THE LINE OF BATTLE.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Now that nominations for Oxford University and the University of Wales have taken place, the line of battle in the general election is completed. Two Conservatives and one Liberal have been nominated for Oxford University's two seats; and a Liberal, an Independent Liberal, and a third candidate who proclaims himself an Independent Christian Party, are in the field for the one seat in Wales University. The total nominations, including fifty acclamations, number 1,446, comprised as follows: Conservatives 561, Liberals 437, Labor 434, Conservative Free Traders 7, Independents 17.

BARRY'S BODY REFUSED CHRISTIAN BURIAL.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Bishop Colahan, of Cork, has refused to allow the religious exercises which constitute Christian burial for the body of Commandant Dennis Barry, who died from the effects of a hunger strike at Newbridge, says a press association despatch from Cork. The message quotes the Bishop as saying he would deal with the case in the same way if it had been his own brother, and added, "Republicanism in Ireland has for the last twelve months been a wicked and inhuman attack on the church and the souls of the faithful committed to the church's care. By church laws anyone who deliberately takes his own life is deprived of Christian burial. I shall interpret the law of the Church and refuse Christian burial. I feel bound to do it."

DUSSELDORF, Nov. 28.—The Provisional Government of the Poultry Show Officially Opened.

The eleventh annual Poultry Show under the auspices of the Newfoundland Poultry Association was officially opened at 8.15 last night by His Excellency the Governor who was accompanied by Lady Allardye and suite. The Vice-Regal party were received by the Executive of the Association and conducted to the stage where President G. F. Williams, in a short speech asked His Excellency to officially declare the show open. Mr. Williams referred to the interest taken by the Governor and Lady Allardye in poultry culture and made special reference to Captain Goodfellow who had some birds in the exhibition which had been awarded a silver cup. He referred to the work done by the Association during the past year and what it hoped to do in the future. His Excellency in opening, said he well remembered December 1st last year when he first landed on these hospitable shores and was asked that day to attend the poultry show. Through stress of business on that day he was unable to accept the invitation, and he was sorry he did not attend so that he could compare the birds exhibited now with those of last year. Newfoundland, he said, was the land of four F's; the two big F's were the fisheries and the forests, which he hoped to refer to at length at a later date; the two small F's were the farmer and the fowl.

Exciting Championship Dance at the Crescent.

A crowded house greeted last night's challenge dance at the Crescent Theatre. The dance was very close between Walter Lewis of St. Mary's Bay of the sch. F. S. Adams of Lunenburg, and Martin Day, the Nfld. Champion Step-dancer. Mr. Lewis was not quite satisfied with the decision owing to the fact that the music was not what he was accustomed to hearing in although he considers that Mr. Day won a fair victory. He, however, thinks that with his own music the audience would award him the championship.

We have now just received a supply of Mead Johnston's Reconstituted Milk as supplied by the Child Welfare Department. Also a small quantity of Malt Soup and Dextrin-Milk.

Sir Michael Cashin Dined.

A complimentary dinner, tendered Sir Michael Cashin by the Executive of the West End Liberal-Labor Progressive Committee was held at Smithville last night. About fifty guests sat to the festive board. Mr. John Caldwell presided, Mr. Higgins, K.C., was toast maker and Mr. T. Halley, in his inimitable style, furnished the music for the songs and choruses, which were interspersed throughout the proceedings a right jolly good time. The toast to His Majesty the King being duly honored, Chairman Caldwell, proposing the toast of Sir Michael Cashin, paid a high tribute to him whose sterling qualities they so much appreciated. Sir Michael, in replying, thanked one and all for the whole-hearted welcome which had been extended to him on his return home. He then described some of the sights and places which he and Lady Cashin had seen. The prosperous condition of France and the appalling industrial problem of England, were vividly portrayed. Through Sir Michael's speech there was an optimistic tone, especially in reference to the future of Newfoundland. He had noted the improvement in conditions during the past couple of months and expressed the opinion that the turning point had been reached and with prudent management of our affairs we would soon enjoy our former prosperity. One step in this direction he said, would be the erection of a hotel to cater to tourists. Following Sir Michael Cashin, Messrs. J. E. Bennett, A. E. Hickman, W. J. Linggar, Hon. Tasker Cook, James Gould, J.C. Puddister, J. R. Chalker and W.J. Walsh, in happy terms referred to the home coming of the guest of the evening. The speeches, though short, were very interesting. The optimistic note struck by Sir Michael prevailed, and many suggestions dealing with our trade and commerce were made. None the less interesting were the musical numbers contributed by Messrs. John Barron, P. K. Devine, S. Faour, M. F. Murphy, C. Jardine, P. F. Moore, T. Smythe and H. Crawford and T. P. Halley. The catering by the Messrs. Furlong was all that could be desired, the tables being nicely set and the menu was par excellence. At 1.30 p.m. the affair terminated with Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

International banker says the world owes $300,000,000,000. But how is this possible with so many efficiency experts on the job.

Civic Consciousness Aroused in Halifax

Oftentimes the salvation of a community arises out of its disasters. The sense of common danger or common suffering brings the people to their senses and causes them to co-operate in an effort to save the situation. It was the hope that this principle would operate in the case of Halifax that induced leaders in the present reform movement to turn to the advantage of the city the civic consciousness that has been aroused by the revelations at City Hall. Before the people should fall back into the old rut they took steps to organize a ratepayer's association that would be the vehicle for keeping alive the sense of personal interest in the city and its affairs which has developed in these recent days. And in this connection the bringing of the Mayor of Jacksonville, Ill., to address the people on the results of co-operative effort in that city was not only timely, but one would say psychologically sound. While there is not an exact parallel between the cases of Halifax and Jacksonville, the fact is that as Jacksonville was saved by the focusing of public interest in the city's affairs by utilizing the city's misfortunes as the rallying point, so it is possible to develop here a similar public spirit by rallying the people at the psychological time.

The permanence of the movement in Halifax will of course depend upon the capacity of the people to remain interested. This holds true in any community, though it is possible that some communities have a better public spirit than others. Whether Halifax has an abiding public spirit now remains to be seen. Efforts have been made in the past to arouse it, all of which had some success for a time and finally faded. But every time the effort was made some good resulted and it may be that this present effort will be crowned with permanent success. Everything will depend upon the enthusiasm with which the new association stays by its job. It starts off under very favorable auspices, not only having public sentiment behind it, but having the guidance of a well chosen executive. The president, W. McT. Orr, is a man whose personal qualities suggest not only an earnest effort, but an effort that will be effective. If conscientious work, good humor and the confidence of the public count for anything, the association is well equipped in having a chairman with these qualities.

Mr. Orr's name reminds us of the city of Glasgow in Scotland, from which land Mr. Orr himself sprang. Everyone knows the perfections of Glasgow's admiral as "my city," they will achieve that which will lift the place out of the rut and ensure a future in which every citizen will take the utmost satisfaction.—Maritime Merchant.

Rocking Uncle Sam's Financial Boat

The net result of the Economic Conference in respect to extending the British preference to certain native Canadian products somehow reminds one of the old story which ran something like this: "Every little bit added to what you've got makes a little bit more." To the preference list have been added fresh apples and canned salmon, and fruit juices and honey, all of which will be acceptable to the producers, and should aid materially in making good the trade lost by reason of the Fordney tariff. This preference should in due course cut from under Uncle Sam's feet a considerable export trade that country has hitherto enjoyed with Great Britain.

For instance forty per cent. of the canned salmon and forty per cent. of the apples that are annually consumed in the British Isles have been coming from the United States. The U.S. trade in these two items has amounted in round figures to $20,000,000 per annum out of a grand total of $50,000,000 sold in Great Britain. While on the other hand Canada's trade with Great Britain in these products has hitherto been comparatively small in relation to the grand total consumed annually by the British public.

Probably nothing short of the extreme Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, which has apparently got under John Bull's skin, would ever have stirred the British people out of their trade tracks. But now that the movement is started it may well be a beginning that will eliminate in a tight and fast Empire trade arrangement that will rock Uncle Sam's financial boat to a point where he will begin to wonder if it is possible that two can play at the same game.—Saturday Night.

The Labor Unions Are Cleaning Up

The American Federation of Labor has of late been busy purging its ranks of the radical element that was not only but easily tracing that body to destruction. It has been this and other labor bodies in overdue. And if Canadian organizations are wise they will not imitate the folly in the case of the American Federation. At a recent meeting in Portland, Ore., the Federation of Labor there unanimously declared its adherence to the tenets of the Red International convention declaring its faith in democracy as the only form of government—and other resolutions—and at the same time it provides security for the preservation of the achievements of man. This action was taken by the American Federation in Chicago and New York and the "bores" from within, Dunne, Foster and Fitzgerald, in fact, the entire gang of C.I.O. were "given the air." In other words they were told to tear up their ears, get out and stay out.

The one Big Union idea was same as at the hands of the Federation, as did also the proposed change Labor Day from the Monday in September to May 1st, the Day of the European. Altogether it was a thorough cleaning, and one which may give back to the Federation its prestige. It is hoped that in Canada we have dilled out with our select group of B.C. in consequence unionism has losing ground. What decent, abiding workman, who is busy earning a living for himself and his family wishes to be associated with thought with the Red gabblers, gibberish and chatter is heard every platform where an audience has had. It is time that Canadian labor unions arose to their responsibilities and threw its Jimmy boys into the discard. The more they hesitate the more they will in public esteem and public respect.—Saturday Night.

Grammar is Not Aid to Child

Speaker Would Delete It From Curriculum Altogether.

There is in school life, under present system, enough to dull child's natural desire for knowledge and stultify that curiosity which the basis of all discovery and attainment of knowledge, said W. D. Tait, associate professor of Psychology at McGill University, addressing some 200 members of the Society for the Study of Educational Problems in the Montreal School last night.

The teaching of grammar cases for special criticism by the speaker who said that in no way could it be considered an aid to the progress of our mother tongue. It neither increased the vocabulary of those who spent time and labor on the rote learning of grammar in speech. He had spoken and written good English before the mechanics of the language had been taught, and if he had way he would entirely abolish the subject from the schools. This was roundly applauded by the teachers.

Dr. Tait also attacked the study of Greek and Latin, since, in his knowledge of these subjects, the student scarcely ever learned in school or in college to read with ease, thus mistaking the heart in learned mechanics.

DR. GORDON SAYS CHURCH DOES NOT CHANGE PRESBYTERIAN DOCTRINE.

QUEBEC, Nov. 28.—(Can. Press.) The only thing that the Presbyterians were going to surrender was the name, when the union of the churches was consummated. Not a belief, not a doctrine, of the church would be changed, said the Rev. Dr. Gordon, ex-moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada in addressing a meeting in the Y.M.C.A. last night on the question of church union, and which was also addressed by the Rev. Dr. Endicott of the Methodist Church.

The meeting was very largely attended, even to overflowing, and addresses were listened to with respect and attention by the members of both churches and members of the churches together with a sprinkling of those of other denominations.

Ten Year Terms For Two Outlaws

SENTENCES TOTALLING 19 YEARS FOR HOLD-UP MEN—RUN CONCURRENTLY. POLICE PROTECTION. JUDGE MONET DEPLORES LACK OF ADEQUATE FORCE FOR CITY.

Leopold Lambert and Arthur Lebrun, found guilty last Tuesday on the charge of robbery with violence, burglary, theft of an automobile and receiving, were sentenced this morning to 19 years in the penitentiary by Judge Monet. Of these, however, the two convicts will only serve ten years, as the four sentences run concurrently.

Women of Berlin Aroused by Muzzle Your Dog Order

Berlin, Nov. 24—A war of words is raging in Berlin between women who own pet dogs on one side and the police and non-owners of dogs on the other. It was stated when the police put into effect again an order requiring all dogs to be muzzled and kept on leash when in the streets. The women dog fanciers charge that this is simply a means of persecuting them for taking the muzzles off their little pets and letting them loose for a run in the Tiergarten.

The police justify the order by charging that the dogs running loose about Berlin have become a nuisance and a menace to public health, and the non-owners of dogs are arguing against the unnecessary waste of food in maintaining the dogs.

Civic Conscientiousness.

The Montreal Star refers to the awakening in Halifax of a civic conscientiousness, and refers to the strides which the capital of our nearest neighbour is making to modernize the city, to encourage shipping, and to secure a greater share in the transhipment of the products of Western Canada. One has but to glance at the list of shipping in any of the Halifax papers to realize how rapidly the port is forging to the front as a terminus for ocean going traffic, and to notice the other improvements that are being made.

Always St. John's and Halifax have been very keen rivals, and while our situation does not enable us to compete with the sister capital as a terminus, we possess other natural advantages which, fully availed of, would more than enable us to hold our own in the race.

It is time that we too awakened a civic conscientiousness, not so much for the sake of increasing the industrial wealth of the community, as to improve its physical and moral health. The former would result as a natural consequence.

The attractions that we have to offer tourists are frequently referred to. The need for an up-to-date hotel has been emphasized again and again, but surely if we wish to impress visitors with the splendour of the interior of our domicile, we must not neglect to pay some attention to the state of the threshold.

The thousands of round trippers who visit St. John's during the course of the season provide a better medium of advertising that could possibly be devised. They come to St. John's, they see, and they report to their friends on their return—what?

A paper published in a small Canadian town which is trying to attract American tourists complains of the badly kept sidewalks, and the untidiness of the town generally. It adds, "The question is constantly asked: Can we afford improvements? This should not be the question so much as: Can we afford to neglect them?" This is the view of the case that we should consider. No Council during its tenure of office could possibly undertake the stupendous task of a general improvement, but if the matter was taken up by a thoroughly representative body of enthusiastic citizens, and a definite plan mapped out whereby systematic operations could be carried on with this object in view, we should in time have a city of which we could boast and which would favourably impress transient visitors.

Inter-Club Card Tourney

The third card tournament of a series of auction forty-fives between the players of the M. G. G. A. and C. E. I. Clubs, will be held in the C. E. I. rooms to-night, commencing at eight o'clock. This weekly tournament has become very popular among the players, and an interesting series of games is being looked forward to by those participating to-night. The C. E. I. players are leading by a slight margin at present.

The Senior Masonic Lodge

TO CELEBRATE ITS 75TH ANNIVERSARY.

This evening St. John's Lodge will meet in the Temple to celebrate in a fitting manner the 75th anniversary of its foundation. After the Rt. Hon. the District Grand Masters of the English and Scottish Freemasonry have been received by Wor. Bro. E. S. Prigent, as well as visitors from the other Lodges, the presentation of the Altar, given by the Past Masters of the Lodge, will take place. It is understood that Honorary Membership will be conferred upon Mr. Henry Blair, who has been on the role for fifty-five years. Following the business of the evening, a banquet will be held in the Hall and a suitable programme carried out. On Sunday, the Fraternity will attend a service in the Church of England Cathedral, where the Chaplain of St. John's Lodge, Rev. Andrew Tulk, will preach the sermon.

Visitors to the City.

Capt. Bullen, accompanied by his wife, paid a visit to the city to-day, coming from Bell Island accompanied by the Besco Mines Manager, Mr. Gillis. Capt. Bullen, who is a son-in-law of Sir Newton Moore, one of the Empire Steel Company's European Directors, and his wife, were to-day the guests of Sir Michael and Lady Cashin at a luncheon. Sir Michael has placed his car at the disposal of the visitors and they are availing of the opportunity to take in some of our beauty spots. They will motor to the Cove to-night and from there proceed to Bell Island where they join an ore boat going to Sydney. Capt. Bullen will spend about 10 days in Canada after which they will proceed to England by way of New York.

Mr. Thos. Voisey Claims the Record

The Daily Mail, in its column of local happenings "Twenty Years Ago," published yesterday, stated that Cabman Sage established a record when he drove his horse and victoria to and from Port aux Basques in two hours. Mr. Thos. Voisey asks us to state if he beat that record in the winter of 1918 when "Tom" drove his horse and sleigh over the same route in one and a half hours and he believes this feat has not since been duplicated.

Bell Island Mines Will Close Down On Nov. 30th.

Yesterday rumours of the complete close down of Bell Island Mines were current in the city. The Telegram, in order to ascertain the correctness of the report, sought an interview with Mr. Gillis, the General Mines Superintendent, who arrived in the city last night, and this forenoon, at the Crossie Hotel, the correctness of the rumor was confirmed. Mr. Gillis informed the Telegram that after the 30th of November, there will be a complete close down of the Company's operations on Bell Island and he was unable to give any idea when the mines would re-open. There is now about 800,000 tons of ore in the stock pile there and about 550,000 tons at Sydney. No market for this ore was the reason given by Mr. Gillis for the close down. As far as the European sales were concerned there was nothing in sight to warrant a large operating programme at any time within the next year, he said. There are at the present time about 1,100 men employed at Bell Island Mines and according to Mr. Gillis, only sufficient men to keep the mines pumped and the timbers maintained, will be kept on. A petition is being circulated on the island, asking the Government, in place of distributing relief to come to the Company's assistance and by some arrangement provide for the operating costs, until a market for the ore is forthcoming. We learn from Mr. Gillis this visit is not for the purpose of making any move to interest the Government. He came over from the island accompanied by Capt. Bullen, of the Steel Company's London office. He handles all the European sales, and is on the way to Sydney to confer with the Directorate there.

Magistrate's Court.

SENTENCES IMPOSED FOR LARCENY OF PIT PROPS.

The Ntd. Government vs. Kenneth Barbour, Isaac Barbour, and Edward Green for the larceny of pulpwood at Port Blandford within the past month. Judge Morris delivered judgment in the cases to-day, and fined the defendants the sum of $10.00 each, and the payment between them of $30.00 costs and the immediate return of the pieces of pulpwood stolen, or in default, 30 days imprisonment each. Kenneth Barbour was later arrested under warrant at the instance of Mr. M. E. Martin, of the North American Trading Company, and upon being arraigned he was charged with the larceny of pulpwood at Port Blandford. As the case was not ready to be proceeded with, the accused was not asked to plead. Bail was granted in the sum of $500.00, $250.00 in himself and $250.00 by Mr. T. E. Cloutier. A number of delinquents for failing to pay their Pole Tax were summoned into court. An amicable settlement was made in each case.
An ordinary drunk was liberated.

Bell Island Miner Killed.

SAMUEL MURPHY, OF COLLIERIES, C.B., THE VICTIM.

A message was received from Bell Island last night stating that Samuel Murphy, belonging to Colliers, C.B., had been instantly killed there at 4.30 p.m. The unfortunate victim was employed in No. 6 slope, and, having finished his day's work, he made a run to catch a string of cars which were moving very rapidly out of the slope. Whilst he was in the act of doing so he slipped on the track and the cars, which were heavily laden, passed over his body, killing him almost instantly. The deceased leaves to mourn a wife (nee Miss Walsh) formerly of Mr. Main, besides a large family. The remains will be sent home by steamer to-day.

Gulf to Lakes Canal Wanted.

NINE-FOOT CHANNEL PLAN WINNING WIDER SENATORIAL SUPPORT.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The movement for development of the inland waterways is not only showing great strength as members of Congress assemble for the opening of the session but it is beginning to take more definite form.

A committee of Senators has been conducting hearings from the Great Lakes along the Mississippi to the Gulf on the subject of a nine-foot channel from lakes to gulf. This has resulted not only in helping along the cause of the nine-foot channel, but also the general proposition of improvement of the Mississippi, the Ohio, the Missouri and other great streams.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, one of this committee, has come out in favor of an authorization of funds sufficient to complete improvement of the Mississippi, the Ohio and the Missouri and the development of barge traffic thereon. He has been greatly impressed with the expanding barge traffic on the Mississippi south of St. Louis. He wants that traffic extended north to St. Paul, with traffic on the Ohio developed to Pittsburgh and on the Missouri to Kansas City.

Efforts will be made to crowd through a project of this nature this winter. It may be enlarged to cover a few other big streams. The association is understood to be friendly to it, and if it goes through, as is likely to do, it will give a tremendous impetus to the St. Lawrence project, which continues to be strongly advocated by a number of members.

TO-NIGHT! TO-NIGHT!—Mt. Cashel Band Concert, Prince's Rink at 8.30. Admission 20c. nov29.11

DIED.

This morning, after a short illness, Nellie, the darling child of John and Catherine Maddigan, aged four years.

Passed peacefully away, at the General Hospital, 9.30 this morning, Arthur Ray Hopkins, aged 11 years, No. 3516, died of scarlet fever, the son of Arthur and Mrs. Rev. E. and Mrs. Myrtle, mother, 2 brothers, 2 sisters to mourn their sad loss. Funeral on Saturday, at 2.30 p.m., from his late residence, 83 McFarlane Street.—Boston papers please copy.
A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still'd,
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.
—Inserted by his mother & father.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of our dear son, Pte. Ernest Fisher, No. 2516, died of scarlet fever, somewhere in France, November 23, 1917.
In our hearts we mourn the loss of him we loved so dear.
What would we give to clasp his hand,
His gentle voice to hear,
His loving smile and welcome voice,
That were so dear to us.
He's resting now in heaven above,
In God alone we trust.
And we think of you dear one,
While tear drops dim our eyes,
You could not say good-bye to us,
Before you closed your eyes.

NOTE OF THANKS.—The family of the late Joseph Morris desire to thank those who sent letters and telegrams sympathizing in their recent bereavement and flowers, to adorn the casket, viz:—Rector and Select Vestry, St. Paul's Church, Lodge Tasker, A. M., No. 454, Royal Albert Lodge, L.O.A., No. 12, Trinity Benefit Club, St. Paul Lodge, S. U. P. No. 29, Grand Lodge S. U. F., Canon and Rev. Fr. Savin who administered the last sacraments. The accompanying note of sympathy was received from the boys of Torbay school.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. and Mrs. Denis Coady, Torbay, wish to thank very sincerely, those kind friends whose sympathy and thoughtfulness helped so much in their recent bereavement. They are especially grateful to Dr. Donahue as also the Miss of Presentation Convent, Torbay and Rev. Fr. Savin who administered the last sacraments. The accompanying note of sympathy was received from the boys of Torbay school.

SYMPATHY.

TORBAY, Nov. 26.
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Coady: Sympathy in the death of our dear schoolmate, Denis. We shall miss him in our class room and especially in games where he was always so ready to join, but God has called him to the never ending joys of Heaven and though our hearts be sad, we must look forward to meeting him where partings are no more. The enclosed is a little offering for a Mass for the repose of his soul. With renewed sympathy and an assurance that we shall long remember in our prayers our dear companion.
We remain,
THE BOYS OF THE CONVENT SCHOOL.

Strange Tyburn Relics
Almost everywhere under the surface in London excavation yields these results, and therefore it is no surprise that the world now presses on the site of the ancient Tyburn, for laying new watermain pipes to light many curious facts.

In the account of recent discoveries in the operations gives reason for thinking that among the human remains discovered may be the bones of Beheading and even of the Cromwell. Both these dead Furies were found on the opposite side of Charles and their bodies were created as those of great criminals. They were hanged at Tyburn and the heads struck off and removed to West-ster Hall.

The headless bodies buried under the highway, in the case of Cromwell, the authority for the site of Sir Charles Pirrh, the Professor of Modern History, and judgment on such a question will be eager to challenge. Yet were contemporary reports that a body on his death was gently carried away and taken to the unknown place.

One of the most extraordinary finds portion of a jaw of some monstrous creature, which appears to go back prehistoric ages, since nature has not yet been able to identify it, but it is known from finds to be the hairy mammoth who among the features that ranged the British Isles the days when Britain was part of the Continent.

When Elephant Meets Crocodile

General Baratter, of the French Army tells the following story of a desperate fight between an elephant and a crocodile.

I was resting for a moment beneath the shadow of a tree (in the African jungle) which covered my whole body, and was idly watching one of those giants of the jungle—an elephant standing motionless on the edge of the river, his long, yellowish-white tusks curved downward on each side of his mouth like two long mustaches. The elephant had a grave and serious air. He certainly seemed engaged in profound meditation: I wondered what his thoughts could be. With the tip of his trunk, which he gently moved from right to left, he was brushing the water, much as a bathers tests the surface of the sea with his hand before plunging in.

Not a puff of wind ruffled the surface of the river. Along the banks only the current gave any motion to the grass. From time to time a bit of dead wood floated on the water, whirled against some projection of the shore, and then took up its course very slowly. Sometimes a jumping fish disturbed the silence. A slight splash followed by a duller one—and then again calm would reign.

A hand was laid upon my shoulder to draw my attention.

"You no see something over there?" And with his finger a lynx-eyed native soldier pointed out what seemed to be a tree trunk floating along the bank and just about to pass near the elephant.

"What do you see?" I asked. "That no tree trunk. That crocodile. Clever fellow. Him eat up big fellow."

Crocodile Attacks. I looked at my soldier, not quite sure whether he was making fun of me. How could that log of wood be a crocodile? How could a crocodile eat an elephant? My sympathy was all with the latter. I should have yelled to make him run but I had no time.

Like a flash I saw the tree trunk rush, saw two enormous jaws open and close over the trunk of my friend the elephant. In terrible pain the huge beast bent his knees, while most of his trunk was pulled under in the wake of the crocodile; but on his knees he opposed the whole weight of his body to the horrible thing that was dragging him down.

I saw him shake his head to right and left with a desperate effort. The trunk shook and stretched like the line of a fisherman who is trying to land a fish too heavy to be splled from the water. Rivers of blood began to come up everywhere.

The elephant uttered no cry. He had no time. He could neither get away nor get breath. A harsh growling, a terrible kind of rattle was all that came from his mouth, and I saw his eyes, at first so little that I could scarcely make them out, open incredibly.

The fight could not go on very long. When he was almost strangling, the elephant, with a start of agony, drew back, madly twitching his head back and forth, and with an appalling flexion of muscles strove to pull his foot out on the land.

How the Struggle Ended. The jaws of the monster appeared above the water like an enormous triangle, the short broad paws stirred for a moment in the air, and I gave a cry of triumph, but the crocodile, halfway out of the river, bore down with all his weight. With a formidable sweep of his tail he gained a grip on the water which he had almost left.

There was a moment's pause, a few motionless seconds of equilibrium between the two balanced forces. On which side would the balance turn? I did not leave the decision to time. The moment I perceived the head of the disgusting brute, I instinctively seized my carbine, determined to take a snap shot.

This moment of pause, short as it was, gave me a chance to aim. At the report of the rifle the jaws opened the enormous mass sank back into the water, the tail rose vertically and struck the surface with a dull splash and the crocodile, bit in the eye disappeared, exhausted by his effort. The elephant rolled over on his flank, but nickerd himself up and began to gallop crazily in a circle. Then suddenly, as if running away from his pain, smashing down everything before him, he turned and tore into the jungle.

For a long time I could hear his harsh bellowing, his panting breath mingling with the crackling of broken branches. Then not so loud, still more distant, the trumpeting grew weaker, and little by little the jungle, like the river, resumed its silence and its calm.

On Chasing Away Our Cold

The project of passing a dam through the Straits of Belle Isle, connecting Newfoundland with the main shore, and bottling up the currents that are supposed to run to and fro through the narrow waterway has again come to the fore. The idea which is by no means new, is that the Straits of Belle Isle, the channel that separates Labrador from Newfoundland, is responsible for much of the cold weather that prevails on the North Atlantic coast, the theory being that the dam would prevent the cold Labrador current, which has its origin in the Arctic Ocean, from sweeping through the Straits of Belle Isle to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, there to bathe in frididly all those parts of Canada and New England that are influenced climatically by these waters.

The theory is held in certain circles that should this bottling up of the Straits of Belle Isle become a fact the warm Gulf Stream which has such a decided effect on the climate that there is a continuous flow of cold Arctic water passing inward through the Straits of Belle Isle from the north, and that if this flow was stopped the necessary climatic changes would take place by directing the cold Labrador current away from our shores. It would seem, however, that this supposed current through the Straits of Belle Isle is more or less of a myth. For instance, Captain J. A. Farquhar, who is said to be an authority on Atlantic currents all the way from Hudson's Bay to Florida, in a recent interview in the Halifax Herald goes on to say that he has found after many observations that the tide rises and falls in the Belle Isle Straits much as it does in other quarters of the Atlantic seaboard.

That is to say, when the tide is in the north, the water comes into the Straits from the northeast, and when the tide turns the same water passes out of the Straits to the south and west. In other words there is no current in the Belle Isle Straits to dam.

So there goes the pleasant picture of steering the cold Arctic waters away from our shores and substituting for it the mild and alluring Gulf Stream.—Saturday Night.

The Cost of Carelessness

If there were no lost property office at Scotland Yard, and no honesty in London, the annual cost of carelessness in the British capital, would amount to $1,500,000. Apart from the railways, the tubes, and the ordinary losses on the highway, the value of property left in trams, taxicabs, and licensed vehicles amounts to about $500,000 a year. Five or six motor wagons are used each day in bringing the harvest of absentmindedness to the Lost Property Department at Scotland Yard.

And what a harvest it is! A basket of pigeons, for instance, is hardly a thing the traveller can overlook without a temporary loss of memory. Yet one containing nine birds was left on a tramcar not long ago.

A certain centipede, again, is such a rarity in Europe that one can hardly imagine the owner of an important specimen forgetting it during a taxi-cab ride. In the same connection, kittens, a pet squirrel, a monkey, a Pomeranian dog, and a canary in a cage are among the lost "articles" Scotland Yard has handled recently.

The storehouse of all these things is a museum of human carelessness. When the writer made a tour of inspection he found a number of the careless sorting out lost umbrellas, sticks and other personal goods from racks arranged in all the regularity and order of a public library.

A large safe contained thousands of dollars worth of jewellery still awaiting claimants.

However careless women may be in the matter of furs, umbrellas, and handbags, they are, nevertheless, credited with a strong sense of caution in regard to jewels.

Yet there was a rope of pearls worth three thousand five hundred pounds which had been left in a taxi-

Why Men "Crack" When on the Highway to Success

What Do These Things Tell You?

"SLEEPLESSNESS," Doctor Kennedy tells us, "is one of the commonest signs of nervousness. Another is physical unrest. You are showing signs of nervousness when you cannot keep from twitching your eyebrows, shrugging your shoulders, swinging one foot when your legs are crossed; or when you cannot sit at a desk or table without continually tapping with the fingers."

"The nervous man very often finds that he cannot concentrate on one task, but continually goes from one thing to another. He is also very apt to lose interest in the work and recreations that formerly gave him pleasure. And he is easily fatigued. Nervous fatigue is most commonly indicated by a constant feeling of tightness around the head."

THE worry and strain of recent years has been too much for many business and professional men who have not been able to break away from the details and anxieties associated with their occupations.

In a moment you will recall many who have broken down suddenly just when they appeared to be in their prime.

Some have had their lives snuffed out while others have lingered as invalids, lacking the energy and nerve force necessary for the pursuit of their vocations.

The warning symptoms as outlined above by Dr. Kennedy in the American Magazine for October are well worth a careful study, because with this knowledge you can then detect the indications of failing nervous energy while yet there is time to prevent serious results.

A few days away from the scene of your worries, rest and moderate exercise in the open will help to get you started on the way to better health. Your recovery will be greatly hastened by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Your digestive system has failed to supply proper nourishment to the nervous system. And when thus exhausted the organs fail to control the digestive fluids of the stomach. On this account outside help is necessary, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, before you can get back your strength and vigor.

You will not be using this restorative treatment long before you will find yourself sleeping and resting better. And this is what you need above all else. The old energy and vigor will be felt throughout your system and you will be encouraged to keep up this reconstructive treatment until you feel entirely yourself again.

Reward For Honesty.

Under the Police Commissioner's regulations the honest cab-driver or conductor who returns lost property to the police is entitled to a reward of 75 cents in every $5 up to $50 value, and a proportionate scale for goods of a higher value. Upon this basis a taxi-cab driver once received $500 for his honesty in being the means of restoring a bag of valuable gems to its distracted owner.

Articles not claimed within three months become the property of the finder. In this way the cab-drivers and tramway and omnibus conductors receive as honesty prerequisites something like $150,000 a year.

There are many people who mark down their property as lost without making an effort to discover the finders. A motor-cycle was once given up in these circumstances.

At the annual auction sales of property left on railway trains one is amazed at the class of luggage apparently overlooked by hurrying travellers. Fifteen bottles of champagne, a piano, a barrel-organ, a sleigh, and even a kitchen range have at various times been abandoned as lost by absent-minded travellers or consignees.

The tubes also have their peculiar harvest. Recently a mason's apron and rosalia were left behind by a North Londoner. Gramophones seem fated to lose their owners, judging by the number that are forgotten; while many a worker, having casually left his dinner on the seat of the car, must have spent a hungry day as the result of the morning's forgetfulness.

THANKSGIVING.

My gratitude is a blessing. I humbly pinch my lips, for I have every blessing a mortal could desire. My health is vastly better than 'twas a year ago, the toothache and the tetter are gone, or nearly so. My bridled cow is yielding large quantities of suds, the spade I'm dextrously digging up all kinds of spuds. I've prospered in my dealing, no plans have gone awry, and care has hit the ceiling, and I'm a grateful guy. Most faithfully I've striven to help good works along, and gladly I've forgotten the gent who did me wrong. I have no ancient grudges, I'd make no neighbor smart; there is no pilgrim trudging his path with lighter heart. I envy no one's bundle, I covet no one's car, as joyfully I trundle my person near and far. I'm thankful that my labors bring rest serene and sweet; I'm grateful that my neighbours are all as good as wheat. My cottage is but humble, but here my lightree grows; I hear the bright bees humble while looking for glucose; I hear my aunts uniting in grateful, happy song, and at this present writing I'm sane and fairly strong. Beside my door lanterns are growing nine feet high, and I have no bananas—a happy wight am I! Men talk of things distressing and weep and moan and pray, but everything's a blessing that seems to come my way.

THANK YOU DAY.

To-day is Thank You Day. That is what a little girl friend of mine, who asked her mother to tell her what Thank You Day meant, rechristened it after she had listened to her mother's explanation. I think it is a pretty good christening, don't you?

Somehow Thanksgiving Day has come to slip so glibly off our tongues that we are likely to forget what it means. Like Fourth of July. Laugh if you will, disbelieve me if you must, but it is true just the same, that until I was quite a big girl, I never separated the name of that holiday into its component parts. I thought of it always as "Fochjul." I can still remember the shock of discovery when I learned that those mystic syllables simply meant the Fourth of July.

Not Just Thanksgiving Day. So one needs to be reminded that 30-day isn't just Thanksgiving Day, but thank you day.

Primarily the day when we are supposed to say a special thank you to God.

But one does not need to stop there how many of the millions who eat fat meats and sit by comfortable fires and frive out in their cars don't even begin there. Why not go on, after your blessings, to say some smaller thank yous to some of God's agencies on earth?

A Mother For Her Love.

A thank you to a mother for her love.

A thank you to a father for his labors for you, whether past or present.

A thank you to a friend for his friendship.

A thank you to a poet for the poem that has lifted you for a moment into the shining world of beauty. Or to an author for a book that has given you hours of pleasure in the companionship of the friends he has created for you.

A thank you to a child for his efforts to be all that you want him to be. To a husband for his self-denial, for his daily work for the home he has made and the fight he has fought for you.

A Wife For Her Patience.

To a wife for her patience and her forbearance, and her infinite labors for your comfort.

To a faithful worker in his home or office for his faithful service. Is there any gift that you ever get which gives you that warm happy feeling in the depths of your heart so much as such an expression of appreciation?

And yet there are people who go through life doing something for those they love but that. To-day is thank you day. Will you not celebrate it as such?

"Hungry Hearts" is Notable Screen Play

New York Newspaperman Says It Reflects the Life of Our Immigrants as the Author Herself Lived It.

"Hungry Hearts," a special motion picture dramatization of Anzia Yezierska's much discussed book of the same name dealing with the history of a family which came from Russia to New York in search of peace and happiness—and found them—will be the feature at the Nickel Theatre beginning to-day.

"In Anzia Yezierska's 'Hungry Hearts,'" writes Elbert Aldun-Tromer, "I found—in place of ordinary serenity—the proud words of an immigrant who not only received bounties of America, who not only took, but who also gave and perhaps gave more than she took. In other words Miss Yezierska who, it seems, has herself known the struggles and tribulations of an immigrant girl, and whose stories have found favor with the readers of the most prominent American magazines during the last two or three years—Miss Yezierska comes to the reader with a heart that is hungry for all the lofty American ideals about which she heard so much in her old home, all ideals which, on her arrival here, she had not found and she demands of America that she fulfil her great promise, that America give back to her at least a small part of what she, the immigrant girl, had brought here and what the rush and tumult of immigrant life has robbed her of—her faith in a true, better America."

To-night's classy vanderbill dancing act is especially interesting, as Dolly Moore and Jimmie Clayton have prepared some very pretty numbers, and this coupled with electrical effects and up-to-the-minute music makes this programme one of particular attractiveness.

Old Stuff

A certain professorlike gentleman sought an assignment from a newspaper editor to write some travel sketches from New Mexico and Arizona, where he was going for his health. The editor told him that he would allow him fair space for everything used, and advised him to make his stuff up-to-date, stating that the newspaper didn't care much about history or subjects that had been treated before.

"What we want is something the people now on earth know about—progress in road and town building, new ways of doing things, customs of the people, and so on—something fresh and alive with life!" The professor nodded, shook hands, and left. Shortly after news of a rather remarkable find began to appear in fragmentary sketches in some of the papers. There were hints at a wonderful city, built by a race of people who came long before the Indians and who seemed to have had great skill in architecture and general construction. As the days went by the story grew bigger, the last account coming from New Mexico town. And that very day a letter arrived from the professor, from that very town, in which he wrote about everything on earth except the buried city right under his nose! With electric switches the editor directed the traveller to hunt up the discoverer, interview him at length and telegraph in a good story. To this our traveller shot back:

"I discovered the place you're inquiring about, but it's old stuff. City was buried a thousand years or more."

Baldwin Hopeful

READING, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Three hours before Premier Baldwin was billed to appear before the meeting here last night a great queue lined up outside and when the meeting started not only was the town hall filled, but also a smaller hall and the Corr Exchange. The audience totalled 15,000. A microphone beside the Prime Minister, transmitted the speech to the other gatherings. The waiting period was beguiled with songs, including "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Premier Baldwin was given a tumultuous reception on entering the hall. The chairman mentioned that 30,000 people had applied for tickets. On the Premier rising to speak the audience sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The Premier said:

"I am very hopeful now, for the latest reports I have had are that owing to the remission of the excise duty we may really be able to establish in this country a sugar industry. There are fifteen thousand acres in England to-day under sugar beet, and there is no reason why there should not be half a million acres. Sugar beet has been produced here which is equal to or better than the sugar beet of Holland. It is a remunerative crop, and it leaves the land with a good heart, and wheat crops grown after it have proved themselves ten to fifteen per cent better than wheat crops grown on other land. There is no reason why sugar beet factories should not be a blessing in rural areas throughout the country leading to an enormously increased demand for labor of all kinds.

The Government having stabilized the preference to the Dominions for a term of years, will take into consideration the stabilization of the preference now given domestic grown sugar by remission of the excise duty if we are returned to power.

Lacked Dominion Offer. Referring to his protection proposals the Prime Minister said there were two reasons why the Government had decided to put a tax on what are called essential articles of food.

"First this country, having made its decision that England should be an industrial country, its production of food has so fallen that we are not able to feed our own people, consequently there is the risk that, if you were to protect foodstuffs of which the total proportion grown in this country is but a small part of the amount consumed, there might be a rise in prices and at a time like this, with an enormous mass of unemployed and underemployed, with people in their present state of poverty, it would be unfair to ask them to support such a programme.

"Secondly, there has come no offer from the Dominions of a preference for us dependent on the imposition of food taxes in this country. Had there been an offer of a favorable kind from the manufacturers of this country—an offer which in our view might have led enormously to increased export trade, then it might have been possible to lay it before the country. But there has been nothing of the kind, and something of this kind alone, in my view, at the present time, could have justified us in taking that step. Our programme is the only constructive programme before the country. (Cheers) The Liberals are offering nothing but phrases, and the Labor party nothing but nationalization."

The Dominions' Case

If anyone doubts the warm regard with which the Dominions are regarded in the House of Commons, his note that, with 65 of the members having to sit on the benches for the British Empire presented to the Overseas Missions and M.P.'s as the opening of the autumn session, seats in one of the members' groups. These have been partitioned off given the title of the Dominions' lobby. A Parliamentary Commission which examined the question of the year was impressed by the increasing number of over-seas applications for seats in the House. His recommendation that the front row of six seats be reserved automatically for the Commissioners up to a fixed hour, the House decided, and later the House decided to give the seats to the Dominions' lobby. The Parliamentary Association gave the back row of six seats to the similarly for Dominion M.P.'s specified time daily, after which unused, they would revert to the ordinary members. This would give the Dominions probably six well-placed seats at any and would have cared to see Morning Chronicle.

Last Night's Blaze.

Last night about 8.30, Mr. Patrick Fahy's house on the Kenmount Road, was totally destroyed by fire. How the blaze originated is not known. The pumper from the Central Fire Hall proceeded to the scene, but owing to the lack of water in the vicinity, nothing could be done to save the building from destruction. A drain on the road was dammed, and from this the stream secured enough water to save the barn. The blaze was a most spectacular one. The reflection attracted a large number of citizens from the city to the scene.

BASEBALL MEETING.—A meeting of the St. John's Amateur Baseball League will be held in the office of the Imperial Tobacco Company Ltd., tomorrow night at 7.30 for the purpose of receiving reports and finalizing matters in connection with the proposed Baseballers' Dance. It is hoped that a large attendance of players and supporters of the game will be present at the meeting.

Would You Give One Day's Work?

Do you remember Brother O'Hurley? Maybe you have often seen him with his little boys. Perhaps you were one of these little boys? After he had taught you the Alphabet and when you learnt to spell easy words, Brother O'Hurley saw you pass on to a higher school, but he remained to teach your little brother, and later still your little son (and when they in turn passed on, he was still teaching the little boys, until at last came his time to pass on; and so he went to his eternal reward. But the good work of teaching must be carried on. Are you willing to help? I know you are. I know you would not refuse a day of your time; but even this the good Brothers do not ask. All they ask is, "give for our work the wherewithal, the necessary funds, to support us whilst we spend our lives teaching your children their duties to God and Country," and surely there's not one of us who will refuse one day's pay; one 365th part of one year's earnings. Some of us will gladly give more, and will be thankful for the opportunity to do so. Let us then make Sunday's collection for our good friends, the Christian Brothers, a record collection. Some of us won't be here for next year's collection; perhaps we shall be with Brother O'Hurley. Let us then give his Brothers on Sunday all we can afford, so that we won't be ashamed to meet Brother O'Hurley. He will know we've done our share.

Grenfell Hall Improvements.

During the past few months extensive alterations have been made at the King George the Fifth Institute Building, chiefly in connection with Grenfell Hall. A permanent partition has been built across the main entrance hall so that all guests at dances, meetings, etc., are now assured of absolute privacy without connection with any other part of the building. New dressing rooms and lavatories have also been built in close proximity to the hall, the eastern billiard room being used for this purpose. These improvements make the hall the most elaborate and convenient in the city and recent dance parties were highly pleased with the new arrangements. Manager Holmes and his Committee deserve the congratulations extended to-night the St. Andrew's Society, hold their annual celebration in the above hall, entitling at the Eastern door.

"The Man From Home." A Record to be Proud of

Following a series of film successes as the Mosaic management are not satisfied to stand still but continue unlimited super productions. For the balance of this week a tremendous offering is booked beginning with a George Fitzmaurice production "The Man From Home" featuring James Kirwood, Anna Nilsson, Gelf Kerr, Norman Kerry and other Paramount stars.
Some big moments in "The Man From Home":
When Daniel Pike, in despair over the leaving of his ward for Europe, finds a little compassion in the admission of her love for him.
Faustina's avowal of her passionate love for Prince Leone and his spurning of her.
The murder of Faustina by Prince Leone and his desperate flight.
Ribiere's finding of his wife's body his crazed flight through the night with the Cabanerri and bloodhounds at his heels and his begging of refuge in the rooms of Daniel Pike.
The dastardly scheme of the Prince and his sister to force Pike to sanction the marriage of his ward, Genevieve's discovery that the pearls which she has accepted from the Princess as security for a huge loan are false, and the adept manner in which Pike turned this fact to bring about the conviction of the conspirators.
The realization of Genevieve that her neglected love of "the man from home" is really to prove the greatest thing in her life.
This great picture is the last word in film craft. The majestic performers, Miss Thurston and Fritz Bruch, have an entirely new programme which eclipses all previous attractions. Pauline Thurston will be seen in a new sensational dance of her own creation, a Hungarian by Brahms in which she will dance as a Gypsy Boy. She will also recite "The Land of Beginning Again." In each turn Mr. Bruch and Professor King will accompany her. The renewed cellist will render a melody in E by Rubenstein, and "The Roseary" by Norris. With this wonderful musical, dance and picture-bill, majestic patrons have a treat in store. As already stated the artists will appear at 9 p.m. Don't forget the big matinee at popular prices on Saturday.
TO-NIGHTS' BAND CONCERT.—The Mount Cashel Band are holding another Promenade Band Concert in the Prince's Rink to-night, commencing at 8.30. A special programme has been prepared and an enjoyable evening is assured all those who attend.

Honor to the Dead
Justice to the Living

Fifty years ago when Jules Verne wrote "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," while the work fascinated young and old, it was regarded as one of the wildest dreams an artist-story teller ever placed on record. The ship which was to make this tremendous record through ocean depths and harbor inlets in coral caves; which, under the frozen arctic, was to traverse the unsolved mystery of the northwest passage, was commanded by Captain Nemo, former of the Confederate navy. The Latin word Nemo (no one) it was supposed concealed Verne's ideal, the romantic Raphael Semmes, whose dramatic conflict in the Alabama with the Kearsage, not far from Brittany, appealed powerfully to the imagination of all Frenchmen.

Verne's idea of the submarine was clearly derived from the Confederate boat, which on the third trial in the harbor of Charleston, sank the U.S. warship Housatonic, an epochal event in naval history. Twice, the little boat when submerged, capsized, drowning its crew, only the lieutenant in command, escaping. The third trial was successful, and the Housatonic went down, the first victim of a torpedo fired by an unseen craft. But again the crew of the little boat perished, and this time the heroic commander went with them. After the war divers found the Housatonic and the little boat almost side by side. In passing, however, it may be noted that a submarine, propelled by man power and shaped like unto a turtle was successful in driving English warships from their anchorage in New York bay during the Revolutionary war. This boat, the "Turtle," was devised to attach explosives to the ships.

Much water has gone under the bridge of many a foot ship since the days of Verne's novel, but his dream was dramatically crystallized not far from his birthplace between 1914 and 1918 by German submarines. Renewed interest in him has been brought about by a movement at Rennes to erect there a monument in his honor. Verne wrote also a great story called "Five Weeks in a Balloon." His centenary will occur in 1928 and during the ceremonies it is proposed to stage a great series of drama over Rennes. Verne has had many imitators, but no equal, in the two fields he chose, unless it be that the facts of them are to-day far beyond even the flight of his imagination. In this view the Associated Press reporter becomes his competitor.—Atlanta Journal.

Radio is Being Installed

IN MAIL PLANES TO GUIDE THEM IN FOG AND CALL HELP IN NEED.

(Special to The New York Times)
Washington, Nov. 27.—Steps are under way to equip the Government mail airplanes with radio sending and receiving sets. Experiments are now being carried on. The advantages are obvious when it is realized that in heavy fogs or severe snowstorms, especially at night, a pilot might stray out of his course and find difficulty in locating his next landing station, even though aided by the powerful electric beacon lights which have been set up along the route.

There are also times when a plane has to make an unexpected landing, or when it is desirable to report to the landing field the presence of unusual atmospheric conditions. It has happened several times that air mail pilots have been forced to land at remote and isolated spots in the Rocky Mountains. When this occurs, with a radio outfit installed the pilot can immediately call for assistance without waiting hours and perhaps days for a searching party to find him. It is also an advantage to be able to transmit instructions to the pilot between the stations.

The radio equipment used in the tests for both transmitting and receiving has been especially developed by the General Electric Company's radio department, in co-operation with C. F. Egge, General Superintendent of the Air Mail Service, and Eugene Sibley, radio traffic supervisor.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., Nov. 27.—Plans have been completed by the Post Office Department to equip mail airplanes with radio sets which will enable pilots to obtain their bearings from land points and which, it is expected, will reduce the danger of enforced landings in dangerous weather conditions.

Preliminary tests of radio outfits especially adapted to mail planes, are now being completed here. The tests were made to prevent recurrence of several forced landings in remote places in the Rocky Mountains, where pilots were forced to remain for days, suffering from hunger and thirst, until searching parties reached them.

The longest test was made when a De Havilland plane, on a flight of 175 miles from here to Hazelhurst Field, Long Island, kept in constant radio communication with its starting place. Rain and storm encountered during the flight did not interfere with the radio.

Tubes of the new thoriated tungsten filament are used in the sets. The antenna for the equipment consists of a 200-foot wire which is unwound and

Sons of King George to be Royal Dukes
Princes Henry and George Soon to Receive New Titles From Their Father.
LONDON, Nov. 27.—King George soon will create two more royal dukes in the persons of his younger sons, Prince Henry and Prince George. It is stated by some of the Court intimates, who claim to have inside knowledge. In the case of Prince Henry the announcement may be expected soon.

This step has been urged upon the King for some time, as the royal Duke of England have been conspicuous for their smallness of numbers since the days of George III, ample family supplied seven holders of dukedoms. The numbers of this rank gradually dwindled until in the latter part of Queen Victoria's reign they were confined to her three sons, and at the coronation of George V. there were only two—the Prince of Wales as Duke of Cornwall, and the Duke of Connaught.
At the present time this number has only been supplemented by the creation of Prince Albert. In 1920 as Duke of York, and the existing numbers is barely sufficient to officiate at the opening of bazaars and the unveiling of monuments and to attend to the other duties which fall upon royal shoulders.
The current rumors have opened up speculation as to the titles which will be chosen from the list of those which have been connected generally with the royal family. The title Duke of Edinburgh is a concession to Scottish pride and in the past several centuries always has fallen upon some royal son. This title probably will be chosen for Prince Henry. It was last borne by the second son of Queen Victoria and discarded by him when he assumed the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

The titles, Duke of Kent and Duke of Sussex, which were borne by Queen Victoria's father and uncle, respectively, and Duke of Gloucester, Duke of Cumberland and Duke of Clarence all of which are now in abeyance, are expected to furnish the necessary appellation for Prince George, unless His Majesty decides to break new ground with a hitherto unused name for his youngest son.

Lloyd George in Action

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(Associated Press).—The election campaign is finally under full way. All the party chiefs were in action yesterday, and the country has rarely heard such a flow of oratory as was produced by combined efforts of Premier Baldwin at Reading; Mr. Lloyd George at Queen's Hall, London; Sir Robert Horne at Glasgow; Winston Churchill at Leicester; Mr. Asquith at Paisley; Neville Chamberlain at Birmingham; and Ramsay MacDonald at Newport and Cardiff.

Scores of lesser try emulated their chiefs to the best of their ability. Personalities are being bandied about rather freely already, and there is promise of some lively exchanges before election day, December 6.

Mr. Lloyd George had a further word for Premier Baldwin yesterday afternoon. Mr. Baldwin the other day censured the former Premier for descending to personalities. Lloyd George replied yesterday: "Mr. Baldwin said I abused him. I only said he isn't at for his job."

"You are told to vote protection in order to keep the home fires burning," continued Lloyd George. "Break up your ships—that will make a beautiful blaze. Put your cotton on fire—it will make warm names. It is like the drunken man who breaks up his furniture and flings the pieces into the fire."

He declared that Great Britain, which the protectionists said had been "ruined by free trade," was, in proportion to output, the greatest exporter of manufactures. The United States exported $24,000,000 worth of cotton goods, while Great Britain sent out $187,000,000 worth, and the United States last year sold $28,000,000 worth of iron and steel, while the British exports were $81,000,000.

"Baldwin said he would live and die a tinker," remarked Mr. Lloyd George in another part of his speech. "It is a bad tinker who tries to stop leakage by making new holes. When the ship has sprung a leak from a great explosion it is not a tinker's job. We want a man who will tackle the job. I am not an applicant."

Dying Industries

"If you look back you will find that whenever the Tory Party is in a dilemma, whenever it is doing badly, it sees a vision of dying industries. Some people in trouble take to alcohol; the Tory party when worried always takes to tariffs."

"Go across to England to-day and you will find the skies crimson with the glare from blast furnaces that were said to have died forty years ago. They are producing more than ever. They are dying with extraordinary vitality."

These sallies were greeted with laughter and cheers.

Continuing Lloyd George said: "The franchise had been extended when Joseph Chamberlain started his great campaign and it was absolutely clear that there was going to be a great Liberal victory, so something had to be done, and the dying industries were raked up for the occasion."

"The war came. It was shown then that the dying industries were more adaptable and more responsive than any industries in any land under the sun. More than that they financed other countries. They enabled us to lend $2,000,000,000 to protectionist countries which would have collapsed but for the help of this free trade country. Yes, and these countries, in spite of their tariffs, cannot afford to pay us back to-day."

"They stood in need of borrowing money in order to buy materials in America, but America would not lend to them except on the credit of the land of dying industries."

Peace Real Remedy.

"This is the only country in Europe to-day whose credit is sound and which is able to pay its debts. No wonder, when the war was over they were a little ashamed to talk about our languishing and drooping industries therefore nothing was heard of it. Bonar Law in the last election dropped it. He said that although he was a tariff reformer he felt that the disadvantage of disturbing trade would be greater than any advantage that would be given from tariff reform."

"The position has changed but why stop? The Government is in difficulty, so Premier Baldwin goes to Plymouth and discovers that our trade is suffering. Well, for a thing that is suffering it shows great fitness."

"Don't you think it better for Baldwin to do the job the country wanted him to do—strengthen our credit and restore tranquility and peace before he begins to upset the whole trade, commerce and finance of the country and make it more difficult than ever, people?"

"He said I had abused him. I only said that he was not fit for his job. 'Peace is the real remedy.'"

"This sentiment was received with cheers."

"Settle the peace and control of Europe," urged Lloyd George, "and trade will look after itself."

Talk Without Action.

"I have had enough of talk," Premier Baldwin said. "Quite enough, let us have action." Really those words from the lips of Premier Baldwin are very extraordinary. When did he act? Here you have a job in Europe of restoring peace and the control of Europe, of standing up like a man, like a Briton, who represents the country that saved Europe from oppression, without whose help none of these countries to-day would have

Daily Telegraph—Children are now encouraged to feel delight in delightful things in a way that half a generation ago would have been regarded as mere waste of time. Through folk-songs and country dances the doors of rhythm and melody are opened to those who are to come after; the study of Nature has been made a matter of joy upon the screen, instead of a terror of type and diagram upon the page; and the flooding tide of the Boy Scout movement shows that discipline is far better coveted than compelled.

Lloyd George Says Lord Derby "Loops the Loop" --- Neville Chamberlain Advocates Encouragement of Empire Development.

LONDON, Nov. 29. Extraordinary scenes marked the progress of Lloyd George from Leeds to Preston. He delivered eight speeches on the journey and in the course of most of them there were vigorous exchanges between him and the Socialists and other interruptions at Bolton. Thirty thousand people listened to him through the use of loud speaking apparatus in his speech at Preston. Lord George referred to Lord Derby as the erring son of Lancaster. He said that Derby was one reformer then back again looping the loop tonight. He would have fallen off long ago, had he not been strapped to his seat, said Lloyd George. Manchester was exporting more cotton goods than any other country in the world including the United States where raw cotton was grown, he said. No tariffs, he asserted, could exclude the goods from foreign countries. All efforts of the United States to exclude them by tariffs had failed.

HIS MAJESTY RECEIVES NEWFOUNDLAND PREMIER.
LONDON, Nov. 29. King George today received Premier Warren of Newfoundland at Buckingham Palace.

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN ON EMPIRE DEVELOPMENT.
LONDON, Nov. 29. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking in London today referred to the Imperial aspect of Baldwin's policy. "I quite agree," he said, "that you cannot get the full effect of Imperial developments unless you secure for the dominions a market for their goods in the British Isles. Personally I believe that it will be worth our while some day in pursuing our investigations far into that aspect of the policy, in order to see whether or not it would be possible to obtain from the dominions a sufficient quid pro quo to justify us in giving them security for their agriculture products Lloyd George did his best to suppress and destroy that policy twenty years ago, and when he now says it was the only statement made part of the policy he could support, he lost sight of the fact that the last twenty years have seen a change both at home and in the dominions. Then Canada was par excellence, and agricultural in character, but year after year Canada is harnessing her great resources in water power and turning a vast part of her territory into industrial areas, and the other dominions are doing the same.

MONTREAL BUSINESS MAN DIES AT SEA OFF NFD. COAST.
MONTREAL, Nov. 29. A wireless received today from the steamship Regina relayed from Louisburg, N.S., stated that Ed. Denning, a well known produce man of this city had died suddenly aboard the steamer from Quebec. Burial will probably take place to-morrow at sea off the coast of Newfoundland.

NEWFOUNDLAND SOCIETY IN MONTREAL ELECT MEMBERS.
MONTREAL, Nov. 29. J. J. Grubert was unanimously elected president of the Montreal Newfoundland Society here to-night at their annual meeting and banquet, fifty members were present. Retiring President Charles E. Whittan presided and spoke of the flourishing state of the Society. With him at the table head were several past presidents including Lt.-Col. E.W. Renout, Walter Gaden, and J. J. Renout. Rev. Dr. Darby Dean of the Methodist College in Newfoundland was also present. The following officers were elected patrons: Lt.-Col. R. W. Renout, Major E. W. Mudge, and Dr. C. A. Peters; Hon. President, Walter C.

Historical Notes

SOME TRAGEDIES OF THE FIRST RIEL REBELLION.

During a considerable part of the first Riel rebellion in the Canadian Northwest, 1869-70 one of the most conspicuous figures in the Red River country was Donald A. Smith, for many years the leading representative in the West of the Hudson's Bay Company. Later in life he sat in the Canadian House of Commons first as member for Winnipeg, then as member for one of the Divisions of Montreal where he resided for many years, and formed one of the syndicates that built the Canadian Pacific Railway. During the latter part of his life he was known as Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner for Canada in London, and there he died several years ago.

SPAIN AND ITALY CONSIDERING WITHDRAWAL FROM LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

PARIS, Nov. 29. Despatch to LeMatin from Madrid says it has been learned from excellent sources that one subject broached in the course of diplomatic conversations connected with the visit of King Alfonso to Italy was the formation of a Latin bloc and that consequence of this policy which is said already to be in the way of realization might be the withdrawal of Italy and Spain as well as a certain number South American Republics from the League of Nations.

R.C. CHURCH DIGNITARY DEAD.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29. Very Rev. Benedict Schmidt, former Provincial General of the American order of Franciscans of the Catholic Church and regarded as the international authority on moral theology died here yesterday at the age of 65 years.

Household Notes.

Fill square, flat bags of pastel-colored organdie with lavender and tie with colored ribbons. They make charming, inexpensive gifts.
Small round pads can be cut from an old felt hat and glued on the bottom of chair legs to prevent them scratching the floors.

From that time Riel and his council became the body that claimed to have the right to make and administer law in the community. At the time of the adjournment of the convention many of the men who had surrendered with Dr. Schultz in the preceding December, were released, although a few were still held as prisoners.

The Kildonan Affair.

The delay in releasing the remainder of the prisoners and impatience with existing conditions led to a rising at Portage la Prairie, High Bluff, Poplar Point, and other places in that district. On February 14 about seventy of these settlers assembled and proceeded to Kildonan on the Red River, about six miles below and to the north of Fort Garry. At Kildonan they were joined by about three hundred men, principally English half-breeds from the lower parts of the settlement. "The party," writes Mr. Smith in his report, "was entirely unorganized, indifferently armed, unprovided with food, even for one meal, and wholly incapable of coping with Riel's party, who, to the number of seven hundred, were prepared to offer determined resistance, and who were well armed, and were in possession of several six and three-pound cannon."

A Convention Called.

It is not necessary here to follow the course of the negotiations. One outcome was the organizing of a convention which sat from January 25 to February 11. Among the members of that memorable convention were several men who attained prominence in later and more peaceful years. The chairman was Judge Black, a man of commanding intellect, a great forensic power, and of high nobility of character. Another distinguished member was James Ross, son of Sheriff Ross, a native of the country, an honor graduate of Toronto University, a brilliant journalist, and an able lawyer. John Sutherland, afterwards a member of the Senate of Canada, was also a member.

The convention adopted a "list of rights," and at the invitation of Mr. Smith selected three delegates—John Black, Recorder; the Rev. M. Richot, and Mr. A. H. Scott—to present them to the Canadian Government. The convention also set up a provisional government, Riel, of course, being continued in the "presidency."

Treachery Afoot.

Messages now passed between the Portage men and Riel, and the former, upon being assured that the remainder of the prisoners held since December would be released, dispersed and returned to their homes. While a small band was proceeding homeward across the snow-covered prairie, they were intercepted by a large force of Riel's men, well armed and mounted.

They were told that Riel wished to see them at the fort. Never dreaming of imprisonment, they turned about and marched quietly to the fort, but upon arriving there were made prisoners, much to their surprise. Among those tricked in this manner were Boulton, Scott, Powers, McLeod and Alexander and George Parker. And now occurred the events which stamped Riel in the eyes of eastern Canada as something worse than an agitator and rebel—a nothing short of a cruel and treacherous tyrant.

The Council met, and "in the interests of peace," writes MacBeth in his history of the West, the English-speaking settlers, true to the promise they had made to Commissioner Smith, sent representatives, who began forthwith to enact such legislation as the requirements of the time demanded. But there was withal a sullen feeling of unrest in the country and a growing, even though unexpressed, discontent with the continued dominance and arbitrary methods of the so-called President, who played fast and loose with pledges and had such utterly un-British views as to the liberty of the subject. Doubtless Riel felt this atmosphere and tried a desperate remedy to change it when on March 4 he caused the wanton murder of Thomas Scott, one of the prisoners.

The Murder of Scott.

It was not until eleven o'clock in the forenoon of March 4 that Mr. Smith heard of the intention to shoot Scott, and without a moment's delay he set about doing all in his power to save the life of the unfortunate man, being assisted in the heroic work by the Rev. George Young, a minister of the Methodist Church. They waited upon Riel and urged upon him everything that could be said in support of justice and mercy. In his report Mr. Smith gives the gist of Riel's reply.

Mr. Smith's Report.

It will be seen from this statement that the charge on which Riel caused Scott to be shot was that of being an other alleged offences had been proven to the guards, because the done and covered by the promise repeatedly given to Mr. Smith that the lives of all the prisoners were secure, and that all would be released soon after the meeting of the Council. "I will shoot Scott," said Riel even before the face of a trial was enacted before the council of seven, of which Lepine, Riel's Attorney-General, was president.

Scott's doom was fixed by Riel himself, and within a few hours the object of the wrath of this cruel but petty tyrant was a dead man.

Mr. Smith, in his report, gives this account of the tragic scene: "Scott said good-bye to the other prisoners, was led outside the gate of the fort with a white handkerchief covering his head; his coffin, having a piece of white cotton thrown over it, was carried out. His eyes were then bandaged; he continued in prayer, in which he had been engaged on the way, for a few minutes. He asked Mr. Young how he should place himself, whether standing or kneeling; then knelt in the snow, said farewell, and immediately fell back, pierced by three bullets which had passed through his body. The firing party consisted of six men, all of whom, it is said, were more or less intoxicated. It has been further stated that only three of the muskets were loaded with ball cartridges, and that one man did not discharge his piece.

"Mr. Young turned aside when the first shots were fired, then went back to the body, and again retired for a moment, while a man discharged his revolver at the sufferer, the ball, it is said, entering the eye and passing round the head. The wounded man groaned between the time of receiving the musket shots and the discharge of the revolver."

the body in a burying ground, fuses, and the body was buried in the walls of the fort. Upon leaving the prison to Scott, a cold-blooded murderer. And so it was regarded by the Canada, when the starting came out from the West. The fort was aroused; the Red River expedition was promptly organized, despatched for the distant where it arrived on August put an end to the reign of Before another winter had Territory, as the Provinces of toba, was part of the Dominion Canada, with a real and instituted Government.
