RE-OPENING OF LENORA MINE INSPECTION OF IT NOW IN PROGRESS

E. Stables, Representing London Capital, is Here—May Begin Work This Fall

(From Saturday's Daily.)
Preparations for the reopening of the Lenora mine and Mount Sicker railway are now well under way, and it is expected that the first ore will be taken out by the Vancouver Copper Company, the English company which has acquired the mine, early in the fall.

E. Stables, who is to take charge of the mine, has been in the city for some time past, and has visited the property on several occasions. He has reported to the company in England, and will pay another visit of inspection next week. Mr. Stables, in conversation with a Times reporter to-day, said that while arrangements for the reopening of the mine were well in hand the formalities attending upon the acquisition of the property made it impossible to give any definite statement regarding the commencement of operations. He anticipated, however, that the work of repairing the plant would be commenced during the summer, and that ore would be taken out in the fall, or at the outside, before the end of the year.

The disposition of the mineral in the mine made it impossible to calculate with certainty the present value of the mine. The ore lies in virgin ground, and it was impossible to see ahead for any considerable length of time. The prospectus of the company, however, forecasts an output of 100 tons a day for at least 300 days in the year, or 42,000 tons a year. The ore is worked somewhere in the neighborhood of $12.24 a ton, and a yearly revenue sufficient to give a profit of $225,000 is looked forward to. This estimate does not embrace the profits accruing from the sale of lands on the other side of the Mount Sicker railway. The working capital of the company amounts to $150,000, and this is considered ample for the profitable operation of the mine, which was closed on account of a lack of working capital.

The railway, which connects the mine to Crofton and crosses the E. & N., will furnish the company with adequate transportation, and will connect it with most of the smelting works.

The mine was first opened up in 1889, and is still equipped with the original plant. The machinery, however, after lying in disuse for nearly three years, will need considerable repairing, and this, as stated above, will most likely be commenced during the summer.

The Vancouver Copper Company was formed in London, Eng., early this year. It is backed by many of the most prominent mining men in Great Britain, and shares to the number of 85,000, at a par value of 35, have been placed on the market. With this sound financial support and the enterprise which attaches to the company there should be no difficulty in making the future of the mine a most successful one.

JAPANESE IN FRISCO

Reports Have Reached Japan of Further Discrimination on Part of Civic Authorities.

Tokio, June 28.—Another serious report of anti-Japanese feeling in San Francisco has been received here to the effect that the city authorities have placed an embargo on Japanese engaged in the business of intelligence agencies and have also refused licenses of any kind, thus preventing them from engaging in any other business than that of a purely commercial character. Should the report be confirmed it will serve to confirm the belief here that the display of anti-Japanese feeling in that city is based on racial prejudice.

TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE

United States Labor Commissioner is Trying to Bring About Peace.

New York, June 28.—United States Labor Commissioner Chas. P. Neill came here from Washington yesterday in connection with the strike of the telegraphers in San Francisco. He called on officials of the Western Union and Postal Companies, and also had the national leader of the Telegraph Union, who were in New York, before him. This is Mr. Neill's second visit to New York in the effort to bring about peace.

RECEIVER APPOINTED

Chicago, June 28.—A receiver has been appointed for the Marquette Mutual Life Insurance Co. of this city, with outstanding insurance of more than one million dollars.

"HEALER" CONVICTED.

Neglected to Call a Physician to Attend Daughter Who Suffered From Pneumonia.

New York, June 28.—Clarence W. Brynes, a salesman, was pronounced guilty yesterday of failing to call a physician to his six-year-old daughter Violet during her fatal illness. Brynes calls himself a "healer." He will be sentenced July 12th.

According to the testimony of the coroner, a physician, Dr. Albert E. Weston, who performed an autopsy, the girl died of pneumonia from which she suffered four days.

TRANSPORTATION OF ALIENS.

(Associated Press.)
Washington, June 28.—Secretary Strauss, of the department of commerce and labor, ratified for the government yesterday the agreement entered into between the Bureau of Immigration and the Canadian transportation lines regarding the transportation of aliens through Canada, who intend to come to America. The agreement was made to conform to the immigration law enacted at the last session of congress.

TERRORISTS ARE REORGANIZING

PREPARING FOR ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

Executive Committee of Party Refused to Sanction Attempt on Life of Czar.

St. Petersburg, June 28.—It is feared from Russian revolutionary sources that the social revolutionary party a month ago revived the old Terrorist organization that had been suffered to lapse since the congress in Finland during the spring of 1905, and placed Gregory Gerchinnin, who escaped from Siberia last year, and Savinkoff, who escaped from Sebastopol in 1905, the best organizers of the party, in charge. The sum of $40,000 monthly was assigned for espionage, preparation of bombs, etc., from the treasury, which recently received more than $400,000 from the cashier of the sub-treasury of Samarkand, a Social Revolutionary, who embezzled $400,000.

The headquarters of the Terrorists, as usual, are located outside. Through an attempt on Premier Stolypin, while entering or leaving Tauride Palace, is believed to have been feasible, the Terrorists abstained from activity while Parliament was in session, which a representative of the party disavowed from the tribune of the lower house of Parliament. The recent crimes, it is added, were the work of the so-called "local flying detachments," operating independently of the main organization.

Terrorists, it is reported, now contemplate attempts upon Premier Stolypin and Emperor Nicholas, but the latter has not been sanctioned by the executive committee of the party.

It is also reported that Terrorists are planning an important robbery from which a large amount of booty is expected.

The openness with which the plans are discussed astonishes foreigners unacquainted with the methods of the old organization, which never concealed the names of its intended victims.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR FRONTIER.

St. Petersburg, June 27.—On account of the anarchical conditions in Turkish Armenia, where much of the fighting between Mussulmans and Armenians has occurred, Russian troops upon the Turkish frontier have been heavily strengthened to prevent the transit of Armenian refugees and a spread of agitation to Russian territory and also for moral effect on the Turkish government. A repetition of the Armenian massacres of 1896, when thousands of Armenian refugees crossed the frontier and settled in Southern Caucasus, is feared.

KILLED SISTER-IN-LAW.

Family Fight Resulted in Death of One Woman.

Warrensburg, Mo., June 28.—In a family fight last night near Bristol Ridge, a small settlement six miles southeast of Warrensburg, Mrs. Walter Herd killed Mrs. James Herd, a woman, by slashing her with a butcher knife.

According to reports, the women, with their husbands, had been drinking and a quarrel ensued. The women led the fight. Mrs. Walter Herd seized a butcher knife and attacked her sister-in-law, cutting her throat in a horrible manner and causing a wound from which she died.

JURY DISAGREED.

Findlay, Ohio, June 28.—The jury in the case of the state of Ohio against the Standard Oil Company, charged with violating the anti-trust laws, today reported a disagreement and was discharged.

BIG FOUR OFF FOR BUCHANAN CUP

Oarsmen From Famous J. B. A. A. Club Leave This Evening Confident of Success at Pacific Coast Meet on Lake Washington.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Trained to the hour and with the utmost confidence of success, the J. B. A. A. Big Four, accompanied by the juniors and several of their club mates, leave for Seattle to-night. On Thursday the second day of the N. P. A. A. O. regatta, the big race for the Pacific Northwest championship for fours for the privilege of holding the Buchanan Cup for a year will take place on Lake Washington.

Victoria's star crew will have three days to become thoroughly acquainted with the course. To-morrow it will have its first outing there. On each of the subsequent days prior to the big event the boys will have a spin over the course and Thursday will see them fit to row for a kingdom.

"In my opinion the chances of victory are first rate," says Dan O'Sullivan, the father of rowing in Victoria. "They will bring back the cup to this city. For the past five weeks they have been rowing together and are in splendid fettle. They have been in training since the 1st of May and though three of the men are new to senior com-members of the club should revert to the first historic struggle. And so it is once more in the case of the Blue Ribbons of the Pacific Coast in rowing that the thoughts of Dan O'Sullivan should hark back to that first great victory twelve years ago in Esquimalt harbor.

"We were nervous," he said, "but doggedly nervous. We had not the faintest idea what the crews were competing against were like. We simply closed our eyes and rowed like reared wolves for about a mile. Somehow or other we could not look round to see how we were going. At the end of the first mile we mustered up courage and then—well we saw a line of boats behind us and the nearest was six lengths in the rear. You can imagine the feeling of satisfaction which came over us. From that point onwards we took it easy and romped home the easiest of winners by over four lengths."

The "Big Four" in that famous Esquimalt race who opened the book of history on which so many glorious pages were to be written, were Dan O'Sullivan, stroke; W. F. Scott, No. 3; D. T. Jones, No. 2; and J. D. Watson, bow. This was in 1895. The following year saw one change in the crew. F. S. Widdowson replaced Watson at bow. The following four years the "Big Four" pulled without change in its ranks, and on each occasion it won with consummate ease. The actual performances are too numerous to dwell upon, and it is sufficient to say that during the first five years of its career the J. B. A. A. never tasted defeat, and during that time won the C. P. R. Cup (three times and thereby in perpetuity), the Association Cup (twice), and thereby in perpetuity.

In 1900 the famous combination was broken up. Scott, who pulled No. 3, went to South Africa, where he met death in the cause of Empire. A new crew was formed, composed as follows: C. McNeil, stroke; W. Laing, No. 2; W. Donaldson, No. 3; W. H. Jesse, bow. With this crew for the first time in its history, the J. B. A. A. went down to defeat at the hands of Portland. The following year disaster also attended its efforts, and at Shawigan Lake Portland was again victorious. On this occasion the "Big Four" had exceptionally had luck. During the last week one of the men broke down whilst training up to the last 100 yards, they were beat-

The J. B. A. A. boys will be accompanied to Seattle by Phil. Austin, who will look after them during the regatta. Needless to say, the popular Dan will also be present on the day of the famous race. Throughout the season he has been coaching the boys, and as he says, has implicit confidence in their prowess. Trainer Judges will be present at the historic event and will winning vein which carried them to victory in four successive years. In the first year, 1902, the club put up a performance which has perhaps never been equaled in the annals of rowing.

On the first day of the regatta the Victoria representatives who were really a crew of striplings, raced in the junior fours. This was won with comparative ease, and the following day saw the same crew entered in the Pacific Northwest championship. Few anticipated success, but success attended the pluck of the youngsters, and they paddled their shell to a victory over which Victoria went into ecstasies. The crew that achieved this record performance is still fresh in the memory of Victorians, the names of the youngsters being: W. W. Wilson, stroke; C. B. Kennedy, No. 3; H. C. Briggs, No. 2; and L. Gill, bow.

In 1903 Briggs and Gill dropped out of the 1903 crew, their places being taken by Dillabough and W. Jesse. Right up to 1906, inclusive, victory followed victory until on the Pacific Coast the J. B. A. A. boys were thought to be invincible. During these years by winning three times in succession the club gained possession of the Hiram Walker Cup.

IS ANXIOUS TO CONCLUDE CASE

JUDGE WOOD OPPOSED TO ANY DELAY

Rebuttal Testimony in the Haywood Trail May Be Concluded Next Week.

Boise, Idaho, June 28.—Departing from the rule established by Judge Wood, when the Haywood trial commenced, the sitting to-day will continue through two sessions. Up to the present Saturday has been a half holiday, but Judge Wood is anxious to conclude the case as early as possible in July and to-day will waste no time.

This morning the defence continues the evidence on Orchard and asked experience in the Coeur d'Alenes and witnesses will endeavor to disprove his statement that he was one of the men who blew up the Bunker mine.

The state is congratulating itself on the admission made yesterday by a former member of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners, D. A. Copley, who said that while he was in Frisco, Orchard claimed to have some connection with the explosion at the Bradley residence. It also expresses satisfaction over the admission by Copley that Gregory, who Orchard says he murdered in Denver, was a detective for the mine owners. The state has been so far unable to get before the jury any reason for the killing of Gregory.

On the other hand counsel for the defence do not hesitate to express much jubilation over the testimony of the Scotchman, Thomas Wood, who was the first man to go over the ground in the Vindicator mine after the explosion and enter the shell of Beck and McCormick. His evidence went to prove that the explosion was due to an accident. The inference is that McCormick took the box containing 25 pounds of dynamite with him when he left the fifth level to go to the sixth, and a pistol carried by Beck accidentally exploded setting off the dynamite.

It is now expected that the defence will have finished the direct evidence before the adjournment for the fourth. In this event the rebuttal testimony may be concluded by the end of next week.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

New York, June 28.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say: "In Canada better weather makes good crop growth, active retail trade enlarged re-order of business, while fall trade reports are of the best. An average wheat yield is looked for in the Northwest."

"Montreal" reports an improvement in re-order business with jobbers, and knit goods and blanket manufacturers are unable to fill orders. Butter and cheese exports are light.

"Toronto" reports improved trade, wholesale and retail. Knit goods are oversold. Crop prospects are encouraging. Manufacturing is active and Ontario collections are good and western payments are slow.

"Winnipeg" reports an average wheat crop probable, but that farmers are being tempted to hold grain for high prices and collections are slow.

"I am pestered with letters from every anti-Spanish crank asking me to help him lift himself above his fellows," writes Major-General Baden-Powell, in contradicting the statement which has appeared couched his name with ballooning. Major-General Baden-Powell's name has been confused with that of Major Baden-Powell, his brother, who is a well known aeronaut.

Chili is probably the most progressive of all the Spanish-speaking countries. It was the first to build railways, of which it now has over 3,000 miles. It also has 11,000 miles of telegraph.

PICNICS FOR DOMINION DAY

A GENERAL EXODUS FROM VICTORIA CITY

Railway and Steamship Facilities to Be Provided and Special Rates in Operation.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

There is every indication that Dominion Day will be passed with the customary quietude in the city. As in former years the customary exodus will take place. Nearly all the Sunday schools have organized picnics, and these will not be confined to the youngsters, but will also be patronized by the older and more staid folk. Others in the city will go to Vancouver, where celebrations will ensue.

To cope with the general exodus which will take place the Canadian Pacific railway has arranged a series of excursions for the holiday makers. Special rates will go into force on the steamers Princess Victoria and the Charmor. These vessels will run on their usual schedule.

Along the line of the E. & N. railway, excursion rates will come into force to all points, and an afternoon train service, similar to Saturdays and Sundays, has been arranged.

An outing which will, it is expected, prove a very enjoyable one, is the excursion arranged to witness the regatta and water carnival at Cowichan Bay. The City of Nanaimo will sail from the C. P. R. docks at 9 a.m. on Monday and returning will arrive at about 9:30 p.m., and granted fine weather the trip will be most enjoyable, especially through the picturesque gulf islands. The City of Nanaimo is an ideal excursion steamer, having large roomy decks, while on the smooth inland gulf waters there is absolutely no motion to be experienced. No doubt the town will have a somewhat deserted appearance on Monday, which is only to be expected when there are so many attractive outings in store for the holiday seekers.

The annual picnic of Calvary Baptist and the Victoria West and Burnside Mission Sunday schools will be held on Monday at Fisher's beach, Esquimalt harbor. Special cars will leave from Herald and Douglas streets at 9 and 10 a.m., and committees have arranged for those who attend to have an enjoyable time.

The First Congregational has also organized a picnic for young and old. The place where it will be held is White Lady Beach, on the far side of Esquimalt harbor. Cars will leave from church at 10 a.m. for the Esquimalt dock, where transportation will be provided to White Lady Beach. A programme of sports for people of all ages, both ladies and gentlemen, has been drawn up, while refreshments will be served. The outing will last nearly all day, the excursionists returning to the city about 9 o'clock.

St. Andrew's and the First Presbyterian churches will hold their annual union Sunday school picnic at Goldstream on Monday. There is no more desirable place than Goldstream for an outing, and the committees in charge are making every effort to provide for the comfort and convenience of those attending. Trains will leave the E. & N. station at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m., and 1:30 p.m., returning at 5, 7:22 and 8:30 p.m.

As before announced, the Centennial Methodist church will hold its usual outing of Bazan Park, Sidney. Trains will leave the V. & S. station at 8:15 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Monday. There will be sports for young and old, and refreshments will be provided. Those not belonging to the church can join the picnic by a payment of 50 cents.

The Spring Ridge Methodist Sunday school people are making elaborate arrangements for their annual excursion picnic to take place at Esau Bay on Monday. Every convenience has been made for the comfort of passengers in the way of refreshments of all kinds. Hot water will be obtainable free to all. Trains leave Victoria & Sidney station at 8:15 a.m. and 3 p.m. at Mackay Point, by kind permission of the Hudson's Bay Company, the Emmanuel Baptist Sunday school will hold its picnic. Special cars will leave the church at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. The customary sports will form part of the entertainment, while refreshments will be provided for the day's outing. Both young and old are invited to the picnic.

DEPUTY PAINTED.

Royalist Member Charged From French Chamber During Speech by Socialist.

Paris, June 28.—M. Padooua, united Socialist, in the Chamber of Deputies to-day attacked Premier Clemenceau, declaring the latter was responsible for the blood in the south of France. He became so violent that Mr. De Boudry D'Asson, Royalist, fainted from excitement and had to be carried out. The government reached a majority of 129 on a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies to-night.

WIRELESS TO BE INSTALLED AT ONCE

Victoria City Will Have One and Others Are to Be Located as Aids to Navigation on Pacific Coast.

The wireless telegraph system on this coast is to be installed at once. It will be as aids to navigation that these stations will be fitted up and the acting minister of marine and fisheries, Hon. W. Templeman, has given instructions to have the work carried out just as quickly as it can be done.

Cecil Doutré, commissioner of wireless telegraph and superintendent of wireless stations for the Dominion government, is at present in Victoria in connection with this work. He will have workmen engaged on the work of installing the plants within a day or two, and as quickly as the work can be done stations along the southern part of the British Columbia coast will be established. Within six weeks the first of the new wireless stations will be in running order. These will be at Victoria and Pachen Point, on the west coast of Vancouver Island. The others decided upon will be put into order with all expedition also.

There are five now decided upon all along the southern portion of the British Columbia coast. In addition to Victoria and Pachen Point, above mentioned, there will be a station at Vancouver, located either at Point Grey or Stanley Park, another will be at Estevan Point on the west coast of Vancouver Island, and one at Cape Lazo, on the east coast of the island, opposite Texada Island.

This will be the beginning of this system of aids to navigation which the government has decided to extend to this coast. Later the system will be extended by the erection of additional wireless stations along the coast as far as Prince Rupert. Within a year probably the continuous chain of stations may be built along the entire British Columbia coast.

The policy of the government, Mr. Doutré says, is to establish a number of smaller stations at frequent intervals rather than locate a few large ones. The reason of this is obvious when it is remembered that the stations are primarily for the benefit of the shipping interests, and by the location of a greater number constant communication may be kept up with coasting steamers which equip themselves with wireless. The introduction of the system on the coast will result in the rapid introduction of the apparatus on the different steamers on the coast to enable communication to be kept up. Already the C. P. R. has decided to equip the Princess May and the Princess Royal with the necessary apparatus.

The different stations will be fitted up in a substantial way. There will be a residence of two storeys for the chief operator and his family, and accommodation also for two additional operators. This will provide for a continuous service at the stations. Where lighthouses are located the wireless will be installed in the same building. This will be the case at Pachen Point. At Estevan Point, where no lighthouse yet is built, the two will be combined, the lighthouse section being installed in the wireless building.

The system to be installed is the Shoemaker, which is regarded as the best by Mr. Doutré, who made a study of the various systems on behalf of the government before a decision was reached. The Shoemaker has the advantage that it is capable of interchanging with the De Forrest, the Stone, the Marconi and the Massee systems. A long wave is used in connection with the system so that the messages carry about 200 or 250 miles to sea. It is hoped that Pachen may be able to communicate directly with Victoria by the use of the high elevations which separate the stations in the region. The two points is not sufficient to establish any difficulty, but Mr. Doutré says some obstacle may be found from the effect of the high elevations which separate the stations. This will be a matter for experimenting before it can be said definitely that the messages can be exchanged directly. In any event, communication will be carried out via Tatoosh on the American side as a connecting point.

CANADIAN INDUSTRIES.

Returns of Capital Invested Show Large Increase For 1905 Compared With 1900.

(Special to the Times.) Ottawa, June 27.—A bulletin issued to-day shows the capital invested in Canadian industries for 1905 to be $843,381,178, an increase of $397,000,000, or 90 per cent, over 1900. The production only increased 50 per cent. The apparent disparity in these ratios of increase was due to the inability of recently established works to produce their full capacity. In cars and car works for example the ratio of production to capital in 1900 was 151 and in 1905 it was 101; in Portland cement works it was 85 and 15; in smelting works 97 and 23 and electric light works 17 and 9 for the years respectively.

The five years have been a growing period in industrial investment, and the full results are not yet realized.

FOR FAMINE SUFFERERS.

(Associated Press.) St. Petersburg, June 23.—An imperial ukase issued last night directs M. Kokovosoff, the finance minister, to issue $25,000,000 in four per cent. rentes at the residence of the women at 601 North Sixty-second street, on the western side of Green Lake shortly before 11 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Gill died about 11 o'clock. Smith gave himself up and is in the city jail.

SMITH WENT TO THE HOUSE THIS MORNING.

Smith went to the house this morning and asked to talk with the women. This was refused him and he opened the kitchen door and stepped in. Mrs. Smith, from whom he was divorced about two months ago, told him to go out, but instead he pulled a bottle which was supposed to have contained poison and put it to his lips: "I will drink this!"

He did so, and just as his wife turned around he pulled a gun and shot her twice in the chest and once in the back. She died almost instantly. As soon as he was heard to exclaim that he would drink the poison, his mother-in-law came into room. After shooting his wife, Smith turned the gun on his mother-in-law and shot her in the neck. She ran into another room and there fell. "She lived about one hour and twenty minutes after being shot."

FROM THE NEIGHBORS OF THE SMITH FAMILY.

It was learned that the two had both been married and divorced. The shooting was the result of Smith attempting to induce his wife to return to him. About two months ago, Mrs. Smith obtained a divorce from her husband. Later Mrs. Ethel Brownell, a sister of Mrs. Smith, had Smith arrested on a charge of assaulting and beating his former wife. He was acquitted of the charge and then went to San Francisco to work with a telephone company. Smith returned from California about ten days ago, and has not been in the neighborhood of his wife's home several times in the last few days.

Smith claims to be 73 years of age. His wife is 41, and his mother-in-law is 64. After arriving at the police station, Dow Smith made the following statement: "My wife's sister, who is the trouble between my wife and me. When I went to San Francisco it was her efforts that caused Mrs. Smith to get a divorce. I went to the house last morning to try and make up with my wife. Her mother kept 'butting in' I told her that if she did not keep out of our affairs I would be compelled to hurt her. I then pulled a revolver and shot her in the chest and she died. I thought the laudanum would do the work."

TRUOPS GUARD DOCKS.

Laborers at Belfast Are on Strike—Soldiers Are Assisting Police.

Belfast, Ireland, June 28.—The dock laborers here are on strike and channel traffic is greatly interrupted with it. Five hundred soldiers with rifles are assisting the police to guard the docks. A great body of strikers marched yesterday through the principal streets, after attempting to loot a number of wagons belonging to shipping companies they were dispersed.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT.

Ladies of All Saints Church, Alberni, Held Sale of Work and Entertainment.

Alberni, June 28.—The Women's Auxiliary of All Saints church, Alberni, held a most successful sale of work in the church grounds on the evening of June 26th. The various stalls were prettily decorated and the many useful and fancy articles, ice cream, fruit and tea found ready sale. The evening was enlivened by the strains of the large gramophone kindly lent by the C. P. R. survey party. The ladies feel very grateful to all who so kindly helped to make the social so successful. The weather was all that could be desired. One and all of those present declared it to be the most pleasant gathering held in Alberni.

ICE MEN WILL STRIKE.

Drivers of Wagons Decide to Quit Work—Action Will Cause Suffering.

New York, June 28.—A strike of ice-wagon drivers in the employ of the American Ice Company was determined upon last night, to take effect immediately. Between 1,000 and 2,000 men will be involved. The strike, if it comes off, will cause great suffering, particularly in the tenement districts, as the prices of independent dealers may be advanced. The movement is in reality a force recognition of the union, although there is a slight dispute about pay and hours of employment. The drivers say their hours are too long. The strike of the ice-wagon drivers last year was attended with considerable violence.

In a collision on the Pennsylvania railway near Cynard, Pa. between an accommodation train and a freight locomotive, the freight train, which was carrying a passenger train, was killed and several passengers injured.

Germany's colonies are five times as big as those of France, and Britain's thirty-seven times bigger than Britain's.

TRAGEDIES ACROSS THE BORDER

MURDER AND SUICIDE IN CALIFORNIA

Telegraph Lineman Shot His Former Wife and Her Mother in Seattle.

Fresno, June 28.—William Stulz, a butcher, killed his wife Louise, shot his aged mother-in-law in the head and then killed himself last night. Recently Stulz got the idea that his wife and her mother were conspiring against him. The women started to run when Stulz pulled a gun, but he intercepted them and shot them both.

PLOT AMONG THE MINE OWNERS

ALLEGED BY DEFENCE IN HAYWOOD CASE

Attorneys for Accused Claim They Will Prove Conspiracy to Crush Federation.

Boise, Idaho, June 28.—The effort of the defence upon the way for a showing of a general conspiracy "extending over many states on the part of the mine owners to crush out the Western Federation of Miners, has now become one of the interesting features of the trial of Wm. D. Haywood. The state is resting its case very earnestly. So far Judge Wood has ruled that evidence showing a conspiracy in the states of Idaho and Colorado will be admitted on the promise that the defence will connect this later with their line of defence. But the defence has not given up their effort to widen the field and to-day the struggle is being resumed. The counter conspiracy and the discrediting of Orchard "has" come to the front.

W. B. Easterly, who as a member of the famous Altman Union No. 19, of Cripple Creek, on the strike committee and who Orchard swears was a man with whom he made the arrangements for more than one crime, is still on the stand. By him other links in the alleged conspiracy of the mine owners and the work of the detectives employed by them to create fear against the Western Federation will be put in evidence.

Easterly's story fully contradicted every statement Orchard made in connection with the Independence plot, or the Victor mine.

Charles Darrow, who is conducting the defence, asserts positively that he proposes to go directly if possible into the conspiracy of the mine owners and claims "if he succeeds in broadening the scope he will be able to prove that a widespread conspiracy exists."

The state insists that the defence must lay its foundation for the proof of a general conspiracy in the same way as was done by their witness, Orchard, and the separate cases do not suffice. Mr. Darrow says that he can bring in one of the Pinkerton agency in as one of the chief conspirators and has one witness who will fully support his charge.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED IN RIVER AT PRINCE ALBERT—BOY LOST LIFE IN POND.

Prince Albert, Sask., June 28.—Fred Simpson, a young man of 21, was drowned while bathing in the Saskatchewan river last night. Simpson and another man dived from the ferry when it was struck by the ice. Simpson, who was 50 feet, but was held by some means lost power to swim. His companion went to his assistance, and then went under with him twice, and then started to swim ashore with Simpson holding on by his shoulders. Simpson's hands slipped and in a moment he had disappeared. The ferryman and a passenger put the little girl's rescue. She went down in the current, before they could reach him, and they had to save another bather who, though a poor swimmer, had started to his rescue.

HELD PRISONER BY CHINESE.

White Girl Found by Portland Police, Who Were Raiding a Gambling Den.

Portland, Ore., June 27.—While making a raid on a Chinese gambling den in this city yesterday, the police found a white girl named Alma Church, whose residence is in Spokane, who had been held in captivity more than three years.

According to the girl's story she was trapped while visiting a Chinese restaurant, and taken to a barred room which she was never allowed to leave except when closely guarded. The girl is terror stricken and almost a nervous wreck.

The finding of the girl winds up a mystery which the detectives have been trying to solve for more than a year. At that time they were informed by a reliable person that while passing Second and Taylor streets he saw a white woman at a barred window, and she appealed to him to rescue her. Detectives were rushed to the house and a search made, but the girl had been secreted in the meantime. A warrant has been issued for the girl's captor, but up to the present he has eluded arrest.

NEW MARKET FOR FRUIT OF PROVINCE

Dominion Official Says That New Zealand is Anxious for British Columbia Products

—Trade Prospects.

The fame of British Columbia's fruit has spread to New Zealand and the outcome of the recent exhibition held at Christ Church will be an extension of trade between the colonies. On board the Alley liner Buentaur, which reached port this morning, was A. W. Despard, decorator and installer of the exhibition branch of the department of agriculture of the Dominion government. Mr. Despard is on his way back to Ottawa, now that the exhibition is over.

At the recent exhibition the first of British Columbia's fruits were shown to the people of New Zealand. Two hundred and ten cases were on exhibit and these contained 28 varieties. The result of the exhibit is that New Zealand is now anxiously awaiting the time when the fruit can be imported to the country.

Mr. Despard has interviewed the leading merchants in the four great distributing centres of New Zealand, in Auckland, Wellington, Christ Church and Dunedin, and they are all anxious to enter into negotiations with Canadian merchants. British Columbia fruit can be obtained when New Zealand fruit is out of season and for this reason the trade is likely to assume large proportions. On his arrival in Eastern Canada Mr. Despard will at once communicate with wholesale fruit merchants in the principal cities, and he is of opinion that they will send agents out to this province to arrange for the first shipments of fruits to New Zealand. The big merchants in New Zealand have signified their willingness to take the fruit in large quantities.

In the estimation of Mr. Despard the first shipments will amount to some two or three thousand cases. But he says that this amount will probably quadruple in a few years' time. The shipments will be carried either by the Canadian-Australian liners or else by the vessels of the Alley line. At a recent exhibit the Canadian Court obtained the highest award as the best exhibit. "It was," said Mr. Despard, "the most comprehensive

BURNS, OF THE SECRET SERVICE DETECTIVE WHOSE AGENT WAS REUFF'S CHAFFEUR--HIS RECORD AND HIS METHODS

NEW YORK POST.

San Francisco.—The first figure in the graft exposure drama in this city is not Rudolph Spreckels, but a man named Burns, who advanced most of the $100,000 for the demolition of the ring, nor Francis J. Heney, the prosecutor, who had devoted eight months to the purification of San Francisco, but William J. Burns, ex-secretary of the man, and the detective who made the work of Spreckels and Heney possible. To Burns more than to any other single man is the credit due for the actual work which led to Rueff's downfall and the cornering of the bribe givers and takers, big and small. Burns is a most interesting man, and it is not stretching terms to say that he is unquestionably one of the greatest and four greatest detectives in America. His whole life is an exemplar of accomplishment, and, as the last eighteen years of it have been spent in the general art of "sleuthing," his history is one of incident. His methods of detection are not easy to analyze, and it is difficult to say wherein he is different from other great detectives. However, in his case are the tell-tale of success. It was Burns that secured the confessions from the fourteen bootlegging supervisors and forced the breakdown of the "ring" on his exposures. His indictments against all the grafters were based, and all the evidence in the hands of the prosecution was unearthed by him. Burns is a physical giant, six feet tall, and the world has come to regard as the best of detectives. He is neither thin nor sharp of eye, neither mysterious of mien nor cold in manner. He faces his routine, and he wears the same mountaineering, curling at the ends. His double chin is in keeping with his rather stocky frame, and his naturally curly hair gives a general impression of robustness to his features which remind one more of the happy and successful war politician than any other type. But it needs only a brief interview with Burns to know that he is a man of a different order. Burns started out to track his men by an analysis of each single act of crime, which finally led to the act of crime. It was his persistence, his originality, and his keenness of vision and human nature that made his work complete.

Father a Police Chief.

Burns is forty-six years old. Born in Maryland, he was at an early age taken to Columbia, Md., where his father settled, and is now in the flourishing business. The parent was elected to the commissionership of police while Burns was still a young man, and from that time on the son has given most of his waking hours to the ferreting of criminals and the uncovering of crime. During the incumbency of his father he became intimately acquainted with the local detectives, and studied police methods as practised in the big cities of the world. It was his father, who had led the famous tally-sheet forger, who were counted upon to seat a state senator from Columbia, that Burns actively engaged in detective work.

Several men were implicated in this job.

Young Burns got at the bottom of things and exposed the fraud so completely that convictions were easily obtained. With this success to his credit, he moved to St. Louis and was offered a position with a private detective agency. After a series of minor successes, he was offered the position of an arson case, and through his efforts the notorious "Jim" French, head of a well-known gang of criminals, was convicted of several cases of arson and robbery, which had kept St. Louis terror-stricken for several months. It was the "Jim" French conviction that gave Burns his first call from the secretary of the state, and in November, when he resigned to take charge of the San Francisco graft cases, he built a reputation for himself as the most successful tracker of counterfeiters in the government employ.

Hunter of Counterfeiters.

Burns' first case as a secret service man was that of "Bill" Brockway, who had a plant in New York, and who turned out to be one of the counterfeiters of the country to the other. It took several months to get "Bill," but when the arrest was made there was enough evidence to clinch a conviction. Brockway was released a few weeks ago, after serving a long sentence. When it came to the attention of the government that Costa Rican notes were being manufactured in New York for the purpose of financing a revolution in that country, Burns was assigned to the case. In short time he tracked down the counterfeiters and confiscated the plant. What Burns considers his most difficult task against counterfeiters was the famous $100 bill case in Philadelphia. In 1905, hundreds of thousands of dollars in counterfeit bills of that denomination had been manufactured and sent broadcast throughout the East. Thirty men were arrested, and twelve of them were convicted. Not long after this Burns was assigned to the counterfeit cigar-stamp cases. Specious stamps were made by a gang of men in the East and then distributed to California, with the result that the country was flooded with bogus stamps. Burns led the chase, and he rounded up thirteen men who were concerned in the enterprise. As in the Philadelphia case he secured enough evidence to convict eleven dozen of them.

President McKinley knew Burns well.

Several of the counterfeiting cases were personal services for him. He was present at McKinley's inauguration. President Roosevelt has asked for several important missions for Burns and rates him as one of the best. The frequent labor strikes in the United States were an economic barbarism.

from the government service and attacked him for the prosecution of the grafters in this city. It was in 1903 that Francis J. Heney was asked by the head of the Department of Justice to undertake the land fraud investigation. Heney finally consented on condition that Burns should be assigned to the job. Heney had heard of Burns' ability and was anxious to enlist his services in the crusade against the ring that had fraudulently gobbled up a big slice of the public domain. What Heney and Burns accomplished in their joint efforts in the land fraud cases is recent history. Heney and Burns were not only successful in Oregon was convicted, and indirectly paid the penalty with his life. In the same exposure Burns demonstrated his aptitude for obtaining confessions, also a wonderful persistence in the face of extreme opposition. Several times during the investigation it looked as if the guilty ones would escape, and frequently the men engaged in the work of uncovering the frauds were at their wit's end when the timely and resourceful endeavors of Burns came to the rescue. Heney's fame as a prosecutor, established by the land fraud cases, made him a most desirable person when the great fight of San Francisco was looking round for a protagonist to wage their battles against municipal corruption. Heney, being a San Francisco practitioner, was known to the men who came before the court. He was approached while in Portland trying the land fraud cases, and said that he would undertake to lay the entire case before a sufficient fund were raised. Not long after the money came forth, and Burns was hired. Although there was never any question of the corruption and degradation of the city officers under the graft system, there was the gravest doubt that sufficient evidence could be found to incriminate the bribers and the grafters. Rueff's high hand was wielded under the guise of an attorneyship. Nearly every corporation depending upon a municipal charter for its existence employed him in some shape or other as their lawyer, and the records showed that the fees paid to the attorneys and the supervisors who controlled the franchises were given personally to Rueff for professional legal services.

Working Against Rueff.

Soon after Burns put his probe in the municipal mess he discovered that the French restaurant had been forced to respond to the extortion of Rueff and Schmitz. These two cases were used as an entering wedge, and Burns, fortified with corroborating facts, went after the supervisors. He put his own chauffeur in Rueff's automobile, he put men in the shops, he used his assistants to undermine the "underlet" and ply with wine some of the talkative supervisors. One night a wine-soaked city father forgot to hold his tongue, and the next day Burns had what he wanted, not evidence in the extortion cases which were primarily brought to harass Schmitz and Rueff, but a statement of the wholesale bribery had been committed, and that the supervisors got their share as well as Schmitz and Rueff.

The third degree process was then brought into play.

Rueff, showing panic, tried to hide himself in a road resort, and gave the courts the excuse to put him under surveillance and appoint an elisor for his person. Burns counseled that Rueff be kept apart from Schmitz and the supervisors. The latter were visited by men of the Burns persuasion, and every few days they were put upon a grill of apprehension with the intimation that Rueff had been offered immunity if he would "peach" on Schmitz and the city fathers. Rueff couldn't communicate with his henchman, and the "stand pat" message that was finally intended, and they broke down, running to cover like a pack of sheep. It was Burns' plan, and it worked as he had schemed.

Breaking Rueff's Nerve.

Rueff was the next. Burns was worse than any Nemesis of old in his attack on Rueff. When the boss walked in the morning a Burns guard was peering into his eyes. When he slept he was watched by a Burns guard that never winked. Rueff was pined with tales of terror. He was told of evidence that was plausible enough to a strong man. Rueff, weakened by his enforced imprisonment, saw before him an endless series of condemning documents, Burns never "let up." At first Rueff laughed at the detective. Within a fortnight he stopped laughing. Within a month he was as serious minded as a priest, and within two months his nerve had gone completely. Then came the drizzling confession in court.

Later M. Albert sent this letter to M. Clemenceau.

"In two or three days you will have proof that I kept my promise. Enclosed find the 100 francs you loaned me, for which accept my thanks. As agreed, I have surrendered myself to the authorities."

SWISS STATE RAILWAYS.

The Swiss state railways are enjoying a period of great prosperity. The records for the last winter season showed all records for the time of the year, and those for the three first months of the present year are also gratifying. The sum realized in the three months is given as $5,800,000, and this brilliant stroke of fortune is encouraging the administration to launch out into new projects of coast-by-improvements. On several of the lines steam traction will be replaced by electricity, and a number of the most important stations will be brought quite up to date in all their appointments and structures.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

Thick Clothes Saved Life of Man Who Was Attacked by Nephew. Before Mr. Justice Bray, at Dorset assizes, George Rose, twenty-eight, was indicted for attempting to murder his nephew, John Ellis, who is over eighty years of age, and carries on an extensive business as a timber merchant. Rose and his wife were in the workshop, and without the least warning prisoner took a gun and fired it into his uncle's back. A neighbor came in on hearing the shot, and Rose said: "I have shot him." "Could not help it, something came over me," Mr. Warden Graham told the jury. The man was taken to the hospital, and about eight shots were traced. His life was saved by the thick clothes he was wearing. The jury found Rose insane.

THE HAYWOOD TRIAL. W. F. Davis Will Take the Stand Again For the Defense.

Boise, Idaho, June 27.—W. F. Davis, the witness for the defense in the case against Haywood, takes the stand again to-day and Senator Borah continues cross-examination. Orchard commenced the story of his blood-curdling crimes with the blowing up of the concentrator at Wardner by a mob of 1,000 union men, the mob was, at the time, being operated by non-union laborers. Orchard told the story of the trial, and the witness for the defense in the case against Haywood, takes the stand again to-day and Senator Borah continues cross-examination.

Plant is Now Running at its Full Capacity--Possibilities of Trade.

The Silica Brick Company have commenced their operations of making the new compressed brick at the works near Colwood. This brick is not only weather-proof, but also fire resisting. The new brick, which is a sanitary one, is pressed, and those interested claim that it is equal in every way to the best clay brick on the market. Besides being superior in that it stands more fire and great pressure, it is immune from all climatic effects. With it there is no shaking or cracking under the action of the weather. Bricklayers, moreover, themselves testify that they can lay more wall with it than with any other kind of brick because of its uniformity in size. In short, as to its formation it may be said that engineering science at the present day has been able by pressure applied in one day, to effect what geological pressure gradually accumulating during the formation of sandstone rock has only after ages been able to effect in the course of nature's process. There is no doubt, however, that nature's rock for building purposes can only be acted in one way, otherwise under the action of the wind, frost, and rain, it would crumble away very rapidly. This is not the case with the manufactured sandstone. It rather hardens under the weather. In comparison with ordinary brick for the colonies, and much stronger, its crushing strain being 64,000 pounds; this is able to stand before showing any sign of fracture.

Resolution Passed the Commons By a Majority of Nearly Three Hundred.

London, June 26.—The three days debate in the House of Commons ended at midnight, when Premier Campbell-Bannerman's resolution in favor of curtailing the power of the House of Lords in vetoing bills passed in the House of Commons was carried by 482 to 147 amid loud ministerial cheers. The amendment introduced by A. Henderson, Laborite, Durham, for total abolition of the House of Lords, was previously rejected by 315 to 100, the minority being composed of Laborites, Nationalists and a few radicals. In the division the Nationalists as a body abstained from voting. Mr. Henderson who moved the amendment, argued that the government's proposals were an invitation to the Lords to delay every bill attacking a privilege. Strong speeches were made by party leaders, including Alfred Lyttelton, secretary of the House of Commons, and Winston Spencer Churchill, under secretary for the colonies. The debate left the impression that the government was fully determined in its campaign against the House of Lords. When the premier left the house after the division had been taken, he was given a great ovation.

INDIAN UPRISING FEARED.

Girl Graduate Starts Trouble on North Dakota Reservation by Teaching New Religion. Under the leadership of Annie Emeryheart, a new religion, or rather a resurgence of the old heathen practices, has sprung up among the Indians of Fort Berthold reservation, and is causing considerable comment, says a correspondent from the Indian office at Carlisle, N. D., dispatch. Annie Emeryheart is a graduate of the Fort Berthold Indian school, and by reason of her superior educational advantages has much influence with the people of her tribe. Recently a horse belonging to the father of the woman died, and she has succeeded in making the Indians believe that the spirit of God has entered into dead body of the horse, and that the woman is a prophet of the Great Spirit, and they obey her word. She caused an altar to be erected in the Elbow woods, close to the reservation, and on this the newly-decorated horse's head has been placed, and here the Indians assemble and go through their strange worship, which seems to be a modification of the older heathen worship. Offerings are brought daily to the horse's head, and these are offered as burnt sacrifices during all of the ceremonies, the participants being required to keep their faces toward the sun. The woman has instructed the Indians in a weird and plaintive chant which is sung at the assemblies, which are held several times a week. The horse's head and the sun are venerated, the Indians going through a species of dance. Many of the Indians have become convinced that the woman is a prophet of the Great Spirit, and they obey her every whim. She advises her followers ready the missionaries are complaining to turn their backs upon the white man and to live for the Indians alone. Although the new cult has made sad inroads upon their congregations, and they are making strenuous efforts to regain their hold over the people, the missionaries express fear that the influence of the woman may cause trouble.

BASEBALL. PREMIER APPEARANCE.

The Victoria Superiors, the name taken by the ball players who have decided to represent Victoria this season, have made final arrangements for their opening game, and Saturday afternoon will see them in combat with the Bremerton boys. The game will be played at the Victoria grounds, along with Capt. Miller and Pitcher Paddock, were in town yesterday and completed their arrangements, and all that is now required by the ball players who have decided to represent Victoria this season, is to play in the diamond. For the opening game the Victorians will have two local men on their team, while a third will very likely appear in uniform. Blackbourne will be in the box for the Victorians and Robertson in right field, while McQuade will be the next man to be called on to play. With Blackbourne on the pitcher's mound, it is safe to say that the players from the American navy yard will have to play fast ball if they expect to win. Under the name of the Superiors the team that will represent Victoria has already met the Bremerton team three times this season, and three good games have resulted. In the first the Superiors won out by good play, the Bremerton boys were defeated in the ninth inning. In two of the games the result was a tie until the end of the eighth, but the Superiors managed to get in a few timely swats and broke the game up. The Oak Bay grounds have been secured for the games, and they are now being put in first class shape, and it is confidently expected that Saturday afternoon will see one of the finest games of baseball played in this city since the days of Chase, Emerson, Whalen and others who made Victoria famous as a baseball center. By having a team playing under the name of Victoria this city is given a large amount of advertising which it would not otherwise have, and the Victoria Superiors will do all they can to make this city known.

PRINCE BEAT B. C. KING.

Splendid weather and a large attendance were two of the distinguishing features of the opening day of the Ladners big track meet yesterday. It is estimated that there were fully one thousand people at the track, coming from all over the province, many from Victoria, Vancouver and Westminster. The races were of a very exciting nature, and great interest was shown in every event. The results of the races were as follows: 1. B. C. futurity stakes, half mile heats, for two year olds--Ruby Patchen, 1; Pet Palestine, 2; Sceptin, 3. Mile trot or pace, 2.25 class, best time in five--The Prince, owned by Mr. Chapple, Victoria. 2. B. C. King, 2. The Prince won every heat with B. C. King a close second. Trot or pace, milly heats, 2.40 class--The Prince won every heat with B. C. King a close second. There was a great deal of puffing in this race and the stewards refused to grant second and third money.

CONTRAST WITH CRICKET.

Followers of baseball always contend that the outfield catches are more difficult in the diamond game than on the grass, and are negotiated because of superior ability of the baseball players as against the fielding skill of the cricketer, says an Eastern exchange. Curiously, Englishmen are generally credited with conquering in this idea. For instance, a writer in an American paper said the other day: "Skilled English cricketers who see Americans play baseball are astonished by the catches. I have seen a group of Englishmen sit in a grand stand and applaud a catch which, to the experienced American crowd, is considered 'easy.' The Britishers cannot grasp the idea nor understand the training and long experience enable men to get the ball out of the air with such wonderful precision. To the average American fan catching a fly anywhere that the fielder can reach it looks easy. Yet there are catches which bring the most calloused fans to their feet with yelps of delight and send thrills through the crowd. Some of these catches bound on the accidental, so impossible do they seem." It is not a matter of skill altogether, but of an understanding of the wind and the longer. Why? The baseball is a ball player is an advantage, cricketers preventing any except the wicket-keeper from wearing gloves. The ball player apparently makes the more difficult catches undoubtedly covering the more grounds of the two, because a baseball hit with the same propelling force as the cricket ball stays in the longer. Why? The baseball is the lighter, the weights being: Cricket ball, 5 1/2 ounces; baseball, 5 ounces. A mathematical calculation would show that the cricketer is thus additionally handicapped. He must run faster to get under the more rapidly descending sphere. Put a professional baseball player in the slips, and he would make more errors of judgment than the English cricketer in the outfield.

ALL OUT FOR 12.

A new record has been established in English county cricket. In a recent match between Northamptonshire and Gloucestershire the former county was all dismissed for 12 runs. The Nottingham total of 13 was previously the lowest score on record in a county match, while the smallest total in a first class match was the 12 score by Oxford University (one man away) against the M. C. C. at Oxford in 1871.

A UNIQUE TOUR.

The most unique trip ever taken by an aggregation of high school athletes has been made possible by the unusual generosity of the students of the Seattle High School. With a fund of $1,860, which has been raised among the business men, friends interested in the trip of the baseball team and from the treasury of the school athletic association, the nine representing the high school in the Sound city, will be able to make a trans-continental trip, by way of making fifty games of ball during the summer months, and incidentally advertising the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. The amount raised is deemed sufficient to cover the transportation of the team and the boys expect to make enough out of their guarantees to pay their board and incidental expenses. They are, in fact, confident of making money on the trip. The school board has given the members of the high school team permission to make the trip that will carry them coast to coast. The team will be accompanied by the boys. The itinerary carries them as far east as New York and as far south as the Jamestown Exposition. They will get new uniforms at St. Paul and on the back of the uniforms will be the numerals "1907" as an advertisement of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

LACROSSE. NELSON-VANCOUVER.

The Nelson Lacrosse Club have accepted the terms of the Vancouver players, so that the Terminal team will now have to travel inland for a couple of games. The Vancouver boys will leave for Nelson on Saturday and will play their first game on Dominion Day and the final match on July 2nd.

PREMIER MCBRIDE TO SAIL TO-MORROW.

Montreal, June 27.—A Star London cable says: Premier McBride sails on the Empress of Ireland to-morrow. It is not expected obstruction to the amendment to British North America Act in the House of Commons will prove serious. A little group of opposition members including Dan Murphy, Claude Hay and others are sorry for any opportunity of giving Winston Churchill and the government a dig, but they are most unlikely to go the length of obstructing the bill. It will, however, now need a special rush to get the bill through both houses before July 1st. The suggestion that McBride is in any way responsible for the obstruction is not seriously credited.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

Perfect Growing Weather in All the Wheat Growing Isthms. Winnipeg, June 27.—A farmer of South Q'Appelle this morning stated that the wheat crop in the district was the most promising for many years, with the present weather conditions, all that is lacking may be made up in all parts of the west. The Duke of Orleans, who has already explored hitherto unknown territory at the extreme north of Greenland, will make another voyage to the polar seas on his stout little yacht the Belgica. He left Bergen recently. Coasting along Northern Norway, the explorer will pass the North Cape at the time of the midnight sun, and to direct the search head toward the east--Nova Zembla and the Kara Sea, which are principally the goals for this voyage. From the Siamois coast in Siberia, where are the mouths of the Rivers Obi and Yenesei, the Belgica will go still further north toward a shore which the explorer believes extends a great distance and will make a special study of the flora and fauna and deep sea conditions of this neighborhood. Seals and walrus are extremely prolific in the region. The expedition is taking provisions for two years, but the intention at present is not to spend the winter in this region. The Duke's commander, Captain De Gerlache, has a tried crew with him.

LIFE-SAVING AIDS TO NAVIGATION.

As will be noted from a detailed announcement which appears in the Times to-day, the Department of Marine and Fisheries of the Dominion government has practically completed all arrangements for the establishment of a wireless telegraphic system along the coast of British Columbia. The superintendent of the government wireless telegraphic system, Mr. Cecil Doure, is in the city attending to the details and preparing for the active work of installation. Stations will be erected immediately at Victoria, Vancouver, Pachen and other important points, while others will be provided in accordance with requirements and with all possible dispatch.

Experience in the East with the Marconi system has demonstrated that it does not work as satisfactorily as could be desired concerning the importance of the interests involved. After considerable experience and patient investigation, Mr. Doure has concluded that the Shoenaker system is the more reliable and dependable. Consequently that system will be established on this coast.

It is evident the government of Canada is determined that if modern science and human ingenuity can devise ways and means of preventing the loss of life which has occurred with distressing regularity upon the Pacific Coast during the stormy seasons of the year, no question of expense will be permitted to stand in the way. Already a road is in process of construction along a portion of the west coast of the Island where vessels have most frequently been driven ashore. This roadway will enable life-saving apparatus to be transported with facility to the places at which it may happen to be required. The wireless telegraphic system will provide the means of effective communication between all points on the coast and enable life-saving crews and apparatus to be dispatched with the utmost celerity to the places where their services are required.

We think no one will attempt to question the fact that the Department of Marine and Fisheries has acted promptly on the suggestions offered by several of the public bodies of the city in this important matter. Lighthouses, foghorns and every kind of appliance considered necessary for the safeguarding of property and life in the dangerous waters of the coast have been established regardless of cost. When the roadway now under construction is completed and the wireless system in operation we shall have on the west coast of Vancouver Island one of the most complete schemes to be found anywhere, but not more complete than warranted considering the rapid development of business in British Columbia waters.

AMBASSADOR BRYCE REBUKED.

The British ambassador at Washington, as a historian who has written flattering things of the United States, was received with open arms and warmly embraced when he crossed the Atlantic. As one of the great teachers of the times he was invited to freely express his opinions about republican institutions and to suggest remedies for any defects he might discover. But Mr. Bryce is now finding out that the messages he was invited to deliver are not being received with gladness. The lecture he gave Canadians when he crossed their borders bearing a message from Secretary Root, was listened to with a good deal of impatience. Indeed in one instance Mr. Bryce was plainly told by a plain-spoken Canadian that his opinions about republican institutions and his suggestions for remedying their defects were not being received with gladness.

We gather from some things which have lately appeared in the American newspapers that Mr. Bryce's habit of speaking his mind plainly is giving offence to our neighbors also. The editors are evidently beginning to think that while the ideal ambassador ought necessarily to be a man of ideas he need not necessarily be continually seeking for opportunities of giving expression to them. Sir Julian Pauncefote, astute man, was very careful never to attempt to lecture the people amongst whom he dwelt so long upon their political or social shortcomings. He confined his attention strictly to the matters that properly came under his attention as ambassador. He was not a man of profound learning, nor a historian, nor a philosopher—simply a statesman, and, as became his position, a social leader. Peace of whom never dropped from his lips, unless perhaps in the council chamber, where they doubtless were not cast before gatherings which could not appreciate them. The New York Sun has been making comparisons not at all complimentary to Mr. Bryce which suggest thoughts of what has happened to other British representatives to the United States who were indiscreet enough to mix themselves up in the internal affairs of the republic. The Sun says:

As a constitutional lawyer who has been in his time the greatest living authority on the origin and development of our political system, Mr. James Bryce is almost expected to express his opinions on our affairs with a freedom that is not common in the case of ambassadors, who, as a rule, are frank only when they tell the truth in the disguise of after-dinner humor. The present representative of King Edward at Washington is a sort of spoiled child of diplomacy.

In an address at Washington University yesterday Mr. Bryce made a statement which was distinctly platitudinous and gave a piece of advice by implication which was gratuitous. He said that the United States need fear no other country and that we did not need a big navy. With regard to the first he was in a position to judge as an expert on foreign affairs, but we have never heard that he was regarded, at any stage of his career, as an expert on armaments.

If the Right Hon. James Bryce is to remain persona grata, not merely at Washington but also throughout the country, he will have to allow us to manage our own business in our own way.

DOMINION DAY.

Monday next will be the fortieth anniversary of the birth of Canada as a confederation. Our people, from ocean to ocean will celebrate the event which marks the birthday of the nation that is destined to become one of the greatest of the powers of the world with greater enthusiasm than ever because they realize that the days of experimentation have been safely passed—that the dangers which beset colonial youth have been successfully avoided, and that with the experiences of the past to guide them in their further course the future of their country is assured. Now that the peril of perils lies behind us, the fact may be candidly admitted that the foundations of Canada were laid in doubt and misgiving by the Fathers of the Confederation. Previous to 1867 several experiments had been undertaken for the purpose of solving the problem of governing in the British Colonies of North America. Those experiments failed because of the natural jealousies of a population of mixed nationalities and divergent views. The legislative union of Upper and Lower Canada simply served to accentuate the difficulties of the situation with which the British and Colonial statesmen of the time were called upon to deal. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were loth to surrender their local autonomy and independence in order to further the scheme of a united British America, grand though the project appeared to the men of great faith and prescient vision who were its chief advocates. But the end was ultimately attained, although the means resorted to to bring it about were considered at the time somewhat high-handed and arbitrary. To-day, when the great confederation extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, when not a single person within the confederation or out of it can survey the completed work without pronouncing it good, when but one sentiment animates the breast of the Canadian of French origin in quaint old Quebec, of the Canadian of British origin in the other eastern provinces, of the equally and Canadian in British Columbia, or of the new Canadian in the lately created provinces of the Northwest, is there not substantial ground for the feeling of jubilation with which the coming anniversary is regarded?

It is true an occasional note of discord is heard in the grand chorus of hope and confidence. The politician whose position depends upon the continuation of fast-disappearing sectional and sectarian prejudice raises a wail of doubt about the future, and his feeble cry is re-echoed by a few Doubting Thomases who affect to foresee the possibility of disaster to British connection in the great stream of strangers from strange lands which is flowing with increasing force into the Northwest. But the pessimists are put to confusion by the known facts. The liberties of Canadians are too strongly guaranteed by our system of government for them ever to be assailed, much less subverted, by any ecclesiastical system, however powerful. On this point we shall take the liberty to quote a few sentences from the speech of Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, the Canadian Postmaster-General who was responsible for the change in our postal regulations which gave British publishers a preference in Canada over the publishers of the United States, a speech which might be read with profit by Dr. Sproule and other professional patriots on the opposition side of Parliament. Mr. Lemieux said, addressing an Oseario audience recently:

"Much has been said against Sir Wilfrid Laurier in certain places. Let me tell you that no man has done more to harmonize the two races, not only by his eloquent words, but because no man has made British institutions more respected among the people of his own race."

"You are told sometimes in Ontario and the other English-speaking provinces that we in Quebec are not truly loyal. I assure you from the bottom of my heart that you need not be afraid of Quebec. Our loyalty does not spring from our lips, but from our hearts. We, the French-Canadians, have been given a sacred trust inherited from our ancestors. We have received from them a creed to which we are attached as you are attached to your Protestant faith. We must all respect the beliefs of others, as we must pity the unbelievers. We must respect that creed which teaches us to fear God and at the same time respect the law of the land in which we live. We have received from our ancestors interesting memories of the past. Is there anyone among the people of Ontario who would refuse to any French-Canadian the right to speak or sing in the language which his mother taught him at her knees? We have received from our ancestors the spirit of chivalry which belongs to the knights of the French race, and that very spirit is the best guarantee of our loyalty, because the two go together. No, Reformers of Ontario, do not be misled by appeals which are often made to you. The French-Canadians are loyal. They will cling to British institutions more than will the people of the Anglo-Saxon race. Their ancestors had been abandoned 150 years ago after the historic struggle on the Plains of Abraham. They were defeated in that last memorable struggle. But, sir, in the old regime they were ruled by an autocracy. They did not know what self-government was, but since the passing of the Quebec act in 1774, an act which was passed by a Protestant Legislature at the time when the Blue Laws were in existence in thirteen colonies, when the Scottish Protestants were denied the privileges they enjoy to-day they have been free men. Parliament passed the Quebec act in order to give our forefathers the rights and franchises which they enjoy to-day.

"Do you think they would exchange the rights and liberties which they enjoy under the Union Jack, under the benign inspiration of the British flag, and renounce their allegiance to the British throne to pass under the dominion of Roosevelt, a man who personally I respect, most highly? If the French-Canadians belonged to the public to-morrow they would be swallowed up in the mixed population of the United States. No, we have all our franchises under the British Crown. We cling to them. We are more attached to them, perhaps, than you are yourselves. Therefore, you need not fear for the vain appeals sometimes made to you in order to stir up bad feelings."

If Canadians were given to the habit of expressing their sentiments in "orations" upon the day they delight to honor above all other days in the calendar, men of the stamp and character and genius for poetical expression of Hon. Rudolph Lemieux might with propriety be selected for the task assigned for the mingling that the new settlers arriving in the Northwest are a menace to British sentiment and British institutions, that proposition is met by the fact that the immigrants are taking the oath of British citizenship just as quickly as they can qualify. One year ago a Winnipeg newspaper said: As regards the attitude of the people of the Dominion towards those who are to-day the sons of the soil and those who are to-day by adoption, Canada occupies a unique position. There is no race war, except in the minds of a few notoriety-seeking politicians, and there is absolutely no disaffection existing among any class or race towards the laws of the land or the flag that floats over it. Deep in the hearts of the people there is a fervent affection for their country. The newcomers are scarcely settled as yet when they are already being regarded as loyal Canadians by those who are the native born. The Dominion of Canada means much more to-day than it did at the time of Confederation. It is now the term describing a country stretching from ocean to ocean—a country peopled by various races but bound together in the sympathy induced by common interests. Canada is no longer an insignificant, unknown region torn by warring factions and deep-rooted feuds. The Dominion to-day is attracting world-wide attention. Its resources and capabilities have been abundantly shown forth. Besides its material attractions, it possesses a system of government unsurpassed in the world. The social life of the country is such as to appeal to the best and most worthy people who are seeking a new home. Uprightness, character and ability are all that is required to climb to the highest positions. The Dominion to-day stands pre-eminent among those nations of the world that are holding out inducements to homeseekers.

CROPS IN NORTHWEST. Ottawa, June 23.—A bulletin issued by the census department to-day dealt with the progress of the Northwest. The area in crop in the three provinces increased from 3,419,413 acres in 1906 to 6,205,190 acres in 1907, and the yield of the three crops increased from 43,252,664 bushels in 1906 to 132,244,829 bushels in 1907 and to 240,469,068 bushels in 1906.

—Only one change was made in the officers of the provincial W. C. T. U. at the annual election in Vancouver on Wednesday. This was the election of Mrs. Spottford, of Victoria, to succeed Mrs. Watson as president. The other three officers re-elected are: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. A. Cunningham, who has been acting president for several months owing to the illness of Mrs. Watson; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Andrews, Victoria, and treasurer, Mrs. Gordon Grant, Victoria.

At a meeting of the Victoria-Motor Club held last night for the purpose of completing arrangements for to-morrow's excursion to Alberni, it was decided to extend invitations to a number of non-members. These guests include the local members of the legislature, F. L. Elworthy, secretary of the board of trade, H. Cuthbert, secretary of the tourist association and members of the special committee appointed by the board of trade to confer with the government officials on the matter of building a road along Saanich Inlet to the coast.

The special committee appointed by the board of parks commissioners to draft by-laws for the regulation of that body, completed its work this morning. The report will be the next meeting of the commissioners.

BIG FOUR OFF FOR BUCHANAN CUP

(Continued from page 1.) Last year again saw disruption in the Big Four. Two changes were made in the crew. The regatta was held at Nelson and Portland proved victorious. The Victoria crew was C. B. Kennedy, stroke; C. S. Finlayson, No. 3; P. Austin, No. 2, and W. H. Jesse, bow.

This brings the record of the club up to the present year, a year when interest has risen to a high pitch. Only one of last year's crew is rowing on Lake Washington, Jesse at bow. All the others are new names, now at least to fame in the annals of rowing on the Pacific. If, however, the opinion of Dan O'Sullivan goes for anything, and there is no better judge of racing merit on the Pacific coast, or indeed in the wide Dominion, this year's Big Four will be another of the famous combinations which have made history.

The crew which represent Portland last year's winners, are the same combination which pulled in the junior event last year. Seattle has selected for the Junior event four out of the eight who defeated Stanford University this year and are hopeful of winning and entering for the big event. Vancouver has already been seen in this capacity when on "Victoria Day" it won a victory over the J. B. A. Juniors on the Gorge Inlet. Nelson in the Junior event is said to be a fast hand, but it has not been tried this season. The crew of the Victoria entered for the championship event this year are in great measure unknown quantities.

The Buchanan cup, upon which the name of Thursday's winner will be inscribed, cannot be won outright, but each winning crew has the right to hold it for a year. It is of a massive character, presented by the well known Scotch whiskey distillers and cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $600.

The Victoria contingent during its stay in Seattle for its rooms at the Standby Hotel. In all some nineteen members of the J. B. A. A. will make the trip to Lake Washington. The Victoria contingent has the purpose of thorough training and are very hopeful of victory. W. N. Kennedy a junior sculler, will compete for the J. B. A. A. at the regatta. He has shown promising form in his trials and round the crew enthusiasts are very hopeful that he will secure the Junior sculls for the year.

Pity and King's Daughters have continued their most valuable assistance and the directors wish to state that this formal acknowledgment with thanks does not adequately express their great appreciation and gratitude. It is therefore desired to specially thank Hon. James Dunsuir for coal supplied at an unusually low price throughout the year, which has resulted in a saving to the hospital of some hundreds of dollars. Also, the Times and Colonist Printing and Publishing companies for copies of their daily newspapers, furnished gratuitously for use of the ward patients. The directors are also indebted and thank the Victoria board of trade for use of their rooms for holding meetings.

Following the reading of this report the appended statement from the treasurer's report was read:

ELECTION OF NEW DIRECTORS

Annual Meeting of Jubilee Hospital. Reports Were Presented Covering the Past Year's Work at the Institution.

(From Saturday's Daily.) The election of four new members and the receiving and adoption of reports from the directors, treasurer and resident medical officers, constituted the business transacted at the seventeenth annual meeting in connection with the Provincial Royal Jubilee hospital yesterday afternoon. A precedent was established by the election of a lady, Mrs. Charles Rhodes, to the board of management. When the nominations were called for, two ladies were named for positions, the rule that anybody who had subscribed $5 to the hospital was eligible, permitting of this departure from the usual practice of confining the nominations to the male sex. The following were nominated: Mrs. Charles Rhodes, Mrs. Machin, H. D. Helmcken, K. C. Alex. Wilson, F. B. Pemberton, and H. E. Newton.

There was a keen race between some of the candidates Mrs. Rhodes, and Messrs. Newton and Pemberton being elected on the first ballot, while Mrs. Machin and Mr. Wilson tied. A second ballot was taken and this resulted in the election of Mr. Wilson. The chair was occupied by the president of the hospital board, James Forman. BRICK WORKS WERE INSPECTED DIRECTORS VISITED COLWOOD YESTERDAY The Process of Manufacture Was Examined—Everything Was Found Most Satisfactory.

Again, that there will be a great demand for the brick as manufactured by the Silica Brick Company is evidenced by the fact that it is reported that all the structures erected in San Francisco previous to the earthquake, only those made from Silica brick were able to resist the test of the heat which was generated in the fire which broke out at the time of the earthquake.

The bricks are first moulded and then piled upon trucks, which are wheeled with the brick retort, which is 60 feet long, and about 8 feet 3 inches high. On the vault of this retort are openings for the superheated steam to act upon the moulded brick and to complete the process of manufacture.

Another point of general interest lies in the fine quality of the vast quantity of the sand itself close at hand. It was described to the directors as a "quick" sand, which as is well known, is the finest quality of sand in the market.

Moreover, the company has another advantage, which, in itself, is worth consideration in weighing the conditions of a company, namely, its transportation facilities. These are about as perfect as they well could be. The factory is contiguous to the E. & N. railway, and Colwood and the plant form is so built as to be on a level with the cars, which run along side. Here again, by careful forethought, everything has been done to lessen the cost.

SOUTH PARK. There was a good crowd of parents and friends at the closing exercises at the South Park school, W. Winsby, the principal, opened the exercises with a short address on the work of the various classes during the term. He stated that in spite of the many influences which had tended to keep back the work, such as the changes of teachers and above all the measles, nevertheless the term had been a most successful one, as the large promotion list would show. He also made a brief mention of the sports engaged in during the term, and stated that although the pupils had not succeeded in doing anything very great in this line, they had done their best, all that any one could do. The programme was followed by an excellent one, and was much enjoyed by all present. The school and class choruses were especially good, and were rendered with a vivacious and remarkable although children so young. Unlike many school choruses, the words were distinctly audible and met with the warmest approval. The school instrumental, although vocal, as well as the recitations, were also extremely well rendered, showing a most careful and painstaking preparation on the part of the pupils and teachers. The assembly hall was most tastefully decorated for the occasion with flowers and flags, and the happy faces of the children betokened the delight with which they looked forward to their long-anticipated holidays. The following were the numbers: School chorus, "Away Among the Blossoms"; piano solo, Erva Merwick; solo, Cecil Atkinson; choral, Miss Sweet's class, Div. 1; solo, Kitty Wallace; recitation, Emily Elworthy; choruses, "Fairland," "The Swing," Division 5, recitation, "Alice at Play," Harriet, school chorus, "His Majesty the King." At the conclusion of his general story, Davis swore that at Cripple Creek, during the strike, Orchard told him of the Hercules mine affair and threatened to kill Stuenenberg. Passing to the alleged threat that Orchard made against Stuenenberg, the witness was unable to recall what anyone else had said on that occasion, except the words of Orchard, "Davis will return to the stand to-morrow and tell you, Regina Victoria Ward, Marjorie Ellen Pusey, Dorothy Elizabeth Gray, George Arthur Saxony, James Campbell, Frank W. DENIES STATEMENTS MADE BY ORCHARD W. F. DAVIS ON THE WITNESS STAND

Declares He Was in no Way Connected With Destruction of Property.

Boise, June 26.--Wm. F. Davis, of Goldfield, Nev., one of the most important witnesses for the defence of Wm. D. Hayward, accused of the murder of Stuenenberg, was called to the stand to-day, and his cross-examination had not been completed when court adjourned.

Harry Orchard testified that Davis led and commanded the mob that destroyed the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill in 1899, inspired, as the agent of Hayward and Mowey, the vindicator of Cripple Creek, and was an accomplice in the Independence station crime.

On direct examination by Clarence Darrow, Davis went over the story of his working life and gave a positive denial to every statement of Orchard that involved him or his associates in any form of crime. Davis denied that he was ever a member of the union when the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill was blown up.

At the conclusion of his general story, Davis swore that at Cripple Creek, during the strike, Orchard told him of the Hercules mine affair and threatened to kill Stuenenberg. The cross-examination of Davis by Senator Borah, was severe and searching. It was chiefly devoted, as far as it proceeded to the Bunker Hill and Sullivan affair, and the circumstances under which Orchard made the trip against Stuenenberg.

Davis asserted that he remained at Gem, the day the Bunker Hill mill was blown up. While he saw the train in charge of the masked mob arrive and depart from Gem, he could not name any one on the train except Engineer Hinton. He said there was no inquiry about the mob. Davis said that he remained in hiding after the mill was blown up because he did not want to be deported or thrown into jail, and that he changed his name when he departed from Butte shortly afterwards because he feared the mine owners' "black list," made up from a pile of names that the employees of the Bunker Hill had sent to Governor McConnell protesting against the unsafety of the mine.

Senator Borah showed that the petition which he introduced at Cripple Creek, and that Butte was a Federation camp, where the black list was infamous. Passing to the alleged threat that Orchard made against Stuenenberg, the witness was unable to recall what anyone else had said on that occasion, except the words of Orchard, "Davis will return to the stand to-morrow and tell you, Regina Victoria Ward, Marjorie Ellen Pusey, Dorothy Elizabeth Gray, George Arthur Saxony, James Campbell, Frank W. that the night before the explosion he placed a box containing 25 pounds of giant powder in the shaft at the eighth level. He saw the powder in the next morning shortly after 10 o'clock, and a few minutes later came to the eighth level. They remained but a short time, and left for the sixth level, where they were killed. Wood swore that when he reached the shaft twenty minutes later the powder was gone, and that it was carefully examined, and that McCormick and Beck took the fragments of the only one revolver were found in the eighth level after the explosion, and that the positions of the bodies of McCormick and Beck indicated to him that the explosion occurred between them.

Orchard swore that he arranged a revolver with a wire attached so that when the safety bar was raised it would send a bullet into the giant powder he had placed there.

One witness for the state has sworn that he found a wire attachment to the safety bar, but Wood testified to-day that he carefully examined the safety bar and found nothing attached to it.

W. Easterly and C. D. Copley both swore that they heard Orchard mention his loss in the Hercules mine and threaten to kill Stuenenberg for it.

Counsel in cross-examination for the State scored Easterly because he received two letters and a telephone message from Orchard on the eve of Stuenenberg's murder, and scored Copley for remaining quiet when the two men knew crime might be committed.

Easterly contended that he did not know Stuenenberg lived at Caldwell, and explained that although he knew Thomas Hogan was Orchard he took no steps immediately after the crime except to consult counsel for the Federation, because he was not an informer.

Copley asserted that he did not take Orchard seriously when they met in San Francisco and Orchard told him of the Bradley crime.

HONORS FOR DR. J. L. TODD He is Appointed Professor of Parasitology in McGill University, Montreal

Dr. J. L. Todd, son of Mrs. J. H. Todd, of this city, has been appointed professor of parasitology in McGill University, Montreal. Dr. Todd is eminently qualified for the position his researches in that particular line since graduation giving him a wide knowledge of the subject.

He is a native son having been born in this city in 1876. He received his education in Upper Canada College. Afterward he attended McGill University, Montreal. Dr. Todd is eminently qualified for the position his researches in that particular line since graduation giving him a wide knowledge of the subject.

He is a native son having been born in this city in 1876. He received his education in Upper Canada College. Afterward he attended McGill University, Montreal. Dr. Todd is eminently qualified for the position his researches in that particular line since graduation giving him a wide knowledge of the subject.

Dr. Dutton and Todd were sent on another commission in September, 1903 to the Congo Free State, to study the nature of tick fever. During a stay of a year and a half, both were seized with the recurrent form of fever, the former unfortunately succumbing to it. As a result of their arduous work, they were able to collect evidence to show that the human tick fever is due to a protozoa, another blood parasite, and that this organism can be transmitted by the bite of a tick--a large fly very prevalent in the Congo.

Since his return to Liverpool in 1905, Dr. Todd has been hard at work collecting his data and publishing the results of his expedition. He was appointed director of the Runcorn Research Laboratories of the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, which position he occupied at the present time. He was decorated in 1905 by the King of the Belgians, in recognition of his recommendation of preventive measures for tick fever in the Congo. It is understood, too, that some measures are to be adopted in Uganda and British Central Africa. On the continent Todd is by far the best known McGill graduate of recent years.

W. D. MATHEWS HERE ON VISIT SPEAKS OF OUTLOOK IN THIS PROVINCE

Prospects in Every Line in British Columbia He Says Are Exceeding Bright.

W. D. Mathews, of Toronto, one of the directors of the C. P. R., is in the city. He is accompanied by his wife, his daughter, his son and Miss Kenny. They are making their home at the Oak Bay hotel during the stay in the city. Mr. Mathews is at the head of the Canada Mailing Company, and has immense interests in various lines throughout the whole country. In British Columbia he is closely identified with the mining industry. Mr. Mathews has never seen a rapid development on a solid commercial basis taking place in British Columbia. Everything is at last firmly established. The mining and commercial enterprises there is not only exceeding active, but at the same time there is every indication of a rapid development on a solid commercial basis taking place in British Columbia.

Mr. Mathews instanced the mining industry and also the opening up of the Kootenai district as a general example of the developments taking place in the province. He stated that the mining industry is not only exceeding active, but at the same time there is every indication of a rapid development on a solid commercial basis taking place in British Columbia.

With regard to mining there were the right men at the head of the management of the mining companies, men who were determined to do a job on a sound commercial basis. Responsible men of good standing and weight in business circles were supervising the development of the various mining properties in British Columbia. In consequence capital was being poured into the industry for the development of its great resources. Agriculture was in the same prosperous condition,

FIRST CHANCE FROM THE MANUFACTURERS, OWING TO THE FACT OF OUR BEING THE LARGEST PURCHASERS IN THE WEST, MEANS THAT

Our Customers Secure the Biggest July Bargains

FOR MANY YEARS our summer clearance has made July the busiest month of the year and the larger the business grows the more necessary it is to clear stock in this way, and be ready for new goods that are constantly being sent us from the fashion centres of the world. Being the largest distributors of merchandise in the West, we are able to get first chance, and our offers are usually accepted for "clearing lines" from the manufacturers at this season of the year. This feature is perhaps the most interesting as it enables our customers to purchase at greatly reduced prices stylish goods that are wanted for present wear. In previous years we have had departmental sales during the month at various times. This year all departments get into line at the same time.

AND WE EXPECT SUCH A SALE, THAT WILL CROWD THE BIG STORE AS NEVER BEFORE

Dress Goods Department

We do not remember having such startling values to offer our customers. The lateness in arrival has something to do with the low prices, and prices are made with the object of not having a piece of Spring Tweeds in stock at the end of July.

PRactical Aids for Artistic Needlewomen

in FRENCH EMBROIDERY

WHILE the woman of refinement is always particular about her lingerie, and likes it to be as dainty and attractive as possible at every season of the year, a special importance attaches to the petticoats and corset covers intended for summer wear. The heat of our climate practically necessitates the use of such transparent filices as the lingerie beneath the corset cover is almost essential to the blouse in the general appearance of a well-dressed woman.

Now, though underclothing becomes more and more elaborate each year, and lace, beading, insertion and ribbons are made up into striking and exquisite designs, there is a strong reaction in favor of the simplicity that is so well understood by the French. Instead of trimmings that lose much of their beauty after the first laundering, hand embroidery is substituted. This naturally refers more particularly to the corset cover. For it must be confessed few of our busy American women have the time or energy to embroider the yards of flouncing required for a petticoat.

While many forms of the embroidered corset cover are seen—some the ordinary full waist, with just a simple design on the front, in connection with a lace beading; others, for stout women, tight fitting and with no trimming but a scallop and eyelets; still others, made on bias lines, with a surplice effect in front that carries a motif on each side—probably the greatest favorite of the moment is the cover without an opening, that slips on over the head.

This last is a most convenient style for summer, as there are no buttons to show in an unshapely way through a thin frock.

ADAPTED TO STOUT FIGURES
Perhaps women who are inclined to be stout may feel that such a pattern is not for them. Yet there is no reason, if the corset cover is cut off at the waist line, so as not to give extra fullness over the hips, why a large woman should be deprived of this very convenient and easily laundered model. She need not allow quite so much fullness as would her more slender sister, and if a soft-finished nainsook is used, little or nothing will be added to her size.

The design given today shows one of these corset covers that slip over the head, decorated with a peculiarly graceful motif adapted and simplified from an imported model of exquisite French embroidery. The edge is finished with a novel scallop that is arranged at the bust line in the center of the front in a series of graceful curves. The back has only the scalloped edge and the eyelets for ribbon. These oval eyelets, by the way, not only hold the ribbon flatter, but are more ornamental than the round ones.

As can be seen from the working detail, there are no difficult stitches in this work, it being a combination of eyelet and solid embroidery, buttonholing and either a fine stem stitch or outlining. A rather fine quality of white mercerized cotton is used.

The edge is worked in buttonhole stitch, the scallops having first been run with darning cotton on both sides for padding. If a heavier padding is wished, the entire scallops may be covered by a chain stitch. Do the buttonholing closely and firmly, so as to withstand the frequent tubbings.

WORKING THE EYELETS

The oval eyelets around the neck and sleeves, through which ribbon is run to hold the fullness in place, also the round dots in the central medallion and at the ends of the tendrils, are pierced and done over and over. The oval ones should be run around with a thread of the cotton, a lengthwise slit made in each, and the material turned underneath with the needle. This gives a better shape and makes a firmer edge. The round eyelets are pierced with a stiletto, after first having had a thread run around them. In working this over-and-over stitch, be careful to have the outer edge absolutely even and no deeper than is necessary to hold. Nothing makes "broderie Anglaise" look coarser than to take too deep a stitch.

Work the fleur-de-lis, the scrolls of the medallion and the smaller leaves in satin stitch. This should be first padded with darning cotton. The larger leaves are worked into the central vein. The satin stitch may be either slanted or straight. The latter, however, will be found to be much simpler for the average embroiderer, as the same slant is difficult to maintain throughout.

The stems can be done in a fine outline, in the narrow French stem stitch, or in cording stitch. The second is undoubtedly preferable, but takes longer and must be worked very finely if at all. The cording stitch, which has been described several times on these pages, is an effective substitute. It is nothing but a running stitch caught under by a second thread. How it is done can be seen from the stem on the lowest left-hand tendril, where the running stitches and the needle caught through one of them are given.

ered at the waist as well as the top, but this means so much more work that the average person is apt to content herself with some of the machine-made beadings.

It is a mistake to have a corset cover too sheer. A nice quality of soft-finished nainsook wears well, and may be easily embroidered. About a yard is required for this design, which is drawn for a thirty-six bust.

But half of the back and front could be given. It can be stamped, however, by folding the material with two pieces of transfer paper slipped between, and placed back to back. Put the design on top and trace with a pencil or stiletto.

This same design is equally good for a chemise, or for the top of one of the low-necked night-gowns that slip over the head.

The Completed Corset Cover.

A Working Detail.

A Crocheted Breakfast Jacket

FOR the many who like no fancy work so well as knitting or crocheting, the making of one of the dainty breakfast jackets in white Shetland flax, so useful for invalids, is a fascinating employment.

The little wraps are shaped very much like the old-fashioned short dolman, coming just to the waist line in the back and falling in two long points in front. The sleeve is loose and bell-shaped.

Easily Made Novelties

PRETTY and inexpensive furnishings for the summer home, such as sofa pillows, laundry bags, table covers, round or oblong, may be made of ordinary white crash and odd bits of cretonne that are left from furniture coverings.

The edge of the crash is cut into big scallops, which are tinted half way up in soft shades of pink, blue, green and orange and bound in bias bands of black linen or satine.

Pillow in Tinted Shadow Work

ONE of the most attractive pillow covers seen this season was done on sheer lawn in the tinted shadow work, which is practically nothing but a close back stitch.

The basket was tinted green and outlined, or, rather, made to look like shadow stitch on the outside. To get this effect take a back stitch on the outline and bring the needle out the exact length of the stitch ahead of it; go back and stick the needle down through the material at the forward point of the first stitch, bring it up again the same distance ahead, go back to the forward point of the second stitch and continue as before.

The open effect in the lower part of the basket was gained by five vertical panels, narrowing at the bottom to represent slats, and connected by crossed lines in outline stitch. These slats were studded with pearl and black beads, as were also the bottom and broad, curving top. The ribbon was of the same green as the basket, with French dots running through the center, and the turn in the loops filled in with basketweave.

The cover was trimmed with the new wash ruffling, finished on both edges with lavender, pink and green stripes, and was buttoned at the back so it could slip on and off easily. It was used over a twenty-four-inch pillow covered in white wash silk. Lustrous white satine could be substituted for the silk at less cost.

Eyelet Embroidery

LAST season it seemed as if the eyelet was waning in popularity; had been done to death, as it were. This year it is enjoying renewed favor, and is more used than ever, both in combination with solid work and alone.

This latter method of treating it is especially effective, and gives a very open, lacy look. In a collar seen recently the border was of large, round eyelets, nearly as big as a dime, arranged so the edges of each touched those on either side. Within this was a series of semi-circles, connected at the bottom by straight lines, all done in eyelets a size smaller than those in the border. These eyelets also nearly touched. In the center of each half circle was a conventionalized daisy, with the petals in oval eyelets.

As the eyelets are so much larger than those in ordinary use, they cannot be pierced with a stiletto entirely, but after the first punch is made should be finished with small sharp scissors so the edges may be turned underneath to make a firmer edge. Run all the eyelets before working in order to prevent pulling and work over and over with a close, even stitch. Later the surplus linen underneath may be cut away.

As the eyelet border is not sufficiently firm to wear well, when it is finished and the linen has been trimmed close to the edge it should be worked in buttonhole stitch, working over the outer part of the eyelet.

With a little practice any woman can arrange very effective designs by using different sizes and shapes of eyelets combined in any desired way.

Shall We Quote?

THE inveterate quoter is almost as bad as the inveterate punster, and both are always with us. The man who has an apt reply for every question, a witty comment on every incident, and all frankly stolen from authors great and small, is, however, not quite so much a bore as he who twists and tortures your every statement into a double entendre.

A Touch of Color

TOUCHES of colored handwork are marked features of many of the new summer clothes, and the woman who embroiders can have some really charming waists or dainty accessories at little cost.

Thus the frills of the tailored shirt-waist, now so much in evidence, are extremely attractive if the hem is either biasstitched in a delicate color or is worked at intervals with satin-stitch dots. The same stitching should be repeated on the turnover collar, on the ends of the butterfly tie and on the frills of the turnback cuff.

The fan or ecriu linens are very stunning when embroidered in a different color. Sometimes a simple design, in several shades of brown, is used, or there may be a border on cuffs, collar and belt of big coin dots in white surrounded by a seeded outline in black, blue or red. The Bulgarian combinations of red, blue and green are very effective on tan or gray linen. Crashes are also good worked in cross-stitch in Persian colors or in soft pastel shades.

It is rather foolish to put very much work on this colored embroidery, since it may be but the fad of a season. Very good effects can be produced with comparatively little work.
