A St. Paul helress had been besieged by fortune-funters. One night, awakening to find a masked man in her bedroom who covered her with a pistol, she heard a stern voice say: "I do not want your life, but your money, lady." The helress sighed wearily. "Oh, go away," she answered. "You are just like the rest of them."

'Clean Sweep" Sale of 1 Summer Furniture

The time has come for us to clear out all the Verandah and Lawn Furnishings. It doesn't pay for us to carry it over the season—better far to sell it much under what it cost than to wait until the season is over and have no buyers at any price We are going to sell this Summer Furniture while you want it, and we will make such sacrifices of profits and cost as to encourage such generous buying that there won't be a single stick of it when the sale is done. Selling will begin Monday morning at 8 sharp. Biggest kind of savings for all who buy:—

SUCCESSES ANNOUNCED!

A Growing Business

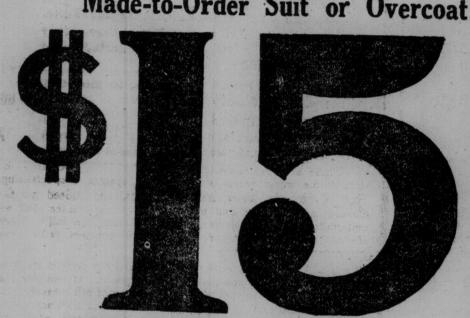

Our business continues to grow from day to day. Is there not some very large reason to account for it? The very fact that we sell suitings between the Mills and The Wearer of the Clothes, and that we employ experts to cut and finish the suits, guarantees our customers that they are going to receive something better at a lower price than what can be secured elsewhere.

In the matter of suitings for summer wear, we believe that there are some exclusive weaves never before seen in Canada. Also there is a splendid line of Blue Serge in several weights and Worsteds in advance London patterns.

PLACE YOUR ORDER TO-DAY FOR YOUR HOLIDAY SUIT OF CLOTHES. IT IS CLOSE TO THE FIRST OF JULY NOW, AND THAT MEANS THE MID-SUMMER SEASON IS ABOUT TO BEGIN. A SUIT OF CLOTHES MADE FROM ALL-WOOL CLOTH IS THE IDEAL SUMMER COSTUME.

and the approach of the holiday season real estate business usually slackens up a little. This year is no exception to the rule, but dealers say that interest is being very well sustained. This is despite the fact that business began a month earlier this season than in former years. The mild weather of the latter part of the winter was largely responsible for the unusual interest displayed in matters pertaining to property last February.

The realty market here is resting on a solid foundation of natural growth. There is no disposition to discount the future, and any efforts in that direction are promptly frowned down upon and checked as far as possible by those who have most influence in the real estate market. Also, the people generally are careful to avoid any action that would cause even the smallest repetition of former disasters that were the result of booming operations. Imigination no longer plays a part in realty affairs. The buyer now buys for investment, and is specula-tion, an abnormal or unusual value increase is not expected. Of course, there always will be cases where property buyers have quickly made huge profits, but it has been be-cause they have had inside information denied to the everyday man on big railway or financial deals, or else contemplated changes in traffic handling.

But the average profit taker in real estate makes good because of far-sightedness. Often the simple and easy grasping of the course of events. Sometimes this course is diverted, sometimes an expected movement is retarded, but the thinking man, who looks far into the future, nearly always wins far-sighted man to take heed of the would eventually move northward in two and three block leaps. That the "Ward" must go is apparent to most everyone. The Jews are already looking for buyers, but where Toronto's 40,000 foreigners will go is a matter of deep study. Some of them are scattering westward, slowly sifting into West Queen cross streets beyond Bathurst. A little coloring is springing up north of the gasworks, near King and Parliament-streets. But when that noisy centre of ward life, the corner of Agnes and Centre-streets, becomes built up with factories, as must eventually be, where will Toronto's foreign colony finds its centre of activity? It's an interesting subject of conjecture and one that will have a great bearing upon the real estate situation when it some day becomes a vital question.

Teraulay-street of late has been the scene of a quiet real estate activity. Some persons evidently have grasped the fact that Teraulay, when extended northward, will be a great artery of traffic and trade, and have acted accordingly. If the tubes go along this street, with its stations scattered every few blocks, a great volume of business will turn in its direction. The next big question to agitate the minds of estate operations is the situation of these tube stations. There's a chance that they will be placed off the big corners. Tube stations will enormously increase the value of close-by pro-

Brothers Meet After 50 Years

James and John Miller, Once of Cornwall, Have Reunion After Half a Century's Separation.

OMAHA, NEB., June 24.-After a separation of 49 years, James and John a town on the St. Lawrence River, met in Omaha last week, John coming from California to meet his brother, who has lived in Omaha sin : 1832. At times the two brothers did not hear from each other for years, but whenever one made a change of address he notified the other, in order that he might be found when wanted. Now that they are old men, the two brothers decided they wanted to see each other once more in life and the meeting was arranged.

The Miller Brothers were bonn and raised in the Town of Cornwall. In 1860, when 23 years old, John left home and went direct to California, where he has since resided.

Mr. Van Bever holds it more than possible, however, that the Atlantic will be crossed in a few months and airship is not so far distant.

SCHOOL CLOSING.

The closing of St. Mildred's College (the Sisters of the Church School), are simply expanding a going concern and are taking over cash assets of over $1,250,000. The new capitalization is based upon the appraisal made by is based upon the appraisal made by the Canadian Appraisal Co., and the carnings have been certified to by Price. Waterhouse & Co., the well known chartered accountants. It is the intention of the new company to go on at once with the enlargement of their piant, the company being fortunately situated for enlargements, as they can be made on adjoining land at a minimum cost. The people of Kingston are naturally jubilant over the outlook.

The large room, which was filled to its witnost capacity, was beautifully decorated with flags, palms, large branches of maple, bouquets of dalsies. The pupils gave a short and very creditable program: French dialogue, plano, violin and part songs, under the direction of Mr. Edmund Phillips, the children looking very pretty all in white with badages of the school colors, cherry and pale blue. His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto, gave away the prizes in his very happlest manner, with an address to the youngest, the oldest and the parents. the oldest and the parents.

The closing exercise of Westbourne School took place last night, when the charming lady principal, Miss Curlette, looked exceedingly well in a lace and jet gown, with white lace scarf and beautiful antique necklace.
Miss Cartwright, who spoke to the sdrls and presented the prizes, was vearing a handsome black gown with real face scarf. The girls receiving certificates were Miss B. Holton, Miss Marjorie Begg, Miss Eva Bundy, Miss Gladys Bolus. Refreshments were served out on the lawn, where it was deliciously cool.

The Bishop Strachan School held its plano and song recital and distribution of prizes last night, when the large rooms were filled with the friends of the school. Miss Natilion, who was wearing a black lace and jet gown bouquet of mauve sweet peas received the guests, his Lordship the Bishop presenting the prizes. Miss Constantides, who handed them to him looked very well in white and silver and carrying a lovely bouquet of lilies and orchids, given to her by some of the girls. Mr. Stuart Strathy made a very pleasing and effective speech in presenting some of the prizes. Miss Pauline Pardee, Sarnia, gave a silver cup for the doubles in tennis. The boom, if such it can be called, has developed gradually, but surely, and as the time advances it would seem that it must expand to a still greater extent, since once the public show a tangible interest nothing can check the movement.

The greatest depth so far reached in shaft work in the Porcupine is the 240-foot level, which has been attained on the Rea property, which shows up as one of the most promising holdings in the camp. At this depth free gold showings were still carrying in the ore, and the statement is made that the indicated ore body is one of the most extensive yet encountered on any property at anything like that level. It is to be remebered that the Rea, and in fact that all of the properties which have been developed to any extent, have as yet touched only a fraction of their holdings. The Rea. for instance, comprises an area of 240 acres, and much of this has not been even prospected on the surface to any extent. Many of the other mines are in a like position, so that it would seem that such work as has been done so far cannot be taken as anything more than a minute indication of the great potenreached a stage where the camp can be stated to have been fairly explored underneath the surface.

Development at the operating properties is proceeding apace. The damage occasioned by the recent fire was at the most infinitesimal, and will not prove a factor of anything more than passing importance. Indeed, it is doubtful if the clearing, which was done by the fire in the area swept over, will not more than counterbalance the check which was put on mining operation. An increase of $1,000,000 in the capital of Dominion Bank has been announced. This and other precautionary measures now being taken will help to forestall any money squeeze this fall, and bankers are not looking for anything more than a good healthy demand for funds. The investment demand for securities appears to have been pretty well filled for the present, and thme will have to be allowed for another accumulation of orders. Under all the circumstances no larger speculation is probable in the Toronto market.

Dooks. The courts have allways interpreted this law as giving an honest stockholder in a company the right to look at the stock books for a honest motive. Whenever some busybody has stock for the sole purpose of getting a book at the books for his own profit, and probably the company's harm, the courts have refused to listen to him. Exercise the statute right, the court has asked, "What is your motive."

And the will have to be allowed for any other accumulation of orders. Under all the circumstances no larger speculation is probable in the Toronto market.

Strand Mesorine.

There is reason for good cheer as a result of the Union Pacific decision, even tho it may be assumed that the government will appeal the case to the U. S. Supreme Court, and no segregation of Union Pacific assets would therefore appear to be possible for some time. The ruling, however, is broader than this. It means that the courts are willing to tolerate corporate control of one company by another, unless it is apparent that public policy is against it. Local banks increased Strand Magazine.

We have examined the books and accounts of The Canadian Locomotive Company, Limited, for a period of four years ending December 31st, 1910, and certify that the Current Assets and Liabilities included in the above statement are correct.

During the period covered by our examination, the profits of the Company, including interest on investments (which has aggregated about $27,500.00 per annum, after providing for depreciation, have in no year amounted to less than $300,000.00, excepting in the year 1910, when the profits amounted to only $167,032.03. The profits for the three years, 1907, 1908 and 1909, on the basis mentioned, have averaged $333,282.08 per annum, and the falling off in the business of the year 1910 is explained by the management as being largely due to the curtailment of operations resulting from the delivery of defective steel castings purchased by the Company under contract.

PLANT AND EQUIPMENT. Canada to-day has over 25,000 miles of railroad in operation and over 6,000 under construction or being surveyed. According to statistics furnished by the Department of Railways, one locomotive is required for every six miles of track. Last year there were 4,079 locomotives in use in Canada. The completion of the present 6,000 miles under construction will call for 1,000 new locomotives in Canada, covering 333,000 sq. ft. In addition, 400 locomotives will be required each year to replace existing equipment. The railroad

The Canadian Locomotive Company, Limited, have been building locomotives since 1855 and have therefore a thorough knowledge of the business. At the present time they are turning out 75 locomotives per year, but have had to refuse many satisfactory orders owing to their limited capacity. The Company have the most up-to-date and modern plant In addition the Company have 180,000 sq. ft. of reclaimable land on which they can erect additional buildings and, as required, still further enlarge their plant at the minimum of cost. The Company are fortunate in having cheap power, unexcelled shipping facilities, and in being exempt from taxation, except School taxes, up to the year

EARNINGS. It will be observed from the above that the average earnings for the last four years show, in addition to the sum required for Bond Interest and Sinking Fund, an amount equivalent to practically twice the dividend on the Preferred Stock issued. twice the dividend on the Preferred Stock issued. It is estimated that as a result of the contemplated increase to the plant, the earnings within the next few years should be at least $600,000 per annum; or in the neighborhood of 18% on the Common Stock after providing for Bond Interest, Sinking Fund, and Preferred Stock Dividend. In making provision for an increase in the capacity of their plant, the Company are not entering into a new and untried field. They have a thorough knowledge of the business, and the increased output can be managed with the same office and selling staffs. The reputation of the Company is so good that the demand for their locomotives far exceeds the supply.

1916. They have probably the best trained and most loyal staff of skilled workmen on the continent. Applications will be made in due course to list the Preserence and Common Shares on the Toronto and Montreal

In a recent article I have very emphatically expressed the opinion that Vancouver would, in course of time, wrest the commercial supremacy of the world from New York and from London. To-day such a statement seems more amazing than incredible and yet, to me, it is as inevitable as fate.

Much more might I write of Van-ouver and of this enchanted land and clime, but I have written enough to direct attention to the rise and possibilities of a country which I believe destined to surpass all others in wealth and greatness, as well as in the happiness of the people who shall be so fortunate as to call it theirs.

WEATHER DELAYS WORK ON TEMPORARY INTAKE

Shamrock and Eaton lacrosse teams put up a particularly slow game on Saturday afternoon at Scarboro Beach.

Pipe at Island Shore—Heavy Sea

Prevents Divers From Going Down.

A strong eastern gale, which kept the waters of the lake turbulent Friday night and all Saturday, prevented Superintendent Randall from fixing the temporary intake to the shore end Taylor, first home; Bolton, outside home; Michael, inside home.

Eatons: Torpey, goal; Hooper, point; Morrison, cover; Little, first defence; Twigg, second defence; Corbridge, third defence; Twiddle, centre; Mitchell third beme: Burrell, second home; of the pipe, as he had hoped to do. All, day a large gang of men waited about for the waves to subside sufficiently to do the work, but up to a late hour Saturday afternoon the weather gave no promise of moderating. But the pipe of the pipe, as he had hoped to do. All, promise of moderating. But the pipe is at the island, and as soon as the lake calms down, a few hours' work will provide a permanent supply of lake water to the city.

Another length of the broken pipe, outside of where the temporary intake will be attached, was removed by Cummings & Miller on Friday. It was raised by chains between two scows, and little difficulty was experienced.

Supt. Randall reported to The World last week that an oak tree, measuring 40 feet in length and two feet in diameter, had been taken from the sand directly under the section of pipe re-moved by Capt. Leslie. It was waterlogged and so heavy it required two turns of the derrick chain to lift it. "No wonder the intake pipe broke, with such a thing hammering at it," said Mr. Randall. No Service in "Ward." The open-air services in the Ward, conducted by the Presbyterian Church,

Professor Bill O'Connell, who operates training quarters in Chicago, where pugilists of high-and low degree fit themselves for coming the control of the most of the control of the contro encounters, comments on the pecu-liarity as manifested in most of his patrons are follows: patrons as follows:

"There a big, padded, regulation ring right in the certer of the gymnasium, put up expressly for workouts. But not once in a blue moon can you induce any of these chaps to use it. They always insist on hopping about on the floor when they don the gloves. The reason they give is that they can get around so much faster on the pelished beards than they can on the felt covering of the ring. That's all very well, but the fact remains that when they enter the ring for

Even Though Their Fights are in a Padded Ring the Pugilists Refrain From Working Out in Them.

It is a curious fact that boxers training for a fight seem to prefer exercising with the gloves on a hardwood floor, rather than step about in wood floor, rather than step about in the first battles, they are unaccustomed to the padded floor upon which they are called to do their flighting.

"The result is that it makes them slow on their feet, for they feel themselves hampered by the heavy felt underlying the canvas. Also, a man is very apt to slip when boxing on the floor of a sym. If the slipping results in a bad fall, it is liable to furth him so much that he will be either badly bandicapped in its coming fight, or week, with uthe team batting hard behind him, and, besides, they played error-less ball.

We lost again on Wednesday, after it looked as if the game was cinched, while on Thursday McGinnity resorted to what he may consider clever baseball tactics, but which was really rotten sportsmanship, when he delayed a game sufficiently to save it by rain. We, homever, came back to our own when Mueller twirled good ball, and the last game with Newark was an easy victory.

Tim Jordan is still our leading batter and during the past week increased his average, until now he is batting. Schaw is doing particularly reli, with 307, and no complaint can be made with any of the regular players in their batting. The most recent news is the releasing unconditionally of Jack Slattery, who led the Eastern League at the bat last season, and the signing of Tony Smith, a new shortstop. While Slattery may be slow on his feet, which seems to be the main fault found with him, he is, nevertheless, a valuable player to have on a team. He is an excellent batter and can play well at first base. He should have no trouble finding another berth. The new man, Smith, will have to perform much better than his records show to replace any of the Leafs' infield. What was most needed wasa batter, which this player does not seem to be. Anyway, we hope he turns out favorably and heips to land the team nearer the top of the ladder.

Toronto Team Win at Guelph.

The Toronto Cricket Club played Guelph at Guelph on Coronation Day. Altho the heat was great a very pleasant day was spent. The pitch was fast and bumpy, which may account for the small scores. Guelph went to bat first and only succeeded in obtaining 34 runs. Lee bowled exceptionally well, obtaining five wickets for four runs, Macdonaid securing four wickets for 18.

Toronto in their innings piled up 72, Rogers being the only one to come off with 32 runs to his credit.

Guelph in their second innings declared their innings at 7 wickets for 67 runs, and Toronto had not much difficulty in getting the required 29 runs to win. The

A Remarkable Performance. Something really remarkable marked There was some sickness the second day's racing. It was in the ity winner, Novelty, and introduced the six-year-old Priscillian that he trains for August Belmont to run against another of that gentleman's stable. On the opening day the leading inci-dent was the defeat of St. Bass by Denham and Caper Sauce, to each of The two raced together at a great pace which the King's Plate winner conced-ed weight, considering the difference six furlongs. The Provost's Plate. That was a well-Provost's Plate. That was a well-fought-out race, but here were two real race-horses contending against each other. It was enough to make a man's hair stand on end. The result was the defeat of Watervale by a head and the victory of Priscillian, who had a few points the best of the weight, in the fastest time recorded anywhere for the distance on a circular track, namely. distance on a circular track, namely.

1.11, the hair-mile being done in 462-5 seconds, only a fifth-second slower than Donau's world's record. Another noteworthy incident of this day was the debut of Pohert Dayles' magnifithe debut of Robert Davies' magnificently beautiful filly, Rose Lawrence, by St. Lawrence II.—Rose Mary Kane, in a purse for maiden two-year-olds. Rose Lawrence, it will be reme went a half-mile in 47 2-5 in her work at the Woodbine. Unfortunately she was alling all thru the O. J. C. meeting and did not start, but at Hamilton she proved her worth by practically playing with her fields.

St Bass Turns the Table

On the third day St. Bass glittered in the limelight once again. On the first day, in a mile and a sixteenth race he had conceded weight and age to Denham and suffered defeat. On this occasion the distance was a sixteenth of a mile further and Denham was not so favorably treated, having carry four pounds more than the Giddings' colt. It was a flea-bite's difference considering the difference in age but St. Bass, with Fain instead of Dugan up, trailed Denham for a

It was thought possible that Harry Giddings' coit, Ondramon, would prove the master of Rose Lawrence in the two-year-old race on the fourth day, but the Davies filly was never in trouble, winning comfortably from end to end. Mr. Seagram's Sati ran several lengths ahead of Ondramon, who ran a poor race and very unlike himself. In the opening event August Belmont's Rock Sand colt Trap Rock, gave a star performance in beating the Kentucky Derby winner, Meridian, in 1.12 2-5 for the six furlongs. The pair raced head and head for a distance, but blood will tell and the son of the 1903 Derby winner had the greater courage and determination and won. Zeus, pronounced Zuus or Zoos, gave weight to Aylmer and beat him with ease in the third race. A plece of desperately hard luck came to the Davies stable, and especially to trainer "Johnny" Walker, in the sixth race. Flower Girl ran stoutly from fifth to first place in the field of eight and er "Johnny" Walker, in the sixth race. Flower Girl ran stoutly from fifth to first place in the fleld of eight and at the finish beat the favorite, Florida Beauty, by a head, but at the furlong the Davies filly bumped the Florida one, and for that lost the race, being disqualified, while Dugan, her jockey, was set down for the meeting. The decision was undoubtedly just, for Shilling had to take Florida Beauty up and she came again in a way that shilling had to take Florida Beauty up and she came again in a way that made it pretty plain that but for the interference she would surely have won. William Garth's Muskmelon handed something choice to her backers at 15 to 1 in the seventh race, and Fulfill at the same price pretty pears. Fulfill, at the same price, pretty near-ly beat Supervisor in the last race of

On Coronation Day. It was stifling hot on Coronation Day, Thursday, June 22, and the huge crowd lost innumerable pounds of flesh in running water. The management honored the day with a high-class bill of fare and by binding the class bill of fare and by binding the programs in royal blue surmounted by the King's colors of scarlet and gold. Senex, by Yankee, who ran second to Rose Lawrence on the preceding day, gave the hall mark to that filly if she had not given it to herself by landing the two-year-old race in a big field and by covering the five and a half furlongs—the only two-year-old race this year over five furlongs—in 1.08 3-5. Miss Jonah made a holy show of her field in the third race, Merman running second, but being eight lengths to the bad. Sam Hildreth's imp. Galore colt Hampton Court won the Tuckett Selling Stakes nicely after dealing out kicks at the barrier to Edda and Sandman, who had the wind taken out of them. Hildreth scored again in the next race, this time with Shannon, 4 years, by dreth scored again in the next race, this time with Shannon, 4 years, by Ogden-Lambert. After the race a good bit of talk ensued out of which arose a proposed match for $5000 a side between Zeus and Lahore, who finished second to Shannon. As is usual with these things the talk came to nothing further than a decision to to nothing further than a decision to leave the question of superiority to be decided by racing in the National Handicap on the closing day, the club adding $500 to the value of that stake.

Mr. Saggram's good, horse imported. Mr. Seagram's good horse imported Galatine, closed the day by winning a hard race from Chief Kee, who will be heard from later on in William Garth's hands, Johnny Dyment having sone west to clear up some ranch

Rose Lawrence's Third Win. Charlie Crew has sold his veteran bread winner Caper Sauce, by imp. Morpheus-New Dance, to the Valley Farm Stable. It was, in fact, a forced sale, for he was bid up from $500 to $900 after winning the selling race with which the sixth day opened. Caper Sauce, bred by Mr. Seagram, has run 104 races, won 32 and earned during his career, $15,815, including $1195 this year at Toronto and Hamilton. Commola was second to Caper on this occasion and Satin Bower third, the last mentioned conceding weight to the old fellow. Gentlemen races un-happily frequently cause hostile critim and the one run at Hamilton on Friday was no exception, altho it was unjustifiable. The upshot was a decision that for the future there should be no bookmaking on this kind of racing. Rose Lisuwence won again and this time achieved her greatest success. She beat Vestibule by a nose after a hard drive and a magnificent display of determined courage, Tipsand being only a neck further off, while behind them were Froglegs, Jawbones, New River, Cherry Seed, Flamma, Little Pal and Yarico. The time for the five furlongs was 1.00 3-5, the fraction being behind the track record. If Knights Differ and Black River, other two-year-olds in the Davies' stable, had only continued in form, what a trio of youngsters the stable would have been able to boast. And then there was the Stalwart colt Stalmore, and others that will likely be heard from when they thoroly round to. Selwick, Ochre Court and Theek, three long shots, pretty nearly scored in the last three races of the

I have at this moment before me an article from a leading New York newspaper pointing a moral in this regard that is well worth pondering over. The writer is devoted to racing and values it as a sport as superior to all others, tt as a sport as superior to all others, in so far it benefits man and beast alike. After stating that despatches from Albany do not favor relief to the I was going to say "jeopardized" interests, but that is not the word,

Increase of Public Approval.

The turf in England and in Australia has reached its pinnacle in prosperity by encouragement of public support. If the public wish to see it cheaply it can do so. If it desires to pay the price it can do so. But the dear, good, kind, hydra-headed public must be considered first, last, and all the time. To take racing west would be to open up a new direction in a hostile district. In the east the sport has had its home and been familiarized. There is where it belongs. Long Branch and its attractive points are frequented langely by women and children. On the other hand in the east when you get beyond Scarboro Beaches, which is as much like a beach as day is like night, you get into a realm of men with rich blood in their veins, whose lands are not in the hands of speculative real estate agents. Furthermore, on the highlands you have the best tive real estate agents. Furthermore, on the highlands you have the best of training grounds, where the soil is well adapted and dries early, and the air is to the greatest extent salubrious. You have also spaces free of access and that admit of easy development and that admit of easy development of traffic. West of Toronto the reads are narrow and filly kept. Bast of Toronto they are wider and much more available for increases of traffic. If it is the prologation and encouragement of racing that the O. J. C. gentlemen desire, then the highlands of the east afford them the best prospects. If it is temporary life and present money—the get-rick-quick idea—that prevails, then it is to the west for them. The tenure at Woodbine is uncertain. It is not only conservatism in stakes that is required, but the in stakes that is required, but the creation in Canada of a Newmarket, an Epsom, an Ascot, a Goodwood, a Donoaster, a Lincoln, a Chester, where the impression of racing is so firmly implanted that its future is assured. If this is to be accomplished the great

If this is to be accomplished the sport, not increase in values, must be the primal and sustained consideration. Everybody knows the men behind the Everybody knows the men belind the O. J. C. are Scotch and able to take care of their own affairs—else would the chartered Canadian Racing Club have better made its influence felt—but they can rest assured that the future of the sport rests on the popularity it secures, not altogether on the enrichment and aggrandizement of the privileged few.

SOME STUDIES OF FACIAL EXPRESSION—THE PROVINCIAL SECRETARY, THE MAN BEHIND THE REFORM

ONTARIO PRIJONJ REAL REFORMATORIEJ

Provincial Secretary HANNA Introduces Sane Methods of Curing Criminality. Striped July Abolished and Offenders are Given Open Air Treatment on the New Guelph Prison Farm.

THE modern Utopia, the ideal commonwealth where wealth is uniformly distributed, where laws are designed strictly to bring the greatest good to the greatest number, where all men are equally free and sorrow and suffering and misery and crime at a minimum is still a long way off. The trouble is man iswell very much human and still has much of the Ishmael spirit. This, perhaps, is responsible for the inhumanity with which life's "failures" are thrust to the depths, for the heartlessness with which the criminals is often hounded to fresh crime by the so-called system of preserving law and order.

No Utopian ideas disturbed the old-time criminologist's plans for the punishment of crime. His victim was taken, branded and imprisoned. He expiated his offence in dark holes where neither light nor fresh air could come-in dungeons where his sole companions were sworming vermin and soul-crushing despair. The criminologist treated the criminal as a beast and prison influences made him one. Prison treatment was designed as a punishment for crime and a dire warning to all others tempted to offend in like manner-nothing more. But it accomplished a great deal more than that. The heart of the offender was hammered on the anvilof inhuman and impolitic treatment until it became hardened and entirely unimpressionable. Young first offenders cast into common quarters with hardened criminals, there drank the cup of iniquity to the last dregs and came forth intoxicated with criminality and straightway made disciples of others. Crushed between the upper millstone of the law and the lower millstone of hardened prison associations they lost all semblance to morality of purpose. The prison was the stuffifier of morals the university of crime, the hotbed wherein thrived and grew the germs that diseased mind and life and conduct. So far was it from reforming that it coarsened and hardened the prisoner and confirmed him in his way of

Gradually some of these defects were recognized and inadequate attempts made to rectify them. Prisons were built on a more humane plan and dungeons no longer found place within their walls. Fresh air and sunlight were allowed the inmates according to nature's bounty. Branding was forbidden. Prisoners were no longer forced to herd together, irrespective of age and character. Some criminals were classed as hopeless and treated as such. Beginners in crime were sent to so-called reformatories where their treatment differed in name, but little in degree from that meted out to inmates of the common prison. Barred windows, bare walls, enforced loneliness and silence kept ever before the prisoner the fact that he was a social outcast. Whenever he left the prison walls he was chained up to his fellow-offenders and guarded as a wild beast by armed officers. He wore the hateful striped suit that proclaimed him afar off to all beholders the moral leper, the criminal and the fallen. Small wonder that as he brooded over these things at the quarry, on the stone heap or in his bare, uncomfortable cell, he lost heart of hope and eventually went forth an Ishmael indeed.

Such were the older systems of prison treatment.

Too frequently even to-day the reform principle is lost sight of and punishment becomes the end sought. But the old system and its successor have been superseded in Ontario's reformatories. At the Guelph farm, established by the Ontario Government, at the instance of its versatile Provincial Secretary, Hon. W. J. Hanna, nothing of the old regime is retained except the detention and supervision of the law-breakers. The visitor to the farm sees nothing of barred prison windows. Nothing proclaims the property official except perhaps the number of the substantial buildings the property. ber of the substantial buildings thereon. As he wanders round the grounds he sees working groups of men attired as ordinary farm laborers. Here a solitary man is mending a fence, there another is pruning a hedge or doctoring a tree. Away in one corner a ploughman works his team up and down the field. This chap is busy with the mowing machine, that with the hoe. Not a sign is there to be seen of distinctive garbs of any kind. Here's a supervisor, but there's little to distinguish him as far as clothing goes from the men whose operations he is directing. Unrestrained, the men chat and chaff-taking care not to let conversation interfere with labor. The chaps are brown with the sun. They are sturdy and well set-up, as if they had never shown the pallor and slim wolfishness of the dweller in places

A beil clangs out, its brazen note echoing from the most distant corners of the big farm. The men hasten in to the dining-hall, for it is the hour of the midday meal. No marshalling of gangs about it. Every man makes a bee-line from his own particular job for the steaming messes prepared by the cooks. There's silence in the dining-hall all right, as far as speech is concerned, but it's the silence enforced by the claims of hunger, not the observance of cast-iron prison rules. When a chaphas labored in the crisp, vitalizing air, and had his appetite sharpened by honest industry he is usually kepr busy at meal time satisfying the demands of the inner man. Then a few minutes' chat after dinner and the VERY woman is worrying about tan and freckles at this time. Even if she have them not she fears she will have them and that is a wholesome kind of fear. For the best cure of freckles is that which prevents the . need of cure. The old adage about an ounce of prevention has much wisdom in it.

The best way to prevent tan and freckled is to wear a mask to keep them off the face. Not such a mas's as the man with the counter ace of iron wore, but an easily poplied and easily re mask, one of cold cream and powder. This is better than a veil, for veils of some colors draw the sun's rays instead of shielding the face from them. Keep a jar of good cold cream on your toilet table. Be sure that it is fresh. Stale cold cream does more harm than good, for when it becomes rancid the chemical properties in it are injurious to the face. Before going out of doors pat cold cream plentifully into the skin and dust this over with some simple, pure powder, as rice powder, or even starch. Do not wash the face in water just before going out or directly after coming home. In both cases use the cold cream, first as a protection from the sun's rays; afterward to cleanse the face of the dust that has accumulated and the layer of cold cream and that of powder that was its original protection.

This cream while fresh is cleans ing as well as nourishing to the skin and can be plentifully used: Almond oil, 2 ounces.

Rose water, 2 ounces. White wax, 1/2 ounce.

Spemaceti, 1/2 ounce. A word about washing the face in water before leaving the subject of what may be called the provention cure of tan and freckles.

A New Argument

AN old lady called on a lawyer in San Francisco to ask him to have the United States Government grant her a pension. She told a sad story of her destitution, and added a glowing account of the heroism her husband had displayed in the Civil War.

"As I understand it." said the pension attorney, "you ask for this pension in the name of the valiant services rendered to your country by your husband?" "No," replied the old lady. "I ask it in the name of God and His mercy." "In that case," said the lawyer, "I'll get your pension. I have very few aprlications in that name." Glycerine, 1/2 ounce.

This remedy has been used in extreme cases successfully, but so severe is it that I do not recommend it, except when your physician has already done so:

Glycerine, 1 ounce. Alcohol, 1 ounce. Oil of lavender, 10 drops. Bichloride of mercury, 6 grains. This is another powerful remedy amount to the grand passion of their lives. . Girls, however, are to be warned against certain types of men whom they will do well to avoid.

Never marry a man to reform him. It is almost invariably a delusion and a snare—to the girl, that is. If a man is vicious and has bad habits before marriage, he will have vicious and bad habits after marriage, and the girl who marries him is walking straight, not into a married paradise, but into a wedded Gethsemane.

Men You Should Not Marry

and perhaps comething worse than poverty, she had better let him "gang his ain gait" without her companionship.

As a rule a spendthrift becomes a cadger. He flings his money about while he has got any, quite careless of the happiness of those who are dependent upon him, but when his money is gone he does not scruple to beg for more, and to stoop to all kinds of mean devices to "raise the wind." Avoid the spendthrift as you would the plague. He is selfish and heart less.

Do not marry the man whose word you cannot rely upon.

A man who is capable of telling a lie is capable of any meanness and any shabby trick. Lying is one of those things which doctors call. when they are speaking of diseases, "symptomatic." It shows a radical defect of character-a lack of conscience and rectitude and honor, defects which will not help to make a woman happy. No, the liar is a man to avoid. Give him a wide berth. Whatever you do, do not marry him.

Do not marry the man who sneers at the things you hold dear—the cynic, the blase man, who has seen everything and done everything, and lost all respect for honor and virtue and goodness and truth, and, indeed, has ceased to believe in these things. Such a man will quickly take the bloom off a woman's ideals, and drag her down to his own level of cynicism and

And, when all is said, there is no happiness to be found in a cynical, sneering, unbelieving view of life, any more than there is any joy in a cold, cloudy day. That sort of thing blots the sunshine out of life, and a lifelong companionship with such a man would be sufficient to blight any girl's brightness.

Do not marry a man who thinks of himself first, last, and all the time, and expects everybody to wait upon him. Such a man is a wait upon him. Such a man is a born tyrant. The difference between tan and freckles is merely that tan is a complete coat, covering the face, while freckles are the coat in tiny shreds or spots. An improved priming pump with handle of actuating rod on the front end and near the radiator, the same as on 1911 models, is used. The priming pump valve lever, however, is placed on the dash immediately below the carburetor air vaive lever. This brings together on one plate on the dash the three carburetor controlling levers.

It was a very able sketch of a very delightful old dominie. The quiet broadness of Mr. Wm. Criman's methods made the character of Lutz, the prince's valet, the other outstanding man's part in the play, and, it was, in contrasted treatment, fully as successful as the other outstanding man's part in the play, and, it was, in contrasted treatment, fully as successful as the other two. The innikeeper Ruder and his wife were well played by Mr. J. J. Doom of the Lords---How Lord Rosebery Has Led Them to Disaster

By T. P. O'Connor, M.P.

LONDON, June 24.—There was something delightfully and dramatically appropriate in Lord Rosebery winding up the long struggle on the house of fords question. Considering that he has as much responsibility as any man living for getting the lords in the house of fords question, and, secondly, by encouraging the hostility to the budget, it was subtle vengeance which gave to him the task of pronouncing the funeral oration over the dead and buried assembly. For it was a funeral oration. The attacks on the government did not matter; they got the proper reply from Lord Haldane. I was present and within a few feet of Lord Rosebery when he made that speech against the house of lords which Lord Haldane quoted. I never heard a better statement of the case about the speech is that it forecasted against the house of lords before or since; what was even more curious about the speech is that it forecasted the very policy of that veto bill in which Lord Rosebery now sees the end of all things. This speech at Bradford is the best vindication of the policy of the government; Lord Rosebery cannot be better answered than by the Lord Rosebery of the epoch when he was still a Radical.

Cannot Withdraw.

Turning to the speech itself, it is quite plain that it means the battle is over. Lord Rosebery confessed that the government could not withdraw from any of the principles of the veto bill; that they could not allow homerule or any other great Liberal cause to be withdrawn from the scope of the bill, and that, therefore, all the amendments which Lord Lansdown has suggested are certain to be refused. There remains the question of what will happen after that; that question Lord Rosebery also answered. He would not have spoken of the five hundred new peers if he did not know that the government, if they be driven to it, have both the will and—what is more important—the power to create these peers. I think that fact should be emphasized. I find a number of even fairly good politicians who are still in doubt as to whether the government either will, or can, create new peers. I start with the proposition, in considering such questions, that Mr. Asquith is a man of at least ordinary common sense and discretion; that also he has beside him colleagues of sound principles and of strong will; and starting with these propositions, in considering such questions, that Mr. Asquith is a man of at least ordinary common sense and discretion; that also he has beside him colleagues of sound principles and of strong will; and starting with these propositions, in considering such question. The creation of the fuel of the swallowing to choose of lords have to choose between of lords have to choose of lords and they distinct the proposition

Mrs. F. E. Currah. Windsor, Ont.—

Dear Friend.—I feel it my duty to write you a testimonial as to what Orange Lily has done for me. Last winter I was feeling very miserable indeed. I could scarcely do my housework during my menstrual period, and for two months or more I was never free from pain in the womb and ovaries. The pain would run down the groin, so I would frequently nearly double up. Then the pain began going up the back of my neck to my brain until I hardly knew what I was doing at times. Life was a burden indeed. I finally could endure it no longer, so went to our leading town doctor and had an examination. He pronounced it (I forget the word) a rigid condition of the generative organs, produced by repeated attacks of inflammation. He said I would have to take a course of treatment, and if that failed to overcome the rigid condition I might, in time, be compelled to have the ovaries removed. I objected to that, so filled out Dr. Coonley's symptom blank and forwarded it to him, and he diagnosed the disease the same as my local doctor, so I decided to take Dr. Coonley's Treatment. I have used two jars of Cerate Massage, two packages of Herbal Womb Tonic and six boxes of Orange Lily. It is eight months since I began the treatment, but I feel like a new woman. I work right through everything now. Hardly know a pain, even during menstruction now. I often say, 'T would not take $100 and be in the state that I was last March." I feel that Dr. Coonley's Home Treatment is a Godsend to suffering womankind, and shall continue to sound its praises whenever I have an opnortunity.

ORANGE LILY as a remedy for these ills, as well as for leucurhoea, painful periods, irregularities, cancers in their earlier stages, tumors, displacements, lacerations, and all ovarian troubles, has long since passed the experimental stage. So confident am I of this that I will send ten days' treatment, which is worth 35 cents, home, and no physician js necessary. Send

The Tories have grown a little wiser than they were—mainly, I believe, thru the power of such broad-minded Tories as Mr. Remnant, Mr. Hills, and Mr. Goulding, who are now among the potent, the unseen, forces who direct the Tory policy. But what is the condition of a party which can thus break into fragments on the smallest temptation? Our Competition Initial Sentences

Again, this week, the sentences which were made upon the name initials of the subjects of our caricatures were, in the majority of cases, very good indeed, but it would be more interesting if they came in in greater number. There is no great difficulty in the competition if you will give it a little thought, and if you consider that every entry contributes to a prize which goes without any deduction to the three winners, it should strike you that it is worth while to make a little effort to evolve a good sentence and risk the necessary ten cents for the sake of a prize worth winning.

The most popular actresses in the world are the leading women of stock companies. Each city has its most popular of these popular actresses who constantly are receiving requests for photographs, and as these are refused one request brings another and the letters increase at a compound ratio which soon puts the actress in a position where she has to hire a special secretary to attend simply to her correspondence and fill these orders.

Those who think of the seemingly numberless poses which are taken of

Elliott, Julia Marlowe, Maude Adams and many others would not realize, perhaps, that the pictures of these women, existing in thousands as they do, do not begin to reach the numbers of those which have to be taken by the

of those which have to be taken by the stock actress.

Miss Adelaide Keim, at the Princess Theatre, Miss Eleanor Gordon of the Boston Theatre, in Boston, and Miss Thais Lawton, of the Alcazar in San Francisco, probably are the most photographed actresses in the world. There is no stock house nowadays which does not have its thousands of which does not have its thousands of requests for pictures, and these do not except the soubrets and ingenues, the seconds and the thirds of the com-

Formerly when an actor or actress went into one of these studios she was good at least for a hundred dolrs' worth of orders. Now she has to have her days at the stu and spends hours posing to get artistic pictures. But even at the rates for duplicates made to actresses a stock actress could not afford to give out the enormous numbers if she had them all made at these expensive places, where rents are high and every picture has to be printed by sun-

Here is where she has cleverly thought to call upon the photograph copyist. He takes her pictures from a Paris artist or from Sarony and makes her a copy for a third of what it would cost her at a fashionable studio, even were she given a "rate" for an extremely large order. He copies these in all sizes, either enlarging or reducing, or simply duplicating them. For the regular weekly "send out" the actress orders cabinet sizes, attractive ly mounted with a good margin on an attractive card.

"I am able," said Silver, the Chicago photo copyist, "to put these pictures on cards which even the best pho graphers often do not use for cabinet size work. It is the card that makes all the difference in the appearance of the photograph, and as I pick up my cards at sales and know to go, it is part of my stock-in-trade."
This artist, who popularizes the business in Chicago, is patronized by stock actresses all over the country, many of whom have played in Chicago and others who have heard of him from those who have been there. The orders he fills for these pictures prob ably would make the conservative and expensive photographer gasp and especially where it might happen to his own picture that was in process

But we are still in the throne-room, watching the interplay of color, and glancing now and again at the gallery as Sir Walter Parratt's minstress burst forth with a delicious morsel of melody—a gavotte of Elgar's, or a serenade of Max Strange's, played on the violins without using the bows—a long pizzicato thrill. The music matches the colors, for here there are no heavy masses of Teutonic sounds or solid hues, but light, silvery sheens and gleams of gold, a hint of sapphires, a shimmer of mauve.

When we were writing of the second court, we predicted that the third.

Old Time Gownsare Midsummer's Newe The Latest of Lady Duff-Gordon's Up-to-Date Models, the

Glorification of the Linen Coat, the Grace of the New "Mermaid" Wrap

ADY DUFF-GORDON, the famous "Lucile" of London, and foremost creator of fashions in the world, writes each week the fashion article for this newspaper, illustrating it with sketches and photographs of her own original models.

Lady Duff-Gordon's new establishment in Paris places her in close touch with that centre By Lady Duff-Gordon ("Lucile")

R EAL fashions have no age. What a woman looks most beautiful in—that is fashion for her. Of course, there is a certain trend—the mode; but the mode should only be that which best becomer the wearer, adapted, per-haps, to a certain uniformity. In a day of tight skirts, a crinoline would be out of place, but then the crinoline was always out of place.

Here are a few of my newest models which are based upon olden The pretty little afternoon

By the way, it pleases Fashion this season to take some of the simplest season to take some of the simplest and, ordinarily, the cheapest of fabrics, and to lavish upon them her choicest and costliest treasures, in the way of unique designs of broidery, insertions and appliques of lace and so forth, with the results, which, because they are correctly because they are somewhat unex-pected and unusual, are all the more

And so it is that, if you want to prove that you are "in the know"— you will promptly order a gray linen dust coat or carriage wrap.
The linen is of a beautifully soft and fine texture, and the shade of gray a very carefully chosen and charming one, while as regards shape a Japanese kimono is faithfully cop-ied, as far, at any rate, as the upper part and sleeves are concerned, toilette is taken from the Victorian period—and the modern touch gives it the necessary piquant point. The debutante's gown is a simple little thing in which one can see, here and there, a favorite line of our grandmothers. The gown of grey mousseline de soie has more than a suggestion of the Orient—and what so old and always new as the hints that come from the East? I would like to call attention to the evening cloak at the right hand top of the page—the upper part is of chiffon, and the lower part has a train of charmeuse. The new drapery of chiffon is, I think, original with its jewelled straps holding it in place at each side. This is a fancy that can be varied almost illimitably to suit the wearer.

By the way it places Eachlow this inches from the hem this decorated design comes to an end it is only to give place to an equally lovely trimming of two encircling bands of silver lace, below which again there hangs a little ball fringe in the dull and bright silver, so that, you see, the original and unassuming fabric hardly comes into evidence at all. And then there is one more detail to be noted, for all down either side seam there are studded closely together any number of little gray wooden beads, which, I might tell you, serve to accentuate the outline of the figure in a very striking and attractive fashion, when the coat is wrapped closely around the wearer's body, as it is destined—and desirable—that all such garments should be nowadays—and nights!

Something quite new, too, is a coat of dark blue canvas, to which somewhat filmy fabric a sufficient substance and firmness are given by a larless curve above the neck eventually merges into great square lapels, edged with a wide but very ming chosen, too, for the finishing of the sleeves and for the making of and torture—was a garment so hopelessly hideous that every woman who took the slightest pride in her appearance would rather risk pneumonic than meaning the present the present that the present the present the present the present that the present the present the present that the present the pr monia than wear, this modern version—alike only in its name—is so entirely attractive and becoming that positively one would welcome a wet day with enthusiasm as offering a chance for its display. For let me at once affirm that—save on a day of absolute deluge—I would never advocate the wear of a mack-interpretation. intosh garment, the many admirably rain-proofed fabrics and wraps being quite sufficient protection for all or-dinary occasions and weathers, and because they are healthfully porous, and being quite capable of doing double duty as a travelling or dust coat.

But still, for those women who can indulge in a variety of wraps, and so reserve a mackintosh for its particular purpose, even one of those aforementioned days of deluge could certainly be brightened by the possession of this exceedingly smart af-fair of golden brown satin, lined with brown and white striped silk.

and therefore giving no slightest outward sign of the inner rubber.

Shantung of heavy weight quality and natural coloring is also being used for the making of a certain number of dust and race coats, but number of dust and race coats, but not with such frequency as in previous seasons. In one of its most satisfactory and smart aspects, however, it displays deep cuffs and huge lapels of white and black spotted foulard with cute little centre bands of black valves with dead with the contraction. black velvet studded with pearl buttons, the unused but decorative but-tonholes on the foulard being piped Finally, as far as day-time wraps are concerned, I must tell you that there is still being shown—and, what is more, very frequently sold—a three-quarter coat of dark blue pilot's cloth which Poiret modelled a couple of seasons ago on the absolutely straight and even lines of his own dressing gown! It has a little velvet collar, and across the front it shows the characteristic loop orna-ments, which in this case are carried out in fine black braid applique on, and, indeed, almost imbedded in, the thick soft cloth. The sleeves are, of course, of the form and close fit usually associated with mascu-line garments. The whole thing is so fascinating in its almost severe and smart simplicity that one can well understand its long-continued vogue. For, indeed, there is nothing in the style to date it, and as the material is of practically evenlective. material is of practically everlasting wear, here is a coat which could do duty for a lifetime if it were not that, alas! the wearer's figure would be almost as liable to change as the fashions in dresses in general and sleeves in particular, the cut of the coat making it obviously much less accommodating in this respect than those of the kimono variety.

Equally, of course, it is not in the least suited to the "fluffy" woman, but, on the other hand, will be perfect for the smart "tallor-made" type of femininity.

And now, if you have followed me so far, you know the latest and most authoritative news concerning daytime coats. I will just send you a few final words concerning new evening wraps in general, and, in particular, one which must surely have been inspired by visions of some beautiful mermaid! For the moire tinsel brocade interweaves sea green and silver into one lovely shimmering background for a curious device of dragons, wrought in shaded green silks and oxydized silver, while then about the feet-where the brocade is so cut in fish-tail form that it clings quite closely about the ankles silver and silk form rippling lines like waves in the moonlight. And its plining is of brightest blue, with facings of black satin to break the the bands which figure low down on the panel back, and, by reason of their curve about the hips, give a very clever suggestion of Oriental grace to this eminently Parisian creation. And always, where there are these bands of braid, there are, also, some great buttons of chany also, some great buttons of ebony centred with a circlet of the blue deed a triumph of smart and serviceable simplicity.

the responsibility and are anxious that every girl shall leave the Home with the best possible education that shall be a solid foundation on which to build their lives. Now when a girl reaches the age of fifteen she must be dismissed from this Home. She is taken by a parent or relative and usually placed in some position which she must be self-supporting.

If she is smart she has finished her public school education, has learned makes her own bed and attends to her own wardrobe. The big girls help and teach the little ones and they all learn in the very best way—by doing. They are taught to darn and mend and sew, to clean and wash and do general house work and yet they are very free from too much close application and discipline, and have time to play and chat and do whatever the bent of their own will tells them.

The matron, Miss Blight, is a charming woman with broad sympathies and much common sense and from the doctor's annual report she deserves much credit for the way the Home is much credit for the way the Home is much condition and attends to her perhaps too protected—and then suddenly without proper preparation she perhaps too protected—and then suddenly without proper preparation she finds herself face to face with the hard question of earning a living and up against many 'temptations that her living makes possible.

As Miss Blight so earnestly said, "My heart breaks when the girls leave. What are they going to do? If there was only some other home where they could be trained for a couple of years. Many of these girls wave shown special ability here in handling the younger children, but there is no one to further educate them.

While money and donations of food

It was the day that the Ontario Motor League had treated the children of to Boys' and Girls' Home to a drive around the city and to a picnic at Scarboro Beach that I went over to visit the Girls' Home on Gerrard street with the view of telling my readers about the institution.

This Home was established fifty-four years ago and has been both school and home for hundreds of homeless girls since that date.

I was delighted to find that Miss Blight is very much opposed to physical punishment, and if the nurses or teachers feel obliged to punish, a slap on the hand is all that is allowed, and this only when other and more civilized methods have proved unsuccessful. Even a slap on the hand is a relic of barbarism and it will probably go in the junk heap along with the strap and cat'o nine tails, and all the rest of the devices that punished without reforming.

A busy, interested, happy child is not a bad child.

What we call badness is only mis-I was delighted to find that Miss

To-day however there are really no give away the things they thought so

There are here eighty-five girls ranging from four to fourteen years old and they are put here by a parent or relative and are paid for in part, their own people being still their guardians.

How delightful they were to show their mending and embroidery and painting. No wonder the Girls' Home appeals to the sympathies of so many and no wonder Miss Blight and Mrs. Ross, her able assistant, feel keenly the responsibility and are anxious that are appeared to the proposition of the properties of t

The "Till death do us part" is a clause that has been a clever classic worked overtime and the whole scheme a cunningly devised arrangement that has kept women in subjection.

During the past week I have entertained and visited about thirty women deserted by the men they married and left to support from one to six little children. Dozens of these children are in the boys' and girls' homes, others are kept in rooms or shacks, while these poor heart-broken women are washing and scrubbing to support in part or wholly their little children. One woman-a Roman Catholic-told me she was only thirty years old and had had ten children, seven of whom, were dead because of the abuse she received before and after the births. I asked her if her husband were also Roman Catholic and she said he was I asked if she had ever tried to get the priest to interfere and she said he tole her she must make the best of a bac bargain and must do nothing to pre-vent having children. But she added "I have lived my last days with the brute. I have cried and prayed for mercy. I have scrubbed office buildings within a day of a birth and less than two weeks after. I'll pray no more, I don't believe there is any God watching over us." And then talk at out the sacredness of marriage. tell you marriage is sacred when it i and when it is not it's hell, and for a lot of Rev. D. D's and Rev. Fathers to trss intellectual balls at each other and get excited over divorce laws and squabble over Latin sentences and not try to legislate for the support of deserted mothers with babies in their arms is to prove their unfitness for the job of running things and the sooner women take a hand in saying a few things on marriage and divorce

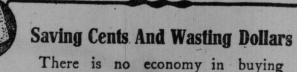

Women should certainly legislate for themselves on the marriage question. I notice that the National Council of Women are mildly and meekly suggesting that this or that reform should be recommended. They fight shy of discussing the authority of the church and calmly submit to the enforcement of more stringent laws when they should deny with all their might the wisdom of allowing men to legislate What a row there is to be sure over in church and state upon marriage laws without their consent.

It must have become fairly obvious to the readers of this column that I do not agree with the unnecessarily combative person who laid it down as a law not to be questioned that the pun is the lowest form of humor. I am inclined, however, to think that the conundrum easily holds that position, and I do not therefore put what immediately follows this in the form of a question. It has nevertheless, occurred to me that you can make a conundrum of it if you like, and the idea is that the two popular characters who suggest a male cook grilling mutton chops are Mutt and Jeff, or, as you might put it, in explanation, Mutton chef.

A doctor in America has been telling a newspaper man there that, in his opinion it is practically possible, now, to graft a leg or an arm from one person to another as easily as, it is to graft one fruit tree on to a secend-provided, of course, that you can induce a sound person to yield up the desired limb. You will, I think, probably agree that we have watched the gradual process of America sufficiently long to make it possible to believe that there is no "grafting" operation so difficult as to be impossible for our down in content of the co dear ingenious cousins.

In a humorous musical criticism The London "Punch" printed in the number that last reached Toronto, I read that "Madame Brisbani launched Probably few men have succeeded in working more solid excitement into a few crowded minutes than did a man from Haileybury passing thru Toronto en route for England. Last Thursday en route for England. Last Thursday he went along to the Queen-street bridge over the Don and fastening one end of a strap to the bridge and the other round his neck—jumped. That would have been enough for most men, but in this case the strap broke, and cleansted at not heing able to and, disgusted at not being able to choose his own method of departing this life he made strenuous efforts not to drown and was eventually pulled out of the river by the police. Then he was run off to the station and charged with attempted suicide. he was run off to the station and charged with attempted suicide. Thence he paid a short visit to the General Hospital to be overhauled and patched up, and at last he found rest in the lunatic asylum. He had considerably more excitement, in less than one hundredth part of the time, than if he had just been watching a humdrum coronation.

That mood the Frenchman calls "esprit d'escaller."

Mr. Punch's Coronation number has reached me. It is illustrated chiefly by Messrs. Bernard Partridge and Raven Hill. Come to think of it this reads as if the pictures were done by the birds—a raven, ill, and a burned partridge.

The Inborn Talent.

The inborn talent, then, is something distinct from the material of our experience and the technical use we make of that material. Just what it is proves rather baffling to define. But at least it includes several different elements: First, the art of really seeing-the artist's eye, which looks thru and beyond the mere outward material aspect and sees the vision of some great, unpainted picture.

Secondly, a fine instinct for the value of words-a gift that is some thing quite different from mere richness of vocabulary on the one hand, and the possession of style, on the other. Vocabulary may be increased at will by patiently memorizing a dictionary, and style is a matter of cadence and sound sequence-it is quite possible to write rather sad trash in an impeccable style. But a sense of the true value of words, and instinct for finding, within the limits of our spoken language, the precise word and phrase that will as nearly as possible convey a thought that is perhaps bigger or subtler than any spoken words—this indeed stamps the possessor as having the Inborn Talent

And lastly, it includes the possession of ideas, as distinct from knowle. You may know a vast number of useful facts, such as that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points-but such knowledge no more constitutes the Inborn Talent than such a definition constitutes literature. But ideas, big, vital ideas, of the compelling sort, that force themselves into written words, in the face of obstacles and disappointments and the inertia of public indifference, are the very essence of the creative spirit, the golden hallmark of the Inborn Talent .- Frederic Taber Cooper, in "The Craftsmanship of Writing."

Description of Queed.

To describe Queed in a small compass is extremely difficult—particularly as from the first chapter to the last he is continually developing in response to his environment. When the reader first meets him he is a solitary, narrow-minded, frail young man completely absorbed in writing a learned work on evolutionary sociology. His day is scrupulously mapped out so that, except for a meagre allowance of time for sleep and meals, every minute can be devoted to the book which is to revolutionize the world. By degrees this schedule is broken down. Money matters, the interests of the city, the heroine—a bewitchingly attractive girl—all contribute to this end, and at last we find Queed transformed into a man of the most winning character—the editor of the city's important newspaper and a worthy and successful lover.

One of the most remarkable cases of One of the most remarkable cases of versatility in a musician was that of Sir William Herschel, a German organist, who went to England about 1757, and after living a honorable career as an organist at Halifax, and later at Bath, he manufactured a telescope with which he discovered the planet Uranus. Saint-Saens, the noted French composer, has won great dis-tinction as an astronomer, and is also an authority on Egyptology. In this latter capacity he reminds one of Sir George Grove, who compiled the famous dictionary of musicians, and at the some time won great distinction as a bibliologist. Grove was also an en-gineer, and this serves to remind one of the fact that Cesar Cui, the Russian composer, is a general in the Russian army, and acted for many years as in-structor in fortifications at a Russian military training college similar to West Point. Sir Edward Elgar, the English composer, devotes a large amount of time to chemistry.

The Buffalo Courier of Sunday, June 11, has the following to say of Barnaby Nelson's first appearance in Barnaby Neison's first appearance in that city:

A delightful concert was given on Friday evening, the occasion being especially notable owing to the first appearance before a Buffalo audience of Barnaby Nelson, a young tenor from Toronto, who sang several numbers and who created a splendid impression. Mr. Nelson has a manly stage presence, an impressive delivery and a voice of good compass and beautiful quality. The excellence of his diction adds to the value and enjoyment of his singing. "La Serenata," by Tours, two songs of wedely different character, and affording the singer an opportunity for contrasting styles of vocalism, proved favorite selections. reason for calling the Pope's bodyguard the "Swiss Guard." a correspondent says: In short, because they are natives of Switzerland. The guard came into being in the reign of Pope Julius II., who asked his friend Peter von Hertenstein, canon of Lucerne Cathedral, to send him 200 Swiss men at arms to protect his person. The assembly at Zurich consented to the enlistment of the men, and in January, 1506, the guard, commanded by young nobleman, Casper von Silinen, entered the Eternal City.

In the 400 years of his existence the guard has made an honorable record.
They fought well when fighting was necessary, but of late deadly weapons have been laid aside and the function of the body now is to act as a guard of henor to the Pope.

Permit me to draw your attention to the 2tth chapter of the gospel as recorded by St. Matthew and the 36th verse where you will read these words "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven but my Father only." An old English version makes that same verse read as follows: "But that day and hour man maketh known, neither the angels who are in heaven, neither the angels who are in heaven, neither the angels who are in heaven, neither the son, but the Father." This is the correct reading according to several of the ablest critics of the age.

An Unfuffiled Prophecy.

This text of scripture has been frequently used to show that no one ever would know even approximately the time when Jesus would return to earth. In the early part of the nimeteenth century a man having heard some of their strongest weapon in support of their theory that the correct remains the true of the approximately the world went from that extreme to the coming of Christ upon the earth and declared that on a certain nour in the year last. In the early part of the nineteenth century a man having heard some of cury elders preach on this question—the second coming of Christ—became quite interested in the subject. He did not obey the gospel but made this subject a hobby. He was surrounded by many people and finally they went from one extreme to the other until they eventually set the day and some historians tell us that they even set the hour. We have read how that knoweth anything about a railroad, nor a steamboat, nor an envelope, nor an angel, He did not reveal it to a single human being. But that does not prove that He never would reveal to any man and that Jesus Christ questions that are indicated to be answered in writing must also be answered, and at the end of the term the coupons and written answers, duly signed with name and address, must be delivered to this office. The prizes will be awarded according to the number of coupons sent in, and the merits of the never do. That would prove too much, and therefore all the argument upon that text to the effect that it proves that no man ever will know the hour. wers.

am going to show you that it is a wonderful text in favor of that we may know. "But of the times and seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you for ye yourselves know per-fectly that the day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night for when they shall say 'Pease and safety' they shall sudden destruction come upon them as travail upon a woman with child and they shall not escape." "Why, brother Evans," says one, "you ought never to have read that. It shows clearly that they shal not know when He is coming upon them. He is coming as a thief in the night." As a thief in the night? Yes. Upon the child of God? Never. It is coming upon them—who is "them?" It says, "suden destruction cometh upon them' Is sudden destruction going to come upon the children of God? If so, what benefit is it to be a child of God is sudden destruction will come upon one It taxes all my charity when I hear an argument like that made one with a Bible in his hand and I think if he was only honest enough torea d the very next verse it would upset all his theory. Let us read it.

"But ye brethren, (that is the children of God) are not in darkness that that day should overtake you as a thief in the night." Now your his toy. nor a steamboat, nor an envelope, nor a postage stamp, nor electric light."

nor the telegraph nor the telephone and a hundred of the other inventions with which we are familiar to-day. Would He not have been telling the truth? Yes.

But that wouldn't prove that because they didn't know anything concerning these things then that they never would know anything about them. It is an axiomatic truth that that which proves too much proves nothing at all and therefore the argument that would prove from that word 'knoweth' that they never would know proves more than any denomination, any logician any scholar would agree to.

But the find are not in darkness that that day should overtake you as a thief in the night." Now your big text only proves this: the wicked world the high in the night and they shall suddenly be destroyed, but the brethren, the night." Now your big text only proves this: the wicked world then light. The wicked world the high in the night. The wicked world the high in the night and they shall suddenly be destroyed, but the brethren of God) shall know and there it shall not overtake you as a thief in the night." Now your big text only proves this: the wicked world then light. The wicked world the high in the night. The wicked world then light in the night. The wicked world the high in the night in the night. The wicked world then light in the night. The wicked world the high in the night and they shall suddenly be destroyed, but the brethren. It is an axiomatic truth that that which proves too much proves nothing at all our opponents use to prove our position to be a fallacy and both these texts show clearly that the child-in that day should overtake you as a thief in the night." Now your big text only proves this: the wicked world then light. The wild in the night. The light in the night. The wild in the night. The light in the night. T than any denomination, any logician any schelar would agree to.

Therefore, it can only mean that at that time God had not revealed to any man the hour and day of Christ's second coming. But it does not stop with that but goes further. Let us read: "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no not even the angels." That is to say even the angels did not know the time appointed by the Father. "Oh," says one, "I do not dhink anybody knew." Not so fast. The text says there was one individual knew—'My Father only." God knew it then but He did not reveal it to an angel, He did not reveal it to a myth the suthority to confer the right of priesthood on man to repre-

shows that Rome denounced and excommunicated the reformers. You will readily see that from either side of the question the Protestant church has no priesthood authority, (and but few of them claim to have any, and worse and more of it some of them claim that they do not require any) and so you will discover that no matter how honest and sincere the man may be who baptized you, it is not a question of his being a good man, it is a question of divine authority, being conferred upon a good man. If that authority was not conferred, the fact that he was a good man does not give him the right to baptize you.

Authorized to Baptize.

You may ask, "By what authority do you baptize?" I will gladly answer that Joseph Smith was ordained by the angel. He blessed His son and He was ordained to be his father's successor in the prophet office and I was ordained by him. Of course Liberalism claims credit for this state of things described by Louis Botha, but with Gladstone at the helm, instead of Chamberlain, there would have been no united South Africa just as there would have been no reclaimed Soudan. He stands for Chamberlainism thru thick and thin, as we all know, and has always been a stumbling-block in the path of the deyout Cobdenite, who travels thru Canada in quest of party capital. As long as men of such mass and momentum are shoving in the political 'scrimmage the Canadian west can never be lost to the Empire. Of J. D. THE CRAZE FORSIAMESE CATS

Two of the Duchess of Roxburgh's Collection of Siamese Beauties.

TUST at present the Siamese cat is the pet that holds the centre of the stage.

The fad for these cats has become a sort of craze in Paris and London, and nearly every person of note owns one. Even those people who have always hated cats have been won over by pussy from Siam, for she is more like a dog than a cat, and has none of the nasty characteristics that we have learned to call "catty."

One can take a Slamese cat on one's walks and she will not become panicky at the least noise or strangers, but will trot alone beside her master just like a dog. These cats are marvelously intelligent and respond to words that other

One of the chief reasons for the fad for these cats is that they are a distinct novelty, for until about eighteen years ago none was allowed to leave Siam, and only royal people were permitted to own them

But a pair of these were presented to Lady Marcus Beresford about twenty years ago by one of the royal princes of Siam, and she started a cattery at her English home. Others took up breeding from her cats and kittens and now by paying a pretty high price for them any one may own Siamese

They are still very, very rare in America, however, only ten being known to exist here, but now it is the fashion abroad to own them we shall soon find them the rage here. The Duchess of Roxburghe has a number of them; also the Countess

Lady Suffolk's cats-she now has more than twenty of them-are all of a duil white, with black ears, noses, tails and paws. The black does not end abruptly where it joins the white, but is gradually blended. They have clear yellow-green eyes and white whiskers, and present a most striking appearance. Their hair is short, like that of an ordinary house cat, and in that respect they differ from most of the other Asiatic varieties with which Americans are more or less familiar.

In Siam it is a grave crime to kill one of these cats, and they roam at will with impunity. They are held in high esteem in the royal palaces, and for that reason are often referred to as the royal sacred cats of their strange fascination.

It is said that no one can be long associated with these peculiar animals without falling under the spell

How far the Siamese theory of the transmutation of the soul through these cats is to be upheld may be a matter of conjecture, but Lady Suffolk's experience with them has convinced her that there is certainly something about them which indicates strong individual personalities, and she is keeping them under close observation, in the hope of making some interesting discovery along this line.
It is certain that the ancients had than they are accorded nowadays.

The dwellers along the Nile always felt a superstitious reverence for "pretty pussy," and it is said that when one died a natural death a great deal more respect for cats in any house, the inmates promptly shaved their eyebrows as a token of their grief.

In case of a fire, the Egyptians' first concern was the household cat. Perhaps the high regard in which the Egyptians seemed to have held these animals is due to the fact that cats of that period were evidently useful as well as orn

How the Ladies of Paris and London Have Adopted the Rare Felines in Place of Lap-dogs

It is said that they were trained to hunt and carry waterfowl, and many Egyptian paintings representing hunting scenes along the Nile exhibit these cats plunging into the ing hunting scenes along the Nile exhibit these cats plunging into the wet marshes to retrieve and carry the sportsman's prey. Whether these cats were of a different species to those of the present time, seems to be a matter of considerable doubt among the naturalists. but the chances are that pussy has changed much more than his masters or mistresses.

The whole theatrical world of Paris has succumbed to these cats, and every smart actress and singer has one, not to mention playwrights and managers. Paris never does things by halves, and it is making the Siamese cat a sort of mania. Almost any price is paid there for perambulator as if it was a baby, and, of course, attracts an immen amount of attention, as she desires.

Francois de Croisset, the author f "Arsene Lupin," has one. Here is a photo of the cat on his master's Ever Feel Like This?

A correspondent of The British Medical Journal gives an account of the curious symptoms he experienced after drinking tea. He writes: "Whenever I take tea I go thru a regular procession of events, most distressing and stultifying. Shortly, these are as follows: Within fifteen minutes of walking (movement seems to be essential) I feel hot about the scalp and knees; the former feels as if pepper were dusted all over it; then I practically lose my sight and hearing, and, if in conversation, cannot say more than 'yes' or 'no' because I am so faint and listless; then I lose the power of walking quite straight and choose the wall side of the path; lastly, I break out into a general perspiration, and within forty-five minutes I return to my senses." This correspondent adds that he has consulted many medical men, but has never found any means of relief.

Latest Parisian Fad.

The latest fad of Parisian drawing rooms is a new species of tea from Abyssinia, known to science as "cathaedulis," which bids fair to supplant the India and China varieties at fashionable "five-o'clocks."

The "catha," which also grows in Natal, Arabia and Egypt, is a tall shrub, with long, thin leaves of the appearance of leather. Dried in the same manner as ordinary tea, these leaves give a gold colored infusion slightly bitter in taste, and said to have a very agreeable effect on the nerves.
