

FRIGHTFUL MASSACRE

163 WOMEN AND CHILDREN SLAUGHTERED IN COCA HONTO

As a counter picture to those in the blood-thirsty Sioux, detailed in our last issue, we present the following statement of a atrocious execution of Indian peaceful tribes. The red-avenge of the West is not likely to be softened by a system of indiscriminate retaliation.

We allude to the massacre of Indians by a party of United States soldiers, under the command of a wretched Chivington, formerly a preacher at Denver City. The atrocious deed was committed on the river Cimarron near the Big Sandy.

The massacre, however, was not the only one of the kind. It was followed by the massacre of the Cheyenne Indians, which was reported in our issue of the 12th.

It was a terrible scene, and the women and children were shot down as they fled. The soldiers, men, women and children, without distinction of age or sex, were slaughtered in cold blood.

From daylight until 11 o'clock the work of death went on. About 132 were slaughtered, 27 of them were men, and the balance women and children. Among the chiefs killed were White Horse, Left Hand the second Chief of the Arapahoes, and several others.

It was a terrible scene, and the women and children were shot down as they fled. The soldiers, men, women and children, without distinction of age or sex, were slaughtered in cold blood.

and it came out that the old woman found in the clerk her long son. Many years ago, when this woman was keeping a farm of her own at Fairbridge, in Hungary, her son was drawn as a soldier, and on his return heard the news that his mother's cottage had been burnt down, and that she had left the village soon after, and was probably dead.

A furious elephant has been committing fearful ravages in a Northwestern province of Hindostan. It was taken for a marriage procession, but suddenly became wild, and pulled down a number of huts and trees, the next day he became wilder still, and one of the mahouts, in attempting to chain his legs, was seized by the trunk and trampled under foot, the elephant keeping the corpse of the mahout under his feet for two successive days, actually gnawing it to dust.

Primo Napoleon has not with an accident. While he was driving to the Champs Elysees, his horse which were too spirited, overturned his carriage, and it remained that it was an American carriage, and is estimated that it was the allusion to America and the Monroe doctrine in his famous Ajaccio speech which led to his having to resign his high office.

It is said that Miss Gladstone, sister of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, has subscribed £1000 towards the Wiseman's fund, and that she has also a further promise to give £1000 a year towards the augmentation of the income of the new Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster.

A tornado which passed near Red Wing, Minn., overtook Sheriff Chandler, who leaped from his carriage, threw himself on the ground and by clinging to a tree was saved, but received some severe injuries. His horse and carriage was taken up between heaven and earth. The horse was subsequently found in a tree-top seventy rods distant. The dwelling house of Justice Chamberlain was totally destroyed, fragments of which were scattered for miles. Mrs. Chamberlain sought refuge in the cellar, thereby saving her life.

As additional proof of the danger to which the London public are just now exposed from the number of dogs entirely at large or not sufficiently guarded, it is mentioned that Charing Cross Hospital there are now several outpatients under treatment from "rabies" received within the past three or four weeks. On June 16 alone four cases presented themselves.

Accounts from Rouffray, France, state that the largest and swiftest steam transport in the world is at present fitting out for sea. It is a vessel of 10,000 tons, and will enable her to receive on board and convey a small corps d'armee. It is expected that she will perform 100 leagues a day, and her extraordinary speed render great service when time is an object.

THE OLDEST MAN IN THE UNITED STATES.—Mr. McCormack, who lives about two miles south of Newburg, N. Y., was born August 6, 1751, and is now in tolerably good health. His voice is very strong, hearing good, but his eyes are very poor. His hair is not gray yet. He was married at forty-five, and had fourteen children. He has been very temperate in his life, and has never felt the want of drink as others do. He generally sated his food to such a degree that no one but himself could use it, and strange to say he very seldom felt the want of drink. He did not commence to smoke until he was sixty-five years old, nor drink tea or coffee, and milk he greatly disliked. He always worked hard, went to bed early and got up early. He was a rebel in 1788, and was wounded in the left leg. His answer to the question what he thought more than anything else caused him to live so long was, temperance, exercise, plain food, regular meals, regular hours in going to bed and getting up. Any one to see him, would take him to be a man of about seventy. He sleeps well, and seems to enjoy good health, and may live some ten years more.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN WILLING TO LET MR. DAVIS ESCAPE.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati "Gazette" who accompanied Chief Justice Chase on his trip in the South, writes as follows in reference to an interview which took place between Gen. Sherman and Mr. Chase at Newbern: The General complained, and doubtless with some truth, it is not just, the government had never distinctly explained to him what policy it desired to have pursued. "I asked Mr. Lincoln explicitly, when I went up to City Point, whether he wanted me to capture Jeff. Davis, or let him escape, and in reply he told me a story. That 'story' may now have a historical value. And I give it therefore as General Sherman and Mr. Lincoln told it. Mr. Lincoln, which he told many times, and an illustration of many points of public policy. 'I'll tell you, General,' Mr. Lincoln was said to have said, 'I'll tell you what I think about taking Jeff. Davis. Out in Sagamore county there was an old temperance lecturer, who was very strict in the doctrine and practice of a total abstinence. One day after a long ride in the hot sun, he stopped at the house of a friend who proposed making him a lemonade. As the milk was very warm, he mixed the lemonade with it, and it was very good. He just let the least drop of something stronger to trace up his nerves after the exhausting heat and fatigue. 'No,' replied the lecturer, 'I will not drink it. I am opposed to it on principle, but he added, with a long glance at the black beetle that stood on the table, 'If you could manage to put in a drop unbeknownst to me, guess it would not hurt me much.' 'Now, General,' Mr. Lincoln is said to have concluded, 'I'm bound to oppose the escape of Jeff. Davis; but if you could let him slip unbeknownst-like, I guess it would not hurt me much.' 'And that,' exclaimed Gen. Sherman, 'is all I could get out of the government as to what its policy was concerning the rebel leader until Stanton assailed me for the escape of Davis.'

The Paris races came off on June 11, and the Emperor was present. Gladstone was the great prize, and won it easily by three lengths. Gladstone received the Emperor's congratulations, one in French, the other in Arabic.

For assaulting and wounding two United States soldiers, a negro in Richmond was drummed through the city with a blackboard on his back, and afterwards placed in a coffin, and a large piece of iron was placed over his face, and his face whitened with flour, his hands crossed in his breast, and then the lid being nailed down, the coffin was placed against the outside of the building, and the negro exposed for two hours to a crowd. Half dead with fright and heat, he was finally released.

Visitation.—His Lordship the Bishop of Arisbat, accompanied by the Rev. Neil McLeod, P. P., East Bay, C. B., and Rev. Hugh Gillis, of Antigonish, arrived in town on the afternoon of Thursday last. His Lordship during a period of four weeks' absence, visited nearly all the islands of Cap Breton. Satisfactory arrangements have been made during that time for the commencement of new churches and the appointment of pastors to several missions. The Bishop we learn is highly gratified with the religious progress being made in that portion of his Diocese,—what we are equally gratified to find him in the enjoyment of excellent health, and hope that his life as apostolic may be long preserved unimpair.
