

CAPITAL LEVY IN FRANCE NOW SEEMS LIKELY

Clementel's Proposal is Causing Sensation in Paris

MODIFY PHRASE Finance Minister's Reported Speech Doctored To Take Out Sting

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Official circles conceded today that a capital levy in some form or other was among the plans the government was studying for a solution of France's financial troubles.

This was admitted in those circles to be the proper interpretation of a declaration made in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday by Finance Minister Clementel, who first came to notice when the printed sheets on the finance debate was distributed to the press.

RESOLUTION TO AMEND B. N. A. ACT WITHDRAWN

Premier Says Dominion Has Right to Change Laws

GREAT DIFFERENCE OF OPINION EXISTS

Curiously Confused Divisions Noted During Lengthy Debate

Special to The Times-Star. OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—After evolving comment ranging all the way from emphatic endorsement through qualified approval to downright condemnation, a resolution asking that Great Britain be asked to give the Canadian Parliament power to amend the British North America Act, introduced in the House of Commons by W. F. MacLean, Conservative member for South York, was withdrawn tonight at the end of an eight-hour debate extending over two days.

Not since the tariff discussions of last session has the House witnessed such a curiously confused division of public opinion—confused, that is, in regard to party groupings.

King and Meighen. The Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Maclean King, and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservatives, were at one in opposing an immediate vote and declaring that, to all intents and purposes, Canada could amend her constitution now, but differed on the principle raised by the MacLean resolution.

The Premier admitted that the question of constitutional reform was open to discussion and that it should be considered at the conference of the provinces already announced. Mr. Meighen, on the other hand, was unalterably opposed to any project that would result in the stripping of "the British Empire" of any of those dignities which enhance it in the eyes of the world.

Parties Divide on Issue. This difference of opinion was to be expected, but the divisions within the parties were more unusual. On the Liberal side of the House, for instance, A. R. MacMaster, of Brno, was all for an entirely new constitution which would establish majority rule of the provinces, while Herbert Martler, one of the Montreal Liberal members, maintained that the granting of such a charter would be nothing short of calamitous.

Thomas Vren, Liberal member for Lithiere, on the other hand, was at outs with both Mr. Martler and Mr. MacMaster. Quebec, he said, would never accept such a proposal as that made by the member for Brno, but there was no question as to the need of constitutional reform, particularly in regard to the Senate, which, he thought, should be elected.

Goes After Drayton. Over on the Conservative side of the House the confusion was quite as marked, and far more laughable. Sir Henry Drayton (West York) denounced talk of constitutional reform as diabolical, only to be met with the retort from Mr. MacLean that he had never heard a more pedantic speech than that of Sir Henry. In fact Mr. MacLean even went so far as to challenge T. L. Church, Conservative, North Toronto, to debate the question of their respective loyalties in loyal Toronto.

Even the Progressives were not united. Hon. T. A. Cresser advocated revision of the B. N. A. Act as a necessary step towards nationhood, while John Evans, Saskatoon, would have none of revision until the Prairie Provinces had been given the same rights as the original members of Confederation.

Labor Members Differ. Then, to cap the climax, the Labor party of two members was also torn by intestine strife. J. S. Woodsworth, Centre Winnipeg, sponsored an amendment which asked that the power be given to the Dominion Parliament to amend the B. N. A. Act after consulting the provinces, while W. Irvine, Calgary East, introduced a second amendment, endorsing the MacLean resolution in principle, but asking that the matter be referred to the proposed conference of the provinces before the British Parliament was approached.

A WORD TO WOMEN. A hundred and twenty-one thousand women would comprise a vast army more than that number of women who had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for feminine ailments. The result proved that ninety-eight out of every hundred reported benefit from its use. This is most remarkable evidence of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of womankind, and should influence every sick and ailing woman to try it.

Glasses or What?

To four in every five of us the question is bound to come—Glasses or what?

To nineteen headaches out of twenty it's a case of Glasses or a life of repeated pains.

To the world in general as it lives and works today—quite removed from the open sunshine and scenery that human eyes were made for—little and big distortions have come into strained eyes.

With those eyes—and they are average eyes—mind you—it becomes a case of Glasses or what?

THE MARITIME MILLION.

As the Maritime battalions form for the march on Ottawa, and as supplementary delegations are organizing in the other provinces, the attention of Canada at large is centered upon the fact that there has been a deep and significant awakening of popular sentiment, not for the selfish benefit of the Maritimes alone but for the good of all Canada.

More than a million people in the Maritime Provinces stand behind the Maritime delegation, and the cause has the support of the other provinces because the aims of the movement are essentially national. What the Maritime million are asking for, the purpose of the movement to which their representatives have given a lead and a voice, is a new measure of Canadian prosperity, real national co-operation, and the application of federal enterprise so that every part of Canada shall feel and shall share in the fruits of national effort.

There never was, in the recent history of Canada at least, any such awakening of the people to a concerted and vigilant interest in their own affairs. They have come to see how great a part national transportation plays in the life of the country, and how much practical good can be accomplished through a more patriotic and intelligent use of our transportation agencies, through recovering the exports we have been sending through foreign channels and routing them through our own, through retaining Canadian traffic, outgoing and incoming, for our own railroads and for our own ports, and through a recognition, East and West, of the extent to which the business health of each province depends upon the other.

Next week Parliament, in a very real sense, will hear from the country. The Maritime Provinces, through leadership, organization and publicity, have within the last few weeks become the spear-head of a great national movement from which the country at large confidently expects early and far-reaching results.

FORESTS ARE MORE THAN MONEY.

Whether an embargo on Canadian pulpwood from private lands be advocated or opposed, there is certainly much light on the whole matter to be found in statistics, which are now said to be generally accepted by both sides to the controversy, showing that eighty-five per cent. of the wood of Canada is owned or controlled by the various governments, leaving only fifteen per cent. of the total forest area to which an embargo could apply.

This aspect of the case is presented by Mr. Ralph H. Bell, of Halifax, Vice-President of the Canadian Pulpwood Association. Of this fifteen per cent. of freehold forest, Mr. Bell estimates that at least one-third is owned by Canadian pulp and paper companies or by other industries using wood.

The Pulpwood Association says that a majority of Canadian forestry experts have repeatedly asserted that ninety per cent. of the annual destruction of wood in Canada is due to insects, fungi, fire, and storms; so that if the annual cutting alone had to be considered, there would be to-day practically as much timber in the country as there was forty years ago. Unfortunately the supply is very greatly diminished, and there is no doubt at all about the wisdom of conservation.

It is not only remarkable, but alarming if it is true, that natural causes, fire, insects and destructive growths eat up ninety per cent. of the wood which disappears annually, and that only ten per cent. is really utilized. The Association argues that the greatest causes of wastage should be attacked first, by means of more extended scientific measures against fire and insect pests. In other words, while eighty-five per cent. of Canadian forest areas are publicly owned, and the export of wood from them is already forbidden, this country allows its heritage to be wasted every year through largely preventable natural causes and by fire. This waste is terrific when compared with the amount of wood turned into profit through lumbering operations.

The provinces which have extensive forests should need no argument to cause them to extend very rapidly their measures of conservation, because standing timber is just as much money in the bank at good interest, and proper policies will permit not only a great annual cut but would also greatly increase the amount of timber in reserve. Nor can the money profit from the timber be considered alone. The forests mean infinitely more than that. Their presence is vital to successful agriculture, because it greatly influences stream flow, and prevents destructive freshets and droughts. The forests conserve the winter's supply of moisture and release it gradually under normal conditions. They store up power and they greatly influence climate. One great benefit from the discussion concerning the pulpwood embargo should be to concentrate public attention and legislative action in every province which is fortunate enough to have a forest reserve upon the extension and perfection of plans to guard the forest heritage, and even to expand it systematically through limiting the various causes of destruction. In the matter of revenue we should be content with the interest on this money in the bank. Indeed, we should consider the years to come and constantly increase the capital which our standing timber represents.

THE U. S. AND FRANCE.

Discussion of the French debt to the United States is not altogether good-natured in either country. The French press and some of the public men of France resent what they regard as an American disposition to press unduly for payment in full, and considerable American comment, on the other hand, is rather sharp in tone and leans toward charging the French nation with a desire, or an intention to default. American opinion, it is to be noted, is somewhat divided. The Chicago Journal of Commerce says flatly that any proposal to reduce the sum owed by France will not be acceptable in the United States, and it suggests the appointment of a committee of experts to ascertain France's ability to pay, as was done in the case of Germany. That sort of plan is unlikely to be adopted. At all events the very suggestion of it will be sharply criticized in Paris.

That the United States would do well to follow the British example, and will be forced to follow it in the end, is the view frankly advanced by the New York World. The United States Senate will probably snort indignantly at such advice to-day, but before the matter is finally adjusted it may be compelled to change its view because of reasons which the World presents rather bluntly. The World is inclined to regard the British plan as one exhibiting practical wisdom rather than national generosity, whereas the truth is that it combines both. The World says:

"The difference between British and American debt policy is that Britain's financial statements are realistic, while our own senators and debt commissioners are good at making speeches. We shall find here we are through that we can collect no more of an international debt than is collectible without injury to the whole structure of international finance, that the last red cent is not collectible from France and that in our own interest we shall cut from our loans to France, if not as much as the British have cut, at least a sum quite comparable with it."

"Only, when that day comes, we shall find Great Britain enjoying prestige on the Continent as the most generous of creditors, while we ourselves, collecting no more or very little more, shine universally as niggards."

"The British know enough to know what they can collect from France, and put their knowledge to good use. Our own senatorial experts on finance are doing with American opinion precisely what Poincare did with French opinion about Germany eighteen months ago; they are teaching it to overreach itself. They have promised us the moon and set some of us thinking we can have it."

National debts are a delicate subject for negotiations and discussion, and ill feeling in Paris and in Washington is likely to be increased for a time by discussion in Congress and in the Chamber of Deputies, but the temper of both governments is calmer than such discussion indicates, and the force of the British example will grow as time elapses. The Americans loaned a great deal of money to Italy and have some obligations in mind in considering France. In the end they will discover, as the World suggests, that they can collect only what is collectible.

The habit which cities, towns and villages have of getting into debt and then getting in deeper is not universal. It is a habit which could and should be cured. There is a place called Willowdale in Ontario which has the good habit of showing an annual surplus. For last year the town's surplus was $64,000, and the year before it was nearly as great. The tax rate has been steadily reduced year after year. The Council insures forty volunteer firemen, the policy giving each man $20 a week if he is injured, or turning over $9,000 to his estate if he is killed. Willowdale just sets the example of paying its way right along, leaving a good sum left over. The example ought to be contagious.

thirteen per cent., as compared with thirty-eight per cent. in 1920. Judge Mott tries to work it out on the friendly and fatherly method, and Toronto praises him for giving unstinted time and effort to the job of keeping first offenders among boys and girls from becoming hardened and developing into criminal types.

Odds and Ends

"You never know what you'll find among the odds and ends."—From "Notes by a Wayfarer."

Tax the Fat Ones

From Cleveland, which is in the State or Commonwealth of Ohio, comes a proposal which will probably rock the American nation to its base, says the staid Boston Transcript. That is, the proposal was made in Cleveland, but the maker was Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters, an authority in dietetics resident in New York. Dr. Peters (would that she were a man) would tax all fat persons. Had she her way, Daniel Lambert would pay a surtax and sweets would only be eaten with midnight stealth; nobody save the very rich would dare a second helping of anything, and out-sized would be treasonable offences.

What are the reasons given for this proposal by Dr. Peters? In the first place, she lays it down that fat persons are a liability to the country and should pay for the trouble they make. There is much to commend in this, though constitutional law must first be regarded. The rights of fat persons (male and female) are secured by organic rules not lightly to be set aside. But when a gentleman weighing three hundred pounds sits on you inadvertently, Runnymede is apt to be forgotten. Getting down to dots, Dr. Peters avers that fat persons take up more room than the law allows in trolley-cars, but she forgets that apparently the law allows no room in trolley-cars, which is a fatal defect in her thesis. Besides, whom does she mean by "persons"? This term is at once ambiguous and sinister, for we are assured by competent authority that when one lady calls another lady a "person" there is rough stuff abroad. Let us seek the ways of peace and opine that she means men dowered with obesity.

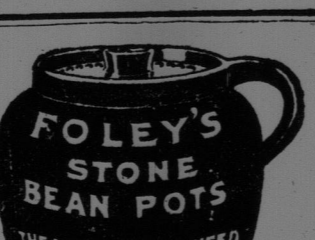

Dr. Peters also bases her proposal on economic grounds, affirming that the heavy ones eat more than their share of the world's food supply. We think this is a very serious matter. We indeed look for a reconsidered scheme whereby the diet of such interferences shall be cut down to one meal per week. This certainly would do away with much of the present distress and though it may work a certain wanness among these "persons" in the end, it will have beneficial results; waists will grow wasplike and the quick, firm step of reformed fat persons will echo lithely in the land. And yet, you know, the quality of mercy is not strained. Does a man of set purpose grow to these large proportions? We trot not, for in many cases this avoirdupois seems plainly the wanton accretion of nature.

The Oldest Ad.

(Brandon Sun.) Of course our efficiency methods are better than of old. If a man loses a horse today he puts an advertisement in the paper to the effect that the man who took it is known. Then he adds that if the horse is not returned, distress is going to happen to distress the person who took it, or some words to that effect. The very first known newspaper advertisement, printed in 1649 in an English paper called the Moderator, was worded as follows: "Reader, thou art entreated to inquire after a blackish and kind of piebald nag, very poor, his face, feet and flank white, and a little white tip on his tail. He was stolen from grass from John Rotherham of Barnet, in Hertfordshire. Whosoever will inquire, find him out and bring or send tidings of his shall have what content they will for their pains."

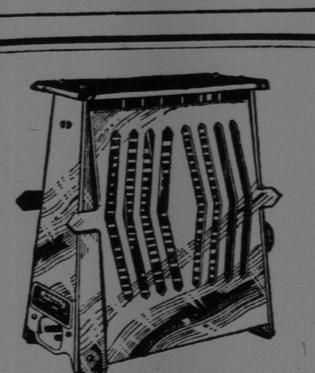

The Explanation.

(London Opinion.) "We are all of us waited on hand and foot by thousands of other people," says a statistician. We suppose it is because they get in each other's way that the soup so often arrives cold.

THE WEST END STREET CAR SERVICE.

To the Editor of The Times-Star: Sir.—There seems to be no reasonable excuse why the Street Railway should not operate their cars on the section below Lancaster avenue. As it is now, with the car only running up to the head of Queen Square, the service only benefits a small portion of the West Side citizens.

When they ceased operations on Queen Street everyone thought it only a temporary expedient and that normal service would soon be restored. We have patiently borne with the inconvenience and delay, and yet nothing has materialized. From time to time we hear of "assured service," and we who live below the terminating line feel we are justly entitled to this service. There should be no discrimination in the process of serving, and there is no logical impediment to prevent operating the Queen Street section. If conditions are unfavorable for street car traffic along Union Street, they can at least come down Queen to Albert and return, instead of waiting for some minutes at the top of the square, as they do at present. This section would take in the majority of those who patronized the street cars when this part of the "loop line" was in operation. We justly look for and expect the restoration of the service that was assured us when the charter was

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN

To be effective, bran fiber must go through the various digestive processes without submitting to any of them. It must pass through the entire alimentary tract without its form being changed. What happens when a bran food is eaten? After the saliva has acted upon it, it passes through the stomach and into the intestines, where every part which is not fiber is absorbed. In ALL-BRAN the quantity of fiber is so great that it furnishes bulk enough to prevent and relieve constipation. In a part-bran food, the quantity of fiber is so small that there is only a puny amount to do a heroic task. ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Demand it.

Enthusiastic Support For Ottawa Deputation Is Sweeping Through Maritimes

MONCTON WILL SEND CARLOAD OF SUPPORTERS

Fredericton City Council and Board of Trade Back All-Canadian Policy

TWO PREMIERS ARE GOING TO CAPITAL

Demand For Restriction of Preference to Home Ports Waxing Stronger

THE delegation that will go from the Maritime Provinces on Wednesday, next, to impress upon Parliament the desirability of an all-Canadian transportation policy to promote the general prosperity of Canada, was further augmented yesterday. The number that will go from St. John has already reached 100; the Fredericton Board of Trade and the Fredericton City Council will each send representatives; Moncton is aiming at a deputation of carload strength; Chatham and Newcastle will send five each and St. Stephen also will be represented. Another Premier, besides Hon. P. J. Veniot, of New Brunswick, was added to the ranks yesterday when it was announced that Hon. James D. Stewart would accompany the delegation from Prince Edward Island. Towns and cities everywhere in the Maritime Provinces are lining up behind the project; support has already come from Quebec, Vancouver and Montreal, and it is expected that the deputation will be further strengthened in the days that intervene between now and the appearance of the delegation in Ottawa on Thursday, next.

Capital Council Approves.

FREDERICTON, Feb. 19.—The Fredericton City Council this afternoon at a special session named His Worship Mayor R. L. Phillips, Deputy Mayor J. B. Dickson, Alderman W. E. Farrell and Alderman D. W. Otis as representatives of the council on the big Maritime delegation which is to appear before the Federal Government and the House of Commons in committee at Ottawa on Feb. 26 for the purpose of supporting the demand for recognition of the principles of transportation of Canadian products through Canadian ports and channels and application of the British preferential tariff only to imports through Canadian ports.

Board of Trade Adheres.

The Board of Trade tonight empowered the executive to name representatives to go with the Maritime delegation to Ottawa. A telegram named by Mayor Potts and Warden Wignome, of St. John, urging the appointment of delegates and support of the principles named was read at the opening of the meeting of the City Council.

A. P. Wetmore, of St. John, representing jointly the Boards of Trade of St. John and Halifax, appeared before the Council and outlined the object of the movement, which has been under way for some time, to place the wishes of the Maritime Provinces before Parliament. He pointed out that already action favorable to Canadian ports had been taken in regard to routing Canadian products through Canadian ports. The movement was not sectional, as Halifax had eagerly joined with St. John at the first and Quebec and Montreal both were interested.

Will Have Special Train.

Nova Scotia would have a special train of delegates and it was believed that altogether there would be some three hundred people go. Already several New Brunswick towns and cities had decided to send delegations and Fredericton should be represented. There was no political bias in the matter and none would be permitted, Mr. Wetmore declared.

Would Help Other Places.

Ald. Dickson followed Mr. Wetmore, speaking strongly in favor of sending a delegation. The present was the time for a supreme effort. Development of traffic through Canadian ports would be a direct benefit to Fredericton, as it would hasten the construction of the Vancouver-King's Head link of the C. N. R., as well as of the new bridge across the St. John River here.

Deaths

Mrs. J. L. Hunter. Relatives and friends were greatly shocked last night by the sudden death of Mrs. Joseph L. Hunter, of Rothesay avenue, who, although in failing health for some time, had not been considered in a critical condition. Her husband and sons were attending the policemen's sports when the sad news was conveyed to them. Mrs. Hunter was a daughter of the late J. McTravis and Mrs. McTravis, of Rothesay avenue, and had lived in that vicinity all her life. She was very greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends.

Deaths

Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Henry J. and Kenneth J., at home, and three daughters, Mrs. C. W. Cherry, of this city; Gertrude, of Boston, and Kathlyn, at home. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. J. McTravis, of Rothesay avenue, three sisters and two brothers. The brothers are James McTravis, of this city, and Hugh, of Manitoba, and the sisters are Mrs. Thomas Hayes, of Rothesay avenue; Mrs. Frank Bowes and Mrs. James McNamee, of this city.

Deaths

Samuel McCormick. After a short illness the death of Samuel McCormick occurred last night at his residence, 151 Chesley street. He was a life long resident of the north end of the city and was held in very high regard by a wide circle of friends. He will be greatly mourned. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Charles and Joseph, and two daughters, Mary and Margaret, all at home; four brothers, Ralph and John, of this city, and Hugh, of Presque Isle, and Rev. Charles McCormick, C. S. S. R., of Quebec, both of whom were called to St. John by their brother's illness. One sister, Mrs. Thomas Buckley, of this city, also survives.

Deaths

Leslie Speight. Stephen Speight, of East St. John, received a telegram Wednesday telling him of the critical illness of his brother, Leslie, who was suffering from pneumonia in Portland, Me. Last night another telegram brought word that his

Exports Less Via Portland

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—There was a big decrease in the quantity of Canadian products exported via Portland Me. in 1924 as compared with 1923. In answer to a question from Dr. Murray McLaren, Conservative, St. John, it was stated in the House of Commons today 7,480,183 bushels of grain, 6,921 head of cattle and 84,774 tons of package freight traveled over the Canadian National Railways to Portland for export in 1924. In 1923 the figures were 19,048,819 bushels, 9,220 head, and 105,523 tons, respectively.

Besides her husband and four small children, she is survived by three brothers, Hugh, of Smithtown, and Frank and Louis, of Somerville, and three sisters, Mrs. J.

Yesterday In Parliament

THE SENATE did not sit. IN THE HOUSE—The debate on the resolution of W. F. Maclean, proposing to secure for the Dominion the power to amend the British North America Act was taken up. An amendment to the amendment of J. S. Woodworth was moved by W. Irvine, Labor, East Calgary, which would refer the question to the conference of the provinces mentioned in the speech from the throne. The resolution was opposed by both the Premier and the leader of the opposition and the amendment and the sub-amendment were eventually withdrawn.

Fables On Health

FOR SLEEPLESSNESS.
SOME folks fall asleep as soon as their heads touch the pillow. And sometimes it takes a team of horses almost to pull them out of bed in the morning in time for breakfast, Mrs. Mann of Anytown learned.

But, there is such a thing as insomnia, Mrs. Mann should have learned, though she did not call it by that name.

Sleeplessness is what Mrs. Mann called it. When she complained to Mr. Mann that she could not sleep, he suggested that she try the smell of mint.

"Just soak a sponge in mint perfume, and place it under your pillow," he advised.

If sleeplessness is caused by mental overwork sleep can be induced by doing the following exercises 50 times:

Stand erect, rise slowly from the heels and descend slowly. This causes the blood vessels of the lower limbs to congest, relieving the brain of the excess blood.

Unique Dinner Frock

THERE'S a unique neckline to this dinner frock of white georgette with brocaded figures in shades of blue, that is most charming. The sash is of silver cloth and is allowed to fall in the most natural and unstudied lines.

Joe Hass tells about a tin roof of a Kansas store that was torn off and rolled into a compact bundle by a cyclone.

Having a sense of humor, the owner wrapped a few strands of baling wire around the ruin and shipped it to Henry Ford.

In due time came a communication saying: "It will cost you $48.00 to have your car repaired. For heaven's sake, tell us what hit you!"

Adventures of the Twins

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.
THE CHIPMUNKS LOSE THEIR MONEY.

Mrs. Chipmunk and Nancy and Nick sat in Mrs. Chipmunk's parlor with all the things spread out on the floor; all the things that Mister Peg Leg carried in his peddler pack.

Mrs. Chipmunk was so excited she picked up first one thing and then another.

"What a beautiful fan!" she exclaimed. "Isn't it lovely! It would exactly match my new black and orange dress."

"And what a lovely mat! It would do for a centre piece on my table to put under my geranium pot, or on the back of my big plush chair."

"And what a pretty dish! It would do nicely for pickles, or I could use it on my bureau to put pins in. How much is it, Mister Peg Leg?"

Mrs. Chipmunk admired everything and asked the price. There was a silk apple pin-cushion, and a picture and a clock and a silk shawl and a shiny kettle and some beads and bracelets and a daisy mop and handkerchiefs and everything almost.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Mrs. Chipmunk, "do wish I was rich! Chirk and I have a little money saved up in the tea pot on the mantel for a rainy day, but we agreed not to use it."

"Why don't you ask Mister Chipmunk?" said Nick who was very anxious for the little peddler man to get enough money to buy a new peg leg. His old one was worn off so awfully.

"That's a good idea!" declared Mrs. Chipmunk. "He's out doing the lunch dishes in the kitchen. He always does them on washing day."

"But no Chirk was to be found there."

LITTLE JOE

ADISHES ARE THE LITTLE RED THINGS YOU THINK ARE GOING TO GROW FROM SEEDS YOU PLANT THIS SPRING.

Mrs. Chipmunk rushed back to the parlor. "I can't buy anything," she cried. "The money has disappeared and so has my husband."

"That's too bad!" sighed Mister Peg Leg starting to gather up all his things again. Nancy and Nick helping him.

"But it's not your fault, Mrs. Chipmunk," he said. "And don't be too hard on your husband. Something may have happened."

Just as they were leaving who should come rushing in but Chirk Chipmunk himself.

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute," he called. "It's my wife's birthday and I want to buy her a present. I've been out earning the money. I've been out earning the money."

"Wh—why, Chirk Chipmunk?" gasped his wife. "You got that money right out of our tea pot. It's gone!"

"What!" shrieked Chirk, rushing back to the dining room to have a look. "I never took a cent."

Why Endure PILES MISERY

The weakening agony of piles robs life of its pleasure, turns days of brightness into days of misery, and brings periods of acute suffering. Overwhelming evidence proves Zam-Buk incomparable for banishing the pain, bleeding, swelling and inflammation.

Mr. Alf Brown, of Merrion, writes: "I hope that my testimony will reach thousands suffering from that dreadful ailment, piles. For six years I was never free from pain. "Cocoanut and Palm Oils give this famous laundry soap its extra cleaning power"

"Sunlight is so much more than ordinary laundry soap! It is a pure soap made from cocoanut and palm oils—two of the gentlest and most thorough cleansing materials ever discovered. These cocoanut and palm oils, I happen to know, are produced on the makers' own plantations. They are purified and blended to such a degree of perfection in Sunlight that it is really the most labour-saving, time-saving and economical soap I've ever used. Sunlight, of course, is purity itself—it contains no adulterating materials, which are useless to women as soap, but are often put in to make a bar look bigger. Every bit of Sunlight is pure, cleansing soap, so it just cleans and cleans and cleans—you can use it for every household purpose, for a little of it goes a long way. Sunlight keeps your hands soft and comfortable, too!" Made by Lever Brothers Limited, largest soap-makers in the world.

REUNION IS HELD IN FAIRVILLE CHURCH

Reports Presented Show Methodist Congregation to be Making Good Progress.

A largely attended congregational reunion was held last night in connection with the observance of the 67th anniversary of the Fairville Methodist church. Rev. J. M. Rice, the pastor, presided. "How Firm a Foundation" was sung as an opening hymn, and then William Lawson offered prayer.

Reports of departments were given and were heard with much gratification.

Bert Kelly, recording steward, gave an historical sketch of the church from its beginning and progress of Methodism in Fairville.

William McCavour, superintendent of the Sunday school, reported that the school had an enrollment of 166, including six officers and 15 teachers, and the average attendance each Sunday he said was 98.7. Since May 31 the school contributions totalled $656, of which $237 was for missions.

Mrs. Jane Crosby, secretary of the Ladies' Aid, gave a very interesting account of its work and said it had made 17 quilts and given $25 to the church during the year. Mrs. W. J. Linton, secretary of the W. M. S., reviewed the work of that organization since its formation in 1908 when there were 11 enrolled and the receipts were $39.42 to the present time when there were 82 enrolled and receipts were $128.69.

H. C. L. Sweet said the Epworth League had been organized for 10 years and had a present enrollment of 40. He made a plea for more members.

Treasurer's Report. H. M. Stout, the treasurer, being detained at home by illness in the family, his report on the church finances was read by Rev. J. M. Rice and it was very satisfactory. Mr. Rice, as treasurer of the repair fund, gave a gratifying ing report. He paid a glowing tribute to the choir. Last year the church had contributed $648 to missions, he said. Rev. Walter Small gave an interesting account of missionary work in China and spoke of the splendid opportunities that exist there for missionary enterprise. Mr. Lawson spoke specially to the young people, urging them to attend Sunday school.

Programme Carried Out. During the evening musical selections by the choir had been much enjoyed and had included a quartette, "Praise the Lord," by Mrs. J. M. Rice, Mrs. Arthur Long, Miss Audrey McColgan and Miss Vivian McColgan; vocal solo by Miss Hazel Kelly and Miss Lottie Kelly and an anthem by the choir. Miss Audrey McColgan, the organist of the church, was the accompanist of the evening.

The Ladies' Aid, under the leadership of Mrs. S. A. Worrell, was in charge of the decorations and the refreshments. The young ladies of the congregation were assisted in serving by some of the young men. Mrs. J. M. Rice and Mrs. William McCavour presided over the tea cups.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestives are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try taking a few tablets of Sloan's Liniment right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas and pain. Sloan's Liniment (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

PYTHIAN MEMBERS ARE ENTERTAINED

Celebration of Founding of Order Continued at Assembly.

In observing the sixty-first anniversary of the founding of the Order of the Knights of Pythias about 500 of the St. John members of the order and their ladies assembled last night in the Pythian Castle and enjoyed a musical and literary programme, with dancing, cards and refreshments following. It was the exact anniversary as it was on Feb. 19 that Justice Rathbone organized the Pythian Order in the city of Washington.

B. L. Shepherd was chairman last night and in his brief introductory address he said that last year the four lodges of the Knights of Pythias in St. John had paid out about $4,000, while the Pythian Sisters had paid out about $1,600. The amount paid out by the Pythian Sisters he explained had been spent in relieving distress entirely outside the lodge.

The entertainment programme was excellent and each number was heartily applauded. The programme was as follows: Vocal solo, Miss Florence Dunham; violin solo, Harrison Morgan; vocal solo, Miss Edna Conradi; vocal solo, W. T. Lanyon; reading, Mrs. H. B. Feck; vocal solo, Purdy Cougle; saxophone solo, Harold Williams; general committee, William MacGowan.

The general committee in charge of the anniversary observance was composed of B. L. Shepherd, chairman; H. M. Akeley, secretary; W. L. Belleville, G. G. Wetmore, A. E. Prince, G. W. Curry, J. A. Mackay, C. T. Green, H. W. Bromfield, F. S. P. MacFarlane, H. R. Irwin and William Edwards.

The committee in charge of the refreshments consisted of Harvey Colwell, Harry Coleman, W. A. Simonds and Donald Estabrooks.

HORSES GO THROUGH KENNEBECASIS ICE

Bruce Williams' Team Nearly Lost Off The Rothesay Shore.

When Bruce Williams was driving his team across the ice of the Kennebecasis between Rothesay and Long Island late yesterday afternoon the horses went through the ice and it was only after a long struggle that they were rescued. One of the horses was so badly cut by the rough edges of the broken ice that it is not expected to live.

O. W. Wetmore, M.L.A., of Clifton, who was in the city last night, said that the ice in the river was becoming very bad and was not fit to shape to bear the weight of horses and automobiles. A warning should be issued to all motorists to keep off the ice or else they would run a very great risk of not only losing their property but their lives, he said.

Noted Critic, Off Duty, Is Inspired to Voluntary Effort In Expressing Enthusiasm Upon Seeing "The Roughneck"

"The one best love picture in five years!" "Photodrama 100 per cent. as you like it!"

"For cast, colorfulness and climaxes this is the zenith of the cinema."

"I'll wager now that 'The Roughneck' will rank right at the top among the best pictures of the season of 1924-25 and that George O'Brien will be a bigger name than Valentino's."

This is not the unbridled enthusiasm of a press agent anxious to hold his job by waxing superlative. On the contrary, these are excerpts from a voluntary review by Bert D. Essex, an internationally famous film critic who for years has distinguished himself by his enlightening analyzing of current pictures in such well-known magazines as Photoplay Journal, Camera and others.

Mr. Essex was present at a preview showing of "The Roughneck" in New York City merely as a guest and immediately after seeing this William Fox special, the office typewriter to use one of "extemporaneously" turned out one of the most laudatory tributes any motion picture ever received.

He finished up by making the prediction that 98 per cent. of all the critics in America will not only agree with his verdict, but will vie with him in heaping praise upon the effort as a fine example of the reassuring progress being made in motion pictures as a truly fine art.

"The Roughneck" will be the attraction at the PALACE theatre beginning Monday.
