Damaging Defeat!

The British Tory Government Worsted

By an Adverse Majority of Sixty-Six Votes.

The Liberal Amendment to the Factory Bill Carried.

"A Damaging and Ignominious Blow"—Secretary Matthews' Blunder.

LONDON, June 19.—In the debate in the House of Commons to-day on the Factory Bill the amendment of Sydney Buxton (Liberal) to prohibit children under 11 years of age from working was adopted by a vote of 202 to 136. The Government was thus defeated. The majority included a few Conservative members. Buxton's amendment will affect 150,000 to 200,000 children in the kingdom now employed in the manufacturing district as half-timers. It is a humanitarian reform, and was opposed by the bulk of the operatives, who benefit by the labor of their offspring. The Liberals argued that the abolishing of child-labor would provide more work for adults.

Sir J. E. Gorst explained that the proposal had been agreed to at the Berlin Labor Conference in order to bring England into harmony with other nations on the only point on which she was behindhand, but it was distinctly understood that the signing of the conference protocol did not bind England to legislative action on the subject.

Mr. Morley challenged the Government to say whether they opposed Buxton's amendment or not.

Home Secretary Matthews intimated that the Government would not support the amendment.

Sir J. E. Gorst, who was a delegate to the Berlin Conference, abstained from voting. Lord Harrington, Sir Henry James and a few other dissidents voted with the minority, while Mr. Chamberlain and the bulk of the dissidents voted with the majority.

The object of the Buxton clause might still be defeated by an amendment, but it is expected the Government will accept the situation.

PRESS COMMENTS.

The News (Gladstonian), commenting on the matter, says the blow is both damaging and ignominious, and that not even the resignation of Home Secretary Matthews will save the Government from discredit and disgrace.

The Chronicle says: "Truly Secretary Matthews is a costly luxury to the State. The defeat of the Government will seriously damage the prospects of every Unionist candidate in the next general election."

LOST IN THE CLOUDS.

Three Frenchmen Make a Fatal Balloon Voyage—A Professional Aeronaut Killed.

PARIS, June 18.—A fatal balloon trip, resulting almost to a certainty in the loss of three lives, occurred at the La Villette yesterday afternoon. A balloon containing a professional aeronaut and two other persons made an ascent about midday from La Villette, the aerial venture being watched by crowds of people. When the balloon had reached a height of not more than 50 feet from the ground the aeronaut, who had been busily engaged about the outside of the car, was seen to suddenly lose his balance, make a desperate effort to regain it and then fall to the earth. He was picked up so terribly injured that it is said there are no prospects of saving his life.

In the meantime the balloon and its two remaining occupants, both of whom were utterly ignorant of the manner in which a balloon is handled, mounted up higher and higher into the air, until completely out of sight of the crowd. The Government officials have telegraphed to the prefects in surrounding departments to make all the inquiries possible in regard to the fate of the two occupants of the balloon, but up to this morning nothing has been heard of their whereabouts.

Discount Rate Reduced.

LONDON, June 18.—The Bank of England has reduced its rate of discount from 4 per cent. to 3.

The Mercury Takes a Tumble.

NEW YORK, June 18.—A remarkable change in the weather has occurred within the last 24 hours. A wave passed over the city yesterday. At 3 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 53°, a fall of 40° in thirteen hours.

Fell Into a Shark's Mouth.

NORFOLK, June 18.—Information has been received in this city of the death of John Howard, the colored cook of the schooner Silver Queen, at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay, by being swallowed by a shark. He with others of the crew saw a school of sharks following close after the vessel. Upon the suggestion of one of the men an improvised net was made to capture one of the monsters. Howard became entangled in the meshes of the net and fell over the vessel's side. The foremost of the sharks was not more than ten feet away and the man was seen no more.

Brave Mrs. Grimwood.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Mr. Edmund Yates in his cable letter says: "Both the Queen and the Princess of Wales are much interested in Mrs. Grimwood, who is now staying with her mother, Mrs. Moore. The Queen sent Lord Cross to see her the other day, and the Princess of Wales has invited her to luncheon, as she is most anxious to hear from her own lips the account of her terrible journey. In crossing the river Mrs. Grimwood injured the sinews of one of her feet, and is extremely lame in consequence; indeed, it is feared that she will always be a little so, and she has some slight bullet wounds in her arm. One man was shot when standing within an inch of her while she was attending to the wounded and fell against her, yet she still continued to work undaunted. Mrs. Grimwood is only 23 and had been married three years. I am able to confirm on the best authority the statements which have been published as to the probability of Mrs. Grimwood receiving the Victoria Cross in addition to the Red Cross."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Tory [illegible]ces Develops the Sa[illegible]l Policy.

A Message to [illegible]ment from Lady [illegible]ord.

OTTAWA, Jun[illegible]. Davies introduced a bill to a[illegible] Dominion Lands Act. The first [illegible]ure explained, was to provide that [illegible]ers' cattle should be kept uncontam[illegible]dy outhouses built in too close pr[illegible]hio coolies and ravines. If the [illegible]ndise was adopted he said the [illegible]ould have heard the last of th[illegible] homestead question, as the ye[illegible]n the 1887 amendment to the act [illegible]anged to 1889. The third clause [illegible]e municipalities or school boards [illegible]r to sell lands for taxes where th[illegible]eals might not have taken out a [illegible]nd five years had elapsed since [illegible]steading. Another clause was to [illegible]re homesteads being dealt with by [illegible]ers. It provided that from and after [illegible]uary, 1885, no patent shall be issued [illegible]mesteader except on the condition [illegible]uld the land remain for three yea[illegible]ut fifteen acres under cultivation it [illegible]evert to the Crown. The bill was r[illegible]st time.

Replying t[illegible] Ross, of Lisgar, Sir Hector Lang[illegible]d the surveys on the Red River h[illegible]en completed and the estimated cos[illegible]e necessary improvements to make river navigable is $922,000.

Mr. Laurier a[illegible] the Minister of Justice if he could giv[illegible] House any further information in r[illegible] to the negotiations at Washington. [illegible]ohn Thompson replied that all the re[illegible]g letters available this session would [illegible]on the table on Monday next.

Mr. Barron [illegible] the House as the champion of the H[illegible] staff. Cribbed, cabined and confined [illegible] four walls, with scarcely room to tu[illegible] their chairs and almost suffocated th[illegible] the defective ventilation, these import[illegible]fficers of the House are expected to per[illegible] their duties under circumstances wh[illegible]ould dismay mortals of other than heroic type. They have borne long [illegible]atiently with the unpleasant and unjus[illegible] conditions they have to labor und[illegible] Last session Mr. Barron brought the [illegible]evance before the House, and a rem[illegible] was promised, but practically noth[illegible]ad been done save to place a ventilat[illegible] the top of the room, which is worse[illegible]an useless. Mr. Barron now rem[illegible] that it was impossible for the [illegible]orters to do their work with any[illegible]ree of comfort at all. Sir Hector [illegible]osed to attend to the matter, admitting [illegible] necessity of acting as suggested by Mr. Barron.

Mr. Lar[illegible] rose immediately the Minister of Pu[illegible] Works concluded his remarks [illegible] the Hansard accommodation, apparently for the purpose of putting a question [illegible] Sir Hector about the Government's [illegible]icy. The Minister, anticipating the inq[illegible], said: I wish to answer the question [illegible] by the honorable gentleman yesterday who wanted to know whether I was r[illegible] to-day or on another day to make a stat[illegible]ent of the policy of the Government [illegible] have this to communicate to the House.

"The Government purposes to carry out the p[illegible]cy which has hitherto guided the Liberal-Conservative party, an outline of which in respect to the measures of this sess[illegible] was indicated in the speech from the throne. The trade and financial policy will be declared in the budget speech."

The announcement was received with [illegible]ee and laughter on the Liberal side of the house. Mr. Laurier said: "I cannot say that the declaration just made by the leader of the House takes me in any way by surprise."

The Speaker here interfered, evidently determined to put down discussion on the Ministerial announcement with a firm hand. "This," he said, "is a matter that requires my intervention. It will be remembered that yesterday an irregular discussion went on for a considerable length of time. I think that this should be put a stop to. I will ask the House to sustain me in putting down any irregular discussions which arise this session.

Mr. Laurier's few graceful words in reply to this showed how the Speaker had misapprehended his intention. "Mr. Speaker," said he, "I would be the first to bow to your ruling and to give you my humble assistance in carrying out this decision. But I wish to explain that I do not rise for the purpose of debate at all, but simply to point out that the Government resemble a certain place which I will not name but which is said to be paved with good intentions. (Laughter.) I have no doubt they will seek to follow the policy of Sir John Macdonald, but already they have made a very wide departure from it, and to-morrow I will endeavor to show it to the House and to themselves."

The debate on the North Shore Railway was resumed by Mr. Laurier, who said the Government never interfered at all with the Canadian Pacific Railway in order to develop or attempt to prevent them from improving the railway formerly known as the North Shore Railway. The member for Quebec, Mr. Laurier pointed out, did not complain at all of the interference of the Government with a view to preventing the Canadian Pacific Railway from improving the line, but he stated that by the action of the Government the Canadian Pacific Railway were placed in this position—that they had no object in improving the line. They simply make the position worse than it was, and until this position was rectified the company allowed the line to deteriorate and did not at all attempt improvement.

The debate was continued by Mr. Langevin, who excused the Government, and by Mr. Freemont, mayor of Quebec, Mr. Delisle, Col. Amyot, Mr. Langevin and Mr. Mulock, all of whom said that the Canada Pacific Railway had not observed the conditions put upon it by the act of 1885 with regard to the North Shore Railway.

Mr. McMullen's bill providing that mileage to attend Parliament may not be charged by any member of the Commons or Senator from a point outside the Dominion, also requiring that a member of either of the Senate or House of Commons must reside within the Dominion, was read a second time without opposition, after the member for North Wellington had supported its merits in a speech whose force commended it to the House.

On the motion for the second reading of Col. Amyot's bill to make voting compulsory a debate sprung up. The promoter of the bill explained that its provisions would compel an elector to go to the polls, but it did not attempt to compel him to vote. If an elector did not wish to vote for either of the candidates he might destroy his ballot by putting more than one cross on it or in any other way he saw fit. All the bill required was that he go to the poll, take a ballot, retire to the ante-room and returning hand back his ballot to the returning officer.

Sir John Thompson criticized the bill and moved that the debate be postponed for consideration.

Sir Richard Cartwright said it was a harsh construction the Minister of Justice had put upon the bill when he said that it invited fraud. His experience had been that the conveyance of voters from a distance was a prolific source of corruption, and another evil was that of impersonation. Both these would be largely removed by the principle of one man one vote, and that resident in the county in which it was cast. A good deal could be said for the principle of the bill.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) said the member for Bellechasse had done an important service in bringing the principle of the bill under consideration. The bill involved a change in the policy of the Government and the present election laws. It involved the adoption of "one man one vote," because it could hardly be required of an elector to vote in more than one county.

On the motion of Sir John Thompson the debate on the motion for the second reading was adjourned. The Speaker left the chair at 6 o'clock.

After recess Mr. Barron moved the second reading of the bill standing in his name to further amend the Dominion Election Act. It was a short measure. The object of the first clause was to provide that the deposit required for a recount shall be paid either under legal tender or in bills of any chartered bank doing business in Canada. The second clause was to afford means of compelling county court judges at the instance of dissatisfied parties to have a recount made. As the law stood now the county court judges to whom application was made for a recount might decline to give it and thus the ends of justice would be defeated. The bill was read the second time.

There was a debate on the question of the proposed bridge at Quebec, in which the Minister of Militia did not make a particularly creditable appearance. Mr. Langelier moved for copies of all orders-in-Council, instructions to engineers, correspondence, papers, reports and documents respecting the building of a bridge at Quebec. Mr. Langelier said the Government had promised to provide a grant for the bridge, and that at the last election the Government candidate had intimated that aid was promised by the Government. Mr. Langelier now asked Mr. Caron to say whether the candidate's promise had been authorized. Mr. Caron attempted to reply, but floundered hopelessly in an endeavor to interpret the promise as meaning nothing. Meanwhile Sir Hector scowled at his colleague's oratorical performance. The motion passed.

Mr. McMullen evoked the sympathy of the House in favor of a disabled member of the Northwest police force, and Mr. Dewdney promised to inquire into the matter and see if a grant could be made.

Mr. Laurier moved for copies of all reports by an officer of the Department of the Interior on the complaints of British Columbia settlers in reference to their claims on lands comprised in the Island Railway reserve. The motion was agreed to.

The Quebec bridge came up for the third time on a motion by Mr. Laurier for a copy of the report of Mr. Collingwood Schreiber upon a survey made by him of the River St. Lawrence immediately opposite and in the vicinity of the city of Quebec for the purpose of ascertaining whether it was possible to build a railway bridge there. The order was made.

Mr. McMullen and Dr. Landerkin brought to the attention of the House the important matter of the payment of the Dominion to municipalities the amounts of bonuses paid by them to railways that were afterwards declared to be public enterprises.

The House adjourned at 10:35.

DEADLY DOWNPOUR.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 18.—A waterspout fell on Sunday on the mountains in which is situated the Concepcion silver mine, in San Luis Potosi. A number of persons were killed and a large number wounded. The latest telegrams from San Luis Potosi place the number of bodies recovered at the scene of the waterspout at 23. So far 30 persons are known to have been hurt. Work at the Concepcion mine is entirely suspended.

OMAHA, June 18.—The heaviest rain known for years fell Tuesday night over Nebraska. Numerous bad washouts were occasioned, and several houses were washed away. At Oakdale the precipitation was five inches. At Humphrey, Bartholomew Bogus, a farmer, was killed by lightning. At Palmer the wife and grandmother of Vaola Lanton were struck by lightning and killed.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 18.—The thunder storm Tuesday evening was a severe one, and the lightning played several strange pranks. Just about the conclusion of a band concert in the drill shed the lightning struck the building and the fluid ran along the electric wires, frightening many in the audience. A street car driver was knocked down and stunned. Jesse Tinger, sexton of Christ Church, was struck in his house, but escaped serious injury. Jos. McBride, living on Catharine street north, was standing in the doorway and the lightning struck him on the neck, singing his left leg, the knee of which was much swollen. He was unconscious for a time, but soon recovered.

Sixty-two Years' Experience.

Mr. Thos. Edwards, of Birmingham, Eng., was for a number of years a great sufferer from rheumatic gout, sometimes being bedridden for six months at a time. He had tried various doctors and had used many so-called remedies in his effort to obtain relief, without avail. Finally, Mr. George Bellhouse, Chief of the Birmingham Fire Brigade, gave him a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, and from the very first application he obtained relief from pain. Mr. Edwards is 62 years of age, and says he never found anything to equal it.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Interesting Discussions in the General Assembly.

Sharp Attack on the Society of Christian Endeavor.

A Compromise Resolution—Utterances on the Temperance Reform Question—The Summer College Scheme.

KINGSTON, June 17.—The foreign mission report was taken up and finally disposed of. A regulation was adopted placing ordained and medical missionaries on equal terms on the aged and infirm ministers' fund, with present beneficiaries. Incapacitated missionaries retiring after ten years' service are pensioned $100, with an additional $10 per year to 40 years, when the maximum of $400 is reached. Lady missionaries to be pensioned at half these rates.

The report on state of religion was presented by Rev. John Pringle, of Port Arthur, who referred to the very buoyant nature of all reports received from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The one cloud appeared to be that elders were losing their grip. The attendance at church services was 75 to 90 per cent. of congregations; 90 per cent. of young people attended Christian Endeavor meetings and Bible class, but in the prayer meeting the attendance was going down. The greatest hindrance to the work everywhere was the giant intemperance. The report showed a hopeful improvement in every department, and full and satisfactory replies to the great majority of the inquiries sent out. The report recommended that a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, or similar organization, be formed in all congregations.

Dr. A. B. MacKay, Montreal, seconded the report in an hour's speech. In the course of his remarks regarding work among the young, he said instruction in divine truth was of the greatest importance. That instruction, too, should look towards developing workers, not talkers; doers, not hearers only. It was easier to recite pretty verses at a society meeting than stay at home and wash dishes. The direction of young people in social work, as take for instance Christian Endeavor societies, was to develop talkers, and members often did not want pastor or elder present. They could teach one another, and this tended to foster a want of respect for the pastor. C stood for courting as well as Christian, and this was often the use to which these meetings were put. Let it be Christian courting, "not unequally yoked with unbelievers." (Applause.) Intemperance had been spoken of as the greatest hindrance, but Dr. MacKay named idolatory of mammon as the greatest drawback to higher life, and the dreadful revelations of prevalence of gambling in high quarters was instanced as evidence of this.

Rev. J. B. Mullan, Fergus, protested against the sneer with which he said Dr. MacKay had referred to Christian Endeavor societies. (Applause.)

J. B. Duval, of Winnipeg Presbytery, was particularly emphatic in his denunciation of the "ghastly, carnal language" of Dr. McKay, terms which brought forth loud cries of disapproval, and induced the speaker finally to withdraw and apologize. Rev. C. H. Cook, Smith's Falls, on the other hand claimed that the Christian Endeavor Society was an impertinence in its very existence, seeking to usurp the work of the church; that it was unpresbyterian, that it dishonored the Church of Christ.

Rev. Robert Johnson, of Lindsay, asserted that either the Christian Endeavor Society was to be the greatest strength to the church or it was a viper she was nursing in her bosom.

Finally a resolution was moved as follows:

"That as a means of developing the gifts and graces of the young people, a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor or similar organization be organized in all congregations."

An amendment was submitted: "That in order to develop their gifts and graces, the young people of our congregations be more thoroughly organized for Christian work." The amendment was carried on a vote of 56 to 53.

The report on Sabbath observance was adopted and the recommendations indorsed calling on ministers, parents and press to forward the cause in every way possible. The familiar forms of Sabbath desecration dealt with were traffic and travel on railways, the labor entailed by railroad traffic, social visiting, pleasure driving, milk traffic, military and society parades with bands of music, illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, needless exposure of goods in shop windows, etc.

The following were elected representatives to attend the meeting of the Presbyterian Council of 1892: Ministers—Revs. Dr. Caven, Dr. McVicar, Dr. Wardrope, Principal Grant, Dr. King (Manitoba College), Dr. Reid, D. M. Gordon and D. J. Macdonnell. Elders—Chief Justice Taylor, Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. Justice Maclennan, Mr. John Charlton, Mr. W. Mortimer Clarke, Mr. Hamilton Cassels, Mr. J. K. Macdonald and Mr. W. Barclay McMurrich.

The following are admitted to the benefits of the aged and infirm ministers' fund: Revs. W. Darragh, Presbytery of Wallace; Jas. Allan, Prince Edward Island; W. Scott, Prince Edward Island; Kenneth McKenzie, Victoria and Richmond; Geo. Craw, Barrie; D. M. McIntosh, Toronto; Alexander Bell, Peterboro; James Ferguson, Bruce; James Stewart, Montreal; John Lees, Sarnia; J. Geddes, Regina; W. Millican, Guelph.

The Sabbath school report showed that of the 1,900 Sabbath schools under the care of the church 1,525 had answered more or less fully the questions prescribed. In 1,451 schools 15,640 teachers and officers were engaged, which, together with the 450 unreported schools, would probably fix the total number at 17,000, being 1,556 above the estimated number for the years 1889-90. The average attendance of teachers has been 77 per cent. In 1,448 schools, total attendance, 134,092. The average attendance each Sabbath was 87,821. The amount raised by the Sabbath schools reported was $56,593, while the expenditure on Sabbath schools and other objects, including schemes and donations, amounted to $68,307.

The report on temperance was finally disposed of. Resolutions were recommended therein which the Assembly accepted, as follows:

1. Grateful acknowledgment to God of the great advances the work has made of late years, expressing the hope that prohibition will soon be accomplished, and calling upon all members to continue in the work.
2. Expressing satisfaction at the success of petitions favoring prohibition.
3. Approving of temperance organization in the church similar to that working in the Church of Ireland.
4. Directing that local church authorities see that the principles of temperance are properly advocated in the public schools.

The question of establishing a summer collegiate course for the benefit of workers in the mission field was warmly debated, the Assembly being about evenly divided as to the feasibility of the scheme. By a close vote the question was referred to the different Presbyteries for an opinion.

"THOU SHALT NOT."

Interesting Discussion on Prohibition in the Montreal Anglican Synod.

MONTREAL, June 18.—The second day of the Anglican Synod was well attended. The principal discussion was the temperance question. It arose on the report of the Church of England Temperance Society, presented by the Rev. J. Ker. The three objects of the society were the reformation of the intemperate, promotion of temperance and the removal of the cause which led to intemperance. It recommended that branches of the society and Bands of Hope be organized in every parish. Mr. Ker moved its adoption in a brief speech, in which he avowed himself a prohibitionist. He once thought them cranks, but since he had seen the evil of the traffic he was ready for any measure that would put an end to it. He had no patience with such a traffic.

Mr. E. L. Bond supported Mr. Ker. In the Diocese of Montreal the Church of England was not behind in temperance work, and the remarks recently made in the Toronto Synod respecting the Dominion Alliance were not deserved. Mr. Bond referred to the efforts being made to stop the sale of liquor in the public parks, and was pleased to state that the Quebec Government was improving the enforcement of the license laws.

Rev. G. Osborne Troop, in his academic gown and a cane in one hand, got up and stated his views against prohibition. There were thousands of God-fearing men, he said, who did not believe in prohibition. "I do not, but no Christian can say he is in favor of the liquor traffic. We must remove not the temptation but the desire. Men could not be saved by prohibition, but by divine grace. The sin was not in the use but in the abuse of liquor; but the saloon existed only for the abuse, and there was no excuse for it. God was not a prohibitionist. He left us surrounded by temptation and saved us by divine grace. We should deal with the sin in God's way."

Archdeacon Lindsay was on his feet in an instant to reply, and, in his deliberate, solemn manner he gave expression to views directly the opposite to those of his brother. He was a prohibitionist because it was taught by God's commandment. Did they not read "Thou shalt not?" "I believe in stopping this terrible evil. Human society is made up of prohibitions, and the cure of these things is in our own hands." He assured them that the church in the townships was not behind in this matter. Several other speakers expressed similar views, and the report of the society was finally adopted.

BREAKERS AHEAD!

The Conservative Ship Is Not Going to Enjoy Continuous Smooth Sailing.

OTTAWA, June 18.—The Conservative press here is not confident that the Cabinet can hold out for long even with Mr. Chapleau placated. Le Canada, an independent Conservative journal, says Mr. Abbott will no doubt be made a knight on Dominion Day, in order to give him prestige; but it adds that this will not save the Government. The ruin of the Abbott Cabinet, it says, is imminent, because, instead of being a Government having principles to guide it, it is simply a convention of gentlemen bent upon keeping in office.

The Journal, another semi-independent Conservative paper, says: "The one feature of the situation, which is plain to the most superficial observer, is the weakness of the Cabinet with Ontario. Even a greenhorn in politics can see that Ontario, the Conservative ship, is moving amid rocks which call for another strong man to help at the wheel. If the Cabinet does not strengthen itself in Ontario it will meet and will merit a speedy disaster." The Journal thinks Mr. Meredith would make things safer.

The peculiar enervating effect of summer weather is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which "makes the weak strong."

M. Eiffel, the daring civil engineer who conceived the tower in Paris which bears his name, lives up on the Jungfrau, in the Swiss Alps. He has just obtained permission to build a railroad up the mountains to his very dwelling.

WESTERN ONTARIO.

BRANT.

John Keachie, Burford, enjoyed his golden wedding on June 15, when a happy reunion of his family and friends took place.

J. H. Bateman, the young man arrested in Brantford a short while ago for horse-stealing, and the theft of a watch at Drumbo, has been sent down to Kingston for four years. Although only about 25 years old he has received sentences in Brantford alone aggregating no less than ten and a half years either in the reformatory or penitentiary.

The white man Temple, who lived on the Indian reserve, near Brantford, and married an Indian woman there while having another wife alive in Michigan, has skipped out. Wife No. 1 and the minister who married her went to Brantford from the States a day or so ago, and Temple, hearing of this, thought it advisable to levant, and levant he did accordingly.

LINCOLN.

Heavy rains on Tuesday caused the washing away of about one and a half miles of G. T. R. track near Merritton. The delay in traffic lasted only a few hours.

James Harris, St. Catharines, who is over 80 years of age and is partially blind, had been out walking and upon returning home he entered the house and fell down the stairs leading to the cellar, the door of which had been left open, breaking his thigh.

A gathering of more than usual interest assembled at the Disciples' church, Jordan, last Sunday, to witness the admission of seven adults into fellowship by immersion. The church could not accommodate all the people. After the usual service an adjournment was made to the River Jordrn, where the candidates received the rite of baptism by immersion. Fully two hundred vehicles were in the line of the procession.

MIDDLESEX.

The May cheese from the Thames factory, Nilestown, is being shipped this week.

A relief committee to extricate several of Messrs. Gilmour's large steers from a ditch into which they tumbled at Nilestown was called out recently.

Nilestown Royal Templars are looking forward to a treat on July 9 in the shape of a lecture by Rev. Mr. Bell, of Hamilton.

PERTH.

The new town bell obtained for St. Marys from Messrs. Meneely & Co., of Troy, N. Y., has been put into position. It has a fine sound, weighs 1,400 pounds, and with necessary fittings will cost in the neighborhood of $400.

Miss Emma Trachsell, who for some time has been telegraph operator in the C. P. R. office at Shakespeare, has left for Mineral Springs, near Montreal, to assume a similar position there. Her sister, Ella, takes her place.

The Stratford Times, by copying its news items out of the ADVERTISER, saves time enough to write an untruthful paragraph about the paper from which it accepts a favor. The misrepresentation in the Times' item is the only thing "thrilling" about it.

At Nithburg the other day E. Gable was doing statute labor when the mail carrier drove up and asked permission to pass the load of gravel that blocked the way near a bridge. Mr. Gable thought he was as much in the Queen's service as the driver, and refused to be hurried, and when words followed the horse was frightened and went over the embankment. Suit was entered and Mr. Gable has to pay $70.

Tavistock will soon have a fine new substantial sidewalk to the Port Dover station, a distance of more than one-third of a mile. This will be a convenience the traveling public will not be slow to appreciate.

H. Mogk, of Bornholm, lost two valuable steers in rather a strange way. Mr. Mogk was putting a post fence around a pasture field, and there being water in some of the holes the steers got down to drink and in doing so got their horns fast and could not get up, and consequently were drowned.

The managers, elders and ladies of Knox Church, Stratford, have arranged to hold a reception for the new pastor, Rev. M. L. Leitch, on the evening of June 23.

A sum of $2,500 has already been subscribed towards building a new church at North Easthope.

A six-year-old son of W. S. Anderson, Poole, fell from an apple tree and fractured his arm on Saturday.

Richard Stewart, father of the Stratford boy whose death created considerable interest last week, in a published letter gives an explanation of the circumstances. He states that his boy gained access to the cupboard where the bottle of rye whisky was kept and drank the contents of the bottle.

WATERLOO.

The Mennonites from all over Ontario are at present holding their annual camp-meeting at Berlin. This sect is very strong in Waterloo county and their camp meetings draw tremendous crowds.

Between 350,000 and 400,000 gallons of water are now used daily in Berlin. It takes six hours' pumping a day to keep the supply up to the demand.

WELLINGTON.

A man named Ferguson, living near Breslau, has been arrested for stealing a cow from James Anderson, Springfield, near Guelph. Mr. Master, chief of police in Hespeler, while searching a house found a quantity of articles supposed to have been stolen from parties in the neighborhood. Ferguson was brought before a bench of magistrates in Hespeler and sent up to stand his trial. The prisoner's wife is implicated in the stealing of the cow.

The First Brigade of Field Artillery went into camp on Tuesday in Guelph, Lieut.-Col. Macdonald commanding. There are eleven officers and 140 non-commissioned officers and men.

The Guelph Experimental Farm will add a poultry department to the institution. W. R. Graham, of Sydney, has been asked to take charge of it.

WELLAND.

John Keefe, of Lockport, N. Y., fell to the bottom of the tunnel shaft at Niagara Falls and was killed. He landed on a colored laborer, who was slightly injured.

Gas was struck at the Welland well on Wednesday at a depth of 512 feet; a good flow, and which will likely increase as the sand is penetrated. More wells will undoubtedly be put down at once.

Mr. German, M.P., of Welland, on Wednesday received notice of the death of his mother, who resides on the shores of the Bay of Quinte, near Belleville. He went to Ottawa to attend the funeral.

The funeral of the late C. Mastin took place Wednesday at Niagara Falls, and was the largest one seen there for many years. The procession included the switchmen and trainmen, led by J. Ryan and E. Wilson, carrying a beautiful floral cross with the letters "B. R. R. T." also in flowers.

The Seaforth Tournament.

SEAFORTH, Ont., June 18.—The international hose reel race, 200 yards to hydrant—1, Caledonia, Wingham and Blyth, ties; time, 1:07⅔; prizes divided. 2, East Toronto, 1:14½; 3, Stratford, G. T. R., 1:25½. International hook-and-ladder race—1, Niagara Falls, time 44½; 2, Sarnia, 45½; 3, Caledonia, 46⅔; Marine City, Mich., 47¼. Firemen's race, 200 yards, 9 entries, two men to couple—1, Crew and Brown, Toronto, time 15⅔; 2, McKenzie and Lavell, Stratford. Firemen's foot race, ¼ mile, four entries—1, Newman, Niagara Falls; 2, J. Brierley, Caledonia. Half-mile race, four entries—1, W. Browks, Caledonia; 2, J. Brierley, Caledonia.

Drowning Accident in Rice Lake.

PETERBORO, June 19.—Wednesday evening a terrible drowning accident took place in Rice Lake. A yachting party from Hiawatha, consisting of eleven persons, left Idylwild after having dinner there, and had got about a quarter of a mile from the shore when a squall struck and capsized the yacht. Eight of the party climbed upon the hull of the craft, which stayed above water, but Mr. John Frost, of Hiawatha, his eldest daughter, aged 19, and his infant child were drowned in spite of the heroic efforts of Capt. Oswald, owner of the yacht, to whose exertions conjoined with those of Robert Cowe and Miss Aggie Gray—the latter playing the heroine in a cool Grace Darling manner—is due the fact that three or four of the survivors did not meet with a watery grave.

This Beats Darwin.

"Do you believe man sprang from the ape?"

"No; but I believe woman springs from the mouse—in fact I've seen her do it."

A Backward Raising.

First Rector—Is your congregation going to raise your salary this year?

Second Rector—Well, I don't know; they haven't finished raising my last year's salary yet.

Misunderstanding.

"I hear that Mrs. Tompkins objects to devoting her pin money to dressing the baby."

"Yes; it seems there was a slight divergence of opinion between Mr. and Mrs. Tompkins. She understood that it was to be diamond pin money, and he safety pin."

SECRET AND OTHER SOCIETIES.

INDEPENDENT ORDER FORESTERS.

The Independent Foresters of Doon are going to have a grand picnic on Saturday, June 20, and expect their brethren from far and near to be present. They are doing all in their power to have a grand time.

The high chief ranger will visit Thamesford on Dominion Day.

Bradford has a new court.

The number of members on May 1 was 27,925 and the reserve fund on June 1 amounted to $330,741 87.

The supreme secretary and high vice chief ranger intend visiting as many courts as possible between now and Aug. 11 in the city of Toronto.

MASONIC.

Among the names mentioned as candidates for the office of district deputy grand master for this (London) district is that of Wor. Bro. O. J. Bridle, of Union Lodge. A number of his friends have signified their intention of supporting him strongly at the next meeting of the Grand Lodge.

The name of Rt. Wor. Bro. A. B. Munson is also mentioned for a second term. He has performed the duties well.

No better illustration of the religious but unsectarian character of Free Masonry could be afforded than by the fact that the Grand Lodge of the State of New York contains 703 clergymen, representing the Methodist, Episcopal, Baptist, Presbyterian, Universalist, Congregationalist, Dutch Reformed, Lutheran, Unitarian and Jewish churches. The Methodist clergy has the largest representation, 288, and the Episcopal comes next with 146. The average is one minister to each lodge in the State.

North Dakota has three lodges of Masons already, with 1,464 members.

Was Shakespeare a Free Mason? This question has often been discussed, and the opinion has been expressed that the great dramatist was a member of the order. A seal which was brought lately to the office of the Stratford-on-Avon Herald throws some light on the matter. It has been pronounced by a Mr. Mackie, of Birmingham, to be of the time of James I. On one side is a portrait of Shakespeare and on the reverse Masonic emblems. The seal is in the possession of E. Birch, of Stratford-on-Avon.

R. W. Bro. George C. Davis, grand junior warden, visited St. Thomas brethren last night and was well received.

ANCIENT ORDER UNITED WORKMEN.

A grand A. O. U. W. temple will soon be erected at Portland, Oregon.

The death rate per 1,000 for the year 1889 was 9.13; for the year 1890 it was 10.32, an increase of 1.19.

The Loyal Grand Lodge of Iowa is very prosperous, and its membership now is close to 6,000.

In many jurisdictions the mortality this year has been higher than usual because of la grippe. This is especially the case in Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania. Each of the two latter States has three assessments for May.

The total amount of beneficiary money disbursed by the order in 1890 was $4,762,157, or $5,000,000 in round numbers.

INDEPENDENT ORDER ODDFELLOWS

A brother out West received the initiatory and first degree in the I. O. O. F., and before applying for the second and third became totally deaf. When he asked for these the question arose whether they could be given him on account of his deafness, and the grand master of his jurisdiction decided in his favor. The grand sire was appealed to, and he gave a decision confirming the action of the grand master, to the effect that the second and third degrees shall be given to the brother by allowing him to read the ritual, see the floor work and to have the passwords communicated to him written upon a piece of paper, said paper to be immediately destroyed. This is said to be the first case of the kind on record.—[Baltimore Telegram.

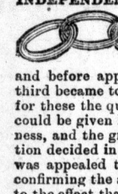

Olive Branch, D. of R., Toronto, had an official visit from the deputy grand sire Wednesday evening, June 10. Six candidates were initiated. The beautiful work rendered by a well-drilled team was the feature of the evening. Captain Cooper, who has been instructor, was made the recipient of a jewel and address.

The successful lodge is the one which is constantly seeking new ideas, adopting new methods to replace the old, clinging lovingly to the good of the past and rejecting that which may be improved upon, constantly awake to anything that will improve its condition, extend its membership, increase its finances, and develop the order at large.

A fraud by the name of Watson, but with various aliases, is going around. His usual plan of operation is to claim that he is waiting for his mail, and ask to have a check cashed. He has been claiming to be a member of Guiding Star Lodge, New York, from which lodge he has been expelled. He is described as "about 21 years of age, slender build, tall, light complexion; at the time of leaving New York was clean shaven. Very plausible in conversation, apparently well up in the work; a smooth talker."

It is understood some of the Rebekahs throughout the Province are going to ask the grand master to call a convention of Rebekah Lodge to meet in Stratford during the Grand Lodge session next congress, in accordance with a resolution of Grand Lodge last year approving of such a scheme.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Short meetings of Prospect and Myrtle Lodges on Monday and Tuesday evenings were held owing to the heat.

At the next meeting of Prospect Lodge the ranks of page, esquire and knight will be conferred on several candidates.

Mizpath Lodge will hold a reception on the evening of June 26 to the new grand chancellor, Bro. F. J. Fitzgerald, of that lodge, and D. D. G. S. Bro. Dr. English, of the same lodge. Mizpah is to be congratulated on the honor bestowed upon one of its oldest members, Bro. Fitzgerald.

The members of the Grand Lodge were enthusiastic in their praise of the treatment received at the hands of the London brethren.

The members of Prospect Lodge are again considering the advisability of procuring a more commodious lodgeroom. The present one is too small for this growing lodge.

A meeting of the Michigan Brigade Uniform Rank will be held in Detroit July 8 and 9. It is expected this will be the occasion of the largest turn-out of Knights of Pythias ever held in this section of the country. London will go by special excursion.

The report of the Grand Lodge of Ontario shows a material gain in lodges and membership for 1890. The indications point to a greater gain during the present year.

The next meeting of the Grand Lodge will be held in St. Thomas.

The meeting just over was the largest and most enthusiastic ever held by the Grand Lodge of Ontario.

There are over 1,500 Knights of Pythias in good standing in Ontario, and as many more who are not.

The endowment rank of the order numbers nearly 25,000 members with $53,000,000 endowment in force.

Pythian sisters have 25 temples in Ohio and over 40 in Indiana.

ANCIENT ORDER FORESTERS.

The members of Court Hyde Park will attend divine service on Sunday, June 27. Conclave No. 2 has received an invitation to be present on the occasion, as have also several courts in the city.

The Demonstration Committee is leaving no stone unturned to make the affair in this city on Dominion Day a success. The programmes are now out, and contain a host of attractions. A large turnout of Foresters from the West is expected.

Monday evening last the quarterly meeting of Pride of the East Circle, Companions of the Forest, was held, a large number of companions being present. After routine business the election of officers took place, the contests for office being very spirited, and resulted as follows: C. C., Comp. Miss M. Bowden; S. C. C., Comp. Miss S. Woodhall; R. G., Comp. Miss M. McKenzie; L. G., Comp. Miss E. Gold; I. G., Comp. Miss F. Pugsley; O. G. Comp. Miss S. Cook; F. S., Comp. W. Richards; R. S., Comp. Miss E. Yates; Treas., Comp. Mrs. M. Stead; Phys., Comp. A. R. Pingel; delegate to Supreme Circle, Comp. W. Richards; circle deputy, Comp. E. A. Richards.

It is the intention of the Companions to be well represented in the A. O. F. procession on Dominion Day. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

The Woodmen are rapidly gaining members in this city and also throughout the order.

The Sovereign Camp issued 680 certificates in the past six days.

Head Consul Ramplin of Ontario will go to Chatham Monday to organize a camp with over 40 charter members.

The Woodmen are making a start in Toronto. Two deputies left for that place several days ago.

LODGE NOTES.

Long Island is to have an Oddfellows' Home.

Oddfellows, 634,335 members; relief, $2,725,263

The Knights of Pythias' membership is over 300,000.

Masons number 15,000 lodges and 2,000,000 members.

Chosen Friends (with 45,000 members) are enjoying a boom these days.

The proceedings of the C. O. O. F., M. U., grand lodge meeting at Woodstock has been fully reported in the telegraphic columns.

The attendance at lodges of all kinds grows beautifully less as hot weather advances. Many adjourn altogether during July and August.

It is estimated that nearly $160,000,000 have been disbursed in relief and death benefits by fraternal societies during the past twenty years.

Items forwarded to the editor of this column before Thursday afternoon by secretaries or others interested in societies will be received with thanks.

The re-election of Bro. Edward Towe to the position of high chief ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters has been the cause of many congratulations to that gentleman.

The A. O. U. W. has 256,507 members; $34,562,360 benefits paid. April was the "banner month," the increase in membership being 3,467. Aggregate amount of insurance covered by this fraternity, $500,000,000.

Hair Magic

Is a good name of Dr. Dorenwend's German preparation for the hair. It really works like magic. All who have used it pronounce it to be unequaled for remedying the lost vitality of the hair roots, restoring gray hair, removing dandruff, etc. Just try it. It is first-class. All druggists sell it

Mr. W. Pemberton, editor of Delhi Reporter, says "he considers B. B. B. the best medicine out."

There are some people who look wise when they are non-committal—"waiting for the facts." There are some who look otherwise when they are afraid to speak their opinion.

Force of Habit.

A lady who wished to weigh her baby, two months old, had no scales at hand suitable for the purpose, took the child to a neighboring butcher-shop. The butcher put the baby in his spring scales, looked at the dial and remarked:

"With the bones and all, mum, it's fourteen pounds and a half. Shall I—?"

"How dare you take such a suggestion," screamed the woman, as she snatched her baby and rushed out of the shop.

The Need of Precaution.

"It is our first dinner together, darling, and I have invited our old friend, Dr. Safeleigh, to dine with us."

The young wife was quite satisfied. The doctor came on time, was excellent company, and the various dishes, all prepared by the bride, apparently appreciated. It was not until the physician had gone that the wife suddenly grew thoughtful.

"Thomas," she suddenly broke out, "why above all your friends did you invite but one man, and that a doctor, to dine with us to-day? Oh, Thomas, Thomas, to think that you were afraid to eat your first meal of my cooking without having a doctor at your very elbow."

The Merriest Girl That's Out.

"Bonnie sweet Bessie, the maid of Dundee," was, no doubt, the kind of a girl to ask, "What are the wild waves saying?' or to put "a little faded flower" in your buttonhole, she was so full of vivacity, and beaming with robust health. Every girl in the land can be just as full of life, just as well, and just as merry as she, since Dr. Pierce has placed his "Favorite Prescription" within the reach of all. Young girls in their teens, passing the age of puberty, find it a great aid. Delicate, pale and sickly girls will find this a wonderful invigorator, and a sure corrective for all derangements and weaknesses incident to females.

Never tell all you know, for he who tells everything he knows often tells more than he knows.

Disease is the beginning of death and should be earnestly combatted. There is nothing so good as B.B.B. to overcome disease.

Three Years Free

The Coming School of Medicine.

The Histogenetic System.

THIS SYSTEM IS COMPLETE, having different medicines for all the different diseases. The theory is entirely different from that of the old schools. The medicines are perfectly pure, containing nothing of a poisonous nature whatever, and are quite tasteless. For three years these medicines have been given away free and thoroughly tested in the most hopeless cases before being placed on the market. The result has exceeded the most sanguine expectations. Hundreds of cases supposed to be incurable have been cured, and abundance of proof can be produced to convince the most skeptical that Histogenetic Medicines have cured and are curing to-day DISEASES at a later stage than any other system of medicine in the world. In ACUTE cases the medicines act like magic. Chronic troubles require a longer time, generally from one to three months, according to the nature of the complaint. In FEMALE IRREGULARITIES, WOMB TROUBLES, etc., the medicines have been especially successful. Private EXAMINATIONS in these troubles are almost, if not quite, absolutely unnecessary. Call or send for one of our free books explaining the system. They should be in every house in the land.

RHEUMATISM and SCIATICA

LONDON, April 26, 1891.

I am happy to acknowledge, and now testify, to the efficacy of your medicines in curing Rheumatism. I have suffered with this painful disease in my shoulders, knees and hips for twenty-five years, also with sciatica for some time. I decided to try Histogenetic Medicines as a last resort, as nothing ever seemed to give me any permanent relief. The first week's medicine gave me relief, and in two weeks the sciatica disappeared and has not returned. I took the medicines for six weeks, and am cured of the rheumatism. I feel better in every way. I am sixty years of age, and feel quite smart and active. I can cheerfully recommend these medicines to the public, and will be glad to tell any sufferer about my case. It is now nearly two months since I ceased taking the medicines, and the effect is permanent.

ITS PERIL THE COUNTRY'S SALVATION.

Hon. Mr. Abbott confessed to his fellow-members of the Dominion Senate last night that his selection as Conservative leader was a compromise. "I am here," he said, because I am not particularly obnoxious to anybody." That is at least candid. But Mr. Abbott is not obnoxious to some men high in authority in his party because he has agreed to their demands, and he is not obnoxious to others because they are at present in a hopeful mood. They look for favors to come as the price of their allegiance. That his permanent success is more than doubtful, even the Montreal Star, strong Conservative journal though it is, doubts. It says:

"We are not alarmed for the future of the Dominion. We have too much confidence in the country and its people for that; but we recognize that the Conservative party is in a perilous position, from which we do not believe the Hon. J. J. C. Abbott is able to extricate it."

This is an admission that a change cannot be long delayed. The sooner it is brought about, and a staple Government formed that will work to promote the welfare of the whole people, the better. The present system, whereby we have a Government controlled by the combines, yet holding power through the pretense of being favorable to securing free trade relations, is most hurtful to the country.

IMPERIAL FEDERATIONISTS MUST SHOW THEIR HAND.

Lord Salisbury, replying to a deputation of Imperial Federationists yesterday, refused to summon a conference of colonial statesmen until a definite scheme of imperial federation had been prepared. No one can take exception to this ruling.

So far the imperial federationists have been all at sixes and sevens. Old world promoters have argued in favor of an arrangement whereby the colonies may become responsible for a part of the army and navy expenses of Great Britain. Canadian believers in what they are pleased to call imperial federation view it as a scheme to revive "protection in Great Britain," and give the colonies preference in the markets of the old country. In return it is hinted, as Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the other day, that the colonies might agree "to keep a wall ten feet high against Great Britain and make it eleven feet high against foreigners." Mr. Goschen asserts that this arrangement, which is the pet scheme of the federationists in Canada, would provide but a "slight relief against the immense sacrifices of trade made to obtain it." Mr. Goschen objects to the idea of imperial federation altogether if it is to be prejudiced by any suspicions that its champions have got a kind of sneaking desire to promote "protection" at home. So far as we have seen, the promotion of "protection" "at home" is the main object which the Canadian federationists have in view, but as they would never consent to materially lower the tariff on goods made by the "pauper labor" of free trade England, as our "protectionists" have in the past termed the products of British industry, how could they expect the British to handicap themselves in the markets of the world to promote the "openings on a small scale" that, according to Mr. Goschen, they might consent to provide in their own tariff wall?

Lord Salisbury may well pause and ask for the presentation of some definite agreement as to the principle upon which the imperialists are ready to proceed before he calls together another assembly of colonial debaters. Meanwhile in matters of trade we cannot do wrong to as nearly as possible copy the example of the mother land, which since the days when protectionists argued that the country was over-populated has so prospered that she now sustains more than double the number of inhabitants then existing, and that, too, largely through untrammeled trade. Under such a system Canada would soon become so prosperous and powerful that she could fairly assume that independent national position which all true patriots look on as her destiny.

THE HEALTH OF PARLIAMENT.

The Canada Health Journal moralises on the death of Sir John Macdonald in this strain:

"Had Sir John not attempted the exertion a few months ago of a political campaign he would in all likelihood be alive to-day, as almost everybody knowing the circumstances will probably concede—alive to-day and able to continue to advise in affairs of State for many years yet to come. Had he made only half the effort he did during the election it probably would not have seriously affected him; or had he even taken longer and more complete rest after his return to the capital, as advised by physicians to do, he would, quite possibly, be alive still and able to assist in the legislation of the Dominion."

Our contemporary calls attention to the high mortality among members of the House of Commons which has long prevailed, and is three or four times higher than among men in the armies of Europe. It asks M.P.s to pause and consider their position—to husband their physical ability under skilled medical advice, and act in judicious accordance therewith.

The great trouble in the House of Commons is the late and irregular hours which the system of carrying on public business involves. Men who get up early in the morning when attending to their own business at home, and retire not later than 10:30 or 11 o'clock, when they go to Parliament are practically compelled to revolutionize their habits. For the greater portion of the session they are compelled to attend the sittings of the House every night till a late hour. Sometimes, indeed, the House sits till 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. To a man of mature years, and especially to middle-aged and old men, this change from the early hours of home life to late sittings in an atmosphere none too pure is decidedly hurtful. What is needed is a time limit to the sittings of the House. Why should sittings be prolonged beyond a certain hour in the night? Let the committees meet at an earlier hour in the morning, and the House assemble at 2:30 p.m., and under no circumstances let it continue its sessions beyond 11 p.m. If this reform were brought about we feel assured that there would be less reason to complain of the unhealthfulness of the pursuit of law-making.

YES, THEY ARE CATCHING IT.

Says the London Free Press:

"The poor farmers appear to be catching it in all directions."

Reference is here made to the small prices which the farmer receives for wool under the war of tariffs that the Free Press and the other high tax organs have countenanced. The low price for wool, the Free Press says, is caused by the McKinley Bill. Yet the McKinley Bill is but a similar expedient to the "N. P." Bill, which taxes the Canadian farmer for the benefit of the sugar, binding twine, rubber, farm implement and other combines. The Free Press is right when it affirms that the poor farmer is catching it in all directions reached by the taxation octopus that has seized so much of the substance of the agriculturists and all who depend upon their prosperity. And for whose benefit? A few millionaires and fat contract election subscribers.

WHOLESALE PETTY LARCENY.

The useless Dominion Senate will cost for salaries and contingent expenses next year over $60,000. Few hard-working taxpayers have any idea how much money these old men squander, but Mr. McMullen, Mr. M. C. Cameron and other members of Parliament took occasion the other night to bring a few figures out. There are 90 Senators in all, yet among their "contingencies" there was bought for them last year 339 inkstands, costing $258; 416 knives, $373; 3,048 pencils, $323; 228 pairs of scissors, $136, and 144 scrapbooks, $93. What they did with all these things no one could tell; in fact, the shameless Ministers seemed to think the expenditures a source of merriment rather than anything else. There was a little "economy," it is true, for the Senators only asked the country to pay for one pair of blankets, one saucepan, one nail brush and one foot bath. But it may well be asked why these articles, however useful, should be paid for out of the public purse.

When the "contingencies" for the various departments and Sir Charles Tupper's outrageous extras are thus laid bare it is found that many thousands of dollars of public money are squandered. But when the Finance Minister is requested to reduce the grievous taxes by which the people are burdened his reply is: "We cannot; the necessary expenditures are too great!"

TROUBLE AHEAD.

From reports received it appears that in some quarters cheese factory patrons, not content with honest returns, are resuming the old trick of watering or skimming the milk, or keeping back the "strippings." This is not only an imposition upon the factoryman or company running the factory, but it is unfair to the maker and another way of robbing the patrons who contribute honest milk. A good many factorymen now test milk on their own account, and one of them reports milk from certain patrons growing "poorer and poorer." However, the bulk of the factories have availed themselves of the services of the four Western Association inspectors, who are authorized to proceed under the provisions of the Ontario Milk Act which the courts have sustained, so that unless the offending patrons pull up sharp in their crooked practices numerous prosecutions may shortly be expected. It is the intention to enforce the law with a stern hand. The "pump handle brigade" should therefore take warning in time. In former times the means of testing were not all that could be desired, but the Babcock machines, with which the inspectors are now equipped, and in the use of which they have been specially drilled, appear to be reliable and accurate. It has been thoroughly tested by Prof. Shutt, chemist at the Central Experimental Farm Station, Ottawa, in numerous comparisons with gravimetric analysis, and from the data secured the professor concludes that "when the test is made according to the instruction given with the machine strictly reliable results are obtained."

This should set at rest the minds of those who seem disposed to doubt the reliability of milk testing, and we may say that it only verifies what numerous other chemists and competent experimenters have found.

WHAT THE ADVERTISER" THINKS ABOUT IT.

SIR ADOLPHE CARON says the Dominion Government cannot make any provision for the veterans of 1837. They served their country at too remote a period, it seems.

‡‡‡

THE London Free Press once more argues that reciprocity in natural products would be of little or no benefit to the Canadian farmer. Then why does its party leaders place their faith in that jug-handled description of interchange?

‡‡‡

THE servant-girl question is one of perennial interest, and the well-known philanthropist and author, Miss Emily Faithfull, who was formerly at the head of an employment bureau in London, discusses it anew in the July number of the North American Review.

‡‡‡

POTATOES are selling in the Buffalo and Detroit markets for $1 05 to $1 25 a bushel. In this city the price is from 80 cents to 85 cents per bushel. Yet the trade restrictionists tell us that the United States duty is not prejudicial to Canadian farmers.

‡‡‡

THOUGH there are only 305 members all told of the Dominion Parliament, Commons and Senate included, two reading-rooms are held to be necessary, with double staffs of attendants and duplicated newspapers. Last year, the cost for the latter alone for the Senate reading-room was $2,073 and for the Commons $1,967. Mr. Charlton asked why both Houses could not use the same reading-room, but no answer was given by the Government.

ONE OF THE WEAKEST.

[New York Times.]

Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, whom the Governor-General has now asked to form a Government, is probably not the worst, but he is doubtless one of the weakest of the hopeful aspirants for the office of Premier. He has taken no very conspicuous part in politics, has had no experience as a party leader, and the most positive affirmation made concerning him is that he will be under the control of President Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

What Northrop & Lyman's
Vegetable Discovery
Has Done.

A Miraculous Medicine.—MR. J. H. CREPEAU, St. Camille, writes: "Send me at once three dozen NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. It is a miraculous medicine and has performed great cures, testimonials of which we can give you.

Knows it is Good.—MRS. C. JOHNSON, Melville, writes:—"I have great pleasure in recommending your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I have used two bottles, and it completely cured me of a bad case of Dyspepsia. I also found it an excellent Blood Medicine, and sure cure for Kidney troubles."

The Best Medicine.—MR. JAS. BLACKWELL, of the Bank of Commerce, Toronto, writes: "Having suffered for over four years from Dyspepsia and weak stomach, and having tried numerous remedies with but little effect, I was at last advised to give NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY a trial. I did so, with a happy result, receiving great benefit from one bottle. I then tried a second and third bottle, and now I find my appetite so much restored and stomach strengthened, that I can partake of a hearty meal without any of the unpleasantness I formerly experienced. I consider it the best medicine in the market for the stomach and system generally."

It Gives Strength.—MR. J. S. DRISCOLL, of Granite Hill, writes: "I have derived great benefit from the use of your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. My appetite has returned, and I feel stronger"

A Pleasure to us.—MR. L. N. BOURCIER, of Ripon, P.Q., writes: "It is with great pleasure I inform you that your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY cured me of Dyspepsia. I tried many remedies, but none had any effect on me until I came across NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY; one bottle relieved me, and a second completely cured me; you cannot recommend it too highly."

If you are Despondent, Low-spirited, Irritable and Peevish, and unpleasant sensations are felt invariably after eating, then get a bottle of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, and it will give you relief. You have Dyspepsia. MR. R. H. DAWSON, of St. Mary's, writes: "Four bottles of VEGETABLE DISCOVERY entirely cured me of Dyspepsia; mine was one of the worst cases. I now feel like a new man."

MRS. GEO. TOLEN, Druggist, Gravenhurst, Ont., writes: "My customers who have used NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY say that it has done them more good than anything they ever used."

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

BASEBALL.

FLYS.

The Alerts, of this city, will visit Petrolea on July 1 and play the town team for a purse.

Baseball playing on the house roof is the novel, though dangerous, way in which a number of factory hands in New York spend their dinner hour. A long cord is attached to the ball and then tied to the chimney, so that the ball cannot get out of reach.

A meeting was held at Aylmer Tuesday night to reorganize the Tormentors Baseball Club, and the following officers were elected: Honorary president, Mayor Hutchinson; president, W. W. White; vice-president, L. D. Marlatt; secretary, Wm. Black; treasurer, W. Warnock, jun.; committee of management, Dr. Fear, D. Black; captain, Wm. Mann; official umpire, G. M. Winn.

Mickey Jones, the bland south-paw twirler, now proprietor of the Walker House, Hamilton, is anxious to arrange a match between a Hamilton team and one from London. He received a letter from some Londoners on the subject a short time ago but mislaid it, and has written to Jerry McDonald with a view to having a match arranged. Half the gate receipts is what Michael expects in event of the Ambitious City nine coming here.

THE TURF.

Winners at Chicago Wednesday: Racine, Meadowbrook, Ethel, Bob Jacobs, Burch nd Hydy.

The race meeting at Simcoe closed Wednesday. Lottie F. won the three-minute race and Gertie Brown the 2:40 trot. Rosa B. won the open race.

Listowel races will be held July 1 and 2. The bill includes races for three-minute, 2:32, 2:40, and free-for-all trotters and pacers, and two running races. Entries close June 22.

FOOTBALL.

At the Seaforth firemen's celebration Wednesday the Hurons defeated a picked team from Berlin, Galt and Hespeler by 3 goals to 1.

The second eleven of the Hurons, of Seaforth, defeated Mitchell by 3 goals to 1 at Seaforth Tuesday night. The match was played by electric light.

ATHLETICS.

A purse of $25,000 has been offered by the Magic Athletic Club of Omaha, Neb., for a finish fight between Slavin and Sullivan. A $10,000 bond was filed in the bank for the faithful performance of the contract.

TERRESTRIAL HEALING

A branch office of the Magnetic Meridian Vitapoise Company is now permanently located at 294 Dundas street, for the purpose of giving practical demonstrations of the healing virtues of the "Vitapoise," (or miniature earth.) It is the most wonderful healing instrument ever discovered. It only fails to cure the afflicted when their case is hopeless, and it makes no difference what ails you.

If you would like to investigate "TERRESTRIAL HEALING," call at the office, and Prof Reid, will cheerfully explain to you the mysteries of the subtle healing force contained in a Magnetic Meridian Vitapoise.

Separate rooms are fitted up for the treatment of ladies and gentlemen. We want every family and physician in Canada to buy a "Vitapoise," and we will accomplish our object if an afflicted member of every tenth family will give the instrument a trial, by taking a "course of treatment." Its application is absolutely painless and is also harmless; but disease will flee from before it as if driven away by magic.

Physicians! try a "Vitapoise" on one of your patients, having either la grippe, inflammation, fever, insomnia, neuralgia or rheumatism, and thereafter your "medical case" will be a secondary consideration so long as you have a "Vitapoise" with you

Decision on Confederation Deferred by the Synod.

Interesting Statements Made While Discussing the Question.

The Missionary Service at St. Paul's in the Evening — Other Business Concerning the Diocese of Huron.

Wednesday Afternoon Session.

The whole of this session was occupied in discussing the scheme for the consolidation of the church, which has been already referred to. It served to bring out some of the best debating talent in the Synod.

Charles Jenkins, of Petrolea, explained the origin and object of the scheme under consideration. If the proposed General Synod had full power, as it undoubtedly would have, it must necessarily lessen the authority of the Provincial Synod. Taking up the constitution clause by clause, he commented upon each. In reference to the clause empowering the General Synod to regulate the transfer of clergy from one diocese to another, he pointed out its importance inasmuch as it could enable, if expedient, a clergyman to remove to another diocese and take with him the accrued benefits of his residence in that diocese. The church in Canada should have all the advantages of national indorsement; it would give the church elasticity to lengthen the cause so that they would be much more in touch with the people of this country. He did not see much difference between Methodism and Episcopalianism except the prominence given by the former to lay work. He was persuaded that in due time the office of the bishop in all its native power and lay work would be so brought out that the barriers between the Methodists and Episcopalians would be broken down and they would be a united Protestant church. (Applause.) He moved the adoption of the scheme as submitted. W. J. Imlach seconded the motion.

Judge Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, asked if the constitution was to be absolutely rejected or accepted, or if it was subject to amendment or suggestion.

Wm. Jenkins said desired action could be taken. It would be sent to the Provincial Synod.

M. Wilson, Q.C., of Chatham, maintained that if the submissions of the different Synods came before the Provincial Synod it would be in the option of the latter body to alter them as it pleased and draft a final scheme, which would not meet the approval of the diocese.

The bishop explained that if the scheme as before them was modified by amendment, such would be brought forward as constituting one feature of the proposed act of consolidation by the Provincial Synod.

Rev. Mr. Brown, of Paris, contended that the opinion of a Diocesan Synod could not bind the higher body. In so far as the diocesan recommendations found favor in the sight of the Provincial Synod, so far would they influence the constitution of the General Synod.

W. J. Imlach, as the seconder of the consolidation resolution at Winnipeg, eloquently championed the cause. In Australia, Cape Colony and in the United States the dioceses were being united in the same way. With Rome on one side and non-conformities on the other the church must present a united front. It had been said consolidation would lessen the power of the Provincial Synod. In political government they had a central Parliament for the Dominion and also Provincial Legislatures. Their lines of operation were distinct, and the same system was applicable to the church government. He had no doubt a revised form of the constitution would be referred back to the diocese.

A. H. Dymond complimented Mr. Jenkins as a grand idealist and Mr. Imlach as a great enthusiast. Before they decided upon anything they must thoroughly know what they were doing. For the diocese to give permission to another Conference to decide what the constitution of the church in Canada should be and put it into effect was a proposition that could not hastily commend itself to their judgment. The limited attendance at the Conference in question did not indicate any burning interest. He did not approve of these same 60 or 70 gentlemen perpetuating the separation between the house of bishops on one side and the clergy and laity on the other. He moved that the Synod, though favorable to ultimate consolidation, defer pronouncing upon the scheme until the next meeting, the same to be commended in the meantime to the thoughtful and prayerful examination of the clergy and laity in the diocese.

Rev. Mr. Brown, of Paris, said the Church of England was the first to enter Canada and the last to unite from shore to shore. Its proverbial slowness was shown in this as well as in other matters. He favored the separate sitting of the bishops, to whose opinions proper respect should be given by the lower house.

Judge Ermatinger believed it was time the church was as solid a body as any other denomination in the land. If it was possible to preserve the anomaly of the Provincial Synod it should be done. He favored the postponement of action until next year.

Canon Chance said postponement was an admission that the Synod could not make up its mind on the matter, while people in the Northwest, supposed to be in a backwoods state, had already decided. The decision should be taken now.

J. C. Noble, of Petrolea, said the action of the Synod in adopting the scheme would be a great incentive to other dioceses in pushing onward towards this glorious end. He opposed the postponement.

M. Wilson, of Chatham, vigorously supported Mr. Dymond's amendment, which sought to allow time for enlightened consideration on the part of laity and clergy. Although upholding the spirit of unity, the terms of that unity should be deeply taken to mind. The speaker took objection to a clause of the proposed constitution, which decreed that "no canons or resolutions of a coercive character, or involving penalties or disabilities, shall be operative in any ecclesiastical Province, or in any diocese not included in an ecclesiastical Province, until accepted by the Synod of such Province or diocese." This he held would place the diocese in the power of the Provincial Synod in that particular, and would render its opposition to any such enactment of no avail should it be the pleasure of the Provincial Synod to accede to the General Synod's desire.

George D. Sutherland, of South London, favored Mr. Dymond's motion as the more cautious policy.

Rev. C. W. Ball, of Port Burwell, held the same view. There could be no doubt as to the desire for church union, but previous consideration was necessary.

Wm. Gray, of Woodstock, followed in the same strain.

Rev. R. McCosh thought that remarks of previous speakers reflected uncreditably on the Provincial Synod. The subject of consolidation had been before the public through the medium of the press for sufficient time to allow all to form an opinion. Postponement would have a disastrous effect upon the movement. He had every confidence in the Provincial Synod and the representatives of Huron diocese in that body.

R. Bayly, Q.C., said they were a unit as to unification; but they would know infinitely more about it if given a year to think over it. Under the present provisions of the act they would be voluntarily giving up certain powers which they could not get back.

The bishop said he would give his opinion on the matter. There were two things determined upon and a number unsettled. They were all agreed that the unification of the Provinces was, with God's providence, to take place. They were also determined that the metropolitical system must be maintained. When he heard people say they had weighed the matter and considered it fully their minds were transcendantly more clear than his own. How all the changes to be transferred were to be comprehended in a glance he could not understand. What was the position the various dioceses were to hold in the future? They wanted something more direct than the report laid on the table. It would be therefore better to wait for at least one year, when their minds should be made up and their views more lucid.

Mr. Jenkins consented to withdraw his motion in favor of Mr. Dymond's amendment, slightly modified. The latter was carried unanimously. Mr. Jenkins said he was glad to see Mr. Dymond so cautious; it spoke well for the conserving influences of the Synod. (Laughter.)

The Synod adjourned shortly after 6 p.m.

The Evening Service.

The annual missionary meeting was held at St. Paul's Cathedral, commencing at 8 o'clock, and was largely attended by delegates, their relatives and the public. The full choir was present, and a number of the clerical delegates were seated in the chancel. Rev. Canons Richardson, Davis and Chance assisted in the service. The address was delivered by Rev. Canon O'Meara, of Winnipeg. His sermon was an able presentation of missionary possibilities and necessities, and was rewarded by a liberal contribution. The text was taken from Exodus, xiv., 15: "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." He said he appeared before his hearers under a two-fold responsibility—personal reminiscence and the subject on which he was to speak. Just eighteen years ago on the same occasion, almost on the very day and in the same cathedral, he was set apart for his life's work. The message of the text had been sent to God's host all along the ages, and when they considered that it had been so long neglected and that only the fringes of the outer darkness had been touched, should they not bow their heads in shame at their long silence at God's command? He had come from Rupert's Land to present the urgent claims of that section. The settlers there had great claims on their fellow churchmen in the east, for in many cases they were their own sons and daughters. "I can tell many instances," said he "of young men in that country who have been kept in the ways of safety and peace, because in their loneliness and homesickness the church was there with her sweet words of worship to carry back the hearts to cherished memories of their childhood, motherhood and home. I can also tell of young men who have come from their homes, fresh from wholesome Christian influences, and who have wandered away in that far-off strange country into the wilderness of ungodliness, wretchedness and sin because the church was not in the time of their loneliness able to reach and keep them folded in the arms of divine love." The preacher urged earnestly the augmentation of the fund by contributions for the work in that land, to which only $500 had last year been granted. To be sure there were many calls at home, but foreign missions should go hand in hand with domestic. The church that was not a missionary church was a dying church. They wanted a new Pentecost to arouse professing followers of Christ to new consecrated efforts in the master's service so that their profession should cease to be a mere profession, but become in their lives a living, loving, burning reality.

Thursday Morning Session.

The Synod reassembled at 10:30 a.m. Canon O'Meara, of Winnipeg, was invited to a seat on the platform amidst applause. The bishop read a telegram from the Synod of Montreal, thanking the Synod of Huron for the kindly greetings sent yesterday. The election of members of the Executive Committee and of delegates to the Provincial Synod was then taken up, the following scrutineers, to report at the afternoon session, being appointed: Provincial Synod—Rev. L. DesBrisay, Rev. W. T. Cluff, Rev. S. E. G. Edelstein and Rev. Mr. Hicks; E. Paul, T. D. Stanley, R. Fox and C. Kingston. Executive Committee—Rev. W. Johnstone, Rev. A. Griffin, Rev. W. Wade and Rev. W. Lowe; E. A. Goodeve, L. Skey, Capt. Cox and Thos. Wood.

Notices of motion were handed in as follows:

By Rev. W. Craig—"That the Board of Management of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society be paid all necessary expenses incurred while attending the meetings of said Boards, one-half of said expense to be paid out of the Epiphanytide offering and the other half out of the Ascensiontide offering."

By T. H. Luscombe—"That a standing committee on temperance be appointed and empowered to investigate the condition of the temperance organization existing in connection with the church in this diocese; to take such steps as may be deemed necessary; to visit, revive and increase such organizations; to arrange for temperance services and meetings, and generally to perform such duties and take such action as may be deemed conducive to the welfare of the temperance movement."

By Rev. G. C. Mackenzie—"That the Synod authorize the Sunday School Committee to purchase $150 worth of the charts and pamphlets illustrating the church catechism about to be published by Rev. Mr. Carswell."

At the joint suggestion of the bishop and A. H. Dymond the following committee was appointed to deliberate on the consolidation of the Anglican Church in British North America, on which action is to be taken at the next Synod: Clerical—The Dean of Huron (convener), Venerable Archdeacon Marsh, Rev. W. A. Young, Rev. Alfred Brown, Rev. T. R. Davis, Rev. G. C. Mackenzie, Rev. Canon Smith and Rev. R. McCosh. Lay—Chancellor Cronyn, Judge Ermatinger, R. Bayly, M. Wilson, W. J. Imlach, C. Jenkins and I. F. Hellmuth.

The report of the committee appointed to consider the matter of Synod assessments recommended that those delegates from parishes whose assessments had not been paid be allowed to take their seats on payment of this year's dues, those parishes, however, not to be relieved of arrears in the past. The report also recommended the appointment of a committee to consider the rearrangement of the assessments of the whole Synod.

Rev. W. A. Young moved in amendment to the latter clause that the rearrangement of assessments be left to the Executive Committee for such action as might be necessary. The amendment was adopted.

The proposed amendments to Canon 28 on the widows' and orphans' fund were discussed. Clause 2 in the original provides that the Synod shall put to the credit of the widows' and orphans' fund yearly a sum of money equal to $10 for every clergyman in the diocese, to be considered as part of the income of the said fund. The amendment asked the substitution of $5 for $10. The main feature of the amendment in the third clause of the canon is the stipulation that the $5 to be annually paid in by clergymen in order to entitle their widows and orphans to the benefits of the fund shall be paid direct into the widows' and orphans' fund instead of to the Synod funds, as the original clause states. It provides in addition that in case of default made by any clergyman in any of the payments his rights in the premises shall cease, but may be revived at any time in his lifetime by payment of all arrears and a fine of $1 per month for each and every month of such default.

In reply to a question, whether they had so much money on hand that the amount must be reduced to one-half, the dean explained that the other $5 came from the general purpose fund in order to connect the clergymen more directly with the fund.

Mr. Fraser, of Woodstock, said under the provisions a clergyman with a small income would have to pay as much as one with a large stipend. This should not be. The widows and orphans should also receive the annuity in proportion to the amount paid in by the deceased clergyman.

Rev. M. Brown said there were some clergymen who would remain celibants under the amendment proposed. (Laughter.)

A. H. Dymond thought every clergyman, married or single, should be made to contribute towards the fund. He had no sympathy from his own experience with the man who acted the celibate whether clergyman or layman. (Laughter.) He moved accordingly.

Rev. Mr. Young assured his hearers that the amendment was a matter of business principle. They paid $5 a year as the insurance premium. Financially it would affect matters very little and would simplify the system.

The amendment to the second clause was carried and action on the third postponed until the afternoon.

Live Stock Markets.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Hogs—Receipts, 22,000; quality good; left over, 4,000; market active on packing and shipping account, and feeling firm; prices 5c higher. Sales at: $2 65 to $4 40 for pigs; $4 20 to $4 70 for light; $4 20 to $4 40 for rough packing; $4 30 to $4 65 for mixed, and $4 45 to $4 70 for heavy packing and shipping lots.

Cattle—Receipts, 14,000; quality fair; market active on local and shipping account; prices without material change. Quotations ranged: $5 75 to $6 35 for choice to fancy shipping steers, $5 to $5 70 for good to choice do., $4 30 to $4 90 for common to fair do., $3 50 to $4 25 for butchers' steers, $2 60 to $3 60 for stockers, $2 75 to $4 80 for Texans, $3 40 to $4 30 for feeders, $1 50 to $4 for cows, $1 50 to $3 50 for bulls, and $2 50 to $4 50 for veal calves.

Sheep—Receipts, 8,000; quality good; market moderately active; feeling easy; prices favor buyers. Quotations ranged: $3.50 to $4 90 for Westerns, $3 75 to $5 25 for natives, $5 50 to $6 75 for lambs.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, June 18.—Market active; 600 cattle offered, about half of them being grass-fed, 200 sheep, 225 lambs, 250 calves and 85 lean hogs. There was only one shipper in attendance and he bought 15 cattle for export at from 5c to 5½c. The next grades were bought up by butchers at from 4½c to 5½c, the latter price being for really good beef cattle. The grass-fed cattle, which are coming in freely now, had a depressing effect on the market, but the prices obtained were considered satisfactory on the whole. Mediums sold at from 4c to 4½c, and culls from 3c to 3½c. Sheep were in demand for exportation at from $5 to $7 each, while the lower grades were offered at from $3.50 to $4 50 each. Lambs met a ready sale from $3 to $5 each, and calves sold at $2 50 each for some, while larger ones brought from $3 to $12 each. There were 5 lean hogs on the market, 60 lbs. to 100 lbs.; they brought $4 to $8 each. Fat hogs, 4½c to 5½c live weight. Shippers of fat distillery-fed cattle have to use more precaution in future during hot weather, as several animals died recently owing to too many being in one car. Nine died between here and Quebec, and about 40 altogether since the hot weather commenced.

EAST BUFFALO.

EAST BUFFALO, June 18.—Cattle—No fresh arrivals the last 24 hours, but 20 cars of sale cattle in the yards held here on account of unfavorable reports from the Eastern markets; the general tone of the market is weak.

Sheep and Lambs—Fresh arrivals, 2 cars; 3 loads held over from yesterday, and 8 cars of Kentucky spring lambs consigned to New York, with privilege of sale here; only about 3 cars had been sold on order accounts up to a late hour.

Hogs—About 6 cars on sale; demand very light; hardly any call for light weight stock; for the best hogs the demand was good, and $4 90 was paid for selective; good light Yorkers, $4 70 to $4 75; pigs, nominally, $4 50 to $4 65 for the best; market closed only steady.

Petrolea Oil Market.

PETROLEA, June 18.—Oil to-day, $1 36½.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Mrs. Wm. Diplock was ordered to be taken to the Asylum by Judge Elliot yesterday morning.

—M. C. Dickson, Toronto district general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk, was in the city yesterday.

To-night's band concert by the Seventh Band will be given at Queen's Park instead of at Victoria Park.

—Miss Emily M. Gunn returned home from New York Wednesday, where she had been taking an arts course at the American Art Students' League under the tuition of the best masters in the metropolis.

—Rev. Canon O'Meara, immediate past grand master of Manitoba, has signified his intention of being present at Kilwinning Lodge, No. 64, A. F. & A. M. to-night. There will be a large turnout of brethren.

—A number of young men held a ball at the Tecumseh House Wednesday night, the dining room being cleared for the purpose. About twenty students of Hellmuth College were present, and a feature of the night was a splendidly-prepared repast.

—Nothing has been since heard of John R. Gosling, of this city, who left home on Saturday. High Constable Schram has notified every county constable in Middlesex to be on the look-out. It is the general impression that he has been drowned.

—In the case of Weld vs. Weld at Osgoode Hall yesterday, Weld (London), for the plaintiffs, moved for judgment on further directions and costs in a will case. E. R. Cameron (London), for the defendants, contra. Case argued and judgment reserved.

—A young lad named Pugsley had Chas. Parker before the police magistrate yesterday charged with assault. The case was dismissed as being too trivial for punishment. Parker had thrown the boy to the ground twice in the belief that he was one of a crowd who were annoying him.

—The competition of work from the various Ontario art schools is now being held at the Normal School, Toronto, and evidences a steady growth of art in the Province. Two landscapes from the Western School of Art, London, have been favorably commented on, and are the only landscapes exhibited.

Fatal Fall.

Adam Govinlock, who owned 300 acres of land in Westminster, had occasion on Monday to ascend an apple tree to hive a swarm of bees, and losing his balance fell on his head and burst a blood vessel, the blood settling on his brain and causing death in a few hours. A widow and large family mourn the loss of deceased, who was a highly respected citizen of the township. He was buried Wednesday in the Pond Mills Cemetery.

The Fire Department.

Discussion on the fire department's needs occupied much of the time at Wednesday's meeting of No. 3 Committee of the City Council. The estimates for the current year by Chief Roe were adopted as follows: Salaries $9,700, general running expenses $3,200, capital account $3,500, total $16,400. New beds, mattresses, chairs, tables, a desk and other supplies for the department will be purchased from various city firms. Accounts for extras in connection with the fire hall building were received from H. & C. Colerick and White Bros. Some warm discussion ensued as to the system of allowing extensive extras and the accounts were referred to the Council, and another account from White Bros. for $1,000 in connection with sixth ward fire hall was referred to the engineer. The firemen will take part in the A. O. F. parade on Dominion Day. W. Ironsides again applied for and was refused payment of a gas lighting account. Petitions against the anti-huckstering bylaw were filed. John Lockyer was granted permission to lease an extra stall in the market. Petitions for street watering were referred to the engineer, and E. Talbot's application for position as street watering inspector was filed. A petition for an electric light at the corner of Hill and Waterloo streets was laid over.

IN ASHES.

A Seaside Resort Burned Out—One Hundred and Fifty Families Homeless.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 18.—Yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in the Buckalew stables, on Ocean avenue, by a little girl. The flames immediately spread to the adjoining building on Ocean avenue, and more than 50 buildings were consumed. The fire departments of Long Branch, Red Bank and Asbury Park came up and rendered valuable service. The loss is $400,000. It is said the fire was caused by a drunken man throwing a lighted match in a bale of hay. Every business house in the place was destroyed, not even a grocery store being left. One hundred and fifty families are rendered homeless.

TWEED, June 18.—The total amount of loss caused by Tuesday's fire is placed at between $12,000 and $15,000, and is only partially covered by insurance.

NAPANEE, June 18.—Wednesday night during the thunder storm the barns and drive house of Mr. Garratt, Banalstine, about three miles from Napanee, were struck by lightning. The buildings and contents are a total loss. Insured in the London Mutual for $1,400.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 19.—The power station of the Sea Shore Electric Street Railway was destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss $50,000. Sixteen dynamos and eight engines were burned.

Church Schism.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 18.—Last night the rich and strong congregation of the Allegheny Reformed Presbyterian Church (Rev. J. R. Milligan pastor, recently deposed by the Synod), met and unanimously withdrew from the Reformed Presbyterian Church and will seek admission to the United Presbyterian Church.

Drowned Himself in a Well.

RICHMOND, Que., June 19.—On Wednesday Charles Cassidy, an old and respected resident of Kingsly Falls, aged 47 years, committed suicide by drowning himself in his well. He told his three children to come and see what he was going to do, divested himself of coat and vest and plunged head first into the well.

OFF FOR A YEAR.

Thursday Afternoon Session.

On the Synod re-assembling to-day the scrutineers reported the following delegates elected to the Provincial Synod arranged in order of election.

Clerical—Canon Richardson, the Dean of Huron, Canon Hill, Canon Davis, Canon Smith, Rev. W. A. Young, Canon Hincks, Rev. W. Craig, Rev. J. H. Moorehouse, Rev. Principal Miller, Rev. G. C. Mackenzie, Rev. Alfred Brown. Substitutes—Ven. Archdeacon Marsh, Rev. C. R. Matthew, Rev. R. McCash, Rev. T. R. Davis.

Lay—Judge Armatinger (St. Thomas), Chas. Jenkins (Petrolea), Matthew Wilson (Chatham), Richard Bayly (London), A. H. Dymond (Brantford), James Wood (Galt), V. Cronyn (London), Wm. Grey (Woodstock), W. J. Imlach (London), John Ransford (Clinton), A. C. Clark (Sarnia), W. H. Eakins (Woodstock). Substitutes—I. F. Hellmuth (London), R. Fox (Lucan), C. Wilson (Wingham), J. E. Brooks (Chatham).

The executive committee appointed were as follows:

Clerical—The Dean of Huron, Rev. W. Craig, Rev. Canon Hill, Rev. R. McCosh, Rev. Canon Davis, Rev. Canon Richardson, Rev. W. A. Young, Rev. J. H. Moorehouse, Ven. Archdeacon Marsh, Rev. J. Hill, Rev. Canon Smith, Rev. R. Hicks, Rev. T. R. Davis, Rev. A. Brown, Rev. G. B. Sage, Rev. J. Downie, Rev. Canon Hincks, Rev. G. C. Mackenzie, Rev. R. Ridley, Rev. C. R. Matthew, Rev. Canon Paterson, Rev. R. S. Cooper, Rev. Principal Miller, Rev. D. J. Caswell, Rev. J. C. Farthing, Ven. Archdeacon Sandys, Rev. R. Ashton, Rev. D. Deacon, Rev. J. T. Wright.

Lay—R. Bayly, Matthew Wilson, William Grey, James Woods, Judge Ermatinger, Charles Jenkins, A. H. Dymond, W. J. Imlach, Chancellor Cronyn, John Ransford, A. C. Clark, W. Swaisland, I. F. Hellmuth, W. H. Eakins, T. Moyle, G. D. Sutherland, L. S. Key, Judge Woods, R. Fox, T. D. Hanley, W. W. Fitzgerald, Col. Gilkison, C. Wilson, J. E. Brooke, J. W. Ferguson, R. S. Strong, Jasper Golden, P. H. Cox, Philip Holt, Robert Martin.

The discussion on the amendment to clause 3 of the canon regarding the widows' and orphans' fund was resumed.

A. H. Dymond pressed his motion that the first paragraph be amended to enforce the payment of the $5 per year from every clergyman in the diocese, married or unmarried.

Rev. W. Stout moved in amendment to the amendment that clergymen receiving less than $800 per year contribute $5 annually, and all receiving $800 or over pay 1 per cent. of his stipend in addition to the regular $5.

Mr. Dymond's amendment carried.

In reference to paragraph two of the third clause the amendment asked that in case of a clergyman being in default the full benefits might be revived by payment of $1 for every month of default and the payment of all arrears. At Rev. W. Young's suggestion the paragraph was further amended so that in case of default the widow or orphans should receive benefit in proportion to the amount paid by the clergyman in question during his lifetime.

The third paragraph provided for a record being kept of the names of every clergyman complying with the requirements of the canon in the payment of these premiums and be reported to the Executive Committee.

Rev. Mr. Brown moved in amendment that anyone falling in arrears be noticed.

Mr. Jenkins did not see the necessity. The first portion of the Advent epistle which the clergy so faithfully preached admonished people to owe no man anything. (Laughter.)

Mr. Dymond—That should be sufficient reminder. (Laughter.)

The paragraph passed, with Mr. Brown's addition. The whole section as amended was adopted.

The addition to section four of the canon was agreed upon. It ruled "that the widows and orphans (excepting those by a former marriage) of any clergyman who shall hereafter marry after he has attained the age of 60 years shall not be entitled under this canon or otherwise to any benefit from the widows' and orphans' fund of the diocese."

Canon 20, on differences between clergymen and their congregations, by which the bishop was empowered to appoint a commission of five members of the committee of discipline to investigate any such difficulty if required, was amended so that the members of the committee of discipline should be selected from the clerical members of the Executive Committee. The mover of the motion, Mr. Bayly, argued that the original canon was void, as no committee on discipline existed.

The Executive Committee also proposed the amendment of Canon 22 on the discipline of the clergy by the elimination of the following: "Every clergyman shall be liable to trial for publishing or circulating, or causing to be published or circulated, any document or documents, whether anonymous or otherwise, calculated to defame or injure the church in this diocese or elsewhere, or which unjustly reflect upon the character of its duly constituted authorities, or who becomes from any cause unfit or unable to discharge the duties of his office, or whose usefulness in any parish to which he has been appointed appears to be gone."

Mr. Dymond spoke strongly in favor of the amendment. As an old journalist he favored reasonable latitude in expressing one's opinion in writing.

Rural Dean Cooper believed in cleaving to that which was good. The canon had hitherto covered the ground and he objected to it being changed. He would like to see some such canon apply to the laity as well as clergy.

Mr. Wilson warmly supported the original clause. If a man had a clear conscience he need not fear its penalty. He pointed out that there were five stages of a trial before a verdict must necessarily be given by the bishop, giving plenty of scope for a thorough examination of any charges made. He moved that progress be reported on the canon.

Mr. Jenkins said that the canon as at present was wholly out of touch with the enlightened condition of the times and the spirit of fair play. The whole church, which had been impregnable for 1,900 years, was not going to be affected by a squib in the newspapers, which were given more prominence than they should have. If a man went to Port Stanley or grew an unusually large pumpkin it must be chronicled in the newspapers of the day. The question of defamation was one that required a great deal of legal acumen.

A. C. Clark, of Sarnia, said there was something in the canon that was necessary. It was like the man in the West who assured a stranger "that they didn't need revolvers all the time there, but when they did they needed them badly." (Laughter.) The vital parts of the canon would be wiped out by the amendment.

The bishop said he did not intend to speak against the integrity of the canon, but thought it a pity that the wisdom of the Synod had seen fit that where a clergyman who might have only committed the sin of growing old and not have the alacrity of years gone by, against whom no criminal charge had been made, should be put down in the same category as those who had been guilty of grievous offences. ("Hear, hear.") If that section as proposed in the amendment could be eliminated he would be content to have the rest of the canon remain.

On the question being put, Mr. Wilson's motion to report progress was adopted and all amendments therefore given the go-by for the present.

The Synod adjourned shortly after 6 o'clock.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Well-Earned Holiday—Another Railway Problem—Sad Accident.

TORONTO, June 19.—Rev. Manly Benson, who has not taken a holiday for some eleven years past, has been granted leave of absence by his church board, and starts at once, accompanied by Mrs. Benson, for California. They intend returning about the end of July.

Another railway problem now confronts the city. Dr. Oille, of St. Catharines, will appear before the next meeting of the City Council and urge the necessity of making liberal provision for the entrance into Toronto of the Niagara Central Railway, having connections with several of the great United States trunk routes.

A sad accident occurred at the Royce avenue crossing of the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk railways at Toronto Junction last night. Mrs. Thos. Bently, a resident of Franklin avenue, and another lady were crossing the tracks, and, while watching the down train on the Grand Trunk, which was approaching, Mrs. Bently was struck by the tender of an engine returning to the city on the C. P. R. One leg was completely severed and the other badly shattered, in addition to which she received a severe scalp wound and other bruises. She is the mother of four children and is about 35 years of age. At latest accounts she is very low. Her companion had a very narrow escape.

The Street Railway Committee considered the various tenders for the franchise of the city street railway yesterday, but came to no decision on the subject.

Charles Staunton, contractor, and his foreman, John E. Bell, have been arrested and confined in jail on a coroner's warrant, charging them with manslaughter in causing the death of John Thursk, carpenter, who was killed while working for the accused on a building on May 28. Thursk was killed by a falling beam, and the verdict was returned on the ground of criminal negligence.

The Public School Board last night passed a resolution favoring the adoption of a public school curriculum which should only include what is absolutely practical and useful in the way of education, leaving higher but less immediately essential branches of education to be dealt with by the high schools.

Howard & Wilson, publishers of the Farm, Field and Stockman, Chicago, sued A. H. Dixon & Son, patent medicine manufacturers, for $500 for advertising. The publishers say that they inserted an advertisement in their paper for defendants for a year and fulfilled their part of the agreement, but have not been paid. The defense is the advertisement was not put in the position in the paper which the agreement called for. The advertisement was to have been next to reading matter, and by this the defendants meant the same column, following reading matter. Judgment was given for plaintiffs for full amount of $500, with costs.

The gold medal of the Toronto College of Music, which represents all round musicianship, theoretical and practical, was gained this year by Miss Jeannie Sullivan. The Hon. Mr. Ross, Minister of Education, presented the medal.

HELD BY HYMEN.

Marriage of the Veteran Gen. John M. Schofield—A Well-Known Authoress Weds a Red Man.

KEOKUK, Iowa, June 19.—The marriage of Gen. John M. Schofield to Miss Georgia Kilbourne, of this city, was solemnized at St. John's Episcopal Church here yesterday. The wedding was devoid of display.

NEW YORK, June 19.—A wedding of more than ordinary interest was celebrated at the Church of the Ascension yesterday. The bride was Miss Elaime Goodall, the well-known authoress, who is the Government inspector of Indian schools in North and South Dakota, and the bridegroom was Dr. Charles Alexander Eastman, an Indian of the Sioux tribe.

THE RAILWAYS.

The Canadian Pacific earnings for the week ending June 14 were $374,000; for the same week last year, $331,000, the earnings of the New Brunswick Railway being included in both years.

The Nugents of Carriconna

An Irish Story.

BY TIGHE HOPKINS, AUTHOR OF "'TWIXT LOVE AND DUTY," "FOR FREEDOM," ETC.

Arthur smiled; but Aunt Barbara was ready with a prompt assurance, when the roll of wheels upon the gravel interrupted her.

She was sitting in the window seat, looking out upon the avenue. She glanced up. "It is they!" she cried joyously.

"What!" exclaimed Arthur and the lawyer together.

"'Tis Mrs. Trenchard and her husband. I knew well enough that Dora wouldn't be long in coming if only she knew what had happened."

It was Dora and her husband indeed. They were on a station car, and had evidently driven straight from the train. Dora wore the grey traveling dress in which she had started on her honeymoon; she had added to it some black ribbons, and her bonnet was of the same color.

Arthur was just in time to see Trenchard handing her down from the car, whence she was received into the open arms of Miss Nugent.

CHAPTER XLIV.

EXPLANATIONS.

What had brought Dora back with such dramatic suddenness? She and Trenchard had been spending the first days of their honeymoon in a far-off quiet spot on the coast, intending to wander thence, with no set plans, whithersoever their fancy might compel them. Dora told her husband that she wanted to explore the less-known portions of the Irish and Scottish coasts, and this sufficed for him. In making her marriage, Dora had not shrunk from the future. She had been prepared unflinchingly to face all possible issues of her position as Trenchard's wife; and it had been a deliberate purpose with her that their honeymoon should be spent amid scenes where temptation would be least likely to assail him. What had looked to Arthur in his suspicious mood like the clever management of a treacherous and perhaps guilty woman, was in reality the clever management of a wife who desired and had resolved to be, for a period, her husband's physician, without appearing such. She would prevent rather than cure the evil. She had not entered again upon married life with a romantic notion that she was to know nothing thenceforward but love and happiness. She saw clearly that the cloud which had dimmed her husband's past would not quickly shrink; that at the best it must be for a long while to come a spot more or less dark on their horizon.

Dora had found her scheme entirely successful during the first week of their honeymoon, and for almost the first time in his life Trenchard was entirely happy. Spite of the wintry weather, they spent the greater part of the day in the open air; sometimes on the sea, sometimes riding, sometimes driving, taking whatever accommodation they chanced upon and enjoying the entire novelty of their surroundings to the full.

Then at a little wayside place, half farm, half inn, where they had stopped for whatever they could get in the way of luncheon, Dora chanced to take up a soiled copy of an Irish paper that lay upon the kitchen-table. The familiar word "Carriconna" caught her eye at once, and in a paragraph headed "Great Storm at Carriconna" she read of the destruction of the tower and the death of Anthony.

This intelligence, so utterly unexpected, was a rude shock to Dora.

"Oh, Edmund," she said, "look at this." A hundred thoughts and anxious questions rushed across her mind whilst Trenchard was reading the paragraph. Had her uncle died without revealing the secret of the tower? From the description which the newspaper gave of his illness, she thought it more than probable that he had carried his secret to the grave.

If that were so, then Dora was its sole living depositary.

"Most extraordinary and sad," said Trenchard, laying down the newspaper.

"Dearest, you must write to Miss Nugent at once. We must both write."

But Dora could not be satisfied with writing. How could her pen tell all that she had to say, all that she must say, to her aunt?

She glanced again at the newspaper; it gave few details concerning Anthony's brief illness, but spoke of him as having lain unconscious during the two days that preceded his death. Yes, Dora felt certain that her uncle's secret was now hers, and hers only.

"Edmund, dear," she said, "I think I must go back to Carriconna."

Trenchard, of course, was little prepared for such an interruption of their honeymoon.

"My darling, he said, "why go back? Mr. Nugent is dead, and doubtless buried by now. Who would expect you in the circumstances, and what could you possibly do?"

"You don't understand anything about it, dear," replied Dora coaxingly. "There is a story to tell, and I must tell it to you, and then you will see why I think that I ought to go back to Carriconna for a day or two. First of all, Edmund, you must know that Mr. Nugent was my uncle, that Miss Nugent is my aunt, and Arthur my cousin."

Trenchard sat down in the chair nearest to him and stared at Dora as if he began to doubt her sanity. But Dora only laughed at his startled face.

"Here comes lunch," she said, "actually a fowl, killed and cooked within the hour. Eat, Edmund; I have several more mines to spring upon you."

"But, my love," said Trenchard gravely, as he began his lunch, "are you serious?"

"Quite serious," replied Dora. "You know you would never let me tell you anything of my former life, and I grew too content with the present to trouble you with the past. It was not of much consequence, so I let it alone. Briefly, Edmund, I am the only child of Kedagh Nugent; I disobeyed my father's wishes and married Herbert Lytton. From that time my father ignored my existence, and at his death he left all his fortune to Uncle Anthony. Then, by the merest accident, after I had lost my husband I saw Uncle Anthony's advertisement for someone to help him in the study of astronomy. Curiosity urged me to go and see what the uncle was like who had inherited all my father's money. I think I felt rather wicked and revengeful, too," added Dora, laughing a little nervously. "I had wild and romantic ideas of regaining my lost patrimony; anyway I had my living to make, and it was an easy and comfortable way of making it. Then I met you, Edmund," she continued tenderly, "and I ceased to think about the money; you lifted me out of my bad, sordid self.

Trenchard rose from his seat and bent down and took her face in his two hands and kissed her lips.

"And you, my darling," he said earnestly, "have lifted me from darkness into light. What would my fate have been if you had never gone to Carriconna, my brave, true wife?"

"I knew you were my fate, Edmund, that night we pulled your horse out of the bog! From that time my interest in my lost inheritance began to be as nothing. No one heart can hold both love and money; either the one or the other must be driven out. So I left the money, though nearly the whole fortune was in my hands."

Then Dora proceeded to amaze her husband with an account of Anthony's mysterious conduct, his secret visits to the tower, her own overpowering curiosity to know what it was he carried there in the old portmanteau; and lastly the extraordinary discovery that had rewarded her investigations.

"I shall be so glad to tell them, if they do not already know, Edmund. This secret has weighed on me like a nightmare. I did not feel that I had any right to speak whilst Uncle Anthony lived, and yet I had to listen to all dear Aunt Barbara's troubles about that miserable money, and about Arthur's position, and I don't know what more. And besides," she added, "I was really a little ashamed to tell anyone that I had been prying about after Uncle Anthony's treasure, though I never imagined for one moment what that treasure was."

"Of course you did not, dear," exclaimed Trenchard heartily; "it was a most innocent curiosity, and they will have great reason to rejoice that your curiosity was aroused if Anthony died without telling them anything. And now, love," he added, rising from the table, "we must go back and collect our belongings, and take the first train to-morrow for Carriconna."

"But only for a day or two, Edmund," said Dora coaxingly; "we shall come back again. You will not let this spoil our honeymoon?"

"Nothing in the world could do that! No, we will go to Carriconna, and as soon as you have seen Aunt Barbara we will come back, and begin this honeymoon all over again."

"Dear Aunt Barbara!" said Dora, "I am so glad she is my aunt!"

And Barbara was equally glad to claim and welcome Dora as her niece. Her beaming look of satisfaction as she led Mr. and Mrs. Trenchard into the house said plainly to Arthur, "I told you so."

Don't you forget to get Putnam's Corn Extractor, now for sale by medicine dealers everywhere. Substitutes are everywhere offered as just as good. Take "Putnam's" only.

It is curious how much faster a street car humps along when you are running after it than when you are riding on it.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

We attract hearts by the qualities we display; we retain them by the qualities we possess.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

To rejoice in another's prosperity is to give content to your own lot; to mitigate another's grief is to alleviate or dispel your own.

CAPTIVITY OF JUDAH.*

BY LYMAN ABBOTT.

Never was a State more magnificently equipped with laws and institutions than the Hebrew commonwealth. In the Mosaic statutes may be found in rudimentary form the germ of all free institutions, and it is not too much to say that, on the one hand, every principle in our own commonwealth which has proved its value in our national experience may be found in seed form in the Mosaic institutions, while several of the dangers which most threaten our commonwealth come from a disregard of provisions which we might have found in the same text-book of political science. As De Tocqueville has shown, religion is the foundation of a free republic; it is so recognized in the Mosaic constitution. We prohibit caste and class distinctions; so did the Mosaic law. We rest our government on the consent of the governed; substantial universal suffrage was the basis of the Hebrew commonwealth. We ascertain the popular will by aid of two representative assemblies; the Hebrew commonwealth had its Great Congregation, or House of Representatives; and its Senate, or Council of Seventy. Our Government is organized in three departments, legislative, executive and judicial, all three will be found in the Mosaic constitution. Popular education is essential to popular government; in the Levitical order the foundations of a school system were laid, and at the time of Christ the Jews were the only people who were furnished with educational institutions for the peasant class. The combination of local independence with national liberty was secured by a federation of tribes or states, each with its local territory and government, so that the Holy Land might properly be termed a United States. The concentration of wealth in a hierarchy was absolutely prevented, war discouraged, a standing army disallowed, a militia made the dependence of the nation, and industry honored and fostered.†

But the people were not content with the gift which God had bestowed upon them; they desired a king, after the manner of the peoples about them. They were fascinated and dazzled by that show of wealth and prosperity which accompanies national poverty and is the high road to national death. The luxury and wealth of the empire under Solomon was followed by a division of the empire and by the importation first of foreign customs and then of foreign worship. In spite of Mosaic prohibitions, society divided into classes, the very rich and the very poor. Occasional and even heroic attempts were made at reformation by prophets, and sometimes by reforming kings; but in vain. From the death of David to the captivity of Zedekiah, the history of the two kingdoms of Judah and Israel is one of steadily advancing degeneracy and decay, and the final destruction of the capital and captivity of the people is easily traceable to pride, passion and cupidity. The tragic story of the decay and fall of the Jewish people, like the parallel tragedy of the decay and fall of Rome, has its lesson for our own nation in its present period of greatness and prosperity.

1. There is certainly an evolution downward as well as upward. We do not need to go to the first chapter of Genesis nor to the fifth chapter of Romans for evidence of a fall; we shall find it in the history of many a nation and in the biography of many a family. There is a progress of life and of death, of growth and of decay. The oak grows from the acorn; that is one evolution. But disease attacks it, rot enters it, it dies and crumbles to the earth, or remains only a leafless and unsightly skeleton; that is another evolution. Growth is not the world's saviour. No motto is more false, and few more pernicious, than the common one, "Time cures all things." Time cures nothing; it only gives an opportunity for other curative forces to do their work. Eternal vigilance, it is said, is the price of liberty. Eternal vigilance is the price of every good thing. National truth, purity, honor, can be maintained, and national progress promoted, only by eternal vigilance. There is always an enemy ready to sow tares if the good man is sleeping.

2. And there is no way by which a community can guard itself against this downward tendency by passing laws or framing institutions, and then going about its business and leaving them to serve as protectors. We cannot build a breakwater to keep out the sea unless we put a sentinel on the breakwater and keep a watch there. The admirable constitution which God gave to Israel did not protect it from the consequences of its own neglect. A man may quarantine himself against contagion from without, and a nation may quarantine itself against corruption from without; but neither man nor nation can quarantine itself against a disease which is within its own vitals. Our forefathers gave us admirable institutions; but we must take care of our institutions—our institutions will not take care of us. He who thinks that because Washington and his compatriots fought successfully the War of the Revolution, and Grant and his compatriots the War of the Rebellion, nothing now is left for us to do but to live in ease and comfort, and make and spend money, is a very dull reader of history. Life is a battle, and every generation must sleep on its arms, and keep its scouts out. We cannot make our nation pious by putting the word of God in constitution, or temperate by putting the word prohibition in the statute book. Good laws are only instruments; and the value of an instrument depends on the nerve and muscle of the man who wields it. The poorest flint-lock musket that was ever made, in the hands of a cool soldier, is worth more for defense than the best breech-loading rifle that was ever made standing idly in the corner.

3. While, therefore, it is right to put emphasis on good measures, it is right to put more emphasis on good men. Congress does not make the nation; the nation makes Congress. Our statutes help to mold our national life, but it is still more true that our national life molds our statutes. The influences which tend to create public opinion are the influences which most need watching. Jefferson is reported to have said that a nation without laws and with newspapers would be better off than a nation without newspapers and with laws. It was quoted as an illustration of his exaggeration; but I am inclined to believe that he was right. The noble woman who has done so much to secure the passage of a law in many of our States making temperance education in the public schools compulsory has done more for the cause of temperance than the framer of any legislation, whether for license or for prohibition. Give us good schools and good churches, and good laws and good institutions will follow of themselves. What shall we do to prevent the multiplication of divorces? Frame new divorce laws? There is no objection to that. But the main thing to be done is to create a new sentiment on the subject of divorce. So long as men and women believe that marriage is a civil contract, and the family a partnership, they will form it and dissolve it at pleasure. Whenever they believe that marriage is a divine order, and the family the unit of society, divorces will cease. A Federal commission to govern Utah will do something; a law to prohibit polygamy will do something more; but a public school system and a Christian church, appealing to the womanhood in Mormon women and emancipating them from ignorance and superstition, will do most of all. All this is only another way of saying that the Gospel is the real remedy for social and political evils. Good institutions cannot save a nation whose life is wrong, nor can evil institutions destroy a nation whose life is right. A prohibitory system would do no good in hell, and low license would do no harm in heaven.

4. There is, of course, an individual application of this truth. In a real sense our first duty is to ourselves. Let every man think right, live right, and be right, and the institutions will come right. The first thing I have to do to promote any good cause is to be in heart identified with it. The creed will not make my faith orthodox, nor the ritual my piety and penitence sincere. But if my faith is orthodox, the creed will shape itself in time; and if my piety and penitence are sincere, they will find a language to express themselves; and if they do not it is small matter, since God will understand them unexpressed. I do not wish to be understood as underrating the value of creeds or rituals. It is well both to have and to do all things decently and in order; only let us understand that orderliness does not of itself make a home nor a church. Whether the phrenologists are right in thinking that the contour of the head conforms to the structure of the brain I will not undertake to say; but if they are, it is the brain which fashions the skull, not the skull which fashions the brain. He was a wise man who said, "Let me make the songs of a people, and I care not who makes their laws." Let me make the faith of a people, and anyone may make their creeds and their liturgies. It is a fatal error to imagine that we can shape a creed, or take one which our ancestors shaped for us, and then go our way and not fear false doctrine. The only way to keep false doctrine out of the creed is to keep false doctrine out of the heart. Whether it be in the State, the church, the household or society, institutions and organizations can neither take the place of life nor serve, unguarded and unenforced, to protect and preserve it.

"Don't Care to Eat."

It is with the greatest confidence that Hood's Sarsaparilla is recommended for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache, and similar troubles. This medicine gently tones the stomach, assists digestion, and makes one "real hungry." Persons in delicate health, after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves longing for and eating the plainest food with unexpected relish. g

"German Syrup"

A Cough and Croup Medicine.

For children a medicine should be absolutely reliable. A mother must be able to pin her faith to it as to her Bible. It must contain nothing violent, uncertain, or dangerous. It must be standard in material and manufacture. It must be plain and simple to administer; easy and pleasant to take. The child must like it. It must be prompt in action, giving immediate relief, as childrens' troubles come quick, grow fast, and end fatally or otherwise in a very short time. It must not only relieve quick but bring them around quick, as children chafe and fret and spoil their constitutions under long confinement. It must do its work in moderate doses. A large quantity of medicine in a child is not desirable. It must not interfere with the child's spirits, appetite or general health. These things suit old as well as young folks, and make Boschee's German Syrup the favorite family medicine.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—He promised her, before the marriage,
That she should ride "in her own carriage;"
But so far he has failed to buy her one,
Because, by the time he has paid the landlord, the butcher, the water rates, and made a partial payment to her dressmaker and his tailor, he is lucky if there is enough left out of his month's salary
To hire one.

—Bishop O'Connor, of this city was presented with an address on Tuesday by the parishioners of St. Alphonsus Church.

—The band of "D" company, 1. S. C., did not give their semi-weekly band concert in Victoria Park Wednesday owing to cloudy weather.

—The coronor's jury in connection with the death of George Pickell, whose remains were buried here Tuesday, met at Utica, Mich., and brought in a verdict that the affair resulted through the carelessness of Thomas H. Scott, train dispatcher at Detroit.

—J. T. Stephenson, undertaker, has a fine collection of views of the funeral of the late Premier on exhibition in his Dundas street window. He brought them with him from Ottawa. The handsomest mourning display in the city last week was that in the window of Spittal, Burn & Gentleman, Dundas street.

—The Executive Committee of the Y. P. S. C. E. met Tuesday evening and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: A. J. Clark, president; A. L. Crossin, first vice-president; Miss M. K. Smith, second vice-president; Miss Jewell, third vice-president; R. N. Brebner, corresponding secretary; F. Bart. Howard, recording secretary; Miss Gower, treasurer; Jas. Johnson, correspondent to the Endeavor Herald. President Clark will report on the Minneapolis convention at a union meeting to be held July 21 in St. James' Presbyterian Church. A sub-committee was instructed to make arrangements for the third annual picnic to be held Aug. 4, to which Woodstock, Ingersoll and St. Thomas and the Y. M. C. A. fraternities will be asked.

—About 150 people went on the Sarnia excursion Wednesday.

—Judge Elliot presided at Division Court sittings in St. Johns Wednesday.

—Frank Kirchmer, manager of the Grand Opera House of London, Ont., is in the city working up the excursion business for the Western Fair at London.—[Montreal Herald.

—An entertainment was given Wednesday by Jubilee Singers from Fisk University in Victoria Hall, under the auspices of Bethemanuel Colored Church. The programme was one of merit.

—About 200 people took passage down the Thames and enjoyed the concert given by the Seventh Band at Wonderland Wednesday. A pleasant time was spent at Captain Foster's pretty resort.

—Among the applications by Presbyteries on behalf of students that were granted at Wednesday's session of the General Assembly was that of Arch. McLean, from the Presbytery of London.

—London is represented at the meeting of the C. O. O. F. Grand Lodge, now being held in Woodstock, by Grand Warden E. Gillett, Bros. Geo. H. McClelland, Wesley Templeton, Thos. Cole and Henry Leadbeater.

—Messrs. Walker and Sutherland, two crack local barsmen, engaged in a race Wednesday in skimmers from Ward's hotel to Griffiths' old mill and return. Walker won easily by 50 yards. A large crowd witnessed the affair.

—Charles Godfrey Harper, of the Merchants' Bank, this city, was married to Katie, third daughter of the late J. W. Lightbound, of Liverpool, Eng., at St. Paul's Church, Toronto, on Tuesday, by Bishop O'Mahoney.

—The Western Fair Committee in charge of that department is determined that the display in the main building this year will even eclipse the showing of 1890. Last year's Western Fair is acknowledged to have been the best ever held, but the coming one, it is promised, will outshine that dazzling exhibition.

—At 3:30 Wednesday afternoon the residence of Willard Sage, 462 Maitland street, was the scene of a brilliant gathering, the occasion being the marriage of his eldest daughter, Jessie M., to W. J. Robertson, of Detroit. Miss Anabel Sage, sister of the bride, and Miss Grace Robertson, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaids, while Milton Robertson and B. Brown assisted the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ira Smith, assisted by Rev. Mr. Courtice. The bride and bridesmaids were very prettily attired. The numerous and elegant presents received, and the congratulations from Colorado, California, Dakota, Kansas, Nova Scotia, Indiana, Michigan and other parts testified to the high esteem in which the bride is held by her numerous friends. At 7 p.m. they departed, under a heavy shower of rice, for the west.

London Fishermen Abroad.

Tuesday's edition of the Wiarton News has the following, which will be found interesting, as it deals with the exploits of several of London's staid business men: "On Sunday three suspicious looking individuals were noticed at 'The Arlington' in this town. They had reached here on the late train the night previous, and brought with them quite a mysterious outfit, some boxes marked X., XX. and others stamped 'Green Seal,' Walker's proof, etc. They registered as Sam. Stewart, Rich. Southam and A. S. Emery, of London, Ont. They kept to themselves, climbing up the rocks in a meditative mood. Occasionally a remark would be heard such as, 'When the rest of the gang comes we'll surprise them.' On Monday they drove over to Bedford Lake and remained all day. By the afternoon train the rest of the 'gang' arrived. They registered as D. Regan, Thomas Gillean, H. Beaton, Edward Beltz, John Ferguson and J. F. Merchant. About 8 o'clock the first three scouts returned from Bedford Lake—and then all was excitement—such fish, and such fish stories. Sam. Stewart's nose was the size of a turnip, owing to a black fly having sat thereon and inoculated it. Dick Southam had caught 75 pounds of bass and pike, and was anxiously endeavoring to buy an icehouse to keep them from spoiling—he was so anxious to have them reach the Forest City in good shape. The other partner, Emery, had a fearful experience. He had a fish on his line which was the biggest bass ever brought to the top of the water, but unfortunately he was standing on a log at the time. The fish jumped clean over the log and swam under it, and by sheer strength the log rolled and he fell into the lake, losing the big fish and his pocket pistol at the same time. But he had a good day's sport all the same, as well as the rest, for his nose was red and his neck the color of tanbark. When they related their adventures to the rest of the gang and backed them up with a splendid show of fish there was indeed excitement, and they had to acknowledge that the scouts had scooped them. However, all made up friends, and next day, accompanied by a further detachment who arrived on the midnight train, consisting of John Christie, William Skinner, Thomas Higgins and R. Mountjoy, they took the overland route to Oliphant, where they intend to camp on an island and clean out Lake Huron. We wish them a good time, and their London friends may expect to dine on fresh rock bass, washed down with Bass' ale, for the next month."

PERFUMES.

Crystallized History—That's what someone says words are. But a good Perfume is the essence of sweet words. Petals by the thousand are used to make a single drop of Otto of Roses, but that will stir up more memories in a second than could be read in the ADVERTISER in a week. Josephine loved musk. History says so, and we remember it as well as we do that her husband became Emperor of France. One cannot smell the odor without being reminded of it. But all do not limit their choice to one odor. We hear of a lady who puts her letter paper between sachets of different essences, and it is the perfume that she employs that speaks for her. When she uses Tuberose or Chypre she says: "I am true." If the letter smells of White Rose it is "Adieu;" but if it is the tenacious and persistent musk, it is "Eternal love." If the adorer is too stupid to understand, so much the worse for him. The Perfume should be always of the best quality; everything else depends upon your Perfumes. Good or bad perfume, good or bad anything else. If you can't see that, there must be something wrong in your eyes—better have them examined for spectacles. We say you can always get the best at Earle-well's, and we think we know. zxv

Grand Lodge Proceedings—Satisfactory Reports—Election of Officers.

WOODSTOCK, June 17.—The Grand Lodge of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows convened here yesterday in the Buckingham Hotel, Grand Master Collins in the chair. Mayor Douglas, accompanied by several prominent citizens, on behalf of the Town Council and Board of Trade extended to the grand officers and delegates the freedom of the town. Grand Master Collins replied in felicitous terms.

The grand master, in his address, reported the progress and condition of the order. Everything was in good shape. He took occasion also to refer to the death of the late Premier.

The report of the executive grand officers showed that there had been an increase of 685 members during the year. Two juvenile lodges had also been instituted. The obituary report showed that thirteen brothers and the wives of twelve brothers had died during the year. By the report of the assurance and endowment fund it was shown that there had been but four deaths during the year. The grand organizer's fifth and last report stated that 24 new lodges had been opened by him during the year. He took occasion also to tender his resignation of the office, as he desired to return to British Columbia, whence he came five years ago.

At 7 p.m. an imposing street parade took place, in which the grand officers, delegates and the local lodge, headed by the band, took part.

At this morning's session P. G. M. Cameron, of Owen Sound, presented the report of the executive grand officers, which was unanimously adopted. P. G. M. Thomas, of Dundas, read the report of mileage and finance. The principal feature in the report was the striking of an assessment of $1 34 per head per annum to cover all expenses of running the order. The report was adopted.

The report on the state of the order presented by P. D. G. M. Alex Thompson, of Hamilton, shows gratifying progress. It was unanimously adopted.

On resuming in the afternoon the election of officers was proceeded with, Grand Master H. A. Collins, of Toronto, being re-elected. Bro. McMurchy, of Owen Sound, was elected deputy grand master.

Amelia Rives Chanler has finished a new novel, which at least one New York publisher is unwilling to publish, because it goes further than "The Quick and the Dead."

The snob, according to Mr. Grant Allen in the Contemporary Review, is "a moral stumbling block, a menace to the true faith, an obstacle to human progress. The creature who cringes to dukes and cotton-spinners is worse than a mere worm. He is a potential scorpion."

A landlord in Philadelphia has invented a novel way of serving eggs. He provides little silver pots, with a spirit lamp underneath, which the waiter places on the table with the uncooked eggs in a bowl, the breakfaster putting them in himself and cooking to suit his taste.

Edison looks when at work like a boy apprentice. His manner and speech are very boyish. But the fire of genius shines in his keen grey eyes, and the clean-cut nostrils and broad forehead indicate strong mental activity. Though comparatively a young man, the occasional gleam of silvery hair tells the story of his application.

If cloth can be made out of fine spun glass, it would seem a simple matter to make it out of wood. This is now done by boiling strips of fine grained timber, crushing them between rolls, carding the filaments into parallel lines, as with ordinary textile material, and spinning them into threads, from which the cloth can be woven in the usual way.
