Good Words For Canada.

The New York Herald prints the following, under the caption of "On the Duty to Canada":

"Residents of New York, and especially those who have not visited the Canadian War Memorial exhibition at the American Galleries, ought to make a special effort to see it before the close of the month.

"The first place, it is a unique record of the nation's part in the war. In the second, it should supply the missing links as to how we in this country go about the work of acquiring a future generation with the personalities of the men who distinguished themselves in our army and navy. In the third, it is brought here mainly as a compliment to the United States, by the authority of the great Dominion which for many and obvious reasons stands to this country in a closer relation than any other.

"From time to time when she comes to the war, Canada sent her most distinguished veterans, scarred and maimed on Vimy Ridge and other glorious fields, to help the various 'drives' that helped to fill our military chest. So here again, we owe a debt of gratitude to our great neighbor.

"But most of all should we support the Canadian memorial because it is an expression of the democratic consciousness of a nation, which, though daughter in her mother's house, is mistress of her own; which, though with a difference in ceremony, has for many years been a part of North American freedom that we enjoy.

"So, in all heartiness, we take our hats to the men of the Maple Leaf, and hope the friendship of a hundred years, increased by glory won by Canada and America on the same battle front, may never diminish."

Mitchell, Ind.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me so much during the time I was looking forward to the coming of my little one that I am recommending it to every mother. Before taking it, yesterday I suffered with neuralgia so badly that I thought I could no longer live, but after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was entirely relieved of my neuralgia, and I had gained in strength and was able to go to school, and do all my household work. My baby when seven months old weighed 15 pounds and I feel better than I have for a long time. My little girl is now 18 months old and she does me no harm. Mrs. PRATT MONTAGNE, Mitchell, Ind.

Stomach Trouble.

COMES WHEN THE BLOOD IS WEAK AND WATERY.

This blooded people generally have stomach trouble. But they seldom recognize the fact that this blood is the cause of their indigestion, but it is. This blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble; it affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of returning health is an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood-making pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are strong and vigorous instead of listless and weak. You are on the road to sound, good health and can in your diet eat all you need. If your appetite is weak, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion you should begin to cure yourself at once by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine; you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When is a Man Old?

"I dread to come to the end of the year, said a friend to me recently; 'it makes me realize I am growing old.' That suggests a question: When is a man old? In Shakespeare's time a man was old at forty, and often because of the gay life, inviolated long before that. Sir Walter Scott at fifty-five bemoaned the fact that he was an old man. Montague retired to his castle at thirty-eight to spend his declining years in peace and quietude.

But the man who has the courage to do down, who in all animals except man the period of life is five times the growth. A dog gets its full growth in two years, and lives ten; a horse in five years, and lives twenty-five. On this basis a man should live one hundred to one hundred and fifty years. Why were there three men—Scott, Montague and Shakespeare—old while they were still comparatively young men? The answer is, because they felt old and acted old. William James said that some men are 'old fogies at twenty-five'.

He was right. The minute a man ceases to grow—no matter what his years—that minute he begins to be old. As long as he can look back on every year and say, 'I grew,' he is still young. The minute he ceases to grow, the day he says to himself, 'I know all that I need to know—that my youth stops here. He may be twenty-five or seventy-five, it makes no difference. On that day he begins to be old.'—Journal of Commerce.

Keeping Our Faith.

Perhaps there is no duty resting down upon us with more emphasis at the present hour than the duty of attesting our faith in the reality of spiritual forces. Sometimes it would seem as if the world had gone back millenniums to that time when brute force was everything, and the only realities were the things that could be seen and handled. In reality we have not lost the priceless heritage of the years, but we are in real danger of losing some of our positive confidence in the supreme value of the things of the spirit. The tremendous struggle through which we are passing, the demand that it is making upon our physical and mental resources, has a subtle tendency to bring us to the place where we will have no creed left but force, and no God save discipline and efficiency. This tendency to skepticism, to lose a fresh and realizing grip upon the things that are invisible, we must resist with all our might. The precious gifts the centuries have gathered we must not throw away in an hour.

Household Hints.

In frosting cakes, dip the knife in cold water.

In boiling meat for soup, use cold water to extract the juice. If the meat is wanted for itself alone plunge into boiling water.

Broil steak without salt. Salt draws the juice, and it is desirable to keep these, if possible. Cook over the fire, turning frequently, searing both sides.

A spoonful of steamed tomatoes in the gravy of either roasted or fried meats is an improvement.

Mrs. Springue was almost in tears. "Isn't it dreadful?" she wailed to a friend. "Refuse to live with my friend, but she only married him last month!"

"You don't say so! What's the trouble?" gasped the friend.

"Oh, Marion came across a photograph of him taken in civilian clothes."—Story Stories.

The Grasping Provincial Treasury.

Referring to the fact that the towns got no license money from the circus, the Yarmouth Chronicle writes:

"The town had decided to set a license fee of $2.00 but it transpires that the Nova Scotia government has licensed the circus to show in the several towns and collected a fee of $1,000. In addition they collect a tax on every ticket which will amount to considerable as the tax on each ticket for the main show is 6 cents. The Yarmouth Chronicle (Y. C.) says: 'We wonder if it has not occurred to the provincial government that it could collect a tax on the own's-are of revenue. They have taken the auto license and taxation; they have taken the license and a portion of the gate receipts of theatres, circuses, moving picture houses etc. In addition they imposed a direct tax upon the towns. And not one cent of this collection is returned to the town direct. It may be an extreme view, but if the provincial treasury persists in extending its grasp of municipal resources to the towns to do this but surrender their charters and ask the province to assume their burdens of indebtedness, we hear much about self-made men. It might do us good to hear more about wife-made men.

There are a lot of them. Many of the best men in the world—greatest in statesmanship, science, art, business and literature—have freely acknowledged their indebtedness to women. Perhaps to their wives they are indebted—perhaps to other women.

A wise wife is she who completely fulfills her function, being courteous and unobtrusive, and who is able to do her share of the household work, and to contribute to her credit for success. The best part of many a man is the femininity which comes from his mother. High character which counts for his success, invariably originates in his mother or his wife. His ideals come from one or the other to one or the other to own his own soul.

And he joy in it is exquisite. This is a woman's greatest work, next to the rearing of her children—it is second to that. And in all great work there is keen pleasure.

Wife-Made Men.

The first portion of a woman is her love for her children.

Is that true?

If it is true, her second portion is her desire to make a man of her husband.

We hear much about self-made men. It might do us good to hear more about wife-made men.

There are a lot of them. Many of the best men in the world—greatest in statesmanship, science, art, business and literature—have freely acknowledged their indebtedness to women. Perhaps to their wives they are indebted—perhaps to other women.

Operation For Appendicitis.

Mrs. J. A. Blyantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes:—"My husband was being treated for appendicitis and the doctor ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills since doing so he has had no need of an operation or even of a doctor as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure.

"Johnson, said the vicar's wife, more in sorrow than in anger, 'I'm sorry to see you're not paying into our coal club this year.'

"Well, mum," replied Johnson, "it's like this 'ere, I used to live in Rhotheadon Terrace, but now I've moved into Station Road, and my 'ouse is just below the coal yard!"

Germany's Colors.

It would seem as if Germany might have been the victor in the war, but the black would remind her people of the misery and mourning her ruler created for the world, the ton money which must be paid to the Allies as the price for allowing Wilhelm to try to be king of the world.—Lorell Sun.

David Lloyd George.

David Lloyd George was born at Manchester, England, Jan. 18, 1863, of Welsh parents. He was admitted to the Bar in 1884, and was successful from the start. In politics he was a Radical. In 1893 he was elected to Parliament, was re-elected several times and took high rank as a Liberal leader and constructive statesman. In 1905 he was appointed President of the Board of Trade, a Cabinet position, in which he won new distinction. In 1906, when Mr. A. J. Quinn-Campbell, he promoted Mr. Lloyd George to the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, a position previously held by Mr. A. J. Quinn-Campbell and on the death of Lord Kitchener, he became Secretary of State for War.

Triumphant in the institution paid to be kept off the ground signs and in the capital grounds, the caretaker, at A. J. Quinn-Campbell, the caretaker, put us into this sign where politicians had worn a path through the grass: "This path is for hogs." Travel over the grassy path has ceased.

Political Railroadroading.

Government operation of the United States railways is becoming more of a fact under peace conditions than it was in the most strenuous days of the war. It will be recalled that Mr. McAdoo recommended to Congress before he retired that government operation should be continued over a period of five years, in order that the country might judge and pass judgment on the respective merits of government and private operation.

For the month of April the railways showed an increase in the volume of business of 4.3 per cent; but there was a decrease of 6.7 in net income. This loss in net was registered despite the fact that freight and passenger rates had been increased about 10 per cent since the government took over the railways and began to operate them. The promising increase in net earnings during peace conditions proved to be a false prophecy; there has been a steady-increasing decrease.

During the first four months of the present year there has been a net loss for railway operation of $18,999,000 notwithstanding the increased rates. The financial expert of the New York Times gives the following figures relating to government operation of the Federal Department of Railways:

In comparison with the three-year average upon which the government rents the railways there was an increase of $15,317,000 in gross earnings and a loss of $11,152,000 in net income. This is for April, 1919.—Over the four months of this year there was an increase of $447,700,000 in gross earnings and a decrease of $174,410,000 in net income. The loss of 72 per cent in net earnings LEFT FOR THE GOVERNMENT $165,894,000 WITH WHICH TO PAY $240,000,000.

What more convincing object lesson of the failure of government ownership could be asked than those two totals: an increase of $447,000,000 in gross earnings and a decrease of $174,000,000 in net earnings? That means a difference of more than $600,000,000 between government and private operation in the short period of four months, or of $1,800,000,000 in a whole year.

Part of that loss is due to mismanagement and part of it to padding the railroad pay rolls. Senator Cummings, formerly an advocate of government ownership, read statistics in the Senate recently to back his assertion that there were 200,000 useless men in the employ of the Railway Administration. He said the whole of them could be cut off without injuring the service in the least. In other words, there are 200,000 men in the employ of the Railway Administration who are doing nothing but padding the pay rolls.

Little wonder that the Democrats have cut government ownership from their party platform and that even the radical supporters of Senator Johnson failed to make any mention of it in their "Progressive" platform. In 1912 and again in 1916 the Progressives made government ownership a headline in their platform. Now the idol has fallen so low that none will do it reverence.—From the Los Angeles Times.

To Prevent Appendicitis

Here is the Experience of a Man Who Escaped the Surgeon's Knife.

You hear almost daily of some one going to the hospital for an operation for appendicitis. Do you know of any one who was ever really well after wards?

Besides the risk and expense of the operation, the results are usually disappointing. For this reason there is well worth while to try to avoid appendicitis by keeping the digestive system in beautiful condition.

Many have written us about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a preventive and cure for appendicitis. This letter is a fair sample of the cases described.

Mr. John Poole, R. R. No. 2, Dresden, Ont., writes: "I was taken very sick with severe pains and cramps in my stomach. I called in a doctor, who said I had appendicitis in the worst form, and my case was very serious. He gave me medicine, which relieved me at that time, but I was far from being cured. He said I would have to go through an operation before I would be well, but this I did not wish to do. One day in looking through Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were recommended for appendicitis if taken in time, so I thought I would try them. I took them regularly for two years, and now I am perfectly cured. I can do all kind of hard work without any trouble. I would not be without any of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house under any consideration, for I can truly say that they will do just what is claimed of them."

Perhaps the one greatest rule of health is that which calls for daily movement of the bowels. With this program in effect there is no danger from appendicitis or similar dangerous diseases.

Chronic constipation of the bowels is cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills because they get the liver working again. In other words, they get at the cause of the trouble and remove it, thereby effecting a permanent and lasting benefit.

The loss of 72 per cent in net earnings LEFT FOR THE GOVERNMENT $165,894,000 WITH WHICH TO PAY $240,000,000.

What more convincing object lesson of the failure of government ownership could be asked than those two totals: an increase of $447,000,000 in gross earnings and a decrease of $174,000,000 in net earnings? That means a difference of more than $600,000,000 between government and private operation in the short period of four months, or of $1,800,000,000 in a whole year.

Part of that loss is due to mismanagement and part of it to padding the railroad pay rolls. Senator Cummings, formerly an advocate of government ownership, read statistics in the Senate recently to back his assertion that there were 200,000 useless men in the employ of the Railway Administration. He said the whole of them could be cut off without injuring the service in the least. In other words, there are 200,000 men in the employ of the Railway Administration who are doing nothing but padding the pay rolls.

Little wonder that the Democrats have cut government ownership from their party platform and that even the radical supporters of Senator Johnson failed to make any mention of it in their "Progressive" platform. In 1912 and again in 1916 the Progressives made government ownership a headline in their platform. Now the idol has fallen so low that none will do it reverence.—From the Los Angeles Times.

Political Railroadroading.

Government operation of the United States railways is becoming more of a fact under peace conditions than it was in the most strenuous days of the war. It will be recalled that Mr. McAdoo recommended to Congress before he retired that government operation should be continued over a period of five years, in order that the country might judge and pass judgment on the respective merits of government and private operation.

For the month of April the railways showed an increase in the volume of business of 4.3 per cent; but there was a decrease of 6.7 in net income. This loss in net was registered despite the fact that freight and passenger rates had been increased about 10 per cent since the government took over the railways and began to operate them. The promising increase in net earnings during peace conditions proved to be a false prophecy; there has been a steady-increasing decrease.

During the first four months of the present year there has been a net loss for railway operation of $18,999,000 notwithstanding the increased rates. The financial expert of the New York Times gives the following figures relating to government operation of the Federal Department of Railways:

In comparison with the three-year average upon which the government rents the railways there was an increase of $15,317,000 in gross earnings and a loss of $11,152,000 in net income. This is for April, 1919.—Over the four months of this year there was an increase of $447,700,000 in gross earnings and a decrease of $174,410,000 in net income. The loss of 72 per cent in net earnings LEFT FOR THE GOVERNMENT $165,894,000 WITH WHICH TO PAY $240,000,000.

What more convincing object lesson of the failure of government ownership could be asked than those two totals: an increase of $447,000,000 in gross earnings and a decrease of $174,000,000 in net earnings? THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., AUG. 8, 1919.

Editorial Privileges.

Both Annapolis and Hantsport held receptions for their returned soldiers on Monday. Surely it is time Wolfville was making plans to do something of this nature.

The National Liberal Convention is being held at Ottawa this week. Delegates are present from all parts of the Dominion, those from Nova Scotia numbering about two hundred.

It has been announced that Parliament will meet on Monday, Sept. 1st. The same day the Prince of Wales will lay the corner stone of the new Parliament Buildings. The session is not expected to last more than four or five weeks. Ratification of the Peace Treaty will be the principal business.

Two appointments have been made to the Board of Pension Commissioners. Colonel John Thompson will be chairman and Major J. W. Margeson is appointed a member of the Board. The Board will now consist of Colonel Thompson, chairman, Major Margeson and Major Coristine. Major Margeson is a native of Berwick.

The following Cabinet changes have been officially announced by the Prime Minister: Sir Henry Drayton becomes Minister of Finance; Hon. F. B. Carver, who retires from the portfolio of Public Works, succeeds Sir Henry as chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners; Dr. F. S. Tolmie succeeds Hon. T. A. Cresser as Minister of Agriculture.

Presentation to Mr. E. Percy Brown.

At the last annual meeting of the Council of the Wolfville Boy Scouts it was decided to raise a sum of money by subscription, to be presented to Scoutmaster E. Percy Brown as a testimonial of the appreciation of the citizens of Wolfville for his faithful services among the boys of the town during the last ten years. For this work the ministers of the town offered their services which were accepted. A very successful canvass of the town was made by Revs. Miller, Watts and Dixon, the collectors being everywhere received with the utmost cordiality, everyone apparently being overjoyed at the opportunity of being able to testify to the appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Brown's untiring labours. On Monday evening a deputation consisting of Mr. H. A. Peck and Revs. Watts and Dixon waited on Mr. Brown at his residence and made the presentation which was accompanied by an address which was read by Rev. R. F. Dixon. Mr. Peck made the presentation. Mr. Brown made a very appropriate reply. He expressed himself as specially pleased that the testimonial had been presented to him. He understood that the work of the Boy Scouts and Y. M. C. A., in which he is now engaged, is entirely supplementary to that of the churches. His aim ever has been and ever would be to strengthen the hands of the church in whatever field he might be called to labor.

The following is the address read by Rev. R. F. Dixon:

To Mr. E. Percy Brown, Dear and respected friend,—In asking you to accept this purse subscribed by your many friends in Wolfville and neighborhood in appreciation of your work among the boys during the last decade, we are fully conscious of the fact that what you have done has been entirely a labour of love. We therefore solicit your acceptance of this testimonial simply as a tangible, if wholly inadequate, evidence of our recognition of your self-denying labours and personal worth. We know that the value of your services can never be expressed in pecuniary terms, and that no sum of money could ever repay you for what you have done with out any hope of reward save the joy of service. For many years you and Mrs. Brown, whose name we wish to especially associate with your own in this testimonial, have laboured among the boys of this district with unwearied devotion to their highest interests and with the happiest results. We have long felt our ever increasing obligations to you and Mrs. Brown, and we ask your acceptance of this practical evidence of our gratitude and appreciation as a personal favour to ourselves. At the same time we are deeply conscious that we are and will ever remain in your debt.

We are rejoiced to learn that your marked ability in this work has been utilized in a wider field, and ourselves pleased to know that you may long be spared to continue your labours among the boys of Kings county.

An Open Letter.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN: Sir,—I wish to express through the columns of your paper my appreciation of the kindness of the citizens of Wolfville who contributed towards the handsome gift presented to Mrs. Brown and myself last Monday evening. I particularly desire to emphasize the stimulus that such an action is to me in my present work, especially as the cleanness of the town took the matter in hand, proving that they believe my efforts to be along proper lines.

Sincerely yours, E. PERCY BROWN, Scoutmaster and County Secretary.

Give Service Girls.

PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL REPORT.

In looking over the past year I regret that we have done so little, but am glad to be able to report that those things we undertook were successfully carried through. I am sorry that we had not the time to work out all the suggestions given us.

In August when the call was sent out for volunteers to go to Aichat, Cape Breton, to pick sphagnum moss, four of our girls responded. These: Jean Foote, Marjorie Wickwire, Maye Thurber and Beth Ritchie went for a month. We know the work was hard and they had to put up with many things which were not fun but they stuck to the job and stayed until the breaking up of the Camp. We thank them for representing the Give Service Girls in this work.

In August the Knights of Columbus were running a campaign to raise money for their war work. We were asked to canvass the town for this object. The Society was not well known here and we found it difficult to explain to some of our citizens just what and who the Knights were and what work they were doing. Our collections amounted to $235.00.

On the 7th of September we held our Fair in the Wolfville Fruit Company's new warehouse. The success of this Fair was due to a week of strenuous effort on the part of each and every girl. We took in over $325.00 and realized enough to feel very well paid for our work. This money was used to make Christmas presents for our soldier lads. One hundred dollars of the amount was sent through the I. O. D. E. to Capt. Mary Plumer for use among our Canadian soldiers in England.

Marguerite DeWitt was made a Life Member of the Canadian Red Cross Society as a slight appreciation of her untiring effort in the management of our Tea Room.

The 22nd of September was the last Sunday for our Soldiers' Rest Room. This room, which was run in conjunction with the Red Cross Society, was much enjoyed by many of the boys and we have received a number of testimonies of their gratitude. To Mrs. Moore and others of the Red Cross we owe the success of this Rest Room.

The 23rd of September we met in our rooms and packed fifty Christmas stockings for our soldiers. We only hope the boys had as much fun unpacking them as we did packing them.

On the 24th of September the key to our rooms was returned to Dr. McKenna. We thank Dr. McKenna for his kindness in letting us use the rooms for the small rental of $25.00 for the summer.

October the 28th we took part in a parade in connection with the Victory Loan Campaign. The Club had two floats, 'The Allies' and 'Canada'. The girls marched, some wearing costumes representing each of the Colonies of the British Empire, the others as Give Service Girls.

November the 11th.—Word of the November the 11th.—Word of the morning and afternoon. The joy of this day was mingled with sadness for it was at this time that we lost one of our most faithful workers, Marjorie Murphy. Marjorie in her quiet way was at all times most willing and dependable and we have missed her. She had charge of our 'Cent-a-day-Fund' when she was taken from us.

Grace Shaw and Mary Black were made Life Members of the St. Robert Borden Chapter of the I. O. D. E. On St. Valentine's Day we took 250 packages of home-made candies to the soldiers at the Nova Scotia Sanatorium for which we have received many messages of thanks.

On March 4th we had a meeting of the G. S. G. Just as the business was begun, a shower blew in and the rain proved too much for our Secretary and Treasurer and we lost Grace Shaw, one of our greatest workers.

March 6th the Give Service Girls and Boy Scouts gave a concert for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society. We cleared over $100.00 for the Society. This performance was repeated in Kentville on the following evening.

On the 16th of May the Girls presented the play, 'Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.' We realized a good sum from this entertainment, and wish to thank all those who helped us in this work.

We were sorry to lose our Second Secretary and Treasurer, Mary Black, but are glad she has been so fortunate as to receive an opportunity to take up the work in which she was interested.

July 4th, the Executive Committee met and appointed Jess Russell as Secretary and Treasurer until the Annual Business meeting. At this same meeting we entered into contract with Mr. S. L. Dimock for three entertainments to come to Wolfville about one month apart, the first to be early in October.

Hilda Fielding now has charge of our 'Cent-a-day-Fund'. This fund is for the maintenance of a little French Orphan, Francois Jacques, 12 years of age.

In July the Girls picked strawberries for Dr. Wheelock. We were glad of this opportunity to earn a little money.

On behalf of the Executive Committee I wish to extend to every one who has helped our enterprises to be successful.

I thank the Girls for their hearty support during the year.

Respectfully submitted, CLARA E. CHISHOLM, President.

Mr. and Mrs. Carey Robinson, also son, and Mr. James Wry, of Sackville, N. B., who are on a motor trip through the Annapolis Valley, are spending the week in Wolfville, guests at Acadia Lodge.

Mr. Wentworth Pearson, Kingston, a returned soldier, spent last week at the home of his uncle, Mr. T. A. Pearson, Greenwick. Also Mr. Otto Wolsey, whose home is in British Columbia, recently was a guest at Mr. Pearson's. Mr. Wolsey trained at Al. Forest last summer and has been in England on duty, returning two weeks ago. He left this week for his home.

THE ACADIAN had a pleasant call on Friday last from Mr. W. L. Hatfield, publisher of the 'Berwick Register,' who made his first visit to Wolfville on that day. Mr. Hatfield is a native of Yarmouth but spent several years in Manitoba where he successfully published a bright weekly at Plamondon. Since taking over the Register last winter he has demonstrated his ability to get out a bright newspaper which is always a welcome visitor to our table. Mr. Hatfield was much pleased with Wolfville.

Probably no form of insular conduct better typify the character of these boys, and at the same time be of more use to the young men who must take up the work which these boys laid down, than that of a gymnasium. The proposition to make this a beautiful building of great utility to serve as a permanent memorial must commend itself to all.

Of late years several new and artistic buildings have been erected in Wolfville, and the construction of an edifice of attractive design and noble purpose on our Main street will add much to the beauty of our town.

Acadia Memorial.

Among the sixty Acadia students who sacrificed their lives in the Great War, was a number of Wolfville boys. Others were well known to our citizens on account of their stay in Wolfville while attending the University or the Academy. These boys cannot be forgotten by us, and the debt we owe them must be ever before us.

The Kings County Boys' Camp.

About 75 boys from different parts of the County will go to camp at Black River next Monday.

An interesting program has been arranged for and the following boys have consented to take up subjects suitable to camp life. Professor Perry and Mr. Wetmore will discuss trees, flowers, etc.

Mr. Noble Falls will help in the study of birds. Dr. Coit will give a camp fire talk on the Starman Badge.

The following clergymen will have charge of the devotional side of camp life: Rev. Mr. Whitman, Rev. Mr. Hocking, Rev. Dr. DeWolfe and Rev. Mr. Miller.

Visitors are urged to attend camp at any time but particularly on Wednesday, Aug. 20th, or Wednesday, Aug. 27th.

It is inspiring to learn from the Cost of Living Commission that the protected canners have fully and finally given up these methods which have been held to be an unfair restraint of competition. Now watch for the prices of canned goods to come down!

Base Ball.

An exciting game of base ball was played on the campus Wednesday afternoon between Wolfville boys and a team from Port Greville. The game was loose and full of errors and altogether a poor exhibition of ball.

However up until the eighth inning the score was close enough to make it exciting. Port Greville took the lead in the fifth and the locals were unable to catch them again. At the end of the seventh innings the score stood 4-5 in favor of the visitors.

The Wolfville team went completely to pieces in the eighth and Port Greville scored five runs. The final score was 13-7. The Wolfville team was composed of the following:

The following scored for Wolfville: Dexter 3; Parsons, Baird, Paris, Stonehouse.

Score by innings: Port Greville—100210252 13; Wolfville—000300202 7.

The referees were Carl Angus for Wolfville and Thompson Hughes for Port Greville.

British Efforts to Curtail the Drink Traffic.

Dr. Oaten, speaking at the great Prohibition convention in Toronto, spoke of the efforts of Mr. Lloyd George to curtail the drink traffic. The following is the substance of his remarks:
As soon as the war broke out Lloyd George addressed himself in the most vigorous way in the reduction of the drink evil in Great Britain. At that time the British people were consuming 36,800,000 barrels of beer a year. This Lloyd George reduced with one stroke to 15 millions of barrels. He then further reduced it to 10 million barrels. There was then some backsliding, and during the course of the war from 10 to 15 million barrels of beer were consumed each year. In addition to this the treating system was cut out, the hours of sale were greatly reduced and the sale of wine and spirits was placed under the most drastic restrictions. But perhaps the most important act of all was the cutting out of the alcoholic contents of the beer. The English beers before the war were heavy beers of 12 to 15 per cent. This Great Britain reduced to 4 and 5 per cent. so that the old toper when drinking the same declared it tasted like rain water. The English laborer stood for this inter-ference with the quality and character of his national drink because he realized that national efficiency was an absolute necessity of the hour that the war might be won and he came to an appreciation of Lloyd George's viewpoint that full national efficiency was not obtainable so long as the nation continued to consume the vast quantities of alcohol which was the

Prince of Wales May Visit Us

NO more is the report revived that the Prince of Wales is to pay a visit to this continent, and any comment we have observed in the American press is most cordial. In fact, we have little doubt that the prince will be just as warmly welcomed in New York as in our own Canadian cities, for if the Englishman loves a lord, there is no doubt that the American loves a prince, as his slang bears eloquent testimony. The idea is that the young prince, now in his 25th year, is out wife-hunting. He is certain to get married if he lives, for one of the most imperative duties of the heir to the throne of Great Britain is to provide himself with a wife and the nation with heirs-presumptive. The war in some respects has limited the field through which the royal lover can roam in quest of a helpmate; in others it has opened it. For instance, all the eligible German, Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish princesses are ruled out. There will be no more German princesses in England.

The democratizing influences of the war have been such that if the only daughter of England should happen to be a commoner born, there would be no objection raised in any quarter. The marriage of the Prince of Wales bringing home an American or Canadian bride shocks nobody. The only feeling that is likely to be at all strong in England with regard to Prince Edward Albert's future wife is that she be of the same religion as the prince. If he had chosen the Princess Yolanda of Italy, whom some had hoped for, for his sometime bride, it would have been necessary, of course, that she should adopt the state religion of England. There is a sentiment or prejudice against a Roman Catholic being Queen of England. With the justice and unswervingness of the sentiment we have nothing to do. It exists, and it is not likely to be ignored by the Prince of Wales, for he has created a situation, therefore, in which it will be more natural for the Prince of Wales to marry a British subject or an American than a foreigner. It is not likely that he will marry a foreigner, and if he does, it will be a British subject or an American than a foreigner. It is not likely that he will marry a foreigner, and if he does, it will be a British subject or an American than a foreigner.

Let us not therefore judge one another any more, but judge this rather, that no man put a stumbling block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way.—RM, 14, 13.

The City of the Reversible Falls

The Bay of Fundy is famous for its tides which are reputed to be the highest in the world, and the variation in the harbor depth, owing to the great rise and fall in the tides, is from 20 feet at ordinary neap tides to 23 feet at ordinary spring tides. St. John is the winter port of the C.P.R. and has splendid facilities for handling ocean traffic. The harbor is entered from two channels, the east channel being used for large vessels and that to the west for smaller craft. Numerous large berths stand in the harbor and alongside them there are many capacious warehouses and some big grain elevators. The war has stimulated shipbuilding in St. John.

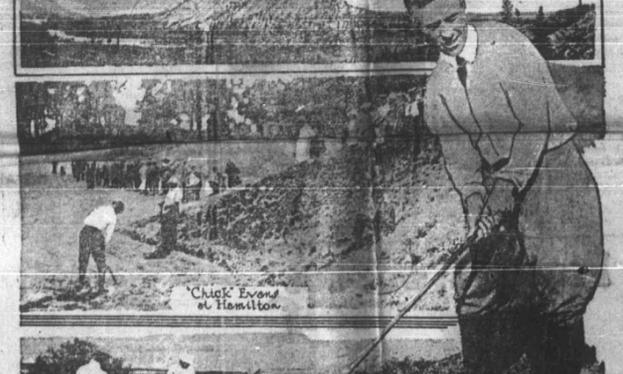

The chief attraction for the tourist to St. John is the Reversible Falls, a curious phenomenon due to the great rise and fall in the tides. When the tide is low the waters of the St. John river pour under the great railway bridge in the form of rapids. But when the tide begins to rise it forces back the current of the river and rushes up into its bed full tide. Then as the tide recedes, the immense volume of water in the bed of the river dashes to the Bay in a massive whirling sheet of foam. At low tide the piled up waters of the river are higher than the sea, and at high tide the incoming flood of the Bay of Fundy is higher than the river. That is the explanation of the phenomenon. It is only at certain periods of the day that the falls may be seen at their best. The river is deep, but not broad, however, and the water is very turbulent when they are falling. Small boats go up and down the river at opportune times when the waters are in their mildest moods.

Lancaster Heights overlook the port of St. John, and it is here that Martello tower stands. This tower was built over a century ago as a watch tower over the harbor.

Since the Canadian Pacific Railway has taken over the hotel at Digby, Nova Scotia, known as "The Finns", there is likely to be an increased influx of visitors to the Land of Evangeline in the future. Before crossing the Bay of Fundy from New Brunswick to Digby there is a great deal to interest the traveller in the city of St. John, the commercial capital of New Brunswick. St. John takes its name from the St. John river which was discovered by Champlain and de Monts on June 24th, 1604, the feast day of St. John the Baptist. No permanent settlement was made until 1773, when 3,000 United Empire Loyalists, who had returned to take the oath of allegiance to the United States after the War of Independence, made their homes at the mouth of the St. John river, and founded the city.

"Canada is par Golf," Says Champion Evans

Don't Springs Golf Club

Champion Evans at Hamilton

"At Canadian golfers are hard to beat, but Canadian hospitality cannot be beaten," declared Charles Evans, Jr., amateur and open champion golfer of the United States, after he had returned from the Hamilton and Scarborough water clubs. Canadian experts in these clubs had compelled him to play his best to win, and that both clubs had made him a life member. Canada, in his opinion, is a par-ty country. About the third week in June Evans hopes to make his first trip to Canada to play for the benefit of the Canadian Red Cross. Other noted golfers who may go along are Francis Omet, Jerome D. Travers and John G. Anderson. The cities visited will be Montreal, Ottawa, St. Andrews-by-the-Sea and Toronto. Canada has a string of well-planned golf courses from the Atlantic to the Pacific, ranging from seaside links at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea on the Bay of Fundy to the Banff Springs Golf Club, Alberta, where the golfer can play his game at an altitude of nearly a mile. Going early three days, Evans will play the Hamilton and Scarborough water clubs. Vancouver and Victoria golf clubs where the altitude is not far above sea level and where the golf sharp can play the royal and ancient game every month in the twelve, because the Japan current does not freeze there. This year will be the greatest in the history of Canada and the United States so far as international golf is concerned. Ten of Canada's best golfers will play against ten of the best from the United States at the Hamilton Golf and Country Club, Hamilton, Ontario, on July 26th, and the Canadian Seniors, who won the Duke of Devonshire's Cup in a match against the United States Seniors, will defend the cup in a return match at Apevawms Golf Club, Bay, N.S.

A Strange Post Office

South America can boast of its simplest post office in the world. Opposite Tierra del Fuogo is a very high rocky cliff overhanging the Strait of Magellan and from one of the rocks is suspended by a long chain a barrel which receives mail. To be sure, there is no postmaster nor is there any regular letter carrier or collection, but every ship that goes through the strait stops and sends a boat to this curious little post office, and the letters that are in it are taken to the nearest town on board that particular ship, and there they are known to be headed for the strait.

Fantom Diver

By GEORGE W. LEWIS

Big Harrison stepped over the side and disappeared downward. The gray-green water lapped above his head, a few blister-like bubbles danced and exploded in the tiny swirl that marked his exit. That was all. The sophisticated Helena was about to receive a second visitor from the land of the living. The slender conduit that linked the diver with life paid out rapidly, then suddenly stopped, and we knew that Harrison was aboard the wreck.

"Seventy-one feet," drawled Garrick.

"A little pale, wasn't he?" queried Wreny, keeping a watchful eye on the line.

Garrick looked over to the speaker as though he had expected the question.

"What'd you 'pose is wrong?" he said. The faintest trace of anxiety was in his great, slow voice.

"It's Connors—I mean the hydroptic one; I mean the air-tube parted," retorted Wreny. "I don't believe in spoons, specially submarine ones; but there ain't no more cause for the Air-tube coming in, 'ere at this minute than there is for poor Connors' hose—a brand new one, too, mind you—separating as it did. It's queer."

Garrick, listening, spat reflectively at the last remaining bubble. Watching from my seat in the dugout, I knew that the two men, whatever details they might make, were at last conversing with the consciousness of their chosen profession—dallying with dead things under the sea. Maybe it was because Connors had been their tutor, their companion. Instead, the old diver had been pretty nearly everything to them; but he had been even more to his employers. In his unaccountable death the world had lost a master-diver, and the company had lost money. But because John Connors had been a faithful servant, the company had paid hard money that the diver's harness-weighted remains might be the first brought up.

Harrison's signal "up" was of that nervous, burry sort that tells of sudden distress. He had been down but three minutes. At a similar depth he usually remained thirty or more, for he was a Hercules, and for him water-pressure had no terrors. I knew that Wreny, at least—though for no good reason—fully expected to see the big diver come up limp and dead. I read his white face like print.

But when big Harrison's helmet bobbed out of water a moment later, with his big red hands were clutched at the raft as frantically as if some pursuing monster were about to drag him down to death.

When his helmet was off, his face appeared motionless and chalky. The spluttered-out, meaningless fragments of speech, and his eyes were fixed in a terrified stare. Garrick forced him a pint of whisky down his throat before anything like coherency could be restored.

"He's down there—boys—Connors!" the diver shouted, his words coming in a gasping, broken breath. "He's down there—boys—Connors!"

"Oh, Lord!" he wailed, "think—think the harness! Connors, dead sixty-three hours—walking and bectoking!"

Harrison's great strength snapped like a reed under the strain and he dropped forward upon his face, unconscious.

When Garrick consented to go down to the Helena, I knew that it was because he needed money—needed it badly. Garrick, unaccountably, had long been ill; besides, he was engaged, and the girl was pretty and worthy; and the big, slow-moving diver knew that he must prepare a suitable home for her. He was of a good, honest sort, was Garrick, and courageous, too. But I had watched his face as Harrison's nerves shattered, realized from a sick bed his uncanny experience aboard the sunken Helena; and thus I had come to know that, badly as Garrick needed money, he needed courage more; if he would succeed where Harrison had failed. The thing was on his nerves, right enough; but I saw the grip of his big jaw, and I knew that he was in-terested in the job, even though he might not come up.

"There was a lot of wreckage piled up about the cabin-door," Harrison had told us, "and I had to squat as low as I could to pass under it. As I raised up, inside the cabin—Connors—dead sixty hours—got up off a bench fixed to the opposite wall of the cabin, and came to meet me. He wore his same old-fashioned duck kind of all-weather outfit—the kind we all use. After a moment his arm fell limply by his sides; but immediately he made a lunge and passed it over his brow repeatedly. Then he seemed to get a check to sign the name he brought with him to this country."
