SPORTING MATTERS.

YACHTING. Saturday's Royal Kennebunk Club Races. The third race in the series for the Willis cup was sailed on the Kennebunk Saturday afternoon, with the result that the Beatrice, owned by J. N. Sutherland of the C. P. R., was the winner. The day was just what the yachtsmen wanted. It was fine and there was a stiff northerly breeze, which compelled some of the yachts to reef their mainsails. The race, which was over the E shaped course, was witnessed by a large crowd of ladies and gentlemen, the boats being within view of the people at the club house nearly all the time. The officials followed the boats over the course in the steam yacht Lotus.

The yachts had the wind on the beam almost all the time, and the contest was a very exciting one. The Canada sailed the lead early in the race and maintained it till the last, finishing nearly six minutes ahead of the Beatrice. The Beatrice beat the Thetis and Grace M. out. The two last mentioned boats had a desperate fight for third. Although the Thetis came in nine seconds ahead of the other, the Grace M., with her time allowance, got third place.

Following are the times of starting, etc.:

Table with columns: Yacht, Start, Finish, H. M. S., H. M. S.

It will be seen by the above that the Beatrice won over the Canada by 2 minutes and 37 seconds. The Grace M. took third place. The Canada allows the Beatrice 3 minutes and 35 seconds and the Thetis allows the Grace M. 36 seconds.

The Thetis won the first race in the series and the Grace M. the second. Patrick Bean was in the Beatrice Saturday. He sailed the Thetis the day she won.

Mr. Sutherland was congratulated by scores of people on his yacht's victory. As a sloop she is a much better sailer than when she was schooner rigged.

FOOT RACING. The following, taken from a Cambridge, Mass., paper, says of Jas. A man must get up pretty early in the morning to get ahead of Jim Pitt, whether running or shaving."

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Sunday, July 17, 1 p. m.—The American flag is floating in the triumph over the governor's palace at Santiago de Cuba. Gen. McKibbin has been appointed temporary military governor.

The ceremony of hoisting the Stars and Stripes was worth all the blood and treasure it cost. A vast concourse of ten thousand people witnessed the stirring and thrilling scene that will live for ever in the minds of all the Americans present. A finer stage setting for a dramatic episode is hard to picture. The old building in the Plaza de la Reina, the principal public square. Opposite rises the imposing Catholic cathedral. On one side is a quaint, brilliantly painted building with broad verandas—the club of San Carlos. On the other, a building of much the same description—the Cafe de la Venus.

Across the Plaza was drawn up the 8th infantry, headed by the 6th cavalry band. In the street facing the plaza stood a picked troop of the 2nd cavalry, with drawn sabres, under command of Capt. Brett. Massed on the stone flagging between the band and the line of horsemen were the brigade commanders of Gen. Shafter's division, with their staffs. On the red line of the picked troops of the 2nd cavalry, with drawn sabres, under command of Capt. Brett. Massed on the stone flagging between the band and the line of horsemen were the brigade commanders of Gen. Shafter's division, with their staffs.

Every American, unacquainted with the military and naval traditions of the United States, would have been struck by the grandeur of the scene. The 8th infantry, headed by the 6th cavalry band, in the street facing the plaza stood a picked troop of the 2nd cavalry, with drawn sabres, under command of Capt. Brett.

At the same instant the sound of the distant booming of Capt. Capron's battery, firing a salute of twenty-one guns, drifted in. When the music ceased, from all directions around the camp flying across the plain, the strains of the regimental bands, and the muffled, hoarse cheers of our troops. The infantry came to "Order arms" a moment later, and the flag was up, and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," making the American heart leap and the American spirit thrill with joy.

Three cheers for Gen. Shafter, which were given with great enthusiasm, the band playing "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The ceremony over, Gen. Shafter and his staff returned to the American lines, leaving the possession of the municipal authorities, subject to the control of Gen. McKibbin.

ON BOARD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BOAT WANDA, off Juraguá (or Siboney) Saturday, July 18, 7 p. m., via Fort Antonio and Kingston, July 17, 7.15 a. m.—The Spanish flag will come down from Santiago's walls tomorrow, and 22,000 Spanish soldiers will yield their arms to their American conquerors and the sovereignty of Spain in eastern Cuba will end.

Spain in eastern Cuba will end. Official endorsements of the terms of capitulation were received from Madrid at 10 o'clock this morning, and unless unforeseen obstacles arise the actual withdrawal of General Toral's forces will be an accomplished fact within twenty-four hours.

Nine o'clock tomorrow is the hour set for the formal ending of the Santiago campaign. At that hour, under the terms of the agreement, the Spanish soldiers will march out from the city, they have so resolutely defended, all under arms, and will be received by large detachments of General Shafter's victorious troops.

The officers will retain their side arms, but the soldiers will stack their arms before the American lines, and be placed under guard, either to return to Spain under convoy or to give their oath to remain in Cuba as non-combatants.

It is not desired to see my worst enemy with the cards I held," he said to one of the commissioners. "Every one of my generals was killed or wounded. I have not a single colonel left and am surrounded by a powerful enemy. We have counted sixteen ships off this port."

Speaking of the battle of the 30th of June, in which the Rough Riders and a part of Gen. Young's command participated, Gen. Toral said that less than 2,000 Spanish troops were captured by the Rough Riders and the rest were killed at El Caney and before Santiago.

"Heavy, heavy," he said dejectedly. In response to an enquiry, he said that transportation would be required for between 22,000 and 25,000 men, there being that much of a force in the captured district. He informed the officers that Santiago harbor had been again mined since Admiral Cervera left.

Gen. Miles remained at Juraguá during the completion of the agreement yesterday, and a copy of the articles was sent him by Gen. Shafter this morning.

"This is splendid," he said. "We have got everything that we came after." Gen. Miles went to Guantanamo today and it is reported that he will remain there until the Washington government definitely decides about the Porto Rican campaign.

A large number of troops are being off here, and it is generally believed that a large part of Gen. Shafter's army will be moved soon.

The camp at Juraguá contains nothing now but hospital tents, with a guard of two companies. The blackened ruins of a few burned buildings are still visible, but in most places the debris has been removed and the white tents of the hospital corps are pitched on the sites of the burned buildings. The fever hospital is situated about half a mile across the railway bridge, to the northwest of the town, and is well isolated.

Two hundred and fifty wounded men are still on the hospital ship Relief, which lies here. All are recovering rapidly.

The volunteer regiments which have arrived here since the fighting ceased, are standing the climate remarkably well.

The men seem greatly disappointed because they arrived too late to share in the battles, but they are seeing plenty of the real hardships of campaigning. The daily downpour of rain last week rendered the camp very uncomfortable. The rifle pits and tents and the ground are soaked with water, and the miserable yellow clay of the Cuban coast makes marching almost an impossibility.

The narrow trail from Juraguá to the front is cut to pieces by a constant stream of wagons, and it takes four starved, exhausted horses to make the twelve mile trip.

The troops look to be in good condition by daylight, but when the swift, tropical nights come down, damp and cloudy, with the men shivering miserably about the spluttering camp fires or searching for dry places for their blankets, the great mass of troops seems like a victim of a violent army. The men do not complain, but accept the hardships with cheerfulness.

Scarcely a warship remains off Santiago harbor entrance, almost the entire fleet holding positions opposite the deserted fort of Aguadores. This afternoon the New York, flying the blue flag of the admiral, lay anchored with her bow almost on Aguadores beach, while clustered about her were the other ships of the great squadron, the Brooklyn lying a little further out to sea.

The rifle pits which crown the bluff were deserted, the Spanish soldiers lounging unconcernedly on the beach under the guns of the fleet and within hail of the men on the New York. The men of the navy are impatient to get into Santiago harbor, but it is not known yet when the entrance will be made.

The refugees were ordered back into the city today, and as most of them are without food, the Red Cross society's aid is considered very important.

The open handed generosity of American seamen was shown today when a subscription was opened on the Commodore Schley's flagship for the benefit of the young wife of Gen. Henry Ellis, the only man killed on the American side during the battle with Admiral Cervera's fleet.

The men eagerly offered their money, many giving as much as $10 and $15, and the subscription soon amounted to $307, and then one seaman who had a silver coin taken from one of the Spanish vessels offered it for sale for the benefit of the fund and was bid by another seaman for $35. Lieutenant Commander Maron offered a five piece piece from the Infanta Maria Teresa and his auction brought $60 more. The fund tonight amounts to over $1,000.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—After three days consultation between the president, Secretary Alger and Gen. Brooke, during which there was frequent communication with Gen. Miles at Siboney, the details of the Porto Rican expedition were perfected and the expedition itself was gotten under way. Gen. Miles, who is to command it, sailing today with some artillery and troops for Porto Rico, on the cruiser Yale, to be followed by thirty thousand men. There are some notable differences between the plans for this expedition and those for the steady naval campaign that called away from Tampa under Gen. Shafter's command to attack Santiago.

First, there will be practically no naval convoys, as the navy department has declared that they are unnecessary and that there is not a Spanish war ship in the West Indies that dares thrust its bow out of port. In the second place, the expedition does not start from one point, but will be divided among several ports, thus preventing the tremendous congestion encountered at Tampa in the effort to start the big fleet. Lastly, there will be no effort to get the ships away together, but the transports will be allowed to find their own way to their destination without concerted movements. Gen. Brooke will be the senior officer in Miles' command and upon him will fall the responsibility for the execution of the details of his superior's plans. Porto Rico is 500 miles from Siboney. It is estimated that Gen. Miles should arrive by Wednesday night at the point selected for the landing, and will host the American flag at once over Porto Rican soil. The point chosen for the landing is kept secret, as the general will land before the full body of the expedition is at hand, and it is consequently not desirable that the enemy should be able to assemble a superior force to meet him. The distance from Charleston, where the first body of troops for Miles' expedition was to start today, is more than double the distance from Santiago to Porto Rico, so that the transports which sail from the former city can scarcely reach Charleston, where the first body of troops for Miles' expedition was to start today, is more than double the distance from Santiago to Porto Rico, so that the transports which sail from the former city can scarcely reach

The point chosen for the landing is kept secret, as the general will land before the full body of the expedition is at hand, and it is consequently not desirable that the enemy should be able to assemble a superior force to meet him.

The purpose of Secretary Alger is to make the Porto Rican campaign a short one. An overwhelming force will be thrown upon the island, and it is possible that a bloodless victory will be achieved when the Spanish become convinced that they have no reasonable chance to resist successfully. The expedition is to comprise 30,000 men at the start, and it will be soon swelled to 40,000 men, and, if necessary, to 70,000 men, the equipment of the volunteer forces having now progressed so well as to warrant the statement that that number of men can be ready for service in Porto Rico within very short time. The entire body of troops at Tampa will be taken, numbering about 13,000 men, and including a lot of heavy and light artillery under command of Gen. Rodgers. The expedition will be particularly strong in artillery, as some of that at Santiago, commanded by Gen. Randolph, is to be drawn upon. The Tampa troops are known as the fourth corps, under Major Gen. Coppinger, comprising the second division under Brig. Gen. Snyder, and made up of the first brigade, Brig. Gen. Schan, 11th and 19th U. S. infantry, second brigade, Brig. Gen. Carpenter, 5th and 5th Maryland, third brigade, Brig. Gen. Hale, 1st Pennsylvania, 15th Indiana, 5th Ohio; third division, Brig. Gen. Kilman, 4th Ohio, 1st Florida, Col. C. L. 32nd Michigan, second brigade, Brig. Gen. Lincoln, 8th N. Y., 3rd Ohio and second Georgia; the provisional cavalry brigade, Col. Noyes, 5th U. S., and detachments of first, second, third, sixth and tenth United States Cavalry and eight troops of Rough Riders; artillery brigade, Gen. Randolph; two light and ten heavy batteries. It is possible that all of the cavalry will be called upon.

Gen. Brooke will take with him from Chickamauga Park most of the first and second brigade of his army corps. There are in addition to Gen. Brooke's brigade, first division, second brigade, first division, Gen. Hainig, fourth Ohio, third Illinois and fourth Pennsylvania; third brigade, Col. B. S. Culver, first Kentucky, 5th Illinois; second division, Col. J. S. Poland; first brigade, Brig. Gen. C. T. Ross, 31st Michigan, first Georgia, 16th Indiana; second brigade, Gen. McKee, 15th Ohio, 15th Indiana, first West Virginia; third brigade, Brig. Gen. Rouse, second Ohio, first Pennsylvania, 11th Illinois.

The part which the navy is to take in the assault against Porto Rico has been fully matured. The several transport fleets will have with them one or two auxiliary craft carrying strong secondary batteries of six to eight six-pounders. Secretary Long said this afternoon that no time had been fixed for the departure of Admiral Sampson's fleet for San Juan. As to the naval plans, he would only say that they would co-operate in every way with the movements of the army. The report that three monitors were on their way from Key West to San Juan was characterized by the secretary as unauthorized. It is the general understanding, however, that the navy will rely mainly on armored ships for the bombardment of San Juan, as the big battleships and monitors afford the best means of offensive warfare, while their armor belts protect them from such fire as the San Juan batteries can bring to bear. The fortifications there are much like those of Santiago, with a Morro castle at the entrance of the harbor and a number of lesser fortifications leading up to the city. These, however, are viewed with less awe since an examination of the Morro batteries at Santiago has shown them to be antiquated and capable of little effective resistance.

The movement of the ships from Santiago to their new fields of action will begin at once and it is probable that some of Admiral Sampson's ships were detached today and will proceed with Gen. Miles' first expedition towards Porto Rico. They will be used to cover the debarkation of the troops on the Porto Rican coast. The other will follow as soon as the full army expedition is ready to make a landing, when the attack will begin simultaneously on land and sea.

Secretary Long said today that no apprehension whatever existed over the Spanish threat that the Camara squadron would be divided. Six of the ships coming to this port to attack American transport ships. This is looked upon as a sheer bluff, and it will not have the effect of changing any of the navy plans or of withdrawing any ships for service on the Atlantic coast. Should the Spanish fleet be made good, ships more than a month from San Juan would be available at any Atlantic port on short notice.

No time has been set for the departure of Commodore Watson's squadron for Spain, although this move, also, is drawing near rapidly. Secretary Long said today that reported news of the ships of this squadron were inaccurate, as the fleet had not been finally made up.

It has been finally decided that none (Continued on Page Eight)

I. O. FORESTERS.

The High Court Will Meet Next Year in Sussex.

Ald. Macrae Chief Ranger—Cheers for Oronhyatekha—The Officers Elected.

Mileage Allowance Slightly Increased—Inspector's Office Continued—Judge Wedderburn and Wm. Kinghorn Honored.

The high court resumed its session at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, the supreme chief ranger, Dr. Oronhyatekha, in the chair. The minutes were read and approved.

J. A. Stewart of Gagetown was added to the press committee. R. Chapman, P. G. Snow, H. J. W. Douglas Baird, H. S. B. A. E. Pearson, H. J. E. D. H. Melvin, H. Mar, J. H. Con, Albert Boone, H. Mess, H. J. S. John Farley.

The high court resumed its session at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, the supreme chief ranger, Dr. Oronhyatekha, in the chair. The minutes were read and approved.

An increase of about 600 members has been exceeded in only two previous years, 1896 and 1897, the same time an increase of eleven in the number of courts, less than in any year since 1883.

It is gratifying to learn that the only court suspended since 1887 has been reorganized and placed upon a good basis.

The prompt payment of claims in all cases by the supreme executive will no doubt tend to strengthen the confidence of the public in the order.

We commend the action of the organizer in taking care that the courts organized should be started in good condition, and refusing to institute courts with very small charters.

We regret that we are called upon to mourn the death during the year of many of our beloved brethren, and adopt the observations of the supreme chief ranger, who sympathize with the bereaved in the affliction, and the courts in the loss of valuable associates in the work of our order.

The supreme chief announced that at the next session of the supreme court it was proposed to make twenty for the minimum number of charter members for a new court.

Replying to a question by H. C. Creed, the supreme chief said it was intended that the dues and assessments must be paid before the first day of the month, but owing to an error in drafting the constitution the words "on or before" the first day of the month appeared.

Replying to another member, the chief said no court could make a by-law to carry a member. There was no objection to carrying a rule for itself to carry its members, but it was a very bad rule except in the most urgent cases.

John Farley brought up another case of interest. A brother had arranged to have his dues and assessments paid, and had gone on a trip to the west.

The supreme chief said that in a case where the insurance in that case was just as good as if he paid the assessments himself. It was a donation to him by the court and became his property, and the assessments were as much paid by him as if he paid out of his own pocket.

Replying to another question, the chief said that if a part decided to carry a brother, his insurance in that case was just as good as if he paid the assessments himself.

A second report from the finance committee brought out an interesting discussion on the question of organizing courts and the remuneration of organizers. It was participated in by W. S. J. Myles, W. M. McLean, Dr. J. H. Gray, Rev. Silas James, LeB. Coleman, W. Kinghorn, Thos. Murray, Geo. J. Clark, D. G. Langley, A. W. Macrae, F. W. Emmerson, J. L. Hutchinson, T. H. Colter, Judge Wedderburn, H. C. Creed.

The finance committee recommended that the following sums be voted: High chief ranger $100, High secretary $50, High treasurer $50, High journal secretary $25, High auditors $50, Press reporters $40, Hall $50.

Also that if the funds permit the sum of $360.16 due F. W. Emmerson, and $198.74 due LeBaron Coleman, for organizing be paid during the year.

Also that 600 copies of the minutes of the session of the high court be printed.

AFTERNOON PROCEEDINGS.

The first business was the election of officers. Judge Wedderburn in an eloquent speech nominated A. W. Macrae, to whose labors in the interest of Forestry he made a graceful allusion, for the office of high chief ranger. There was no other nomination, and amid great applause the chairman declared Mr. Macrae elected.

A. C. Gibson of Centreville, Carleton county, was unanimously elected chief vice chief ranger.

Dr. W. W. DeLong of Campbellton was elected high physician.

Ora P. King of Sussex was elected high councillor.

Thos. Murray of Sackville and J. V. Russell of this city were re-elected high auditors.

Out of a field of fourteen candidates, the following five were elected delegates to the supreme court, which meets in Toronto in August: W. W. Wells, M. P. P.; J. S. Fleming, G. G. Sewell, F. P.; Dr. B. M. Mullin, William Kinghorn.

The following appointed officers were named by high chief ranger elect Macrae: Rev. P. G. Snow, H. C. Chap; Geo. J. Clarke, H. S. W.; R. A. Borden, H. J. W.; Douglas Baird, H. S. B. A. E. Pearson, H. J. E. D. H. Melvin, H. Mar; J. H. Con; Albert Boone, H. Mess; H. J. S. John Farley.

For the work of installation the supreme chief appointed Hon. H. R. Emmerson, supreme marshal, Wm. Kinghorn, supreme conductor, and Lt. Col. Markham supreme secretary.

The elected and appointed officers were duly installed by the supreme chief and the acting supreme officers named. In such able hands the ceremony was very impressively conducted.

The fixing of the date of the next annual meeting was, on motion, left with the high standing committee, with a suggestion that the convenience of the farmers be considered in that connection.

W. S. J. Myles paid a warm tribute to Judge Wedderburn for the able work he had done as high chief ranger during the past year, and that he was recommended to the supreme court for the grand cross of merit.

Rev. J. G. A. Belyea warmly seconded the motion.

The supreme chief endorsed what had been said by these brothers, but pointed out that the Judge had received the distinction years ago for his high services to the order.

Mr. Myles then moved that a committee be appointed to prepare and present some suitable testimonial to Judge Wedderburn.

Rev. Mr. Belyea seconded the motion, which was unanimously adopted.

The supreme chief appointed as such committee the high chief ranger, high secretary, high treasurer, Leut. Col. Markham and W. S. J. Myles.

The high court last year had voted to recommend the then retiring high chief ranger, William Kinghorn, for the grand cross of merit.

The supreme chief yesterday decorated Mr. Kinghorn with the jewel and pronounced him a chivalier of the order. The number of chivaliers in the order is limited to one hundred.

The chief paid a warm tribute to Mr. Kinghorn and congratulated the high court on having honored so worthy a member.

Mr. Kinghorn responded, but the feelings aroused by the chief's eulogy and the ringing applause of the house rendered him unable to do more than express his thanks in the briefest manner.

Woodstock, Fredericton, Sussex, St. Martins and Moncton were put in nomination for the next meeting place of the high court. The competition was gradually narrowed down to a question between Sussex and Fredericton. The former had led up to that point, and when the vote was taken between the two alone it was so close that a formal ballot was called for.

Fredericton apparently led in the standing vote called for, but when a ballot was taken, Sussex carried the day by over a score of votes.

The supreme chief ranger at this juncture announced that he had to retire from the court to take the train for home. He had been delighted with everything connected with this high court meeting and hoped the spirit of harmony so manifest here would permeate the whole order.

He predicted that five years hence the order would have attained such a growth that the members looking back at this period would be amazed at the high position which will have taken place. He cordially thanked the high court for the courtesy shown him and bade them good bye.

The roasting cheers were given for the supreme chief. Nothing in connection with the proceedings of the high court elicited more favorable comment than the conspicuous tact and skill with which Dr. Oronhyatekha guided the court through the intricacies of points of order and general discussion. The supreme chief is an ideal presiding officer, and the hearty cheers given for him showed that he had won a high place in the esteem of this high court.

Harvey Atkinson submitted the report of the committee on the appointment of an inspector, as follows: (1) That the high standing committee appoint an inspector for the ensuing year, whose duties shall be the same as those of the inspector of last year.

(2) That he be paid a fixed salary of $800, and also actual travelling expenses, postage and telegrams.

(3) That he do all the duties pertaining to the organization of new courts and the strengthening of existing weak courts.

(4) That he be instructed to urge on the officers of subordinate courts the importance of paying up all past due charter fees to this high court. The above report was adopted without discussion.

On motion of Mr. Stewart of Victoria county, thanks were voted the St. John brethren for courtesies extended.

On motion of Judge Wedderburn, seconded by Hon. Mr. Emmerson, both of whom made eulogistic reference to the services of the press to Forestry, thanks were voted to the press of the province. The transportation companies were also remembered, on motion of H. C. Creed.

It was decided to increase the mileage allowance to delegates to four cents per mile for one delegate from each court.

The report of the reception committee, submitted by Wm. Kinghorn, was adopted.

Regarding indebtedness of subordinate courts to high court, the high chief ranger gave notice that in order for representatives to be recognized at next high court, the high court dues from their courts must be paid. He also called the attention of the delegates to the supreme court to the fact that in London he had given notice of motion to have Toronto made the permanent place of meeting of the supreme court. They might be disposed to press that motion.

Before closing the high court, High Chief Ranger Macrae expressed his thanks for the honor done him in electing him to the high chief position, and promised to do all he could to aid the subordinate courts. He dwelt on the importance of earnest individual work, and urged that each member go home determined to labor for the strengthening and extension of the order. If they did so, he believed the high court meeting would be able to congratulate itself on another year of growth and prosperity.

The high court was then formally closed. It was one of the most interesting and business-like annual sessions the high court of New Brunswick that has ever been held.

VANISHING OLD LONDON.

Another notable house in Fleet street is, we understand, likely to be demolished if it is occupied by Butterworth & Co., the well-known publishers of law books. It stands on the site of premises where, at the time of the "Herald and Dispatch" being printed, under exclusive patents, of books of the Common Law during the reign of Edward VI. His printing office was at the back, and afterwards formed part of the premises of his business, Messrs. James I. and Joel Stephens, temp. George I. carried on the business (under the original name) of the "Herald and Dispatch" for many years, and the landlords, we believe, possess a set of deeds relating to the property, beginning from as early as the middle of the sixteenth century.—Builder.

PROGRESS IN THE CHINESE ARMY.

In the next military examinations to be held in Peking (but certainly elsewhere) in how and arrow efficiency are to be abolished!!! This is progress with a vengeance; voluntary, and all at one fell swoosh!!! It has come as a thunderbolt to many of the noble army of groans, who are now busily engaged to construct the monuments of powder and shot in order to keep this progressive step company, however, the pointed cannon has been abolished. —Hong Kong Telegraph.

The Deed—I can't think what to preach about now, Sunday. Nobody seems to take an interest in anything but war now. His wife—won't take a day off and let the canon fall the pulpit!

When one man proposes a good thing, another usually proposes one so much better that nothing is done.

IN PARIS.

A Very Interesting Letter from Rev. G. O. Gates.

Church Buildings Rich in Legend and History and the Renowned Palaces at Versailles.

Jewelled Saint Chapelle and Its Sacred Relics—The Temple of Reason and the Palais de Justice—Work of the Commune—Tragic Deaths of Archbishops—The Coronation Carriage of Charles X.

Interesting places in so short a time is confusing and burdensome; but tourists have to accommodate themselves to their environments and make the best possible use they can of the same.

The Church Buildings.—In most every city I have visited I found this class of buildings richest in legend and history. I think in Paris this is equally true. Here I visited which consisted of a few (1) St. Vincent de Paul. This is a beautiful building, costing, we are told, more than a million of dollars and in architecture an imitation of the Roman Basilica. Within one notices very fine wood carvings and beautiful columns of imitation Porphyry and also fine frescoes.

(2) Another was the "Saint Chapelle," called the "Jewelled Church." This building was erected in the thirteenth century and for the purpose of receiving the relics brought from the east by Saint Louis which consisted, we are told, of "a fragment of the true crown of thorns," "a piece of the original cross," and "some of the nails used in the crucifixion of our Lord." These relics cost $300,000, France, and were carried by the King barefooted through the city to the church. How a superstitious people can be fooled. This building has had a very chequered history during the different revolutionary periods through which Paris has passed. At one time it was used as a corn store, at another as a club; later as a repository for papers connected with the law courts. Then in 1837 it was restored to its original purpose as a church. In some respects it is the most attractive building we saw in the city. On entering it your surprise is delighted. All its windows are of beautiful stained glass and for richness and color are not equalled, it is said, in France. The windows on one side tell you of Old Testament history; on the other of the history found in the New Testament. One window is devoted to incidents connected with the transfer of the before-mentioned relics from Palestine to the church. Then there are statues of the twelve apostles, and the robes of these are with precious, sparkling stones. It is these jewels that gave the name, "the jewelled church." The walls and roof are gilded and ornamented with jewels and paintings, and the floor is of inlaid tile work. But service is only held in the building once a year at the re-opening of the law courts, after their recess.

We also visited the famous Madeleine church, which in its exterior appearance reminded me so much of the Parthenon at Athens. This building was begun in 1764, but was not fully completed until 1842. In its architecture it is imitative of the old Greek temples. In the relief over the portico is sculptured the last judgment scene, and you gain an idea of the figures when I say the central personage is 15 feet in height. This building witnessed within its walls much bloodshed in the time of the Commune of 1871. There were other church buildings, both grand and interesting, visited, but I must not weary you with even naming them, though you will pardon me for referring to one more, viz. the historic "Notre Dame." This edifice was completed in the thirteenth century, and is a noteworthy structure, and has had an eventful history. The central portion of 1793 it was converted into a "Temple of Reason," and the wife of one of the Communists was here worshipped as the goddess of reason, and the devout worshippers were rewarded by her with a kiss. The Communists more than once had desecrated this building. They tore out the inside and made bonfires of the same; they made hay lots of the galleries and stables for their horses of the chapels, while they held high carnival in the main body of the edifice. It was in this building, Napoleon I. and Josephine were crowned.

In the time of the Commune of 1871 this church again suffered and barely escaped being burned to the ground. Within we saw among others, a monument to one of the archbishops of Paris, a man who in one of those terrible revolutions from which Paris has suffered so much, climbed the walls and begged the revolutionists to desist. He was ordered down on penalty of his life. His words were: "May my blood be the last that shall be shed, and fall back shot by the men he was pleading with, and his blood unhappily was not the last shed in that terrible time.

We saw another to the memory of Archbishop Dupuy, who was shot by the communists in 1871 as an act of revenge because the government had put to death some of the communists for their crimes. I learned from such instances as these it costs something to be an archbishop in Paris. It would fire both you and me should I undertake to tell you all the places visited.

In the "Troadero" palace, by means of an elevator, we went up 338 feet, and from this high point of view obtained a most beautiful and comprehensive view of the city from all points of the compass. We are just in front of the Eiffel tower, reaching a height of about 2,000 feet and so large that 1,000 persons can be on its platform, stair case and elevator at one time without unduly crowding.

In the aquarium we saw salmon of various ages and sizes, from the little baby just learning to swim, to his older brothers and sisters of pounds weight. We visited beautiful parks, where were refreshing fountains, and where landscape gardening is carried on almost to perfection. We reamed through parts of the great market, which covers from eight to nine acres. We went to the Bourse, but the din and confusion within of men vying with each other in speculating competitions were too much for us, and we drove away without entering. "The morgue" that gruesome place is visited, and here we saw the bodies waiting to be identified? Will they ever be? One a young woman, the other that of an aged man. Why here? Has shame caused one to seek relief in drowning and the disappointment of many weary years the other? And if so, what will reveal why death came to these, sought or prisoned? We went to museums and picture galleries. We are driven past prisons where men are spending the slowly moving years (and in front saw the stone where the guillotine does its deadly work on the condemned criminal and which was called into service the last morning of our stay in the city.

We were in the palace of justice, and wandered through the great cemetery in which about fifty funerals take place every day, and where rest amid beautiful monuments the bodies of some of the most illustrious of the past.

But the most interesting part of our trip was the drive out to Versailles and the inspection given while there to the palaces. The way out there is through parks and gardens, towards the most delightful we had seen. The rain of the evening before had laid the dust and cooled the air, while it seemed to have made the beautiful flowers more fragrant than ever. The drive to Versailles was that of the Grand Trianon, or summer palace, built in 1688 by Louis XIV. for his queen. We pass through room after room so richly decorated, and among others one that was specially prepared for our good visit to Victoria in 1848 in view of her visit to Paris. The bed hangings were of richest Lyons silk, and the adornments of the room were equally grand, and are just as they were prepared. Strange to say the Queen did not use the room on her visit, choosing for some state reason to sleep somewhere else. Then we went to the coach house to view the old state carriages and harness. One of these was the wedding carriage of Napoleon I., and also Napoleon III. Another was the coronation carriage of Charles X., and has only been used once since. It is the most costly carriage ever built. I think it cost about 1,000,000 francs—$260,000. It weighs fourteen tons, and requires eight horses to draw it. The other carriages and royal harnesses were grand.

Then, too, there was the Palace Royal with its hundreds of rooms, through scores of which we dragged limbs that began to ache, in some of which we saw some of the finest pictures of their kind in the world. These were the historic and war pictures that give in outline the long history of France from the days of Charlemagne to modern times.

But I must close. You will not wonder that the brain grew dizzy and the body tired and that we longed for rest on Saturday evening. But this was sought in vain for at 9 o'clock we are locked in the compartment of a train bound from Paris to Dieppe. At one o'clock on Sunday morning we are on a steamer with prow turned towards the English shores, and for four and a half hours are jostled about by a choppy sea. At 5.30 we are again on land, looking toward London, which we reach in time for the Sunday morning breakfast between 8 and 9. Tired, yes, but we go to service at 11, though not equal to anything more the rest of the day.

With Christian regards to you all, in which Mrs. Gates joins me, I am yours in C. E. G. GATES.

HALIFAX LADY DOCTOR.

Dr. Jane Hearty, daughter of Rev. Dr. Hearty of Brunswick street church, has commenced practice in this city and may be consulted at No. 53 Spring Garden road. Dr. Hearty is a graduate of the Woman's Medical college, New York, the institution from which the late lamented Dr. Maria L. Angwin graduated. She has since pursued a post graduate course at Johns Hopkins college, Baltimore, and has had five years of general and hospital practice in the city of Chicago. She is therefore more than ordinarily well equipped for professional work, and will, we are sure, find a sphere of great usefulness in this city.

Dr. Hearty has purchased the house No. 53 Spring Garden road from the executors of the late Dr. Angwin. It is in a most centrally and conveniently situated for the residence and office of a general practitioner. We wish her every success.—Westeyan.

"He said the fond but firm father, 'Is I fear, a young man of extravagant tastes' 'Yes,' the daughter admitted, 'he wants me for a wife.'"

"Madam, these flowers will look well on your hat; they are a perfect copy of nature." "Yes, they are; but then, show me something original."

THE SEMI-WEEKLY SUN

ST. JOHN, N. B., JULY 20, 1898. PREMIER HARDY'S COUP.

The Hardy government of Ontario was so badly shattered by the election of last March that it has not had a well day since. It is nearly five months since the election, yet the provincial secretary and the minister of agriculture, who were defeated, have neither resigned their offices nor found seats.

They have in Ontario, under grit election law, a system by which votes may be traced after the ballots are cast. It is said to be a convenient way to keep in line provincial office holders, licensed tavern keepers and others who are subject to coercion.

MR. MULOCK AND HIS OFFICIALS. The valued Telegraph is unusually funny when it calls upon Mr. Mulock to dismiss the high officials of the post office department because they allowed him to make a fool of himself last winter.

MR. CHARLTON OUGHT TO GO. If an Ottawa despatch to some of the Toronto papers is true, John Charlton of Michigan has been dropped from the list of Canadian commissioners at the Quebec conference.

PENNY POSTAGE.

The imperial penny postage system adopted at the recent conference is not imperial. The Australian colonies are not in it. They talked the matter over in their own convention of premiers in March.

Trade is duller and times harder today in Prince Edward Island, notwithstanding the efforts of two governments than ever they were under tory rule. The harvests still remain "shipless" - there is no forecast of masts as promised - and the duty on every article we import and export nearly everything we produce as high as ever, and the prices of many goods have advanced under the rule - Charlottetown Watchman.

THE LATE YUKON DEAL. The valued Telegraph is several months behind the times when it denounces the senate for rejecting the Yukon deal. The Telegraph does not know how thankful most of the government supporters in the house and the country are to the senate.
