Love a Conqueror

WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER XLVI.

"And she—Heaven help her!—so atoned for," he ejaculated bitterly; and they were silent for a space during which Madge's heart, in her pity for the pain on his handsome face stole out of her keeping and passed into his forehead.

"Must I tell you the reason for making this confession to you, Miss Oliphant," he said tremulously then, "or have you guessed that only a woman whom I loved with all my heart, and wished to make my wife, should I confess that episode of my life? Is it presumption to tell you that, unworthy, utterly unworthy as I am, I love you, that I shall never love any but yourself? Nay, do not answer me yet; I know," he continued sadly, that you cannot love me yet; but may I try to win you? I think Sir Frederick would not object, if you give me leave I will speak to him—and—Madge!" his voice was broken and unsteady now in his great earnestness—"I think the hope of winning you—only the hope—would make me a new man. I think I could forget in a measure the misery of my past. I could take my stand among my fellows without feeling shamed and humiliated. Do you think—ah, do not answer me hastily!—that at any future time your feelings toward me will alter sufficiently to let me hope?"

The roses had deepened and faded, the sweet red lips were quivering a little as she listened, and the girl's warm heart was beating fast.

"No," she said softly; "I do not think they will."

Poor Jack turned white to the lips at the prompt and unexpected answer.

"Forgive me," he said tremulously, as soon as he could command his voice sufficiently to speak at all. "I was very wrong. I had no right—and—"

Madge turned to him with a little wonder in her eyes, and, seeing his agitation, guessed its cause. The color which had ebbed away came stealing back to her cheeks as she said softly—

"You ask me if my feelings will ever change toward you, and I answer that I do not think they will; but—but—" She leaned toward him now, and her little hand stole into his; "Madcap" Madge had disappeared, and a gentle, tender, true-hearted woman was there in her stead, who said, in the sweetest words which had ever fallen upon Jack Ross's ear—"But why should you wish them to do so, since—since I love you, Jack?"

CHAPTER XLVII.

White as death, trembling in every limb, and with a world of startled horror in her eyes, Shirley looked up into the grave, tender, compassionate "How did you know that I was man whom she loved, and from whom, for that love's sake, she had fled—the man who was now, she believed, betrothed to Madge Oliphant; and, almost as pale, but less unnerved, he stood looking down upon her, noting with intense sorrow the changes which a year had wrought in her face. For a few moments he dared not trust his voice to speak; he was afraid he should break down, and he knew that she had already been dreadfully agitated and tried; and he mastered his own emotion out of pity for her.

"I did not think to find you here—and thus," he said gently; and the horror of the great hazel eyes grew even more intense as she answered him.

"And it would have been less hard to die than to see you here."

The words came slowly, one by one, from the parched lips, and each one fell upon Guy Stuart's heart painfully.

"Those are bitter words to hear," he said, in a voice of pain.

"Do you think they are not still more bitter to speak?" she asked, in the same slow fashion. "But they are true."

"True!" he repeated earnestly, a great sorrow in his gray eyes. "True from you to me, Shirley?"

"Yes."

He stooped over her, and tried to take the little trembling hands; but she shrank back from him and rose to her feet, moving away from him backward, with her hands outstretched toward him, as if to keep him from her.

"No," she cried, in a shrill unnatural voice. "Do not touch me—do not touch me!"

He stopped immediately, looking at her with unfeigned surprise and alarm. What strange reception was this from the woman who, when they had last met, had parted from him with her arms about his neck and her lips to his? What madness was this? Often, in the time of trouble which had followed her disappearance, he had wondered if his brain were giving way under the weight of anguish; and now, as he pushed his hair from his forehead with a troubled gesture of pain, he thought that he must be losing his senses.

"Why did you come?" she said brokenly. "Why did you not leave me alone?"

"Leave you alone!" he repeated a ter her. "Shirley, do you not know that for all these long weary months I have been doing my utmost to discover your whereabouts?"

"And yet you knew that I had come away to escape from you—to escape from you!"

She was standing by the wall now leaning against it, and still holding out her hands with the same gesture of abhorrence, the same expression of horror in her eyes. Guy stood still by the table, resting his hand upon it, a great sorrow and pity upon his face and wonder deepening in the gray eyes.

"To escape from me!" he repeated sadly. "But, my poor child, if I had known that my presence gave you any pain, I would have put hundreds of miles between us. Do you know that your disappearance almost cost me my life?"

"I know that you have been ill," she said brokenly; "but you are better now, and—and happy, Guy."

"How can I be happy, Shirley, when I see you thus?" he asked, with an intense sadness. "Do you not guess how much we have suffered on your account? And that you should be here in this capacity fills me with horror!"

"How did you know that I was here?" she said feebly. "I would have gone to the uttermost parts of the earth not to see you."

"But why did you fear me, Shirley? My one desire in life is for your happiness and your peace."

"I came away because—because—" Her voice failed her, and the words died away upon her lips, her head drooped on her breast, her hands were clasped tightly together.

"Because, in your generosity and unselfishness, you thought that I should forget you if you left me. My darling, how could you think that? You should have known that no suffering could equal the suspense! Why did you go away?"

"Oh, thank Heaven that I did!" she cried, the words breaking from her with a passionate anguish.

He looked at her in intense sorrow—a sorrow mingled with surprise and little doubt. Had she left him, not because she wished to save him from increased shame, but because she thought him guilty of the crime of which he had been accused? It was the first time the thought had struck him, and it brought with it a pang, keener than any he had yet suffered, that she should doubt him.

His arms, which had been held out to her in infinite longing, in passionate tenderness, fell to his side; out of the gray eyes which had been fixed upon her face with such love all the eagerness died; over his face passed a shadow heavy as night; and, in a breathless silence, he faced her as she stood leaning against the wall, her head turned back over her shoulder in an intensity of terror which might well seem to him horror of his guilt, her whole frame trembling as she shrank from him.

"You doubt me—you!" he exclaimed; and, few as the words were, they were full of a reproach which, in its very gentleness, must have cut her to the heart had she doubted him.

Her eyes met his wonderingly and without understanding; and, as he met her glance, the darkness passed, for he knew that his thought was wrong.

"I doubt you!" she said faintly. "What do you mean? What do you know?"

Her voice was very low and hurried as he asked the second question, and the terror in her eyes deepened.

"I feared—the doubt was but momentary, my dearest—that perhaps you too believed that I had been the murderer so many deem me," he said gently. "It is not so, Shirley?"

"The murderer!" she repeated vaguely. "What murderer?"

"Have you forgotten, Shirley? Ah, poor child, would to Heaven you could forget much of that terrible past! Love, do not shrink from me—I will not touch you if you do not wish it; but I have much to say to you, and—and you cannot—you must not remain here, you know!"

She moved slowly and feebly back into the room.

"No, I cannot stay here, you must leave me, Guy!" she said huskily. "I have been dismissed, you know. Ah, since you have been staying at Erinale, you must know what—what—hey say of the village schoolmistress!"

She threw up her hands with a little laugh, which was so bitter and mocking and full of despair that it struck like a blow on his heart. He went to her side; then, with a gentle strength which she could not resist, he put her into a chair, and, moving away a little, looked down at her with inexpressible tenderness and sadness.

AGONY ON OPERATING TABLE

Did Not Remove Stone in Bladder GIN PILLS Passed it.

JOLIETTE, P. Q. CANADA.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder. He decided on an operation and was assisted by another doctor. They said the calculus was larger than a bean and too hard to crush and they could not take it out.

I returned home suffering greatly and did not know what to do but was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS. I bought a box and found relief from the pain at once. I took a second and third box of GIN PILLS after which I went back to the specialist. He told me the calculus was reduced in size, still he could not relieve me of it although he tried for two and a half hours.

I returned home again and continued to take GIN PILLS as they reduced the pain very much, but I did not expect that they would relieve me of the stone but to my great joy, I passed the stone on October 3rd, and am now a well man and very happy.

HOW TO RECEIVE COMPLIMENTS.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I almost hate to have anyone give me a compliment," a reader friend writes me, "because it is so hard to receive them gracefully."

I fancy there are a good many people who know just how this woman feels. For unless one is naturally skilful in the social graces, a compliment, no matter how pleased one is to receive it, is often embarrassing. We sometimes find ourselves answering in a manner that makes us sound unbecomingly vain and self-satisfied even to ourselves.

It is not on anxiety to avoid this, as many do, but on the other extreme, and speak so humbly that we make the kind who try to please us feel awkward and uncomfortable.

And in either case our pleasant memory of the commendation is blunted and spoiled by the uncomfortable recollection which always accompanies that memory of our own unbecomingly boldness in responding to the compliment.

"I do so enjoy your smiles. You certainly have a beautiful voice," a lady of my acquaintance once said to a young man who was singing in a concert in which he had sung "Yes, I like my voice," he answered, "to the disgust of all about him. That is all except the two or three who happened to know that that flat response was the result of shyness and embarrassment rather than of overweening self-satisfaction as one would naturally think.

On the other hand I know an artist who received the compliments of a sincere admirer with such true modesty that he drove away a much needed patron. And yet he was only trying not to sound fatuously self-satisfied.

It seems to me that the best way to receive a compliment which one knows has been given in good faith, is as simply and gratefully as possible. Say "Thank you, it is good of you to say that," or, "Do you really think so? How kind of you to tell me."

For it is kind, you know. We think so many nice things that we don't bother to say. When anyone takes the trouble to put his approval into grateful words, he deserves to be thanked.

You notice I say above "when a compliment has been given in good faith." Of course a good many compliments are merely intended as a benefit, or at least as but half serious. To take them too seriously is awkward and inept. "You say that very prettily, evidently it is a case of practice makes perfect with you," or some similar answer is "the proper way to meet such compliments."

But don't make the mistake of disavowing a serious compliment by taking it as a benefit. That is ungracious. It is as if someone were offering you a beautiful jewel and you insisted on thinking it was paste.

A good rule for all difficult situations is, "do not concentrate your mind on yourself, think of the other fellow." To anyone who finds the receiving of compliments difficult and embarrassing, I recommend this rule.

ENTERTAINING AT THE PALACE.

Many rumours are afloat as to the part which the Queen intends to take in the entertaining of society this season. It is quite obvious that the Queen will more and more become the leading hostess of London, especially as her only daughter is to go into society, as our English Princesses have always been allowed to do. This year already the Queen intends to increase the number of the private entertainments she will give, these being of course, quite separate from the State affairs at Buckingham Palace, London. So far dinners have been the most regular feature of Royal entertaining, although they have not been so numerous as in the reign of Edward VII. Dinner in this reign, as in the last, is short. Beginning usually at 8.30, it is over in an hour, or little more, and then the King and Queen and their guests go to one of the drawing rooms, not infrequently to the Blue Room, which the King and Queen prefer to the other fine reception rooms of the Palace, Buckingham Palace is almost the only house in London where "a little music" is still heard after dinner—as a fashion it has entirely gone out. It is usually provided by a Lady-in-Waiting, never by a visitor. Queen Victoria's raucous remark was made about such music. Inquiring what a lady of the Court was playing, she was told that it was a drinking song. "Drinking song!" she exclaimed. "Why, no one could drink a cup of tea to that music!"

Lancaster parties, of course, have also formed part of the Palace entertainments, and occasionally their Majesties have taken an intimate friend to the opera or the play.

WOMEN AND THE LEGAL PROFESSION.

A strong effort will be made during the coming season to advance the cause of securing the admission of Women to the legal profession. The London supporters of the movement have been conferring together, and a committee of Irishwomen in Dublin is approaching the Irish members for their support to the bill or bills which, subject to the fortunes of the ballot, will be introduced. I mentioned recently that a new bill limited to the solicitors' branch of the legal profession was being prepared, but I hear that Lord Wolmer intends to reintroduce his larger measure, which aims, among other purposes, at opening the whole of the legal profession to women. The smaller bill has been drafted to remove the difficulty occasioned by the recent decision in Bebb vs. The Law Society. This course has been taken under the advice of Sir Frederick Pollock, who is adverse to an attempt to secure an entrance to the Bar. Sir Frederick argues that the Bar's position is one of enormous strength with immense powers of resistance, even if Parliament were inclined to sanction the reform. On the other hand, the younger men counsel the bolder scheme of proceeding with Lord Wolmer's bill, so that the movement shall advance from the outset as a dignified and consistent appeal to a great profession arising out of the modern educational renaissance. However, the chances of the ballot will determine the course finally to be taken.

EMPTY HOUSES AND RACE SUICIDE.

A curious reason for the large number of big old Georgian houses in the West End of London which are to let, was given me by one of the best known of the London estate agents. "People," he explained, "have not the large families they used to have. The patriarchal tradition is no longer fashionable. The result is that in a large house the small families of to-day feel lost."

PREPARING FOR AN EXHIBITION.

Already the work of preparing the buildings and grounds at the White City, London, for the great Anglo-American Exhibition which is to celebrate the peace centenary this summer, is being taken in hand, and so advanced are the arrangements that the usual incompleteness of exhibitions on the opening day should not obtain in this case. The organization of the sections is well advanced. Indeed, some sections are already complete, and the stand letters are now at work. The grounds of the White City look bristly enough in their deserted condition during the winter, but they are no longer deserted, and the work of transforming them into pleasant gardens is proceeding apace. They have been remodelled by gardeners, who are the leading horticultural firms in the

THE KING'S SONS AND THE EMPIRE.

There is truth in the statement which has gained currency that the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert are to go on a tour of the Empire, but not in the addition that the Princes will start on their tour after the prorogation of Parliament in the autumn. In point of fact, Prince Albert's messenger's expenses £70. An exceedingly great worry to the President of France is the question of tall hats. Wearing no uniform, he has to be provided with countless immaculate shilling silk hats. On one occasion they ran out, and the last one had to be ironed. It was in a remote Breton village. Next day the small sign here the proud inscription, "Hat for Her Majesty the President of the Republic." The French President used to travel in an ordinary train saloon. Once when a certain great sovereign was expected it was suddenly realized he could not be asked to step into an ordinary train, and a royal carriage was got from Belgium, another was hastily made, and a saloon transformed. This inaugurated the Presidential train as it is.

BACK TO THE PIGTAIL.

One of the many aspects of the Chinese question, to which attention was drawn at the time, was the adoption by the Progressive section of the Chinese of Western ideals and European dress, which involved the fore-swear of the pigtail. This created a great demand throughout China, particularly in the south, for Bradford goods, and, particularly, for clothing, were imported in great consignments. A gentleman who is visiting this country from China informs me that a reaction has now set in, and the Chinese in large numbers are now abandoning English clothes and returning to their national costume. This tendency, as it grows, is likely to reflect itself in an increased demand for Lancashire goods as against those from Bradford. The price is also being allowed to grow again, and there is every indication that it will become popular. The reactionary movement is at present most noticeable in the north, but it is gradually permeating the south—the revolutionary stronghold—and becoming general.

The Sealing Bill

We are pleased to find that the Legislative Council put the Sealing Bill through its second reading, and congratulate the Hon. Mr. Job, who is in charge of the bill in the Upper Chamber.

MEMORANDUM On Seal Fishery Statistics, EASTERN FISHERY.

Old Harps. Brought in for the last 5 years (1909 to 1913 inclusive) 43,281. Brought in for the previous 8 years (1901 to 1908 inclusive) 41,424.

Previous 8 years (1901 to 1908 inclusive) 3,892.

The catch both of old harps and bedlammers has been many times greater in the past 5 years than in the previous 8 years.

EASTERN FISHERY.

Catch of young harps in 3 year periods, for the past 14 years.

1899 to 1901 inclusive 762,567. 1902 to 1904 inclusive 727,080. 1905 to 1907 inclusive 618,852. 1908 to 1910 inclusive 582,574. 1911 to 1913 inclusive 492,608.

GULF.

Catch of young harps in 3 year periods, for the past 15 years.

1909 to 1901 inclusive 76,673. 1902 to 1904 inclusive 40,457. 1905 to 1907 inclusive 50,252. 1908 to 1910 inclusive 121,892. 1911 to 1913 inclusive 124,275.

Showing a very substantial increase in recent years.

It may be argued that this increase in catch can be wholly accounted for by the larger number of ships now prosecuting the Gulf fishery, but it must be noted that the smaller ships have on the whole done notably better in recent years, and that the added spots have not been monopolized by the larger and more powerful ships which have recently invaded the Gulf.

It is fair presumption that there are more seals.

NATURAL INCREASE OF HARPS.

Capt. Kean estimates that there were 600,000 bedlamers harps there in 1909.

It is in the bedlamers class for two years.

Upon that supposition the escape of young seals must approximate 250,000 each year.

If it puts (as seems more probable) in its fifth year, the escape must approximate 187,000 each year.

In any case, if the estimate of 500,000 bedlamers is even approximately correct, there seems but little need for a close season, and it must be confessed that this is a cheerful consideration at the present time.

It is obvious in any case that the escape of young harps must be quite large, for otherwise if we were helping ourselves to a VERY excessive percentage of the young, and at the same time to a substantial share of breeders and bedlamers every spring it is very clear that, with an animal which seldom produces more than one pup and which requires four or five years to come to maturity, the seal fishery must have been extinct long ago.

Capt. Kean, no doubt correctly, attributes the enormous reduction in the Eastern fishery, which occurred after 1860, to the terrific annual destruction by sailing vessels prior to that date, and he states that when the sailing fleet brought in 509,000 seals they would have certainly killed the enormous proportion of 150,000 old.

Looking at the comparative statistics for the past 18 years, it is plain that there has been, in the Eastern fishery, throughout this whole period no let up in the steady destruction of old harps and bedlamers, notwithstanding restrictions, both legal and voluntary.

During the 8 years (1901 to 1908) inclusive, there were brought in from the East 130,378 old harps and bedlamers, besides those that were shot and lost. And the take of young seals shows continual decline. Thus, for

Excellent Cakes and Pastry JOHN B. AYRE

The figures show that the total brought in during these 8 years was 5,862, or under 500 of both classes each year. And in contrast with the East, the take of young harps in the succeeding five years (1909 to 1913) was 219,618, an average of 43,924 for the previous five years.

It is, of course, easy to press an argument from these statistics too far, but do they not at least suggest the following two main propositions?

(1) That it is not necessary to impose a close season on the killing of young harps; and

(2) That more protection is required for the old and the bedlamers.

A SOCIALIST STATE.

New Zealand has the reputation of being one of the most progressive countries in the world. There is practically no poverty which is not the result of laziness or drink. There are no millionaires and no slums.

New Zealand is two-thirds the area of California. It has a European population of 1,000,000 almost wholly of British descent, and a Maori population of about 40,000.

The laws of these islands have become known throughout the world because of the advanced reforms they are supposed to promote. Primary education is free, secular and compulsory up to a prescribed standard, with free books, free travel on the railways for the children attending school, and where there are no railways an allowance for conveyance by vehicle or ferry or for board of pupils in the vicinity of the school.

Lives of infants are protected by giving them free food and unnatural conditions and placing them with approved private families. There is a national endowment of 9,000,000 acres for education and old age pensions, besides 2,000,000 for special purposes of various educational institutions.

Public utilities are either nationalized or municipalized, including railways, harbors, postal and telegraph service, parcel post, postal savings banks, street cars, telephones, gas, electricity, water and other things. There are nearly 3,000 miles of railway and only 29 miles are owned privately.

$7,000 Damages for Death.

By Strange Mishap to a Long Island Resident.

New York, Feb. 13.—The tip of an open umbrella in the hands of William H. Heuscher touched a low hanging electric light lamp one night while he was walking through the park to his home in Jamaica, L.I., and Heuscher was shocked to death by the current which passed down the steel umbrella rod.

The New York and Queen's Electric Light and Power Company contended Heuscher's death was due to his own carelessness, but a jury to-day decided otherwise and awarded $7,000 to Heuscher's widow.

Citizen's Petitions.

BEFORE THE LEGISLATURE.

At yesterday afternoon's session of the House of Assembly the Prime Minister and Mr. Kent presented petitions from the Citizens' Committee of St. John's, dealing with municipal affairs.

The petitions contained about 3,000 signatures, and represented the number of citizens who voted at the last two Municipal elections.

The Premier in presenting the petitions, referred at length to the civic problem and urged the sympathy and consideration of the House with regard to the prayer of the petitions. The present deplorable condition of the city in the matter of water supply, sewerage, antiquated methods of sanitation and bad roads, called for careful consideration.

It was a matter of congratulation that the citizens have manifested such interest in these matters, and were awakening to their responsibilities.

He briefly reviewed the progress of Municipal Government, from the inception of the Council up to the present time. After explaining the misunderstanding that was current concerning the increase of taxation by the Commissioners to be appointed, he suggested that great care should be exercised in the selection of such Commissioners. He expressed the hope that much good would accrue from the movement.

Mr. Kent in presenting his petitions said that the conditions embodied therein were unfortunately too true. The problems of the city have, for some time past needed attention, and the present movement was to be mind, genuine and thoroughly sincere and inaugurated with the intention of improving civic conditions.

The present condition need not be attributed to the lack of competent men for the management of civic affairs but to the prevailing system. He went on to show that under the present system which circumscribed the powers of the Council and left them practically powerless to effect civic reform.

He was not sure if the proposal to defer the elections and appoint Commissioners for a year would have the desired effect. In order to discuss matters intelligently the Commissioners should have some experience in civic affairs, but whether the work of carrying on the city government, and finding a remedy could be done simultaneously was doubtful. If the plan worked successfully, the suggestion that the result would suspend the constitution should not sway the House, and there should be no hesitation in dealing with the important problem.

Mr. Bennett supported the petition, and spoke from his experiences as a member of the Council, stating that the Council were often blamed for conditions for which they were not responsible. He referred to the apathy of citizens in the past, and felt glad that their interest has been awakened.

Mr. Chit contended that Municipal reform was dependent on money. If the present Council were authorized to increase taxation they could do what was needed. Such powers should be given to the Council this session.

Mr. Higgins supported the petition and looked upon it as a mandate from the people and urged the granting of their requests.

Mr. Kennedy speaking from two years' experience in the Council, attributed the present deplorable condition of the city to the lack of funds, and was glad to see the interest now being taken in the city's improvement.

Mr. Dwyer supported the petition and considered that the work of the Commissioners would be an enviable, but felt glad to help the movement in every way possible.

Mr. Hickman also supported the petition and said that the lack of funds was quite apparent and necessitated further taxation. He hoped the necessary legislation would be forthcoming.

Mr. Coaker was of the opinion that the city should have a full measure of incorporation, with borrowing powers controlled by the Legislature. He was inclined to doubt that the committee would accomplish what they had undertaken, and held that nothing in the way of reform could be done without increased taxation.

Don't Hawk Spit, Sneeze, Cure Yourself! Breathe "Catarrhazone!"

GIVES INSTANT RELIEF. CLEARS OUT NOSE, THROAT AND ALL BREATHING ORGANS.

In this fickle climate, repeated colds very easily drift into Catarrh. The natural tendency of Catarrh is to extend through the system in every direction.

Exposure to cold or dampness intensifies the trouble and nasal catarrh is the result. Unless a complete cure is effected, inflammation passes rapidly to the throat, bronchial tubes and then to the lungs.

You can't make new lungs—hence consumption is practically incurable. But Catarrh can be cured, except in its final and always fatal stage. Catarrh sufferers, meaning those with colds, sore throat, bronchitis, cough, etc., can all be cured right at home by inhaling "Catarrhazone."

In using Catarrhazone you don't take medicine into the stomach—you just breathe a healing vapor paper direct to the lungs and air passages.

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists, germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhazone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed. Use Catarrhazone to prevent—use it to cure your winter ills. It's pleasant and guaranteed in every case. Complete outfit $1.00, smaller size, 50c, at all dealers.

At the House

Petitions were presented by Mr. Downey, from Codroy for roads; by Minister of Public Works, from North Arm, Holyrood, for a wharf; by Mr. Chit, from Twillingate for a wharf at Jones' Cove; and by Mr. Jennings, from Chance Harbour, for a wharf.

The following Bills were read a third time:—

Workmen's Compensation: Saw Mills; Loans and Pensions.

The Prime Minister moved the House into Committee of the Whole on Resolutions dealing with the proposed train-ferry service. The matter deals with the construction of a railroad across the Isthmus of Avalon, and another from Humbermouth to S. W. Arm, Notre Dame Bay, and the promoter of the scheme is Mr. H. C. Thompson.

The Resolutions will be taken up later. The discussion on the Budget was referred until Monday.

The Premier gave notice of a Bill dealing with Municipal affairs, after which the House adjourned at 4 p.m. until 3 p.m. on Monday.

BUY BRUCE'S SEEDS

The most successful of the market gardeners in Canada, many of them customers for two generations, and some for three, buy Bruce's seeds, because, ever since his business was established by us 32 years ago, they found they could rely on them in every way, getting better results than from any other seeds. To these men quality and genuineness is the big consideration, as their bread and butter depends on their crops. We would say to the amateur and also the farmer, who are not customers, "It Will Pay You To Buy Bruce's Seeds" for it takes the same time and trouble to plant and care for poor seed as for good, and poor seed means dissatisfaction and loss for a surety. Those who sent him five or ten dollars received in exchange a small box of tablets which the United States mail officials found could be manufactured for twenty-five cents per thousand. There is no medical, chemical or mechanical means of restoring to normal an eyeball which is irregular in shape for such is the condition in most cases when glasses are worn for constant use. Hypermetropia, myopia, and the various forms of astigmatism are simple cases where the cornea, or clear front portion of the eyeball, is not absolutely spherical, and there is no other known means of overcoming such defect excepting by adjusting glasses. The English portrait painter, Tenyson Cole, has been freed after a month's imprisonment at Quebec, Natal. He was convicted of striking Mrs. Roycroft, wife of the local district surgeon, on the arm with a walking stick. The defence was that Mrs. Roycroft, during an altercation, struck Mr. Tenyson Cole with her parasol, and that he "parried" without intending to injure her. Mr. Tenyson Cole was heard when he led the court in a motor car. In his evidence the artist said he had had two wives and knew how to handle women.

City Again Defeated by Visitors by 6 Goals to 4.—City Had by Far the Best of the Game—Hard Luck and Bad Shooting Lost—An Instance of When the Score is not Indicative of the Match—A Thronged Attendance and an Exciting Exhibition.

The City team accepted an unwarranted defeat from the hands of the Halifax Progressives last night, after one of the hardest contests ever witnessed in the rink. Another thronged gathering witnessed the match including His Excellency Governor Davidson, who during the night inter-viewed the players and congratulated them on their exhibition. The game was an unusually fast one and exciting throughout, especially during the last five minutes of the game, was uninteresting. The result was a disappointment, as it must be admitted beyond all shadow of doubt that the City had the best of the match and the score is no indication whatever of what the exhibition was like. For particularly all the latter part of the game the City were bombarding the Halifax goal, but failed to increase their score. The teams were:

Halifax.—McKenzie, 2 mins.; Coxswell, 3 mins.; C. Reardon, 2 mins.; Coxswell, 3 mins.

Just after the game opened Higgins displayed some clever work and scored the first goal, followed by one from Shortall a minute later. Play then became fast and furious, and Patterson broke away and beat Hunt. The visitors were encouraged somewhat; Reardon made a splendid dash and scored the equalizer, but scarcely had the enthusiasm subsided when Hutchings landed the third goal for the City.

Second Period.
Play was much livelier in this period. Patterson, for the visitors, and Herder, for the City, distinguished themselves in individual work. Reardon, the Halifax rover, again controlled the puck and by his "tonson" went into City territory and was again successful in finding the net. McDonald got his ankle injured and had to retire, being replaced by Anderson. The score was then 3-3 and nothing further was done during the half.

Third Period.
At this juncture the City outplayed their opponents who used to line off their goal, when the puck would be near, to prevent the locals from scoring. The Progressives then waxed warm and in quick succession landed the puck behind Hunt. The City team woke up and Shortall scored. Continuing their rushes the City team made a real onslaught and sent in innumerable shots to the Halifax goal, but failed to add to their score while Patterson, just before full time was announced, increased the tally for Halifax.

NOTES.
The game was the fastest yet. The defeat of the City was attributed to bad shooting tactics. It could be seen last night that the three periods disadvantaged the City. When the City used their staying power towards the end of the game some of those on the opposite side lay down on the ice. That's not sporty.

Webby, the Halifax goal keeper, won the match for Halifax. Some of the City players were often seen to better advantage in our League matches. Patterson gave a fine exhibition of hockey, and entertained the spectators by some fancy skating and stunts. Parsons and Herder for the City were in good form. To-night the hockey teams will be dined at Wood's.

The attitude of Asquith with regard to representations made by the delegation of the National Service League yesterday indicated little sympathy with alarmists over either military or national degeneracy viewpoints. Two hours discussion of the Mexican situation in all its phases by President Wilson and Cabinet yesterday developed a unanimity of opinion that the time had not yet arrived for any change of policy of the Washington Government. Though still reserving judgment on the facts surrounding the execution of Banton, the President and Cabinet are inclined to regard as of serious moment the hanging by the Mexican federalists of Clement Vergara, American citizen. Immediately after the Cabinet meeting, Secy. Bryan cabled to demand of the Huerta Government punishment of those responsible for Vergara's death. An explanation will be sought by the American Government why any harm befell Vergara, when assurances had been given to American Consular representatives that he was safe.

The New Railway Loan. Mr. Kent's Criticism.

On Thursday night when the Bill for the raising of another two million dollar loan was up for discussion at the House. The Opposition made some very able and spirited criticisms.

Mr. Kent—He said we are getting quite familiar with Loan Bills now and especially with the raising of monies to finish that Railway Contract. First when the Bill was introduced by the Prime Minister in 1910 we were told that four millions of dollars would complete the Branch Railways. Two years ago (1912) the Premier stated that that loan would complete the lines and that the railways would be in operation by the close of 1914. Now, Mr. Chairman, "prophecy is a gratuitous form of error, but it is the duty of a politician to look forward" and if the Premier when he introduced the railway contract into this House took a little of the wisdom comprised in this saying, we would have known better where we stood in the completion of these Railways. To-day we are still in the dark as to the completion of the Branch lines and before the Contract is completed it will be found that one other loan, at least, will have to be raised to meet the demands provided for in this Contract. This Bill, we have at present before us makes eight million dollars authorized by this House for the purpose of constructing railways. When the original Resolutions were before the House I gave my opinion that it would take not less than seven or eight million dollars to complete the lines. Now, I believe, that even that estimate is under the amount required and less than what will ultimately be necessary to finish these works. The estimate that I made, as already stated, was made roughly from the figures supplied by the Prime Minister in the introduction of these measures. To-day we stand somewhat in this position, that none of the six branch lines are finished. The Bonavista line is open for traffic but there is a great deal of work necessary and a considerable amount of money attaching to it before the Contractor will get his final certificate from the Government Engineer. We had hoped to be supplied with some further information regarding the conditions existing at the present time. The Prime Minister sent me a copy of a letter written to him by the Government Engineer, Mr. T. A. Hall, who gave a report of the different branch lines. According to his estimate (Mr. Hall's) said Mr. Kent, there is still $63,450 to do the work of ballasting and trestling on the Bonavista Branch, and $80,000 available in case of default. There are no estimates given for the Trepassary, Heart's Content, Bay de Verde, Bonne Bay and Fortune Bay Branches. For extras there has been spent on stations and other such works, $457,076.12. For the Bonavista, Trepassary, and Heart's Content lines there will be, at least, required $70,000 under the heading of extras, but in this connection no estimate is given for the Port aux Basques, Bay de Verde or Bonne Bay Branches. For rolling stock, etc., the Government Engineer estimates $88,500 as the sum to be included in the $15,000 to the mile and whatever the full equipment of the line costs over and above that must be paid for in cash outside will approximate $468,370. To date two hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars was paid and a hundred and seventy-three thousand dollars was still due.

Mr. Kent emphasized the uncertainty of the obligations arising from certain sections of the Contract which were ultimately going to cost the Government an enormous sum. The present Contract was different to any other that had been entered into, as to payment for equipment, rolling stock and other extras. He pointed out that if the Government raised the two million dollar loan that that they are now asking for at the same figure as the last one was raised, it would still leave us short to the extent of about seventy thousand dollars. The Premier stated in this House, he continued, that the Government was going to build five branch railways, that they were all going to be completed in five years on a basis of 50 miles a year, that he was going to float a loan of four millions of dollars that would pay for their completion. As a matter of fact not one of the railway lines are finished yet, with an expenditure of the two loans. Two millions more is now being asked and this will be insufficient. As to the Premier's statement that the outlay would be met without increasing taxation, the best illustration of how the people of the country, particularly the masses, are being overburdened was the alarming Budget presented by the Finance Minister. The two millions of money now being asked for was history repeating itself.

Mr. Kent here read an extract from a letter attached to the Prospectus of the last Two Million Loan signed by the Premier which contained a statement to the effect that proceeds of the loan would complete the branch lines. If I were making that prospectus I would not be here to-day looking for the money. Everything has been packed into one contract. The work cannot be stopped and must go on. It does not follow that the estimates mentioned in the letter of the Government Engineer will meet with the concurrence of the contractors.

Speaking of the present loan he did not believe the Government was going to get favourable terms owing to the stringency in the market. Take the Colonial Loan, nearly everybody knows that it did not stand as favorable at home when issued at 2 1/2 per cent, as it did four years ago. Besides our financial conditions have changed. Last year the duties were taken off certain articles, meaning a deficit aggregating over $380,000. This year the duty has to be increased to make up the deficiency. The reason is, therefore, clear why the demand for our securities have fallen off. Further, nothing of a constructive nature beyond the building of railways has been done in the country for several years back, consequently the markets will not be found as good as if it was seen at the same time of seeking a loan that the money was being spent in constructive industries. This applied to the Dominion of Canada and all the Provinces had to cry halt together. Our fisheries, so far as the catch goes, is practically at a standstill, although the price has gone up. We ought to make a better effort towards having that industry encouraged and developed and then we can go into the money market and look for loans or works such as railway building. We all must recognize that we have committed ourselves to railway contracts. We are obliged to carry them out and we ought to carry them out. He referred to the unnecessary and excessive expenditure of the rights of way given to Government contractors. He did not see the reason why the competent man could not do the work throughout the country. It would save thousands and thousands of dollars, as during the past few years, last year especially, fees rolled up to an enormous extent. In this regard we cannot say definitely whether or not economy was exercised, as Mr. Hall, the Government Engineer, is a thoroughly competent official, but he was very much overworked, having too much in his department to attend to. He should be solely engaged looking after railway work. He described the unsatisfactory system of the present railway operations, and complained generally, particularly in regard to the cross country service to Port aux Basques and the Harbor Grace and Placentia lines. This does not only in the winter season when interruptions are continuous but summer time as well. The reason, of course, is because there is not sufficient rolling stock to compete with conditions.

"Nerviline" Cures Cramps End Misery Instantly NO REMEDY SO SPEEDY OR EFFICIENT.

A real cramp cure? Yes, a real one—in a twinkling the cramp is a dead one, and the last squirm is over, once you get a stiff dose of Nerviline on the inside.

This isn't mere talk—it's a solid, truthful fact. No other remedy—no single one—will cure cramps so quickly and harmlessly as Nerviline. It hits the spot in a jiffy and saves a heap of misery.

"Last Saturday night my stomach felt like an infernal machine," writes T. P. Granger from Hartford. "I was awakened from a sound sleep and found myself suffering the worst kind of torture. I was so doubled up I could hardly cross the room. I had used Nerviline before for the same thing and took a real good dose. Once I felt the warm, soothing sensation of Nerviline in my stomach, I knew I was all right. It finished the cramps—just one single dose."

Sickness at night is rendered a nightmare of the past if Nerviline is handy. It may be emetic, to the doctor. Nerviline is a family physician in itself. The large 50c. family size bottle, of course, is most economical. Small trial size costs a quarter. All dealers sell Nerviline.

Draining The Garden.

When I speak of a well-drained garden, I mean one from which the surplus water will drain after every rain which is heavy enough to make a surplus. Surplus water is that which falls in excess of the amount which will be held in suspension in the soil by the power of capillary action. If you pour too much water in the pot of a plant which is well drained, the surplus will run out at the bottom, leaving only what the soil will suspend. The soil of your garden should act in the same way, and will do so if the grade of the land is such as will permit of it. Where this grade is absent, you will have to sink tiles two feet to the soil, sixteen feet apart, which form a passageway to carry off the surplus water regardless of the level of the soil.

While some of the flowers which are grown from the seed are not damaged or restrained in the spring of the year by the cold wet weather which may prevail for several weeks from the middle of April on, yet there are others which make no headway against it. You should make yourself familiar with these. If you look on the package of seed (if from a reliable dealer) it will tell you which these are, as the time of planting will be indicated. Nothing is to be gained by planting these too soon, as, even if they do not germinate, a cold wet spell of weather following will "check" them, and they will not do as well as those planted later and growing on without a check. The poppy, morning-glory, balsam-apple, ageratum, begonia, and ipomea are familiar examples of flowers which should not be planted before the ground is warm and all danger of late frosts and cold rains is past.—S. A. Hamilton, in Woman's World for February.

STOP COUGHING

It's quite as foolish as it is annoying to keep on coughing since PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE is sold all over Newfoundland and is guaranteed to soothe and heal the irritated parts at once, and to rapidly destroy the very cause of this aggravating nuisance. Hundreds of persons are complaining every day about the cough and cold they have had for a long time, and are not able to get rid of it. Don't let a cough or cold hang on you day after day and run the risk of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to throw off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE at once.

A curious fact about diamonds is that it is not uncommon for the crystals to explode as soon as they are brought up from the mines. Sometimes they have burst in the pockets or the warm hands of miners, due to the effect of increased temperature. Large stones are more likely to do this than small stones. Valuable stones have been destroyed in this way. To safeguard them, some dealers place large diamonds in raw potatoes for safe transport from South Africa.

Girls! Don't Wash Hair With Soap

Soap dries your scalp, causing dandruff, then hair falls out—Try this next time.

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust and dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

At the City Hall.

The Mayor and full Board were present at yesterday's meeting of the City Council.

Messrs. Summers, Walsh's Square, asked permission to build a store-room at rear of house. Council requests them to submit plans for same.

Messrs. Peters and Sons wrote saying they were prepared to forward quotations for any water pipes the Council may need in the future.

W. Mackey applied for a position as sweeper; no vacancy.

N. J. Murphy requested permission to convert dwelling, Lewis Place, into a store; permission was granted.

H. Gear forwarded plans and specifications of proposed brick and stone building, corner of Water and Holdsworth Streets; plans approved.

The reports of the Medical Health Officer and Engineer were read and adopted.

The motion of Councillor Mullaly re the theatrical tax came up for discussion. The Councillor advocated a flat rate, and dwelt at length on the advantages to be derived therefrom, but upon the vote being taken the motion was lost.

Councillor Coaker's resolution on the same question, that the present tax of 2 1/2 per cent on gross earnings be increased to 3 1/2 per cent was almost unanimously carried.

The passing of pay rolls and the other usual business being transacted the meeting adjourned at 5.30 p.m.

That Old Cost.

When paying bills I used to say: "Our statements do not earn their pay! The cost of living is so high, it fairly makes your unde cry! If congressmen and Senators would carry on relentless wars against the causes which combine to get our goats, both yours and mine, the pool might have a chance to thrive, and bless their stars that they're alive!" And people all agreed with me, and said they really couldn't see why statements do not earn a crown by cutting rubber prices down. But since I've thought the matter over, a statesman I am not so sure. I rather think I am to blame; that life is an expensive shame. I blow my money every day as though I'd loads to throw away. I buy the most expensive things from butcher's meats to napkin rings I seldom stop to count the cost, and so the bills produce a frost. And that's the way we're all inclined; a rare thing is the frugal mind; each year we burn more shining scads than in their lifetime spent our dads.

For creaming sugar or butter and sugar, a perforated spoon will be found more convenient than a fork or the hand.

When chopping suet, try sprinkling the knife with a little ground rice or corn starch and you will have no trouble.

A baker says that a cupful of liquid yeast is equivalent to half a cupful of yeast cake or whole dry yeast cake. Cream cheese into which chutney is mixed, rolled into balls and served with lettuce salad, is a most palatable relish.

Little scraps of sheer white material can be made into dainty little handkerchiefs for the children to carry to school.

In testing the oven for cake baking, remember that greater heat is required for a cake baked in papers than for a single loaf.

There is economy in buying soap in quantities, naturally, the longer it stands the dryer it is when used and the further it goes.

To prevent onions from sprouting let the onions dry, heat a poker red hot and with it singe the roots. Put in a dry place and you will find they will keep perfectly.

When cleaning ebony brushes, rub a little vasoline over the bristles. This prevents the ammonia or soda in the water from injuring the ebony.

Drive a nail through an empty spool. It will make a handy peg to hang damp towels on. The spool will not tear or rust the article hung upon it.

If you are mixing a cake with a wooden spoon, beat the mixture with the back of the spoon. It is far easier and becomes beautifully light in half the time.

Tyrants.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash." A tyrant is an odious creature who has great power over other people and uses it in such a manner as to make the said people long most earnestly for his demise.

History is infested with tyrants who loved to collect taxes by baking the feet of their subjects and who said "Off With His Head" as carelessly as if they were accepting an invitation to drink. Gessler was a celebrated tyrant. He walked on the necks of the Swiss until a quiet man named Tell exterminated him with an arrow.

His funeral was not largely attended. George III. embarked in the tyrant business in this country many years ago and lost thirteen perfectly good colonies as a result. Now and then some American railroad president or captain of industry aspires to be a tyrant and gets away with it for a short time, treating the common people with great contempt and saying "pooh" and other things at Congress. But sooner or later they all sell out at a great sacrifice and retire with a few paltry millions which the grand jury has overlooked.

About the only successful tyrant business nowadays is conducted by the husband and father who insists on being a czar in his own home. Blame a man who bows meekly when his boss calls him a lumber headed chump and who asks his ward captain how to vote for supervisor becomes a roaring tyrant when he enters his home, and if his wishes have not been guessed correctly, he proceeds to make himself as popular as smallpox with his loving wife and children.

The trouble with the common or average tyrant is that he is married to the wrong kind of wife. Some women are made to be tyrannized over and some are made to salute the would-be tyrant with a hot fat iron and erect Chinese paddles over his eyes with a rolling pin. When a man insists on making a meek wife and frightened children look longingly at very funeral which passes by he should be turned over by the court or a few days to some athletic woman with a firm jaw and a good aim. Many tyrants would be cured in this way and the rest would be killed, which would be just about as good.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS MAKING A REPUTATION IN THE WEST.
Saskatchewan Man Tells How They Cured Him, After Four Months' Suffering from Backache and Other Forms of Kidney Disease.
St. Phillips, Sask., February 27. (Special).—In a new country where changes of climate and impure water are among the difficulties to be surmounted, kidney trouble is prevalent. It is the kidneys, the organs that train the impurities out of the blood, that first feel any undue strain on the body. Consequently, Dodd's Kidney Pills have been well tried and tested in this neighbourhood.

They have stood the test. Many stutters tell of backache, rheumatism and urinary troubles cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Otto Olszewski is one of these. In speaking of his cure he says:

"I suffered from kidney disease for our months. My back ached. I had heart flutterings, and was always tired and nervous. My skin had a harsh, dry feeling; my limbs were heavy; and I had a dragging sensation across the loins.

"I consulted a doctor, but as I did not appear to improve, I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I used six boxes, and now I am all right."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always stand the test. Ask your neighbors.

To remove odor of fish or onions from the frying-pan, put in vinegar and heat until scalding and then wash out.

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor, But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels.

Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

Scotia's Earnings.

For the year ending December 31st, the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company earned in round figures $1,256,000. After providing for the interest on the first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds outstanding and the sinking fund in connection with the same issue there remained a balance of considerably over $900,000.

As there is outstanding $3,000,000 of debenture stock bearing 6 per cent. interest, this is equal to more than 5 times the amount necessary to pay the interest on the debenture stock.

We offer for sale in lots to suit purchasers a block of Nova Scotia Steel & Coal 6 per cent. debenture stock at 98 and interest.
