CIVIL SERVICE REPORT MAY LEAD TO GOVERNMENT CHANGE

An Ottawa Correspondent Reports that Hon. Mr. Brodeur and Sir Frederick Borden May soon Retire from Laurier Cabinet—Hon. Mr. Lemieux may go to Post Office Department

An Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Star sends the following to his paper:
Ottawa, March 27.—As a result of the Liberal caucus this morning, which was presided over by Mr. Macznie, of Bruce, it is announced semi-officially that Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, will retire from the Cabinet to be replaced by Sir Frederick Borden upon the Supreme Court Bench. Mr. Brodeur will take the place of Mr. Justice Hrouard; Dr. Bland, of Beauce, will enter the Cabinet at once as minister without portfolio, the Marine portfolio remaining vacant for the present. For it there are a number of aspirants, but the probabilities are that Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux will be transferred from the Post Office Department.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, it is stated, is willing to take hold of the department and reorganize it. There will be several aspirants for the vacancy, including Hon. James Stewart, Mr. Gervais, of St. James division, Montreal.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur is credited with having expressed his disgust over recent developments in his department, and will be glad of an opportunity to retire to the beach.

A less definite report is that the resignation of Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, has been demanded, and that it may be only a short time before he drops out of the Cabinet. The records of both Ministers, it is said, were adversely criticized in caucus this morning.

Several members also criticized the disposition of federal ministers and officials today. President Kingsford, of the Civil Service Association, which numbers upwards of two thousand members, and of Lambert Payne, secretary of the association when he was today in the non-committal category. They said that the report would be considered at a meeting of the association which will be held shortly.

None of the deputy ministers would consent to be interviewed.

That the Government recognizes the serious nature of the report from its standpoint is shown by the fact that a caucus was fixed for today, at which the report would be discussed and the necessary action taken at the time the report was made public on Thursday. It would require the immediate consideration of the party.

All the Ministers were in attendance at the caucus and it is understood that harmony did not prevail. The necessity for an immediate and thorough investigation into the management of the Marine Department was generally recognized and a definite announcement as to the nature of the inquiry can be looked for at an early date.

Among the members generally the view prevails that the report of the Commission will materially affect the length of the session and have an important bearing on the probability of the general elections being held in the autumn. The Opposition will not be willing to consent to the adjournment of the House until they get fully informed of the real condition of affairs in the departments. Some members express the view that if there are serious revelations the Government will put off the general elections till 1909, as they could feel the necessity of putting things right before making an appeal to the country.

HOW ONE MAN ROSE TO WEALTH

Peter Anderson a Farm Hand Receives a Legacy from Man Whose Life he once Saved

Chicago, March 26.—A despatch to The Record-Herald from Tacoma, Wash., says: To have saved the life of a fellow emigrant in a wreck in 1873 and 35 years later to have read in a newspaper plastered upon the wall of a homestead shack an advertisement which led to his becoming the recipient of a fortune of $375,000 is the experience of Peter Anderson, a farm hand, who resides near White Bluffs, Wash.

Anderson yesterday received a cheque for $5000 to enable him to proceed to New York to carry out the final formalities necessary in the transfer of the fortune. His friend was Peter Knudson, who made $1,000,000 in the glove business in New Jersey.

REVOLTING TRAGEDY

Man Stabbed with Umbrella on Montreal Street Car Dies in Hospital

Montreal, March 30, (Special)—An extraordinary fatality occurred here yesterday on a street car as the result of a quarrel between several drunken men. Frederick Kaiser, a stage hand at His Majesty's Theatre got on a car with his brother and a bar tender named Louis Lafame. All three had been drinking, and got into a discussion, which led to the two brothers threatening Lafame.

The latter raised his umbrella as though to strike Kaiser, but in the scuffle the point of the umbrella was jabbed into Kaiser's eye, penetrating clean through to his brain.

Kaiser dropped unconscious, and was hurried to a hospital, where he died nine hours later, without regaining consciousness. Lafame was arrested, and will have to face a charge of manslaughter.

CHESTER GILLETTE PAYS PENALTY FOR THE MURDER OF HIS YOUNG SWEETHEART

His Electrocuting in Auburn Prison this Morning was the Most Successful ever held there—Gillette made a Confession before He Died

Grace Brown and Chester Gillette.

Auburn, N. Y., March 30.—Unmoved and without showing the faintest sign of emotion of any kind, Chester Gillette was put to death in an electric chair at Auburn this morning. The electrocution was the most successful that ever took place in the local prison. Business contact was all that was required to carry the mandate of the law into effect, and when that was over, the murderer of Grace, or "Bilby" Brown had been avenged and the slayer had paid the penalty giving a life for a life.

In every way the electrocution was a success and the officials of the prison of whom had feared that there might be some untoward event in connection with the execution were more than pleased. The electrocution was marked throughout with celerity and in the minutest detail. It was carried through to its culmination.

The man was declared dead by the official time at 6:18, but by the watches held by some of the newspaper reporters it was two minutes after that time when the warden announced to the witnesses and the attendants "Gentlemen, the physicians announce that the man is dead."

The contact that was necessary for the man to be killed, was of 1,800 volts at 7½ amperes, and it was held on three seconds more than a full minute. When this had been done careful examination of the man's heart was made, but there was no sign of life. When all was ready for the execution, Gillette, walking firmly and looking neither

LONGSHOREMEN WANT NO BONUS

Montreal Longshoremen Say Bonus System Involves too much Book-Keeping

(Montreal Star)

The question of rates of wages and hours of labor for the coming shipping season at the Port of Montreal will likely be settled within the next few days.

A meeting of shipping men and representatives of the Longshoremen's Association was held yesterday, but no agreement was reached.

The Shipping agents want the longshoremen to accept 25 and 30 cents an hour, with a bonus at the end of the season of 2-1-2 cents for every hour worked.

The longshoremen on the other side, want 30 and 35 cents an hour, and no bonus.

Mr. John Ryan, president of the local association, when seen today by the Star, talked about the situation freely. He said in part:

"The dock workers of the port of Montreal are opposed to the bonus system because the machinery does not work well. Men are engaged by the hour and sometimes they work for two or three employers in one day. There is too much book-keeping under the bonus system for the average longshoreman, besides it is only those who remain on the docks until the last line sails who are entitled to the bonus. We are willing to come to terms with the shipping men, and we will sign an agreement for one, two or three years, but we do not want to be humbugged. Some of the companies have been in the habit of bringing in men from St. John, N. B., and other places. They do not come in large numbers, but those who do come pay no taxes. A threat has been made that men will be brought over from the Old Country if we do not accept a cut in our wages. While we expect to come to an amicable agreement with the employers you may state that if men are brought here in large numbers from England there will be a strike. We want to be reasonable men, but when it comes to taking the bread and butter from our own families there will likely be trouble. The association is incorporated now by act of Parliament, and our members will have to be responsible for their actions. We are not looking for a strike. All we want is fair play and no favors."

WAR BETWEEN WOMEN THE CAUSE OF KAISER'S WRATH

Ill-Feeling Between Mrs. Charlemagne Tower and Mrs. David Jayne Hill caused Emperor William to Disapprove of Dr. Hill's Appointment as Ambassador to Germany

Berlin, March 30.—A war between two women in the cause of the attitude of the Kaiser toward the appointment of Dr. David Jayne Hill as American Ambassador at Berlin, according to the latest reports in this city.

It is reported that ill-feeling has existed between Mrs. Charlemagne Tower, wife of the present Ambassador, and Mrs. Hill for a long time, and that the former, having great influence with the Kaiser, has induced him to make an expression of his personal regret that Mr. Tower was to be replaced by Dr. Hill.

This expression, it is believed, was the basis for Mr. Tower's pablogram to his Government, stating that Dr. Hill would not be acceptable to the German Emperor. It is believed that the effect of the whole matter will be to destroy any chance of Dr. Hill being sent to Berlin, but it will also insure the retirement of Mr. Tower, a plan that he is said to be fighting now, although he recently said he desired to be relieved.

That the friendship existing between Mrs. Tower and the Kaiser is sufficiently warm to draw from him such an expression as he is said to have given no one doubts.

The Kaiser is said to have made the remark at a diplomatic reception while discussing with the Towers their withdrawal from the court and the coming of Dr. Hill. He is reported to have said:

"If President Roosevelt sends any one here to replace you I will never forgive him."

Those who are close to the Emperor assert that he spoke in a jesting way, but they admit that, taken seriously, the remark could be construed to mean that a successor to Mr. Tower would not be acceptable to him.

That the intimation that Dr. Hill was not acceptable was a reflection of the Kaiser's personal views and not those of the Foreign Office is shown by a statement issued today by the Foreign Office, in which it is denied emphatically that any "official" action has been taken in the matter. The statement said:

"The assertion that the German Government has refused to accept Dr. Hill is not true. The statement that Dr. Hill is persona non grata at Berlin is absolutely false. The German Government has made no official statement to America on the subject."

The wording of the denial has simply served to confirm the belief here that it is the Kaiser personally who objects to Dr. Hill. The Kaiser and Mrs. Tower are very friendly, and it is said that neither wishes to sever the associations that have been so pleasant.

It is even intimated that Ambassador Tower himself is partly responsible for the Kaiser's attitude toward Dr. Hill.

It has been openly talked here that the objection to Dr. Hill arose from almost wholly personal reasons. The district went to the other side of the line to enjoy the prosperity that followed the rebuilding of the republic after the war. Mr. Dupont states that a great many of these same people are now returning here, yet in many cases it is the sons and daughters who have decided to come back to the fatherland.

He states, however, that it is only the minority who are remaining here in this province, as they have heard of the fertile plains of Alberta and it is over there where they are going in the greater numbers. A considerable number, however, have taken up lands in Beauce, the Lake St. John country, and down in the Bas de Chaleurs region and in other parts of the province which are considered favorable for these returned and returning French-Canadians.

Being asked if all, or a portion, of these have saved anything during their exile in the neighboring republic, Mr. Dupont replied in the affirmative. Most of them, he says, are able to buy farms, although the very few number are unable to do so.

GOING BACK TO QUEBEC

Hundreds of French Canadian Families are Returning to their Old Home

Montreal, March 29.—Hundreds and hundreds of French-Canadian families are abandoning the manufacturing centres of New England and the middle states and are either returning to the Province of Quebec or going to swell the stream of settlers now taking up land in the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

René Dupont, formerly immigration agent for the Lake St. John Railway before its absorption by the Canadian Northern, and lately appointed repatriation agent by the Dominion Government, has just returned from the States, where sub-agencies have been appointed, chiefly at Boston, Biddeford and Portland, all of which are French-Canadian centres and which large contingents are daily leaving for different parts of the Dominion.

So far Woonsocket and Providence in Rhode Island and Manchester in New Hampshire have furnished the heaviest contingents for north, and he thinks that at least 75 families are negotiating for transfers to either Quebec or the west. In fact the Portland agent reports that on one day quite recently seven carloads of these people were despatched from the city.

Referring to the movement from the lower part of this province, when almost whole parishes in the Quebec district went to the other side of the line to enjoy the prosperity that followed the rebuilding of the republic after the war, Mr. Dupont states that a great many of these same people are now returning here, yet in many cases it is the sons and daughters who have decided to come back to the fatherland.

He states, however, that it is only the minority who are remaining here in this province, as they have heard of the fertile plains of Alberta and it is over there where they are going in the greater numbers. A considerable number, however, have taken up lands in Beauce, the Lake St. John country, and down in the Bas de Chaleurs region and in other parts of the province which are considered favorable for these returned and returning French-Canadians.

Being asked if all, or a portion, of these have saved anything during their exile in the neighboring republic, Mr. Dupont replied in the affirmative. Most of them, he says, are able to buy farms, although the very few number are unable to do so.

BROKE HER HEART

For some days past it has been observed that the ferry steamer Wun Lung was in a dejected mood, and apparently suffering from some internal malady. Admiral Glasgow who knows the moods of this historic craft, was much disturbed in his mind, for he knew that it was grief and jealousy from which she suffered. The Ludlow had been taken of the route to be provided with more users and Wun Lung had been ordered out to do the drudgery of a very busy season. It preyed upon her mind and finally her great heart was broken. It snapped last evening at eight o'clock, as she was entering the east side ferry floats. The sound was heard from Leaside Heights to Fort Howe. There were hundreds of grief-stricken mourners in and around the toll house all through the evening. The Ludlow is on the route today, and the Rodney Hospital specialists are working over Wun Lung.

THE LONELY GUARD, BY NORMAN INNES.

(Continued) "Pardon me, Your Excellency," said I with a bow, "but I must ask you to withdraw from your apartment in accordance with rules, a copy of which I had the honour of giving you." "We are here by Count von Weggen's permission," she replied in a voice in which, to my utter surprise, I could distinguish neither triumph nor resentment. "But if Your Excellency will be good enough to consider," I stammered, "I have the honour to be in charge of your castle, under Her Majesty's special commission. Hence no word of the Count's can override my wishes."

How Is Your Blood?

If you lack strength, are nervous, have no appetite, don't sleep well, get tired easily, your blood is in bad condition. You cannot be strong without pure, rich blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes good rich blood and keeps it good. "Irrupture Blood." My little boy had a continual breaking out of sores. I gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a short time he was completely cured. Mrs. LUDIA SCHAEDE, Stratford, Ont.

Weakness—"I bless the day I heard of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it cured my extreme weakness after grip, built my husband up after pneumonia, and cured eczema and blood-poisoning in our children. Mrs. M. A. DEWEY, Box 4, Embreeville, Pa.

That failing that solitary witness my charge must fall ignominiously, and with it my hopes and career. I glanced at the Countess, my cheeks were grey, but I could not pounce in that small oval face, every delicate feature of which was so clearly defined in the moonlight. Would she, my only hope, prove false to herself and to me? Little merrily, I knew, was like to mine, yet a spite of the hatred she bore me, I looked for justice at her hands, for truth from her lips.

THE COUNTRY SHOCKED

As the significance of the report of the civil service commission becomes more fully realized throughout the country the painful impression produced on the public mind, respectively of political partisanship, grows more general and more intense. The report, submitted by a commission of the government's own choosing, declares in effect that a state of affairs exists in the various departments which is simply disgraceful. It charges that the civil service is made the machine of petty partisanship, and that gross mismanagement prevails. The marine and fisheries department is the one most criticized, although the militia department is also declared to be very badly managed, while the public works department is made the subject of very unfavorable criticism. The error of the report indicates that in the view of the government's own commission the business of the country is conducted, not for the benefit of the country but for the benefit of a party and the enrichment of its favorites.

THE ANARCHISTS

Anarchy has boldly reared its head in the city of New York. The bomb throwers deliberately attempted on Saturday to destroy a squad of police. But for the premature explosion of the bomb the crime might have been accomplished, but the only victims were the anarchist and his companion. Both were foreigners. The event is a rude shock to the people of the United States. There is a vast army of unemployed men in that city, and upon these the socialist agitators exert their pernicious influence with results like those described in today's papers. The event of Saturday is grave warning to the people, and another indication that even under republican institutions social unrest may lead to dreadful crimes.

All over this continent there is heard today denunciation of the madmen who teach the creed of hatred and murder to all anarchy. From time to time some notorious utterance or crime leads to talk about the necessity for protecting society from these insane criminals, but thus far, while their crimes sometimes bring them a punishment, their preaching for the most part goes unchecked. The latest shock to the people of the United States arose from the publication of the following in an anarchist journal in Montreal (N. J.): "When we are ready, the first thing to do is to break into the armory and seize the rifles and ammunition. The next thing to do is to get hold of the police station, and when the police see that they are not strong enough, the chief of police will ask for soldiers. "Even at that, the dynamite is easy for us to get. Twenty-five cents worth will blow a big iron door down. We don't want to forget that the dynamite will help us to win. Two or three of us can help a regiment of soldiers without fear. Show no sympathy for any soldier, even if they be the sons of the people. "As soon as we get hold of the police station it is our victory. The thing is to fill the entire force. If not they will kill us. When we are ready, we must set fire to three or four houses in different locations on the outskirts, which will bring the Fire Department and all the police. Then we will start a fire in the centre of the city. This will be an easy thing to do, as the police and fire men will be on the outskirts."

BOSTON YOUNG WOMAN FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

Man's Footprints Lead from Arlington Field Where Annie Mullen's Body is Found by Boys.

Arlington, Mass., March 28.—The body of Miss Annie Mullen, a South Boston young woman, but employed as a servant in a Cambridge family, was found in a vacant lot off Tei street here today with the head nearly severed from the body by two deep gashes. While the medical examiner was unable to establish the motive of the crime, the local police believe that the woman was murdered. The medical examiner after an autopsy today admitted that the wounds might have been self-inflicted.

Miss Mullen left the house of her employer early last evening to visit a friend. So far as the police were able to ascertain no one saw her after that. This forenoon two boys found her body. There was evidence of a struggle. Not far off on a ploughed field were found tracks of a man's boots leading away from the scene. Captain Murray of the Cambridge police definitely stated that the victim was Miss Mullen.

Dr. Swan, medical examiner, said that there was nothing in the nature or location of the two wounds on the neck that would show whether the case was one of suicide or of murder. There was no other wound on the body, which was free from any signs of disease or assault.

The two gashes on the neck were very deep, all the veins in front being severed. They had evidently been made from a sharp instrument. They extended from each ear nearly to a point under the chin, where they did not quite meet. The clothing had not been disarranged, but the hands showed that some effort had been made to grasp some object.

Boston, March 28.—Mrs. Glasgow and Mrs. Dunn, aunts of Miss Mullen, said tonight that Miss Mullen's home was in St. John's, Nfld. They could give no information which would lead the police to suspect anyone of being implicated in her murder.

Mrs. Jagemann tonight told the police that a heavily built man was loitering about her house early Friday evening when Miss Mullen went out to post a letter, and that he disappeared soon after. When Miss Mullen did not return, the circumstances were recalled. It is understood that the police have further evidence that a man of similar description was seen about the place where Miss Mullen's body was found.

The woman's home was at 230 C street, South Boston, and she had been a servant in the household of Professor H. C. G. Von Aegemann, of the department of Germanic philology, Harvard University.

RUDYARD KIPLING'S THIRD LETTER ON THE DOMINION UNDER REVIEW

After reading Mr. Kipling's third article in Collier's, no one can have any doubt that he was tremendously impressed with Canada. "There is in the letter," "Testing the Elder Sister's Strength," more evidence of sincerity than in the previous articles. His manliness are not so pronounced; there is less palpable striving to say striking things; less cold-blooded effort to treat common things picturesquely. The material for the third letter must have come to Kipling without his seeking. Keeping a sharp lookout and a receptive mind, he has simply let the impressions sink into him.
 Unmistakably he picks out some of the things that are distinctly Canadian. For example: "A piano-top luggy on a muddy, board-sidewalked street, all cut up by the narrow lines of the shingling at the corner of a verandah on a new-built house; a broken snake fence gridding an old pasture of meadows and skull-headed boulders; a wisp of Virginia creeper dying splendidly on the black of a patch of corn; half a dozen panels of snow-fence above a cutting, or even a shamesome patent-medicine advertisement, yellow on the black of a toacco-barn, can make the heart thump and the eyes fill if the beholder have only touched the life of which they are part. What must they mean to the native-born?" And while the newly-arrived Englishman fails to understand the significance of the "little things a fellow cares about," if he stays in Canada for two years, takes a run home, and comes back again, he is "made free of the Brotherhood." In passing, he mentions the sort of Englishman who complains that the land "does not know he remarks that the complaint is just for 'the land suspects all judgment a gentleman when it sees him,' and meant on all men till it has seen them work."
 Here is a good quotable passage about the cities: "Again, as always, it was the dignity of the cities that impressed an austere Northern dignity of outline, grouping, and perspective, aloof from the rush of traffic in the streets. Montreal, of the black-roofed priests and the French notices had it, and Ottawa, of the grey stone palaces and the St. Petersburg-like shining water-fronts, and Toronto, consummating commercial, carried the same power in the same response. Men are always better than they know, and perhaps this steadfast architecture is waiting for the race when their first flurry of newly-realized expansion shall have spent itself, and the present burrah-sness of telephone poles in the streets shall have been abolished. There are strong objections, to any non-usable, bi-lingual community within a nation, but however much the French are made to hang back in the work of development, their withdrawn and unconcerned ca-and we could not go below. It was very much of a hardship, but we managed to kee alive until the Bray Head, a steamship bound from Galveston to Belfast, picked us up."

AN OLD MURDER STORY REVIVED

Wm. Sangster, in New York, Confesses Crime Committed Last October

Montreal, March 30.—The report from New York that William Sangster had confessed to the Back River murder last October recalls the story: The crime was committed on Saturday, October 26th last, on the Back River road, a short distance beyond Cote's Hotel. Delorme, who was 23 years old, was driving home from market with his parents, the latter going in a wagon about three hundred yards ahead of him. The elder Delorme saw two men sitting by the road as they drove on, but were not disturbed, and took no particular notice of the men. But when the younger men drove by the two jumped out from the roadside and one seized the bride of his horse, while the other pulled a revolver and told Delorme to hand over his money. Instead of doing this Delorme tried to push the men back, when he fired two shots at him, one of which struck the young farmer just back of the right ear. The noise of the shots terrified the horse so that it ran away. The parents, hearing the shooting, turned back in time to stop the runaway, and found their son lying in the wagon, bleeding from the wound. He however, was still conscious and did not think that he had been badly hurt. He told them that he had been shot by highwaymen just past Cote's Hotel. The party, however did not turn back but hastened towards their home three miles the other side of St. Vincent de Paul.

On reaching the latter place, however, young Delorme was so weak from loss of blood that he was taken to a doctor's house and put to bed there. The next day his condition was worse, and he was brought to the Notre Dame hospital, where it was ascertained that he was in a critical condition. Several efforts were made to extract the bullet without success, and after lingering for some weeks young Delorme died.

Bill now Before British House Creates Much Amusement

New York, March 28.—Six men who had been through the remarkable wreck of the American schooner William H. Skinner, which during a storm off the Carolina coast turned over on her port side and later righted herself, arrived here on the Cunard liner, Etruria from Queenstown. Among them was Captain J. Griffin.
 The schooner sailed from Georgetown South Carolina on February 14, and the next day met with northwesterly gales and heavy head seas. A leak was sprung and the cargo of lumber that she carried caused a spreading of her seams and she sank as deemed in the water as her load would let her. Then she turned over her side until her masts, whirled clean of most of their rigging and sails, were resting in the water.

 "It was a ticklish moment," said the skipper, "but there was nothing for us to do but to climb over the gunwales and see what she would do next. The seas were running very high, and they would lift the masts up and down on the crest of the water. This sort of thing kept up for about three hours and then an unusually large wave seemed to get under the masts and lift them up in the air. She did not settle on her side again, but instead righted and we all clambered up on deck again."
 "Most of our water had been tainted, but we had sufficient to last us with economy. Our biscuits were pretty briny, but they kept us alive. We had to live on the deck, as the ship was waterlogged,

WOMEN WHO GLORY IN MURDERS COMMITTED IN FREEDOM'S NAME

Striking and Typical Stories Showing the Part Women Are Playing in the Warfare Against the Russian Government—A "Sister of Mercy" Who Carried Bombs in a Basket, and a Laboratory for the Manufacture of Infernal Machines—Plots to Assassinate the Czar That Were Planned by Women—Petticoat Rebels Who Devote Themselves to Corrupting the Soldiers.

(Copyright in the United States and Great Britain by Curtis Brown. All Rights Strictly Reserved.) St. Petersburg, Dec. 17.—That a lot of women are mixed up in the revolutionary struggle in Russia, every one who reads the papers must know. They get arrested now and then for assassinating somebody, or, as more frequently happens, for trying to do it and making a mess of the ghastly job. And when they get arrested their stories get in the news. But few readers can have any conception of how many plots in petticoats there are in the Czar's domain, or of the prodigious influence they wield in the movement for overthrowing the government.

and how they play it, I have set down a few typical and true stories which might be extended to fill a volume. Not least among these female rebels against Czarism is Wanda Dobrodzicha, who is in an Austrian prison awaiting the decision of the extradition court. While a student at the St. Petersburg University she joined the revolutionary movement. She longed to "do something great"—to prove her devotion to the cause by putting some high official out of the way. In August, 1906, her opportunity came. The governor-general of Poland was sentenced to death by her party. Wanda begged the committee to allow her to plan and execute his "removal" as the murder of an official is called. She got carte blanche, and took up her residence in Warsaw, where the govern-

ous kinds of bombs; the second plans of the royal palace of Peterhof, Carakofe Side, Catches in which the paths and roads used by the imperial family were marked with red ink, and notes made of the villas inhabited by palace dignitaries. Papers found contained the details of a plot to murder the whole of the imperial family and the chief courtiers. Zubova was immediately placed under arrest, of course, and confessed that she thought of all the lives about to be imperiled made her attempt suicide. She soon recovered from her self-inflicted wound, however, and her examination led to the arrest of the other women and several men. The men were all hanged and the women sentenced to hard labor in Siberia.

Tarasova besides being implicated in the "Palace Plot," as it is called, formed an organization whose chief object is to make soldiers and sailors mutiny. This organization is very strong in Viborg and Cronstadt, and though seventeen women have been arrested in connection with it, there is little prospect of its being stamped out. Its members, who have already been sentenced to Siberia, are the revolutionary cause at all costs, go into the lowest resorts which they frequent and do not hesitate to sacrifice in order to win them over. It is another case of the end justifying the means. It is said that all the mutinies which have broken out in Russia during the last four years have been hatched in these by the women of the so-called "intelligent classes."

Mary Prokofieva, who lived with one of the male conspirators in the character of a maid-servant and used to let in all the accomplices when meetings were held in the "Grand Hotel" in Petersburg while making bombs in 1906. She was the fiancée of a Cossack named Mitya. Mitya was shot some years ago. Tarasova and Prokofieva are both married women—their husbands were lawyers and have been hanged. It was "Nina" who used to receive the Cossack Kols and tried to persuade him to help in the cause. Nina's great-grandfather was a Cossack. She had a sister named Nina, who had been sent to Siberia some years ago and escaped thence to Petersburg. It would be an endless task to enumerate all the women who have been and are still implicated in the Russian revolutionary movement. They nearly all end their careers in Siberia, where they go to the settlements set apart for political offenders. Some even work in the imperial family's copper and salt mines in the Ural Mountains. This fate has been reserved for those who belong to the "intelligent classes." A new trial of twenty women is about to take place in Petersburg, and it is believed that they will have had some connection with "Nina," as their names appeared on lists found in her lodgings. They are charged with inciting the men to revolt. Their activity among soldiers and sailors is due to the new programme of the revolutionists, who, realizing that they do nothing so long as the army and navy remain faithful to the Czar, have decided to convert these into rank revolutionists. The recent "misadventure" of the Czar's yacht when in Finnish waters is part of their work. If the revolutionary movement were in the hands of men alone it is possible that it might be stamped out. But enlisting as it does a legion of women who stop at no crime, hesitate at no crime to further the cause, it is doubtful if it ever can be suppressed.

The recent unsuccessful plot against the Czar, which, thanks to a Cossack at the Peterhof Palace, who betrayed the revolutionaries, was discovered, just before it was ripe, resulted in the trial of a large number of revolutionaries, 80 per cent of whom were women and young girls. The head of this large and powerful group was also a girl, Nina Zakhajano, known in her party as "Comrade Nina." She planned the death of Pawlow, the Martial Prosecutor, and of Von Lango, head of the town of St. Petersburg. It was with her bombs that both these men were killed. She lived as a fashionable milliner in Petersburg, but behind her shop was a large laboratory, fitted up with materials used in bomb-making and containing large stores of firearms and ammunition. To her was charged the attempt to blow up the train in which Stolypin and the Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaevich were traveling to Asterok the spring of 1907 and the subsequent plot to kill the Czar and his family. It was after the failure to blow up the train that the police fell upon traces that led to the discovery of Nina's laboratory. But the most cleverest of the women who were traveling with Stolypin and the Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaevich were traveling to Asterok the spring of 1907 and the subsequent plot to kill the Czar and his family.

The women who helped her in the plot against the Czar, and who made friends with the Cossacks who kept guard at the palace are: Zubova, Mary Prokofieva, Olga Emma, Anna Dagit, Tarasova, Fedosieva and Peshkova. The life history of each of these women would provide material for a sensational novel; but space forbids more than a mere sketch of each. It was through Zubova the plot against there are more who are called "emancipated" women within its borders than are found in any of those lands which boast a much more advanced state of civilization. They devote themselves to the revolution with boundless enthusiasm. Though belonging to what is sometimes termed the "timid" sex, they far surpass their masculine colleagues in daring and resourcefulness. Tasks from which men will shrink appalled they eagerly accept. That the end justifies the means is an article of the revolutionary creed which they believe implicitly. Firm in that faith, they will undertake to blow one man, or a hundred men, into the next world with no more qualms of conscience usually than the ordinary individual experiences when he sets traps for rats or other vermin. Execution, confinement in leatherman dungeons, banishment to Siberia—any form of punishment that may be meted out to them—most of them regard as a glorious form of martyrdom.

them a commonplace. On that account, the story of the girl Terrorist who recently made a human bomb of herself attracted far more attention in America than in Russia. At hatching plots these feminine foes of autocracy are far more ingenious than the men. But in carrying them out the records show that they are distinctly inferior. Their failures are far more numerous. At the critical moment their overimpulsive ness leads to the bungling of something or their nervousness betrays them, and they escape them and they themselves get caught. But their places are filled immediately. Whatever their fate it inspires no terror in those who take their places. To show something of the part women are playing in the revolutionary warfare, the Czar was discovered. She used to be a nurse in the Borkin barracks near Peterhof, and for a long time the authorities did not suspect that she was anything more than an ordinary Sister of Mercy. One evening the report of firearms was heard in her room. The servants went to it, to find that she had shot herself in the head, but was still living. As a usual in such cases, the police were called to make a list of the wounded woman's effects, while she was sent to the hospital. When overhauling her things they opened two large wicker baskets of the pattern used by Russian women for their body-linen. To their amazement they discovered that one contained bombs, explosive, firearms, illegal literature and cylinders for making the newest and most dangerous kinds of bombs; the second plans of the royal palace of Peterhof, Carakofe Side, Catches in which the paths and roads used by the imperial family were marked with red ink, and notes made of the villas inhabited by palace dignitaries. Papers found contained the details of a plot to murder the whole of the imperial family and the chief courtiers. Zubova was immediately placed under arrest, of course, and confessed that she thought of all the lives about to be imperiled made her attempt suicide. She soon recovered from her self-inflicted wound, however, and her examination led to the arrest of the other women and several men. REV. T. O. DEWITT DEAD AT BEAVER HARBOR

The Baptist clergy of the province suffered a distinct loss in the death of Rev. Thomas O. DeWitt, of Hoyt Station, Sunbury county, which took place at Beaver Harbor, Charlotte county, on Friday evening several years ago. Mr. DeWitt sustained a fall and had not been in robust health since, but for the past year had been preaching at Beaver Harbor, where he had been very successful. Rev. Mr. DeWitt was one of the oldest of the Baptist clergymen of the province. He belonged to the Free Baptists from his youth, and early in life took up the work of ministering to the people. His ready flow of language, natural talent and capacity for absorbing knowledge compensated for the lack of a classical education, and his stirring, forceful words brought many a sinner to repentance in time of revival. The church at Central Hillsdale has been much stronger since a great revival he conducted there with the assistance of the late Rev. John MacKenzie some twelve years ago, when he himself baptised forty converts.

Rev. Mr. DeWitt's original and rugged style appealed particularly to the fisher folk of Grand Manan, Charlotte county, who had a household word in the homes in those districts. Rev. Mr. DeWitt is survived by his wife, three daughters and a son. The daughters are Mrs. H. C. Miles of St. John, Mrs. P. J. Heas, wife of Dr. Heas, of Boston, and Miss Mabel DeWitt, who is at present suffering from typhoid fever in a Boston hospital where she was training for a nurse. Oris L. DeWitt of Kansas City is the son. The body will be taken to Hoyt Station today for burial. The funeral will take place from the residence of John Murphy.

NEW BRUNSWICK GIRL MARRIED IN MALDEN

The marriage of Miss Anabel Fraser and Edwin G. Lane, 35 Robert terrace, occurred on Wednesday evening, March 25, at the parsonage of the Central Methodist church, Malden (Mass.). Rev. John R. Shannon, D. D., officiated, and the single ring service was used. The bride was attired in a blue traveling suit with hat to match and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Eva M. Fraser, who was attired in pink silk with lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of pinkies. Harry Lane, brother of the groom, was best man. The favors included an opal stickpin to the best man, and a gold brooch pin to the bride. The happy couple immediately left on a wedding tour through New Hampshire. Miss Fraser belongs to St. Martin's (N. B.), a daughter of the late Wm. H. Fraser.

GOOD ROADS UP IN ONTARIO NOW

Their Great Importance to Farmers Emphasized by Sir Mortimer Clarke.

Toronto, March 28.—Lieutenant-Governor Sir Mortimer Clarke attended at the opening of the fifth annual meeting of the Western Ontario Good Roads Association in York county council room yesterday afternoon.

His honor emphasized the importance to the country of good roads, comparing the attitude thereof of the ancient Romans and the Canadians today. Under the ancient Roman Empire, said his honor, only men of the greatest ability and highest position were appointed to take charge of the roads, which were regarded as an essential element in the prosperity and stability of the empire. With this standard, Ontario compared unfavorably. He knew of one case where a roadmaster had put $600,000 on the road when he might at less expense have put good gravel, and then explained his action by saying that the gravel would make the roads hard and the farmers would complain of having to have their horses reared.

In Canada hitherto attention had been given chiefly to railway construction and municipalities had been assessed to bonus these and properly so because the establishment of a railway was a great boon. Railways, however, would be of little benefit to the farmers unless there were good roads to connect the farm and the railway.

It was unfortunate, said his honor, that farmers had been rather disinclined to spend much money on the road because the construction of such roads would be of immense value to them financially. During many years of his professional practice he had been connected with loan companies and he knew that the value of a farm depended largely upon its situation in relation to the roads. The bad roads blocked the transport of goods to the market, causing both loss and injury, to say nothing of the wear and tear upon horses, wagons and harness.

The social life of the farmer, continued his honor, would be improved by good roads. Farmers living away from the railroad were isolated largely because of the bad roads. It was a matter of great consequence to the country to make farm life happy and comfortable for the young. The disposition of the younger generation to move to the cities and towns was greatly to be deprecated and this would be checked by the building of good roads, which would improve the opportunities of social intercourse.

The people of Ontario had entered upon a new era, said his honor, and the province of Ontario was the greatest in the British Empire, not only in its wealth, but also in the condition of its people and their manner of livelihood. It was their duty to utilize this wonderful heritage to its greatest possible extent and this could not be done unless great care was taken of the roads.

The province was indebted to the association for the interest its members had taken in the question of good roads, said his honor, and he hoped that they would continue their work and educate the public mind, for otherwise the question would fall asleep. W. Pugsley of Richmond Hill, president of the association, thanked the lieutenant-governor for having been present at the meeting and for his remarks and the more easily the farmer could get his product to the market the better for the farmer. Warden Keith of York county said that there were many obstacles in the way of good roads, but in finding means to overcome those difficulties the meeting would be doing a public service. Frost, he thought, was the great enemy of good roads and spring thaws washed away a great deal of the work of the previous season. He was sorry to say that the County of York had not yet adopted the county system of roads.

BANK MAKES CLERKS CONFESS. Looked Them Up for Two Days After Shortage Was Discovered and Unlocked Their Scheme.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 28.—Henry Reiber, paying teller, and John Young, auditor, who are accused of a $300,000 defalcation by the Farmers' Deposit National Bank, were kept locked in a room in the basement of the bank building for two days after suspicion was directed toward them until a complete confession was wrung from them.

It is declared the men speculated in mining stocks, depending entirely on the amount of the bank's credit with the New York correspondent to cover their speculations. When the bank examiner came the cash was always counted first, and the books inspected. As soon as the cash was counted Young and Reiber would hurry enough cash to New York to cover the amount of their latest theft. When suspicion was directed towards them the bank examiner appeared and went over the books first, and then took two days to count the cash. In this way they were prevented from sending any money to New York.

There was consternation today among local brokers over the arrest of Harry Silberman, the local representative of Miller & Co., brokers of New York and Pittsburg, who is charged with conspiring with Reiber and Young to defraud the bank of $300,000. There is but one similar case on record. That case was carried through all the courts, the broker finally losing. The courts maintained that the broker should not have permitted a poor bank employe handling other people's money to specu-

THE LONDON TIMES PRAISES ROOSEVELT

London, March 30.—The Times this morning, commenting editorially upon what it describes as the remarkable change which has occurred in the attitude of the political parties in the United States towards President Roosevelt and his policy, says that his award for holding to that policy against all opposing is one of the most remarkable personal victories ever won in public life. There is no policy before the people of the United States, says the Times, except his policy. Party lines have been obliterated and three candidates now before the country are politically indistinguishable. Their programmes are all of one color and that color is new in American politics. "That is a very curious and interesting situation," continues the Times, "it revives one's faith in individual worth and ability, proving that under the most democratic forms a man may still impose his personality upon the conduct of a nation's affairs."

RUSSIAN STEAMER WAS LONG OVERDUE

Boston, Mass., March 30.—Four days overdue in a voyage from Havana, the steamer Russian Prince of Newcastle, England, was towed into port yesterday considerably damaged by heavy seas and by an explosion in the boiler room which came near causing the death of a fireman. Captain Holloway was constantly on duty for 48 hours and declared the trip was one of the worst he had ever made. The Russian Prince was three miles off Boston Lightship about 9 o'clock last night when the explosion occurred in the boiler room. Joseph Rodriguez, a Spanish fireman, was fearfully, but it is believed, not fatally scalded. The steamer carried 750,000 gallons of molasses.
