 11 C. P. 93; 12 C. P. 53; 2 E. & A. 230, and see now, The Fraudulent Debtors Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 83), s. 59. Where a vendor, after recovering judgment for his purchase money, subsequently cancels the contract of sale, that operates as a satisfaction of the judgment: Cameron v. Brodbury, 9 Gr. 67.

CHAPTER XIX.

ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

Enforcing judgment for recovery of money.

533. A judgment for the recovery by or payment to any person of money may be enforced by the issue of a writ of execution against the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of the debtor, but if the amount due on the judgment is less than $40.00 no execution shall issue against lands and tenements. C.R. 837, amended.

The effect of this Rule is to preserve the right to issue any process of execution which might formerly be adopted to enforce payment of money under a judgment or decree: see London & Canadian L. & A. Co. v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 380.

The principal of these were:

1. Writs of fieri facias, and (in aid thereof) venditioni exponas, (as to which see Rule 539), and distringas.

2. Writs of sequestration: Rules 847-850.

Where necessary concurrent writs of execution to different counties may be issued: Lee v. Dongor, 1892, 1 Q. B. 237; 66 L. T. 548.

In aid of execution, proceedings might also be taken by way of,

The word "judgment" in this Rule includes "order: Rule 3 (g). Where execution is required to enforce an order, the original order, or an office copy thereof, should be produced to the officer required to issue the execution, unless he has access to the book in which it is entered: People's B. & L. Assn. v. Stanley, 4 O. L. R. 644; where costs are to be set off against costs payable under an order, the execution should be issued only for the balance after making the set off: Ib.

An order may also be enforced by action: Seldon v. Wilde, 1911, 1 K. B. 701; 104 L. T. 194; but it has been held that an action cannot be brought on a Division Court judgment: Crowe v. Graham, 22 O. L. R. 145 because the obligation thereby created is not absolute, but subject to the discretion vested in the Judge to defer payment in certain cases; and the fact that the Division Court is now a Court of Record makes no difference in that respect.

A judgment that a plaintiff "do recover" is not equivalent to a judgment that "the defendant do pay": see Re Oddy, Major v. Harness, 1906, 1 Ch. 93; 94 L. T. 146; see Pritchard v. Pritchard, infra, in note to Rule 534, and note to Rule 549.

Where in ignorance of the payment of a judgment debt a writ of execution was issued, and a man placed in possession by the Sheriff, the plaintiff and his solicitor are held liable to the defendant in trespass, though no malice was proved: Clissold v. Cratchley, 1910, 2 K. B. 244; 102 L. T. 520.

Effect of judgment for payment into Court.

534. Any judgment for the payment of money into Court may be enforced in the same way as a judgment for payment to any person, and the person having the carriage of the judgment shall be deemed to be a judgment creditor for the purpose of its enforcement. C.R. 838 and 839, amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 582.

A judgment or order for payment into Court may be enforced by execution in the same way that any other judgment or order for payment of money may be enforced. If execution is issued it directs the Sheriff to pay the money levied thereunder into Court, except any costs which are payable to the litigant: see Rule 536.

In Stanger Leathes v. Stanger Leathes, W. N. 1882, 71, payment of money into Court was enforced by the appointment of a receiver of the dividends of moneys invested in Court, of rents of lands, and of shares in a mining company, in which the party ordered to pay had an interest: so also in Coney v. Bennett, 33 W. R. 700; 29 Ch. D. 993, where money was payable by a trustee into Court, he being out of the jurisdiction.

The Eng. (1883) R. 582, enables an order for payment into Court to be enforced by writ of attachment in certain cases: see Hutchinson v. Hartmont, W. N. 1877, 29; Carter v. Roberts, 1903, 2 Ch. 312; Re Oddy, Major v. Harness, supra, p. 1159; but that process cannot be employed here: see notes to Rule 545.

For payment into Court.

Where a solicitor is ordered to pay money into Court, which he has improperly obtained out of Court, but he fails to obey the order, the party having the carriage of the order is not obliged to enforce such an order by issuing a fi. fa. but may apply to commit the solicitor for contempt notwithstanding The Fraudulent Debtors Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 83), s. 13; Pritchard v. Pritchard, 18 Ont. 173, and see Berry v. Donovan, 21 Ont. App. 14; Roberts v. Donovan, 16 P. R. 456; Swyny v. Harland, 70 L. T. 227.

On execution by infant, person of unsound mind, or a class, money to be paid into Court.

535. A judgment for the recovery of money on behalf of an infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind or on behalf of a class shall direct the money to be paid into Court, and no payment to the guardian, next friend, or committee of money of such infant or person of unsound mind, or person having the conduct of the proceedings on behalf of the class, shall be a valid discharge as against the infant or person of unsound mind, or the class. C.R. 840 (part).

As to the enforcement of such a judgment: see Rules 534, 536.

Execution for money to be paid into Court.

536. Every writ of execution for the levying of any money to be paid into Court shall be indorsed by the officer issuing the same with the following notice: "All money made under this execution is to be paid into Court by the Sheriff." C.R. 840 (part). Rules 537, 538.

537. Where any party is by a judgment entitled to any relief subject to or upon the fulfilment of any condition or contingency, he may, upon the fulfilment of the condition or contingency, apply for leave to issue execution. C.R. 841. Judgment for conditional relief.

See Eng. (1883) R. 587.

In an action for specific performance of a contract for the purchase of leaseholds, judgment was obtained for the payment of purchase money on the delivery of deeds. The vendor tendered the deeds, but the purchaser refused to accept them or pay the money. On motion under this Rule the vendor was ordered to deposit the deeds in Court, and the purchaser was ordered to pay the money within four days: Bell v. Denvir, 34 W. R. 638; 54 L. T. 724. W. N. 1886, 113; see also Morgan v. Brisco, 31 Ch. D. 216; 32 Ch. D. 192.

538. Every judgment creditor shall be entitled immediately to issue one or more writ or writs of fieri facias; but if the judgment is for payment within a period therein mentioned, the writ shall not be issued until after the expiration of such period. C.R. 843, amended. Fi fa.

See Eng. (1883) R. 595.

As to the jurisdiction of a Judge at the trial to stay execution: see Rule 495; semble, it cannot be exercised by qualifying a judgment for recovery of money, so as to make it payable by instalments: Brien v. Sullivan, 14 L. R. Ir. 391. Staying execution.

Unless otherwise ordered, judgment may be entered as soon as it is given.

The word "immediately," in this Rule, means instanter, i.e. immediately on its being signed, without waiting till it is entered; Rossiter v. Toronto Ry., 15 O. L. R. 297; Clarke v. Creighton, 14 P. R. 34, and its use probably sets at rest the question raised in Cullen v. Cullen, 2 Chy. Ch. 94, and Coolidge v. Bank of Montreal, 6 P. R. 73, as to whether the party to pay is entitled to any time to pay, before the issue of execution. See People's B. & L. Assoc. v. Stanley, 4 O. L. R. pp. 645-6.

Notwithstanding this Rule, a writ of execution against a mutual or a cash mutual insurance company cannot, under The Ontario Insurance Act (R. S. O. c. 183), s. 153, issue until after the expiration of sixty days from the recovery of judgment: see Lowson v. Canada Farmers' Ins. Co., 9 P. R. 185; Lount v. Canada Farmers' Ins. Co., 8 P. R. 433. (That provision in R. S. O. 1877, c. 161, s. 61, did not apply to a judgment recovered on a policy issued on the cash premium principl Lowson v. Canada Farmers' Mutual Ins. Co., 9 Ont. App. 613.) The above section 153 now applies to a mutual, or a cash mutual company, except where more than sixty per cent. of the premium, or premium note or undertaking, was paid in cash at the time of the insurance, or Execution against mutual insurance companies.

the application therefor; and a Judge, or the Master in Chambers may, on application of the judgment creditor, inquire into the question, whether sixty per cent. was paid, and, if he certifies that more than 60 per cent. was so paid, execution may issue forthwith. s. 12 (2), supra, p. 1161.

Against municipal corporations

For the mode of enforcing execution against a municipal corporation, see The Execution Act (R. S. O. c. 80), s. 37.

Staying execution

The Appellate Division is the proper Court to which to apply to suspend any order which that Court has made; consequently the application should be made to it to stay proceedings under its own order pending an appeal from that order: The Khedive, 5 P. D. 1.

In Murray v. Infield, 1 Charl. (Ga.) (Court) 112, an action for libel a verdict was given for the plaintiff for £100. "Hiddleston, B., said that although he was now able to order immediate execution, he would adopt the old (English) practice, and give execution in fourteen days."

In Taylor v. Sherley, 1 Charl. (Ga.) (Court) 143. "Following the old practice," Pollock, B., gave execution in fourteen days. In Ontario the same result is sometimes attained by staying the entry of the judgment.

See Hodges v. Finchman, 1 Ch. D. 9.

Execution before taxation of costs

This Rule abrogates the old practice, under which if a judgment creditor issued execution before costs were taxed, he was held to have waived his right to costs: Harris v. Jewell, W. N. 1883, 216.

Where an application to stay execution has been refused by the Judge at the trial, special circumstances must be shown on a subsequent application to the Court, as to which: see Monk v. Bairnan, 1892, 1 Q. B. 346; Booth v. Walkden Spinning Co., 1909, 2 K. B. 368.

The Master in Chambers, and other judicial officers, have no jurisdiction to stay execution: Rule 208 (16).

Property exigible under fi. fa.

What may be Seized under a fi. fa.—As to what may be taken under executions against goods and lands respectively: see The Execution Act (R. S. O. c. 80), ss. 9, 10-27, 31, 34-37.

The writ affects only the interest which may be in the judgment debtor at the time of its delivery to the Sheriff, or which the debtor may acquire while the writ is in the Sheriff's hands; see Parke v. Riley, 3 E. & A. 215; Re Lewis & Thorne, 14 Ont. 133; Re Trusts Corporation & Bochmer, 26 Ont. 191. Davey v. Williamson, 1898, 2 Q. B. 194.

A pawnbroker's interest in redeemable pledges may be taken in execution under a fi. fa. goods: Re Rollinson, 43 Ch. D. 495; and see The Execution Act, s. 19.

Formerly the writ against goods bound the debtor's equity of redemption in chattels only from seizure: Allan v. Place, 15 O. L. R. 476; but see now The Execution Act, s. 10 (1).

Growing crops.

As to the effect of an execution in the Sheriff's hands upon growing crops: see Smith v. Union Bank, 15 C. L. T. 15 (Man.).

Property out of the jurisdiction, if brought within the jurisdiction by means of a violation of the law of a foreign country, is not exigible, and will be ordered to be returned to the foreign country from whence it came: Houghton v. May, 22 O. L. R. 434; 23 O. L. R. 252; (a ship wrongfully cut loose from her moorings).

Timber license, mining claim.

The interest of a licensee under a timber license is exigible under a fi. fa. lands: McPherson v. Temiskaming Lumber Co., 1912, A. C. 145; but see Clarkson v. Wishart, 1913, A. C. 828, where it seems to have been held that a mining claim is exigible under a fi. fa. goods.

Oil lease.

On the other hand the interest of a defendant in an "oil lease" under which he was entitled to prospect for oil during a term of 5 years, was held to be an interest in land, and not exigible under a fi. fa. goods: Canadian Ry. Accident Co. v. Williams, 21 O. L. R. 472.

Property not exigible.

A right of dower in an equity of redemption before assignment, is not exigible under a writ of fi. fa., nor is the share of one of several tenants in common of an equity of redemption: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Rolston, 4 O. L. R. 106; nor is the right of property in a registered specific trade-mark; such a right can be sold, if at all, only as appurtenant to the business in which the trade-mark has been used: Clegg v. Bassett, 3 O. L. R. 263.

Equity.

Where an equity of redemption has been sold, and only in part satisfied the judgment, and the purchaser sells his interest in the lands to the mortgagor, the lands again become liable to the execution: Chittick v. Lowery, 6 O. L. R. 547.

Trust estate.

The Sheriff may seize and sell under a fi. fa. lands, lands which are vested in any person in trust for the debtor: The Executors Act, s. 9; but semble, this can only be intended to apply to simple cases where the debtor has a right to call for a conveyance of the legal estate.

Free grant lands when not sold under execution.

Lands patented under The Public Lands Act (R. S. O. c. 28), s. 45 (2), are exempt from liability to execution against the grantee even after the 20 years mentioned in the Act, in respect of judgments either previously to the grant, or during such period of 20 years recovered against him: Re Beatty & Finlayson, 27 Ont. 642 and s. 45 of the Act.

Ven. ex.

539. When a Sheriff returns that he has "goods (or lands) on hand for want of buyers," a writ of venditioni exponas may be issued. The Sheriff may make this return by certificate and the original writ of execution shall remain in force for the residue. C.R. 845 and 884.

See Eng. (1883) R. 617, which embraces other writs, viz.: writs of "distringas nuper vice comitem: fieri facias de bonis ecclesiasticis: sequestrari facias de bonis ecclesiasticis; and all other writs in aid of a writ of fieri facias, or of elegit."

The sheriff should sell the goods or lands under a writ of fi. fa. without the issue of a ven. ex., but where he has seized, but, for some reason, has not sold, goods, or lands, he may be required to make a return respecting the fi. fa., and thereupon a writ of ven. ex. may issue on praecipe. After the delivery of this writ to the sheriff he is bound to sell the goods (or lands) and have the money in Court immediately after its execution: Chit. Arch., 13th ed., 584: Keighley v. Birch, 3 Camp. 521.

For form of writ of ven. ex.: see Forms Nos. 115, 116.

See Rule 558, for the particulars required in a return of "goods on hand," etc.

Rules 540, 541.

Where a seizure has been made under a writ, the judgment creditor cannot have another fi. fa. upon the judgment until a return has been made to the first, even though he has abandoned the seizure, but this does not apply where the sheriff has seized only goods not belonging to the debtor: Ex p. Smith, 1902, 2 K. B. 260.

Execution for recovery of land.

540. A judgment for the recovery or for the delivery of the possession of land may be enforced by writ of possession. C.R. 846.

See Eng. (1883) R. 583.

Under a writ of possession, issued on a judgment for possession, in an action by a landlord against his tenant, sub-tenants, not parties to the action, may be put out of possession: Synod of Toronto v. Fisken, 29 Ont. 738.

A writ of possession was ordered to issue in an action by a landlord against a tenant, notwithstanding that the landlord's reversion terminated before the trial, the defendant not showing affirmatively that it would be unjust and futile to issue the writ: Knight v. Clarke, 15 Q. B. D. 294.

A final order of foreclosure is not a judgment for the recovery or delivery of possession of land within this Rule: see Wood v. Wheate, 22 Ch. D. 281, although the bringing of an action for foreclosure stops the running of the Statute of Limitations: Heath v. Pugh, 6 C. P. D. 345. Under the practice in Ontario, an order for the delivery of possession forthwith may be contained in the judgment in a foreclosure action, where it is claimed by the indorsement on the writ of summons: see Rule 460, and Forms Nos. 101, 102; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 904 and 905.

See Rudd v. Frank, 17 Ont. at p. 764.

For the purpose of recovering possession of land, the writ of possession supersedes the old writ of assistance: Wyman v. Knight, 39 Ch. D. 165.

The officer to whom a judgment or order is delivered for entry may properly issue execution thereon instanter without waiting until it is actually entered in his books: Rossiter v. Toronto Ry., 15 O. L. R. 295.

Writ of possession.

541. Where by any judgment any person therein named is directed to deliver up possession of any lands to some other person on or at any specified time after being served with the judgment, the person prosecuting the same shall, without any further order for that purpose, be entitled to issue a writ of possession, on filing an affidavit showing due service of the judgment and that the same has not been obeyed. C.R. 847.

See Eng. (1883) R. 645.

In Chitty's Forms (12th ed.), p. 596, note, it is said that the affidavit is only necessary in cases within the words of the Rule, viz., where the judgment directs the defendant "to deliver up possession."

The judgment on an award is in this form, and judgments in mortgage actions ars so drawn: eee Forms Nos. 101, 102; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 104 and 905. In other cases the form is usually "that the plaintiff do recover," etc.: see Form No. 93; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 843, 844. Rule 542.

Wbere plaintiff's title has expired pendente lite: see Rule 262 and note.

C. R. 848 provided that "A writ of possession shall have the effect of a writ of assistance ns well as of a writ of habere facias possessionem," hut this provision has not heen continued. Effect of writ.

Tbis writ of possession supersedes the oid Cbancery writ of assistsnce so far as the recovery of land is concerned: Hall v. Hall, 47 L. J. Chy. 680; Wymon v. Knight, 39 Ch. D. 165; hut in England it seems that, in case of necessity, the writ of assistance may stiii he used, e.g., to recover possession of personai property which is in danger of being removed beyond the jurisdiction of the Court: Wyman v. Knight, supra. It may be douhted whether this is so in Ontario, in view of Rule 2. A speciai form of writ of delivery might probahiy in such case be framed from Form No. 118; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1126, 1127.

For the form of writ of possession: see Form No. 117; H. & L. Forms, No. 1126.

The chief difference between a writ of assistance and the former writ of habere facias possessionem was, that the iatter used merely to order the Sheriff to put the plaintiff in possession, whereas ths formsr inetructed the Sheriff to "defend and keep" the plaintiff "and his assigns in peaceabie and quiet possession when and as often as any interruption may or shaii be given or offered to them or sny of them": see Danieli's Forms 982; thus it is presumed, rendsring unnecessary applications for a new writ where a defendant wrongfuiiy reaumed possession after heing ejected by the Sheriff: see Doe d. Peck v. Roe, 2 U. C. Q. B. 27; Edwards v. Bennett, 6 P. R. 161; McDermott v. McDermott, 4 P. R. 252. This is now ths ianguage of Form No. 117, and a defendant who retakes possession wrongfuiiy, after heing ejected, is iiable to be committed for contempt: see Re Higgs, Goddard v. Higgs, 97 L. T. Jour. 11. Difference between writ of assistance and hab. fac. poss.

Where a piaintiff has been put in possession under a writ of possession, and a defendant soon after regaine possession after the return of the writ executed, the piaintiff, on motion, is entitled to an order for a new writ of possession: Proctor v. Weller, 3 C. L. T. 551; see Stacpoole v. Wolsh, 6 L. R. Ir. 444. Defendant regaining possession.

If, in executing the writ, a person is found in possession not claiming under the defendant, and is dispossessed hy the Sheriff, such person may appiy for ieave to defend the action under Rule 53; Minet v. Johnson, 63 L. T. 607.

542. When a judgment directs recovery of any land and money, one writ or separate writs of execution for the recovery of possession and for the moncy may be issued at the election of the party entitled to recover. C.R. 849. Execution for lands and costs.

It is held in Ireland, under sec. 209 of the C. L. P. Act (16 & 17 V. c. 113), repeated in the Rules under the Ir. Jud. Act, that where a piaintiff has ohtained a verdict for possession, mesne profits and costs, execution for possession cannot issue till the costs are taxed, unless he has waived them: Beasley v. Chapman, 6 L. R. Ir. 393.

That section is as follows:

"209. Upon any judgment in ejectment there may be either one or several writs of execution for the recovery of possession and for the damages, the rents ascertained to be due and costs, at the election of the plaintiff."

Writ of assignment of dower.

543. A judgment for the recovery of dower may be enforced by a writ of assignment of dower, directed to the Sheriff of the County in which the lands lie; and the writ shall set forth the lands out of which the plaintiff is to recover dower. C.R. 859.

This Rule is based on C. R. 850, not 859.

A judgment in an action to establish a will, declaring plaintiff entitled to land in question in fee simple subject to the dower of the testator's widow (a defendant) is not a judgment for the recovery of dower within the meaning of this Rule: Cope v. Cope, 26 Ont. 441.

Execution for specific delivery of goods.

544. Where a judgment directs the recovery of specific goods, chattels, deeds, securities, documents or any property other than land or money, a writ of delivery may be issued commanding the judgment debtor specifically to deliver up forthwith the property demanded, and directing that in case of refusal the judgment debtor be arrested and detained in prison until he complies with the terms of the writ, and also that the goods and chattels of the judgment debtor to double the value of the property in question be taken and kept until the further order of the Court to enforce obedience to the writ. C.R. 852.

See Eng. (1883) R. 647.

The judgment for delivery of the property, or payment of its value, does not divest the plaintiff of the property in the chattel until the satisfaction of the value found by the judgment, even though satisfaction is prevented by the bankruptcy of defendant: Ex p. Drake, 5 Ch. D. 866.

It is doubtful under the English Rules, whether an order for the writ is necessary: Ivory v. Cruickshank, W. N. 1875, 249. In Ont. it is probable that the writ may issue in like manner as any other writ of execution.

In Ivory v. Cruickshank, W. N. 1875, 249; 1 Chsrl. Ch. Ca. 128, an action for rent and for the return of specific goods, judgment having been signed for the amount of rent in default of appearance, the plaintiff was allowed to sign judgment also for the return of the specific goods, and then to proceed under Eng. R. 584 as he might be advised hy writ of delivery, attachment or sequeetration. In Battley v. Scars (Timee, 7th March, 1876, cited Charley's Jud. Act, 3rd ed., p. 669), it is etated that a rule nisi for an attachment was granted against a defendant for refusing to give up a diamond ring or pay for it, execution having proved futile, as the defendant was a married woman. Rule 545.

Under this Rule a writ may be iseued for delivery of a chattel, and authorizing the Sheriff in default to arrest the defaulting party, and detain him until he compliee with the terme of the writ, and also to seize goods and chattele of douhle the vaine of the property in queetion until the further order of the Court. So that the writ combines (a) a writ for delivery; (h) and in case of default an attachment, and (c) a sequeetration of goode to the extent of douhle the value of the property in question.

545. A judgment requiring any person to do any act other than the payment of money, or to abstain from doing anything, may be enforced by attachment, or by committal. C.R. 853. Judgment requiring person to do or leave undone.

See Eng. (1883) R. 585.

A technical difference exiete according to the English practice between attachment and committal; an attachment heing held to he the proper remedy for punishing the refusal to do any act ordered to be done, and committal the proper remedy for punishing the doing of any act which hy any order is prohihited. In England, while an attachment is directed to the Sheriff, committal is executed hy an officer (Sergeant at Arme) of the Court. This distinction is etill ohserved in England: Re Evans, 1893, 1 Ch. 252; 68 L. T. 271; Mander v. Falcke, 1891, 3 Ch. 488; 64 L. T. 791; Callow v. Young, 56 L. T. 147; and see Harvey v. Harvey, 26 Ch. D. 654; 51 L. T. at p. 512, and D. v. A. & Co., 1900, 1 Ch. 484. Formerly an attachment issued at the inetance of the party aggrieved, and at his own risk, and without motion; whereas a committal could only he ohtained on motion: Ib.; under theee Rules, however, a notice of motion ie neceseary now in the case of attachment: eee Rule 546. Difference between attachment and committal.

On a notice of motion to commit the defendant, Malins, V.-C., ordered a writ of attachment to issue against him: Piper v. Piper, W. N. 1876, 202; hut after ohtaining an order for an attachment, a party cannot move ex parte for an order for committal inetead: Buist v. Bridge, 43 L. T. 432; 29 W. R. 117; and on a motion for an attachment, where the proper remedy was committal, Chitty, J., required the notice of motion to he amended, and re-eerved.

In Ontario hoth an attachment, and an order for committal, are directed to the Sheriff, and how far the technical difference between the two remedies which prevaile in England has any application here does not appear to have heen conaidered. The only apparent difference in the procedure in Ontario hetween an attachment and committal is, that in the former case a writ of attachment issues, and in the caee of a committal no writ iesuee and the Sheriff acte under the order.

An attachment, or committal, for contempt, ie a punitive process, and not a mere civil proceeding, though iesued to enforce private rights, and the Sheriff is bound to break open the outer door if necessary in order to execute it: see Harvey v. Harvey, 26 Ch. D. 654.

But it is not a criminal proceeding where issued in a civil action so far as an appeal from the order is concerned: see Scott v. Scott, 1913, A. C. 417; 109 L. T. 1.

As to mode of obtaining a writ of attachment: see notes to Rule 546.

An order for committal may be obtained not only for enforcing a judgment, but also to punish persons guilty of acts calculated to interfere with the cause of justice.

The Court will not encourage motions where the object is not really to commit, but only to obtain an apology and costs, and therefore in Plating Co. v. Farquharson, 17 Ch. D. 50, no costs were given; and see Regina v. Poyne, 1896, 1 Q. B. 577.

Non-payment of money, when punishable by attachment.

Under The Fraudulent Debtors Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 83), s. 12, process of contempt for non-payment of money or costs is abolished; but where, for the purpose of giving a party the equitable relief to which he is entitled, a defendant is ordered to do an act, e.g., procure a mortgage to be discharged which he has wrongfully caused to be put upon the registry, the performance of such act may be enforced by attachment, notwithstanding that, in order to perform the act, it may be necessary for the defendant to pay money to some other person: Berry v. Donovan, 21 Ont. App. 14; and see Roberts v. Donovan, 16 P. R. 456; Pritchard v. Pritchard, 18 Ont. 173; Swyny v. Harland, 70 L. T. 227.

Married woman.

Where a married woman living with her husband was in contempt for disobeying an order of the Court it was formerly considered that her husband was answerable, unless he could satisfy the Court that he had used his best endeavours to get his wife to comply with the order: see Maughan v. Wilkes, 2 Chy. Ch. 91; Murcheson v. Donohoe, 6 P. R. 138; but it would seem that a married woman is now personally liable for her default: see Re Turnbull, 1900, 1 Ch. 180; 81 L. T. 439; Evans v. Jenkins, 115 L. T. Jour. 457.

Order should limit time.

An order or judgment sought to be enforced by attachment should limit the time for the performance of the act therein required to be done, and it should be served on the party required to obey it a reasonable time before the time thereby limited has expired: Berry v. Donovan, 21 Ont. App. 14; Re Seol, 1903, 1 Ch. 87; except in the case of an injunction order of which the party or his solicitor or counsel has notice; but where the judgment or order directs two persons to perform an act, one may be proceeded against for disobedience before the other has been served: Re Ellis, Hardcastle v. Ellis, 93 L. T. 80.

Where after a writ of possession has been executed, the defendant wrongfully retakes possession, he is liable to attachment: see Re Higgs, Goddard v. Higgs, 97 L. T. Jour. 11.

An attachment will only be granted for disobedience of an order, or judgment, where the disobedience has been wilful: see Fairclough v. Manchester Ship Canal, 102 L. T. Jour. 292.

As to obtaining a writ of sequestration, where an attachment is ineffectual: see notes to Rule 547. Also in the case of a corporation: Cook v. Credit Valley Ry. Co., 8 P. R. 167; Demorest v. Midland, 10

P. R. 82; McKeown v. Joint Stock Institute, 1899, 1 Ch. 671; Re Bolton & Wentworth, 23 O. L. R. 390. Rule 545.

As to enforcing injunctions, and punishing a breach thereof: see the Jud. Act, s. 17, and notes, supra, p. 72.

If the Court had no jurisdiction to make the order sought to be enforced, that is a good answer to a motion to commit for disobedience of it: McLeod v. Noble, 28 Ont. 528.

Where there is a remedy by action, and also by attachment, in respect of the same matter, the plaintiff is not precluded from exercising the one remedy by having made an unsuccessful attempt to enforce the other: Godfrey v. George, 1896, 1 Q. B. 48; 73 L. T. 599; 44 W. R. 246; but semble, if a writ of attachment is obtained and defendant is taken under it, the remedy by action is gone: Ib.

An action cannot be brought in a Division Court to enforce a judgment of the Supreme Court, or County Court, where execution can be issued upon it: see The Division Court Act (R. S. O. c. 63), s. 61 (e).

Contempt of Court.

The publication in a newspaper of scurrilous abuse of a Judge with reference to his conduct as a Judge in a judicial proceeding which has terminated, is a contempt of Court, punishable on summary process: Reg. v. Gray, 1900, 2 Q. B. 36.

It was laid down by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council that committal for contempt of Court is to be used only with reference to the administration of justice, and not for the vindication of a Judge as a person; thus a person innocently and without knowledge of its contents lending a newspaper to another containing scandalous matter reflecting on a Court of justice, was held not to be thereby guilty of contempt of such Court, and his committal was set aside: McLeod v. St. Aubyn, 1899, A. C. 549; 81 L. T. 158. In that case Lord Morris said "committals for contempt of Court by scandalizing the Court itself have become obsolete in this country. Courts are satisfied to leave to public opinion attacks or comments derogatory or scandalous to them."

Interfering with course of justice.

A proprietor of a newspaper publishing comments on matters in litigation, calculated to interfere with the fair trial of the action by exciting prejudice against one of the parties, is liable to committal and also to be fined for contempt of Court: Re Crown Bank, 44 Ch. D. 649; 63 L. T. 304; Re Labouchere, Kensit v. Eng. News, 18 T. L. R. 208; Phillips v. Has, Ib., 400; Rex v. Hammond, 111 L. T. 206; even where the case is pending before an inferior tribunal: Rex v. Parke, 1903, 2 K. B. 432; 89 L. T. 439; Rex v. Russell, 119 L. T. Jour. 398; Rex v. Bacchouse, Ib., 399; Rex v. Davies, 1906, 1 K. B. 32; 93 L. T. 773; Rex v. Clarke, 103 L. T. 636. As to the extent to which newspaper comments on cases in litigation are allowable: see Re O'Brien, 16 S. C. R. 197. On the same principle any person knowing of an injunction, and wilfully assisting, or participating in, a breach of it, is liable to be committed for contempt of Court, for interfering with the course of justice: Seaward v. Paterson, 1897, 1 Ch. 545; 76 L. T. 215; and see Favard v. Favard, 75 L. T. 664. The fact that the order has not been served on the party sought to be punished is no answer: Ib. Issuing fraudulent circulars to influence the course of pending litigation was held to be a contempt: In re Parsonage & Co., 1901, 2 Ch. 424. A motion to commit for contempt in publishing comments must be made in Court, and not in Chambers: Southwick v. Hare, 15 P. R. 239.

An order to discharge a mortgage improperly put upon the registry, may be enforced by attachment, notwithstanding that the person required to obey the order may have to pay money in order to comply with it: see Berry v. Donovan, 21 Ont. App. 14; Roberts v. Donovan, 16 P. R. 456; so also, an order requiring a solicitor to refund money he has obtained from the Court under circumstances which make him liable to refund it: Pritchard v. Pritchard, 18 Oct. 173; or which has been paid to him under an undertaking to refund it, if required: Swyny v. Horlond, 70 L. T. 227.

Effect of attachment.

By C. R. 854, it was provided that a writ of attachment against the person should be issued under the same circumstances, and should have the same effect, as under the practice of the Court of Chancery, prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881; and see Eng. (1883) R. 620; but this provision is not continued in the present Rules.

Chancery Order 288 provided as follows:

Chy. O. 288.

"288. If a party who is ordered, otherwise than by an order of course, to do any act, other than to pay money, in a limited time, refuses or neglects to obey the order according to the exigency thereof, the party prosecuting the order shall, at the expiration of the time limited, upon filing with the Registrar an affidavit of the service of the order, and of the non-performance thereof, be entitled, upon præcipe, to a writ or writs or attachment against the disobedient party."

But Rule 546 requires a notice to be served, and leave to be obtained, before an attachment is issued. To this extent the former practice preserved by C. R. 854 was varied.

Chy. O. 293.

Chy. Order 293, provided that every order requiring a party to do an act, other than the payment of money, should have indorsed upon the copy of the order served, a memorandum to the effect set forth in Schedule N to the Chy. Orders notifying the party as follows:

Schedule N.

"If you, the within named (here insert the name of the party), neglect to obey this order by the time therein limited, you will be liable to be arrested by the Sheriff; and you will also be liable to have your estate sequestered for the purpose of compelling you to obey this order without further notice. If you wish to apply to the Court to add to, vary or set aside the said order, or to suspend the operation thereof, you must do so before the expiration of the time within limited."

Whether notice should be indorsed on order or judgment.

This Chy. O. 293, is not consolidated in the Ont. Rules, but the corresponding Eng. O. is continued in the Eng. (1883) R. 573. Under the new practice it was held in England under the Rules of 1875 (but of course not under the Rules of 1883, R. 573: see Hampden v. Wallis, 26 Ch. D. 746, and Treherne v. Dale, 27 Ch. D. 66; 54 L. J. Chy. 83), that this indorsement was not necessary, as an attachment under the new procedure could not be obtained except upon notice: see Rule 546, but the rule might be different in the case of a sequestration: Thomas v. Colin, 21 Ch. D. 360; and see Wallace v. Graham, 11 L. R. Ir. 369. In Ontario a sequestration does not issue on præcipe except where a party is already in custody under an attachment: see Rule 547; and in other cases, is not, under Rule 548, obtained without notice; so that the indorsement would seem to be not necessary in cases either of attachment or sequestration: see Rule 2; sed vide per Maclennan, J.A., Berry v. Donovan, 21 Ont. App. at pp. 29, 31. Rule 546.

If the notice referred to above is indorsed, the words "without further notice," at all events, should be now omitted: see Rule 546.

Eng. (1883) R. 573 has no application to a prohibitive order: Selous v. Croydon, 53 L. T. 210; 29 Sol. Jour. 485; such an order is enforced by committal: see supra, p. 1167.

Where default in complying with an order was not clearly enough shown to justify an order for attachment, if the opposite party had not appeared, the defect was held to be cured by his appearing and resisting the motion on other grounds: Treherne v. Dale, 27 Ch. D. 66.

546. A writ of attachment shall not be issued without the leave of the Court or a Judge, on notice to the person against whom the attachment is to be issued. C.R. 855. Leave to issue.

As to the difference between attachment and committal: see supra, Rule 545 and notes.

This Rule introduced an important change in the Chancery Practice: see Rule 545 and notes. A writ of attachment can now never issue as of right without an order, granted after notice to the party: Baigent v. Baigent, 1 P. D. 421; W. N. 1875, 218; Abud v. Riches, 2 Ch. D. 528; Dollas v. Glyn, 3 Ch. D. 190; see Re Heiron's Estate, Hall v. Ley, 12 Ch. D. 795; Re Knight, Knight v. Gardiner, 25 Ch. D. 297; Re Chatham Horvester Co. v. Compbell, 12 P. R. 666. This was the rule in the Common Law Courts, except in the case of an attachment against a Sheriff for disobeying an order to return a writ; in which case the rule was made absolute ex parte: Reg. Gen. T. T. 1856, R. 140; see Jupp v. Cooper, 5 C. P. D. 26. In Jupp v. Cooper, all that the attention of the Court was called to was whether the order should be absolute in the first instance, or only an order nisi, and the latter was granted, as also was done in Fowler v. Ashford, 45 L. T. 46. An attachment against the Sheriff, like any other attachment, is now governed by the new Rule; Eynde v. Gould, 9 Q. B. D. 335; see also Dallas v. Glyn, supra; Re Heirons's Estate, supra. Motion for order.

The provisions of Jud. Act, s. 74, supra, apply to an application for an attachment. The costs are therefore in the discretion of the Court: Abud v. Riches, supra, and should be asked for and disposed of on the application for the attachment: Ib. Costs of motion.

An interlocutory order, under Rule 369 et seq., may be enforced by attachment: Hutchinson v. Hartmount W. N. 1877, 29; and an order directing a solicitor to repay into Court moneys which had been paid out to him has been so enforced: Pritchard v. Pritchard, 18 Ont. 173; sed vide, The Fraudulent Debtors Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 83), s. 13. Enforcing interlocutory orders.

An order should be drawn up and entered before being enforced by process: Ballard v. Tomlinson, 48 L. T. 515. Order to be issued and served before motion.

Rule 546.

A motion for attachment when made for non-compliance with orders of course, or orders in Chambers, may be made to a Judge in Chambers: see Salm Kryburg v. Posnanski, 13 Q. B. D. 218; Amstell v. Lessor, 53 L. T. 759; 34 W. R. 230, but when made for non-compliance with an order, or judgment of the Court, it should be made in Court: Klein v. Union Fire Ins. Co., 3 C. L. T. 602. The practice in England is not similar to that in Ontario: see Davis v. Galmoye, 39 Ch. D. 322; 40 Ch. D. 355.

Neither the Master in Chambers, nor a Local Judge, or Master (acting under Rules 208, 209), has jurisdiction to entertain a motion to attach or commit, as such matters are excepted from the powers conferred upon them: see Rule 208 (1), (4), and Keefe v. Ward, 9 P. R. 220, but as to Local Judges: see Rule 210.

Service of the order to be obeyed.

In Re Steele, 23 Sol. Jour. 906, the question was raised whether the order to be obeyed need be personally served since an attachment can now only be had upon notice. It is submitted, however, that there is nothing to alter the former practice which required personal service of the order to be obeyed (except in cases under Rule 353, and except where it is shown that the order has come to the knowledge of the person sought to be attached, and that he is evading service of it: Kistler v. Tettmor, 1905, 1 K. B. 39; 92 L. T. 36), more especially if the notice of motion to attach is not personally served. Where the director of a company was sought to be attached for disobedience of an order against the company, it was held that he must be personally served with the order: McKeown v. Joint Stock Institute, 1899, 1 Ch. 671; 80 L. T. 641. The order, or judgment, must be served a reasonable time before the time limited thereby for the performance of the act ordered to be done, has expired: Berry v. Donovan, 21 Ont. App. 14; and though the party required by an order to do some act was in Court when the order was pronounced, that does not dispense with service of the order on him: Re Tuck, Murch v. Loosemore, 1906, 1 Ch. 692; 94 L. T. 597; but where the order restrains a party from doing an act, he may be attached for disobedience of the order before service of it if he had actual notice of it; S. C.: see per Cozens-Hardy, M.R. Where the order limits a time for doing an act the order should be served a reasonable time before the limited time has expired, or it may become necessary to apply to the Court to appoint a new day.

Enforcing undertaking.

An undertaking given by a suitor may be enforced by process of contempt, though the order embodying the undertaking may not have been served: Re Launder, Lounder v. Richards, 1908, W. N. 49; 124 L. T. Jour. 381.

Corporations in contempt.

A judgment or order against a corporation may be enforced by sequestration against the corporation, or by attachment against the directors: Rule 553.

Where a corporation is, by judgment, or order, required to do any act, it is sufficient if the corporation has been served therewith, it is not necessary also to serve all the officers thereof, in order to found proceedings for contempt against them in case of default; although it may be an answer to such proceedings if they show affirmatively that they have had no notice of the judgment, or order. Where a corporation is in default its officers who are aiding or abetting, or permitting, such default, are liable to be proceeded against individually.

and they may be punished either by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the Court: see Re Bolton & Wentworth, 23 O. L. R. 390. Rule 546.

The copy of order served must be an exact copy: Re Holt, 11 Ch. D. 163; see also Ex p. Smith, 28 W. R. 174.

An order to deliver a bill of costs served on a solicitor's clerk at his office was disobeyed. On motion for attachment the solicitor swore that he had not been personally served. A letter from him giving reason for delay, and promising to deliver bills was produced, but it was held that the necessity for personal service was not waived by the letter: Re Cunninghom, 55 L. T. 766.

The application for an order for an attachment must be on notice: Thomas v. Polin, 21 Ch. D. 360; 57 L. T. 207.

Two clear days' notice of motion is sufficient. The practice laid down in Abell v. Hills, 6 P. R. 122, and Bryce v. McIntyre, 7 P. R. 134, is not now in force: Monoghan v. Dobbin, 2 C. L. T. 215; see also Cook v. Credit Valley Ry. Co., 8 P. R. 167. The notice of motion should specify the breach or default complained of: Hipkiss v. Fellows, 101 L. T. 701. Notice of motion.

It is not necessary to serve with the notice of motion copies of the affidavits filed in support of it: Hannum v. McRae, 18 P. R. 185.

In Mann v. Perry, W. N. 1881, 4; 44 L. T. 248; 50 L. J. Cby. 251, it was held that notice of motion to commit must be served personally, unless some reason is shown for dispensing with personal service. On a motion for an attachment, however, it had previously been held that service of notice of motion upon the solicitors on the record of the party to be attached was sufficient, though personal service was not shown to be impracticable: Browning v. Sohn, 5 Ch. D. 511; Richards v. Kitchen, 25 W. R. 602; or by leaving the notice at the residence of the party affected thereby: Re a Solicitor, 14 Ch. D. 152 See also Tilney v. Stansfield, W. N. 1880, 77; Trout v. Loney, 13 C. L. T. 64; and it has since been held that in the case of a defendant who has not entered an appearance service of notice of motion may be made by leaving it in the office (see Rule 200): Re Evans, infra. Service of.

In Ontario it has been held that Mann v. Perry, is to be followed: Smith v. Marrin, 4 C. L. T. 493; except where Rule 353 applies: Re Harnden, 11 P. R. 35.

Where the order to be obeyed has been personally served, it is nevertheless necessary, in case of disobedience, to serve personally any notice of motion for attachment, or committal: Rule 546, see also Ellerton v. Thirsk, 1 J. & W. 376; Angerstein v. Hunt, 6 Ves. 488; Hope v. Carnegie, L. R. 7 Eq. 254; Nelson v. Worssam, W. N. 1890, 216; except in the case provided for by Rule 353 of disobedience of an order to bring accounts into the Master's office, or for production, or inspection of books and papers; in cases under Rule 353 it is not necessary to serve a notice of motion to attach personally upon the disobedient party, if he has a solicitor: see Wilson v. Wilson, 7 P. R. 57.

Where personal service of notice of motion to attach the defendant could not be effected, the order was made on affidavit of service of the notice on a solicitor who had appeared in the action for the defendant, although the solicitor had ceased to act for him: Collow v. Young, 55 L. T. 543; and see Re Evans, 1893, 1 Ch. 252; 68 L. T. 271; and where a father took his child, a ward of Court, out of the jurisdiction of the Court contrary to his undertaking given to the Court, an order for an attachment was made against him, and personal service of notice of the motion was dispensed with: Rex v. Wigond, 1913, 2 K. B. 419; 109 L. T. 111.

Where a motion is made to attach a defendant who has not appeared in the action: see notes to Rule 200.

Where a party has not been personally served, his appearance on the return of the motion to take the objection is not a waiver of it. Mander v. Folcke, 1891, 3 Ch. 488; Taylor v. Roe, 68 L. T. 213; but service of notice is waived by counsel appearing and consenting to an enlargement: Ex p. Alcock, 1 C. P. D. 68. But semble, an objection that personal service has not been effected, though given effect to, if taken on the return of the motion (see Taylor v. Roe, supra), will not of itself be a sufficient ground for setting aside the attachment, if granted, where the party did not appear on the return of the motion: Petty v. Daniel, 34 Ch. D. 172; 55 L. T. 745; and see Re Evans, Evans v. Norton, 1893, 1 Ch. 252; 68 L. T. 271.

Substituted service.

The provisions as to substituted service have been held not to apply to an application for an attachment, but only to service of writs of summons: Anon., W. N. 1876, 105; but see cases supra, p. 335, and Williams v. Johns, 2 Dick. 477; 1 Mer. 303 (d); Pulteney v. Shelton, 5 Ves. 147; DeManneville v. DeMonneville, 12 Ves. 202; Lechmere Charlton's Case, 2 M. & C. 335; also Hope v. Carnegie, L. R. 7 Eq. 254; Howarth v. Howorth, 11 P. D. 95; Tilney v. Stansfield, W. N. 1880, 77; Monder v. Folcke, 1891, 3 Ch. 488; 65 L. T. 454; Trout v. Loney, 13 C. L. T. 64; Re Bassett, Bossett v. Bassett, 1894, 3 Ch. 179.

In England it is now held that there is jurisdiction to order substitutional service where every reasonable effort to effect personal service has been made: Mander v. Folcke, 1891, 3 Ch. 488; Re Bassett, 1894 3 Ch. 179.

Service of notice made on the clerk of a solicitor at his office, his residence not being known, was held to be good service, but, notwithstanding, the order was stayed for a week, and notice thereof directed to be served on the solicitor: Tilney v. Stansfield, supra.

Issue, and execution, of writ of attachment.

On a motion to commit for contempt, an attachment may issue: Piper v. Piper, W. N. 1876, 202; but on a motion for an attachment an order to commit cannot be obtained ex parte: Buist v. Bridge, 43 L. T. 432; 29 W. R. 117.

On a motion for attachment for contempt in committing a breach of undertaking contained in an order, a preliminary objection was raised that the proper remedy was committal. The objection was allowed, and the plaintiff given leave to amend his notice of motion and serve it again: Callow v. Young, 56 L. T. 147; 56 L. J. Chy. 690. The distinction between attachment and committal still exists in England: see note to Rule 545. See also D. v. A. & Co., 1900, 1 Ch. 484.

Contemnor out of jurisdiction.

A writ of attachment may be issued against a party out of the jurisdiction, though it can only be enforced in the event of his coming within the jurisdiction: Bloomfield v. Brooks, 6 P. R. 264; Trout v. Loney, 13 C. L. T. 64; and see Rex v. Wigond, supra.

Return of writ.

No particular return day is inserted in the writ: see Form No. 120; H. & L. Forms, No. 1153; but after a reasonable interval a return may be required: Owen v. Pritchard, W. N. 1876, 147.

Rule 547. Execution of writ.

The officer charged with the execution of the writ may break open the outer door of the house in order to execute it: Harvey v. Harvey, 26 Ch. D. 844.

A further opportunity to comply with the order may be given, or the order may be stayed, pending an appeal, in the discretion of the Judge: Mellor v. Thompson, W. N. 1883, 128.

No detainer for costs.

A person attached for misconduct will not be detained for costs: Jackson v. Mawby, 1 Ch. D. 86; see also Earl of Lewes v. Barnett, 6 Ch. D. 252; and Micklethwaite v. Fletcher, 27 W. R. 793. But, in order to punish anyone who has been guilty of a contempt, he may be imprisoned for a stated period: see Rule 851; and allowed to be discharged if he pays the costs before the expiration of such period: Harris v. Meyers, 1 Chy. Ch. 229; see also Morris v. Ingram, 13 Ch. D. 338.

Corporation in contempt.

The president of a company cannot be attached for non-performance of an act which could only be performed by a majority of the board of directors: Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 82; but see Rule 554.

Member of Parliament.

As to attaching a Member of Parliament: see Re Anglo-French Co-operative Soc., 14 Ch. D. 533.

Arrest after compliance with order.

Where an attachment issued against a defendant for not complying with an order for discovery, and compliance was then made, but the defendant was, nevertheless, thereafter arrested, it was held that the arrest was irregular and that it was the duty of the plaintiff's solicitor to have stayed the enforcement of the attachment: Goy v. Hancock, 48 L. T. 207.

Hab. corp.

A party committed for contempt of Court is not entitled to a habeas corpus: Re Anderson v. Yonstone, 16 P. R. 243; not even for the purpose of attending in person to move for his discharge: Roberts v. Donovon, Ib. 458.

But where a motion is made against a person, in close custody, it is in the discretion of the Court whether a habeas corpus be granted to enable him to attend in person to show cause: Ib.

Acceptance of part—no waiver.

Where an attachment had been properly issued against a solicitor, for non-payment of money, it was held that the subsequent acceptance of part, and giving time for payment of the balance, was no waiver of the right to enforce the attachment for non-payment of the balance as agreed: Re Feredoy, 1895, 2 Ch. 437; 73 L. T. 56.

Discharge of contemnor.

Provision is made by Jud. Act, s. 139, supra, for the discharge of a person, committed for certain contempts, who is entitled to his discharge but neglects to apply for it.

Upon attachment of contemnor, sequestration may issue on motion.

547. Where a person is taken or detained in custody under a writ of attachment, without obeying the judgment, then upon the sheriff's return that the person has been so taken or detained, the party prosecuting the judgment shall be entitled upon motion to a writ of sequestration against the estate and effects of the disobedient person. C.R. 857.

C. R. 857 provided that in the circumstances mentioned in this Rule the sequestration might issue on præcipe, but under the present

Rule 547. Rule it cannot now issue without a special order to be obtained on motion, and on notice: see Rules 313, 315.

Sequestration. Sequestration.—Originally the writ of sequestration was the last prerogative process, issued out of the Court of Chancery, for the purpose of enforcing obedience to its decrees. The right of the Court of Chancery to issue such writs was at first contested by the Common Law Courts, on the ground that the Court of Chancery could not enforce its decrees by process in rem, but only in personam. And it was even ruled at Law, that to kill a sequestrator in the execution of such process was no murder. But the authority of the Court to issue such writs was ultimately established, in spite of the "bloody and desperate resolutions" of the common lawyers: see Gilbert's Chy Pr., 77.

"A grand distress." A sequestration is in "the nature of a grand distress." It is a process of contempt in rem: Totham v. Porker, 1 Sm. & G. 508 (see, however, observations of Spragge, C., in Meyers v. Meyers, 21 Gr. 216); and may be issued to enforce any mandatory order, or judgment. It affects the personal estate, and the rents and profits of the realty, of the person whose estate, is sequestered: Jackson v. Jackson, 1 Chy. Ch. 115; but it does not appear to bind the land itself: Hyde v. Greenhill, 1 Dick. 107; and lands cannot be sold under a sequestration: Meyers v. Meyers, 21 Gr. 218. According to English authorities, it is said that the writ binds from its date, and not merely from its delivery for execution: Burdett v. Rockley, 1 Vern. 58; but see Angel v. Smith, 9 Ves. 336; Morris v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 107; but though the property be bound, yet the seizure under the writ does not create a charge on the property in favour of the creditor: In re Pollord, 1903, 2 K. B. 41; 87 L. T. 61.

Binds personalty, and rents and profits of realty. From date of sequestration.

The writ of sequestration has been shorn of much of its original efficacy by the enlarged operation given in Ontario to the writ of fi. fa. it is now only to be employed as a last resource. Fi. fa. goods and proceedings for attaching debts, etc., are first to be used, and if by these the debtor's property cannot be reached, a writ of sequestration may be issued on application in Chambers, upon notice, as a general rule, but it will in general only be granted when the debtor's lands are insufficient to satisfy the debt, and it therefore becomes of importance to enter upon the land and realize the profits thereof during the year which must elapse before they can be sold under a fi. fa. lands; or where the interest of the debtor is such that it cannot be taken under a fi. fa.: Nelson v. Nelson, 6 P. R. 194. The Court has, however, power to order a sequestration instead of a fi. fa., if occasion should require, Ib. See note to Rule 549.

Discretion as to granting writ. The granting of the writ is discretionary, and the discretion will not be interfered with by an appellate Court: Hulbert v. Cathcart, 1896, A. C. 470. An order for a sequestration must be absolute, and not conditional, and where further time is intended to be given to the debtor, the writ should be directed to lie in the office, or not to issue until the expiration of the further time given: In re Lumley, 1894, 2 Ch. 271.

Where it was shown that a debtor had no effects which would be available in execution, a writ of sequestration was granted to enforce payment of costs which had been ordered to be paid: Snow v. Bolton, W. N. 1883, 73. The Court must be satisfied that the application is reasonable, but it is not necessary to point to any property which may be made available: Hulbert v. Cathcart, supra. Rule 547.

It is not necessary here to serve the judgment, or order, for payment, or to make a demand thereunder as a condition precedent to an application for a sequestration: Long v. Long, 6 P. R. 137; and see Re Deakin, Ex p. Cathcart, 1900, 2 Q. B. 478.

A sequestration to enforce compliance by a railway company with a peremptory mandamus was refused, and an attachment against the directors was held to be the proper remedy: Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 82; see, however, Rule 548; but it seems to be a proper mode of enforcing an injunction against a corporation: see Young v. Ridgetown, 18 Ont. 140; but see Rule 552; Re Bolton & Wentworth, 23 O. L. R. 390.

Property Liable to Sequestration.—All goods and chattels in the possession of the contemnor, are liable to be seized; and also any property belonging to him which can be reached by the sequestrator without suit or action. And if the keys are denied him, the sequestrator may open rooms, and boxes, that are locked, and schedule the contents; but may not remove properly off the premises without the special order of the Court: Pelham v. Newcastle, 3 Sw. 290 n. A debtor's seat in the Stock Exchange is not exigible under sequestration: London & Canadian L. & A. Co. v. Morphy, 10 Ont. 86. By The Jud Act, s. 138, supra, sequestrators have the same power over documents in the custody of a person committed for not delivering them, or depositing them in Court, as they have over the contemnor's own property. Property liable; goods and chattels. Documents in custody of contemnor.

Choses in Action.—At one time it was doubted whether choses in action could be reached by sequestration; the later authorities establish that they can: Irving v. Boyd, 15 Gr. 157; and see McDowell v. McDowell, 1 Chy. Ch. 140; Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Beav. 263; Crispin v. Curano, L. R. 1 P. & M. 622. As regards choses in action, an order of the Court is necessary, to enable the sequestrators to sue for their recovery: Irving v. Boyd, 15 Gr. 157; or they may be reached by motion in the action in which the sequestration issued: see Ward v. Booth, L. R. 14 Eq. 195; Ex parte Nelson, Re Hoare, 14 Ch. D. 41. Choses in action, how far bound.

But the chose in action is not bound by the writ of sequestration, until either the sequestrator, or the party prosecuting the writ takes steps to obtain payment: McDowell v. McDowell, 1 Chy. Ch. 140; 10 U. C. L. J. 48; London and Canadian Loan and Agency Co. v. Merrill, 12 C. P. 375; and the writ does not constitute a charge on a chose in action, even after notice to the debtor: Re Pollard, 1903, 2 K. B. 41; 87 L. T. 61.

If the debtor admits the liability, and submits to the order of the Court, an order may be made, without further suit, authorizing the debtor to pay, and deliver, the fund, or property, to the sequestrator; or authorizing the latter to seize the property: Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Beav. 263; Re Slade, Slade v. Hulme, 18 Ch. D. 653; 45 L. T. 276; Crispin v. Cumano, L. R. 1 P. & M. 622; but such order cannot be made without the debtor's assent: Ib. How recovered under.

A claim to indemnity, which a surety has against his principal, before payment by the surety, is not a chose in action, which can be reached by sequestration: Irving v. Boyd, 15 Gr. 157.

Rule 547.

The accrued dividend of a fund in Court, to the income of which a married woman is entitled for her separate use without power of anticipation: Cloydon v. Finch, L. R. 15 Eq. 266; Bryant v. Bull, 16 Ch. D. 153; a deposit on appeal: Conn v. Garland, L. R. 9 Chy. 101; and a rent charge: Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Beav. 263, have been held liable to sequestration, but as to property subject to a restraint against anticipation, according to the latest case, it would appear not to be subject to a sequestration either before, or after, it has become payable: see Wood v. Lewis, 110 L. T. 994.

Money in bank.

Money in Bank.—Money of the debtor on deposit in a bank is not bound by a sequestration, until an order has been obtained for its payment to the sequestrator: In re Pollard, 1903, 2 K. B. 41; 87 L. T. 61.

Pensions and salaries.

Pensions, and Salaries.—Pensions granted entirely for past services, may be sequestered: Willcock v. Terrell, 3 Ex. D. 323; Dent v. Dent, L. R. 1 P. & M. 366; McCarthy v. Goold, 1 Ba. & B. 387; but pensions and salaries for services, still being rendered, or which may be required in futuro, cannot be sequestered: Fenton v. Lowther, 1 Cox. 315. McCarthy v. Goold, supra; Collyer v. Follon, 1 T. & R. 459; Spooner v. Payne, 1 D. M. & G. 383; and see Lloyd v. Cheetham, 3 Giff. 171.

Rent and profits of realty bound, but land not saleable under.

Rents and Profits of Real Estate, including crops, or other natural produce, or rents paid in kind, are liable to sequestration, but land, whether freehold or leasehold cannot be sold under the writ, which only confers a right to the possession, but does not transfer any title to the land, or term, to the sequestrator: Show v. Wright, 3 Ves. 22, or confer any priority over prior specific charges: Meyers v. Meyers, 20 Gr. 185; 21 Gr. 214. Tenants in possession should be notified to attorn to the sequestrator, and pay their arrears and growing rents to him: Dani. Pr., 5th ed., 916; and upon refusal the sequestrator may obtain an order compelling them to attorn: Rowley v. Ridley, 3 Sw. 306; Jackson v. Jackson, 1 Chy. Ch. 115.

Tenants to be notified.

Order against.

Paying rents after attornment.

If a tenant attorns to the sequestrator, and afterwards pays his rent to another party, he may be compelled to pay it over again to the sequestrator: Harris v. Meyers, 2 Chy. Ch. 121. A sequestrator, with the sanction of the Court, may make leases, for any period during which the aggregate rents, will not exceed the amount for which the sequestration issued: Harris v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 89. But the sequestrator cannot, by his lease, affect the right of a person holding an incumbrance prior to the claim of the party issuing the sequestration: Meyers v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 541.

Lease by sequestrator.

Where a sequestration is issued against a person in contempt for not delivering books, papers, or any other articles or things, the sequestrator may seize such books papers, writings, or other articles; and the Court may then deal with them as shall be just: and after such seizure the person in contempt may be discharged from custody: see Jud. Act, s. 138, supra, p. 302.

Disposition of property sequestered.

Disposition of Property Sequestered.—Primâ facie a sequestration confers merely a right of detainer of the property sequestered. Where the sequestration, however, is issued for non-payment of money, the proceeds of the goods seized will be ordered to be applied in satisfaction of the demand: Davis v. Davis, 2 Atk. 24. The sequestrator should not, however, eo apply them, but should pay the proceede into Court upon leave obtained on motion in Chambere: Dani. Pr., 5th ed., 917. Rule 547.

The Court may, at the inetance of the sequestrator, order payment into Conrt of the baiance standing in a banker'e books to the credit of the debtor, upon notice to the banker: Millar v. Huddlestone, 22 Ch. D. 233; but where, after notice of the requestration, hut before an order to pay had been obtained, the hanker honored checks of the debtor, the Court refused to order tbe hank to re-pay to the eequestrator the amount so paid out: In re Pollard, 1903, 2 K. B. 41; 87 L. T. 61.

Booke, papers, or other articies, writinge, &c., ordered to he delivered up, which are seized by a eequeetrator, may ba dealt with as the Court thinks just: see the Jud. Act, s. 138, supra, p. 302.

Sale, when ordered.

Sale of Property.—Where necessary, a sale of pereonai property sequeetered, may, on the application of the sequestrator, be ordered, e.g., where goods are of a perishable nature: Shaw v. Wright, 3 Ves. 22; or it is neceseary for the satisfaction of the claim for whicb the writ issued: Id.; Mitchell v. Draper, 9 Ves. 208; a defendant'e reversionary Intereet in a fund in Court, has been ordered to he sold: Cowper v. Toylor 16 Sim. 314. The application for ieave to seli must be made on notice to tbe debtor: Mitchell v. Draper, supra; Forbes v. Connolly, 1 Chy. Ch. 6; but eervice of notice may be dispensed with: Re Rush, 19 W. R. 417.

Notice of application for sale must be given to debtor.

Lands sequestered cannot be sold.

Lands sequestered cannot be sold,—"All that the Court does is to direct the application of the rents and profits, and this, not by way of execution, but upon the ground that the party is in contempt for disobedience of some order of the Court": Meyers v. Meyers, 21 Gr. at p. 218; eee aiso Nelson v. Nelson, 6 P. R. 194.

Parties having claims adverse to eequestration—proceedings by.

Adverse Claims.—Where property affected by a sequestration, or any interest therein, is claimed by eome third person, the eequestrator, and possibly the claimant, may apply to the Court for reiief, hy a eummary application in the cause: see Rule 625, et seq. And see Holmested's Chy Ordere, 217. The right of the eequestrator ae against euch third person, where disputed, cannot he determined in proceedings to which the third person ie not a party: Craig v. Craig, 1896, P. 171.

The clalmant ehould not commence an action against the sequestrator, or disturh his possession without the leave of the Court. If he does so, he may be restrained hy injunction.

Obstruction of sequestrator a contempt.

Obstruction of Sequestrator, is a contempt of Court: Angel v. Smith, 9 Vee. 335; Pelham v. Newcastle, 3 Sw. 289 n, and see Francklyn v. Colhoun, 3 Sw. 276. But persons having claime on the property sequestered, adverse to the sequestrator, are not driven to bring nctions, but may appiy to the Court for reiief in a summary way by originnting notice in the actlon: Rule 10; and see Meyers v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 541.

Death of contemnor, when proceedings may be continued against his representative.

Death of Contemnor.—Where a sequeetration has issued to compel payment of money, In case the contemnor die, an order mny be obtained to continue proc..dings against hie reai representative, where the lands descended, or devised, would he nssets for the payment of the debt: Hyde v. Greenhill, 1 Dick. 107; Pratt v. Inman, 43 Ch. 175; 61 L. T. 760; and also as against hie personal representativē; but where the writ iseues for personal contempt, on the part of the contemnor, on the death of the contemnor, no order to continue proceedings can he ohtained: Turley v. Meyers, 3 Chy. Ch. 102; Gilbert's Chy. Pr., 86-87; except perhaps for the costs: see Rule 306.

Where attachment cannot be executed, etc.

548. If an attachment cannot he executed against the person refusing or neglecting to obey the judgment, by reason of his being out of the jurisdiction of the Court, or of his having absconded, or that with due diligence he cannot be found, or if in any other case the Court may think proper to dispense with a writ of attachment, an order may be granted for a writ of sequestration against the estate and effects of the disobedient person; and it shall not be necessary for that purpose to issue an attachment. C.R. 858.

Sequestration pending appeal.

An order for sequestration will not he granted against a defendant required to do an act, where an appeal is pending from the judgment directing its performance, and the defendant has perfected the security if any, required to entitle him to a stay of proceedings: Dundas v. Hamilton & Milton R. Co., 19 Gr. 455; McGarvey v. Strathroy, 6 Ont. 138.

Attachment need not issue to found sequestration.

Originelly the aequestration only issued after an sttschment, and all other process had heen exhausted. Under this Rule in cases where it would he impossihle to execute an attachment, it is unnecessary to go through the form of issuing one; and see Snow v. Bolton, W. N. 1881, 73.

An attachment may he ordered against a party who is out of the jurisdiction: Bloomfield v. Brooke, 6 P. R. 264, and see Farewell v. Wollbridge, 3 Gr. 628; hut see Rex v. Pinckney, 1904, 2 K. B. 84; 90 L. T. 468, where it was held that there is no jnrisdiction to order the issue of a writ of hob. corp. directed to a person out of the jurisdiction.

A writ of sequestration was issued against a person of unsound mind, not so found, in Robinson v. Gallond, W. N. 1889, 108; for noncompliance with an order made hefore he hecame of unsound mind: see 37 W. R. 396, 60 L. T. 697.

In granting a sequestration for disobedience of an order, the Court acts on the same principle as where committal is sought; a casual, accidental, or unintentional disobedience will not be sufficient ground; the Court must he satisfied that a contempt has heen committed: Fairclough v. Manchester Ship Canal Co., W. N. 1897, 7.

Sequestration for default in payment of money.

549. If a person who is ordered to pay money, neglects to obey the judgment, the Court may, upon the application of the party proseeuting the same, at the expiration of the time limited for performanee, make an order for a writ of sequestration. C.R. 859.

Sequestration when granted to enforce payment of money, demand.

Where a writ of sequestration is sought, to enforce the payment of money, unless some special ground is made for proceeding ex parte, notice of motion must be given; and the ordinary procedure for recovering money demands, viz.: writs of fi. fa., etc., and attachment of debts, should he first resorted to, or shewn to be unavailing: Nelson v. Nelson.

6 P. R. 194; but see Re Russell, Burnet v. Allen, before Spragge, C., January 24th, 1876, where the writ of sequestration was granted without such preliminary proceedings; and see Snow v. Bolton, W. N. 1881, 73, where the sequestration was granted on it being shewn that the debtor had no effects exigible under execution. Rules 550-552.

An order for payment of money need not be personally served in order to found a motion for a sequestration: Long v. Long, 6 P. R. 137.

It was at one time held that the writ could not properly be issued to enforce an ordinary judgment for the recovery of money, which does not expressly order payment, or limit a time therefor: London and Canadian L. & A. Co. v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 376; Ex parte Nelson, Re Hoare, 14 Ch. D. 41; such a judgment not being regarded as the equivalent of a personal order to pay: see Re Oddy, Major v. Harness, 1906, 1 Ch. 93; and that an order cannot be got limiting the time for payment of an ordinary judgment for debt, merely to enable a sequestration to be issued thereon: Hulbert v. Cathcart, 1894, 1 Q. B. 244; 70 L. T. 558; and that the writ could only be issued to enforce the payment of money where the non-payment is still, notwithstanding The Fraudulent Debtors' Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 83), s. 13, a contempt of Court: Stoner v. Fowle, 13 App. Cas. 20; 58 L. T. 1; Berry v. Donovan, 21 Ont. App. 14; Pritchard v. Pritchard, 18 Ont. 173; but it would now seem that the writ may be issued to enforce an ordinary judgment, or order, for payment of money or costs: see Re Slade, Slade v. Hulme, 18 Ch. D. 653; 45 L. T. 276; Hulbert v. Cathcart, 1896, A. C. 470, 76 L. T. 302.

550. A writ of sequestration shall be directed to the Sheriff, unless otherwise ordered. C.R. 860. Writs of sequestration.

For form of writ: see Form No. 121; H. & L. Forms, No. 1142.

551. In case a person has been committed to gaol for contempt of Court, there to be detained and imprisoned until he shall have purged his contempt, if it be made to appear that he is in actual custody under such committal, the Court may modify the order and limit the term of imprisonment or grant such other relief as may in the nature and circumstances of the case seem just, but any relief that may be granted to any such person shall not relieve him from any civil liability. C.R. 861. Release from custody, or other relief, of persons committed for contempt.

See Rule 689.

Where the contempt consists in not executing a deed or other instrument, the Court has power to appoint some one to execute it on behalf of the contemnor: see Jud. Act, section 137. And as to the discharge of prisoners in custody for contempt, who are entitled to their discharge, but neglect to apply for it: see Ib., c. 138.

552. If a mandamus granted in an action or otherwise, or a mandatory order, injunction, or judgment for specific performance of any contract is not complied with, the Mandatory order, how enforced.

Rules 553-555.

Court, besides or instead of proceedings against the disobedient party for contempt, may direct that the act required to be done may be done so far as practicable by the party by whom the judgment has been obtained, or some other person appointed by the Court, at the cost of the disobedient party; and upon the act being done the expenses incurred may be ascertained in such manner as the Court may direct and execution may issue for the amount so ascertained and costs. C.R. 862.

See Eng. (1883) R. 608. It extends to all kinds of mandatory orders and injunctions, a power which previously existed in regard to a mandamus: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 9.

In an action for specific performance, where an order had been made requiring defendant to make a certain road, and on his default the plaintiff applied for liberty to complete the road at the cost of defendant, it was held that the case was not within this Rule, but an order was made permitting plaintiff to do the work with liberty to apply that the defendant should pay the expense: Mortimer v. Wilson, 33 W. R. 927.

Enforcement of judgment against corporation.

553. Any judgment against a Corporation wilfully disobeyed may be enforced by sequestration against the Corporation or by attachment against the directors or other officers of the Corporation. New. See English Rule 609.

This Rule though new is merely affirmative of the previous practice of the Court: see notes to Rule 546.

Corporation may be fined for disobedience.

554. Any Corporation or individual disobeying a judgment, or guilty of any other contempt of Court, may be fined. Such fine may be in lieu of or addition to punishment by attachment, committal or sequestration. New.

This Rule though new, also appears to be merely an affirmance of the inherent jurisdiction of the Court to fine persons who commit contempts of Court.

"It is a necessary incident to every Court of Justice . . . to fine and imprison for a contempt of the Court acted in the face of it:" Rex v. Almon (1765), Wilmot's Notes and Opinions, 243. What is here said as to contempts committed in the face of the Court applies also to other contempts: see Rex v. Hammond, 137 L. T. Jour. 8; Re Bolton & Wentworth, 23 O. L. R. 390.

In case of persons not parties.

555. Any person not a party against whom obedience to a judgment may be enforced shall be liable to the same process and punishment as if he were a party. C.R. 865, amended.

See note to Rule 566.

Rules 556, 557.

Partnership assets not to be taken in execution under execution against one of partners. Execution creditor may obtain charging order.

556.—(1) Under an execution against one partner, partnership assets shall not he taken in execution, hut an order may he made charging the partner's interest in the partnership property and profits with the payment of the amount of the executions in the Sheriff's hands, and hy the same or a suhsequent order a receiver may he appointed of the partner's share of profits whether already declared or accruing, and of any other money which may be coming to him in respect of the partnership, and the Court may direct all accounts and inquiries and give all such other directions as might he directed or given if the charge had heen given by the partner.

(2) The other partners may redeem the interest charged or in event of a sale may purchase the same. (New. See Eng. Partnership Act, 1890, sec. 23.)

Under the English Partnership Act, 1890, on s. 23 of which this Rule is based, where an order is ohtained charging the interest of one of the members of the firm in favour of an execution creditor, that gives the other partners a right to dissolve the partnership, hut there is no such statutory remedy in Ontario, and semble, they would not have that right.

A charging order obtained under this Rule would have a wider effect than an execution formerly had, hecauss it would charge the execution debtor's whole interest in the partnership, whereas an execution would only hind his interest in the goods and chattels or lands seized. The ohtaining of a charging order would give the execution creditor a right to apply for the appointment of a receiver; such appointment may be ohtained hy summary application in the action in which the execution is recovered. The execution creditor obtaining a charging order will also be entitled to an order for the sale of the execution debtor's interest in the partnership: see supra, clause 2, and semble, such an order may be ohtained without commencing another action.

The creditor ohtaining a charging order would, in England, have no right during the continuance of the partnership to sue for an account of the partnership transactions: see Lindley, Partnership, 8th ed., p. 421; but in Ontario it would seem that such an action would lie hy the chargee: see Whetham v. Davey, 30 Ch. D. 574; Glyn v. Hood, 1 Giff. 328; 1 DeG. F. & J. 334; and see Cassels v. Stewart, 6 App. Cas. 64, 73. And a purchaser of a partner's share under execution would also have a right to bring an action for an account of the partnership. Whether the sale would have the effect ipso facto of dissolving the partnership is not very clear, it seems, at all events, to give the other partners a right to dissolve: see Lindley on Partnership, 8th ed., p. 660; Ib. (2nd Am. ed.), pp. 583, 584. It would seem that any claim for an account would have to be brought hy a separate action, and could not be enforced on any summary application.

Sheriff to deliver inventory to the owner, etc.

557. Where goods or chattels are seized in execution under a writ of fieri facias, the Sheriff, or his officers acting for him, shall, on request, deliver to the owner, his agent or servant, an inventory thereof before they are removed from the premises on which they have been so seized; and no Sheriff or other officer shall sell any goods or chattels under a writ of execution until he has previously thereto given at least 8 days public notice in writing of the time and place of sale in the most public place in the municipality where such goods or chattels have been seized. C.R. 875.

There must be reasonable and proper care taken in giving notice of the sale as this Rule requires; failure to give proper notice will render a sale invalid, and subject the purchaser, and the Sheriff to liability: McLaughlin v. Allan, 4 O. W. R. 67.

A sale by a Sheriff or his bailiff under execution is within The Statute of Frauds (R. S. O. c. 102), s. 12, and either of them may sign for the purchaser the memorandum in writing in the same manner as an auctioneer or his clerk: see notes to Rule 444. The entry of the purchaser's agent as the purchaser will bind the principal if he afterwards acknowledges the agent's authority: Flintoft v. Elmore, 18 C. P. 274.

A sale under execution of goods the subject of a patent, which the execution debtor has a license from the patentee to use, will not confer on the Sheriff's vendee a right to use them: British Mutoscope Co. v. Horner, 1901, 1 Ch. 671; 84 L. T. 26.

Return where goods remain in Sheriff's hands unsold.

558. The Sheriff shall where goods seized by him under a writ of fieri facias remain unsold in his hands for want of buyers, state in his return of "goods on hand for want of buyers," the time and place when and where such goods were offered for sale by him, and the names of at least three persons who were present at the time of such attempted sale, if so many were present, but if so many were not present, then the names of those who were present, if any, and that there were no others, and if no person was present then he shall state that fact. C.R. 876.

Lands not to be sold within a year.

559. The Sheriff shall not expose lands for sale under a writ of fieri facias, or sell the same within less than twelve months from the day on which the writ is delivered to him. C.R. 877.

Where the execution debtor has absconded the sale may, by leave, take place without waiting twelve months: Rule 560; before a sale of lands a return of nulla bona should be made: Rule 561.

It would seem that the Crown is not bound by this Rule and that an execution against lands in favour of the Crown may be made returnable before the expiration of twelve calendar months: Reg. v. Desjardins Canal Co., 29 U. C. Q. B. 165.

Where a fi. fa. lands has been in the Sheriff's hands for a year and is returned, nothing having been dons under it, the Sheriff may nevertheless sell, under an alias fi. fa. lands issued thereon, without waiting a year: Compbell v. Delihanty, 24 U. C. Q. B. 236; Nickall v. Crawford, Tay. 277; Ruttan v. Levisconte, 16 U. C. Q. B. 495. Rule 559.

A sale of lands under an expired writ is void: Doe d. Burnhom v. Simmonds, 9 U. C. Q. B. 436; Gordiner v. Juson, 2 E. & A. 188; Doe d. Greenshields v. Gorrow, 5 U. C. Q. B. 237; Reynolds v. Streeter, 3 P. R. 315; Lee v. Howes, 30 U. C. Q. B. 292; Daby v. Gehl, 18 Ont. 132, but where there has been an inception of execution during its currency, e.g., by advertising the land for eale under it: see Rules 563, 564, the sale may be made, and carried out, after tbe writ has become returnabie: Holl v. Goslee, 15 C. P. 101; Rule 564. Though the advertisement may be published during the currency of the writ, yet hy tbe exprees terme of this Rule the day named for the sale must not he earlier than tweive calendar months from the day on which the writ was delivered to tbe Sheriff. Advertisements of sale under the writ, first published after the writ has expired, are invaiid, and a sale in pursusnce of such advertisement is void: Gardiner v. Juson; Reynolds v. Streeter; Lee v. Howes, supra; and a return of "iands on hand" made after tbe writ has expired, and without any previoue inception of execution under it, is invaiid, and wiii not authorize the issue of a venditioni exponas, and if issued, and a saie be made under it, the sale may be set aside: Lee v. Howes, supra. The Sheriff's teiling the execution dehtor that he has a fi. fa. against his iands, and that bis lands wiii be soid, unlese he pays up, is not an inception of execution: Brodburn v. Hall, 16 Gr. 518, neither is the mere eending of a list of iands for sale under an execution to the Gozette for publication an inception of execution; there must be an actuai publication of the advertisement during the currency of tue writ: Reynalds v. Streeter, supro. Sale of lands, when invalid.

Lands in tho Districts of Manitoulin, or Rainy River, which are situate more than 20 miiee from a iine of railway, cannot be soid in execution except during the months of July, August, September, or Gctober: The Sheriff's Act (R. S. O. c. 16), s. 23. Sale of lands in Manitoulin and Rainy River.

The eeiling of iand by the Sheriff before the proper perlod has expired is not a mere irreguiarity, but rendere the sais void: see cases supra; whereas defects in the advertisement of sale, to which the purchaser is no party, wiii not affect the vaiidity of the sale: Poterson v. Todd, 24 U. C. Q. B. 296; Ross v. Malone, 7 Gnt. 215, 397; unless the circumstances are such that the purchaser'e taking the deed can be said to amount to a fraud: McDonald v. Comeron, 13 Gr. 84; but where irregularities are committed by the Sheriff by instructions of the execution creditor's eoiicitor, and the execution creditor bimseif becomes the purchaser, the Court may, if the eale has been prejudiced, refuse to maintain the Sheriff's deed, if attacked, except as a security for the debt: Ib.; and see In re Davis, 17 Gr. 603; Kerr v. Bain, 11 Gr. 423; and where land has been soid under execution at a groes undervaiue, owing to the titie being in dispute, the Court may refuse to give effect to the Sheriff'e deed, except as a security: Cholmers v. Piggott, 11 Gr. 475; and see Malloch v. Plunkett, 11 Gr. 439; but the inadequacy of price must be very exceseive to induce the Court to refuse to maintain a Sheriff's deed: Laing v. Matthews, 14 Gr. 36. Defects in advertisement of sale, effect of Irregularities of sale, effect of.

Rules 560-563.

Where the sale has been improperly conducted, the Sheriff may be restrained by injunction from executing a conveyance: Jones v. Jones, 15 Gr. 40.

The execution creditor may be a purchaser at the sale under execution, and a bonâ fide sale to him though at an undervalue cannot be successfully impeached: McNichol v. McPherson, 15 O. L. R. 393; but possibly in such a case the Sheriff might be liable for negligence: Ib.

Fi. fa. as to lands against absconding debtor.

560. Where a writ of fieri facias is issued against an absconding debtor in an action in which an order for attachment has been issued, the Court may order the Sheriff to sell lands of the absconding debtor before the expiration of the twelve months. C.R. 878.

This Rule constitutes an exception to Rule 559, supra.

No sale of lands until return of nulla bona.

561. A sale of lands shall not be had under any writ of fieri facias until after a return of nulla bona, in whole or in part, in the same action or matter by the Sheriff of the same county. C.R. 879.

The omission to make a return of nulla bona, as required by this Rule, before selling lands, is an irregularity only, and will not render the sale of the lands void: Ross v. Malone, 7 Ont. 215, 397; Doe d. Spafford v. Brown, 3 O. S. 92. So also a return of nulla bona, where there are in fact goods liable to execution, is only an irregularity: Ontario Bank v. Kerby, 10 C. P. 35, 41; Molson's Bank v. McMeekin 15 Ont. App. 535.

If the debt is realised under writ against goods.

562. If the amount authorized to be made and levied under a writ of fieri facias is made and levied thereunder out of goods and chattels, the person issuing the writ shall not be entitled to the expenses of any seizure or advertisement of lands thereunder; and the return to be made by the Sheriff to the writ for sale of lands shall be to the effect that the amount has been so made and levied as aforesaid. C.R. 880.

The effect of this Rule is to make the execution creditor's right to recover any expenses relating to the seizure of lands dependent on whether or not the execution is satisfied out of goods and chattels.

Advertisement by Sheriff.

563. Before the sale of lands under a writ of fieri facias, the Sheriff shall publish once, not less than three months and not more than four months preceding the sale, an advertisement of sale, in The Ontario Gazette, specifying:

(a) The property to be sold;

(b) The name of the plaintiff and defendant;

(c) The time and place of the intended sale; Rules 564, 565.

(d) The name of the debtor whose interest is to be sold;

and he shall, upon one day at least in each week for four successive weeks next preceding the sale, also publish such advertisement in a public newspaper of the County or District in which the lands lie; and he shall also for three months preceding the sale, put up and continue a notice of such sale in the office of the Clerk of the Peace, and on the door of the Court House or place in which the General Sessions of the Peace of the County or District is usually holden; but nothing herein contained shall be taken to prevent an adjournment of the sale to a future day. C.R. 881.

It would seem that the omission to advertise, where there is an uncertainty as to what has been sold, though it may give a right against the Sheriff, will not invalidate the sale as against a bonâ fide purchaser: Osborne v. Kerr, 17 U. C. Q. B. 134, 141; and see Lee v. Howes, 30 U. C. Q. B. 292. Defects in the advertisement will not invalidate the sale as against a third person, or even the execution creditor, who bonâ fide becomes the purchaser: Paterson v. Todd, 24 U. C. Q. B. 296; but where the execution creditor becomes the purchaser, if he has in any way, by himself, or his solicitor, participated in the irregularities, his deed may be ordered to stand merely as a security: McDonald v. Cameron, 13 Gr. 84; In re Davis, 17 Gr. 603.

The want of regularity in giving public notice of an adjournment of the sale was held to be cured where the debtor attended the sale by his agent, and afterwards ratified what had been done: Doe d. Dissett v. McLeod, 3 U. C. Q. B. 297. But where a Sheriff refused to execute a deed on the ground of there having been an irregularity in the advertisement, but readvertised the lands and put them up for sale again, when they brought a price far exceeding that offered by the first purchaser, the Court refused to interfere summarily on the application of the first purchaser to compel the Sheriff to make a deed to him: In re Campbell, 10 U. C. Q. B. 641.

564. The advertisement in the Ontario Gazette of any lands for sale under a writ of fieri facias, during the currency of the writ, shall be deemed a sufficient commencement of the execution to enable the same to be completed by a sale and conveyance of the lands after the writ has become returnable. C.R. 882. Notice in Gazette shall constitute incipient execution.

565. As between the original parties to a judgment, execution may, without leave, issue at any time within six years from the date of the same. C.R. 863. Execution within 6 years.

See Eng. (1883) R. 600.

Rule 566.

Garnishee process is not a form of execution within Rule 3 (k), so as to be subject to Rules 565 and 566; garnishee proceedings may, therefore, be taken without leave, though more than six years have elapsed: Fellows v. Thornton, 14 Q. B. D. 335.

Execution by leave of Court.

566. Where the six years have elapsed or any change has taken place by death or otherwise in the parties entitled or liable to execution, or where a party is entitled to execution upon a judgment of assets in futuro, the party alleging himself to be entitled to execution may apply for leave to issue execution accordingly, or to amend any execution already issued. C.R. 864.

See Eng. (1883) R. 601.

The Eng. Rule includes the further case of a party entitled to execution against any of the shareholders in a joint-stock company upon a judgment against the company. Previously a writ of scire facias was necessary, and in Ont. Rules 523, 535, will probably apply in such a case.

The practice at Common Law in reviving pecuniary judgments for the purpose of execution, after the lapse of six years, or the death of parties, was formerly governed by C. L. P. Act, R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 322 to 330 (corresponding with Eng. C. L. P. Act, s. 128, et seq.). Under those provisions the party seeking execution could apply to the Court or a Judge for leave to enter a suggestion to the effect that such party was shown to be entitled to execution, and to allow execution to issue, and, if the case was made clear, the suggestion and the consequent execution were allowed. If the case was not made clear, the suggestion and execution consequent upon it were disallowed, and the party was left to his writ of revivor. This was a new action, in which, by the ordinary processes of pleading, the questions in dispute were brought to issue and decided.

The above Rule preserves alternative processes, according as the right to execution is, or is not, sufficiently clear to be enforced summarily by a Judge; but a somewhat simpler process is provided; if the case be clear, the Judge may order execution to issue; if it be not, he may direct an issue to try the right.

The Rules do not prescribe any form of order to be made on the application, they do not seem to contemplate that the applicant in the case of the death of the plaintiff, or that the representatives of a deceased defendant, are to be made parties to the action, and the somewhat anomalous proceeding of issuing execution by or against persons who are not parties seems to be sanctioned.

It would have been more logical to have required any stranger to the action, by or against whom any proceedings are to be taken, to be first made a party under Rule 301; and this would appear to be the proper and legitimate equivalent for the entry of a suggestion as formerly required at law, or the obtaining of an order of revivor as was formerly customary in equity, as in this way the stranger to the record by or against whom the execution is to issue is made a party to the record; and in this way the anomaly is avoided of issuing a writ in favour of, or against, persons apparently strangers to the record. But whether this procedure is compulsory under the Rules it is difficult to say. Rule 568.

An order giving leave to issue execution against an executor of the debtor does not operate as a judgment so as to make the executor a judgment debtor, and is not equivalent to an order to continue proceedings under Rules 300 et seq., and whenever any further matter or proceeding is desired to be taken other than the mere issue of execution, it is necessary that an order, to continue proceedings should be first obtained. Thus, on the death of a sole plaintiff, his representatives cannot apply under this Rule for the appointment of a receiver by way of equitable execution, without first making themselves parties to the action by obtaining an order to continue the proceedings in their names under Rule 301; Norburn v. Norburn, 1894, 1 Q. B. 449; 70 L. T. 411; so also where a charging order under Rule 689 is sought: Stewart v. Rhodes, 1900, 1 Ch. 386; sed vide, Re Bagley, 1911, 1 K. B. 317; 103 L. T. 470, where it was held that a trustee in bankruptcy of a judgment creditor might obtain leave to issue execution without first obtaining an order to continue the proceedings in his name. Leave to issue execution.

Where judgment is obtained by several executors, and one of them dies after the entering of judgment, there is no "change" of parties within the meaning of this Rule. The surviving plaintiffs are entitled to issue execution in the name of all the survivors, adding simply after the name of the deceased plaintiff the words "since deceased," and no order for leave to do so is necessary: Baird v. Thompson, 14 L. R. Ir. 497. So also in the case of partners the action survives: Davies v. Andrews, 28 Sol. Jour. 411; W. N. 1884, 94.

Successors in title are not bound by a judgment against their predecessors restraining the continuance of a nuisance: Atty.-Gen. v. Birmingham, etc., Board, 17 Ch. D. 685.

A writ of hab. fac. poss. is within this Rule, and therefore, if issued without leave after the death of a sole plaintiff, is irregular, and may be set aside by the defendant without first reviving the action: Chambers v. Kitchen, 18 P. R. 219.

An application for leave to issue execution should be made on notice: Mercer v. Lawrence, 26 W. R. 508; Lysaght v. McGrath, 7 L. R. Ir. 532; Allison v. Breen, 19 P. R. 119, 143; Re Trusts Corporation, etc., and Boehmer, 26 Ont. 191.

Where writs had expired, leave was given, on notice to defendant, under this Rule, to issue new writs to include the costs of the former ones and the costs of the motion: McDougall v. McDougall, 3 C. L. T. 42.

At Common Law, after 20 years without payment, a presumption arises that the judgment is satisfied: see Coke, 2 Inst. 470; Mortimer v. Piggott, 2 Dowl. 615. But this presumption may be rebutted: Williams v. Welch, 3 D. & L. 565, and possibly does not arise where execution has never been issued: see Jenkins v. Kirby, 2 C. L. J. 164. Period of limitation.

But now under The Statute of Limitations (R. S. O. c. 75), s. 49 (b), the right of action on a judgment of a Court of Record is barred after the lapse of twenty years from its recovery, or from the last payment on account, or acknowledgment in writing: Ib., s. 54; Boice v. O'Loane, 3 Ont. App. 167; Butler v. McMicken, 32 Ont. 422. An order granting a receiver by way of equitable execution was held to give a new starting point for the statute: Kinnear v. Clyne, 18 O. L. R. 457.

Leave to issue execution was given where a judgment recovered in 1856 was revived in 1869, twenty years not having elapsed: McCullough v. Sykes, 11 P. R. 337; Allison v. Breen, 19 P. R. 139, 143.

Where more than 20 years had elapsed after the last execution issued on a judgment had been returned it was held that a motion for leave to issue execution was properly refused on the ground that no evidence of part payment, or acknowledgment, within the 20 years was adduced: McMahon v. Spencer, 13 Ont. App. 430; in this case a doubt was thrown out whether leave to issue execution was necessary at all, execution having issued within six years of the recovery of the judgment; possibly, however, if execution had issued without leave it would have been open to the defendant to apply to stay the proceedings: see Rule 565. In Price v. Wade, 14 P. R. 351, an application for leave to issue execution was made under similar circumstances and refused, because it was held that as The Statute of Limitations (R. S. O. c. 75), s. 49 (b), was a bar to an action on the judgment it was therefore a bar to the right to enforce it by execution: see also Boice v O'Loane, 3 Ont. App. 167; Caspar v. Keachie, 41 U. C. Q. B. 599; McDonald v. Elliott, 12 Ont. 98; Macdonald v. Macdonald, 11 Ont. 190; Mason v. Johnston, 20 Ont. App. 412, and McCullough v. Sykes, 11 P. R. 337; Allison v. Breen, supra. An order for a receiver by way of equitable execution of a judgment gives a new point of departure for The Statute of Limitations: Kinnear v. Clyne, 18 O. L. R. 457.

As to proceedings under this Rule in actions against executors, etc., under a judgment of assets quando, etc.: see note to Rule 510.

Indorsement of name and address.

567. Every writ of execution shall be indorsed with the name and address of the solicitor issuing the same; and if he issues the same as agent for another solicitor, the name and address of such other solicitor shall also be indorsed. Where the writ is issued by a suitor in person his name and address shall be indorsed. C.R. 868.

See Eng. (1883) R. 591.

Where the Sheriff, being misled by an indorsement made on a writ by the plaintiff's solicitor, seized the goods of a wrong person, the plaintiff was held liable in an action of trespass: Morris v. Salberg, 22 Q. B. D. 614. See also Smith v. Keal, 9 Q. B. D. 340; Lee v. Rumilly, 7 T. L. R. 303; but not where there is nothing untrue in the indorsement so as to mislead: Condy v. Blatberg, 7 T. L. R. 424.

Where a solicitor issues an execution on a satisfied judgment though by mistake, he is liable in trespass if it is acted on: Clissold v. Cratchley, 1910, 2 K. B. 244; 102 L. T. 520.

Indorsements on writ.

568. Every writ of execution for the recovery of money shall be indorsed with a direction to the officer to whom the writ is directed, to levy the money really due and payable and sought to be recovered under the judgment, stating the amount, and also to levy interest thereon at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum from the time when the judgment was entered. C.R. 869.

See Eng. (1883) R. 594.

A contract for payment of a higher rate of interest than the legal rate, when sued on, becomes merged in the judgment under which the statutory rate only will be recoverable: see St. John v. Rykert, 4 Ont. App. 213. At all events, in the absence of any agreement operating subsequently to judgment, interest is limited to the statutory rate, though the debt on which the judgment was recovered bore a higher rate: Re European Central Ry. Co., 4 Ch. D. 35; Ex p. Fewings, 25 Ch. D. 338. Rule 569. Interest on judgments.

This Rule prescribes that the indorsement for interest shall run from the date of entry; but a judgment takes effect in many cases from its date and not from its entry. Notwithstanding this Rule, therefore, on indorsing a writ to levy interest upon the amount of the judgment, the interest is to be computed from the day of pronouncing the judgment; that, and not the day of formal entry thereof, is the day from which the judgment takes effect: Rule 512, and is, therefore, the day upon which it is entered within the meaning of this Rule: Kelcher v. McGibbon, 10 P. R. 89; see Rule 512, and McLoren v. Canada Central there noted.

The date from which the interest is to be computed has been further made clear by the Jud. Act, s. 35 (4), supra.

As a general rule, interest cannot be allowed on untaxed costs though awarded out of a fund in Court: West v. West, 17 L. R. Ir. 49; but see Taylor v. Roe, 1894, 1 Ch. 413; 70 L. T. 232; where costs payable under an interlocutory order were held to bear interest from the date of the order.

Where costs of all parties of an action for the construction of a will were ordered to be paid out of an estate and were taxed, but no estate was available for their payment for five years, interest on the costs was not allowed out of the estate: Archer v. Severn, 12 P. R. 648.

Where costs are paid with interest thereon, under a judgment or order, which is subsequently reversed on appeal, and are then refunded, but on a further appeal the original judgment is restored, the costs bear interest from the date of the original judgment: Ashworth v. English Cord Clothing Co., 1904, 1 Ch. 704; 90 L. T. 263.

Interest on costs runs from the date of the judgment, if the amount is specified in the judgment, but if taxed afterwards, then from the date of the certificate of taxation, that being the date given in the form of a writ No. 111 in the App.; H. & L. Forms No. 1104; Schroeder v. Clough, 46 L. J. C. P. 365; Trinity College v. Hill, 8 Ont. 286.

See also notes to sec. 35 of the Act, supra, p. 196.

569. The officer issuing the writ or renewal thereof, shall indorse upon the same a memorandum signed by him of the amount which the party issuing such writ is entitled to receive for the costs of such writ, and any renewal and for any further or other writs or renewals, and no sum not so indorsed is to be collected for such costs. C.R. 870. Indorsement of amount to be levied for costs of writs.

For the amounts which may be collected: see the Tariff of Costs, "A," Item 24.

Rules 570, 571.

Sheriff's fees and poundage, etc.

570. Upon every execution there may be levied, in addition to the sum recovered by the judgment and interest thereon, the poundage, fees, expenses of execution. C.R. 871.

See the Eng. (1883) R. 593.

Poundage was originally given to Sheriffs by 29 Eliz. c. 4.

As to the Sheriff's right to poundage: see notes to Rule 686.

For the fees to which Sheriffs are entitled: see Tariff C.

As to taxation of Sheriff's fees: see Rule 683 (1).

Currency of writ of fi. fa.

571. A writ of fieri facias shall remain in force for three years from its issue, unless renewed before its expiration, when it shall be in force for a further period of three years from the date of such renewal, and so on from time to time. A writ may be renewed by being marked in the margin with a memorandum signed by the proper officer, stating the date of the day, month and year of such renewal, or by a certificate of renewal signed by such officer; a writ so marked (or if renewed by certificate the certificate) shall be placed in the hands of the Sheriff before its expiry, when it shall have effect and be entitled to priority, according to the time of the original delivery thereof. C.R. 872. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 598.

Renewal of writs.

A writ is, for the purpose of renewal, necessarily taken out of the actual possession of the Sheriff, without affecting the position of the party who so withdraws it; but where more than a reasonable time for renewal elapsed, and by mistake a writ was not returned renewed, for more than six months, though there was no intention of withdrawing it except for purposes of renewal, it was held that a mortgage registered before the withdrawal had gained priority, and that it made no difference that no new rights had intervened: Re Hime v. Ledley, 13 P. R. 1; and see other cases noted, p. 1041.

This Rule appears to require that the writ renewed, or the certificate of renewal, where it is renewed by certificate, shall be delivered to the Sheriff before the writ has expired; whether this means the time at which the writ would have expired if not renewed, or after the period for which it is renewed, is not clear. Until the point is otherwise determined, it would seem to be safer to assume that the former period is the one intended.

There is no power to enlarge the time for renewing writs where, by an accident, they have not been renewed within the time limited for renewal: Lowson v. Canada Farmers' Ins. Co., 9 P. R. 309.

A writ of assistance was held to be a writ of execution within R. S. O. 1887, c. 66, s. 11, and to be not in force for more than one year from the teste unless renewed: Adamson v. Adamson, 12 P. R. 21.

it may, however, now be open to question whether write of execution, other than write of ca. sa. (ae to which eee The Fraudulent Debtors Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 80), s. 28 (3), and writs of fi. fa. do not now remain in force until executed without any renewal. Rules 572, 573.

Thie Rule only provides for the renewal of writs of fieri facias; there seems therefore to be now no provision for renewing any other writs of execution except fi. fas., nor any provision limiting the time they are to be in force as in the case of fi. fas.

Making the execution creditor a party to an application for partition under The Partition Act (R. S. O. c. 114), will not have the effect of keeping the execution alive after the three yeare have expired: Macdonell v. Best, 6 O. L. R. 18.

A sale of land under a fi. fa., after the expiration of the writ, where there hae been no previous inception of exeeution, and no renewal of the writ, is null and void: Daby v. Gehl, 18 Ont. 132.

Where a writ ie ioet in transmiseion to tbe Sheriff after renewal, an order may be mnde for the issue of a new writ nunc pro tunc, to bear the same indorsement and evidence of renewal marked by the proper officer as the iost writ, and to have the same force and effect as the iost writ: Fairchild v. Crawford, 32 C. L. J. 638; 16 C. L. T. 359 (Man.).

Where a writ under whicb a seizure had been made, but from which the Sheriff improperly withdrew, was euffered to run out pending a motion to compel the Sheriff to return the writ, it was ordered to be renewed nunc pro tunc, eo ae to continue it in force, and the time for mnking the return was extended: Gengc v. Freeman, 14 P. R. 330.

In Neil v. Almond, 29 Ont. 63, and Re Woodall, 8 O. L. R. 288, it wss held that a writ against lande, though kept renewed, must be enforced by eale within 10 yeare from its first delivery to the Sheriff, otherwise the lien ereated thereby would be barred under The Statute of Limitations (R. S. O. c. 75); but s. 24 of that Act now prevente the Act from barring the lien or charge created by the placing of an execution against lands in the Sheriff's hands, where the writ has been kept alive by renewals or otherwise.

572. The Sheriff to whom a writ is directed shall indorse on such writ all returns thereto and shall give a certificate thereof when demanded, which certificate shall be deemed a return. C.R. 883. Certificate in lieu of return of fi. fa. as to goods.

573. Where the party who delivered any writ or process to any Sheriff to be executed, or any other person entitled to call for a return requires, by a demand in writing, the Sheriff to return the writ either by returning the writ to the Court from which the writ issued, or by granting a certificate under the preceding rule, the Sheriff shall, within eight days, return the writ according to the terms of the requisition; and if he wilfully Sheriff refusing to make return when demanded by party who delivered writ to him.

Rules 574-577.

refuses or neglects to do so, he may be ordered to return the writ, and may be further proceeded against as in other cases of contumacy. C.R. 888. Amended.

Orders to return writs, or bring in body, to be six-day orders.

574. Upon filing the demand and proof of service an order against the Sheriff to return the writ in six days from service shall be issued on præcipe. C.R. 885.

Before an order to return a writ is issued, it would seem that a demand for a return should first be made under Rule 573. The neglect to make the demand first would probably be held to disentitle the party issuing the order to the costs thereof: see Rule 576.

An order to bring in the body upon a return of cepi corpus may be issued immediately after the time for putting in security in the action has expired: Pouchee v. Lieven, 4 Ma. & Sel. 427; Hutchins v. Hind, 5 T. R. 479; Potter v. Marsden, 8 East, 525. But the order should not issue until the day after the expiration of an order (if any) to return the order for arrest: see Hutchins v. Hind, supra. The order to bring in the body cannot be properly issued where the plaintiff has taken an assignment of the bond to the Sheriff: 2 Saund. 60b; nor where he accepts a cognovit, or other security from the defendant, without the privity of the Sheriff: Rex v. Sheriff of Surrey in Brewer v. Clarke, 1 Taunt. 159. The order should be issued and served promptly: Rex v. Sheriff of Middlesex, 1 Dowl. 53. It would seem that an order to return the writ or bring in the body need not be personally served on the Sheriff, if he cannot conveniently be found: see Rule 575.

As to the effect of an order to bring in the body: see The Fraudulent Debtors Arrest Act (R. S. O. c. 83), s. 23.

This order must issue from the office in which the proceedings were commenced: see Rule 762.

Personal service on Sheriff unnecessary.

575. Personal service of the demand or order on the Sheriff shall not be necessary, if it appears by affidavit that inquiry was made for him, and that he could not conveniently be found, and the demand or order was served upon the Sheriff's clerk, or bailiff in, or having charge of, the Sheriff's office. C.R. 891.

When Sheriff liable to costs for not returning writs.

576. Where a Sheriff neglects or refuses to return any writ when so demanded, he may be ordered to pay the costs of any order taken out to compel the return, and all other costs consequent thereon, and also the costs of the previous demand. C.R. 890.

Attachments for non-return of writ may be issued unless further time for return granted.

577. Where the Sheriff is ordered to return a writ, and does not make the return within the time specified in the order, the Court may order the Sheriff to be attached, or direct that an attachment shall issue unless a return be made within a limited time. C.R. 893. Amended.

Rules 578, 579.

When attachment may issue.

578. If the writ is not returned at the expiration of any further time limited, and if the service of the order and the failure of the Sheriff to return the writ are proved, the Court may order the attachment to issue forthwith against the Sheriff upon an ex parte application. C.R. 894. Amended.

Sheriff to file writ in office from which order to return issues.

579. The Sheriff when required to return a writ to the Court, shall file the writ or his certificate under Rule 572, in the office from which the order to return the same was issued and the officer with whom it is filed shall indorse the day and hour when it was filed. C.R. 886.

Where a Sheriff disobeys the order to return the writ, he is liable to attachment for contempt, but an attachment can only be obtained on motion, of which the Sheriff is entitled to notice: see Rule 546.

CHAPTER XX.

EXAMINATION OF JUDGMENT DEBTORS AND ATTACHMENT OF DEBTS.

Examination of judgment debtors before Local Registrars, etc.

580. A judgment creditor may, without an order, examine the judgment debtor upon oath before the proper officer of the County in which he resides, touching his estate and effects, and as to the property and means he had when the debt or liability which was the subject of the cause or matter in which judgment has been obtained against him was incurred (or in the case of a judgment for costs only, at the time of the commencement of the cause or matter), and as to the property and means he still has of discharging the judgment, and as to the disposal he has made of any property since contracting such debt or incurring such liability (or in case of a judgment for costs only, since the commencement of the cause or matter), and as to any and what debts are owing to him. C.R. 900.

See Eng. (1883) RR. 610, 611.

"Judgment," "judgment creditor," and "judgment debtor": as to these expressions: see Rule 3 (e), (f), (g).

Under C. R. 900 the "proper officer" in Toronto was the Master in Ordinary, or Special Examiner, and in outer counties the Local Master, or Special Examiner, or Local Registrar, or the Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or the Judge of the County Court of the county in which the debtor resided.

The present Rule is not so explicit, but it would seem that those who under the C. R. 900 were expressly empowered to take such examinations would still be regarded as "proper officers" under the present Rule.

An examination should not be had under this Rule without necessity. The ordinary procedure to obtain payment through the Sheriff should therefore in general be taken, and a return of nulla bona obtained from the Sheriff, or intimation procured from him that he is prepared to make such a return. Ontario Bank v. Trowern, 13 P. R. 422; but the judgment creditor is primâ facie entitled to examine his judgment debtor under this Rule, and the onus is on the debtor of showing affirmatively that the issue of the appointment is an abuse of the process of the Court: Grant v. Cook, 17 P. R. 362.

The express language of the present Rule has removed the doubts formerly entertained as to whether examination of a debtor, and attachment of debts due to him, could be had where the judgment or order was for costs only: see McLachlin v. Blackburn, 7 P. R. 287; Meyers v. Kendrick, 9 P. R. 363; Troutman v. Fisken, 13 P. R. 153; Re Irvine, 12 P. R. 297; Elliot v. Capell, 9 P. R. 35, and notes to Rule 590. Rule 580.

A judgment for recovery of land, and awarding costs, is within the Rule: Lloyd v. Wolloce, 9 P. R. 335. So also is an order for costs in interpleader proceedings: Rule 3 (g); see formerly McKinnon v. Crowe, 17 P. R. 291; Hartley v. Shemwell, 1 B. & S. 1.

Where the debtor was a member of Parliament residing in another Province, although temporarily resident in Ontario in discharge of his parliamentary duties, an order to compel him to attend for examination was refused: Logan v. McGreevy, 5 P. R. 94.

A judgment creditor is entitled to examine the judgment debtor, notwithstanding the latter has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors: McEachern v. Gordon, 18 P. R. 459; Bank of Hamilton v. Scott, 40 C. L. J. 432.

Not only the judgment debtor, but, by order, under Rule 582, his clerks or employees, may be examined. The Rules in this respect are wider than those in England: see Irwell v. Eden, 18 Q. B. D. 588; Hood-Barrs v. Heriot, 1896, 2 Q. B. 338. Who may be examined.

As to the examination of officers of a corporation debtor, see Rule 581.

A debtor under arrest on final process may be examined: Brown v. Bemmige, 2 U. C. L. J. 213; or a garnishee who has been ordered to pay over: Cowan v. Carlill, 33 W. R. 583; 52 L. T. 431.

A married woman may be examined as to her separate estate: Standard Bank v. McQuaig, 7 P. R. 356; Aylesford v. G. W. Ry. Co., 1852, 2 Q. B. 626; and see McLeod v. Emigh, 12 P. R. 450; Re Teasdall v. Brady, 18 P. R. 104; Kistler v. Tettmar, 1905, 1 K. B. 39; 92 L. T. 36.

Though an examination may be had without an order in the first instance, yet, where a party wishes to examine a judgment debtor a second time, he must make a substantive motion for that purpose on notice to the judgment debtor, and show grounds for the order: London & Canadian Loan, etc., v. Merritt, 2 C. L. T. 260; Re Central Bank, Watson's Case, 15 P. R. 327; affirmed by Divisional Court, 16 P. R. 55; and see Sturges v. Warwick, 136 L. T. Jour. 111.

The examination is intended to be a cross-examination of the strictest character: Beattie v. Barton, 2 C. L. T. 104; Re Central Bank, Watson's Case, supra; and any question "fairly pertinent to the subject matter of the inquiry, which means put with a view to ascertain so far as possible, by discovery from a reluctant defendant, what debts are owing to him, ought to be answered by the defendant." He must also "give all necessary particulars to enable the plaintiffs to recover under a garnishee order": Republic of Costa Rica v. Strousberg, 16 Ch. D. 8, 12; see also McLean v. Bruce, 13 P. R. 504. Scope of examination.

The examination may extend to property assigned by the debtor to a third party by way of security: Watkins v. Ross, 68 L. T. 423. It should not be so conducted as to try to entrap the debtor, but it should be full, fair and searching: Graham v. Devlin, 13 P. R. 245.

Where the person examined cannot speak as to the facts about which examination may be had, without referring to books, etc., the

Rules 581, 582.

Examiner's duty is to require their production, and they must be produced: Russell v. Macdonold, 12 P. R. 458.

Inquiry as to the means of the debtor is not restricted to the period of contracting the debt, but it may be shewn that at some anterior time the debtor had property as to which he may be required to give an account, and it is not a sufficient answer to say merely that it has all been disposed of before the debt was incurred: Ontario Bank v. Mitchell, 32 C. P. 73; and this is also the rule where the judgment is for costs only: Bortlett v. Bortlett Mines Co., 3 O. W. N. 328.

See further as to nature of the examination which may be had under this Rule: notes to Rule 587.

As to the mode of compelling attendance: see Rule 585.

Application for examination of officers of corporations.

581. Where the judgment is against a corporation the judgment creditor may in like manner examine any of the officers of such corporation, touching the names and residences of the stockholders in the corporation, the amount and particulars of stock held or owned by each stockholder and the amount paid thereon, and as to what debts are owing to the corporation, and as to the estate and effects of the corporation; and as to the disposal made by it of any property since contracting the debt or liability, in respect of which the judgment was obtained, or, in the case of a judgment for costs only, since the commencement of the cause or matter. C.R. 902.

See Eng. (1883) R. 610. Before this Rule there was no power to order the examination of an officer of the corporation in such a case: Dickson v. Neath, etc., Ry. Co., L. R. 4 Ex. 87.

A person who was, but has ceased to be, an officer, may be examined under this Rule: Societé Generole v. Johonn Morie Farina, 1904, 1 K. B. 794; 90 L. T. 472.

Where an officer of a company is examined under this Rule the judgment creditor is entitled to a full disclosure of the company's affairs, and as a consequence to have access to its books pertinent to that inquiry: Chorlebois v. Great North-West Ry. Co., 15 P. R. 10. The person examined must procure the necessary information to enable him to answer all questions the creditor is entitled to have answered: Ib. The creditor has no right to examine as to the dealings with paid-up stock: Ib.

"Officer" includes a director of the company: Powell-Rees v. Anglo Candian Mortgage Corp., 26 O. L. R. 490; 27 O. L. R. 274. No order is necessary for the examination of an officer: Ib.

Examination of certain persons as to a debtor's means.

582. The Court may order any clerk or employee or former clerk or employee of the judgment debtor, or any person or the officer or officers of any corporation to whom the debtor has made a transfer of his property or effects, exigible under execution, since the date when the liability or debt which was the subject of the action in which judgment was obtained was incurred (or where the judgment is for costs only since the commencement of the cause or matter), to submit to be examined upon oath as to the estate and effects of the debtor, and as to the property and means he had when the debt or liability aforesaid was incurred (or in the case of a judgment for costs only, at the date of the commencement of the cause or matter), and as to the property or means he still has of discharging the judgment, and as to the disposal he has made of any property since contracting the debt or incurring the liability, and as to any and what debts are owing to him. C.R. 903. Rule 582.

Examination of transferees of debtor.

An order under this Rule should not be made without notice to the transferee; nor without proof that the transfer was made after the date when the liability of the judgment debtor was incurred: Blokeley v. Bloose, 12 P. R. 565.

A chattel mortgage is a transfer of property and effects within this Rule: Ib.

The wife of a debtor to whom he has transferred property, may be examined notwithstanding that he alleges that the property was her own, and that he was acting as her agent only: Goodeve v. White, 15 P. R. 433; so also where the transfer has been made to a mortgagee of the wife and she receives a benefit by the reduction of the incumbrance: Croft v. Croft, 17 P. R. 452.

The examination of a third mortgagee of real estate of the judgment debtor was refused, and the mortgagee was held not to be a transferee of property exigible in execution under this Rule: Canadian Mining Co. v. Wheeler, 3 O. L. R. 210; sed vide, The Execution Act (R. S. O. c. 80), s. 31; and Donovan v. Bacon, 16 Gr. 472, note.

This provision being remedial, is to be construed so as to advance the remedy given by it, so far as the fair meaning of the words will permit: Gowans v. Bornet, 12 P. R. 330; Coleman v. Hood, 4 O. W. R. 309.

It has therefore been held that the word "transfer" in this Rule should not be limited to the transfer of the title to the property or effects, but should be regarded as equally applicable to the transfer of the possession, and, therefore, a solicitor to whom, under a power of attorney to receive it, the consideration money on a sale of property had been paid, was held to be examinable: Ib.

It has been said by Boyd, C., that "transfer" in this Rule does not cover an "assignment" for the general benefit of creditors, as such an assignment virtually ends all litigation with respect to property and effects of a debtor, and this Rule is only to aid a judgment creditor in proceeding against the debtor's property, which he can no longer do after a valid assignment for all creditors: British Can. L. & I. Co. v. Britnell, 13 P. R. 310; in Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Wolf, 11 C. L. T. 201, the contrary was decided by Street, J.

Examination of persons in possession of property of judgment debtor.

583. Where the Court is satisfied that there is reasonable ground for supposing that any person or corporation is in possession of any property of the judgment debtor exigible under execution, it may order such person or any officer of said corporation to attend and submit to examination touching the property and means of the judgment debtor. C.R. 904.

See notes to preceding Rule.

Examination in other cases.

584. Where a difficulty arises in or about the execution or enforcement of a judgment, the Court may make such order for the attendance and examination of any party or person as may seem just. C.R. 910.

See Eng. (1883) R. 611.

Rule 580 provides for the examination of the debtor himself; Rule 581, for the examination of officers of a debtor corporation; Rules 582, 583, for the examination of clerks, employees and transferees of the debtor, and the present Rule enables the Court to make an order for the attendance of any other person whom there is any reason to believe can give information which will assist in the enforcement of the judgment creditor's claim.

Compelling attendance and production of documents.

585. A person liable to be examined under the preceding Rules may be compelled to attend and testify, and to produce books and documents, in the same manner and subject to the same rules of examination, and the same consequences of neglecting to attend or refusing to disclose the matters in respect of which he may be examined, as in the case of a witness. C.R. 905.

The procedure by this Rule directed to be followed is that provided in case of examination of witnesses generally: Rules 178, 345; see Rule 338.

This Rule merely regulates the mode of procuring the attendance of a party for examination; it does not enable the subpœna, and appointment under Rule 345, to be issued without a previous order for the examination being first obtained, where one is necessary, see Rules 582, 583, 584; see Rule 586.

If a party liable to examination refuses to be sworn, he will be ordered to attend again at his own expense and to take the oath and submit to be examined; and if he makes default, an application may be made to attach him for contempt: Uhrig v. Uhrig, 15 P. R. 53; and such order may be made where the party has been sworn and has objected to answer questions on the advice of his counsel, and though the Examiner has sustained the objection and there has been no appeal from his ruling: Hamilton v. Essery, 15 P. R. 202.

Service of appointment

586. A person liable to be examined as a judgment debtor or as an officer of a corporation which is a judgment debtor need not be served with a subpœna, but may be served with an appointment signed by the officer before whom he is to be examined at least 48 hours before the time fixed for his examination, and the person to be examined shall be paid the same fees as a witness. C.R. 906. Rule 587.

Formerly if the original order were not shown at the time of service, the person served could not be brought into contempt for disobedience of it: Blokeley v. Bloose, 12 P. R. 565. Now it is only necessary to show the original if it is demanded: see Rule 203.

Insufficient service is waived by attending and submitting to be examined: Dayfoot v. Byrens, 7 C. L. T. 21; Jones v. Macdonald, 14 P. R. 109.

An appointment signed by the Judge, or officer, is what is required to be served, not a copy, nor a subpœna, nor copy: Meyers v. Kendrick, 9 P. R. 363.

As an original appointment is required to be served, it would seem advisable, in order to prove service, that the appointment should be signed by the Judge or officer in duplicate.

An order to examine a defendant as a judgment debtor, and an appointment under it, are together equivalent to an order that the debtor should attend on the day mentioned in the appointment: Re Chatham Harvester Co. v. Campbell, 12 P. R. 666. Where he attends and offers to be examined, the force of the order is spent, and to obtain a fresh appointment a fresh order is necessary: Ib.

In England there is no corresponding provision with reference to the present subject, but there, also, the debtor or other person to be examined is entitled to conduct money. An attachment was refused for disobedience to an order to come up to London for examination, without an affidavit showing tender of conduct money, and reason for not examining the debtor at his own residence: Protector Endowment Co. v. Whitlom, 36 L. T. 467.

587. Where the judgment debtor does not attend, does not allege a sufficient excuse for not attending, or if attending, refuses to disclose his property or his transactions, or does not make satisfactory answers respecting the same, or if it appears from such examination that such debtor has concealed or made away with his property in order to defeat or defraud his creditors or any of them, the Court may order the debtor to be committed to the common gaol of the County or district in which he resides, for any term not exceeding twelve months; or that a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum may be issued against the debtor, or in case the debtor is at large upon bail, may make an order for his committal to close custody; and the Sheriff, on due notice of the Committal of debtor for non-attendance, refusal to answer, answering unsatisfactorily, etc.

order, shall forthwith take the debtor and commit him to close custody until he obtains an order allowing him to go out of close custody, on giving the necessary bond in that behalf, or until he is otherwise discharged in due course of law. C.R. 907.

The fact that the debtor has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors is no excuse for his not attending for examination: McEachern v. Gordon, 18 P. R. 459; Bank of Hamilton v. Scott, 40 C. L. J. 432.

In McKinnon v. Crowe, 17 P. R. 291, it was objected that an order for examination under Rule 582 could not properly be made under a judgment for costs in an interpleader issue, but the point not having been raised until a motion to commit for concealment of property, it was held to be too late, and was not adjudicated on: see now Rule 3 (g), 580.

An order committing a debtor to close custody under this Rule is "process" in an action within the exception in The Ontario Habeas Corpus Act (R. S. O. c. 84), s. 2, so that a habeas corpus should not be granted in such case, and if granted may be quashed as improvidently issued: Re Anderson v. Vanstone, 16 P. R. 243.

Unsatisfactory answers.

The broad test to be applied in gauging the character of the answers, in order to determine whether they are satisfactory, is, having regard to the circumstances of each particular case, are the answers sufficient to satisfy the mind of a reasonable person that a full and true disclosure has been made: Graham v. Devlin, 13 P. R. 245; Millar v. Macdonold, 14 P. R. 499; Charlebois v. Martin, 4 O. W. N. 412.

Answers are not "unsatisfactory" because they do not account for the application of the debtor's assets in a proper manner: Hobbs v. Scott, 23 U. C. Q. B. 619; but see Crooks v. Stroud, 10 P. R. 131. The debtor must have contumaciously refused to answer, or so equivocated as to render his answer no answer at all: Lemon v. Lemon, 6 P. R. 184; see also Merrill v. McFarren, 1 C. L. T. 133; Beattie v. Barton, 2 C. L. T. 104, and the authorities fully reviewed in Schneider v. Agnew, 6 P. R. 138. Where the defendant, a widow, was shown to have received $500 insurance money payable on the death of her husband, part of which she had lent to her brother, part she had expended on clothing for herself and children, and the remainder, $100, she still had, but refused to apply on the judgment, as she had no other means with which to support herself and three children, an order to commit for unsatisfactory answers was refused: McKay v. Atherton, 12 P. R. 464.

An agreement by a debtor to work for his wife, in order to repay her a debt due by him to her was held to be neither an illegal, nor unreasonable, arrangement: Baby v. Ross, 14 P. R. 440.

It is the debtor's duty to furnish such explanation about his affairs as will place his dealings in an intelligible shape, and not leave his creditors to find out as best they may, what it is the business of the debtor to make clear. It is not enough for the debtor to say, touching any transaction, that he does not know, or does not remember, if he has the means at hand to qualify himself to explain: Foster v. VanWormer, 12 P. R. 597. He must produce books, etc., which will enable him to answer; and submit to examination upon them: see Russell v. Macdonald, 12 P. R. 458; and any question fairly pertinent and properly asked with a view to ascertain full particulars of what debts there are, and which of them may be attached, must be answered: Rep. of Costa Rica v. Strousberg, 16 Ch. D. 8; 43 L. T. 399. Rule 887.

Where particulars, wherein dissatisfaction is felt, have been pointed out, an opportunity should be given to the debtor of reconciling what may be conceived to be contradictions, or explaining what may appear to be admissions: Grohom v. Devlin, 13 P. R. 245.

Where answers were considered unsatisfactory the Judge allowed defendant a week to pay costs of examination and of the motion, and attend again and give further information, before making an order on the motion to meet the justice of the case: Dyment v. Jerrett, 9 C. L. T. 141.

Where a debtor swears that he has lost money by gambling, the Court refused to order him to disclose the particular transactions in which the money was lost, or to commit him for unsatisfactory answers, or for making away with his property: Harvey v. Aikine, 17 P. R. 71.

Although the Examiner rules that the debtor need not answer questions, he is not necessarily protected, and it is not necessary for the creditor to appeal from the Examiner's ruling; but on a motion to commit the debtor for not answering, the order may be made for him to attend again at his own expense, if it should appear that the Examiner was wrong: Bank of Hamilton v. Essery, 15 P. R. 202.

The latter part of the Rule is confined to the case of a ca. sa., or re-commitment upon a ca. sa., and not to the case of a penal order of commitment for not disclosing property or transactions. In such case, therefore, quære whether, by submitting to another examination and disclosing his property, the debtor could be relieved from the imprisonment imposed: Bo by v. Ross, 14 P. R. 440.

An order for committal for a fixed period, is said to be the appropriate punishment authorized by this Rule: Jones v. Macdonald, 15 P. R. 345; an order for a writ of attachment requiring the Sheriff to hold the debtor in custody for an indefinite period was held to be improper: Re Chatham Harvester Co. v. Campbell, 12 P. R. 666. Motion for committal.

A notice of motion, seeking relief on the ground of unsatisfactory answers, should particularize the answers complained of: Foster v. VonWormer, 12 P. R. 597.

The application is to a Judge in Chambers: see Royal Can. Bank v. Lockman, 7 P. R. 102. It may be made at the time of the examination and without further notice, if the officer before whom the examination takes place has jurisdiction to entertain it, e.g., in County Court cases, where the examination is before the Judge: Ponton v. Bullen, 2 E. & A. 379; Baird v. Story, 23 U. C. Q. B. 624.

An order to commit must be absolute, not upon a condition, e.g., unless the debtor forthwith gives a note: Chichester v. Gordon, 25 U. C. Q. B. 527.

A married woman is liable to be committed: Metropolitan L. & S. Co. v. Mara, 8 P. R. 355; Dillon v. Cunningham, L. R. 8 Ex. 23; Watson v. Ontario Supply Co., 14 P. R. 96; Kistler v. Teffmar, 1905, 1 K. B. 39; 92 L. T. 66.

Rule 588.

The committal is for a contempt, and the fact that the judgment is one for costs does not make the committal an imprisonment for non-payment of costs: Pearson v. Essery, 12 P. R. 466; and see Re Teasdall v. Brady, 18 P. R. 104. The committal is penal in its nature, and a second punishment cannot be awarded for the same offence; therefore where the debtor ordered to be committed was released by mistake it was held that a second order for attachment could not issue; but semble, an order for re-arrest under the first order might be made: Church's Trustee v. Hibbard, 1902, 2 Ch. 784.

Substituted service of notice of motion to commit for unsatisfactory answers was allowed in Trout v. Loney, 13 C. L. T. 61, and an order was made for committal of defendant though he was out of the jurisdiction: Ib., following Bloomfield v. Brooke, 6 P. R. 264.

On a motion to commit under this Rule for unsatisfactory answers, where the depositions show on their face that the party was being examined as a judgment debtor, it is not necessary to prove service of the appointment and payment of conduct money: Jones v. Macdonald, 14 P. R. 109. Secus, where the motion is to commit for non-attendance. The certificate of the Examiner of the proceedings before him is good evidence, although it may have been given ex parte: Ib.

The order must commit the debtor to the common gaol of the county in which he resides; it is not proper, nor warranted by the Rule, to direct that he be committed to the gaol of any other county where he may be found: Baby v. Ross, 14 P. R. 440.

Where a debtor contumaciously refused to answer questions, he was committed for three months, and an application for his discharge before the expiry of the three months was refused, though the creditor consented: Jones v. Macdonald, 15 P. R. 345. Where after a reasonable opportunity the debtor refused to disclose the whereabouts of his property, he was committed for three months: McKinnon v. Crowe, 17 P. R. 291.

Appeal.

An appeal lies to a Divisional Court from the order of a Judge in Chambers refusing an order to commit for unsatisfactory answers: Millar v. Macdonald, 14 P. R. 499; but the Appellate Court will not reverse the order unless the Judge has erred in principle, or is almost overwhelmingly wrong: Ib.

Where, therefore, the Court of first instance in its discretion refused to order the debtor to answer questions, the Court of Appeal refused to do so, although of opinion that the Court below would not have been wrong if it had ordered them to be answered: Watkins v. Ross, 68 L. T. 423.

An order made in a County Court action by the Judge of the County Court, under this Rule, committing a debtor, is appealable to the Appellate Division: see The County Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 59), s. 40 (b), supra, p. 127; and Baby v. Ross, 14 P. R. 440. Where the debtor is ordered to be committed he may also be ordered to pay costs of the motion: McKinnon v. Crowe, 17 P. R. 291.

Committal of officer of corporation in like manner.

588. Where any officer of a corporation or other person liable to be examined does not attend, and does not show a sufficient excuse for not attending, or if attending, refuses to disclose any of the matters in respect of which he may be examined, the Court may order him to be committed to the common gaol of the County or district in which he resides, for any term not exceeding six months. C.R. 908. Rules 588, 589.

Rule 587, it will be noted, is confined to the case of a debtor himself not attending, or making unsatisfactory answers, etc., and this Rule is confined to the case of officers of corporations making default, but there appears to be no express provision for the committal of employees or transferees of the debtor ordered to attend for examination under Rule 582 who make default; such cases are left to be governed by the ordinary procedure of the Court for the enforcement of its orders against recalcitrant witnesses. See Rule 585.

589. Where a person has been committed to gaol, the Court may limit the term of imprisonment or grant such other relief as may seem just, but the order shall not relieve such person from any civil liability to any other person. C.R. 909. Release or other relief of persons committed for contempt.

See Rule 551.

590.—(1) The Court, upon the ex parte application of the judgment creditor, upon affidavit stating that the judgment is unsatisfied, and Court or Judge may order attachment of debts

(a) that some person within Ontario is indebted to the judgment debtor, or

(b) that some person not within Ontario is indebted to the judgment debtor and that the debt to be attached is one for which he might be sued in Ontario by the judgment debtor ; may order that all debts owing or accruing from such third person (hereinafter called the garnishee), to the judgment debtor, shall be attached to answer the judgment debt and that the garnishee do at a time named show cause why he should not pay the judgment creditor the debt due from him to the judgment debtor or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the judgment debt and the claims of any other execution creditors. Notice of the application to pay over shall, unless dispensed with, be given to the judgment debtor. Order that garnishee appear.

(2) When the garnishee is not within Ontario, and is neither a British subject nor in British dominions, notice of the order and not the order itself shall be served. C.R. 911. Amended. Garnishee out of Ontario.

Rule 590.

Attachment of debts owing from a firm.

(3) Where a debt owing from a firm carrying on business within Ontario, but having members out of Ontario, is attached, service may be effected upon any person having control or management of the partnership business or any member of the firm within Ontario. C.R. 229. Amended.

Clause (2) contains a similar provision to that made by Rule 29, in the case of writs of summons issued against a foreigner out of the jurisdiction: see notes to Rule 29. See Eng. (1883) R. 622. The affidavit was formerly required to be by the creditor or his solicitor: Builder v. Kerr, 7 P. R. 323; Boyd v. Hoynes, 5 P. R. 15; but it would now seem to be sufficient if made by any person aware of the facts deposed to. Where the judgment creditor is a corporation: see Rule 294.

Where a judgment is payable in futuro an attaching order obtained before the judgment is actually payable is premature and invalid: White v. Stennings, 1911, 2 K. B. 418; 104 L. T. 876; and where the entry of judgment is stayed proceedings to attach debts thereunder cannot be taken: Scully v. Madigon, 4 O. W. N. 981, 1003.

A creditor who attaches a debt is deemed to do so for the benefit of himself and all other creditors of the debtor: see The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5; and as to the right of a sheriff to attach debts due to an execution debtor: see Ib., s. 38; and as to his right to recover money due on a mortgage to an execution debtor: see The Execution Act (R. S. O. c. 80), ss. 25-27.

The provisions of this Rule are held not to apply to the Division Courts: Simpson v. Chose, 14 P. R. 280.

For Form of Order: see No. 77; H. & L. Forms, No. 1174.

Scope of the Rule.—As to the meaning of "judgment," "judgment creditor," and "judgment debtor," see Rules 3 (e), (f), (g). 533, 534.

Under those Rules an order for payment of money into Court may, it would seem, be enforced by attachment of debts under Rule 590. This cannot be done in England: see Re Greer, Nopper v. Fanshawe, 1895, 2 Ch. 217; 72 L. T. 865.

The judgment creditor mentioned in Rule 590 is a judgment creditor who may examine his debtor under Rule 580, and, under that Rule where the judgment, or order, of the creditor is only for costs, the creditor is a judgment creditor within that Rule, and therefore also within this Rule: Lloyd v. Wallace, 9 P. R. 335; Elliott v. Capell, 9 P. R. 35; see also Whittaker v. Whittoker, 7 P. D. 15; and Manchester, etc., v. Porkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173.

An assignee of the judgment being a "person entitled to enforce the judgment," is "a judgment creditor": Rule 3 (e); Goodman v. Robinson, 18 Q. B. D. 332; McLean v. Bruce, 14 P. R. 190. But semble, he must first obtain an order to continue the proceedings, under Rule 301: see Boynord v. Simmonds, infra, p. 1216.

The creditor must be one who is entitled to enforce immediate payment. Therefore the holder of a bond of a corporation containing a condition that all bondholders should be paid pari passu, was held not to be such a creditor, since an attachment would have given him priority over other bondholders: Kennett v. Westminster Improvement Commissioners, 11 Ex. 349. Rule 590.

Only such property can be attached as the debtor could deal with properly, and without violation of the rights of other persons, at the time the attaching order is served: see Badeley v. Consolidated Bank, 34 Ch. D. 536; 38 Ch. D. 238; Re General Horticultural Co., 32 Ch. D. 512; Vyse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199; McCraney v. McLeod, 10 P. R. 541; Porker v. Howe, 12 P. R. 351; Beaty v. Hockett, 14 P. R. 395.

Proceedings to attach a judgment debt may be taken after the pronouncing, but before the actual entry, of the judgment debtor's judgment: Holtby v. Hodgson, 24 Q. B. D. 103; Davison v. Taylor, 14 P. R. 78.

A judgment against a married woman, to be executed against her separate estate, is a judgment enabling the judgment creditor to attach debts due to the married woman: Holtby v. Hodgson, supra.

Where a claim can be attached it has been held that a receiver should not be appointed, even though the claim be one which could formerly be reached only by way of equitable execution: Fleming v. Stephenson, 28 C. L. J. 370 (Dartnell, J.C.C.)

A foreign corporation not shewn to carry on one of the principal parts of its business in Ontario is not within Ontario for the purposes of this Rule: Parker v. Odette, 16 P. R. 69; Canada Cotton Co. v. Pormalee, 13 P. R. 308; Boswell v. Piper, 17 P. R. 257; sed vide, Haggin v. Comptoir D'Escompte de Paris, 23 Q. B. D. 519; and Wentworth v. Smith, 15 P. R. 372. The mere fact that the foreign corporation has a resident agent, or chief agency in Ontario, is not sufficient to bring the corporation within this Rule; but a Canadian banking corporation authorized by Parliament to do, and doing, business in Ontario, although its head office is in another Province, is resident within Ontario within the meaning of this Rule: Wentworth v. Smith, 15 P. R. 372.

Where the garnishee is not within Ontario, the test whether the debt due by him may be attached, is whether it is one which the debtor could sue the garnishee for in Ontario. If he could not, then the debt is not attachable: McMulkin v. Traders' Bank, 26 O. L. R. 1.

Debts owing from a firm carrying on business within the jurisdiction may be attached under this Rule, although one or more members of the firm be resident out of the jurisdiction: Rule 590 (3); but the attaching order must be served on the person having the control or management of the partnership business, or on one of the partners within Ontario: Ib. Partnership firms.

Attachment of Debts.—This Rule applies where the interest of the debtor is in the shape of a debt whether legal or equitable: see cases infra of debts held to be attachable. Attachment of debts.

The affidavit for an attaching order need not state the amount of the debt: Lucy v. Wood, 28 Sol. Jour. 326; W. N. 1884, 58; and will be sufficient if it states that the deponent is informed and believes showing grounds thereof: Rule 293, that the garnishee is indebted to the judgment debtor: Coren v. Borne, 22 Q. B. D. 249; De Pass v. Capitol & Industries Corporation, 1891, 1 Q. B. 216; 64 L. T. 93; S. C., sub nom. Vinall v. De Pass, 1892, A. C. 90; 66 L. T. 422. In answer to such an affidavit it is not sufficient for the garnishee to deny owing the particular debt referred to in the affidavit filed in support of the application, Affidavit but he must deny owing any debt to the judgment debtor or he may be ordered to pay over: Ib.

Where the judgment creditor is unable to specify the debts owing to the judgment debtor, an application for the appointment of a receiver may be the appropriate remedy: see Goldschmidt v. Oberheinische Metallwerke, supra, p. 82.

No distinction between legal and equitable debts.

Since The Judicature Act the power of garnishing debts has been very extensive. The word debt has been given a more extended meaning than it had at the time of the passing of the original garnishee clauses in the C. L. P. Act, and under those clauses now embodied in the Rules a creditor may attach any debt due by any other person to his judgment debtor, whether legal or equitable: Leaming v. Woon, 7 Ont. App. 42; Wilson v. Dundas, W. N. 1875, 232; Summers v. Morphew, 61 L. T. Jour. 140; Re Cowan's Estate, 14 Ch. D. 638; Hamer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942; Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518.

Under the present Rule it is clear that an immature legal claim, which has not ripened into a debt, and, by possibility, may never do so, cannot be attached: see Simpson v. Chase, 14 P. R. at p. 286.

Moneys in a receiver's hands.

Money of the debtor actually in the hands of a receiver may be attached: Re Cowan's Estate, 14 Ch. D. 638; but the future accruing income of a trust fund in the hands of trustees, to which the debtor may become entitled, is not attachable: Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518; nor is the interest of a debtor in the proceeds of land to be sold by trustees attachable before the sale has taken place; Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; and see Hunsberry v. Kratz, 5 O. L. R. 635.

Before the Judicature Acts, it was held that on a judgment against a company, money of the company in the hands of an official liquidator might be attached: Ex parte Turner, 2 D. F. & J. 354; and though this was afterwards questioned in Re Hunter v. Greensill, L. R. 8 C. P. 24, The Judicature Act, or the present Rule, will probably be held to have removed any difficulty in holding the money to be attachable. See also cases, infra, p. 1210.

Test of attachable debt.

A fair test as to a debt being attachable has been said to be, whether the debt is capable of being the subject of a set-off: Webster v. Webster, 31 Beav. 393; McNaughton v. Webster, 6 U. C. L. J. 17; see also Parker v. Howe, 12 P. R. at p. 353.

The debt must be an absolute and perfected debt, not merely a conditional one, e.g., payable upon the execution of a conveyance: Howell v. Metropolitan District Ry. Co., 19 Ch. D. 508, or payable on a contingency which has not happened: Carswell v. Langley, 3 O. L. R. 261, and must be owing to the judgment debtor alone; where it is due to him jointly with another person it cannot be attached: Macdonald v. Tacquah Gold Mines Co., 13 Q. B. D. 535; Parker v. Odette, 16 P. R. 69; Marshall v. James, 1905, 1 Ch. 432.

Where the judgment debtors were persons authorized under Rule 75 to defend on behalf of all persons constituting an unincorporated association, money deposited in a bank at the credit of that association was held to be not the property of the judgment debtors, and therefore not attachable for costs payable by the judgment debtors: Metallic Roofing Co. v. Local Union, &c., 10 O. L. R. 108; supra, p. 433.

Where a husband and wife joined as plaintiffs in an action for damages for personal injury to the wife, and the jury awarded them each a specific sum, but judgment was entered for the plaintiffs for tha whola amount awarded, without stating the proportions assigned to each, it was held that the amount awarded to ths wife could not be attached by a judgment creditor of the husband: Beosley v. Roney, 1891, 1 Q. B. 509; 65 L. T. 153. Rule 590.

Tha Rule applies to dabts accruing, as well as debts actually owing: see Sparks v. Younge, 8 Ir. C. L. 251; Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; ex porte Joselyne, 8 Ch. D. 327; but a future debt, i.e., a debt which has no present existence but can only arise on the happening of soma future event, e.g., moneys which may in the futura come into tha bands of a trustea for tba benefit of his cestui que trust, cannot be attached: Fellows v. Thornton, 14 Q. B. D. 335; and sea Mopleson v. Sears, 105 L. T. 639; but such claims havs been mada avaliabla under equitabla execution by the appointment of a receiver: Block v. Cox, before Robertson, J., see Judgment Book Chy. D. No. 12, fo. 28. Debts due, but not payable till a futura time, may bo ordered to be paid at such future date; and it is not necessary to wait and obtain a fresh order for payment of each instalment as it becomes payabie: Topp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; sea alao Re Cowan's Estate, and Leoming v. Woon, supra, p. 1208; Booth v. Trail, 12 Q. B. D. 8, and Rule 594 (2); but tha garniabee cannot ba compelled to pay befora credit given to him has expired: Hording v. Borrott, 3 U. C. L. J. 31. Debts accruing.

Whether money dus on cheques, or promissory notes, or other negotiabla instruments, is attachahle seems doubtful: pro. aee Hyam v. Freeman, 35 Sol. Jour. 87; Roblee v. Rankin, 11 S. C. R. 137; contra, see Jockson v. Cassidy, 2 Ont. 521; Exley v. Dey, 15 P. R. 353. Under ths present state of tbe autborities such deht may probably be better made exigible by receiver and injunction: Exley v. Dey (No. 2), 15 P. R. 405.

Where a garnisbee, before service of an attaching order, had given a cheque for the debt due by him to the judgment dehtor, which was duly paid, it was neld that therc was no debt owing, or accruing, between the time of giving the cheqne and its payment, and no duty upon tha garnishee to stop payment on being served with the attaching order: Elwell v. Jockson, 1 Cab. & El. 362.

Wbare, before an attaching order issued, a legacy was payable to the defendant, and he had made a settlement of it, it was heid that no debt was due from the executor of the will to tha defendant, as, even if the settiement were set aside by the plaintiff, there was no ground for saying that the executor was obliged to pay over to the defendant. The defendant could not revoke the settlement, and even if it were set aside as void against creditors, it would be still valid as between the executor and the defendant: Vyse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199; 1 Cab. & El. 225.

Where the trustees of an annuity, payabls to a judgment debtor half-yearly, had advanced to him more than was payable at the end of the iast half-yearly period, it was held that nothing was attachable ss elther owing, or accruing: Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518; see Booth v. Trail, 12 Q. B. D. 8. So a salary whicb is not payahle till earned is not attachable as a debt before the date when it is payable: Hall v. Pritchett, 3 Q. B. D. 215; Re Shanley v. Moore, 9 U. C. L. J. 264. But a dehtor's interest in a trust fund not yet payable by tha trustee has been held to be attachable: Nash v. Pease, 47 L. J. Q. B. 766; Lloyd v. Wolloce, 9 P. R. 335.

Rule 590.

An order to attach a debt may be made, notwithstanding that six years have elapsed since the judgment was obtained by the judgment creditor: Fellows v. Thornton, 14 Q. B. D. 335.

Rule 100 does not apply to garnishee proceedings. Where the debt attached is due by a firm the attaching order should be made not against the firm, but against the several members of the firm: Walker v. Rooke, 6 Q. B. D. 631.

Attachable debts.

Debts Attachable.—The following have been held to be attachable:—

Rent.

Rent due by a tenant: Mitchell v. Lee, L. R. 2 Q. B. 259. Formerly, rent not due was not attachable: Commercial Bank v. Jarvis, 5 U. C. L. J. 66; McLoren v. Sudworth, 4 U. C. L. J. 233; but since The Apportionment Act (R. S. O. c. 156), s. 4, by which rent is made apportionable, it has been held in Ontario that it may be attached as a debt accruing between gale days; and the judgment creditor is entitled to be paid, on the gale day, such portion as had accrued due on the day of service of the attachment: Massie v. Toronto Printing Co., 12 P. R. 12; but see contra, Barnett v. Eastman, 67 L. J. Q. B. 517, where notwithstanding the Apportionment Act, rent was held not to be attachable before it was due; and in Division Courts only rent due can be attached: see Christie v. Cosey, 31 C. L. J. 35; Birmingham v. Malone, 32 C. L. J. 717.

The attachment of rent intercepts the rent up to the day of attachment: Re Wilson, 5 R. 455, and suspends the landlord's right of distress therefor: Patterson v. King, 27 Ont. 56.

Rents due to a mortgagor before a notice given by the mortgagee to the tenant to pay subsequent rents to him: Patterson v. O'Reilly, 10 L. R. Ir. 304, and see Massie v. Toronto Printing Co., supra.

Money due by Sheriff.

Money in the hands of a Sheriff, the proceeds of an execution levied by him: Murray v. Simpson, 8 Ir. C. L. App. xlv.; Re Smart v. Miller, 3 P. R. 385, or in the hands of a Division Court Clerk; Bland v. Andrews, 45 U. C. Q. B. 431; or Bailiff: Lockhart v. Gray 2 C. L. J. 163, though the contrary has been held in England: Dolphin v. Loyton, 4 C. P. D. 130.

By Receiver.

Money in the hands of a receiver, which is presently payable to the debtor: Re Cowan's Estate, 14 Ch. D. 638; Leoming v. Woon, 7 Ont. App. 42; Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 530; Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; Corswell v. Longley, 3 O. L. R. 261; or an official liquidator: Ex parte Turner, 2 D. F. & J. 354; see Mack v. Ward, W. N. 1884, 16; and Stuart v. McKim, 8 Ont. 739; but see contra, Prout v. Gregory, 24 Q. B. D. 281; 61 L. T. 696; Re Hunter v. Greensill, L. R. 8 C. P. 24.

By liquidator.

By mortgagee.

Surplus money in the hands of mortgagees after sale under a power in a mortgage: Nicol v. Ewin, 7 P. R. 331; see McKay v. Mitchell, 6 U. C. L. J. 61; see also Chatterton v. Watney, 16 Ch. D. 378; 17 Ch. D. 259, where it was held that a judgment debtor, who had obtained a garnishee order against a mortgagor debtor of his debtor, was not entitled to surplus proceeds of a sale by a prior mortgagee, which took place after his garnishee order, but the holder of a garnishee order obtained after the sale against the prior mortgagee was entitled.

By bankers.

deposited in a branch of a bank outside the jurisdiction of the Court, provided that the head office of the bank is within Ontario, and the claim is such that the debtor might himself have maintained an action for it under Rule 25: McMulkin v Traders Bank, 26 O. L. R. 1. Rule 590.

Dividends on Bank stocks: Salaman v. Donovan (1860), 10 Ir. C. L. R. App. xiii.

Money payable under a contract for work done for a municipal corporation: Alden v. Boomer, 2 P. R. 339. By contractee.

Money payable under a contract to supply a lunch, was held to be due when the purveyor had performed his part and supplied the food, tables and accessories, and where the lunch was over at 2 p.m., the amount was held to be attached by service of an attaching order at 5 p.m.; Kelly v. Rider, 11 T. L. R. 206.

Money due to a railway company for the purpose of distribution among its shareholders under an agreement sanctioned by Act of Parliament, may be attached by a creditor of the company: Bouch v. The Seven Oaks, etc., Railway Company, 4 Ex. D. 133.

A debt for which a cheque has been given by the garnishee, if the cheque is dishonored or stopped: Cohen v. Hale, 3 Q. B. D. 371; but see Elwell v. Jackson, supra, p. 1209.

Money due for calls on shares in a company: Re De Pass v. Capital & Industries Corporation, 1891, 1 Q. B. 216, S. C., sub nom. Vinall v. De Pass, 1892, A. C. 90; 66 L. T. 422.

Money in the hands of an agent in this Province may be garnished though the garnishee resides out of the jurisdiction: Brown v. Merrills, 3 U. C. L. J. 31; but not where the garnishee is a foreign corporation; Bank of British North America v. Laughrey, 2 C. L. J. 44; Lundy v. Dickson, 6 U. C. L. J. 92; and see Canada Cotton Co. v. Parmalee, supra, p. 1207, unless the debtor could sue for the debt in Ontario: see McMulkin v. Traders Bank, supra. By agent.

Money placed in the hands of solicitors by their client (the judgment debtor) for a specific purpose which had failed, and even though the solicitors claimed a larger sum to be due them from their client: Stumore v. Campbell, 1892, 1 Q. B. 314. By solicitor.

Upon a judgment against a deceased person, when proceedings are continued against his executor, or in an action against an executor as such, a debt due to the testator's estate may be attached: Burton v. Roberts, 6 H. & N. 93; Fowler v. Roberts, 2 Giff. 226; Tiffany v. Bullen, 18 C. P. 91; McDonald v. Sullivan, 5 O. L. R. at p. 90. So also a debt due by an executor to a judgment debtor is attachable, but the order in such case should show on its face that it is directed to the executor as such: Stevens v. Phelips, L. R. 10 Chy. 417; but such a debt is not attachable after an administration judgment has been granted: Ib. Debt due to or by executor.

A debt of which an incomplete gift has been made: Davidson v. Cochrane, 34 C. L. J. 318. Imperfect gift.

After the analogy of a fi. fa. under which the goods of any one of those against whom it is issued may be taken, a debt due to one of several judgment debtors may be attached to satisfy the judgment against all: Miller v. Mynn, 1 E. & B. 1075; but a debt owing to two cannot be attached for a debt of one: Re Smart v. Miller, 3 P. R. 385; Debt due one of several debtors.

Rule 590.

McCormick v. Pork, 9 C. P. 330; Macdonald v. Tacquah Gold Mines Co., 13 O. B. D. 535; Parker v. Odette, 16 P. R. 69; Marshall v. James, 1905, 1 Ch. 433.

Pensions.

As to pensions and superannuation allowances: see Innes v. East India Co., 17 C. B. 351; Dent v. Dent, L. R. 1 P. & D. 366; Ex parte Hawker, L. R. 7 Chy. 214; Willcock v. Terrell, 3 Ex. D. 323; Sansom v. Sansom, 4 P. D. 69; Birch v. Birch, 8 P. D. 163; Lucas v. Harris, 18 Q. B. D. 127; 55 L. T. 658; Crowe v. Price, 22 Q. B. D. 429; Booth v. Trail, 12 Q. B. D. 8; Re Webber, 18 Q. B. D. 111; a pension after its receipt by the pensioner, and deposit thereof in a bank loses its character of a pension and becomes attachable in the hands of the bank: Jones v. Coventry, 1909, 2 K. B. 1029; 101 L. T. 281; Knill v. Dumergue, 1911, 2 Ch. 199; 105 L. T. 178.

Salaries of civil servants.

As to garnishment of salaries of civil servants of the Ontario Government: see The Ontario Public Service Act (R. S. O. c. 14), s. 15, and Hyde v. Cowan, 31 Ont. 189.

As to salaries or remuneration of municipal officers: see Wilson v. Fleming, 1 O. L. R. 599; Edmunds v. Edmunds, 1904, P. 362.

Fees payable to a public vaccinator and registrar of births, etc.: see Edmunds v. Edmunds, supra; and salary of police constable: Fallis v. Wilson, 13 O. L. R. 595.

Debts not ascertained in amount.

A debt of an unascertained amount, if only it be payable as soon as ascertained: Re Sato v. Hubbord, 8 P. R. 445; Macpherson v. Tisdale, 11 P. R. 261, where costs remained to be taxed: Re Withrow, Poucher v. Donovan, 19 C. L. J. 97, 114, where the amount to be found due to a plaintiff who had been declared entitled to a mechanic's lien, was attached; so also a residuary bequest, though it is undetermined whether anything, and, if anything, how much is due: McLean v. Bruce, 14 P. R. 190. As to the mode of making inquiry to ascertain the amount, see Ib.

Money due under a judgment for unliquidated damages, pronounced but not formally entered, is attachable: Holtby v. Hodgson, 24 Q. B. D. 103; 61 L. T. 297, affirmed in appeal, 62 L. T. 145; followed in Davidson v. Taylor, 14 P. R. 78.

(1) Not attachable as debts, but sometimes exigible by equitable execution.

Moneys not Attachable.—The following are not attachable, but probably, in some cases, may be reached, by the appointment of a receiver by way of equitable execution: see Exley v. Day, 15 P. R. 353, 405:—

Unliquidated damages.

Unliquidated damages: Johnson v. Diomond, 11 Ex. 73; though secured by bond in a penal sum, Ib.: Griswold v. Buffalo, Brantford & Goderich Ry. Co., 2 P. R. 178; though the amount has been ascertained by the verdict of a jury, or award, but no judgment has been obtained to make the claim a debt: Jones v. Thompson, E. B. & E. 63; Dresser v. Johns, 28 L. J. C. P. 281; In re Newman, 3 Ch. D. 494; Boyd v. Haynes, 5 P. R. 15; Tate v. Corporation of Toronto, 3 P. R. 181; Bank of Toronto v. Burton, 4 P. R. 56; Gwynne v. Rees, 2 P. R. 282; Roberts v. City of Toronto, 16 Gr. 236; insurance moneys unadjusted, and not payable in respect of any admitted claim, as long as the company's right to have the money applied in rebuilding remains: Simpson v. Chase, 14 P. R. 280; and see Canada Cotton Co. v. Parmalee, 13 P. R. 308.

Rule 590.

Where a claim for work done under a contract, and one for unliquidated damages are referred, there can be no garnishment of the latter until after award: Tote v. The Corporation of the City of Toronto, 10 U. C. L. J. 66; 3 P. R. 181. See also Rondoll v. Lithgow, 12 Q. B. D. 525.

So any claim which might, or might not, result in a debt, e.g., a notice to treat under the English Lands Clauses Act, on which notice nothing had been done: Richardson v. Elmit, 2 C. P. D. 9; an unascertained balance due from one partner to another: Compbell v. Peden, 3 U. C. L. J. 68.

Salary.

Salary not yet payable: Holl v. Pritchett, 3 Q. B. D. 215; Re Shanley v. Moore, 9 U. C. L. J. 264; Central Bonk v. Ellis, 20 Ont. App. 364; Follis v. Wilson, 13 O. L. R. 595; Mapleson v. Seors, 105 L. T. 639; but as to the garnishment of the ssisries of civil servants: see The Ontorio Public Service Act (R. S. O. c. 14), s. 15.

Full pay of an officer in the Royal Navy on active service cannot he assigned, or attached: Apthorpe v. Apthorpe, 35 W. R. 728; 12 P. D. 192; nor the pay of a retired officer in the Army: Crowe v. Price, 22 Q. B. D. 429. See Stewart v. Jones, 1 O. L. R. 34; Jones v. Coventry, supro.

Barristers' fees: Wells v. Wells, 111 L. T. 399; hut see Armour v. Kilmer, 28 Ont. 618.

Negotiable instruments.

A negotiable promissory note not yet due: Jackson v. Cossidy, 2 Ont. 521; Pyne v. Kinno, 11 Ir. C. L. R. 40; Exley v. Doy, 15 P. R. 353; but a receiver may be appointed: Exley v. Doy, 15 P. R. 405.

Legacy.

A legacy in the hands of an executor, unless there has been such sn account stated by the executors as would entitle the legatee to sue: McDowall v. Hollister, 25 L. T. Jour. 185; sed vide, McLean v. Bruce, 14 P. R. 190, and Fleming v. Stephenson, 28 C. L. J. 570 (Dartnell, J.C.C.), which was, however, decided under the former Con. Rule before its amendment by C. R. 1361.

The interest of a residuary legatee in tbe estate of a testator who had died within a year of the application for attachment: Hunsberry v. Krotz, 5 O. L. R. 635.

Deposit with stock brokers.

Money deposited with a stock broker to secure any loss on speculations in stocks and shares, so long as the transactions in the stocks and shares are open: Hutt v. Show, 3 T. L. R. 354.

Gifts.

Money sent by a father to his son, the debtor, as a gift, through a hsnk, was garnished before the debtor was advised of the deposit; it was heid not garnishabie, as the father hsd till then power to revoke the gift: Caisse v. Tharp, 5 P. R. 265.

Wbera debtor disclaims interest.

Money in the hands of a solicitor as purchase money of lsnds in which the debtor is alleged to have had an interest as tenant by the curtesy which he disclaims: Palmer v. Lovett, 14 P. R. 415; and quære, even though the debtor hsd been tenant by the curtesy: see Ib., per Armour, C.J.

Money payable by trustees.

A dividend payable to the judgment dehtor under an administration in bankruptcy of the estate of a person dying insolvent: Prout v. Gregory, 24 Q. B. D. 281; 61 L. T. 696.

Surplus, if any, after payment of the debts of A. hy the terms of a trust deed to be paid to the judgment debtor: McKindsey v. Armstrong, 10 Ont. App. 17.

Rule 590.

Surplus share due debtor, of a fund of a company in liquidation, paid over to the Inspector General by the liquidator pursuant to a statute: Spence v. Colemon, 1901, 2 K. B. 199; 84 L. T. 703.

In the following cases, the claims can neither be attached nor reached by equitable execution:—

(2) Not attachable or exigible by equitable execution.

Money on deposit to the credit of the debtor "on trust" where the debtor has no beneficial interest in it: Stobart v. Axford, 29 C. L. J. 383 (Man.).

Money payable on notice.

Where in order that a debt may become payable it is necessary that the creditor should give notice to the debtor, in the absence of any such notice by the judgment debtor, the debt is not attachable: Cowley v. Taylor, 124 L. T. Jour. 569.

Where debtor has no beneficial interest in fund.

A debt payable to the debtor only as agent for another person: Burrell v. Read, 11 T. L. R. 36.

Money in a bank at the credit of the judgment debtor, a stock brokar, which was shown to be wholly money of his clients: Hancock v. Smith, 41 Ch. D. 456.

A debt due by the garnishee to the judgment debtor as executor: Macaulay v. Rumball, 19 C. P. 284; and a debt due to an administrator as such, cannot be attached to answer a private debt: Bowman v. Bowman, 1 Chy. Ch. 172; but secus where the personal representative is also beneficially entitled to the debt: McDonald v. Sullivan, 5 O. L. R. 87.

Money was held not attachable under a contract which was not performed according to its terms, so that nothing was due at the time of the attaching order: see McCraney v. McLeod, 10 P. R. 539.

When subject to restraint against anticipation.

The income of trust funds payable to a wife for her separate use, subject to a restraint against anticipation, accrued since a judgment against her and her husband, was held not attachable, as otherwise it would in effect enable her to anticipate her income in violation of the restraint on anticipation: Chapman v. Biggs, 11 Q. B. D. 27; see also Stanley v. Stanley, 7 Ch. D. 589; and notes, supra, p. 486; but in the more recent case of Hood-Barrs v. Heriot, 1896, A. C. 174; 74 L. T. 373, the restraint on anticipation was held to be at an end as regards the instalments of income, as soon as they became payable; but see Whiteley v. Edwards, 1896, 2 Q. B. 48; Bolitho v. Gidley, 1905, A. C. 98; 92 L. T. 369; and Wood v. Lewis, 110 L. T. 994, where it was held that the restraint against anticipation will prevent the income subject thereto from liability to attachment, even after it has become payable.

Alimony.

Money payable to a married woman for her alimony: Re Robinson, 1884, 27 Ch. D. 160; Paquine v. Snary, 1909, 1 K. B. 688; 100 L. T. 220.

Alleged trustee for debtor.

Money due to the wife of a debtor for purchase money of lands alleged to have been vested in the wife in fraud of the debtor's creditors: O'Donohoe v. Hull, 24 S. C. R. 683.

Money of prisoner in hands of police.

Money taken from a prisoner, and in the hands of a police officer: North v. Kerry, cited 112 L. T. Jour. 495 (N. S. W. W. N. vol. 18, p. 250).

Juror's pay.

The allowance of a juror is not attachable in the hands of the County Treasurer: Phillips v. Austin, 3 C. L. T. 316.

Rule 590.

Wages or salary of servants, etc., to the extent of $25, are exempt from attachment: The Wages Act (R. S. O. c. 143), s. 7. The salary of the secretary of a company amounting to £200, payable quarterly, was held not to be within the meaning of a similar Imperial protecting Act: Gordon v. Jennings, 9 Q. B. D. 45.

Wages.

The future earnings, as wages, or salary, of the debtor: Holmes v. Millage, 1893, 1 Q. B. 551; 68 L. T. 205; Central Bank v. Ellis, 20 Ont. App. 364.

The salary of a municipal officer which has been, even though irregularly, paid in advance: Wilson v. Fleming, 1 O. L. R. 599; and see Fallis v. Wilson, 13 O. L. R. 595.

A debt due to a firm cannot be attached to answer a debt of one of the partners: Morshall v. James, 1905, 1 Ch. 432.

Debts due to partnership.

An attaching order cannot be made attaching a debt due from a partnership firm described by its partnership name: Walker v. Rooke, 6 Q. B. D. 631.

Action by debtor, no bar to attachment.

A debt which is attachable does not cease to be so because the debtor has brought an action to recover it; and the giving of a cheque by the garnishee to the debtor, payment of which was stopped on service of the order nisi, was held not to prevent the debt from being attached: Cohen v. Hole, 3 Q. B. D. 371; but it is otherwise where a cheque has been given and accepted in payment of a debt, though the cheque has not been presented: Elwell v. Jackson, 1 T. L. R. 454; 1 Cab. & E. 362, and it is not the duty of the garnishee to stop payment on being served with an order attaching debts: Ib., and where the garnishee, before the attaching order, has given his creditor a negotiable instrument in payment of the debt attached, that would seem to be a defence to any application against the garnishee to pay over: see Bence v. Sheorman, 1898, 2 Ch. 582; payment to the debtor after service of the attaching order is of no avail against the attaching creditor: Edmunds v. Edmunds, 1904, P. 362. An attaching order is no bar to an action by the judgment debtor to recover the debts attached, but payment over by the garnishee pursuant to an order is a defence, but it does not arise until the payment is made, and does not relate back to the date of the attaching order: Pickord v. Tims, 19 P. R. 109.

Payment to debtor by cheque, effect of.

Effect of Attaching Order.—The order attaching a debt does not create a charge upon the property of the garnishee, so as in any way to prevent his alienating his assets bonâ fide. Thus, where, after a debt due by a limited company was attached, the company bonâ fide charged all its assets in favour of a debenture holder, it was held that the debenture holder was entitled to priority over an execution issued by the attaching creditor against the company for the debt attached: Geisse v. Taylor, 1905, 2 K. B. 658; 93 L. T. 534. Neither does the attaching order alter the property in the debt attached, and therefore a person who has obtained a prior floating charge on the debt of the company which has been attached, may, before an order to pay over has been obtained, assert his claim by obtaining the appointment of a receiver: Norton v. Yates, 1906, 1 K. B. 112; and see Weekes v. Frawley, 23 Ont. 235; Fisken v. Horsholl, 10 O. L. R. 552.

Where a second mortgagee secured the appointment of a receiver of the rent due by a tenant of his mortgagor, but gave no notice to the tenant to pay the rent until after an attaching order has been served on the tenant as garnishee; and the receiver made no demand of the rent and was no party to the proceedings, it was held, that the equitable rights of the mortgagee could not prevail as against the attaching creditor: Vacuum Oil Co. v. Ellis, 1914, 1 K. B. 693; 110 L. T. 181.

The attaching order may now be made to attach debts not only to answer the claim of the applicant but also those of all other creditors of the debtor entitled under The Creditors Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5, to share in the debt attached.

Death of garnishee.

Death of Garnishee.—There was formerly at Law no power to order or permit a suggestion to be entered of the death of a garnishee, so as to get execution against his representative: Re Ward v. Vance, 3 P. R. 323; but that end possibly may now be attained under Rule 301.

Judgment creditor.

Death of Judgment Creditor.—An executor or administrator of a judgment creditor who has not made himself a party to a judgment cannot proceed under this Rule without making himself a party to the record: Boynard v. Simmonds, 5 E. & B. 59: see Rule 301.

Assignment of the debt garnished.

Assignment by Debtor, of Debt due by Garnishee.—A garnishing order can only charge what the judgment debtor can honestly deal with himself, without affecting the interests of third persons. Re General Horticultural Co., 32 Ch. D. 512; Honcock v. Smith, 41 Ch. D. 456; see also Wood v. Joselin, 18 Ont. App. 59; O'Connor v. Ireland, 1897, 2 Ir. Rep. 150. A debt, therefore, bona fide assigned, before service of the attaching order, is not bound by the order: Hirsch v. Cootes, 18 C. B. 757; Wise v. Birkenshow, 29 L. J. Ex. 240; Grahom v. Bourque, 6 O. L. R. 428, 700; even though the garnishee had no prior notice of the assignment: Pickering v. Ilfracombe Railway Co., L. R. 3 C. P. 235; Robinson v. Nesbitt, L. R. 3 C. P. 264; Brown v. McGuffin, 5 P. R. 231; Grant v. McDonell, 39 U. C. Q. B. 412; Beaty v. Hackett, 14 P. R. 395; Parker v. McIlwain, 17 P. R. 84; Badeley v. Con. Bank, 38 Ch. D. 238; Davis v. Freethy, 24 Q. B. D. 519; Grahom v. Bourque, 6 O. L. R. 428, 700; and formerly, even though the assignment were attacked as a fraud on creditors: Vyse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199; O'Donohoe v. Hull, 24 S. C. R. 683: but this is no longer the case: see Rule 591; Edmunds v. Edmunds, 1904, P. 362; and an assignment which is void under The Fraudulent Conveyances Act (R. S. O. c. 105), s. 3, will be of no avail against an attaching order: Glegg v. Bromley, 106 L. T. 825; but an assignment as security for a preexisting debt is not void under that Act: Ib.

An attaching order though in form attaching "all debts due and owing or accruing due" by the garnishee to the judgment debtor, does not preclud n assignment by the debtor of any part of the debt attached, not req ..ed for the satisfaction of the claim of the attaching creditor; thus, when, after an attaching order, the debtor assigns part of the debt attached and the assignee gives notice of the assignment to the garnishee, the assignee is entitled to priority over any subsequent attaching creditor; under such circumstances the garnishee cannot safely pay into Court more than sufficient to satisfy the first attaching creditor's claim without setting up the claim of the assignee; and if he does, and the second attaching creditor gets the surplus money out, the garnishee may have to pay it over again to the assignee: Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133; sed vide the provisions of The Creditors Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5.

An equitable charge given before an attaching order is obtained takes priority of the order, even in the absence of prior notice of the charge: Badeley v. Consolidated Bank, 34 Ch. D. 536; 38 Ch. D. 238. Rule 590.

An incomplete gift of a debt is no bar to its attachment: Davidson v. Cochrane, 34 C. L. J. 318.

A declaration by a debtor in favour of husband, wife, child, grandchild or mother will, even though made after an attaching order is obtained, protect a policy of insurance on the life of the debtor, in favour of such beneficiaries as against the attaching creditor: The Insurance Act (R. S. O. c. 183), s. 178; Weekes v. Frawley, 23 Ont. 235; Fisken v. Marshall, 10 O. L. R. 552.

Payment by Garnishee.—The order for payment by the garnishee should direct him to pay the debt attached into Court: (see Form 79), not to the attaching creditor, and the amount after deducting costs is to be paid out to the Sheriff of the county where the garnishee resides for distribution under The Creditors Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5. Semble, he should be ordered to pay the whole debt due and not merely sufficient to satisfy the debt of the attaching creditor, or, at all events, enough to satisfy all creditors' claims. Payment by garnishee.

Solicitors' Lien. — An attachment of a judgment overrides a solicitor's lien or control over it in respect of general costs: Davidson v. Douglas, 15 Gr. 347; Reg. v. Benson, 2 P. R. 350; Bank of U. C. v. Wallace, 2 P. R. 352; Cotton v. Vansittart, 6 P. R. 96; Hough v. Edwards, 1 H. & N. 171; Burchell v. Pugin, 32 L. T. 495; but the special lien for costs of the action in which the debt attached has been recovered will be protected where the garnishee has notice of it: The Jeff Davies, L. R. 2 A. & E. 1; The Leader, Ib., 314; Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Crouch, 8 P. R. 437; Shippey v. Grey, W. N. 1880, 99; 28 W. R. 877; Berneski v. Tourangeau, 18 P. R. 263; but the solicitor may, by conduct, waive his lien: Ib. Solicitor's lien.

As to the effect of an attachment upon a solicitor's lien, see further Hough v. Edwards, 1 H. & N. 171; Eisdel v. Coningham, 28 L. J. Ex. 213; Sympson v. Prothero, 26 L. J. Chy. 671; Cole v. Eley, 1894, 2 Q. B. 180.

Set-off by Garnishee.—The Judge has no power to go into the state of the accounts between the garnishee and the judgment creditor, or to allow the former to deduct any amount due to him from the latter, but must order execution to issue for the whole amount due by the garnishee, or for so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the debt due from the judgment debtor to the judgment creditor and other creditors entitled to share under The Creditors Relief Act: Sampson v. Seaton & Beer Railway Co., L. R. 10 Q. B. 28. He may, however, go into the state of accounts between the judgment debtor and the garnishee, and give effect to any set-off or cross debt arising before (Ib., and see Nathan v. Giles, 5 Taunt. 558), but not after (Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591), the service (see Rule 592), of the attaching order; but the garnishee cannot set off a counterclaim which he has against the judgment debtor: Stumore v. Campbell, 1892, 1 Q. B. 314; 66 L. T. 218. Set-off by garnishee.

A garnishee cannot set off against a judgment creditor a debt due to him (the garnishee) from the judgment debtor, if the garnishee was aware, from the commencement of the transaction which resulted in his becoming indebted to the judgment debtor, that the latter's right to such debt would only be as trustee for the judgment creditor: Fitt v. Bryant, 1 Cab. & El. 194.

A garnishee can set off against a judgment creditor costs incurred by him, but not paid at the time the issue is directed, against which the judgment debtor is bound to indemnify the garnishee: Rymill v. Wandsworth, Dist. Bd., 1 Cab. & El. 92.

Where amount is within the jurisdiction of County or Division Court.

Application for Payment by Garnishee.—In an action in the Supreme Court where the amount claimed from the garnishee is within the jurisdiction of a County or Division Court, the garnishee is to be directed to appear to shew cause before the County Court Judge of the County where he resides, or the Judge of the Division Court within whose division the garnishee resides: Rules 597, 598.

Payment over.

The garnishee should not pay over without an order to do so, or he may also have to pay the judgment debtor: Clork v. Clark, 8 U. C. L. J. 107; Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878; Plummer v. Coldwell, Ch. Divisional Court, March, 1892.

The judgment debtor should be notified of the application for the order to the garnishee to pay over: Beoty v. Hackett, 14 P. R. 395; Ferguson v. Cormon, 26 U. C. Q. B. 26.

Charging stocks.

Charging Stocks, etc.—See The Judicature Act, ss. 140-2, supra, p. 303.

Debentures are not stock within the statute: Sellars v. Bright, 1904, 2 K. B. 446.

Where under a will a judgment debtor was interested in e shars of the estate payable after 6 years, and the trustees under the will had invested the fund in stock pending the arrival of the period of distribution, it was held that the debtor hed an interest in the stock which might be charged: Bollard v. Young, 1904, 2 K. B. 824.

The Act does not apply to enable stock to be charged which does not stend in the neme of the debtor or a truetee for him, though it he alleged that the stock hae been fraudulently assigned: Caffrey v. Phelps, 24 Gr. 344.

The Court hae not juriediction on eummary proceedings to order a eale of stock to enforce a charging order: Leggott v. Western, 12 Q. B. D. 287; Kolchmann v. Meurice, 1903, 1 K. B. 534; 88 L. T. 369.

Claims and demands other than debts.

Equitable Execution.—Equitable execution ie e mode of obtaining payment of a judgment hy reeching, by meens of the assistance of the Court, property of the debtor which the Sheriff, by reason of the imperfection of the atetutes or Rules reapecting exscution, is unable to deal with: see Kirk v. Burgess, 15 Ont. 608; Wills v. Luff, 38 Ch. D. 200; Re Shephard, Atkins v. Shephard, 43 Ch. D. 131; Re Craig & Leslie, 18 P. R. 270.

The principel mode of obteining equitable execution is by the appointment of e receiver: end it has now, after some cases to the contrary (see Kirk v. Burgess, supra; Re Pope, 17 Q. B. D. 749; Kincaid v. Kincaid, 12 P. R. 462), been decided that, es in other cases where the euxiliary jurisdiction of Equity ie invoked, the power to award equitable execution is only to be exercised, in general, whers the legal remedy is ineffectual, and therefore a receiver was refused where an attaching order could be obtained: see Trust & Loan v. Gorsline, 12 P. R. 654; or a fi. fa. was sufficient: Manchester, etc., v. Parkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173; Harris v. Beauchamp, 1894, 1 Q. B. 801; and see Tyrrell v. Painton, 1895, 1 Q. B. 202; 71 L. T. 687; but see Pemberton v. Royal Hospital, 123 L. T. Jour. 39. In Morgan v. Hart, 1914, 1 K. B. 183, it is in effect laid down by the Court of Appeal that there is no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver by way of equitable execution except in such cases as a Court of Equity would make such an appointment prior to the Judicature Act. Rule 690.

Before the Jud. Act, 1881, only a legal debt could be attached. By the Jud. Act and Rules the right to attach was extended, and where a judgment debtor had an equitable interest in personalty, if it assumed the shape of an equitable debt, this was held to be attachable: see Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518; Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; and other cases, supra, p. 1210. There still, however, remained cases where the Rules respecting attachment of debts would not apply, by reason of the judgment debtor not being entitled to a debt either legal or equitable, though he, nevertheless, was entitled to some valuable interest.

The mode in which such equitable interests were reached and made available was generally by the appointment of a receiver. Receivers have thus been appointed of a reversionary interest under a will: Fuggle v. Bland, 11 Q. B. D. 711; Tyrrell v. Painton, supra; Ideal Bedding Co. v. Holland, 1907, 2 Ch. 157; a legacy expectant on the death of a tenant for life: Macnicoll v. Pornell, 35 W. R. 773; the income of a trust fund: Oliver v. Lowther, 28 W. R. 381; 42 L. T. 42; Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518, 530; an interest in a subsisting life insurance, and in a charge upon land: Beamish v. Stephenson, 18 L. R. Ir. 319; moneys secured by mortgage held by the debtor, who resided abroad: Parent v. Lorlie, 7 C. L. T. 195; the life interest of a married woman in stock: Bryant v. Bull, 10 Ch. D. 153; a fund in another Court: Weslhead v. Riley, 25 Ch. D. 413; the interest of a debtor in a trust estate, being a share of the proceeds of the estate when sold by the trustees: Stuart v. Grough, supra; an annuity payable to the execution debtor under a contract to which he is not a party, but for which he has given consideration, and to the benefit of which he is entitled: Mool v. Gibson, 21 Ont. 248; a receiver by way of equitable execution may be appointed of a debt due by the Crown to the judgment debtor: Stewart v. Jones, 19 P. R. 227; but a sum payable merely by the bounty of the Crown cannot be so reached: S. C. 1 O. L. R. 34, and the Court refused to appoint a receiver by way of execution of weekly payments of salary falling due in futuro: Holmes v. Millage, 1893, 1 Q. B. 551; 68 L. T. 205; Central Bank v. Ellis, 20 Ont. App. 364; see also other cases referred to, supra, pp. 80-84. Receivers.

The debtor's equity of redemption in chattels is saleable under execution: see The Execution Act (R. S. O. c.), s. 19.

The proper form of equitable relief can only be granted where proper parties are before the Court, therefore after the death of the debtor it cannot be granted without first making parties those in whom his estate is vested: Re Shepherd, 43 Ch. D. 131. See Rule 301.

Where a receiver is appointed of a debtor's reversionary interest in property: Flegg v. Prentice, 67 L. T. 107; 1892, 2 Ch. 428; or a future accruing fund, as for instance a policy on the life of a person still in case: Weekes v. Frawley, 23 Ont. 235, that does not give the creditor a charge entitling him to realize it by sale; and where the estate of the debtor is a legal remainder it can only be sold by and under the usual process of execution; there is no jurisdiction to order a sale of it merely because a receiver of it has been appointed by way of equitable execution: Re Harrison and Bottomley, 1899, 1 Ch. 465; 80 L. T. 29; the appointment of a receiver does not create a charge on the land: Ib., and see Thomson v. Cushing, 30 Ont. 123, 388.

And the appointment of a receiver of a debtor's interest in a policy of insurance on his life does not preclude him from making a declaration of trust thereof in favour of his wife, children, or grandchildren, under The Insurance Act (R. S. O. c. 183), s. 178, which will prevail over the attaching order: Weekes v. Frawley, supra; Fisken v. Marshall, 10 O. L. R. 552.

Where the trustees of a will are, in their absolute discretion, authorized to make payments out of the income of the estate of the testator to a judgment debtor, that is not an interest which can be reached by equitable execution: see Re McInnes v. McGaw, 30 Ont. 38.

A receiver by way of equitable execution was refused in respect of a sum earned by the debtor, but not yet payable and liable to certain contingent deductions: Manufacturers' Lumber Co. v. Pigeon, 22 O. L. R. 378; 24 O. L. R. 354.

The appointment of a receiver operates as a new starting point for the running of The Statute of Limitations, though nothing can be reached thereby for more than twenty years after the date of the judgment; and the order will be operative against the fund provided it can be reached within less than twenty years after the date of the order appointing the receiver: Kinnear v. Clyne, 18 O. L. R. 457.

Equitable interests in land.

Where the debtor has an interest in land of such a nature that it cannot be sold under a fi. fa., the judgment creditor may reach it, by action; but he must have an execution in the hands of the Sheriff at the time of the commencement of the action: Thomson v. Cushing, 30 Ont. 123, 388; Union Bank v. Brigham, 5 O. W. R. 142, 144; but see Johnson v. Bennett, infra.

A receiver was appointed, ex parte, of a mortgaged estate, by way of execution against the mortgagor: Minter v. Kent, 72 L. T. 186.

An equity of redemption in mortgaged lands is saleable under an execution, by virtue of The Execution Act (R. S. O. c. 80), ss. 30-33, only in the case of a simple equity arising upon a single mortgage of the land, or at most existing between one mortgagor and one mortgagee: see Samis v. Ireland, 4 Ont. App. 122; and cases in which an equity of redemption is not so saleable, furnish familiar examples of suits for equitable execution: see Donovan v. Bacon, 16 Gr. 472; Kerr v. Styles, 26 Gr. 309; Johnson v. Bennett, 9 P. R. 337, in which last case there were no writs of execution in the Sheriff's hands, as to which see infra, p. 1222.

Where a receiver was appointed of the interest of a debtor in lands devised to him "during his life for the support and maintenance of himself and his three children, with remainder to the heirs of his body, or to such of his children as he may devise the same to," it was held that although there was no trust in favour of the children, yet that they had an equity which would prevent the whole of the income being appropriated by the creditors to their prejudice, and as they were infants, and in need of maintenance, and the debtor had not otherwise sufficient means to maintain them, the Court ordered that only one-fourth of the fund should be appropriated to the benefit of the creditors: Allen v. Furniss, 20 Ont. App. 34; but where land was devised upon trust to permit the debtor and his wife and children to use it for a home, and then to convey it as the debtor by his will should appoint, it was held that the debtor took no estate which could be made available in execution: Cameron v. Adams, 25 Ont. 229. Rule 590.

Property settled on a married woman subject to a restraint against anticipation, cannot be made available in execution against her, or by attachment or sequestration, or by the appointment of a receiver, as regards instalments of income accruing due after the judgment: Whiteley v. Edwards, 1896, 2 Q. B. 48; Bolitho v. Gidley, 1905, A. C. 369, and notes, supra, p. 486; Hood-Barrs v. Cathcart, 1894, 2 Q. B. 559; Pillers v. Edward, 71 L. T. 788; but it was held that a receiver may be appointed of instalments of income so settled which had accrued due before judgment, but which have not been paid over to the married woman: Hood-Barrs v. Heriot, 1896, A. C. 174; 74 L. T. 353; but it has been more recently decided that no instalments of income subject to a restraint against anticipation can be attached, no matter whether they became due and payable before judgment recovered against the married woman or afterwards: Wood v. Lewis, 1914, 3 K. B. 73; 110 L. T. 994. Married women debtors.

Money payable to a married woman by way of alimony would not appear to be exigible; see Re Robinson, 27 Ch. D. 160; Paquine v. Snary, 1909, 1 K. B. 688; 100 L. T. 220.

Practice as to Receivers by way of Equitable Execution.—As to equitable execution by the appointment of a receiver at the instance of the judgment creditor, see further, notes, supra, pp. 80-84; and for the form of such orders: see Hewett v. Murray, 52 L. T. 380; 54 L. J. Chy. 572; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1333, 1335. Sed quære, whether in view of The Creditors Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5, these forms do not need modification: see Form No. 79; but see infra. Receivers by way of equitable execution.

An order appointing a receiver was held to be "a process of execution" within the Imperial Act, 27 & 28 Vict. sec. 112: Re Pope, 17 Q. B. D. 743; but not an execution within Rule 3 (k).

An attaching order against a garnishee, and a receiver as against the debtor, were granted on the same application in Whittaker v. Whittaker, 7 P. D. 15; but the authority of that case has been doubted in Manchester, etc., v. Parkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173.

The appointment of a receiver would seem to be an effective mode of procedure in circumstances such as existed in Donavan v. Bacon, 16 Gr. 472. There the debtor was entitled to the equity of redemption in land, but the land was subject to two mortgages held by different persons, and the mortgagor was in possession and in receipt of the rents. See also Webb v. Stenton, 11 Q. B. D. 518; London and Canadian, etc., v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 383, 384, 386.

The receiver will be entitled to an order for leave to bring an action in the name of the debtor, if the latter refuses to bring an action, or unnecessarily delays doing so: McLean v. Allen, 14 P. R. 291; Mones v. MacCallum, 17 P. R. 398; the debtor is entitled to an indemnity against costs: Ib.

Rule 590.

A receiver was appointed on an interlocutory application in a fresh action by the judgment creditor in Anglo-Italian Bank v. Davies, 9 Ch. D. 275; see also Ex parte Evans, 13 Ch. D. 252. But a fresh action is unnecessary; the application for receiver may be in the original action after judgment: Salt v. Cooper, 16 Ch. D. 544; Smith v. Cowell, 6 Q. B. D. 75.

A receiver will, however, only be granted in cases where the amount of the judgment debt warrants the expense, and where there is a fair reason to suppose that there is something to receive: I. v. K., W. N. 1884, 63. See also Manchester, etc., v. Parkinson, and other cases supra, p. 81; Taylor v. Gallagher (before Robertson, J., 7th January, 1890.)

A judgment creditor who has obtained a receiver subject to existing incumbrances, cannot place himself in a better position than the debtor, and by giving notice to a trustee obtain priority: Arden v. Arden, 29 Ch. D. 702.

Where the interest of the judgment debtor is not one which is exigible under writs of fi. fa. goods or lands respectively, it was said by Osler, J.A., that the issue of such writs is an unmeaning and needless formality, and is, therefore, an unnecessary preliminary to proceedings for equitable execution: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 309; see formerly Shea v. Denison, 14 Gr. 513; Wilson v. Proudfoot, 15 Gr. 103; and see Thomas v. Cushing, 30 Ont. 123, 388, where the issue of a fi. fa. was held to be still necessary. The issue of such writs will not give any priority. The equitable interest of the debtor is only bound by, and from the time of, the issue of the appropriate form of equitable execution: Stuart v. Grough, supra, and see supra p. 1220.

Whether money realized under equitable execution is subject to the provisions of The Creditor's Relief Act is doubtful: see Sylvester v. McEachon, 9 C. L. T. 138; Dawson v. Moffatt, 11 Ont. 484; McLean v. Allen, 14 P. R. 84.

A receiver may be appointed by way of execution on an ex parte application, but such an order should not be made ex parte, except in exceptional cases: Minter v. Kent, 72 L. T. 186; and semble the defendant is entitled to notice though he has not appeared: see Tilling v. Blythe, 1899, 1 Q. B. 557; 80 L. T. 44. Where such an order is made ex parte the debtor is not driven to appeal, he may move to rescind it: see Rule 217.

An interim injunction restraining a debtor from dealing with the property sought to be reached by way of equitable execution ought not to be granted in the absence of evidence that there is danger of his making away with the property before a receiver can be appointed: Lloyd's Bank v. Medway Navigation Co., 1905, 2 K. B. 359; 93 L. T. 224.

Where a receiver has been appointed by way of equitable execution, on a misapprehension of facts, a third party prejudiced thereby may apply to rescind the order: McLean v. Allen, 18 P. R. 255.

Effect of Appointment of a Receiver.—Where a receiver is appointed of a fund by way of equitable execution, the debtor cannot thereafter alienate or incumber the fund to the prejudice of the creditor at whose instance the receiver was appointed: In re Anglesey, De Galve v. Gardner, 1903, 2 Ch. 727: sed vide, Weekes v. Frawley, supra, p. 1220.

591. The garnishee shall be deemed to be indebted, although any debt sought to be attached has been assigned, charged or incumbered by the judgment debtor, if the assignment, charge or incumbrance is fraudulent as against creditors or is otherwise impeachable by them. C.R. 912.

Garnishee deemed indebted notwithstanding an impeachable assignment of debt.

Formerly a de facto assignment, even though impeached as a fraud, prevented the attachment of the debt so assigned: see Vyse v. Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 199; O'Donohoe v. Hull, 24 S. C. R. 683.

592. The order from the time of service shall bind the debts attached. C.R. 913.

Binds debts from service.

See Eng. (1883), R. 623.

Service of an attaching order does not operate as an assignment in equity, or amount to a transfer of the debt, so as to create the relation of debtor and creditor between the garnishee and attaching creditor: Wardrope v. Canadian Pacific Railway Co., 7 Ont. 321; Re Combined Weighing & Advertising Co., 43 Ch. D. 99; Cooper v. Lawson, 6 T. L. R. 34; Chatterton v. Watney, 16 Ch. D. 378; 17 Ch. D. 259; Norton v. Yates, 1906, 1 K. B. 112. It is otherwise, however, after an order to pay over has been made: Cowan v. Corlill, 33 W. R. 583; 52 L. T. 431.

Service of the attaching order does not justify the Sheriff in withdrawing from possession of the goods of the garnishee under an execution issued against him by his creditor (the judgment debtor): Genge v. Freeman, 14 P. R. 330.

The effect of service is to prevent the debtor from thereafter dealing with the debt to the prejudice of the garnishor: Wood v. Joselin, 18 Ont. App. 60, except in the case of life assurance policies: see supra, pp. 1219-20; but the order formerly did not prevent a valid assignment by the debtor of any surplus of the debt beyond what is sufficient to satisfy the claim of the attaching creditor: Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133; but semble, such an assignment could not now prevail as against the claim of other creditors, if any, entitled to share under The Creditor's Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5.

Money paid into Court in an administration suit by an executor is not money "in the hands" of the executor, and a garnishee order nisi against the executor is not a charge on such money, although paid in after service of the order, so as to give the attaching creditor priority over a trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor: Stevens v. Phelips, L. R. 10 Chy. 417; Jones v. Brown, 29 L. T. 79.

An order nisi does not create any charge till after service: Hamer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942; Re Stanhope, Ib., 160. Holmes v. Tutton, 5 E. & B. 65.

By the express terms of this Rule the debts are bound from the date of the service of the order of attachment, though, if nothing was attachable at the time the order was made, doubtless it cannot attach a debt or claim arising after the order, but before service: McCraney v. McLeod, 10 P. R. 539; Porker v. Howe, 12 P. R. 351; see Kelly v. Rider, 11 T. L. R. 206. The bonâ fide payment by the garnishee to the judgment debtor before such service will protect the garnishee:

Rule 592.

Cooper v. Broyne, 27 L. J. Ex. 446; 31 L. T. 265; Ellcell v. Jackson, 1 Cab. & Ell. 362; but payment to the debtor after service of the attaching order, is no answer to an application under Rule 594: Edmunds v. Edmunds, 1904, P. 362. Neither set off, nor anything else affecting the state of the accounts between the garnishee and the judgment debtor, arising after that date, can be taken into account: Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; though a set-off existing at that date will avail: Sompson v. Seaton and Beer Railway Company, L. R. 10 Q. B. 28; and see supra, p. 1217.

In Fitzpatrick v. Worring, 13 L. R. Ir. 2, two defendants, S. and W., each had an order against the plaintiff for costs. S. was indebted to the plaintiff for rent. W.'s costs were first taxed, and he obtained an order against S., attaching the rent due by S. to the plaintiff. When an order to pay over was applied for, S.'s costs had been taxed, but it was held that the rent could not be set-off against them as the order nisi had attached it, and S. had no claim until his costs were taxed. But see Re Sato v. Hubbard, 8 P. R. 445.

Where a banker was served with the usual order attaching all debts, etc., he was held to be justified in refusing to honour any cheques even to the extent of the amount in his hands over and above the amount required to satisfy the judgment of the attaching creditor: Rogers v. Whitely, 23 Q. B. D. 236; 1892, A. C. 118; 66 L. T. 303; but an order may be made in form restricting its operation to such amount of the debt owing by the garnishee as will satisfy the judgment debt: Ib.; but see Yates v. Terry, supra, p. 1223.

In the case of several attaching orders, the creditors formerly ranked in the order in which their attaching orders were served: Tate v. The Corporation of Toronto, 3 P. R. 181; Sweetnam v. Lemon, 13 C. P. 534; see also Solamon v. Donovon, 10 Ir. C. L. R. App. xiii.; but see now The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5.

Personal service is not indispensable if the service comes to the garnishee's knowledge: Word v. Vance, 9 U. C. L. J. 214, 244.

Service of an attaching order will not defeat the right of a prior mortgagee of the debt attached; thus where a mortgage debenture issued by a company charged all of its assets, and after the order to pay over the debt had been made at the instance of an attaching creditor, a receiver was appointed at the instance of the debenture holder, it was held that, notwithstanding the order, the receiver was entitled to the debt: Coirney v. Bock, 1906, 2 K. B. 746; 96 L. T. 111.

The effect of the word "bind" has often undergone discussion, and under the earlier English Bankruptcy Act the assignee was entitled, and not the attaching creditor, if bankruptcy intervened before actual payment under an order to pay over: Holmes v. Tutton, 5 E. & B. 80; Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878; Tilbury v. Brown, 20 L. J. Q. B. 46; Rylands v Reordon, 8 L. R. Ir. 1; Stevens v. Phelips, L. R. 10 Chy. 417; but if the garnishee was compelled to pay under threat of execution after notice of the bankruptcy, he was discharged as against the assignee: Wood v. Dunn, L. R. 2 Q. B. 73. He was bound, however, to set up the bankruptcy, if he had notice of it before the order to pay over: Ib. The present English law gives the creditor a charge which is good against the trustee in bankruptcy: Emmanuel v. Bridger, L. R. 9 Q. B. 286; Ex p. Joselyne, 8 Ch. D. 327; see Mayor of London v. Joint Stock Bank, 6 App. Cas. 393; but see Norton v. Yates, 1906, 1 K. B. 112.

An assignment by an insolvent for the general benefit of his creditors does not oust a prior attachment by a creditor of the insolvent of a debt due to him: Re Thompson, 17 P. R. 109; a winding-up order does do so, unless the attaching order was obtained before the petition for winding up, and an order for payment has been made before the winding-up order: Ex p. Hawkins, L. R. 3 Chy. 787. Rules 593, 594.

The service does not effect a transfer of the debt or securities for it: Chatterton v. Watney, 16 Ch. D. 378; 17 Ch. D. 259; see also Backhouse v. Siddle, 38 L. T. 487.

593. If the garnishee admits his liability he may pay the amount admitted into Court, less $3 for his costs of paying in, and give notice of such payment to the judgment creditor. New. Garnishee admitting liability may pay debt into Court.

See The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5, which requires moneys attached to be paid to the sheriff of the county in which the garnishee resides; and see Form No. 79.

In England it has been held that payment by a garnishee under an order nisi is no discharge as against a trustee in bankruptcy of the judgment debtor: Re Webster, 1907, 1 K. B. 623; 96 L. T. 332; but presumably, payment under this Rule under an order nisi would discharge the garnishee. Semble, the garnishee must pay the whole debt into Court, or at all events sufficient of it to etaisfy the claims of the sttsching creditor, and other creditors, if any, entitled under The Creditors Relief Act.

Payment to ths attaching creditor without any order to pay over would not be a dischsrge as against the judgment debtor if the debt were not property attachable: see Mayor of London v. Joint Stock Bank, infra, p. 1226.

594.—(1) If the garnisbee does not pay into Court the amount due from bim to tbe judgment debtor, and does not dispute the debt due or claimed to be due from him to the judgment debtor, or if he does not appear upon notice to him, then the Court may order payment into Court of the debt. C.R. 914. Amended. Order for execution against garnishee.

(2) If tbe debt be not payable at the time of tbe attachment, an order may be made for the payment thereof when it becomes payable. C.R. 915.

See notes to Rules 590 and 593.

An action for a debt will lie on a garnishee order, but should not he resorted to if the amount can be recovered by execution under Rule 594: Pritchett v. English & Colonial Syndicate, 1899, 2 Q. B. 428. An action is proper where brought with the view of obtaining a judgment to be sued on abroad, or upon which to petition as a judgment creditor for the winding-up of a company which has property only out of the jurisdiction.

The Division Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 63), s. 61 (e), provides that an action shall not be brought in a Division Court on a judgment or order of the Supreme Court, or a County Court, where execution may issue on the judgment or order.

The judgment debtor should be notified of the application against the garnishee to pay over: Beaty v. Hockett, 14 P. R. 395.

Payment to the judgment debtor under stress of an execution issued after service of the attaching order was held to discharge the garnishee from liability to the judgment creditor: Turnbull v. Robertson, 38 L. T. 389; sed quære, if the garnishee should not pay the money attached into Court in such a case; he cannot discharge himself after service of an attaching order, by a voluntary payment to the garnishee, if the debt is not properly attachable: Mayor of London v. Joint Stock Bank, 6 App. Cas. 393; but having given a cheque for the debt to the judgment debtor, before service of an attaching order, the garnishee is not, on being served with the order, bound to stop payment of the cheque, and its payment would be a valid discharge of the debt: Edmunds v. Edmunds, 1904, P. 362; and where, before payment, a receiver of the fund is appointed, the garnishee should not pay without first bringing the conflicting claims of the receiver and the attaching creditor to the attention of the Court: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; and the garnishee is also bound to set up any assignment of the debt attached, of which he has notice: Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133; and see Rule 596.

As to the garnishee's right to set off: see note to Rule 590, supra, p. 1217.

After an order absolute, in default of payment, the garnishee may be examined as to his means under Rule 580: Cowan v. Carlill, 33 W. R. 583; 52 L. T. 431.

As to rights of other creditors in the moneys attached: see The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5.

An order for payment by the garnishee may be rescinded on its subsequently appearing that the debtor had, before service of the attaching order, validly assigned the debt, and that the garnishee had no notice of the assignment, before the motion to pay over: Beaty v. Hackett, 14 P. R. 395; or where the order has been made and acted on under a mutual mistake of the judgment creditor and the garnishee, that the latter was indebted to the judgment debtor: Moore v. Peachy, 66 L. T. 198; Marshall v. Jones, 1905, 1 Ch. 432.

A garnishee order made absolute, although no debt was at the time due, is conclusive on the garnishee until it be set aside: see Moore v. Peachy, 66 L. T. 198; Randall v. Lithgow, 12 Q. B. D. 525.

A garnishee is bound to ascertain that the debtor of the attaching creditor is really the creditor of the garnishee, or payment, though purporting to be made under an attaching order, will not be a bar to recovery by his real creditor: Andrew v. Canadian Mut. L. Co., 29 Ont. 385.

If upon an application to pay over it should appear that the order, if obeyed, would not effectually discharge the garnishee from liability for the debt to the judgment debtor, the Court in its discretion will refuse the order: Martin v. Nadel, 1906, 2 K. B. 26; 95 L. T. 16. This was the case of a foreigner liable to be sued for the debt in his own country, where payment under the garnishee order would not be a bar.

If the debt attached is not yet payable, the order should direct payment when it becomes payable: see Cl. 2, and see Lloyd v. Wallace, 9 P. R. 335; Nash v. Pease, 47 L. J. Q. B. 766. Rule 595. Order as to maturing claims.

595. If the garnishee disputes his liability, the Court may determine the dispute in a summary way or may order that an issue be tried in such manner as may be directed. C.R. 916. Amended. Issue where garnishee disputes liability.

See Eng. (1883) R. 625.

Garnishee proceedings will not he set aside efter great delay: Re Gordon v. Bonter, 6 U. C. L. J. 112, and should not in any case he opened without previous notice to all partics interested; Bank of U. C. v. Wallace, 2 P. R. 352.

As to the garnishee's right of set off: see note to Rule 590, supra, p. 1217.

In case an issue is ordered between the judgment creditor and garnishee, the judgment creditor stands in the shoes of the judgment debtor, and the garnishee can assert against him all claims he could have asserted against the judgment debtor either as plaintiff or defendant in an action; Nathan v. Giles, 5 Taunt. 558; Tapp v. Jones, L. R. 10 Q. B. 591; 1 Cab. & El. 95; up to the time of the service of the attaching order. See also notes to Rule 592.

This section does not render it obligatory on the Court or Judge to direct an issue. If the matter is clear upon the affidavits, the Court may refuse en issue: Wise v. Birkenshaw, 29 L. J. Ex. 240; and rescind the attaching order: Johnson v. Moody, 12 P. R. 203, where the plaintiff cannot suggest a plausible ground for supposing the money attached to belong to the debtor; but otherwise it would probably he proper to direct an issue, if the plaintiff so desired: Ib. On the other hand, execution may he ordered if the garnishee does not satisfy the Judge that he has real ground for disputing his liability for the debt: Re Sato v. Hubbard, 8 P. R. 445; Newman v. Rook, 4 C. B. N. S. 434; and is acting bonâ fide in making the dispute: Wise v. Birkenshaw, 29 L. J. Ex. 240.

Where fraud was suggested, and circumstances shewn which created a suspicion of fraud, and required explanation, the plaintiff was held to he entitled to an issue: Millar v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 294.

As to the form of issue: see Macdonald v. Tacquah, 13 Q. B. D. 535; Chitty, 469.

Where an action is pending against the garnishee at the suit of the judgment debtor, and there is no collusion between them, the Court will not grant an issue: Richardson v. Greaves, 10 W. R. 45. The Court will, unless quite satisfied that the debt is not liable to attachment, allow the judgment creditor to have an issue with the garnishee: Seymour v. The Corporation of Brecon, 29 L. J. Ex. 243. If the garnishee disputes his liability, and the judgment creditor declines to proceed to try the question, the garnishee is entitled to have the attaching order discharged with costs: Wintle v. Williams, 3 H. & N. 288.

In Wilson v. Dundas, W. N. 1875, 232, Quain, J., ordered the liability to be tried by means of a special case; and where the question is one of law, this seems to be a convenient course.

Rule 596.

Where an issue is directed to a County Court, the action, nevertheless, remains in the Supreme Court, and the County Court Judge has no authority to order production: Cochrone v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 606.

An order for cross-examination of the garnishee was refused in Storer v. Simmons, W. N. 1876, 40, on the ground that the English Rule corresponding with Rule 271 was not intended to apply to such a case, but, in Ontario the garnishee denying liability is subject to cross-examination on his affidavit: Wilson v. Fleming, 19 P. R. 203.

Order for third person to appear.

596.—(1) Where a garnishee has notice of any assignment of the debt or of any claim thereto or charge thereon he shall give notice thereof and the Court may order the assignee or the claimant to appear and state the nature and particulars of his claim. C.R. 920.

Proceedings as to claims of third persons.

(2) After hearing the allegations of such third person, and of any other person who by the same or any subsequent order may be ordered to appear, or in case of such third person not appearing when ordered, the Court may order payment of the amount due from the garnishee, or may order an issue to be tried, or may bar the claim of the third person, or may make such other order as may seem just. C.R. 920. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) RR. 626, 627.

A suggestion that the money attached is trust money, and does not belong to the judgment debtor, should be listened to, and upon reasonable suspicion of such a fact, the Judge has power (even though no suggestion is made that the money belongs to some third person) to direct an issue to determine whether or not the money is trust money, and any person who has a claim to the money has a locus standi to point out the facts to the Judge: Roberts v. Death, 8 Q. B. D. 319; 30 W. R. 76; see Craig v. Craig, 1896, P. 171. The judgment debtor may appear to inform the Court of any such material fact: Lorely v. White, 12 L. R. Ir. 381.

Where the garnishee has notice of the right of some third person to the debt attached, and neglects to bring it to the attention of the Judge, the order to pay over will not protect him as against such third person: Parker v. McIlwain, 16 P. R. 555; 17 P. R. 84. The Leader, L. R. 2 A. & E. 314; Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133.

The "third person" is a "party affected" by the attaching order within the meaning of Rule 217, and may under that Rule, or apart from it, move to set aside the attaching order: Parker v. McIlwain, supra.

The fact that the judgment debtor has a collateral remedy, e.g., by distress, does not prevent the debt being attached: Mitchell v. Lee, L. R. 2 Q. B. 259.

The Judge under this Rule has a discretion to direct, or refuse to direct, the trial of an issue, and his discretion was held properly exercised in refusing, where the plaintiff could not suggest a plausible ground for supposing that the money in the hands of the garnishee belonged to the judgment debtor, or, after examination of the third party, to cast any suspicion upon the bona fides of his claim. Had the plaintiff been able to do this, it would have been the duty of the Judge to direct an issue, if the plaintiff desired it: Johnson v. Moody, 12 P. R. 203. Rule 597.

The concluding part of this Rule authorizes an order for security for costs against either party to the issue, if residing out of the jurisdiction: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121.

An order to pay over made under a mutual mistake of the judgment creditor and the garnishee, that the latter was indebted to the judgment debtor, may be rescinded on the mistake being discovered: Moore v. Peachy, 36 L. T. 198; Marshall v. James, 1905, 1 Ch. 432, where the debt attached as due to the plaintiff (the judgment debtor) was, after order to pay over, discovered to be not due to the plaintiff personally but to a firm of which he was a member.

Proceedings when amount is within the jurisdiction of a County Court.

597. Where the debt claimed to be due or accruing from a garnishee is of the amount recoverable in a County Court, the order to show cause shall require the garnishee to appear before the Judge of the County Court of the County within which the garnishee resides, at a day and place within his County to be appointed by such Judge; and the garnishee shall be served with notice of the day and place appointed. All subsequent proceedings shall then be taken and carried on before such Judge. C.R. 917. Amended.

In County Court actions where the amount claimed to be due from the garnishee is so large as to be not within the jurisdiction of a County Court, the Judge of the County Court in which the judgment was recovered, may make the order to appear returnable before himself, though the garnishee resides in another county: Millar v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 294.

It is not very clear from the Rule in what character a Judge of a County Court is to act, whether as a persona designata or as a Local Judge of the Supreme Court. The proceedings presumably are not transferred to the County Court: see Cochrane v. Morrison in note to Rule 595, supra, p. 1228, and would have to be carried on in the name of the Supreme Court, though before such Judge, and any execution to enforce his order would have to issue from the Supreme Court: see the different phraseology of Rule 598. If he acts as a persona designata there would be no appeal from his order except as provided in The Judges' Orders Enforcement Act (R. S. O. c. 79): see sec. 4.

A garnishee denying liability is subject to cross-examination on his affidavit: Wilson v. Fleming, 19 P. R. 203.

Where a garnishee sets up that the debt is owing to some third person, and the creditor claims that such third person is fraudulently substituted for the judgment debtor, he is entitled to an issue: Millar v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 294.

Rules 598, 599.

Though a garnishee may admit the debt to be due by him, yet if he has notice that it has been assigned he is bound to bring that fact to the notice of the Court on the application for the order to pay over: Yates v. Terry, 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133; and see note to Rule 594; and see Rule 596.

Proceedings when amount within the jurisdiction of Division Courts.

598.—(1) Where the debt claimed to be due or accruing from a garnishee is of the amount recoverable in a Division Court, the order to show cause shall require the garnishee to appear before the Judge of the Division Court within whose Division the garnishee resides, at a day to be appointed in writing by such Judge, and the garnishee shall be served with notice of the day appointed.

(2) The proceedings shall thereafter be carried on before the Judge as though the garnishee summons had issued out of the said Division Court, and all proceedings may thereafter be carried on in the Division Court, and execution may be issued in the Division Court to enforce any order or judgment made. C.R. 918. Amended.

The present Rule is intended to apply in Supreme Court cases as well as County Court cases, where the debt claimed to be due or accruing from the garnishee is of the amount recoverable in a Division Court.

This Rule differs from Rule 597 in that it seems to make the order to show cause before a Judge of a Division Court in effect a transfer of the proceedings to the Division Court of the division in which the garnishee resides, and authorizes execution to issue from that Court to enforce any order that may be made.

Garnishee discharged by payment.

599. Payment into Court or under an order by the garnishee shall be a valid discharge to him, as against the judgment debtor, or any assignee or claimant of whose claim he has given notice and who has been called upon to show cause under the preceding Rules. C.R. 921. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 628.

The mere issue of an attaching order, or order to pay over, is no defence to an action by the judgment debtor: Lockwood v. Nash, 18 C. B. 536; Sykes v. Brockville and Ottawa Ry. Co., 22 U. C. Q. B. 459; Blevins v. Madden, 11 C. P. 195; Genge v. Freemon, 14 P. R. 330; Pickord v. Tims, 19 P. R. 109; Yates v. Terry 1902, 1 K. B. 527; 86 L. T. 133. Payment to the judgment creditor after an attaching order served, but before an order to pay over, is not a discharge, and the garnishee is liable to pay again to the judgment debtor: Turner v. Jones, 1 H. & N. 878; Clark v. Clark, 8 U. C. L. J. 107; McGinnis v. Yorkville, 21 Q. B. 163, 171, but a garnishee order absolute for payment over operates as a stay of an execution on the debtor's judgment against the garnishee: Genge v. Freemon, 14 P. R. 330. Payment into Court discharges the garnishee: Clark v. Clark, supra, p. 1230, and Rule 594; but payment under an order to pay over, will not protect the garnishee, if, before paying over, he has notice of the fund being claimed by another, who proves to have had the better right: Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 299; Yates v. Terry, supra, p. 1230. Rule 599.

As to the practice where orders are made in respect of the same debt in different counties: see Victoria Mutual Ins. Co. v. Bethune, 1 Ont. App. 398.

As to the right of other creditors to share in moneys attached: see The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 5.

Semble, having regard to the provisions of that Act the garnishee must pay into Court the whole debt, or at least sufficient of it, to satisfy the debts of the attaching creditor, and any other creditors entitled to share under The Creditors Relief Act. The money when paid into Court is payable out to the sheriff of the county in which the garnishee resides, less the attaching creditor's costs of the garnishee proceedings: Ib., s. 6 (2), and see Form No. 79.

CHAPTER XXI.

ORIGINATING NOTICES.

Originating notices relating to trusts or questions of administration.

600. The executors or administrators of a deceased person or any of them, and the trustees under any deed or instrument or any of them, or any person claiming to be interested in the relief sought as creditor, devisee, legatee, next-of-kin or heir-at-law of a deceased person, or as cestui que trust under the trusts of any deed or instrument, or as claiming by assignment or otherwise under any such creditor or other person as aforesaid, may apply by originating notice for the determination without an administration of the estate or trust of any of the following questions or matters:

(a) Any question affecting the rights or interests of the person claiming to be creditor, devisee, legatee, next-of-kin or heir-at-law, or cestui que trust.

(b) The ascertainment of any class of creditors, legatees, devisees, next-of-kin, or others.

(c) The furnishing of any particular accounts by the executors or administrators or trustees and the vouching (where necessary) of such accounts.

(d) The payment into Court of any money in the hands of the executors or administrators or trustees.

(e) Directing the executors or administrators or trustees to do or abstain from doing any particular act in their character as such executors or administrators or trustees.

(f) The approval of any sale, purchase, compromise or other transaction.

(g) The opinion, advice or direction of a Judge pursuant to The Trustee Act.

(h) The determination of any question arising in the administration of the estate or trust.

(i) The fixing of the compensation of any executor, administrator or trustee. C.R. 938 and 1269. Rule 600.

See Eng. (1883) R. 765. Clause (i) was not in C. R. 938.

In England the summary procedure in respect of the several matters mentioned in this Rule, is authorized to be taken by what is there called an originating summons.

By the English Rules it is provided that in certain cases an appearance must be entered to an originating summons as in an ordinary action commenced by writ: see Eng. R. 737 c.; in others an appearance is dispensed with: see Eng. R. 737 f.

As no provision is made by these Rules for any formal appearance, or for any special procedure, the practice to be followed is that in an ordinary motion.

All originating notices, unless otherwise ordered, must be served at least seven days before the day of hearing: Rule 215 (a).

The persons to be served in the first place with the notice of motion are specified in Rule 601, but other persons may, by direction of the Judge, be subsequently required to be served: see Rule 601.

A proceeding commenced under this Rule would appear to be an "action"; see Jud. Act, s. 2 (o); Re Fowsitt, 30 Ch. D. 231; Re Varley, 31 Ch. D. 275; 55 L. J. Chy. 259.

It is not an appropriate proceeding where there are questions of fact in dispute: Lewis v. Green, 1905, 2 Ch. 340; 93 L. T. 303.

Questions beyond those which would arise in administration proceedings will not be entertained. thus it has been held that the Rule gives no jurisdiction, on the application of persons entitled under a devise of lands subject to a restraint on alienation, to determine whether the restraint is valid: Re Martin, 8 O. L. R. 638; nor whether a widow can sell without the consent of her children, under a devise to her with full power to dispose of part or the whole as she and the children may think wisest and best at any time: Re McDougall, 8 O. L. R. 640.

Where a plaintiff proceeds by writ in a case which could as well have been determined by an application under this Rule, he will be allowed costs only as of a motion under this Rule: Re Brown, 32 Ont. 323.

Examples of cases determined under clause (a).

Clause (a)—As to determining a disputed debt: see Re Powers, 30 Ch. D. 291. As to persons to be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (o), (e).

The following questions have been determined under the Rule, viz.:

A question as to whether the moneys payable under a policy of life insurance were validly bequeathed to preferred beneficiaries under The Insurance Act (R. S. O. c. 183), s. 171, so as to be not subject to creditors' claims, the applicant being a creditor: Re Cheesebrough, 18 C. L. T. 23; see also, Re Wrighton, 8 O. L. R. 630; Re Harkness, 8 O. L. R. 720; so also, whether persons claiming as heirs and next of kin were entitled to any beneficial interest in the testator's estate: Re Lewis, 29 Ont. 609; Re Gardner, 3 O. L. R. 343; as to whether a devise is conditional: Re Deller, 6 O. L. R. 711. So also a question as to the person entitled to a legacy, where there was a misnomer of the legatee: Re Whitty, 30 Ont. 300; and whether a trust has arisen under a will: Re Evans, 3 O. L. R. 401; and whether a mortgage debt passed under a bequest of chattels: Re McMillan, 4 O. L. R. 415; and whether a devisee of a farm was entitled to specific performance of a covenant of the testator to build a house on the property devised: Re Murray, 4 O. L. R. 418; and whether buildings added after the will to premises devised passed under the devise: Re Stokes, 21 O. L. R. 464.

Executors having no interest in the land devised would appear to have no locus standi to apply under this Rule for the determination of questions affecting the construction of a will as to the disposition of land; e.g., where there is no devise in terms to them, and no caution registered, or where, if registered, it has expired: see In re Young, 38 C. L. J. 81.

Where one of the possible beneficiaries under a will had disappeared, and had not been heard of for 24 years, an application by executors under this Rule against the personal representatives of such person was entertained, to determine the right of such person: Neville v. Benjamin, 1902, 1 Ch. 723; 86 L. T. 387; and the personal representatives were authorized to distribute the share bequeathed to the beneficiary who had disappeared, in the absence of evidence to show that he had survived the testator, after inquiry directed as to his whereabouts: Ib.

A claim to be entitled under a resulting trust alleged to arise in consequence of the failure of an express trust was held not to be determinable under this clause: Re Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, Addison v. Pilcher, 1910, 2 Ch. 547; 103 L. T. 627.

Clause (b)—As to persons to be notified, see Rule 601 (1), (b).

Clause (c)—Where trustees have, without excuse, refused to render an account, they may be ordered to pay the costs of an application under this Rule, including the costs of vouching the account: Re Skinner, Cooper v. Skinner, 1904, 1 Ch. 289. As to persons to be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (c).

Clause (d)—Payment into Court, etc.—Under the corresponding Eng. Rule it is only where money is actually in the hands of the executor, administrator, or trustee, belonging to the estate in question, that its payment into Court will be summarily ordered; the admission that he is indebted will not be sufficient: Nutter v. Holland, 1894, 2 Ch. 408; 71 L. T. 508. As to persons to be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (d); see also The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 39 (2, 5).

Clause (e)—An application to sanction a provision for payment of annuities payable out of residue, and for distribution of the residuary estate after making such provision was entertained under this Rule: Re McIntyre, 3 O. L. R. 212.

The Court will not authorize the continuation of the business of a deceased person by his personal representatives, where that course is not authorized by his will, except so far as necessary to enable the business to be sold as a going concern: Re Broin, 9 O. L. R. 1.

As to persons to be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (a), (e).

Rule 600.

Clause (f)—An application to sanction tbs raising of money by mortgage to pay debts of a testator cannot be made undsr this Rule, excspt in an administration proceeding: ses Walley v. Robinson, W. N. 1884, 144; nor can a Judgs order a sale; bs can only approve of ons wbicb tbs trustees, or executors, or administrators, bave power to make: Re Robinson, 31 Ch. D. 247; Nelson v. Bell, 32 Ont. 118.

Examples of cases determined under cl. (f).

A trustee bas been nutborized under tbis Rule to advancs to a tenant for life part of ths residuary personal estate for the purpose of stocking and cultivating a farm forming part of the real estate: Household v. Household, 27 Cb. D. 553.

As to persons to be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (a), (c).

Clause (g)—Tbs psrsons, or one of the psrsons, wbose rights or interests are sougbt to be affected, must be notified of tbs application: Rule 601 (1), (a), (c); see also Re Harley's Estate, 17 P. R. 483.

Examples of cases determined under cl. (g).

On a summary application for its opinion or advice, under The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 66, the Court has not power to declars ths construction of a will or otber instrument: In re Williams, 1 Chy. Cb. 372; In re Hooper, 29 Beav. 656; Re Rally, 25 O. L. R. 112. Tbe object of tbe statute, it was said, is to assist trustees and executors in the execution of tbeir trusts, as to mattera of discretion. But under the Eng. practice, cases for tbe construction of wills upon originating summonses ars of frequent occurrence: Re Elliot, Kelly v. Elliot, 1896, 2 Cb. 353; 75 L. T. 138; Re Lever, Cordwell v. Lever, 1897, 1 Ch. 32: 75 L. T. 383; Re De Tabley, Leighton v. Leighton, 75 L. T. 328; Re Stephenson, Donaldson v. Bamber, 75 L. T. 495; and see Re Wood, 6 O. W. N. 611; and infra, clause (h); but see Re Davies, 38 Ch. D. 210; In re Gray, 1896, 2 Ch. 802; In re Weeding, 1896, 2 Cb. 364.

Under this Rule tbe Court bas determined wbether sxecutors havs a power to sell land: Re Crawford, 4 O. L. R. 313; and tbs time when moneys payable under an insurance policy were payable to the beneficiaries: In re McKellar, 37 C. L. J. 403.

Also whetber executors bad power to take shares in a company into wbicb it was proposed to convert a business in whicb the testator's estate was interested: In re Morrison, 1901, 1 Ch. 701; In re Strathy, 37 C. L. J. 399.

Also, whetber securities wbich were objected to hy tbe c. q. t. as doubtful, should be retained: Re D'Epinoix, D'Epinoix v. Fettes, 1914, 1 Ch. 890; 110 L. T. 808.

Tbs Court will not undsr tbis Rule interfers witb ths discretion given to trustees hy the terms of tbe trust, or say bow it should be exercised: Re Sergeant, 8 O. L. R. 260; Re Brading, 6 O. W. N. 642.

A petition for advice under The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 66, was by consent turned into a motion under tbis Rule: Re Rally, 25 O. L. R. 112.

An application to declare a resulting trust, on failure for illegality of specific trusts, cannot be entertained on an originating notice: Re Amalgamated Society of Ry. Servants, Addison v. Pilcher, 1910, 2 Ch. 547; 103 L. T. 627.

As to the persons to he notified: see Rule 601 (1), (a).

Rule 600.

Examples of cases refused to be entertained under clause (h).

Clause (h)—In England it is held that only matters which, before the Rule, could have been determined under a judgment for the administration of an estate, or the execution of a trust, can now be determined under the Rule. Questions as to a legal devise could not be so determined, and cannot now be determined under the Eng. Rule: Re Corlyon, 56 L. T. 151; 35 W. R. 155; Re Davies, 36 Ch. D. 210; Re Royle, 43 Ch. D. 18; Re Sherlock, 18 P. R. 6. Nor can questions affecting a person claiming adversely to the will, or deed in question, be so determined: Re Bridge, 56 L. J. Chy. 779; Re Gladstone, W. N. 1888, 185; Re Royle, supra, but it is too late to take such an objection to the jurisdiction of the Court upon an appeal: Re Turcan, 58 L. J. Chy. 101; but this Rule is wider than the Eng. Rule (see clause (h)), and was intended to save the expense of the administration of an estate or trust: Re Whitty, 30 Ont. 300; and see cases noted supra, under clauses (a) and (g).

It is also held, in England, that where the application is founded on an alleged breach of trust, it cannot be maintained under the Eng. Rule, except by consent, per Kekewich, J., Re Weale, 42 Ch. D. 674; 37 W. R. 779; Re Neil, 62 L. T. 649; per Lord Macnaghten, Dowse v. Gorton, 1891, A. C. p. 202; nor where wilful neglect and default is charged: Re Hengler, W. N. 1893, 37. On an application under the Eng. Rule to determine whether a husband was entitled as tenant by the curtesy, a writ was ordered to be issued: Hope v. Hope, 1892, 2 Ch. 336.

Where there is only a question of law to be determined, it should be decided on the motion without putting the parties to the expense of another proceeding: Re Powers, 30 Ch. D. 296; Nobbs v. Law Reversionary Int. Soc., 1896, 2 Ch. 830; 75 L. T. 309.

The construction of a will may be determined upon an application under this Rule, In cases where a Master in taking accounts and making inquiries in an administration proceeding, for the purpose of determining the matters referred to him, would have to place a construction upon the will: Re Sherlock, 18 P. R. 6. The construction of the will declared upon such an application is a sufficient protection to an executor; if he appeals, he does so at his own risk as to costs: Ib. For the purpose of construing the will the Court may take such evidence as may be necessary to enable it to understand the situation of matters at the date of the will, and the date of the testator's death: Re Stokes, 21 O. L. R. 464.

But where the question propounded is one of law arising between legal devisees under a will which does not in any way relate to the administration of the estate, it has been held that there is no jurisdiction under this Rule to determine it: Re Cafferty, 15 O. L. R. 306. The question in this case was whether a devisee took a fee simple or a fee tail.

Where the decision on the construction of a will, or deed, would not put an end to the litigation, the Court may refuse to determine it on an application under this Rule: see Lewis v. Green, 1905, 2 Ch. 340; 93 L. T. 303.

The Court declined to determine, as a question of management of a trust property, whether the guardian of an infant appointed by the Surrogate Court was entitled to receive from trustees a fund held by trustees for an infant under an express trust, the Official Guardian opposing the claim: Re Mathers, 18 P. R. 13.

Questions Determined Upon Applications Under Clause (h).— That a deceased wife had been guilty of a breach of a covenant in her marriage settlement, and that the trustees were entitled to recover damages therefor against her executors: Re Parkin, 1892, 3 Ch. 520. Rule 601. Examples of cases determined under cl. (h).

Which of the trustees under two different instruments was entitled to a trust estate on failure of the beneficiaries: Re Lashmor, 1891, 1 Ch. 258.

A dispute as to a debt, where the question was one of law, and there were no disputed facts: Re Powers, 30 Ch. D. 291.

Whether a power of appointment is valid: Re Hargreaves, 43 Ch. D. 401.

Whether a release is valid: Re Garnett, 50 L. T. 172; 32 W. R. 474; sed vide, Re Ellis, 59 L. T. 924, where it was held that a claim which involved the setting aside of a release could not be so determined.

The propriety of applying part of the corpus of a trust fund in the repair of real estate held on the same trusts as the fund: Conway v. Fenton, 40 Ch. D. 512; Re De Teissier, 1893, 1 Ch. 153; Re Montagu, 1897, 1 Ch. 685.

Whether a tenant for life is entitled to be let into possession: Re Newen, 1894, 2 Ch. 297; and see Re Bagot, 1894, 1 Ch. 177.

On the application of the guardians of infants who were entitled to maintenance out of a fund in the hands of the executor of their father's will, the fund was ordered to be paid into Court though there was no imputation against the character or solvency of the executor: Re Humphries, Mortimer v. Humphries, 18 P. R. 289, and generally this will be done where the person holding the money is a mere trustee without discretion as to the application of the money: Whitewood v. Whitewood, 19 P. R. 183.

Whether a wife is entitled in equity to a settlement of a fund claimed to be set off against her husband's debt to the testator: Re Briant, 39 Ch. D. 471.

Whether the representatives of a deceased tenant for life were entitled to any part of the proceeds of the sale of a reversion, which was subject to the life tenancy, but which was not sold until after the decease of the tenant for life: Re Pitcairn, 1896, 2 Ch. 199.

Construction of a will: see Re Sherlock, supra, p. 1236, and see Rule 604.

As to the persons to be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (a), (e). Parties to be notified.

On applications to determine questions under clause (h) persons cannot be made parties who would not be proper parties to an action for administration; e.g., a company in respect of a possible claim for future calls on stock: Re King, Mellor v. South Australian R. M. Agy. Co., 1907, 1 Ch. 72; 95 L. T. 724.

Clause (i)—See The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 67.

As to the persons to be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (a), (e); and see notes to Rule 410 as to allowance of compensation.

601.—(1) The persons to be served with notice under the next preceding Rule in the first instance shall be as follows:— Persons to be served—

Rule 601.

1. Where notice served by executors, etc.

1. Where the notice is served by an executor or administrator or trustee,

(a) For the determination of any question under clauses (a), (e), (f), (g), (h), or (i), the persons or one of the persons whose rights or interests are sought to be affected;

(b) For the determination of any question under clause (b), any member or alleged member of the class;

(c) For the determination of any question under clause (c), any person interested in taking such accounts;

(d) For the determination of any question under clause (d), any person interested in such money;

(e) If there are more than one executor or administrator or trustee, and they do not all concur in the service of the notice, those who do not concur.

2. Where served by some other person.

2. Where the notice is served by any person other than the executors, administrators or trustees, it shall be served upon the said executors, administrators or trustees. New.

Special directions as to service.

(2) The Judge may direct such other persons to be served as he may deem proper. C.R. 939 and 940.

The word "New" at the end of clause 2 supra, is erroneous. The whole of the Rule up to and inclusive of clause 2, is taken from C. R. 939, and the concluding clause is taken from C. R. 940. In the Official copy of the Rules, the last clause of this Rule is numbered "(1)," but it will be noticed that the first clause is also so numbered. For convenience of reference the numbering of the last clause is changed here to (2).

See Eng. (1883), RR. 767, 768.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this Rule the Judge will not usually determine any question affecting the rights of persons who are neither parties, nor properly represented on the application. The Court has no inherent jurisdiction to declare that the parties to an action sufficiently represent absent parties: see Re Bullen-Smith, 57 L. T. 924; S. C., 58 L. T. 578; Morgan's Brewery Co. v. Crosskill, 1902, 1 Ch. 898. An application may be entertained in the absence of a party: see Rules 75-78; but unless a person is clearly represented in accordance with some Rule, or statute, the absentee will not be bound by the adjudication unless he has subsequently, with notice of it, adopted and acted on it: see Re Lart, 1896, 2 Ch. 788; 75 L. T. 175; and see Uffner v. Lewis, 27 Ont. App. 242. Rules 602, 603.

An executor having no estate in the land under the will, and none under The Devolution of Estates Act (the legal title having vested in the beneficiaries), is not competent to apply for the construction of a devise of real estate: see In re Young, 38 C. L. J. 81.

For the purpose of binding absent parties by proceedings commenced under Rule 600, the provisions of Rules 75-78, must be observed: see the notes to those Rules.

Although this Rule contemplates that the notice of motion shall, in the first instance, be served only on one, or some, of the persons whose rights are affected, yet it is not the practice of the Court to decide questions under the similar Eng. Rule unless all persons interested are either parties or sufficiently represented; on the first return of the motion, therefore, the Judge will, probably, under this Rule, give all necessary directions either for notifying the other persons interested, or for their representation on the application, so as to bind them by the order that may ultimately be made: see Re Gardiner, W. N. 1887, 59.

Service out of the Jurisdiction.—In England the Court cannot give leave to serve an originating summons out of the jurisdiction: Re Cliff, 1895, 2 Ch. 21. In Ontario, however, Rules 25 and 3 (j) would seem to apply to an originating notice under Rules 600 et seq. Service of originating notice out of Ontario.

An application for leave to serve it will have to be made under Rules 25 and 26, semble, the order should limit the time at which the notice should be made returnable: Rule 27 (2).

In England it is held that the third party procedure (see Rules 165-171), does not apply to proceedings commenced by originating summons: Re Wilson, 45 Ch. D. 266; 63 L. T. 100.

602. When upon an originating notice under the Vendors and Purchasers Act it appears that some third person is or may be interested in the question raised, the Court may require notice to be given to such person so that the question may be determined not only as between the vendor and purchaser, but so as to bind such third person. New. Third persons may be notified of application under V. & P. Act.

This Rule is intended to remedy a defect in The Vendors and Purchasers Act (R. S. O. c. 122), which makes no provision for the notification of third parties, or for binding them by an adjudication under the Act, such adjudication hitherto being binding only on the vendor and purchaser. Under this Rule third parties can now be notified of an application under that Act, and will then be bound by the decision, subject, of course, to the right of appeal.

603.—(1) Where any person claims to be the owner of land, but does not desire to have his title thereto quieted under The Quieting Titles Act, he may have any particular question which would arise upon an application to have his title quieted determined upon an originating notice. Particular questions of title to land may be decided.

Rules 604, 605.

Parties to be notified

(2) Notice shall be given to all persons to whom notice would be given under The Quieting Titles Act, and the Court shall have the same power to finally dispose of and determine such particular question as it would have under the said Act. New.

For proceedings under The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), see Rules 692-714, infra. The present Rule is a new provision, and is probably intended to enable the owners of land to obtain an adjudication on some particular question affecting the title to land, e.g., whether a particular instrument constitutes a valid subsisting claim or charge on the property, or whether a particular person in the claim of title was heir of a preceding owner, or same other single question affecting the title, and such a one as may be properly disposed of on a summary application. It does not appear to be intended to extend to matters which involve a large amount of evidence, or the notification of many parties, and which cannot be satisfactorily disposed of without a trial in the ordinary way. It does not appear to be intended to authorize the investigation of the whole title, but merely some single matter affecting it.

Under The Quieting Titles Act, usually, all persons appearing to be interested in opposing the claim of the petitioner are required to be notified, if possible.

Documents may be construed.

604. Where the rights of any person depend upon the construction of any deed, will or other instrument, he may apply by originating notice, upon notice to all persons concerned, to have his rights declared and determined. New.

This is a new provision and is apparently intended to enable persons interested in the construction of any document to obtain a judicial construction thereof in a summary way. But it may be taken for granted, however, that there must be some bonâ fide question in dispute, and of sufficient importance to warrant an application to the Court, and any attempt to obtain the opinion of the Court on any trivial or unimportant question would doubtless fail.

Construction of contracts where no evidence

605.—(1) Where the rights of the parties depend—

(a) Upon the construction of any contract or agreement and there are no material facts in dispute;

(b) Upon undisputed facts and the proper inference from such facts;

Such rights may be determined upon originating notice.

(2) A contract or agreement may be construed before there has been a breach thereof. New.

This also is a new provision, and is confined to the construction of contracts or agreements where no facts are in dispute. It appears to be an amplification of the preceding Rule.

Rules 606, 607.

Summary order.

606.—(1) The Judge may summarily dispose of the questions arising on an originating notice and give such judgment as the nature of the case may require, or may give such directions as he may think proper for the trial of any questions arising upon the application. C.R. 941.

Carriage and service of judgment or order.

(2) Any special directions, touching the carriage or execution of the judgment or order or the service thereof upon persons not parties, may be given as may be deemed proper. C.R. 942.

See Eng. (1883) R. 771.

Costs.—Tbe Court has fuii jurisdiction to make such order as to the costs of the proceedings as mny seem fit: see Jud. Act. s. 74, supro. It appears to be the settied practice of the Court in England to give ali psrties properiy notified of an appiication by executors for directions, their costs as hetween soiicitor and client out of the estate in question: Re Clarke, Clorke v. St. Mory's Convalescent Homc, 97 L. T. 707.

Compromise Order.—Where a compromise order is made on an originating notice, the proceeding is at an end, and it is not open to the parties to continue the proceedings for the purpose of enforcing such order on a new state of facts subsequently arising: Re Hcarn, De Bertodono v. Hearn, 108 L. T. 452.

Interference with discretion of trustees, etc.

607. Service of an originating notice shall not interfere with or control any power or discretion vested in any executor, administrator or trustee, except so far as such interferencc or control may necessarily be involved in the particular relief sought. C.R. 942.

This Rule is not based on C. R. 942, but on C. R. 943.

CHAPTER XXII.

ADMINISTRATION, PARTITION, INFANTS' ESTATES AND DOWER.

(i) Administration.

Creditors, legatees, next of kin, heirs or devisees, may apply on motion in Chambers for administration.

608. Any person claiming to be a creditor, or a specific, pecuniary, or residuary legatee, or the next-of-kin, or one of the next-of-kin, or the heir, or a devisee interested under the will of a deceased person, may apply by originating notice for the administration of the estate, real or personal, of such deceased person. C.R. 944.

Wilful neglect and default may be inquired into under judgment obtained under this Rule.

It is settled that an inquiry as to wilful neglect and default may be made in all cases under an administration judgment granted on motion: Re Allen, Pocock v. Allen, 9 P. R. 277; 18 C. L. J. 242, Carpenter v. Wood, 10 Gr. 354; Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500, 19 C. L. J. 234; and that the executor may be charged with a devastavit arising on the account: Re Stevens, Cook v. Stevens, 1897, 1 Ch. 422; and it would seem that any breach of duty which is practically a matter of account, may be effectually inquired into, and dealt with, under a judgment obtained under this Rule. Where, however, there is any question, to be determined, before a judgment for administration can properly be pronounced, an action should be commenced by writ. Thus it was held that a bill must be filed where the construction of a will was necessary: Heywood v. Stevenright, 8 P. R. 79; Franks v. Worth, 35 W. R. 663; 56 L. J. Chy. 779; Carlyon v. Carlyon, 35 W. R. 155; 56 L. T. 151; where the claim was for support of the wife and children of deceased, raising substantially the same question as would be raised in an alimony suit: Re Foster, Griffith v. Patterson, 20 Gr. 345; Groom v. Darlington, 9 P. R. 298, where the claim rose out of a contract of suretyship: Re Colton, 8 P. R. 342; see also Re Allan, 9 P. R. 277; and Re Arcedeckne, 35 L. J. Chy. 102; or where the executor is charged with misconduct: Re Babcock, 8 Gr. 409, that is, misconduct which would entitle the plaintiff to apply at the outset for an injunction or a receiver: Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500; not misconduct consisting merely in not having accounted for moneys received, and which would be shown upon the taking of accounts: Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565; Re McMillan, 8 C. L. J. 285; Re Bagwell, Anderson v. Henderson, 17 P. R. 100; where the plaintiff claimed to be a creditor, and his claim appeared to be barred by the Statute of Limitations, but he claimed to avoid the operation of the Statute, on the ground of fraud on the part of the testator: Re McDonald, Cameron v. McDonald, 2 Chy. Ch. 29; and where a legatee claimed administration and it appeared that an award had been made respecting the applicant's claim, but the applicant denied being party to the reference: Nudel v. Elliot, 1 Chy. Ch. 326; and see Groom v. Darlington, 9 P. R. 298; and Re Munsie, 10 P. R. 98; 20 C. L. J. 112. In Barry v. Brazill, 1 Chy. Ch. 248, special inquiries as to what would be proper to be allowed to the applicant (the widow and administratrix) for improvements made on the property, and for the maintenance of the infant children of deceased were refused, and the applicant was left to file a bill. But where the facts are not in dispute, and there is only a question of law as to the right of the applicant to sue, it would seem that such a point would be decided on a motion without putting the parties to the necessity of bringing an action: Re Powers, Lindsell v. Phillips, 30 Ch. D. 291; and it is possible that under the enlarged powers conferred by Rule 600, it may hereafter be held that some cases which, under the above decisions, were held to be necessary to be commenced by writ would now be entertained on motion under Rule 600. Rule 606.

Where the application is made on motion, in a case in which the Court is of opinion that a writ should be issued, an order is usually made giving the applicant a day to commence his action, in default, the motion to be dismissed, but if the action be commenced, reserving the costs of the motion until the trial of the action: Re McDonald, Cameron v. McDonald, supra, p. 1242. But where the plaintiff commences an action, instead of applying on motion, where the latter course is proper, he will be disallowed the extra costs occasioned thereby: Sovereign v. Sovereign, 15 Gr. 559; or, if it is not clear that the action was unnecessary, the question of the additional costs will be reserved until after the Master has made his report: Eberts v. Eberts, 25 Gr. 565.

And where a creditor brings an administration action, after being informed that there are no assets applicable to the payment of his claim, if the information appears by the result to be substantially correct, he may have to pay the costs of the action: The City Bank v. Scatcherd, 18 Gr. 185; and so also, a next of kin, or residuary legatee, unnecessarily bringing an action, may be ordered to pay the costs of it: see Parsill v. Kennedy, 22 Gr. 417; Re Woodhall, 2 Ont. 456; so also a trustee: Re Cubburn, Gage v. Rutland, 46 L. T. 848. Where proceedings are unnecessary.

An action unnecessarily brought by a residuary legatee claiming, but failing to establish himself, to be a creditor, was on further directions dismissed with costs: Re Johnston, 25 Gr. 261; and see Re Woodhall, 2 Ont. 456; and a residuary legatee of money and stocks, subject to a prior estate for life, is not entitled, as of course, to have the property brought into Court to be administered; and where the fund is invested in the names of proper trustees, and in proper securities, the Court will refuse to interfere: Re Braithwaite, Braithwaite v. Wallis, 21 Ch. D. 121; 48 L. T. 857.

The extra costs of bringing an action where a summary application would have sufficed were disallowed between solicitor and client: Re Allenby & Weir, 13 P. R. 403; 14 P. R. 227.

The right of a judgment creditor of a legatee, or devisee, under a will, to bring an action for administration of the testator's estate under this Rule was formerly denied: see Gilbert v. Jarvis, 16 Gr. 265; Blake v. Jarvis, 16 Gr. 295; 17 Gr. 201; but see now Mones v. McCallum, 17 P. R. 102, 398. Creditor of legatee or devisee.

A judgment for administration in the form No. 104, amounts to a judgment for the sale of the lands belonging to the estate in question: see Rule 611 (2), and therefore operates immediately as a conversion, and if, before sale, any of the beneficiaries die, the interest of the deceased is personalty, and not realty: Fauntleroy v. Beebe, 1911, 2 Ch. 257; 104 L. T. 704. Effect of judgment for administration.

Rule 606.

Parties.

Parties.—The provisions of Rules 74 (1), 79-87, apply to proceedings under this Rule. All parties from whom an account is sought, should be served with notice: see Rule 79, p. 445, note.

Personal representatives of deceased legatee may apply.

Personal Representative.—The personal representative must always be notified where the application is made by any creditor, devisee, legatee, next of kin, or heir.

Where he makes the application himself he may sometimes do so ex parte: see Rule 610, and note. If the application is made by one of two or more executors or administrators, the others must also be notified: see Rule 601 (1), (c).

There appears to be some conflict of authority as to whether a deficiency of assets, for the payment of debts, is a sufficient ground for the personal representative to apply to the Court for administration: see cases infra, in note to Rule 610, p. 1252.

Action to obtain indemnity against covenants in lease.

The personal representative is entitled to bring an action for administration in order to obtain an indemnity in respect to leasehold estates: Re Bosworth, 45 L. T. 136; or contingent liabilities, e.g., possibility of future calls on shares: Re King, Mellor v. South Australian L. M. Agency Co., 1907, 1 Ch. 72; 95 L. T. 724; but he has no right to institute an action for administration merely to obtain an indemnity by passing his accounts: White v. Cummins, 3 Gr. 602; Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392; Borry v. Borry, 19 Gr. 458; and he may be refused his costs of an action if unnecessarily brought: Graham v. Robson, 17 Gr. 319; Springer v. Clarke, 15 Gr. 664; but see Farrow v. Austin, 18 Ch. D. 58; 45 L. T. 227; Re McClellon, 29 Ch. D. 495; 52 L. T. 741; or he may be ordered to pay the costs of the action: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 16 Gr. 94; Re Dineen, before Boyd, C., 13th May, 1881; or the costs of an action brought by a creditor or legatee, rendered necessary by the action of the executor: McGill v. Courtice, 17 Gr. 271; Re Radcliffe, 44 L. T. 96; 50 L. J. Chy. 317; Killins v. Killins, 29 Gr. 472. An application was held to be proper where one of the legatees was absent from the Province and the executor had taken proper steps to find him, and could not get a discharge without coming to the Court: Re Wade, 18 Gr. 485. So also executors have been charged with so much of the costs of the reference as were incurred in establishing charges against them which they disputed: Stewart v. Fletcher, 18 Gr. 21; Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 311; Bald v. Thompson, 17 Gr. 154; and see Ashbough v. Ashbough, 10 Gr. 433. But an executor may be allowed his costs though he has committed a breach of trust, if the estate has suffered no loss: Wiard v. Gable, 8 Gr. 458. But a personal representative in default was held not entitled to costs until he had made good his default: Re Bashaw, Hannay v. Bashaw, 23 Ch. D. 195; 48 L. T. 476; McEwan v. Crombie, 25 Ch. D. 175; 49 L. T. 499. In Tebbs v. Carpenter, 1 Mad. 290, it was laid down that if the suit would have been proper, and the executor a necessary party, if the executor had not misconducted himself, he ought not to pay all the costs of the suit, though in the course of the suit it appears that he has misconducted himself; but if the misconduct of the executor was the sole occasion of the suit, he ought then to pay the costs. This rule was approved in Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 321; and Simpson v. Horne, 28 Gr. 1; but see remarks in the latter case at p. 9.

Personal rep., when entitled to costs.

May be ordered to pay costs of unnecessary action, or of action rendered necessary by his misconduct.

Application, when to be made.

Application, how made.—Applications under this Rule are made in Chambers: Rule 207 (3). By Rule 212 motions for administration may be made before a Judge in Chambers, or the Local Judge of the county where the land or any part of it is situate, or where the testator or intestate died. The Master in Chambers, or Local Masters, also appear to have jurisdiction in uncontested cases: Rules 207 (3), 208 (8), 209; if the motion is contested, the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, or Local Master, is excluded, and the motion must be adjourned before a Judge in Chambers: see Rule 208 (8), and the Judge may, if necessary, direct an action to be brought: see Re Underhill, 33 Ch. J. 40; 17 C. L. T. 9. Rule 606.

Formerly a Local Master had no jurisdiction to grant a judgment for administration unless the deceased had resided in his county: see C. R. 947, but that Rule has not been continued; and probably the practice on that point is now changed: see Rule 209. Local Masters.

Under the present Rules it would appear that an application can no longer be made in the name of an infant by his next friend, because wherever an infant is interested he must now be a defendant: see Rule 609. Infants must be defendants.

Rule 215 (2), provides that seven clear days' notice of the motion must be given. Motions for administration, therefore, constitute an exception to ordinary motions, which only require two clear days' notice: Rule 215 (1); and see Exchange Bank v. Newell, 19 C. L. J. 253. Seven clear days' notice of motion to be given.

Where an administration judgment is made in Chambers, the reference should primâ facie be to the Master of the County in which the person, whose estate is to be administered, resided: Thompson v. Fairbairn, 10 P. R. 533; Armstrong v. Armstrong, 18 P. R. 55. Place of reference.

A judgment for the administration of the realty alone will not be granted, unless the personal estate has been previously administered: Rowsell v. Morris, L. R. 17 Eq. 20; Re Armour, Moore v. Armour, 10 P. R. 448; but see Dey v. Dey, 2 Gr. 149.

Although it is not necessary to serve all the parties interested in the realty with notice of the application for administration, they must, nevertheless, all be served in the Master's office with an office copy of the judgment as prescribed by Rule 87: see note to that Rule; parties who are not served will not be bound by the accounts: Norris v. Bell, 9 Gr. 23; May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347; Uffner v. Lewis; Boys' Home v. Lewis, 27 Ont. App. 242. A party improperly served may move to set aside the service: Re Symons, Betts v. Betts, 54 L. T. 501; and see Rule 87. Parties to be served with judgment.

For form of judgment on applications under this Rule: see Form No. 104; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 878, 879, 880, 1377.

The judgment must be entered in the same way as other judgments in an action: Rule 515. Entry of judgment.

C. R. 958 constituted the offices of the Local Masters offices for entering judgments for administration, or partition, granted by them; but that Rule has not been continued: see now Rule 515 (3).

Where more than one application is made for administration of the same estate: see note to Rule 610, infra, p. 1254.

Creditors.—A creditor whose debt is payable, may make application for administration of his deceased debtor's estate, without waiting a year from his decease. To an application by a creditor for the administration of the personal estate, no one but the personal representative, and any persons interested who are infants (see Rule 609), need Application for administration by creditors.

Rule 608.

be made defendants. Formerly if an administration of the realty was also sought, some one must be made a party who was interested in the realty: C. R. 951, that Rule has not been continued, but its omission is probably not intended to alter the practice. Under the Devolution of Estates Act, the personal representative sufficiently represents, for the purpose of an application under this Rule, both the real and personal estate of all persons dying since 1st July, 1886, and it is not proper to make the heirs or devisees of such persons parties unless the estate has become vested in them under The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 119), s. 13; sed vide Ianson v. Clyde, 31 Ont. 579, per Boyd, C., p. 586; but the beneficiaries must be served with the judgment under Rule 87. Where the letters of administration are limited to the personalty, it will be necessary to get letters of administration as to the realty, in order to obtain proper representation of the realty.

Personal representative must be served.

Where the realty has become divested from the personal representative by reason of the omission to file a caution, he ceases to represent it; and it remains liable to administration in the hands of the devisee or heir: see The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 119), s. 13.

If more than one all must be served.

Where there are several personal representatives all must be served, even though some be resident out of the jurisdiction: Re Freeborn, Freeborn v. Carroll, 6 P. R. 188; Latch v. Latch, L. R. 10 Eq. 464.

Executor de son tort.

A judgment for administration can not be granted as against an executor de son tort where there is no legal personal representative before the Court: Rowsell v. Morris, 17 Eq. 10. Nor against an executor named in the will who has not proved the will: Outram v. Wyckhoff, 6 P. R. 150; Re Colton, Fisher v. Colton, 8 P. R. 542. Former C. RR. 194-5 which permitted such procedure have not been continued. See further as to parties: Rules 79-84, and notes.

Formerly an action by a creditor for the administration of real estate had to be brought on behalf of himself and all other creditors, but since The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 119), that is no longer necessary: In re James, James v. Jones, 1911, 2 Ch. 348; 106 L. T. 214.

Evidence required on application. Proof of grant of probate, or administration.

On the motion, the applicant, must be prepared with proof that the defendant is the personal representative; ordinarily, the letters of administration, or letters probate should be produced: Re Marshall, Fowler v. Marshall, 1 Chy. Ch. 29; Re Israel, 2 Chy. Ch. 392. But where the plaintiff swore that the defendant was administrator, and the fact was not disputed, production of the letters was dispensed with: Re Bell, Bell v. Bell, 3 Chy. Ch. 397. It is sufficient if the letters of administration be granted at any time before the hearing of the motion, even though subsequent to the giving of the notice: Edinburgh Life Assurance Company v. Allen, 19 Gr. 593; Re Masonic & Gen. Life Assce. Co., 32 Ch. D. 373; Trice v. Robinson, 16 Ont. 433; Dini v. Fauquier, 8 O. L. R. 712; Doyle v. Diamond Flint Glass Co., Ib. 499. It has been held that letters of administration obtained pendente lite will not relate back to the commencement of the action so as to bar the running of the Statute of Limitations: Chard v. Rae, 18 Ont. 371; but doubt seems to be thrown upon this decision by Dini v. Fauquier, supra; see 40 C. L. J. 836; Johnston v. Dominion of Canada G. & A. Co., 17 O. L. R. 462. Where the motion was refused on the ground that the personal representative was not a party, only the costs necessary to raise that objection were allowed: Irwin v. Buck, 6 P. R. 183.

Proof of applicant's claim.

Rule 608.

The creditor applying must also give prima facie evidence of his claim as creditor: Re Clarke, 2 Chy. Ch. 57; and where his claim is disputed, he must establish it by proper evidence—his own uncorroborated evidence is insufficient: Vivian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461; Re Finch, 23 Ch. D. 267; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; see The Evidence Act (R. S. O. c. 76), s. 12, which applies to actions by, or against, heirs, next of kin, personal representatives, or assignees of a deceased person; and as to the nature of corroboration required: see Stoddart v. Stoddart, 33 U. C. Q. B. 203; Sugden v. Lord St. Leonards, 1 P. D. 154, 179; McDonald v. McKinnon, 26 Gr. 12; McKay v. McKay, 31 C. P. 1; Adamson v. Adamson, 28 Gr. 228; Brown v. Capron, 24 Gr. 91; Holleran v. Moon, 28 Gr. 319; Re Lows, Laws v. Lows, Ib., 382; Re Robbins, 23 Gr. 162; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; 18 C. L. J. 11; Parker v. Parker, 32 C. P. 113, approved in Radford v. Macdonald, 18 Ont. App. 167; Watson v. Severn, 6 Ont. App. 559; Watson v. Bradshaw, Ib., 666; Cook v. Grant, 32 C. P. 511; Re Murray, 29 Gr. 443; 9 Ont. App. 369; Burn v. Burn, 8 Ont. 237; Tucker v. McMahon, 11 Ont. 718; Hogg v. Maguire, 11 Ont. App. 507; Davis v. Walker, 5 O. L. R. 173; Thompson v. Coulter, 34 S. C. R. 261; Re Curry, 32 Ont. 150; Re Jelly, Union Trust Co. v. Gamon, 6 O. L. R. 481; O'Connor v. O'Connor, 5 O. W. R. 10; Scott v. Allen, 26 O. L. R. 571. The corroboration may be furnished by production and comparison of the hand-writing of deceased: Thompson v. Thompson, 4 O. L. R. 442. It is sufficient if the corroboration is in some material facts, but it is not necessary that the whole of the facts should be established by independent testimony: Radford v. Macdonald, supra; McGregor v. Curry, 31 O. L. R. 261.

Corroboration of claim must be given, if contested.

Where there is corroborative evidence of the debt, interest thereon may be allowed without any corroborative proof of an agreement to pay interest: Secor v. Gray, 3 O. L. R. 34.

An interested party (e.g., a cestui que trust) may give corroborative evidence of a claim: Bolzold v. Upper, 4 O. L. R. 116.

No corroboration is necessary as to claims against the estate of a deceased person arising after his death: McClenoghon v. Perkins, 5 O. L. R. 129.

An annuitant whose annuity is payable under a covenant made by a testator is not entitled to apply for administration of the testator's estate so long as the annuity is not in arrear, even though the estate be deficient: Re Horgreaves, Dicks v. Hare, 44 Ch. D. 236; 62 L. T. 819; and see Re Potter, Potter v. Potter, infra, p. 1250.

Partnership.

A partnership creditor suing for the administration of the estate of a deceased partner must join the surviving partner as a party, even though he is insolvent: Re McCrae, Forster v. Davis, 25 Ch. D. 16; 49 L. T. 544.

An application by a partnership creditor was refused, where it was shown that the separate estate of the deceased was insufficient to pay his separate creditors: Re Barnard, Edwards v. Barnard, 32 Ch. D. 447; 55 L. T. 40. In Armstrong v. Armstrong, 18 P. R. 55, the plaintiff being out of the jurisdiction, and his probable interest in the estate appearing to be $273, he was absolved from giving security for costs, he agreeing that his share in the estate should be charged with any costs he might be ordered to pay.

Applicant must be creditor of the deceased.

Where the applicant was merely a creditor of the personal representative for advances made to him as such, the application was refused: Campbell v. Bell, 16 Gr. 115; Farhall v. Farhall, L. R. 7 Chy. 123; Re Pettee, 6 P. R. 157; Owen v. Delamere, L. R. 15 Eq. 134;

Rule 608.

Ewart v. Steven, 18 Gr. 35; Seton, 5th ed., 1315; and see Henry v. Sharp, 18 Gr. 16. Creditors whose debts are incurred by the executor, in carrying on a business of his testator are entitled to indemnity out of the deceased's estate to the extent, if any, to which the executor is entitled: Re Johnson, Shearman v. Robinson, 15 Ch. D. 548; 43 L. T. 372; and where the business of the testator was carried on by his executors in accordance with his will, creditors of the business were entitled to apply for the administration of the estate although there were no unpaid creditors of the testator himself: Re Shorey, 79 L. T. 349; Re Bach, W. N. 1892, 108; and a plaintiff, who had made advances to pay the debts of a deceased person to save the estate the costs of suits to recover them, was held entitled to administration: Glass v. Munsen, 12 Gr. 77; see also, Mills v. Cottle, 17 Gr. 335; Strickland v. Symonds, 48 L. T. 188; which were cases of advances to trustees.

Effect of judgment for administration as to claims of other creditors.

A judgment for administration cannot be set aside on the ground that the applicant was not a creditor, after other creditors have proved under it: Re Connon, Gates v. Cannon, 13 Ont. 70.

Where the personal representative has duly advertised for creditors under The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 56, and has distributed the estate, that is an answer to a subsequent application for administration by a creditor who has failed to send in his claim: Re Bracken, Doughty v. Townson, 1889, 43 Ch. D. 1; 61 L. T. 531; unless it can be primâ facie shown that on a proper accounting the personal representative has still assets applicable to the payment of the applicant's claim.

Statute of Limitations.

Statute of Limitations.—A judgment for administration of the estate of a deceased person operates as from its date, not merely in favour of a creditor, but also in favour of the estate, i.e., of the personal representative, and other creditors, when the estate is insolvent, in regard to a set-off against the creditor's demand, and the judgment prevents the further running of the statute (R. S. O. c. 75), s. 49, against the set-off: Re Ballard, 88 L. T. Jour. 379. The judgment also enures to the benefit of residuary legatees, and makes a fresh starting point in their favour against the running of the Statute of Limitations: Uffner v. Lewis, 27 Ont. App. 242.

A judgment for administration, is equivalent to a judgment in favour of all the creditors of the estate, but creditors who are not parties to the action can only claim the benefit of it from its date; as to the claims of the latter, the running of The Statute of Limitations is not stopped until the judgment is obtained: Re Cannon, 13 Ont. 705; Re Greaves, 18 Ch. D. 551; 45 L. T. 464; Manby v. Manby, 3 Ch. D. 101; but see Crooks v. Crooks, 4 Gr. at p. 619. The judgment, however, does not prevent the Statute from running in favour of debtors to the estate: Archer v. Severn, 12 Ont. 615; 14 Ont. App. 723; (but see Re Ballard, supra); and a judgment for the administration of the estate of the owner of the equity of redemption, does not stop the running of the Statute in favour of a mortgagee in possession: Crooks v. Watkins, 8 Gr. 340.

The personal representative is not bound to set up the Statute of Limitations as a bar to a creditor's claim: Lewis v. Rumney, L. R. 4 Eq. 451; and if the personal representative, and such of the parties beneficially interested as are parties to the action, or who have come in under the judgment, do not set up the Statute, the Court is not bound, on behalf of absent parties beneficially interested, to disallow claims against the estate which are barred by the Statute: Alston v. Trollope, L. R. 2 Eq. 205. But although the personal representative may refuse to set up the Statute as against the claim of a creditor of the estate, yet any party interested in the estate, whether as creditor, legatee, or next of kin, may set it up as a bar to the claim: Shewen v. Vanderhorst, 1 R. & M. 352; Re Wenham. Hunt v. Wenham, 1892, 3 Ch. 59; 67 L. T, 648; Briggs v. Wilson, 5 D. G. M. & G. 12; Re Lacey, Howard v. Lightfoot, 1907, 1 Ch. 330; 96 L. T. 306; and after a judicial decision that a claim is barred by the Statute of Limitations, if the personal representative pay the claim, it will be a devastavit: Midgley v. Midgley, 1893, 3 Ch. 282; 69 L. T. 241. But a trustee, or executor, cannot be compelled by a beneficiary to set up the Statute of Limitations as a bar to any debt which the trustee or executor has himself incurred, and for which the estate is liable: Budgett v. Budgett, 1895, 1 Ch. 202; 71 L. T. 632.

Rule 608.

Refusal to set up statute.

Debts incurred by personal representative.

Though a personal representative may pay, or retain, debts barred by the Statute, though otherwise justly due, he cannot properly pay, or retain, a debt due under a promise which cannot be enforced by reason of its not being in writing under The Statute of Frauds (R. S. O. c. 102): Re Rownson, Field v. White, 29 Ch. D. 358; 52 L. T. 825.

Where a cause of action accrues in the lifetime of the creditor, the Statute begins to run against him, and continues to run against his estate, notwithstanding there is no executor, or administratrix thereof; but where the cause of action does not accrue until after his death, then the time does not begin to run until there is a personal representative: Grant v. McDonald, 8 Gr. 468; Stevenson v. Hodder, 15 Gr. 570. A claim cannot be kept alive by any acknowledgment or payment, by an executor de son tort: Ib., Boatwright v. Boatwright, L. R. 17 Eq. 71, and see Ellis v. Ellis, 1905, 1 Ch. 613.

A personal claim barred as to personal estate by the six years limitation may be preserved by a charge of debts on land as against real estate, so as to become liable to be barred only after ten years: Re Stephens, Warburton v. Stephens, 4 Ch. D. 39; The Statute of Limitations (R. S. O. c. 75), s. 24, and see Barnes v. Glenton, 1898, 2 Q. B. 223; 1899, 1 Q. B. 885; 80 L. T. 606.

Where a contract for payment of money at a future time provides that in default of payment of interest for 21 days, at any time, the principal may be called in, the Statute will begin to run as against the principal money from the time when it might have been first called in under such provision, where there has been no subsequent payment: Reeves v. Butler, 1891, 2 Q. B. 509; 65 L. T. 329.

A personal representative cannot set up his own devastavit and claim that the Statute of Limitations bars any claim against him by reason of such devastavit; but if he is sued for a devastavit, he may rely on the Statute as a bar: Re Hyatt, Bowles v. Hyatt, 38 Ch. D. 609; 59 L. T. 237.

A Statute barred debt owing by one executor of a deceased person's estate to his testator cannot be set off against the executor's beneficial distributive share in the testator's estate: Re Bruce Lawford v. Bruce 1908 2 Ch. 682; 99 L. T. 704.

Staying creditor's action after administration.

Staying Proceedings.—As to staying a creditor's action when an administration judgment has been granted: see Re Langtry, 18 Gr. 530; Re Henderson, 26 Gr. 297; Bailey v. Monteith, 3 C. L. T. 599; Henderson v. Maxwell, 19 L. R. Ir. 225; Monteith v. Merchants Bank, 4 C. L. T. 41; Harrison v. Stubb, W. N. 1878, 79; Re Tims, W. N. 1878, 141; and see Doner v. Ross, in note to Rule 610; and as to staying proceedings on the administration judgment: see Rule 613 (b).

In Re Womersley, Etheredge v. Womersley, 29 Ch. D. 557; 53 L. T. 260, the Court refused to restrain a creditor who had recovered judgment previously to the administration order, from proceeding against the executor personally.

Proceedings by a creditor may be stayed on the application of any person interested in the estate, on payment of his claim and costs: Fitten v. Dawson, 3 Chy. Ch. 461; Re Henderson, 26 Gr. 297; 15 C. L. J. 132.

Where some defendants in an administration action by a creditor offered to satisfy the plaintiff's claim and the costs of the action, the Court refused to stay proceedings unless the rights of an infant defendant were provided for: Clegg v. Clegg, 17 L. R. Ir. 118.

After judgment for administration, a creditor cannot, in an action for trespass brought against him by the personal representative, counter-claim for a debt due by the deceased to him: Monteith v. Walsh, 10 P. R. 162; 20 C. L. J. 71.

Applications for administration by legatees, or next of kin, cannot be made until lapse of a year from death.

Legatees, Next of Kin, etc.—Applications by legatees, or next of kin, for administration cannot be made until the lapse of a year from the death of the deceased: see The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 119), s. 32; Slater v. Slater, 3 Chy. Ch. 1; Vivian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461; Grant v. Grant, 9 P. R. 211: but see contra, Wollis v. Wallis, 9 Ir. Chy. 511; Prosser v. Mossop, 29 W. R. 439, which were not followed in Re Morley, Tucker v. Morley, September, 1882, by Proudfoot, J. When the action is brought unnecessarily, the legatee may be ordered to pay the costs of all parties: Re Woodhall, Garbutt v. Newson, 2 Ont. 456. Whenever a legatee, if alive, may apply, his personal representative, in case of his death, may also apply: Simpson v. Horne, 28 Gr. 1. As to parties to an application by legatees: see Rules 79, 80, and note supra, p. 444, et seq. The fact that legatees applying for an administration judgment dispute the claim of the personal representative to be a creditor of the estate is no ground for refusing the application: Re Bagwell, Anderson v. Henderson, 17 P. R. 100.

Where a legatee is a debtor to the estate, the personal representative may set off the debt against his legacy pro tanto, notwithstanding that the debt may be barred by the Statute of Limitations: In re Taylor, Taylor v. Wade, 1894, 1 Ch. 671; 70 L. T. 556; 8 R. 186.

Where land is devised subject to the payment of an annuity, so long as the annuity is promptly paid the annuitant cannot claim to have the land sold: Re Potter, Potter v. Potter, 50 L. T. 8; and see Re Hargreaves, Dicks v. Hore, supra, p. 1247; and where a will creates a life estate in chattels, the executor is discharged when he hands over the chattels to the tenant for life; the latter, and not the executor, then becomes liable to the remainderman: Re Munsie, 10 P. R. 98; 20 C. L. J. 112.

Administration was refused on the application of a legatee whose claim, including interest on his legacy, only amounted to $28, notwithstanding that it was alleged that other legacies remained unpaid, which amounted to a considerable amount: Reynolds v. Coppin, 19 Gr. 627; and see Re Johnston, Johnston v. Hogg, 25 Gr. 261. Rule 609.

The fact that the estate was small, and that no misconduct was imputed to the executors, and that it was inadvisable to incur expense, was held to be no ground for refusing the application of a legatee for administration: Re Falconer, 1 Chy. Ch. 273. Where, however, the executor swore that the personal estate did not exceed $50, the Court, before granting the order, required the applicant, who was one of the residuary legatees, to file an affidavit stating that he had reason to believe, and did believe, that the result of the proceedings would shew a substantial balance to be divided among the legatees: Foster v. Foster, 19 Gr. 463; and see Westbrook v. Browett, 17 Gr. 339; Shaw v. Freedy, 8 C. L. J. 186; Gilbert v. Braithwait, 3 Chy. Ch. 413.

Infants.—An application for administration under this Rule cannot be made on behalf of an infant by his next friend; see formerly Re Hill, 10 C. L. T. 87; but see now Rule 609 and note; and an action by an infant by a next friend for administration would probably be also considered to offend against Rule 609. Administration has been granted on the mere suggestion that it would be for the infant's benefit: Re Wilson, Lloyd v. Tichborne, 9 P. R. 89; but where the ground of motion was that strangers had got possession of most of the estate, an order was refused, there being no allegation that the executor refused to account, or was colluding, and the Court thought he ought to apply for the order if it were necessary: Re Dearing, Mitchell v. Dearing, 12th June, 1882, Proudfoot, J.; see also Re Blake, 29 Ch. D. 913. Applications in which infants are interested.

An administration action should not be instituted, where the object is simply to obtain an allowance for the maintenance of infant beneficiaries out of the estate, which can be as readily got by application under Rule 618, et seq.: Fenwick v. Fenwick, 20 Gr. 381; Goodfellow v. Rannie, Ib., 425.

Where the guardian ad litem of an infant defendant had made no objection to the unnecessary proceedings, no costs were given either to the executors, or the guardian, of such proceedings: Springer v. Clarke, 15 Gr. 664.

Where the estate in question is small, an action for administration should not be brought until all reasonable means of avoiding the action have been exhausted; and where a next friend of an infant brought a suit for administration, without having taken steps to avoid litigation, and the suit afterwards appeared to have been unnecessary, he was ordered to pay the costs of the suit: Hutchinson v. Sargent, 17 Gr. 8; McAndrew v. Laflamme, 19 Gr. 193; Moodie v. Leslie, 12 Gr. 537; and see Re Johnston, 25 Gr. 261; Carroll v. Carroll, 23 Gr. 438; Re Blake, 29 Ch. D. 913. Administration, when estate of trifling amount.

Removal of Trustees, or Executors.—The Court has jurisdiction on motion at any time during the proceedings to remove trustees, or executors, if it considers such removal is necessary for the preservation of the trust, or the welfare of the c.q.t., and that notwithstanding that such removal has not been originally asked for: Re Wrightson, Wrightson v. Cooke, 1908, 1 Ch. 789; 98 L. T. 799; and see The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 40. Removal of trustees or executors.

609. A judgment for the administration of an estate in which an infant [or a lunatic who has no committee Representation of infants.

Rule 610.

except the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities, is interested], shall not be made unless the infant is made a party defendant and notice is given to the Official Guardian. [Notice of such application shall, unless otherwise ordered, also be given to such lunatic]. C.R. 948. (As amended by Rule 773.)

The words in [ ] indicate the amendments.

This Rule extends to all cases of administration either of real or personal estate, or of both.

The Official Guardian ad litem must be served with the notice of motion: Rules 3 (j), 18, and only one copy thereof need be served, no matter how many infant parties there may be: Rule 18 (4). The notice of motion should, of course, be directed to the several infants interested, by name.

There seems to be nothing in this Rule forbidding an application on behalf of a lunatic as plaintiff. Notice of such an application would have to be given to the Official Guardian where the plaintiff had no committee except the Inspector.

Order may be obtained by personal representative.

610. An executor or administrator may, upon summary application, obtain a judgment for administration. C.R. 950.

Where no infants are interested a personal representative may apply ex parte: Re Dunlevy, Order Book 11, fo. 778; Re Ette, 6 P. R. 159; Re Bromley, before Blake, V.-C., 28th January, 1878; where infants are interested they must be made defendants and notice of the application must be served on the Official Guardian ad litem: Rule 3 (j), 18, 609. The notice of motion must be seven clear days unless otherwise ordered: Rule 215 (2).

Where a lunatic having no other committee than the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities is interested the Official Guardian must be notified of the application: see Rule 609.

Where the application is made by the personal representative ex parte, the proceedings should be entitled "In the matter of (the Estate)," and no persons should be named as plaintiffs or defendants: Re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 69. Where no sufficient ground was shewn for making the order, it was refused: Barry v. Barry, 19 Gr. 458; and it is clear that the personal representative cannot apply for administration merely to obtain an indemnity by passing his accounts: White v. Cummins, 3 Gr. 602; Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392.

Deficiency of assets, how far it justifies application by personal representative.

How far a deficiency of assets justifies a personal representative in applying for administration is the subject of some doubt. In 1874 orders were made on that ground, on the application of the personal representative, in Swetnam v. Swetnam, 6 P. R. 149, and Re Ette, Ib. 159. But in the subsequent cases of Re Shipman, Wallace v. Shipman, 24 Gr. 177; Blake, V.-C., said that the reasons which existed for making the order in Re Ette no longer held good, and that the personal representative, on being sued at law, could set up the deficiency of assets, and claim administration under The Administration of Justice Act. That Act, however, was in force when Swetnam v.

Swetnam and Re Ette were decided. In 1877 in Marsh v. Marsh, 7 P. R. 126, Spragge, C., held that the course pointed out in Re Shipman should be followed, and refused the order; and in Re Jack, Jack v. Jack, 13 C. L. J. 358, Proudfoot, V.-C., did the same. On the other hand, in Re Bromley, before Blake, V.-C., 28th January, 1878, the order was granted, the applicant having been sued by one creditor in the Division Court, and another creditor having written to him, urging him to obtain the order. Rule 610.

As to the grounds justifying a personal representative in obtaining administration: see further Rule 84, p. 450.

On deficiency of assets, personal representatives must distribute pari passu among creditors.

It is the duty of an executor, on a deficiency of assets to pay all creditors pari passu and even his right of retainer cannot be set up so as to give his own debt any preference, but the lien of any creditor on the real or personal estate, created in the lifetime of the deceased, is not to be prejudiced by this rule: see The Trustee Act (R. S. O. c. 121), s. 53; Meyers v. Meyers, 20 Gr. 185; Willis v. Willis, 29 Gr. 296; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; foreign creditors are entitled to the same rights as creditors living within the jurisdiction: Re Klabe, Kannreuther v. Geiselbrecht, 28 Ch. D. 175; 21 C. L. J. 155; Milne v. Moore, 24 Ont. 456; a creditor who has recovered execution against the executor has no priority: Bank of British North America v. Mallory, 17 Gr. 102; and debts due by the deceased as trustee form no exception to the rule: Brock v. Cameron, 25 Gr. 369. And it would seem, notwithstanding what is said by Mowat, V.-C., in Doner v. Ross, infra; that creditors who have been overpaid may be compelled to refund, on the application of a creditor who has not received his due proportion: Chamberlen v. Clarke, 1 Ont. 135; 9 Ont. App. 273. But a creditor's claim against a legatee or creditor who has been overpaid, to compel him to refund, will be barred in six years from the time of the overpayment, notwithstanding that the creditor's claim against the testator's estate is not barred: Blake v. Gale, 31 Ch. D. 196; this case was subsequently affirmed by the Court of Appeal, however, on the ground that the creditor had acquiesced in the overpayment: 55 L. T. 234; as to the circumstances under which beneficiaries who have been paid more than their distributive share can be compelled to refund at the instance of other beneficiaries: see Re Winslow, Frere v. Winslow, 45 Ch. D. 249. Creditors overpaid may be compelled to refund.

Action improperly brought, or occasioned by personal representatives, costs of.

Where an executor improperly institutes an action for administration he may be ordered to pay the costs of it: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 16 Gr. 94; or he may be refused his costs and commission: Graham v. Robson, 17 Gr. 310; and where he improperly renders an action necessary by a creditor, he may also be ordered to pay the costs of it: McGill v. Courtice, 17 Gr. 271.

Where the personal representative obtains the judgment, the conduct of the reference may be transferred to a beneficiary: Re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 69.

The judgment may be awarded for the purpose of preventing creditors from bringing actions, and the proceedings thereon may be stayed if thought proper: see Rule 613 (b).

An executor, who has suffered a creditor of the estate to recover judgment against him by default of appearance, cannot, on subsequently obtaining a judgment for administration, restrain the creditor from proceeding on his judgment, even though there be a deficiency of assets: Doner v. Ross, 19 Gr. 229; and see Hutchinson v. Edmison, 11 Gr. 477.

Several applications —only one judgment should be granted.

Several Applications.—Where two or more applications are made by different persons under Rules 608, 610, only one judgment for administration shall be granted; and the Court may determine which of the applicants shall have the carriage of it, the rule being to give the conduct of the proceedings ceteris paribus to the party most interested in prosecuting them properly and economically: Perrin v. Perrin, 3 Chy. Ch. 452; Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283; Re Draggon, 8 P. R. 330; Re Prime, 48 L. T. 208; Penny v. Francis, 7 Jur. N. S. 248; but see Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 46 L. T. 437. The conduct was given to the first applicant in Re West, West v. Fatkiner, 7 C. L. T. 85; but a creditor whose claim is admitted should be preferred to a creditors whose claim is disputed: Re Ross, Wingfield v. Blair, 1907, 1 Ch. 482; 96 L. T. 814; the carriage of the judgment may be changed in case of delay: Patterson v. Scott, 4 Gr. 145; and see Rules 402, 407, and notes. As between a separate creditor and a partnership creditor of the person whose estate is to be administered, the conduct of the proceedings is given to the former: Re McRae, Foster v. Davis, 25 Ch. D. 16; 48 L. T. 544.

The conduct of the reference under a judgment obtained by a personal representative may, for good cause, be transferred to a beneficiary named as a defendant, although not actually served with notice of the application on which the judgment was pronounced: Re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 69.

An accounting party should not, as a rule, have the carriage of the proceedings, especially where there is a competition between him and beneficiaries as to who should be first in obtaining an administration order: Ib.

See also notes to Rule 86.

Master's proceedings to administer.

611.—(1) Where judgment for administration is granted the Master to whom the matter is referred shall proceed to administer the estate in the most expeditious and least expensive manner, and in doing so shall, without special direction, take:—

(a) An account of the personal estate of the deceased, in the pleadings mentioned, come to the hands of his executors (or administrator);

(b) An account of his debts;

(c) An account of his funeral expenses;

(d) An account of the said testator's legacies;

(e) An inquiry as to what parts, if any, of the real and personal estate are outstanding or disposed of;

(f) An inquiry as to what real estate the deceased was seised of, or entitled to, at the time of his death;

(g) An inquiry as to what incumbrances affect the real estate; Rule 611.

(h) An account of the rents and profits of the real estate received by any party since the death;

(i) An account of what is due to such of the incumbrancers as shall consent to sale in respect of their incumbrances;

(j) An inquiry as to what are the priorities of such last mentioned incumbrances.

(2) The Master shall, under any such reference, have power to deal with both the real and personal estate, including the power to give all necessary directions for its realization, and shall finally wind up all matters connected with the estate, without any further directions, and without any separate, interim, or interlocutory reports or orders, except where the special circumstances of the case absolutely call therefor. Master to have full power to deal with realty and personalty, and dispose of costs, etc.

(3) All money realised from the estate shall forthwith be paid into Court, and no money shall be distributed or paid out for costs or otherwise, without an order of a Judge, and on the application for an order for distribution, the Judge may review, amend, or refer back the report, or make such other order as may seem just. C.R. 953. Moneys realised to be paid into Court, and not paid out except on Judge's order.

For Forms of judgment: see No. 104, and H. & L. Forms, Nos. 878 and 879.

In simple cases, where all parties interested are represented before the Master, it would be possible, under this Rule, for the Master to defer making any report until the accounts were taken and the estate realized, and then by one general report to wind up all matters connected with the estate, and this course is pursued wherever practicable. In simple cases only one report necessary.

The Master has power to give any special directions he may think proper respecting the carriage of the judgment, where there are conflicting claims, and also to transfer its carriage from one party to another, if occasion should require, or to transfer the conduct of the reference to any party he may find entitled: see In re Curry, Curry v. Curry, 17 P. R. 69; the rule being to give the conduct of the proceedings ceteris paribus, to the party most interested in prosecuting them properly and economically: Perrin v. Perrin, 3 Chy. Ch. 452; Re Draggon, 8 P. R. 330; and see Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283; Lambier v. Lambier, 9 P. R. 422; Re Prime, 48 L. T. 208; see, however, Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 46 L. T. 437; Townsend v. Townsend, 23 Ch. D. 100; 48 L. T. 694; Re West, West v. Falkiner, 52 L. T. 85, where it was held that the party first originating proceedings was entitled to the conduct: sed vide, In re Curry, supra; but as Master may give special directions as to conduct of proceedings.

Rule 611.

between a creditor whose claim is admitted and one whose claim is disputed the former is to be preferred: Re Ross, Wingfield v. Blair, 1907, 1 Ch. 482; 96 L. T. 814.

The administration of two estates may be consolidated, where intimately connected: Re Adams, Adams v. Muirhead, 6 P. R. 283.

Rule intended to do away with further directions in administration suits.

The object of this Rule is to do away with the necessity of a hearing on further directions in administration suits; the judgment granted by the Master covers all those directions which, by the former practice, were usually made on the hearing on further directions, except the order for payment of the fund out of Court: e.g., it directs any balances found in the hands of accounting parties to be paid into Court, it also authorizes a sale of the land, the payment of the purchase money into Court, the execution of conveyances by all proper parties, and empowers the Master also to execute such conveyances for infants, who are incapable of executing the same themselves: see Form No. 104, H. & L. Forms, No. 878; Rules 438, et seq.

Judgment, form of.

The Master has also power to make any order, or report, which may be necessary for completely winding up the estate, or protecting the rights of the parties to the action. Where the executor is insolvent a receiver may be appointed: Horrold v. Wallis, 9 Gr. 443; and it would seem that a receiver may be appointed, when necessary, in proceedings commenced under Rules 608, 610; Re Francke, Drake v. Francke, 38 L. T. 305; but any motion for a receiver, or an injunction would have to be made to the Court: see Jud. Act, s. 17, and Rules 205, 207; as to the rights of a specific devisee or legatee in regard to property taken possession of by a receiver, or manager: see Re Day, 1898, 2 Ch. 510; 79 L. T. 486.

Injunction or receiver, how obtained.

Separate orders and reports only to be made when essential.

The words "without any separate interim, or interlocutory reports, or orders, except where the special circumstances of the case absolutely call therefor," indicate that it is only unnecessary orders, or reports, that are dispensed with, but that so far as such interlocutory reports, or orders, may be essential to the winding up of the estate, the Master is to have power to make them. Under Rule 421, a party directed by the Master to bring in any account, or do any other act, is to be held bound to do the same in pursuance of the direction of the Master without any formal order being served for that purpose. The provisions of that Rule, of course, only apply when the party attends the Master in person or by solicitor, and has notice of the direction.

Master not to proceed ex parte.

The Master should not proceed with the reference ex parte, even though the defendant did not appear on the motion for judgment: Jackson v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 47; Robinson v. Whitcombe, 20 Gr. 415; and see Rule 403.

Accounts which may be taken under administration judgment.

Under an ordinary administration judgment, the Master may take an account of timber cut with which a defendant is chargeable: Stewart v. Fletcher, 18 Gr. 21; and may also, without any special directions, take evidence, and report the facts, as to payments made by executors for the maintenance and education of infant beneficiaries: Stewart v. Fletcher, 16 Gr. 235; and may also take the accounts on the footing of wilful neglect and default: see supra, Rules 409 and 608, and notes; and when the widow of the deceased is found a debtor to the estate, her indebtedness may be set off against her claim for past and future dower: Williams v. Reynolds, 25 Gr. 49; and a debt due by a legatee to the estate may be set off pro tanto against his legacy: In re Taylor, Taylor v. Wade, 1894, 1 Ch. 671, 70 L. T. 556;

8 R. 186. The Master would have similar powers under a judgment granted by himself; he would also be entitled to make all proper allowances to executors, administrators, and trustees, by way of compensation for their services. Rule 611. Compensation to executors, etc., may be allowed

As to compensation to be allowed executors and trustees: see notes to Rule 410, supra, p. 956.

The executor's claim for compensation is prior to the claims of creditors: Harrison v. Patterson, 11 Gr. 105; and a trustee's claim for compensation must be satisfied before a conveyance of the trust estate to the cestui que trust will be ordered: Life Association of Scotland v. Walker, 24 Gr. 293. Compensation prior to right of creditors.

An administration judgment as to realty operates as an immediate conversion and if any beneficiary should die after judgment but before sale, his share would be personalty and distributable as such: Fauntleroy v. Beebe, 1911, 2 Ch. 257; 104 L. T. 704. Effect of judgment.

The only order which the Master appears to be precluded from making in suits for administration, in which he has awarded judgment, is that for the payment out of the money in Court; but the Master should state the amount of the commission, and what he finds would be a proper apportionment thereof among the different solicitors under Rule 653, and also the amounts he finds payable to creditors, and other beneficiaries, respectively. Order for payment out of Court cannot be made by Master.

The order for payment is to be made by a Judge in Chambers: Rule 207 (13). Application for this order is to be made in Chambers on a Tuesday or Friday: Rule 234; except in Ottawa and London, where it may be made on Saturday at the weekly sittings. The application is to be made upon notice; and it would seem that all persons who, under the former practice, would be entitled to notice of a hearing on further directions, would be entitled to notice of such an application. Application of Judge, how made.

Where a party is not satisfied with the findings of the Master, the Judge, on any motion for distribution, may, on notice being given by the complaining party to the other parties, review the Master's decision without an appeal, if the matters complained of can be investigated and disposed of on reading the pleadings (if any), and judgment, and the Master's report without reference to the evidence; otherwise an appeal in the usual way under Rule 502, et seq., is necessary; Kendrick v. Kendrick, 9 C. L. T. 310. Appeal from Master necessary.

Creditors' Claims.—As to the mode of making inquiries for, and investigating, claims of creditors: see Rules 412-415, and notes. Creditors' claims.

Where an executor, or trustee, is in default, usually any claim he may have against the estate may be set off pro tanto against his indebtedness to the estate; and usually he cannot otherwise get any benefit from the estate until he has properly accounted for, and paid what he owes to the estate; but where an executor has assigned a specific legacy, those entitled to the residuary estate are not entitled as against the assignee to have the specific legacy set off pro tanto against what the executor is owing to the residuary estate: Re Towndrow, Grattan v. Mochen, 1911, 1 Ch. 662; neither can a debt due by the executor to the estate which is barred by the Statute of Limitations be set off against, or deducted from, moneys to which he is beneficially entitled out of the estate: Re Bruce, Lawford v. Bruce, 1908, 2 Ch. 682; 99 L. T. 704. Indebtedness by executor or trustee to estate.

Rules 612-614.

Court not bound to order administration.

612. It shall not he ohligatory on the Court to pronounce or make a judgment or order for the ndministration of any trust or of the estate of any deceased person, if the questions hetween the parties can be properly determined without such judgment or order. C.R. 954.

See Eng. Rule (1883) 772: Campbell v. Gillespie, 1900, 1 Ch. 225; Re Ryan, 32 Ont. 224; Re McCully, McCully v. McCully, 23 O. L. R. 156.

Administration was refused in Re Ghent, 5 O. W. R. 148, but an order was made for payment to the applicant, a legatee, of a sum on account of his share under the will.

Orders other than for administration which may be made.

613. In any action or proceeding for the administration or execution of trusts by a creditor or beneficiary under a will, intestacy or instrument of trust, where no accounts or insufficient accounts have heen rendered, the Court may, instead of pronouncing judgment for administration:—

Rendering of account.

(a) Order that the executors, administrators or trustees shall render to the plaintiff or applicant a proper statement of their accounts, with an intimation that if it is not done they may be made to pay the costs of the proceedings, and may direct the action or proceeding to he stayed or to stand over in the meantime, as may seem just;

Stay of proceedings.

(b) Where necessary, to prevent proceedings hy other creditors, or hy heneficiaries, make the usnal jndgment for administration, with a provision that no proceedings are to be taken thereunder withont the leavc of the Conrt. C.R. 955.

See Eng. (1883) R. 772 (a).

After a judgment for administration has been granted, creditors will ordinarily be restrained from hringing actions to enforce their debts against the personal representative: see Re Langtry, 18 Gr. 530, and following cases cited in note to Rule 608, supra, p. 1250.

The effect of clause (b) of this Rule is to enable the Court, in a proper case, to stay actions hy creditors hy granting a judgment for administration, and at the same time to stay proceedings on the judgment. But such a stay would probahly not be granted if it were shown that creditors were likely to he unduly prejudiced thereby.

Special directions as to carriage of judgment may be given.

614. Special directions touching the carriage or execution of the judgment may be given as may he deemed expedient; and in case of applications by two or more persons, or classes of persons, judgment may be granted to one or more of the claimants as may seem just; the carriage of the judgment may be subsequently given to other persons interested. C.R. 989. Rule 615.

This Rule is based on C. R. 649, and not on C. R. 989, as it purports to be.

615.—(1) An adult person entitled to compel partition of land or any estate or interest therein may, by originating notice served on one or more of the persons entitled to a share therein, apply for partition or sale. Adult party may apply for partition on motion.

(2) Where an infant [or lunatic who has no committee except the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities], is interested, he shall be made a party defendant before judgment, and notice shall be given to the Official Guardian. [Notice of such application shall, unless otherwise ordered, also be given to such lunatic]. (As amended by Rule 773). Infants interested must be represented by official guardian.

(3) The Master shall proceed in the least expensive and most expeditious manner, for partition or sale, the adding of parties, the ascertainment of the rights of the various persons interested, the taxation and payment of costs, and otherwise. Proceedings on judgment for partition.

(4) All money realized shall forthwith be paid into Court, and no moneys shall be distributed or paid out for costs or otherwise, without an order of a Judge; and on the application for an order for distribution, the Judge may review, amend, or refer back to the Master his report or make such other order as may seem just. C.R. 956. Amended. Moneys realized to be paid into Court and paid out on Judge's order.

The words in [ ] indicate the amendments made in cl. 2 by Rule 773. See infra, Rule 616, and notes.

For Form of judgment, see No. 105; H. & L. Forms Nos. 926, 1386.

The Form 105 must be read in the light of legislation by which the Court has been given power to order a sale, and its meaning is that a partition is to be made unless it is shown by those who ask for a sale, that partition cannot be made without injury to the interests of the owners: Ontario Power Co. v. Whattler, 7 O. L. R. 198.

Under a judgment, therefore, in the Form No. 105; H. & L. Forms, No. 926, the Master is to make partition unless it is shown that it cannot be made without prejudice to the rights of some of the owners: Ontario Power Co. v. Whattler, supra.

Rule 615.

Where infant plaintiff seeks partition, writ must be issued.

This Rule is confined to the case of proceedings instituted by adult persons. The provisions of Rules 79-85 extend to applications for partition; formerly it was necessary to make all tenants in common of the land in question parties to the bill; under this Rule, it suffices to notify one or more of such persons; all other persons interested must be served with the judgment in the Master's Office: Rule 87, unless such service is dispensed with; an order dispensing with service must be obtained from the Master to whom the matter is referred: Re Hynes, 19 P. R. 217. As to parties who have not been heard of for 3 years, see The Partition Act (R. S. O. c. 114), s. 6; a guardian may be appointed for them by a Judge in Chambers: Ib.; Re Hynes, supra. Parties on whom service of a judgment is dispensed with are not bound by the proceedings: see note to Rule 79. The application cannot be made for the partition of an estate of a deceased person, until the lapse of one year from his death: The Partition Act, s. 5 (2); Grant v. Grant, 9 P. R. 211. Where the interests are unequal, the person having the largest interest should, as a general rule, be notified of the application.

Summary application cannot be made, when any party claims adversely.

This Rule does not apply where it is necessary to add a defendant whose claim to share in the estate is contested, e.g., where a stranger is in possession claiming adversely to the plaintiff and his co-tenants, an action must be brought by writ: see Macdonell v. McGillis, 8 P. R. 339; Bennetto v. Bennetto, 6 P. R. 145; Young v. Wright, 8 P. R. 198; Re McMillan, 8 P. R. 546; 17 C. L. J. 86; Hopkins v. Hopkins, 9 P. R. 71; and where the defendant claimed to have acquired a title by possession in severalty to part, and to have only an easement in the residue: Stroud v. Sun Oil Co., 7 O. L. R. 704; 8 O. L. R. 748. Where it appears that some preliminary question must be decided before it can be determined whether partition should be granted, the motion will be adjourned until after the trial of an action to be brought to determine such question: Smith v. Smith, 1 O. L. R. 404; but where the Master assumes to decide the preliminary question, his judgment is appealable; semble, under Rule 605: see Stroud v. Sun Oil Co., supra. And where after judgment for partition has been granted a question is raised as to the validity of an outstanding lease, it would seem that the Master has no jurisdiction to try it, but an issue may possibly be directed by a Judge under Rule 233: see Re Rogers, Rogers v. Rogers, 11 P. R. 90.

Service of judgment.

All parties interested in the land who are not served with the notice of motion for the judgment, will have to be served with an office copy of the judgment: Rule 404; and they will be entitled to move to vary, or set it aside, as provided by Rule 405.

Execution creditors' claims are not kept alive merely by the creditors being made parties in a partition action, and their executions will lapse unless kept duly renewed, at all events, until there is some judicial declaration of their rights to a lien: Macdonell v. Best, 6 O. L. R. 18.

Accounts of rents and profits, etc.

A tenant in common who has been himself in actual occupation of the whole estate cannot be charged with an occupation rent: Henderson v. Eason, 17 Q. B. 701; Rice v. George, 20 Gr. 221; Re Kirkpatrick, Kirkpatrick v. Stevenson, 10 P. R. 4; Hill v. Hicken, 77 L. T. 127, except in favour of an infant co-tenant: Courcier v. Courcier, 26 Gr. 307. He is, however, liable to account to his co-tenants for rents and profits received from third parties: Goodenow v. Farquhar, 19 Gr. 614; Curtis v. Coleman, 22 Gr. 561; and if he makes any claim for improvements made, or for prior incumbrances paid off, by him, he must submit to account for an occupation rent, otherwise he cannot be allowed them: Rice v. George, supra, p. 1260; Rivet v. Desourdi, 12 C. L. J. 203. But as against a mortgagee: Hill v. Hicken, supra, p. 1260, or an execution creditor of the tenant who has been in possession, the other tenants in common cannot charge his share with the excess of rents received by him, in priority to ths mortgage, or execution: McPherson v. McPherson, 10 P. R. 140. Where a tenant in common is lessee of his co-tenant'a sbares and continues in sole possession after the expiration of the lease, he becomes liable to bis lessor for use and occnpation: Leigh v. Dickeson, 12 Q. B. D. 194; 15 Q. B. D. 60; 50 L. T. 124; 52 L. T. 790. Only sucb improvements as are made hy a tenant in common to prevent the estate going to ruin are recoverable: Ib. Rule 618.

Improvements made by a tenant in common before the tenancy in common becomes an estate in possession, e.g., during a prior life estate, are not recoverable against his co-tenants: Lasby v. Crewson, 21 Ont. 255.

In making partition, those portions on wbich improvements have been made by any of the tenants in common should, as far as possibie be allotted to the parties by whom they were made: see Wood v. Wood, 16 Gr. 471. Improvements, how to allot.

As to the principle on which improvements made by a tenant in fee of a moiety should be allowed as against a tenant for life of the other moiety: see Williams v. Williams, 81 L. T. 163.

In making a distribution of purchase money derived from land held in common, a tenant in common who has made permanent improvements is entitled to be allowed therefor: see Re Cook, 1896, 1 Ch. 923; 74 L. T. 652.

Where a sale is directed in a partition action the Master should inquire as to incumbrances existing on the shares of the parties interested up to the time of sale, and not merely up to tbe commencement of the proceedings: Robson v. Robson, 10 P. R. 324; 20 C. L. J. 192. Such persons as have incumbrances should be made parties under Rule 404, and if not made parties they will not be bound by ths proceedings.

As to the allowance of a sum in gross in lieu of dower: see The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 19, and The Partition Act (R. S. O. c. 114), s. 8; and Gleeson v. Byrne, 25 L. R. Ir. 361.

616. An application for partition on behalf of an infant by his guardian or next friend may be made with the sanction of a Judge to be first obtained upon notice to the Official Guardian. New. Official guardian to be notified of application by infant.

See Rule 615 (2), which requires that an infant shall be made a defendant before judgment to applications by adults.

Rule 615 (2) may seem to be inconsistent with Rule 616, the former providea that where an infant is interested he shall be made a defendant; whereas Rule 616 provides that he may be a plaintiff, and be, of course, cannot in the same action be botb plaintiff and defendant. This Rule may be harmonized, however, by construing clause 2 of Rule 615 as merely applying to actions by adults.

Rule 613.

Applications for partition.

The notice of motion for a judgment for partition of sale must be a seven days' notice unless otherwise ordered: Rule 215 (2).

The Master in Chambers, and Local Masters, appear to have jurisdiction to entertain unopposed motions for administration or partition: Rules 208, 209; but see Rule 212, which gives jurisdiction to a Judge in Chambers, or the Local Judge of the County where the land or part of the land is situate, or where the testator died, to entertain motions for administration or partition.

A Local Master formerly had no power to make an order for partition of lands out of his jurisdiction, i.e., his county, and if he did so his order was null and void, even as to lands within his county: Nichol v. Allenby, 17 Ont. 275; but the present Rules do not appear to contain any such restriction: see Rule 209; and see Jud. Act, s. 16 (h).

Formerly when lands were situate in the County of York, or in more counties than one, the application for partition thereof had to be made to a Judge in Chambers; but that restriction does not appear to exist in the present Rules, and applications apparently may now be made to the Master in Chambers, or any Local Master, or Local Judge, no matter where the lands are situate, and it is only where the application is opposed that their jurisdiction is ousted: see Rule 208 (3), and must be referred to a Judge in Chambers: Rule 207 (8).

Lands in County of York, or in several counties.

Formerly where two or more judgments are granted for partition of different parts of the same person's estate, the proceedings might be consolidated under C. R. 957, but this Rule has not been continued. Possibly it may be done still under the general jurisdiction to consolidate actions: Rule 320.

Accounting parties to be made original defendants.

Wherever an account is required from any person, such person should be made a defendant in the first instance, as it would seem that parties served with the judgment in the Master's office cannot be made to account thereunder: Walker v. Seligmann, L. R. 12 Eq. 152; Hopper v. Harrison, 28 Gr. 22; Re Parkes, 66 L. T. 151.

The plaintiff was formerly bound to allege, and, if it was disputed, to prove, his title, and under this Rule it will still be necessary that the affidavits in support of the application should establish the applicant's title, and it would also appear to be necessary to show thereby the estates and interests of all other persons interested as joint owners. The existence of a discretionary power of sale in trustees does not exclude the jurisdiction of the Court to order partition: Boyd v. Allen, 48 L. T. 628; but a partition was refused in a case where the trustees were taking active proceedings to execute the power: Re Dennis, 14 Ont. 267.

Partition not granted while land vested in personal representative.

The fact that the estate in question is vested in the personal representative is an answer to any application by a beneficiary for partition: Re McCully, McCully v. McCully, 23 O. L. R. 156; and it is immaterial that an ex parte order allowing the personal representative to register a caution has been obtained after the notice of motion for partition was served: Ib.

Where the only defendant was the lessee for 7 years, of an undivided moiety, it was held that the parties interested were sufficiently represented to entitle plaintiff to a judgment for sale: Mason v. Keays, 78 L. T. 33.

Infant applicant.

The leave required to institute proceedings for partition on behalf of an infant should be obtained before the notice of motion is served, and should in the notice be stated to have been given.

Rule 616.

A partition cannot be ordered in favour of a person beneficially entitled under a will to a certain portion of the income of an estate, where there is no joint tenancy, or tenancy in common: Dodd v. Cottell, 1914, 2 Ch. 1.

Partition not granted of unpatented land.

The Court will not decree partition of lands for which no patent has issued, neither will it decree a sale of such lands at the instance of the representatives of a deceased locatee: Abell v. Weir, 24 Gr. 464; Cuthbert v. Cuthbert, 11 Gr. 88, at p. 91; Jenkins v. Martin, 20 Gr. 613; but the Court may, in an action commenced by writ, make a declaratory judgment as to the rights of parties in unpatented lands, which, if the Crown is willing to act on the judgment of the Court, may have the effect of a partition: see Pride v. Rodger, 27 Ont. 320; Bull v. Frank, 12 Gr. 80, sed vide, Brown v. West, 1 O. S. 287.

Tenant for life, or dowress, how far entitled to partition.

A tenant for life of the whole estate is not entitled either to a partition or sale: Fisken v. Ife, 28 Ont. 595; Goskell v. Gaskell, 6 Sim. 643; and see Lalor v. Lalor, 9 P. R. 455.

A tenant for life of a moiety is entitled to partition as against a tenant in fee of the other moiety: Williams v. Williams, 81 L. T. 163. A decree for partition was made at the suit of a dowress: Harrison v. Bottrill, before Blake, V.-C., 21st January, 1880; Devereux v. Keorns, 11 P. R. 452, overruling Rody v. Rody, 1 C. L. T. 546; but her right to partition is subject to judicial discretion, and it will only be granted when her dower cannot conveniently be otherwise set apart: From v. From, 12 P. R. 185. A dowress in the whole estate is not entitled to partition or sale: see Fisken v. Ife, supra; but where the dower is claimed out of an undivided share, the dowress would seem entitled to partition or sale, as the only way by which her claim can be properly ascertained and satisfied. A mortgagee of an undivided share, whose title has not been perfected by foreclosure or otherwise, has been held not to be entitled to partition: Train v. Smith, before Spragge, C., 14th April, 1875; followed by Meredith, J., in Mulligan v. Hendershott, 17 P. R. 227; and see Laplante v. Seamen, 8 Ont. App. 560; but in Foll v. Elkins, 9 W. R. 861, it seems to have been assumed that a mortgagee was entitled to this relief; and see Davenport v. King, 49 L. T. 92; Agar v. Fairfax, 2 W. & T. L. C. 7th ed., 181; as to whether a tenant in common who has mortgaged his share can have a partition without first paying off his mortgage, see Gibbs v. Haydon, 47 L. T. 184; it would seem not, if his mortgagee objects: Sinclair v. Jones, 1894, 3 Ch. 554; 71 L. T. 483. In this Province it would seem that he can, if his mortgagee does not object, and that his mortgagee should be made a party either in the first instance, or in the Master's office, but any additional costs so occasioned must be borne by the mortgagor: McDougall v. McDougall, 14 Gr. 267; Cotton v. Banks, 1893, 2 Ch. 22; 1894, 3 Ch. 554; sed vide Belcher v. Williams, 45 Ch. D. 510; 63 L. T. 673; Re McCully, McCully v. McCully, 23 O. L. R. 156, where is was held that the application of a mortgagor should not be granted where other parties interested object; a mortgagee who comes in and consents to a sale, is not entitled to either six months' notice or six months' interest: Re Houston, Houston v. Houston, 2 Ont. 84; and see as to mortgages made since 1st July, 1888: The Mortgages Act (R. S. O. c. 112), ss. 15-18.

Mortgagees not entitled to partition.

Tenant in common, whose share is mortgaged, may have partition.

Extra costs must be borne by his share.

A party wall held in common may be partitioned: Moyfair Property Co. v. Johnston, 1894, 1 Ch. 508; 70 L. T. 485.

Rule 616.

A mortgagee having a mortgage affecting the whole land should not be made a party unless a sale is to be had, and he consents to its being made free from his mortgage: Sinclair v. James, 1894, 3 Ch. 554; 71 L. T. 483.

Not ordered against tenant for life of whole estate.

A partition or sale cannot be ordered as against a tenant for life of the whole estate on the application of those entitled in remainder: Murcar v. Bolton, 5 Ont. 164; Rajotte v. Wilson, 40 C. L. J. 702.

Where the plaintiff claimed as vendee of the equity of redemption of one of four tenants in common under a sale by the Sheriff, a decree for partition was set aside on appeal, on the ground that the interest was not so saleable: Wood v. Hurl, 28 Gr. 146.

Sale, when ordered.

In determining whether a sale, or partition, should be directed, the Master will be guided by what is best for all parties interested: Blasdell v. Baldwin, 3 Ont. App. 6. When the property is not susceptible of partition, a sale should be directed: Steven v. Hunter, 14 Gr. 541; but where partition can be made without injury to the interest of the owners, it would seem that a partition ought to be made where any of the parties so desire: Ont. Power Co. v. Whattler, 7 O. L. R. 198.

The discretion exercised by a Judge in granting a partition, or sale, will not be interfered with by the Court of Appeal: Re Dyer, Dyer v. Paynter, 53 L. T. 744; but where the discretion is exercised by an officer of the Court having judicial functions his discretion may be reviewed: see Bryant v. Reading, 17 Q. B. D. 128; 54 L. T. 300; Clench v. Dooley, 56 L. T. 122.

Where the judgment is pronounced by a Local Master it is appealable under Rule 505: Stroud v. Sun Oil Co., 7 O. L. R. 704.

Several actions, consolidation of.

Where two or more applications are made by different persons to the same Local Master, the latter has jurisdiction to pronounce judgment in one of them, and stay the others: Lambier v. Lambier, 9 P. R. 422; 19 C. L. J. 158. Where an action is stayed, the costs are primâ facie payable out of the estate pari passu with the costs of the action which is carried on: Re Clark, Cumberland v. Clark, L. R. 4 Chy. 412.

Costs.

Formerly when a Local Master's jurisdiction was confined to lands in his own county, if lands were discovered in another county after a judgment had been pronounced by a Local Master, the Judge in Chambers might award judgment as to the lands so discovered: Clark v. Clark, 8 P. R. 155; but semble, the Local Master may himself now make a supplemental judgment in such a case. But see and cf. Rules 208 (8), 209, 212.

Effect of Judgment for Sale.—A judgment for sale in a partition action operates, as regards all persons sui juris, as a conversion of the estate, even before the sale has taken place: Re Dodson Yates v. Morton, 1908, 2 Ch. 633; 98 L. T. 395; Herbert v. Herbert, 1912, 2 Ch. 258; 107 L. T. 491; semble, a married woman notwithstanding The Married Women's Property Act, is not a person who is sui juris, and therefore a judgment of sale does not operate before sale as a conversion: Ib.

Form of judgment.

The proceeds of an infants' share in the land would seem to descend on his death as real estate: Re Norton, 1900, 1 Ch. 101. See also The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 17.

By this Rule the Master is empowered to award such a judgment as the Court of Chancery was accustomed to grant in partition suits.

except the order for payment of the money out of Court: see Rule 615 (4). Under this judgmsnt an account of rents and profits may be taken, and a sum in gross may be allotted in lieu of dower, curtesy, or any other life estate, and all other ususl and necessary accounts, and inquiries, may he taken and made, ss the circumstances of the case may require. Rules 617, 618.

(iii) Dower.

617. Where the right to dower is not disputed, either the dowress or the tenant of the freehold may apply upon originating notice for a writ for the assignment of dower. C.R. 959. Amended. Assignment of dowar.

For the form of writ of assignment of dower: see Form 123, H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1128, 1129.

(See 1 Geo. V., ch. 35, secs. 6 and 7.) (a)

618. All applications for the sale, mortgage, lease, or other disposition of an infant's estate shall be made to a Judge upon notice to the Official Guardian. C.R. 960 and 1309. Applications to sell, etc., infant's estate, where made.

The jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, and Local Master, doee not extend to such applications: see Rule 208 (7), nor does that of Local Judges: Rule 210. Applications under this Rule must be made to s Judge in Chambers, Rule 207 (2).

A similsr procedure prevails in the State of New York: see Tyler on Infancy, p. 300, s. 196. Apart from the power given hy the statute, the Court has no authority to direct the sale of an infant's estate on the mere ground that it would be henefioial: Calvert v Godfrey, 6 Beav. 197.

These Rules (618-621) apply to casos where some disposition is sought to he made of an infant's estate, either for the purpose of raising money to pay charges thereon, or to provide for the maintenance and education of the infant owners, or where the appointment of guardians of their persone or estates ia songht.

Applications for the sale, leasing, or other disposition of the real estate of infants, are authorized hy The Infonts Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 5, where it is made to appear to the Court that it is neceseary, or proper, for the maintenance or education of the infant; or that, hy reason of any part of the property heing exposed to waste and dilspidation, or to depreciation from any other cause, the interest of the infant requires, or will be suhstantially promoted hy, such disposition. Ths Act is held to apply to estates tail: Re Groy, 26 Ont. 355. Where a sale is necessary for the payment of the dehta of the ancestor it may be ordered: Re McDonald, 1 Chy. Ch. 97; Re Borker, 6 P. R. 225. But it should he shewn that unless the sale, or other disposition, is made, Sale of infant's estate, on what ground authorised. Interest of infant to be considered.

(a) See now R. S. O. c. 153, ss. 13, 14.

the estate will sustain loss, or that the creditors are about to enforce payment of their demands by suit: Re Boddy, 4 Gr. 144. Where none of the circumstances mentioned in the Act are proved to exist, the Court has no authority to make any order: Calvert v. Godfrey, 6 Beav. 197; Re Phelan, 6 P. R. 259; Re Robinson, Pickard v. Wheeler, 31 Ch. D. 247; 53 L. T. 365; Re Hibbard, 14 P. R. 177; and see Re Jackes, 3 C. L. J. 69, where the Court refused to sanction a renewal of a lease made by the infant's ancestor; but see Bican v. Bican, 16 Ont. 693; and see The Conveyancing and Law of Property Act (R. S. O. c. 109), s. 56.

Circumstances which justify a sale of infant's estate.

The circumstances justifying a sale, lease, or mortgage, of an infant's estate, under the statute, are: (a) The fact that the sale, lease or mortgage, is necessary, in order to maintain, or educate, the infant; or, (b) that for any cause, the interest of the infant requires, or will be substantially promoted by, such disposition: see The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 5.

Maintenance of infants.

Maintenance.—An application for an allowance for maintenance out of an infant's estate will be entertained, even though it be not necessary to ask for a sale, lease, or mortgage, of any part of the infant's property: see Re Wilson, 14 P. R. 261.

Duty of father to maintain his children.

Where the father of an infant is living, it is his duty primâ facie to support and maintain, and educate, the infant, no matter what the infant's fortune may be: Simpson, on Infancy, p. 161; and maintenance is not ordinarily allowed out of the infant's estate, except upon proof that the father is unable to maintain, and educate, his children, according to their station and prospects in life; and although, where there is an express trust in the marriage settlement, to which the father is a party, requiring the trustees to expend the trust fund for the support of the children of the marriage, such a trust may be enforced by the father: Mundy v. Earl Howe, 4 Bro. C. C. 223; yet where the trustees have an option, or a mere power, to do so, the Court will not compel them so to apply the trust fund, except on evidence of the father's inability to maintain the infant: Wilson v. Turner, 22 Ch. D. 521; 48 L. T. 370. The duty of a father to maintain his infant children is at Common Law a moral, and not a legal, obligation: Wright v. McCabe, 30 Ont. at p. 396; sed vide Cr. Code, ss. 242, 244.

Mother not so bound.

A mother is not under any legal obligation to support her offspring, and consequently maintenance will be allowed out of the children's own property, without reference to her ability to support them: Simp. 161.

As to claims for past maintenance, see infra, p. 1267.

On sale being directed, inquiry as to debts of ancestor made.

Upon an application under The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 5, for the sale, lease or mortgage of an infant's estate, it is usual before directing any application of the proceeds, to require proof of payment of the debts of the ancestor, in cases where the infant has become entitled to the property directed to be sold, as heir-at-law, or devisee; or to require an advertisement to be issued for creditors, where no sufficient advertisement has previously been issued by the personal representative, and the Court then makes provision for the payment of the debts, if any. Where the sole object of the sale is the maintenance of the infant, the proceedings ought to be taken under The Infants Act, s. 2, and not by way of action for the general administration of the estate; and the Court has refused, where the latter proceeding has been adopted unnecessarily, to sanction a sale in the administration proceedings, for the purpose of maintenance: Fenwick

Sale not ordered in administration action, when brought merely for maintenance of infants.

v. Fenwick, 20 Gr. 381; Goodfellow v. Rannie, Ib., 425; Foster v. Patterson, Ib., 345. Rule 618.

Proceeds retained in Court.

The proceeds of the sale of an infant's lands will not be ordered to be paid to the infant's guardian; but will be retained by the Court in its own custody until the infant attains majority: Flanders v. D'Evelyn, 4 Ont. 704; Mitchell v. Richey, 13 Gr. 445; Blake v. Blake, 2 Sch. & Lef. 26; Campbell v. Dunn, 22 Ont. 98; Re Mathers, 18 P. R. 13; Re Harrison, 18 P. R. 303; Re Humphries, 18 P. R. 289; and see Re Chatard's Settlement, 1899, 1 Ch. 712; 80 L. T. 845; Whitewood v. Whitewood, 19 P. R. 183; Re Thompson, 19 P. R. 304; Re Lloyd, infra; but see Huggins v. Law, 14 Ont. App. 383; Hanrahan v. Hanrahan, 19 Ont. 396; Sanborn v. Sanborn, 11 Gr. 359.

Principal not easily broken into.

As a general rule the Court will not break in upon the principal money, for the maintenance and education of infant legatees, still it may be done where necessary: Ashbough v. Ashbough, 10 Gr. 430; Crane v. Craig, 11 P. R. 236.

Maintenance was ordered out of a fund in which the infant had only a contingent interest, on security being given by way of life insurance for those who would be entitled upon the death of the infant under age: Re Campbell, 13 P. R. 400, following Re Arbuckle, 14 W. R. 585.

Where money was given to a widow subject to a trust for "the maintenance and bringing up" of her infant children, she was held to be guilty of a breach of trust in maintaining the infants in her house where she was living in adultery; and the Court assumed the administration of the fund: Re G., 1899, 1 Ch. 719; 80 L. T. 470.

Past maintenance.

Where it appeared that the application was made more for the benefit of the infants' father than of the infants themselves, the application was refused: Re McDonald, 1 Gr. 90; Re Hibbard, supra, p. 1266; and a sale will not be ordered to repay a relative, such as a father, mother, or brother, for the past maintenance of the infant: Kellar v. Tache, 1 Chy. Ch. 388; Re Blair, 14 P. R. 220; and see Edwards v. Durgen, 19 Gr. 101; Re Lloyd, 31 O. L. R. 475. Nor after a sale has been made, will past maintenance be ordered to be paid out of the corpus of the fund, where it appears that the person making the claim had not maintained the infant on the basis, or with the expectation of being compensated therefor: In re Renwick, Renwick v. Crooks, 14 P. R. 361.

No disposition can be authorized contrary to any will or deed.

No sale, lease, or other disposition can be ordered under this Rule, against the provisions of any will or conveyance by which the estate has been devised, or granted, to the infant, or for his use: The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 5 (2); Re Smith, 6 P. R. 282; Re Wilson, 7 P. R. 244; Re Callicott, 1 Chy. Ch. 26, 182; but see Re Bishoprick, 21 Gr. 589.

A guardian of an infant appointed by the Surrogate Court has power without the sanction of the Court, to make a valid lease of his ward's land during the latter's minority, but not beyond that period: Clarke v. Mcdonell, 20 Ont. 554, overruling Collins v. Martin, 41 U. C. Q. B. 602; Switzer v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 538; Townsley v. Neil, 10 Gr. 72; the report of the last case appears to be erroneous in describing the guardian who made the lease as a guardian ad litem, instead of a guardian of the estate of the infant.

Application for sale, etc., how to be made.

The statute says the application is to be made in the name of the infant by his next friend, or his guardian, but cannot be made without the infant's consent, if he is of the age of fourteen, or upwards unless the Court otherwise directs or allows: The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 8; and see Rule 620 (1).

Execution of conveyance.

Tha Court may order tha axecution of tha conveyance by the infant, or soma ona on his behalf, and a conveyaoce so executed is binding on the infant, as if made after he had attained his majority: The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), ee. 14, 15; Rae v. Geddes, 3 Chy. Ch. 404. Where a mortgage of an infant's land held in trust is authorized hy the Court, the infant cestui que trust cannot properly ho required to giva any covenant for repayment of the loan: Brown v. Grady, 31 Ont. 73.

Proceeds of sale, retain quality of estate sold.

The proceeds of lands sold, or disposed of, under the direction of the Court, retain the quality of the estate sold, or disposed of, so far as the rights of the infont'e heirs, and next of kin, are concerned: The Infants Act, s. 17; Fitzpatrick v. Fitzpatrick, 6 P. R. 134; Thompson v. McCaffrey, 6 P. R. 193; Campbell v. Campbell, 19 Gr. 254 aod see Hopkinson v. Richardson, 1913, 1 Ch. 284; 108 L. T. 502. But where such moneys descend as realty, if tha heir does not effect an actual reconversion, they will pass to his representatives as personalty: Mordaunt v. Benwell, 19 Ch. D. 302; 45 L. T. 585. And as to adult parties jointly interested with the infants, the order for sale operates as a conversion, and the share of such a person dying before sale, but after the order, will descend as personalty: Hyett v. Mekin, 25 Ch. D. 735; 50 L. T. 54; Burgess v. Booth, 1908, 2 Ch. 648; 99 L. T. 677.

Order for bar of dower.

Formerly where the mother of the infant was a lunatic, an application might be made for an order barring her dower: R. S. O. (1897), c. 164, s. 16. Tha application must be made to a Judge in Chambers: Re Colthart, 9 P. R. 356; hut under the statutes as now revised it is not quite clear that this may be done; the above-mentioned s. 16 not having been continued in the present revision, and the Act as it now stands not appearing to apply to cases where the dower is complete, but only where it is inchoate: see however The Dower Act (R. S. O. c. 70), s. 11.

Marriage of ward of Court.

Marriage of Ward of Court.—The marriage of a female ward of Court without consent of the Court, is a contempt for which the husband may he punished hy imprisonment. The Court in such cases usually requires a settlement to be made of the wife's property as a condition of the husband's release, and will provide that the husband shall take no benefit under the settlement, and will also ordinarily exclude the wife from power of appointing by will in his favour in default of issue: Re Wall, 50 L. T. 435; and see Buckmaster v. Buckmaster, 35 Ch. D. 21; 56 L. T. 795; and see Field v. Moore, 19 Beav. 176. Bot the Court has no power to compel a male infant marrying without leave to execute a settlement of his property against his will: Re Leigh, Leigh v. Leigh, 40 Ch. D. 290; 60 L. T. 404.

The jurisdiction of the Court over its wards ceases on their attaining 21. Where the Court authorized a man to visit a female ward of Court to pay his addresses, with a view of asking her hand in marriage, on his undertaking to abide hy the order of the Court, such undertaking expires on the ward attaining her majority, and the Court has no jurisdiction to compel him to execute a settlement of her property where he has married her after she attained 21 without a settlement, and without the sanction of the Court: Bolton v. Bolton, 1891, 3 Ch. 270; 65 L. T. 698.

Rule 618.

Settlements of Infants' Estates.—The Court has jurisdiction to sanction the execution of a settlement of an infant's estate on marriage: see The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), ss. 22, 24. Applications for that purpose are expressly excluded from the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, and Local Masters, and Local Judges: see Rules 208-210, and from a Judge in Chambers, and must therefore be made to a Judge in Court: Rules 205, 207 (1), (2).

Settlement of infant's estate, when ordered.

Upon an application to obtain the sanction of the Court to infants making settlements on marriage, evidence should be produced to show,—

Evidence required.

(1) The age of the infant;

(2) Whether the infant has any parents or guardians,

(3) With whom, or under whose care, the infant is living; and if the infant has no parents or guardians, what near relatives the infant has;

(4) The rank and position of life of the infant, and parents, if any;

(5) The nature and value of the infants' property, and income thereof;

(6) The age, rank and position in life of the person to whom the infant is about to be married;

(7) What property, fortune, and income such person has;

(8) The fitness of the proposed trustees and their consent to act duly verified.

Effect of settlement.

A marriage settlement made by an infant without the sanction of the Court is not void, but voidable; and if not repudiated within a reasonable time after the infant has attained majority will be binding: Edwards v. Carter, 1893, A. C. 360; In re Jones, Farrington v. Forrester, 1893, 2 Ch. 461; and Stevens v. Trevor-Garrick, 1893, 2 Ch. 307.

The provision of The Infants Act, s. 22, only removes the bar of infancy, but does not enable an infant to do more than an adult could do, e.g., when an infant was also a married woman and made a post-nuptial settlement with the sanction of the Court, under that Act, but the settlement was one which would not have bound her if she had been an adult, it was held to be invalid, notwithstanding it had received the sanction of the Court: Buckmaster v. Buckmaster, 35 Ch. D. 21; 56 L. T. 795. But the Act enables an infant, with the sanction of the Court, to make a valid post-nuptial settlement so far as an adult could make one: Re Woll, 50 L. T. 435.

A male infant ward marrying without the consent of the Court cannot, against his will be required to execute a settlement of his estate, and a settlement made by an infant in such circumstances, unwillingly, but with the sanction of the Court, was set aside on the application of the settlor on attaining his majority: Re Leigh, Leigh v. Leigh, 60 L. T. 404.

Guardians of infants.

Guardians of Person, or Estate.—The Surrogate Court has also power to appoint guardians to minors: see The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 26. This statute, however, does not exclude the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court: Re Stennard, 1 Chy. Ch. 15; Re McQueen, McQueen v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 191; and see The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 26.

Rule 616.

Guardians, appointment of.

Where a guardian has been appointed by the Surrogate Court, the Supreme Court will not appoint any other except for cause, and it should therefore be shewn, on applications to appoint guardians under these Rules, that the minor has no guardian.

A guardian may, in England, be appointed for an infant who is a British subject, though he is resident out of the jurisdiction, and has no property within the jurisdiction: Re Willoughby, 30 Ch. D. 324; 53 L. T. 926; but see In re Bourgoise, 41 Ch. D. 310; and quære, whether the Supreme Court could exercise such extra-territorial jurisdiction.

Security.

Where the Supreme Court appoints a guardian of the person and estate of a minor, it usually requires the guardian to give security. And if a guardian has been appointed by a Surrogate Court, an inquiry is sometimes ordered as to whether the guardian so appointed has given sufficient security; and if he has not, then he is required to give additional security before he is empowered to receive moneys on account of the infant. Where, however, the fortune of the infant is trifling, and the fund is lodged in Court, the Court frequently dispenses with security being given by the guardian; and requires instead an affidavit to be filed by the guardian from time to time, shewing the due application of moneys paid to him under the order of the Court.

Security, when dispensed with.

In appointment of guardian, Court considers interest of infant.

The Supreme Court has also jurisdiction to appoint trustees, or guardians, for infants, to receive insurance moneys payable to them under any policy effected by their deceased father: see The Insurance Act (R. S. O. c. 183), s. 175; Re Hovey, 29 O. L. R. 336, or the Court may make order for the payment of such insurance moneys to a guardian appointed by the Surrogate Court, or even by a foreign Court. The proceedings to obtain such appointment of a guardian, or trustee, or the payment of such insurance moneys, may be made to a Judge in Court: Re Slosson, 15 P. R. 156; where the application is for the appointment of a guardian to receive insurance money, the person appointed will be required to give security; and where the application is for payment of the money to a guardian appointed by the Surrogate Court, or a foreign Court, it must be shewn that such guardian has given security sufficient to answer the amount he is to be authorized to receive: Re Slosson, supra; Re Thin, 10 P. R. 490; but see Re Andrews, 11 P. R. 199; and where the security given to a foreign Court would not cover assets received in this Province, a foreign guardian will be ordered to give additional security as a condition of being authorized to receive the money: Re Slosson, supra.

Different considerations will naturally influence the Court in the appointment of a guardian of the person, and a guardian of the estate, of an infant. In the case of a person who is to be appointed guardian only of an infant's estate, probity and business capacity may be sufficient qualifications. Where a person is proposed as guardian of an infant's person, other considerations have necessarily to be taken into account.

Although the Court is in the habit of paying respect to the wishes and directions of a testator in reference to the guardianship and care of his children, it will not do so where it is clearly shewn that a compliance therewith would be prejudicial to the happiness, and moral training, of the infants: Anon., 6 Gr. 632; Re McQueen, McQueen v. McMillan, 23 Gr. 191.

So, where there was a contest between a step-father and an uncle, and the child preferred the former, the Court being satisfied that it was better for the infant that the uncle should be appointed, appointed him: Re Irwin, 16 Gr. 461. The Court may remove testamentary guardians and trustees for the same causes as other guardians: The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 29. Rule 618.

Where the father is living, if it is proposed to appoint any other person guardian, the father must be notified of the application: Re Henricks, 2 Chy. Ch. 418.

It is improper to give a reversionary guardianship of wards in Court to the successors in office of any person named: Murphy v. Lomphier, 12 Gr. 241.

Removal of ward from jurisdiction a contempt.

It is contempt of Court to remove a ward of Court from the jurisdiction, without the sanction of the Court; and the Court will interfere on the application of his guardian to prevent his removal: Re Giltrie, 3 Gr. 279; but the Court, if it is for the interest of the ward, will authorize his removal out of the jurisdiction, upon the undertaking of a guardian resident within the jurisdiction to produce the ward to the Court if, and when, required: Re Callaghan, 23 Ch. D. 166; 52 L. T. 7.

The removal of a ward of Court out of the jurisdiction without the leave of the Court, is punishable by imprisonment, and it is no answer to a motion to commit that the act was done at the solicitation of the ward, and that though there was knowledge that the infant was a ward, there was no knowledge of the effect of that status; ignorance that the infant was a ward does not altogether exonerate, but is an allegation of the contempt: Re J., 106 L. T. 554.

Powers of guardian.

A guardian appointed either by the Surrogate Court, or by the Supreme Court: Huggins v. Law, 14 Ont. App. 363; or a tutor appointed by a Quebec Court: Honrahon v. Honrahon, 19 Ont. 396; is entitled to receive, and can give, a valid discharge for a legacy due to his infant ward; as to his power to make leases of the infant's lands in his name: see p. 1267, supra; and see further as to leases by infants: Lipsett v. Perdue, 18 Ont. 575.

Leases.

The sanction of the Court should be obtained to all dispositions, whether by sale, lease, or mortgage, of an infant's estate; except in the case of leases made by a guardian appointed by the Surrogate Court, as to which, see p. 1267, supra, whether a guardian appointed by the Supreme Court may make a lease of his ward's land without the sanction of the Court, quære.

Accounts of guardians.

Where there are two or more guardians of an infant, the fact that one of the guardians who has maintained the infant, has been in sole receipt of the income of the infant's estate, is no discharge to the other guardians therefor, but if it is shewn that the infant has been properly maintained and educated by the guardian who received the income, a proper sum will be allowed for that purpose without the details of the expenditure being vouched: Re Evans, Welch v. Chonnell, 51 L. T. 175.

Matters to be stated in affidavits.

619.—(1) The affidavits filed shall state the nature and amount of the personal property to which the infant is entitled, the necessity of resorting to the real estate, its nature, value, and the annual profits thereof; the occupation of the lands to be disposed of, and state specifically the relief desired, and circumstances sufficient to justify the order sought.

If maintenance desired

(2) If an allowance for maintenance is desired, a case shall also be stated and made, to justify such an order, and to regulate the amount.

If appointment of guardian desired.

(3) If the appointment of a guardian is desired, a case shall be stated and made, for the appointment of the person proposed. C.R. 964.

As to the circumstances which justify an application under The Infants Act for the lease, sale or mortgaging of an infant's lands: see the notes, supra, p. 1265.

As to applications under The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74): see the notes, infra, p. 1273.

As to applications for maintenance of infants under The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153): see notes to Rule 618, supra, p. 1266.

And as to applications under that Act for the appointing of guardians to infants: see the notes to Rule 618, supra, p. 1269.

The infant to be produced to Judge or Master.

If over 14 years to be examined.

620.—(1) Unless otherwise directed by the Judge, the infant shall be produced before him or before a Master, and the infant, where above the age of 14 years, shall be examined apart by the Judge or officer before whom he is produced, upon the matter of the petition, and as to his consent thereto.

Where infant abroad.

(2) Where the infant is out of Ontario the Judge may direct inquiry as to the infant's consent by his examination in such manner as may seem proper.

Infants under 14 need not be examined.

(3) It shall not be necessary to examine an infant under 14 years of age, unless otherwise ordered, but it shall be sufficient for the officer before whom such infant is produced, to certify that he has been produced, and that he is under the age of 14 years. C.R. 965, 966 and 967.

The sale is not to be ordered without the consent of the infant if he is of the age of fourteen years or upwards, unless the Court otherwise directs or allows: The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), s. 13; but where there are several infants interested who are over fourteen years, it has been held that the consent of a majority of them is sufficient to authorize the Court to direct a sale, not merely of the shares of the infants who do consent, but also of those who have not consented: Re Harding, 13 P. R. 112. In this case one of the infants interested, had disappeared and could not be found, and her examination was dispensed with. Where an infant over fourteen was an imbecile, her examination and consent were dispensed with: Re Delanty, 13 P. R. 143.

Where the infants had been examined and consented to a sale, which had been ordered by the Court, but which was not carried out, their further examination and consent to a sale at a less price was dispensed with, on its being shewn that they were out of the jurisdiction, and were satisfied to accept the price offered: In re Bennett, 17 P. R. 408. Rule 621.

The Judge, or officer, before whom the infant is examined, should take down his examination in writing, and also his consent, where the consent is necessary; and this should be signed by the infant and by the Judge or officer, and should be attached to the petition: Re Axford, 6 P. R. 192.

Where the infant is under fourteen, the Judge or officer should not only certify the fact, but should also state that the infant was produced before him, and examined apart.

Evidence should be given before the Judge or officer identifying the infant and proving his age so as to enable the master to certify under Rule 620 (3).

Where the infants under fourteen were living with their mother out of the jurisdiction, and the mother swore that she was unable to produce them, owing to the expense, and the property was shewn to be worth only $400, the production of the infants was dispensed with: Re Lane, 9 P. R. 251.

Where the infant is out of the jurisdiction, and not of an age making his consent to the proceedings essential, his production before the Master may, on application to a Judge, be ordered to be dispensed with: Re Lane, 9 P. R. 251; S. C., sub nom.; Re Love, 18 C. L. J. 371. Production of infant, when dispensed with.

But unless this order be obtained, the infant should in all cases be produced before the Master, even though he be under fourteen years.

621. Witnesses in support of the application may be examined vivâ voce before the Judge making the order or before a Master of the Supreme Court. C.R. 968. Witnesses in support of petition to be examined before Judge or Master.

A subpœna may be issued under Rule 228 for the examination of witnesses in support of the application: Raymond v. Tapson, 23 Ch. D. 430; 48 L. T. 403; McMillan v. Wansborough, 10 P. R. 377.

PROCEEDINGS UNDER SETTLED ESTATES ACT.

Settled Estates.—In addition to the power given to the Court by The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153), in reference to the estates of infants, power is also given to the Court by The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74)—to authorize leases, s. 3—or sales or mortgages of settled estates: s. 14; and there were formerly special Rules regulating the procedure under that Act: see C.RR. 973-990, none of which have been continued. It would seem that such applications are not included in the business authorized to be taken in Chambers under Rule 207 (1), and therefore that they can only be entertained in Court: see Rule 205. The procedure subject to any special provisions of The Settled Estates Act would appear to be similar to proceedings under The Infants Act: see The Settled Estates Act as to sales, etc., s. 14 (3); and as to persons on whom notice of such applications must be served: see The Settled Estates Act, ss. 20, 21, 22.

The application was originally required to be made by petition, but it is probably now intended to be made by originating notice as in the case of applications under The Infants Act (R. S. O. c. 153).

Proceedings under Settled Estates Act.

Sale of settled estate when ordered.

The Court has no inherent jurisdiction in such matters, and has no power to sanction schemes for the improvement of settled estates for the benefit of the cestuis que trustent, save so far as is authorized by the statute: see Re Montagu, 1897, 1 Ch. 685; 76 L. T. 485. Formerly the Court had no power to order the sale of a part of a settled estate, in order to make improvements on the remainder: Re Moore, 6 P. R. 281; Re Chambers, 28 Beav. 653; nor could it sanction an exchange of part merely for the purpose of improving the remainder: Re Bishoprick, 21 Gr. 589; but in that case, on its being shown that, unless the exchange were made the property was liable to depreciation in value, the exchange was directed under R. S. O. (1877), c. 40, s. 76; but the provisions of s. 77 of that Act prohibiting any sale, or disposition against the provisions of any will, or conveyance, do not seem to have been considered.

Under The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74), the jurisdiction of the Court is enlarged, and it has now power whenever it deems it proper, and consistent, with a due regard for the interest of all parties entitled under a settlement, to sanction a lease (s. 3) or sale (s. 14), of the whole or any part of a settled estate, or the sale or mortgage for the purpose of making improvements on the estate (s. 14). The statute does not in terms authorize an exchange, but semble, an exchange is only a form of sale.

The Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction over settled estates may authorize a lease thereof for 999 years: Re Watson's Trusts, 21 Ont. 528.

The Court has also authorized a sale for the support of the tenant for life and her infant child, who was entitled in remainder: Re Smith, 4 Ont. 518; and also where the settled land was unproductive and being eaten up with taxes: Re Hooper, 28 Ont. 179.

Under The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74), the Court has power to sanction leases containing agreements for renewal, or renewals: s. 3 (2); and see Re Watson's Trusts, 21 Ont. 528.

Notice to be given.

The notice to be given by the 20th section of the said Act, if given before the hearing (or if given after the hearing and the Judge shall not otherwise direct), may, without any other direction of the Court, be given within the jurisdiction of the Court by delivering to the person to be served, a notice according to Form No. 192, in the former C.R.R., and see H. & L. Forms No. 1469, and the time to be specified in the notice for the person served to file and deliver a notification shall be not less than 7 clear days after the service: Rule 215 (2). The notice will be in the form of an originating notice.

Applications under The Settled Estates Act must be made with the consent or concurrence of any person interested as tenant in tail, or in case there be more than one, then the first of such tenants in tail, and all persons in existence having any beneficial interest under or by virtue of the settlement prior to the estate of the tenant in tail, and all trustees having any estate or interest on behalf of any unborn child prior to the estate of such tenant in tail; and in all other cases the parties whose consent or concurrence is necessary, are all persons in existence, having any beneficial estate or interest under or by virtue of the settlement, and also the trustees having any estate or interest on behalf of any unborn child prior to the estate of the tenant in tail: see The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74), s. 20 (1). And where any of these persons do not concur in, or consent to the application, then they are required to be notified as provided by s. 20 (2).

Where any of such partiea are out of the jurisdiction an order for service muat he ohtained under Rules 25-27. Settled Estates Act.

Where property waa vested in a truatee in trust after the death of the tenant for life to seli and divida the proceeda among numerous persons who would hecome absoluteiy entitled, with power to the trustee to give receipts, on a petition by the tenant for life under Imp. Act, 19 & 20 Vict. c. 120, for a sale of the property, it was held under s. 17 of that Act (from which R. S. O. (1897) c. 71, a. 23, was taken), that the consent of all the beneficiaries was necessary: Re Ives, Bailey v. Holmes, 3 Ch. D. 690. The peraona whoee conssnt was requlred hy s. 23 were persons whose consents were capahle of being ohtained: but see now The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74), a. 20 (4), whlch enahlea the Court to diapense with the conaent of peraona who cannot he found, or who cannot he notified without expense disproportionate to their interest in the land. Tbe consent of unascertained peraons who are intereated ia not requiaite: Beioley v. Carter, L. R. 4 Chy. 230; Re Strutt, L. R. 16 Eq. 629; Re Potts, L. R. 16 Eq. 631n.

Infanta, aud persons of unsound mind (not ao found hy inquisition or jndicial decia: ..ion), required to he aerved with notice of an application, must he aerved hy delivering to the Official Guardian a copy of the originating notice or other proceeding required to he served: see Rule 18. Service on infants and persons of unsound mind not so found.

Where the person to he served is a lunatic and haa no committtee a guardian should he appointed for him, as in an nction in which a lunatic is defendant: aee Rule 95, supra; and it ia the duty of the Official Guardian, forthwith to attend to the intereat of the infant, and to take all such proceedings aa may he neceasary for the protection of auch interesta in the proceeding in which he is ao appointed guardian, and for that purpose to communicate with all proper persons and partiea, including the father or guardian of the infant and the person with whom or under whose care the infant ia; and the like duty will devolve on a guardian of a lunatic.

In case there is more than one infant, or person of unsound mind for whom aervice is made on the Official Guardian, one copy only of tbe notice or other proceeding need he served, hut the name of each person on whose hehalf the Official Guardian ia aerved should he stated on ths copy served: Rule 18 (4).

In case of a pereon of unsound mind he should, where practicable, be personaliy aerved, and where personal aervice on him is not practicahle, leave to aerve him suhstitutionally ahould be obtained.

A married woman is competent to consent to, or concur in, or oppose an application under the Act, even though ehe he an infant: see The Settled Estates Act, a. 36.

If an infant make any application under The Settled Estates Act by his guardian or next friend, semble, the Official Guardian ahould be served with a copy of the notice, and the Official Guardian ahould thereafter attend and watch the proceedings on behalf of such infant. Where infant is applicant.

The ohject of thia is to aecure in the infant's behalf the protection afforded hy an investigation hy the Official Gunrdian of the propriety of tbe proceedings, nnd to prevent infants from heing prejudiced hy ill-advised applications heing made in their names.

Infants are by the Act enabled to consent to, or concur in, applicationa under the Act hy their guardians: aee The Settled Estates Act, s. 35.

Settled Estates Act.

Notice of hearing.

N ..e of ths application will be served on nll person. dissenting from, or desiring to be henrd in opposition thereto, and upon committees of lunatics, and upon the Official Guardian, or other guardian od litem appointed, who may be interested in the proceedings on behalf of an infant, or person of unsound mind (not so found), at least seven clear days before the day for hearing the same: Rule 215 (2).

As to the persons whose consent or concurrence is necessary, or who must otherwise be notified of the application, see The Settled Estates Act, s. 20.

Where a person whose consent or concurrence ia necessary is an infant, or of unsound mind, or cannot be found, or the expense of serving him would be disproportionate to his interest in the land, the Court has power to dispense with the consent or concurrence of such person: Ib., s. 20 (4).

The petition must be heard before the Judge presiding in the Weekly Court; as to the days on which these sittings are held, see Rules 234, 239.

Where the interests of the infant respondents, on whose behalf the Official Guardian is served, conflict, another guardian ad litem will have to be appointed so that each class of infants may be properly represented. The appointment of such other guardian must be made by order, on a special application: see Rules 92, 93, supra, pp. 476, 477.

Evidence on application as to lunatic.

Where a committee of a lunatic makes, or consents to, an application, or gives a notification respecting any application, the authority of such committee to act on behalf of the lunatic should be produced to the Court, and also evidence to satisfy the Court that what is proposed is, and the committee should make an affidavit that he believes that it is, proper and consistent with a due regard to the interest of such lunatic; and if it appears that it is proper and consistent with a due regard for the interest of the lunatic that the committee should make, or consent to, the application, or give any epecific notification respecting the application, the Court may approve of his so doing.

Evidence as to consent of infant or person of unsound mind not so found.

Where the Official Guardian or other guardian ad litem of an infant, or person of unsound mind (not so found), consenta to an application, or gives a notification respecting an application, evidence should be produced to satisfy the Court that it is, and the guardian should make an affidavit that he believes that it is, proper and consistent with a due regard to the interest of such infant, or person of unsound mind (not so found), that such consent should be given, and thereupon the Court may approve of the same being given.

Evidence that application is proper.

Upon every application the Court will have to be satisfied by sufficient evidence that it is proper and consistent, with a due regard for the interests of all parties entitled under the settlement, that the powers should be exercised, and it should be stated in the evidence why, and upon what ground, it is deemed to be so.

Evidence of service on trustees.

Upon every petition where there are trustees seised or possessed of any estate in trust for any of the persons whose consent or concurrence to or in the application is required, evidence should be produced that notice of the application has been served on such trustees.

Evidence of no previous application to Legislature.

Upon every application evidence should be produced to satisfy the Court that neither the applicant, nor any party entitled, has previously applied to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario for a private Act to effect the same or similar object, or, if any application has been made, that the same was not rejected on its merits or reported against by the Judges to whom the bill may have been referred.

If any such application has been made and refused the Court cannot make any order: see The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74), s. 23.

Where, however, the application for a private Act has been rejected on the ground that the relief sought could be obtained by proceedings under The Settled Estates Act, the failure of the application to the Legislature would be no bar to a subsequent proceeding under The Settled Estates Act.

Service of advertisement or notice.

If upon the hearing of an application under The Settled Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 74) the Court is of opinion that notice ought to be served on any person who has not been served, or that notice of application ought to be inserted in any newspaper, the Court will give directions accordingly, and the petition will stand over generally, or to such time as the Court directs.

If the Court directs an advertisement to be published under s. 22, the form of advertisement will probably be referred to be settled by an officer of the Court before publication. Its object is, of course, to give persons interested full information, and where that has been accomplished, small and immaterial defects in the advertisement will not be fatal: see Re Whiteley, L. R. 8 Eq. 574; Re Burley, W. N. 1868, 148; Re Bourne, 16 W. R. 1115; Re Snell, 19 W. R. 1000; Re Nune, W. N. 1867, 109; Re Hemsley, L. R. 16 Eq. 315; Re Bicknell, L. R. 14 Eq. 467.

The marriage of an applicant after the publication of the advertisement was held not to be a ground for requiring its republication: Re Marshall, L. R. 15 Eq. 66. And on the death of an applicant after advertisement, the notice may be amended by stating the fact, and substituting a new applicant: Re Wilkinson, L. R. 9 Eq. 71.

Where advertisement—Persons who may be heard.

When the Court has directed notice of any application to be inserted in any newspapers, any person may at the time specified in the notice, be heard in opposition to, or in support of, the application, subject to such order as to costs as to the Court may seem just.

What order is to state.

The order made on the adjudication on the petition should state, in addition to the names of the applicants, the names of the persons other than the applicants who concur or consent, or to whom notice of the application has been given, or who have appeared in opposition to, or in support of, the application, and whether any notice was received from the persons to whom notice had been given, and, if any has been received, the purport thereof, and also the names of the persons, if any, notice to whom has been dispensed with, and whether the order is made subject to any, and what rights, estate or interest of any person whose concurrence, or consent, has been refused, or who has not, or is not to be deemed to have, submitted his rights or interests to be dealt with by the Court, or whose rights or interests ought, in the opinion of the Court, to be excepted.

In case of leases.

Where the Court authorizes a lease, the order should direct that the lease shall contain such conditions as are required by the Act, and such other covenants, conditions and stipulations as the Court deems expedient with reference to the special circumstances, or may direct the same to contain such covenants, conditions and stipulations as may be approved by the Master in Ordinary, or a Local Master: see the Act, ss. 3, 4.

CHAPTER XXIII.

MANDAMUS, ETC.

Mandamus, etc., granted on originating notice.

622. Mandamus, prohibition and certiorari may be granted upon a summary application by originating notice. C.R. 1080. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 722.

A mandamus may be granted by judgment in an action, as well as on an application under this Rule.

Mandamus in action.

In any action the plaintiff may indorse upon the writ, a claim for a mandamus; and the plaintiff may claim in the statement of claim, either together with any other demand which may be enforced in the action, or separately, a mandamus commanding the defendant to fulfil any duty in the fulfilment of which the plaintiff is personally interested.

The mandamus claimed in an action is not the prerogative mandamus which may be granted where a party has no other remedy: see notes to sec. 17, supra, pp. 51-53; but the power to grant a mandamus in an action, which was originally a new power conferred on Common Law Courts (analogous to the powers of acting directly in personam possessed by the Court of Chancery) was a power "to direct the performance of some act, of something to be done, which is the result of an action, where an action will lie," per Brett, L.J., in Glossop v. Heston Local Board, 12 Ch. D. 122.

It was thus in the nature of an execution, applicable in cases where relief to a plaintiff, who was damaged by the non-fulfilment of a duty by defendant, would be best given by enforcing the specific performance of that duty, and is in fact the Common Law equivalent of what in Equity was called a "mandatory injunction": see Smith v. Chorley, 1897, 1 Q. B. at p. 539.

Under the system introduced by The Judicature Act it would seem to be proper to hold, under section 17 that, in all cases in which the appropriate relief is to compel the performance by the defendant of that which the plaintiff is in the action held entitled to have performed, performance should be compelled by a mandatory judgment. In re London, Huron & Bruce Ry. Co. v. E. Wawanosh, 36 U. C. Q. B. 93, it was held that a prerogative writ of mandamus was not the appropriate remedy to enforce a contract: see also Re N. Simcoe Ry. Co. v. Toronto, Ib., 101.

And under the corresponding English enactment it was decided that the power given to grant a mandamus is only to be exercised to enforce performance of duties of a public nature, not those arising simply by contract: Benson v. Paull, 6 E. & B. 273; Norris v. Irish Land Co., 8 E. & B. 512; and that the duty must be one in which the applicant is interested; and the remedy by mandamus is only available where there is no other effectual legal remedy: Bush v. Beaven, 1 H. & C. 500.

Rule 622.

It has been said that the only class of cases, in which a mandamus is grantable is where there is a duty of a public natura, or a duty created by an Act of Parliament, in the fulfilment of which the plaintiff had a personal interest: see Harrison, C. L. P. Act, 461.

Wherever a statute gives a right to a person to have an act or duty fulfilled by another, and that other does not fulfil it, a causa of action arises, for which, at least, nominal damnges may he recovered: see Young v. Erie & Huron, etc., 27 Ont. 531.

Section 17 of the Act goes further, however, than the previous statutes, and enacts that a mandamus may ha granted "hy an interlocutory order of the Court in all cases in which it shall appear to the Court to be just or convenient that such order should ha made."

Mandamus, when granted in an action.

Under that section, or this Rule, the remedy may he held to extend to cases of a more private nature than those to which the prerogative mandamus would nppiy: see Norris v. The Irish Land Co., 8 E. & B. 527, per Coleridge, J., and Swan v. North British Australasian Co., 7 H. & N. 603; 2 H. & C. 175; Worthington v. Hulton, L. R. 1 Q. B. 63; and in actions even where no actual damage is sustained: Fotherby v. Metropolitan Ry. Co., L. R. 2 C. P. 188.

A mandamus waa granted to improvement commissioners, directing them to levy a rate to satisfy the claim of tha plaintiff, a creditor: Ward v. Lowndes, 1 E. & E. 940, 956; and to apply thair funds in payment of debentures: Webb v. Commissioners of Herne Bay, L. R. 5 Q. B. 642; to a railway company, compelling them to give a notice to treat, and proceed with tha purchase of lands as to which they had given notice of an intention to take: Morgan v. Metropolitan Railway Co., L. R. 3 C. P. 553; 4 C. P. 97; Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 73; see also Tyson v. Mayor of London, L. R. 7 C. P. 18; and to isaue a precept for the assessment of compensation after a notice to treat had heen given: Fotherby v. Metropolitan Railway Co., L. R. 2 C. P. 188; Guest v. Poole and Bournemouth Ry. Co., L. R. 5 C. P. 553; to a municipal corporation to compel tha making of repairs to a drain which it was their duty to repair, and the non-repair of which had caused damage to the plaintiff: White v. Corporation of Gosfield, 2 Ont. 287; and see Re Moulton, etc., v. Haldimand, 12 Ont. App. 503; and to compel the opening of a road allowance so aa to enahle an occupant of land to have access thereto: Hislop v. McGillivray, 12 Ont. 749; see also Re Wilson v. Wainfleet, 10 P. R. 147; Clarke v. Palmerston, 6 Ont. 616; and to compel them to raise the money to pay the claim of the plaintiff as a creditor of the corporation: Quaintance v. Howard, 25 C. L. J. 545; and to compel a canal company to repair a specified hridge: Rex v. Wilts and Berks Canal Co., 1912, 3 K. B. 623; nnd to compel a minister of the Crown to perform a ministerial duty imposed on him: Re Massey Manufacturing Co., 11 Ont. 444; 13 Ont. App. 446. See as to the discretion of the Court: Nicholl v. Allen, 1 B. & S. 916, 934.

In cases of puhlic nuisance, the pu lic has an interest in the removal of the nuisance, hut any private individual who suffers particular injury may have his action for damages: see Brown v. Mallett, 5 C. B. 599; Dobson v. Blackmore, 9 Q. B. 991. And semble, in such case, under the present system, such private individual can hsve a mandamus for the removal of the nuisance.

When refused.

A mandamus will not he granted to enforce the running of a railway in accordance with an agreement between it and the municipality, as that would involve a minute supervision of the management of the railway: Kingston v. Kingston, etc., 28 Ont. 399; 25 Ont. App. 462; nor will the Court by mandamus interfere with the discretion vested in, and honestly exercised by, a public body: Smith v. Chorley, infra; but a contract of a street railway company to sell tickets on its cars at certain specified rates, was enforced by injunction restraining them from running cars on which tickets were not carried for sale at the specified rates: Hamilton v. Hamilton St. Ry., 8 O. L. R. 642; 10 O. L. R. 594.

Where a statutory remedy is prescribed for the neglect of a public duty, or the applicant has other appropriate remedy, a mandamus will not be granted to enforce its performance: Peebles v. Oswaldtwistle Council, 1897, 1 Q. B. 165; 76 L. T. 315. See also cases in notes to sec. 17, supra, p. 51 et seq.

Mandamus in action not granted where prerogative mandamus is the proper remedy.

But where the proper procedure is to apply for a prerogative mandamus, an action for a mandamus cannot be maintained: Smith v. Chorley, 1897, 1 Q. B. 532, 678; 76 L. T. 637; Baxter v. London County Council, 63 L. T. 767; but where an action was brought, and a motion made in it, for a mandamus, the proceedings were amended so as to turn the application into a summary motion for the prerogative mandamus: Toronto Public Library Board v. Toronto, 19 P. R. 329.

Jurisdiction to grant prerogative mandamus on motion.

The Supreme Court has, by virtue of the transference to it of the former jurisdiction of the Common Law Courts, jurisdiction to grant an order of mandamus wherever the prerogative writ of mandamus might formerly have been granted.

The prerogative writ was formerly obtained at a sitting of the Court in Term, and was not usually peremptory in the first instance, but in an alternative form, commanding the person to whom it was directed to do the act specified, or shew cause to the contrary, which was done by a return to the writ.

The enactment from which this Rule is taken was passed to enable applications for the prerogative writ of mandamus to be made in Chambers at any time, instead of only during the sittings of the Court in Term, and to empower the Court to grant a writ, to which obedience was the only admissible return. The preamble to the original Act, 35 Vict. c. 14, was: "Whereas in many cases very great injustice is done by the delay in the issue of the prerogative writ of mandamus; and whereas it is necessary to devise a more speedy and summary method for the issue of the same."

Application to be to Judge in Chambers.

The Jud. Act, and the present Rule therefore provide for a summary application to a Judge in Chambers: see Rule 207 (11); for the issue of a peremptory order in the first instance; so that all questions as to the right to the order, and the matters which otherwise would be raised by way of return to a mandamus nisi, may be argued, and disposed of at once, without any previous order and return thereto. That is the mode of procedure now generally adopted. The right, however, to move the Court for a mandamus nisi, as formerly, is not taken away.

The present Rule probably applies to both the prerogative mandamus, and that grantable in an action under sec. 17 of the Jud. Act, but, in an action, a mandamus will not be granted on an interlocutory application unless the plaintiff clearly shews that he will suffer some injury by waiting for the result of the action: Widnes Alkali Co. v Sheffield, etc., 37 L. T. 131.

The Master in Chambers, and officers having like jurisdiction, have no power to grant orders of mandamus: see Rules 205, 208, 209; nor has a Judge of a County Court: Rich v. Melancthon, 26 O. L. R. 48, per Middleton, J.—An application under this Rule is to be made to a Judge in Chambers: Rule 207 (11). Rule 622.

Where a summary application for a mandamus was made in Court, the costs of a Chamber motion only were allowed, where the circumstances did not justify the imposition of a larger sum for costs than was sufficient to indicate that the respondents were in the wrong: Re Brookfield and Public School Section 12, Township of Brooke, 12 P. R. 485.

On an application for a prerogative mandamus the affidavits to found the application are simply exhibited in the Court, without any cause or matter, e.g., "In the Supreme Court of Ontario;" formerly, the rule nisi or absolute, for the writ, and all subsequent proceedings were further entitled "the King against (naming the defendants)."; but see Corner's Crown Pr., pp. 220, 224, where it is said that affidavits were not usually so entitled until after the granting of the rule absolute. In the case of Toronto Public Library Board v. Toronto, 19 P. R. 329, the title was amended by adding "In the matter of the Toronto Public School Board, etc., etc.," but it is doubtful whether that was a proper carrying out of the Chancellor's direction.

A notice of motion for a prerogative order of mandamus in lieu of an application for an order nisi is now the proper practice. The notice must be seven clear days: Rule 215 (2).

Demand and refusal.

In order to obtain a prerogative mandamus on motion, proof of a previous demand, and refusal to do the act required, must be adduced; but where a plaintiff has a right to a mandamus in an action, the prerequisites to obtaining a prerogative mandamus are not essential to be observed: Young v. Erie & Huron Ry., 27 Ont. 530.

Motion to be made by counsel.

The motion for an order of mandamus must be made by counsel, an application by a suitor in person will not be entertained: Ex p. Wallace, 1902, 2 K. B. 488, where In re Lewis (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 474, was held to be no authority for a contrary practice. The notice of motion takes the place of an order nisi, and the order, if granted, is usually absolute in the first instance: sed vide, Re Board of Education of Napanee & Noponee, infra.

A peremptory order is seldom awarded ex parte: see Tapp. 407; and see Re Board of Education of Napanee & Naponee, 29 Gr. 395, 398; but the Court formerly, under C. R. 1092 might grant it ex parte, but that Rule has not been continued; but see Rule 216.

Answer to motion.

Every good legal cause why the prosecutor is not entitled to a mandamus, whether it arises from the prosecutor's personal incapacity to obtain it, or by reason of the absence of a legal right to what he seeks, will form a good and valid answer to the motion: see Tapp. 358. A legal impossibility to perform what is asked, is also a good answer: see Re Bristol & Somerset Ry., 3 Q. B. D. 10; but the fact that the defendant had, after notice of the plaintiff's claim, by his own act, put it out of his power to comply therewith, is not a legal impossibility: see Regina v. Bornordo, 23 Q. B. D. 305.

Rule 622.

Former procedure in mandamus.

Former C. R. 1087 provided that "The return to be made to any such order, and issues joined in fact or law upon any traverse thereof, shall be made and joined by and in the name of the person to whom such order is directed; but nevertheless the same shall, if the Court thinks fit so to direct, be expressed to be made and joined on the behalf of such other person as may be ordered; and in that case such other person shall be permitted to frame the return, and to conduct the subsequent proceedings at his own expense; and in such case, if any judgment is given for or against the party applying for the mandamus, such judgment shall be given against or for the person on whose behalf the return is expressed to be made, and such person shall have the like remedy for the recovery of costs and enforcing the judgment as the person to whom the order was directed might and would otherwise have had.

Orders.

For or against whom judgment shall be given.

Costs.

False return.

(2) Where the person to whom an order of mandamus is directed shall be found by the Court or a Judge to have made a false or insufficient return thereto, the Court or Judge may order the person making such false or insufficient return to pay to the party prosecuting such order any damages occasioned by such false or insufficient return, to be assessed by such Court or Judge, or otherwise as may be directed."

Damages for false return.

(3) In case damages are awarded under this Rule, the person against whom the same are awarded shall not be liable to be sued in any other action for the making of such return."

These provisions are not continued in the present Rules.

Cases of death, resignation or removal, of persons making the return.

By C. R. 1088, it was also provided: "In case the return to any such order is, in pursuance of the authority given as aforesaid, expressed to be made on behalf of any other person as aforesaid, the further proceedings on such order shall not abate or be discontinued by the death or resignation of, or removal from office of the person having made such return, but the same shall and may be continued and carried on in the name of such person; and if a peremptory mandamus is awarded, the same shall and may be directed to any successor in office or right of such person." This Rule has not been continued.

It appeared to authorize the carrying on of proceedings in the name of a deceased person: probably that can no longer be done and in the case of any party dying, an order to continue proceedings under Rule 301 is now necessary.

Form of objections to return.

Former C. R. 1089 provided that "(1) Where the person prosecuting any order of mandamus wishes or intends to object to the validity of any return to the same, he shall do so by way of motion to strike out or set aside the return; and where a person objects to the validity of the order of mandamus he may in like manner move to set it aside.

Proceedings thereon.

Judgment.

(2) The Court or Judge shall adjudge whether or not the return is valid in law, or whether the order of mandamus is or is not valid in law; and if it is adjudged that the order is valid in law, but that the return thereto is not valid in law, the Court or Judge shall award (a) a peremptory order of mandamus shall issue in that behalf."

Return to mandamus.

Former C. R. 1085 provided that "Where an order of mandamus shall be issued, the person required to make a return thereto shall, on being duly served therewith, make his return thereto as thereby required, on pain of being proceeded against for contempt of Court." But neither of those Rules has been continued.

C. R. 1083 embodied the provisions of 9 Anne, c. 25, which was passed to do away with the former necessity of issuing alias and pluries writs. Rule 623. Present procedure.

Under the present Rules the former procedure as to a return to the order seems to be abolished. The order now made is probably intended to be peremptory in its terms; and if the defendant fails to comply with it, after being duly served, he may be proceeded against for contempt of Court.

The procedure of a return being abolished, it follows that the power to award damages against a person making a false or insufficient return to a mandamus no longer exists, and it would seem that the only remedy for disobedience is an application to punish the disobedient party for contempt. The jurisdiction to award damages on a summary application was not a part of the inherent jurisdiction but was purely statutory, founded originally on 9 Anne, c. 25 (see R. S. O. c. 324, s. 30), and the statute being repealed, the jurisdiction is gone: see Rule 2.

Formerly a mandamus differed from a mandatory injunction in that it required a return to be made to the Court of the manner in which it had been executed, whereas a mandatory injunction contains no such provision. This distinction would now appear to be abolished. No form is given in the appendix, of a mandamus under the present Rules, but it is probably intended, that both a prerogative, and statutory, mandamus, shall be in terms an order absolute to do the required act. Return to order of mandamus no longer required.

Enforcement of Mandamus.—Proceeding for contempt, in which the Court may impose fine or imprisonment, is now the proper and only remedy for disobeying a peremptory mandamus; Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 82; Rex v. Hammond, 111 L. T. 206.

623. No writ of mandamus, prohibition or certiorari shall be issued, but all necessary provisions shall be made in the judgment or order. C.R. 1083. Amended. Writs of mandamus to issue.

This Rule, though purporting to be founded on C. R. 1083, appears really to be founded on C. RR. 1080, 1100 and 1101. C. R. 1094 also provided that a writ of injunction should not be issued, but that a judgment or order should have the same effect as a writ of injunction formerly had: but that provision has not been continued in the present Rules.

As to applications for mandamus: see Jud. Act sec. 17, supra, pp. 50, 51, and notes to Rule 622.

Prohibition.—Prior to R. S. O. 1877, c. 52, s. 2, a mere surmise or suggestion of the ground for prohibition was enough to put the Superior Court in motion, and the suggestion was not required to be verified, where there was a plea in the Court below, but if there was no plea, then an affidavit was required. Prohibition.

The right to a prohibition order has to be tried now upon a motion, subject to the same rules as other motions. Amongst others, Rules 226-232, 338, will be applicable, and, in such cases as the Court would formerly direct a declaration and subsequent proceedings in prohibition, a Court or Judge can now upon a motion direct that evidence be taken

Rule 823. in such way as may seem proper, and if necessary that an issue be tried.

Application for, how made. The motion must be made in Chambers to a Judge: Rule 207 (11). The Master in Chambers, and Local Judges, and Masters, have no jurisdiction: see Rules 205, 207, 208, 209, 210.

It is to be made by originating notice: Rule 622, and must be a seven clear days notice: Rule 215 (2).

When granted. Prohibition is the proper remedy where the inferior Court is exceeding its jurisdiction, not where having jurisdiction it has committed an error in law, or good conscience: Biddall v. Gibson, 17 U. C. Q. B. 98; In re Dyer & Ellis, 30 Ont. 637; or merely an error or irregularity in procedure, the remedy, if any, in such case is by appeal, and if there is no appeal there is no remedy: Reg. v. Mayor of London, 69 L. T. 721; Re First D. C. v. Huron, 5 P. R. 467; but if a mistake in law is the ground on which the inferior Court assumes jurisdiction, then prohibition lies: Re Royston Park, 28 O. L. R. 629; Re Long Point Co. v. Anderson, 18 Ont. App. 401; Ameliasburgh v. Pitcher, 13 O. L. R. 417.

A prohibition may be granted though the question of jurisdiction has not been raised in the Court below, but the omission to raise the objection there may disentitle the applicant to costs: Nerlich v. Clifford, 6 P. R. 212; but if the applicant submits to the jurisdiction of the Court below and cross-examines witnesses, and argues the case on the merits without objecting to the jurisdiction, a prohibition on the ground of excess of jurisdiction may be refused: In re Burrowes, 18 C. P. 493; and see Richardson v. Shaw, 6 P. R. 296. Where the Judge in the Court below acts under an appealable order of the Supreme Court, which is not appealed from, prohibition will be refused though the Court may think the order of the Supreme Court erroneous: Dierkin v. Philpot, 1901, 2 K. B. 380; 85 L. T. 246.

Where the want of jurisdiction is apparent on the face of the proceedings, prohibition must be granted ex debito justitiæ, and the applicant is not estopped by any consent or acquiescence on his part, but the granting of prohibition is discretionary where the want of jurisdiction is not apparent, and depends on facts which the applicant has neglected to bring to the attention of the inferior Court: Farquharson v. Morgan, 1894, 1 Q. B. 552; 70 L. T. 152.

Prohibition is an extreme measure, granted summarily only in a very plain case of the unlawful exercise of jurisdiction by a subordinate tribunal: Re Cummings & Carleton, 25 Ont. 607; In re Grant v. Allen, 26 U. C. Q. B. 123.

Costs. A successful party on an application for prohibition is entitled to, and should be awarded, costs, unless the Court, in the proper exercise of a wise discretion, can see good cause for depriving such party of them; and such party should not be deprived of costs, unless there appears to have been impropriety of conduct, which induced the litigation, or impropriety in the conduct thereof: Re McLeod v. Emigh (2), 12 P. R. 503; Reg. v. Justices of London, 1894, 1 Q. B. 453; 70 L. T. 148; and in case a difficulty where there is no misconduct on the part of the inferior Court, though the application be successful, costs may be refused: Rieken v. Yorke Peninsular Justices, 1908, A. C. 454; 99 L. T. 629.

Certiorari. Certiorari.—C. R. 1101 provided that an order for certiorari might be granted on a motion to the Court or a Judge, but that provision has not been continued. An application for an order of certiorari must now be made to a Judge in Court: see Rules 205, 207. Rule 624.

The Master in Chambers, and Local Masters, and Local Judges, have no jurisdiction to entertain such applications: see Rules 207, 208, 209, 210.

The application is to be made by originating notice, and must be a seven clear days' notice: see Rules 622, 215 (2).

Where the inferior Court has the like jurisdiction as the Supreme Court in the particular matter, a certiorari to bring up and quash the proceedings cannot be granted: Skinner v. North Allerton C. C. Judge, 1899, A. C. 439.

After a cause is removed from an inferior Court by certiorari, the plaintiff cannot be compelled to prosecute it in the Supreme Court: Harrison v. Bull, 1912, I K. B. 612.

Where a motion is desired to be made to quash a conviction for alleged breach of a Provincial law, no order of certiorari is necessary, but a six days' notice may be given as prescribed by the Jud. Act, s. 63, supra, p. 223. Motions to quash convictions.

Where a motion is desired to be made to quash a conviction for breach of a Dominion law, no certiorari is necessary, but a six days' notice may also be given as prescribed by the Rules passed under the Criminal Code, 27 March, 1908, see supra, p. 140.

624. The Court may require notice to be given to any person claiming any right or interest in the subject-matter of the application. C.R. 1086. Amended. Court may direct notice to persons to be given interested.

This Rule is probably directed to meet the case of a mandamus required to be issued to officers or persons whose functions are merely ministerial, and to provide that other persons having or claiming right or interest in the matter, may be called upon to shew cause, and may be made liable to costs: see Demorest v. Midland Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 73.

The Court may, it is presumed, give direction under this Rule before the service of the originating notice, or may on the return of the notice direct it to stand over for the purpose of serving some other person than those served.

CHAPTER XXIV.

INTERPLEADER.

Where relief by interpleader granted.

625. Relief by way of interpleader may be granted:—

(a) Where the person seeking relief (hereinafter called the applicant) is under liability for any debt, money, goods or chattels, for or in respect of which he is, or expects to be, sued by two or more persons (hereinafter called the claimants) making adverse claim thereto:

(b) Where the applicant is a Sheriff and claim is made to any money, goods, or chattels, lands or tenements, taken or intended to be taken in execution under a writ of execution, or to the proceeds or value thereof, by any person other than the person against whom the process issued. C.R. 1103.

Jurisdiction in interpleader.

Prior to the Judicature Act, 1881, the jurisdiction of the Common Law Courts in interpleader was regulated by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, as amended by 44 V. c. 7; 49 V. c. 16, s. 13; but the jurisdiction in Equity except in the case of interpleader by Sheriffs did not depend upon the statute: McElheran v. London Masonic, etc., 11 P. R. 181.

A stakeholder could only obtain an interpleader order in the Common Law Courts, where he was a defendant, having been actually sued; in Equity, it was sufficient if a claim was made against the applicant, and he was in danger of being molested by conflicting rights: Story Eq. Jnr. s. 808.

At Common Law a stakeholder seeking relief could only do so, as above mentioned, when he was a defendant in respect of a claim for money or goods, of which he had to be in possession, as he had to be in a position to dispose of them in any manner directed by the Court; he also was required to have received a distinct notice of the adverse claim, an expectation of being sued was not enough. The claim of the third party had to be in respect of the same subject matter in respect to which the defendant was sued, but it was not necessary that it should be an absolute right of property in the subject matter.

Where rent was claimed from A. by B., and was garnished by creditors of C. (the father of B.), who, it was claimed, was the real lessor. A. refusing to pay rent unless protected from these claims, and being sued in a County Court by B. for the full amount of rent, was held entitled to relief under this Rule: Re Anderson & Barker, 13 P. R. 21.

Interpleader by stakeholders.

Interpleader by Stakeholders.—Under the present Rule which in effect follows the Equity practice, the person seeking relief is only required to be under liability for the subject matter, it is not neces- Rule 625.

sary that he be first sued, before applying for relief. Probably this Rule does not extinguish any power to compel interpleader existing formerly in Equity upon bill filed, and now possessed by the Supreme Court: see McElheran v. London Masonic, etc., 11 P. R. 181; Western Canada L. & S. Co. v. Court, 25 Gr. 151; Henderson v. Watson, 23 Gr. 355.

Formerly, if the defendant might be liable to both the plaintiff and the third party, he could not require them to interplead. This may be still the case under this Rule: see Farr v. Ward, 2 M. & W. 844.

And where a person is sued by two persons in respect of the same transaction, he is not entitled to an interpleader order on the ground that he claims to be indebted to only one of them: Greatorex v. Hackle, 1895, 2 Q. B. 299.

The Crown cannot be compelled to interplead, not having been mentioned in the Act: see Candy v. Maughan, 1 D. & L. 745; McGee v. Baines, 3 U. C. L. J. 151.

A person outside the jurisdiction may be compelled to interplead. Leave to serve the notice out of the jurisdiction must be obtained under Rule 25; Belmonte v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 352; Credit Gerundeuse v. Van Weede, 12 Q. B. D. 171; Re Confederation Life Association v. Cordingly, 19 P. R. 16, 89; and see Rule 3 (b) and (j); thus, where shares in a foreign joint stock company were in dispute, and the company had been sued within the jurisdiction by one of the rival claimants, it was held that the company was entitled to interplead, although the company and both the claimants were out of the jurisdiction, and although a claim for damages against the applicant was made by one of the claimants in respect of the shares: Re Underfeed Stoker Co., 1 O. L. R. 42; but where the fund in dispute was payable in a foreign country by foreigners residing therein to other foreigners also residing therein, and a claimant within the jurisdiction claimed it, it was held that the person from whom the fund was claimed could not require the parties to interplead in Ontario: Re Benfield & Stevens, 17 P. R. 300, 339, and this may perhaps still be the case notwithstanding Rule 25 (3); see Harris v. Bank of B. N. A., 19 P. R. 51.

It would seem to be immaterial whether the titles on which the adverse claimants rely are legal, or equitable, see Jud. Act, sec. 22 supra, p. 94, and Ruston v. Pope, L. R. 3 Ex. 269; Bank of Ireland v. Perry, L. R. 7 Ex. 14; Duncan v. Cashin, L. R. 10 C. P. 554; 32 L. T. 497; Engleback v. Nixon, L. R. 10 C. P. 645.

A debtor who is being sued, and who has notice of an assignment of the debt, may require the claimants to interplead as to part and dispute the residue; and his application may be either under this Rule or under The Conveyancing and Law of Property Act (R. S. O. c. 109), s. 49, and the proceedings in the action may be stayed under the latter provision: Reading v. School Board for London, 16 Q. B. D. 686.

Where the claim of one of the claimants is for damages for the detention of the subject matter in dispute, the applicant is entitled to an order to interplead: Attenborough v. St. Katharines Dock Co., 3 C. P. D. 450; Re Canadian Pacific Ry. & Carruthers, 17 P. R. 277.

Quære, whether interpleader is a proper remedy for trying the right to securities as between co-sureties: Trerice v. Burkitt, 1 Ont. 80.

Rule 625.

Interpleader was ordered at the instance of an auctioneer: Watson v. Henderson, 12 U. C. L. J. 149; Tanner v. European Bank, L. R. 1 Ex. 261; of a bailee of a policy of insurance: Attenborough v. St. Katharines Dock Co., 3 C. P. D. 450; of a broker to whom shares had been transferred for sale, a rival claim to which was set up: Robinson v. Jenkins, 24 Q. B. D. 167; 62 L. T. 439; and see Re Underfeed Stoker Co., 1 O. L. R. 42; and of a wharfinger with whom were stored goods claimed by two banks, and notwithstanding a letter written by the wharfinger to one of the banks, stating that the goods were held for that bank: Ex p. Mersey Docks & Harbour Board, 1899, 1 Q. B. 546.

But where fire insurance was effected by a lessor and lessee, and a loss having occurred, the lessor claimed that the insurance money should be applied to the restoration of the demised premises, and the lessee claimed it should be paid to him, it was held not to be a case within clause (a), and therefore not a case for interpleader: Sun Insurance Office v. Galinsky, 1914, 2 K. B. 545; 110 L. T. 358.

Interpleader was ordered on the application of a purchaser pendente lite of land, the conveyance of which was in the action attacked as fraudulent, as against creditors of the vendor, the purchaser being sued by the vendor in another action, for the purchase money, which he was willing to pay into Court: Molsons Bank v. Eager, 6 O. W. R. 92, 180; 10 O. L. R. 452.

A solicitor who has recovered judgment for a client under an ordinary retainer has no authority, without special instructions, to engage in proceedings in interpleader: James v. Ricknell, 20 Q. B. D. 164; but where he is retained in interpleader proceedings he has the ordinary powers of a solicitor, as in other contested cases: Hackett v. Bible, 12 P. R. 482.

A bailee who is estopped from setting up jus tertii may nevertheless be entitled to interplead: Ex p. Mersey Docks & Harbour Board, 1899, 1 Q. B. 546.

Clause (a) of the Rule applies only in the case of conflicting claims to money, goods or chattels; it has no application to conflicting claims to land—Clause (b) enables Sheriffs to interplead in the case of conflicting claims to land taken in execution, etc. in regard to claims to which the Rule does not extend an action must be brought.

Practice.—Affidavits entitled "In the H. C. J. Chy. D. Between A., applicant, and B. and others, claimants," were held sufficient: Re Anderson & Barber, 13 P. R. 21.

Costs.

The costs of proceedings are, under Jud. Act, s. 74 supra, in the discretion of the Court, and were ordered to be paid by the person causing the litigation, in Re Anderson & Barber, supra.

A stakeholder applying for an interpleader order, and acting bona fide, is entitled to deduct from the fund in dispute the taxed costs occasioned by the interpleader: Clench v. Dooley, 56 L. T. 122, without prejudice to the question as to how the costs are to be ultimately borne: Searle v. Matthews, W. N. 1883, 176.

It is too late to apply for an interpleader after judgment: Stevenson v. Brownell, 1912, 2 Ch. 344.

Interpleader by bailees and carriers.

Bailees, and Carriers.—To an action by a bailor against a bailee to recover possession of the goods bailed, it is no defence to show that since the bailment the bailor has parted with the property in the goods, and with the documents of title to a third person, unless it is also shown that such third person, is entitled to the goods and that the bailee defends by his authority: see Rogers v. Lambert & Co., 1891, 1 Q. B. 318; 64 L. T. 406. Rule 625.

In Re Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. and Carruthers, 17 P. R. 277, an interpleader order was granted respecting claims to grain deposited under a contract in the Ry. Co.'s elevators, notwithstanding that the specific grain could not be delivered, but only grain of like standard and quality.

An interpleader order was granted on the application of a bailee notwithstanding he had by attornment to one of the claimants estopped himself from denying his title, and the claimant alleging the estoppel was restrained from bringing an action, except as to any claim he might have, by reason of the alleged estoppel, if defeated in the issue: Ex p. Mersey Docks & Harbour Board, 1899, 1 Q. B. 546; 80 L. T. 143.

Sheriffs.—A Sheriff's right to call on rival claimants to interplead is not confined to the cases falling within clause (b); but in cases not provided for by that clause he may invoke the assistance of clause (a): Re Gould v. Hope, 20 Ont. App. 347. Interpleader by sheriffs.

The disposition of the Court is to be more liberal in relieving the Sheriff than formerly: Darling v. Collatton, 10 P. R. 110; Lucas v. Holliday, 8 O. L. R. 542. When entitled or not to interplead.

The right of a Sheriff to an interpleader order depends on his having the subject matter of the rival claims in his possession, or his having the right to take it in execution with an intention so to do. He cannot require claimants to interplead in respect of a mortgage assigned by the debtor (the mortgagee), which (though acting under The Execution Act (R. S. O. c. 80), s. 25 (2)), he has neither actually seized, nor is able to seize: Keenan v. Osborne, 7 O. L. R. 134.

Where the application is made by a Sheriff under clause (b) the Sheriff must have made a seizure (or be ready and intending to make one: see Keenan v. Osborne, supra), before he can apply, and before the Court can have any summary jurisdiction to direct an issue: Ogden v. Craig, 10 P. R. 378; Teskey v. Neil, 15 P. R. 244; Goslin v. Tune, 2 U. C. Q. B. 177; and he must retain possession: Wheeler v. Murphy, 1 P. R. 336. An interpleader order was granted where the goods were dies, plates, etc., admittedly the property of the execution debtors, though in the hands of the claimants for the purpose of executing a printing contract with the debtors, and had not been actually seized by the Sheriff: Brown v. Markland Publishing Co., 6 O. W. R. 142.

An interpleader order was granted where the execution creditor alleged that the debtor had a half interest in the goods, which was disputed by the person in whose possession the goods were: Lucas v. Holliday, 8 O. L. R. 541.

Where the goods seized are in the possession of the debtor, or he is in possession jointly with a third person, the proceedings detailed in Rules 637 and 638 should be taken to bring the claim to the notice of the execution creditor, and hear from him whether or not he acknowledges its validity, before the Sheriff applies for an interpleader order.

Rule 625.

An interpleader was granted as to moneys brought on the premises by the debtor after the Sheriff had, under an execution, placed a man in possession, but without his knowledge, and which were claimed by the administrator in bankruptcy of the debtor: see Johnson v. Pickering, 1908, 1 K. B. 1; 98 L. T. 68. As to seizing money in execution see that case and The Execution Act (R. S. O. c. 80), s. 20.

A chose in action is not bound by delivery of the writ, but only by seizure: Rennie v. Quebec Bank, 1 O. L. R. 303.

Money paid under protest by a claimant was held to be proceeds or value of goods and chattels within the above Rule: Smith v. Critchfield, 14 Q. B. D. 873.

The expression "goods and chattels" in The Execution Act, and in this Rule, includes stock of a joint stock company: Brown v. Nelson, 20 C. L. J. 390; 4 C. L. T. 594.

Goods in possession of an Assignee in Insolvency under the Insolvent Act of 1875, could not be taken in execution, and neither a Sheriff nor an execution creditor could sue the Assignee and oblige him to interplead, though the debtor might do so: McMaster v. Meakin, 7 P. R. 211.

Interpleader may be directed respecting the proceeds of a sale in the Sheriff's hands: Booth v. Preston, etc., Ry. Co., 3 P. R. 90; and respecting money paid under protest by a claimant whose goods were seized, and who claimed the money; the Sheriff was also held to be entitled to protection against an action for trespass for entering upon the premises of a person other than the debtor: Smith v. Critchfield, 14 Q. B. D. 873; see also Edmonds v. Wallingford, 33 W. R. 647.

Where a Sheriff who, without special direction from the execution creditor, had seized and sold goods alleged to have been exempt from execution, was being sued therefor by the execution debtor, it was held that the Sheriff was not entitled to interplead as to the proceeds realized from the sale: Re Gould v. Hope, 20 Ont. App. 347.

Claim by landlord for rent.

A Sheriff may apply for an interpleader order where a claim for rent is made by a landlord: McLaughlin v. Hammill, 22 Ont. 493; and see Flynn v. Cooney, 18 P. R. 321.

But where a Sheriff seized, but put no bailiff in possession of the goods, and then the landlord seized them for rent, it was held that a second seizure by the Sheriff was illegal, as they were in custodiâ legis, and also that the validity of the landlord's claim could not be decided in Chambers: Craig v. Craig, 7 P. R. 209.

The right of a landlord to be paid out of the proceeds of sale under The Landlord and Tenant Act (R. S. O. c. 155), s. 55 (8 Anne c. 14, s. 1)), has been upheld against a trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor: Re Mackenzie, 1890, 2 Q. B. 566.

Where goods distrained for rent have been impounded on the premises under The Landlord and Tenant Act (R. S. O. c. 155), s. 50 (4), it is not requisite that anyone on the landlord's behalf should be left in possession of the goods: Jones v. Biernstein, 1899, 1 Q. B. 470; 1900, 1 Q. B. 100; 81 L. T. 553.

A Sheriff was held not entitled to an interpleader by reason of a claimant's disputing the right of subsequent execution creditors to the goods seized, where there would be no fund to satisfy such subsequent executions: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Bruce, 2 C. L. T. 92.

Rule 625.

Withdrawal by Sheriff from possession.

The question whether the Sheriff by withdrawing for a time from the premises, on which he has made a seizure, has abandoned possession of the goods seized, is a question of fact. Where he goes out of possession for some temporary necessity such as to get food, or to see a doctor, he does not abandon possession; but where he went out to assist the debtor, and enable a sale of the debtor's business to be carried out, that was held to be an abandonment of possession: Bogshawes (Limited) v. Deacon, 1898, 2 Q. B. 173.

Inquiries to be made, and bringing in claimants.

A Sheriff should exercise no discretion as to the disposition of the goods seized by him, but should come at once to the Court, otherwise he will disentitle himself to protection: Boswell v. Pettigrew, 7 P. R. 393; Adams v. Blackwell, 10 P. R. 168; Flynn v. Cooney, 18 P. R. 321. He should, however, make some inquiry as to the nature of the claims made, and inform the execution creditor of them: Wolker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 59.

Sheriff may interplead as to lands.

Where a Sheriff's right to execute a writ of possession of land is contested by persons in possession on the ground that the contestants were not parties to the action, the Sheriff is entitled to interplead: Emerson v. Humphries, 15 P. R. 84; see also Adomson v. Adamson, 12 P. R. 21; so also where the premises are vacant, though the doors are locked, the Sheriff being notified of a claim, may, without considering its validity, interplead; or semble, he may break open the doors and put the plaintiff in possession: Hall v. Bowerman, 19 P. R. 268.

Discretion as to granting order.

In Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 66, it was said that interpleader orders should only be made with caution, and, where goods were in the possession of a third person, there should be strong presumptive evidence of the goods being the debtor's, which should ordinarly appear on affidavit of the belief of the Sheriff, and also of the execution creditor. This opinion has not been, to the full extent, followed in practice, the affidavit of the execution creditor is not considered necessary: and see Ib. 296; also Edmonds v. Wallingford, 33 W. R. 647; and it has been held that the Sheriff is not obliged to shew that the claim of a person not in possession of goods taken in execution, is open to objection, in order to entitle him to interplead: Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 103; see also Stocker v. Haggerty, 67 L. T. 27.

The Sheriff was held entitled to make a second application for an interpleader order in respect of a claim by the same claimant, alleging a different title: Goynor v. Salt, 24 U. C. Q. B. 180; but not to contest the claim of a landlord which might have been disposed of on the first application: Clarke v. Forrell, 8 P. R. 234. A claimant cannot set up another title in the same issue, but must make a subsequent application to the Court: Barker v. Leeson, 1 Ont. 114.

Where the Sheriff had sold with the consent of both parties, it was considered that he had not improperly exercised any discretion of his own: Darling v. Collatton, 10 P. R. 110.

A Sheriff may disentitle himself to an interpleader order by not coming promptly to the Court when claims are made to the goods seized. He must come within reasonable time; improper delay will be an answer to the application: Thompson v. Ward, 1 P. R. 269; McMaster v. Milne, 2 P. R. 386. What will amount to such laches will depend upon the circumstances of each case: see Boswell v. Pettigrew, 7 P. R. 393; Wilkins v. Peatmon, Ib.. 84. He is not justified by the fact that the first seizure does not embrnce all defendant's goods, in delaying to npply till he can get possession of tho residue: Miller v. Nolon, 1 C. L. J. 327.

Where the claimant of the goods pnid the Sheriff the amount of the execution, snd the latter then withdrow; it was held thst he had not disentitled himself to relief by interpleader: Paris Manufacturing Co. v. Walls, 10 P. R. 138.

A Sheriff is not justified in applying for an interpleader order, nfter he has notice that the execution creditor declines to contest the clsim of the third party; and if, notwithstanding, he does apply for sn interpleader order, it msy he refused, nnd the Court will not order that no sction he brought agsinst him: Sodcou v. Shorey, 74 L. T. 240; and see Yule 638.

All c'aimnnts of whom the Sheriff is sware should be brought in: Clorke v. Forrell, 8 P. R. 234. Division Court execution creditors are proper parties, and should he brought in hy the Sheriff along with Supreme Court, and County Court, execution creditors: MacFie v. Hunter, 9 P. R. 149. Claims by the Crown csnnot he so dealt with: see supro, p. 1287.

Claimant out of jurisdiction.

A claimant out of the jurisdiction may, hy leave, be served, and compelled to interplead: Rules 3 (b), (j), 25; Belmont v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 354; Credit Gerundeuse v. Von Weede, 12 Q. B. D. 171.

Forum.

Where some writs sre in the Supreme Court, the interpleader application should he in the Supreme Court, though the seizure was under a County Court writ, and before the Supreme Court writ came to the Sheriff's hsnds: Strange v. Toronto Telegroph Co., 8 P. R. 1.

An issue will not he directed unless the Sheriff is in possession or is responsible for the goods: Rondot v. Monetary Times, 19 P. R. 23; or they are otherwise within the control of the Court. As to what is a sufficient bond or security for the forthcoming of the goods; see Ontario Bonk v. Merchonts Rank of Halifax, 1 O. L. R. 235.

Issue.

Issue.—Issues between the plsintiff snd other execution creditors, as to the vslidity of the plaintiff's judgment and execution agsinst creditors generally, and as to sttaching creditors in pnrticular, on the ground of fraud, or ss being a preference, were held wsrrsnted by R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, ss. 3, 10: Leech v. Williamson, 10 P. R. 226; see slso Standard Insurance Company v. Hughes, 11 P. R. 220; snd Doyle v. Lasher, 16 C. P. 263; and the present Rule preserves the same power ss was contained in the R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 10, at nny rate as regards attaching creditors: see Rules 625 and 3 (h), (k); snd the language of Rule 625 cl. (b), authorizing interpleader in the case of a clsim by "any person other than the person against whom tbe process issued," would slso seem to be wide enough to enahle a claim to be made by any judgment creditor who contends thst other judgments are fraudulent ss against him: see McLaughlin v. Hommill, 22 Ont. 493, the case of s claim for rent, which was also expressly provided by R. S. O., 1877, c. 54, s. 10.

Creditor impeaching judgment of another creditor.

A judgment obtsined hy one creditor cannot he impeached by other creditors on grounds of defence which the defendant might bave, but has not raised: see Re Hague, Traders' Bank v. Murray, 13 Ont. 727; Bowerman v. White, 16 Ont. App. 679.

Who to be plaintiff in the issue.

The plaintiff in an issue should he that party on whom the onus lies to estshlish title to the subject of the interpleader proceedings:

Re Hubbell, 19 P. R. 240. Where the claimant is out of possession he should be the plaintiff in the issue: Doron v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 103; and so also where the possession is equivocal, as where the goods seized are at the house or residence of the execution debtor, where both he and his wife reside, and the wife is the claimant; in such a case she should be made plaintiff to the issue: Bolster v. Wolker, 30 C. L. J. 140; Hogaboom v. Grundy, 16 P. R. 47; Thompson v. Doyle, 16 C. L. T. 286; and see O'Neill v. Forr, 15 C. L. T. 345; but see Forley v. Pedlor, infra. The Form of issue in such case is "whether at the time of (generally the seizure) the goods and chattels seized were the property of the claimant as against the execution creditor:" Van Every v. Ross, 11 C. P. 133. Rule 625. Form of issue.

Where the claimant is in possession of the goods at the time of seizure, the execution creditor is made plaintiff in the interpleader issue: see Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 66; Dominion S. & I. Company v. Kilroy, 15 Ont. App. 487; and see Winfield v. Fowlie, 14 Ont. 105, 107. This rule has been held to apply, even though the claimant was the wife of the debtor, where the goods were on premises on which the wife carried on a business, in which the debtor, her husband, had no interest, but in which he assisted her: Forley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570. The form of issue in such case is "Whether at the time of the seizure the goods in question were exigible under the execution of (the execution creditors) as against the claimant:" see Duncan v. Tees, 11 P. R. 296.

Where proceeds of a policy of insurance, originally taken out in favour of the wife of the insured, were claimed by the widow and also by a third person claiming to be an assignee, the latter was made plaintiff in the issue: Re Hubbell, 19 P. R. 240.

The question on the issue, where the claimant is plaintiff, is not whether the execution creditor has a right to seize the goods, but whether the claimant has such an interest in them as entitled him to resist the seizure: Grant v. Wilson, 17 Q. B. 144.

The form of issue between a claimant and an attaching creditor, is whether the goods attached were at the time of the seizure the property of the claimant as against the attaching creditor, and not as against the absconding debtor: Doyle v. Lasher, 16 C. P. 263; see form of issue where there were two execution creditors and three claimants: Merchants Bank v. Herson, 10 P. R. 117.

For an issue where the execution creditor alleged that the debtor had a half interest in the goods in question: see Lucas v. Holliday, 8 O. L. R. 541.

See also Leech v. Williamson, 10 P. R. 226; Standard Insurance Company v. Hughes, 11 P. R. 220.

Where the Sheriff sold sufficient of the goods seized to satisfy the execution creditor's claim, and paid the proceeds into Court, leaving a surplus of goods in his hands, the proper form of the issue in such a case is "whether the goods seized and sold by the Sheriff or some part thereof were the property of the claimant as against the execution creditor:" Tebb v. Powell, 93 L. T. 468.

Where claimants' rights among themselves were in dispute, they were all made defendants, and the execution creditors plaintiffs, it being held that the Court would not try the title of the claimants between themselves, the purpose of the issue being answered if it was Disputes between claimants.

Rule 825.

determined that the execution creditors were, or were not, entitled to have their execution satisfied out of the goods seized: Merchants Bank v. Herson, 10 P. R. 117. See also Nisbet v. Hill, 5 O. W. R. 293, 337, 402.

Issue to be construed distributively.

An issue is to be taken distributively, so that the claimant may succeed as to part of the goods, though not as to the rest: Feehan v. Bank of Toronto, 10 C. P. 32.

Issue to be filed.

The issue is to be filed as soon as settled, and filed in the county in which it is directed to be tried: Rule 125.

Particulars.

Where an issue is directed, a claimant is not entitled to an order for particulars of the goods taken by the Sheriff: Bonely v. Krook, 65 L. T. 377.

Jury notice.

Formerly a jury notice not served with the issue but with notice of trial, was held to be an irregularity only and not a nullity: Leeson v. Lemon, 9 P. R. 103. A jury notice will now be served pursuant to the Jud. Act, s. 56, supra, p. 215.

Trial

The issue should ordinarily be tried in the county where the goods were seized, but where for any cause, a speedy trial is necessary in the interest of justice, the trial may be ordered to take place elsewhere; Furley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570.

Trial in C. C.

Issues involving $400 or less are to be tried at a County Court sittings: see Rule 646.

Staying trial.

Where an action has been brought by the execution creditor against a claimant under an assignment, to set aside the assignment, the trial of the issue, directed on an interpleader application to be tried, was postponed till after the trial of the action: Brown v. Nelson, 10 P. R. 421.

Action against Sheriff or ex. creditor.

The interpleader order usually protects the Sheriff only from actions; without special provision the order is no protection to the execution creditor: Park v. Taylor, 1 C. P. 414; McCollum v. Kerr, 8 U. C. L. J. 71; but the Judge has authority to restrain by the interpleader order actions against the execution creditor, as well as against the Sheriff: Buffalo & Lake Huron Railway Company v. Hemmingway, 22 U. C. Q. B. 562; Ex p. Mersey Docks & Harbour Board, supra, p. 1289.

Protection from action was refused where the Sheriff entered wrongfully and took goods, and a substantial grievance was suffered by the person whose house was entered: De Coppett v. Bennett, 17 T. L. R. 273.

Effect of accepting an issue.

Accepting and contesting an interpleader issue will not make execution creditors liable for the previous seizure by the Sheriff; an execution creditor cannot thus be made a trespasser by relation, or liable for the original seizure: Kennedy v. Patterson, 22 U. C. Q. B. 556; Phillips v. Findlay, 27 U. C. Q. B. 32; neither does acceptance of an issue by the claimant bar his right to sue the execution creditor for trespass; but such an action should not be brought until the issue is disposed of: Cotton v. Stokes, 10 U. C. Q. B. 262 McCollum v. Kerr, 8 U. C. L. J. 71; Harmer v. Gouinlock, 21 U. C. Q. B. 260. Where special directions are given to the Sheriff by the execution creditor, or in writing on the writ, by his solicitor, to make the seizure, an action lies against the execution creditor: Morris v. Salberg, 22 Q. B. D. 614; but directions verbally given by the solicitors clerk were held not sufficient to render the execution creditor liable: Smith v. Keal, 9

Q. B. D. 340. So also where there is nothing untrue in t directions Rule 625. on the writ so as to mislead the Sheriff into seizing goods of wrong person: Candy v. Blaiberg, 7 T. L. R. 424. See also, as to notice to Sheriff or execution creditor: Lee v. Rumilly, 7 T. L. R. ; Lee v. Dangar, 1892, 2 Q. B. 337; Bagge v. Whitehead, 1892. 2 Q. B. 355.

The result of the issue is conclusive as between the claimant and execution creditor, but the latter is not liable for any loss sustained by the successful claimant after the date of the interpleader order: Kennedy v. Patterson, 22 U. C. Q. B. 556; Lister v. Northern Ry., 19 C. P. 408; Henry v. Mitchell, 37 U. C. Q. . 217. Result of issue binding on all parties.

Where an execution creditor refuses to contest the claim of any claimant, he should be barred as to such claimant by the order: Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 103. Barring claims.

Security.—Sometimes a party to an issue is required to give security, as for example where the goods in question are allowed to be retained by a claimant, or where a sale is postponed and the property is of a wasting character; or the Sheriff is ordered to withdraw from possession. Security.

After the claimant has given security, where a surety in the bond becomes insolvent, an order will not be made barring the claimant, in default of giving fresh security: Hogaboom v. Gillies, 16 P. R. 96, affirmed by a division of opinion in the Court of Appeal: Ib., 260.

Where a bond is given as security it is usually made by the claimant and two sufficient sureties, but the sole bond of a chartered bank claimant of goods seized in execution, is sufficient: Ontario Bank v. Merchants Bank of Halifax, 1 O. L. R. 235.

Where a claimant pays money into Court to abide the result of an issue, and the execution creditor succeeds in the issue, and takes the money out of Court, he is thereby estopped from thereafter disputing that as against himself the claimant is the owner of the goods: Haddow v. Morton, 1894, 1 Q. B. 95, 565. Semble, he might on the determination of the issue either have the goods sold in execution, or take the money out of Court, but he cannot do both.

Where a claimant is ordered to pay into Court the value of the goods seized, as a condition of the Sheriff being ordered to withdraw from possession, and the same goods are subsequently seized by another execution creditor, and claimed by the same claimant, he will be ordered to pay into Court the full value of the goods, as a condition of the Sheriff being ordered to withdraw under the second execution: Kotchie v. Golden Sovereigns, etc., 1898, 2 Q. B. 164; 78 L. T. 426.

Where goods seized were manufactured materials, the product of a going concern, the Sheriff was directed to continue in possession until the final disposition of the issue: Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570.

As to security for costs: see infra, p. 1299.

Rights of Execution Creditors under Creditors' Relief Act. — Under The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 6 (4), where the Sheriff takes interpleader proceedings, those creditors only who are parties and agree to contribute pro rata to the expense of contesting adverse claims, are entitled to share in any benefit derived from the contestation, so far as may be necessary to satisfy their executions or certificates. The Court or Judge may direct that one creditor shall have the carriage of the interpleader proceedings, and in such case his costs, as between solicitor and client, form a first charge upon the moneys or goods which may, in the proceedings, be found applicable to Creditors Relief Act, effect of pay creditors. See Appendix Form 82, clause 6; H. & L. Forms, No. 1286, cl. 7.

Where an issue is ordered, and, after judgment therein in favour of the execution creditors, an assignment is made by the execution debtor for the benefit of creditors, such assignment does not affect the executions creditors' rights under The Creditors' Relief Act, s. 6 (4), supra, p. 1295; Re Henderson Roller Bearings, 22 O. L. R. 306; 24 O. L. R. 356; S. C. sub nom Martin v. Fowler, 46 S. C. R. 119; but where the assignment is made before judgment in the interpleader issue, then the assignment will prevail over the claim of the execution creditors, under The Assignment and Preferences Act (R. S. O. c. 134), s. 14; Sykes v. Soper, 29 O. L. R. 193.

As to whether the provisions of The Creditors Relief Act, s. 6, apply only after an issue is directed, or are also applicable where, under Rule 632, the contest is by consent disposed of summarily, the Court of Appeal, in Bank of Hamilton v. Durrell, 15 Ont App. 500, was equally divided.

Trial of issue.

Trial of Issue.—On the trial of the issue the execution creditor is not required to prove his judgment: Hammill v. DeWolf, 10 C. P. 419; Holden v. Langley, 11 C. P. 407, 411; McWhirter v. Learmouth, 18 C. P. 136.

The object of the issue is to inform the conscience of the Court, and the Judge at the trial should receive any evidence calculated to shew what are the real rights of the parties, and should not be too strictly tied down by the form of the issue, but should amend it if necessary: Bryce v. Kince, 14 P. R. 509.

Where the claimant's case is upon a chattel mortgage, evidence is necessary to identify the goods mortgaged as to those which were seized by the Sheriff, and claimed: Jones v. Jenkins, 25 U. C. Q. B. 151. This, coupled with proof of the due execution of the mortgage, on its face purporting to be made for value, constitutes a good prima facie case; the consideration for the mortgage need not be proved until evidence has been given impeaching it: Furlong v. Reid, 12 Ont. 607.

Jus tertii, when it may be set up.

The defendant in the issue may shew that the goods are not the plaintiff's, by setting up the title of a third party, e.g., a trustee in bankruptcy: Richards v. Jenkins, 17 Q. B. D. 544; 18 Q. B. D. 451; but the plaintiff in the issue cannot do so: Ib.; unless he claims under such third party: Bryce v. Kince, supra.

A claimant may assert title as assignee of the equity of redemption of the goods seized, as against the execution creditor of his assignor, though the legal right to possession may be in the mortgagee: Usher v. Martin, 24 Q. B. D. 272.

Neglect to bring issue to trial.

Where the plaintiff neglects to bring the issue to trial, the course is to move to rescind the interpleader order: Sewell v. Buffalo, etc., Railway Company, 3 U. C. L. J. 29. The application is made in the original cause: Solter v. McLeod, 10 U. C. L. J. 299.

Where a bank, one of several execution creditors, made parties to an interpleader issue, did not desire to contest the right of the claimant to its share of the proceeds of the goods seized and sold, but was willing that such share should be paid over to the claimant in the event of the latter not succeeding in the issue; it was held that the bank was not in these circumstances liable to contribute to the costs of the issue; but, nevertheless, was properly made a party to the issue and would be entitled, if the claimant failed, to its proportion of the proceeds arising from the sale of the goods: Dundas v. Darvill, 12 P. R. 347. Rule 626.

Where, on motion for an interpleader by the Sheriff, an order is made for satisfaction of the claimant's claim, the claimant is limited to his claim put forward in the proceedings, and cannot demand any amount not included in his particulars of claim, on which the order was made: Hockey v. Evans, 18 Q. B. D. 390.

Where the Sheriff sells under the order, pending the trial of an issue, it was held in Ontario Bank v. Revell, 11 P. R. 249, that he must pay into Court the gross proceeds of sale, without deducting his charges, but in Reid v. Murphy, 12 P. R. 246, 338, it has been held that the net proceeds only need be paid in, after deducting expenses of sale, and possession money. In the event of the claimant succeeding in the trial of the issue, he will not be entitled to recover from the Sheriff the amount deducted for possession money, and expenses of sale. The claimant's remedy is to apply, in a summary way in the proceedings, for recovery of the amount deducted for charges from the execution creditor: Ib. Sheriff's expenses.

If the execution creditor succeeds, the Sheriff becomes further entitled to his fees, poundage and expenses, other than the amounts deducted from the proceeds of sale, in respect to the property which has been found to have been exigible. These charges are payable by the execution creditor: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180. The Sheriff's costs of the interpleader proceedings are a first charge upon the fund found liable to the execution: Rule 641 (1); he will in general have them taxed under Rule 641 (2), and the execution creditor will be entitled to move on order for them, or for such part of them as was occasioned by the claimant's claim, over against the claimant: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, supra. Execution creditor succeeding.

The claimant, if successful, is entitled to recover from the execution creditor, as costs, the Sheriff's charges subsequent to the interpleader order: Goodman v. Bloke, 19 Q. B. D. 77, and cannot be ordered to pay the costs of taking possession, or possession money prior to the interpleader order: Massey Mfg. Co. v. Gandry, 7 C. L. T. 127. Claimant succeeding.

Before 56 V. c. 5, s. 10 (now Rules 637, 638), the Sheriff was not in general entitled to costs, where the execution creditor abandoned on the motion for an interpleader order, it being held that the latter was entitled to consider the claim when formulated, and to abandon without incurring any liability for costs: see Wilkins v. Peatmon, 7 P. R. 84; Can. Bank of Commerce v. Tasker, 8 P. R. 351; C. v. D., W. N. 1883, 207; Arch., 12th ed., 1411; Churchill on Sheriffs, 183.; but he was entitled to costs from the execution creditor where the latter had given special directions to the Sheriff to seize the goods in question, and such special directions need not have been given in contemplation of an adverse claim: Vanstaden v. Vonstaden, 10 P. R. 428. Costs of Sheriff.

In the cases in which Rules 637 and 638 apply, however, as the Sheriff, before applying for an interpleader order, obtains from the execution creditor a notice or intimation that the claimant's claim is disputed, the motion is only made after consideration of the claim by the execution creditor, and if he subsequently abandons, it may be that the rule as to costs should be the same as when special directions to seize are given.

Rule 628.

If special directions are sworn to and denied, it must be considered that the Sheriff acted on the writ: Vonstaden v. Vanstaden, supra, p. 1297.

For rules generally as to Sheriff's costs: see Searle v. Matthews, W. N., 1883, 176.

As to the Sheriff's costs where no issue is directed: see Rule 641, and Smith v. Dorlow, 26 Ch. D. 605; Holl v. Bowermon, 19 P. R. 269.

Sheriff disobeying interpleader order.

A Sheriff was held liable to attachment by an execution creditor for not taking security, or selling, pursuant to an interpleader order, there being no claim for rent or taxes which the Sheriff was justified in acknowledging: McLeon v. Anthony, 6 Ont. 330.

Withdrawal from possession.

Where a Sheriff, with the consent of the execution creditor, and the claimant, after an interpleader order, temporarily withdrew from possession, it was held that the landlord might distrain, though he knew of the interpleader proceedings: Cropper v. Worner, 1 Cab. & El. 152.

Receiver.

In Howell v. Dowson, 13 Q. B. D. 67, a receiver of property seized in execution was appointed, pending an interpleader issue.

Costs.

Costs.—Where an issue is directed, the costs of the interpleader proceedings and issue should be disposed of at the trial of the issue, and should not be reserved to be disposed of in Chambers after the trial: see Rule 636: Grothe v. Pearce, 15 P. R. 432.

For an order as to costs where success was divided at the trial: see Ont. Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180.

Scale of costs.

The Judge or officer who disposes of the costs may direct what scale of taxation is to be followed: Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 320.

Where the interpleader proceedings are properly instituted in the Supreme Court, though an issue is directed to be tried in a County Court, the Sheriff's costs will be taxable on the scale of the Supreme Court, and semble, also the costs of the parties up to the interpleader order: Arkell v. Oeiger, 9 P. R. 523. The costs before the issue will ordinarily be on the scale of the forum to which the Sheriff is compelled to resort, and after the issue, on the scale applicable to the forum in which the issue is directed to be tried: see Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 325; Christie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529.

Appeal.

Section 24 of the Jud. Act, applies to interpleader matters as well as to actions, so that no appeal lies, without leave, from the decision of a Judge as to the disposition of the costs: Hortmont v. Foster, supra, p. 240; Beaty v. Bryce, 9 P. R. 323; an appeal lies from the Master in Chambers to a Judge as in other cases: Christie v. Conway, 9 P. R. 529.

County and District Court cases.

County and District Courts.—As to how far County Courts have jurisdiction under this Rule: see note to Rules 644, 645.

In Boird v. Hunter, 31 C. L. J. 663, it was held by Macdougall, J., C.C. York, that a Judge in Term has no jurisdiction under former Rule 847 (see now Rule 507), to rescind his order made in Chambers, even though it was not otherwise appealable.

An interpleader order made in a County Court case is not appealable to a Divisional Court unless it is final in its nature: Hunter v. Hunter, 18 C. L. T. 137, see notes, supra, p. 127.

The District Courts have the like jurisdiction in interpleader as is possessed by the County Courts: Rules 3 (c), 644, 645, and this is determinable by the fact whether the process, under which the goods were seized, issued out of the District Court, and not by the amount for which the recovery was had: Isbister v. Sullivan, 9 C. L. T. 3. Rule 626.

Security for Costs.—Under R. S. O. 1877, c. 54, s. 10, provision was expressly made for requiring security for the Sheriff's costs to be given. Under this provision it was held that the Sheriff was only entitled to such security, in the circumstances where it would be ordered between ordinary litigants: Sweetman v. Morrison, 10 P. R. 446. In Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570, an execution creditor being in insolvent circumstances was under C. R. 1122 ordered to give security for the Sheriff's costs; but Rule 643, which takes the place of C. R. 1122, omits the clause "as to costs and all other matters" which were in C. R. 1122; whether Rule 373 would now, in such circumstances, authorize an order for security for the Sheriff's costs appears doubtful. Security for costs

Formerly either party to an interpleader issue might be ordered to give security for costs: Swain v. Stoddart, 12 P. R. 490; over-ruling the dictum in Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Middleton, 12 P. R. 121. In a stake-holder's interpleader, the party substantially moving in the proceedings, whether named as plaintiff, or defendant in the issue, if resident out of the jurisdiction, might be required to give security for costs: Re Foresters & Castner, 14 P. R. 47; and see Bruce v. A. O. U. Workmen, 11 O. L. R. 633. In a Sheriff's interpleader any party out of the jurisdiction, whether claimant, or execution creditor, and whether plaintiff, or defendant, in the issue, might be ordered to give security for costs to his opponent in the issue: Knickerbocker v. Webster, 17 P. R. 189. See Re Milward & Co., 1900, 1 Ch. 405.

An execution creditor made defendant in the issue was ordered to give security, in Lovell v. Wardroper, 4 P. R. 265; and the claimant in Walker v. Niles, 3 Chy. Ch. 59.

The same grounds for ordering security applied as in an action: see Rhodes v. Dawson, 16 Q. B. D. 548; Tomlinson v. Land & Finance Co., 14 Q. B. D. 539; Belmont v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 221, 352. The fact that the claimant was a married woman, and in straitened circumstances, was held an insufficient reason for ordering security: Rhodes v. Dawson, 34 W. R. 240; 55 L. J. Q. B. 134; 16 Q. B. D. 548.

Where the question at issue was occasioned by the will of a deceased person in regard to a policy of life insurance, a claimant out of the jurisdiction, who was ordered to be plaintiff in the issue, was ordered to give security for costs: Bruce v. A. O. U. Workmen, 11 O. L. R. 633.

Now, under Rule 373 (j), where either party to an interpleader "is an active claimant, and would, if a plaintiff, be liable to give security for costs," he is liable to be ordered to give security for costs.—whether this provision has enlarged, restricted, or varied, the former practice on this point as above indicated, remains to be seen. Present practice.

626. The applicant shall satisfy the Court by affidavit, or otherwise:— Matters to be proved by applicant.

(a) That he claims no interest in the subject-matter in dispute, other than in respect of a lien or for charges or costs;

Rules 627-630.

(b) That he does not collude with any of the claimants; and

(c) That he is willing to pay or transfer the subject-matter into Court, or to dispose of it as the Court may direct. C.R. 1104.

See Eng. (1883) R. 851.

The Master in Chambers, and officers having like jurisdiction, and Local Judges, have jurisdiction in interpleader proceedings: see Rules 207 (11), 208 (6), 209.

For forms of affidavits: see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1277, 1281, 1282.

The objection that a stakeholder has, by taking indemnity from one claimant, disentitled himself to relief, cannot be taken by the claimant who gave the indemnity: Thompson v. Wright, 13 Q. B. D. 632.

A lien for "costs and charges" did not formerly deprive the applicant of his right to interplead: see Best v. Hayes, 1 H. & C. 718, also Attenborough v. St. Katharines Dock Company, 3 C. P. D. 450, 466.

As to satisfaction of any lien of the applicant: see Rule 643.

Adverse titles of claimants.

627. The applicant shall not be disentitled to relief by reason only that the titles of the claimants have not a common origin, but are adverse to and independent of one another. C.R. 1105.

See Eng. (1883) R. 852.

When application to be made by defendant.

628. Where the applicant is a defendant, application for relief may be made at any time after service of the writ of summons; and the Court may stay all proceedings in the action. C.R. 1106.

See Eng. (1883) RR. 853, 855.

Notwithstanding the words "at any time" an application made after judgment, or after the applicant has consented to judgment, though it be not actually entered, is too late: Stevenson v. Brownell, 1912, 2 Ch. 344; 106 L. T. 994.

Motion by applicant.

629. The applicant may make a motion calling on the claimants to appear and state the nature and particulars of their claims, and either to maintain or relinquish them. C.R. 1107.

See Eng. (1883) R. 854.

Where the amount of claim has been stated under this Rule and an order for payment has been made, the claimant can only recover the amount so stated: Hockey v. Evans, 18 Q. B. D. 390.

Failure of claimants to appear.

630. Where a claimant does not appear on the motion after having been served with a notice of motion calling n him to appear and maintain or relinquish his claim, r, having appeared, neglects or refuses to comply with ny order made thereafter, an order may be made declaring him and all persons claiming under him to he forever harred as against the applicant and all persons claiming under him, but the order shall not affect the rights of the claimants as hetween themselves. C.R. 1108. Rules 631, 632.

See Eng. (1883) R. 859.

In making an order harring a claimant, where the applicant is a defendant in an action, there is no power to make it a term of the order that the plaintiff shall pay the costs of the defendant in the original action, apart from those in the interpleader proceedings: Hansen v. Maddox, 12 Q. B. D. 100.

Where a claimant appeared, and had, in pursuance of an order, given security for the goods, and pending the trial of an issue directed to determine the ownership, the goods were sold for taxes, and the surety to the claimant'a bond hecame worthless, it was held that the claimant was, nevertheless, entitled to have the issue tried, and that there was no jurisdiction to bar his claim in default of his giving fresh security: Hogaboom v. Gillies, 16 P. R. 96, 260.

631. Where the claimants appear on the motion, any claimant may he made a defendant in any action already commenced in respect of the subject-matter in dispute in lieu of or in addition to the applicant, or an issue between the claimants may he stated and tried, and in the latter case the order shall direct which of the claimants shall he plaintiff, and which defendant. C.R. 1109. Issue may be ordered.

See Eng. (1883) R. 856. See note to Rule 631.

See notes to Rule 625, "Issue," p. 1292.

632. The Court may, with the consent of hoth claimants, or on the request of any claimant, if, having regard to the value of the subject-matter in dispute, it seems desirable so to do, dispose of the merits of their claims, and, [subject to appeal], decide the same in a snmmary manner. C.R. 1110. Disposal of matters in summary manner.

See Eng. (1883) R. 857.

Under the English Rules 857 and 860, a decision hy the Judge summarily is not appealable: see Lyon v. Morris, 19 Q. B. D. 139; In re Tarn, 1893, 2 Ch. 280; Van Laun & Co. v. Baring Bros., 1903, 2 K. B. 277; Harbottle v. Roberts, 1905, 1 K. B. 572. The words in brackets in this Rule are not in the English Rule, so that in Ontario the decision will he appealable as in other cases, and there is no limitation as to the amount involved: see Harbottle v. Roberts, 1905, 1 K. B. 572; 92 L. T. 723.

Rules 633, 634.

As to whether it is necessary that the consent, which gives jurisdiction under this Rule, should appear on the face of the order: see Bank of Hamilton v. Durrell, 15 Ont. App. 500, 513-516.

The Court has no power to impose conditions on the claimant, without his consent, affecting his right to raise defences: Gerhard v. Montagu, 38 W. R. 75; 61 L. T. 554; unless the claimant is seeking any indulgence from the Court.

Where an execution creditor declines to contest the claim of a claimant to goods seized in execution, the order should bar him of any right to contest the claim: Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 103; and see Rule 635.

Questions of law.

633. Where the question is one of law, and the facts are not in dispute, the Court may decide the question without directing the trial of an issue, or order that a special case be stated for the opinion of the Court. C.R. 1111.

See Eng. (1883) R. 858. The Rule was held only to apply to simple cases: In re Chosen Friends, Roddy v. Leah, 28 C. L. J. 95; 12 C. L. T. 72, where a case was stated for a Divisional Court, of the former High Court of Justice.

Where a case is ordered to be stated under this Rule, it is not specified for which branch of the Court it is to be stated—Semble the case must be stated for the opinion of the Supreme Court, and must, in the first place, be adjudicated by a Judge of the High Court Division, from whom an appeal would lie to the Appellate Division; but it would not appear to be intended that the case should be stated for the opinion of the Appellate Division: see Rule 126.

Where the question presented is one of fact, an issue must be directed: Rondot v. Monetary Times, 19 P. R. 23. Where a Sheriff was authorized to withdraw from possession under an order erroneously made under this Rule, on appeal therefrom, he was authorized to re-seize: Ib.

Order for sale of goods seized in execution.

634. Where goods or chattels have been seized in execution by Sheriff, and any claimant alleges that he is entitled, under a bill of sale or otherwise, to the goods or chattels by way of security for debt, the Court may order a sale, and direct the application of the proceeds of the sale in discharge of the amount due the claimant if it is not disputed, or that sufficient to answer the claim be paid into Court pending trial of the claim. C.R. 1112. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 861. C. R. 1112 had before "Sheriff" the letter "a."

A sale of the goods will not be ordered in an interpleader matter, where the claimant is a chattel mortgagee whose title is undisputed: see Stern v. Tegner, 1898, 1 Q. B. 37; secus, where his title is disputed: Nisbet v. Hill, 5 O. W. R. 293, 337, 402; see Paquin v. Robinson, 85 L. T. 5, where the claimant claimed under an absolute bill of sale.

Rules 635, 636.

The sole bond of a chartered bank was accepted as sufficient security, on proof of the responsibility of the bank: Ontario Bank v. Merchants Bank of Halifax, 1 O. L. R. 235.

Where the claimant assents to the sale under execution, and accepts part of the proceeds, he thereby adopts the sale, and cannot sue the execution creditor for conversion: Appleby v. Withall, 8 C. P. 397.

Where a sale is ordered, the purchaser acquires a good title as against all parties to the interpleader proceedings, no matter how the interpleader issue may ultimately be determined: see Goodlock v. Cousins, 1897, 1 Q. B. 348; 76 L. T. 86, 313. And, in the application of the proceeds of the sale, the Court is not limited by the practice in Courts of Equity in suits for redemption, and may order a chattel mortgage to be paid off before it is actually due, and without allowing anything in respect of a higher rate of interest, which the money would have earned under the mortgage: Forster v. Clowser, 1897, 2 Q. B. 362; 76 L. T. 825.

Ex. creditor not contesting may be excluded from benefit.

635. Where a Sheriff applies for relief by interpleader, and any execution creditor declines to join in contesting the claim of the adverse claimant, the Court may direct that such creditor shall be excluded from any benefit which may be derived from the contestation of the claim. C.R. 1113.

See Doran v. Toronto Suspender Co., 14 P. R. 103, in note to Rule 632.

The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 6 (4), provides that those creditors only who are parties to interpleader proceedings and agree to contribute pro rata to the expense of contesting any adverse claims, shall be entitled to share in any benefit derived from the contestation of such claims, so far as it may be necessary to satisfy their executions or certificates; and see Bank of Hamilton v. Durrell, 15 Ont. App. 500.

See Dundas v. Darvill, 12 P. R. 347, supra, p. 1297.

Final disposition of all matters.

636. The Court which tries the issue may finally dispose of the interpleader proceedings, including all costs not otherwise provided for. C.R. 1114.

See Eng. (1883) R. 862.

Formerly the interpleader order reserved the question of costs, and all other questions, to be disposed of in Chambers after the trial of the issue. The form of order now used reserves the disposition of all such matters for the Judge who tries the issue, "or if not so disposed of then to be disposed of in Chambers": see Form 82, clause 5; H. & L. Forms, No. 1286, cl. 6. The costs of the issue at any rate should now be disposed of by the Judge who tries it: Grothe v. Pearce, 15 P. R. 432.

In some cases it may be necessary, however, to reserve questions, for instance, if any questions in which the Sheriff is concerned are not disposed of; otherwise, unless the Sheriff is made a party to the issue, the Judge who tries the issue cannot finally dispose of the whole matter.

Rule 637.

Usually the Sheriff is not a party to the issue, and cannot be ordered to pay any costs of it: Temple v. Temple, 63 L. J. Q. B. 56; and he need not receive notice of a motion respecting the costs of the parties to the issue: O'Brien v. Bull, 9 P. R. 494. But he was held entitled to costs of appearing on a motion by a claimant for a final order barring the execution creditor for default in giving security for costs: Gray v. Alexander, 10 P. R. 358.

The parties were directed to pay their own costs, and were directed each to pay half the costs of the Sheriff, in McLaren v. Canada Central Railway Co., 10 P. R. 328. A claimant partially succeeding was given the general costs of the issue, with a deduction of one-sixth in respect of the goods as to which he failed: Segsworth v. Meriden Silver Plating Co., 3 Ont. 413.

Where the claimant succeeded as to part of the goods seized in execution, and the execution creditor as to the residue, and no costs were given to either party of the interpleader issue, the execution creditor was ordered to pay the Sheriff's fees and poundage on the value of that part of the goods as to which he succeeded, and his costs of the interpleader application, with an order over against the claimant for half of these costs: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180. In this case the claimant also appears to have paid the possession money subsequent to the date of the interpleader order, and the execution creditor that incurred prior to the order.

Claims of third parties to goods in possession of debtor.

637. When a Sheriff finds property in the possession of a debtor against whose property he has a writ or other process in his hands, and a claim is set up to such property by or on behalf of a third person who is out of possession or is in joint possession with the debtor, the claim of such third person shall be made in writing, and upon receipt thereof the Sheriff shall forthwith give notice thereof to the execution creditor, and the execution creditor shall, within seven days thereafter, give notice to the Sheriff that he admits or disputes the claim. If the execution creditor admits the title of the claimant, and gives notice as directed by this Rule, he shall only be liable to such Sheriff for fees and expenses incurred before the receipt of the notice admitting the claim; and no action shall be brought against the Sheriff in respect of the seizure of the property. C.R. 1115.

See Eng. (1889), O. 57, r. 16.

Special directions from the execution creditor as to seizure, and disputing in advance the claim of the claimant, may justify the Sheriff in omitting to notify the execution creditor as here mentioned.

See note to Rule 625.

For forms of notice of claim by claimant to Sheriff: see H. & L. Forms No. 1283—and a notice by Sheriff to execution creditor of adverse claim: see Ib. No. 1278; and of notice by execution creditor to Sheriff admitting, or disputing, adverse claim: see Ib. No. 1279.

Rules 638-640.

When execution creditor does not admit or dispute, claim of third party within time limited.

638. Where the execution creditor does not in due time admit or dispute the title of the claimant to the property, and the claimant does not withdraw his claim thereto by notice in writing to the Sheriff, the Sheriff may apply for relief by interpleader. C.R. 1116. Amended.

See Eng. (1889), O. 57, r. 17.

See note to Rule 625.

In case of several executions, all may be embraced in one application for interpleader.

639. In case a Sheriff has more than one writ of execution against the same property, or there is more than one claimant to goods seized under the execution, he shall make one application, and make all the execution creditors and claimants parties. C.R. 1118. Amended.

No form is pointed out in which the application should be made semble the notice of motion should be entitled in each action in which there are executions in the Sheriff's hands, including any actions in a County or District Court, and it should be seven clear days' notice: see Rule 215 (2).

Cases of execution from several Courts—to whom application to be made.

640. Where there is an execution from the Supreme Court the application for interpleader shall be made in the Supreme Court notwithstanding that other executions on the Sheriff's hands have issued from County or Division Courts. C.R. 1113. Amended.

The C. R. 1113 on which this Rule is professed to be based is now Rule 635 supra. The present Rule seems to be really based on C. R. 1119.

The application is properly made in the Supreme Court, though the first seizure is made in a County Court action: Strange v. Toronto Telegraph Co., 8 P. R. 1.

Where the writs are all from County Courts, the Sheriff is now to apply in a County Court under Rule 644; and the costs will be on the scale of that Court: see formerly Phipps v. Beamer, 8 P. R. 181; Masuret v. Landville, 8 P. R. 57. Where one of the writs is in the Supreme Court, the costs of the motion should be on the Supreme Court scale: Ib.

The Rule refers to executions in Division Courts being in the Sheriff's hands, it may, however, be noted that the executions referred to in the Rule are executions against goods, of which only a certificate can be placed in the Sheriff's hands, where the execution issues from a Division Court: see The Division Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 63) s. 178; and The Creditors Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 17.

The only case in which an execution can issue from a Division Court to the Sheriff, is an execution against lands: see The Division Courts Act, s. 182. Whether the certificate delivered to the Sheriff under s. 179 is what is intended to be referred to in this Rule is doubtful.

Rules 641-643.

When an issue is ordered, the Sheriff's costs to be first lien on property exigible.

641.—(1) Where an issue is directed to be tried, the costs of the Sheriff incurred in consequence of the adverse claim, shall be a first lien or charge upon the moneys or goods which may be found in the issue to be applicable upon the execution.

Sheriff may tax his costs and serve allocatur on each party, etc.

(2) The Sheriff may also tax such costs, and serve a copy of the certificate of taxation upon each of the parties to the issue, and the successful party upon the issue shall tax such costs as part of his costs of the cause, and upon receipt thereof shall pay over the same to the Sheriff.

The successful party liable to the Sheriff for costs.

(3) Where after the service of the certificate the party succeeding upon the issue neglects or refuses to tax such costs, the Sheriff may obtain an order that the successful party shall pay the same.

If case compromised, who to be liable to the Sheriff for his costs.

(4) Where the proceedings are compromised between the parties thereto, the costs of the Sheriff shall be paid by the party by whom the execution was issued. C.R. 1120. Amended.

Where the interpleader order was granted to try the right to land, the Sheriff's costs were ordered in the first instance to be paid by the party who put him in motion, without prejudice to the question by whom they should be ultimately borne: Hall v. Bowerman, 19 P. R. 268.

Where there has been divided success on the trial of an interpleader issue, and costs have not been given to either party, the Sheriff may apply under any reservation in the order: (see Form 82, clause 5), or under Rule 643, for such order respecting his costs as may be just: Ontario Silver Co. v. Tasker, 15 P. R. 180.

If goods seised remain in the Sheriff's custody the Court may award remuneration.

642. Where, after the seizure, an issue is directed, and the property seized remains, pending the trial of the issue, in the custody of the Sheriff who seized the same, the Court may make an order for the payment to the Sheriff of a reasonable sum for his trouble in and about the custody of the property; and the Sheriff shall have a lien upon the property for payment of the same in event of the property being held to be exigible against the claimant. C.R. 1121. Amended.

Where the Sheriff remained in possession at the request of the debtor and creditor, he was held to be entitled to possession money as part of the costs of the execution: Re Beeston, 1899, 1 Q. B. 626, 79 L. T. 561.

Costs, etc.

643. The Court may make all such orders respecting the satisfaction or payment of any lien or charges of the pplicant as may he just and reasonahle. C.R. 1122. Amended. Rule 644-646.

See Eng. (1883) R. 864.

As to costs of interpleader proceedings: see supra, p. 1288.

The present Rule makes provision for the satisfaction or payment of any lien of a carrier, or bailee, on an interpleader application by him, or any lien which a stakeholder may have: see also Rule 626 (a).

Where the applicant claims a lien on the goods in question, e.g., for wharfage, the Judge may order by whom it shall he satisfied: Re Rothschild v. Morrison, 24 Q. B. D. 750; 63 L. T. 46.

Where the execution creditor was insolvent he was ordered to give security for costs: Farley v. Pedlar, 1 O. L. R. 570; but see Rule 373 (j), and see supra, p. 1299.

644. Relief by interpleader may he granted in a County Court, Relief by interpleader may be granted in County Courts.

1. (a) Where the applicant is sued in the County Court;

(b) Where the applicant is not so sued and the debt, money, goods or chattels in question do not exceed in value $500;

2. Where the applicant is a Sheriff acting under a writ or writs of execution issued from a County Court or different County Courts the application may he made to the Judge of his own County. C.R. 1123. Amended.

The relief referred to in this Rule is that referred to in Rules 626, et seq.; and the procedure will he governed by those Rules as far as applicable.

645. All subsequent proceedings shall be had and taken in the County where the application is made; but the Judge to whom the application is made may order that the subsequent proceedings he had and taken in any other County, if that course seems just and more convenient. C.R. 1124. Court in which proceedings to be taken.

646. Where the amount claimed under or by virtue of writs or execution, in the Sheriff's hands, does not exceed the sum of $400, exclusive of interest and Sheriff's costs, or when the goods seized are not, in the opinion of the Judge or other person making the order, of the value of more than $400, the issue may be directed to he tried in a County Court and in such case all subsequent proceedings shall he had and taken in the County Court. When issue may be tried in County Court.

Rules 647, 648.

This Rule appears to be based on C. R. 1125. That Rule also provided that, where the issue was tried in the County Court that Court should have jurisdiction in the premises "where any of the executions were issued out of the High Court as fully as though the same had issued out of the County Court."

There is no jurisdiction to make an order for the trial of an issue under this Rule, even though by consent, in respect of property which has not in fact been seized or intended to be seized by the Sheriff: Teskey v. Neil, 15 P. R. 244.

Where to be tried.

Where an interpleader issue is directed by the Supreme Court to be tried at County Court sittings under this Rule, the subsequent proceedings, such as, e.g., a motion to postpone the trial, must be taken in the County Court: London & Can. L. & I. Co. v. Morphy, 11 P. R. 85; and applications against the verdict, or for a new trial, must be by way of appeals to the Appellate Division as in other County Court cases; but it is only where such appeal lies under The County Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 59) ss. 39-40, that the Appellate Division has jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from the judgment on an interpleader issue so directed: Close v. Exchange Bank, 11 P. R. 186, distinguishing Barker v. Leeson, 9 P. R. 107.

But this Rule only applies to issues directed on the application of a Sheriff, and not to issues directed on the application of stakeholders under Rule 625 (a); in the latter kind of cases it seems doubtful whether under the Rules the issue can be directed to be tried in a County Court: see Clancy v. Young, 15 P. R. 248; Rule 27.

Issue when triable in Division Court.

647. Where the amount of the execution or the value of the goods does not exceed $100, the issue may be directed to be tried in a Division Court, and thereafter all proceedings shall be carried on in such Court. C.R. 656.

This Rule, which purports to be based on C. R. 656, is really based on C. R. 1126.

Order for costs to be made by Judge of County or Division Court.

648. When money has been paid into Court and an issue has been directed to be tried in the County or Division Court the money shall be paid out upon the order of the County or Division Court. C.R. 1127. Amended.

CHAPTER XXV.

COSTS.

For the jurisdiction of the Court as to costs: see Jud. Act, s. 74; and notes supra p. 238 et seq.

In Inferior Court actions brought in High Courts.

649. Where an action of the proper competence of a County Court is brought in the Supreme Court, or an action of the proper competence of a Division Court is brought in the Supreme Court, or in a County Court, and the Judge makes no order to the contrary the plaintiff shall recover only County Court costs, or Division Court costs, as the case may be, and the defendant shall be entitled to tax his costs of suit as between solicitor and client; and so much thereof as exceeds the taxable costs of defence which would have been incurred in the County Court or Division Court, shall, on entering judgment, be set off and allowed by the Taxing Officer against the plaintiff's County Court or Division Court costs to be taxed, or against the costs to be taxed and the amount of the verdict if it be necessary; and if the amount of costs so set off exceeds the amount of the plaintiff's verdict and taxed costs, the defendant shall be entitled to execution for the excess against the plaintiff. C.R. 1132.

"Tax his costs of suit."—These words in the 8th line mean costs on the scale of the Court in which the action is brought.

The words "taxable costs of defence" in the 9th and 10th lines of the Rule, do not mean costs as between solicitor and client: Talbot v. Poole, 15 P. R. 274.

The Rule only applies where the Judge "makes no order to the contrary," but an order for payment of costs simpliciter does not preclude an inquiry as to the scale properly applicable: Re Forster, 18 P. R. 65.

The commencement of the action is the point of time at which the amount of the plaintiff's claim, for the purpose of determining the scale of costs, is determined. Payments pendente lite do not affect the question. Thus, where the amount of the plaintiff's claim is reduced to a sum within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court by payment under garnishee proceedings against the defendant, made after action brought, though the attaching order was made before, such payment does not affect the question of jurisdiction so far as costs are concerned: Pickard v. Tims, 19 P. R. 109.

Rule 849.

In the absence of an order to the contrary the rights and liabilities of each defendant depend upon the amount of the plaintiff's recovery against him: Jackson v. Hughes, 2 O. W. N. 15; Moffat v. Link, Ib. 56; and the onus is on the plaintiff to obtain from the Judge at the trial an order preventing the application of this Rule; and general words giving costs, without referring to the scale, are not a sufficient order to the contrary: Ib.

Though a plaintiff may only be able to recover from the defendant costs on an inferior Court scale under this Rule, yet he may be liable to his solicitor for costs on the Supreme Court scale, if the latter had reasonable ground for thinking the action could not be brought in the inferior Court: Re Jackson, 18 P. R. 326.

The Rule does not apply where the plaintiff recovers a sum beyond the jurisdiction of a County Court, which, however, is reduced by counterclaim of the defendant to a sum within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court: Caldwell v. Hughes, 4 O. W. N. 1192; Everly v. Dunkley, 5 O. W. N. 65. But it is otherwise where the amount is reduced by set off, which has been assented to before action: Ib.

For the purposes of the scale on which costs are to be taxed the claim and counter-claim are to be treated as separate actions: see Amon v. Bobbett, 22 Q. B. D. 543, where a plaintiff recovering on his claim an amount within the jurisdiction of a County Court, recovered costs on that footing, but succeeding on the defendant's counter-claim for an amount within the Supreme Court jurisdiction, he recovered costs of his defence to the counter-claim on the Supreme Court scale.

Where the defendant recovers on a counter-claim, the costs should be on the scale of the Court in which the action is brought by the plaintiff, unless the Judge makes a different order; the fact that the recovery is for a sum within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court was formerly not considered "good cause" for such an order: Foster v. Viegel, 13 P. R. 133.

It does not apply where the plaintiff takes money out of Court under Rule 814, in which case he is entitled to costs on the Supreme Court scale, though the amount accepted be within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, and a Judge has no jurisdiction to make any other order: Babcock v. Standish, 19 P. R. 195; McKelvey v. Chilman, 5 O. L. R. 263; Stephens v. Toronto Ry., 13 O. L. R. 107, 363; sed vide Johnson v. Mullen, 1901, 1 Q. B. 76.

A judgment awarding "costs" in the Supreme Court, whether made by consent or otherwise, does not, since this Rule, carry costs on the Supreme Court scale unless the case is one which could not have been brought in an inferior Court: see Brown v. Hose, 14 P. R. 3; and Steckle v. Stokk, 11 C. L. T. 332; and interlocutory orders awarding costs "in any event of the action" will carry costs according to the scale upon which the costs of the action when awarded at the trial are taxable: Blake v. Toronto Brewing & Malting Co., 8 C. L. T. 123.

Before this Rule, in a jury case, unless the Judge made an order as to costs, the plaintiff, if he recovered anything, was entitled to costs of the Court in which the action was brought, "the event," which the costs were, under former C. R. 1170, to follow, being in his favour: see Parsons v. Tinling, 2 C. P. D. 119; McGarvey v. Strathroy, 11 P. R. 87; Wilson v. Roberts, 11 P. R. 412, following Garnett v. Bradley, 3 App. Cas. 944. The principle of these cases may still apply in all actions where a trifling amount is recovered, but the action could not have been brought in an inferior Court; it will also apply to give to the successful party all costs which are "costs in the cause," and so depending upon the event, unless the Judge otherwise orders: see Copeland v. Blenheim, 11 P. R. 54, where the costs of a trial at which the jury disagreed were held to be taxable to the successful party. Rule 949.

Now, however, since this Rule "the event" in Jud. Act s. 74 (3), includes amongst other things the scale on which costs may be taxable: see also Hyde v. Beardsley, 18 Q. B. D. 244; Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44. The scale on which the plaintiff's costs will be taxable, if no order is made by the Judge, will be that of the lowest Court in which the action was capable of being brought, and the defendant will have the right to set-off the extra costs incurred by him as in the Rule mentioned: see Ireland v. Pitcher, 11 P. R. 403.

The interest which a verdict or judgment bears under Jud. Act, s. 35 (4), is no part of the claim, and therefore is not to be considered in determining the question of scale: Sproule v. Wilson, 15 P. R. 349.

A plaintiff cannot by claiming larger damages than are recoverable in a County Court get rid of the operation of this Rule if he, in fact, only recovers a sum within the jurisdiction of the inferior Court: Moffatt v. Link, 46 C. L. J. 665.

Where on the dismissal of an action with costs, a defendant claims that the costs should be taxed on the Supreme Court scale, if the matter is in doubt, it is proper practice to obtain a direction of a Judge as to the scale of costs before they are taxed: Dominion Bank v. Heffernon, 11 P. R. 504; but the taxing officer is to tax according to the lower scale wherever it is applicable without any express direction: see Brough v. Brantford, 25 Gr. 43.

Where only C. C. costs are awarded at the trial to the plaintiff, and the defendant appeals to the Appellate Division, and his appeal is dismissed with costs, such costs are primâ facie taxable on the Supreme Court scale: Holmes v. Bready, 18 P. R. 79; McIlhargey v. Queen, 2 O. W. N. 781, 916.

Rule 649 applies only to costs up to the judgment and does not apply to the costs of an appeal. Such costs are taxable primâ facie on the Supreme Court scale, but the Appellate Division can mould its order as to costs as it sees fit, but it must do so before its order issues: Ib. 916.

Jurisdiction of County Courts:—

The jurisdiction of the County and District Courts is defined by The County Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 59), ss. 22-37.

Sections 22-37 are as follows:—

22.—(1) The County and District Courts shall have jurisdiction in:— Jurisdiction.

(a) Actions arising out of contract, expressed or implied, where the sum claimed does not exceed $800; Contract.

(b) Personal actions, except actions for criminal conversation and actions for libel, where the sum claimed does not exceed $500; Tort.

(c) Actions for trespass or injury to land where the sum claimed does not exceed $500, unless the title to the land is in question, and in that case also where the value of the land does Injury to land.

Rule 848.

not exceed $500, and the sum claimed does not exceed that amount;

Easements.

(d) Actions for the obstruction of or interference with a right of way or other easement where the sum claimed does not exceed $500, unless the title to the right or easement is in question, and in that case also where the value of the land over which the right or easement is claimed does not exceed that amount;

Recovery of property.

(e) Actions for the recovery of property, real or personal, including actions of replevin and actions of detinue where the value of the property does not exceed $500;

Mortgages.

(f) Actions for the enforcement by foreclosure or sale or for the redemption of mortgages, charges or liens, with or without a claim for delivery of possession or payment or both, where the sum claimed to be due does not exceed $500. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 22 (1), part; 1 Geo. V. c. 17, s. 48;

Partnership.

(g) Partnership actions where the joint stock or capital of the partnership does not exceed in amount or value $2,000;

Legacies.

(h) Actions by legatees under a will for the recovery or delivery of money or property bequeathed to them where the legacy does not exceed in value or amount $500, and the estate of the testator does not exceed in value $2,000;

Equitable relief.

(i) All other actions for equitable relief where the subject matter involved does not exceed in value or amount $500; and Insolvency.

(j) Actions and contestations for the determination of the right of creditors to rank upon insolvent estates where the claim of the creditor does not exceed $500. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 22 (1), part.

Dispute of jurisdiction by defendant.

(2) Where a defendant intends to dispute the jurisdiction of the Court on the ground that the action, though otherwise within the proper competence of the Court, is not within it because of the amount claimed or of the value of the property in question or of the amount or value of the subject matter involved or, in the cases mentioned in clauses (g) and (h) of sub-section 1, because the joint stock or capital of the partnership exceeds in amount or value $2,000, or the estate of the testator exceeds in value $2,000, he shall in his appearance or in his statement of defence state that he disputes the jurisdiction of the Court, and the ground upon which he relies for disputing it; and in default of his so doing, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge, the question of jurisdiction shall not afterwards be raised or the jurisdiction be brought in question. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 22 (2); 3-4 Geo. V. c. 18, s. 15 (1).

Transmission of papers.

(3) Where the notice mentioned in the next preceding sub-section is given, the plaintiff may on præcipe require all papers and proceedings in the action to be transmitted to the proper office of the Supreme Court in the county or district in which the action was brought, and it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the County or District Court forthwith to transmit the same to such office.

Transfer to Supreme Court.

(4) When the papers and proceedings so transmitted are received at the proper office of the Supreme Court, the action shall ipso facto be transferred to the Supreme Court. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 22 (3-4).

Rule 649.

At instance of defendant

(5) Where the plaintiff does not exercise the right conferred by sub-section 3, the defendant may, after the expiration of ten days from the entry of appearance if he has given notice that he disputes the jurisdiction of the Court on entering his appearance, or after the expiration of ten days from the filing of his statement of defence, if he has given such notice in his statement of defence, apply to a Judge of the Supreme Court for an order transferring the action to that Court. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 22 (5); 3-4 Geo. V. c. 18, s. 15 (2).

Terms of order of transfer.

(6) Where the Court or a Judge makes an order under the provisions of sub-section 2 allowing the defendant to question the jurisdiction of the Court the Court or Judge may direct the action to be transferred to the Supreme Court, on such terms as to costs and otherwise, as may be deemed just.

Scale of costs in action transferred.

(7) Where an action is transferred to the Supreme Court under the provisions of this section, if the plaintiff is awarded costs, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge, they shall be taxed according to the scale of the Supreme Court, whether or not the action be in fact within the proper competence of the County or District Court. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 22 (6-7).

When set-off or counter-claim is beyond jurisdiction.

23.—(1) Where the defendant pleads a set-off or counter-claim either party, within six days after the plaintiff has delivered his reply to such defence of set-off, or his defence to the counter-claim, may apply to a Judge of the Supreme Court for an order transferring the action and counter-claim to the Supreme Court on the ground that such set-off or counter-claim involves matter beyond the jurisdiction of the Court.

Judge's order transferring.

(2) The Judge, if satisfied that the set-off or counter-claim involves matter which exceeds the jurisdiction of the Court, may order the transfer upon such terms as to costs and otherwise as he may deem just.

Jurisdiction established where no order of transfer made.

(3) If no such application is made within the time limited, or if an application so made has been refused, the jurisdiction of the Court to hear and determine the whole matter involved in the set-off or counter-claim shall be deemed to be established. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 23.

Consequences of transfer.

24.—Where an action has been transferred to the Supreme Court or to another County or District Court, under any provision of this Act, it shall be in the same plight and condition as it was in at the time of the transfer, and thereafter may be proceeded with as if it had been commenced in the Court into which it has been so transferred. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 24.

Transfer of action to County or District Court having jurisdiction.

25. Where it appears in an action brought in a County or District Court that such Court has not cognizance thereof, but that the Court of some other County or District has jurisdiction to try the same, the Judge before whom the action is pending may, at any time before or during the trial thereof, order the action to be transferred to such other County or District Court upon such terms as to costs and otherwise as he may deem just. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 25.

Prohibition not to lie when case transferred.

26. Prohibition shall not lie in respect of an action or counter-claim which may be transferred under the provisions of this Act to the Supreme Court, or from one County or District Court into another County or District Court. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 26.

Abandonment of so much of claim as is in excess of jurisdiction.

27.—(1) Where it appears that the claim of the plaintiff is for an amount beyond the jurisdiction of the Court he may, by writing signed by him and filed, upon such terms as the Judge deems proper as to costs and otherwise, abandon the excess and in such case the plaintiff shall forfeit such excess, and shall not be entitled to recover it in any other action.

Idem.

(2) A defendant shall have the like right in respect of his set-off or counter-claim. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 27.

Relief which may be granted by Courts.

28. The Court shall, as regards all causes of action within its jurisdiction, have power to grant and shall grant such relief, redress or remedy, or combination of remedies, either absolute or conditional, including the power to grant vesting orders and to relieve against penalties and forfeitures, but shall not have the power to remove a trustee or to appoint a new trustee under The Trustee Act; and shall give such and the like effect to every ground of defence or counter-claim, equitable or legal, by the same mode of procedure, and in as full and ample a manner as might and ought to be done in the like case by the Supreme Court. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 28; 1 Geo. V. c. 17, s. 39.

Rev. Stat. c. 121.

In what cases and on what conditions causes shall be removable.

29. Except in the cases mentioned in sub-sections 3, 5 and 6 of section 22, and in section 23, no action shall be removed by order of certiorari, or otherwise, into the Supreme Court unless the debt or damages claimed amount to upwards of $100, and then only on affidavit and by leave of a Judge of the Supreme Court, if it appears to the Judge fit to be tried in the Supreme Court, and upon such terms as to costs, giving security for debt or costs and otherwise as he deems just. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 29.

Venue for certain actions.

30.—(1) Unless by consent of the parties, or unless the place of trial is changed, actions under clauses (c) and (d) of section 22, shall be brought and tried in the Court of the County or District in which the land is situate, and action under clause (g) of that section shall be brought and tried in the Court of the County or District where the partnership has or had its principal place of business, and actions under clause (h) of that section shall be brought and tried in the Court of the County or District where letters probate or of administration have issued, or where the deceased resided at the time of his death.

Actions for the recovery of real property.

(2) Actions for the recovery of real property shall be brought and tried in the Court of the County or District in which the property sought to be recovered is situate. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 30.

Where action against Judge of Court may be brought.

31. An action by or against a Judge shall not be brought in the Court of which he is a Judge, but shall be brought in the Court of a County or District adjoining that in which such Judge resides. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 31.

Procedure. Rev. Stat. c. 56.

32. Subject to the provisions of The Judicature Act and to Rules of Court, the practice and procedure of the Supreme Court shall apply to the County and District Courts. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 32.

Rule 649

COSTS WHERE NO JURISDICTION.

Costs where action fails for want of jurisdiction

33. Where the plaintiff fails to recover judgment by reason that the Court has not jurisdiction, the Court shall, nevertheless, have jurisdiction over the costs of the action or other proceeding, and may order by and to whom the same shall be paid: 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 33.

ENFORCING JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

Power to enforce judgments and orders

34. Every County and District Court shall have the like power as is possessed by the Supreme Court of enforcing its judgments and orders in any part of Ontario, and may issue the like writs and process as may be issued out of the Supreme Court; and the same shall have the like force and effect as writs and process out of the Supreme Court. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 34.

PUNISHMENT FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Power to fine and imprison

35. Every County and District Court may punish by fine or imprisonment, or by both, for any wilful contempt of or resistance to its process, rules or orders; but the fine shall not in any case exceed $100, nor shall the imprisonment exceed six months. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 35.

ACCOUNTS AND INQUIRIES.

References generally

36.—(1) Where it is proper to direct a reference, the same may be made to any officer to whom a reference may be directed by the Supreme Court or to the Clerk of the Court.

To Judge

(2) Where the Judge of the Court is Local Master, the reference may be made to himself, but no fees shall be charged by him on such reference.

Scale of costs

(3) Upon every such reference the fees to be paid and the costs to be allowed, whether as between party and party, or solicitor and client, shall be according to the County Court tariff. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 36.

Powers of Court

37.—(1) In an action in a County or District Court the Judge shall have the same powers with regard to the making of an order of reference as may be exercised by a Judge of the Supreme Court in action therein.

Appeal from referee

(2) An appeal, in like manner and within the same time as in like cases in actions in the Supreme Court shall lie from the report on the reference to the Judge of the County or District Court in Chambers, who shall, upon such appeal, have the same power as may be exercised by a Judge in like cases in the Supreme Court.

Appeal to High Court Division

(3) An appeal shall lie from any order, judgment or decision of the Judge of a County or District Court, and from the report upon a reference made under sub-section 2 of section 36 to a Divisional Court, and the proceedings and practice on the appeal as to staying proceedings and otherwise shall be similar to the proceedings and practice relating to an appeal from a judgment under the provisions of section 39.

Except where the Crown is a party

(4) Nothing in this section shall empower the Judge of a County or District Court to refer any proceeding to which His Majesty is a party, or any question or issue in any such proceeding, to an Official Referee, without the consent of His Majesty. 10 Edw. VII. c. 30, s. 37 (1-4).

Scope of s. 22 of C. C. Act.

County Court Scale of Costs, when not Applicable.—The effect of section 22, generally speaking, is that the jurisdiction of a County Court is ousted, and (where no special order as to costs is made) costs are therefore payable on the Supreme Court scale in the case of:—

(1) Particular classes of actions, e.g., libel, crim. con. etc., sec. 22 (b).

(2) Actions where land is in question exceeding in value $500: sec. 22 (c) (d) (e) (f) (g) (h) (i).

(3) Actions where the amount of the debt or damages claimed is above $500: s. 22 (b), (j).

(4) Actions for equitable relief not falling within sec. 22 (d) (f) (g) (h) (i).

Costs in actions excluded from C. C. jurisdiction.

(1) Particular Classes of Actions.—The Rule cannot be applied in actions which are not within the proper competence of a County or Division Court. In an action of libel, or crim. con., which cannot be brought in those Courts, if the plaintiff recovers anything, costs, on the Supreme Court scale, follow, unless the Judge orders otherwise: see Wilson v. Roberts, 11 P. R. 412; Wellbanks v. Conger (2), 12 P. R. 447; and semble, the Court should not look behind the finding of the jury and deprive the plaintiff of costs on the ground that he was not really entitled to recover: Ib.; and see Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. at p. 398.

Where land in question.

(2) Where Land in Question.—Where the action relates to land so as to oust the jurisdiction of a County, or Division, Court under The County Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 59), or The Division Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 63), though the amount recovered be within the jurisdiction of a County, or Division, Court, the plaintiff is entitled to costs on the Supreme Court scale: Worman v. Brady, 12 P. R. 618; Danaher v. Little, 13 P. R. 351; Whitesell v. Reece, 9 O. L. R. 182.

Neither an action for use and occupation: see Re Crawford v. Seney, 17 Ont. 74, nor an action for trespass to land, nor for breach of covenant in a farm lease (see Talbot v. Poole, infra), necessarily brought in question the title of land, so as to oust the jurisdiction of the County, or Division Court under the former Acts: Bailey v. Bleecker, 5 C. L. J. 99; Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292; see Graham v. Spettigue, 12 Ont. App. 251; McNeil v. Haines, 13 P. R. 115; Talbot v. Poole, 15 P. R. 99. But it is to be noted that it is the value of the land in question, and not the fact that the title is in question, which is now the determining factor, as to the question of jurisdiction of a County Court: see sec. 22 (1) (c), supra, p. 1311.

Where an action is brought in respect of an alleged interference with an easement of support, and the plaintiff's land was worth over $200, but the damages recovered were only $140, it was held that the action was properly brought in the High Court: Moffat v. Carmichael, 14 O. L. R. 495; but see now sec. 22 (1) (d), supra, p. 1312.

The pleadings only should be looked at to see what is in question in the action: Brown v. Hose, 14 P. R. 3.

Where the plaintiff's title is denied on the pleadings, and he is required at the trial to prove it, the title to land is brought in question: Worman v. Brady, supra; Danaher v. Little, supra; Flett v. Way, 14 P. R. 312; Tomkins v. Jones, 22 Q. B. D. 599. A defendant having by his defence contested the plaintiff's title cannot, by obtaining at the trial leave to withdraw it, escape liability for costs on the Supreme Court scale: Black v. Wheeler, 7 O. L. R. 545. Rule 649.

Where to an action on a promissory note the defendant pleaded that he had been induced to give it on the misrepresentation of the plaintiff that he owned or controlled certain interests in land which he offered to transfer to the defendant, and for which transfer the note was given; it was held that the title to land was not necessarily in question in the action: Dobner v Hodgins, 1 O. W. N. 12.

(3) Claims for Debt, Damages, etc.—The County Court has jurisdiction to investigate accounts and claims of suitors, however large, provided the amount sought to be recovered does not exceed the sum prescribed by the Act: Bennett v. White, 13 P. R. 149; where, therefore, a plaintiff claimed $169.72 as a balance on transactions comprehending more than $1,000, and defendant counter-claimed for $1,325.74, it was held that the plaintiff was only entitled to costs on the County Court scale: Ib.; and see Thompson v. Pearson, 18 P. R. 308, 420; Evans v. Chandler, 19 P. R. 160. As to whether a County Court has jurisdiction to try in the same action any number of causes of action in debt, covenant and contract, so long as each does not exceed $500: see McLaughlin v. Schaefer, 13 Ont. App. 253. Damages or debt claimed exceeding C. C. jurisdiction.

Where different sums are recovered against different defendants, and as to one of them the amount is within the County Court jurisdiction, that defendant is only liable for costs on the County Court scale, though the amount recovered against other defendants is beyond the County Court jurisdiction: Duxbury v. Barton, 1901, 2 K. B. 23.

A County Court has no jurisdiction to entertain an action for more than $500, on a guaranty, in general terms, for the payment of the price of goods, there being no liquidation or ascertaining of the debt binding on the guarantor: Thomson v. Eede, 22 Ont. App. 105.

Where an action was brought to recover damages for wrongfully refusing to deliver up, pursuant to a contract to that effect, a promissory note for $300 to the plaintiff, and the plaintiff recovered $314, the amount of the note and interest, it was held that the action was within the jurisdiction of the County Court; Johnson v. Kenyon, 13 P. R. 24; but see Plummer v. Coldwell, infra, p. 1319.

Where money is paid into Court in satisfaction, and accepted by the plaintiff, though the amount be within the jurisdiction of a County Court, the plaintiff is nevertheless entitled to costs on the Supreme Court scale: Stephens v. Toronto Ry., 13 O. L. R. 107, 363.

Where the plaintiff's claim was on a covenant on which he recovered $262.50 less $69, which was allowed to defendant by way of set-off in respect of moneys paid by the defendant to a third person at the plaintiff's request, the jurisdiction of the Division, then, as now, extending to money claims ascertained by the signature of the defendant, to the amount of $200, it was held that the action could have been properly brought in a County Court and that the plaintiff was therefore entitled to costs on the County Court scale: Osterhout v. Fox, 14 O. L. R. 599.

Where a plaintiff sued to recover $505 for balance of salary and travelling expenses, and only recovered $152.85, he was held only entitled to County Court costs, although the total amount of the accounts investigated to arrive at that balance exceeded the jurisdiction of a County Court: Ross v. Townsend, 46 C. L. J. 179.

Rule 649.

Where the plaintiff's claim was allowed at $3,699,25, but was reduced by set off and counter-claim to $685 and it did not appear that the set-off had, prior to action, been assented to, or agreed on, so as to reduce the amount of the plaintiff's claim below $800, the plaintiff was held to be entitled to costs on the Supreme Court scale: Caldwell v. Hughes, 4 O. W. N. 1192; and see Osterhout v. Fox, supra, p. 1317.

A County Court, however, has no jurisdiction to give a judgment for an amount within its jurisdiction, when it is arrived at, not by any settlement, or statement of account between the parties, but as being the balance due upon a disputed account, the total amount of which was beyond the jurisdiction of the Court: Sherwood v. Cline, 17 Ont. 30.

Cases sometimes arise in which it is somewhat difficult to determine whether an action is founded on tort, or contract. It has been held that a claim by a passenger against a railway company for damages for injuries occasioned by the misfeasance of one of its servants is an action of tort: Taylor v. Manchester & S. Ry., 1895, 1 Q. B. 134; 71 L. T. 596; Kelly v. Metropolitan Ry., 72 L. T. 551; so also a claim for damages for negligence in taking care of a horse under a contract for agistment: Turner v. Stallibrass, 1898, 1 Q. B. 56; 71 L. T. 482; and a claim by a lessee against the lessor for removing fixtures after the agreement to lease: Sachs v. Henderson, 1902, 1 K. B. 612; 86 L. T. 437; and a claim against a dentist for negligence in pulling out the tooth of the plaintiff; Edwards v. Mallam, 1908, 1 K. B. 1002; 98 L. T. 824. But an action by a client against his solicitor for neglecting his instructions in which the plaintiff recovered $92.84, was held to be within the jurisdiction of a Division Court: Burke v. Shaver, 29 O. L. R. 365.

Where a plaintiff sued on a bond for $500 for security for costs, alleging as a breach the non-payment of $318.55, for which he recovered judgment, he was held entitled to Superior Court costs, as the amount recovered was not ascertained by the signature of defendant within The County Courts Act, and therefore the action could not have been brought in the County Court: Hager v. Jackson, 16 P. R. 485.

Mortgage action.

(4) Equitable Relief.—Where the amount due plaintiff as mortgagee is less than $500, if there is a subsequent incumbrancer to whom more than that sum is due, the County Court has no jurisdiction: Hyman v. Roots, 11 Gr. 202; Scath v. McIlroy, 2 Chy. Ch. 93; see also Mitchell v. Martin, 2 C. L. J. 249.

Where mortgagees after exercise of a power of sale claimed that $182.61 was due them, but on accounts being taken $20.07 was found due to the mortgagor, it was held that costs awarded the mortgagor were properly taxable on the higher scale, as $182.61 plus $20.07 was involved, which at that time exceeded the jurisdiction of a County Court: Morton v. Hamilton Prov. & L. Socy., 10 P. R. 636; 11 P. R. 82.

"Subject matter involved."

On a bill by a mortgagor for an account, where the mortgagee had exercised his power of sale and realized $350, and on taking the account only $130 was found due to the plaintiff, it was held that "the subject matter involved" was the $350 (which was at that time a sum beyond the jurisdiction of a County Court), and the plaintiff was therefore entitled to costs, on the higher scale: McGillicuddy v. Griffin, 20 Gr. 81; Boulton v. Rowland, 4 Ont. 720; Re Lyons, 10 P. R. 150; 20 C. L. J. 33; Morton v. Hamilton Provident & L. Society, 11 P. R. 82; but see Legarie v. Canada Loan & Bg. Soc., 11 P. R. 512; Beatty v.

O'Connor, 5 Ont. 747; Reddick v. Traders' Bank, 22 Ont. 449; and Rule 64e. where, heeidee a money demand within tha jurisdiction of the County Court, the plaintiff claimed an injunction, and to have certain fences erected and meintained, ths coste were allowed on the higher scnie (ths County Court at thnt tima not having any equitable jurisdiction): Brough v. Brantford N. & P. B. Ry. Co., 25 Gr. 43; and see McDonell v. Building & Loan Assoc., 11 P. R. 413; hut these caees were decided befors the County Courts had jurisdiction to grant injunctions: and see Fitchett v. Mellow, 18 P. R. 161.

Where the equitahie relief claimed hy the plaintiff is heyond the jurisdiction of the County Court to grant, and the defendant hy consent or otherwise, pending the action, satiefiee that claim, and in the result the plaintiff only recovere judgment for a eum within ths jurisdiction of a County Court, the plaintiff ie, nevertheless, entitled to costs on the Supreme Court scale: see Doherty v. Thompson, 94 L. T. 626.

Injunction.

An action to restrain the negotiation of a note for $230, and to compel ite delivery up to the plaintiff, was formerly heyond the jurisdiction of a County Conrt: Plummer v. Coldwell, 15 P. R. 144; Johnson v. Kenyon, supra, p. 1317; hut an action for an injunction to restrain a sale under a dietrese under the dietress clause in a mortgegs for $2,300. hy which goode to the vaiue of $112.55 had heen distrained, and for damages, was heid not to he within the former equitable juriediction of a County Court: McDonell v. Building & Loan Assn., 11 P. R. 413; hut euch claime would eeem now to be within the jurisdiction of County Courts: ees The County Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 59). s. 22 (1) (i), supra, p. 1312.

Setting aside fraudulent conveyance.

Since The Creditors' Relief Act, where, in an action hy a judgmsnt creditor to set aside a frauduient conveyance, the claims of all execution creditore together exceed $500, the action is not within the jurisdiction of a County Court, and the Rule does not appiy: Dominion Bonk v. Heffernon, 11 P. R. 504; hut if there ie hut one judgment creditor and to him ieee than $500 is due, the Rule applies, no matter what may be the value of the property frauduientiy conveyed: Forrest v. Laycock, 18 Gr. 611; McKay v. Magee, 13 P. R. 106, 146; Thomson v. Stone, 4 O. L. R. 333, 585.

So also in an action hy simple contract creditore, whose claims amount to $500, to set asids a frauduient conveyance, there heing execution creditors to the amount of $600, and the land heing worth more than $500, the County Court wouid not appear to have jurisdiction: see Morphy v. Fawkes, 18 P. R. 24.

Specific performance.

In a suit hy a purchaeer for specific performance of a contract for the sale of land for a sum under $150, where, before suit, the plaintiff had entered and improved the land end increased its value to mors thsn $200 (a sum then heyond the jurisdiction of a County Court), it was held that "the subject matter involved" wae over $200, and higher scale costs were allowed: Kennedy v. Brown, 6 P. R. 318; and sec Rex v. Judge Whithorne, 1904, 1 K. B. 827.

As to the effect upon the jurisdiction of a County Court of a counter-claim upon which no reiief is given: sea Fitchett v. Mellow, 18 P. R. 161.

Rule 649. Division Courts Jurisdiction.—The jurisdiction of the Division Courts is defined by The Division Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 63), ss. 61-65, which are as follows:

JURISDICTION.

61. The Court shall not have jurisdiction in Cases in which Court has no jurisdiction.

(a) An action for the recovery of land, or an action in which the right of title to any corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments, or any toll, custom or franchise comes in question;

(b) An action which the validity of any devise, bequest, or limitation under any will or settlement is disputed;

(c) An action for malicious prosecution, libel, slander, criminal conversion, seduction or breach of promise of marriage;

(d) An action against a Justice of the Peace for anything done by him in the execution of his office, if he objects thereto;

(e) An action upon a judgment, or order of the Supreme Court or a County Court where execution may issue, upon or in respect thereof. 10 Edw. VII. c. 32, s. 61.

Cases in which Court has jurisdiction.

62.—(1) Save as otherwise provided by this Act, the Court shall have jurisdiction in:

(a) A personal action where the amount claimed does not exceed $60;

(b) A personal action if all the parties consent thereto in writing, and the amount claimed does not exceed $100;

(c) An action on a claim or demand of debt, account or breach of contract, or covenant, or money demand, whether payable in money or otherwise, where the amount or balance claimed does not exceed $100; provided that in the case of an unsettled account the whole account does not exceed $600;

(d) An action for the recovery of a debt or money demand where the amount claimed, exclusive of interest whether the interest is payable by contract or as damages, does not exceed $200 and the amount claimed is

(i.) Ascertained by the signature of the defendant or of the person whom as executor or administrator he represents or—

(ii.) The balance of an amount not exceeding $200, which amount is so ascertained or—

(iii.) The balance of an amount so ascertained which did not exceed $400 and the plaintiff abandons the excess over $200.

An amount shall not be deemed to be so ascertained where it is necessary for the plaintiff to give other and extrinsic evidence beyond the production of a document and proof of the signature to it.

The jurisdiction conferred by this clause shall apply to claims and proceedings against an absconding debtor. Rule 649.

(e) An action or contestation for the determination of the right of a creditor to rank upon an insolvent estate where the claim of the creditor does not exceed $60.

(2) Claims combining—

(a) Causes of action in respect of which the jurisdiction is by sub-section 1 limited to $60, hereinafter referred to as class (a); Combining causes of action.

(b) Causes of action in respect of which the jurisdiction is by sub-section 1 limited to $100, hereinafter referred to as class (b);

(c) Causes of action in respect of which the jurisdiction is by sub-section 1 limited to $200, hereinafter referred to as class (c), may be joined in one action; provided that the whole amount claimed in respect of class (a) does not exceed $60; and that the whole amount claimed in respect of classes (a) and (b) combined, or in respect of class (b) where no claim is made in respect of class (a), does not exceed $100, and that the whole amount claimed in respect of classes (a) and (c) or (b) and (c) combined, does not exceed $200, and that in respect of classes (b) and (c) combined, the whole amount claimed in respect of class (b) does not exceed $100.

(3) The findings of the Court upon claims so joined shall be separate. Separate findings on combined claims.

(4) The Court shall also have jurisdiction in actions of replevin, where the value of the goods or other property or effects distrained, taken or detained, does not exceed $60, as provided in The Replevin Act. Jurisdiction in replevin. Rev. Stat. c. 69.

(5) The Court shall also have jurisdiction in actions between teachers and school boards as provided by The High Schools Act, The Public Schools Act, and The Separate Schools Act, 10 Edw. VII. c. 32, s. 62. Actions between teachers and school boards. Rev. Stat. cc. 266, 268, 270.

64. Upon a contract for the payment of a certain sum in labour or in any kind of goods or commodities or in any other manner than in money, the Judge may give judgment for the amount in money as if the contract had been so expressed, if the goods and commodities have not been delivered or the labour or other thing performed in accordance with the contract. 10 Edw. VII. c. 32, s. 64. Judge may order payment in money, although contract not for payment in money.

65.—(1) The Court in actions otherwise within its jurisdiction shall have power to grant relief, redress, or remedy, or combination of remedies, either absolute or conditional, including the power to relieve against penalties and forfeitures, in as full and ample a manner as might be done in the like case by the Supreme Court. Powers of Courts. Courts not to grant injunctions or receiver.

(2) Nothing in this section shall confer jurisdiction to grant an injunction or to appoint a receiver. 10 Edw. VII. c. 32, s. 65.

Division Court Jurisdiction.—As to what claims are liquidated, or ascertained by the signature of the party: see note, supra, p. 374, and Slater v. Labercc, 9 O. L. R. 545; Forfar v. Climie, 10 P. R. 90.

In an action in the High Court for trespass to lands, and removal of fixtures the plaintiff recovered a verdict for $50. It was held that the title to land was not in question, notwithstanding the defendant had not expressly admitted the plaintiff's title as set up in the statement of claim; and consequently that the plaintiff was entitled only to Division costs, and the defendant to a set-off of his extra costs under Rule 650: Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292.

A plaintiff entitled only to Division Court costs under this Rule can tax as part of such costs his expenses of travelling from abroad to attend as a witness, if he was a material and necessary witness: Talbot v. Poole, 15 P. R. 274.

What is meant by "personal action" in The Division Courts Act ss. 62 (1) (a) and (b) supra, seems somewhat difficult to say—seeing that all the actions mentioned in the section are "personal." Possibly those referred to in clause (a) and (b) mean "personal actions other than those mentioned in the other clauses of the section." It is sometimes a matter of difficulty to determine whether an action is founded on tort, or contract, and consequently whether it is within clauses (a) or (c): Burke v. Shaver, 29 O. L. R. 365.

Set-off of Costs by Defendant.—Where a defendant is entitled to a set-off of costs under this Rule, if the plaintiff refuses to enter the judgment, an order may be made in Chambers limiting the time for him to do so, and in default allowing the defendant to enter it: Sinclair v. Barrow, 3 U. C. L. J. 49.

Costs in actions when judgment entered without trial.

650. Where judgment is entered for default and the action is within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court, the taxation shall be on the scale of fees in such Court. C.R. 1133.

This Rule materially varies from C. R. 1133, which applied to all cases where judgment was entered "without a trial."

This Rule applies only to cases where judgment is entered by default, not to cases where there has been a trial, but no order has been made as to costs: see Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44; Dale v. Weston, 17 P. R. 513. C. R. 1133 was held to apply to a consent order providing that the plaintiff shall get costs, without indicating the scale: Brown v. Hose, 14 P. R. 3; but see Steckle v. Stakk, 11 C. L. T. 332; the present Rule does not cover such a case, and it does not apply where a plaintiff takes money out of Court paid in with a defence: see Babcock v. Standish, 19 P. R. 195; Stephens v. Toronto Ry., 13 O. L. R. 107, 363.

No set-off of costs (as under Rule 649) is contemplated by this Rule, where the plaintiff gets only costs according to the County, or Division Court scale: Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44.

To determine the proper scale of fees, it is the duty of the Taxing Officer to look at the pleadings, and if necessary to receive affidavits so as to ascertain the facts of the case: White Sewing Machine Co. v. Belfrey, 10 P. R. 64, and see Rule 651.

Where a plaintiff sues for and recovers an amount beyond the jurisdiction of a County Court, a defendant cannot, by admitting his liability for part of the claim, and paying it into Court, deprive the plaintiff of his right to full costs, because the balance in dispute is within the jurisdiction of an inferior Court: Brown v. Hose, 14 P. R.

3; and see Pickard v. Tims, 19 P. R. 109; Doherty v. Thompson, 94 L. T. 626. Rules 651-653.

Where a verdict was taken by consent for $1 to be altered according to the result of a reference agreed on, costs to abide the event, it was held that it was a judgment without a trial and within C. R. 1133: Andrews v. City of London, 12 P. R. 44; but it would seem that this Rule would not apply to such a case, the judgment not being by default.

This Rule does not necessarily affect the scale of costs on a taxation between solicitor and client: Re Jackson, 18 P. R. 326.

651. The Taxing Officer may make all inquiries necessary to determine whether an action is within the competence of an inferior Court. See C.R. 1133. T. O. to make necessary inquiries as to jurisdiction.

652.—(1) A judgment or order may direct payment of a sum in gross in lieu of taxed costs. C.R. 1137. Sum in gross may be allowed.

(2) No sum in excess of $30 shall be allowed, without taxation, save by a Judge. C.R. 1158. Costs exceeding $30 to be taxed.

In administration proceedings it is usual to allow to creditors who are entitled to costs, a sum in gross, as the amount of their costs is generally small.

In an action for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, no costs should be allowed to creditors whose claims are sent in pursuant to an advertisement, except when formal proof is also required, and given; claimants attempting to prove claims as creditors, or as heirs-at-law, or next of kin, who fail to establish their claim, may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned to the opposite party by their claim. In case of a deficiency of assets the costs of creditors proving claims are to be added to their debts and paid proportionately, but the creditors are not entitled to be paid such costs in priority to the debts: Re Ætna Insurance Co., 17 Gr. 160; Morshead v. Reynolds, 21 Beav. 638; Canham v. Neale, 26 Beav. 266; Morgan and Wurtzburg, p. 193.

Under this Rule the Court may award a lump sum, not only on interlocutory applications, but also for the general costs of the cause, or may award costs according to the County Court scale, even in cases which are beyond the jurisdiction of County Courts: Palmer v. Postle (Cby.), before full Court, 7th December, 1878: see Lib. Reg. of that date; and see Schaeffer v. Armstrong, 13 O. L. R. 40, but semble, the Court has no power to award a lump sum for costs exceeding what could be taxed: see p. 255 supra. But for this Rule it would seem that the Court would have no jurisdiction to award a lump sum for costs: Golding v. Smith, 1910, 1 K. B. 462; 102 L. T. 19. Court may award C. C. costs, in a case not within C. C. jurisdiction.

In an action for dower a lump sum for costs was awarded to the plaintiff: Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335, 344.

653. In actions or proceedings for administration, or partition, or administration and partition, unless otherwise ordered by a Judge, instead of the costs being allowed according to the tariff, each person properly Commission to be allowed in lieu of taxed costs in administration and partition.

Rule 685.

represented by a solicitor, and entitled to costs out of the estate—other than creditors not parties to the action or proceeding—shall be entitled to his actual disbursements in the action or proceeding, not including counsel fees, and there shall be allowed for the other costs of the suit payable out of the estate, a commission on the amount realized, or on the value of the property partitioned, which commission shall be apportioned among the persons entitled to costs, as may seem just. Such commission shall be as follows:

On the first $500	20 per cent.
On every additional $100 over $500 and up to $1,500	5 "
On every additional $100 over $1,500 and up to $4,000	3 "
On every additional $1,000 over $4,000 and up to $10,000	2½ "
On every additional $1,000 over $10,000	1 " and such remuneration shall be in lieu of all fees, whether between party and party or between solicitor and client.

(2) Where an order or judgment in any such action or proceeding by any form of words directs that the costs thereof be taxed, it shall be taken to mean the allowance of commission and disbursements, in accordance with subsection 1, unless it is otherwise expressly provided. C.R. 1146.

Commission in lieu of costs, who entitled to share in.

The commission payable under this Rule is divisible only between those who are strictly parties to the action, properly represented by a solicitor, and entitled to costs out of the estate. Persons not originally made parties to the action, but served with a copy of the judgment under Rules 79-84, are not thereby made parties to the action, but are merely enabled to attend the proceedings, and are bound thereby as though they were actually parties: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441. In a suit by a residuary legatee, the plaintiff sufficiently represents the other residuary legatees, and they are not entitled as of course to costs out of the estate occasioned by their appearing by another solicitor in the Master's office: Gorham v. Gorhom, 17 Gr. 386. Creditors who are neither plaintiffs nor defendants, are also excluded from participation in the commission; their costs are disposed of as formerly. The commission is to cover both the solicitors' fees and the fees to counsel and agents. It is of course not intended to cover costs ordered to be paid by one party to another. It is intended to cover only costs payable out of the estate. Costs are to be apportioned under this Rule in proportion to the work done by, and responsibility imposed on, the solicitors engaged: Dodge v. Clapp, 8 P. R. 388; Campbell v. Campbell, 8 P. R. 159; 16 C. L. J. 16.

Mode of apportionment.

The work done in the Master's office is not alone to be considered in making the apportionment of the commission: Cameron v. Leroux, 9 P. R. 304. The Master should also consider the circumstances under which the action is brought, when the judgment has been pronounced by himself, and should not award commission to parties who ought to be depr'ed of, or ordered to pay, costs. Rule 653.

In ascertaining the commission, if the estate has been sold subject to a mortgage, the amount of the mortgage is not to be included as part of the "amount realized": Re McColl, McColl v. McColl, 8 P. R. 480; but in Re Brown, Brown v. Brown, 19 C. L. J. 367, it was held that the commission is to be computed on the total amount accounted for, and not merely on the balance found in the accounting parties' hands; and see Re Batt, Wright v. White, 9 P. R. 447. On what sum to be estimated.

In partition actions extra costs, if any, occasioned by incumbrances on shares, should be borne by such shares: McDougall v. McDougall, 14 Gr. 267; Collon v. Banks, 1893, 2 Ch. 221; sed vide, Belcher v. Williams, 45 Ch. D. 510; 83 L. T. 673.

Ordinarily no costs will be allowed in addition to the commission and disbursements: Re Fleury, Fleury v. Fleury, 9 P. R. 87; and the Court refused to give taxed costs where the estate was large, but insolvent: Re Stuebing, Anthes v. Dewor, 10 P. R. 236; 20 C. L. J. 193. Taxed costs were allowed in an administration suit, in Re Goodfellow, Traders' Bank v. Goodfellow, by Ferguson, J., 10th June, 1889, the deceased having committed suicide, and left his estate in such a condition as to cause special trouble, and much work of a difficult nature in administering the same; and see Wright v. Bell, 32 C. L. J. 362; 16 C. L. T. 193.

The Master has no power to award taxed costs under this Rule: a Judge of the Supreme Court alone has that power: Hendricks v. Hendricks, 13 P. R. 79.

Where the Master finds, in any administration action commenced before himself, that any of the parties to the action should pay the whole, or any part, of the costs of the action, instead of their being borne by the estate, it would seem that he should so direct: Rule 611 (2). But in such a case it would be convenient also to apportion the commission, and ascertain the disbursements payable out of the estate, in case the costs ordered to be paid by any of the parties personally, could not be recovered from them.

Where the principal part of the costs of an action are ordered to be paid personally by one or more of the parties, and the costs of only a small proportion of the work done, are chargeable against the estate, it does not appear that in such a case the full amount of the commission here provided would be payable, and the power reserved to the Judge to make other order would probably be exercised. Cases might arise where from special circumstances, the commission here provided would be clearly inadequate, and in such cases too it is possible that the power to make other order as to the costs would be exercised. Where taxed costs allowed in lieu of commission.

An agent employed by a principal solicitor who is paid by commission, is liable to have his bill taxed: Re Idington & Mickle, 8 P. R. 566.

Where proceedings have been taken by writ instead of by motion, and the extra costs occasioned thereby have been disallowed to the client, they are not taxable against him by his solicitor, on a taxation between solicitor and client: Re Allenby & Weir, 13 P. R. 403.

It seems open to question whether, in fixing the commission in respect of estates over $4,000, allowance can be made for any excess over that sum unless it amounts to $1,000, having regard to the wording of the previous part of the Rule.

Costs of interlocutory examination

654. The costs of every interlocutory viva voce examination and cross-examination shall be borne by the party who examines unless, as to the whole or part thereof, it be otherwise directed, in actions in this Court by the Senior Taxing Officer, on his appointment served, and in actions in a County Court by a Judge thereof. In actions in the Supreme Court, if more than $25.00 is claimed, besides the disbursement in procuring the attendance of the person examined, the sum to be allowed for the examination or cross-examination shall be fixed by the Senior Taxing Officer on such appointment. C.R. 1136.

This Rule is based on C. R. 1136, as amended by C. R. 1267.

Semble, the costs of examining a party as a witness before trial may be allowed, though the examination was not in fact used, if such costs were reasonably incurred: Bartlett v. Higgins, 1901, 2 K. B. 230; 84 L. T. 509.

Semble, no appeal lies from the ruling of the Senior Taxing Officer under this Rule: but see Monn v. Crittenden, 11 O. L. R. 46.

Costs of guardian

655. Where the Official Guardian or other guardian of an infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind, is entitled to costs, the Court may order a successful party to pay such costs and add them to his own. C.R. 1138.

See notes to Jud. Act, s. 74, pp. 250, 251.

An infant may in a proper case be ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs, and also the costs which the plaintiff under this Rule is ordered to pay to the Official Guardian; Lipsett v. Perdue, 18 Ont. 575; Woolf v. Woolf, 1899, 1 Ch. 343.

Costs, where several actions on bonds, etc.

656. Where several actions are brought on one bond, recognizance, promissory note, bill of exchange, or other instrument, or where several actions are brought against the maker and indorser of a note, or against the drawer, acceptor or indorser of a bill of exchange, there shall be collected or recovered the costs taxed in one action only, at the election of the plaintiff, and the actual disbursements only in the other actions, unless the Court otherwise orders; but this provision shall not extend to any interlocutory costs. C.R. 1176. Rules 657 658

This Rule purports to be based on C. R. 1176. It is really based on C. R. 1135.

Where several actions are properly brought in cases not within the provisions of this Rule, against different defendants, although involving the same or similar issues, the plaintiff succeeding is entitled to tax a separate set of costs in each action: Baldwin v. Quinn, 18 P. R. 248.

Party insisting on being represented by a different solicitor to pay costs occasioned thereby 657. Where any one of the persons constituting a class formed by a Master for representation in his office by one solicitor, insists on being represented by a different solicitor, he shall pay the costs of his own solicitor and all such further costs as are occasioned to any of the parties by his being represented by a different solicitor from the solicitor so nominated. C.R. 1148.

This Rule purports to be based on C. R. 1188 [illegible] really based on C. R. 1148.

A party unnecessarily employing a separate solicitor would not be entitled to participate in the commission referred to in Rule 652.

Under Rule 406 the Master has power to classify the parties, and require the parties constituting each or any class to be represented by the same solicitor, and where he appoints a solicitor to act for a class, all the members of that class are bound by the acts of the solicitor so appointed, and cannot repudiate them, unless they have refused to be so represented, and have appointed a separate solicitor: Re McConnell, 3 Chy. Ch. 423. But where a solicitor was appointed ex parte to represent creditors, it was held that the solicitor could not recover costs against creditors who had not proved their claims, and who had no notice of his appointment: Re Monteith, Merchants' Bank v. Monteith, 12 P. R. 288; 23 C. L. J. 415.

After the appointment of a solicitor to act for a class, the separate costs of any member of that class, subsequently incurred, will not, ordinarily, be allowed against the estate under administration: Re Ætna Insurance Co., 17 Gr. 160.

The Master should not appoint a separate solicitor for a class already sufficiently represented by the plaintiff; and where the plaintiff primâ facie represents (see Rules 78-85) the class; if the Master appoints a separate solicitor he should state his reason for so doing in his report: Gorhom v. Gorhom, 17 Gr. 386.

Ex parte order not to contain direction as to costs

658. No ex parte order in an action shall contain any direction as to costs, but the costs of any such motion shall be dealt with by the Taxing Officer. New.

This is a new provision, and is apparently intended to give the Taxing Officer a discretion as to the allowance, or disallowance, of the costs of ex parte motions, according as they may seem to have been reasonably and properly incurred, or rendered necessary or occasioned by the fault of the party incurring them.

Rules 659, 660.

The awarding of costs, however, is a judicial function: see Jud. Act, s. 74, and it may be, perhaps, found that, in the absence of an order for payment, there will be difficulty in issuing execution for the costs of ex parte orders: see Rule 660 (3), which authorizes an execution to be issued without an order, but there is no similar provision in this Rule.

Costs claimed by writ may be taxed.

659. Costs claimed upon a specially indorsed writ may be taxed although paid, and if more than one-sixth be taxed off the plaintiff's solicitor shall bear the cost of taxation. C.P. 139. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 17.

Under the former C. RR. the indorsement of the claim for costs was required to state that if the amount were paid within the time allowed for appearance, further proceedings would be stayed; but that is no longer required: see Rule 773.

The effect of the indorsement, formerly, was to entitle the defendant to settle the claim by payment within eight days; the plaintiff was not bound by it for any other purpose: Jacquot v. Boura, 5 M. & W. 155, 156.

Where the defendant paid the amount, but not within the time limited, he was nevertheless held entitled to have the costs taxed under this Rule, as the plaintiff, by accepting the amount indorsed, was considered to have waived payment within the limited time: Hoole v. Earnshaw, 39 L. T. 409.

Abandoning motion.

660.—(1) Unless otherwise ordered, if a party who serves a notice of motion does not set the motion down, he shall be deemed to have abandoned the same, and the opposite party shall thereupon be entitled without an order to the costs of the motion.

Countermanding notice.

(2) A party who serves a notice of motion may countermand the same by notice served on the opposite party, who shall thereupon be entitled to the costs of the motion.

Costs.

(3) In either of such cases the costs may be taxed without an order, upon the production of the notice of motion served, with an affidavit that the motion was not set down, or of the notice of countermand served; and if the costs are not paid within 4 days from taxation, the party entitled thereto may issue an execution therefor. C.R. 790. Amended.

Clause (1) of this Rule only applies to motions which by the Rules are required to be set down, e.g., motions to be heard in the Weekly Court: Rule 234 (6) and appeals to the Appellate Division: Rules 491, 492.

The former mode of obtaining the costs of a motion not set down was to appear on the return day of the motion, and ask for the costs of an abandoned motion: Reg. v. Armstrong, 13 P. R. 306. It would not seem to be now proper to do this in the cases provided for by this Rule; but would appear to be still proper, in case of motions not required to be set down, e.g., motions to a Judge in Chambers, or to the Master in Chambers, or other Officers having the like jurisdiction. Rule 661.

Unless the party in default obtains leave to set the case down, the present Rule will apply. This Rule applies to a County Court appeal: Re Toronto Ry. Co. and City of Toronto, 18 P. R. 489.

A motion to dismiss an appeal for want of prosecution has been refused as unnecessary: Ib.

On an application to restore an appeal after it had been abandoned, it was held that a primâ facie ground of appeal must be made out: Union Bank v. Rideau Lumber Co., 19 P. R. 106. See S. C. in note to Rule 492, supra, p. 1091.

Where costs are sought to be recovered by execution under this Rule, the form of execution given in the Rules would need to be modified, as the form assumes that the amount to be levied is recoverable under some order, or judgment, whereas under this Rule there is to be no order or judgment, and the costs are recoverable simply by virtue of this Rule.

661. Where costs are ordered to be paid, they may be taxed either by the Taxing Officer at Toronto or by the proper officer where the proceedings are begun. C.R. 1157. Amended. Taxation of costs.

(2) On the signing of default judgment the officer signing judgment may fix and ascertain costs without taxation. (As amended by Rule of 24th December, 1913).

C. R. 1157 provided that costs might be taxed without an express reference for that purpose. The omission of that provision is perhaps not intended to alter the practice.

Sub-section (2) is by the official copy of the Rule of the 24th December, 1913, made an amendment of Rule 66, but it seems obviously intended to be an amendment of Rule 661, and is therefore printed here on that assumption.

On the signing of a default judgment the officer signing judgment may fix and ascertain costs without taxation: see Rule 66 (2), supra, p. 416.

Where the suitor is under no liability to pay costs to his solicitor, as for instance, has an agreement with his solicitor that he is not to pay costs: Gundry v. Sainsbury, 1910, 1 K. B. 645; 102 L. T. 440; or the suitor is indemnified by a third party against liability for costs: Meriden, etc., v. Braden, 16 P. R. 410; 17 P. R. 77; Walker v. Gurney, 19 P. R. 12, he is not entitled to tax costs against the opposite party, though costs are awarded to him; if he is liable for disbursements, or any other part of the costs of the solicitor, such part may be taxed: Stevenson v. Kingston, infra.

The like rule prevails where the solicitor is working on a salary: Jarvis v. G. W. R. Co., 8 C. P. 280; Stevenson v. Kingston, 31 C. P. 333; Ottawa Gas Co. v. Ottawa, 4 O. L. R. 656; 5 O. L. R. 246; but see Henderson v. Merthyr Tydvil, 48 W. R. 332; but it is provided by The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159) s. 71: "where the remuneration of a solicitor or counsel employed by a corporation is wholly or partly paid by salary, the corporation employing such solicitor or counsel shall, notwithstanding, have the right to recover and collect lawful costs in all actions and proceedings in the same manner as if the solicitor or counsel were not receiving a salary where the costs are by the terms of his employment payable to the solicitor or counsel as part of his remuneration in addition to his salary": and see The Municipal Act, 1913, (R. S. O. c. 192). s. 245 (5); and Ponton v. Winnipeg, 41 S. C. R. 366.

Rules 662-664.

As to costs taxable to suitors appearing in person: see note to Jud. Act, s. 74, supra p. 245.

The Master or a Taxing Officer is not justified, without a direction from the Court, in striking a balance between cross claims for costs payable in the action: Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318, except where Rule 665 applies.

One day's notice of taxation sufficient.

662. Where a notice of taxation is necessary, one day's notice shall be sufficient if served with a copy of the bill of costs and affidavit of disbursements. C.R. 1159.

Where a party proceeds with a taxation without giving notice, the taxation is not void, and an execution issued for the costs will not be set aside, but the opposite party is only entitled to a re-taxation: Cranston v. Blair, 15 P. R. 167.

Where the solicitor for the party ordered to pay costs attends the taxation thereof, service of the certificate of the Taxing Officer of the amount allowed before issuing execution, is not necessary, though usual: People's B. & L. Assn. v. Stanley, 4 O. L. R. 644.

Parties to attend taxation.

663. The Taxing Officer may direct what parties are to attend before him on the taxation of costs to be borne by a fund or estate, and disallow the costs of any person whose attendance he considers unnecessary in consequence of the interest of the party in the fund or estate being small or remote, or sufficiently protected by other parties interested. C.R. 1161.

See Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (27).

Neglect to bring in or tax costs.

664. Where any party entitled to costs refuses or neglects to bring in his bill of costs for taxation, or to procure the same to be taxed, and thereby prejudices any other party, the Taxing Officer shall certify the costs of the other parties, and certify such refusal or neglect, or may allow such party refusing or neglecting a nominal or other sum for such costs, so as to prevent any other party being prejudiced by such refusal or neglect. C.R. 1163.

See Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (28).

665. Where a party entitled to receive costs is liable to pay costs to any other party, the Taxing Officer may adjust the same by way of deduction or set off. C.R. 1164. Amended.

Rule 665. Set-off of costs.

See Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (21).

Under this Rule a discretion is allowed as to whether or not there shall he a set-off of costs in the same action or proceeding, where costs are awarded to, and against, the parties. Equitable considerations are allowed to enter into the disposal of the contention and there is no strict right in the matter: McCarthy v. Cooper, 12 P. R. 125 (where a set-off was refused); Re Clarke, 15 P. R. 269; 16 P. R. 94.

This Rule does not enable the Taxing Officer to set-off costs payable in different actions between the same parties, but only costs incurred in the same action or proceeding: Bake v. French, 1907, 1 Ch. 428; 96 L. T. 496; David v. Rees, 1904, 2 K. B. 435; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609; Hassell v. Stanley, 1896. 1 Ch. 607, (where a set-off of costs in the High Court against costs in a County Court was refused); Girardot v. Welton, 19 P. R. 201; Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922. Interpleader proceedings (Barker v. Hemming, supra), and garnishee proceedings, (David v. Rees, supra), are separate and distinct proceedings from the original action in which they arise. Nor does the Rule extend to judgments on a claim, and counter-claim, where the latter is in the nature of a cross-action, so as to he treated as a distinct judgment: Link v. Bush, 13 P. R. 425. It applies to enable costs receivable out of a fund by a party to be set-off against costs payable by that party personally in the suit: Batten v. Wedgwood Coal & Iron Co., 28 Ch. D. 317; and to enable costs payable by a married woman out of her separate estate to he set off against costs payable to her in the same proceedings: Hammond v. Keachie, 17 P. R. 565; Pelton v. Harrison, 1892, 1 Q. B. 118; 65 L. T. 845.

Where judgment is given for the plaintiff on his claim with costs, and for the defendant on his counter-claim with costs, and directing the amounts to be set off, the plaintiff's costs should be taxed as though he had wholly succeeded in the action, and the defendant's costs should be taxed as though he had wholly succeeded in the action: Summerfeldt v. Johnston, 17 P. R. 6.

This Rule, however, does not appear to authorize the Master, or Taxing Officer, to adjust the balance due on cross-claims for costs; where one of the cross claims is in the nature of a claim for contribution for costs paid by a defendant, which the plaintiff was also jointly liable to pay, but of which he has neglected to pay his share: Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318.

A set-off of costs awarded but untaxed was refused, but an opportunity was given to have them taxed, and payment of the costs due to the other party was delayed to enable a set-off to be made: Re Crawshay, 45 Ch. D. 318; see also Re Clarke & Holmes, 16 P. R. 94.

The Taxing Officer should not close the taxation of the costs of the action where interlocutory costs are to he set off, unless the party entitled to them unduly delays bringing in his bill: Cousineau v. Park, 15 P. R. 37.

A change of solicitor is immaterial if the costs are in the same proceeding: Roberts v. Buée, 8 Ch. D. 198.

Rule 666.

The set-off which is authorized by this Rule may be made irrespective of the lien of the solicitor of either party: see Wright v. Calvert, 34 C. L. J. 355; 18 C. L. T. 218. But the ultimate balance found due by one of the partners in a partnership action cannot be set off against costs previously ordered to be paid to him in the action, to the prejudice of his solicitor's lien: Dawson v. Moffatt, 10 P. R. 336; nor can the costs payable to a beneficiary out of an estate be set off against the costs payable by him to other parties, to the prejudice of his solicitor's lien: Wright v. Bell, 16 P. R. 335; 24 S. C. R. 656; and see Hieron v. Hobson, 47 L. J. Chy. 574; see, however, Brigham v. Smith, 17 Gr. 512; but in this case no question of lien appears to have been raised. In the case of costs not within this Rule, by reason of their not being in the same action or proceeding, the solicitor's lien may prevent a set-off: see notes to Rule 666.

In the following cases a set-off of costs in the same action was allowed without regard to the solicitor's lien: Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 676; 40 L. T. 512; Cameron v. Campbell, 12 U. C. Q. B. 159; 1 P. R. 170; Young v. Hobson, 8 P. R. 253; Maxwell v. Maxwell, 7 P. R. 63; Rawlings v. Smith, 7 Sc. 231; and see Blumenstiel v. Edwards, 11 O. L. R. 30.

Interlocutory costs incurred before judgment may be set-off by the Taxing Officer, without any order: Rule 666; but if incurred after judgment an order is necessary: Elgie v. Butt, 18 P. R. 469.

Where a set-off of interlocutory costs is ordered, the set-off should be made before execution is issued, and the execution should be issued only for the balance: People's P. & L. Assn. v. Stanley, 4 O. L. R. 644.

Where the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council orders a new trial and directs the respondent to pay the costs of the appeal forthwith, such costs are not the subject of set-off, and execution therefor cannot be stayed by the Court below to enable a set-off to be made: Metallic Roofing Co. v. Jose, 17 O. L. R. 237.

Set-off of damages and costs not to prejudice solicitor's lien.

666. A set off of damages or costs between parties shall not be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien for costs in the particular action in which the set-off is sought; but interlocutory costs in the same action awarded to the adverse party may be set off notwithstanding any lien. C.R. 1165.

This Rule adopts the former Equity rule, as to which: see Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 76.

See Eng. (1883) R. 989, which is as follows:—

"989. A set-off for damages or costs between parties may be allowed notwithstanding the solicitor's lien for costs in the particular cause or matter in which the set-off is sought."

The concluding clause in this Rule appears to be already covered by the provision of Rule 665. As to what are "interlocutory costs:" see Clarke v. Creighton, 14 P. R. 100; Re Clarke, 15 P. R. 269; 16 P. R. 94; Flett v. Way, 14 P. R. at p. 316; Elgie v. Butt, 18 P. R. 469; Girardot v. Welton, 19 P. R. 162, 201.

This Rule does not interfere with the power of the Judge at the trial when disposing of the costs of an action and counter-claim therein, to direct a set-off without regard to any claim of lien on the part of the solicitors: Blumenstiel v. Edwards, 11 O. L. R. 30.

The Common Law Rule 52, from which this Rule is taken, was in similar terms to the English Rule 63 H. T. 1853. The words "damages and costs" in this Rule apply to damages and costs payable in separate actions; and it is only where a set-off of damages and costs in separate actions is sought that the lien of the solicitor is to be protected: George v. Elston, 1 Sc. 518; Dunn v. West, 10 C. B. 420; Scott v. Richebourg, 11 C. B. 447; Blumenstiel v. Edwards, supra, p. 1332: sed vide contra Conadion Pacific Ry. v. Grant, infra. Rule 666.

Under this Rule a set-off of damages and costs between the same parties in different actions cannot be ordered to the prejudice of the lien of the solicitor of either of the parties: Turner v. Drew, 17 P. R. 475; see further as to the application of the Rule: Little v. Philpotts, 8 Jur. N. S. 1175; Young v. Hobson, 8 P. R. 253; Re Harrald, Wilde v. Walford, 48 L. T. 352; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers' Association, 7 P. R. 255; Molsons Bank v. Cooper, 18 P. R. 396; David v. Rees, 1904, 2 K. B. 435; Meynell v. Morris, 104 L. T. 667; 55 Sol. Jour. 480.

On the application of defendants who had employed the same solicitor, a set-off has been allowed of costs due by the plaintiff to one of the defendants as to whom he had failed, against damages and costs due to the plaintiff by the other defendants as to whom he had succeeded, without regard to the plaintiff's solicitor's lien: Rawlings v. Sewell, 7 Sc. 231; George v. Elston, 1 Sc. 518; Fortune v. Hickson, 1 U. C. Q. B. 408; Scoville v. Noble, 1 H. Bl. 23; Bank of Upper Canada v. Thomas, 10 Gr. 356; Wright v. Chard, 1 L. T. 182; 4 Drew 702; but see Wilson v. Switzer, 1 Chy. Ch. 160; and this, even though the defendants appeared by different solicitors: Lees v. Kendall, 3 A. & E. 707; 5 N. & M. 340; in Flett v. Way, 14 P. R. 312, a set-off in such circumstances, to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien, was refused.

Claims for contribution cannot be allowed by the Master, or Taxing Officer, by way of set-off: see Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318; the application must be made to a Judge: Ib.

The lien of the solicitor only holds as against the opposite party, to the extent of the costs between solicitor and client of the cause only, he cannot claim a general lien for all costs due him: Stephens v. Weston, 3 B. & C. 535; Watson v. Moskell, 1 Bing. N. C. 727.

In Jenner v. Morris, 11 W. R. 943, the lien of the solicitor was declared to be always subject to the equities between the parties; and see Mercer v. Graves, L. R. 7 Q. B. 499; but this view has not always been maintained by the Courts: see Re Cleland, L. R. 2 Chy. 808; Wright v. Bell, supra, p. 1332.

To the ordinary rule that a set-off of dsmages and costs in separate actions, will not be allowed to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien, costs payable to a trustee out of the trust estate form an exception; snd when costs are ordered to be paid out of trust fund, the lien of the solicitor of the person entitled to receive the costs will not be allowed to interfere with the set-off, against the costs so payable, of any moneys payable by the client to the trust estate, though the latter may be payable under a judgment recovered in a separate action: Re Harrold, Wilde v. Walford, 51 L. T. 441.

Set-of of claim and counter-claim.

For the purposes of this Rule, the weight of authority would seem to establish that a claim and counterclaim are to be treated as one action: Blumenstiel v. Edwards, 11 O. L. R. 30. In Brown v. Nelson, 11 P. R. 121, where the claim and counter-claim arose out of the same transaction, the set-off was allowed without providing for the solicitor's lien: see also Westacott v. Bevan, 1891, 1 Q. B. 774: but in Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. v. Grant, 11 P. R. 208, the claim and counter-claim, though arising out of the same transaction, were held to be separate actions, and a set-off, to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien, was refused. In Flett v. Woy, 29 C. L. J. 192, a set-off of damages was allowed; but not a set-off of costs: S. C., 14 P. R. 312; and see Westacott v. Bevan, 1891, 1 Q. B. 774.

Solicitor's lien.

In the following cases a set-off of costs payable in separate actions to the prejudice of the solicitor's lien was refused: Webb v. McArthur, 4 Chy. Ch. 63; Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922; 53 L. T. 69; Cuthbert v. Commercial Travellers' Assocn., 7 P. R. 255; and see Ross v. McLay, 7 P. R. 97; Wardell v. Trenouth, 8 P. R. 142; Barker v. Hemming, 5 Q. B. D. 609; Blakey v. Latham, 41 Ch. D. 518.

The solicitor's lien attaches to money payable to the plaintiff by way of compromise where such money is in substance the fruit of the action, and if a solicitor having notice of the lien procures the money to be paid to the plaintiff, he becomes personally liable to satisfy the lien: Ross v. Buxton, 42 Ch. D. 190; 60 L. T. 630.

The possibility of a solicitor being able to recover his costs out of some other fund was held not to be a sufficient ground for allowing a set-off to the prejudice of his lien: Molsons Bank v. Cooper, 18 P. R. 396.

A set-off of judgments was allowed, notwithstanding an assignment of one of the judgments for the benefit of creditors: Moody v. Can. Bank of Commerce, 14 P. R. 258, and see The Assignments and Preferences Act (R. S. O. c. 134), s. 31.

Costs due by a party individually cannot be ordered to be set-off against a fund due to him in a fiduciary character, or even against his beneficial interest therein: Phillips v. Howell, 1901, 2 Ch. 773.

Taxations between party and party.

Costs of unnecessary proceedings not to be allowed.

667. Between party and party the Taxing Officer shall not allow the costs of proceedings:

(a) Unneeessarily taken;

(b) Not calculated to advance the interests of the party on whose behalf the same were taken;

(c) Incurred through over-caution, negligence or mistake; or (d) Which do not appear to have been necessary or proper for the attainment of justice or defending the rights of the party. C.R. 1175 and 1176.

This Rule is based on C. RR. 1175 and 1176 (1). C. R. 1176 (2) is now covered by Rule 668.

See Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (29): see notes to Rules 656, 670.

As to the general rule that the costs taxable between party and party are only those necessary to enable the party to conduct the litigation: see Smith v. Buller, L. R. 19 Eq. 473.

Where, under an order directing an account of what was due to a party in respect of costs of proceedings taken to enforce a judgment in the Exchequer Division, the Taxing Master disallowed the costs of certain abortive garnishee summonses, it was held that the Master was not precluded by the form of order from disallowing any costs he thought proper, and that, under this Rule, he was bound to do so: Simmons v. Storer, 14 Ch. D. 154. Rule 667.

Charges not strictly under the tariff of costs, but for work done which saves the greater expense of proceeding in the regular way, may be allowed whether done between the solicitors, or by one party alone: Torrance v. Torrance, 18 C. L. J. 223; 2 C. L. T. 311; 9 P. R. 271.

Copies of pleadings, where necessary for an interlocutory motion, will be allowed: Warner v. Mosses, W. N. 1881, 135; 45 L. T. 359; 17 C. L. J. 479; 17 Ch. D. 72.

Where an action is dismissed with costs it means the costs of all defendants, and in all capacities in which they are defendants: Woolley v. Coleman, W. N. 1886, 6, 36; 30 L. T. Jour. 320.

Where an action is brought against a solicitor who defends it in person, and obtains judgment, he is entitled upon taxation to the same costs as if he had employed a solicitor except in respect of items which the fact of his acting directly renders unnecessary: London Scottish Benefit Society v. Chorley, 12 Q. B. D. 452. Where he nominally appeared by a solicitor, but did the work himself, the same costs were held to be taxable: King v. Moyer, 9 P. R. 514; see Banks v. Burroughs, 12 S. C. R. 184. Solicitor suitor acting in person.

Costs incurred after the death of the client were disallowed, though the solicitor was not aware of the death: Pool v. Pool, 61 L. T. 401. Death of client.

As to when defendants should appear by the same solicitor, or may appear by separate solicitors: see Morgan & Wurtzburg on Costs, p. 124; Barrett v. Campbell, 7 P. R. 150; Connolly v. Hill, Ib., 441; Born v. Turner, 1900, 2 Ch. 211, and notes to Rule 669. Severing in defence.

In Re Lyall, 29 Sol. Jour. 290, trustees, viz., the widow of the testator, who was also tenant for life, and three others, were allowed two sets of costs, they having severed, on the ground that the rule was that a trustee, who is also a tenant for life, might appear separately from his co-trustees.

Defendants joining in a statement of defence may sometimes properly separate at the trial, and be represented by different counsel, where their cases are distinct: see Ager v. Blocklock, 56 L. T. 890; see also Petrie v. Guelph, etc., 10 P. R. 600.

A defendant in person may be made an allowance for his time and trouble in arguing the case: Millar v. Macdonald, 14 P. R. 499.

Where by an order allowing the plaintiff to make an amendment the costs were made costs in the cause, it was held that the Taxing Officer had no discretion under this Rule to disallow these costs in taxing the plaintiff's costs of the cause: Edwards v. Pearson, 20 C. L. J. 93; 3 C. L. T. 504. Taxing officer cannot alter disposition of interlocutory costs.

But a clause in an order for a commission directing that costs of the order, commission and depositions to be taken thereunder, should be costs in the cause, was held not to preclude the Taxing Officer from disallowing the costs where the evidence had not been used: Dominion, etc., v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177; see Deloroque v. Oxenholme & Co., W. N. 1893, 227; Re McMillan, 8 C. L. J. 285.

Rule 687.

Immaterial witnesses

In Christopher v. Noxon, 10 P. R. 149, a trial was postponed owing to defendant not having obeyed an order to produce, defendant to pay the costs rendered nugatory by the postponement. The plaintiff subpœnaed seventeen witnesses, who were examined at the adjourned trial upon matters which the Judge held could not be interfered with by the Court. It was held that the Taxing Officer in refusing the plaintiff the costs of these witnesses did not erroneously exercise the discretion given him by this Rule.

See also Goodfellow v. Shuttleworth, 3 C. L. T. 105; Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574; Carlisle v. Roblin, 16 P. R. 328.

Costs "as between solicitor and client."

Where solicitor and client costs are to be paid between party and party, the proper form of order is to direct the costs to be taxed "as between solicitor and client," but in such a case where the costs are ordered to be taxed "between solicitor and client" no greater costs can be taxed; Heaslip v. Heaslip, 14 P. R. 165. A retaining fee agreed to be paid by a party cannot be allowed on a taxation "as between solicitor and client": McKee v. Hamlin, 16 P. R. 207. As to retainer between solicitor and client: see infra, p. 1412.

Unnecessary proceedings.

The costs of unnecessary affidavits, going into the merits, filed on a motion for leave to appeal from a Master's report: Nash v. Glover, 6 P. R. 267; and on a motion to vacate a decree: Redford v. Todd, 6 P. R. 154, and on production of documents: Baldwin v. Quinn, 16 P. R. 248, were disallowed. Costs rendered unnecessary by a slip of the solicitor cannot be recovered, even by the solicitor from his client: Re Massey, 76 L. T. Jour. 361; and see Re Allenby & Weir, infra, and Baldwin v. Quinn, infra, p. 1237.

Costs of unnecessary proceedings by writ for administration, instead of proceeding by motion, are not taxable, even between solicitor and client: Re Allenby & Weir, 14 P. R. 235. Where a solicitor is consulted it is an important part of his duty to advise the adoption of a comparatively cheap remedy, in preference to one far more costly, and not more efficacious: Ib., per Hagarty, C.J.O.

Costs occasioned by unnecessarily adding a number of sub-tenants as parties defendant, in an action by a landlord to recover possession, were disallowed: Green v. Herring, 1905, 1 K. B. 152; 92 L. T. 37.

Costs out of estate.

The Court does not allow out of an estate costs of proceedings which were of no benefit to it. See notes to Rule 608, supra, p. 1243, and Re Ormston, 58 L. T. 74; 59 L. T. 594; 36 W. R. 216; Re Allenby & Weir 14 P. R. 227.

The amount allowed between solicitor and client is not conclusive as to the amount to be allowed out of an estate: Brown v. Burdett, 37 Ch. D. 207; 40 Ch. D. 214.

Costs taxable between solicitor and client not necessarily taxable against estate.

Notwithstanding this Rule, charges and allowances, which might very properly be allowed on a taxation between solicitor and client, when the costs come out of the plaintiff's fund, or one in which he is interested, may nevertheless be disallowed out of a fund in which he has no interest: Re Robertson, R. v. R., infra, p. 1337; Ford v. Mason, 16 P. R. 25.

Where, in an administration suit, the plaintiffs, who were next of kin, had incurred the expense of several journeys to examine the books of the estate, and make inquiries, etc.; and also of other proceedings in the Master's office, without the consent of the creditors, who were alone beneficially interested, and after they knew that the estate was insolvent, such costs were disallowed: Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555. Rule 667.

An objection that a person examined for discovery was not liable to be so examined, is not open on taxation: Logan v. Kirk, 14 P. R. 130.

The costs of preparing and tendering a conveyance before suit are not taxable as costs in a cause subsequently brought: Pringle v. McDonald, 7 P. R. 152. Costs ante litem.

Costs incurred in anticipation of a threatened suit were, however, allowed, e.g., where a defendant was threatened with an action in respect to fraud disclosed in another action in which he was not a party, and therefore obtained a transcript of the speeches, evidence and judgment in the latter case, he was allowed on taxation so much of the transcript of the evidence and judgment as related to the question whether the defendant was a party or privy to the fraud: Bright v. Sellar, 1904, 1 Ch. 369; 90 L. T. 155.

In some cases it may be necessary to have a direction in the judgment, in regard to costs incurred in consequence of an unreasonable course pursued by the other party, to enable the Taxing Officer to allow such costs: Garrard v. Edge, 44 Ch. D. 224; 62 L. T. 510. Where unreasonable course taken

The mere non-communication by a solicitor to his client of an offer of settlement does not prove that proceedings after the offer were unnecessary, so that the costs of them should be disallowed under this Rule, unless the offer was an advantageous one, the acceptance of which the solicitor ought to have advised, and it can be fairly inferred that he did not do so merely to put further costs into his pocket, without regard to the interest of his client: Re O'Donohoe, 12 P. R. 612.

Actions by two plaintiffs by the same solicitor against the same defendants, though supported mainly by the same evidence, are upon taxation of plaintiffs' costs to be taxed as two actions (in the absence of special order as to the conduct of the actions), except as regards attendances, or other matters, which were, or ought to have been, done at the same time in both cases: Re Metropolitan Coal Consumers' Assoc., Grieb's Case, 45 Ch. D. 606; Baldwin v. Quinn, 16 P. R. 248; but it was subsequently held that the Taxing Officer has no discretion, except as provided in the tariff, to reduce the fees allowed by the tariff for specific service; and therefore, where several actions are pending against the same defendant, and appearances are entered in all of them at the same time, the Taxing Officer cannot properly reduce the fee allowed for such services: Price v. Clinton, 1906, 21 Ch. 487; 95 L. T. 710; and see Rule 676. Several similar actions. Discretion of Taxing Officer.

With regard to the Taxing Officer's discretion as to the allowance of witness fees of witnesses called as to the same question: see Latour v. Smith, in note to Rule 670, infra, p. 1340.

Costs of Ex parte Motions.—Orders made ex parte are not to contain any direction as to costs: Rule 658, the intention apparently being that the Taxing Officer shall have full discretion as to the costs of such motions: but if such an order in violation of Rule 658, contains a direction as to costs, it is doubtful whether the Taxing Officer would be justified in disregarding it. Where costs of ex parte motions are Costs of ex parte motions.

Rules 668, 669.

taxed as costs in the cause or matter, they would be recoverable under the order or judgment awarding the costs of the action; but there might be difficulty in issuing an execution for costs of an ex parte order for which there was no order for payment; even though the Taxing Officer should allow them: see note to Rule 658, supra, p. 1337.

Between solicitor and client, costs incurred at client's request after notice that proceeding unnecessary may be allowed.

668. Upon a taxation between a solicitor and his client, the Taxing Officer may allow the costs of proceedings taken which were in fact unnecessary where he is of the opinion that such proceedings were taken by the solicitor because, in his judgment, reasonably exercised, they were conducive to the interests of his client, and may allow the costs of proceedings which were not calculated to advance the interest of the client where the same were taken by the desire of the client after being informed by his solicitor that they were unnecessary and not calculated to advance his interests. This rule shall not apply to solicitor and client costs payable out of a fund not wholly belonging to the client, or, by a third party. C.R. 1176. Amended.

This Rule is based on C. R. 1176 (2) and C. R. 1176 (1) is covered by Rule 667.

See notes to Rule 667.

Defendants improperly severing are to be allowed but one set of costs without special order.

669. Where two or more defendants defend by different solicitors under circumstances entitling them to but one set of costs, the Taxing Officer shall allow but one set of costs; and if two or more defendants defending by the same solicitor separate unnecessarily in their defences, or otherwise, the Taxing Officer shall allow but one defence and set of costs. C.R. 1162.

As to the circumstances entitling defendants to sever in their defence: see Melbourne v. Toronto, 13 P. R. 346.

Where defendants are charged with matters of a criminal nature involving serious charges to their characters, each defendant is justified in defending by a solicitor of his own choosing: Devaney v. The World, 2 O. W. N. 880 (a charge of libel and conspiracy).

Where an action is tried against two or more defendants, and the judgment is against all defendants, a defendant who has put in a separate defence is alone liable for the costs occasioned by it: the other defendants are not liable for those costs: Stumm v. Dixon, 22 Q. B. D. 99, 529.

As to the right to contribution amongst co-defendants made jointly liable for plaintiff's costs: see Fouchier v. St. Louis, 13 P. R. 318 (fraudulent conveyance); and Till v. Oakville, 31 O. L. R. 405 (joint negligence).

Rule 889.

Where two or more defendants defend by the same solicitor, and the action is dismissed as to one with costs, and succeeds as to others, the plaintiff is liable to pay such proportion of the costs of the joint defence as the successful defendants are liable for; this, in the absence of any special agreement would be an equal share: Beaumont v. Senior, 1903, 1 K. B. 282; 88 L. T. 234.

Rule as to defendants joining in defence, to whom it applies.

The rule which requires defendants in the same interest to join in their defence, appears only to apply to defendants standing in a fiduciary position, either as trustees: Farr v. Sheriffe, 4 Hare, 528; or cestuis que trustent: Peillon v. Brooking, 4 L. T. 731; Martin v. Sampson, 33 C. L. J. 200; Sm. Pr., 837-8; but see Crawford v. Lundy, 23 Gr. 251. Thus in a suit for specific performance by a vendee against the vendor, and a subsequent vendee of the same property, it was held that the defendants might properly sever in their defence, and employ separate solicitors: Barrett v. Compbell, 7 P. R. 150. But when husband and wife severed in a partition suit, the costs were ordered to be borne by the wife's share: Mildmoy v. Quicke, 46 L. J. Chy. 867. Members of a firm which had been dissolved were held entitled to sever in their defence: see Melbourne v. Toronto, supra. So also in an action by a municipality against a contractor and one of his sureties, and the representatives of a deceased surety, the defendants were held to be entitled to sever: Logan v. Kirk, 14 P. R. 130.

One defendant improperly severing.

Where one of several defendants is charged with fraud, the others are justified in severing, even though they stand in a fiduciary position: see Connolly v. Hill, 7 P. R. 441.

A trustee who is also a tenant for life of the trust estate, is entitled to sever from his co-trustees: see Re Lyall, supra, p. 1335.

Where defendants have severed under circumstances which, if the severance were improper, would disentitle one of them to costs in toto, the Master cannot act under this Rule, if the judgment award the defendants costs generally. The Rule applies only where all the defendants are to blame for the severance, and one set of costs is consequently apportionable between them: Reid v. Stephens, 3 Chy. Ch. 372.

Discretion of Taxing Officer.

The Taxing Officer has a discretion to allow to defendants who appear separately separate sets of costs, except in the cases referred to in this Rules see Boswell v. Coaks, infra; and also to disallow more than one set of costs where separate defences have been improperly made: Meriden v. Broden, 16 P. R. 346, 410; 17 P. R. 77; and see Re Isaac, 1897, 1 Ch. 251; 75 L. T. 638.

For the cases in which it is improper for defendants to sever: see Morgan & Wurtzburg on Costs, p. 124.

Appeal

On appeal from a Taxing Officer as to whether defendants were entitled to separate costs, where it was not shewn that he had not exercised his discretion at all, or that he had done so on a wrong principle, it was held that as the House of Lords had in that case delegated to the Taxing Officer the decision of how many sets of costs should be allowed, an appeal from his decision could not be entertained: Boswell v. Coaks, 36 Ch. D. 444. But it has been held that the discretion of the Taxing Officer under a similar English Rule (Ord. 65, r. 27 (8).), is subject to review by the Court: Spolding v. Gommoge, 1914, 2 Ch. 405.

Rule 670.

As to the mode of taxation where two or more defendants defend by the same solicitor, one of whom succeeds, and the other f see Clark v. Virgo, 17 P. R. 260; and see Beaumont v. Senior, s p. 1339.

Where one of several defendants is ordered to pay the plain costs of the action, in the absence of any express direction to the trary, the Taxing Officer should allow the plaintiff the costs incu against other defendants as to whom the action failed: Kell Directories v. Gavin, 1901, 2 Ch. 763.

Where a plaintiff succeeds on some issues, and a defeadant others, and the costs are to be taxed to the successful party in s issues: see Lockard v. Waugh, 17 P. R. 269; Brown v. Houston, 1 2 K. B. 855.

Independently of this Rule the Court may allow only one set costs to several parties appearing by separate counsel: Harbin Masterman, 1896, 1 Ch. 351.

Disallowance of costs of unnecessary proceedings.

670. It shall be the duty of the Taxing Officer, witho any direction, to disallow in whole or in part the costs any writ, pleading, petition, affidavit, evidence, accoun statement, or other proceeding, which is improper, u necessary or contains unnecessary matter, or is of u neeessary length. Affidavits and evidence may be dis allowed, although the same may be entered as read in an judgmen. or order. C.R. 1154. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (20).

C. R. 1154 enabled the Court or a Judge to direct that the costs o unnecessary proceedings should be disallowed. This Rule empowers the Taxing Officer without any direction to disallow the costs of un necessary or improper proceedings. But the Rule probably does not preclude the Court or a Judge from making such direction: see Brown v. Burdett, 37 Ch. D. 207.

Duty of Taxing Officer.

The Master must inquire on taxation into the propriety of proceedings in an action, though not specially directed to do so; and he can not refuse to do so where an order is made to stay proceedings on payment of costs: Baines v. Wormsley, 47 L. J. Chy. 844; 39 L. T. 85. Costs of affidavits in opposition to a motion were not allowed where the motion was dismissed on a preliminary objection: Whitewood v. Whitewood, 19 P. R. 183.

Apportionment of costs.

Where costs are given as to one cause of action, and not as to another, the Taxing Officer is to apportion the costs; see Vanzant v. Markham, 15 P. R. 412.

Witnesses.

The number of witnesses to prove a point is a matter in the discretion of the Taxing Officer; and so as to witnesses called to establish something on which the party calling them fails: Latour v. Smith, 13 P. R. 214; and see notes to Rule 672 infra.

In an administration action, where the defendsnt had not admitted the plaintiff's right to an account, and had set up a release, and had not objected that the plaintiff should have proceeded under Rule 608, although the plaintiff was disallowed the extra costs so occasioned, yet the defendsnt was held not entitled to he allowed his extra costs as against the plaintiff: Moon v. Caldwell, 15 P. R. 159. Rule 671.

The case stated for the purpose of an sppeal should only contain so much of the proceedings as is necessary to raise the questions involved in the appeal: see Parsons v. Standard Insurance Co., 4 Ont. App. at p. 330, per Burton, J. A.

An order for n commission in the common form: that the costs are to he costs in the cause, does not preclude the Taxing Officer from disallowing the costs on the ground that tbe evidence has not heen used: Dominion, etc., v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177; hut the non-user of the evidence is not necessarily a ground for dissliowing the costs of it: Rondot v. Monetary Times, 18 P. R. 141; snd see Bartlett v. Higgins, 1901, 2 K. B. 230; 84 L. T. 509.

A defendant's costs of affidavits in answer to a motion for an injunction, prepared pending a stay of proceedings, until the plaintiff should give security for costs, were allowed on the dismissal of the action for not giving security: Whiteley Exerciser v. Gamage, 1898, 2 Ch. 405; 79 L. T. 20.

Where the costs of a Sheriff in an interpleader matter had heen ordered to he paid hy the claimant, and the cisimant nppealed, contending that the execution creditor should pay them, and both were ahle to pay, the Sheriff was not allowed costs of appearing on the sppenl: Ex p. Webster, Re Morris, 22 Ch. D. 136.

In O'Brien v. Bull, 19 C. L. J. 211, a Sheriff unnecessarily served with notice of motion for final order in an interpleader matter was sllowed costs of appearing: see also Robertson v. Grant, 3 Chy. Ch. 331.

Costs of a person appearing to ohject thst there is no jurisdiction: Great Northern v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284, or quia timet that hy mistake sn order msy he made against him: Lucas v. Fraser, 9 P. R. 319, will be given; hut not of a person not interested, nnd appearing merely to ask costs: Campbell v. Holyland, 7 Ch. D. 175; Re Arden, 33 W. R. 460; Waller v. Claris, 11 P. R. 130.

The Court cannot prevent the appearance of persons entitled to appear, hut may eometimes protect sn estate hy nilowing only one set of costs to several parties: Lees v. Stanley, 28 Sol. Jour. 415. In Re English's Settlement, 60 L. T. 44, the costs of a trustee were allowed, he heing properly served.

A solicitor wss hy direction of the Court called on to shew cause why he should not he personally ordered to pay the costs of sn appesl prosecuted by him for an ulterior ohject, and not for the benefit of his client the appellant; and an order was made directing him to indemnify his client against the costs: Harbin v. Masterman, 1896, 1 Ch. 351.

671. When anything in the course of an action or reference which ought to have been admitted, has not been admitted, the party who neglected or refused to make the admission may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by his neglect or refusal. C.R. 1149. Costs of not admitting.

See Eng. (1883) R. 242.

Rule 672.

A Master, or other judicial officer has jurisdiction to make th order as regards proceedings pending before him: see Jud. Act s. 7 (4).

Rule 142 requires each party to admit such of the material alleg tions in the pleading of the opposite party as are true.

As to admissions at the trial: see supra, p. 735.

Affidavit of disbursements to be made by solicitor, or his clerk having management of cause, or the client.

672.--(1) An affidavit of disbursements shall be mad by the solicitor in the cause or matter or some clerk having the management thereof, or by the client, setting forth the sums paid to counsel, the names of witnesses their places of abode, the places at which they were sub pœnaed, and the distance which each such witness was necessarily obliged to travel in order to attend the trial and the sums paid to them, and shall state that all such witnesses were necessary and material for the client in the cause, or matter, that they did attend, and that they did not attend as witnesses in any other cause (or otherwise, as the case may be) and the number of days which each witness was necessarily absent from home in order to attend such trial.

(2) If a solicitor attends as a witness it shall be stated whether or not he attended at the place of trial as solicitor or witness in any other cause, and whether or not he had any other business there. The day on which the trial took place shall be stated. C.R. 1173.

(3) The necessity for maps and plans used at the trial, the sum paid for them, and that they were prepared or procured with a view to the trial of the cause, shall be shewn by the affidavit of disbursements. C.R. 1174.

Costs of witness rejected not allowed.

Witness fees for attendance, how allowed.

Where a witness is rejected at Nisi Prius, and the ruling of the Judge is acquiesced in by the parties, and upheld by the Court, the expenses of his attendance are not allowed on taxation as between party and party: Galloway v. Keyworth, 15 C. B. 228. So, where a witness is rejected by an arbitrator, whether upon a sufficient, or an insufficient ground: Ib. And where witnesses were subpœnaed by the plaintiff to attend at a trial which was postponed in consequence of the defendant's default, and the defendant was ordered to pay the costs of the day, and at a subsequent trial the witnesses in question were examined and their evidence proved to be immaterial, the costs of their attendance at the abortive trial were disallowed as against the defendant: Christopher v. Noxon, 10 P. R. 149. The costs of a commission to take evidence abroad, when the evidence so taken is not actually used at the trial, may be disallowed: Dominion, etc. v. Stinson, 9 P. R. 177; but the fact of its not being used, is not alone a sufficient ground for disallowing the costs: Rondot v. Monetary Times, 18 P. R. 141; Bortlett v. Higgins, 1901, 2 K. B. 230, 84 L. T. 509. Thus, where a defendant in a libel action gave notice under Rule 158, of his intention to give evidence in mitigation of damages, but at the trial the evidence was rejected, the plaintiff was, nevertheless, allowed costs of his witnesses subpœnaed to give evidence in reply, though they were not called: Ludlow v. Irwin, 12 O. L. R. 48. Rule 672.

When a cause at the Assizes is over at three o'clock in the afternoon, witnesses may reasonably be allowed the following day for their return home, though their place of residence be distant only about fifty miles, and accessible by trains on the same evening: Fryer v. Sturt, 16 C. B. 218. It is not a general rule that parties, if witnesses, are to have an allowance for their attendance: Dowdell v. Australian Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company, 3 El. & Bl. 902.

Witness fees may be paid by setting off, with the consent of the witness, the sum payable against a sum due to the party subpœnaing the witness, and an affidavit of disbursements describing such a transaction as a payment of the witness fees was held to be true: Re Solicitor, 9 C. L. T. 35.

Witness fees actually paid are taxable though the witness may have travelled by rail on a free pass: Kerr v. Canadian Construction Co., 5 O. W. R. 168.

Witnesses are not, in general, allowed for attendance before the day appointed for the opening of the Court: see Harvey v. Divers, 16 C. B. 497. But when a material witness is going abroad, but is detained on subpœna, his subsistence for the whole time he is detained may be allowed: Potter v. Rankin, L. R. 5 C. P. 518; and the necessary expenses of procuring the attendance of a witness residing out of the jurisdiction may be allowed: Boll v. Crompton Corset Co., 11 P. R. 256.

Under the English Rule 1002 (9), which authorizes the allowance of such just and reasonable charges and expenses as appear to have been properly incurred in procuring evidence, the expense of surveys by surveyors to qualify themselves to give evidence was allowed: Mackley v. Chillingworth, 2 C. P. D. 273; and see In re Laffitte, L. R. 20 Eq. 650; but there is no corresponding provision in Ontario. In McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555, it was held that surveys and plans made to enable witnesses to give evidence, are not taxable between party and party; and costs of a preliminary examination of accounts by an accountant to qualify himself to give evidence were disallowed between party and party: Nolan v. Coleman, L. R. 8 Q. B. 84. Surveys, plans, etc.

The costs of plans, models, etc., useful to aid the Court and jury in coming to the right conclusion may be allowed: Pilgrim v. Southampton & Dorchester C. W. Co., 8 C. B. 25; Batley v. Kynoch, L. R. 20 Eq. 632; McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555. But the necessity, therefor, and that they were prepared for the trial must be shown in the affidavit of disbursements.

The costs of sending a special commissioner abroad to take evidence in a case of a complicated and important character were allowed: Ysiesias v. Royal Exchange Assurance Corporation, L. R. 5. C. P. 141. Costs of special commissioner.

A counsel fee to counsel in British Columbia for attending at an examination of witnesses was held to be taxable between party and party: Logan v. Kirk, 14 P. R. 130.

Rules 673, 674.

Taxing Officer may inquire into truth of affidavits.

The Taxing Officer may exnmine into the truth of affidavits of crense: Boulton v. Switzer, 1 C. L. Cham. 83. The omission of Christian name of n witness in the affidnvit is immaterial: Han Lasher, 24 U. C. Q. B. 357. All witnesses should be paid be taxation. and only the sums actually paid aro taxable. Ib.; and a witness fees allowed to a suitor: see Harbin v. Gordon, 1914, 2 K 577.

Where witnesses are subpœnaed and paid by both parties, the cessful pnrty is entitled to recover the costs of such witnesses f the other party: McLean v. Evans, 3 P. R. 154. The costs o witness called to prove fncts sdmitted by the defendant in his ex lnation for discovery mny be allowed: Alexander v. Gloucester, P. R. 157; and see Rondot v. Monetary Times, 18 P. $350 costs of unsuccessful search for lost documents were sllow Toronto v. Grand Trunk Ry., 13 O. L. R. 12.

Where it is discovered that fees have been sllowed on s fa affidnvit. nnd nothing has been paid, on motion to the Court th may he dissllowed: hut there is no jurisdiction in Chambers to ent tain such an application: Ha ding v. Knust, 15 P. R. 80, and Horni v. Romney, 11 C. L. T. 329. In the lntter case counsel fees not ps at the time of the making of the nffidavit, which stated that they h been paid, were dissllowed, though psid before the taxation was clos Taxing Officer to allow reasonable sum for shorthand writer in cases not provided for.

673. In eases not otherwise provided for, the Taxi Officer may allow a reasonable sum for the expense of shorthand writer, on the certifieate of the Judge befo whom the examination of any witness or witnesses i any sueh eause, matte: or other proeeeding takes place and also on the certifieate of a Local Master in refe enees before him when the parties agree to the emplo ment of a shorthand wrlter. C.R. 1143 and 1270.

Official stenographers are now provided for all the ordinary sitting of the Courts. snd In the office of the Master in Ordinary. This Rul applies when it becomes necessary for the parties specially to engag a stenogrspher.

The Rule would seem to apply merely to proceedings before a Judge or Local Master; hut not proceedings hefore other judicial officers e.g., the Master In Chambers, or s Referee whether Speclnl, or Official sed vide Rule 400.

Costs may be taxed on an award, though time for moving not elapsed.

674. Costs may be taxed on an award, although the time for appealing from or moving against the awar has not elapsed. C.R. 1166.

Arhltrators who have power under n statute to award costs. can not, unless expressly authorized so to do, awnrd them "ss between solicitor and client": Re Beaty & Toronto, 13 P. R. 316; neithe could they do so on a reference at Law. but it was otherwise in Equity: see Mordul v. Palmer, L. R. 6 Chy. 22, per McIlish, L.J., and Andrews v. Barnes, 58 L. T., per Fry, L.J., at p. 759. This excess of jurisdiction may be objected to on taxstion. when the objection appears on the fsce of the awsrd: Re Beaty & Toronto, supra.

The arbitrators should state the scale on which the costs awarded are to be taxed: see Re Preston, 16 P. R. 318. Rules 675, 676.

As to the costs of arbitration generally: see The Arbitration Act (R. S. O. c. 65), ss. 18-27.

675. The costs of removing a bond or other security from the files of the Court for the purpose of bringing an action thereon, may be taxed as costs in the cause in the action brought thereon. C.R. 1156. Costs of taking bond off files.

676.—(1) Costs shall be allowed and taxed according to Tariff A appended to these Rules, and no other fees, costs or charges than are therein set forth shall be allowed in respect of the matters thereby provided for. Tariff of costs.

(2) The fees and disbursements payable upon proceedings in the Supreme Court and in the County Courts shall be those enumerated in the Tariff B appended to these Rules. Tariff of disbursements.

(3) The fees and allowances to be taken and received by Sheriffs other than those provided for by any statute shall be the fees and allowances set forth in the Tariff C appended to these Rules. Sheriffs' fees.

(4) When the costs incurred in Canada of an appeal to His Majesty in his Privy Council have been awarded and the same have not been taxed by the Registrar of the Privy Council the same may be taxed by the Senior Taxing Officer, and the taxation shall be according to the scale of Tariff D. Costs in Canada of appeal to P. C.

(5) Costs payable out of the proceeds of land sold under The Devolution of Estates Act shall be allowed and taxed according to Tariff "E" to these rules. (Added by Rule of 19th June, 1914).

This Rule is based on C. RR. 1157a, 1178, 1179, 1189.

Costs of appeals to the Court of Appeal under the Drainage Act from the Drainage Referee are taxable on the Supreme Court scale: Metcalf v. Colchester, 2 O. L. R. 103.

It was formerly held that costs are taxable according to the Tariff in force at the time they are incurred, notwithstanding the subsequent repeal of such Tariff: Delap v. Charlebois, 18 P. R. 417; Earle v. Burland, 8 O. L. R. 174; 9 O. L. R. 663; but the Tariffs in force under these Rules are held to be retrospective, and applicable to all costs not previously taxed: Re Solicitors, 6 O W. N. 625.

Rules 677, 678.

A Sheriff is entitled to demand from a person delivering to him an execution to be executed, the fees allowed by the Tariff, for receiving warrant, and return; and the fees so paid, if collected from the debtor are to be refunded by the Sheriff to the person who issued the writ. see The Sheriffs' Act (R. S. O. c. 16) s. 31.

As to the fees of a Sheriff acting under an order of the Court in matters for which no fee is provided: see The Sheriffs' Act (R. S. O. c. 16) s. 30.

Costs in sales under Dev. Est. Act.

677. Costs payable out of the proceeds of lands sold under the Devolution of Estates Act, with the approval of the Official Guardian, shall be taxed by the Senior Taxing Officer, C. R. 1258.

(1) Where the amount realized is small, the Taxing Officer may fix a lesser sum than would be allowed upon taxation. (As amended by Rule of 1st December, 1913.)

The first part of this Rule is based on C. R. 972 (c), being an amendment made to C. R. 972 by C. R. 1258. The sub-section (1) is new, and was added by amendment.

Revision of taxation of certain costs.

678. All bills of costs or disbursements in proceedings for the administration or partition, or for the foreclosure, redemption or sale of mortgaged premises in which an infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind is interested, and all bills in other actions where the amount is to be paid out of an estate or out of a fund in Court, or in which any infant, lunatic or person of unsound mind is interested, shall be revised by one of the Taxing Officers at Toronto, before the amount thereof is inserted in any certificate, report, judgment, or order; but in case of urgency leave may be granted to issue a writ of execution, subject to the future revision by the Taxing Officer, and if the amount taxed is reduced on revision, the party entitled to the costs shall forthwith give credit upon the execution for the amount struck off. C.R. 1167, 1168 and 1169. Amended.

Revision of costs payable out of "a fund in Court" is not confined to cases where the Court has judicial control over, or has to exercise some judicial function in regard to the fund. The expression "a fund in Court" has no technical signification which makes it mean anything different from "a sum of money in Court": Cousineau v. City of London Fire Ins. Co., 13 P. R. 42.

The Court will not permit costs occasioned by improper litigation, or negligent conduct of proceedings, to be paid out of an estate under its care; and the amount of costs allowed between solicitor and client is not conclusive as to the amount which will be allowed out of an estate: Brown v. Burdett, 40 Ch. D. 152. Rules 679, 680.

Where costs are payable out of a fund in which infants, or lunatics are interested, a taxation cannot be waived by agreement between the solicitors: see In re Coster, 1898, W. N. 8 (12). The Rule applies not only to actions inter partes, but also to ex parte matters: see Re Norris, 5 O. L. R. 99.

679. The local officer shall forthwith, after taxing any such bill of costs, transmit the same by mail to the Senior Taxing Officer, and he shall allow in the bill the postage for the transmission and return of the bill, and shall prepay the same; and shall allow in the bill the sum of one dollar as a fee for the revision of the bill; and a law stamp for that sum, with postage stamps for return postage, shall be paid at the time of taxation by the party procuring the bill to be taxed, and be transmitted therewith. C.R. 1170. Revision of taxations by local officers.

A revision of taxation is now necessary to be had only in the class of actions mentioned in Rule 678 where infants or persons of unsound mind are interested, or the costs are to be paid out of an estate, or a fund in Court. Review of taxation.

A review of taxation may now be had as provided by Rules 681, 1183; and an appeal therefrom to a Judge, as provided by Rules 508-509. These Rules supply no machinery for carrying a taxation from a Local Officer before the Taxing Officer in Toronto, except in the cases mentioned in Rule 678. Appeal from taxation by local officers, how brought.

680. The Taxing Officer at Toronto, upon receiving the bill of costs shall revise the taxation either ex parte or upon notice to the Toronto agent of the solicitor whose bill is in question, as he may see fit, giving notice in all cases where the taxation is not clearly erroneous, or where the amount in question is large. Notice may be by appointment mailed to the address of the solicitor or his agent. The Taxing Officer shall re-transmit the bill when revised to the local officer. C.R. 1171. Duty of Taxing Officer on receipt of bill for revision.

The Taxing Officer, on revision, may restore items improperly disallowed by a Local Master; as well as strike out, or reduce, any which may have been improperly allowed, even though in the discretion of the local officer: Keim v. Yeagley, 6 P. R. 60; Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555. Powers of Taxing Officer on revision.

But the Taxing Officer cannot receive evidence to shew that costs are payable otherwise than the order awarding them, construed by the ordinary rules of construction, directs: Keim v. Yeagley, 6 P. R. 60; and see Edwards v. Pearson, 3 C. L. T. 504.

Rule 681.

Objection to taxation.

681.—(1) A party dissatisfied with the allowance or disallowance by the Taxing Officer of the whole or any part of any item may, at any time before the certificate is signed, deliver to the other party interested therein, and to the Taxing Officer, objections in writing to such allowance or disallowance, specifying concisely the item objected to, and may thereupon apply to the Taxing Officer to review the taxation in respect of the same.

(2) The Taxing Officer shall, upon request, hold the taxation open for a reasonable time in order to allow such objections to be delivered. C.R. 1182.

See the Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (39).

C. R. 1182 applied only to taxations between party and party, and this Rule is also held not to apply to taxations between solicitor and client: Re Solicitors, 6 O. W. N. 625.

Clause 2 affirms what was decided in Cousineau v. Park, 15 P. R. 37.

Where objection is to the principle of taxation.

Where the question is as to the principle of the whole taxation, and not as to particular items: Sparrow v. Hill, 7 Q. B. D. 362; 9 Q. B. D. 479; Clark v. Virgo, 17 P. R. 260; Re Fletcher & Dyson, 52 W. R. 27; or where the objection is to the finding of the Taxing Officer on a preliminary question, and the bill is not taxed at all, as for instance where the Taxing Officer finds that a settlement has been made which, under the terms of the order for taxation, is not to be disturbed: Re Geo. Castle, 36 Ch. D. 194; it is not necessary to specify objections under this Rule; but see Cruske v. Wade, 80 L. T. 380, where it was held that the Rule applied notwithstanding those cases, where the Taxing Officer refused to tax the plaintiff's costs of meeting a counter-claim on the merits, on the ground that such costs were unnecessarily incurred.

When a party carries in an objection in writing to an allowance or disallowance under this Rule, he is only bound to state the items to which he objects, not the reasons of his objection: Simmons v. Storer, 14 Ch. D. 154.

A Sheriff, as an officer of the Court claiming fees by virtue of its process, is so far within its jurisdiction that his bill may be taxed, and this Rule will therefore apply to prevent an appeal as to items not brought before the Taxing Officer for review: Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390.

No appeal unless objections brought in.

Except therefore, as above mentioned, an appeal does not lie, unless objections are carried before the officer, as required by this Rule: see Rule 509, and Snowden v. Huntington, 12 P. R. 248; nor will an appeal be allowed as to any item not included in such objections: Platt v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 273; Campbell v. Baker, 9 O. L. R. 291. Any objections to the taxation must be carried in in writing before the signature of the officer is affixed to his certificate: Guerrier v. White, 12 P. R. 571; but see clause (2). It is a sufficient certificate if the officer ascertains the correct amount payable at the foot of the bill, and notes the bill of costs as taxed at such sum, with the date, and verifies the whole by his signature: Ib. After having so acted, the Taxing Officer has no power to alter what has been allowed, or disallowed, except mere clerical errors: Ib.; Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444. Rules 682, 683.

Where a party has by mistake omitted to put in written objections, the certificate may, in a proper case, be set aside to enable objections to be carried in: see Robinson v. Engl... 11 O. L. R. 385.

A person who is not a party to the taking of an order for the taxation of costs, and who desires to have the taxation reviewed, ought to apply to set aside the order for taxation, and not apply to review the taxation: Charlton v. Charlton, W. N. 1882, 183; 31 W. R. 237.

For form of stating objections: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1696.

See also Turnbull v. Janson, 3 C. P. D. 264, for examples of objections.

682. The Taxing Officer shall then reconsider and review his taxation upon such objections, and he may receive further evidence in respect thereof, and, if required, he shall state either in his certificate of taxation or by reference to such objections, the grounds and reasons of his decision thereon, and any special facts or circumstances relating thereto. C.R. 1183. Review of taxation by Taxing Officer.

See Eng. (1883) R. 1002 (40).

A notice served at 4.30 p.m. to consider objections at 1 p.m. on the following day, was considered sufficient: Re Hill, 33 Ch. D. 266.

The officer should include in his certificate of the result the points of objection to his taxation. After giving a certificate of the result he is functus officio: Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444. Certificates of ruling on any points pending the taxation may be given, from which an appeal may be had: Ib.

Appeals from taxation are governed by the practice on appeals from Chamber orders; Rule 509, and should therefore, under Rule 505, be brought on within ten days from the date of the certificate on a notice served within four days: Stark v. Fisher, 11 P. R. 235.

Upon an appeal the Judge has no power to review, or revise, the taxation of any items not objected to as provided by Rule 681, nor refer them for review, or revision, to any officer: Campbell v. Baker, 9 O. L. R. 291, and semble, he has no power to refer the bill or the items objected to to any officer, but should himself decide the question raised by the objection.

683.—(1) A Sheriff claiming any fees, poundage, expenses or remuneration, which have not been taxed, shall, upon being required by either party, and ... payment of 25 cents for a copy of his bill in detail, which Taxing Sheriff's costs.

he shall be bound to render) have his fees, poundage, expenses or remuneration, as the case may be, taxed by the proper Taxing Officer of his county. C.R. 1193.

Costs not to be collected till taxed.

(2) A Sheriff shall not, without taxation, collect any fees, costs, poundage or expenses, after he has been required to have the same taxed. C.R. 1195.

The Execution creditor is not liable for Sheriff's fees when a sale under the execution is stayed: see Montague v. Davies, 1911, 2 K. B. 595; 104 L. T. 645. A Taxing Officer would be bound by the Tariff and would have no jurisdiction to reduce the Sheriff's fees below what he is entitled to by the Tariff: but the Court may do so: see Rule 688.

Duty of Taxing Officer.

684. The Sheriff or the party requiring taxation may obtain an appointment for taxation, and the Taxing Officer, upon proof of service of such appointment or upon the parties attending before him, shall examine the bill, and satisfy himself that the items charged in such bill are correct and legal, and strike out items charged for unnecessary services, and give, when requested, a certificate of the taxation. C.R. 1196 and 1194, amended.

Appeal from taxation of Sheriff's fees.

685. A party dissatisfied with the taxation may appeal therefrom as in ordinary cases of taxation between party and party. C.R. 1197.

See supra, p. 1125, for practice on appeals from taxation in ordinary cases.

Sheriff's poundage, where goods seized but not sold.

686.—(1) Where part only is made by the Sheriff on or by force of an execution against goods and chattels, the Sheriff shall be entitled, besides his fees and expenses of execution, to poundage only upon the amount so made by him, whatever be the sum indorsed upon the writ; and where the personal estate, except chattels real, of the judgment debtor is seized or advertised on or under an execution, but not sold by reason of satisfaction having been otherwise obtained, or from some other cause, and no money is actually made by the Sheriff on or by force of such execution, the Sheriff shall be entitled to the fees and expenses of execution and poundage only on the value of the property seized not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ, or such less sum as the Court may deem reasonable.

Sheriff's poundage where land or chattels real seized, but not sold.

(2) Where land or chattels real of the judgment debtor have been advertised under an execution, but not sold by reason of payment or satisfaction having been otherwise obtained on, or within one month before, the day on which the property has been advertised to be sold, or any day to which the sale may be adjourned, the Sheriff shall be entitled to the fees and expenses of the execution, and the poundage only on the value of the debtor's interest in the property not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ, or such less sum as the Court may deem reasonable. C.R. 1190. Rule 686.

Poundage.—The mere delivery of the writ, without an actual or virtual seizure, does not entitle the Sheriff to poundage: Nash v. Dickenson, L. R. 2 C. P. 252; Morris v. Boulton, 2 C. L. Cham. 60; but the receipt of money by the Sheriff under a writ is a virtual execution of the writ, though there is no actual seizure or sale: Consolidated Bank v. Bickford, 7 P. R. 172; Blasicks v. Bath Colliery Co., 2 Ex. D. 459; Ex p. Lithgow, 10 Ch. D. 169. Where there has been a seizure, the Sheriff is entitled to poundage, though there be no sale, if by compulsion of the writ the debt is recovered directly through the Sheriff: Mortimore v. Cragg, 3 C. P. D. 216, overruling Roe v. Hammond, 2 C. P. D. 300, or indirectly by means of some compromise which is the consequence of the seizure, subject to Rule 686; Mortimore v. Cragg, supra; Thomas v. Cotton, 12 U. C. Q. B. 148; Gillespie v. Shaw, 10 U. C. L. J. 100; McRoberts v. Hamilton, 7 P. R. 95; but not where the writ is withdrawn by direction of law: Mortimore v. Cragg, supra; Walker v. Fairfield, 8 C. P. 95; or where, before sale, an order is made for delivery of the goods to a receiver: Re Ludford, 33 W. R. 152; 51 L. T. 240; Re Ludmore, 13 Q. B. D. 415; or to an official receiver in bankruptcy: In re Thomas, 1899, 1 Q. B. 460. Poundage on fi. fa goods.

Where after seizure, but before sale, the execution creditor becomes disentitled to enforce the judgment, the Sheriff cannot sell for the purpose of realizing his fees, charges and expenses: Sneary v. Abdy, 7 Ex. D. 299; but the execution creditor is liable therefor: see Montague v. Davies, 1911, 2 K. B. 595; 104 L. T. 645.

Where the money levied has to be restored to defendant in consequence of some act of the plaintiff, the Sheriff may recover poundage from the latter: Henry v. Commercial Bank, 17 U. C. Q. B. 104; see Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390.

A Sheriff upon arresting a judgment debtor under ca. sa. thereby becomes at once entitled, as against execution creditors, to full poundage on the amount of the execution: McNab v. Oppenheimer, 11 P. R. 348.

The Sheriff is only entitled to poundage on the sum paid over, not on what he retains for himself: Michie v. Reynolds, 24 U. C. Q. B. 303. If he makes part only by force of the execution, the poundage is only on such part; and if a seizure is not followed by a sale by reason of satisfaction having been otherwise obtained, and no money is actually made by the Sheriff on or by force of the execution, the poundage is only on the goods seized, and a Judge may, on application, under this Rule, award such less sum as may be reasonable: see Wadsworth v. Bell, 8 P. R. 478; Bowman v. Masson, 1 C. L. T. 109; Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P. R. 390; Hamilton, etc., v. Gore Bank, 20 Gr. 202; Re Ludford, 51 L. T. 240. If no such application is made, the Sheriff would seem to ha entitled to full poundage on the goods seized: see Brockville, etc., v. Canada Central, 7 P. R. 372, 376.

The Sheriff was held entitled to poundage, on three several writs issued by the same solicitor, and placed in his hands at the same time: Grant v. Grant, 10 P. R. 40; but see now The Creditors Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 81), s. 29.

For the proper mode of computing poundage: see Fleming v. Hall, 9 P. R. 310.

Poundage on fi. fa. lands.

The Sheriff was formerly not entitled to poundage upon an execution against lands, unless there had been an actual sale: Merchants Bank v. Campbell, 32 C. P. 170; French v. Lake Superior Mineral Co., 14 P. R. 541; Rule 686 (2) now makes provision on that subject.

The plaintiff's solicitors are not liable to the Sheriff for his fees in the absence of any contract, and no contract is implied from lodging the writ in the Sheriff's office: Royle v. Busby, 6 Q. B. D. 171.

Allowance where full poundage not recoverable.

Allowance where Poundage or Full Poundage not Recoverable.—A Sheriff was formerly only entitled to poundage for money actually passing through his hands, and he was not entitled to charge poundage on moneys paid by the execution debtor direct to the execution creditor, or his solicitor: Hamilton & P. D. Ry. Co. v. Gore Bank, 20 Gr. 190; but now where the payment is made, or the claim is settled, after seizure of the debtor's goods, the Sheriff, though not entitled to poundage on the whole amount recovered, is under this Rule entitled to poundage on the value of the goods seized, not exceeding the amount indorsed on the writ, unless an order for a less sum is made under clause (1): and see McRoberts v. Hamilton, 7 P. R. 95. Where the money is paid direct to the Sheriff without any seizure he is entitled to his poundage and fees; Consolidated Bank v. Bickford, 7 P. R. 172; and where the full amount to be levied is paid to the Sheriff after seizure, but before sale, he is entitled to poundage on the amount received, and not merely on the value of the property seized: see Re Black Eagle Gold Co., 6 O. L. R. 512. Rules 686-688 do not apply in such a case; the money so made is made under the execution. Where to avoid a sale judgment debtors agreed with the Sheriff to pay a proportion of the daily taking, money so paid to the Sheriff was held to be made under the execution: Robinson v. Burnell's Vienna Baking Co., 1904, 4 K. B. 624.

The original Rule did not authorize a Sheriff to collect poundage under an execution against lands where the lands had been advertised but not sold: see Merchants Bank v. Campbell, 32 C. P. 170; French v. Lake Superior, etc., 14 P. R. 541: clause (2) now makes provision in that respect.

The Sheriff is not entitled to poundage where the goods seized are upon an interpleader issue determined not to be the goods of the execution debtor, even though they have been sold under the interpleader order: Turner v. Crozier, 14 P. R. 272.

Where, in consequence of an appeal by the execution debtor, the Sheriff, after seizure, withdrew of his own motion, to save expense to parties, and the execution was subsequently superseded, he was held entitled to compensation. The principle of the Rule is that where the Sheriff has made a seizure, and his proceedings are interrupted before the execution is executed, he is entitled to his poundage. or a sum in lieu thereof, and that the mesns by which the interruption takes place is of no consequence: Weegar v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 16 P. R. 371. Rules 687, 688.

Where by reason of the making of a winding-up order under the Dominion Winding-up Act, an execution becomes intercepted before sale, this Rule does not apply so as to entitle the Sheriff to compensation in lieu of poundage: Re Polmerston Packing Co., Allan's Claim, 4 O. W. R. 339.

Poundage covers the risk and responsibility cast upon the Sheriff in seizing, retaiuing, selling, and returning the money. If his action be intercepted so that he does not make the money, it is for the Court to say what allownnce shall be made to him in lieu of poundage: Wadsworth v. Bell, 8 P. R. 478. See also Morrison v. Taylor, 9 P .R. 390.

687. Where there are writs of execution upon the same judgment to several counties or districts and the personal estatc of the judgment debtor has been seized or advertised, in one or in one or more or all of such counties, but not sold, by reason of satisfaction having becn obtained under and by virtue of a writ in any of the counties, and no money has been actually madc on the execution, the Sheriff sball not be entitlcd to poundage, but to mileage and fees only for the services actually rendered and performed by him, and the Taxing Officer may allow him a reasonable charge for such services, in casc no special fce therefor is assigned in any tariff of costs. C.R. 1191. When Sheriff entitled to mileage and fees only.

See Lee v. Dangar, 1892. 1 Q. B. 231; 2 Q. B. 337; Re Wells, 68 L. T. 231.

Where concurrent writs of fifa (goods) were issued to two Sheriffs who each seized sufficient to satisfy the execution, and the parties then settled, and the Sheriffs were ordered to withdraw, it was held that the Sheriff who first received the writ was entitled to poundage, but that the other Sheriff was entitled only to the other fees, and to an allowance in respect of any other servlces which a Judge might think reasonable: Brown v. Johnson, 5 U. C. L. J. 17.

688. Where a person liable on an execution is dissatisfied with the amount of poundage fees or expenses of execution claimed by a Sheriff, the Court may, before or after payment thereof, upon the application of such person, upon notice to the Sheriff, if the amount appears to be unreasonable, notwithstanding that it is according to the tariff, reduce the same or order the same to bc refunded upon such terms as may seem just. C.R. 1192. If party dissatisfied he may apply to the Court, who may reduce the amount.

See Rule 683 which provides for a taxation of a Sheriff's fees, poundage, etc., hy a Taxing Officer. This Rule is apparently intended Rule 689. to meet cases where a taxation would not be a sufficient remedy, and enables the Court to allow a less sum than the Tariff charges by which a Taxing Officer would be bound.

Order for charge in favour of solicitor on property recovered or preserved.

689.—(1) Where a solicitor has been employed to prosecute or defend any cause or matter, the Court may, upon a summary application, declare such a solicitor, or his personal representatives to be entitled to a charge upon the property recovered or preserved through the instrumentality of such solicitor, for his costs, charges and expenses of or in reference to such cause, matter or proceeding; and all conveyances and acts done to defeat, or which may operate to defeat, such charge or right shall, unless made to a bonâ fide purchaser for value without notice, be absolutely void and of no effect as against such charge.

Enforcement of charge.

(2) The Court may make an order for taxation of such costs, charges and expenses and for the raising and payment of the same out of the property. C.R. 1129.

This Rule is based upon Imp. Act, 23 & 24 V. c. 127, s. 28, which was enacted in consequence of the decision in Shaw v. Neale, 27 L. J. Ch. 444; 6 H. L. C. 581, that a solicitor has no lien on real estate recovered for the client. The charge authorized by this Rule may extend to either real or personal property.

Nature of charge.

The charge authorized to be declared is more extensive and more beneficial than the ordinary lien of a solicitor; the latter, besides being limited to the document and funds of a client, cannot as regards documents be actively enforced, and as to them is a mere right of retainer, and may be lost by giving up possession; whereas a charge under this Rule may extend to almost any kind of property, and will entitle the chargee to apply for a sale of the property subject thereto, in order to raise the amount of the charge.

Registration of charge.

A charge under this Rule is in the nature of a statutory mortgage, and, as against purchasers and other incumbrancers, the same precautions may be necessary to preserve priority, as in the case of an ordinary mortgage; where the charge is on land, in order to retain priority it would seem to be advisable to register the order creating the charge in the proper Registry Office. The registration should be effected by means of a certificate under the hand of the proper officer, and his seal of office or the seal of the Court.

Where a solicitor brought an action to recover his bill of costs of a redemption action, and claimed a lien on the land, the subject of the redemption action, he was held entitled to register a certificate of lis pendens against the land: O'Flynn v. Middleton, 5 O. L. R. 621.

The Rule gives the solicitor an ancillary right—one not intended to displace the liability of the client to pay the solicitor out of his own pocket—but one ancillary to his right to be paid on his retainer: Nevills v. Ballard, 18 P. R. 134. See also Re Born, 1900, 2 Ch. 433; 83 L. T. 51.

Rule 689. Property recovered or preserved.

The Rule authorizes the Court to interfere in regard to any property, real or personal, for the protection of the solicitor, in the same way as, upon equitable grounds, it previously interfered in the case of a judgment: Barker v. St. Quentin, 12 M. & W. 441; or a fund in Court: Haymes v. Cooper 33 Beav. 431; Re Born, 1900, 2 Ch. 433; 83 L. T. 51, recovered through the services of the solicitor.

The construction placed upon the Imp. Act is that it gives a discretionary power to the Court; the solicitor has no absolute right to the charge, but only power to ask the Court in the exercise of its discretion to make the charge: Nevills v. Bollord, 18 P. R. 134; Harrison v. Harrison, 13 P. D. 180; Pierson v. Knutsford Estates Co., 13 Q. B. D. 666; Re Humphreys, 1898, 1 Q. B. 526, and see Re Born, supra.

In the case, therefore, of a judgment recovered by an infant suing by his next friend, though the next friend and not the infant was liable to the solicitor, a charge was declared in favour of the solicitor upon the judgment to the extent only of the costs taxed against the defendant, and the Court refused to order a sale of the judgment to enforce the charge: Nevills v. Bollord, 18 P. R. 134.

What property has been "recovered or preserved" is a question of fact in each case: Rowlands v. Williams, W. N. 1885, 194; Ross v. Buxton, 42 Ch. D. 198.

Under the Imp. Act property has been held to have been recovered or preserved, by recovery of a judgment for money: Bircholl v. Pugin, L. R. 10 C. P. 397; Orford v. Fleming, 18 C. L. T. 142; 34 C. L. J. 238, 413; or costs: Dollow v. Gorrold, 14 Q. B. D. 543; 52 L. T. 240; by a judgment, in a foreclosure action: Wilson v. Round, 4 Giff. 416; 10 Jur. N. S. 34; in a redemption action: Scholefield v. Lockwood (1868), L. R. 7 Eq. 83; O'Flynn v. Middleton, supra, p. 1354; in an action to establish the validity of a will: Ex p. Tweed, 1899, 2 Q. B. 167; or a mortgage: Keenon v. Armstrong, 27 L. R. Ir. 371; in a partition action: Pritchard v. Roberts, L. R. 17 Eq. 222; in an action of detinue: Cotlow v. Cotlow, 2 C. P. D. 362; in an action to remove a cloud on the title to land: Jones v. Frost, L. R. 7 Chy. 773; or by means of a compromise: In re Meter Cobs, 1911, 2 Ch. 557.

Proceeds of property realized under a sale under an order of the Court is "property recovered"; but where the client of the solicitor who has conducted the sale is a debtor to the estate of which the property sold formed part, and his costs have been ordered to be set off against his indebtedness, his solicitor cannot also obtain a charging order in respect of such costs, even though the client be insolvent and unable to pay the costs: Re Cockrell, Pinkey v. Cockrell, 1912, 1 Ch. 23; 105 L. T. 662.

Proceeds of property realized by plaintiff in a debenture holders action through a receiver is property on which the solicitor for the plaintiff and receiver is entitled to a charge: In re Horne, Horne v. Horne, 1906, 1 Ch. 271. Property in respect of which a receiver has been appointed is "property preserved" notwithstanding in the result, the appointment may not prove beneficial for the beneficiaries: Re Turner, Wood v. Turner, 1907, 2 Ch. 126; 95 L. T. 861; 96 L. T. 798.

So money paid into Court as a condition of obtaining leave to defend is "recovered or preserved": Moxon v. Sheppard, 24 Q. B. D. 627; and money paid into Court with a defence, if the plaintiff becomes entitled to take it out: see Emden v. Carte, 19 Ch. D. 311; so where the fund consists of rents paid into Court by a receiver in the action: Re Knight, 1892, 2 Ch. 368.

A solicitor for the liquidator of a company which had been reconstructed, was allowed a charge on the assets of the company, for costs of proceedings in Court incurred in reconstruction: Re Clayton, 118 L. T. Jour. 315.

A defendant's solicitor may be entitled, as where a defendant successfully resisted claims of a mortgagee in a foreclosure action: Scholefield v. Lockwood, L. R. 7 Eq. 83; and where an action to set aside a settlement (Re Keane, L. R. 12 Eq. 115), or to attach a vessel (The Heinrich, L. R. 3 A. & E. 505) was dismissed; see also Smith v. Winter, 18 W. R. 447.

Property not subject to charging order.

Property was held to be not recovered or preserved where a winding-up petition was successfully opposed: Re United Shepherd's Wheal Rose Co., W. N. 1885, 15; nor where in an administration action new trustees were appointed, but further proceedings were stayed: Pinkerton v. Easton, L. R. 16 Eq. 490; nor where an easement is the subject of the action and its existence is affirmed: Foxon v. Gascoigne, L. R. 9 Chy. 654.

Money paid into Court by a plaintiff as security for costs, is not "money recovered or preserved" by the plaintiff's solicitor within the meaning of this Rule: Gibson v. Le Temps P. Co., 10 O. L. R. 434; not even where the plaintiff succeeds in the action: Re Wadsworth, Rhodes v. Sugden, 29 Ch. D. 517; but see Parry v. Parry, 30 Sol. Jour. 386; Hall v. Hall, 1891, P. 302; but where an appeal is successful the costs paid under the judgment and ordered on the appeal to be refunded are property recovered: Guy v. Churchill, 35 Ch. D. 489.

The "cause, matter or proceeding," mentioned in the Rule, must be some civil cause, matter or proceeding in a Court of Justice: money recovered by means of criminal proceedings: Re Humphries, 1898, 1 Q. B. 520; or in an arbitration: Macfarlane v. Lister, 37 Ch. D. 88, are not within the Rule; nor is alimony decreed in divorce proceedings: Leete v. Leete, 48 L. J. P. 61; Cross v. Cross, 43 L. T. 532; nor an allowance made by the Court for the maintenance of a lunatic's wife, out of the lunatic's estate: Re Robinson, 27 Ch. D. 160. The jurisdiction to declare a charge is discretionary, and, it is said, should be rarely exercised in bankruptcy proceedings: Re Humphreys, 1896, 1 Q. B. 520.

A claim and counter-claim, where both are successful, must be considered as one action for the purpose of determining the solicitor's right to a charging order: Westacott v. Bevan, 1891, 1 Q. B. 774; The Philippine, L. R. 1 A. & E. 309.

The charge may affect not merely the client's interest but the interests of others, the solicitor's services being in the nature of salvage: Greer v. Young, 24 Ch. D. 545. See also Ex p. Digby, 53 L. J. Ch. 972; Berrie v. Howitt, L. R. 9 Eq. 1 (where a charge was refused); Nevills v. Ballard, supra, p. 1355; and Bulley v. Bulley, 8 Ch. D. 479.

The right to a charge is not affected by a subsequent compromise: Twyman v. Porter, L. R. 11 Eq. 181; Moxon v. Shepherd 24 Q. B. D. 627.

Costs recoverable under charging order.

The charge is limited to the costs of the cause, matter or proceeding: see Wilson v. Round, 4 Giff. 416; Re Hill, 33 Ch. D. 266. The order should direct taxation of the costs, if not already taxed: Emden v. Carte, 19 Ch. D. 311, 318.

Rule 659.

The solicitor is entitled, though discharged by the client, where the property was recovered while he was solicitor: Clover v. Adams, 6 Q. B. D. 622; Re Wadsworth, Rhodes v. Sugden, 29 Ch. D. 517; in such case his charge will be subject to the lien for costs of the client's solicitor for the time being: Ib. Discharged solicitor.

Assignee of solicitor.

The assignee of a solicitor is entitled to apply: Briscoe v. Briscoe, 1892; 3 Ch. 543; or his personal representatives: Baile v. Baile, L. R. 13 Eq. 497; but the agents of a solicitor are not entitled to a charge for their costs, they not having been employed by the client: Macfarlane v. Lister, 37 Ch. D. 88.

The solicitor for an infant may apply for a charging order on the infant's share of the subject of litigation: In re Wright, 1901, 1 Ch. 317; even though the litigation may have been unsuccessful, provided it was taken on the reasonable advice of counsel: see Steeden v. Walden, 1910, 2 Ch. 393; 103 L. T. 135.

Delay in applying.

The lapse of time may justify a refusal to interfere, where, in the meantime, the rights and interests of the persons entitled to the property have been changed: Roche v. Roche, 29 L. R. Ir. 339; but mere delay, where no intervening rights have arisen, is not sufficient to deprive the solicitor of his right to an order: Re Born, 1900, 2 Ch. 433; 83 L. T. 51.

Taking security.

The solicitor is not entitled to a charging order where he has accepted from his client a mortgage or other security, e.g., where an assignment of the property has been made in trust in the first place for the payment of the solicitor's costs: Groom v. Cheesewright, 1895, 1 Ch. 730; 72 L. T. 555.

Priority of charge.

The plaintiff's solicitor was held to have a first charge on the assets of a partnership in an action for dissolution, in which a receiver had been appointed, and certain assets recovered: Ridd v. Thorne, 1902, 2 Ch. 344; and to have priority over a mortgage made by the plaintiff before the action, where the mortgagee adopted the benefits obtained thereby: Scholey v. Peck, 1893, 1 Ch. 709; 3 R. 245; 68 L. T. 118; see also Dennis v. Addy, 1894, 1 Ir. R. 511.

The assignee of a judgment debt (or a creditor garnishing the same: Dallow v. Garrold, 14 Q. B. D. 543, and see Hamer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942), takes subject to any existing right of lien upon the judgment, and, as against such right, the assignee or attaching creditor is not a purchaser for value without notice, and a charging order, subsequently obtained by a solicitor having such lien, takes priority over the assignment, or attaching order: Faithful v. Ewen, 7 Ch. D. 495; Cole v. Eley, 1894, 2 Q. B. 350; 9 R. 552; 70 L. T. 892.

As to notice: see also The Paris, 1896, P. 77; 73 L. T. 736; Orford v. Fleming, 18 C. L. T. 142; 34 C. L. J. 238, 413.

Application for charging order.

Application for Charging Order.—No procedure is laid down for obtaining a declaration of the charge, nor is any time prescribed, when the same may be made. It would seem from the words "is pending," that the Rule contemplates the making of such applications before, as well as after, final judgment in the action. All parties to the action to be affected by the declaration ought, it would seem, to have notice of the application: see Brown v. Trotman, 12 Ch. D. 880; and where the action is defective by reason of death, or transmission of interest, an order to continue proceedings under Rule 301 should be first obtained: Stewart v. Rhodes, 1900, 1 Ch. 386; 82 L. T. 337; but see O'Flynn v. Middleton, 5 O. L. R. 621.

Rule 689.

The application may be made notwithstanding that the action is no longer pending, or has not been brought to a hearing, or that the property preserved has been sold: Jones v. Frost, L. R. 7 Chy. 773.

Where the application is made by the solicitor of a trustee, the order should not be made to the prejudice of the trustee's right to indemnity out of the fund for sums for which he had incurred liability: Re Turner, Wood v. Turner, 1907, 2 Ch. 126; 95 L. T. 861; 96 L. T. 798.

The application should as a rule be made on notice to all parties interested in the property sought to be charged, and the charge can only extend to the client's interest therein: The Birnam Wood, 1907, P. 1; 96 L. T. 140; unless the proceedings, for the costs of which the charge is claimed, are in the nature of salvage proceedings for the benefit of the client, and others having a common interest. Such an order may be made in an administration action, even though in the result the proceedings having not been beneficial to the beneficiaries: In re Turner, Wood v. Turner, supra.

In some cases it may be that the object of the application would be defeated if the parties were notified in the first place, and, in such cases, it is possible the application might be entertained ex parte in the first instance; but wherever a charging order is granted on an ex parte application, it would seem desirable that the order should be in the nature of an order nisi, i.e., declaring the charge upon service on the (parties interested) unless they, within a specified time thereafter, on notice to the chargee in that behalf, shew to the Court good cause to the contrary.

The order may be intituled in the action only, and not in the matter of the Act, or of the solicitor, and may be made upon notice of motion: Hamer v. Giles, 11 Ch. D. 942; Brown v. Trotman, 12 Ch. D. 880. See H. & L. Forms, No. 1362.

As to the form of the order: see Orford v. Fleming, 34 C. L. J. 413; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1364, 1365.

Costs.

Costs of Application.—The Solicitor is entitled to his costs as between solicitor and client: Waterland v. Serle, 1897, W. N. 163 (9).

Effect of charging order.

Effect of Order.—The charging order gives no higher claim than the ordinary solicitor's lien: see Goodfellow v. Gray, 1899, 2 Q. B. 498; 81 L. T. 314; and is subject to any claims, prior to the client's, on the property: Taylor v. Robinson, 19 P. R. 31; but a valid charge may be given on property of an estate of a deceased person recovered or preserved, by a solicitor on the retainer of the personal representatives, which will be binding on the shares of the beneficiaries therein: Ex p. Tweed, 1899, 2 Q. B. 167; and the charging order will take priority over the claims of creditors, though they may have obtained prior charging orders against the assets: Ridd v. Thorne, 1902, 2 Ch. 344.

Enforcing charge.

Enforcing Charge.—Where the charge is sought to be enforced, a subsequent application may be made by notice of motion, in the action in which the charging order is made, and not by a new action: see Orford v. Fleming, 34 C. L. J. 238, 413; 18 C. L. T. 142; but, if asked for, there would seem to be no reason why, where feasible, such relief should not be given by the order declaring the charge. Rule 689.

Where a charge was declared in favour of a solicitor upon a judgment recovered in an action by an infant by his next friend, the Court refused to enforce the charge by sale of the judgment, as that might destroy the value of the whole to the infant, but leave was given to the solicitor to enforce the judgment by execution, and to receive to his own use the amount of his charge: Nevills v. Ballard, 18 P. R. 134.

The charge may be enforced by a stop order: Smith v. Winter, 18 W. R. 447.

It would appear that the granting of a charging order is not intended to have the effect of a judgment, so as to prevent the running of the Statute of Limitations in respect of the costs intended to be secured thereby; and the charging order must therefore be enforced within the period within which the costs can be recovered by action.

Rules 690, 691.

CHAPTER XXVI.

DEVOLUTION OF ESTATES.

Notice to Official Guardian. Rev. Stat. c. 119

690. Before an executor or administrator takes proceedings under The Devolution of Estates Act, for the sale of real estate in which an infant is concerned, he shall give to the Official Guardian or Local Guardian appointed under that Act notice of the intention to sell, and shall not be entitled to any expenses incurred before giving such notice. C.R. 971.

See The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 119), s. 19; Belanger v. Belanger, 24 O. L. R. 439; Re Booth, 16 Ont. 429; Re Gardner, 7 C. L. T. 139.

Notice is only required to be given to the Official Guardian, or Local Guardian, where infants are interested, and the sale is to be made simply for the purpose of distribution. Where the approval of the Official Guardian, or Local Guardian, is not requisite to the carrying out of the sale, notice to him is not necessary: Re Fletcher, 26 Ont. 499.

Application to Judge.

691. The Official Guardian or other officer aforesaid, or any person interested in the land or in the proceeds of the sale thereof, may apply to a Judge, upon notice to all parties concerned or to such parties as the Judge may direct, for such direction or order touching the real estate and the proceeds thereof or the costs of the proceedings as to the Judge may seem meet. C.R. 972.

The other officer referred to in this Rule is the Local Guardian if any appointed under The Devolution of Estates Act, s. 19 (2).

Upon an application under this Rule lands to which infants were entitled, but which were charged with the payment of a legacy, were authorized to be sold for the purpose of paying the legacy: see Re Eddie, 22 Ont. 556.

CHAPTER XXVII.

QUIETING TITLES.

692. A petition for an investigation of titles, under The Quieting Titles Act, shall not include two or more properties dependent on separate and distinct titles, but may include any number of lots or parcels belonging to the same person, and dependent on one and the same chain of title. C.R. 991.

Two or more properties held by separate titles not to be included in the same petition.

The Act referred to in this Rule is The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123).

Where the provisions of this Rule are violated, the Referee may refuse to proceed with the investigation of the title. This may lead to delay and expense, as the objection can only appear before the Referee, after the proceedings necessary to show the title have been taken. The object of the Rule is to prevent the proceedings becoming unnecessarily intricate.

Expense and delay may be saved by attention to what is said in the notes to this, and the following Rules, and an adherence to established forms.

Who May File Petition.—Any owner of an estate in fee simple in land, or any trustee for the sale of the fee simple, may file a petition without leave: The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), s. 2. Any other person who has any estate, or interest, legal or equitable, in or out of land in Ontario, may also file a petition: Ib., s. 3; but under Rule 693, the petition in the latter case, must first receive the sanction of a Judge, before it can be referred to a Referee for investigation. A vendee before conveyance, is within sec. 3, and his petition will not be entertained without the consent of his vendor: Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; and a petitioner who is only a tenant in fee in remainder must first obtain the consent of the tenant for life to the filing of the petition: Re Pelten, 8 P. R. 470.

Who may file petition under Quieting Titles Act.

Formerly it was necessary that the petitioner should be in possession by himself, or tenant: Re Bell, 3 Chy. Ch. 239; Re Mulholland, 18 Gr. 528; Re Mono, 6 P. R. 150; but that is no longer necessary; and a petitioner, who is out of possession, may, on obtaining a certificate of title, obtain an order for the delivery of possession to him of the land in question, which may be enforced by the same process as a judgment for the recovery of land: see The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), s. 39; Re McDonald, before Boyd, C., 16th May, 1881.

Not necessary that petitioner should be in possession.

A petition may be filed by a devisee claiming under a will, where the property intended to be devised has been erroneously described: Re Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357; Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474; but a grantee cannot by this means rectify an erroneous description in a deed under which he claims: Ib. As to cases in which property intended to be devised, may pass under a will, notwithstanding a mis-description in it in the will, see Re Shaver, 6 Ont. 312; Hickey v. Storer, 11 Gr. 106; Young v. Purvis, 11 Ont. 597; Summers v. Summers, 5 Ont. 116; Wright v. Collins, 16 Ont. 182; Re Ham & Leslie, 25 Ont. 136; Fayden v. McFayden, 27 Ont. 598; Re Mayell, Foley v. Ward, 1913, 2 Ch. 488; 109 L. T. 40.

Filing a petition will not save the rights of a contestant otherwise barred by Statute of Limitations.

Effect of Filing Petition.—The filing of a petition is not such a proceeding as will save the rights of a party contestant, otherwise barred by the Statute of Limitations: Laing v. Avery, 14 Gr. 33; nor it would seem, will it have the effect of stopping the running of the Statute in favour of a contestant in adverse possession, until such contestant is notified, or has filed a claim, or otherwise become a party to the proceedings, nor even then, unless the petitioner ultimately obtains a certificate of title. Where a contestant claiming title under a tax sale was barred, but the petition was also ultimately dismissed, it was held that the filing of the petition and the proceedings had on the claim of the contestant, were not an effectual questioning of the latter's title, so as to preclude him from the benefit of the Act 37 Vict. c. 15 (O.), curing the defect in the tax sale, under which he claimed, if not questioned within two years: McNab v. Peer, 32 C. P. 545.

A petition to quiet the title of a person out of possession, is now, in effect, an action to recover possession: see The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123) s. 39.

Description of land in petition.

Description of Land.—The description of the land in the heading of the petition should be sufficient to enable the land in question to be identified, but usually it is unnecessary to set out in it the metes and bounds. The description of the lands in the body of the petition should be given in the form in which the petitioner desires the land to be described in the certificate of title. Where there is any plan of the property registered, the description of the land in the petition must be in accordance with the plan: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475; The Registry Act (R. S. O. c. 124), s. 81 (10); and where pending the petition, the land was laid out into building lots according to a registered plan, the description was required to be amended according to the registered plan: Re Morse, supra.

Referee may insert more specific description of land in the notices to be served or published

Where the description of the land in the heading of the petition appears to the Referee of Titles, not to be sufficiently explicit, he should require a sufficient and proper description to be inserted in all notices by him directed to be published, or served; and where it appears that there is no sufficiently definite description of the lands contained in either the heading, or the body of the petition, or that the description given is misleading, the Referee may require the petition to be amended in that respect, before proceeding with the investigation.

Estate claimed must be correctly stated in petition.

Estate, or Interest, Claimed.—The estate, or interest, claimed by the petitioner, should also be accurately stated in the petition, and also the estates and interests of all other persons in the land, which are intended to be admitted by the petitioner, otherwise the petitioner may be ordered to pay the costs of such other persons who may come in to prove claims, not admitted in the petition. The petitioner should not allege in his petition that the estate which he claims is subject to any rights or claims which he intends to dispute.

Rule 692. Petition

Form of Petition.—Tha form of petition given in the Schedule to the Act, R. S. O. c. 123, p. 1320, H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1472*a*, 1473, should be followed as nearly as may be. It is neither necessary, nor desirable, to set out in detail, in the petition, the facts and circumstances affecting the title; but a concise statement of such facts as are necessary to make out the title, and which do not appear in the produced documents, is to be delivered to the Referee, with the other documents required to be furnished under The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), s. 6.

Filing

Filing the Petition.—Under The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), s. 5, the application is required to be made to the Supreme Court or a Judge thereof. The petition is filed in the Central office: Rule 694.

Where the investigation of title is to be proceeded with before a Local Referee, the petition before being filed, must be entered with the Inspector of Titles at Toronto: see Rule 698.

Indorsement.

Indorsement of Petition.—The petition should be indorsed with the usual notice of the name and address of the solicitor by whom it is filed, or of the principal and agent, where it is filed by an agent: see Rules 3*j*, 11 (2); or when filed by a petitioner in person, there must be indorsed his place of residence and occupation, and an address for service within 2 miles of the office where the proceedings are to be carried on: see Rules 3*j*, 12.

Where it is desired that the petition should be referred for investigation to a Local Master, the memorandum required by Rule 696 must be also indorsed.

Affidavit of petitioner.

Proofs Required on Investigation of Titles.—The following are the papers which it is necessary to deliver to the Referee of Titles, to whom the petition is referred, in all ordinary cases, and the proofs 1 to 15 should be delivered at one time, not piece-meal.

1. The affidavit of the petitioner, under the 7th section of The Quieting Titles Act. If the affidavit is not made by the petitioner, some valid reason should be given why it is not: Re Rundell, 4 Chy. Ch. 71. For form of affidavit and schedule see H. & L. Forms Nos. 1474, 1475. The schedule of documents must be marked, as an exhibit, by the commissioner before whom the affidavit is sworn: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352.

Voluntary affidavits.

N.B.—None of the affidavits in support of the petition should be sworn until the petition has been filed, until then, there is no cause in Court and the affidavits so sworn are voluntary, and the deponents might not be liable to prosecution for perjury. And as the proceedings are ex parte this requirement cannot be waived.

Certificate of counsel.

2. The certificate of counsel, or solicitor, under the 8th section of The Quieting Titles Act; see Form, H. & L. Forms, No. 1476. This certificate should not be dated prior to the swearing of the petitioner's affidavit to which it relates. The certificate should follow the language of section 8. A certificate of counsel that he had corresponded with the petitioner was held insufficient: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352.

County Registrar's certificate.

3. The County Registrar's certificate of all registrations upon the land in question, up to, and including, the date of filing of the petition: Re Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348; see H. & L. Forms, No. 1477. It is advisable that no further registrations should be made upon the lot by the petitioner pending the investigation. If any transfer by way of mortgage, or otherwise, be made by the petitioner pending the investigation, the Referee of Titles should be immediately notified thereof: see Re Cummings, 8 P. R. 473; Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475.

When there are a great many registrations recorded against the lot, but not affecting the particular parcel in question, and the registrar cannot certify those that do affect the land in question without including in his certificate those that do not, his certificate may be dispensed with, on production of a proper affidavit of search by a Provincial Land Surveyor: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475.

The abstract will have to be subsequently continued to the date of the certificate of title: Re Cummings, 8 P. R. 473.

Deeds.

4. All deeds and evidences of title in the petitioner's possession or power: see The Quieting Titles Act, s. 6 (a).

5. If the petitioner cannot produce all the deeds relating to the land, under which he derives title, or shown on the registrar's abstract, he must procure and produce:—

(a) Certified copies of all registered instruments affecting the title of which the originals are not produced, including discharged mortgages, and certified copies of all certificates of discharge of mortgages, and of the affidavits of execution thereof: The Quieting Titles Act, s. 6 (b).

A certificate of discharge of mortgage has not the effect of reconveying the estate until it is registered: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475; Re Luckhardt, 29 Ont. 111.

Affidavits of search for lost deeds.

(b) Affidavits of diligent search for the originals of all deeds which are not produced, and which ought to be in the custody of the petitioner.

Proof of bar of dower

6. If there is no release of dower by the wife of a former owner, show that he was unmarried when he conveyed, or that his wife is dead, or that her dower is barred, or that the land is not subject to her dower: see The Dower Act (R. S. O. c. 70), ss. 6, 7, 8, 9; otherwise the certificate of title must be subject to her dower.

Affidavits as to possession.

7. Affidavits are required, showing that possession has always accompanied the title under which the petitioner claims: see Rule 702. Also affidavits showing who is, at the time of making such affidavits, in occupation, and under what title, or claim of title. These affidavits should show how the possession has been held, and should be made by disinterested persons: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1480. See further as to evidence of possession requisite: Id. 702, note.

Consents required.

8. Consent of the person in actual possession (wherever any person other than petitioner is in occupation), duly verified by affidavit. For form of consent: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1486.

9. Consent of any mortgagee, or person entitled, to any outstanding charge, or estate, duly verified by affidavit. For form of consent: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1486; and see Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50.

N.B.—The consents mentioned in clauses 8 and 9 must be produced even though the petitioner admits that his title is subject to the rights of such tenant, mortgagee, etc. In some cases the consent must be filed before the petition will be referred for examination: e.g., where the petitioner is a purchaser who has not obtained his conveyance, the consent of his vendor must be filed: Re Brown, 3 Chy. Ch. 158; or where he is tenant in remainder expectant on a life estate, the consent of the tenant for life must be filed: Re Pelton, 8 P. R. 470. Rule 663.

10. Sheriff's certificate that the property is not affected by any execution, sale under execution, or tax sale. For form: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1479. This certificate should include the names of all persons who have owned the land at any time within 20 years past; see Re Harding, 3 Chy. Ch. 232; Re Rundell, 4 Chy. Ch. 71; Ex parte Lyons, 3 Chy. Ch. 357; and The Statute of Limitations (R. S. O. c. 75), s. 24 (2), which seems to render ineffective the former decisions of Neil v. Almond, 29 Ont. 63, and Re Woodall, 8 O. L. R. 288. Sheriff's certificate as to executions.

11. County Treasurer's certificate that there are no taxes in arrear, and that there has been no sale for taxes, and stating the year for which the last roll of taxes in arrear has been returned to him. For form: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1487. Proof must be given of payment of all taxes, except those for the year in which the certificate issues. If the certificate first produced does not cover all such taxes an additional certificate will be required: see Re Harding, 3 Chy. Ch. 232; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. County Treasurer's certificate as to taxes.

N.B.—Certificates of title are always granted subject to the taxes for the current year in which the certificate bears date: see The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), ss. 10, 23 (b). Whenever the roll of taxes in arrear for any preceding year has not been returned to the County Treasurer, his certificate must be supplemented by the collector's, or township treasurer's receipt for all taxes not covered by the Treasurer's certificate, other than those for the current year: see The Assessment Act (R. S. O. c. 195), s. 125.

12. A concise statement of any other facts necessary to make out the title; and affidavits or other evidence to prove the same: The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), s. 6 (d). Statement of facts.

N.B.—All affidavits to prove facts material to the petitioner's title should, as far as possible, be made by disinterested persons: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352.

13. Schedule of the particulars so produced to be marked as an exhibit to the petitioner's affidavit: Re Dickson, 3 Chy. Ch. 352; The Quieting Titles Act, s. 6 (d); see Form, H. & L. Forms, No. 1475. Schedule of particulars.

Crown bonds registered in the former Queen's Bench office no longer bind lands, unless also registered in the Registry office: Re Franklin, 8 P. R. 470; R. S. C. c. 103.

Affidavits proving the publication, and posting of the advertisement required under The Quieting Titles Act, s. 12, should show that the deponent has examined issues of the papers in which the advertisement has been published; and also that the notices have remained posted at the Court House, and Post Office, continuously for one month: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352; Re Hill, Ib., 348. For forms of affidavits: see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1483, 1484. Affidavits of publication of advertisement.

693. Where an application is made under section 3 of the said Act, the proper officer in the Central Office shall attend one of the Judges with the petition, for directions, before the same is referred for investigation. C.R. 992. Petitions to be referred to Judge in certain cases before being referred for investigation.

Rules 694-697.

Where petitioner has only a partial interest, consent of other parties interested required.

Where the petitioner has merely a partial interest, the Cou usually requires the consent of the other persons interested in t estate, to be filed, before authorizing the petition to be referred for i vestigation. Thus, where a purchaser before conveyance filed a pe tion, the consent of his vendor was required: Re Brown, 3 Chy. C 158; and where the petitioner was a tenant in remainder, the conse of the tenant of the particular estate was required: Re Pelten, P. R. 470.

The consent duly verified by affidavit should be attached to t petition, when brought to be filed.

Petitions, to whom to be referred.

694. All petitions under the said Act shall be filed i the Central Office, and may, at the option of the pet tioner, be referred to the Referee in Toronto or to an Local Master. C.R. 993.

Where the petitioner desires to have the petition referred to a Local Master as Referee of Titles, he must designate the officer whom he desires the referenee, by indorsement on the petition: s Rule 696. If there be no such indorsement the petition will be r ferred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto: Rule 697.

Senior Registrar to be Inspector.

695. The Senior Registrar shall be the sole Inspecto of Titles, in respect of petitions filed under The Quietin Titles Act, and the sole Referee in Toronto. C.R. 994.

The Senior Registrar is the Senior Registrar of the High Cou Division: see Jud. Act, s. 76 (c).

The Inspector of Titles supervises the work of all Local Referee of Titles, and as Referee of Titles at Toronto he investigates title referred to him for investigation: see Rules 708, 709.

The fees payable to the Inspector of Titles are regulated b Tariff B.

Petitions, how to be indorsed.

696. Petitions to be referred to any Local Referee shal be indorsed thus: 'To be referred to the Referee a ———— and to Mr. ———————— Inspector of Titles. C.R. 995.

At preseat there is only one Inspector of Titles, and this officer i also the sole Referee of Titles at Toronto: see Rule 695.

If there be no indorsement of the name of a Local Master, the peti tion is to be referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto: Rule 697.

Where the petition is required to be referred to a Local Master, a Referee, it must, before being filed, be entered with the Inspector o Titles, and a fee of $8 in stamps must be paid thereon: see Rule 69 Tariff B.

Petitions, when to be referred to Toronto Referee.

697. Petitions filed unindorsed shall, without order stand referred to the Referee in Toronto, but a petitio indorsed with the name of any Local Referee shall stand referred to him. C.R. 996.

Rules 698-702.

698. Petitions to be referred to a Local Referee shall be entered with the Inspector of Titles before being filed. C.R. 997. Petitions to be referred to Local Referees, to be entered with Inspector.

C. R. 997 provided that the entry with the Inspector of Titles was to be made before filing the petition, and that the Inspector of Titles was to note thereon the date of entry and initial the same. The omission of these provisions is, probably, not intended to make any change in the practice.

699. A Local Referee shall be entitled to confer or correspond from time to time with the Inspector of Titles, for advice and assistance on questions of practice or evidence, or other questions arising under the Act or under these Rules. C.R. 998. Local Masters may confer with Inspector.

700. Upon the filing of the petition it shall be delivered or mailed by the proper officer to the Referee. C.R. 999 and 1276. Petition to be sent to Referee.

The Clerk of Records and Writs is the "proper officer" to forward the petition to the Referee to whom it is to be referred.

701. The particulars necessary, under section 7 of the Act, to support the petition shall be delivered or sent by the petitioner, or his solicitor, to the Referee, and shall be forthwith examined and considered by him. C.R. 1000. Papers in support of application to be delivered to Referee and examined by him.

At the time these Rules were passed The Quieting Titles Act was 10 Edw. 7, c. 59, and the particulars intended to be referred to in this Rule are probably those required under s. 6 of that Act which is also s. 6 of The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), not s. 7 as stated in the Rule. The section was numbered 7 in a prior Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. 1897, c. 135).

On delivering the papers to the Referee a fee of fifty cents is to be paid on each deed in the chain of title, other than satisfied mortgages; and ten cents on each other paper filed: see Tariff B.

Patents from the Crown and wills are regarded as absolute deeds, and so are mortgages where the equity of redemption has been released, or a power of sale exercised under which the petitioner claims title.

The petitioner is not, however, required to stamp with 50c., absolute deeds, under which he does not claim title: see The Tariff B.

Where the reference is to the Referee at Toronto the additional fee of $4 on the certificate of title is also payable: Ib.; but this fee is not payable where the reference is to be a Local Master as Referee: see Tariff B.

702. In every case of an investigation of the title to property under the said Act, the petitioner shall shew Evidence required as to possession.

by affidavit or otherwise, whether possession has alway accompanied the title under which he claims the prop erty, or how otherwise, or shall shew some sufficient rea son for dispensing with such proof either wholly or i part. C.R. 1001.

The question of possession is always a very important one, and is necessary that the affidavits should shew how the possession ha been held, e.g.: whether by residence, or by cultivation, and by whom If by tenants, giving their names and the periods during which the occupied. Proof as to possession is indispensable: Re Wright, 2 Ch Ch. 355. For form of affidavit: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1480.

Petitioner originally entering as a trespasser.

Where the petitioner is a mere trespasser claiming to have acquire title by possession, the evidence as to possession must be very clea and conclusive, and it must be shewn to have actually extended t the whole of the land claimed, and should negative the existence o the exceptions which prevent the statute from running: Chapman v Bunbury, 31 C. L. J. 103; 15 C. L. T. 57. The actual possession o some part of a lot, or parcel, of land by a mere trespasser, will b insufficient to confer a title by possession as to any other part o which there has been no actual possession, even though the lot be wild lot: Harris v. Mudie, 7 Ont. App. 414; Reynolds v. Trivett, 7 O. L R. 623. In order to confer a title under the Statute of Limitation there must be an actual and visible possession; mere payment o taxes on a vacant lot confers no title: Re Jarvis v. Cooke, 29 Gr. 303 Walton v. The Woodstock Gas Co., 1 Ont. 630; but see Steers v. Shaw 1 Ont. 26; Kirby v. Cowderoy, 1912, A. C. 599; 107 L. T. 74. Even clear ing and fencing, without actual possession or putting the land to any use, is not a sufficient possession to bar the rightful ower: Stovel v Gregory, 21 Ont. App. 137.

Possession of part is not constructive possession of rest of lot.

In order to defeat a rightful owner's title, by adverse possession the possession must have been continuous for the required number of yesrs: whenever the possession is vacant, the rightful owner is in possession in contemplation of law: see Trustees Agency Co. v. Short 13 App. Cas. 793; Reynolds v. Trivett, 7 O. L. R. 623.

Evidence where title claimed solely by possession.

Where the petitioner claims title by possession, he should prove the possession for the requisite time, by the clear and positive evidence of at least two independent witnesses. In such a case a notice, pre pared by the Referee, should be served upon the person having the paper title, if he can be found, but if not, evidence of search for him or his representative should be put in, and in such a case the possession should be shewn to have been long enough to bar him, even though he had no notice of the possession: Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. Where the petitioner claims title as against the patentee, or his heirs, or assigns, of land of which they have not taken actual possession by residing on, or cultivating some portion thereof, he must shew either knowledge of his possession by the patentee, or his heirs, or assigns, or else establish a possession for at least twenty years as against the patentee and those claiming under him: The Statute of Limitations (R. S. O. c. 75) s. 6 (4); Re Linet, 3 Chy. Ch. 230; Bingle v. Dake, 42 U. C. Q. B. 250; Van Velsor v. Hughson, 45 U. C. Q. B. 252; Hicks v. Williams, 15 Ont. 228; Stovel v. Gregory, 21 Ont. App. 137; but this is not necessary as to other ersons becoming interested in the lands, as to whom ten years' possession may be sufficient, e.g., a purchaser at a tax sale: Brooke v. Gibson, 7 Ont. 218, but see Donelly v. Ames, 1h., 271; proof of notice to the husband of the owner is sufficient: Harris v. Prentiss, 30 C. P. 484; S. C., on Appeal, 7 Ont. App. 414. A decree for redemption not prosecuted by the mortgagor for upwards of 21 years was held to constitute no bar to the mortgagee's obtaining a title by possession, notwithstanding that the mortgagor was a lunatic: Re Leslie, 23 Ont. 143.

Rules 703-705.

When actual possession of part may confer title to residue of lot.

It is not clear that it is necessary to establish so strict, and actual, a possession of all the land claimed, where the petitioner has been in possession under a claim of title which was originally defective. In such a case the doctrine of constructive possession might, and would probably, be held to apply even as against the owner of the paper title: see Dundas v. Johnston, 24 U. C. Q. B. 550; Davis v. Henderson, 29 U. C. Q. B. 344; per Burton, J., Harris v. Mudie, 7 Ont. App. p. 425; Steers v. Shaw, 1 Ont. 26.

A person who has been in possession under a fraudulent grantee, but who has not acquired any title as against the latter, cannot set up a title by possession as against a purchaser of the land from the assignee in bankruptcy of the fraudulent grantor, made after the fraudulent conveyance has been set aside in proceedings instituted against both the fraudulent grantor and grantee: Donovan v. Herbert, 4 Ont. 635.

Where there is no contest, attendance of petitioner's solicitor dispensed with.

703. Where there is no contest, the attendance of the petitioner, or of any solicitor on his behalf, shall not be required on the examination of the title, except where, for any special reason, the Referee directs such attendance. C.R. 1002.

Referee to deliver requisitions and objections.

704. If, on such examination as aforesaid, the Referee finds the proof of title defective, he shall deliver or mail to the petitioner, or his solicitor, a memorandum of such finding, stating shortly therein what the defects are, and he shall therein state as far as possible all the objections to the title. C.R. 1003.

Advertisements to be published in Gazette and other newspapers.

705. When the Referee finds that a good title is shewn he shall prepare the necessary advertisement, and, unless the publication thereof is dispensed with under section 14 of the said Act, the same shall be published in the Ontario Gazette and in any other newspaper or newspapers in which the Referee thinks it proper to have the same inserted; and a copy of the advertisement shall also be put up on the door of the court house of the county where the land lies, and, unless the nearest post office is in a city, in some conspicuous place in the post office which is situate nearest to the property, the title of which is under investigation; and the Referee shall indorse on the advertisement so prepared by him, the name of the newspaper or newspapers in which the same is to be published, and the number of insertions to be given therein respectively, and the period (not less than four weeks) for which the notice is to be continued at the court house and post office respectively. C.R. 1004.

At the time these Rules were passed The Quieting Titles Act in force was 10 Edw. 7, c. 59, and the section authorizing the advertisement to be dispensed with was s. 12 (2), which is also s. 12 (2) of The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), not s. 16, as mentioned in this Rule. The section was numbered 14 in a prior Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. 1897, c. 135.)

The notice is not to be published until the Referee finds that a good title is shewn.

Advertisement, how published.

The notice is, ordinarily, required to be published once in the Ontario Gazette, and at least once a week for two weeks in some local newspaper published in the county town, or other place near where the lands in question are situated; but in some cases it may be found advisable to publish the advertisement more frequently. At least a month should be given from the date of the publication of the first advertisement, for sending in claims.

For form of advertisement: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1481.

The advertisement is principally intended for persons, if any, whose rights are not disclosed on the proceedings. Persons who are known to have, or appear to have, some adverse claim, should generally be required to be served with notice of the proceedings: see The Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 123), ss. 14-18; and see note to Rule 706.

Notice, how published.

The notices required to be posted at the Court House, and Post Office, should be kept up continuously for the period directed, and the person intending to prove the posting up, should take care to see that such notices are kept up continuously for the requisite period: Re Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348; Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. For form of affidavits of posting, and of publication of advertisement: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1483, 1484.

Affidavits proving publication.

Where the lands are situate in a city, posting of a notice at the Post Office is not required.

Where an advertisement was posted at the Court House nearest the lands, which was not the Court House of the County in which the lands were situate, the irregularity was waived by the Judge: Re Harris, 12 P. R. 430; and see The Quieting Titles Act, s. 41.

Dispensing with advertisement.

Where the property in question is proved to be of the value of no more than $3,000, the publication of an advertisement may be dispensed with: see The Quieting Titles Act, s. 12 (2). The affidavit proving the value of the land should follow the wording of that section, and should show explicitly that it is worth "no more than $3,000": see Form H. & L. Forms, No. 1485. Where a Local Referee dispenses with an advertisement, it would be convenient for him so to state in his certificate required by Rule 780, e.g., by adding thereto and it having been proved to my satisfnction that the land in ques- Rule 706.

ion is of no more value than $3,000, I dispensed with the publication
f any advertisements of this application."

Although publication of the notice in the Gazette, and local paper, is dispensed with, the notice (printed, or type written), must, nevertheless, be affixed in the Post Office, and Court House, as required by this Rule, and also in a conspicuous place, or places, on the land in question: see s. 12 (2).

706. Any notice of the application to be served or mailed under section 16 of the Act, shall be prepared by the Reference; and directions shall in like manner be given by him as to the persons to be served with the notice, and as to the mode of serving the same. C.R. 1005. Notices required to be served.

The section of The Quieting Titles Act probably intended to be referred to in this Rule, is s. 14 of the present Act, which was s. 16 in the prior Act (R. S. O. 1897, c. 135).

The 14th section of the present Act is as follows:—

"14. Where it appears that there is any person who may have a claim adverse to, or inconsistent with, that of the petitioner to, or in respect of, any part of the land, the Judge shall direct such notice as he deems necessary to be mailed to, or served on such person, his agent or solicitor, 10 Edw. 7, c. 59, s. 14." Notice to adverse claimant.

By s. 22 the Referee of Titles, to whom any petition is referred, is to proceed as the Judge should do under the Act, had the reference not been made, and he is to have the same powers.

Notice should be required to be served on every person known to have a claim adverse to the petitioner, whether the claim be admitted by the petitioner or not, unless the consent of such person be filed, duly verified, consenting to a certificate of title being granted to the petitioner, free from, or subject to, the claim, if any, of such consenting party, and if subject to his claim, setting forth with clearness what his claim is. The notice to be served should contain explicit information why it is served: Ex porte Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348.

Notice is also often required to be served for the sake of precaution, thus, where an application was made before The Devolution of Estates Act by devisees within a year of the death of their testator, notice was required to be served on the heirs-at-law, as the petition was, in effect, a proceeding to establish the will: Ex porte Hill, 2 Chy. Ch. 348; and see Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80.

Where the Crown appears to have a possible interest, notice may be required to be served on the Attorney-General, and, if no claim is filed, the Crown may be barred, or if a claim is filed it may be adjudicated in the same manner, and with the same effect as that of any other claimant: The Quieting Titles Act, s. 32 (3); Re Roycroft, 20 O. L. R. 437.

When title is claimed by possession notice should ordinarily be served upon the persons who, but for such possession, would be the owners: Re Chamberlain, 2 Chy. Ch. 352. So also where the petitioner claimed the north-east part of the lot under a will devising the north-west part, alleging that the word "west" was a clerical error. When title claimed by possession, owner of paper title to be served.

Rule 706.

all persons interest in maintaining the opposite view were required to be notified: Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357.

Claim under will which misdescribes property.

Where a petitioner claims title under a will in which the land has been misdescribed, his title may be quieted in any case in which the Court would, in an action for the construction of the will, determine that the land in question passed by the will as claimed by the petitioner, notwithstanding the erroneous description: see Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474; Re Shaver, 6 Ont. 312; but where the defect is in a deed inter partes the petitioner must bring an action to reform the deed; he cannot get the defect cured under The Quieting Titles Act: see Re Callaghan, 8 P. R. 474.

Parol evidence was held to be admissible to shew that "Lot 16, Con. 7, N. H." in a will meant "North half of Lot 16, 7th Concession, Township of Morris": Young v. Purvis, 11 Ont. 597; but where a description in a will is free from any patent ambiguity, it would seem that parol evidence is inadmissible to shew that it means anything else than what is expressed: Summers v. Summers, 5 Ont. 110; Hickey v. Stover, 11 Ont. 106; Re Bain & Leslie, 25 Ont. 136, and see Asten v. Asten, 1894, 3 Ch. 260; 71 L. T. 228. Under a devise of "19 and 20 Thomas St.," not owned by the testator, "19 and 20 Castle St." which were owned by him, were held to pass: Re Mayell, Foley v. Ward, 109 L. T. 40. And where there is a general devise of all the testator's land, followed by a particular erroneous description, the latter may be rejected: Wright v. Collins, 16 Ont. 182; and see McFayden v. McFayden, 27 Ont. 598; Smith v. Smith, 22 O. L. R. 127.

A devise of the S. W. ¼ of a lot not owned by the testator was held not to pass the S. ½ of the N. ½ of the same lot, which he did own: Re Clement, 22 O. L. R. 121.

Petitioner may be required to give negative evidence.

Proceedings under The Quieting Titles Act being for the most part ex parte, it is often necessary to require the petitioner to negative the existence of facts, of which, in the case of a contest between the petitioner and any third person, the onus of proving would be on such third person: Re Caverhill, 8 C. L. J. 50.

Or explain circumstances creating suspicion.

Where any transfer of the property has taken place, in circumstances of an unusual nature, it is necessary to require the petitioner to adduce evidence to negative the existence of any fraud, or want of bona fides: Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80. Where, for instance, the property is claimed by, or on behalf of, a wife, under a conveyance made to her during coverture, an explanation of the transaction should be given on oath, to shew that it was bonâ fide, and was such that the husband's creditors could have no claim to the property, and the affidavit of the petitioner should be corroborated by disinterested persons of credibility: Ex parte Lyons, 2 Chy. Ch. 357. So where the former owner, a person of the same name as the petitioner, had conveyed the land to the petitioner a few days before the filing of the petition, and the title appeared simple, explanations were required to be given: Re Wright, 2 Chy. Ch. 355.

And, in addition, notice must also be required to be served on persons who may appear to have a possible interest in disputing the bona fides of any conveyance under which the petitioner claims, wherever there are any circumstances calculated to arouse suspicion: Re Dougherty, 4 Chy. Ch. 80.

Service of notices, how effected.

Notices required by the Referee, to be served, are to be prepared and issued by him. Where service is directed to be effected by mailing the Referee may direct the letter enclosing the notice, to be prepaid and regietered, and a notico to be indorsed on the envelope to the effect that if the letter be not called for within eight days thnt it is to be returned to the Referee of Titles, by whom the notice is issued. Directione to return letters, if not called for, are required by the Post Office authorities, to be printed, in order to secure due attention. Rule 707.

Where a notice, served in this way, is returned to the Referee of Titles, he should require further service. Where service is authorized on the attorney, solicitor, or agent of the party to he notified, there should be evidence produced that the person served was in fect the attorney, solicitor, or agent of the party required to he notified.

Where the person to be notified is an infant, the Official Guardien ad litem may be served for him, and no order nppointing him guardian is necessary: Re Murray, 13 P. R. 367. Notice to infants.

For form of notice to a pereon eppearing to have en adverse interest: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1445.

Strict proof is required to be given of the due service of nil notices required to be served. The entries of service in a deceased solicitor's docket were held insufficient proof: Ex parte Palmer, 2 Chy. Ch. 351. Where a certificate was granted on a false affidavit of the due service of a notice, the certificate was set aside on the application of the perty directed to he notified, with costs; the Court refusing to enter into the question whether he was properly entitled to notice or not: Re Ashford, 3 Chy. Ch. 77. Proof of service.

Where there is a conteet, the Referee may, by consent, report on the contestant's claim before disposing of the petitioner'e title; but he should not do so, without consent. In generai, the petitioner is bound, in the first piace, to make out his own title before he can cieim to have adjudication upon the claim of a contestant: Re Cameron, 14 Gr. 612. And a contestant is at liberty to point out defects in the petitioner's titie, before proceeding to prove his own: Armour v. Smith, 16 Gr. 380. Adjudication on claim of contestant.

The Referee of Titles may award costs to, or against, a petitioner, or contestant: The Quieting Titles Act, ss. 20, 22; Jud. Act, s. 74 (4): Anon., 2 Chy. Ch. 22. Where a petitioner claims title by possession, end the holder of the paper title on heing notified appeare and contests the metter, costs will not he nwarded against him ss a matter of course, even though the petitioner succeeds in estahliehing his title: Low v. Morrison, 14 Gr. 192. Referee may award costs.

The order or certificate of the Referee should be drawn up in similiar ierme to a report—e.g., "I find and certify," nnd not "adjudge and determine": Anon., 2 Chy. Ch. 22. Form of report.

The Referee's certificate, nliowing or disaliowing, the claim of any contestant, requires confirmation in the samc manner as a Master's report made in an action.

707. The Inspector, or Toronto Referee, shall from time to time confer with one of the Judges in respect of matters before such Inspector or Toronto Referee, as there may be occasion. C.R. 1006. Inspector and Toronto Referee to confer with Judges.

Rule 708.

When title made out before Local Referee, he is to certify same, and forward papers to Inspector.

708. When any person has shown himself, in the opinion of a local Referee, to be entitled to a certificate of conveyance under the Act, and has published and given all the notices required, the Referee shall write at the foot of the petition, and sign, a memorandum to the following effect: "I am of opinion that the petitioner is entitled to a certificate of title (or conveyance) as prayed (or subject to the following incumbrances, etc., as the case may be);" and shall transmit the petition (charges prepaid,) with the deeds, evidence, and other papers before him in reference thereto, to the Inspector of Titles, who shall examine the same carefully, and if he finds any defect in the evidence of title, or in the proceedings, he shall, by correspondence or otherwise, point the same out to the petitioner, or his solicitor, or to the Referee, as the case may be, in order that the defect may be remedied before a Judge is attended with the petition and papers for approval. C.R. 1007.

Duty of Inspector.

Finding of Local Referees not conclusive.

It will be seen from this Rule that the finding of a Local Referee of Titles is not conclusive, but that it is the duty of the Inspector of Titles to examine the proceedings, and to require any defects in the proofs to be supplied. Where the Inspector finds the proceedings defective, he either transmits the papers to the Referee, with a note of the defects, or, where they are few, and of a trifling character, he communicates directly with the solicitor of the petitioner.

Where the advertisement is dispensed with: see notes to Rule 705.

Contestant's claim.

Where there has been any contest before a Referee of Titles, he should, before certifying in favour of the petitioner, and transmitting the papers to the Inspector, dispose of the claim of the contestant. The order, or report, of the Referee on the claim of a contestant should be filed and confirmed, in the same manner as a Master's report in an action, before a certificate of title is granted to the petitioner: Rules 428, 502. As all proceedings in Quieting Title matters are commenced in Toronto, all reports must be filed in the Central Office: Rule 428.

Appeal from Inspector, or Referee of Titles.

An appeal will lie from the order, report, or certificate, of a Referee of Titles, or Inspector of Titles, to a Judge in Court in the same manner as an appeal from a report made in an action: Rule 714; seven clear days' notice of appeal must be given to the respondent: see Rules 502, 503.

A contestant who succeeds in establishing an adverse claim, cannot obtain a certificate of title in the proceedings in which he is contestant, but he may himself file a petition, and on such petition, he would be entitled to use the evidence taken in the matter in which he was contestant: Re Dunham, 8 P. R. 472.

709. Where the Inspector, or Referee at Toronto, finds that the petitioner has shewn himself entitled to a certificate of title, or a conveyance under the Act, and has published and given all the notices required, he shall write at the foot of the petition, and sign, a memorandum to the same effect as is required from a Local Referee, and shall prepare the certificate of title, or conveyance, and shall engross the same in duplicate, one being on parchment or parchment paper; and shall sign the same respectively at the foot or in the margin thereof; and shall attend one of the Judges therewith, and with the deeds, evidence, and other papers before him in reference thereto; and, on the certificate or conveyance being signed by the Judge, the Inspector or other Referee aforesaid, as the case may be, shall deliver or transmit the same to the Central Office, to be sealed and registered, and the proper officer in the Central Office shall deliver or transmit the same when so sealed and registered, to the petitioner, his solicitor, or agent, for registration. C.R. 1008.

Rule 709.

When title is made out to satisfaction of Inspector, or Toronto Referee, he is to certify same; and to prepare Certificate of Title.

Certificate to be engrossed in duplicate.

Signed by Judge and sealed.

It is not any part of the duty of a Local Referee to whom a petition is referred, to prepare the certificate of title.

Certificate of Title, by whom prepared.

The Inspector of Titles—or the Referee of Titles, at Toronto where the petition is referred to him—are the only officers authorized to prepare certificates of title, issued under the Act.

This Rule requires the certificate to be engrossed by the officer preparing it; the object of the Rule being, to insure the certificate being engrossed in a proper manner, but for some time past, the practice has been for the petitioner, or his solicitor, to procure the engrossments to be made on printed headings, supplied for the purpose by the law stationers.

Engrossment of certificate.

The engrossment should be well and carefully made, without using figures or abbreviations, as the Judges refuse to sign certificates engrossed in a careless and slovenly manner. Type writing on parchment should be avoided.

Where the petition is referred to a Local Referee, no fee is payable on the certificate of title, except the fees for entry; the fee of $8, payable to the Inspector, being in full of all fees payable to him except the fees on papers filed in answer to his requisitions: Tariff B. Where the petition is referred to the Referee of Titles at Toronto, a fee of $4 is payable on the certificate of title, in addition to the fees for entry in the Central Office: see Tariff B.

Fees on.

Rules 710-713.

After certificate of title granted, title deeds may be delivered up without order or receipt being given.

710. When a certificate of title or conveyance under the Act has been granted, the Inspector or Referee may, without further order, deliver, on demand, to the party entitled thereto, or his solicitor, all deeds and other evidences of title, not including affidavits made, and evidence given in the matter of the title; and shall take his receipt therefor. C.R. 1009.

Original deeds only returned to petitioner.

Under this Rule it has been the practice to return only original deeds and documents of title, but not certified copies, these are retained by the Inspector of Titles, with the other papers in the matter.

Papers filed in Quieting Titles proceedings are not open to general inspection; but it has been usual to require the person desiring to search them to shew that he has an interest in the proceedings, or to produce the consent of the petitioner or his solicitor: see Reg. v. Bank of England, 64 L. T. 468; and Re Strachan, 1895, 1 Ch. 439, 72 L. T. 175; Re Avory, before Meredith, C.J.C.P., 11th March, 1896.

Inspector or Toronto Referee to keep copies of all letters.

711. The Inspector and Referee shall keep a book and preserve therein a copy of all his letters under these Rules. C.R. 1010.

Applicant to pay all postage, etc.

712. The applicant shall pay, or prepay, as the case may be, all postages and other expenses of transmitting letters or papers. C.R. 1011.

Proceedings under s. 33, how conducted, and fees therefor.

713. Petitions under section 33 of the Act shall be filed and proceeded with in the same manner (as nearly as may be) as petitions for an indefeasible title. C.R. 1012.

The section probably intended to be referred to in this Rule is not s. 33, but s. 31 of The Quieting Titles Act (10 Edw. VII. c. 59), which was the Act in force when the Rules were passed. It is now s. 31 of the present Act. (R. S. O. c. 123). That section was formerly s. 33 in the prior Quieting Titles Act (R. S. O. 1897, c. 135).

The 31st section of the present Act, above referred to, is as follows:

Declaration of legitimacy, etc.

"31. Where a person domiciled or claiming land in Ontario, desires to establish that he is the legitimate child of his parents, or that the marriage of his father or mother, or of his grandfather and grandmother, was a valid marriage, or that his own marriage was a valid marriage, or that he is the heir, or one of the heirs of any person deceased, or that he is a natural born subject of His Majesty, he may, if the Court thinks fit, have any of such matters judicially investigated and declared, 10 Edw. 7, c. 59, s. 31."

Under the Imperial Statutes, 21 & 22 Vict. c. 93, it has been held that a petitioner cannot obtain a declaration of the legitimacy of his grandfather: Dodds v. Attorney-General, 42 L. T. 402 nor of the illegitimacy of some other person: Mansell v. Attorney-General, 2 P. D. 265, and see S. C., 4 P. D. 232. Rule 714.

A person who appears, and unsuccessfully opposes the claim of the petitioners, may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by his contestation: see Jud. Act, s. 74 (4); Bain v. Attorney-General, 1892, P. 261.

714. The certificate of the Inspector or of a Referee upon any contest before him shall be filed and an appeal shall lie from such certificate in the same way as from a Master's Report. C.R. 1013, amended. Appeals from Referee and Local Masters.

Appeals from Master's reports, are governed by Rules 502, 503.

The Rule only applies to certificates given in respect of contested claims. The certificate given under Rule 708, needs no confirmation as a report before being acted on.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

ACCOUNTANT'S OFFICE.

Books to be kept by Accountant

715. All such books and records shall be kept as may be directed by the Judges of the Supreme Court or the Finance Committee, and the forms used for directions and cheques shall be subject to its approval. New.

The Accountant is the officer of the Court in whom all moneys and securities in Court are vested: Jud. Act, s. 107 (2); Rule 720. He is a corporation sole, and his corporate name is "The Accountant of the Supreme Court of Ontario": see Jud. Act, ss. 76 (g) and 105. As to the Finance Committee: see Jud. Act, s. 106.

Salaries and expenses of office

716. In the month of January in each year the Accountant shall present to the Finance Committee a statement of the amounts paid for salaries and expenses of the Accountant's office during the previous year, and the names of the persons to whom such amounts were paid, and also an estimate of the salaries and expenses of his office for the current year; and such estimates shall be examined by the Finance Committee, who shall be at liberty to make such variations therein as may be deemed proper, and when approved a fiat shall be indorsed thereon or appended thereto which shall authorize the payment of the sums mentioned and cheques may issue accordingly. C.R. 69.

The expenses of the Accountant's office, including the salaries, are a first charge on the income arising from the funds in Court: Jud. Act, s. 105 (4).

As to the Finance Committee: see Jud. Act, s. 106.

Audit of Accounts.

717. An auditor shall be appointed whose duty it shall be to see that books and records are kept as required by the Finance Committee and to examine and verify the accounts, books and securities in the Accountant's office and to compare the balances with the Bank Account, and to make such further and other examination of the said books and securities as he may think necessary for the proper audit thereof, and to report forthwith, after making such examination, the result thereof to the said Committee, and from time to time to make such suggestions as may appear to be desirable for the efficient keeping of the accounts. C.R. 67. Rules 718-721.

718. The Auditor's remuneration, which is fixed at the sum of $500 per annum, shall be payable in monthly instalments, as part of the expenses of the Accountant's office. C.R. 68. Auditors' remuneration.

719.—(1) It shall be the duty of the Official Guardian to see that moneys payable on mortgages held by the Accountant, in which persons for whom the Guardian has acted are interested, are promptly paid, and that the mortgaged premises are kept properly insured, and that the taxes thereon are duly paid. Official Guardian's duty as to mortgages.

(2) There shall be paid to the Official Guardian for services rendered by him under this Rule the sum of $200 per annum, and the same shall be deemed part of the expenses of the Accountant's office. C.R. 19. Remuneration of Guardian

This Rule purports to be based on C. R. 19, it is really based on C. R. 79.

720.—(1) All mortgages and other securities taken under an order or judgment of the Court, and all bonds and other instruments required by the practice of the Court for the purpose of security, save security for costs, shall, unless otherwise ordered, be taken in the name of the Accountant, and shall be deposited in his office. Securities to be taken in name of Accountant.

(2) Mortgages and other securities made to, or vested in the Accountant, in any action or matter, are to be held by him subject to the order of the Court; but no duty or liability save as custodian of the instrument shall by reason of such mortgage or other security being made, given to or vested in him, be imposed on the Accountant in respect of such mortgage or security or any property thereby vested in him. C.R. 66.

721.—(1) Any person entitled to the discharge of a mortgage made to or vested in the Accountant or other officer, may leave with the Accountant the required discharge with a request that the same be executed. Discharge of mortgages held by Accountant.

(2) The Accountant shall thereupon certify as to the payment of the money secured by the mortgage, and the matter shall in such case be considered by the officers whose duty it is to sign and countersign cheques for payment of money out of Court, and if they find that the mortgage has been satisfied in full and that the proposed discharge is in due form they shall indorse upon such certificate and discharge a direction for the execution of the said discharge by the Accountant or other officer in whom the mortgage may be vested.

(3) Thereupon the Accountant or such other officer may execute such discharge and may on a receipt being given therefor, deliver up all deeds and documents relating to such mortgage in his hands and may assign any policy of insurance held by him as collateral security for such mortgage to the person entitled to such discharge or as he may by writing direct. C.R. 80. Amended.

Interest on moneys in Court.

722.—(1) Interest shall not be credited in any action or matter in respect of money paid into Court

(a) With a defence;

(b) As security for costs of an action or appeal;

(c) As security for debt or costs, to stay execution;

(d) As a deposit for sale in mortgage actions;

(e) As a condition imposed by any injunction order;

(f) As proceeds of sale in, or to abide the result of, interpleader proceedings; or

(g) For any other merely temporary purpose;

unless or until after the same shall have been in Court for six months and then only at the rate of 2 per cent. per annum not compounded in any case; but the Finance committee may for special reasons order that in any particular case interest shall be allowed on such money at any higher rate not exceeding 3 per cent. per annum.

(2) Interest shall be credited upon the Assurance fund at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum.

The Assurance Fund here referred to is that provided for by The Land Titles Act (R. S. O. c. 126), s. 123.

(3) Interest shall be credited to suitors' accounts other than as above provided at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum until otherwise ordered by the Finance Committee. C.R. 56.

(4) Interest shall be credited upon money paid into Court only after the same has been in Court for fifteen days. Rules 723, 724.

(5) Compound interest shall not be credited to any action or matter or allowed or paid to any suitor in respect of any fund which has not been in Court for at least five years. C.R. 57. Compound interest.

This Rule purports to be based on C. RR. 56, 57, it is in part based on C. R. 56 (2) as enacted by C. RR. 1222, 1223.

Where compound interest is allowed the practice of the Accountant's office is to compound it half-yearly. Money paid in for purposes mentioned in clause (1) is in no case to bear compound interest: see cl. (1).

The interest which accrues on funds in Court is apportioned among the parties beneficially interested in the funds; sums payable thereon for costs do not bear interest, but the interest which accrues on money applicable to the payment of the costs is, with the other interest, apportioned among the suitors in proportion to their respective interests in the principal money.

Where in an administration action costs are directed to be paid out of the estate, and a direction is made for the division of the fund after such payment among the parties beneficially entitled, in the absence of a special direction to that effect, the costs do not bear interest: In re Marsden; Withington v. Newmann, 40 Ch. D. 375; even though the payment of the costs has been delayed owing to there being no funds available: Archer v. Severn, 12 P. R. 648.

723.—(1) All sums less than $10 standing to the credit of an adult and unclaimed for two years, shall be transferred to a Suspense account. Balances under $10 standing for 2 years carried to Suspense Account.

(2) All sums which are not claimed within ten years from the time when the same became payable out of Court, shall be transferred to the Suspense account.

(3) Money transferred to the Suspense account shall cease to bear interest, but shall at any time be paid to the person entitled. C.R. 58. Amended.

724. Where money or securities in Court are to be paid out of Court or transferred to the legal personal representative of any person, the same may, upon proof to the satisfaction of the Accountant of the death of any of them whether before, on, or after the day of the date of the order, be paid to the survivors or survivor of them C.R. 71. Transfer of stock to representative of person entitled.

Rule 725.

Money, etc., payable to representatives may be paid to survivor of them.

725. Where money or securities in Court are to be paid out or transferred to any person named in the order or judgment, or named or to be named in any report, the same or any portion thereof for the time being remaining unpaid or untransferred, may, on proof to the satisfaction of the Accountant of the death of such person whether before, on, or after the date of the order or judgment and that his legal personal representatives are entitled thereto, be paid or transferred to such legal personal representatives or the survivors or survivor of them. C.R. 72.

Where no letters of administration have been taken out to the estate of a person who has died entitled to money in Court, and the amount is so small as not to warrant the expense of procuring letters of administration, the Court may direct the money to be paid out on the undertaking of the solicitor for the applicant to see to its due administration: Ross v. Ross, 4 Chy. Ch. 27; Callender v. Teasdale, 3 W. R. 289; King v. Isaacson, 9 W. R. 369; Hinings v. Hinings, 2 H. & M. 32; Re Cable, 3 W. R. 84; but see Re Cabel, 3 W. R. 280; Mulock v. Cawthra, 13 P. R. 453.

In Frogley v. Phillips, 1901, W. N. 243; 50 W. R. 184, it was held that where a person entitled to a fund in Court has died intestate, the Court will not allow the fund to be paid out to the person who is entitled to take out letters of administration, but has not done so, even although the fund is under £20, and it is there said that the Judges had agreed that letters of administration must be taken out in all cases.

Payment has been ordered to be made of moneys in Court to an official assignee in bankruptcy of a deceased person entitled to the same, without requiring him to take out letters of administration: In re Lawson, 1896, 1 Ch. 175; 73 L. T. 571. And where persons claiming to be the next of kin of a person entitled to money in Court applied in 1897 for payment, on the ground that the person entitled had in 1889 escaped from a prison in the United States where he was serving a life sentence, and had never since been heard of, the application was granted, and the taking out of administration to the estate of the person originally entitled was dispensed with: In re Dunn, 33 C. L. J. 434; 17 C. L. T. 197.

An administrator is entitled to have money in Court, to which he is entitled as administrator, paid out to him, notwithstanding there may be infants who may be entitled to a share of it as next of kin: In re Parsons, Jones v. Kelland, 14 P. R. 144; Stewart v. Whitney, Ib., 147; Hanrahan v. Hanrahan, 19 Ont. 396. Where the money in Court was the property of a person domiciled out of the Province, on his death it would seem that the money would not ordinarily be ordered to be paid out, except to a personal representative duly appointed by the Court of this Province: Stewart v. Whitney, supra. See The Surrogate Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 62) s. 74, as to the power to grant ancillary probate, or letters of administration, to personal representatives appointed in another Province, or other parts of the British Empire.

Where money was paid into Court under The Trustee Relief Act, under the erroneous supposition that a deceased person, of whose estate the fund was part, had died intestate, on the subsequent discovery and proof of a will, it was ordered to be paid out to the executors named therein, on petition presented by them, on proof that certain legacies bequeathed to infants were properly secured: Re Hood, 1896, 1 Ch. 270; 74 L. T. 77. Rule 726.

Where money is standing in Court to the credit of two or more persons as joint tenants, an application for payment out of a share to one of the parties, on which no order is actually made prior to the death of the applicant, will not amount to a severance of the joint tenancy: In re Wilks; Child v. Bulmer, 1891, 3 Ch. 59.

Where a beneficiary named in a will had disappeared and there was no evidence that he had survived the testator, and a sufficient time had elapsed, the Court presumed him to be dead, and made an order for the trustees to distribute the fund on the basis of the beneficiary not having survived the testator: see Re Benjamin, 1902, 1 Ch. 723; 86 L. T. 387.

C. RR. 73, 74 limited the operation of this Rule, by providing that payments were not to be made under letters probate, or letters of administration, granted more than six years after the order or judgment directing payment, or after the last payment of interest under such order or judgment but C. RR. 73, 74 have not been continued.

726. Any person claiming to be interested in, or to have a lien or charge upon, or an assignment of, any money or securities in Court, or invested in the name of the Accountant or other officer of the Court, or any portion thereof, or claiming to have the same applied towards the satisfaction of any judgment or execution against the person to whose credit such moneys or securities stand, or for whose benefit the same are held by the said Accountant or other officer, may, upon an affidavit verifying his claim, apply ex parte for an order directing that such money or securities shall not be paid out or dealt with except upon notice to him. C.R. 82. Stop orders, how and when obtained.

The power to grant stop orders was formerly part of the jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, and now, under The Judicature Act, is vested in the Supreme Court. Jurisdiction to grant stop orders.

This Rule, therefore, applies to the moneys and investments in Court, in any action in the Supreme Court, which are vested in the Accountant of the Supreme Court.

The object of the Rule is to define the cases in which a stop order may be granted, and prevent injustice being done by the granting of stop orders ex parte. The applicant for a stop order was always required to submit to be bound by the terms of C. R. 82 as a condition of getting the stop order. See Form of order Form 72; H. & L. Forms No. 543. The submission in the latter form should be made to accord with that in Form 72.

Rule 726.

An affidavit verifying the applicant's claim, i.e., shewing his title, is all that is required in support of an application: see Wood v. Vincent, 4 Beav. 419; Quarman v. Williams, 5 Beav. 133; but semble, the certificate of the Accountant, as to the money in Court, should also be produced.

Object of stop order

The effect of a stop order is simply to prevent the payment out of money, or the transfer of securities in Court, to the person appearing on the books of the Accountant to be entitled thereto, without notice being first given to the person who obtains the stop order. Nothing is decided thereby as to the rights of the parties: Lucas v. Peacock, 9 Beav. 177. A stop order has no effect until delivered to the Accountant, but the payment out may be stayed for twenty-four hours, on lodging a cavent with that officer.

When granted.

Stop orders may be granted agninst a fund in Court, on the application of an execution creditor of the party entitled to the fund: Wilson v. McCarthy, 7 P. R. 132; Courtoy v. Vincent, 15 Beav. 486. A motion by a judgment creditor who had not obtained execution was refused: Brooke v. Brooke, before Ferguson, J., 28th May, 1884; but granted in Steckle v. Byers, 10 C. L. T. 41, and by Boyd, C., in Tweed v. Lorocque (2nd June, 1890), where it was also held to be unnecessary to issue executions where the assets to be reached consisted of money in Court, and the costs of stop orders instead were allowed: see also Stuart v. Grough, 15 Ont. App. 309. A stop order may be obtained on a fund ordered to be paid into Court, though it has not been actually paid in: Shaw v. Hudson, 48 L. J. Chy. 689; but not against a fund which is neither in Court, nor ordered to be paid in: Wellesley v. Mornington, 11 W. R. 17.

Where a fund in Court has been assigned, but no stop order is lodged by the assignee with the Accountant, that officer is not liable if he pay the money out on a fraudulent application by the assignor: Bath v. Bath, 1901, 1 Ch. 460.

Payments made by the Accountant to a second assignee before notice of a prior assignment will not be disturbed: Cottingham v. Cottinghom, 11 Ont. 294.

Application to pay out.

Sometimes the stop order is followed by an application for payment to the party obtaining it; such a motion is of course made on notice to all parties interested in the fund: Re Gilchrist, Bohn v. Fife, 7 P. R. 430, including any other persons who have obtained stop orders against the fund: see Hulkes v. Day, 10 Sim. 41.

Where the party obtaining the stop order does not move for an order for payment to him of the fund, the opposite party may move for payment out notwithstanding the stop order, or may move to discharge the stop order; such motions must, of course, be made on notice to the person who has obtained the stop order.

An order for payment out to a party entitled was made, notwithstanding a stop order had been lodged by a mortgagee of a person who had a contingent interest in the fund, but whose interest never actually vested, and without notice to the mortgagee: Vernon v. Croft, 58 L. T. 919; 36 W. R. 778. This, however, seems like adjudicating upon a man's rights in his absence, and is a precedent that will no doubt be very cautiously followed: see Rule 213.

A mortgagee of a fund in Court is not entitled to have the whole fund paid out where it exceeds the amount due under his mortgage.

but only sufficient to satisfy his debt: see Re Bell, 1896, 1 Ch. 1; 76 L. T. 391; Hockey v. Western, 1898, 1 Ch. 350. Rule 726.

Priorities.—As between specific charges on a fund, a subsequent chargee having at the time of his advance notice of the prior charge, cannot obtain priority over it by first obtaining a stop order against the fund: Livesey v. Harding, 23 Beav. 141; Brearcliff v. Dorrington, 4 D. G. & S. 122; Swayne v. Swayne, 11 Beav. 463; Re Holmes, 29 Ch. D. 786: but if he had no notice of the prior charge when making his own advances, he may gain priority over it by first obtaining a stop order, even though he do so after notice of the prior charge: Ib., Greening v. Beckford, 5 Sim. 195; and see Stephens v. Green, 1895, 2 Ch. 148; 72 L. T. 83, 574; and an assignee for value of a fund claiming under an assignor who had no legal title, and obtaining a stop order without actual notice of a prior equitable assignment, will be entitled to priority as against the prior equitable assignees: Montefiore v. Guedella, 1903, 2 Ch. 26; 88 L. T. 496; but as between parties having no specific charge against the fund; e.g., execution creditors, he who first obtained a stop order formerly gained priority: Thomas v. Cross, 2 Dr. & S. 423; but now the fund will be distributed among all creditors rateably according to the principle of The Creditors' Relief Act, (R. S. O. c. 81; Dawson v. Moffatt, 11 Ont. 484; 22 C. L. J. 31; and see In re Bokstal, 17 P. R. 201; but an execution creditor cannot by obtaining a stop order acquire priority over a prior charge, legal, or equitable: Re Bell, Carter v. Stadden, 54 L. T. 370; see also Cottingham v. Cottingham, 11 Ont. 294, nor against a creditor who has obtained the prior appointment of a receiver of the fund: Re Anglesey, De Galve v. Gardner, 1903, 2 Ch. 727; 89 L. T. 584; although the appointment of a receiver creates no lien or charge upon the fund: see supra, p. 87. Effect of stop order on priorities.

Where a fund had been directed to be carried over to another account, and it was subsequently discovered that the person entitled to the fund was a debtor to the estate from which the fund was carried over, it was, nevertheless, held that specific chargees on the fund after it had been carried over were entitled in priority to the claims of the parties in the original suit: Re Eyton, Bartlett v. Charles, 45 Ch. D. 458; 63 L. T. 336.

Where a trust is being administered by the Court, the trustees cease to have any power over it, and a notice to them of an incumbrance will not give the party giving the notice priority over a prior incumbrancer who has not given notice; a stop order in such a case is the most effectual notice: Pinnock v. Bailey, 23 Ch. D. 497; 48 L. T. 811; Mutual Life Assurance Company v. Langley, 26 Ch. D. 686; 51 L. T. 284; Mack v. Postle, 1894, 2 Ch. 449; 71 L. T. 153; Cottingham v. Cottingham, 11 Ont. 294; but see Stephens v. Green, 1895, 2 Ch. 148, 72 L. T. 83, 574.

The priority acquired by a stop order extends only to the charge in respect of which it was obtained: MacLeod v. Buchanan, 33 Beav. 234; 4 D. J. & S. 265.

To ascertain the effect of a stop order the Court may look not merely at the ordering part, but also at anything else appearing on the face of the order: Mack v. Postle, 1894, 2 Ch. 449.

The stop order cannot defeat the rights of third parties to the fund: thus, the lien of a solicitor on the fund cannot be defeated by Stop order cannot defeat lien of solicitor.

Rules 727, 728.

obtaining a stop order against his client, even under an assignment: Haymes v. Cooper, 33 Beav. 431.

Costs.

Costs of obtaining a stop order are not given as of course: Grimsby v. Webster, 8 W. R. 755; Hoole v. Roberts, 12 Jur. 108; Waddilove v. Taylor, 6 Ha. 307; the applicant may be ordered to pay the costs of parties unnecessarily notified: Glazebrook v. Gillatt, 6 Beav. 611.

Mode of payment into Court.

727. Money to be paid into Court shall be paid into the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Toronto, or in some branch of it or into a chartered bank being its agent in Ontario, and in no other way. C.R. 405.

The accountant is the only proper person to receive payment into Court: Leroux v. Lanthier, 2 C. L. T. 481.

Where payment into Court was ordered, payment to the solicitor of the party entitled to the money was held not to be a ground for dispensing with its payment into Court: Blackburn v. Sheriff, 1 Chy. Ch. 208.

Directions to pay in.

728.—(1) The person paying money into Court shall obtain a direction to the Bank to receive the money.

Papers necessary to obtain direction.

(2) The person applying for a direction or cheque shall leave a præcipe therefor, and the judgment or order under which the money is payable, together with a copy thereof and of the report where necessary, which is to be on good paper of foolscap size, folded lengthwise, and is to be verified by an officer in the Accountant's office, and to be retained by the Accountant.

Outside towns.

(3) If the direction is obtained elsewhere than in Toronto, these papers, with the necessary postage for their retransmission, shall be sent to the Accountant forthwith.

(4) The copy so verified shall be marked with a number corresponding with that of the account, and shall be bound and kept for reference in a book to be called the "Order Book."

Assurance Fund.

(5) When money is required to be paid into Court to the credit of the Assurance Fund established under the Land Titles Act, the direction to receive the money, if the same is payable into a Bank in Toronto, shall be obtained from the Master of Titles, and if payable into a Bank outside of Toronto the direction shall be obtained from the proper Local Master of Titles. C.R. 406, 407 and 408.

A direction to the Bank to receive money, except where it is to be paid in under the Land Titles Act for the Assurance Fund, may be obtained from the Accountant, in Toronto, or from a Local Registrar.

or Deputy Registrar in the outer counties; and the moneys may be deposited in any of the branches of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, or at the principal office in Toronto, and in places where there is no branch of that bank, into the branch of any other chartered bank in such place. Rules 729-731.

729. The person paying money into Court shall be entitled to credit therefor as of the date on which the same was deposited in the Bank. C.R. 409. Date of crediting money.

730. The Bank, on receiving the money, shall give a receipt therefor in duplicate; and one copy shall be delivered to the party making the deposit, and the other shall be posted or delivered the same day to the Accountant. C.R. 410. Receipt to be given in duplicate by bank.

731.—(1) Money shall be paid out of Court upon the cheque of the Accountant, countersigned by an officer of the Court designated by the Finance Committee, and every cheque shall first be initialed by the Assistant Accountant or Chief Clerk. C.R. 412. Payment out of Court.

(2) The person entitled to a cheque shall produce and leave with the Accountant a præcipe therefor, together with the orders and reports entitling such person to the money. C.R. 416. On application for payment out, orders and reports to be produced.

Clause (1).—This Rule purports to be based on C. R. 412, but C. R. 412 was repealed by C. R. 1302, and this Rule seems therefore to be really based on C. R. 1302. Payment out of Court.

A Committee of Judges charged with the supervision of the financial affairs of the Court, gave the following directions (dated 18th Sept., 1899), to the officers of the Court:—

1. As a general rule all orders affecting money in Court, ought to be entitled in the cause or matter to the credit of which the said money is standing in Court where there is any such cause or matter; and in cases where money has been, by mistake, paid into Court to the credit of some non-existing cause or matter, the order correcting the mistake should be entitled in the cause or matter to the credit of which the money was intended to be paid into Court, and should recite the mistake; and— Judge's directions as to orders dealing with money in Court.

2. All orders affecting the moneys in Court of infants or other persons under disability, ought to be made on the application of such persons, by their guardians, next friends, or committees, as the case may be; or, if made on the application of any other person, it should appear by the order that the person under disability whose money is sought to be affected, had due notice of, and, if so, was properly represented on the application.

For form of præcipe for cheque: see H. & L. Forms, No. 391.

Moneys in Court are considered to be in custodiâ legis: see Allstadt v. Gortner, 31 Ont. 495; and if improperly paid out may, on a summary application, be ordered to be refunded: Ib. Where the mistake has not been induced by any fraud or improper dealing by the payee or his solicitor, or agent, interest will not be charged: Ib., but where he obtains an order for payment without any colour of right, he may be ordered to refund the amount with interest at the rate allowed by the Court: see Hogaboom v. Receiver-General, 23 S. C. R. 192.

Liability of solicitor for improperly procuring money to be paid out of Court.

Where one member of a firm of solicitors was cognizant of a fraudulent application to the Court, whereby money was improperly paid out to a party not entitled, it was held that each member of the firm was liable to refund it, including those who were ignorant of the fraud: Brydges v. Branfill, 12 Sim. 389, and see Atkinson v. Markreth, L. R. 2 Eq. 570; St. Aubyn v. Smart, L. R. 3 Chy. 646; Dundonald v. Masterman, L. R. 7 Eq. 504; Plumer v. Gregory, L. R. 18 Eq. 621; Cleather v. Twisden, 24 Ch. D. 731; 49 L. T. 633; 28 Ch. D. 340; 52 L. T. 330; Rhodes v. Moules, 1895, 1 Ch. 236; 71 L. T. 599; Marsh v. Joseph, 1897, 1 Ch. 213; 74 L. T. 412; 75 L. T. 555; Thompson v. Robinson, 15 Ont. 662; 16 Ont. App. 175; Bath v. Bath, 1901, 1 Ch. 460; 84 L. T. 107; but see Re McCaughey & Walsh, 3 Ont. 425.

Where a solicitor allowed his name to be used in an application for payment by a third person, who, by forged affidavits, and powers of attorney, succeeded in getting the fund into his hands, out of which he paid the solicitor a portion, and absconded with the balance, the solicitor was held liable for the whole fund, both what he actually received, and what he did not, though ignorant of the fraud: Slater v. Slater, 1897, 1 Ch. 222, note; 58 L. T. 149; and see Re Spencer, 21 L. T. 808; and Marsh v. Joseph, supra.

Where money is improperly ordered to be paid out of Court to parties not entitled, without fraud, but through the negligence of a solicitor, he is liable to the parties injured thereby for the consequences: Re Dangar, 60 L. T. 491; 41 Ch. D. 178.

Refunding of money paid out by mistake.

Where money has been ordered to be paid out of Court upon a mistake of facts: Fisken v. Wride, 13 Gr. 419, or to persons having no title: Hogaboom v. Receiver-General, 28 S. C. R. 192; it will upon summary application be ordered to be refunded, and the Statutes of Limitations do not apply in such a case: Allstadt v. Gortner, 31 Ont. 495; and where a solicitor was directed to refund money which he had obtained out of Court, under an order which was subsequently rescinded, he was held to be liable to attachment for contempt in disobeying the order: Pritchard v. Pritchard, 18 Ont. 173.

Where an order for payment out of money in Court has been made inadvertently in error, the Court has inherent jurisdiction on the fact being brought to its notice, to rescind such order, and to order repayment into Court of the money so paid out: Hogaboom v. Receiver-General, supra; see per Gwynne, J., 28 S. C. R., at p. 205; and see per Burton, C.J., in Re Central Bank, 24 Ont. App., at p. 473; affirmed in Sup. Ct., 28 S. C. R. 192.

But the remedy of the suitor would appear to be against the party who has improperly obtained payment: Ib., the Crown in such a case is not liable to make good the money even though it be not recoverable from the payee: see Re Williams, 1910, 2 Ch. 481; 103 L. T. 390.

Where a sum of money was paid out of Court under an erroneous order, and was subsequently recovered, but without interest, it was held that a proportion of the amount recovered should be between the tenant for life and remainderman, be treated as income and Re Leveland Estate, 1895, 2 Ch. 542. Rule 731.

Where money paid into Court with a defence, which was misleading in its terms, was bonâ fide taken out of Court by the solicitor, and, with his client's consent, applied partly in payment of his costs, and the residue paid to the client, it was held that the solicitor was not personally liable to refund it: Davis v. Richardson, 21 Q. B. D. 202.

So long as there is money in Court in an action, the Court will take care that any adjustment shall be made, which can properly be made, in order to effectuate the rights of the parties in the fund: see per Farwell, L.J., In re Calgary & Medicine Hat Land Co., 1908, 2 Ch., at pp. 661-2.

Where in an administration action a fund had not been dealt with for a long period after the judgment declaring that the funds in the hands of trustees ought to be returned to, and divided between, the holders of certificates for ratcable proportions in respect of bonds held by them; and some of the bond holders had omitted to establish their claims. it was held that the Court had jurisdiction on the application of some of the parties interested to limit a time within which those entitled should prove their claims, and in default excluding them from participation in the fund: Wilson v. Church, 106 L. T. 31.

Purchase money is not paid out except either on proof being given to the Accountant of the purchaser having received a conveyance or vesting order, or upon the production of the written consent of the purchaser, or his solicitor: Rule 456; and see Daniel Pr., 6th ed., 1100. Consent of purchaser to payment out.

A party declared by a foreign Court to be a prodigal, and for whom a council has been appointed, cannot be prevented by such council from obtaining money in Court to which he is entitled: Re Schot, 1902, 1 Ch. 488.

Payment to Married Women.—C. R. 70 provided: "Where money, stock, or securities in Court are directed by an order to be paid or transferred to an unmarried woman, and she marries before payment of the money or transfer of such stock or securities, the Accountant may pay out the money or execute a transfer of the stock or securities, in favour of such woman, upon an affidavit of herself and husband that no settlement or agreement for a settlement has been made or entered into before, upon or since their marriage; or in case any settlement or agreement for a settlement has been entered into, then upon an affidavit by the woman and her husband, identifying the settlement, or agreement for a settlement, and stating that no other settlement or agreement for a settlement has been made or entered into as aforesaid, and an affidavit of the solicitor of the woman and her husband that such solicitor has carefully perused such settlement or agreement for a settlement, and that according to the best of his judgment, such money, stock or securities are not, nor is any part thereof, subject to the trusts of the settlement or agreement for a settlement, or in any manner comprised therein or affected thereby." Money and stock, how paid, or transferred to a married woman.

That Rule has not been continued, but whether the practice laid down thereby should still be observed in order that the Court may be assured that the money or securities get to the right hand, is doubtful. It may be that the intention of the present Rule is that no such inquiry should be made, and that where there is a settlement affecting moneys or securities of a married woman, the trustees must protect themselves by obtaining a stop order, or otherwise bring their claim to the attention of the Court. If the former practice on this point is still to be observed, the decisions thereunder would be still applicable.

In England the affidavit of a solicitor alone that the settlement does not affect the fund in Court is not considered sufficient, but a certificate of counsel to that effect is also required: Re Smith, Smith v. New, 123 L. T. Jour. 298.

Where a married woman had assigned her interest in a fund in Court, and both she and her husband refused to make an affidavit of no settlement to enable the assignee to obtain payment of the fund, the Court made an order for payment, on the affidavit of a third party who knew the facts and was able to swear that there was no settlement: Timothy v. Crown, 1900, W. N. 51; 82 L. T. 142; following Rowland v. Oakley, 14 Jur. N. S. 845.

Affidavit, when dispensed with.

Where the fund was under £10, an affidavit was dispensed with Veal v. Veal, L. R. 4 Eq. 125; Guest v. Newmes, 78 L. T. Jour. 96, and where the husband was permanently resident out of the jurisdiction, the affidavit of the wife alone was accepted and acted on: Wilkinson v. Schneider, L. R. 9 Eq. 423; and in another case an affidavit by a solicitor disclosing facts, from which it appeared that it was unlikely that there was any settlement, was accepted as sufficient: Woodward v. Pratt, L. R. 16 Eq. 127; and see Timothy v. Crown, supra.

Ordinarily a married woman, if an infant, is not entitled to get money out of Court to which she is entitled, before attaining her majority; but when the infant is married and domiciled abroad, and by the law of such foreign country is entitled to give a valid receipt for moneys due to her, notwithstanding her infancy, a fund in Court may be ordered to be paid to her notwithstanding her infancy: Kavanagh v. Lennon, 16 P. R. 229. So also where a legacy is bequeathed to an infant and is expressly directed to be paid to her at a certain age before attaining majority, if such legacy is in Court, the Court will direct it to be paid in conformity with the will: Re Deneckin, 72 L. T. 220.

Where the applicant for the money is a female infant, it is probable that the Court might, in some cases, direct it to be settled. It was formerly held that a female infant had no power to waive her equity to a settlement: Shipway v. Ball, 16 Ch. D. 376; 44 L. T. 49. If not settled, doubtless the money will be held for the infant in Court, till she becomes of age, as in the case of any other infant, to be then paid to her, or to her trustees, under any settlement, as circumstances may require.

Woman past age of Child Bearing.—Where a fund in Court, in the event of a spinster lady, aged 51, having children who should attain twenty-one years would belong to them; but otherwise would belong to such spinster and others; it was ordered to be paid out, on the presumption that the spinster would have no children, upon security of a policy at a single premium, for the return of the fund in the event of the lady having a child: Carr v. Carr, 106 L. T. 753.

Infants, and Persons Non Compotes Mentis.—Money in Court belonging to an infant will not, as a matter of right, be paid out to the Surrogate Guardian of the infant: Re Harrison, 18 P. R. 303; nor to a foreign guardian, or official custodian, of a lunatic: Re Thompson, Thompson v. Thompson, 19 P. R. 304, though in either case such allowance for maintenance as may be shown to be proper and necessary for an infant, or person of unsound mind, may be allowed and paid to the guardian, etc., Ib. See also Re Chatham's Settlement, 1899, 1 Ch. 712; Thiery v. Chalmers, Guthrie & Co., 1899, W. N. 235; and Re Lloyd, 31 O. L. R. 476. Rule 731. Infants, lunatics, etc

Where an infant is found entitled to moneys in Court in an administration suit, or moneys of an infant or person of unsound mind are otherwise in Court: Re Thompson, T. v. T., supra; the Court takes charge of the fund, and will not suffer it to go into the hands of a trustee for the infant: Kingsmill v. Miller, 15 Gr. 171; Mitchell v. Richey, 13 Gr. 445; nor to his guardian appointed by the Surrogate Court, where the amount is large: Re Carter, 20 O. L. R. 127; and where it is in the hands of a personal representative it may be ordered to be paid into Court: Re Humphries, 18 P. R. 289; Whitewood v. Whitewood, 19 P. R. 183. But where a married woman died entitled to a fund in Court which she bequeathed to her executor to be invested and the income applied for maintenance of her children, the fund was ordered to be paid out to the executor: Re McDougall, 11 P. R. 494.

The Court has refused to pay money out of Court to the tutrix of an infant residing in Quebec, although by the law of that Province the tutrix is entitled to the possession of all the infant's property, where the fund in question was insurance money to which the infant was entitled under The Insurance Act (R. S. O. c. 183): In re Berryman, 17 P. R. 573; but she may under s. 175, s.-s. 1, apply to be appointed trustee of the fund, and obtain an order for payment on giving security.

Money to which a lunatic was entitled was ordered to be paid to a foreign Court, of which she had been made a ward, and within whose jurisdiction she resided: In re DeLinden, 1897, 1 Ch. 453.

In Re Knight, 1898, 1 Ch. 257; 77 L. T. 773, the Court refused to transfer to the curator of the person and property of a lunatic (appointed according to the law of Jersey, where the lunatic resided), stock of the lunatic in England, without proof of the need of the property for the maintenance of the lunatic, or other sufficient reason; and see In re De Lorragoiti, 1907, 2 Ch. 14; 96 L. T. 862. In Re Brown, 1895, 2 Ch. 666, stocks in England were transferred to a Master in Lunacy of a Colony appointed by the Courts of the Colony to manage the lunatic's property.

Ordinarily, money of an infant will not be ordered to be paid out to the infant personally until he has attained his majority; but where an infant is entitled to a legacy payable by the terms of the will on his attaining 18, the Court may, if it see fit, order payment to be made to the infant with the privity of the Official Guardian, on his attaining that age: Re Roberton, 17 O. L. R. 568; and when a female infant was married and domiciled in a foreign country, and was 19 years of age, and by the law of that country was entitled to receive moneys due to her, an order was made for payment to her of a fund in Court to which she was entitled, notwithstanding her infancy: Kavanagh v. Lennon, 16 P. R. 229. Money when paid out to infant.

Rules 732, 733.

Orders for maintenance of Infants:

Applications for payment out of the money of an infant for support or maintenance should be made in the name of the in and not of the guardian to whom the money is to be paid: see p. 1387, supra.

Orders for payment out of Court to be approved by Judge

732. Where an order for payment of money out Court is made otherwise than by a Judge of the Supre Court, the Accountant before acting thereon shall ap to a Judge for his approval. C.R. 414.

Orders dispensing with payment into Court to be approved by Judge

(2) An order dispensing with the payment of mon into Court unless it is made by a Judge of the Supre Court shall not be acted on unless or until a Jud approves thereof.

(3) An order dispensing with payment of money i Court, or a certified copy thereof, shall be left with Accountant forthwith after entry thereof. C.R. 417.

Statement of distribution of proceeds of land sold under Dev. of Est. Act to be deposited with Accountant.

733.—(1) The Official Guardian shall deposit in Accountant's Office a statement showing the distributi of the proceeds of lands sold or mortgaged with approval under The Devolution of Estates Act, a proof of the dates of births of the infants interested.

Moneys received by Official Guardian to be paid into Court.

(2) All money received by the Official Guardian behalf of infants, lunatics, absentees, or other persons f whom he acts, shall, without order, be paid into Court the credit of the person entitled.

Money of infants

(3) Money paid into Court under this rule to the cred of infants, shall be paid out to them when they atta their majority.

Money of non-concurring parties

(4) Money paid into Court to the credit of non-concu ring heirs and devisees shall be paid out to them upo application to the Accountant, without order.

Money of absentees.

(5) Money paid into Court to the credit of an absente shall be paid out to him upon the fiat of a Judge, to b obtained upon proof of identity after notice to the Off cial Guardian. C.R. 972 and 1325.

Costs payable out of the proceeds of land sold under The Devolutio of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 119), must be taxed by the Senior Taxin Officer: see Rule 677. It would seem that this Rule is intended t apply solely to the proceeds of lands sold under The Devolution o Estates Act with the concurrence of the Official Guardian.

Rules 734-737.

Costs, payment to solicitor authorized

734. When costs are directed to be paid out of money in Court, the Solicitor of the party entitled to receive the same shall be entitled to have the cheque drawn in his favor upon filing with the Accountant an affidavit stating:

Affidavit required

(a) That he is entitled to receive such costs, and

(b) That he has not been paid his costs or any part thereof, and that the costs, payment of which is sought, are justly due to him.

If the Solicitor has been changed in the course of the litigation, that fact shall be shown in the affidavit, and the consent of both Solicitors shall be filed. C.R. 1314.

Where the solicitor has been paid part of his costs, it is only the part unpaid which can be paid to him under this Rule, the client is entitled to the residue.

Moneys of infants or lunatics paid into C. Ct. or Sur. Ct. to be transmitted to Accountant

735. When money to which an infant or lunatic is entitled is paid into a Surrogate or County Court, the Registrar or Clerk of that Court shall forthwith cause the same to be transmitted to the Accountant with a statement showing when the money was so paid in, and a copy (certified by the Registrar or Clerk) of all judgments or orders affecting the same, and the money shall thereupon be placed to the credit of the said infant or lunatic. C.R. 1315. Amended.

C. R. 1315 only applied to moneys paid into County Courts. This Rule it will be noted extends also to moneys paid into Surrogate Courts to which infants, or lunatics, are entitled.

Money to be paid out without order.

736. When money is paid into Court to the credit of an infant it shall be paid out of Court to him with accrued interest without further order upon his attaining his majority, unless otherwise ordered. C.R. 1316.

C. R. 1316 applied to money paid into Court under the order of a Surrogate Judge. The present Rule appears to apply to all moneys paid in to the credit of an infant. It appears to be somewhat inconsistent with Rule 737, which requires a fiat for payment.

Fiat for payment out of infant or lunatic's money.

737.—(1) When money is in Court to the credit of an infant or lunatic it may be paid out upon the fiat of a Judge in Chambers without formal order.

Official Guardian to prepare fiat.

(2) Such fiat shall be prepared by the Official Guardian and may be signed either by the Judge or the Clerk in

Rule 737.

Chambers, and shall be entered at length in the order book of the Clerk in Chambers, and the fiat or a copy to be verified by the Accountant shall be deposited with the Accountant, and no law stamp shall be required upon such fiat.

Costs of application.

(3) The Judge may in his discretion fix and direct payment of the costs of the application to the Solicitor and dispense with the affidavit required by Rule 734.

Cheques for maintenance of infants.

(4) When an order has been made for payment of maintenance out of money in Court to which an infant is entitled the cheque shall, upon application to the official Guardian, be obtained and forwarded by him without expense to the applicant, and no law stamp shall be required upon any such cheque. C.R. 1324.

Rule 737.

CHAPTER XXIX.

PETITIONS OF RIGHT.

Petition of right.

The Sovereign cannot be sued in the Courts of Law as an ordinary defendant. It has been said that prior to the reign of Edward I. the Sovereign might have been sued as an ordinary defendant, and that by statute of Edward I., it was enacted that all claims against the Crown should thereafter be brought by petition, and this is said to have been the origin of the petition of right; but no such statute has been discovered and the evidence for its existence is by no means conclusive: see Clode, c. 1. However that may be, it is certain that the method of procedure by petition of right is of very ancient date, and seems to have been evolved from the practice of petitioning the King in Parliament.

The procedure in England upon petitions of right is now regulated by Imp. Stat. 23 & 24 Vict. c. 34, followed in Ont. by 35 Vict. c. 13, which was subsequently dropped from the statute book, and Rules of Court substituted therefor.

Rules, how far applicable.

The following Rules 738-750, of course, only apply to petitions presented in respect of claims against the Government of Ontario; claims against the Government of any other Province must be prosecuted in the Courts of such Province; and claims against the Dominion Government must be prosecuted in the Exchequer Court of Canada; as to which see R. S. C. c. 142.

Nature of petition.

A petition of right is a petition presented by a subject to the Crown stating an infringement of the suppliant's legal rights by the Crown or its officer, and praying redress therefor: see Clode, c. 11.

Equitable claims have been preferred by petition of right, but some question has been raised whether such claims can properly form the subject of such a petition: see Clode, c. 11.

When it may be filed.

As a matter of fact the following classes of claims have been prosecuted by petition of right, viz.: (1) claims for the restitution of property wrongfully taken, and detained, by the Crown or its officers; (2) claims arising out of some contract made between the Crown and a subject: (3) equitable claims; (4) claims made enforceable by this means by statute: see Clode, 66-7.

Whether an alien may present a petition of right does not appear to have been decided: see Clode, c. 5.

Where under an Act of Parliament a railway company was entitled to a grant of the Provincial Crown Lands on completion of its road, and to a grant of a proportionate part thereof on the completion of 20 miles of the line, a petition of right was held to be the proper mode of enforcing the claim against the Government of the Province: Canada Central Ry. Co. v. The Queen, 20 Gr. 273; but where a discretion is vested in the Crown as to making the grant, it would seem that a petition of right will not lie: see Hereford Ry. v. The Queen, 24 S. C. R. 1.

Rule 738.

A petition cannot be maintained against the Provincial Govern ment af Ontario in respect of any contract made with the Govern ment of Canada before Confederation: see Macdonald v. The Queen 44 U. C. R. 239. A contractor may petitian for the price of extr work under a contract: O'Brien v. The Queen, 4 S. C. R. 529; Jone v. The Queen, 7 S. C. R. 570; Isbester v. The Queen, 7 S. C. R. 69 A barrister may thereby claim a quantum meruit for his fees: Th Queen v. Doutre, 6 S. C. R. 342; and a Crown lessee of a fishery ma present n petition for damages far breach of a coveaant for quiet en joyment: The Queen v. Robinson, 6 S. C. R. 52; and a petition o right may be maintained for unliquidated dsmages resulting from breach af contract by the Crown: Thomas v. The Queen, L. R. 1 Q. B. 31; Feather v. The Queen, 6 B. & S. 293; The Queen v. Ma Lean, 8 S. C. R. 210; nnd it is immaterial whether the breach wa occasioned by tbo acts, or omissions, of the Crown official: Windso & Annapolis Ry. Co. v. The Queen, 11 App. Cas. 607; hut the contrac must be a binding one, and within the power of the officer of th Crown to make: Humphrey v. The Queen, 20 S. C. R. 591; Th Jacques Cartier Bank v. The Queen, 25 S. C. R. 84. In Starrs v The Queen, 1 Ex. C. R. 301, tbe Crown was held to have waived th right to dispute the validity of a contract, on the ground that it had referred a claim thereunder to arbitration, and had raised no lega objection to the investigation af the claim by the arbitrator, and had not appealed from the award; but as a rule the doctrine of estoppe cannot be invoked against the Crown; nor can laches be imputed t tbe Crown: Humphrey v. The Queen, 2 Ex C. R. 386; 20 S. C. R. 591; Peterson v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 74; yet forfeitures of certain kinds may be waived by the acts of Ministers, and officers of the Crown: Attorney-General v. Ettershank, L. R. 6 P. C. 354; Daven port v. The Queen, 3 App. Cas. 115; Peterson v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 67. The general rule is that the Crown is not liable to a subject for the tortiona acts of its officers: see Muskoka Mills Co. v. The Queen, 28 Gr. 563; Raleigh v. Goschen, 1898, 1 Ch. 73; nor for their negligence: see Regina v. McFarlane, 7 S. C. R. 216; Burroughs v The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 293; nor for their misfeasance, or non-feas ance: Regina v. McLeod, 8 S. C. R. 1; Corse v. The Queen, 3 Ex. C. R. 13; Quebec v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 252; 3 Ex. C. R. 164; 24 S. C. R. 420; but auch liabiiity may be imposed by statute: see 50 & 51 Vict. c. 16, s. 16 (D); Brady v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 273; Lavoie v. The Queen, 3 Ex. C. R. 96; The Queen v. Martin, 20 S. C. R. 240.

Where the acts complained of are authorized by a statute which prescribea a remedy for any person aggrieved, the claimant cannot maintain a petition of right, but must pursue the statutory remedy: Halifax v. The Queen, 2 Ex. C. R. 433.

The Statute of Limitations cannot be set up by the Crown as a bar to a claim by petition of right: see per Blackburn, J., Rustomjee v. The Queen, 1 Q. B. D. 487, at p. 491; sed vide Martin v. The Queen, 20 S. C. R. 240; and it would seem that a third party notified under Rule 741 would not be able to set it up against the petitioner: see Clode 175.

Form of petition of right.

738. A petition of right shall be according to Form No. 125, and shall be signed by the suppliant, his counsel or solicitor. C.R. 922.

Theee Rules do not expressly state that the petition shall be filed. The practice usually pursued is first to obtain ths fiat of the Lieutenant-Govsrnor under Rule 739, and then file the original petition, with such fiat indoreed, in the proper office where the proceedings are to be carried on: and see Rules 744, 140. Rules 739-741.

739. The petition shall be left with the Provincial Secretary, in order that the same may be submitted to the Lieutenant-Governor for his consideration, and in order that the Lieutenant-Governor, if he thinks fit, may grant his fiat that right be done; and no fee or sum of money shall be payable by the suppliant therefor. C.R. 923. Petition to be submitted to Lieutenant-Governor for his fiat.

For form of petition see Form No. 125; H. & L. Forme No. 1650.

The granting of the fiat mentioned in this Rule is an act of grace, and it would seem cannot be enforced by mandamus or any other method: see Clode, 165; scd vide Ryves v. The Duke of Wellington, 9 Beav. 579. The petition cannot be proceeded witb until the fiat bas been granted.

A Provincial Secretary neglecting or refusing to submit a petition of right to the Lieutenant-Governor is liable to an action: Fulton v. Norton, 30 S. C. R. 202; 1908, A. C. 451; 99 L. T. 455.

740. Where a fiat is granted a copy of the petition and fiat shall be left at the office of the Attorney-General, with an indorsement thereon, praying for an answer on behalf of His Majesty within 28 days. C.R. 924. Proceedings after fiat is obtained.

For form of indorsement: see Form No. 125; H. & L. Forms No. 1651.

741. Where the petition is presented for the recovery of real or personal property, or any right in or to the same, which has been granted or disposed of by or on behalf of His Majesty or his predecessors, a copy of the petition and fiat shall be served upon or left at the last or usual or last known place of abode of the person in possession, occupation or enjoyment of the property or right, indorsed with a notice according to Form No. 126. C.R. 925. Service on person in possession of real property.

The persons in posseesion of the property in question, referred to in thia Rule, are not to be made parties to tbe petition as respondents, but ths petition is presumahly to set out the facts relating to tbeir possession, and tbey are to he served with the petition and notice as required hy thie Rule, and they are to be at liberty to appear and enter a defence and defend as if tbey were named ss parties respondent to the petition: eee Rule 742.

Semble, a euhject cannot properly bs namsd ae a respondent in a petition of right: see per Wickens, V. C.: Kirk v. The Queen. L. R. 14 Eq. 558 at p. 563; scd vide. Kinlock v. The Queen, W. N. 1882, 164; Ib.. 1884. 80. No provision le made hy the Rules for bringing any third party before the Court in a petition of right except the present Rule.

Appearance.

742. The person so served shall appear and file his defence to the petition, as required by such notice. C.R. 926.

For form of appearance: see H. & L. Forms, No. 1653.

Formerly, in England, where land had been granted by the Crown to a third party, and it was sought to rescind the patent, as soon as a petition of right was presented a writ of scire facias issued from the Chancery, by which the Sheriff was required to give notice to the grantee to appear and shew cause why the letters patent should not be cancelled, and the grantee so summoned was entitled to make his defence, and the judgment of the Court in the sci. fa. proceedings virtually determined the petition of right, and when the letters patent were rescinded a writ of amovcas manus was awarded to put the applicant in possession: see Clode, p. 171.

Proceedings to rescind patents in Ontario may be brought by action in the nature of an information in the name of the Attorney-General against the grantee, and persons claiming under him: see Jud. Act sec. 3, supra, p. 3; see Fonseca v. Atty.-General, 17 S. C. R. 612. But an action for that purpose may be entertained in certain cases, without joining the Attorney-General either as plaintiff or defendant. Martyn v. Kennedy, 4 Gr. 61; Zock v. Clayton, 28 O. L. R. 447; and see O'Grady v. McCaffray, 2 Ont. 309, and supra, p. 18.

The notice to be indorsed on the petition requires the defence of the Crown to be filed within twenty-eight days after the date thereof. The Rules prescribe no time within which the petition is to be filed and served, and it may happen that the twenty-eight days from its date may have elapsed before the petition is served. This appears to be a defect in the form which existed also in the form heretofore in use, but the mistake was corrected by C. R. 927 which, however, has not been continued in these Rules.

The notice to be given to a third party (Form 126) requires him to appear within eight days, and file his defence within fourteen days after the date of service of the petition and notice.

The consequence of default in either case is, that the petitioner may apply for an order that the petition may be taken as confessed: see Rules 354, 744.

Pleadings in answer to petition.

743. The petition may be answered by statement of defence by or in the name of His Majesty's Attorney-General, on behalf of His Majesty, and by any other person who may be called upon as aforesaid, in the same manner as in an action. C.R. 928.

Rules to apply.

744. When no other provision is made and so far as the same are applicable, these Rules shall apply to petitions of right. C.R. 929.

Special Cases.—As to special cases: see supra, Rule 126.

Pleadings.—If no defence is filed within the time limited therefor, the pleadings cannot be noted closed under Rule 121, but the petitioner may apply for an order that the petition may be taken as confessed: see Rule 745. Rule 745.

Amendment.—The petition may be amended at the trial: Smylie v. The Queen, 27 Ont. App. 172; but it has been held that a petition of right cannot be amended without the consent of the Crown: Coates v. The King, 43 C. L. J. 701.

Security for Costs.—The Crown may under this Rule apply for security for costs upon the same grounds as such applications may be made in ordinary actions: see Rules 373 et seq. Where, however, the Crown had offered the suppliant, by its responsible Minister, $3,950 in settlement of his claim, which was declined, an application by the Crown for security for costs was refused: Wood v. The Queen, 7 S. C. R. 631; 13 C. L. J. 16. The Crown, however, cannot be required to give security for costs: per Bramwell, L.J., Tomline v. The Queen, 4 Ex. D. 252, at p. 254.

Discovery.—Nothing is expressly said in this Rule as to discovery, but the concluding part of the Rule seems to imply that the ordinary procedure in an action, except where expressly varied, may be followed. The English Act expressly provides that nothing in the Act shall be construed to give to the subject any remedy against the Crown in any case in which he would not have been entitled to such remedy before the Act: see Imp. St. 23 & 24 Vict. c. 34, s. 7. In England it is held that a suppliant is not entitled to discovery as against the Crown: Thomas v. The Queen, L. R. 10 Q. B. 44, and the same rule would seem to apply in Ontario: see Clode, 179. But the Crown is entitled to obtain discovery against the petitioner: Tomline v. The Queen, 4 Ex. D. 252; 40 L. T. 542. See also note supra p. 796, and see Rule 750.

Hearing.—The petition may be set down to be heard on motion for judgment: see Rules 205, 356, 745. If, however, a defence is put in, the petition may have to be entered for trial as an ordinary action, but the petition must be tried by a Judge without a jury: see Rule 746. Where, however, a party notified under Rule 741 makes no defence, although the petitioner is entitled to have the petition heard pro confesso as against him, still if the petitioner fails to establish his case against the Crown, the petition must be dismissed altogether: see McDermott v. McDermott, 3 Chy. Ch. 38; Kinloch v. Secretary of State for India, W. N. 1884, 80.

745. In case of a failure on the behalf of His Majesty, or of any other person duly called upon, to defend in due time, at any stage of the proceedings, the suppliant may apply to the Court for an order that the petition may be taken as confessed; and the Court may order that such petition may be taken as confessed, as against His Majesty or other party so making default, and judgment may be given by the Court in favour of the suppliant. C.R. 930. In default of defence, etc., suppliant may take petition pro confesso.

Rules 746, 747.

Although a subject making default in appearance is not entitled to further notice of the subsequent proceedings: see Rule 35, yet it would seem that if he appears, but makes default in defence, he is still entitled to notice of motion for judgment: Rule 213; and it would seem that the Crown ought to be notified of a motion for judgment, even though no appearance for the Crown has been filed: Clode, 193.

Issues to be tried by a Judge without a jury.

746. A petition of right shall be tried by a Judge without a jury. C.R. 931.

It would seem that the Crown may, if it pleases, claim a trial at bar: see Clode, 170.

The judgment

747. The judgment of the Court shall be that the suppliant is or is not entitled either to the whole or to some portion of the relief sought by his petition, or that such other relief may be given, and upon such terms and conditions (if any) as to the Court seem just. C.R. 932.

No execution can issue against the Crown upon any such judgment, but it would seem that any judgment for the payment of any money is to be certified to the Provincial Treasurer, as provided in the case of costs: see Rule 749.

When judgment to be equivalent to amoveas manus.

C. R. 933 provided that in cases in which the judgment, commonly called a judgment of amoveas manus, was formerly in England pronounced upon a petition of right, a judgment that the suppliant is entitled to relief, as hereinbefore provided, shall have the same effect as a judgment of amoveas manus: but that Rule has not been continued: but no doubt judgment to a similar effect may still be pronounced.

A judgment of amoveas manus was formerly a judgment to the effect: "that His Majesty's hands be amoved from the possession of the premises mentioned in the petition, and that the suppliant be restored to his possession thereof, together with the rents and profits thereof, which have not yet been answered to His Majesty, and (in case a lease has been made), that the said lease be void: see Clode, 184-5; Tidd's Forms, p. 61, s. 42, and upon such judgment the suppliant was also entitled, if the property was in the actual possession of a grantee of the Crown, or Escheator, to a writ of ouster le maine, to turn out of possession the Crown's grantee, or officer: see Clode, 185.

It is doubted whether under the English Act, s. 10, a writ of ouster le maine could now issue: see Clode, 190, but it would seem that if the judgment is to have the same effect as the former judgment of amoveas manus, any remedies which might formerly have been available to a suppliant under such judgment are equally available under a judgment under these Rules.

As pointed out in Clode, p. 190, the English Act makes no express provision, neither do these Rules, for any mode of executing a judgment as against a third party served with the petition under Rule 741.

Neither is there any express provision for obtaining satisfaction of a judgment in favour of the suppliant for any money demand. It is probably assumed that the infallible justice of the Crown will satisfy such demands, on the judgment of the Court being duly certified to the proper officer: see infra, Rule 749. Rules 748-750.

In cases of contracts made by the Executive Government, even though Parliament may have made no appropriation to meet the suppliant's claim, if he makes out his claim he is entitled to judgment in his favour quantum valeat : Independent Cordage Co. v. The King, 13 O. L. R., 619.

748. The costs of a petition of right shall be in the discretion of the Court or a Judge, and shall be recovered in the same way as in ordinary actions, save when costs are ordered to be paid by His Majesty. C.R. 934. Costs against suppliant.

749. Upon any judgment or order for the payment of costs or damages by His Majesty, the Judge may, upon application in behalf of the party entitled after the lapse of 14 days from the making, giving or affirming of the judgment or order, certify to the Provincial Treasurer according to Form No. 127. C.R. 935. If judgment be for costs, etc., Judge to certify to Provincial Treasurer.

750. Nothing in these Rules shall prevent a subject from proceeding by petition of right in any manner in which he might have proceeded before the 23rd day of April, 1887; nor shall anything in these Rules be construed as entitling a subject to proceed by petition of right in any case in which he would not be entitled so to proceed under the Acts passed by the Parliament of the United Kingdom before the said date. C.R. 936. Proceedings under former practice.

The date mentioned in this Rule is that of the passing 50 Vict. c. 2 (O.), which provided for the R. S. O. 1887 coming into force.

Rules 751-753.

CHAPTER XXX.

OFFICERS AND OFFICES.

Weekly Court.

751. The Clerk of the Weekly Court at Toronto shal attend the Weekly Sittings at Toronto, settle and sign al orders and settle all judgment pronounced thereat. C.R 32, 33 and 34.

No provision is made by the Jud. Act, s. 76, for any officer entitle "the Clerk of the Weekly Court."

Provision is made for two or more Registrars of the High Cour Division, one of whom acts as Clerk of the Weekly Court. C. R. 34 pro vided that the Officer attending the sittings of the Weekly Court migh settle and sign all judgments and orders made thereat, but that provi sion has not been continued in these Rules, though it is still acted on Local officers.

752.—(1) Local Registrars shall, with respect to al matters in their offices, perform the same duties in the same manner as the like duties are performed in Centra and Registrars' Offices as Toronto.

(2) When there is a Deputy Clerk of the Crown or Deputy Registrar he shall have the like powers and duties with reference to all matters in his office. C. R. 35.

See The Jud. Act, s. 76 (2).

The fees now payable to Deputy Clerks of the Crown, Deputy and Local Registrars, are regulated by Tariff B.: see Rule 676 (2).

Officers paid by fees are entitled to receive all fees payable under the Tariff, in cash.

Officers paid by salary are not to take fees for their own use, except where otherwise expressly provided in the Jud. Act: see sec. 78, supra, p. 271.

Deputy Clerks of the Crown and Pleas when acting as Special Examiners, or on references to them as Official Referees, may receive fees in cash: Ib.

And so may stenographic reporters for copies of their notes: Ib. And see the prefatory note to Tariff B. as amended by Rule 773.

A certificate of a Local Officer on a post card is no evidence; semble, where the fees are payable to such officer in stamps, it is a nullity for want of a proper stamp: Johnson v. Loney, 6 P. R. 70: and see The Law Stamps Act (R. S. O. c. 25) s. 6.

List of judgments entered in outer offices to be forwarded to the Central Office, Toronto.

753. Every Local Officer shall, within 10 days after the 31st day of March, the 30th day of June, the 30th day of September and the 31st day of December in each year, transmit to the Central Office, at Toronto, a return of all judgments which have been entered by him in the High Court of Justice during the three months ending on the above dates respectively; and a general index or list of such judgments shall be kept in the Central Office. A return shall be sent whether any judgments have been entered or not. C.R. 36. Rules 754-757.

C. R. 36 prescribed a form for the return: see H. & L. Forms No. 940. The words "High Court of Justice" are obviously a mistake and should be "The Supreme Court."

The object of the Rule is apparently to provide for a complete register in the Central Office of all judgments entered in the Supreme Court throughout the Province.

754. The Clerk of the Process shall prepare and furnish to the officers requiring them, forms of writs and præcipe orders to be issued by them. C.R. 24. Clerk of the Process.

755. Every Local Registrar, Local Master, Deputy Registrar and Deputy Clerk of the Crown, shall be a Local Taxing Officer. C.R. 84. Local Taxing Officers.

756. Every Local Taxing Officer shall, subject to the provisions of Rules 677 to 679 in actions begun or pending in his office be entitled to tax all bills of costs, including counsel fees, subject only to appeal to a Judge. This Rule shall not apply to cases in which infants are concerned, unless the Official Guardian is the guardian ad litem for the infants. C.R. 85. Powers of Local Taxing Officers.

In lunacy matters all costs should be revised by a Taxing Officer in Toronto: Re Norris, 5 O. L. R. 99: Rule 678.

This Rule must be taken to be subject to the provisions of Rule 678 as to the revision of taxation in the cases mentioned in that Rule.

757. All Taxing Officers shall, for the purpose of any taxation, have power to administer oaths and take evidence, direct production of books and documents, make certificates, and give general directions for the conduct of taxations before them. C.R. 86. Powers of Taxing Officers.

See Eng. (1883) R. 27 (25).

Taxing officers have power to call for evidence on taxations before them: Williamson v. Town of Aylmer, 12 P. R. 129.

Where the taxing officer refused to proceed until the plaintiff was produced for examination as to a retainer, and he was out of the jurisdiction, the taxing officer was directed to examine other witnesses, and if unable to decide as to the retainer, then to report to a Judge in Chambers: Ib.

Rules 758, 759.

Where solicitor and client contradict one another in affidavits, th taxing officer should allow oral evidence to be taken under this Rul Re Evans, 35 W. R. 546.

There is no power to direct shorthand notes of evidence before hi without the consent of the parties: Re Hilleary v. Taylor, 36 Ch. D 262; unless Rule 340 is applicable in such a case, which does not seem to have been contemplated, as that Rule deals with an examinatio authorized under other provisions: see Rule 338.

Business in Offices.

No business to be transacted except upon attendance of party or his solicitor, or the clerk or agent of solicitor.

758. Except as provided in respect to Quieting Title matters, no business shall be transacted in any of th offices of the Courts, either in procuring or issuing pro cess, or in entering judgments or taking any proceedin whatever in a cause, unless upon the personal attendanc of the party on whose behalf such business is required to be transacted, or of the counsel or solicitor of such party, or the clerk or agent of the solicitor, or the clerk of the agent. C.R. 11.

Putting paper under door of office, or handing same to officer in street irregular.

Putting an appearance under the door of the office of a Deputy Clerk of the Crown during office hours, or handing it to him in the street, was held not to be a due entry of the appearance: Gray v Stacey, 10 U. C. L. J. 245; and see Fralick v. Huffman, 1 C. L. Ch 80; Campbell v. Madden, Dra. 2.

But the Court refused to set aside a fi. fa. issued at the officer's house before office hours: Rolker v. Fuller, 10 U. C. Q. B. 447; and see Hall v. Hunter, 5 O. S. 705; and an election petition, filed after office hours on the last day for filing, was held to be well filed: Mun v. McNeill, 27 C. L. J. 538

Defendant's solicitor, when entitled to precedence.

Where a defendant's solicitor is present at the opening of the office to enter an appearance, or file a statement of defence, and the plaintiff's solicitor is present to sign judgment for default, the defendant's solicitor is entitled to precedence: see Fralick v. Huffman, 1 C. L. Ch 80; and where the plaintiff's solicitor had begun to enter judgment for non-appearance, and before it was completed, the defendant's solicitor arrived to enter an appearance, it was held that the officer should stay the entry of judgment in order to admit the entry of the appearance: Smith v. Logan, 17 P. R. 213.

Offices of Court not to be opened when appointed to be closed.

The offices of the Court should not be opened for business, on days on which they are appointed by statute, or Rule of Court, to be closed, and proceedings taken therein on such days are irregular: Trust and Loan Co. .. Dickson, 2 C. L. J. 166; Mumford v. Hitchcock, 9 Jur. N. S. 1200.

Officers to be auxiliary to one another.

759. All officers shall be auxiliary to one another for promoting the correct, convenient, and speedy administration of business. C.R. 12.

What the precise meaning of this Rule is, it is hard to say. It does not seem to warrant one officer discharging the duty of another unless expressly authorized under Rule 760 so to do, e.g. It would not warrant an inferior officer undertaking to act as Master in Ordinary, or Master in Chambers, unless authorized so to do under the following Rule: Rules 760, 761.

760. In case of the absence or illness of any officer to whom any special duty is assigned, [or of the office being vacant], the duty may be performed by such other officer as may be designated for that purpose by the Chief Justice of Ontario. C.R. 13. Amended. (As amended by Rule passed 1st December, 1913). Absence or illness of officers.

The words in [ ] indicate the amendment.

Under former C. R. 43, any Official Referee might, at the request of the Master in Chambers or of a Judge of the High Court, act as Master in Chambers, but that Rule has not been continued and the Master in Chambers has no longer any power to appoint a deputy, and such a deputy can only be appointed under this Rule.

Messrs. Alcorn, Holmested, Lee and Cameron were designated by the Chief Justice of Ontario to discharge the duties of the Master in Chambers from the 2nd day of September, 1913, until the decease of the late Master in Chambers who died on the 12th November, 1913. And by Order in Council dated 13th November, Messrs. Holmested, Lee and Cameron were appointed to perform such duties until a successor to the late Mr. James S. Cartwright, formerly Master in Chambers, was appointed.

761. Where the first document in a cause or matter is required to be filed in Toronto, the Central Office shall be deemed to be the office in which the cause or matter is commenced and in other cases the office of the Deputy Clerk of the Crown, Deputy or Local Registrar of the County or District in which such first document is required to be filed shall be deemed to be the office in which the cause or matter is commenced. C.R. 14. Office in which proceedings commenced.

The first document to be filed in an action commenced by writ is a copy of the writ: Rule 6, together with a copy of order for leave to issue it (where leave is required), and these must be filed in the office out of which the writ is to issue.

Most proceedings commenced, otherwise than by writ, are commenced by petition, e.g., under Quieting Titles Act to be prosecuted before a Referee of Titles: Rule 692; or petition of right: Rule 738, to be prosecuted as provided in Rules 738-750, or by originating notice of motion: Rule 10, to be prosecuted in the Weekly Court, or in Chambers. The first document to be filed in such cases is the petition or notice of motion, or an affidavit in support of the motion.

In Toronto, if the proceeding is in the Weekly Court, the filing must be in the Registrar's Office: Rule 234 (2); if in Chambers, the office of the Clerk in Chambers: Rule 234 (2). All documents so filed subsequently reach the Central Office: Rule 234 (2); and the Central Office is to be deemed to be the office in which the cause or matter is commenced, so that subsequent ministerial proceedings must be taken there: Rule 761.

In other proceedings in Toronto not commenced by writ, the first document filed should be in the filing branch of the Central Office, viz., in the office of the Clerk of Records and Writs: Rule 761.

In other counties, in proceedings not commenced by writ, the office of the Local Registrar, if any, is the office in which to file all documents which have to be filed. Where there is a Deputy Clerk of the Crown his office is the proper office in which to file documents which commence proceedings to be prosecuted at the Local Weekly Sittings, if any: Rule 240; and the first document to be filed in other cases may be filed either in his office, or that of the Deputy Registrar: Rules 752 (2), 761.

Where an issue is directed to be tried, it is to be filed in the proper office in the county in which it is to be tried, and subsequent proceedings in the issue are to be carried on in that office: Rule 125.

The probable object of this and the following Rule is, that all papers in an action shall as far as possible be found in the office which is the home of the action or proceeding; but proceedings in the Master's Office except the report, or certificate, usually remain with the Master; and proceedings under The Quieting Titles Act remain with the Inspector of Titles.

Proceedings to be there carried on.

762. All proceedings in a cause or matter shall be carried on in the office in which the cause or matter is commenced. C.R. 15. Amended.

See Eng. (1883) R. 77.

Proceedings under The Quieting Titles Act, and proceedings upon references to Masters, or Referees, are exceptions to this Rule.

Barristers' Roll.

Solicitors' Roll.

763. All persons called to the Bar of Ontario or admitted as Solicitors of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, shall sign the rolls provided upon taking the prescribed oaths. C.R. 87 and 88.

By the term "Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario," "the Supreme Court of Ontario" is probably meant: see pp. 3, 34 supra.

Solicitors.—Solicitors are officers of the Court, and The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 159) does not interfere with the inherent jurisdiction of the Court over solicitors as officers of the Court: see Jud. Act, s. 72; Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37.

Answering affidavits.

Answering Affidavits.—This is usually a preliminary measure to see whether a motion to strike a solicitor off the roll need be resorted to.

Striking solicitor off roll.

In a case appearing to justify investigation, it is competent for the Court to issue an order calling upon a solicitor to answer the matters appearing on affidavit or otherwise: see C. R. 89; and, if the case demands it, may strike a solicitor off the rolls: Re Whitehead, 28 Ch. D. 615.

Where the employment of a solicitor is so connected with his professional character as to afford the presumption that that character formed the ground of his employment by the client, the Court will exercise its summary jurisdiction over him: Re McBrody & O'Connor, supra. Rule 763.

The Law Society has a disciplinary jurisdiction over solicitors, and barristers, and students at law: see The Law Society Act (R. S. O. c. 157) s. 46; Honda v. Law Society, 16 Ont. 625; 17 Ont. App. 41; and where, on complaint to the Law Society, the Society has acquitted the solicitor, any application to the Court to strike the solicitor or barrister off the rolls for such alleged misconduct cannot be made by a suitor in person, but must be made by counsel: see Re Solicitor, 1903, 2 K. B. 205; 89 L. T. 118.

Where in the course of a cause, evidence of fraudulent conduct on the part of a solicitor is brought to light, the Court may suo sponte direct proceedings to be taken against the offending solicitor: Goodwin v. Gosnell, 2 Coll. 457, 462; Wheatley v. Boston, Re Collins, 7 D. M. & G. 261, 588; Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204, 215; Re Currie, 25 Gr. 338; Re Solicitor, 27 Gr. 77; Thorndyke v. Hunt, 5 Jur. N. S. 878, or upon the application of any party interested: Cove v. Cove, 43 L. T. 158.

The Court may also exercise summary jurisdiction over a person who, though not a solicitor, has held himself out to be one, in the matter in which he has so misrepresented himself: Re Hulme & Lewis, 1892, 2 Q. B. 361; 66 L. T. 683; but not in any matter in which he has not so misrepresented himself: Re Hurst, 1912, 2 Ch. 520; 107 L. T. 502.

In Burton v. Earl of Chesterfield, 8 Jur. 373, it was said that the motion could not be made, calling on an attorney to answer the affidavits, and at the same time to show cause why he should not be struck off the rolls; and in that case the rule was confined to calling on him to answer the affidavits. In a later case, however, the rule nisi was granted in the double form: Re Bloke, 3 E. & E. 34; and see Re Grueber, 63 L. T. Jour. 637.

Where the motion is confined to calling on the solicitor to answer affidavits simply, and the Court is of opinion that his answer is insufficient, the practice at law has been to enlarge the motion to a future day, intimating to the solicitor that he may be further heard on that day, why he should not be struck off: Re Wright, 12 C. B. N. S. 705; Re H., 31 L. T. 730.

In order to give the Court jurisdiction to entertain an application for a solicitor to answer matters contained in an affidavit, or to strike him off the rolls, it is not necessary that the misconduct of which he is accused should arise strictly between solicitor and client: Re Aitken, 4 B. & Ald. 47; Re Attorney, 38 U. C. Q. B. 171; Re Knight, 1 Bing. 91; Re Bloke, 3 E. & E. 34; Re Hill, L. R. 3 Q. B. 543; Re Chandler, 22 Beav. 353; and see Re Cutts, 16 L. T. 715; Re Keays, 13 C. P. 282; Re Solicitor, 80 L. T. Jour. 103; Re Strong, 53 L. T. 694; 55 L. T. 3; 31 Ch. D. 273.

Restitution, etc., in case of negligence or other breach of duty.

Restitution, etc., on Summary Application.—Where negligence, or other breach of duty, is committed by a solicitor in a matter of which the Court has seisin, the Court can summarily order the solicitor, as its officer, to make good the loss actually occasioned thereby, but cannot mulct him in damages for his misconduct: Morsh v. Joseph, 1897, 1 Ch. 213.

Rule 763.

A solicitor may, on a summary application, be compelled to make good moneys improperly obtained out of Court, through negligence on his part; thus, a solicitor who, at the request of a third person, applied as solicitor for a person entitled to money in Court for payment out of the money, and by reason of the fraud of the third person, and on forged affidavits, improperly obtained payment of the money, without ever having had any direct communication with the person for whom he acted; he was ordered on a summary application to refund the money so obtained: Slater v. Slater, 1897, 1 Ch. 222, note. And where it is brought to the attention of the Court that money has been improperly obtained out of Court by a solicitor, the Court may sua sponte direct proceedings to be taken to compel him to refund it: see Re Central Bank, per Burton, C.J., 24 Ont. App. at p. 473.

Where in the course of an action it appears that a solicitor for one of the parties has in breach of trust got possession of a trust fund, he may be directed to pay it into Court by order made on a summary application in the action, and in the matter of the solicitor: Re Carroll, 1902, 2 Ch. 175; 86 L. T. 862.

Costs.

The Court may also, in exercise of its summary jurisdiction over solicitors, order a solicitor to pay the costs of proceedings instituted by him without authority: Nurse v. Durnford, 13 Ch. D. 764; 41 L. T. 611; Re Sovoge, 15 Ch. D. 557, or where by his negligence a cause has been tried as undefended, which was intended to be defended, a new trial may be ordered, and the solicitor ordered to pay costs so occasioned, as between solicitor and client: Re Resisigny, 3 Taunt. 484.

Where an action is carried on by a solicitor on an agreement to indemnify his client against costs, the solicitor is personally liable for the costs, if the action fail: Cockle v. Whiting, 1 R. & M. 43; Re Jones, L. R. 6 Chy. 497, and this liability may be summarily enforced: Ib.; and where a solicitor agreed to charge no "solicitor's fees," this was held to include fees as counsel, when the solicitor himself acted as counsel: Re Solicitors, 33 C. L. J. 245.

Undertakings.

Undertaking of Solicitor—Enforcing.—A solicitor, being an officer of the Court, his undertaking, given in his professional capacity, whether in an action or not, will be enforced on a summary application to the Court: Woodfin v. Wray, 51 L. J. Chy. 427; 97 L. T. Jour. 41; Swyny v. Harland, 1894, 1 Q. B. 707; In re Coolgardie Gold Fields, 1900, 1 Ch. 475; D. v. A. & Co., 1900, 1 Ch. 484; Re Solicitor, 1907, 2 K. B. 539; 97 L. T. 212; Re Launder, Launder v. Richards, 98 L. T. 554; United Mining & Finance Corp. v. Becher, 1910, 2 K. B. 296; 103 L. T. 65.

Suspension.

Suspension from Practice.—Instead of striking a solicitor off the roll for misconduct, the Court may, if it sees fit, suspend him from practice for a specified period: thus, for antedating a marriage settlement in order to make it appear to have been executed before marriage, a solicitor was suspended from practice for five years: Re Parry, 98 L. T. Jour. 404; and see Erskine v. Adeane, 18 Sol. Jour. 573; Re Hill, L. R. 3 Q. B. 543; Re Bloke, 3 E. & E. 34; Re Officer, 95 L. T. Jour. 299; Re Russell, 95 L. T. Jour. 300; Re Solicitor, 1894, 1 Q. B. 254; 70 L. T. 27; Re Solicitor, 61 L. T. 842; Re Lewis, 95 L. T. Jour. 85, where the solicitor was suspended until restitution should be made to the client. In some cases, though the solicitor has been exonerated from fraud, he has nevertheless been ordered to pay the costs of proceedings against him, where the circumstances were such as to call for investigation: Re Holland, 95 L. T. Jour. 160. Rule 763.

Where a solicitor has been suspended for misappropriating the moneys of his clients, he will not necessarily be struck off the rolls on being subsequently convicted of embezzlement in reference to the same transaction: Re Solicitor, 61 L. T. 842.

A solicitor was suspended for twelve months for being a party to the organization of a debt collecting agency, of which he was to be solicitor, and paid by a commission on debts collected; such proceeding being held to amount to champerty: Re Solicitor, 1912, 1 K. B. 302; 105 L. T. 874.

The Law Society has also power to inquire into charges of misconduct preferred against a solicitor, and may resolve that he is unworthy to practise as a solicitor, but the Society has no power to suspend him, or strike him off the rolls, that must be done by the order of the Court: see The Law Society Act (R. S. O. c. 157) ss. 46, 48; and see Re Solicitor, 1912, 1 K. B. 302. But the Society may disbar, or suspend from practice, a barrister: see s. 46, supra.

Striking off Roll.—A solicitor may be struck off the rolls for fraudulent conduct as a trustee: Re Chandler, supra, p. 1407, where the application was made by the cestui que trust; and see Thorndyke v. Hunt, supra, p. 1407; Re Holl and Dolland v. Johnson, 2 Jur. N. S. 633; or for fraudulently abusing the confidence of a client: Re Mortin, 6 Benv. 337; Re J. C. M. & J. M., 24 W. R. 111; or for obtaining a client's money to discharge alleged liabilities of the client which did not exist: Re H., 31 L. T. 730; Re Strong, 31 Ch. D. 273; 55 L. T. 3; or for getting a false affidavit sworn, and, without authority, instructing counsel to consent to payment of money out of Court: Wheatley v. Bastow, 7 D. M. & G. 261, 558; or for falsely representing an injunction to have been granted: Kimpton v. Eve, 2 V. & B. 352; or for making an interlineation in an affidavit after it had been sworn: Erskine v. Adeane, 18 Sol. Jour. 573; 10 C. L. J. 209; or for committing perjury, Seton 652; or for revealing the secrets of a client: Re Cutts, 16 L. T. 715; Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 19 Ves. 261; or for persuading his client to give him money to be used for bribing a jury before whom the client was to be tried for a criminal offence: Re Titus, 5 Ont. 87; or where he has been convicted of crime and sentenced to imprisonment, as, e.g., for being a party to the use of premises as a disorderly house: Re Solicitor, 69 L. T. 148, 522, S. C., sub nom Re Weare, 1893, 2 Q. B. 439; or for misappropriating fees paid to him to be paid to counsel: Re Lewis, 95 L. T. Jour. 85; or borrowing large sums of money from a client, who has just attained his majority, without giving proper security: Re Solicitor, 1894, 1 Q. B. 254; 70 L. T. 27. Striking off the Roll.

Under The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159) s. 29, a solicitor may be struck off the rolls for default of payment of money received by him as a solicitor: Anon, 12 C. L. J. 204; Re Knowles, 16 P. R. 408. Where considerable sums had got into the hands of a solicitor who made default in payment, but the client issued execution upon the order directing payment, it was held that he had treated the claim as a debt, and a subsequent motion to strike the solicitor off the rolls for non-payment was therefore refused: Re Fletcher, 28 Gr. 413; see also Ex p. White Sewing Machine Co., 12 C. L. T. 256; but the English cases on which Non-payment of money.

these decisions were based have been since overruled: In re Grey, 1892, 2 Q. B. 440. But where the client had sued the solicitor for the money and failed on the ground that his claim was barred by the Statute of Limitations, it was held that he could not afterwards resort to summary proceedings against the solicitor without any allegation of misconduct: Sittingbourne & S. Ry. Co. v. Lawson, 80 L. T. Jour. 448. The Court will not exercise its summary jurisdiction over a solicitor to compel repayment of a loan: Re Bryant, 50 L. T. 450; unless the loan has been fraudulently obtained by the solicitor from his client: see Re Strong, supra, p. 1408.

Where the application is to strike a solicitor off the roll for non-payment of money, it should be made in Court, and if the order is granted it may direct payment by the solicitor within a specified time, or in default that he be struck off. Upon default no further order is necessary, but the applicant must move, on notice to the solicitor, to have the roll brought into Court for the purpose of having the name struck off: Re Bridgman, 16 P. R. 232; Re Advocates, 18 C. L. T. 159; and see Re W., 72 L. T. 679. On the roll being brought into Court, the officer of the Court will, in open Court, on the direction of the Court, strike the name off the roll.

The order to strike off the roll for non-payment of money, issues in respect both of the specific moneys ordered to be paid, and also the costs of the application; In re Knowles, 16 P. R. 408; and see In re Solicitor, 1895, 2 Ch. 66.

The Court will not on a summary application against a solicitor for payment of money alleged to be in his hands, make it a term of an order for the delivery and taxation of his bill that on non-payment of what shall be found due he be struck off the roll, where there appears to be a bonâ fide dispute as to whether there is anything in the solicitor's hands at all, such a provision being regarded as an unnecessary slur on the solicitor's professional character: Re Ross, 16 P. R. 482.

A summary application for payment of money will not be entertained against a solicitor, as against whom no professional misconduct can be alleged, even though he may be liable to an action: Ib.

Repayment, pending a motion to strike off the rolls, of money fraudulently obtained, is no purgation of the offence: Re H., 31 L. T. 730; nor is it, where the money was properly obtained, but misappropriated: Re Solicitor, 62 L. T. Jour. 446.

Where a solicitor is struck off the rolls for misappropriating the moneys of his client, the order directing him to be struck off may properly contain a reference to ascertain the amount for which he is liable and direct him to pay the amount so to be ascertained, and payment may be enforced against him even after he has been struck off: Re Strong, 31 Ch. D. 273; 55 L. T. 3.

Where the solicitors engaged in any action or matter in court represent conflicting interests, if there is any undisclosed arrangement or practice between them whereby a share of profit, whether by way of agency or otherwise, is paid to any of them, for introducing the litigation, that is professional misconduct: Re Four Solicitors, 1901, 1 K. B. 187; 83 L. T. 484.

Where the application against a solicitor is made on the ground of fraud, the fraud must be clearly proved; the Court will not infer an equivocal action to have been fraudulent: Re Stewart, L. R. 2 P. C. 88; Re S—, 14 C. P. 323. Rule 763.

Tha Court refused to maka an order on the production marely of a certificata that the solicitor had heen struck off the roll of a Colonial Court: Re Solicitor, 1898, 1 Q. B. 331; 77 L. T. 661.

Restoration to Roll.—A solicitor who has heen struck off tha roll, after conviction of a criminal offence, may he restored to the roll, if thara are circumstances justifying it: Re Brandreth, 64 L. T. 739; and see Re Poole, L. R. 4 C. P. 350; Ex. p. Pyke, 6 B. & S. 703; Re Solicitor, 19 C. L. J. 234. Restoration to Roll.

Whera a solicitor has been struck off tha rolls for non-paymant of money, it is a condition precedent to restoration that ha shall hava made full restitution, or made tha hest efforta in his power thareto, snd shall satisfy tha Court as to the propriety of his conduct in tha meantime: Re Poole, L. R. 4 C. P. 350; Ex parte Pyke, 6 B. & S. 703. And the Law Society must he notified of nny application to restore to tha roila a solicitor who has been struck off for misconduct: Re Solicitor. 19 C. L. J. 234.

Appeal.—An order striking a solicitor off the roils is not a criminal proceeding and is appealahle: Re Hardwick, 49 L. T. 584. Appeal.

Leave to appeal to Har Majesty in Council from an order atriking a barrister off the roll of a Colonial Court was given, and the order was reversed hy tha Judicial Committea of the Privy Council, on tha ground that the facts did not warrant the order: In re Renner, 1897, A. C. 218.

Barristers.—The Law Society has power to inquire into charges of misconduct preferred against a harrister at law, and may suspend him from practice or disbar him: see The Law Society Act (R. S. O. c. 157), ss. 46, 47; and see Hands v. Law Society, 17 Ont. App. 41; Bar of Montreal v. Honon, 8 Que. Q. B. 26.

Counsel Fees.—Counsel may sue the client for his fees. No preliminary delivery of a signed bill is necessary, as in tha case of a solicitor suing for hia costs. Solicitors who employ counsel hava implied authority to pledge the client's credit for payment, and legal privity exisis hetween the counsel and the client. The solicitor is not liable to the counsel uniess it is so ngreed expressly or by implication from tha coursa of dealing: Armour v. Kilmer, 28 Ont. 618: Wells v. Wells, sed vide, p. 1213.

Studonts at Law who are memhers of Tha Law Society, and articled clerks are also suhject to discipline by the Law Society: Ib., s. 48.

Rocovery of Costs Botweon Solicitor and Client.—The right of solicitors to recover their costs as against their clients, is governed by Thc Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), which also reguiates tho rights of their clients, and third persons liahle to pay their costs, to compel a delivery of their bills, and to have the same taxed.

Tha relation between country solicitor nnd town agent is that of client and solicitor: Reid v. Burrows, 1892, 2 Ch. 413; 40 W. R. 620.

Aa to whether a solicitor can recover costs for services performed while he had not taken out his annunl certificate: see The Solicitors'

Act (R. S. O. c. 159), ss. 4, 20, 25; Re Sweeting, 1898, 1 Ch. 768; Macdougall v. Law Society, 18 S. C. R. 203.

Retainer.—It is always advisable for the solicitor to take a written retainer from his client; see H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5, 6.

The retainer of a solicitor by a corporation should be under the corporate seal, or be authorized by by-law: Barrie v. Barrie, 19 P. R. 33; but a retainer of a solicitor by a corporation, sealed after the work has been done, is valid and binding: Brooks v. Torquay, 1902, 1 K. B. 601.

Notwithstanding that a retainer of a solicitor by two persons is in form a joint one, the Court will look into the facts of the case to discern the real nature of the transaction, and will determine the rights of the solicitor and clients accordingly; such a retainer does not necessarily make the persons signing it joint debtors: Re Cameron, 19 P. R. 176.

Delivery of Bill.—The Solicitor's Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 34 (1), provides as follows:

Solicitors to deliver their bill one month before bringing action for costs.

34.—(1) No action shall be brought for the recovery of fees, charges or disbursements, for business done by a Solicitor as such, until one month after a bill thereof, subscribed with the proper hand of such Solicitor, his executor, administrator or assignee, or, in the case of a partnership, by one of the partners, either with his own name, or with the name of such partnership, has been delivered to the person to be charged therewith, or sent by the post to, or left for him at his counting-house, office of business, dwelling-house, or last known place of abode, or has been enclosed in or accompanied by a letter subscribed in like manner, referring to such bill.

Even where a statute was passed fixing the client's costs of certain litigation at a specified amount, it was held that the solicitors who had conducted the litigation could not recover from the client the amount of the costs so fixed, but must render a bill to him as required by this section: Gundy v. Johnston, 28 O. L. R. 121; 48 S. C. R. 516.

The delivery of the bill of costs must be made in one or other of the modes mentioned in this section.

The month referred to in this section is a calendar month: see The Interpretation Act (R. S. O. c. 1, s. 29 (u)). It must be computed exclusive of the day of delivery, and of the commencement of the action: see Blunt v. Heslop, 8 Ad. & E. 577; Re Morphy, 2 Ch. Ch. 56; and if sent by post, the month begins from the day, the bill in ordinary course would be delivered: Browne v. Black, 1911, 1 K. B. 975; 1912, 1 K. B. 316; 105 L. T. 982.

Form of bill.

The bill must be drawn in proper form, and should set out the items of the fees, and disbursements, in detail, or an action on it cannot be maintained: Wilkinson v. Smart, 33 L. T. 573; Gould v. Ferguson, 2 O. L. R. 161; and see Re Mowat, 17 P. R. 180; but where a bill is delivered in which some of the items are properly set out, and others are not, it was held that those properly set out were recoverable: Blake v. Hummell, 51 L. T. 431.

Where a solicitor seeks to recover his extra costs over and above party and party costs, he should include in the bill delivered to his client the whole of the costs including those taxed between party and party: Cobbett v. Wood, 1908, 2 K. B. 420; 99 L. T. 482; Re Osborn, 1913, 3 K. B. 862. Rule 763.

"Disbursements" in the above s. 34, means actual payments made by the solicitor before the delivery of the bill. Any sums, e.g., fees to counsel, which have not been paid must be disallowed: Sadd v. Griffin, 1908, 2 K. B. 510; 99 L. T. 502; Re Massey, 101 L. T. 517. Disbursements.

A payment of the amount of an account in which no items are set out, and which is not a bill of costs, does not prevent the client from obtaining delivery of a proper bill, and the ordinary order for its taxation: Re Callis, 49 W. R. 316. See also Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37.

A payment for succession duty made by a solicitor on behalf of his client is not a "disbursement," and should not be included in his bill of costs: Re Kingdon v. Wilson, 1902, 2 Ch. 242; 50 W. R. 533; semble, that the same is the case in regard to counsel fees paid by the solicitor for the client: see per Boyd, C., in Cobban Manufg. Co. v. Lake Simcoe Hotel Co., 5 O. L. R. 447.

Agency charges cannot be lumped: Re Pomeroy, 1897, 1 Ch. 284; nor the solicitor's own charges: Gould v. Ferguson, 29 O. L. R. 161. Bill required only if strictly professional services.

The bill should contain only charges for strictly professional services, for which items should be given. A lump sum for charges for services rendered in other capacities, such as an agent for collection of rents due to the client, should not be inserted in a bill of costs: Re Shilson, 90 L. T. 641; but see Re Solicitors, 3 O. W. N. 197; and Re Solicitors, 27 O. L. R. 147.

Section 34, p. 1412, supra, only applies to services rendered as a solicitor of the Supreme Court, the bill of which is properly the subject of a taxation: Re Shilson, supra; thus it was held not to be applicable to services rendered by a solicitor as a notary in procuring a pension from the United States Government, for which the solicitor was held entitled to sue without previously rendering any bill: Ostrom v. Benjamin, 20 Ont. App. 336; but see O'Connor v. Gemmill, 29 Ont. 47, 36 Ont. App. 27, the case of a solicitor acting in the Exchequer Court of Canada; and see Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37, where services were rendered in reference to a claim upon an estate in England: Re Boker v. Lees & Co., 1903, 1 K. B. 189, a bill for services before Parliamentary Committees.

Where the services rendered are not in reference to actual litigation, e.g., for negotiation out of Court, the charges authorized by the tariff do not apply, and a quantum meruit for such services may be allowed in a lump sum, having regard to the difficulty, or importance, of the services rendered, and the amount affected: see Re Johnston, 3 O. L. R. 1; In re Attorneys, 26 C. P. R. 495; Re Solicitors, 2 O. W. N. 596; and see Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37.

The contract of a solicitor retained to conduct an ordinary action of a Common Law nature is to carry it on to a conclusion, and if he refuses to continue the act before the conclusion of the case, except for some reasonable cause, and upon reasonable notice to his client, he cannot maintain an action for his costs: Underwood v. Lewis, 1894, 2 Q. B. 306; 70 L. T. 833; but the rule seems to be otherwise where the action is one for equitable relief: see In re Hall, 9 Ch. D. 538. Nature of contract between solicitor and client.

Rule 763.

No action on bill till after month from delivery.

Although no action can be brought by a solicitor to recover his bill of costs until a month has expired from the delivery of his bill to his Client: still that is a provision merely affecting procedure, and the Statute of Limitations runs against the solicitor from the date when the last service included in the bill was rendered, even though the client was out of the jurisdiction when the bill was delivered, and did not return within the jurisdiction until within six years prior to the commencement of an action on the bill: Coburn v. Colledge, 1897, 1 Q. B. 702; 76 L. T. 608; Re Boswell, 120 L. T. Jour. 314; but the solicitor may sue to set aside a fraudulent conveyance by his client before the expiration of a month: Scane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370; and in case his client is about to abscond, he may by leave of a Judge of the Supreme Court, or of a County Court, be authorized to commence an action, although the month has not expired: s. 39, infra; and he may also, notwithstanding that a bill has not been delivered, set up his claim by way of counter-claim or set-off in an action brought against him by his client: Taylor v. Robinson, 31 S. C. R. 615; or, where, by agreement with a client who has a cross-claim against him, an account of both has been stated, shewing a balance in the solicitor's favour, he may maintain an action for that balance: Turner v. Willis, 1905, 1 K. B. 468; 92 L. T. 412.

Exception.

Bill must be signed.

To entitle the solicitor to sue, his bill delivered must be signed, or accompanied by a letter referring to the bill signed by the solicitor, but this provision may be waived by the client: Re Gedye, 14 Beav. 56; and see Re Jones, infra; and, semble, is not necessary where the services charged for were not rendered as a solicitor of the Supreme Court of Judicature, e.g., where they were performed in the Exchequer Court of Canada: see O'Connor v. Gemmill, 29 Ont. 47; but see S. C. in appeal, 26 Ont. App. 27.

Assignee of solicitor.

The assignee of a solicitor may deliver a bill signed by himself, and at the expiration of a month may sue for its recovery: Ingle v. McCutcheon, 12 Q. B. D. 518; but see Re Ward, 28 Ch. D. 719.

Delivery, and constructive delivery, to the third parties liable to pay, were discussed in Re Robertson, 42 Ch. D. 553.

Adding to bill rendered.

Where, as formerly, the costs of the taxation depended on whether or not one-sixth was struck off, it was held that after a bill was delivered the solicitor could not, without leave of the Court or Judge, withdraw it, and substitute a new one, even though the bill delivered was not signed: Re Jones, 54 L. T. 648; and see Re Kellock, 56 L. T. 887; nor could a supplemental bill be delivered as of course, but might be allowed on a special application: Re O'Donohoe, 14 P. R. 571; 15 P. R. 93.

A bill once unconditionally rendered could not be added to, or deducted from, by the solicitor, without leave: Re Davy, 1 C. L. J. 213; and special circumstances must be shewn: see Re O'Donohoe, supra; nor could an item omitted, be substituted for an item admittedly not chargeable: Re Grant, 1906, 1 Ch. 124. A substituted bill was allowed to be delivered in Re B. & S., 6 P. R. 18. But where an unsigned bill has been delivered, which the client treats as a nullity, and applies for, and obtains an order for the delivery and taxation of a bill, the solicitor may, in that case, deliver an entirely new bill, and increase his charges: Re Walsh, 7 O. L. R. 41.

Where a bill was delivered indorsed as follows:—"In the event of taxation, we reserve to ourselves the right to deliver another and more complete bill," this was held to be an absolute delivery: Re Spencer & McDonald, 19 G. R. 467; Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441; but semble, a bill delivered accompanied by a statement that it contained items which could not be taxed, and reserving the right to deliver another bill in its place if taxation were insisted on, might be withdrawn, and a new one substituted: see per Cotton, L.J., in Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441; 53 L. T. 479. Rule 763.

Where a client has lost the right to a taxation as of right, the Taxing Officer, if called on to moderate the bill, may have regard to added or substituted items: see Lumsden v. Shipcote Land Co., 1906, 2 K. B. 433; 95 L. T. 17.

Prior to 58 Vict. c. 13, the costs of the reference were not in the discretion of the Court, but if the client attended the taxation, or obtained the order, and less than a sixth was struck off the bill he was liable to pay them and if a sixth or more was struck off, the solicitor was liable to pay them. Costs of taxation.

Since the costs of the taxation no longer depend upon the amount taxed off, there seems to be no good reason why amendments should not be allowed, as in other cases, where justice so requires, upon proper terms.

After taxation under an order obtained after action brought, the litigation is ended, except to enforce payment. If the order does not reserve questions of retainer and negligence, it is not open to the client to take a double chance of defeating the solicitor's claim by proceeding to defend the action after the conclusion of the taxation: Re Millar, Millar v. Cline, 12 P. R. 155; where Re Clarke, 9 P. R. 337, and Macdonald v. Piper, 10 P. R. 586, were distinguished. But see Re Washington, 12 P. R. 386. Enforcing order.

Under this clause no further order for payment of the balance found due to either party appears to be necessary, whether the order is obtained by the client or solicitor; but the solicitor or client is entitled to enforce payment by execution, on the confirmation of the report. The report must be filed, and unless appealed from, is confirmed at the expiration of fourteen days from the service of notice of the filing on the opposite party: Rule 502.

Where the result of the taxation is that the solicitor has been overpaid, and that money of the client is in his hands, an order may be made that the solicitor be struck off the Roll, unless by a named day he pay the amount due the client, with any costs of the taxation payable by him, and costs of the motion: Re Knowles, 16 P. R. 408; Re Solicitor, 1895, 2 Ch. 66.

If, however, the order for taxation is obtained by a third party, he does not thereby admit his liability to pay the solicitor: Re Gray, 1901, 1 Ch. 239; 84 L. T. 24, and unless the party primarily liable to pay is also a party to the proceedings for taxation, the solicitor would not be in a position to enforce payment of the balance, except by action.

Upon the order, and certificate of the result of taxation, an execution may issue in favour of the party to whom any sum may be found due: see Rules 3 (g), 533 et seq.

Delivery of Bill, when Unnecessary.—Where the amount sought to be recovered as the balance due in respect of costs was sued for as the subject of an express agreement by which the defendant had promised to pay the sum sued for, the agreement being a fair one between solicitor and client, it was held to be no defence that a bill Delivery of a bill, when not necessary.

Rule 763.

had not been delivered: Belcourt v. Crain, 22 O. L. R. 351; but see now The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 56 under which all such agreements are to be enforced by application to the Court and not by action.

Statute of Limitations.

Statute of Limitations.—The Statute of Limitations begins to run against the solicitor from the date when the work included in the bill was completed: Coburn v. Colledge, 1897, 1 Q. B. 702; 76 L. T. 608.

Where a client obtains an order to tax a bill some of the items of which are barred by the Statute, he is held to waive the Statute, and is bound to pay whatever is found due: Re Margetts, 1896, 2 Ch. 263; Re Brockman, 1909, 1 Ch. 354; 2 Ch. 170; 100 L. T. 821. The solicitor cannot set off statute-barred items of costs against moneys due by him to his client: Smith v. Betty, 1903, 2 K. B. 317; 89 L. T. 258.

An acknowledgment of a statute barred bill, obtained by a solicitor from his client, without independent advice, is nugatory: Lloyd v. Cook, 136 L. T. Jour. 36.

Interest on Bill.—The Solicitors Act provides that a solicitor may charge interest at the rate of five per centum per annum on his disbursements and costs, whether by scale, or otherwise, from the expiration of one month from demand from the client, and where the same are payable by an infant or out of a fund presently available, the demand may be made on the parent, or guardian, or the trustee, or other person liable.

Prior to this enactment in the absence of special agreement to the contrary, interest could not be recovered on an untaxed bill: Cameron v. Heighs, 14 P. R. 56. Interest on costs recovered from an opposite party, cannot be retained by the solicitor as against his client to whom he has not delivered any bill: Re Bentwick, 108 L. T. Jour. 105; and where costs are ordered to be paid out of an estate, but delay arises in payment owing to funds not being available, interest on such costs cannot be recovered out of the estate: Archer v. Severn, 12 P. R. 648; but under the above provision if the solicitor makes a demand for payment, interest would now seem to be recoverable. The Taxing Officer has been held to have no power to allow interest unless that matter has been expressly referred to him: Re McClive & Gilleland, 18 C. L. J. 98; see in England under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, Blair v. Cordner, 19 Q. B. D. 516; Re Marsden, Withington & Newmann, 40 Ch. D. 475.

Delivery of bill.

Compelling Delivery of Bill.—Where the client desires to have his solicitor's costs taxed, or to recover documents in his possession on which he claims a lien for costs, it is necessary for him first to obtain a delivery of the solicitor's bill, and a taxation thereof, if the amount is disputed. If the solicitor neglects, or refuses, to deliver his bill, an order for its delivery may be obtained: see The Solicitors' Act, s. 35, infra, p. 1419.

If the client elect to treat as a nullity an unsigned bill delivered to him, and applies for the delivery and taxation of a bill, the solicitor may deliver an entirely new bill, and may increase or alter his charges: Re Walsh, 7 O. L. R. 41.

Where the retainer is admitted, and there are no special circumstances, the order for delivery, and taxation of the bill, may be obtained at any time, on præcipe: see The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 35; where the retainer is disputed, or there are any other special circumstances, the application for the order should be made on notice to the solicitor.

A solicitor cannot set up that the contract between himself and his client was illegal for champerty, as an answer to an application for the delivery of his bill: Re Thomas, 1894, 1 Q. B. 747; 70 L. T. 567; nor can he retain money received under a champertous agreement: Re Solicitor, 14 O. L. R. 464. Rule 783.

There is power to order the delivery of a bill whether it has been paid or not, and whether or not it is one which the Court would have power to refer to taxation: Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37; and a verbal agreement between a solicitor and his client, as to the remuneration of the solicitor for professional services being void, cannot be an answer to an application for the delivery of a bill or for its taxation: Ib.

As to items which may properly be included in a bill: see notes on p. 1412.

It has been held that delivery can be compelled under The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 159), of a bill for services performed in the Exchequer Court of Canada: O'Connor v. Oemmill, 29 Ont. 47; 26 Ont. App. 27, and for services rendered in reference to a claim on an estate out of the jurisdiction: Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37; but not for services performed as a notary: Ostram v. Benjamin, 20 Ont. App. 336; and see Re Baker, 1903, 1 K. B. 189; 87 L. T. 662.

If the solicitor refuse to comply with an order for the delivery of his bill, he is liable to attachment: Re Seal, 1903, 1 Ch. 87; Re Landor, infra; but if on the return of a motion to attach him, he disclaims all intention of making any charge for costs, and shews by affidavit that he has not deducted any money for costs from moneys of his client which have come to his hands, the motion will be refused: Re Landor, 1899, 1 Ch. 818; 80 L. T. 643.

Bill to be Taxed.—The bill is one entire matter even though separate bills be rendered in respect of distinct transactions: Re Romer, 1893, 2 Q. B. 381; 69 L. T. 547; Stokes v. Trumper, 2 K. & J. 232; Re Peach, 2 D. & L. 33; and the client cannot select certain charges for taxation and ask that they only be referred: Re Davy, 1 C. L. J. 213. What bills may be taxed.

Although the general rule is that one of several bills or a part of a bill, cannot be taxed: Storer v. Johnston & Wetherall, 15 App. Cas. 203; 62 L. T. 710; yet where the solicitor admitted that there was nothing due to him, and it was simply a question whether he had been overpaid, an order to tax one only of several bills delivered was upheld: In re Ward, 1896, 2 Ch. 31.

The Court has power under its general jurisdiction to order the taxation of any bill relating to Court business, whether the bill be of the solicitor or his agent, or any part of such bill: Storer v. Johnson & Wetherall, 37 Ch. D. 433; 15 App. Cas. 203; though the principal received payment by a commission: Re Idington & Mickle, 8 P. R. 566; and upon such taxation a Master should, without specific directions, regard any settlement with the solicitors: Ib.

A bill for counsel fees exclusively may be referred: Re C. K. & C., 6. P. R. 226; and see also Armour v. Kilmer, 23 Ont. 618; and Re Ashbaugh, 10 C. L. T. 30, where the services were respecting the defence of a prisoner; but where solicitors had agreed not to charge "solicitor's fees," these words were held to preclude charges for services rendered by them as counsel: Re Solicitors, 33 C. L. J. 245.

Rule 763.

Conveyancing charges.

Conveyancing Charges.—A bill for conveyancing could not formerly be referred: Re Glass, 3 P. R. 138, 140; Re Lemon & Peterson, 5 U. C. L. J. 185; and per Hagarty, C.J., Ostrom v. Benjamin, 20 Ont. App. at p. 339, although in these cases orders for taxation of bills for such services were made, apparently without question: see also Re O'Donohoe & Warmoll, 4 P. R. 266; and Re Richardson, 3 Chy. Ch. 144. But see now The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 44, infra, and Ib., ss. 47-59; Re Pollard, 20 Q. B. D. 160; Gould v. Ferguson, 29 O. L. R. 161.

Services not covered by Tariff.

Services not Covered by Tariff.—Where services charged for are not regulated by the Tariff, the remuneration can only be based on the value of such services, a question of fact to be determined by the Taxing Officer on proper evidence: Re Solicitors, 27 O. L. R. 147; e.g., solicitors employed to do the work of brokers may be entitled to be paid in the same way as brokers are usually paid, e.g., by a commission: see Re Solicitor, 12 O. W. R. 1074; Re Solicitors, 3 O. W. N. 194; but there is no hard and fast rule as to the remuneration for such services, it may be on a percentage basis, or a lump sum: Ib.

Action on bill.

Action on Bill.—After the expiry of the month from the delivery of his bill, the solicitor may, if no order for taxation has been obtained by the client, either himself obtain an order for its taxation, and for payment of what may be found due: see The Solicitors' Act, s. 35, and notes infra, p. 1419, or he may bring an action for its recovery.

The claim may be specially indorsed, and judgment may be obtained therefor, under Rule 57, where there is no defence: Smith v. Edwardes, 22 Q. B. D. 10; 60 L. T. 10; but where the retainer is admitted, but the amount is disputed, judgment may be awarded subject to a taxation of the bill: Ib.; and see Re Pork, 41 Ch. D. 326.

The omission of an allegation of the delivery of the bill in the statement of claim, does not render the latter bad in law: see Scane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370; and it is a defence only open to the actual client, and not to a third person liable to pay: Greening v. Reeder, 67 L. T. 28; 40 W. R. 623. As to the evidence required to shew compliance with this section, see sec. 43, p. 1430, infra.

Action Against Absconding Client.—The Solicitors' Act, s. 39 provides:—

When actions for costs within the month may be allowed.

39. A Judge of the Supreme Court or of a County or District Court, on proof to his satisfaction that there is probable cause for believing that the party chargeable is about to depart from Ontario, may authorize a Solicitor to commence an action for the recovery of his fees, charges or disbursements, against the party chargeable therewith, although one month has not expired since the delivery of the bill. 2 Geo. V. c. 28, s. 39.

Proof of Delivery of Bill.—The Solicitors' Act, s. 34 (2), provides:

Not necessary in first instance in action on bill to prove contents of bill delivered.

34 (2). In proving a compliance with this Act it shall not be necessary in the first instance to prove the contents of the bill delivered, sent or left, but it shall be sufficient to prove that a bill of fees, charges or disbursements, subscribed as required by s.-s. 1, or enclosed in or accompanied by such letter, was so delivered, sent or left; but the other party may shew that the bill so delivered, sent or left, was not such a bill as constituted a compliance with this Act. 2 Geo. V., c. 28, s. 34.

Summary Orders for Taxation of Costs.—Without any action being brought, where the retainer is not disputed and no special circumstances exist, a summary application may be made to the Court either by the solicitor, or the client, for the taxation of the bill, and in such proceedings, if anything is found due to the solicitor after giving the client all proper credits, payment may be enforced, thus rendering an action unnecessary. The Solicitors' Act, s. 35, provides as follows: Rule 763.

35. Where the retainer of the solicitor is not disputed and there are no special circumstances, an order may be obtained on præcipe from the proper officer in the county in which the Solicitor resides: Order for taxation on præcipe.

(a) By the Client, for the delivery and taxation of the Solicitor's bill:

(b) By the Client, for the taxation of a bill already delivered, within one month from its delivery;

(c) By the Solicitor, for the taxation of a bill already delivered, at any time after the expiration of one month from its delivery, provided no order for its taxation has been previously made. 2 Geo. V. c. 28, s. 35.

This section provides for a præcipe order being issued on the application of the client or the solicitor, but does not appear to enable a third party chargeable with the bill to obtain such an order.

Section 45 of The Solicitors' Act is as follows:—

45. Every application to refer a bill for taxation, or for the delivery of a bill, or for the delivering up of deeds, documents and papers, shall be made In the matter of (the Solicitor); and upon the taxation of any such bill, the certificate of the officer by whom the bill is taxed, unless set aside or varied, shall be final and conclusive as to the amount thereof, and payment of the amount certified to be due and directed to be paid may be enforced according to the practice of the Court in which the reference was made. 2 Geo. V. c. 28, s. 45. How applications against solicitor to be intituled.

The month is a calendar month, and if the bill is sent by post a calendar month must expire from the time when, in ordinary course, the bill would be delivered, before an action could be brought, or the solicitor could obtain an order under this section: Browne v. Block, 1911, 1 K. B. 975; 104 L. T. 392; 105 L. T. 982.

The Solicitors Act formerly provided that:

"In case no application is made within the month, then the Court or Judge upon the application of either party may order a reference with such directions and conditions as he may deem proper; and may upon such terms as may be thought just restrain any action for such demand pending the reference." (R. S. O. 1897, c. 174, s. 36). Application to Court.

But that section has been omitted from the new Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159).

It is probable, however, that the practice there laid down is still to be followed: see s. 36 of the present Act, infra, p. 1420; and Lumsden v. Shipcote Land Co., 1906, 2 K. B. 433; 95 L. T. 17.

Rule 783.

The Solicitors' Act, s. 36, provides as follows:—

No reference on application of party chargeable after verdict, or after 12 months from delivery.

36.—(1) No such reference shall be directed upon an application made by the party chargeable with such bill after a verdict or judgment has been obtained, or after twelve months from the time such bill was delivered, sent or left as aforesaid, except under special circumstances, to be proved to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge to whom the application for the reference is made.

Direction as to costs.

(2) Where the reference is made under sub-section 1 the Court or Judge in making the same, may give any special directions relative to the costs of such reference. 2 Geo. V. c. 28, s. 36.

Scope of Solicitors' Act as to delivery and taxation of bills.

It is to be noted that while section 35 is confined to solicitor and client, this section uses the words "party chargeable" which would include any third party liable to pay the bill in question; and although the section does not expressly authorize the Court to direct a reference as did the former sect. 36, yet it seems to imply that a reference may be directed, where no special circumstances exist, provided the application therefor be made at any time before verdict or judgment, or before the lapse of twelve months from the delivery of the bill. In short, the scheme of The Solicitors' Act as now framed on this point seems to be this:

Where the retainer is admitted by the client he may obtain on præcipe an order for the delivery and taxation of his solicitor's bill—or where a bill has been delivered he may obtain an order for its taxation at any time within a month from its delivery. And where the client admits or does not dispute the retainer the solicitor may after a month from the delivery of his bill obtain on præcipe an order for its taxation, if the client has not in the meantime obtained such an order.

Special application, when necessary.

Special Application for Taxation, when Necessary.—If, on the other hand, the client disputes the retainer a special application for delivery and taxation, or for taxation alone, must be made whether the application be by client or solicitor.

A special application is also in all cases necessary where any "party chargeable" other than the client desires to obtain delivery and taxation, or taxation alone, of a solicitor's bill, and a special application tax is also necessary if the client suffers more than a month to elapse after the delivery of the bill without having obtained a præcipe order.

Where a special application is necessary it must be made before verdict or judgment, or the lapse of twelve months from the delivery of the bill. If made afterwards, whether by client, or third party, "special circumstances" must be shown. Within the month the client has an absolute right to taxation without any money being brought into Court, after the month it is in the discretion of the Court: Re Brockman, 1909, 2 Ch. 170; 100 L. T. 821.

Where, therefore, the order is not obtainable on præcipe under s. 35, supra, p. 1419, it may be made on application to a Judge, or judicial officer, in Chambers, on notice to the opposite party.

"Special circumstances."

Special Circumstances.—Orders for taxation are not made, except on special circumstances being shewn, after the expiration of twelve months from delivery of a bill, or after verdict or judgment for the amount of the bill: Re Cameron, 2 Chy. Ch. 311; Re Thompson, 2 Chy. Ch. 100; Re Gildersleeve & Walkem, 6 P. R. 117; Read

v. Cotton, 3 P. R. 118; Pattullo v. Church, 8 P. R. 363; Re Norman, 16 Q. B. D. 673; Re Nelson, 30 Ch. D. 1; Re Park, 61 L. T. 173; see Fletcher v. Field, 10 P. R. 608; Snider v. Snider, 11 P. R. 130; or after payment: Re Walker, 10 P. R. 400; Schragg v. Schragg, 11 P. R. 218; Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571; Re Jackson, 40 Ch. D. 495; Re Fairbanks, 1 Chy. Ch. 222; Re Chisholm, 16 P. R. 162; but see s. 42, infra, p. 1434, or after, with the knowledge of the client, the costs have been deducted from moneys collected: Re Beaty, 19 P. R. 271; or after a settled account: Re Webb, 70 L. T. 318; but the delivery of a cash account without items is not sufficient to preclude taxation by the client even after the lapse of 12 months: Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 107; 74 L. T. 337, 506. Rule 765.

Where the special circumstances were that the solicitor was paid on the understanding that the bill might be taxed at any time, an order was made for taxation after his death, against his representatives: Re Baker, 13 P. R. 227.

Special circumstances signify generally "pressure and imposition or some overcharge" or "gross overcharges or errors great as to amount to fraud": Re Strother, 3 K. & J. 515; Re Cameron, 2 Chy Ch. 311; Re Walker, 10 P. R. 400; Re Griffin, [illegible] not confined to such cases: Re Butterfield, 14 [illegible] include any circumstances of an exceptional nature which a Judge in the exercise of a judicial discretion, may consider to justify such taxation: Re Hirst, 1908, 1 K. B. 982; S. C. sub. nom. Hirst v. Fox, 1908, A. C. 416. The bringing of three separate actions, where one would have been sufficient, constitutes "special circumstances": Re Butterfield, supra.

Where alleged overcharges constitute the special circumstances, they must be specified on the application to tax: Re Gidd[illegible]sleeve & Walkem, supra, p. 1420; a general allegation of overcharge is not enough: Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571; and they must be on their face excessive: Re Bethune & Co., 4 C. L. T. 251. Trifling items will not be sufficient: Re Drake, 8 Beav. 123; overcharge by mutual mistake was held not to be a special circumstance: Re Glascodine, 52 L. T. 781.

Where a taxation is ordered after the twelve months, it may be restricted within certain limits: Re Nicholson, 3 D. F. & J. 93.

Where bills are delivered from time to time before the litigation is closed, the client has twelve months from the delivery of the final bill after the close of the litigation in which to apply to tax them all: Re Butterfield, 14 P. R. 149; Re Romer & Haslam, 1893, 2 Q. B. 286; 69 L. T. 547.

The fact that the solicitor of executors did not inform them that if administration proceedings should be commenced, the executors might be disallowed what might be struck off on moderation, does not constitute "special circumstances": Re Layton, Steele & Co., W. N. 1890, 112; 38 W. R. 652.

No rigid rule exists as to what kind of circumstances must be shewn: Re Cheeseman, 1891, 2 Ch. 289; Re Ward, 102 L. T. 527, 881.

The fact that an action was brought on a number of bills delivered during several years, during which defendant was plaintiff's client, is not a special circumstance: Read v. Cotton, 5 U. C. L. J. 114; nor the existence of a controversy as to the terms on which the business was done, nor the continuance of employment after the delivery of the first bill: Arnoldi v. O'Donohoe, 2 Ont. 322; see Gillespie v. Shaw, 10 U. C. L. J. 100. Where judgment had been signed against the client in an action, during the pendency of negotiations for a settlement, this was held to be a special circumstance: Pattullo v. Church, 8 P. R. 363. So conjunction of the following (1) that the relationship of solicitor and client continued after the delivery of the bill, (2) that the solicitor had offered to make a substantial deduction, and (3) that there were items of apparent overcharge of which no explanation was offered: Re Walker, 12 P. R. 400.

A lump sum retained for costs out of the proceeds of a sale, and no bill delivered, were held to constitute "special circumstances": Re Molcolmson & Wade, 9 P. R. 242; and the retainer of costs out of the proceeds of loans obtained for the client is not a payment under s. 42, infra, p. 1434, so as to preclude the right of the client to a taxation: Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 107.

The retaining of an amount agreed upon in full of costs out of moneys in the solicitor's hands without delivering a bill is not payment unless there is a settlement of accounts: Re West, 1892, 2 Q. B. 102; 67 L. T. 57; where there is no special agreement under The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 48 et seq., there can be no binding settlement without the delivery of a bill: Re Solicitor, 21 O. L. R. 235; 22 O. L. R. 30; the taking of bills of exchange, subsequently dishonoured, does not amount to payment, unless the solicitor agrees to accept the bills as payment in any event: Re Romer & Haslam, 1893, 2 Q. B. 286; 69 L. T. 547.

Where the costs were due from a company in liquidation a taxation was ordered on the application of the liquidator, though more than twelve months had elapsed since the delivery of the bill to the company: Re Foss, 1912, 2 Ch. 161, 106 L. T. 825; and see Re Van Laun, 1907, 2 K. B. 23.

Where no special circumstances are shown, and a taxation cannot be claimed as of right, the Court has still an inherent jurisdiction to refer a solicitor's bill for moderation if it sees fit: Lumsden v. Shipcote Land Co., 1906, 2 K. B. 433; 95 L. T. 17.

Delivery of bill and reference to taxation

Order for Taxation, or Delivery and Taxation.—The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 38, provides:

38.—(1) When a client or other person obtains an order for the delivery and taxation of a Solicitor's bill of fees, charges and disbursements, or a copy thereof, the bill shall be delivered within fourteen days from the service of the order.

(a) The bill delivered shall stand referred to the proper officer for taxation, and on the reference the Solicitor shall give credit for, and an account shall be taken of all sums of money by him received from or on account of the client, and the Solicitor shall refund what, if anything, he may on such taxation appear to have been overpaid;

(b) The costs of the reference shall unless otherwise directed be in the discretion of the officer, subject to appeal, and shall be taxed by him when and as allowed.

(c) The Solicitor shall not commence or prosecute any action in respect to the matters referred pending the reference without leave of the Court or a Judge;

(d) The amount certified to be due shall be paid forthwith after confirmation of the certificate by filing, as in the case of a Master's report, by the party liable to pay the same;

(e) Upon payment by the client or other person of what, if anything, may appear to be due to the Solicitor, or if nothing is found to be due to the Solicitor, the Solicitor, if required, shall deliver to the client or other person, or as he may direct, all deeds, books, and writings in the Solicitor's possession, custody, or power, belonging to the client; Rule 763.

(f) The order shall be read as if it contained the above particulars, and shall not set forth the same, but may contain any variation therefrom, and any other directions which the Court or Judge shall see fit to make.

(2) An order for reference of a Solicitor's bill for taxation shall be presumed to contain the above clauses (a) to (e) of sub-section (1) whether obtained on præcipe or otherwise, and by the Solicitor, client or other person liable to pay the bill. Order presumed to contain clauses a to e.

(3) The reference for taxation shall unless otherwise ordered be to the proper taxing officer for the county in which the Solicitor resides. 2 Geo. V. c. 28, s. 38. Reference to be to local taxing officer.

This section is based, to some extent, on C. RR. 1185, 1186, 1187, and contains, with some changes, the provisions which previously thereto it was usual to insert in an order for the taxation of a Solicitor's bill. It will not now be proper to insert them, and the order will be read as if it contained them; but it may contain any variations, or additional directions. Forms Nos. 64, 65, 66; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1698, 1699, 1701, 1702, are the forms of orders to be used in such cases, and should be adhered to: Re Solicitors, 9 P. R. 90, is not to be followed.

This section regulates the practice where a client or other person obtains an order for delivery and taxation, or for taxation only, of a solicitor's bill of costs. The words "other person" are intended to include persons who are not directly liable to the solicitor as his client, but who are nevertheless liable to pay his costs: see The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 40, infra, p. 1431.

Section 35 regulates by whom and the time and conditions within, and upon which the order may be obtained on præcipe. In cases not coming within that Rule the application for the order must be made on notice to the solicitor.

An application for taxation, or delivery and taxation, of a solicitor's bill of costs must be made "In the matter of (the solicitor)": see The Solicitors' Act, s. 45, supra, p. 1419.

Under the first clause of section 38 a bill must be delivered by the solicitor within fourteen days after the service of an order for its delivery. In case the solicitor make default he is liable to attachment for disobedience: Dent v. Basham, 9 Ex. 467; 23 L. J. Ex. 161; but where the solicitor declines to make any charge for his services, the delivery of a bill will not be enforced: Re Griffith, 7 T. L. R. 268; and see Re Kerr, 12 Beav. 390.

As to the delivery of the bill, see notes to The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 34 (1), supra, p. 1412; and s. 34 (2), supra, p. 1418.

As to place of reference: see The Solicitors' Act, s. 38 (3), supra.

Account.—The account authorized to be taken by s. 38 (1), clause (a), is confined to moneys received by the solicitor in the transaction of Account.

Rule 765.

the business to which the bill refers, and does not authorize a general account of all dealings between the client and the solicitor; thus where a barrister obtained an order for taxation against his solicitor it was held that he was not entitled to call for an account of counsel fees received by the solicitor in other matters in which he had retained the applicant as counsel: Re Le Brasseur, 74 L. T. 526, and see Jones v. James, 1 Beav. 307; Re Smith, 4 Beav. 309; 9 Beav. 182; Cooper v. Ewart, 2 Ph. 362. The account is incident to the taxation of the solicitor's bill, and where the solicitor disclaims any right to costs, an account of the moneys in his hands cannot be taken under a præcipe order, but a special application is necessary: Re Landor, 1899 1 Ch. 818; 80 L. T. 643.

In an action by a firm of solicitors for the recovery of costs, it was held that the client was not entitled to set off against the costs, an amount paid by him to one of the firm, in respect of certain special services rendered by him, and not charged for in the costs sued for: McDougall v. Cameron, 21 S. C. R. 379.

In taking the account under this clause the Taxing Officer may inquire into an alleged agreement in the nature of a compromise, as to prior bills of costs not referred to taxation, the amount of which the solicitor claims to deduct from the moneys of his client in his hands: Re O'Donohoe, 14 P. R. 317; 19 S. C. R. 356.

Where, with the knowledge of his client, a solicitor has bargained for, and received a commission from the vendor in a transaction in which his client is vendee, his client cannot claim such commission: Re Hoslam, 1902. 1 Ch. 765; 86 L. T. 663.

A solicitor must account and pay over, if required, moneys retained by him out of the proceeds of litigation in pursuance of a champertous agreement between himself and his client: Re Solicitor, 14 O. L. R. 464.

The Taxing Officer has no authority to charge the solicitor with interest upon money in his hands belonging to his client: Re O'Donohoe, 12 P. R. 612; 28 C. L. J. 19, in Supreme Court.

Only those payments are allowed which are made by the solicitor in his professional capacity: Re Remnant, 11 Beav. 603, and not payments in proceedings where he was not professionally concerned: Hemming v. Wilton, 4 Car. & P. 318; Re Lees, 5 Beav. 410.

Client's application on præcipe.

Client's Application.—A client applying on præcipe for an order for the delivery and taxation of a solicitor's bill, or for the taxation of a bill delivered, is required to submit to pay what may be found due to the solicitor: see Forms of order, Nos. 64, 66; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1698, 1701. An order, therefore, should not be issued on præcipe by the client unless he admits the retainer.

Wherever a client obtains an order to tax a solicitor's bill, unless the right to dispute the retainer is reserved, it is taken to be admitted: In re Frape, 1894, 2 Ch. 90; Re Herbert, 34 Ch. D. 501, but where the solicitor obtains the common order for taxation ex parte, the client is entitled to dispute the retainer as to the whole bill: In re Macdonald, 16 P. R. 498.

A country principal may, under section 35, obtain an order to tax the bill of his Toronto agents: In re Wilde, 1910, 1 Ch. 100; 101 L. T. 734.

Rule 763.

On the client's application it was held that the right to dispute the retainer cannot be reserved except by consent: Re Totten, 27 U. C. Q. B. 449.

An unqualified person acting as a solicitor, and receiving papers and money as such, is subject to the summary jurisdiction of the Court: Re Hulme & Lewis, supra, p. 1407, but semble, an order should not be taken against such a person on præcipe, or ex parte.

Notwithstanding that the retainer of a solicitor by two persons is in form a joint one, the Court will look into the facts of the case to discover the real nature of the transaction: Re Comeron & Lee, 18 P. R. 176.

An order obtained on præcipe where a special application should have been made, may be set aside or varied: In re Webster, 1891, 2 Ch. 102; In re McCarthy, 15 P. R. 261; Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503; 70 L. T. 181.

Where the order is obtained on præcipe in ignorance of the fact of the existence of circumstances which, if known to the client, would have made a special application proper, the order may nevertheless be upheld: Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204; and, if set aside, the applicant may not be ordered to pay costs, if he acted in good faith: see Re Armstrong, 1896, 1 Ch. 536.

The time for making the application runs from the date of the delivery of the last of a series of bills relating to the same business: Re Romer, 1893, 2 Q. B. 286; 69 L. T. 547; Re Butterfield, 14 P. R. 149.

Where no bill has been delivered no time is limited within which the client is to apply under section 35. The order for delivery and taxation, where no bill has been delivered, may, therefore, be obtained by the client on præcipe at any time.

A præcipe order for taxation is made at the client's instance, on his submission to pay what may be found due. Where the client obtains an order to tax a bill, some of the items of which are barred by the Statute of Limitations, he is deemed to waive the Statute: Re Margetts, 1898, 2 Ch. 263.

Where an order of course lapses, or becomes ineffective, it is irregular to issue a second order on præcipe: Re Webster, 1891, 2 Ch. 102; 64 L. T. 250; Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503; 70 L. T. 161.

A præcipe order is issuable by "the proper officer in the County where the solicitor resides"; in Toronto it must be obtained at the Central Office, in outer counties from the Local Registrar, if any, or from the Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or Deputy Registrar.

Where special application necessary.

Special Application by Client, when Necessary.—Wherever the retainer is disputed a special application is necessary, on notice to the solicitor: Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 541; and on such an application the order for taxation will be modified so as to enable the question of retainer to be tried, either in an action to be brought upon the bill, or in some other way to be determined by the Judge, or judicial officer, granting the order.

A special application is, also necessary wherever there are any special circumstances in the case, or some special order is required:

Rule 763.

Re Atkinson, 1 Chy. Ch. 187; e.g., where there is some special agre-ment as to costs: Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 541; Re C. & L., 15 C. L. J
139, or as to the solicitor's lien: Re Moss, 17 Beav. 59, or taxation o only part of the bill is desired: Re Byrch, 8 Beav. 124; Re Yetts, 3 Beav. 412; Re Johnson & Weathcrall, 37 Ch. D. 133; or only some o several parties jointly liable, are applying: Re Ilderton, 33 Beav. 20 see Re Lewin, 16 Beav. 608; Re Becher, etc., 2 Chy. Ch. 216; or af an action has been brought by solicitor or client, or after an ord obtained by the client as of course has become effete: Re Webst 1891, 2 Ch. 102; Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503; 70 L. T. 161; w re th client claims an account of moneys in the solicitor's hands, and th solicitor renounces all claim to costs: Re Landor, 1899, 1 Ch 9 80 L. T. 643.

Where a bill has been delivered more than a month, the client ca not obtain a præcipe order, but must apply in Chambers: Re Boulto
2 Chy. Ch. 58; and so also where the costs in question have been pa to the solicitor by a third party: Re Solicitors, 35 Sol. Jour. 127, or the client himself: see supra, p. 1421.

One of several clients who have given separate retainers to t some solicitor in respect of the same action or matter may app specially for a taxation of his bill, but, where practicable, the othe should be notified so that they may be bound by the taxation: In Salaman, 1894, 2 Ch. 201; and see Re Macdonald, 16 P. R. 495;
Cameron & Lee, 18 P. R. 176.

Where a solicitor has funds or papers of a client in his possess and claims a lien, an order for taxation will be made, though t services for which the solicitor claims have been wholly in Cou Court proceedings: Re Prince, 3 Chy. Ch. 282; and see *Re M.
Cameron*, 1 Chy. Ch. 356.

Where a solicitor is employed to perform services not necessar within the scope of his duty as a solicitor, e.g., the procuring a pens from a foreign government, he may make a bargain for the amount he allowed him for such services, and the client can neither claim bill nor have a taxation in respect of such services: Ostrom v. B jamin, 20 Ont. App. 336; but see O'Connor v. Gemmill, 29 Ont. 47;
Ont. App. 27; Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37.

A client who is merely a nominal plaintiff, his name being used convenience, and who is not responsible to the solicitor, is not titled to an order for taxation: Re Attorneys, 6 P. R. 319.

The Court has jurisdiction to order the delivery of a bill, whet there has been payment or not, and whether the Court has jurisdict to order the taxation of the bill or not: Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 1 44 W. R. 404; 74 L. T. 337; The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s.
p. 1434, infra. In such a case a special application would appear t necessary.

On præcipe.

Solicitor's Application for Taxation.—A solicitor cannot a for an order for taxation until a month has elapsed from the deli of his bill, as provided by The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), ss. 34 see supra, pp. 1418, 1419; and not then if an order has been previo made on the application of the client: see s. 35 (c), supra, p. 1419.

The month is a calendar month: see The Interpretation Act (R O. c. 1) s. 29 u, and is to be computed exclusively of the day on wh the bill is delivered, and the day on which the order was applied for: see Re Morphy & Kerr, 2 Chy. Ch. 56. Rule 763.

The order should only be obtained on præcipe in simple cases. Wherever there are special circumstances, or a special order is required, a special application, on notice to the client, should be made: Re Atkinson, 1 Chy. Ch. 187.

The common order only can be obtained on præcipe: Ib.

Where for any reason an order of course lapses, or becomes ineffective, a second order of course is irregular: Re Webster, 1891, 2 Ch. 102; 64 L. T. 250; Re Taylor, 70 L. T. 161; 1894, 1 Ch. 503.

Where an order is obtained on præcipe, or on motion ex parte, where notice should have been given, it may be set aside on application of the client with costs; but if the order was obtained bonâ fide in ignorance of the existence of the circumstances making it proper to apply specially, the order may be upheld: Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204; or if set aside the solicitor may not be ordered to pay costs.

Where a solicitor obtained ex parte an order against his client, pending an application to have the client declared a lunatic, the order was set aside on the declaration of lunacy being subsequently made, but without costs, as the solicitor appeared to have acted in the bonâ fide belief that the client was sane: Re Armstrong, 1896, 1 Ch. 536.

Special Application by Solicitor, when Necessary.—The order should be issued on præcipe only in simple cases, wherever special circumstances exist a special application for the order should be made in Chambers, e.g., where there is a special agreement as to retainer: Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 541; or as to the costs: Ib.; or as to the solicitor's lien: Re Moss, 17 Beav. 59; or where there are any special circumstances whatever affecting the costs, or the liability of the alleged client: Re Fitch, 2 Chy. Ch. 288; Re C. & L., 15 C. L. J. 139; or where the solicitor knows that his retainer is disputed. Where taxation to be had.

If no special order is required notice must be given: Re Atkinson, 1 Chy. Ch. 187; Rule 213.

Where there are some alleged clients who dispute, and others who admit the retainer, the solicitor may, on special application, obtain the usual order as to the unresisting clients, and the taxation should be ordered on notice to the others who dispute the retainer, with liberty to them to attend the taxation, which should be conclusive as to them only as to the quantum in the event of their being ultimately found liable: In re Macdonald, 16 P. R. 498.

The order to tax, if made on a special application, may reserve questions of retainer, and negligence, or other matters of defence, in a proper case: Re Millar, Millar v. Cline, 12 P. R. 155; or refer them to the Taxing Officer: Re Bacon, 3 Chy. Ch. 79; Re Toms, Ib., 204; Re Lewis, 9 U. C. L. J. 81; Re Green, 7 P. R. 89.

Effect of Præcipe Order for Taxation.—The form of order when obtained by a client: (see Form Nos. 64, 66; H. & L. Forms, Nos. 1698, 1701), contains a submission on the part of the applicant to pay what is found due, this is inserted for the purpose of giving the Court jurisdiction to order payment by the applicant, instead of leaving the solicitor to bring an action: see In re Battams, 1897, 1 Ch. 699; 76 Common order, effect of

Rule 763.

L. T. 385, and under such an order the client cannot dispute the r tainer: Re Herbert, 34 Ch. D. 504; and he is bound to accept th Taxing Officer's decision as to the quantum of costs payable, subje to the right of appeal, and cannot thereafter claim to have the amou assessed in an action: Re Johnston, 3 O. L. R. 1.

The solicitor is entitled to an unconditional submission without a exception of charges or items barred by the Statute of Limitation Re Hughes, W. N. 1899, 125.

Where the client, while asking for a taxation, at the same ti wishes to dispute the retainer, he should move in Chambers for t order on notice to the solicitor, and the order should either omit t submission to pay, or it should be qualified and made subject to t question of retainer being found against him, and the right to d pute the retainer should be reserved to the applicant by the orde but this can only be done by consent: see Re Totten, 27 U. C. Q. 449.

So also the common order where obtained by the client will deemed to be a waiver of the defence of the Statute of Limitatio as to any statute-barred items in the bill: Re Margetts, 1896, 2 C 263; Re Brockman, supra, p. 1420.

Where the common order is obtained by the client, the solicit would appear to have the right to dispute the alleged retainer: Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204; and it is held in England that under common order obtained by the solicitor, the client may object every item on the ground of want of retainer: Re Jones, 33 Ch. 105; Re Herbert, 34 Ch. D. 504; but under an order obtained on pract by the client himself, he cannot object to the whole bill on that groun Ib., and see The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 35, supra, p. 1421

Where there is no retainer in writing, and it is disputed, weig is given to the denial of the client: Re Eccles & Carroll, 1 Chy. C 263; Bird v. Harris, 43 L. T. 434; W. N. 1881, 5.

A contract to pay a retaining fee will not be enforced: Ford Mason, 16 P. R. 25; Re Solicitor, 21 O. L. R. 255; 22 O. L. R. 30.

The common order for taxation is now under The Solicitors A (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 38 (1) (f) supra, p. 1423, to be read as if it contain an order for payment of the amount to be found due upon the ref ence: whether the order be made on the application of solicitor, cli or third party liable to pay, it is not necessary to bring an action: Peace and Waller, 24 Ch. D. 405; 49 L. T. 637. Formerly when order had been obtained by the solicitor, he was not entitled to s summary order for payment: Re Washington, 12 P. R. 386.

Under the common order the Taxing Officer has power to inv tigate and dispose of questions of carelessness, impropriety, and ne gence, in the conduct of the business to which the bill relates, so as they affect the solicitor's right to recover the costs in questi and the officer's certificate, unless appealed against in proper time conclusive as to all matters within his jurisdiction: Re Millar, Mi v. Cline, 12 P. R. 155; Re Kerr, 29 Gr. 188; Thompson v. Milliken, Gr. 197; Re Massey, 26 Ch. D. 459; 51 L. T. 390; and The Solicitors' (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 45; but the Taxing Officer cannot, under the c mon order, inquire as to the damages sustained by the client by alleged negligence of the solicitor: Thompson v. Milliken, 15 Gr. 19

Where the solicitor renounces all claim to costs, an account of moneys in his hands cannot be taken under the præcipe order: Re Lindor, 1899, 1 Ch. 818; 80 L. T. 643. Rule 763.

The form of the common order when obtained by the client or person chargeable, or the solicitor, is regulated by The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 38, supra, p. 1422.

Special Order.—Where the order is made on the special application of the solicitor, or client, it may contain any special provisions which the peculiar circumstances of the case may require; it may reserve the question of retainer, or any other defence, to be disposed of either in an action to be brought on the bill, or it may refer any such defences to the Taxing Officer: see supra, note p. 1427. Special order.

Place of Reference:—

A solicitors bill is to be taxed, unless otherwise ordered, by the proper Taxing Officer for the County in which the solicitor resides: The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 38 (3), supra, p. 1423. Where taxation to be had.

Formerly the place of reference was depending on where the business or some part of it was done: R. S. O. 1887, c. 147, s. 32; but, under that Act, where the principal part of the work had been done in the country, and there had also been agency work done in Toronto, although the Court had in such a case a discretion to refer the bill to Toronto, yet on a special application, it was held that the discretion should not be exercised in favour of Toronto except under special circumstances: Re Skinner, 13 P. R. 276, 447.

It would seem that the opposite party may apply to change the place of reference where the order has been issued on præcipe: Re Solicitor, 7 P. R. 263.

Where the Deputy Registrar to whom a bill was referred fell ill, and was unable to proceed with it, the reference was changed to the Deputy Clerk of the Crown: Re Solicitor, 10 O. L. R. 393.

Scope of Reference.—Besides taxing the costs, the Taxing Officer is also required to take an account between the parties: see The Solicitors' Act, s. 38 (1) a, supra, p. 1422. Reference.

As to the power to inquire into negligence, etc.: see supra, p. 1428.

The Taxation.—The Solicitors' Act, s. 37, provides:—

37. In case either party to a reference, having due notice, refuses or neglects to attend the taxation, the officer to whom the reference is made may tax the bill ex parte. 2 Geo. V. c. 28, s. 37. If either party does not attend, officer may tax bill ex parte.

It was formerly held that the taxation must be made according to the tariff in force when the services were rendered, even though it had been subsequently repealed: Delap v. Charlebois, 18 P. R. 417; Earle v. Burland, 8 O. L. R. 174; 9 O. L. R. 663; but it has been held that the Tariff prescribed by these Rules is retrospective in its operation and applies to all costs not taxed when it came into force: Re Solicitors, 6 O. W. N. 625.

Costs incurred by special instructions of the clients (a municipality) were held to be recoverable, although not recoverable by the municipality against tax payers: Re Porter, 1912, 2 Ch. 98; 107 L. T. 40.

Rule 763.

A taxing officer may require the assistance of the officer of any other Court

The Solicitors' Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 43, further provides:—

43. Where a bill is referred for taxation, the officer to whom reference is made may request the proper officer of any other Court assist him in taxing any part of such bill, and the officer, so request shall thereupon tax the same, and shall have the same powers, and receive the same fees in respect thereof, as upon a reference to him the Court of which he is an officer, and he shall return the bill, his opinion thereon, to the officer who so requests him to tax same: 2 Geo. V., c. 28, s. 43.

Conveyancing Charges.—The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 1 s. 44, provides:—

Skill, etc., and not length to be considered in taxation of certain deeds.

44. In the absence of any general rule, and so far any such gene rules do not apply, the Taxing Officer in taxing a bill for preparing executing any instrument, shall consider not the length but the s and labour employed and responsibility incurred in the preparat thereof: 2 Geo. V., c. 28, s. 44.

Charges for Services not Covered by Tariff.—See supra, p. 1

Retaining Fee.—A contract to pay a retaining fee will not enforced: Ford v. Mason, 16 P. R. 25. A retaining fee is in the nat of a gift: Re Solicitor, 21 O. L. R. 255, 22 O. L. R. 30; and it cann without the consent of the client, be deducted by the solicitor fr the moneys of the client coming to the hands of the solicitor: Ib., a agreement between solicitor and client for payment of more th taxable costs is void: Re Solicitor, 11 O. L. R. 464; Re Solicitor, 21 O. R. 255; 22 O. L. R. 30.

A retaining fee actually paid by a client was held to be taxa between solicitor and client: Re Fraser, 13 P. R. 409; Ford v. Mas 16 P. R. 25; but a retaining fee agreed to be paid, but not actua paid, cannot be taxed "as between solicitor and client"; McKe Hamlin, 16 P. R. 207; nor against the client Ford v. Mason, supr nor can any other bargain to pay more than taxable costs be enforc against the client: Re Geddes, 2 Chy. Ch. 44. "The client may p more if he likes, and the payment may not, under the circumstanc be liable to be recalled; but if he only promise to pay the promise is nudum pactum," per Mowat, V.C.; Ib., p. 450.

Scale.

Scale of Costs.—Where the costs being taxed were incurred fr action, the scale on which they are to be taxed between solicitor a client will usually be that on which the costs in the action are taxa between party and party: Scanlan v. M'Donough, 10 C. P. 104; Re licitors, 33 C. L. J. 466; but where the solicitor had reasonable grou for bringing the action in a higher Court than that in which it mig have been brought, the costs as against his client may be allowed the scale of the Court in which the action was brought, though t costs between party and party are taxable on the scale of an infer Court: Re Jackson, 18 P. R. 326.

Where the proceedings for which the services are charged were n taken in any Court, the Taxing Officer may allow a lump sum the for, having regard to the nature and importance of the business do and the amount involved: Re Johnston, 3 O. L. R. 1; and see Shilson, 90 L. T. 641; Re Solicitor, 37 C. L. J. 323.

Formerly the tariff in force at the time the business was done go erned, although it may have been subsequently repealed: Delap

Charlebois, 18 P. R. 417; Earle v. Burland, 8 O. L. R. 174; but the tariff prescribed by these Rules has been held to be retrospective: Re Solicitors, 6 O. W. N. 625. Rule 783.

Where the services rendered are not provided for by the Tariff, they must be allowed for according to their value which is a question of fact, to be determined, in case of dispute, by the Taxing Officer whose decision is reviewable by the Court: Re Solicitors, 27 O. L. R. 147.

Where the charges in the bill exceed the charges made in the solicitor's docket, the latter is primâ facie evidence of what the charges should be, but the variance is open to explanation: Ib.

Appeal from Taxing Officer's Report.—The Taxing Officer's certificate is appealable as provided by Rule 508: Re Crothers, 15 P. R. 92; Ford v. Mason, 16 P. R. 25; and Re Robinson, 17 P. R. 137. Appeal.

Costs of Taxation.—The costs of the taxation under the common order are in the discretion of the Taxing Officer: The Solicitors Act (R. S. O. c. 159), s. 38 (b), supra, p. 1422. As to special circumstances entitling the solicitor to costs, see Re Mackenzie, 69 L. T. 751. Costs of taxation.

Security for Costs.—The fact of a client applying for taxation living out of the jurisdiction is not sufficient ground for an order for security for costs, without special circumstances being shown: Re A. B., 6 P. R. 210. But see Re Cornwall, in note to Rule 373, supra, p. 888. Security for costs.

Applications for Delivery and Taxation of Bills of Costs by Third Parties.—Third parties liable to pay or to be charged, with costs are in certain cases entitled to have them taxed. Application by third parties.

By The Solicitors' Act, section 40, it is provided:

40 (1).—Where any person not being chargeable as the principal party is liable to pay or has paid any bill either to the Solicitor, his assignee or personal representative, or to the principal party entitled thereto, the person so liable to pay or paying, his assignee or personal representative, may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order referring to taxation as the party chargeable therewith might himself have done, and the same proceeding shall be had thereupon as if the application had been made by the party so chargeable. Taxation where a party, not being the principal, pays a bill of costs.

(2) If such application is made where, under the provisions hereinbefore contained, a reference is not authorized to be made except under special circumstances, the Court or Judge to whom the application is made may take into consideration any additional special circumstances applicable to the person making it, although such circumstances might not be applicable to the party chargeable with the bill, if he was the party making the application. What special circumstances may be considered in such case.

(3) For the purpose of such reference the Court or Judge may order the Solicitor, his assignee or representative, to deliver to the party making the application a copy of the bill upon payment of the costs of the copy. Court or Judge may order the delivery of a copy of the bill.

(4) When a person, other than the client, applies for taxation of a bill delivered or for the delivery of a copy thereof for the purpose of taxation, and it appears that by reason of the conduct of the client the applicant is precluded from taxing the same, but is nevertheless entitled Taxation at instance of third person to an account from the client, it shall not be necessary for the applic to bring an action for an account, but the Court or a Judge may i summary manner refer u bill already delivered, or order delivery o copy of the bill and refer the same for taxation as between the ap cant and the client, and may add such parties not already notified may be necessary.

Application of s. 38.

(5) The provisions of section 38, so far as they are applicable, sh apply to such taxation: 2 Geo. V., c. 28, s. 40.

This section is based to some extent on C. R. 1188

A taxation obtained and made under this section would not app to be binding an the client unless he was also a party to the proce ing. Where a third party applies alone, it would seem that he can obtain an order on praecipe under Section 35, because by sub-sect. is evidently contemplated that the solicitor shall be notified of the ap cation, and have an opportunity of showing that by reason of the duct of his client, the applicant is precluded from taxing the which he could not do if the order were issuable on praecipe; and provision for payment for the copy of the bill as mentioned in sub- 3, supra, is not provided for by a praecipe order. It therefore se reasonably plain that wherever a third party desires the delivery taxation, of a solicitor's bill a special application is necessary. S an application may be made in Chambers an notice to the solic If it should turn out that by reason of the conduct of the client, latter is not entitled to a taxation of the bill in question, then in or to entitle the applicant to an account, and taxation, as between him and the client, it will be necessary that the client should also be n fied.

Where an order is made on the application of a third party he be deemed to submit to pay the bill as taxed: see sub-sec. 5 supra, The Solicitors' Act, s. 38; supra, p. 1422; sed vide; Re Gray, 1901, 1 239; 84 L. T. 24; but semble payment by the client, unless he was an applicant, could not be enforced under such an order.

A party chargeable who can tax, includes the next friend of infant: Re Flower, 19 W. R. 578.

The mere fact that the agreement by which the third party agreed to pay the costs in question will have to be construed is bar to the application: Re Hirst, 1908, 1 K. B. 982; S. C. sub nom. H v. Fox, 1908, A. C. 416; and payment of the bill by the client was to be no bar to an application by a third party: Ib.

A mere volunteer, under no previous liability to pay the bill, no right to obtain a taxation under section 40, supra: Re Becke, 5 B 406; nor a merely nominal plaintiff who is not liable to the solic for the costs: Re Attorneys, 6 P. R. 319.

Any one of several cestuis que trustent may, in the discretion the Court, obtain an order under section 40 for taxation of of costs of a solicitor employed by executors or trustees in connec with the business of the trust estate: Sandford v. Porter, 16 App. 565; Re Skinner, 13 P. R. 276; but where the trustee has the costs, the application by a cestui que trust for taxation mus made within twelve calendar months thereafter: Re Wellborne, 1 Ch. 312; 83 L. T. 611. The costs must be taxed as between trustee and his solicitor, irrespective of any question as to their mate incidence amongst the beneficiaries: Re Miles, 1903, 2 Ch. 5

Where the client makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors the assignee is not bound by the client's agreement to a bill of his solicitor previously delivered, and is entitled to have it taxed: In re Lown, 1907, 2 K. B. 23. Rule 783.

The bill of a mortgagee's solicitor in regard to the mortgaged estate may be taxed on the application of the mortgagor: Re Lees, 5 Beav. 30; Ex parte Glass, Re Macdonald, 3 P. R. 138; see also Re Massey, 34 Beav. 463; or of a subsequent incumbrancer: Re Taylor, 18 Beav. 165; Re Jessop, 32 Beav. 406. So on a sale by mortgagees under a power of sale, the mortgagor, or a subsequent incumbrancer, is entitled to taxation of the solicitor's bill: Re Crerar & Muir, 8 P. R. 56; and under The Mortgages Act (R. S. O. c. 112), s. 30, the taxation may be had without an order, and that clause is retrospective: Ferguson v. E. & S. Invest. Co., 8 P. R. 404. So also an assignee for creditors is entitled to tax the costs incurred by a prior assignee of the same estate: Re A. & B., 6 P. R. 68; and one of the parties to an arbitration has been held entitled to a taxation of the costs of the solicitor of the umpire for drawing the award: Crossley v. Lowestoft W. W. Co., 85 L. T. 208; C., sub nom. Re Collyer, 1901, 2 K. B. 839; but a ratepayer of a school section has been held not entitled to a taxation of the costs incurred by the trustees of the section: McGugon v. McGugon, 19 Ont. App. 56; 21 S. C. R. 267; nor can a shareholder tax costs incurred by the company: Re Stephen, 17 L. J. Ch. 219, Ib. 372.

A creditor of an estate has no right under sec. 40, as between himself and the personal representative, to a taxation of the costs incurred by the latter in collateral proceedings affecting the estate, but he is entitled to have the bill "moderated": Re Hogue, Traders' Bank v. Murray, 12 P. R. 119; and see Beatty v. Holden, 4 Ont. App. 89; Re Jackson, 40 Ch. D. 495; 60 L. T. 589; but see Re Jones & Everett, 1904, 2 Ch. 363; where it was held that a creditor who had obtained judgment for administration is a "party interested," and is therefore entitled to delivery and taxation of a bill of costs paid by the deceased person's executor.

After payment by a mortgagee of his solicitor's bill, the mortgagor's only remedy is for an account: Re Macdonald, Macdonald & Morsh, 8 P. R. 88; Re Cronyn, etc., Ib. 372; Re Massey, 34 Beav. 463; Re Forsyth, 34 Beav. 140; 13 W. R. 932; but see The Solicitors Act, section 42, infra, p. 1434; and see Re Hirst, supra, p. 1432. An account may be had in a summary way under section 40, supra.

Where on the application of a mortgagor the mortgagee's solicitor was ordered under sec. 40 to deliver to a third party a copy of the bill of costs of a sale, it was held that, though the delivery was, under this section, to be regarded as for the purposes of a reference to taxation, yet the person so obtaining the copy had not necessarily the right to tax the bill: Re Moffatt, 12 P. R. 240.

And where the parties to an action compromise on the terms that one of them is to pay the other's costs, the party to pay may, under section 40, supra, p. 1431, obtain an order to tax the costs, but the application should be made, "In the matter of (the solicitor)": see sec. 45, supra, p. 1419; and should be made on notice to him; and where such an order was obtained ex parte by a third party in the name of the client, and omitted to direct the account between the solicitor and his client, as provided by sec. 38 (1) (a), supra, p. 1422, it was set aside with costs: Re McCarthy, 15 P. R. 261; Re Hurlbert, 71 L. T. 748;

sed vide, Re Taylor, 1894, 1 Ch. 503, 671; 70 L. T. 161; Re Green 10 U. C. L. J. 131.

The parties who institute, or intervene upon, the taxation, be personally liable to pay the costs of taxation, if the same be payable to the solicitor: Re Rogers & Farewell, 14 P. R. 38.

A third party by obtaining an order for taxation does not, acco to the English practice, thereby admit his liability to pay the soli the costs charged: Re Gray, 1901, 1 Ch. 239; 84 L. T. 24; but in On it would appear that he does: see s. 40 (5), supra, p. 1432, a 38 (1) (d), supra, p. 1422.

Where a taxation is obtained by a third party, items outside scope of the third party's liability must, as against him, be disallo but when the items for which the third party is liable are a tained, the taxation of those items must be as between the soli and the party chargeable in the first instance, and not as between solicitor and the third party: Re Cohen & Cohen, 1905, 1 Ch. 91 L. T. 836, affirmed C. A., 1905, 2 Ch. 137; 92 L. T. 782; Re L bothom, 1904, 2 Ch. 152; 90 L. What special circumstances may be considered in such case.

Special Circumstances:—As to the effect of sec. 40 (2), supra 1431: see Re Vordy, 20 L. J. Ch. 325; Re Malcolmson & Wade, 9 P 242; Re Norman, 16 Q. B. D. 673; 54 L. T. 143; Re Hirst, 1908, 1 K 982; S. C. sub. nom. Hirst v. Fox, 1908, A. C. 416; and as to what "special circumstances," see supra, pp. 1420, 1421.

Re-Taxation of Bill: — The Solicitors Act, s. 41, provides follows:—

When a bill may be re-taxed.

41. No bill previously taxed shall be again referred unless, un the special circumstances of the case, the Court or Judge to wh the application is made thinks fit to direct a re-taxation thereof. Geo. 5, c. 28, s. 41.

A re-taxation will not be ordered unless improper charges specified and proved: Eastman v. Eostman, 2 Chy. Ch. 325; and Cameron v. Campbell, 1 P. R. 170. In Clarke v. Manners, 4 Gr. a taxation was opened after seven years, the previous taxation hav been had by the solicitor without notice to his client.

Payment of Bill, when it does not preclude Taxation:—The Solicitors Act, s. 42, provides as follows:—

Payment not to preclude taxation if applied for within a year.

42. The payment of any bill shall not preclude the Court or Jud to whom application is made from referring it for taxation up such terms and subject to such directions as to the Court or Jud may seem just, if the application is made within twelve months af payment, and if the special circumstances of the case, in the opini of the Court or Judge, appear to require the taxation: 2 Geo. 5, c. s. 12.

Payment of the costs by the party primarily liable, was former held to preclude a third party liable to pay from having a taxatio see Re Macdonald, etc., p. 1433. Sed quare, if payment can in any ca intercept the right of taxation, if applied for within twelve calend months after payment, and there are special circumstances: see Bracey, 8 Beav. 338; In re Wellborne, 1901, 1 Ch. 312; 83 L. T. 61 Re Hirst, 1908, 1 K. B. 982; S. C. sub. nom. Hirst v. Fox, 1908, A. C. 41

Section 42 aeems to extend the time iimited by sec. 36 (1), supra. Rule 763.
1420, for making the application, wherever payment has been made.
d special circumstances can be shawn.

Whers payment was made under protest, a taxation was ordered: Re Cheeseman, 1891, 2 Ch. 289; 64 L. T. 602.

Deduction of costa by the soiicitor from moneya of the client in his hands is not payment within the meaning of section 42: Re Stogdon, 56 L. T. 355; Re West, 1892, 2 Q. B. 102; 67 L. T. 57; Re Bayliss, 1896, 2 Ch. 207; Re Malcolmson & Wade, 9 P. R. 242; unless it is mads with ths express consent of the client: Re Thompson, 1894, 1 Q. B. 462; and at, or after, the delivery of a signed biil: Re Boyle, supra.

Ths giving of security is, undsr section 42, equivalsnt to payment: Re Boyle, 5 D. M. & G. 540; Sayer v. Wagstaff, 5 Beav. 415; Re Currie, 9 Beav. 602; Re Harper, 10 Beav. 284; Re Fairbanks, 1 Chy. Ch. 222; but primâ facie it ia only a conditional payment: Re Romer, 1893, 2 Q. B. 300; 69 L. T. 547.

Payment before ths delivery of the bill is not a payment within section 42: see Re Street, L. R. 10 Eq. 165; Re Baylis, 1896, 2 Ch. 107; hut ses Hitchcock v. Stretton, 1892, 2 Ch. 343; 66 L. T. 707; even though ths client has sxamined ths soiicitor's docket: Re Pinkerton, 18 P. R. 331; hut payment was hsid to preciude taxation where a number of hiils wers delivered in detail, in connection with the management of an estate, a few only being not rendered in detail but only incluaed in atatementa of account which were not objected to, and paid: Re Beaty et al., 19 P. R. 271.

An application under section 42 must be made on notice, as it is necessary for the applicant to estabiish the existence of special circumstances. As to what are "special circumstancea": see The Solicitors' Act, s. 36, supra, pp. 1420, 1421; Re Munns, 50 L. T. 356.

An agreement, for consideration, not to dispute the biil, is an answer to an application to tax after payment: Re Eley, 57 L. T. 253.

Special Agreements between Solicitor and Client as to costs:— Special agreements as to costs.
Special agreements may he made by soiicitors with their clients for remuiisration for non-contentious business, and conveyancing: see The Solicitors Act (R. S. C. c. 159), a. 49.

Such agreements must be in writing: Ib., parol agreements of that nature ars void: Re McBrady & O'Connor, 19 P. R. 37.

Where the business is to he done in any Court except a Division Court, the agreement is subject to the approval of the taxing officer of the Court having power to enforce the agreement: see sec. 50. Who if he thinks the agreement is not fair may require the opinion of the Court to be taken: see sec. 51. The Court or Judge may reduce the amount ngreed on, or cancei the agreement nitogether, and order taxntion as if no agreement had besn made: see sec. 52.

Such an agreement is not to affect ths amount taxabie between party and party: aee sec. 53.

Whers an agreement has been made it preciudes the solicitor making claims for remuneration beyond ths amount agreed: see sec. 54. Agreements to reiieve solicitor from liability for negligence are void: see sec. 55.

Rule 763.

No action is to be brought on any auch agreement, but all dis arising thereout, and its enforcement, or rescission, are to be effecte summnry application to the Court, not being a Division Cour which the business was done, or if it was not done in any Court the the Supreme Court or a Judge thereof: see sec. 56. This section not seem to provide for the case where the business in question done in a Division Court. Notwithstanding a bill of exchange has given in settlement of the sum agreed on for contentious and non-tentious business; the client is, in an action on the bill, still entitle have an inquiry as to whether the agreement is fair and reasona Ray v. Newton, 1913, 1 K. B. 249; 108 L. T. 313.

If the agreement is found to be fair and reasonable it may enforced by an order for payment: see sec. 57, or, if not, it may cancelled, and the solicitor may be required to deliver a bill to taxed in the usual way: Ib. An application may be made for inqu within 12 months after payment, where special circumstances shown: see sec. 58. As to what are considered "special circumstances see supra, pp. 1420, 1421.

Where an agreement of the kind above mentioned is made by guardian, trustee under a deed or will, before any payment is ma thereunder it must be approved by the Senior Taxing Officer Toronto: see sec. 59. A guardian or trustee paying, or a solici receiving payment, before approval by Senior Taxing Officer, are lia to be ordered to refund: see sec. 60.

Solicitors may not purchase an interest in the subject of litigatio or make payment of costs dependent on success of litigation: s sec. 61.

A solicitor is entitled to demand and receive from his client securi for costs to be incurred: see sec. 62.

Death of Solicitor after Agreement.—See section 64.

Changing Solicitor after Agreement.—See Section 65.

Costs of solicitors as mortgagees or directors.

Solicitors as Mortgagees, or Directors.—A Solicitor who is mortgagee alone, or jointly with any other person, may recover fro the mortgagor costs of himself or firm for negotiating the loan, deduc ing and investigating the title to the property, and preparing and com pleting the mortgage, according to the usual scale, as if the mortgag had been made to a person not a solicitor: see sec. 68. He may als recover the usual costs for all business transacted and acts done b himself or his firm "subsequent and in relation to such mortgage o to the security thereby created or the property therein comprised": see sec. 69.

A solicitor who is a director of any company, or his firm, may recover costs for professional business transacted for such company in relation to, or in connection with, any matter in which the company acts as trustee, guardian, or personal representative, or agent: see sec. 70.

Rules 764-766.

CHAPTER XXXI.

COUNTY AND LOCAL COURTS.

All writs to be under the seal of the Courts, and tested, etc.

764. All writs in the County Courts shall he issued hy the Clerk and shall he under the seal of the Court, and shall he tested in the name of the Judge thereof; or in thc case of the death of such Judge, then in the name of the Junior or acting Judge for the time heing. C.R. 1212.

See Rules 5 (1), 6, and notes.

Judges of CC. may sit at any time.

765. The Judges of the County Courts shall have power to sit and act at any time for the transaction of any part of the husiness of such Courts, or for the discharge of any duty including the trial of non-jury actions. C.R. 1214.

Costs where action fails for want of jurisdiction.

766. Where the plaintiff fails to recover judgment in an action or other proceeding hrought in a County or Division Court hy reason of such Court having no jurisdiction over the suhject-matter thereof, the Cour' Court or the Jrdge presiding in the Division Court, a ıe case may hc, shall have jurisdiction over the costs of such action, or proceeding, and may order hy and to whom the same shall he paid. C.R. 1215.

But for this Rule, the Court, having no jurisdiction over the subject matter of the litigation, would have no power to grant costs to either party: Brown v. Shaw, 1 Ex. D. 425; see also Abbott v. Feary, 29 L. J. Ex. 476; Peacock v. Reg., 4 C. B. N. S. 268; Powley v. Whitehead, 16 U. C. Q. B. 589; Dempster v. Parnell, 3 M. & Gr. 375.

But where a case wa- stated hy Justices nnder a statute, but, in consequence of the app not having compiled with the conditions reqnired hy the Act, t as no jurisdiction to hear the case, and the respondent moved t. strike the case out of the paper, the application was granted with costs: Great Northern, etc., Committee v. Inett, 2 Q. B. D. 284; Crowther v. Boult, 33 W. R. 150; not following Peacock v. Reg., supra; see also Royal Canadian Bank v. Stevenson, 22 U. C. C. P. 562; Cote v. Halliday, 33 C. L. J. 159; Re Isaacs, 4 My. & Cr. 11; Watson v. Petts (No. 2), 1899, 1 Q. B. 430.

This Rule was heid not to apply to proceedings under the former Ontario Winding-up Act (R. S. O. 1897, c. 222); Re Cosmopolitan Life Ass., 15 P. R. 185. See now The Companies Act (R. S. O. c. 178), s. 187.

See also Sherk v. Evans, 22 Ont. App. 242; Re Erb, 16 O. L. R. 594.

Rules 767, 768.

Change of place of trial in County Court.

767. In all actions brought in a County Court the Ju of the County Court where the proceedings were c menced, or the Master in Chambers, (subject to ap in either case as if the case were in the High Court) change the place of trial, and in the event of an order ing obtained for that purpose, the Clerk of the Cou Court in which the action was commenced shall forthw transmit all papers in the action to the Clerk of County Court to which the place of trial is changed, all subsequent proceedings shall be entitled in such l mentioned Court, and carried on in such last-meatio County as if the proceedings had originally been co menced in such last-mentioned Court. C.R. 1210.

This Rule which purports to be based on "C. R. 1210," is rea based on C. R. 1219. The expression "High Court" is an obvious er and should be "Supreme Court."

The wording of the Rule would seem to indicate that the effect an order to change the place of trial is to transfer the action to County Court of the County where the trial is to take place, and "all subsequent proceedings" are to be entitled in that Court would seem the judgment should be entered there.

The papers in a motion under this Rule should be entitled in t County Court, and not in the Supreme Court: Ferguson v. Goldin 15 P. R. 43.

The costs of an application to the Master in Chambers under th Rule are taxable on the County Court scale, but the costs of a appeal to a Judge, or from the Judge, are taxable on the Supreme Cou scale: Re Hicks v. Mills, 18 P. R. 12?

Rule 245 applies to the County Courts: see note to th Rule.

Procedure in County Courts.

768.—(1) These Rules, and the practice and procedur in actions in the Supreme Court shall, so far as the same can be applied, apply and extend to actions in the County Court. C.R. 1216.

(2) The Clerk of a County Court shall, subject to the direction of the Judge of that Court in actions in the County Court discharge all the duties and have all the power of the Master, Registrar, Judgment Clerk, Clerk of the Weekly Court and Clerk in Chambers in Supreme Court actions. New.

This Rule is intended to refer to the whole body of Rules so far as applicable, and not merely to those mentioned in this chapter.

See Leach v. Bruce, 9 O. L. R. 380, and other cases in note to Rule 245, supra, p. 701.

Rules 769, 770.

Payment of money into Court.

769.—(1) Money to be paid into the County Court or Surrogate Courts, shall be paid into some incorporated bank designated for that purpose, from time to time, by order of the Lieutenant-Governor ia Council; or where there is no such bank, tben into some incorporated bank in which puhlic money of tbe Province is then heing deposited, and which has heen appointed for that purpose by any General Rule in that behalf; or if no hank has heen appointed, into any hank in whicb puhlic money of the Province is heing deposited.

Procedure.

(2) The money shall be paid in to tbe credit of the cause or matter in which the payment is made, witb tbe privity of the Clerk or Registrar (as the cnse may be) of the Court, and in no other manner; and such money shall be withdrawn only on the order of the Court or a Judge thereof, with the privity of the Clerk or Registrar of the Court.

Withdrawal.

Plea of payment into Court.

(3) Where money is paid in under a plea of payment into Court, the Clerk, on the production of tbe receipt of the hank for the money or other satisfactory proof of snch payment, shall sign a receipt for the amount in the margin of the pleadiag. C.R. 1221.

Where money is paid into s County Court, or Surrogate Court, to which an infsnt or s lunstic is entitled, it is to he forthwith trsns-mitted to the Accountsnt of the Supreme Court with a statement showing when it was so paid in, snd a certified copy of sli judgments or orders sffecting the same: see Rule 735, and Re Mercer, 26 O. L. R. 427. How this is to be effected is not explicitly stated. Whether the Clerk of the County Court is to pay the money into the Supreme Court ss provided by Rules 727, 728, or is to forward a cheque pay-able to the Accountsnt of the Supreme Court iesving him to psy the money in, is not clesr.

Clerk and Registrar to keep books and render statements.

770. The Clerk of a County Court and Registrar of a Surrogate Court shall each keep a book, such containing an account of all money so paid into their respective Courts, and of the withdrawal thereof; and shall prepare in the month of January in every year a statement of all money so paid in and withdrawn, and a statement of the condition of the various accounts upon the thirty-first day of the preceding December, and shall transmit to the Provincial Secretary and to the Judge or each of the Judges of such Courts, a copy of such statement, with a declaration thereto annexed. Form No. 133. C.R. 1222.

The word "such" in the second line appears to be superfluous.

Rule 771.

Books to be open for inspection. Fees for extracts, etc.

771.—(1) The book so to be kept shall be open for i spection during the office hours; and the Clerk or Regi trar shall give a certificate of the state of an account an extract therefrom at the request of any party inte ested or his solicitor on his paying to the Clerk or Regi trar the sum of twenty cents for such inspection or ce tificate and the sum of ten cents per folio for such extra C.R. 1223.

(2) The Official Guardian shall be entitled to make an such search without payment of any fee. New.

CHAPTER XXXII.

FORMS.

Forms to be used.

772.—(1) The forms contained in the Appendix hereto shall be used with such variations or modifications as circumstances may require; but any variance therefrom, not being in matter of substance, shall not affect their regularity.

(2) The provisions contained in the form prescribed shall be deemed to be authorized by these Rules. C.R. 1224. Amended.

See Eng. R. April, 1880, R. 52.

In Turquand v. Fearon, 40 L. T. at p. 545, Thesiger, L.J., said, "although the forms given in the Judicature Acts are not absolutely binding, they are still of assistance as illustrating the meaning of the Act." See also Scott v. Creighton, 9 P. R. 253; Bolton v. Bolton, 3 Ch. D. 276; McCready v. Hennessy, 9 P. R. 489, and Boswell v. Coaks, 36 Ch. D. 444; 36 W. R. 65.

Most of the Forms in the Appendix to the Rules are included in Holmested & Langton's Forms.

Where the forms are defective, the defect should be supplied: The Isis, 1883, 8 P. D. 227.

ADDITIONAL RULES.

PASSED SUBSEQUENT TO THE CONSOLIDATED RULES, 191

The ollowing Rules have been passed since the for going Consolidated Rules came into force. Many of the additional Rules have not been numbered, and can, there fore, only be identified by the date of their being passed

RULE PASSED DECEMBER 13TH, 1912, AND SUBSEQUENTLY APPROVED ON JANUARY 2ND, 1913.

Sittings of Divisional Courts.

"It was recommended that excepting Long Vacation the Sittings of the Divisional Court be held weekly com mencing Monday of each week, except that in the month of January, the first sittings be held on the first Monday after the 6th of the month, and that in the month of September the first sittings be held on the first Monday after the 14th of the month."

This Rule has never been officially published. It was in the form of a recommendation because, at the time it was first adopted, The Law Reform Act, 9 Edw. 7, c. 28, Part I., had not come into force. It took effect 1st January, 1913. See Ont. Gazette, 1912, p. 976.

RULE PASSED 15TH SEPTEMBER, 1913.

773. It is ordered that the following amendments be made in the Consolidated Rules and Tariff of Costs:

Amendment of Tariff B.

"The prefatory note to tariff B. p. 208, is amended so as to read as follows: 'payable in stamps, except where the officer is not paid by salary, or has not commuted his fees, or unless otherwise expressly provided,' and by adding thereto the following items: 'on renewal of writs, one dollar,' and 'to special examiners, marking exhibits, twenty cents:' these amendments to be retro-active and to be deemed to have been in force since the 1st of September instant;

Amendments Form 5.

"And that the form for the indorsement of specially indorsed writs (No. 5) be amended by adding thereto, following the specific claim, the words "and the plaintiff further claims $ for costs;' and that to the form

Form 10.

RULE PASSED 1ST DECEMBER, 1913.

(1) That Rule 494 be amended by inserting in the fourth line, in lieu of the words " a copy " the words " five copies," and in the fifth line, after the word " thereof " the words " and of the reasoas therefor, unless reported." Amendment of Rule 494.

(2) In Rnle 477, line 5, suhstitute the word " directions " for " tions." Rule 477.

(3) In form 3, the last line but one, substitute " defence " for " offence." Form 3.

(4) In the County Court Tariff, page 207, amend item 20 by striking out the word " senior." CC. Tariff.

(5) In the County Court Tariff, page 207, amead item 18 by adding after the word " Judge " the words and figures " not exceeding $15.0. "

(6) In the Tariff of Disbursements (page 210) after the items relating to Commissioners add the words Tariff of disbursements.

* In the official copy no number is given to this Rule, nor are the various clauses numbered, consequently the numbering of the clauses is not official, but merely for convenience of reference.

Rules 56, 66, 112. "upon every commission appointing a commissione take affidavits, etc., $5.00."

Rule 677 (7) In Rule 677 add clause 677 (1) as follows:

"Where the amount realized is small the taxing o may fix a lesser sum than would be allowed upon t tion."

And whereas it has been made to appear before me that you have each (a) some lien, charge or incumbrance upon the said estate, and I have therefore caused you to be made part to this action, and have appointed the day of , at o'clock in the noon, for you to appear before me, at my Chambers at , either in person or by your solicitor, to prove your claims.

(a) "Each" should be omitted where there is only one incumbrancer.

Now you are hereby required to take notice: 1st. That if you wish to apply to discharge my order making you a party, or to add to, vary, or set aside the judgment, you must do so within fourteen days after the service hereof; and if you fail to do so, you will be bound by the judgment, and the further proceedings in this cause as if you were originally made a party to the action. 2nd. That if you fail to attend at the time and place appointed, you will be treated as disclaiming all interest in the land in question, and it will be dealt with as if you had no claim thereon, and your claim will be in fact foreclosed.

Notice to Parties by Writ Having Incumbrances.

(Court and Cause.)

Having been directed by the judgment in this action to inquire whether any person other than the plaintiff has any lien, charge or incumbrance upon the lands in question in this action subsequent to the plaintiff's claim, and to take an account of the amount due to the plaintiff and any such person. And it having been made to appear that you may have some lien, charge or incumbrance thereon you are hereby notified that I have appointed day, the day of next at my chambers in the Court House at at o'clock to proceed with the said inquiry and to determine the amount of the claim of the plaintiff, and to such incumbrancers as may come in and prove their claims before me.

If you fail to attend upon such appointment, and to prove your claim, the reference may proceed in your absence, and you will receive no further notice of the proceedings in this action, and you will be treated as disclaiming any lien, charge or incumbrance upon the said lands, and will stand foreclosed from any such claim.

Notice to all Original Defendants.

(Court and Cause.)

Having been directed by the judgment in this action to inquire whether any person other than the plaintiff has any lien, charge or incumbrance upon the lands in question in this action subject to the plaintiff's claim thereon.

You are hereby notified that it has been made to appear to me that the persons named in the schedule hereto may have some lien, charge or incumbrance thereon, and I have, therefore, caused such of them as are not already parties thereto to be added as parties in my office, and have appointed day, the day of next at my chambers in the Court house at at o'clock, to inquire and determine whether the said parties have any such lien, charge or incumbrance, and to fix and ascertain the amount thereof, and the amount of the plaintiff's claim upon his security.

If you do not then and there attend, the reference will be proceeded with in your absence, and you will receive no further notice of the proceedings in this action.

REPORTS, ETC., BY MASTERS, ETC.

Form of Report in Administration Suit.

(Date.)

Pursuant to the judgment herein made, dated the day of 19 , having caused an office copy thereof to be served upon [state the names of persons served, and also the names of those upon whom service has been dispensed with, and the reason for dispensing with service], I proceeded to dispose of the matters referred to me, and thereupon was attended by the solicitors for all parties interested [or as the case may be], and I find as follows:

1. The personal estate not specifically bequeathed of the testator come to the hands of the executors, and wherewith they are chargeable, amounts to the sum of $, and they have paid, or are entitled to be allowed thereout, the sum of $, leaving a balance due from [or to] them, of $, on that account.

[If no personal estate, say: No personal estate has come to the hands of the executors, nor are they chargeable [with any.]

2. The creditors' claims sent in pursuant to my advertisement in that behalf (published in issues of the newspaper called), and which have been allowed, are set forth in the first Schedule hereto, and amount altogether to $.

[If no creditors say: No creditor has sent in a claim pursuant to my advertisement in that behalf, nor has any such claim been proved before me.]

3. The funeral expenses of the testator amounting to $ have been paid by the executors and are allowed to them in the account of personal estate.

4. The legacies given by the testator are set forth in the second schedule hereto, and with the interest therein mentioned, remain due to the persons named [or as the case may be].

5. The personal estate of the said testator outstanding or undisposed of, is set forth in the third schedule hereto.

In this third schedule personal estate not specifically bequeathed should be set forth separately from the other personalty outstanding or undisposed of. If there is no specific bequest, it should be so stated in the body of the report.

6. The real estate which the said testator was seised of or entitled to, and the incumbrances (if any) affecting the same, are set forth in the fourth schedule hereto.

7. The rents and profits of the testator's real estate received by the said executors, or with which they are chargeable, amount to $ and they have paid, or are entitled to be allowed thereont, the sum of $, leaving a balance due from [or to] them of $ on that account.

[If no rents, etc., received, say: No rents and profits have come to the hands of the said executors, nor are they chargeable with any.]

8. I have allowed the said executors the sum of $ as a compensation for their personal services in the management of the said estate.

9. I have caused the real estate (other than parcels which were specifically ordered (a)) to be sold and the purchasers have paid their purchase-money into Court.

10. In the schedule I have shewn how the money in Court is to be dealt with.

(a) For the word "ordered" should probably be read "devised."

The first Schedule referred to in the foregoing report.

[No general form can well be framed for the other Schedules, but in all cases brevity is to be studied. Where particulars are given they should shew merely the general character of the things described; as, for instance, the Schedule of outstanding personalty may say: A number of book debts outstanding amounting in the aggregate to $; a quantity of household furniture and effects valued at $; and the like short particulars should be given in other cases. Lands should be described without setting forth metes and bounds.] (a)

Standing Conditions of Sale.

1. No person shall advance less than $10 at any bidding under $500, nor less than $20 at any bidding over $500, and no person shall retract his bidding.

2. The highest bidder shall be the purchaser; and if any dispute arise as to the last or highest bidder, the property shall be put up at a former bidding.

(a) This note is repeated in the official copy of the Rules, probably by mistake.

3. The parties to the action, with the exception of the vendor, (and, naming any parties, trustees, agents, or others in a fiduciary situation), shall be at liberty to bid.

4. The purchaser shall, at the time of sale, pay down a deposit, in proportion of $10 for every $100 of the purchase-money, to the vendor, or his solicitor; and shall pay the remainder of the purchase-money, on the day of next; and upon such payment, the purchaser shall be entitled to the conveyance, and to be let into possession; the purchaser at the time of sale to sign an agreement for the completion of the purchase.

5. The purchaser shall have the conveyance prepared at his own expense, and tender the same for execution.

6. If the purchaser fails to comply with the conditions aforesaid, or any of them, the deposit and all other payments made thereon, shall be forfeited, and the premises may be resold; and the deficiency, if any, by such re-sale, together with all charges attending the same, or occasioned by the defaulter, are to be made good by the defaulter.

Where travelling expenses were claimed for a suitor as a witness, the taxing officer as a condition of allowing them required the suitor's solicitors to produce his receipt therefor, or a letter from him showing that he knew the amount was allowed to him, and this condition was upheld by the Court of Appeal: Horbin v. Gordon, 1914, 2 K. B. 577.

(b) Where all a solicitor's knowledge is acquired by him in the course of rendering professional services, he is entitled to a professional fee: Campbell v. Verral, 4 O. W. N. 177; and where he has made an affidavit on which he is required to attend for cross-examination, he is so entitled.

Engineers, surveyors and architects, other than parties to the cause, when called upon to give evidence of any professional service rendered by them or to give evidence depending upon their skill or judgment, per diem, unless otherwise expressly provided by statute (a) ..... $ 5 00

(As amended by Rule of 24th December, 1913.)

If witnesses attend in one case only, they will be entitled to the full allowance. If they attend in more than one case they will be entitled to a proportionate part in each cause only.

The travelling expenses of witnesses, over three miles, shall be allowed, according to the sums reasonably and actually paid, but in no case shall exceed twenty cents per mile, one way.

A reasonable sum may be allowed for the preparation of any plan, model or photograph, when necessary for the due understanding of the evidence. (b) (Rule 24th December, 1913).

(a) No more than three experts may be called by any party to give opinion evidence: The Evidence Act (R. S. O. c. 76), s. 10, where more were called, and the Judge neglected to enforce the statute, a new trial was ordered: Rice v. Sockett, 27 O. L. R. 410. An expert witness where he has not been required to prepare himself by study or otherwise to give evidence, cannot refuse to be sworn until he is paid more than the fee allowed by the Tariff: Butler v. Toronto Mutoscope Co., 11 O. L. R. 12. No sum can be allowed between party and party for payment to a scientific witness to get up a case: see McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555. A reasonable sum is taxable in England: see Smith v. Buller, L. R. 19 Eq. 473; Churton v. Frewen, 15 W. R. 559; Mackley v. Chillingworth, 2 C. P. D. 273; Windham v. Rainton, 21 Q. B. D. 199. And as to official witnesses called to produce public records: see Jud. Act, s. 118, supra, p. 292.

(b) A solicitor ordering plans, models, or photographs, to be made on behalf of his client, for the purposes of a trial, does not incur any personal liability therefor, if he notifies the person furnishing them, that he is merely acting as solicitor, and does not expressly pledge his personal credit therefor: Wakefield v. Duckworth, 138 L. T. Jour. 13.
