A PLEASING feature at the Reece's Corner school fair Saturday, which caused a ripple of excitement and caught the popular chairman, John Farrell, completely off his guard, occurred when Mrs. Sin Martley and Mrs. Ben Bryson on behalf of the Red Cross workers at that locality stepped forward and presented him with a handsome iritiated tiepin.

You will see a fine display of horses, good cattle, sheep and poultry; a fruit and vegetable exhibit that is always unequalled in the county. On Wednesday afternoon there will be speeding in the ring, patriotic drills, baby show, highland dancing, and a score of other attractions.
PEOPLE of this district who may be approached by a man representing himself to be a Greek Catholic priest asking aid for his country's refugees in Armenia had better beware. Such a man has been collecting money in cities and towns in Western Ontario for the avowed purpose of helping the needy refugees in Armenia. It is said he is a fakir and that the money he collects goes no farther than his own pocket.
KING hats; Eastern caps.—A. BROWN & Co., sole agents.
WHEN mother was a girl all she needed for school was a plain little gown and a demure little hair ribbon. But the school girl of to-day wants a tailored suit, several houses to wear with it, a silk gown, one of crepe de chine, a one-piece suit, a short walking skirt to wear with a middy, different neck fixings, at least one evening frock, a warm coat, a sweater, and some other unimportant things. It's funny what a difference just a few years make.
THAT excellent weekly newspaper, the Amherstburg Echo, has moved into a handsome new building after being published for 41 years in the same spot. Last week's issue pictured a man trundling the plant over to the new building in a wheelbarrow. We expected that Editor Auld would have hired an auto truck for the job but suppose he, like the rest of us, is economizing these hard times. We congratulate the Echo on the advancement made. It is a good, lively sheet and deserves a handsome home.

LET the people of Watford and surrounding townships show their civic pride and enterprise by doing everything possible to help along our fall fair. Now get your big squash or pumpkin ready, groom up the fine animals, arrange your dainty feminine handiwork, select your best apples or potatoes or in any other line prepare to take at least something to the fair to help to keep the East Lambton fair the banner fair of the county.

THE Grand Safety Committee of the Grand Trunk Railway issues a letter in which it is stated that during the six months ended June 30th last thirty-eight persons were killed and thirty-four were injured while trespassing on G. T. property. These were preventable accidents, due simply to the too common practice of walking in railway yards and along railway tracks. The Railway Act makes trespassing on railway property an offense punishable by fine or imprisonment, but the trouble is that no one pays any attention to the law because it is so seldom enforced. The question is, would the public rather take chances of losing life or limb than have the law enforced? toes or balls opposite his pail into his pail, one at a time.
If he misses he must retrieve his pokato and throw it again from the balk line until he has all three in the pail. He may do all his retrieving of misses at one time or as he misses, just as he prefers. As soon as either partner succeeds in this, but not sooner, he can help out his teammate by going behind his pail and throwing back to him his missed potatoes or balls, but not otherwise assist him.

FAIR DAY will be a good time to get that photo taken you have been wanting for so long. Call at AYLESWORTH'S GALLERY and he will give you every attention.
CONSIDERABLE interest is being taken in the fair special patriotic prize given by Mr. John Zavitz and Dr. Kelly. The several races will no doubt be keenly contested and the event will be one of the prominent features of the fair. Anyone desiring to contest can secure full particulars from Dr. Kelly or Sergeant Davies.
THE Minister of Militia has under consideration a plan to billet for the winter and train recruits at the local centers where they enlist. If authority is given to raise more men than is provided for by the present establishment the rural parts will be given a greater chance. Recruiting officers will be established there, and, what is more, the men so enlisted, if numerous enough, will be billeted and drilled there for the winter, each man getting a per diem allowance. To secure this privilege the minimum for a small place will be 20 enlistments; in place of a thousand population it will be necessary to raise at least 50 men. Centers up to 4,000 will be expected to enroll 100 men anyway and, above 4,000 population a full company of 250.
HARVEST THANKSGIVING SERVICES were held in Trinity church on Sunday last. The decorations were exceedingly pretty many very handsome flowers being displayed. On account of the stormy weather the attendance at the morning service was small, but in the evening the building was well filled. Some excellent music was rendered by the choir at both services. The evening service was conducted by Rev. R. H. Ferguson, M. A., of Port Dalhousie. He took for his text part of the 47th verse of the 17th chapter of I Samuel, "The Battle is the Lord's." He sketched briefly the principal events leading up to the present great war, and emphasized the fact that one of the chief reasons for thankfulness was that England had preserved her honor and was in the fight for freedom and righteousness. He urged his hearers to support the cause of justice and honor by their prayers and by the furnishing of men and means to bring the great conflict to a successful issue. A good collection was taken up in aid of Huron College.

Major Fairbank, of Petrolia, has promised the management that he will have a detachment of khaki-clad soldiers here for the Fair. The military authorities are taking kindly to the idea of having their men attend the fairs, and they will probably bring a crack band with them. These well-drilled men will be a big drawing card. A recruiting station will be opened on the grounds under charge of special officers.

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Baltimore, Md.—"I am more than glad to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I suffered dreadful pains and was very irregular. I became alarmed and sent for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until I was without a cramp or pain and felt like another person, and it has now been six months since I took any medicine at all. I hope my little note will assist you in helping other women. I now feel perfectly well and in the best of health."—Mrs. AUGUST W. KONDNER, 1632 Hollins Street, Baltimore, Md.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

where its sympathies were so strongly attached to the country against which they were used that it was indifferent to an appearance of neutrality but to suppose this country will cast aside neutrality in favor of the belligerent that sank the Lusitania is absurd."

London Daily Telegraph:—The Germans have (by their Zeppelin raids) sought to make us fellow sufferers with the Belgians and with the inhabitants of Northern France and Poland. They have consolidated the Entente, just as they unified the British Empire. Had they been more particular as to their methods of war, the outlook might be far less hopeful than it is. In playing the devil's part, they have arrayed one nation after another against the foe of civilization.

CONTENTMENT

Philosophers for ages have taught that contentment is the great desideratum of life; and life continually teaches that contentment is unattainable. Humanity never so persistently and so strenuously followed the lure of "owing things" as at the present time, but avariciousness breeds no contentment are two facts that receive smaller consideration today than at any time since Ecclesiastes taught that happiness is an unattainable phantom.

The economic and moral truths bearing upon the subject of contentment were beautifully expounded by Tolstoy, the Russian novelist and philosopher. One of his best known fables tells of a Russian peasant, who learned that over in a far Tartar country might be bought for a little money as much land as could be run around between sunrise and sunset. So this peasant quickly journeyed there. His bargain was quickly struck with the Tartar chief and next morning the whole tribe gathered on a hilltop to see him start. He was stripped for running and darted off in a straight line the moment the sun showed over the horizon. All day he ran and ran. He would come to a fertile valley and say, "I must have that," and ran around it, or hurray out of his course to take in a piece of fine woods or meadow land. He ran and ran. By sunset he had to speed desperately to beat the sinking sun, but succeeded in reaching the hilltop and the waiting tribe just as it disappeared, completing his course. And then he fell dead with exhaustion.

Conditions to-day are identical to those in the days when this fable was written. In the present-day struggle for wealth, power and greatness of all degrees, the spirit of contentment seems to have been lost. How often we set our hearts on something which we are fully convinced will bring us happiness, and we feel that we cannot rest until we have attained it. If we rest until we have attained it, if we were to carefully weigh in the balance the fancied desires of this "hurry-up" age, however, and find how little real happiness these desires create for others, would we not strive more earnestly to cultivate a spirit of contentment in the things we now have?

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Fumigation Said to be Out-of-Date

Some of the things which we have learned with much difficulty, which have been hammered into our understanding by much effort on the part of scientific men, we are now busily engaged in unlearning. One of them is that fumigation is of any value in preventing the spread of infectious and contagious diseases. It is only recently that this began to be whispered about, outside the medical profession at least, and it has caused a good deal of surprise. And a great deal more was caused by the announcement that in some of the big hospitals fumigation was no longer resorted to, that plenty of soap and water and sunlight and fresh air had been found to be better disinfectants than a smudge of vile-smelling stuff.

This subject, too, was under discussion last week at the meetings of the American Public Health Association in Rochester.

Advanced epidemiologists in the public health field such as Chapin of Providence, Goler of Rochester and Hill of London, Ont., have long held that practical cleansing after infectious diseases was quite as effective as so-called disinfecting with strong chemicals, and this theory found strong support in the discussion at Rochester. Specific data were presented by Dr. John S. Billings, director of the bureau of preventable diseases of the New York city health department, who gave the results of the New York experiment in the discontinuance of fumigation after scarlet fever, diphtheria and other common contagions. In all the boroughs except Brooklyn fumigation was replaced by thorough and scientific cleaning with soap and water, followed by complete airing. There are absolutely no increase in the number of secondary infections; curiously enough, there was a slightly greater proportion of secondary infections in Brooklyn, where the old device of fumigation was retained than in the other boroughs, where it was discarded.

A good many fables have been cast into the rubbish heap in years gone by. Here goes another apparently. Doubtless the future will see more of them disappear.—Express.

Mother

Many a man grows eloquent in thought and word as he recalls his mother. The word means something different to every man, but it means much to all men. A man who always speaks well of his mother generally can be trusted. We note the fact that one of the present candidates for a high office, in making a speech a few years ago, paid a beautiful tribute to his mother. The campaign committee are now using that part of his speech with the assertion that a man who remembered his mother like that ought to be the man who could be trusted in the public service and this is what he said:

"I think back through the years lean and fat good and bad to my earliest recollection. I saw a woman with an eye that flashes swift as an archangel's wing and a mouth that breaks with laughter and hardens at sight of wrong, singing lullabies; a woman who, with hand grasping the unseen hand, walks the bifurcated paths unshamed, unafraid, unharmed. She is clad in garments of beauty to me, and age does not soil them, nor years make them cheap and tawdry. Her tongue has no guile, having never been the messenger of a lie. It is seventeen years since her soul went home to God, and her fingers became to me the fingers of an angel; but I have not forgotten all she said. She told me there was a Santa Claus, and I believed her. But he brings me no longer drums and fifes. But he still brings to me the vision of my mother."

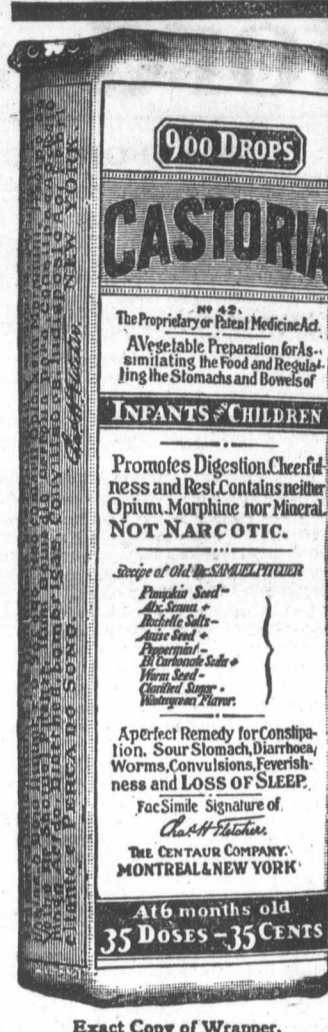

There is more or less graft in the construction of family trees.

An Adding-Machine Triumph

Why go to war when you can count the enemy out? An ingenious Swiss statistician, who is probably also a bit of a wag, has been keeping tab of the number of prisoners of war officially reported by the Austrians and Germans as having been taken on the eastern front since the first of May, when the Galician drive began. He finds that according to these figures 2,571,750 Russians have been added since May 1 to the 1,395,000 reported before that date.

Why should Germany waste billions on war material? What she wants is a larger battery of adding machines. The Russians are evidently surrendered more rapidly than they can be counted and sent to the rear. A serious feature of the case, however, is the food problem. The Russian peasant is a big, husky fellow, who consumes a lot of rye bread and potatoes. How is Germany going to stand his inroads upon the cupboard? If the adding machines keep going there will be eight or nine millions of Russians eating German rations before the harvest of 1916 is reaped. These adding-machine victories are not without their peculiar perils. They may convince the German people that the more Russians they take the nearer will the nation be to a fearful and lingering death from starvation. To prevent such an impression from getting abroad it would be well not to overwork the machines even if some of the phantom prisoners pass to the rear unrecorded.—Toronto Globe.

Britain's War Budget

London, Sept. 21.—The greatest war budget in the world's history was introduced in the house of commons this afternoon by Reginald McKenna, chancellor of the exchequer, as another step towards financing the war, which is now costing Great Britain nearly $25,000,000 daily.

Hereafter automobiles, motor films, clocks, watches, musical instruments, plate glass and hats will pay an ad valorem tax of 33 1/3 per cent., though as Mr. McKenna explained, the objects of such taxation are "purely temporary and without regard to a permanent effect on trade." Being primarily designed to discourage imports and remedy the foreign exchange situation.

Spirits and beer, which have been the object of so much agitation, remained untouched by the new schedules. The principal blow fell on incomes, the existing tax on incomes not only being jumped forty per cent., but its scope is being widened so as to catch even workmen earning as little as $14 weekly. The very wealthy must contribute to the government more than one-third of their revenue. The one-cent mail will be abolished entirely and the weight heretofore carried in the mails for two cents will be reduced. The rate on telegrams, which is 12c for 12 words, is increased to 18c., and there is also a proportionate increase in transport charges.

The sugar tax, though largely increased, will mean only an extra penny per pound burden for the general public, for the sale of all sugar is now regulated by royal commission, which will reduce the price to refiners and dealers.

TAKAKE

The story of Jack the Giant-Killer has always fascinated. One small boy destroyed a great menace. So it is with the wonderful TAKAKE, which unaided destroys the Giant Pain. Headaches, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Sleeplessness, and ALL nervous affections, fly before it to their utter destruction.

Because you have used all other remedies without results, is the best reason for using TAKAKE, which gives quick and permanent relief in the most chronic cases. One of its many attractions is its absolute freedom from any habit forming drug.

Use one box, and the result will show you that, like little Jack, you can live happy ever after.

Get TAKAKE! There is nothing the same or just as good. 50c at your druggist's, or 45c by mail from Georgian Mfg. Co., Collingwood Ont.

Fish and Rice Croquettes.

Put a quarter of a pound of rice into a saucepan with an ounce of butter and a pint of milk, simmer slowly for an hour and a half, by which time the rice will have absorbed all the milk, and do not stir it while it cooks. When cooked add a seasoning of salt and stir in the yolk of an egg. Turn on a plate to cool. Have ready some cold cooked fish mixed with a little thick white sauce (previously seasoned). Take portions of the rice, roll into balls, make a hole in the center, fill with the fish mixture, close up the hole and brush over with the white of the egg. Roll the balls in fine breadcrumbs and fry in hot fat. Drain and serve with sauce.

The Sly Little Man.

I know of a dry little, sly little man, Who comes o'er our threshold whenever he can; Though little he cares for the sunshine and light, He haunts our library when it is night.

When papa is reading his paper with care, And I'm doing all snug in the cushioned armchair; When mamma looks up from her sewing—"My dear, Perhaps you don't know that the sandman's been here!"

Then I hunt round the curtain, on top of the books, 'Neath table and table, in all sorts of nooks, And out on the stairway and down in the hall, But I can't find the sly little sandman at all.

The Lloyd Lindsay Race.

Two or more pairs of palls are placed in a row thus:

Each set of palls is represented by a team of two players.

The teams start from a point twenty, thirty or fifty yards away (as space will permit) from the palls.

Each pair runs hand in hand till it reaches a line drawn about eight to ten feet in front of the palls, thus:

On this line, opposite each pail, are placed three potatoes or tennis balls.

Each player tries to throw the potatoes or balls opposite his pail into his pail, one at a time.

If he misses he must retrieve his potato and throw it again from the balk line until he has all three in the pail. He may do all his retrieving of misses at one time or as he misses, just as he prefers.

As soon as either partner succeeds in this, but not sooner, he can help out his teammate by going behind his pail and throwing back to him his missed potatoes or balls, but not otherwise assist him.

A team cannot race back to the starting point till it has all its potatoes in its pails. Then it goes back hand in hand, and the first team crossing the starting line wins.—Scouting.

Registering a Kick.

"You say in your paper," said the man who had asked to see the editor, "that Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peck are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Peck's mother."

"Isn't that statement correct?" asked the editor.

"Oh, she's visiting us all right enough," admitted Mr. Peck, "and I daresay my wife is enjoying it, but you can leave me out of it. If you put any more sarcastic remarks like that in your paper I'll stop my subscription."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Berlin and Washington

President Wilson has been fiercely assailed in his own country for adopting a peace-at-any-price attitude towards Germany. Perhaps the historian of the future may deal more kindly with him than do many of his contemporaries. The refusal of Mr. Bryan to sign the second note on the Lusitania accident, coupled with his resignation as secretary of state, gave a thrill of dramatic interest which nothing in the note itself warranted. Indeed, it will always be hard to understand why Mr. Bryan signed the first note and balked at the second.

From that time on Germany had only to play for delay. After the first shock and rage over the assassination of the Lusitania subsided, it became apparent that public opinion did not demand war with Germany. Mr. Wilson was given the unpleasant task of putting up a bold front without the ability to back it up.

What puzzled some people was the apparent inconsistent course of the German Government. It looked at one time as though the kaiser was doing his best to goad the United States into declaring war, yet Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, who must enjoy the confidence of the kaiser, has been working overtime of late trying to keep the peace.

Current Opinion for August assembles a number of clippings from German papers and comes to the conclusion that the kaiser has never desired an open breach with the United States. It says, however, that the prejudice of the German people against the United States has been so strong as to make it difficult for the government to follow its better judgment. Then, again, it is said that German diplomacy failed so dismally at the outbreak of the war that the foreign office has fallen into almost universal contempt.

We think it a fair surmise that the sympathies of the president are not with Germany in the present struggle. Neither is it fair to charge him with personal cowardice or political ambition. No man probably, ever found the White House a more unwelcome habitation. It is, however, too early as yet for anyone to forecast Mr. Wilson's place in history.—World.

About 7:30 Saturday evening fire broke out in the barn owned by Charles Cates on the Egremont road, and completely destroyed the large barn and drive sheds together with the summer crops. At the time the fire was discovered the man in charge of the farm was milking the cows in the stable below and, on noticing fire, he immediately proceeded to free the stock from the burning building, which he succeeded in doing. A large number of men were soon on the scene congregating from all parts, principally by means of automobiles, but were absolutely powerless to do anything effective in the way of saving the buildings. They succeeded in some degree in keeping back the flames from some of the small sheds and outbuildings. The fire is supposed to have originated in the mow of the unthreshed grain, caused from overheating of the damp grain. The buildings and grain crop were a total loss, but were both covered by insurance. Mr. Cates, the owner, is at present in the west, having left on a trip some few weeks ago.

Patriotic Fund Appeal
We have now entered upon the second year of the war, and the end seems as far off as ever. No one imagined, a year ago that by September of 1915, Canada would have sent across the Atlantic nearly one hundred thousand men with as many more to the one we cannot allow to fail. This greatest of all the national benefactions is now assisting twenty thousand families of men who have enlisted for overseas service. These men have gone forward with the full assurance that the people of Canada will see to it that during their absence, their wives, widowed mothers and little children shall be maintained in comfort. We hear that the drain upon the Fund is assuming large proportions, that to meet the needs of July and August $700,000 was expended, that the reserves are being materially decreased and that the national Executive Committee now finds it necessary to make a further appeal to the Canadian Public.
There are many funds, most of them worthy, but of them all the Patriotic Fund is the one we cannot allow to fail. It is the duty of the Government to arm, equip and maintain the troops. Not a dollar do the Federal authorities give to the Patriotic Fund. This work depends solely on the patriotism and generosity of our own people. Thousands of brave men are fighting our battles, believing that we meant what we said when we told them as they went forward "Go, and we will care for the wife and children." It would be to our everlasting disgrace if our pledge were broken.

ALLIES HAVE ASSUMED THE OFFENSIVE

Great Victory in Northern France

Splendid victories were won by the French and British armies in general engagements fought on Saturday and Sunday at two widely separated points on the western battle-line. The German trenches were carried in the Champagne country, east of Rheims, on a front of fifteen miles, and 16,000 prisoners were taken. In Artois, in the region between Arras and the La Bassée Canal, the British captured the German trenches on a front of five miles, obtained vantage ground from which the important town of Lens may be menaced, and took 2,600 prisoners. The French captured the village of Souchez, and advanced toward Givenchy, taking a thousand prisoners. Altogether, in the two day's battle the German front was crumpled up for a distance of twenty miles and 20,000 wounded Germans were captured by the Allies. The losses on both sides in killed and wounded will be heavy, for the battles fought on Saturday and Sunday were the most important since those in front of Sissons in February, in which it is estimated that 50,000 French and Germans were killed and wounded. The results of the struggle will be of more consequence than those of any action on the western front since the battle of the Marne.

Paris, Sept. 27.—Military critics estimate that the German killed and wounded in the big battles of the last two days in the Artois and Champagne regions must easily equal the number of prisoners taken. Hence they reckon the Germans' total losses at not less than 40,000, equaling the size of an army corps.

The French official statement made public to-night says that the situation in the north of Arras remains unmodified and that the fighting in the Champagne continues.

The statement adds that the Germans to-day began another offensive movement in the Argonne, but that it was completely checked and that the German losses were heavy.

The text of the communication follows: "To the north of Arras the situation is without modification. The enemy has reacted only feebly against the new positions occupied by our troops. The number of prisoners taken in that region exceeds fifteen hundred."

TOOK THE ADVICE OF HIS FRIEND

Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism Relieved By "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. L. LABRIE

604 Champlain St., Montreal.
"I have been restored to health by taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. For two years, I was a miserable sufferer from Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble. I became very weak, had frequent dizzy spells and when I took food, felt wretched and sleepy. I suffered from Rheumatism dreadfully, with pains in my back and joints and my hands swollen. A friend advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives' and from the outset, they did me good. After I had started the second box, I felt I was getting well and I persevered in the treatment. I can truthfully say that 'Fruit-a-tives' is the only medicine that helped me."

A Scientific Wooing

Curiosity, Sympathy and Imagination Were the Basic Principles.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Dr. Shotwell was about to leave his consulting room at the close of his morning office hours when a man entered whose appearance at once arrested his attention. There is no word to describe his appearance except queer. He was neither homely nor good looking, neither well nor poorly dressed. Indeed, there was nothing for or against his personal appearance. He was simply queer. Nevertheless intellect was expressed in his face. He might have been a poet; he might have been a Socialist; he might have been a lightning calculator escaped from a dime museum.

The doctor looked at him with an expression intended to ask what he could do for him. The patient thrust his hand in his pocket and pulled out a roll of bills, from which he selected five tens and, handing them to the doctor, said:

"There's nothing the matter with me, doctor. I'm in perfect health. I desire to consult you as to a matter of importance to me, and since I know your time is valuable I offer payment in advance. For these bills I desire half an hour's consultation with you or such part of that time as may be necessary to my purpose."

The doctor gave a tacit consent, asked his visitor to be seated, took a chair himself, and the other proceeded: "I desire to win the love of a certain woman who has not manifested the slightest interest in me. I am convinced that love between the sexes may be produced by exciting the imagination. Nine-tenths of our marriages in America are for what is called love, but what I call an abnormal temporary development of the imaginative faculty. In proof of this I would cite the different conditions of a couple about to be married from those of a couple that have been married. During the courtship, while they are feeding on what I call imaginary love food, they are in an ecstatic suspense. Marriage ends that suspense and brings reality. After that their relations are dependent upon a number of conditions, the chief of which, to state it concisely, is whether they are naturally fitted or unfitted to give each other aid and comfort."

The doctor sat attentive to this disquisition on love, an incipient smile gathering on his lips as his visitor proceeded. When this point had been reached and the speaker added, "Do you follow me?" the doctor replied: "I do. Proceed." Whereupon the man continued:

"My name is Norman Bloodgood. I wish to marry a young woman named Catherine Anderson. The reason why I wish to marry her is because I desire to marry some one, and I have settled upon her. There is no more reason why she should marry me than any other man. She has met me once and treated me with indifference."

"Beg pardon," interrupted the medical man, "did she not evince at least curiosity?" "Now I remember," responded the client, "there was a look on her face at seeing me indicating surprise or amusement or something of the kind, but nothing indicating admiration or in any way being drawn toward me. But why do you ask this?" "I take it for granted from what you have told me that you wish me to suggest some scientific method of exciting an interest in you, which, being fanned by the imagination, may result in love."

"Exactly." "Very well. I would recommend attempting to effect a lodgment through curiosity, the only constituent part of your makeup that seems to have taken any hold upon the young lady. Beginning with this as a foundation we may build upon it with other excitants of the feelings commonly used by wooers. Sympathy may be excited by real or feigned misfortune. Flattery when undetected as such is a stimulant. Sentiment excited by gifts, principally flowers, is an excellent means of producing love. Then when a substructure has thus been laid a touch of hands, a kiss—

"I am aware of these methods, common to all mankind," interrupted the visitor. "What I desire to learn from you is how to handle that very difficult matter of making a beginning. Subsequent devices may or may not serve. What I am looking for is something that must produce a scientific result, just as the mingling of one part of oxygen with two parts of hydrogen will produce water."

"While I am willing to admit," replied the doctor, "that there may be some means of producing such an effect, I doubt if we have attained to a knowledge of it. Nevertheless I confess that the bent of my mind is toward investigation, and I will be interested in assisting you to win the love of the lady of your choice by scientific means, but"—handing his visitor the proffered fee—"I could not consent to take money for what is beyond the pale of my profession."

The matter of the fee having been settled by the client accepting its return, the doctor proceeded: "Since you consider the imagination the exciting force I am willing to work with you on this line. But we must in your case begin with curiosity, since you say that is the only hold you have upon Miss Anderson's attention. Now, suppose you make a mystery concerning yourself. Hint at some great grief in your life, some injustice done you. I would not scruple to try to impose upon the lady a sin you have committed, of which you are repentant."

"But, doctor, the time must come when it will become necessary to make plain this mystery."

"Not necessarily, but if it does you may gain a strong point by confessing some noble act which your tender conscience has exaggerated into a crime."

"Shake, doctor!" said the visitor, grasping the other's hand. "That suggestion is worth more than any prescription you have ever written."

"That isn't saying much," muttered the man of medicine to himself. "I must leave you now," he said to his client, looking at his watch, "to make my morning round of visits. Suppose you start on the lines I have suggested, and if you find that you have produced results let me know. I advise you, having made your beginning on a basis of curiosity, to add a sympathetic—I mean a quantum—of sympathy, leaving the imagination to come in third, after which resort to the ordinary devices pertaining to courtship."

"Thank you, doctor," said the visitor, rising and grasping the doctor's hand warmly, and with the same serious look on his face that he had worn through the interview he went his way. Within a fortnight the doctor received a letter from his client in which he laid down his great grief and a sin that he had committed. He had killed a man for revenge, but had been driven to the act through a great wrong done him. He was suffering no end of mental torture. Miss Anderson's sympathy had been aroused, and she was intent upon knowing what had spurred him to kill a fellow being. This was as far as he had gone. He had noted the rise of considerable interest in him on the part of the lady. In due time he would reveal that his father and mother, who had lived in the wild west, had been murdered by Indians. He had not only killed all the Indians concerned in the massacre, but he had barbarously taken their scalps, acts for which he could never forgive himself.

A second letter came in which Mr. Bloodgood spoke of the murder of his parents and his confession of his revenge. Miss Anderson had been much grieved for him and had been disappointed because he had not tortured the Indians before killing them. She had expressed wonder that he should have allowed the killing of a few savages who had murdered his dear father and mother to trouble his conscience. Surely he must have great nobility of soul to consider such an act a sin.

And here, as these two scientists, Dr. Shotwell and Mr. Bloodgood, had intended, the imagination began to work. Miss Bloodgood pictured the settlers' cabin, the trees of the virgin forest waving over it, the old man sitting before the firelight at evening smoking his pipe and the old woman clearing the supper table; then the figures of the red men far in the evening twilight galloping toward the cabin. The massacre was too horrible for the dreamer to dwell upon, but she pictured the son's return and his parents weltering in their blood.

And now the queerness of Norman Bloodgood had given place to a heroic looking man bending over his parents' bodies, then looking up to heaven and swearing to avenge their death. She saw him mount a mettlesome steed and, plunging his spurs into the horse's flanks, speed away into the depths of the forest. She heard the crack of his rifle as he brought down the first savage. She saw him plunge a tomahawk into the next redskin's skull. She fancied him dealing death to a dozen Indians and wishing there were more.

Then her hero rode off, his vengeance wreaked, appalled at the gory being the massacre of his beloved parents had made him. Years of regret followed.

What a noble spirit to grieve over the punishment of bloodthirsty savages!

One day Mr. Bloodgood called at Dr. Shotwell's office and reported the story he had told, the object of the experiment they were interested in. He knew nothing of his success in exciting Miss Anderson's imagination or her sympathy. He simply reported what he had done. The doctor listened to his report and, confident of the effect he had produced, suggested that he try a light application of hand pressure; if this was not repelled, an arm stolen around the waist, a touch of the lips.

Not long after this Bloodgood reported that in one of his fits of remorse he had dropped his head upon Miss Anderson's shoulder. She had not withdrawn from the contact. Encouraged, he had folded her in his arms. Still not being repelled, he had kissed her. Then one day he called at the doctor's office to be congratulated upon his engagement.

These two scientists discussed the matter in the same vein as when they were laying out their plan of attacking Miss Anderson's heart by scientific methods as if they had it in a test tube. Mr. Bloodgood did not appear to consider that there was any difference in the two processes. As for the doctor, he was a reticent man and never told even his best friend how much of the conquest was due to cause and effect and how much to nature.

After Mr. Bloodgood's marriage Dr. Shotwell met him and asked him if he had preserved the secret of his deception.

"Oh, I confessed that at the time our first child was born," replied Bloodgood, "but she was too much interested in the baby to consider the matter of any importance."

A Standard Medicine. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, compounded of entirely vegetable substances known to have a revivifying and salutary effect upon the digestive organs, have through years of use attained so eminent a position that they rank as a standard medicine. The pills are in the form of a soft tablet in their composition, they can be assimilated by the weakest stomach and are certain to have a healthful and agreeable effect on the sluggish digestive organs.

Wood Alcohol. Wood alcohol is used largely as a solvent and for various chemical purposes. Beech, birch and maple are the best woods for the production of wood distillation products. Elm, chestnut and cherry are not desirable woods for the wood distillation industry, because they contain too much tannin, gums, etc.

Greetings in China. The Chinese salutation when friends meet consists in clasping the left hand with the right and waving it up and down, at the same time bowing deeply, or, if unusual respect is wished to be evinced, the Chinaman bows as low as possible, swinging his clasped hands between his legs backward and forward.

Frog Showers. The old idea that frogs are sometimes rained down from the upper regions rests upon a silly superstition. The frogs that are now and then found hopping around after a big rain come up from the earth, not down from the clouds. They are simply having a celebration after likely enough a long and trying time of drought.—New York American.

By Experience. "Have you learned anything in the way of business during your four years' loaf at college?" demanded the pater. "Sure!" said Reginald. "I can write the dullest line of dunning letters you ever saw." "Humph!" ejaculated the pater. "Who taught you that?" "My creditors," said Reginald.—Lita.

Bragging. Two youngsters were in conversation. "Well," said the one, "you haven't any call to be proud. My father's taller than yours." "Bet you a nickel he ain't," was the retort. "Bet you he is," said the first youngster. "My father can see over the wall at the end of the garden. Yours can't." "Yes, he can, smartly," responded the other, "with his hat on."—Pittsburgh Press.

Good-bye to Asthma. Persons suffering from that extremely trying trouble known as asthma know what it is to long with all their hearts for escape as from a tyrant. Never do they know when an attack may come and they know that to struggle unaided is vain. With Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy at hand, however, they can say good-bye to their enemy and enjoy life again. It helps at once.

Talk isn't necessarily cheap even when a nickel talks.

SPOILED THE GAME.

The Prospects Were Excellent, but They Were Too One Sided.

A young singer who had been studying for opera work had the good fortune to be engaged by an impresario for a tour through South America. His chest swelled with pride as he walked the deck of the steamer that was to take him on his first trip to foreign lands. On the second morning out he was much surprised to meet an old classmate, who, like himself, was a tenor singer.

"Well, well, where did you come from? Where are you going?" each asked the other.

"My manager is on this steamer," said one.

"And mine too." Within five minutes both singers found that they had been engaged by the same opera company for the same part. "What does the man mean by hiring two different men for the role of first tenor?" asked one.

"Pardon me," interrupted a youth who had been standing near and overheard their conversation. "You have myself and two other singers for companions in this affair. We have just found out to our surprise that we have all been engaged by the same man for the same part on the same tour. What under the sun can he mean by having five first tenors?"

The five youths then took counsel together and decided that they would see the manager and demand an explanation.

They found him on the forward deck. He listened, seemingly amused at their complaint, and said: "Gentlemen, don't you worry. I am an old experienced man in this game and know what I am doing. If you were acquainted with the climate of South America you would know yourselves that it is absolutely necessary. We shall scarcely arrive there before three or four of you fellows will be stricken with the deadly tropical fever. Experience has taught me in all my tropical tours to allow for all sorts of mishaps and misfortunes. Of course you can see what excellent prospects are offered to the chap who is able to withstand everything." And with these words the manager retired to his cabin.

The five young singers then sat down and debated the "excellent prospects." They soon came to a decision. One chance in five of being a star singer instead of a dead one did not prove sufficiently attractive. So when the steamer stopped at Liverpool the youths went ashore, and the impresario never saw them again.—Youth's Companion.

Pills For Earthquakes. In 1750 a number of smart earthquake shocks were felt in London, which created quite a panic. The clergy, from the bishops down, exhorted, warned and pamphleted the people to an almost incredible extent. Last worse things yet should befall. Quacks made small fortunes out of pills which they advertised as "good against earthquakes;" ladies wore "earthquake gowns"—warm garments for sitting out of doors at night—and most of the fashionable world lived through that summer in their coaches in the parks, "passing away the time with cards and candles."—London Express.

Old Scottish Words. A correspondent of the Glasgow Herald submits the following samples of old Scotch words from East Aberdeenshire: Mowse—To say anything is no mowse means it is uncanny or dangerous. Connached—Spilled. Clean connached would mean utterly destroyed or rendered useless. Blaud—To bland anything would mean to soil it. A child would be told, "Dinna blaud your clean pins." Gardies or gardies—a child's forearm. The last is a very old expression, but I have heard it used. "Sic bonnie gardies he has," means the baby has plump arms.

Verdi's Secrecy. Verdi observed great secrecy concerning his operas, even to his business associates, and it is said that the first intimation his business managers, the Ricordis, received of the composition of "Falstaff" was a toast offered by Bolto, who as supper one night, when the publisher and his wife were present, slyly glanced at Verdi and proposed a health to the "fat knight," at which it seemed Verdi and Bolto had been working for months.

Another Point of View. Employer—You have asked for an increase of salary, but I have been thinking of taking you into the firm. In that case would you want the increase of salary, too? Clerk—Oh, no; under such circumstances I should be rigidly opposed to any increase in our running expenses.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

ACTION OF SINGLE SPOONFUL SURPRISES MANY

Watford people who bought the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika, are surprised at the INSTANT effect of a SINGLE SPOONFUL. This remedy is so complete a bowel cleanser that it is used successfully in appendicitis. Adler-ika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it the grasses rattle and pass out. Might have been New Brunswick

At one of the annual fairs held at a small town in Russia, a gentleman observed a gipsy and a Jew haggling over the sale of a horse. Full of curiosity when the two separated, and anxious to know how such shrewd characters had bargained, the gentleman called the gipsy to him and inquired how much he had got for his animal.

The gipsy opened his hand and showed a ten-rouble note.

"But isn't that very cheap?"

"No," said the gipsy, "he is dead lame."

The gentleman then sought out the Jew and said, "So you have given ten roubles for a lame horse?"

The Israelite laid his finger on his nose and said, "Lame! He's as sound as you are; I saw he was badly shod, and only limped in consequence."

The inquirer returned to the gipsy and reported what the Jew said. The former gave a tremendous and most significant wink, and whispered: "He's as lame as a two-legged stool. I had him badly shod on purpose to make them believe that that was the cause of his limping."

When this was communicated to the Jew he seemed for the moment taken aback, and hung his head; then with a little sigh and a shrug of his shoulders, he said, quietly:

"Ah, well; it's all right—it was a bad ten-rouble note."

For Infants and Children
In Use For Over 30 Years

Always bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Watson

Experience often provides a lot of raw material for unnecessary conversation.

Extensive work has been begun to prove definitely whether or not petroleum can be found in South Australia.

An Indian inventor has brought out a practical paper soon that can be packed flat for carrying or storage.

Japanese breweries produce about 210,000,000 gallons of sake, the national alcoholic drink, from rice annually.

A California inventor has succeeded in pumping water to a height of more than 40 feet with a wave power motor.

A watering can pivoted at the end of a long handle has been invented for conveying water to plants on high shelves.

Sleep is the great nourisher of infants, and without peaceful sleep the child will not thrive. This cannot be got if the infant be troubled with worms. Miller's Worm Powders will destroy worms and drive them from the system, and afterwards the child's rest will be undisturbed. The powders cannot injure the most delicate baby, and there is nothing so effective for restoring the health of a worm-worm infant.

PRACTICAL OVERCOAT.

A Garment Which Will Be Found Indispensable in Cold Weather.

IDEAL FOR MOTORING.

This practical overcoat is indispensable during the coming cold weather. Aside from that, it is an ideal motor or rain coat. Featured in mohair mixture, with velvet collar and cuffs, it is smart and sensible. Fullness develops from the inserted pleat in the center back, falling in deep folds at the bottom. The raglan sleeves and semi-belt effect are notable features. A taupe velvet hat and cloth topped button boots are correctly worn.

SPORTS SHOES.

For the First Time in History Women's Feet Are Emancipated.

Sports clothes are good looking, they are comfortable, they give freedom to body and to lungs. Sports shoes, for the first time in woman's history, allow her feet to be set on the ground in that healthful and satisfactory way which men have known for years.

This very matter of foot furnishing is in itself a boon, since it not only makes the foot itself symmetrical, but the body is held right, hips and shoulders are well poised, the woman for once may walk as a human being and not as a mincing feminine creature. This correct poise of the foot and body is something that conserves the strength, whether one walks or stands, for walking is made easier and more pleasurable, the heart has less work to do, there is no wrong pressure upon nerves or the bony structure.

Osteopathy of late years has proved that this last named mistake sometimes affects the general health or health of the various organs of the body, and certainly that which affects or harms the general health will not add to the beauty, to the good looks of the complexion, the contour of the face nor the brightness and pleasing expression of the eye.

To hark back to the matter of the correct and mannish last used for sports shoes for women, it has doubtless surprised many to find out how becoming these shoes are to the feminine foot. Indeed, any correctly shaped foot needs neither pointed toe nor French high heel to appear to advantage, for these indeed are supposed to hide or disguise defects, as well as to heighten good points.

But the human foot, the natural human foot, is possessed of its own beauty and looks well in any shoe which has a good last as its foundation, and women as well as men view with surprise that trim, dainty member in a sports shoe, with low heel, broad toe, well laced ankle, so truly good looking in it and with a coquetry all of its own, as distinguished from the deformed, pinched and cramped pedal extremity, tottering about on its ridiculous heel, which was once considered the only way for a woman's foot to be seen in public.

For Burns and Scalds.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will take the fire out of a burn or scald more rapidly than any other preparation. It should be at hand in every kitchen so that it may be available at any time. There is no preparation required. Just apply the oil to the burn or scald and the pain will abate and in a short time cease altogether.

A heart of gold is far better than a check of brass.

The Watford High School Exhibition October 6th, and Collegiate Announcements For the Term 1915.

On the afternoon of October 6th the Watford High School will be open to the public. Education exhibits of the students in art, botany, zoology and the economic woods used in buildings, furniture and fine cabinet work will be especially attractive. The first from work of the term is exhibited chiefly to show the value of efficient public school training as given in a highly efficient school as that of Watford and others in its environs.

The Board of Education has been wisely generous in the work of renovation. The building has been put in up-to-date repair and redecorated so that few schools in the province can surpass it in comfort and convenience. Few regions have boys and girls in whom so much talent is locked up and who with the firm, steady, loyal backing of parents and guardians can do better work in all departments.

The Watford High School offers the four courses which carry scholastic diplomas and certificates of the Educational Department of Ontario. In the Upper School few Collegiate Institutes can offer better facilities for work. Both in material for student work and in equipment these are of the best. Parts one and two of the Upper School work are offered for the scholastic year 1915-16. The work of the Department examinations for Model, Normal, Matriculation, and Faculties of Education is manned with equal efficiency throughout. The school has its student body thoroughly well organized in sports, physical culture and literary work. There are two athletic and two literary associations and societies already well at work and these further constitute larger aggregations known as the Union Athletic Association and the Union Literary Society, as the work of the girls is distinct from that of the boys but all unite in matters of public interest.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
During the fall term the public will be asked to share the pleasures of the student body in the following functions:

The School Exhibition Oct. 6th, Field Day early in November, a reception to the young people of all the churches to be given in the school, a public reception of the staff to be given early in October assisted by the girl students of the Upper Forms, Commencement in November and the open session of the Literary Societies in the Armory to be given in December.

GREATLY DISCOURAGED

OVER BABY'S ILLNESS

Mrs. Jos. Gaudreau, Notre Dame des Bois, Que., writes: "Last autumn our baby was very sick and we were greatly discouraged. The doctor did not seem able to help him and we began using Baby's Own Tablets which soon made him a fat, healthy child." Thousands of other mothers give Baby's Own Tablets the same praise. The Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, cure colic and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cameron—Dormer

(Sault Ste. Marie Star, Sept. 23.) The marriage took place quietly yesterday at the parsonage of the Central Methodist Church of Miss Emily Helena Cameron, daughter of Mr. A. Cameron, to Mr. Alfred Kenneth Dormer, both of the city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. S. Faircloth. After the ceremony luncheon was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. A. Rose. Mr. and Mrs. Dormer left last evening for a visit to lake ports.

Petrolea Fair

This year's Petrolea fair will pass into history as one of the most successful ever held. The weather was ideal. Accordingly, all booths enjoyed good patronage. There was a large number of entries in all classes of live stock, and the farmers seemed to take even greater interest than ever before. Many of the contestants were so nearly equal that the judges had a difficult time in deciding the winner.

The second annual exhibition of the Lambton Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association will be held in St. Andrew's rink, Sarnia, on October 27, 28 and 29.

Moon—Hindson

(Regina Leader, Sept. 18th)

A very pretty home-wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hindson, 2177 Cornwall street, yesterday at 3.30 when their daughter, Miss Lillian Embury, was married to Bernard E. Moon, chief time-keeper, Saskatchewan division C. P. R. Rev. Dr. Milliken, of the Metropolitan Church, performed the ceremony. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the family were present. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march, played by Miss Florence Hastings, cousin of the bride. The bride was charmingly gowned in ivory crepe de chine, trimmed with embroidered Brussels net and pearls. She wore a Juliet veil and carried a sheaf of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her sister, Miss Beatrice Eleene, made a sweet little flower girl, carrying a basket of white daisies, in which the ring was embedded. The table at which the bridal party sat down was centered by the wedding cake and at the corners of the table were bowls of lovely white asters. Among the many handsome and useful gifts received by the bride was a chaffing dish given by the choir of the Metropolitan Church, of which the bride has been a member for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Moon left amid showers of rice and confetti for Brandon and will return on Monday to Moosejaw, which will be their future home. The bride travelled in a tailored costume of royal blue broadcloth, with hat to match.

Miss Mary F. E. Munroe, a former resident of Wardsville, who was serving as a Red Cross nurse on the Island of Lemnos, the base of the British operations in the Dardanelles, died from an attack of dysentery.

Westgate—Newton

On Wednesday, Sept. 15th at 4 o'clock a pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Newton, of Adelaide, when their only daughter Gertrude, was united in marriage to George Westgate, of Warwick. Rev. Mr. Deihl of Adelaide performed the ceremony. The bride entering the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by her cousin, Miss Eve Pennington, wore a dress of sand colored silk trimmed with cream lace and net and carried a bouquet of cream roses and maiden hair fern. Only the immediate relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony. After luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Westgate motored to London and then left by train for Niagara Falls, Rochester and Syracuse. The bride's travelling suit was a navy blue serge trimmed with military braid, black picture hat with white tips. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm 4th line Warwick.

MARKETS

Toronto

Toronto, Sept. 28—Receipts at the Union Stockyards today were 831 cattle, 165 calves, 916 hogs, 1,667 sheep and lambs.

The market today was active and strong at the advance made yesterday in good to choicest butcher cattle. The run was light and the choice quality rare. Everything of decent quality sold freely at stronger prices, but the poor qualities hardly held their own. Rough cows and canners are 15c to 25c lower than last week.

Good stockers and feeders steady. Eastern light stuff at lower prices. Choice veal calves firm at 25c to 50c higher.

Lambs easier. Hogs steady to firm, several decks selling at $10 off cars.
