THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

Proceedings Were Concluded Saturday Afternoon With Address From Mr. Hyman

Mr. McCoig Launches out on Campaign for Seat in Dominion House - Majority Rule at the Meeting

The Liberal Convention, a report of which was given in Saturday's Planet, up to the time of going to press, was concluded about half-past four. After Mr. McCoig had accepted the nomination, interest in the meeting fell and several left the hall. Hon. Mr. Hyman was called upon to address the gathering, and all through his address stragglers were leaving the hall.

through his address stress.

Mr. McCoig, in his address, thanked the convention for the unanimous nomination tendered to him. He was nomination tendered to him. He was received with much applause. He said that he was honored in following Mr. Pardo in the local house, and he would also feel it an honor to follow Geo. Stephens in the Dominion Parliament. He was pleased to learn that he would have the support of Geo. Stephens and the old Liberals. Mr. McCoig was sorry that he would have to separate himself from the people of Wallaceburg. He thought, with the majority he would get in Blenheim and Harwich added to the majority he got in the city at the last election, he would be able to give Mr. Clements a crushing defeat.

Mr. McCoig also undertook to score he has represented West Kent in parliament.

"What has Mr. Clements done?" asked the speaker. "The only thing he has done was to vote for the motion increasing the salaries of the representatives. When he accepted the nomination he asked to go down free hands. This was granted to him and yet he has voted Conservative on nearly every question in the house. He was whipped by the opposition into voting against the Autonomy Bill."

position into voting against the Autonomy Bill."

Mr. Stone read telegrams from Archie Campbell and Dr. Samson, who were unable to be present at the convention.

Mr. Hyman then addressed the meeting.

Many had assembled to hear a great speech from the Hon. the Minister of Public Works, but they were disappointed. Mr. Hyman spoke a very short time, the most of which was taken up in congratulating the convention for nominating Mr. Mc. Goig and in telling the audience the exact strength of the Liberal party in the Dominion House.

He liked the convention. It was one of the largest he had ever seen. He liked the nominee. The Government, be said, has its faults, but the party cannot go wrong. The candidate is free to condemn the Government, but he should always support the party. The Government of which he is the junior member has been in power for ten years, and the prospects never looked as bright as they do at the present time. He then went into details as to the numbers of each party in the Government. He was sure Archie would go in. He was delighted to hear the resolution of confidence in Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

In relation to the fiscal question the speaker pointed, out that one troublesome question was the tariff, as it effected so many people. He told how the dealers in from were unable among themselves to settle on some tariff for this commodity. The Government considers all classes of people. The next session of the Government will be taken up largely with the tariff question.

Mr. Hyman also promised to do all in his power for local shippers in the way, of transportation. We cannot deal thoroughly with this question in one year. We have great questions of transportation which require solving. We are looking into the future and acting as quickly as possible.

Gives History of Electric Road From the First, and Points Out Difficulties Contended With by Promotors

In your issues of the 2nd and 3rd, nterviews appear in reference to the oan now due the C., W. & L. E. Ry. Co., also an able editorial in reference to the same.

Being personally acquainted with matters leading up to the present, I beg permission to lay before the public facts in reference thereto.

public facts in reference thereto.

Prior to 1903 there had been unknown to a majority of the citizens an organized effort by several interested parties, including myself, to build an electric railway in Kent, running from Wallaceburg to a point on Lake Erie at or near Rond Eau. Several attempts had been made to float the same scheme prior to our entering the field, resulting in failure, which is well known. Having sersonally great confidence in its success, and having induced others to entertain my views, we, after Mayor McKeough's inaugural of 1903, enlisted and obtained assistance and encouragement of Mayor McKeough, N. 21. Stevens, Geo. Stephens, then M. P., and Wm. Ball, of Chatham, along with D. A. Gordon, of Wallaceburg, to push the scheme to completion.

During 1903 I, with my Toronto During 1903 I, with my Toronto associates, endeavored to solicit financial assistance, and several trips were made to financial centres for that purpose. All our efforts were met by the question as to what assistance the city would give. This resulted in submitting to the people at the Municipal Elections in 1904 By-law No. 815, which was carried, and by which we were able to place the enterprise to financiers in a more favorable light.

The scheme was kept alive during

The scheme was kept alive during 1904 and we finally became acquainted with Messrs. Kipp, Kizer, and their associates, whom we (in company with Mr. J. T. O'Keefe, who had in the meantime become interested) met at Buffalo and presented the said B-law and its advantages, telling these gentlemen that the intention of the people was to assist the company in every way possible, and I doubt very much if there was any inclination on the part of any of the citizens, particularly, the business interests, to hinder the operation of the company, the idea being to get a proneer line built which would induce other like enterprises to come in, and which has already had results in the Windsor franchise.

No thought was given of discussions

As he concluded he was greeted with applause from the people in the audience who remained.

D. A. Gordon, M. P., followed with a short and vigorous address. He spoke of the tariff along the same lines as Mr. Hyman. The Government would make a fair revision, but they would not do what the extremists want them to do.

John Auld, M. P. P., for Essex, made a speech along humorous lines. He spoke on Ontario politics and with a number of crude jokes, succeeded in making his audience laugh. He made an amusing speech, and wound up the meeting by putting everyone in good harmor.

The convention then closed with the usual cheers for the King, the candidate and the rest.

Sc. Petersburg, Feb. 5.—After a short discussion in the council of the empire Saturday, the temporary regulations for strengthening the hands of the Government in dealing with political crimes in which there is a "joker" removing certain categories of political crimes from the jurisdictions of civil courts and placing them in the hands of court martials, were accepted and soon will receive the imperial sanction. The de facto extension of martial law to all parts of the empire for the purpose of dealing with political assassins and bomb throwers is sure to awaken a storm of protest in all liberal newspapers and to be hailed as other evidence of the Government's reactionary policy.

Further details of the meeting of the Imperial Council shows that M. Tolski, the president, and reckoned as a friend of Count Witte, absented himself on the plea of Himess. He was replaced by Admiral Schikohoff, the deadly enemy of the Premier. Ninety-three members were present. The anti-Witte sentiment was overwhelming and bitter. From a member of the count I hear that Count Witte has since the finding of the Council twice applied for an audience at Tsarskoe-Selo, the reply given each time that the Emperor was too busy to receive him.

MR. McCOIG'S NOMINATION.

Just why Mr. McCoig should be nominated for the Commons three years before the elections, seems to require a more convincing explanation than any so far given.

In opposition to the advice of such stalwarts as Messrs. Geo. Stephens John Piggott and John Walker, the patronage-seeking section of the party have chosen Mr . McCoig as the most likely distributer of "spoils." No sane citizen can urge that Mr. McCoig has earned the honor by his useless presence in the Legislature, for as our representative he has done nothing to show that he was entitled to West Kent's confidence.

For Mr. McCoig it was a fortunate turn of the wheel of fate, because in one or two years more of his imnotence at Toronto, even the rabble of his party would have deserted his cause. The very section which has wrested from Mr .Stephens the patronage to which his position entitles him would soon have discerned that Mr. McCoig is absolutely unfit as a parliamentary representative. Just now their thirst for "jobs" and "favors" completely blinds them to those 'who are more capable in perceiving the actual state of affairs.

It might be urged in Mr. McCoig's defence that he is in opposition and consequently has had no opportunity. He has had the opportunity to bestir himself in the public interest. It is now to be hoped that with the whole breadth of federal and local affairs to engage in, he will find some small thing that will keep him from complete obscurity.

The Conservatives have no fault to find with the selection of the Liberal candidate, and will be found ready to give a good account of. themselves at the close of the contest when it comes. The choice, however, must have caused certain gentlemen in this city and county pangs of humiliation when they saw that in the opinion of the convention there was but ONE man strong enough in the whole Reform party in Kent to win the contest.

Geo. Stephens, Dr .McKeough, Dr. Fleming, N. H. Stevens, W. E. Mc-Keough, John Piggott, or a dozen other names we might mention. would have accepted the nomination if it had been offered them, but none of these gentlemen are apparently magnetic enough to get the votes.

At the 48th annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association in Toronto Past President McNee said :-"There must be some action regarding the libel law. At present we are at the mercy of designing individuals and unscrupulous lawvers I think an enactment should be procured making it compulsory for men to submit their case to the local county judge, and show cause of action before rushing into law." Those who have noticed the comparative frequency with which libel suits against newspapers are sprung will agree with Past President McNee that some action regarding the libel law should be taken. Not only are there many libel suits against newspapers, but the grounds for the suits are often very poor. It is said that there are some lawyers, who are a disgrace to the profession, always on the lookout for opportunity to bring suit against newspapers. It will be a wonder if some of that class do not imagine that they see opportunity for a libel suit in Mr. McNee's assertions.

One of the curlers was unkind enough to remark, "The inscription will be all right going out, but it will only be 'Waterloo' coming back." At any rate there will be some justification in the fact of knowing that they will all want to know whether Chatham is on the map or not before the week is out. The Winnipeg Free Press, whose news editor is W. F. Payne, an old Chatham boy, writes the curling club asking for photos of the curlers who are attending the bonspiel. This matter has been duly attended to. Our worthy President of the Board of Trade, W. R. THE TOWN OF CHICKENS

SEVEN MILLION AND A HALF IN THE CALIFORNIA RANCHES.

Chief Industry of Petaluma-Costs Over $7,000,000 a Year to Feed Them -Eggs Are Clear Profit-Where the Chicken Is King-A Busy Kingdom of White-Some Other Sour ces of Revenue.

When one takes a trip to Petaluma Cal., he is disposed to think that he has reached a new kingdom—a place something like those told about by Gulliver in his travels. Here within a radius of 12 miles is the greatest chicken population in the world, and it seems to the visitor as if there must be a chicken ruler and all the human bipeds were there simply for the pur-bipeds were there simply for the purpose of catering to the wants of the feathered people.

In the South cotton is king; in the Middle West corn is king; in Pennsylvania coal is king; in Petaluma the chicken is king, and a generous king he is, so, for there is not a business day in the whole year that he does not bring to the City of Petaluma for distribution to his subjects $35,000 in good, hard cash.

It is a wonderful population which It is a wonderful population which immediately surrounds the thriving City of Petaluma—a population all dressed in white, with just enough other color to make one more fully realize the vast number of white dresses to be found. This is a busy kingdom, too. So busy, in fact, that few of the members of the population have time to devote to the rearing of children, and this important function has been and this important function has been relegated to machinery. The hens are wanted for their eggs alone, and all desire or inclination to set and carry on the duties of motherhood is nipped in the bud, and the would-be mother is in the bud, and the would be mother to told to go shead and get out a new supply of eggs and let the business of attending to little chicks be looked af-ter by the human servants in the king-dom. within a radius of twelve miles of Petaluma there are seven and a half million chickens. The night after a person takes a trip through this chick-en land he is apt to dream of a vast landscape covered with white dots. That is about the way the chickens around Petaluma look. Everywhere you look you see white chickens, and the further you look the more white chickens you see, until just as the horizon comes to your relief the dots seem to more into a white growilly seem to merge into a white, snowlike covering. It is all white, for the chicken raisers in and around Peta-luma have followed their leader most loyally, and the white Leghorn is the

Nearly half the eggs and poultry consumed in California are supplied by the poultrymen in and around Petaluma, and in addition to this large quantities of eggs and fowl are sent from there to Hawaii and the Philipsing Renders.

Take a walk along the streets of Petaluma in any direction, and you will be confronted with signs everywhere announcing the fact that the where announcing the fact that the business houses which they adorn cater to a chicken trade. You will see, in addition to the ordinary country store sign of "Highest prices paid for eggs," signs telling about "poultry feed," "poultry supplies," "poultry medicines," "egg shells bought," "feathers bought," and a lot of similar signs, which show that all thoughts in the commercial world have a chicken basis. Even the big factories of the place are built upon a chicken foundaplace are built upon a chicken founda-other city in the world.

The chickens must be well fed in order to induce them to lay well, and it is estimated that to properly feed a chicken costs one dollar a year. That does not sound large when only one chicken is to be considered, but when we figure that there are seven and a half million chickens to be fed and a hair minion characters to be led it means that it costs in round numbers $7,500,000 every year to feed the chicken population of the Petaluma neighborhood.

It will readily be seen that it takes an enormous quantity of feed of various kinds to keep all these chickens from going hungry. Some of the poultry men buy their feed in quantities up to 2,000 sacks at a single purchase and many of them buy in car the marketing of the poultry products of this territory is no simple matter. A considerable portion of the trade is done direct with San Francisco cisco. Small steamers make daily trips up Petaluma Creek from the Me-tropolis, and in addition to these thirty-eight sailing vessels assist in carrying the 500 to 700 cases of eggs carrying the 500 to 700 cases of eggs which are sent every day.

These cases hold from thirty to thirty-six dozen eggs each. Besides these cases of eggs the vessels are frequently loaded down to the water line with crates of chickens. Sometimes these loads are so large that they reach from the lower deck to the pilot house.

In addition to these river boats a railroad connects Petaluma with San Francisco, and this carries thousands of boxes of eggs and crates of chickens in the express car. The bulk of the shipments is made by river, but where it is necessary to hurry the goods the trains are brought into play. It costs ten cents to ship a case of eggs to San Francisco and the case is returned free to the shipper.

vacant when the old hens are sold off after their third year of usefulness.

The other poultry ranches vary in size from those of 300 hens to 2,000 hens, within the limits of the city, while a fifteen minute drive will take you to the big ranches with from 3,000 to 5,000 hens. These lie within easy distance of the steamboat landing, and the eggs are shipped directly to the dealers or commission men in the city. the city.

It is considered among the Petaluma chicken raisers that the eggs are all clear profit. By selling all the hens which have passed their third year and the young cockerels for broilers and fryers the poultryman is able to meet all the current expenses of his ranch and pay interest on his investment. Other sources of income are to be found in those things which the ordinary chicken raiser usually nebe found in those things which the ordinary chicken raiser usually neglects. Eggs shells are carefully gathered up and sold by the crate. Stray feathers are picked up, and on a large ranch they make quite an item of income. The modern poultryman has to look out for all these little sources of income, and the closer attention he pays to his business the more certain and the larger are his profits.

The big poultry raiser buys his feed at wholesale. It takes a ton of middlings and a ton of wheat each month to feed one thousand chickens up to dlings and a ton of wheat each month to feed one thousand chickens up to a profitable laying point. When a man has a thousand or more chickens he purchases his feed for his flock by the carload, and he sells the stray feathers, the eggs shells, the buano and all the odds and ends about the place which ordinarily go into the dump. The egg shells alone are worth $1.60 a bushel. When the hundreds of incubators of the poultry ranches near cubators of the poultry ranches near and in Petaluma give out their little and in Petaluma give out their little chicks there is an immense lot of shells to dispose of, and these are now part of the profit of the poultry raiser. Some idea of the amount of the business at Petaluma may be had when it is known that there are nine establishments which make a business of packing eggs and chilling dressed poultry, so that it may be shipped a large distance.

of packing eggs and order to be shipped a long distance.

The climate of Petaluma appears to be especially suited to the vigorous growth of chickens, and ordinary fowl ailments are almost unknown on a well-conducted ranch in that vicinity. There are some peculiarities about these chicken ranches that will apear strange to the Easterner. For instance, some of the ranches have nothing but incubators and brooders nothing but incubators and broders. They raise chickens to sell within three days of the time they leave the shell. These chicks are in constant demand and sell ordinarily at the rate of five cents each when they are three of five cents each whole days old.

Another, or, rather, several other ranches, raise chickens simply to sell as broilers. They raise the chicks until they are ten or twelve weeks and then send them to the city markets This they continue all the year round.
These broilers are supplied to the hotels, restaurants, and private dealers, going mostly to the City of San Francisco. Other ranchers raise the Francisco. Other ranchers raise the young chickens to supply ranchers who have no time to devote to the raising of chickens. The man with 4,000 or 5,000 laying hens prefers to buy his pullefs when he is ready to sell off the old hens, and he does not care to attend to the detail of raising little ones. To meet this demand some ranchers do nothing but raise young chickens to sell. The pullets go to the big ranches and the cockerels go the big ranches and the cockerels go to the city for fryers and broilers.

Despite the enormous output of poultry products of Petaluma, it does not near supply the demand in California. During the last year it is estimated that this State sent $3,000,000 East to for poultry and eggs.-New York

HONEY LOVING BIRDS.

They Often Have Battles With Bees For the Sweet Booty.

The love for sweet things is a craving of nature in all living creatures, and birds will sometimes run great risks to satisfy it. Bears in their eagerness to get at the honey in a hol-low tree will sometimes wedge them-selves into so small a hole as to endanger their lives, and many forest birds, such as woodpeckers, blue jays and thrushes, will run the danger of and thrushes, will run the danger of being stung to death in their endeavor to obtain the sweet honey that the bees store in the hollow trunks of trees. Sometimes they will attack bees on the wing and snap them up for the tiny speck of nectar contained in their sacks. Blue jays often take a position near beehives and fish all day for honey. Every returning bee is caught, but not devoured, for birds will kill the bee only that they may sip up the honey. Unless driven away a few such bird robbers would soon depopulate a honey. Unless driven away a few such bird robbers would soon depopulate a bird robbers would soon depopulate a hive.

Occasionally the bees organize and fight the birds. They issue in a body from the hive and make a bold attack upon the assassins. In the quick, sharp conflict that follows the birds invariably get defeated. Indeed they do not attempt to resist the onslaught, but seek safety in flight. If the bees surround one of the birds quickly enough, there is little bope for the robber. They settle down upon him and sting him to death. He may fly away, but the bees cling to his back and sides tenaciously. His flight soon becomes less energetic and more and more uncertain until at last he drops to the earth and gasps out his life among the leaves and bushes, while the bees return triumphantly, to their home.

In the wild forest the honey loving birds cometimes wake an averaging of the servantery wake.

home.

In the wild forest the honey loving birds sometimes make an organized attempt to drive the bees away from their home in the hollow trunk of a tree. They first discover the place of the hidden treasure by following the bees on a warm, sunny day, and if there be an opening in the tree large enough to admit them they plunge down the hole in a body.

Then there follows a sharp con-down the hole in a body.

Then there follows a sharp conflict inside the tree, the birds snapping at the bees and cutting them in two at each snap. The only chance for the bees is to light on the backs and sides of the birds. If they fail to do this, they are soon routed, and the rich treasures of sweets are captured by the enemies. These battles terminate in various ways, sometimes the bees and sometimes the birds coming out victor-lous.—Our Animal Friends.

THE WORST OF A COLD.

Is how suddenly it comes. No time to hurry to the drug store, croup develops, the lungs are effected with pneumonia or tuberculosis, and it's too late. Keep Catarrhozone on hand—it kills colds instantly. Something magical about the way it cures Catarrh and Bronchitis. Catarrhozone is the best remedy because it cures in nature's way: It heals, soothes and restores permanently. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, ures it occasionally and you'll never catch cold—that's worth remembering. Is how suddenly it comes. No time

A lazy liver may be only a fired liver, or a starved liver. A stick is all right for the back of a lazy man. But it would be a savage as well as a stupid thing to beat a weary man a stupid thing to beat a weary man or a starving man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lask it with drastic drugs. In nine-ty-nine cases out of a hundred a torpid or sluggish liver is but a symptom of an ill-nourished body, whose organs are weary with overwork. Let your liver alone. Start with the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in proper working order, and see how gestion and nutrition. Put them in proper working order, and see how quickly your liver will become active and energetic. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvellous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanes the system from poisonous accumuthe system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

A REVIVAL

Special Services Will be Held in the William St. Baptist Church Every Night This Week

Revival meetings are to begin in the William S. Baptist Church this week, and will be held every night except Saturday. This yas the announcement made by Rev. Mr. Hoyt, the pastor of the church, at the service yesterday morning, and in accordance with this announcement the preacher delivered an earnest discourse on the words, "O Lord, revive Thy work." He spoke of what a revival consists and the need of a revival in our churches and then made a few suggestions as to how we might secure a revival. A revival cannot be worked up. It must come from God and will come, when God's people honor His word and are

In the evening the church was again crowded and the large audience listened with the closest attenence listened with the closest atteation to a character sermon on the subject, "A Strong-Minded Woman."

Deborah was the character selected, and her life and work as a prophetess, an agitator, a writer and a ruler were clearly dealt with by the preacher. The word Deborah means "bee" and while she gathers honey for her friends she has a fatal sting for her enemies. Deborah, with an eloquence like that of a mighty reformer, called upon her people to throw off the yoke of tyranny and led on the forces of God's people to the destruction of the Capeople to the destruction of the Ca-

IN AN INDIAN BAZAAR.

According to Sir Frederick Treves There Are Nearly As Many Animals As Men In It.

In the pinched streets of the Bazaan in Delhi there are nearly as many animals as men, says Sir Frederick Treves in his book, "The Other Side of the Lantern."

Camels stalk along indifferently as if they were alone in the desert, don-

Camels stalk along indifferently as if they were alone in the desert, donkeys with packs patter on their way in companies of twenty, while with them are bullocks drawing carts, cows coming in from the fields, or buffaloes carrying bundles of indefinite garbage. A Brahamani bull will be lying asleep in front of a temple. Sheep will be dodging in and out of the crowd in search of a living, and to every empty cart or to any convenient awning pole a calf is likely to be tied. A rat or two will now and then run across the little lane; while the disreputable snarling pariah dog, with the mark of the starving rogue upon his brow, will be skulking wherever a shadow will hide him from the fate of Cain.

It may be the impression of a host of animals in the street is due to other unwonted admixture with the traffic. This would be understood by imagining the Bond. Street of Delhi transferred to the Bond Street of Delhi transferred to the Bond Street of Delon One could then see camels striding down red to the Bond Street of London. One could then see camels striding down the road with supercilious disregard of the police, a train of donkeys winding among the hansoms, and goats picking their way between the carriages. A fat grey bull would be dozing on the steps of a hatter's shop, a couple of sheep would be nosing among the trifles of a milliner's counter, while a buffalo, laden with a pile of straw would hustle the frock-coated of straw, would hustle the frock-coated lounger from the pavement.

The dweller in the bazaar lives in the street, coram populo, and his inner life is generously laid open to the ner lie is generously laid open to the public gaze. In the morning he may think well to wash himself in front of his shop, and to clean his teeth with a stick, while he crouches among his goods and spits into the lane. He sits on the ground in the open to have his head shaved, and watches the flight of the barber's razor by means of a hand glass. The barber squats in front of him, and from time to time whets his blade upon his naked leg. The shopkeeper will change his clothes before the eyes of the world when he is so moved. He also eats in the open, and after the meal he washes his mouth with ostentatious publications are stated in the bere late the second of the state of the second of the se ity and empties his bowl into the road.

Every phase of the fine art of cooking—with a suppression of no detail—can be witnessed by the lounger in the bazaar. At the same time he can note how the Indian woman washes her head, by wetting it and rubbing thereon the dust from under her feet.

Indeed, in the bazaar, life is seen in its nakedness. There is little that is hidden from the gaze of the curious. hidden from the gaze of the curious. There is no suggestion of "keeping up appearances," nor is any effort made to practise crude social deceptions. The mysteries of the household are as bluntly laid open as are the apartments of a doll's house when the front of the establishment is thrown wide by the delighted child. There are deeper shadows in courtyards and mean entries and behind hanging mats which the eye cannot penetrate, but if among the gloom there is the holy of holies of the Indian home, it may well be left in mystery. well be left in mystery.

Forcing Spiders to Spin.

Certain green ants in Queensland which also make their nests of leaves and flowers spun together, are said to keep spiders to spin for them. Whether these latter do it spontaneously or re-quire to be held as the larvae of the other species does not seem to have been determined. In the devices of these ants there is surely one of nature's hints to human inventors. Since the days of the spider artist in th University of Lagado, spider slik has been a dream. The difficulty of its realization has been chiefly the pugnacious nature of the spider, which prevents their being kept together. But. vents their being kept together. But a machine has been invented which a machine has been invented which seems to overcome the difficulty. It is described as a sort of frame c'ntaining twenty-four ministure gullotines, the blunt knives of which descend on the waists of the spiders and hold them fast. A number of the threads are secured together on a hook and slowly drawn out.—London Globe,

A city gentleman was invited down to the country for "a day with the birds." Whatever his powers in fin-ance, his shooting was not remarkable for its accuracy, to the great disgust of for its accuracy, to the great disgust of the man in attendance, whose tip was generally regulated by the size of the bag. "Dear me," at last exclaimed the sportsman, "but the birds seem exceptionally stong on the wing this year!"

"Not all of 'em, sir," came the remark. "You've shot at the same bird about a dozen times. 'E's a follerin' you about, sir."

SUGAR PRODUCTION

Berlin Beet Sugar Factories For

The Provincial Secretary has received returns of the production of the Wallaceburg and Berlin sugar eet factories. These are the only wo sugar beet factories in Catario and they obtain a bounty from the Provincial Government of 1-2 cent a pound. The Wainsceburg factory turned out 11,276,066 pounds, and the Berlin factory 9,510,753. The total bounty in one year must not exceed $75,000, according to the terms of the Act, and the companies therefore will have to share this sum between them this year. The Wallaceburg company will get $40,684,68 and the Berlin company $34,315,32. The Act granting the bounties set aside $375,000 for the purpose, and this will all be exhausted by next year's bounties. This is the first year in which the companies have earned the total bounty, though in the last two years they have some very close to the $75,000. Provincial Government of 1-2 cent

TARIFF ON SUGAR

David A. Gordon, M. P., Says Govern ment Will be Asked to Make Present Duty a Minimum

Mr. David A. Gordon, M. P., Wallaceburg, recently presented to the Tariff Commission a strong protest against the reduction of the protective duty on beet sugar under the preferential tariff.

"The preferential tariff by the Dominion Government practically annuls the bounty given by the Previncial Legislature," said Mr. Gordon annuls the bounty given by the Fre-vincial Legislature,' said Mr. Gor-don. 'The sugar manufacturers will ask the Government to make the old tariff a minimum. We do not ask a Chinese wall, but at the present time the duty on sugar is not twenty per cent, white the American tariff is four times as high.

"The farmers of Kent and the

"My servants were killed by them, and my camp was looted about forty." "My servants were killed by them, and my camp was looted about forty miles from this office," replied Andrews, 'meeting Mr. Maybourne's glance without flinching.

"At what number should you estimate them?"
"Roughly speaking from what I

"Roughly speaking, from what I saw of them from a hill nearly a mile distant, I should say they were probably two thousand strong. They were in full war dress, and from what my servants had hinted to me that morniver. It is the strong that the ing, I gathered that they are led by one of the king's sons."

"You have no doubt in your mind that they are coming this way?" "I don't think there's a shadow of a doubt about it, sir. They're probably trying to effect a junction with another impi, and then they'll be ready to receive any troops that may come up against them from the South." "There's something in that," said Mr. Maybourne, reflectively. "And

There could not be any doubt about the matter in my opinion. In the township we should certainly be able to make up a larger force, but our defences could not be made so perfect, while to abandon the mine was an act for which none of us were prenared.

"Very well then," continued Mr.
Maybourne, when he had heard that we agreed with him, "in that case we agreed with film, in that case the best thing we can do is to form a laager here, and prepare to hold out until the troops that I have been told are on their way up can rescue us. How are we off for arms and ammunition, Wrexford?"

"I will show you," I said, and forthwith led the way through the office into a smaller room at the back. Here I pointed to an arm-rack in which twenty-two Winchester repeating rifles, a couple of Martini-Henris, and about thirty cutlasses were arranged.

"How many men capable of firing a decent shot can we muster?" asked Mr. Maybourne, when he had overhauled the weapons.

"Nineteen white men, including ourselves," and about half-a-dozen natives."

"And how much ammunition have

"I can tell you in a moment," I answered, taking up a book from the table and consulting it. "Here it is. Two thousand cartridges for the re-peating rifles, two hundred for the Martinis, and a thousand for the six revolvers I have in this drawer."

"A good supply, and I congratulate you on it. Now let us get to work. Ring the bell, Mr. Mackinnon, and call all the hands up to the house. I'll talk to them, and when I've explained our position we'll see the supplementary to the supplemen our position, we'll get to work on the laager."

Ten minutes later every man had been informed of his danger, and was taking his share of work upon the barricades. Wagons, cases, sacks of flour, sheets of iron—everything. the barricades. Wagons, cases, sacks of flour, sheets of iron—everything, in fact, which would be likely to give shelter to ourselves and resistance to the enemy was pressed into our service, while all that would be likely to afford cover to the enemy for a hundred yards or so round the house was destroyed. Every tank that could be utilized was carried to the house and filled with water. The cattle were driven in, and when small earthworks had been thrown up and the stores had been stacked in a safe place, we felt we might consider ourselves prepared for a siege. By nightfall we were ready and waiting for the appearance of our foe. Sentries were posted, and in order that the township might be apprised of its danger and also that the troops who were hourly expected, as Mr. Maybournehad informed us, might know of our peril, a man was despatched on a fast horse with a letter to the inhabitants.

Having accompanied Mr. Maybourne round the square, and assured myself that our defences were as perfect as the limited means at our disposal would permit, our store of arms was brought from the office and the distribution commenced. A Winchester repeating rife and a hundred cart-was brought from the office and the distribution commenced. A Winchester repeating rifie and a hundred cartridges, a cutlass, and a revolver, were issued to each white man, and after they were supplied the native boys were called up. To our astonishment and momentary dismay only one put in an appearance. The rest had decamped, doubtless considering discretion the better part of valour. When, however, we saw the stuff of which they were made this did not trouble us very much.

they were made this did not trouble us very much.

As soon as every man had received his weapons, and had had his post and his duties pointed out to him, Mr. Maybourne and I left them to their own devices, and went up to the heuse. The former had told his daughter of our danger, and for this reason I was prepared to find her, if not terrified, at least showing some alarm. But to my amazement I discovered her hard at work preparing a meal for the garrison, just as calmiy and quietly as if nothing out of the common were occuring. She greeted me with a smile, showed me her puddings poining on the fire, and pointed to a number of buckets which stood about the verandah. These were filled with some peculiar-looking fluid; and I enquired what it might be. In answer I was told that was oatmeal and water.

"If we are to fight," said this daughter of war, "you will find it thirsty work. I shall put these buckets, with mugs, at convenient places, so that you may assuage your thirst if occasion serves."

ccasion serves."

I noticed also that she had prepared a large quantity of lint in case it should be required, and had arranged a number of mattresses in the verandah. Her courage put fresh heart into me, as without doubt it did into everyone else who saw her. I told her that she was braver than the boldest man amongst us, and she thereupon showed that she still had sufficient of the woman left in her to blush with pleasure at the compliment.

"If the enemy were only forty miles away at midday," said Mr. Maybourne as we carried the men's tea out into the open to them, "they ought to be close at hand now. When we've done our meal we'll post extra sentries; for though I do not for a moment expect they'll attack us in the dar, it would never do to allow ourselves to be surprised."

I agreed wih him; and, accordingly, as soon as our tea was finished, mer as soon as our tea was nnished, men were placed not only at the four corners of the laager, but at equal distances between them. The remainder lay down to rest wherever they could make themselves most comfortable. I found myself about the only exception to the rule, and derived the superior to the rule. ion to the rule; and, do what I would I could not sleep. Having tried for an hour and a half, and found it still im-possible, I went across to the veran-dah and sat down in one of the cane dah and sat down in one of the cane chairs there. I had not been there many moments before I was joined by Agnes, who seated herself beside me. I reproved her for not resting after her labors of the day.

"I could not sleep," she answered.
"Brave as you call me, I am far too nervous to rest. Do you really think the enemy will attack us in the morn-

"Not knowing their plans, I cannot "but I must confess it say," I replied, "but I must confess it looks terribly like it." "In that case I want you to promise me something, Gilbert." "What is it?" I asked. "You know "What is it?" I asked. "You know there is nething I would not do for you, Agnes. What am I to promise?"

"That if we are overpowered you will not let me fall into their hands alive. You may think me a coward, but I dread that more than any thought of death."
"Hush! You must rot talk like that not give his life for you."

She leaned a little forward and looked into my face. "I know you would protect me, would you not?"

"Wait and see. The man who touches you, Agnes, will have to do it over my dead body. Do you know that to-night, for some reason or other, I feel more superstitious than I have ever done before, I can't rid myself of the thought that I am near the one vital crisis of my life."

"What do you mean, Gilbert? You What do you mean, Gilbert? You and convinced myself that no man was sleeping at his post, but for the great-er part of the time I sat staring at the winking stars. Though I searched the open space outside the laager over and over again, not a sign of the enemy could I discover. If they were there, they must have been keeping wonderfully quiet. The sighing of the breeze in the long veldt grass was the only sound that I could guish.

I heard the clock in the house be-I heard the clock in the house behind me strike one, two, and then sounded, it was beginning to grow light. From where I sat in the verandah, I could just discern the shadowy outline of the wagons, and distinguish the figures of the sentries as they paced to and fro at their posts.

Thinking it was the to be astir, I rose from my chair and went into the house to help Agnes by lighting the fire for her, and putting the kettles on to boil.

I had just laid the sticks, and was I had just laid the sticks, and was about to set a match to them, when a shot rang out on the northern side of the laager. It was immediately followed by another from the south. I waited to hear no more, but snatched up my rifie from the table and ran out into the open. Before I had crossed the verandah, shots were being fired in all directions, and on reaching my post, I discovered a black crowd advancing at a run towards us. "Steady men, steady," I heard Mr. Maybourne shout as he took up his station. "Don't lose your heads whatever you do. Keep under cover, and don't fire till you're certain your shot will tell."

TARIFF HIS POLICY.

Balfour Threatened With Founding Separate Tariff Reform Panty.

London, Feb. 3.-What is likely to prove a historic meeting took place last night when former Premier Bal-four dined with Joseph Chamberlain in order to discuss the leadership difficulty, or, as it is euphemistically called "The future of the Unionist party."

"The event is surrounded with great secrecy, although it appears that both men had prepared for it by discussions with the leading men of both sections of the party.

Apparently Mr. Chamberlain, while steadily declining to take the leader-ship of the disunited party, practic-ally delivered an ultimatum to the effect that unless Mr. Balfour was prepared not only to accept Mr. Chamberlain's scheme, but to make it his militant policy, he would withdraw his followers and form a separate tariff reform party.

According to information from the same source as above, the tariff is the chief stumbling block in Mr. Balfour's path toward reconstruction.

the interior of Labrador the more evident it becomes that she has accom-plished a remarkable feat. She has made a journey that has never been ac-complished before excepting by the trader McLean in 1838 and 1841. Not a few strong men inured to the hard-ships of pioneer exploring have been baffled in Labrador; but this little wonan, fragile in appearance and accusomed to the refinements of life, has done exactly what she set out to do.

She has crossed the eastern part of the peninsula between Hamilton Inlet on the Atlantic and the mouth of the George River, which empties into Un-gava Bay on the south side of Hudson Strait. In making this journey she Strait. In making this journey she ascended the Naskopie River, which was known only at its mouth in Grand Lake and is shown on the maps to-day as a broken line. The river took her to the neighborhood of Lake Michikamau, proving that geographers were mistaken in assuming that the Naskople came from the northwest instead of the west. She then launchell her two canvas ca-She then launched her two canvas canoes on the upper waters of the George River and followed it to the sea. Fully half of its course of about 300 miles is still shown in broken lines on our maps, because neither McLean, over sixty-five years ago, nor Kennedy, twenty-five years later, gave us a satisfactory map of this stream.

nve years ago, nor Kennedy, twentyfive years later, gave us a satisfactory map of this stream.

Mrs. Hubbard made this journey of some 600 miles in a country which, of all the regions of the Dominion, has been last explored; which no man has yet crossed between Hudson Bay and the Atlantic; which is colder than the southern latitudes of Greenland and has a plague of files and mosquitoes in the short summer that is described as worse than in any other country.

The great explorer of Labrador is
A. P. Low of the Canadian Geological Survey, but he has never traversed the region east of the morth and south line that marks Mrs. Hubbard's route through the inland part of the peninsuia. Her journey has revealed practically the entire course of the Naskopie River and the George River for about half its length. Mrs. Hubbard says that both these rivers are very incorrectly placed on the maps.

We do not know whether Mrs. Hubbard had the training or instruments

We do not know whether Mrs. Hubbard had the training or instruments necessary to make a good map of these rivers; but whatever the definite geographical value of her trip may be, she has certainly made a wonderful journey through the Labrador wilds. She has carried out the purpose her husband had in view when he went to Labrador three years ago on the mission of exploration that cost him his life.—New York Sun.

"Then you sit right there and hold on for your life!" cried Blanche witheringly as she sprang to her feet. "I'll jump, overboard myself and push off. I'd just love to get wet. Tom turned red and then purple, but the last was with laughter, held back.
"So the other fellow is a Howard too," he choked, "and T. de Folkstone? What a cad! But don't you suppose that might be the adolescence of college days, Blanche, to be outgrown? The soldiers to whom Catherine was indebted for the glory of the Russian arms included Rumiantsof, the conqueror of Kagoul; the savage Kamienwho would hite pieces of flesh out of his men at the maneuvers and who stripped his prisoners in 30 degrees of cold and dashed cold water over them until they were literally frozen; the Prince of Nassau-Siegen, who was beaten by Gustavus of Sweden at Svenskund; Joseph Ribas, upon whom was written the unusual epitaph that "by his own wits he became a good general, an excellent diplomat and even an honest man," and, most famous of all, Suvorof, or Suwarrow. This celebrated general, who figures inaccurately in Byron's "Don Juan," was never defeated in the field. He was short of stature, being only five feet four inches in height. Suvorof was idolized by his soldiers. He had implicit faith in his star, his conceit was unbounded, and he behaved sometimes like a raving lunatic. He would come out of his tent stark naked and turn somersaults on the grass. His other eccentricities were equally amazing. At times apparently humane and averse to the shedding of blood, on other occasions he sanctioned the most awful massa cres. It was his deliberate conviction that there were only three great generals in the history of modern war-fare—Turenne, Laudon and Suvorof.

Broken Gently. The cashier of a certain firm had absconded, and the staff of clerks were deciding on a fit and proper person to acquaint the head of the firm of the act on his arrival.

Ultimately the matter was left in the hands of the head clerk, possibly be-cause none of the others cared to undertake the responsibility.

There had been a dog fight in the street, and a small crowd was just dispersing as the chief's carriage dash-"What's that crowd after. Jorkins?

The chief clerk thought he recognized a chance of breaking the news

"The vacancy, sir," he replied.
"Vacancy? What vacancy?" "Cashier, sir."

"But we want no cashier, Jorkins."

"Beg pardon, sir, but we've a vacancy for one!"

"Jorkins, are you mad?"

"No, sir. That is, sir, I don't know, sir. Fact is, sir, all the cash is gone, and—and"— "Well?"

"The cashier's gone with it, sir!"

ARCTIC LOVE TRAGEDY.

Taken to London Recently By the Little Vessel, Harmony. The story of an Arctic love tragedy as been brought to London by has been brought to London by the little vessel, Harmony, just returned from Labrador. It is owned by the Moravian Mission, which has been working among the Esquimaux of that bleak land for over a hundred years.

Last June, when the Harmony left London with relief for the Mission's stations, it carried a lady passenger. She was going to Nairn to marry a Moravian missionary. Moravian missionary.

After being held fast in the ice off the Labrador coast for three weeks Nairn was reached. Then the mission leaders boarded the vessel and told the lady that her lover was ill—so ill that marriage was impossible.

The truth was, her lover had gone mad—mad from the joy that followed the receipt of her letter that she was coming to him. At this—from the melancholy of three years—his mind reeled. He was brought back on the Hermony and taken by friends who Harmony, and taken by friends who met him here, to his home in Ger-many. The lady will return later. Habit-forming Medicines.

Whatever may be the fact as to many of the so-called patent medicines containing injurious ingredients as broadly published in some journals of more oless influence, this publicity has certainly been of great benefit in arousing needed attention to this subject. It has, in a considerable measure, resulted in the most intelligent people avoiding such foods and medicines as may be fairly suspected of containing the injurious ingredients complained of. Recognizing this fact some time ago, Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., "took time by the forelock," as it were, and published broadcast all the ingredients of which his popular medicines are composed. Thus he has completely forestailed all harping crities and ingredients of which his popular medicines are composed. Thus he has completely forestalled all harping critics and all opposition that might otherwise be urged against his medicines, because they are now of known composition. Furthermore, from the formula printed on every bottle wrapper, it will be seen that these medicines contain no alcohol or other habit-forming drugs. Neither do they contain any narcotics or injurious agents, their ingredients being purely vegetable, extracted from the roots of medicinal plants found growing in the depths of our American forests and of well recognized curative virtues.

Instead of alcohol, which even in small portions long continued, as in obstinate well recognized curative virtues.

Instead of alcohol, which even in small portions long continued, as in obstinate cases of diseases, becomes highly objectionable from its tendency to produce a craving for stimulants, Dr. Pierce employs chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine, which of itself is a valuable remedy in many cases of chronic diseases, being a superior demuleent, antiseptic, antiferment and supporting nutritive. It enhances the curative action of the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark and Bloodroot, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery," in all bronchial, throat and lung affections attended with severe coughs. As will be seen from the writings of the eminent Drs. Grover Coe, of New York; Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, Phila; Scudder, of Clincinnati; Ellingwood, of Chicago; Hale, of Chicago, and others, who stand as leaders in their several schools of practice, the foregoing agents are the very best ingredients that Dr. Pierce could have chosen to make up his famous "Discovery" for the cure of not only bronchial, throat and lung affections, but also of chronic catarrh in all its various forms wherever located.

before they entered the churches.

A number of the prisoaers taken into custody for assaulting the police during the disturbances earlier in the week were tried Saturday and were given various terms of maprisonment. Several members of the clergy will be proceeded against later on charges of resisting the law.

Members of the Chamber of Deputies will meet shortly to consider how to end the delicate situation.

Telegrams from the provinces show that the spirit of resistance is still active. Street fighting between Catholics and anti-Catholics occurred at Agen and Pau. At Olivet, three miles south of Orleans, the commissioner making the inventory was driven off by a mob of three hundred persons.

Later he returned with horse and foot gendarmes, a company of infantry and a battery of artillery, and after breaking in the deors of the church and sawing away a barricade, the manifestants were expelled from the edifice.

At Dijon, the commissioner was forced to knock out a panel of the massive door of the church of Netre Dame in order to gain entrance. He found only the parish priest inside, whe read a protest against the inventory being made.

A police judge Saturday sentenced several persons who took part in Friday's disturbances, to prison, among them a priest.

the serious strain in the relations of France and Germany.

On the one hand, France wants control of the semi-military police and on the other hand Germany objects to French control on the ground that it would make France the virtual mester of Morocco's political future. These positions are so radically opposed as to appear to be almost irreconcilable, yet the neutral delegates are streamously continuing their pacific offices toward finding a common ground acceptable to both countries.

both countries.

The ambassadors strongly oppose the disclosure of the various tentative plans for a compromise.

Increasing the Customs.

The Moroccan conference held a short sitting Saturday and agreed in principle te increase the customs duties of Morocco and to create a special fund out of the customs receipts for the improvement of the ports.

The proposals were adopted and referendum, as some of the delegates were not instructed.

Plumbing Firm of Worthington, Gar-rett and Armstrong Got $1,000. Toronto, Feb. 5.-At Saturday's sit-Toronto, Feb. 5.—At Saturday's sitting of the civic inquiry, Mr. Wright of Bennett and Wright was asked what $400 had been paid for, the date being June 19, 1904. He disclaimed knowledge of such payment. He wouldn't swear that Mr. Lennox didn't get it. It was pointed out that the cheque for the amount was missing.

the amount was missing.

Mr. Wright said he couldn't find the figures for his original tender on the plumbing contract. He admitted he had not billed Lennox for the $8,300 had not billed Lennox for the $3,300 owed him, or any portion thereof nor charged interest.

Mr. Wright had no knowledge that $2,385 had been paid to Purdy and Mansell. Before leaving the box he stated he had got $3,17.91 extras on the civic plumbing contract.

Thomas Worthington of the now dissolved plumbing from of Worthing.

Thomas Worthington of the mow dissolved plumbing firm of Worthington, Garrett and Armstrong, said he had taken out quantities for the city hall from Mr. Lennox. On leaving with Mr. Mansell he was asked by the latter if $1,000 would pay him for his trouble in getting into line for tendering on the plumbing. After consulting Mr. Armstrong corroborated that $1,000 had been received.

The inquiry adjourned till Feb. 15.
