London, June 18-6 a.m.-Sir Redvers Statements Made by Officers of the Buller and Lord Strathcona were the principal speakers at the annual banquet of the Colonial Club last night. Replying to the toast of the imperial forces. Gen. Buller said in his blunt way that the worst thing that could happen to any country was what was known as a jingo feeling. Expenditure on the forces of the crown should not be for conquest or oppression.

LORD STRATHCONA'S REMARKS. Lord Strathcona, who presided over the banquet, in proposing the Colonial Club, referred in felicitous terms of the line indicating that 95 per cent to the attachment of the people in the colonies to the institutions of the mother country. Colonists knew, he said, that in fighting to help Great Britain they were fighting for their own best interests. The high commissioner was loudly cheered on resuming his seat. THE LIBERALS AND THE BOERS. Some of the Liberal-Imperialists condemn in strong terms the motion of adjournment proposed by Mr. Lloyd George in the House of Commons last right on the question of the treat-ment of the Boer women and children in the camps. A Cape Town dispatch says: Cecil Rhodes, in his speech at Buluwayo, Rhodesia, Saturday, June 15, when he predicted that a federation of the South African states would come in three or four years, made what is regarded in some quarters as a bid for the premiership of Cape Colony. After eulogizing the actions of the Rho-desians and Natalians, he said the only state he pitied was the mother state, Cape Colony, whose political and religious leaders had incited rebellion. When federation came none of the other states would have anything to do with her, and he was afraid that the people of his old state, who were running about like sheep without a shepherd, were coming out

NINETY PER CENT QUIT WORK!

The Strike of C. P. R. Trackmen Inaugurated.

Company and Representatives of the Men-Status of the Strike.

Montreal, June 17 .- The strike of the C. P. R. Trackmen from the Atlantic to the Pacific was inaugurated this morning at 6 o'clock. The committeemen who are in the city claim they have received advices from all portions of the men had obeyed the order of the committee declaring the strike.

WHAT THE COMPANY SAYS.

Mr. McNicholl, second vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said this evening that while some of the trackmen had quit work, the great majority had not, and of the Lake Shore, is slated to succeed Pacific Railway, said this evening that while some of the trackmen had quit he fully believed that within 24 hours the trouble would be over. He said the Canadian Pacific Railway paid tral. higher wages to its trackmen than any other road on etiher side of the line traversing similar territory. First Steps Taken Toward Prohibiting the Use of Trading Stamps.

TO ABOLISH TRADING STAMPS. City Clerk Kingston submitted some suggestions re the rights granted the ouncil by recent legislation. He called attention to the fact, that councils cities of less than 100,000 inhabitants have power to impose a license fee not exceeding $50 on the sale of fresh meats in quantities less than quarter carcasses, and also to regulate such sale and the places where sale is allowed. Power has been granted impose a license fee upon billposters and laundries. Councils now have power to prohibit the use of trading stamps, coupons, etc., but any bylaw

COAL CAUSES HOT TALK. The most spirited discussion of the evening arose over the second clause of No. 1 committee's report recommending the acceptance of Geo. Mc-Neill's tender for supplying coal for city buildings. Chairman Stevely announced that he would not move the adoption of the clause, but Ald. Cooper did so.

Ald. Parnell, after hearing the tenders read, moved in amendment that Chantler Bros.' tender, though not the lowest, be accepted, saying at the same time that he took this action for reasons which he had expressed so often before the council that he did not consider it necessary to repeat them.

Ald. Jolly thought that when a member of the council was in favor of moving to spend more money than was necessary, he should explain the reasons for his action. If Ald. Parnell had anything to say against Mr. Mc-Neill he should say so openly. Mr McNeill was not a member of the combine, and so was in a position to supply coal cheaper than if he was a

Ald. Farnell replied that it was not always necessary or advisable to give contracts to the lowest tenderers. Mr. McNeill had been given previous contracts and had not carried out the specifications. He (Parnell) was therefore opposed to giving him any city contracts.

Ald. Jolly inquired whose fault it was if contractors did not fulfill their contracts. It was, he said, the fault of the city officials, whose duty it is to see that contractors abide by the terms of their bargains.

SHOULD BREAK THE COMBINE.

Ald. Cooper then took up the cudgels behalf of Contractor McNeill. It was a disgrace, he said, that there was in the city a coal combine, which makes people pay 50 cents a ton more for coal than should be paid. When tenders are called for by the city, the chance to tender is auctioned off by the combine among its members, and 50 cents per ton to the combine. Mr. McNeill was not a member of the council to break the combine by giving him the contract. In response to a remark from Ald. Winnett in relation to the combine, Ald. Cooper retorted:

'Oh, you're in it, too." Ald. Olmsted said that three or four years ago Mr. McNeill had a woodsupplying contract, and that every load was short in measure and the wood of inferior quality. Ald. Cronyn said the idea expressed by a couple of aldermen, that it was altogether the officials' fault if contractors did not fulfill their contracts properly, should not be allowed to go Honest contractors were needed as well as honest officials.

Ald. Greenlees thought that where a contractor did not properly fulfill his bargain, he should never be allowed to obtain city contracts again.

On motion of Ald. Cooper and Ald. Beattie, Mr. McNeill was allowed to address the council. He said that he had been a member of the combine when the tenders had been auctioned off, and he had paid $80 to the combine. He afterwards left the combine, and two years ago he tendered again. was told that he could not get coal to fulfill his contracts, but he had so and given satisfaction. Mr. McNeill also indulged in several personalities at the expense of Ald. Winnett and

NOT A MEMBER OF THE COM-BINE.

Ald. Winnett said he had opposed Mr. McNeill, and he had opposed other contractors on the same grounds. In answer to the insinuations of Ald. Cooper and Mr. McNeili, Ald. Winnett stated positively that he was not a member of the coal combine, and had never attended one of their meetings Ald. Cooper-Are you a member of the Ontario Association?

Parnell! What you say is not so! MADE HIM KEEP QUIET. Mayor Rumball told Mr. McNeill to keep quiet, and Ald. Parnell proceeded. He had, he said, no antipathy to McNeill as a private citizen, but his duty to the city compelled him to oppose the granting of any contracts to Mr. McNeill.

At this point Mr. McNeill again interrupted violently, but an inquiry from the mayor as to the proximity of a constable caused him to subside. Ald. Parnell then read from the minutes of the council of 1897 the report of a special committee to the effect that the wood supplied by Contractor McNeill was of inferior quality, and short in every case but one. The committee recommended that the contract be canceled, the balance of the wood purchased from other individuals, and a penalty imposed on Mr. McNeill.

CURBING CLAUSE CARRIED. No. 2 committee's report was next taken up, and of its sixteen clauses. only three came in for any prolonged debate. The first clause discussed at length was that in which the committee reaffirmed its recommendation that cement curbing be constructed under the same conditions as cement walks are laid, except that the city pay the whole cost at street intersections; the city's portion of cost of curbing to be paid out of general rate of taxation, and not to exceed $1,500 in any one year, debentures to be issued for the balance of cost of work.

Ald. Jolly, seconded by Ald. Garratt, moved that all ratepayers requiring street curbing, whether of wood, cement or other materials, that they pay the whole frontage cost, except the intersections, which shall be paid for by the city out of the yearly appropri-

MUST TENDER AGAIN.

The next clause was as follows: That tenders for cement curbing be accepted as follows: P. L. Marden & Co., for north of Dundas street, 22%c per lineal foot, for 6-inch, and 23%c for 8-inch; Silica Barytic Company, for south of Dundas street, 210 for 6-inch, and 24c for 8-inch.

Ald. Garratt, seconded by Ald. Jolly, moved in amendment that No. 2 committee advertise for fresh tenders, and that the city engineer be instructed to prepare specifications of the work. The two aldermen gave as reasons for the amendment their belief that sufficient opportunity to tender had not been afforded all the contractors. The DRIVEWAY WENT THROUGH. More discussion was elicited by the 174 feet in depth, and A. Leslie's es- can. tive sums of $150 and $300, and charged to breakwater account, for purpose of making a permanent driveway on top of London West breakwater.

Ald. Winnett, chairman of No. 2 committee, explained that the committee was taking this action because of the dangerous condition of the London West breakwater, the piling and planking being rotted away and threatening to fall out. After several aldermen had opposed the work on the score of expense, the clause carried on a vote of 7 to 4.

Clauses providing for the use of proper fenders on the street cars, the granting of a petition for tar macadam pavement on King street, from Wellington to Adelaide, and the advertising on the initiative of an asphalt pavement, with cement or stone curbs, on King street, from Wellington to Ridout streets, were all passed with little or no discussion.

WILL BUY SEVEN MAPS. Six out of ten clauses of the finance committee's report passed without The recommendation that five copies of Moore & Henry's new the dealer getting the tender has to map of the city be purchased—one each for the engineer, the city clerk, the assessment commissioner, the treascombine, and it was the duty of the urer and the tax collector-called forth amendments. The first provided for the purchase of six copies, the additional one to be placed in the committee room, and the second for seven copies, three of them to go to the engineer, to indicate respectively the positions of sewers, cement sidewalks and electric lights. The last amendment carried.

WILL INVITE ROYALTY. The committee recommended that the city clerk extend to the royal party a cordial invitation to visit this muni cipality. Ald. Parnell wished the clause referred back for further consideration, but he was in the minority. The proposal of the Toronto city council to have all the western municipalities unite in a reception at Toronto, was rejected with scorn. "If this little town won't put up to entertain the King's son," said Ald. Garratt, "we might as well shut up shop." His views seemed to meet the approval of the rest of the council, and the clause carried. "STRIKE UP THE BAND." Ald. Jolly thought that six band concerts were not enough, and he wanted to see at least ten held. On his motion, $300 from incidental expense account will be placed to the credit of No. 1 for the purpose of nolding the concerts. The chairman of No. 2 explained that the reason that the repairs to the road roller cost $191 40, while the contract price was only $175, was because the engineer had ordered certain adextra repairs.

Council adjourned at 11:15 p.m. to meet on Monday, July 8.

AMERICAN ZIONISTS

Large Attendance at the Annual Convention-Aim Is to Establish in Palestine a Legal Home.

Philadelphia, June 17.—The fourth annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists began here yes-terday with a larger attendance than ever before in its history. Delegates from every section of the country were present. The aim of Zionism, as explained by the speakers is to establish in Palestine a legal home for the oppressed and persecuted Hebrews of Russia, Roumania, and other European countries and to furnish them with an asylum by the consent of the powers where they will have an op-portunity to begin life anew under more favorable circumstances. Greetings were received from Baron Rothschild and Max Nordau.

Various special committees were apnointed. An effort was made to amend the constitution by making it obligatory upon every member of the federation before becoming a delegate to the convention to purchase a share in the Jewish Colonial Trust of London. The amendment was voted down.

The following committees were appointed to devise ways and means of establishing a Hebrew newspaper: Rabbi S. S. Wise, Portland; Leon Zolotakoff, Chicago; A. L. Leon, Min-neapolis; Rabbi J. Bronesky, Newark, N. J.; Gabriel N. Mayer, Philadelphia. The officers of the federation are Prof. Richard Gotthiel, of Columbia University, New York, president; Isa-dore D. As a Hot Weather Food for Infants It Stands First and Highest.

When babies are weak, ill, cross, peevish and teething in the hot weather, their condition demands the most serious consideration. Proper dieting-infant nourishment-is perhaps, the most important point for the mother.

Lactated Food is the best and safest nourishment for the babies. It wards off the wasting diseases of infancy, it prevents cholera infantum, diarrhoea and dysentery, it banishes inflammation of the stomach and bowels as well as the pain and irritation of teething. Lactated Food is the most perfect substitute for mothers' milk that the world has ever seen. It is predigested contains no unchanged starch or common cane sugar, it is the most nutritious and economical of foods. It saves babies lives. Indersed by the ablest physicians. A DISAPPEARING TOWN

Northwich, England. Slowly But Surely

Sinking Into the Earth.

[Scientific American.] Northwich, the center of the salt in dustry of Great Britain, is one of the queerest towns in the country. whole underlying country is simply one mass of salt. When descending a shaft, one passes through successive thick strata of the mineral. The minthick strata of the mineral. The mining of the salt constitutes the staple industry of the district, and from Northwich alone 1,200,000 tons of salt are shipped annually. The product is obtained by two methods — quarrying and brine-pumping. In the former case, which is the method generally elected a cheft is sunk about 200 feet adopted, a shaft is sunk about 300 feet, and the salt rock blasted and excavated in the usual manner. The brine-pumping ,although it is still continued upon a large scale, is gradually falling into disuse. When the industry was started it was considered that only one stratum of salt existed, and that the salt dissolved like snow. A huge subterranean lake of water charged with 26 per cent of salt, was thus formed. Pumping engines were then installed to convey this brine to in which a heavy deposit of salt was left after the water has evaporated. The result of this extensive pumping is that Northwich now rests, were, upon a shell of earth, which at times proves insufficient to support the weight of the houses, with the inevitable consequence that the buildings are constantly sliding and collapsing in every direction. As the result of a subsidence one building fell over upon its back in the course of a single night, and it is noteworthy that the house, owing to the care observed in its construction, fell over intact, not a crack being produced in the walls, nor even a pane of glass being broken. This is by no means a single instance. Throughout the town the same effects are to be observed on all sides

There is scarcely a perpendicular wall to be seen; in numerous cases the doors and window frames of the houses are awry; the roads are extremely uneven, and are often closed, owing to the falling in of portions. Houses are being continually condemned as un-safe for human habitation and demolished. The depreciation of public pro perty is enormous. No matter how substantially a house may be built, or how great the care observed to obvi ate subsidence, the building is bound to sink sooner or later. In one instance a house that cost $30,000 to erect was shortly afterward sold for $7,500, it had been so injured by subsiding. In some cases the sinking is very gradual while in others it is unexpected and instantaneous. One of the principal thoroughfares took forty years to sink fifteen feet, while another grew appreciably wider every day. Examination proved that one side of the street was slipping completely away. In this instance the foundations of the houses were three feet distant from the buildings which they originally supported. The shop of a drygoods merchant sank one-fifth of its height in ten years, and in the subsequent seven years subsided another fifth. Several houses may be seen, the windows of the ground floor of which are level with the roadway. It is no uncommon circumstance for a building to be constructed and have to be abandoned shortly The inhabitants, however, endeavor to mitigate the danger of their buildings' collapsing by constructing them upon the frame principle, with massive timber beams securely bolted together. tate, being 30 westerly from face of breakwater by 514 feet 6 inches in length, be purchased for the respecthat an assistant should be appointed this instance the house is raised to its normal position once more by means of jacks, the cavity filled in, and building once more rests upon a firm foundation. Tonight Mayor brought before the attention of the British Parliament, and the result of their investigations showed that damage had been inflicted upon 892 buildings, of which total 636 comprised houses and cottages. Some idea of the extent of the excavations in this area may be gathered from the fact that a a ton of salt represents one cubic yard, 1.200,600 tons of salt are produced every year, therefore 1,200,000 cubic yards of solid material underlying the town is removed annually.

The water from the river also gravitates towards these subsidences, causing huge inland lakes, which aggravate the danger. One of these lakes, locally called flashes, covers no less than 100 acres and varies from forty to

Notwithstanding the frequency of these subsidences and that they are often unexpected, strange to say not a single life has been lost. Havoc has been wrought among cattle, however, several animals having been complete ly engulfed. The tall shafts of the pumping stations are also another source of danger, since they are gradually thrown out of plumb, the list continuing until the stack heels over, ourying and destroying everything in

A few years ago a compensation board was founded. This corporation levies a tax of 6 cents upon every ton of brine that is pumped to the surface, the revenue derived from this source being devoted to compensating those unfortunates whose property has been damaged by subsidence.

CAGED ANIMALS

Inexperience and Carelessness in Handling Them Greatest Factors in Accidents.

[Kansas City Star.] Frank C. Bostock, who by virtue of many years of experience in handling to an error on the part of the work-wild animals of all kinds has come men, Madame Pinasha's large cage a sort of adviser and coach for animal trainers, says that in a very large percentage of cases injuries suffrom trained animals are the fault of the trainer. "Inexperience and carelessness are the great factors in accidents of this kind," says Mr. Bostock. "The average young trainer is too likely to forget that every one of the big cats has five mouths, as one may say, one in his head and four more at the ends of his paws, and each of these mouths is capable of inflicting terrible injury. However, we do not place an animal in the list of bad animals unless he makes a direct and full attack. Striking at the trainer with the paws amounts to little; it may be even accidental. The Resilia insole expands from outsole when foot is lifted.

It thus draws in fresh air, through a tiny valve in the heel, which locks it in.

When insole is borne upon, the air contained in the cross channels is then forced up around the stocking, through a row of perforations, under the hollow of the foot.

The valve works one way only.

It thus locks the air in, when foot is lifted, compelling it to circulate uparound the stocking, and out at the boot top.

THE QUESTIONABLE

Sensations Are Said To Be Pleasant Even If Death Does Follow the Plunge.

[New York Medical Journal.] According to the Medical Review for January. Prof. Heirn, the geologist of Zurich, an ardent Alpine climber, stated recently in a lecture that life contained few experiences more agreeable and enjoyable than falling over a precipice or slipping into a glacier crevasse. Even the landing after the fall was free from anything of pain or terror. Merely a jar, and then unconsciousness. Prof. Heirn first cited the sens tion described by a Swiss climber, who fell from the top of the Karpfstock, in Switzerland. "The plunge, which was taken backthe anxiety felt when one dreams of falling. I seemed to be borne in the most pleasant manner gently downward, and had complete consciousness during the entire fall. Free from all pain or fear, I contemplated my posiwhich I knew was assured by the insurance I carried. And this contemplation was accomplished with a rapidity which I had never before Of the losing of my breath, of which people talk, there was no suggestion, and only the heavy fall on to the snow-covered ground caused me to lose suddenly and painlessly all consciousness. The bruising of my head and limbs on the rocks as I fell caused me no pain. The reawakening, however, brought with it entirely different and far less agreeable sensa-

Of his own experience of the sensations of falling, Prof. Heirn said: "As soon as I stumbled, I saw that I should be dashed over the rock, and awaited the shock. I dug my fingers into the snow in the endeavor to stop myself, but merely tore open my finger tips, causing them all to bleed, but feeling no pain from so doing. I back against the rock, and the thud, when I landed. Pain, however, not feel until half an later, when I revived. fall came a flood of thought. Every thought and impression was clear, in nowise dreary and confused, and was logically connected with the one which followed. "First, I contemplated the probability of my fall, and said to myself. The rock over whose edge I shall be dashed evidently descends sheer, for I cannot see the ground on the other becomes, therefore, a question whether or not there is snow at the foot. If so, the snow will be melt-ed near the wall and will form a ledge on which I shall land, and thus escape with my life, if not, then I will strike on the rocks below, and death will be unavoidable. If I am not killed, and am not unconscious, I must at once take out my little flask of liquor and drink a few drops of it. My alpen-stock I must hold on to, for it may prove of use.' I thought that I should take off my snow-glasses and throw them away, for fear they might be broken and the splintered glass get into my eyes; but the position in which I was falling prevented me moving my hands sufficiently to do this.

"Another train of thought busied itself with the effect my fall would

'I am in nowise injured!' in order that my comrades might rouse themselves from their terror and be able to make BLISS OF FALLING the difficult descent necessary for the bringing of assistance to me. I also thought that I should not be able to deliver my lecture which, five days later, was to mark my entrance into the professorship. I realized how the news of my death would shock my family, and in thought tried to con-

"Then I saw, as if upon a stage, my entire life pass like a series of tableaux before me. I saw myself as the chief actor. Everything seemed glorified as by some heavenly light, and all was beautiful and free from pain, from anxiety and sorrow. Even the memory of sad exents was distinct, but not sad. Exalted and beautiful thoughts dominated and connected the single scenes, and a divine quietude sank like divine music into my soul. Ever more and more plainly felt myself surrounded by the heaven of glorious blue, filled with clouds of rose-color and of violet. I sank gently and painlessly into it, and saw that I was flying through the air towards a field of snow. Objective observations, reasoning and subjective feeling were indulged in clearly and simultaneously. Then I heard a dull thud and my fall was ended. At the same moment it seemed to me that a black objest rushed by me, and I called two or three times as loudly as I could: 'I am in nowise injured!' I took some drops of the liquor. I reached out for my snow-glasses which lay unbroken beside me on the snow; I felt my back and my limbs to see that no bones were broken. "When I struck I lost consciousness Every sensation, every activity of mind and nerve was annihilated for a half an hour. The black object which passed me was the passing of consciusness. And, without realizing this half-hour interruption, thought and activity were resumed exactly where they stopped. Between the stopping and resuming was an absolute blank. The beautiful heavenly visions were noticeable only during the time that I was flying through the air, and could see and think." Prof. Heirn said, at the close of his ecture, that death by falling is subjectively a pleasant death. Without any previous illness or suffering. It occurs when one is fully conscious, when mental activity is abnormally increased and without any anxiety or pain. The unconscious state is entered suddenly and without suffering.

RATTLERS DRIVEN TO THE WALL!

Birds and King Snakes Killing Them Off

In a country where a quarter of The members and friends of the High found under every rock and in every Street Methodist Mission held a very hillock, the reptile is rapidly becoming pleasant series of presentations last a rarity. With his human relative, the Apache, the rattler is disappearing from The Ladies' Aid met at the residence most isolated districts.

To the advance of civilization and the unremitting warfare of the road runner and the king snake may be atsecretary, well-filled with stationery, tributed the extermination of the rattler. Wherever irrigation has found its address and Mr. Anson made the presentation. Miss Pratt made a very to higher ground, and there the prospector and miner have slain him whenever and wherever found. The road runner, that long-legged, feather warrior, the fighting cock of the desert, has done his part, and has done it well. Much resembling, but more lightly constructed than the fighting cock, the road runner is one of the most dreadvaluable services of yourself and fam- ed enemies of the rattler. In fact, so ily among us in connection with the great are his snake-killing proclivities, High Street Methodist Mission, have that heavy penalties are provided by the territorial statutes as a protection ed of your intention of moving from to him from the gun of the hunter. Waler countries, but often found in the northern forests and higher mountains, the king snake wages warfare on the rattlers, and when his great lithe form coils around the body of the rattle snake, the life of the latter is only a matter of a few seconds.

Herbert Hausland, a prospector, had an experience with a rattler, a king snake and a road runner a few days ago which he will not soon forget. He was with a party in the Bradshaw Mountains, south of Prescott, and was guarding camp for the day. He had lain down to sleep, when he was suddenly aroused, to find a great rattle-snake coiled upon his breast.

"I almost suffocated from fearing to breathe lest I should be bitten," he said. The snake was greatly excited, and in minute I saw the cause. A king snake was trying to excite the rattler to combat, and my person was the chosen battle ground. The king snake had probably forced the rattler to refuge upon my body, and following up his aggressive tactics was running in a circle around the rattler very rapidly. He crossed my breast from left to right, and my thighs from right to left, and within less than a foot of the rattler's body.

"The velocity of the snake was most wonderful. It seemed to be one con-tinuous ring, and part of the time I could seemingly see three or four rings I made a slight movement with my right foot which attracted the rattler's attention for an instant, and that was fatal to him. At that one false movement of his eyes the king snake darted in and seized the rattler by the throat, close up to his head, and began instantly to coil around his vic-

"They rolled off me in their death struggle and became one tangled mass for ten minutes, when the rattler's sounds died away gradually. While I lay exhausted from my fright a road runner darted out of a bush, and, grabbing the two snakes in his beak, began to drag them away. The weight was too great, but he killed the king snake by a blow from his long bill, and ran away as I arose. I threw the two reptiles into the bushes, and there the bird and his mate devoured them."

Pale, Anaemic Young Women.

Anaemia, or thin, watery blood, is increasing to an alarming extent among the school girls and young women of our land. Pale gums, tongue and eyelids, muscular weakness, inability for exertion, deficient appetite, impaired digestion, short breath, palpitation of the heart, attacks of vomiting, swooning, hysteria and irregularities of the feminine organs are among the unmistakable symptoms of anaemia or poor quality of blood.

Anaemic persons are frequently said to be going into a decline, and as a fact do usually contract consumption or some fatal constitutional disease if they neglect to restore normal viger. Fresh air, sunlight, moderate exercise and the regular use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food after each meal will restore new vitality to the body and new color to the cheek of any anaemic person. Gradually and thoroughly it forms new red corpuscles in the blood and wins back perfect health and strength.

The Gigantic Statistics of Life Assurance.

The Insurance Press, a New York newspaper, published entirely in the interests of insurance, gives some interesting statistics of Life Assurance, which show the very large amount received and paid by life assurance companies in the United States and Can-

Nearly $1,000,000 is distributed every business day in the year; 167 cities received from $100,000 to $18,000,000 last

The average amount of the policies at the end of 1900 was $2,409. This is the age of insurance. Its importance takes very high rank with other institutions. A leading lawyer in Chicago has a tin box in his safe with this inscription upon it: "This box contains my life insurance policies;

thus may a poor man die rich." The Insurance Press tables show the gross distribution of $273,590,876 by American life insurance companies during the year 1900. Of that sum about $45,000,000 was paid to policyholders in dividends or for the purchase of surrendered policies. The Insurance Press is unable to apportion that vast sum by localities, nor has it the information necessary to apportion in a similar way the large sums disbursed for annuities and for sundry other accounts. But it is able to distribute $197,831,811 of the grand total among cities and towns in the United States and Canada. By the tables its appears that 167 cities received more than $100,000 each, from the hand of life insurance, during 1900, the classification being as follows: Cities that received more than $100,000 167 Cities that received more than $200,000 80 Cities that received more than $300,000 55 Citics that received more than $400,000 42 Cities that received more than $500,000 38 Cities that received more than Cities that received more than

$2,000,000 Cities that received more than $5,000,000

What life insurance is seen to be doing when the millions disbursed in the settlement of policy claims are traced to their tens of thousands of destinations will interest every student of things sociological. Insurance gathers its resources in small sums from a wide area, but its returns are concentrated into relatively large payments, In every working day of 1900, American life insurance companies paid nearly $1,000,000 to the beneficiaries of their policies. That every one of these dollars was a timely assistance to the person who received it is a general statement that is subject to no modification, except in the comparatively few instances when men, already rich, left policies for large amounts. And if the truth were known, more fortunes have been saved than augmented by life insurance. More than $76,200,000 was distributed in the Middle States last year, a considerable gain over the record of 1899; in the Central States the distribution amounted to $36,300,000, a gain of nearly $3,000,000 over the preceding year; in the New England States $25,900,000 was paid out, something more than in ments reached $20,500,000, or $1,000,000 more than in 1899; the policyholders and their beneficiaries in the Western States received $15,400,000, about $1,400,-000 more than in 1899; in the Pacific States the payments were $7,300,000, approximately equivalent to the payments in 1899. No one will contend that the thousands or millions of dollars that go to cities and towns, owing to the prevision of prudent citizens, do not mean a great deal to each community. The large sums of "ready money" find their way into local banks-are used for the settlement of estates, for the canceling of mortgages, for hundreds of other purposes. Burdens that might fall upon the community or the State for the support of individuals are diminished, if not prevented. Often pertem of life insurance.

amounted to $13,399,865.

The Insurance Press summarizes the payments as follows:

Claims paid in United States

Dividends, New York reports 22,568,261 Cash surrender values..... 22,190,804 Claims paid in foreign countries estimated at..... 20,000,000 Annuities estimated at..... 5,000,000 Claims paid by non-reporting companies 6,000,000

When we look at the figures given, and consider that each year is increasing by millions the sums received and paid through the agency of life assurance companies, we can not overestimate the importance of the subject. When we look, too, at the enormous proportions of a few of the great companies, it is well worth while considering whether something ought not to be done to keep the assets from becoming, like the modern buildings. sky-scrapers. Ought there not to be some limit placed, or something done to keep the very large companies within bounds? Life assurance is a subject furnishing much matter for reflection, both from the standpoint of the public and of the company. The public have by their investments shown their faith. A glance at the statistics given show their great importance. Time, apparently, strengthens public confidence in life assurance.

Mr. Fisher and England.

The Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, who is at present in Engupon the performance of the duties which called him to the old land. He has already interviewed Lord Roberts concerning the subject of Canadian supply of horses for the imperial army, and will shortly discuss, with Mr. Chamberlain, the matter of the removal of the embargo now laid upon Canadian live cattle entering British ports. Mr. Fisher is accompanied by Prof. Robertson, and the two will visit British cities where Canadian products are most largely consumed. They will make inquiries of importers and retail provision merchants with the view to ascertaining what further improvements are necessary in Canadian foodstuffs, and also as to methods in packing so as to meet the requirements of the best class of customers in Britain. The Dominion Government are doing their best to render as much Government assistance as possible to supply our producers and exporters with the latest reliable information regarding the preferences of the British market. Their efforts in the past in this direction have been very successful. Of the main foodstuffs imported by Great Britain, such as breadstuffs, cattle, meat, cheese, butter, eggs, poultry and apples, in 1895 Canada supplied only 7 per cent of the total amount; by 1897 her proportion had risen to 10 per cent, and by 1900 had reached 16 per cent. Judging from the past we may look for an even larger proportionate increase in British trade in the future.

The Porcine City.

We have a tempered liking for the Hamilton Spectator, Conservative and all as it is. But we have sometimes thought its phrase "Hogtown," as applied to Toronto, does not precisely bear the stamp of Vere de Vere. However, this indenture witnesseth that our contemporary's pet name for the little-big city is not altogether misapplied in view of Toronto's action respecting the Duke of Cornwall and suite. The City Council has decided not to invite the Duke to be a guest of the city, because of the cost; so the expense, as well as the honor of entertaining, will be thrown on the provincial authorities, that is, on the Province at large. Hamilton and London will entertain the Duke and his suite, and foot the bill to boot. The Spectator's adjective fitly describes the Toronto City Council's action in this matter.

The Bible in the Schools.

Dr. Parkin, principal of Upper Canada College, Toronto, made the state-1899; in the Southern States the pay- ment recently that the average Canadian boy was grossly ignorant of the simplest Bible facts. We believe Principal Parkin is right. It is a sorrowful state of affairs that this should be so. Biblical instruction is too frequently shifted on to the shoulders of the Sunday school teacher, who, no matter how capable he may be, has not the opportunity in the course of one halfhour a week, to give even a superficial knowledge of Bible facts. If parents would co-operate in seeing that this Book of Books were systematically read at home, this sad defect in a boy's education would be much improved. We cannot see, however, why there is not a common ground where all may meet, irrespective of creed and agree to have the Bible studied in the schools. But setting aside the tenets of Protestantism or Catholicism, we sons who, without insurance, might be maintain that much good might charges upon the community become be derived from the use of the Bible as capitalists with money to invest. high schools, possess a far more ac-

What to Eat.

Scientific research has resulted in bringing to light the fact that nearly all our articles of diet contain elements of poison. fiBread may contain alum; milk may secrete a deadly substance, known as ptomaine; meat may contain trichinosis, and even water may abound with numerous things deleterious to life. Until recently there was thought to be one article free from any harmful elements; that was the potato. An analyst has, however, discovered that potatoes contain large quantities of salanin, which he asserts to be poisonous to humanity. In further proof of this an instance is given where some years ago a number of Austrian soldiers were poisoned by eating potatoes containing salanin. With such data before us we are forced to conclude that the human system has become tolerant to these poisons: otherwise the race would have become extinct centuries ago.

We suppose the truth is, some articles of diet agree with one person, but not with others; and the practical wisdom is to adjust one's diet, as far as practicable, accordingly.

The Toronto Telegram praises the late Hon. A. S. Hardy. There are others who will be praised after they are dead. Why wait till then?

There has been some discussion as to the feasibility of turning the Niagara Falls to use as a means of producing electric energy. Every precaution should be taken to prevent this great natural resource getting into the hands of a large company who will turn it to a monopoly for the agrandizement of a few, the inevitable result of private ownership. She said: "I am sure you have secrets. Have you not one secret greater than all?" Victor acknowledged that he had secrets and that one of them was greater than all the rest. "Just like me!" cried Adele.
"Well, come now, tell me your greatest secret and I will tell you mine." "My great secret," Victor replied, "is that I love you." "And my great secret is that I love you." said Adele, like an echo.

Britain's Coming Labor Struggle.

[The Engineering Magazine.] It is useless for us to blind ourselves to the fact that between the engineers and their employers another test either of strength or diplomacy is inevitable. What are the engineers going to fight about? For the right to handle improved machinery? They have already lost this battle, and if they should ever be so ill-advised as to enter upon another conflict for the purpose of reversing the verdict of 1898 I venture to prophesy that they will be worse beaten than they were then. Time and science are against them. The only issue upon which they can win is one of wages. In all their negotiations with their employers they ought to insist upon a standard wage for a given piece of work, no matter by whom that work is per-formed exclusively by a selected class of men. The piece-work system is the only one which harmonizes the interests of capital and labor in an industry in which labor-saving machinery is introduced. Much as the society may now oppose the introduction of the piece-work system, I believe that before many years are over they will recognize in it the only

The young couple always together be-fore marriage rarely keep up this happy intimacy, as man and wife. MR. PEARSON IN NEW YORK.

Rival of Harmsworth Ready to Buy, Sell or Exchange Ideas.

Special Envoys From New York Papers Meet Him on Ship Fully Prepared— Has Paper Chain Plan.

Cyril Arthur Pearson, owner of the London Daily Express and nineteer other publications in England, as well as Pearson's Monthly, published in New York, arrived in New York last week on the Oceanic. He and Alfred Harmsworth, proprietor of the Daily Mail, are great rivals. They started out to make their own living about the same time and at about the same age. Both were born about thirty-five years ago, and both got newspaper jobs on the London Tit-Bits by winning prizes offered by Sir Arthur Newnes, the proprietor. They have been in competition ever since. Harms worth left Tit-Bits to publish a weekly. Pearson started a weekly. As fast as Harmsworth added to his list of publications Pearson added to his, and finally went Harmsworth one better by starting a publication in this country. Then Harmsworth started the Daily Mail and made a lot of money. So Pearson established the Daily Ex-

PEARSON TO TRY HIS HAND. Finally, a few months ago, Harms-worth decided to visit New York, did so, and was the editor-in-chief of a New York paper for one night to practice his theory of what a daily newspaper should be on some other publication than his own. He left out most of the news of the day for lack of room for it.

Now Pearson has come to New York. It would not do for him to go without trying his hand at editing a New York paper for at least two An announcement is expected Mr. Harmsworth's coming was made known through a conscientious press agent, who had nothing to conceal from the public about his interesting chief's career, his puns, his dietary idiosyncrasies, and the size of his private fortune. Mr. Pearson's agent was no less diligent, but he permitted himself to be outdone in one particular. The Harmsworth agent had it spread on the records that the Harmsworth selfmade income was at least $1,000,000 a ear. Mr. Pearson's agent fixes Mr. Pearson's self-made income at $500,-

IS MET BY A "FEATURE" EDITOR. The "feature editor" of one of New York's papers went down to meet the Oceanic on the tug All Wheels and sprung from his towering topgallant mast to the deck of the liner. He hunted up Mr. Pearson and invited him aboard the tug to make a triumphal landing at the battery. The English editor was assured that the mayor of New York was waiting at the battery "It has been reported that if you to deliver to Mr. Pearson the keys of find a really fast and noiseless auto-

the city, and that a much bigger and mobile you would give it to King Edmore enthusiastic crowd of Americans follow him uptown than attended upon the arrival of Mr. Harms-

In due time the "feature editor" ran out of language and came to a full stop. Then he heard a voice saying:
"As you were about to say, Mr. Pearson, you came to this country for what purpose?"

Vanity of vanities. Beside the English editor stood the "ultra-marine editor" of another New York paper actually in possession of the latest sensa-tion. The "feature editor" made up his mind to force the fighting at once and said:

'Now, Mr. Pearson, if you'll step over the side and down the ladder we'll take you in town in no time." RECONCILES RIVAL FORCES.

The English editor looked at the 'ultra-marine editor' and then at the 'feature editor." He understood the situation. He diplomatized and kept the peace by suggesting that the "ultra-marine editor" should go up in the On the way up the "ultra-marine editor" asked the questions and took notes. Two shorthand men, six longmen, and two phonographs, hand which had been set up on the tug, kept tab.

For the general consumption of the American public Mr. Pearson offered the following remarks: "I have come to the United States to look into the business of Pearson's Monthly, to examine American machinery used in printing, and most, to look into American automobiles and to visit the Pan-American Exposition. I shall be here two weeks, returning by the Teutonic a week from Wednesday. The business of my American publication has grown so marvelously that I wanted to look into and find out the real causes and to observe American methods of publication. have twenty publications in England now, and soon I shall have two more, one to be started at Newcastle."

HIS OPINION OF AMERICAN PRESS.

"What do you think of the American newspapers? "I am not competent to criticise them, but from my standpoint I think they invade the privacy of the home too much and the rights of private citizens. I admire the enterprise of the American publisher, but I don't always admire the contents newspaper. It has seemed to me that too much prominence is given in your papers to trivial matters."

"You are much interested in automobiles, are you not, and in the breeding of thoroughbreds?" WANTS AUTO TO PACE HORSES.

"That I am; but about my stable I can't say anything at this time. I am now looking for an automobile that will run fifty miles an hour and will make no noise. I have one now-just got it-which is guaranteed to run 75 miles an hour, but whether make any noise or not I don't know. I want this machine for pacing oughbred running horses. For this purpose a machine must have speed, but it must also be noiseless. There is no reason, in my opinion, why horses should not be able to run much faster if paced by an automobile in-stead of by another horse."

"I never said any such thing; never expressed any such intentions. "What do you think about the yacht race?"

"I think you'll keep the cup," HAS IDEA FOR "LINK" JOURNAL-

ISM. Mr. Pearson further said: "I have another project, not worked out and in an inchoate condition, to establish a chain of papers around the world. PARLIAMENT.

Report of the Foreign Mission Committee -Review of the Field All Over the World.

Ottawa, June 17 .- The report of the foreign mission committee laid before the Presbyterian General Assembly, took a comprehensive survey of the different fields. Owing to events in China, the year had been the most anxious in the history of the work.

In the New Hebrides, tribal wars had raged for six or seven months, in Erromanta, and the persistent aggression of the French in some of the islands was another discouragement but the work still went on, and the New Hebrides were being rapidly leav-ened with the Gospel.

In Trinidad the mission was constantly extending. During the year 196 adults and 211 children were baptized. The San Fernando congregation had become self-supporting.

had become self-supporting.

In Corea, after three years' work, the mission reported 105 communicants and 17 baptized children, besides 46 catechumens. The missionaries itinerated from village to village, and believers were found in nine centers.

The Formesan mission was in mourning for the late Dr. Mackay, who had labored there continuously for thirty years. At the present time there were 60 churches, with were all let go on charges of vagrancy. The first two were caught alighting from a C. P. R. freight train, while the others were found sleeping in C. was now in charge, and commanded the confidence of the native church.

In India the care of the famine children had weighed heavily upon the hearts of the missionaries. Of famine children, 527 girls and 556 boys were at present in the mission. The need of more laborers was urgent, five additional men being asked for this year. In Honan the way had not yet opened up for the return of the mission-aries, but while waiting for this, an effort will be made to send Canadian missionaries to Shantung, Chi Li and other border provinces, which are now accessible Since last assembly, Rev. A. B. Winchester had resigned his position as missionary to the Chinese in British Columbia, in order to accept a charge in Toronto. The committee had extended a call to Rev. Alex. Don, of Dunedin, New Zealand. There were 16 abbath schools for Chinese, with an average attendance of 20 teachers and 5 pupils each.

In British Columbia the work among the Indians was encouraging. The school at Alberni was full, and should e enlarged. The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, starting with 8 auxiliaries in 1877, has now 666 auxiliaries and 315 mission bands, with a total membership of 21,279 contributing $45,000 52. The receipts for foreign missions in the western section were $105. 512 98. Deducting legacies and the amount raised by the W. M. F. S., the amount contributed by the church was $47,000, or $7,000 less than last year. This could be accounted for by the donations to the century fund and the India famine fund, over $100,000 being raised for the latter by the whole Canadian Church. The receipts for foreign nissions in the eastern section was 335,289 43 for the eleven months ending Feb. 28, 1901. The fund was in debt $3, 433 40 on March 1, 1901, due mainly to the purchase of mission property in

New York, June 17.-Hassan Ali, a merchant of Cairo, who declares that he is 8 feet 2 inches tall, according to his own tape measure, landed here from the steamship Nord America from Naples. The customs inspector found 2,000 eigarettes in Ali's trunk and told him he would have to pay duty on about 1,500 of them. He is entitled to bring in free 500, or about the equivalent in value of 50 cigars. He protested, but finally paid.

He said he came of a family that had the growing habit. His father, whom he always looked up to, was 8 feet 7 inches tall. He is rather 8 feet 7 inches tall. He is rather ashamed of his little sister, a runt, "only 7 feet." Ali is going to exhibit himself at the Pan-American show in

Nervous Dyspensia

RED-HANDED

Now Controlled by the Everett- Fishery Overseer McVean Nabbed a County Magistrate

> While the Latter Was in the Act of Stowing Away a Black Bass.

Despite the fact that the Dominion Governument, in response to the solicitations of Col. Leys, M. P. P., has extended the close season for bass until Sept. 1, the extension to have effect on both branches of the Thames, from London to their head waters, and on tributaries of the two branches, it is said that many local sports started out this morning with the intention of catching some bass. The fisheries overseers, however, will be on the watch, and examples will certainly be made of those caught violating the law.

A point to be borne in mind by bassfishers is that bass of less than ten inches in length must not be taken at any time during the year. Should such fish be hooked they should at once be deposited again in the water.

District Overseer Frank McVean was along the river on Saturday posting up notices of the extension of the season. He surprised several persons fishing illegally, and at one place he chased two boys through the river, but they eluded capture. One prosecution at least will follow, and that, too, against a county magistrate. Overseer McVean, who was on the opposite side of the river, saw him fishing at the Dorchester day. ter dam. The magistrate caught a bass, and instead of throwing it back he put it with his other fish. Overseen McVean crossed the river and accused the magistrate, who tried to excuse himself by saying that he meant to throw it back, but as he had allowed 15 minutes to elapse after catching the fish, the inspector considered that his intention to do so was not a particularly strong one. The magistrate will be summoned on three charges of violation of the fish laws—one of catching bass out of season, one of fishing off a dam, and one of fishing with more than three rods. If Overseer McVean keeps up his present vigilant and efficient fulfillment of his duties, infractions of the fish laws will soon cease ir

STRANGE PRANK OF DRUNKEN MAN.

Kidnapped a 2 1-2-Year-Old Girl and Showed Fight When Arrested.

On Saturday evening, about 5 o'clock, the little 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Spence, of 264 King street, was sent to a store on Clarence street. He was accompanied by his little sister Ella, aged 21/2 years. On returning without her, he told his mother that Ella was talking to a man down the street. The mother, remembering that she had seen a drunken man in the vicinity, became alarmed, and the police were notified. A search was in-stituted, but it was not till 7 o'clock that the man was located. He was found on Bathurst street, between Colup and down the G. T. R. track with the child in his arms. Mr. Spence attempted to take the child from the stranger, but the latter showed fight, and for a few minutes there was a good deal of commotion. Subsequent. ly the man gave up the child to Mrs. Spence. The man was arrested and taken to the police station, where he gave the name of James McCann, and said he was a cigarmaker. Mr. Spence said he did not want to prosecute the prisoner for abduction, and McCann was charged with drunkenness and released on bail. He failed to show up at police court this morning and a warrant will be issued. His action was evidently the combined result of his intoxication and a natural fond-ness for children which he is said to

THE DISEASE SPREADS

Another Case of Smallpex Discovered i Hamilton-Two in Hull-One From Naples.

Hamilton, June 16.-Another case of smallpox was discovered in this city yesterday, the patient being a young lady. It was not known till late yesterday that hers was a case of sn pox, and last night she was removed to the tented hospital on the heights. The esidence was not quarantined rigidly today, no policeman being on duty. The family promised to keep within doors, and not allow any person to go into the house, hence the usual precautions of house-guarding were waived. No notice was posted up informing the public of the circumstance of the smallpox, and some of the people in the neighborhood were not any too well pleased at this.

New York, June 17. — The steamer Britannia arrived today from Naples, with 5 cabin and 700 steerage passengers. One of the latter was suffering with smallpox. The steamer is de-tained at quarantine for disinfection. The patient, Colletta Marena, a girl about 16 years of age, was transferred to North Brothers Island. SMALLPOX IN HULL. Ottawa, June 16 .- Two fresh cases of smallpox have developed in Hull, brought, the authorities claim, from the lumbering district about Sudbury. The patients, two shanty men named Trudeau and Bastien, arrived several days ago and took up residence with Prudent Fortin, Chaudiere street. The house has been quarantined, and the inmates and others with whom men came in contact, vaccinated. On Friday a boy named John Mutchmore, aged 9 years, who had been ill with fever for some time, died. Dr. Beaudry was called in shortly before death, and he claims to have disovered the smallpox eruptions on the boy's face. The lad was a member of a family two members of which are now confined to the upper apartment of the police station suffering with the disease. Mutchmore was buried without

PEKIN TO STILL BE

Talk of the Court Going Elsewhere Seems To Be Unfounded.

British Plan for Payment of China's Indemnity Believed To Be the Only Feasible One.

London, June 17.-Interest in the Chinese situation centers now in the plans for the payment of the indemnity and the question of whether Pekin will continue to be the capital. The latter is more generally discussed in London.

Some newspapers express the fear that the court will never return to Fe-kin, but will establish a new capital in the province of Honan or will continue at Singan Fu. These fears are due to ignorance of the conditions of life surrounding the court. Singan Fu is in the center of a district which is afflicted with the worst famine in Chinese history. There is MISERY ON EVERY SIDE. human flesh is publicly sold and children are murdered by their parents to save them from worse suffering. While the court itself has not suffered for want of food, the scenes of horror and suffering are constantly forced on it with no hope of relief of the situation, and for a long time the honesty of the wish of the court to get away must b unquestioned. PEKIN THE PLACE.

The establishment of a new capital n the Province of Honan is out of the question, because the court does not rust the people of south and central China. It must be remembered that the dynasty in Manchu, and the population of the whole south and center is Chinese. All the revolutions start there. It can safely be predicted, therefore, that Pekin will continue to be the capital and that the court will return there as soon as the foreign troops leave. Another matter which is supposed to be worrying England is the announcement that Germany intends to main tain a garrison in the Yangtse Valley. Englishmen see in this the beginning and end of the exclusive sphere of influence. This conclusion does not necessarily follow. France has maintained a garrison at Shanghai and other coast towns for a score of years WITHOUT DAMAGING BRITISH

PRESTIGE. France is more exclusive than any other nation. At Shanghai, for instance, she maintains a settlement which she governs exclusively, while the other nations join in the government of the rest of the foreign concessions. The British predominate in this government because there are more British there, and will continue to do so, even if a German garrison is established, unless a great increase in the German population follows the establishment of the garrison, which was not true in the case of Kiachou.

A GERMAN VIEW. Regarding the attitude of the British press towards the policy of Germany at Shanghai and Lord Cranborne's statement in parliament, the German press and Government continue to hold the opinion that Germany by the very terms of the Yang Tse agreement is bound to protect the Yang Tse Valley. Besides, Germany has the same right to keep troops there as have Great Britain, France, Japan and Rus-

Referring to the Washington cable dispatch saying the United States does not mean to protest against the maintaining of a German garrison at Shanghai, the Frankfurter Zeitung says: "This is a very sensible conception of the situation, since Shanghai is Chinese and not English, and the only country having the right to protest is Germany has precisely the same right to take care of her Yang Tse interests and commerce that any other country has."

The Tageblatt says: "The abandon ment by Great Britain of her Yang Tse sphere of interest is, perhaps, the most severe blow Great Britain has sustained since the South African

POSITION OF RUSSIA.

It can be stated on competent au thority that Russia now anticipates an early settlement of the impending difficulties concerning the modelity of payment of the Chinese indemnity Russia's position is that any method is acceptable which does not conflict with the basic principles of Russian policy. Russio did find objections to the British plan, but not to the bold plan in itself. She declined to assent to arrangements which would dimin ish Chinese autonomy, opposing all forts, condominium or enlarged control of the Chinese finances; but nevertheless she would not close the matter of a communication to receive and divide the funds available for payment in compensation of the demands as an undue encroachment upon Chinese autonomy. It is learned that the powers generally replied to the American arbitration proposition that the ques-tion was too complicated. The matter of the amount is considered as closed. The powers presented their accounts and declined to assent to the American proposition to scale them down, and China agreed to pay the demand, and a formal resolution by the ministers in conference is un-

DEATH'S HEAVY HAND. Toronto, June 17.-Much sympathy is felt for Mr. James Ryrie, of Ryrie Bros., who has been in England for some weeks, and who arrived home on Saturday, being called back suddenly because of a series of afflictions which have fallen upon his family. His wife's sister, Mrs. Whittet, of Richmond, Virginia, who had been seeking better health in Toronto than she could enjoy in the south, died a few days ago at the age of 35, from complication of diseases. His sister, Mrs. Dyke, wife of Rev. S. A. Dyke, of Parkdale, died yesterday morning of appendicitis. During his absence Mr. Ryrie has lost also by death his niece, a daughter of Mr. R. G. McLean, and an aunt, Mrs. Sheppard.

A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.—The intrusion of uric acid into the blood vessels is a fruitful source of rheumatic pains. This irregularity is owing to a deranged and unhealthy condition of the liver. Anyone subject to this painful affection will find a remedy in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their action upon the kidneys is pronounced most beneficial, and by restoring healthy action they correct impurities in the blood.

Conflicting stories are told by the local C. P. R. officials and some of the employes of the road as to what effect the strike of the trackmen will have on the local division. An agent of the company says that he has only heard company says that he has only heard of half a dozen men between Toronto and Windsor being out, and he further says that the strike is having practically no effect on the local division.

C. P. R. TRACKMEN

Less Than Fifteen Men in Toronto Affected by the Order To Go Out.

Toronto, June 17.-Local officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway are little concerned over the threatened strike of the trackmen. In Toronto there are only between 12 and 15 men on the tracks, this number being sufficient to keep the system in this city in proper condition. A dispatch from Montreal, where a committee of the trackmen has been endeavoring to see the officials of the "The C. P. The representatives of the men say that fully 9 per cent of the trackmen will respond to the order to quit work. This is possible, but the question is, How long will they stay out? The officials of the railroad claim that the roadbed is now in splendid condition, and that the class of labor required can always be found ready for service. The strikers will certainly have behind them the American organization, which is said to be well supplied with funds.' Montreal, June 17 .- The strike of the C. P. R. trackmen from the Atlantic to the Pacific was inaugurated this morning at 6 o'clock. The chief feature of the game was the constant kicking. The return game is to be played shortly.

THE RIFLE. THE RIFLE LEAGUE MATCHES The annual matches in the Canadian Military Rifle League took place on Sat-urday at the Cove ranges. The conditions were anything but favorable, and, added to this, the fact that the targets have been materially reduced in size, made the showing not as good as could have been wished. Considering adverse conditions, however, the marksmanship was quite up to that of last year. The scores follow:

urday afternoon at the residence of Dr. J. R. Tyrrell, Sherbourne street, says the Toronto Globe, when his sister, Miss Charlotte Tyrrell, was married to Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, of London. The service was read by the Rev. A. H. Baldwin, rector of All Saints' Church, about 50 guests being present. The drawing-room was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers, and after the ceremony the bride and bridegroom stood before a bank of palms to receive the good wishes and congratulations of their friends. The bride looked remarkably well in a handsome gown of peach blossom silk, trimmed with velvet and point lace. Her bridesmaid was Miss Leycock, who wore a becoming dress of pale gray and white. Refreshments were afterwards served in the dining-room, where the table was artistically decorated with white flowers and ferns. Later in the afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Campbell left for a wedding tour in the United States before returning to their home in London. The bride wore a stylish tailormade traveling costume of brown broadcloth, with a bodice of tucked cream satin under the Eton coat, and a toque to match. She was the recipient of a large number of handsome

IN MONTREAL!

Aged Lady Expired in Church—Grand Trunk Workman Caught by a Cow-Catcher. Montreal, June 17.-Sudden deaths and accidents follow each other in quick succession. While driving into town from her home at Sherrington, a lady named Mrs. Patenaude suddenly fell dead in her buggy at about midday at the intersection of Dorchester and Guy streets. The deceased was in company with her husband at the Miss Dumfirede Lamarche is the name of a lady, in her 84th year, who passed away very suddenly Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Jesu, on Bleury street, whither she had gone to make her confession. When she fell to the ground it was at first thought she had fainted, but a second examination revealed the fact that she was dead.

A fatal accident happened to Sydney Jones, ex-workman, in the Grand Trunk yard, Point St. Charles. He was caught by the legs in a cowcatcher and hurled under a freight car. His skull was crushed, and he died shortly after being taken to the

The Population of Britain Has Increased Nearly Four Millions During the Past

Ten Years.

London, June 16.-The first volume of the census returns shows the population of the United Kingdom to be 41,454,578, an increase in ten years of 3,721,656. England and Wales 78.4 per cent of the total, while Ireland The volume chiefly deals with England and Wales, to which alone the following figures apply: Excess of females over males, 1,082,619 (the war, however, is responsible for the absence of many men.) Number of families, 7,-048.303: increase in ten years, 817,803; average number of persons to a family. 4.61, compared with 4.73; average inhabitants per house, 5.19, compared with 5.32. The population of towns is 77 per cent of the whole. In addition to London eight towns exceed 250,600 The population of Liverpool is 684,947, Manchester 543,969, and Birmingham 522,182. The birth rate is steadily decreasing, and so is the death rate. The excess of births over deaths from 1831 to 1891 was 13.97 per cent., and from 1891 to 1901 only 12.39.

The report says: "There has been a diminution in the loss of population by an excess of emigration over immigration to the extent of 601,499. But for the unusual drain on the resident population as the result of the war the loss would probably have been entirewiped out and a gain established for the first time by the excess of immigration over emigration.

For Housekeepers.

The condition of the potato market is interesting at the present time to farmers, retail storekeepers and the public alike. The effect of the recent frosts was apparent in the prices that ruled on midweek market prices last week. The price generally asked, though not generally secured, was 75c per bag, but on Saturday, with larger offerings, 45c ruled. In Toronto a famine is reported, and consequently there was a slightly stiffer price asked for the tubers. Today the supply was very small, and 35c to 45c per bag ruled.

Other things—indeed, nearly all staples—were supplied sparingly. The attendance also was small.

As usual, vegetables and flowers were offered in big lots, and the ordinary sales were made at quotations. Other offerings and sales did not affect prices. PROVISIONS.

"Yes, he is really, though slowly, getting better," was the young surgeon's reply, but with an expression in his eyes that was strangely sad. "Now," he continued, more brightly, "when Mr. Vining sleeps today, put on your hat and run around for a little chat with Madame Marton; it will do you both good, while she longs for you and has been more lonely during this weary separation than I can tell you."

"Poor, dear Madame Marton!" said Shirley, with a regretful smile. "I have had to neglect her sadly. Yes I will do as you wish. I will go to see her this very day," and Neil was comforted to see that the look of fear had entirely disappeared from her eyes.

"You poor, pale little bird! How I have longed for the sight of you," she said, as she brushed the tears from her cheeks. "But Clifton is better, his lordship tells me," she added, more cheerfully, as she made Shirley sit down, and, with her own hands, removed her hat. "You have no idea how good our fine young surgeon is to me; he either drops in every day, to bring me word from you, or else he sends bring me word from you, or else he sends me a written report. Here, now, Golden-hair, drink this glass of wine, and then we'il settle down from a quiet talk." She had been bustling about, and now She had been bustling about, and now brought Shirley a dainty glass of fine old port, which the young wife drank, smiling gratefully, and thinking how delightful it was to have a little attention shown her; while she wondered at this strange new tenderness which was shown through madame's every look and word. She spent a restful half-hour with her, and felt greatly cheered and refreshed when at last she arose to return to her duties.

She promised to come often, and then She promised to come often, and then, after another hearty embrace from madame, she departed, feeling lighter of heart then she had supposed it possible. An hour earlier, for her ever to be again. Late that afternoon she was sitting beside Clifton, gently fanning him—the nurse having gone to catch a nap while he slept under the influence of an oplate; for he had been suffering more than usual during the isst two hours. She was saddy during the list two hours. She was sadly contemplating the ravages which his cruel sufferings had made in him, and wondering if his thin, white face and sunken eyes would ever assume their natural expression again, when a slight rustle near the door caused her to glance that way, and she saw, standing upon the threshold a beautiful girl about her own age, regarding her with great, tender brown eyes, and a look of infinite pity shining through her lovely features. She knew at once that she must be Annie Vining.

Then she had hasteneed home with all possible speed, arriving just after Shirley had gone out for her walk and call upon madame.

She saw at once the attitude of the whole house toward the unhappy young wife, and instantly all her tenderest sympathies were enlisted in her behalf.

She had watched for Shirley to come, and, choosing her opportunity when her mother was engaged with callers, she had stolen to the door of Clifton's room to make her acquaintance and try to smooth her rough way a little.

She stood quietly by the side of the bed for a few minutes gazing sadly down upon the loved features, while the tears rolled thick and fast over her cheeks, for it seemed to her that he must be just ready to breathe his last upon earth.

At length she turned and laid her hand gently upon Shirley's shoulder, and, bending to look into her face, she asked: "Can you leave him for a minute or two—just long enough to tell me a little about him? I am afraid that we shall disturb him if we try to talk here."

Shirley glanced at the sleeper—hesitated a moment, then nodded again as she whispered:
"Yes, come into the dressing room; I can see him if he stirs, and he will not hear us there."

She arose and led the way thither.

can see him if he stirs, and he will not hear us there."

She arose and led the way thither, motioning her companion to be seated in a low rocker, while she stationed herself by the door, where she could see the slightest movement which might be made on the part of Clifton.

Annie would not be seated. She came close to Shirley and said, with trembling lips:

Annie would not be seated. She came close to Shirley and said, with trembling lips:

"Tell me truly, is he really better? Mamma says so. Will he get well?"

The latter was a question which Shirley herself had not yet dared to ask. She had tried to be content with the assurance that he was slowly improving. But that dreadful wound in the back, so near the spine, she knew was a very serious injury. There had been two or three consultations regarding it, but no one save the surgeons themselves, and possibly Mr. Vining, knew what their verdict had been.

"Yes," she gently answered, "Clif is really better, and—I hope that he is going to get well."

"Oh! he will—he must get well. I could not spare Clif," the fond young sister exclaimed, with a sudden rush of tears. Shirley's lips quivered in sympathy. She, too, felt that she could not spare Clif. Often and often she had said those very words to herself. But the long season of waiting and watching which she had been through, the daily sight of his suffering and battle for his life, had made her realize that his fate was in patient and submissive.

"You were with him when it happened —you saw it all?" Annie inquired, in a low, awed tone, after a moment of low, awed tone, after a moment of silence.

Shirley bowed an affirmative, a shiver running over her as she remembered that dreadful moment, when, standing by those glass doors, she had witnessed the dreadful accident, and felt as if her own heart was being crushed as she saw her young husband lying helpless and unconscious beneath those cruel trunks.

"Would it be too hard for you—do you feel as if you could tell me about it?" Annie pleaded; then added, almost tenderly: "It must have been dreadful for you, and I have felt so sorry for you, ever since I knew of it."

Her tone and look of sympathy expressed far more than her words, and Shirley's composure nearly gave way.

"Ah! I ought not to ask you that. Never mind, do not try to tell me if it unnerves you so," said the gentle girl, as she observed her emotion. "Some other time will do as well."

"Yes, I can tell you about it," Shirley returned, recovering herself, and then she proceeded to give her a brief account of the accident and all that had occurred in connection with it, although, of course, she ignored everything of a disagreeable nature concerning the treatment she had received at Mr. and Mrs. Vining's hands.

"How dreadful it must have been!—and on your wedding-day," too," said Annie, as she lifted her hand and

"Poor, dear boy! I am afraid that he will be a long time getting over it," said his sister sorrowfully. "And how you are worn with the care of him! You have been with him through it all," she added, looking pityingly into Shirley's white, thin face.

"Of course I could not leave him," the young wife returned with simple earnest-

"I do not mind the weariness—I will ot mind anything if Clif will only get ell," Shirley responded, with a tremusus smile, that went straight to the heart of her companion.

She leaned nearer to her, slipped both her arms around her slight waist and drew her close to her, looking into her great, sad, blue eyes with wistful tend-

"You are a brave, patient darling, and I love you with all my heart," she whispered, impulsively, and then kissed her fondly on the lips.

This was more than Shirley's long-tried soul could bear. It was so unexpected, this heartfelt sympathy and warm girlish friendliness, and it broke down her composure utterly.

She dropped her head upon Annie's shoulder, a heavy sob bursting from her surcharged heart.

The date of inspection of the Twentylad before he got him out of danger.

The date of inspection of the Twenty-Fourth Kent Regiment has been fixed for Teusday evening, July 5. Lieut.-Col. Peters, D. O. C., has officially notified Lient.-Col. Rankin to this effect. Much depends upon this inspection. It has been decided that 10,000 troops will go to Toronto for three days the first week of October, to participate in a review during the visit of the Duke and Duchess of York. Only such regiments as show up well on inspection will be chosen. The members of the Chatham corps, as a result, are paying particular attention to details, as the officers have great hopes of having a sufficiently drilled regiment as to be among those chosen.

DREADED SUNDAY

Position in Which James Beatty, of Kilworthy, Found Himself-Owing to Dyspepsia He Could Only Eat the Simplest Food-His Recommendation for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Many people have cause to dislike or fear what should be an object of reverence to all—the seventh day, the day of

Owing to the old custom which makes Sunday a feast day, dyspeptics often fail to derive any benefit, spiritual or physical, from the observance of the Sabbath.

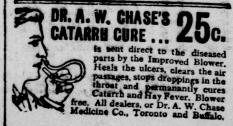

To such people Dodd'c Dyspepsia Tablets will be found of inestimable value. They are positive cures for all the forms and symptoms of Dyspepsia. They are in use over the greater part of the civilized world. Without exception those who have tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are satisfied and glad that they did so.

Mr. James Beatty of Kilworthy, Ont. is one of them. He has used Doll's Dyspepsia Tablets. Here is what he has written about them:

"If Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do the same for everybody as they did for me they are a great medicine. I saw them advertised in the paper. I happened to be in Mr. Horner's store in Gravenhurst. I asked the clerk, Mr. Sam Murray and the beautiful the same tray. ray. Mr. Murray said that he had run out of them, but would send for some. I told him that it wouldn't be neces-sary, as I thought they would be like other patent medicines, but I found different. I went to Dr. Camp bell's and got them there. "For years I had to be very particular what I ate and drank. Above all things I dreaded Sunday. Now, thank goodness, I can eat what I choose, and the doctor is in my own pocket in the shape of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am a different man. I had to take one every meal at first. Then I got so that I could do with one a day. Now I don't need any. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured me altogether. There are plenty of people to prove it as I am known from Toronto to Parry Sound."

LOST AND WON IN GAMBLING.

An Old Croupier Gives Some Reminiscences.

Fast Track and Good Racing at High- Big Establishments Get Enormous Sums of Money From Their Patrons-Bank Is Sure to Win.

> [From Tit-Bits.] "I have been for many years connected in one capacity or another, but principally as a croupler, with several of the gambling casinos of Europe," said a croupler who until recently presided at one of the famous roulette tables at a famous continental public gambling establishment.

> "Few people have much idea of the enormous amounts of money that has been earned by the various gambling establishments. In the early days the annual profits of the gambling house at Aix-la-Chapelle were said to be £14,000. At Homburg the annual expense of the Kursal was £10,000, and yet there remained a very handsome profit, though I forget the amount; neither can I now recall the profits of Baden-Baden, but as the company which rented the Conversationhaus (as the gambling establishment was called) paid about £11,000 a year for you can guess the gross takings must have been pretty heavy. "At Spa (where the gambling establishments at one time belonged to the Bishop of Liege) the profits were over £40,000 per annum. At Ostend the club in a season of three months managed, after paying a tax of £70,000 to the municipality, to make a net profit of £280,000. "The splendid revenue earned by the Monte Carlo tables has now become a proverb. That these public gamb ling casinos are productive of considerable harm it would be idle to deny. As a matter of fact, many more cases of suicides, murder and 'scandal' oc-cur at the various gambling resorts sum annually in subsidizing a large number of European and American newspapers; in fact, all that they can,

in order to prevent such horrors from being reported.
"The papers thus subsidized are also freely used for occasional puffs and paragraphs relating to sensational and often imaginary 'breakings' of the bank. Indeed, you may be surprised to hear that quite a number of 'mushroom' journals are continually being started for the mere purpose of securing the 'retaining fee' paid by the 'administration.' I could tell you the name of one little paper the proprietor of which was paid by the 'adminstra-tion' of a certain casino 100,000 francs (£4,000) to keep it in a friendly frame of mind at a rather critical time. Besides the command they obtain of these papers the 'administrations' have other methods for making the best of DOCTORS EMPLOYED FOR A SPE-CIAL USE. "At one of the gambling towns where I was employed there were three doctors—dissipated, ignorant rascals, with no practice, and whose peared uneasy, and I saw him look rascals, with no practice, and whose names would in England have long since been struck off the medical register-who were secretly and unofficially paid handsome salaries by the from tha moment he began losing, and the bystanders ceased to follow professional services as occasion required. If, for instance, some ruined gamster, after losing his last louis, shot himself in a quiet corner of the grounds, two of the doctors would be sent for and would, in a number of instances, certify the death as apo-plexy, syncope, heart disease, aneurism or sunstroke, and thus the inconvenience of an inquest and undesirable publicity was avoided. One these rogues, I heard, was paid £700 a year.

"Murders, too, were, whenever circumstances made it possible, either similarly hushed up or reported as occurring somewhere else. I remember such a case some years ago. The only son of a wealthy English merchant won about £4,000 at the trente-etquarante table. Instead of leaving it in the care of the 'administration,' which he could have done, he insisted on taking his winnings home with him to his hotel. Before he had got very far he was robbed of the whole sum and knocked on the head.

"And in what form do you suppose the news reached the public? Why, in this: "The unfortunate young man, who had been on a mountain-climbing expedition, was found lying at the bottom of a precipice with his head broken. He had apparently missed his footing, and thus met his untimely end.' That was the way it appeared in those papers that mentioned it at all. As a matter of fact, the poor fellow's body had been surreptitiously conveyed from the spot where it was first discovered to the supposed scene of the 'accident,' the better to substantiate the explanation given. "It is astonishing how the gambling habit dominates some people. I knew one lady as an habitue of the rooms at Monte Carlo with whom gambling beame such an absorbing mania that she made several applications to magistrates, and also to the resident doctor of a lunatic asylum, and used con siderable efforts to get herself placed under restraint as being the only means by which she could be pre-vented from gambling. Not being suc-cessful, she managed to get incarcerated in another way, by forging a check for £100, though she had no need of the money, and she got two years' imprisonment. Her story was fully told in court, which probably accounted for her not getting a longer sentence. "The persistence with which a born gambler will pursue his own ruin is major in the army who had just inherited £25,000 came to Hamburg. Being aware what an incorrigible gambler he was, he took the precau-tion of paying three months in ad-vance for his board and lodging at the hotel, and, furthermore, handed to the landlord to hold in trust for him, and on no consideration what-ever to repay him until he had returned to England, no matter how much he might entreat him. He began at the trente-et-quarante table by winning £6,000.

"Next day he netted £5,000. Then he alternated his transactions between trente-et-quarante and the roulette tables, but the refait and zero occurred so frequently that in a few days his capital was reduced from £16,000 to 10 shillings, and finally to nothing. Then he went to the land-lord of the hotel and ordered, begged and entreated him to give him his £5,000. The landlord refusing, he went and berrowed 230 from a friend, lost it, then went and sold his watch and It is a peculiar fact that almost chain, jewelry and all his clothes exevery automobilist is a cyclist as well. cept what he stood up in, returned to the tables with £40 and again lost every farthing.

"The hotel landlord being still in-"The hotel landlord being still inexorable, the gambler got up in the night, broke open the money till in the bar, helped himself to the money therein—about £15—depositing in the till his I O U and a letter authorizing the landlord to recoup himself from the £5,000, and next day went to the tables, lost the £15, and as the landlord refused to give up his £5,000 until he reached England, he departed by the first train available, the landlord taking his ticket for him.

"After reaching England, no sooner did he receive his £5,000, less the £15 and traveling expenses deducted by and traveling expenses deducted by the landlord, than he once more set out for Homburg. This time he was armed with a 'system' which he evolved during his journey, and in which he had great faith, but in a few days he had lost every franc, and the last time I saw him, which was several years after, he was a porter and was carrying visitors' luggage up from a carriage to the very hotel at which he had himself stayed in former years.

"There are, of course, some habit-ues of the rooms who play carefully and know when to leave off. At Ostend there was an old fellow who used to come to the rooms every day at the same time, just as if he were going to his business, and would sit there hour after hour marking the chances on his card, and at last, when he thought there was a certainty, would stake a small sum and win the price of his board and lodging for the day and go home again. It was said that he aiways managed to win his day's keep, and never did any other kind of work.

"The methods and superstitions of habitual gamblers at the tables are often curious. They will back the red because they have met a soldier in the street, or the black because they have met a parson. Staking one's money on the number of one's room at the hotel is an old favorite fancy. They will back the day of the month, their age last birthday, the number of buttons on any one's dress, or the dates of saints' days on the calendar. Some of them carry little so-called talismans about with them, others are believers in mascots or luck-bringers. MASCOTS.

"A nobleman who was a familiar figure at Monte Carlo some years ago happening to see a hunchback, more than usually deformed, selling matches in a London thoroughfare, took him into his service, nominally as an assistant to his valet, and took him with him to Monte Carlo for a mascot, and whenever he played invariably had him with him

"I remember another rich, but invariably unfortunate gambler, a re-tired admiral, who, happening to become acquainted with a man though he never gambled, had the reputation of being lucky, actually engaged him at a good salary and hotel and traveling expenses to ac-company him to the tables and conduct all gambling operations on his

"Some years ago when I was an offi cial at Monte Carlo a young English gentleman attracted much notice the tables both by his wonderful success and his apparent wealth. The crowd, as usual, followed his methods, and doing exactly as he did, won steadily.

"Among these were two middle-aged dark men and an old white-haired gentleman with blue spectacles, who seemed intensely interested in youth's operations. The papers were just then full of a sensational bank robbery, and when I saw how flush of money the youth was, and noticed hard at the blue-spectacled gentleman and color violently. He had evidently discovered that he was being watched his methods. The blue-spectacled genold gentleman's side of the table and imitated his system for a while. Presently the youth went out of the rooms and the three men followed him. I went outside also, when, to my infinite surprise, the old blue-spectacled gen-tleman whom I had supposed to be a detective was arrested by the two dark men (who really were detectives) for the bank robbery. "It transpired afterward that the old gentleman, who, disguised by blue spectacles and minus his beard, had been 'following' the young English-man's play, was the managing director of a well-known bank, from which he had absconded with several thousands of pounds.

"The youth's confusion, which at first had looked like conscious guilt, was merely due to nervousness, consequent on suddenly recognizing his director watching him, who, however, had no idea that the young man whose play he was following was one of the clerks in his bank. The young man it was afterwards explained, had come into a small legacy unknown to the bank authorities, and having to take his holidays in the early spring, as junior clerks often do, came to Monte Carlo with the two detectives hot on his track. The bank director, I believe, got seven years."

A Pain Remedy.

The True Relief, Radway's Ready Relief

For Internal and External Use. In using medicines to stop pain we should avoid such as inflict injury on the system. Opium, Morphine, Chloroform, Ether, Cocaine and Chloral stop pain by destroying the sense of perception, the patient losing the power of feeling. This is a most destructive practice; it masks the symptoms, shuts up, and, instead of removing trouble, breaks down the stomach, liver and bowels, and, if continued for any length of time, kills the nerves and produces local or general paralysis.

There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like RAD-WAY'S READY RELIEF will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the least danger in either infant or adult.

Will Afford Instant Ease,

For headache (whether sick or nervous), toothacho, neuralgia, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and weakness in the back, spine or kidpains and weakness in the back, spine or kidneys, pains around the liver, pleurisy, swelling of the joints and pains of all kinds the application of Radway's Ready Rallef will afford immediate relief, and its continued use for a few days effect a permanent cure.

Instantly stops the most excruciating pains, allays inflammation and cures congestion, whether of the Lungs, Stomach, Bowels or other glands or muccus membranes.

Radway's Ready Relief

Cures and Prevents

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Berlin Telegraph: What might have proved a serious accident took place Friday evening. While Mr. W. Somerville, of the Mutual Life staff, Waterloo, was driving down King street with a surrey, accompanied by his sister and brother, Miss and Master Somerville, of South London, and Miss Hespeler and Miss L. Bruce, of including one of the celebrated Ronald town, the horse became frightened, fire engines, which is now stalled at and ran down the street at a terrific their works, East Simcoe street, this pace. At the mill square he turned short, upsetting the rig and spilling out the occupants. The young ladies got off very fortunately, only Miss Somerville sustaining a sprained ankle. The top and shafts of the surrey were broken. In the upset the horse fell, and was captured by bystanders, otherwise the consequences would have been much more serious. CADETS WILL GO TO BUFFALO. Word was received from Buffalo yesterday that before the public school cadets can visit the Pan-American, they will have to secure permission from the Washington authorities to enter the United States carrying arms. Mr. C. S. Hyman, M. P., has promised to have an application sent to the British ambassador at Washington, from the Dominion authorities, at once. Each school that can send cadets should advise Mr. Coo of the number who can go as early as possible, as the detachment will be limited to 200. The exposition authorities will supply a band for the boys while in Buffalo. Drill will commence as soon as the school examinations are over, and everybody who wants to go will have to be a model cadet.

CANADA PAPERS

Ringling Bros'. Circus Receives Flattering Press Notices-Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton All Voice the One

Favorable Opinion. Every circus that comes this way claims to be the largest and best on earth, but there seems to be no doubt of the claim of superiority made by the Ringling show, which will exhibit for the first time in London next Monday. The Ringling circus made its first appearance in Canada at Montreal, June 7 and 8. In speaking of it the Herald of June 8 said: "There is nothing on the bill boards that is not in the show. In fact there is more in the show than is on the posters. The elephants are a circus in themselves. People went prepared to be disappointed and came back delighted.' The Gazette of the same date says: "The crowds at the evening performance were so great that the ticke wagons were closed long before the performance began, and many who came late were refused admission, as there was no room for more, and the management showed courtesy and wisdom in adopting this course. It was a gala scene, everybody appeared in a holiday mood, and the consensus of opinion made the Ringling Bros.' cir cus, in all truth, the greatest on earth Throughout the two hours and more that the entertainment lasts, there is not a single weak turn; everything is given with a finish that stamps it as the artist's best work."

The Star says: "The Montreal public was treated yesterday to a decided novelty, a circus which lives up to its promises. Of the circus proper it is impossible to speak too highly. "The impression gained by the thousands of visitors yesterday was a de cidedly favorable one." Monday, June 10, this circus appear ed in Ottawa, and the Citizen of that city said: "The Ringling circus has visited and departed from the capital, and incidentally a mark has been established that stands above all records." The Citizen also contained the following editorial: "The circus which exhibited in Ottawa yesterday deserves special mention as possessing the most orderly, respectable-looking employes of any aggregation of the sort that has ever visited Canada. It spent Sunday here, so Ottawa people had an opportunity of judging. It is also pleasant to be able to bear testimony to the fact that the perform ance and menagerie were as much superior to the general average of circuses as were the personnel and management." The papers of Toronto and Hamilton are equally complimentary in speaking of the Ringling show, so there is no doubt that a treat is in store for London. Reserved seats and admissions will be sold all Monday at Nordheimer's piano warerooms at exactly the same price as on the show grounds.
