HARTLAND MAY HAVE NEW INDUSTRY

Factory for Manufacture of Furniture,
Utensils and Toys May be Established Here

On Friday S. C. Heckbert of Woodstock was a visitor in town coming here for the purpose of making arrangements to secure the wood-working plant of Hatfield & Co., Ltd., and it is his intention to establish a factory for the manufacture of house-hold furniture, the many articles of wooden house-hold utensils that are used, and children's toys such as kiddy cars, coasters, etc. He told The Observer that if he could secure the property on right terms and favorable concessions from the town he would at once commence his industry.

For several years Mr. Heckbert has been manufacturing very fine furniture in Woodstock, he having come there in the first place as an instructor in the manual training department of the Vocational School. He said that if he came he would bring with him the half dozen skilled workmen whom he employs in his Woodstock works and three of these are men with families and he would also expect to secure additional help locally. While the before mentioned products would be the chief aim of the industry Mr. Heckbert stated that ordinary products of the woodworking factory would be turned out but more as a side-line. He was seeking not only to secure the rent or lease of the wood-working property, but also was looking about for suitable tenements for the housing of his workmen with families.

In the Observer's opinion every inducement should be given Mr. Heckbert and as every new industry is an asset to the town. It is likely that he will attend the next regular meeting of the Town Council and there should also be a good attendance of citizens in general because this is really a matter of great importance and if the council takes any action they should hear the objections or secure the support of the citizens in general.

Many may recall that in 1917 H. H. Hatfield received a large contract for supplying dedicated vegetables and when he sought concessions here he met with a flat turnout from the people of this town and the result was the establishment of The Potato Products Co. Ltd., in Woodstock, which employed a large number of people in the duration of the war and provided a ready market for far more vegetables than the farmers would or were able to produce. The Observer would impress upon the council and upon the people that a second mistake of similar nature should not be made and that every possible inducement be given Mr. Heckbert if he removes from Woodstock to locate here. Mr. Heckbert states that the building wherein his industry is at present housed is sold and he must seek new quarters and being a reader of The Observer he is convinced that Hartland is alive.

OFF TO EUROPE

On Tuesday Fred. H. Stevens and Marion W. Stevens expect to leave for Toronto where they will attend the annual convention of the C. W. N. A. Mr. Stevens expects to return to Hartland on Monday following but Miss Stevens will remain in Toronto longer and on June 11 will be one of a party of about one hundred and sixty members of the association who will embark on the C. P. R. S. S. "Melita" at Montreal for a tour of Great Britain, Belgium and France. This party is scheduled to disembark at Antwerp from whence they will go directly by motor car to Brussels. Two days will be spent viewing the battlefields where great Canadian victories were won and where also lie many sons and relatives of the party. From thence the party will proceed to Paris and there spend three days doing that gay town. They will then proceed to London for a ten days visit and will take in the British Empire Exposition at Wembley Park and will also view the Henley Regatta. After this they will spend a week touring what is called rural England and another week in Scotland, while the tour will have its conclusion with a visit to Belfast. It has been planned that the party will be presented before King Albert of Belgium, while Marshall Foch is chairman of the entertainment committee in "Gay Paree." On the afternoon of Dominion Day the party is scheduled to meet the King and Queen of England at Buckingham Palace.

The visit of the C. W. N. A. to Great Britain is at the invitation of Lord Burnham, president of the British Empire Association, which toured Canada, passing through Hartland in two special trains, it will be recalled, in 1920.

For eight years the editorial staff of The Observer has made an annual pilgrimage with the Press Association. There are many who think these trips are free hand-outs from the railway companies. Such, however, is not the case as the trip across the water which Miss Stevens will take is not cheaper than any tour of the Cook's or any other excursions. The party does receive, however, much more value in point of entertainment than could be had on any ordinary excursion as in each country visited the press and municipal committees have arranged entertainment for every forenoon, afternoon and evening.

Those from New Brunswick who will join the party besides Miss Stevens are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Anslow of Campbellton, C. L. Olmstead and his daughter, Mrs. Norval McPhail of Perth, Max D. Cormier of Edmundston and C. C. Avar of Sackville.

A. Plummer of Hartland also intends visiting Great Britain and the continent during the summer, going with a Cook's party.

POST OFFICE TO BE LIGHTED

Efforts of T. W. Caldwell, M. P., and
The Observer Brings Results

At different times The Observer has called to the attention of the Department of Public Works the need of electric current for lighting the post office, and while here at Easter T. W. Caldwell, M. P., had his attention called to the fact that while electricity was available and the building wired the post office was still using antiquated acetylene system.

Mr. Caldwell personally took the matter up with the proper authorities and yesterday The Observer received from him the following copy of a letter which speaks for itself:

Ottawa, May 20, 1924.
Dear Mr. Caldwell: Your favor of the 19th instant received, for which I am obliged.

In view of your recommendation, instructions will be issued to have the public building at Hartland, N. B., lighted by electricity and the current therefor secured from the Hartland Electric Company.

Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) J. H. KING.

LORDS PRAYER, SERMON NO. 3

"The Father's Kingdom"

The third sermon in the series on the Lord's Prayer will be given by Rev. G. F. Bolster at the Hartland United Baptist church on Sunday morning. To those who have been following these sermons we would suggest a careful examination of what Jesus taught regarding the Kingdom.

In the evening the pastor will again preach taking for his subject, "A Refuge and Hope."

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

FROM HANGCHOW, CHINA.

Comes a brief note from the Rev. Thos. Hardwood, of the Apostolic Faith Mission, referring to Moli's Chocolates, he states "They were fine. I seldom get such luxuries here."

Enclosed in the envelopes were notes on recent converts that make interesting reading. One is from an old lady, Grandma Sun. "I am a widow with two sons and two daughters-in-law, and three grandchildren. We have four helpers and apprentices and we all live in the one home. I began in my youth to smoke and drink and to commit many sins, and I was an awful sinner, my home was always quarreling and growing one at the other. If it was not myself and my oldest son it was the daughter-in-law or someone else. We always had somebody sick, and we were always calling doctors and paying medicine bills. I used to think and wonder sometimes, well, what is the matter? I must be unlucky."

As China, so Canada!

A CLEAN-UP DAY NEXT SATURDAY

Day Appointed by Town Council for Getting Rid of Rubbish and All
Should Join in The Good Work

As stated in The Observer last week Saturday, May 31, is appointed "Clean-up Day" and all citizens are enjoined to look after their premises and clean up all the rubbish and waste material not only in their front yards but in alley-ways, backyards and out of the way places.

The town will supply teams to convey to the dump all refuse that may be placed in boxes or barrels at the edge of the street. There will be no charge for this service and everybody should have sufficient pride in their own premises and in their town to take full advantage of the opportunity of getting rid of the things that are unsightly or unclean.

During the summer thousands of tourists from far and near will pass through Hartland and nothing attracts the favorable attention of a visitor to a town more quickly than well-kept lawns, yards and clean streets.

The "Clean-up Advice" is applicable not only to Hartland but to all the other towns which The Observer serves and the work is always much more effectively done when a united effort is made and the citizens vie one with the other for the best looking premises.

WHO KNOWS WHERE THIS BOY IS?

Mrs. Nelson Rogers of Fielding sends The Observer a letter concerning her 13-year-old boy who has disappeared from home. This appears to be a strange and possibly tragic disappearance and any person who may have knowledge of the lad should write the uneasy mother. The letter says in part:

"I have lost a boy and want you to advertise for him. He is of an adventurous disposition so I think he 'ran away' as they say. But he may be in the river so naturally I don't feel very well over it. Clifford Rogers, son of Nelson Rogers of Fielding, age 13, looks 15, dark hair, blue eyes, left handed, scar on back of one hand, dressed in khaki breeches, blue striped overalls and dark grey sweater and green felt hat. Would be quite ragged by now if he hasn't got new clothes. Last seen May 15 at about 9 a.m. when he went to the barn to do chores. Was missed at 10. Any information concerning him since that time would be welcome. It is illegal to employ a boy of that age without his father's consent."

MEMORIAL DAY

At a meeting of the Returned men in the Armory on Monday evening, May 19, it was decided to have the annual Memorial Service on Sunday afternoon, June 22. This will be the sixth annual service in memory of our boys who lie in Flanders Fields, and it is hoped all the people will unite in making this the best memorial service we have had in Hartland. The returned men will march from the armory to the church. A committee has been appointed to secure a minister to conduct the service and secure the church. This memorial service is not to honor our boys who returned, but is in memory of our glorious dead. It is a service of memory for your sons, husbands, brothers and comrades who gave their lives in the war. A thanksgiving to our God in helping to bring peace to a war wearied world.

We, the returned men, do not parade to show ourselves for vain glory. We do it in memory of the dear comrades who lie buried in far away France and Flanders. We do it in honored reverence. We do not forget—it is seared into our hearts. Not a man in the parade, not a returned man who is at the service, but has comrades to hold in memory who now lie buried over there. Some of these heroes were our sleeping companions, some of them lit a flag for us just before they gave the sacrifice, some of them spoke words of cheer to us just before they went silent in the immortal sleep, and they shall and will be held in honored memory by their comrades. Every one who has a dear one lying over there help us make Memorial Day a day to remember all through the year. More facts will appear in future issues of The Observer, but remember the date of the memorial service—June 22, Sunday afternoon.

The committee appointed to arrange for the service: E. A. Britton, P. C. Barter, W. B. Nixon.

MRS. DAVIS NERVOUS WRECK

Tells Women How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine, and any one going me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial." Mrs. EMMA DAVIS, 721 Avenue Street, Winnipeg, Man.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "All Women's Peculiarities" will be sent you free upon request. Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobequid, Ont. This book contains valuable information.

to the profession, to the doctors, and to the hospital in which they received their training. Mr. Haig sang a solo and responded to an encore.

The diplomas and the class pins were pinned on each graduate by Mrs. W. P. Jones, president of the Ladies' Hospital Aid.

Mrs. George Dibblee and Mrs. J. P. L. Brown sang a duet, and this was followed by an address to the class by Rev. S. R. Prince, who, in closing his remarks, administered the Florence Nightingale pledge to the graduates, the audience as well as the nurses standing.

Mrs. W. P. Jones presented a prize to Miss McCuskey for general proficiency, and one to Miss Ppeer for having, during her time of training, done the most to promote the ethical side of her profession. The choice of the one to receive this prize was made by the class itself.

At the close of the program each graduate received a bouquet of roses. The exercises closed with the National Anthem. The platform was tastefully decorated with roses.

The graduates are: Misses Nellie Frances Anderson, Mary Viola McCuskey, Alice Bell Cummings, Ruby Frances Campbell, Grace Gertrude Toms, Mabel Gertrude Wylie, Frances Dorley Speer, Carrie Donna Thompson and Elsie Margaret Kerr.

FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION

The members of the Fish and Game Association met in the Town Hall, Woodstock, at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. This association was organized in Woodstock on March 27, last.

Dr. Macintosh, the president, was in the chair, and the secretary, P. S. Marsten, was also at his desk. There was a fairly large attendance, including Harry Craig, the youngest member, aged 12 years, son of W. C. Craig of Hartland. Among those present were Woodford Craig, G. W. Slipp, Wm. Johnston, W. L. Mercereau, Fred Grant, Dr. Clarke, Dr. McIntosh, A. Watson, Mr. Bull, J. E. Cogger, P. Cox, Russel Boyer, Rev. L. A. Fenwick, Frank Brown, Mr. Emery, Mr. Jones (Lakeville), Charles Clarke, George Y. Jones, P. S. Marsten, Dr. Grant and John P. Malaney.

The president said that this was a bad time of year for a large attendance, as the motoring is bad and he himself had to travel through the mud by motor to get here. Since the meeting the secretary had been very active and he had secured much valuable information in connection with the protection of forest, fish and game.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

P. S. Marsten—The membership is now 115; receipts $115, of which $104.85 are in the Bank of Nova Scotia, and $8 on hand; the expenditure was very light.

The president said that the present membership was chiefly in Woodstock and its neighborhood, but thought that the membership would be about 250 before the end of the summer.

On motion of Mr. Slipp, seconded by Dr. Clarke, the report of the secretary was adopted.

Moved by Dr. N. P. Grant, seconded by G. W. Slipp, that we affiliate with the N. B. Fish and Game Protective Association Limited.

Carried.

Moved by Rev. L. A. Fenwick, seconded by G. W. Slipp, that we endorse the action of the president and secretary in their protest against leasing to private individuals East, Long and Rocky Lakes in Charlotte county.

Carried.

Moved by P. S. Marsten, seconded by Rev. L. A. Fenwick that a committee of three be appointed to check on the constitution and by laws, offer suggestions, etc., and communicate the same to the N. B. Association in St. John.

Letters were read from Messrs. Gagnon and Harrison promising co-operation.

Dr. Grant, Dr. Clarke and P. S. Marsten were appointed a committee to check up the proposed provincial constitution.

The president stated that Mr. Jas. Egan, of St. John, a dominion government fish expert, would be here shortly and look over our fishing resorts with the intention of stocking them with fry. The members suggested the following streams for stocking purposes: "Charlie Lake, Skiff Lake, Ayer's Lake, Meduxnakik, Coldstream, Eel River, Fox Lake, Shogomoc, Indian Lake, Gibson Branch, Kilmarnock, Salmon Brook, Bedell Brook, etc.

Mr. Jones Williamstown Lake is the largest body of water in Carleton county. I wonder if the government could supply that lake with black bass? Would black bass be suitable for the lake?

Mr. Mercereau I think the government could supply anything but pickered.

Mr. Jones We want no pickered in that lake.

Voted that the government be requested to appoint a fish, fire and game warden for the Beauceville, its tributaries.

Moved by Dr. Grant, seconded by Russel Boyer, that we co-operate with the officials in the protection of the streams from pollution, and not by Mr. Mercereau of any contemplated mills to be erected in the streams.

Carried.

Moved by Dr. Clarke, seconded by Mr. Craig, that the secretary write to Hon. W. E. Foster, the Canadian representative on the Waterways Commission, asking him to look into the matter of the pollution of international streams through Maine, which is of much more importance to this district than to any other part of the province.

Voted that the secretary write to the provincial government to allow the federal department officials to make arrests of offenders and power to issue licenses.

Inasmuch as the N. B. Association signified its willingness to allow this Club to nominate one or all of the provincial officers, it was moved by Mr. Marsten, seconded by Dr. Clarke, that this meeting request the secretary to write to the provincial officers that we recommend that our president, Dr. McIntosh, be our representative on the provincial board.

Carried.

Voted that the secretary prepare a set of resolutions of condolence to be presented to G. W. Slipp and A. L. Slipp on the death of their son and brother.

Dr. Clarke said that Claude Knapp in an interview to a reporter said that moose were more plentiful than ever before. If Mr. Knapp was correctly reported, he is mistaken. Where there were ten moose only a few years ago, there are but three now, unless they have moved to Mr. Knapp's territory on the Tobique. Even on the Tobique the speaker was informed that one of the guides was considering moving from the Tobique to Quebec where there would be better business.

Voted that we firmly believe that a game preserve should be established in this province so that moose, which in the opinion of this Club is getting scarce, may have an opportunity to increase.

Voted that the secretary be given power to order necessary stationery and make inquiries as to the cost of 50 Posters in tin or a large number in cotton or paper, with hunting and fishing information about the migratory bird act.

"Thank God for Tea! What did the world do without it—how did it exist? I am glad I was not born before Tea."

Thus wrote the brilliant Sydney Smith in the early days of the nineteenth century, and countless thousands have echoed his sentiments since. But if Sydney Smith could so enthuse over Tea as it was then, what would he say of it to-day, when science in growing and art in blending have brought your cup of Tea to such a high point of perfection.

And what would he think of to-day's cost? At an incomparably lower price you are able to enjoy Tea of a deliciousness Sydney Smith never knew or imagined.

SIXTH
of the series dealing with the establishment of the Bank of Montreal at representative points in Canada and elsewhere

THE growth of the Bank of Montreal has closely coincided with the gradual development of Canada from a small colony to a great Dominion.

In the Bank's westward advance to the Pacific Coast, one of the important links in its transcontinental chain of Branches was formed in 1878 at Winnipeg, when the Bank opened its first Branch west of the Great Lakes.

This forward step, taken seven years before railway communication was opened up between Montreal and Winnipeg, made available to the incoming population on the prairies the stabilizing co-operation of a strong, conservative and at the same time energetic financial institution.

Of the Bank's 567 Branches, 12 are situated in Winnipeg and 180 in the Prairie Provinces, including Winnipeg.

A Buster Keaton comedy was also shown. On Saturday William Desmond starred in a North West Mounted Police play, "McGuire of the Mounted" supported by Louise Lorraine. The scenes of this play were laid in beautiful Canadian West settings and included gambling hall scenes. Several mob scenes, a good fight or two, a big hotel fire and other striking depictions. THE VANCEBORO EXTENSION

In Parliament on May 20 Bill No. 26 respecting the construction of a Canadian National Railway line between Kingsclear and the St. Croix River in the Province of New Brunswick was read a third time and passed. The fate of the Bill now rests with the tender mercies of the Senate and there is hardly any doubt but what the able argument against the proposition which was put up by Sir Henry Drayton will influence the Senate to kill the proposition.

The final discussion was participated in chiefly by T. W. Caldwell of Carleton-Victoria, R. B. Hanson of York, Sir Henry Drayton of West York (Toronto) and the Minister, Hon. G. P. Graham.

During the course of debate it was brought out that last year the Dominion government lost on the operation of the Valley Railway $340,455.44 which added to the loss to the province of interest amounting to $260,000 makes a deficit to the whole people of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars. It was shown that the cost of operating the Valley Railway was $308 for every $100 earned.

Mr. Caldwell in his discussion claimed that the C. N. R. would earn $200,000 per year additional if the new branch were built, but he side-stepped in reckoning on the carrying charges of the more than $2,000,000 investment and of the cost of equipment and the maintenance of trains. In fact he did not show that it would cost $600,000 to save the $200,000 which is the approximate ratio by which the Valley Railway is being operated.

Sir Henry Drayton in his argument proved quite conclusively that the cost of operation would be about $3.00 for every $1.00 earned; and then the promulgators of the line ducked behind the argument that one of the reasons it was desired to have the C. P. R. entirely eliminated was that that road was holding C. N. R. cars to the detriment of C. N. R. shipping. But again Sir Henry won the argument by adding figures which showed that during the whole of last year the C. N. R. held twice as many C. P. R. cars as the C. P. R. held of the C. N. R. Then without very severe sarcasm Sir Henry touched upon the crux of this whole branch line proposition when he said, "I have a pretty good idea that the system itself is not going on with much of this construction. Indeed if much of it is ever gone on with I suspect that the contracts will be advertised just about election time."

And there you have it!

DEVELOPMENT OF THE MARITIMES

(Ottawa Journal)

A strong organization has been effected in the Maritime Provinces for the purpose of co-ordinating the efforts of Federal and Provincial Governments, the railways, industrial, commercial and agricultural organizations for the promoting of the welfare of that section of the Dominion. Its purpose is to carry on activities such as will foster the exploration and development of the great natural resources to the Maritimes: to colonize the provinces with settlers of good type who will occupy the vacant agricultural and fruit lands and to stimulate industrial and commercial activity.

The three sister provinces down by the sea have not made much progress in the past few decades; indeed, in some respects, there has been a slipping back which is accounted for, in part, by the increased attention which has been given to the undoubted needs of the West. Many of the young men of the Maritimes have left the farms, attracted by free lands in the Prairie Provinces and the questionable advantages of employment in the big industrial centres of the States. It is the expressed intention of the association to make an effort to repatriate some of these exiles.

It is highly in the interest of Canada as a whole that the East should not lag behind in the march of progress, and the Maritime Development Association is constituted to set forth the advantages of the three provinces—and they are many—which should attract settlers and capitalists.

There are, other than agriculture and fruit growing, great industries in the Maritime Provinces, such as coal, steel, lumbering and fisheries, which have languished because of the inaction of Maritime interests in bringing them to the attention of the world. A co-ordination of all bodies interested in the solution of Maritime development problems ought to bring the results which have not followed the spasmodic and dissipated efforts of the past.

The growth and prosperity of the Maritime Provinces will assist greatly in the up-building of the whole country. The lagging behind of the Maritime Provinces detrimentally affects Ontario and the Great West. We in Ontario and those who live west of the Great Lakes will rejoice over any activity which will increase the material wealth of the three Atlantic divisions of Confederation.

PNEUMONIA TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Two Well Known Women of Lower Brighton Succumb Saturday and Sunday

Mrs. Ada H. Brown, widow of the late Norris R. Brown, of Lower Brighton, and daughter of the late John and Elizabeth Hale Tedlie, succumbed to pneumonia on May 25, 1924, at the old homestead, Lower Brighton, in the 60th year of her age. She is survived by three sons and one daughter: Harris W. Brown of New Brunswick, N. J., Fred K. on the home ead, Luella R. Brown of the C. N. R. staff, South Devon, and Miles Brown of Rome, N. Y. All were able to be home to the funeral. She is also survived by five sisters, Mrs. Melvin Hovey, Mrs. Maurice Haley and Miss Marie Tedlie, all of Houlton; Mrs. Stephen Nixon of Lower Brighton and Mrs. A. W. Hand of Woodstock. The funeral services were from her late home on the 27th and were attended by her pastor, Rev. E. W. Lester, assisted by Rev. P. J. Trafton of Fredericton and Rev. L. J. Alley of Woodstock. The singing by the choir of her own home church was beautifully rendered. Mrs. Brown was a woman of sterling quality and good Christian character, and her home was always a home in the true sense of the word and after battling with life has gone to join her husband who preceded her twenty-five years.

Numerous beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Mrs. B. F. Richardson of Lower Brighton died of pneumonia on May 24 in the sixty-sixth year of her age. She leaves a sorrowing husband, three sons and one daughter to mourn their loss: Guy and George at home, Arthur of Houlton, Me., and Mrs. B. F. Dickinson of Carlisle, besides a host of relatives and friends. She was converted and baptized forty years ago, under the labor of the late Rev. Geo. T. Hartley and has lived a consistent Christian life ever since. The funeral services were from her late home on the 26th, conducted by Rev. E. W. Lester assisted by W. O. Shaw of Lower Brighton, and the remains were laid to rest in the family lot near by.

After the convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in Toronto, June 5, 6, and 7, some 150 of the men and women of the association will sail from Montreal on June 11, on the Canadian Pacific liner Melita, for a two-months' trip to Belgium, France and the United Kingdom.

The first ports of call are Cherbourg and Southampton, arriving at Antwerp, Saturday June 21. On Monday, the party will be at Brussels, where the Belgian Government will give an official welcome. After visiting important points and the battlefields, the party will be received by King Albert. Three days will be spent in Paris, and some excellent features have been prepared for the party by the Paris newspaper editors and by Bienvienne Francais, of which Marshal Foch is president.

From Sunday, June 29, to Thursday, July 10, will be spent in London, where a great deal of entertainment has been arranged. While in London, the party will be largely under the wing of the Empire Press Union and many social events will be held in their honor, including a visit to the Henley regatta, also a "tea" at the House of Commons. Arrangements are also under way for a reception at Buckingham Palace by Their Majesties, the King and Queen, on Dominion Day.

When the party leaves London on July 10, they will be taken in charge by members of the English Newspaper Society.

The British itinerary is receiving very careful attention at the hands of the British joint committee, and there is every indication that the provincial tour is going to be a continuous succession of civic receptions and private entertainments.

In Scotland, the Trossacks, Loch Lomond, Loch Katrine, the country of Scott, and the land of Burns, as well as Edinburgh and Glasgow will be visited. The Press party will sail from Glasgow on Friday July 25, on the Canadian Pacific liner, "Montaurier." A ROYAL DIVORCE World-Famous Big Motion Picture, "A Royal Divorce". Comes to Hartland.

Next Tuesday Hartland will see G. B. Samuelson's tremendous English picture, "A Royal Divorce" which is the personal and intimate romance of Napoleon Bonaparte, the greatest figure in history. The story is based on the famous play that toured England and Europe for the last 30 years, and the picture catches all the fascinating romance of the play.

At the same time, at an expense of Two Million Dollars, the producer has staged some of the greatest spectacles in the world's history. Audiences will see on the screen the famous Battle of Waterloo, where this mighty man, Napoleon, who humbled every country in Europe except one, staked all on his ability to subdue the traditional unflagging spirit and courage of the English nation. They will see the Burning of Moscow, the famous city of the Czar; they will see Napoleon's famous Retreat from Moscow, with his army of a million soldiers that were soon to be annihilated by the ravages of winter and the merciless policy of the Russians, who laid waste to every growing thing in the fields of Russia. They will see Napoleon's return from Elba, when the Little Corporal set foot on France with a small personal bodyguard, knowing that the whole French army would soon be sent out to bring him to Paris in chains, and aware that the whole civilized world would soon be clamoring for his blood, but the little Frenchman staked all on the power of his personality and the affection that he had planted in his beloved soldiers of the French army.

And all the marshalls and the grand army of France, who had orders to shoot on sight, when they saw their beloved hero, the man who had led them in triumph through hundreds of glorious victories, threw away their guns, fell on their knees, and with one voice acclaimed, "Vive L'Empereur!"

The public will see the intimate side of Napoleon's life, the love story of this wonderful man who in an ill-considered moment decided that his destiny and France demanded that he cast off the woman he loved and ally himself to the reigning house of Austria by wedding Marie Louise, the proud daughter of the Caesars.

Despite the fact that an unprecedented amount of money was spent in staging the grand side of the picture, the film is always dominated by the intimate and personal note, due to the masterful direction of G. B. Samuelson, and the wonderful acting of the famous English actress, Gertrude McCoy, as the Empress Josephine; Glynn Evans, the eminent Welsh actor, as Napoleon, and Lillian Paul Davis, one of the stars of "The Game of Life," in the role of the fascinating and pet Stephanie de Beauharnais.

The tremendous success in the British Isle of "A Royal Divorce" was confidently expected and was therefore no surprise, but when this picture was released in Europe it was a revelation. In France, Italy, Spain, Sweden, and practically every country in Europe, the film has taken hold like wildfire, and is playing to unheard of, sensational runs. Its appeal is sweepingly universal, and every class of every country, from the lowliest working man to the highest rank of the nobility was drawn by the subject of this famous Napoleon's story, and on seeing the picture was fascinated and enthralled, and spread around the merits of this wonderful cinema. The result is that "A Royal Divorce" is playing for weeks and weeks in countries where other big pictures, such as "Robin Hood," "The Birth of a Nation," and so forth, have never even been heard of.

At Neighborhood Theatre, Hartland, June 3.

Here and There

E. W. Beatty, K.C.

The annual statement of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the report which the company's president, E. W. Beatty, made to the shareholders at the annual meeting are matters of first rate interest, not only to the fast growing number of Canadian citizens who are part owners in the great railway, but to all interested in Canadian progress and development. By reason of the way in which the company's operations touch all phases of Canadian life and enterprise, there is a pronounced depression or prosperity in any part of the country without its being reflected in the earnings of the Canadian Pacific. There is a barometer of the country's foreign trade also in the results of the operations of the company's steamships upon the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Thus there was considerable reason for gratification in the president's statement made at the annual meeting on May 7th, that the operations of the company had been conducted throughout 1923 in a satisfactory manner and with satisfactory results. Mr. Beatty pointed out that gross earnings for the year, which had totalled $195,837,089, were greater by $9,162,000 than those of 1923. Working expenses, however, increased by $7,984,000 to $158,358,079. This large increase in operating costs was due to large expenditures made upon the property in order that it might be kept to the highest possible physical standard and capable of rendering the best possible service to the community. As a result the property was never in so excellent a condition as it now is. Net earnings for the year were $37,479,010, an increase of $1,177,000.

The total tonnage moved by the company during the year amounted to 30,852,994, an increase over that of the previous year of 3,108,408, due to a heavier movement of grain, lumber, manufactured articles and general merchandise, the largest increase being in grain and grain products. Mr. Beatty pointed out that this satisfactory condition had extended well into the present year and that due to favorable operating conditions and heavy traffic net earnings for the first quarter of 1924 had increased over those of the same period last year by $1,253,814.

Referring to the Government system of railroads, Mr. Beatty said that the difference between it and the Canadian Pacific was largely in name only and in the accident of personnel of shareholders. The securities of both systems were owned by private investors throughout the world and there was a significant steady increase in both Canadian and British holdings of Canadian Pacific common stock. Two phases of the general railway situation called for criticism. Under a statute passed in 1919 the Government-owned lines may construct branches without approval as to location and other details by the Railway Commission. Thus they may parallel or duplicate existing lines of any other company once the Minister approves and parliament authorizes the expenditure. Mr. Beatty stated that in his opinion it was equally in the interests of the Canadian people and of all Canadian railroads that the companies should be in the same position in this respect. The other phase was the result of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement of 1927. It had established special statutory freight rates under conditions of operating costs which no longer exist and differences in rates which would not be permitted under the general Railway Act because of their unfairness in relation to commodity rates on other articles and to the rates effective in other parts of Canada. The greatest advantage to shippers as a whole would be secured if all rates were made subject to review and change as conditions warrant by the tribunal constituted for that purpose.

In referring to the outlook for the future, Mr. Beatty said that while there was a noticeable lull in domestic and export shipments due in part to unsettlement in industrial districts, general business during the first quarter of the year had been satisfactory. The crop acreage would probably be about the same as last year and, generally speaking, soil conditions were excellent. If the total yield approaches that of 1923, said Mr. Beatty, "there will undoubtedly be a very extensive autumn business and a vastly improved psychological and financial situation throughout the whole country. There is no real ground for pessimism in respect of the future of either the company or the country, though an extraordinary and too rapid advance is neither to be expected nor desired."

Immigration to Canada during the eleven months ending February 1924, totalled 135,128, divided as follows: British, 67,023; from the United States, 19,120; from all other countries, 48,985. This compares very favorably with 66,139 for the same period a year ago.

Forty pilgrimages to the famous shrine at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, have already been arranged for June, July and August this year. Over 200,000 visitors are expected, most of them from Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and Boston.

Although it has already spent $4,000,000 in drilling for oil in Alberta without very definite results, the Imperial Oil, Limited, proposes to keep at its development campaign, so F. J. Wolfe, director of marketing for the concern, states. Already the company's $2,500,000 refinery at Calgary has had the effect of keeping prices down, he says.

An important industrial enterprise is being added to the list in Montreal in the plant of the National Cement Company, which is being constructed in the town of Montreal East on the site of one of the largest deposits of raw material for cement in Canada. The first unit of the plant will have a capacity of 900,000 barrels per annum.

A total of 969 communities in Alberta are now served by the Provincial Government telephone system. The total number of phones served in the system is 67,279, of which 32,260 are exchange phones, 20,252 are rural phones and 1,065 are private party lines and 13,385 are connecting subscribers. There are 264 exchanges in the province, with 301 toll offices and 62 private party lines.

The growing importance of Canada's trade in the Pacific is reflected in the official statistics of the Vancouver Harbor Board for the month of December, 1923, which shows a substantial increase in shipping in that port over the same month in 1922. Total shipping through the port amounted to 424,432 tons, valued at $31,421,129, an increase over December, 1922, of 122,602 in tonnage and $2,703,078, in value.

Ten 10,000 Imperial gallon tenders, for use behind the P.I. type engines used in the Western mountains, have been ordered from the Canadian Locomotive Company, Ltd., Kingston, by the Canadian Pacific Railway at a price of $12,445 each, delivery to start in May and be completed in June this year. These tenders will give more efficient coal and water service than any others in this country.

During the year 1924, 96 arrivals and departures on the St. Lawrence route, with its different services, to be maintained throughout the summer months by its popular monoclase cabin and Empress class steamers, will constitute the Canadian programme of the Canadian Pacific Railway's steamships. A combined tonnage of 197,000 gross tons will be in operation on the Atlantic under the Company's flag, the largest amount yet assigned by a single line to steamship passenger traffic on the St. Lawrence route.

Canada's unfavorable trade balance with the United States is more than equaled by her favorable trade balance with the United Kingdom, according to trade figures of the Bureau of Statistics. For the year ending February, Canada's imports from the United States were $603,000,000 and her exports to that country $420,000,000, an excess of imports of $183,000,000. As against this, Canadian exports to the United Kingdom were $355,000,000, and the imports from Britain $155,000,000, a surplus of $200,000,000 on the side of exports.

Indian Treasure Hidden at Bon Echo

Long before Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence to discover Hochelaga, a now-forgotten race of people were making pilgrimages to the Big Rock towering above the waters of Lake Mazinaw in Eastern Ontario to observe religious ceremonies, to worship before this great natural altar and to propitiate the gods who dwelt within its granite mass. In the backwoods now, five hundred years ago the Big Rock of Bon Echo was in the center of the greatest white pine forest the world has ever known and on a main highway between the north and Lake Ontario. There were no backwoods in those days, and the streams were the travel routes for the pagan people who followed the seasonal migrations of the animals with which the forests teemed.

To them the Big Rock at Bon Echo must have been a thing of mystery, as it remains today both to archeologists and geologists. None can reconcile the smooth, untouched face with the glacial markings along its top and in the same way the paintings along the face are an unsolved riddle. "Who put them there?" and "what do they mean?" are unanswered questions. Along the face of the Big Rock a few feet above the waterline are the hieroglyphic records of an unknown people. Painted in a virtually imperishable paint, whose composition is unknown, and which has defied the weathering effects of wind and water, these records baffle the archeologists of the continent.

Whether they have a warlike or religious significance is not known, although some people hold that they record a great victory of the Iroquois over the Hurons, and Algonquins and have been written in some involved and mystic code.

A more conservative interpretation claims that the paintings of the Big Rock are trail marks, records of the backcountry claim that they hold the secret to the treasure cave located in the Rock, and that the solution of their riddle would open the entranceway to the long lost silver of the Indians.

From Brockville to Trenton, on the shores of Lake Ontario, the legend of Meyer's Cave has long persisted. The hint of such a cave first came when the Indians from the country to the north brought in bars of native silver to exchange for food and firearms. For years they refused to discuss the source of their wealth with anyone, but in time, a trader by the name of John Meyers, who had been brought up in association with Indians, was able to ingratiate himself into the confidence of two members of the tribe and in exchange for a few quantities of fire-water, they agreed to conduct him north.

Late in the fall they set out, made their way to the Moira and Skootamatta Rivers, portaged from Louisa to the Lake into Lake Mazinaw and came to the Big Rock. Conflicting stories tell of Meyers' final fate.

One tells of a fissure between two huge masses of rock, a long entranceway through which the trader crawled, and of a cavern at its end. When the fat pine torches carried by his drunken guides illumined the interior Meyers found himself inside an irregular cube fifty feet in size and along whose sides were piled rough cast bars of native silver, as one piled cordwood.

The trader took what quantities of the metal he could place in his knapsack and in his pockets, and departed, making as accurate a mental record of the location of the entranceway as he could. His companions would not allow him to leave a fee, or to place a cairn, for by this time they were becoming frightened over their betrayal of the secret. The small party set out for home but crossing the lake at the headwaters of the Skoot River, their canoe was swamped by a heavy storm, and the Indians abandoned Meyers who had made his way to shore with difficulty. In order to save himself from drowning he was forced to throw away all but a small quantity of silver carried in the pockets of his coat. Without food, his firearms gone, ill, wet and hungry he reached Belleville after ten days hardship. As a result of the exposure he took pneumonia and died in the course of a few months.

It is an improbable story but one thing is certain. In the Meyers family there are spoons made from the silver he brought down with him. He left a map, drawn from memory, and in time this fell into the hands of a lawyer, George Merrill, who went north and relocated the cave, in company with another man. Loth to divulge the discovery, he did nothing for some years and when he did return the fires had swept through the backcountry and had altered its topography to such an extent that he was never able to locate it again.

Several comfortable fortunes have been spent trying to locate the cave. One man lived for fourteen years on top of the Big Rock going over every square inch of it, time and time again, certain to the day of his death, that his perseverance would be rewarded. Today in a sheltered hollow there are a few rotting logs at right angles to mark his home.

Another expedition spent thousands of dollars scraping the earth off the central portion of the rock in a vain search for the cave. Once or twice every summer a group of old prospectors will appear at Bon Echo Inn, and armed with pickaxes and pammers, will mysteriously disappear up the iron staircase mounting the Big Rock, certain that at last they are going to find the lost millions. A day or two later they creep down the staircase, climb silently to the Canadian Pacific train, and go home as they have come, without the treasure.

And over all the Big Rock watches as it has watched a million years, serene and indissoluble.

An Original Expedient

By ALAN HINSDALE

"Father," said Johnnie, "tell me a story."

"All right; I'll tell you a story about an elopement."

"When I was a young man I secured a position with a maker of artificial limbs. I traveled through the country selling legs and arms and other surgical contrivances to the small dealers."

"One day I was driving along a road with my wagon load of samples when I overtook a pretty girl walking the same way I was going. I asked her if I couldn't give her a lift. She accepted the offer and got in on the vacant seat beside me."

"Her name was—let me see, what was her name? Well, we'll call her Susie. That was the first girl who ever snuggled up to me, and I tell you I stuck to her like a kitten to a foot warmer. In truth, it was one of those cases of love at first sight, and I couldn't tell you which fell in love with the other first. She was going to town to do some shopping, and I arranged with her to drive her back the same afternoon."

"I didn't go into the house with her when we reached her home. You see, it wouldn't look right that I had picked up Susie on the road. But the next time I went over the route I called with a letter of introduction."

"Who from?" interrupted Eva.

"Well, I didn't intend to say anything about that, but since you want to know Susie gave me the name of a friend of hers, and I wrote the letter myself, signing the friend's name. I called on Susie, presented the letter, and she received me as a stranger. Of course that wasn't a nice thing to do, but Susie had told me that her father was a cranky old man and she couldn't make a young man's acquaintance without his asking innumerable questions about how, when and where she had met him."

"When does the elopement begin?" asked Johnnie.

"It begins right here. I visited Susie and courted her. From the first her father opposed me, and when I asked him for his daughter he refused me point blank. Susie wouldn't give me up, and there was nothing for it but to run away and be married. By this time winter had come on, and that winter there was a great deal of snow. After a big storm I started on a business trip in a sleigh. Susie had written me that her father had been called on to serve on a jury and was away most of the time. Her mother sympathized with Susie and me, so she didn't count against us. I drove up to the house one afternoon, and the father being at the county seat, Susie and I concluded that it was as good a time as any to go off and get married. Susie's mother didn't object, and we started."

"We hadn't been gone long when Susie's father came home. He asked her mother where she was, and the poor woman looked guilty. He forced her to admit that Susie and I had gone off to be married and to tell him which way. Then he got into the sleigh he had come home in, and away he went hickory split after us to head us off before we could get married."

"Susie was looking back all the while, and presently, when we were on a rise, she saw her father coming some two or three miles away. Then I knew I was in for a chase."

"Did you lick your horse?" asked Johnnie.

"You bet I did, my boy. But he had no speed in him. I used him simply to jog through the country, carrying me and my samples, stopping here and there, and for this I didn't need a fast horse. The consequence was that Susie's father, having the best animal in his stable, gained on us."

"I was full of expedients, and as I drove on I racked my brain for one to delay our pursuer. I remembered that there was a bridge ahead, a small, rickety affair. If I could have time to run that bridge behind me I could keep my pursuer from setting over it and in that way I might escape. Then an idea struck me how to cause the delay."

"Passing from a rise down into a place where there was a deep snow-drift beside the road, I pulled up, took a couple of artificial legs from my samples and asked Susie for her shoes. She took them off, and I put them on the wooden feet, got out of the sleigh and stuck the legs in the snowdrift, leaving only the feet and ankles exposed. Then I got back into the sleigh and started on again."

"What's that for?" asked Susie.

"I'll see the feet sinking out on the snow, think you're buried head down and stop to pull you out. If he takes enough time doing it I'll be able to send that bridge sailing down with the current."

"The bridge was beyond the next hill and, after crossing it, I got out and worked like a beaver till I had loosened the supports and dropped them into the stream. Of course they couldn't be replaced in a hurry, and when I had completed the wreck I breathed easy. I was driving away when I saw our pursuer on the rise behind us. But the race was over. He wouldn't get across the stream, and I took my time in driving to a parson's where Susie and I were married."

"Join," said the wife and mother who had come in time to hear the climax of the story, "you ought to be ashamed of yourself to make up such stuff for the children."

Cause of Early Old Age

The celebrated Dr. Mendenhall, an authority on early old age, says that it is "caused by poisons generated in the intestine." When your stomach digests food properly it is also "ad without forming poisonous matter. Poisons bring on early old age and premature death. 15 to 30 drops of "Seigel's Syrup" after meals makes your digestion sound. 10

In Unhurried Quebec

"These 'chicns' of Quebec have no Jackie Coogan to do them justice."

Old-fashioned Quebec tugs at the heartstrings of the summer visitor, because her appeal is personal. Without intention, so to do, she has struck what the advertising work so hard to acquire—the human interest angle.

Quebec is natural, simple, lovable. In our race for a living we of the cities have reduced life to a system with every action in subordination to hours and minutes. But in Quebec the habitant rises above the leash.

He has something in himself which holds him to old ways. To family life, to the farm, to the horse and hand-plough; to the scythe, to cows. Wives and daughters and boys of all ages lend a hand at everything. All the changes of the seasons fit in to the scheme of life. And yet there seems to be no particular scheme, no hurry, none of that driven feeling. No friction.

And so when we get into Quebec we are sensible of a freedom of spirit. The shackles of "the drive" fall away as we come once more under the benison of the simple and the fundamental.

Here by the road are the wayside Croixes common in Old France and once in Old England. The Mower is abroad in the fields. The dogs drawing their little carts still hold the road.

And nothing is more humanly appealing than these dog carts of the Quebec highway. The "Dog of Flanders" has won his way to publicity on the screen, but these "chicns" of Quebec have had no Jackie Coogan to do them justice.

And yet what a part they play in the life of this great Province, far larger in extent than Flanders. How the dogs fill niches in the households, jobs long ago eliminated from our scheme of life, are performed by the dog carts as a matter of course, in Quebec. Boys of the family break their hand in from babyhood, harnessing, unharnessing, driving "le chien." The boy that as soon as he is big enough will have the horses in hand. "Deep meaning off lies hid in childish play" down in Quebec.

And yet the dog cart is not merely a means toward an end. As farm life is planned in Quebec, the dog cart is no mere child's toy, but part and parcel of French thrift.

Boys sent an errand cover the miles in the dog cart. Wood to be brought from the distant woodlot on the mountainside is loaded into the little cart. With the aid of these "tiny horses and carts" small boys do this work quite easily, releasing their fathers and big brothers to men's jobs at the plough or with the heavy scythe.

Textile workers in the big mill below Montmorency Falls, living in Saint-Gregoire and other villages nearby, have their dinner-pails brought to them by their small boys in dog carts, and if you happen along this road at dinner-time it is to see perhaps as many as thirty or forty of these little chariots.

The speed attained of the dog is surprising, especially when homeward bound. Then, little M'sieu can hardly hold him in.

But you must not think 'tis only youth that these gay dogs of Quebec serve, their tails wagging, flying along with the baby in the cart and the family brood of boys and girls running helter skelter gathering franboise in their pails. What would the old... the oldcouple, the old women, do without their old dog and his little cart?

But, I think perhaps one never realizes more, how much a part of every day life the dog cart is, until you happen along by some wayside smithy and see the smith hard at work turning, twisting, heating, hammering the miniature axles and tires in the most matter of fact manner, part of the day's work, as much as shoeing a horse.—Victoria Hayward.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

That newspaper advertising is the gateway to better business. That it is the demand advertising creates that makes advertising pay. That successful business concerns realize the value of advertising and use it persistently.

That many business concerns operate their business at a loss at certain times during the year. It would not be necessary for them to do so if they advertised all the while instead of once in a while.

That the printed page is the most forcible way through which to secure business. It is the greatest trade builder in existence.

That advertising holds old trade— attracts new trade—and increases sales.

That now is the time for every business to advertise and increase their business, for the word is going around everywhere that business is good and getting better.

That every day persistent advertisers are learning to serve the public better, and by so doing are increasing profits.

That no business can get by unless it offers by advertising the best in service and quality.

With some concerns business is still asleep. It will stay that way with them until they wake it up by advertising.

TO GRAND FALLS SURVEY WORK

The No. 2 survey party for Grand Falls commenced work last week and is composed of the following: C. McN. Steeves, M. Sc., U. N. B.; Reginald Turner, U. N. B. 1916, a returned soldier; H. E. Burnham, B. Sc., U. N. B.; J. H. Vaughan of St. John; James E. Stirling and R. H. McKee, Fredericton; and R. J. Burgess, Grand Falls, the four latter being U. N. B. undergraduates. The assistants will be engaged at Grand Falls.

This party will make surveys to complete the data in regard to foundation condition for the various buildings which it will be necessary to construct at Grand Falls in connection with the development of this water power. They will also make further borings to decide as between an open waterway or tunnel.

This latter information is necessary for the Commission to have when it appears before the International Waterways Commission, because of the fact that this tunnel or waterway will maintain the river at ordinary spring freshet height the year round, and as three miles above the town of Grand Falls the river is the international boundary this will have a bearing on the case.

A week from this coming Monday No. 3 survey party will leave for the St. Francis River to make preliminary surveys there.

ORO FINO, 2.03 1/4, BOUGHT BY EDMUNDSTON CLUB

Woodstock, N. B., May 19.—Oro Fino, 2.03 1/4, which has the distinction of being the first community owned fast record pacer brought down east, has become the property of the Edmundston Driving Club, on whose behalf J. W. Hall, of Edmundston, bought him last week.

In 1918 Oro Fino was the star pacer of Thomas W. Murphy's Grand Circuit stable, and when the Woodstock Driving Club brought him here several years ago he was a star and a great attraction. Last season he came back after a long lay-off, and showed his old speed in a couple of races, being considerably better than a 2.10 pacer.

Oro Fino has lately been owned by a syndicate headed by James W. Gibson, former president of the Woodstock Driving Club.

NEW PAIGE

The Powerful Paige Walks Up-hill in High Now Paige Performance is Yours for $2875

TRY this test with your car and know what it means. It is the great prover of power—slow climbing in high. Then try it with the New Paige—prove its superior power by its slower climbing. For further proof—press the accelerator and watch the New Paige gather speed on the climb.

Spirited Performance

The well-known, big 70 h.p. Paige motor is the motor of the New Paige. With added improvements for even greater performance, smoothness, silence. Here's power beyond all need. Such reserve power means a motor that's not overtaxed—hence long-lived. And the high-pressure oiling system keeps it smooth and quiet, postponing wear.

You've never known such handling ease as in the New Paige!

With power so flexible that you can drive 2 miles an hour in high, gear changing is rare indeed. And then the silent, easy shift and smooth-acting Paige clutch remove all effort. In turning, or parking, or all-day driving, Paige steering ease knows no equal—thanks to ball-bearing steering spindles.

Paige rides as you have hoped your car would—insured by 11-foot wheelbase, 5-foot rear springs and snubbers, front and rear.

New Low Price

Consider all you get in Paige. Such performance; comfort; strongly built, well-finished bodies; prestige of ownership unmarred by cheaper, smaller cars of the same name. Then consider the new low price. Only last year the Paige sold at $3825. The New Paige Phaeton, improved throughout, sells for but $2875. The De Luxe model, completely equipped, at $3195.

The Reason

Such a low price is made possible only through greatly increased production,—an increase made possible by an enlarged plant with a capacity 300% greater than a year ago. The important savings through larger purchases and lowered overhead, amounting to hundreds of dollars, have been spent in bettering the car,—and lowering the price.

Let us demonstrate how the Paige walks up-hill in high. You drive if you like. Just telephone or call and we'll arrange an appointment at your convenience. (503-5)

A CHANCE FOR THE BOY

HOW ROYAL AIR FORCE WILL TRAIN APPRENTICES.

Will Be Trained as Skilled Craftsmen, as Large Numbers Will Be Required to Operate the British Air Routes Which Are to Be Started Throughout the World.

Within a few years there will be large numbers of well-paid jobs going to men having expert knowledge of aircraft. British air routes are rapidly spreading through the world, and the companies operating them will require many more skilled mechanics in the near future.

At present opportunities for learning the various aircraft trades are limited. The manufacturing firms employ skilled labor, and so do the aerial transport companies.

The only method of obtaining training is by entering the Air Force. Owing to the decision of the Imperial Government to increase the strength of the R.A.F. for home defence purposes, a large number of boys are shortly to be engaged as aircraft apprentices, when they will be trained as skilled craftsmen, and after a few years' service returned to civil life.

By the time their service is up the civilian air jobs will be waiting to be filled.

Next January approximately 950 boys, between the ages of 15 and 18 1/2, will be required for the Air Force.

Boys desiring to fill these vacancies must enter for a competitive examination, which consists of papers in mathematics, experimental science, English, and a general paper.

It should be borne in mind that local educational authorities can, on the suggestion of headmasters of schools, nominate boys for a special Air Ministry examination.

The 950 successful candidates will be sent to the School of Technical Training at Halton, Buckinghamshire, to undergo instruction for three years in the various trades which make up the R.A.F. They will be given an excellent general education by civilian school masters, and trained thoroughly in one or other of the trades, the boys being invited to indicate their preference.

The principal trades are carpenter, fitter, cooper, smith, wireless operator, mechanic, electrician, instrument maker, and draughtsman.

During the period of training there is careful supervision of health and general welfare, medical attendance and recreation. Six weeks' annual leave is granted.

Pay is given from the commencement at the rate of 1s. 6d. a day until the age of 18, and then at 3s. 3d. a day until the course is completed. In addition, boys are fed, clothed, and housed free.

At the end of the three years' training the successful apprentice must sit for the passing-out examination for promotion to the rank of leading aircraftman, with pay varying from 5s. 2d. to 5s. 6d. per day. After four years' service the mechanic is free to return to civil life.

A certain number of the most promising boys are sent on the completion of their course to the R.A.F. Cadet College at Cranwell for training in flying as commissioned officers. Others are given advanced courses so that they may qualify later in flying.

There are excellent opportunities for boys who are keen on flying and wish to obtain a training which would normally cost hundreds of pounds.

Smallest Church.

Ringed with poppies now is the tiny church at Lullington, England, beneath the shadow of the chalk downs near Ayrton; their red tongues lick the trunks of the encircling ash grove, and honeyed fans of daisy blossom beckon round the door. This miniature Norman relic cannot be as tiny as the fifteen-foot square, and its tiled roof and big bell-fry give it more the air of a Kentish coast-house than a place of worship. Evenings are still held here, however, once a month, and occasionally there is a christening; but the bell is never rung, for, as the elderly "key-lady" in her full blue dress and prim, round hat tells you, "No one, or at most a stray couple or two, comes to fill the four narrow pews."

Fertilizing.

An old farmer in the "dead end" of Essex, England, was asked the other day if he used fertilizer on his land. "No," he replied, "no. There ain't nothing like dung—good f'm dung!"

"Ah, you're wrong there," was returned. "The time is coming when you can carry the fertilizer for an acre in one of your waistcoat pockets."

"Mayhap it is," he replied; "and I'll be able to carry the crop in t' other pocket, I'm thinking!"

The Comforter.

Mr. Thwaites was an optimist and a sportsman—a combination that made him a friend to bookmakers both directly and indirectly. His friends, whom he infected with his enthusiasm, followed him blindly, with more often than not disastrous results. "See what you've done," wailed one of his friends after a race. "And you told me I could put my shirt on that horse." "And did you?" "Yes—worse luck." "Well, then," replied the optimistic sportsman, "see the money you'll save on laundry bills!"

Regular Prize Winner.

My early years were throughout handicapped by scholastic distinction. I became a regular prize winner at every school to which I was sent. I only mention this because I am now so firmly convinced that the "cramping" form of education merely teaches a boy to rate intellectual achievements above character building.—Gilbert Frankau.

LATE LOCALS

C. F. Gallagher of Bath, N. B., was in town on business today.

A young son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dickinson on Monday, May 19—Clifford Robert.

Miss Ruth Boyer, nurse-in-training at Rhode Island Hospital, Providence, arrived today to spend a three weeks' vacation with her mother and sister.

Mrs. T. G. Simms left for Toronto today to be present at the graduation of her son, Curtis, who takes the degree of D. D. S.

Magistrate: "You were here last week, were you not?" Prisoner: "Yes." "Notice last week?" "Yes." "Do you want a season ticket?"

"You look like a good risk, Mrs. Malone, but will you kindly tell me what your father died of?"

"O! can't rightly remember as to that, sur, but sure it was nothing serious."

Teacher—"Johnny, what are the two genders?"

Johnny—"Masculine and feminine. The masculines are divided into temperate and intemperate and the feminine into frigid and torrid."

THIS WEEK AT HAGERMANS

We have made arrangements and can take orders for the GRAY-DORT Four or Six Cylinder Car. We sold the first Gray-Dort Car ever sold in Carleton County. Speaking from experience, it is good value for the money and this year it is better than ever.

We have on hand for immediate delivery ENARCO MOTOR OIL, CUP GREASE and AXLE GREASE in large or small quantities.

One day I had an awful time and could not make my car go. One fellow said it was the coil, another said she needed oil—and so I used Enarco.

And now that car is running yet—to make my story short And will be good for many years because it is a Dori.
