Berlin, May 13, via London, 5.30 p. m.—The following announcement was made at the War Office: "Western theatre of war: "East of Ypres we took another point of vantage from the enemy in the afternoon strong French attacks on our front from Ablain to Neuville were repulsed with very heavy losses to the enemy. The village of Carency and the western part of Ablain, which are for the greater part included in the territory held by the French as a result of their occupation of our foremost trenches between Neuville and Carency, were however, evacuated last night. Unfortunately on this occasion a number of our brave men and much material again were lost. "French attempts to re-capture a section of their trenches which we took from them northwest of Beau-au-Bac, in the woods south of Nii-Aux-Bois, were without success. "After strong artillery preparations the enemy attacked our position between the Meuse and the Moselle last night. The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

WHEN young Miss Housewife first aspired, to build the home her mate desired, she dreamed of castles in the air, with never toil nor woe nor care. She half imagined, in a way, that keeping house was only "play."

Too soon the sordid side of life—the dust and grime and soot and strife—each one, in turn, reminded her, that little problems must occur. A part of thrift is in the knack of fighting dirt around you, back; of keeping constantly at work where dust and germs of illness lurk.

This housewife had her little cry, gave up—and scarcely knowing why. Then, from the sombre clouds of doubt, two rays of golden hope crept out. The Gold Dust Twins threw wide the door and entered, eager for a chore. They polished all the silverware, they scrubbed the bathroom and the stair. Each mirror soon was shining bright, the kettles shone with gleaming light, and all around, from pit to dome, they garnished up that little home.

Ah! Ye who feel that, once begun, a housewife's work is NEVER done, have cheer! The Gold Dust Twins make play of any task that comes their way. A mop—a cloth—a busy brush, and honestly it makes us blush, to think we ever played the drone by working in the house alone.

ENCAENIA EXERCISES AT THE U.N.B. YESTERDAY

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE EXERCISES

EWART C. ATKINSON, U. N. B. Valedictorian.

The encaenia of the University of New Brunswick was held in Fredericton yesterday afternoon. Lieutenant Governor Wood presided and the address in praise of the founders was delivered by Professor Keirstead. Rev. Ralph Sherman of St. John spoke on behalf of the Alumni Society and E. C. Atkinson was the valedictorian. Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor of Montreal addressed the members of the graduating class.

Professor Keirstead in his address referred to the Loyalist settlers of the province who had been responsible for the founding of the university. He told of the events leading up to the establishment of the university and the details of the acts of the legislature causing its foundation.

The royal assent to the charter incorporating the College of New Brunswick was not given until December 12th, 1800, but several years before it arrived the trustees secured a building and opened a grammar school in Fredericton. Of course the beginnings were small, for the province was in a primitive state. The entire population prior to the coming of the loyalists was scarcely 4,000; in the winter of 1788 parliament could not meet because there were no roads to Fredericton. In 1802 the population was estimated at 25,000, with 3,000 in St. John and 800 in Fredericton. It was not until 1823 that the college made any effort to do work of collegiate grade and then it was recognized at once that its financial support was inadequate for this purpose and the trustees secured legislation permitting them to surrender their charter for another in which the King would be deemed the founder, and granting more adequate support. In 1828 three students were graduated with the B. A. degree, the only graduates of the old College of New Brunswick.

On the fifteenth of December, 1828, the King in council issued a new charter incorporating King's College, within the province of New Brunswick, for "the education of the youth in the principles of the Christian religion, and for their instruction in the various branches of literature and science which are taught in our universities in this kingdom."

Sir Frederic Williams-Taylor, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, delivered the address to the graduating class.

In opening his address Sir Frederic referred to the satisfaction he felt at being honored by having a degree conferred upon him. Continuing he said:

From my earliest youth the power and pleasures of education, the hidden mysteries of the law have filled me with a feeling of profound awe and veneration. This feeling grows with passing time and is accentuated by the fact that I am not among those privileged to claim this university as my alma mater. My education was acquired in that exacting universal school—the school of stern necessity. It is a thirty-seven years since I entered as a pupil that ever opens school of which we all are lifelong scholars, and though the demerits in my case are obvious, yet the fact remains that I eventually stand here a proud graduate by courtesy of this historic seat of learning.

Someone has said, "He who would a pilot be must first himself the channel try." As a pilot of sorts who has tried the channel of life, measured the currents, gauged the depths, noted the shoals, found the rocks—sometimes by running on them—may I be permitted to present to you, my young friends, a simple chart—a chart such as I would use had I that priceless boon, a second chance in life equipment Facing Crisis.

The British Empire and the Allies are facing a crisis today the like of which the world has never known. A citizen of that great neutral country, the United States, has said: "This war is the greatest crime since Calvary," and in the words of Lord Rosebery, "I should be loth to believe that any one man could be responsible for this war, but if there be such a man then may God have mercy on his soul, for the curse of posterity will rest upon him forever."

Germany has broken her written word of honor, she has torn up the ten commandments and scattered the pieces to the wind. She has brought about an orgy of foul play, of dishonor, of murder and lust with all their attendant evils. In German eyes might alone is right, and your country calls upon you men of New Brunswick to take your place in the fighting line in defence of the integrity of the British Empire, in defence of the right, in defence of your self-respect, in defence of Anglo-Saxon laws, religion and traditions.

Alumni Oration.

The Alumni oration, delivered by Rev. Ralph Sherman of Trinity church, St. John. Mr. Sherman said:

"The keynote of the last century was analysis; the keynote of this present century seems to be synthesis.

One wonders if that is true, and, if so, what is the fundamental principle underlying the truth of it. Because, on the face of it, it seems to be rather the rhapsody of an idealist, who having almost closed both eyes, and seeing everything in a blurred and misty light, has convinced himself that conditions bear out his idealism. Yet surely that was a summary dismissal of words which passing on from the general to the particular may lead us very far indeed, and unworthy of us who as products and advocates of education are bound to be seekers after truth. Therefore it is along those lines that I would try to speak to you today. I know that we are none of us infallible, not even the youngest of us; but remembering the fate of him who hesitates, I have tried to put aside my hesitation on that score, and with the feelings of a swimmer who starts to swim five miles, having never done more than one at a stretch before, I take my plunge, trusting not only to the impetus of the spring-board but also to the buoyancy and gentleness of the waves, and ask you to think with me—if the title be not too ambitious—of some aspects of modern thought.

In the way of an author's preface, generally very boring things, I would merely say this—where nothing is original it were idle to specify obligations.

The present age is asking questions. We are very conscious of ourselves. We are very cognizant of the fact that we are living in the twentieth century; we are very mindful of the promise (I forget who promised it!) that "the twentieth century is ours"; and we are very willing to accept the gift. Heenan said that "one task which lay before the twentieth century was to fish out of the waste-paper basket the various valuable articles which the nineteenth had thrown into it"; but we've moved into a new house, and have discarded waste-paper baskets for automatically-destroying depositars.

We are like a boy in his teens who has just left the strict discipline of school for the wider freedom of college life. We seem to ourselves to have sprung into existence full grown like Athene, only this time not from an Olympic but from a Victorian brain. And if it be true that it takes a wise father to know his own child, it was never more so than when applied to the nineteenth century as the parent of the twentieth. The old anchorages simply don't hold us; not only because feeling the lure of the sky-line we are straining to get away, but also because the stakes themselves no longer hold; they are forced out from their previously solid foundations. What our fathers assumed, we criticize; what they accepted, we question. But more than that, where they were content to stop, we consider we have only just begun. We have forgotten our manners entirely, despite the fact that we had so strict an education; we insist on being heard as well as seen, and though the feast before us be a bountiful one we do not hesitate to ask for anything we want whether it be on the table or not. We are no respecter of persons; we hesitate at nothing, are afraid of nothing; we will have none of the motto "Safety First"; we are modern; the spirits of the age have got into our blood for good or for ill.

The valedictory was delivered by Ewart C. Atkinson, who said: "Time rolls his ceaseless course." For four years we have looked forward with a feeling of pleasure to the closing exercises of 1915. We feel a joy now, for we have gained our reward; the goal is reached. We go out today to come back no more as students of the University of New Brunswick. This thought fills us with sadness. Next September when the students reassemble on this 'old Hill' we shall not be among them, but the thoughts of past joy and successes, twined with richer blessings yet to come, will cluster round the remembrance of our Alma Mater.

"We realize that this is one of the memorable days of our lives. Our past and future seem to blend. We look now, back to the days of work and play, then on into the unknown years before us. Today, we are students; even so shall we be tomorrow, for we are going out into a larger, broader university, the university of the world, where each day will present its problems to be solved, even as they have come to us here.

Our course is finished! Behind are the struggles and the victories. Before is a future unread and unquerred. Today we pass out to this future, but as we go, we would say a word of farewell to those surroundings and these old halls which have made our college life so dear to us."

He reviewed the history of the class in its course through college and ended in wishing the people of Fredericton farewell.

A DOUBLE DROWNING AT CLARK'S HARBOR

Two young men lose lives when boat capsized—Indian missing 8 months, body found in lake.

Special to The Standard. Yarmouth, N. S., May 13.—The body of William Carty, another Indian guide was found floating in the Big Pubnico Lake. It is a peculiar coincidence that the bodies of two well known Indian guides should be found on the same day at about the same time in widely different sections of the country. Carty has been missing about three months. After the time he left his home on the shores of the lake to cross it looking after his traps he disappeared from human sight. Yesterday morning his mother-in-law, wife, and sister-in-law started to cross the lake en route to Barrington and came across the body floating. They towed it to shore and tied it to a tree where it remained until help reached them from Pubnico Head. Carty was about 60 years old.

The jury in the case of Abram Teney, found dead on the road, returned a verdict of "death from natural causes." News has reached here of a double drowning accident at Clark's Harbor on Tuesday. Two young men were hauling lobster traps when their little boat capsized and they were thrown overboard. Everett Nickerson saw them from his home and went to the rescue but only one man was to be seen. He got him into his dory and to his surprise it proved to be his own son. He was quickly taken to the house and the doctor summoned but too late to save him. The body of the other man Ephraim Nickerson, was soon found and he too had succumbed.

Around the City

Two Assignments.

The Royal Gazette this week gives notice of the assignment of Thos. E. Worrall, grocer, of St. Andrews, and of Fred J. Brewster, dry goods merchant at Sussex.

Shad Running.

The shad have begun to run in the harbor and the fishermen have been quite successful. The prices range high, however, but the demand is good. The prices quoted yesterday were twenty-five and thirty cents.

Sent to Dorchester.

Yesterday morning three prisoners were conveyed from the county jail to the Dorchester penitentiary where they will serve a few years sentence. The prisoners are: John Lane, for threatening the life of Mrs. Lape and her sister; James Moore, a boy, for escaping from the Boys' Industrial Home, and William Shaw, for stealing a pair of shoes.

Soldier Hurt Playing Soccer.

While engaged in a game of soccer football at the Divisional Ammunition Column barracks here, Gunner Wright of St. John, had his knee quite badly wrenched. It was thought for a time that the ligaments were torn, but on examination it was found to be only a bad wrench. Gunner Wright went to his home in St. John this morning.—Frederick Gleaner.

Sample Furs for Australia.

This week's report of the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, states that an Australian firm asks for samples of raw fur skins for the purpose of treating them at their factory in Melbourne. The furs named are: marten, mink, muskrat, silver fox, cross fox, red, blue and white fox, wolf, wolverine, bear, ermine, skunk, raccoon, squirrel and civet cat.

Bootlegger Arrested.

Detective Worrall and Special Officer Barrett last night managed to arrest another bootlegger named George Brown. He is charged with selling liquor on the 12th and 13th of this month without a license. Brown a few months ago enlisted with the artillery but had not been long in uniform before he was arrested, sentenced to jail and discharged from the regiment. He had only recently been liberated.

Retail Fish Market.

There has been a fair supply of fish during the week and prices remain about the same as usual. Harbor shad is now being placed on the market, but this fish is at present rather dear, 35c to 50c, being the prices asked. Fresh haddock and cod remain at 5c, a pound; halibut, 18c; gasparous, 3c to 5c, each. Lobsters have found a ready sale at from 10c to 50c, each. No changes have occurred in the prices of salt fish. Retailers report that trade is rather quiet just now.

Did Not Buy the Booze.

John Hubbard, a lame man, was arrested last night by Patrolman Dalo on the charge of stealing ten dollars from Robert White, one of the Construction Corps in the barracks in West St. John. From the information received White claims to have given Hubbard a ten dollar note to purchase a bottle of liquor as White could not purchase the liquor, as he was in uniform. He states that Hubbard went away with the money and did not return with either the money or the liquor. White then informed Patrolman Dale with the result that Hubbard was some time afterwards arrested. When searched Hubbard had $7.51, a flask of whiskey and three bottles of lager beer in his pockets. Hubbard says he is a barber by trade and that he intended going to Sackville on the late express last night.

IMPROVEMENTS AT MARSH BRIDGE

Water and Sewerage and Public Works Departments at work there.

Good progress is being made with the work of installing a new thirty-six inch water main across the Marsh bridge, and another work will see the bridge well along towards completion. Commissioner Potts had planned to have the sidewalk and roadway on the Marsh bridge fitted up but Commissioner Wigmore asked that the work be delayed for a time till he had the new water main placed in position. As soon as the water main, which is to supply the higher levels in the vicinity of Gilbert's Lane, is in place the public works department will fit up the sidewalk and roadway. Since the new bridge was built there has been a depression where the sidewalk should have been and in rainy weather water used to remain there. Commissioner Potts has planned to fill in the depression and make the sidewalk so it will be passable in all kinds of weather.

DELIGHTFUL RECITAL ON FINE NEW ORGAN

New instrument in Carleton Presbyterian church "opened" last evening by D. Arnold Fox.

The seating capacity of the First Presbyterian church, St. John West, was taxed to the utmost last evening at the opening of the new Warren organ by D. Arnold Fox in recital, assisted by an array of the leading artistic talent of the city. The new organ is a fine addition to the church and is a credit to the builders. The recital throughout is rich and varied and under Mr. Fox's skilful manipulation the utmost resources of the organ, both in volume and in tone color were demonstrated, the most noticeable numbers in this regard being Fantasia on Sicilian Mariners, Moonlight, Queen of Sheba music and the William Tell overture. Mrs. L. Murray Curran was in her usually fine voice and gave a finished rendering of the exacting aria, "Hear Ye Israel" from Elijah, and later on joined J. Percy Cruikshank in the duet "Love Divine." Their voices blended well and an expressive rendering was given. Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer" was expressively sung by Mrs. Murray Long with much dramatic feeling. Miss McG. Myles displayed a flexible contralto voice to advantage in her rendering of "Come Unto Me" by Colner, and Mrs. T. J. Gunn displayed fine control and shading of tone in her violin solo "Legende" by Wienawski. The sympathetic quality of C. A. Murray's tenor voice was agreeably presented in rendering of "The Penitent," and S. Herbert Mayes rendered very effectively Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory." Last, but not least, the treble solo "I Will Sing of Thy Great Mercies" by Victor Shonoman was something of a surprise to the audience. Such a sweet, clear treble being seldom heard here and displayed the results of careful training in the Stone Church choir.

A New Rogues Gallery.

A cell in the basement of the police headquarters has been arranged for the special use of Detective McLaughlin for the purpose of taking pictures of criminals, and also for developing the pictures. Although it is a dingy looking apartment when the lights are on it has been fitted out with everything that the police photographer wishes, and now Chief of Police Simpson will start in on a new rogues gallery. Detective McLaughlin is a past master of the art of photography as well as handling the work of taking finger prints. He has taken pictures of all the men arrested for theft or any other serious crime since he has been appointed to the force.

A Juvenile Thief.

Edward Furlong, a 14 year old boy, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the charge of stealing a purse containing $1.40, the property of Miss Stevens, in the store of O. H. Warwick. The young fellow pleaded guilty. It was shown that Furlong had been before the court on a previous occasion, and it was also stated that a member of his family said nothing could be done with the boy at home; he would not go to school, and would take things away from his home as well as from other places. The Magistrate said the young prisoner would be given a term in the Boys' Industrial Home, and he was then sent into jail.

EMPIRE DAY CELEBRATION IN SCHOOLS

Matter of connections at Kane's Corner and One Mile House will be settled this morning.

Excellent programme suggested by Women's Canadian Club for observance in N. B. Schools.

The Women's Canadian Club has prepared a programme which it is hoped will be followed as nearly as possible in the schools of New Brunswick on Empire Day. The chief superintendent of education has approved of its adoption. Some of the features of the programme are here mentioned. It is suggested that notices of a patriotic character should be placed on banners, or on the school walls, or on blackboards. The morning session should be devoted to the geography and history of the Empire, impressing upon the children its reality, growth, magnitude, essential unity and common purpose, and the privileges, responsibilities and duties of citizenship. The whole school should, if possible, be assembled out of doors, the proceedings beginning with the Lord's Prayer. The National Anthem should then be sung, with the Union Jack displayed in some prominent way. One of the pupils should then recite "The Old Flag," the first verse of which begins: "It is only a small bit of bunting, It is only an old colored rag, But thousands have died for its honor, And shed their best blood for the Flag."

ASSAULT CASE DISMISSED

In the police court yesterday afternoon an Assyrion named Lewis was charged with assaulting a Mrs. Connell. Clara E. Joyce gave evidence that she saw Lewis kick Mrs. Connell while the latter was standing in the doorway of a house on Brunswick street on the first day of the month. Charles Ritchie, a son-in-law of the complainant, also testified that he saw Lewis assault Mrs. Connell. The defendant informed the court that he did not assault the woman. He stated that he was a part owner of the house in question. That Mrs. Connell's daughter had resided in the house and was moving out on the first of May, that she owed one month's rent and had agreed to leave her sewing machine with the defendant until the rent was paid. All the furniture had been moved away with the exception of the machine and in the evening Mrs. Connell came to the house to take that away. Defendant said he only prevented the woman from entering the house. The court decided that Mrs. Connell had no right to enter the house after the family had moved out and the case was dismissed.

SECOND TRIAL OF DOWNING IS BEGUN

READING MATTER FOR THE SOLDIERS

To the Editor of The Standard. Sir,—Permit me, through this medium, to make an appeal on behalf of the chaplain's work among the men of the 56th Battalion mobilized at Sussex, which I believe will meet with a prompt and hearty response. I desire to procure reading matter for distribution and will thankfully receive all classes of magazines and papers, etc., which may be of service. For the city of St. John, Mr. W. B. Tennant has kindly offered to receive at his office, 14 King street, any parcels which may be donated, whilst persons from outside the city may mail reading matter direct to me at Sussex. I feel disposed to offer thanks for the very general response which I believe will come from many sources from those who will be glad to cooperate in an enterprise such as this. Yours truly, H. E. THOMAS, Chaplain 56th Batt. Sussex, May 13.

Charged With Vagrancy.

Morris Howard was arrested last night by Special Officer Barrett on the charge of being a common vagrant. Howard has all the appearances of a tramp, and some time ago sought a night's lodging in the police headquarters cells, stating he had no place to stop over night. He became such a frequent visitor that he was finally locked up on the charge of vagrancy. He was allowed to go by the Magistrate with the understanding that he should get out of the city. Howard failed to take the warning and now stands a chance of getting a term in jail and employment with the chain gang.
