LIAOYANG ABANDONED

Kuroki's Move Forces Retreat of Gen. Kuropatkin.

Taitse River, But Further Move North Is Stopped By Cutting of Railway Comons Between Lineyang and Mukden-Recent Fighting Bents All

Tokio, Sept. 2.—Tokio rings with shouts and cheers for the victory at Liaoyang. Lantern-bearing crowds swing through the streets and surge around the staff offices shouting "Panzai."

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—(1.26 a.m.)—The news of the occupation of Liaoyang and the withdrawal of the Russian army to the right bank of the Taitze River reached only a small section of the people of St.
Petersburg at a late hour and caused intense excitement and disappointment. The majority of the inhabitants retired to rest believing that the Russian arms had again been successful and that the Japanese at tacks had been repelled. Ugly suspicion, however, had been rifle during the day, owing to the absence of press telegrams from Liaoyang, leading to the belief that the com ns had been cut by Gen. Kuroki. Part of Kuropatkin's Plan.

The following statement was obtained by the Associated Press from the War Office at 10 o'clock Thurs-force to the right bank of the Taitze River, and it therefore became neces-sary for the Russians to repel a blow in this direction. In view of this development in the operations Gen. Kuropatkin decided to abandon his position, on the left bank and to concentrate his whole army on the other side of the river. This position is of the strongest, both in character and in site. The great issue will be finally decided there.

"By withdrawing to this position the Russian army avoids the danger of being divided by the river, and enjoys the advantage of compactness. Gen. Kuropatkin's move, therefore, is not to be considered as a retreat, but rather as the carrying out of a well-defined idea. The withdrawal of the Russians te the right bank in-volved the abandonment of Liaoyang, which is situated on the left benk.

Stern Fighting Yet, If-"The Japanese took advantage of this to occupy the city, but the stern-est part of the fighting is still be-fore them unless Gen. Kuropatkin deordes at the last hour to again fall back to the northward. It is more than likely, however, that he will decide to fight to a finish. The cards are all in his favor, it is believed now, and he has the Japanese divided by the river, thus effectually turnthe river, thus effectually turning the tables upon his foe.

"The determined pursuit by the Japanese of the Russian outposts when Gen, Kuropatkin gave the first order to withdraw was probably due to their anxiety to keep the Russians south of Liaoyang until Gen. Kuroki should be able to strike from the northeast. Gen. Kuropathin, however, saw the trap and cleverly avoided it."

Kuropatkin Defeated.

Tokio, Sept. 2.-At daybreak yesterday the Japanese army on the left delivered a fierce and successful assault against the heights to the west of Hainlingtun and the high ound to the west of Shoushanps It pierced the Russian lines and probably later forced the retirement of the Russian troops from their po-sition on the right and centre. Marsition on the right and centre. Marquis Oyama telegraphs that his losses in these assaults were heavy. It is believed here that Gen. Kuropatkin has been sweepingly defeated and that possession of Liaoyang is a matter of hours. Gen. Kuroki's casualties from Aug. 24 to 28 amounted alties from Aug. 24 to 28 amounted to 2,255. The other casualties have not been reported. Fierce Fighting Thursday, St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—(1.26 a.m.)—Up to the hour of filing this despatch the War Office has not given out the details of the fighting of Sept. 1, but it is believed that this fighting exceeded in fierceness that of

The Most Important News.

Mukden, Sept. 2,—The train service between Mukden and Liaoyang is interrupted. The roads are impassable. London, Sept. 2,—This morning's newspapers comment upon the Associated Press despatch from Mukden, saying that the train service between Mukden and Liaoyang is interrupted, and that the roads are impassable, as the most important news from the Far East, and say that the only meaning of it is that the Japanese have seized the railroad between Liaoyang and Mukden.

Japs Will Rely on Gunboats.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—A correspondent of the Associated Press at Vladivostock telegraphs that the Japanese are relying on the aid of the gunboat flottilla for future operations against Liaoyang and Mukden. The gunboats, the correspondent says, have not yet materialized, but in any case they would be in na position to render aid to a force on the right bank in time of need, be-cause they would be unable to run the gauntlet of the forts at Liao-yang. The strongest forts are situ-ated on the right bank, where the Russian army is now concentrated.

The fighting at Llaoyang has beat-en all records for the desperate valor of the assailants and the invincible stubbornness of the defenders. The whole history of the warfare tells of no such bombardments, no such carano such bombardments, no such caraage and no such persistency. Day after day the fight has been resumed at daybreak and kept up with scarce a moment's intermission until after

Attack of Aug. 27.

Che Foo, Sept. 2.—Severe fighting occurred at Port Arthur Aug. 27, when the Japanese, moving from Shuishiying, attempted to capture Palungshan, which is south of Shuishiying and west of the railway. The Japanese made two assaults between 4 and 8 o'clock in the morning. They were repulsed both times. A prisoner, subsequently taken, places their loss at 1,045 killed and wounded. For one hour afterward shells were thrown from Shuishiying into Fort Arthur.

The above information was brought here Wednesday by a Chinaman who speaks excellent Russian and who was employed at the police station in Port Arthur, which place he left in the evening of Aug 29. He adds that up to his departure no further attack had been made by the Japanese on Palungshan. He confirms previous reports that the Russians had Captured Fort 6 to Lose It. At 4.30 Aug. 31 the Japanese attacked Fort No. 6, on the northeast portion of the right flank. This fort is a new and strong one. After three hours' fierce fighting, during which the Japanese endured a cross fire the Japanese endured a cross fire from Fort No. 2, the Japanese suc-ceeded in entering the fort. When the Russians were safely away from Fort No. 6, the Japanese flag waved over it, several forts concentrated their fire on it, but the Japanese were compelled to retire.

Heavy fighting was heard by the Chinese on the night of Aug. 29. Can't Find the Steamers.

London, Sept. 2.—The British cruisers of the Cape of Good Hope squadon have failed thus far to communicate with the Bussian volunteer fleet steamers Smolensk and St. Peters-burg, although Admiral Durnford's cruisers are constantly calling by wireless telegraphy, "Smolensk" and "St. Petersburg." The Russian com-manders, it is asserted, may suspect this procedure to be a part of a plan of the Japanese to lure them within reach of their guns.

Warships at the Canaries.

Madrid, Sept. 2.—A telegram from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, an-nounces that the military governor has received news of the arrival at Lanserote Island (the most north-easterly of the Canary Islands) of several warships flying the Russian flag. The telegram says that the ves-sels coaled from steamers which were waiting there.

Hamilton, Sept. 2.—Yesterday afternoon Joe Armstrong, proprietor of the Macassa House, whose license was cut off, walked into Rans Wilson's livery stable on Charles street with a long butcher knife, and asked Harry McCamis, a hostler, if he was prepared to defend himself. He then made a lunge at McCamis, according to the story told to the police, but McCamis dodged, picked up a neckyoke and knocked Armstrong down. The hostler and others tried to disarm the hotelman, but he clung desperately to the knife and, in the struggle, McCamis got a nasty cut under his eye, and Armstrong's ear and face were slashed. He was so badly used up with cuts and bruises that he had to be taken straight to the hospital, where he is under arthe hospital, where he is under ar-rest, with a policeman guarding his cot. In keeping with the day the speeches at the directors' luncheon were entirely Scottish. Rain spoiled the evening performance in front of the grand stand.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL

King Edward Has Approved Appointment of Earl Grey.

Says Canada Will Be Pleased With

London, Sept. 2.—King Edward has approved the appointment of Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada, in succession to the Earl of Minto.

The Daily Chronicle, referring to the appointment of Earl Grey to succeed the Earl of Minto, says that in all Imperial problems he has a keen interest and his practical experience as Administrator of Rhodesia in its varly days enables him to understand the colonial point of view. By rank, integrity and knowledge of affairs and devotion to the public welfairs and the p fairs and devotion to the public welfare Earl Grey is thoroughly qualified for the great task imposed on him. Canada will be pleased with her new Governor-General.

The Daily News says the appointment of Earl Grey is another indica-tion of the hold South African influ-ences have obtained over the Government. As an administrator he will find himself pretty closely tethered, but, unfortunately for the Empire the Canadian constitution is not en-tirely proof against opportunities for mischief-making and as a jingo and a Chamberlainite Earl Grey may be trusted to make the most of them. "Short of the appointment of Lord Milner, we cannot imagine a selection more entirely disadvantageous to the Empire." to the Empire.

The Standard says: "We may assume that Earl Grey will go to his duties with that inborn capacity for managing men which must always be the most valuable asset of anyone on whom falls the lot of representing the Crown in the great self-governing colony. He may be taken as the typical representative of that cautious type of aristocratic politician which by no means opposed to extensions of the franchise has no sympathy whatever with surrenders to violent agitation. Such a disposition should prove of much service in Canada when delicate questions of constitu-tional propriety comes before him for review

The Times says: Earl Grey com-bines the essential qualities of suc-cess; an earnest belief in the Empire per. He will hold the balance between parties and we doubt not will be able to maintain with firmness the position he, as representative of Crown, is bound to maintain. He will be liked by French-Canadians as well as by English and will maintain cordial relations with the United States, while at the same time he will know how to treat those petuwill know how to treat those petu-lant demonstrations of a separatis-tic spirit which now and then in a few obscure quarters claim a certain notice. His African experience will lead him to look with sympathy, on the expansion of the Northwest. He has what the professed politician of-ten lacks—the gift of imagination ne-cessary in the case of regions as large as the States ready for the plough. No problem will more appeal to Earl Grey's mind than the development of Canada as a field for British immigrants. British immigrants.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1904. TORONTO'S LACROSSE TROUBLE

Two members of the Tecumseh la crosse club assaulted the referee is a game at Toronto on Saturday, and now the Star calls upon the police to prosecute the men. "The police au thorities," the Star says, "should act in the interests of law and order, and bring the referee, players, and officials of the match as witnesses Brutality in lacrosse will never be stopped if we wait until the players drag each other into police court. It is contrary to the code that governs field sports, and the player who dees it is ostracized. The code requires that if your man cuts your head open with his stick you shall lie low for a chance to body-check him through a board fence—but sum-mon him to court, never!" There is a principle involved extending beyond the field of athletic sport. Any code that refuses to recognize the 16th, 1835, law is anarchical. It tends to bring the law into disrepute, and to establish a false, and often mis chievous standard of manliness. There is no more reason why one man should be allowed to assault another on a lacrosse field than there slug another on the main street; nor is there any reason why the man as saulted on the lacrosse field should be allowed to take the law in his own hands that does not apply to the man on the street.

A STRANGE CASE.

Judging by the newspapers, England, has on her hands what some of the writers call another Dreyfus case. The victim of Adolf Beck, a man now sixty-three years of age, who has been prosecuted and persecuted by the police for eight years, and twice convicted, although entirely innocent. Through the efforts of a newspaper writer the man's story has been brought prominently before the public, and most of the influential papers have joined in a demand for an investigation. The Government, represented by the Treasury Department, has offered the victim £2,000 ($10,000) on condition that the Department be absolved from further claims. The Daily Mail, which was instrumental in placing the story before the public, strongly urges Mr. Beck to refuse the offer, and guarantees him that amount should the treasury withdraw its bid for his silence. The Mail demands an investigation, and claims to be supported in its demand by every newspaper in London, irrespective of politics, "Think," says The Mail, "what it would mean if Mr. Beck were induced to accept this 'isolation' which the treasury has offered him. Silence over the mysteries of the whole terrible affair, no public investigation, no punishment for the men who have made a byword of justice in this particular case, no examination of methods which imperil the liberty and honor of every person who reads these lines, no light on incidents that must sadden the heart of every honest citizen." The English people show their appreciation of the priveleges of British citizenship by insisting on them, not gushing over them British system of adminstering justice is in many respects a model for the world; but, like most human institutions, it has its weak spots, and one of the weaknesses is revealed by the Beck case. There is always the danger of officers of the law showing more anxiety to secure conviction than to establish justice.

FREE PARDON AFTER 43 YEARS. London Times.

I was travelling in the Australian bush-New South Wales -when I came across a respectable old man, over 60 years of age, who told me an extraordinary story. There and a man named Oliver were tried at Exeter in 1836 for the murder of a yeoman farmer named May on July

They were both convicted and ser tenced to be executed. Oliver, in the dock, turned to the judge and said: "This man, Galley, is quite innocent." Mr. Cockburn, afterwards Lord Chief Justice, who defended Galley, and shorthand reporter who was also presis why one man should be allowed to ent at the trial, made such strenuous efforts that Galley's sentence of death was not carried out, but he was transported to New South Wales, where he arrived in 1839. Oliver was executed. Many years afterwards a man named John Longley, on his on his deathbed, confessed that he and Oliver were the murderers of May, and Galley was innocent.

A number of people, and I among hem, wrote to my fine old friend Sir Edward Wilmot, M.P., who took up the case and presented it to the ouse of commons in a simple, clear and effective manner. Galley did not like to marry until he received a free pardon. The proceedings in the house commons are fully reported in hansard, especially the great speech of John Bright. After an exciting de-bate it was resolved to recommend the Queen to grant a pardon to Galley, which was accordingly given in 1879, forty-three years after the con of the poor old Australian

ONE LUNG

May be gone and yet the remaining lung will be amply sufficient to sustain a vigorous vitality. As a general thing few people make more use of both lungs than is equivalent to a healthy use of one lung.

These facts are all in the favor of the man of woman with weak lungs, even when disease has a strong grip on them.

Many a person living in health to-day has the lungs marked of the healed scart of disease.

Dr. Pierce's

Discovery makes weak lungs strong. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs and other conditions, which, if neglect-ed or unskilfully treated, find a fatal termination in consumption.

advocated changes in the patent laws of all countries, especially in regard to an extension of the time limit, make these changes if capitalists were to be induced to invest undertakings dependent woon patents from

As an illustration, Mr: Parsons gave details of a scheme for the sinking of a shaft to a great distance in order to explore the lower depths of the earth. He submitted estimates of the cost and the time of sinking a shaft from two to twelve miles. To sink the shaft to the latter depth, he said, would cost $25,000,000 and take $5 years. Preventing Early Frost.

It has long been known that clouds prevent frast. The theory is that they form a blanket to retain the heat. In France last autumn this fact was turned to account. Artificial clouds have been made from smoke. One of the American Consuls thus reports on the subject:

tificial clouds have been made from smoke. One of the American Consuls thus reports on the subject:

"M. Bignon has recently addressed to the French National Society of Agriculture a note giving interesting information on the efficacy of artificial clouds in preventing frosts. For many years he has successfully practiced this. His vineyard thus protected covers about fifteen acres and is divided into five parts, separated from east to west by walks twelve to fifteen feet wide and circled by an avenue of equal width. These walks facilitate the placing of the fires, which are built in a small basin sunk into the earth and filled with fifteen or twenty pounds of resinous matter and some pieces of pine and other vegetable debris. The basins are some fifty feet apart.

had four times to artificial fires. The total expense was $400. The effect is stated as having preserved 25 per cent. of the harvest, or some 125 or 150 barrels of wine.

"It is stated that any substance can be burned which gives a thick and abundant smoke, such as green herbs, moss, damp straw, tufts of grass, etc., but best results have been obtained in France by the heavy oils which are the residues of gas."
This fact will prove of great interest to Canadian farmers, especially est to Canadian farmers, especially to market gardeners and growers of vineyards. Jack Frost can be liter-ally smoked out.

Perfect Autumn Condition. Every veteran fruit grower knows that to have a tree in perfect condi-tion—say, for instance, an apple or tion—say, for instance, an apple or a pear or even a peach tree—it should discontinue its growth at, say, along in September, but after that if it ripens up its wood and holds its foli-age until the frost takes it off it is

Mrs. Huffman Says:

Many persons are of the opinion that the gain in weight from the in-ception to the conclusion of the feedception to the conclusion of the feed-ing experiment must pay for the cost of the food or else cattle feed-ing is an unprofitable business. This is not true and can never be true, but is one of the fallacious notions that are liable to spring up from nowhere and confront any industry.— Professor Soule in Breeder's Gazette.

Queer Places for Birds' Nests. Queer Pieces for Birds' Nests.
Birds have been known to nest in letter boxes regardless of the mail that was unceremoniously dropped in on them. Two wrens once chose an old hat hanging on a nail eutside a barn where laborers were going to and fro all day. An empty fruit basket which had been tossed into a tree was the home of another family of birds.

The Work of the Heart

Whether it be true or not that the Egyptians 4,000 years B. C. discovered the true functions of the heart and thus anticipated Harvey, it certainly is true that Michael Servitus, whom John Calvin burned to death at Geneva in 1553, in his treatise, "De Trinitatis Erroribus," published in 1533, first maintained the imperviousness of the septum and the "transition of blood from the right ventricle by the pulmonary artery to the lungs, thence by the pulmonary veln and left auricle and ventricle and the aorta to all parts

More than eighty years later Harvey, taking up the work of that great physiologist, completed it, and in his work, "Exercitatis de Motu Cordis et Sanof the body." guinis" (1628), promulgated to the world his discovery of the true func-tions of the heart and of the regular and periodic circulation of the blood, and it in nowise derogates from his fame or the merit of his discovery to say that it was Michael Servitus who pointed the way to this discovery for a meat inspector.

Horseflesh and Beef. "Here are some means of distinguishing between horseflesh and beef," said

"Raw horsefiesh is a brownish red in color, whereas in raw beef there is no brown. Raw horseflesh is soft and tenacious. Touch it, and the finger sinks in, while as you withdraw the finger the tissues rise with it and cling to it, as though intermixed with glue But raw beef is not soft nor tenacious in this way. Raw horseflesh, furthermore, has an odd, metallic smell.

"Cooked horseflesh is denser than beef. It is as dense as a lump of cheese. In taste it is sweet—a sweetness sickening, to my mind. "The best test for horseflesh is to take a piece of the fat and melt it. Horse fat will melt to a clear oil at so low a temperature as 70 degrees F., but beef fat won't melt to a clear oil under a temperature of 112 degrees,"

The Gallery Gods' Applause. Lawrence Barrett once told of a conversation he had with Edwin Booth, The latter had been congratulated upon an ovation given him by a crowded house on the opening night of an en-gagement. "The sweetest music to my ears," said the great tragedian, "is the shouting of the boys in the gallery. I know they are not applauding because I have a reputation or because they wish to make a display. They simply give vent to their natural enthusiasm. When they shout I know that I am giving a good performance. As for the parquet, it may clap its hands out of politeness. A dramatic critic who had certain notions as to how a line should be read will applaud if I read it his way; otherwise he will remain quiet. I can never analyze the applause of the front rows, but the gallery is sincere in its likes or dislikes."

Memory of Sleepwalkers. The memory of sleepwalkers is ex traordinary, not to say phenomenal especially when under the peculiar impulse of the disease which prompts their movements. Moritz gives an instance of a poor basket maker who was unable to either read or write, yet, strange as it may appear, when in one of his somnambulistic vigils he would preach fluent sermons, some of which were recognized as having formed parts of discourses which he was accustomed to hear when he was a child attending his parish church forty years

Coffee a Disinfectant. "Drink plenty of coffee if there is sickness around you," said a physician. "Coffee is a good preventive of typhoid fever and cholera. This has been proven. Cholera germs and ty-phoid germs have been thrown into coffee and the aromatic drink has not once failed to kill the germs within an hour. Hence, amid contagious con-ditions do not neglect, among your other precautions, to drink three cups of strong coffee at each meal."

VERANDA HOSPITALITY.

Suggestions For Allurius Breakfasts

In summer days the veranda should constitute a continuous "living room," and here may be presented at times, if not permanently, the family breakfast, luncheon and 5 o'clock tea. When the children's appetites begin to lag, as often happens during the summer, the distressed mother will find gratifying results through offering a dainty, alluring refection on the home porch, advises the New Idea

Suggestions for breakfast on the veranda in summer days may be made as follows: Fruits—berries, apricots, melons, pears, peaches, grapes, varying these frequently; cereals of light character, cooked and uncooked, dispensing with oatmeal until colder, weather. The chafing dish may be brought into service in presenting such features as stewed kidney; tripe, creamed or a la lyonnaise; smoked beef, creamed or with scrambled eggs; minced ham on toast, creamed codfish, scrambled eggs and tomatoes, eggs in various forms and omelets of ham, parsley and rice. Water cress should become a staple accompaniment to this season's break-fast; crisp radishes and cucumbers may be served too. "Popovers," light breakfast mushins, breads, toast of entire wheat bread, etc., should be presented. Where the breakfast does not include meat, the following formula will give a nutritious, inviting, satisfying feature: Make a batter as follows: Mix a table spoonful of butter with half a cupful of soft boiled rice; and the yolks of two eggs, well beaten, and a cupful of milk; sift in next half a cupful of flour, a tablespoonful of yellow cornmeal and a very scant teaspoonful of Add a dash of salt to baking powder. the whites of two eggs and beat to a stiff froth. Fold this in quickly and lightly to the remainder of the mix-Pour into small layer cake pans and bake in a hot oven until a golden brown, which will take from twelve to fifteen minutes. Remove one of the layers to the serving plate, bottom side up. Butter well over the entire surface. Place another layer over this and butter generously as you would spread jelly on a layer cake. The top layer is to be placed top side up and also well buttered. Cover all with a deep dish and place in the oven until ready to be served. Toothsome Dishes With Corn.

A toothsome baked corn pudding calls for one quart of scraped corn pulp, for one quart of scraped corn pulp, four eggs, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one pint of milk, one teaspoonful of salt, one-third of a teaspoonful of pep-per and one heaping tablespoonful of butter. It is baked in a moderate oven until set in the center. The same compound, without the flour and milk, may be used as a filling for tomato and pepper shells, says Table Talk. The old Indian name of succotash at once reminds us of tender little lima beans and corn pulp cooked together. Some cooks like to add to this a slice or two of salt pork or fat bacon, but this addition is better applied to the dried or canned article than when brought in fresh from the truck or kitchen garden. When left over on the cob it may be cut off, highly seasoned with salt and pepper, mixed with a white sauce, turned into a dish, covered with buttered crumbs and baked as a scallop, or the corn and sauce, after ten minutes of slow cooking, can be poured over dipped toast. Again the cut corn can be mixed with an equal quantity of thick batter made with flour, milk, baking powder and one or two eggs and cooked as fritters. Where uncooked pulp is used for this dish very little milk will be needed, especially if the corn is young and julcy.

Latest Fancy Work.

Hardanger, or Norwegian, embroid-ery is largely composed of the lace stitch known as "binding" in the open parts. The solid portions are done in satin stitch, taken in accordance with the canvas-like ground. The openwork is produced by drawing the threads as indicated in the design and in cutting indicated in the design and in cutting out spaces. Considerable accuracy is necessary to cut the squares correctly. The work thus becomes a sort of combination of "cut" and "drawn work" and is very effective and strong. It is entirely dependent upon the gr material, however.

Mr. Humphrey'is noted for his willingness to assist all whom he finds in trouble so he at once directed the marriage license seekers to the place of business of his friend, Mr. Jordan, Mr. Humphrey wanted to see this thing to an amiable finish so he told the mating pair that if they would come back to his office they could get spliced there and he promised to find a minister. The kindhearted insurance man bustled out and secured the Rev. F. E. Parrott was the best man and the service went through without a hitch. The bridesmaid and groomsman however, refuse to tell whether the bride was kissed or not. They are both married men themselves.

BEAUTY IN BOOKS.

SEFUL IN THE FURNISHING AND DECORATION OF THE HOUSE.

Sverywhere They Give an Atm phere Unique, Delightful, Satisfying-Some Good Devices In Shelves For Accommodating Them,

One phase of the usefulness of books that appeals in a very, practical manner to home makers is the help they give in furnishing the house. this fact becomes more generally rec ognized and better understood there will be a freer and more generous distribution of books through all the different rooms, says the Delineator in offering some hints in this direction. In one home the books make a characteristic part of the furnishings throughout the house. They meet one in the front hall and again in all the living rooms and bedrooms, and on each stairvay and landing are more books fitted along the wall, giving an atmosphere unique, delightful and satisfying In establishing the books throughout the house no conventional arrangemen is as good as that which is originated to meet the special requirements of the household. A corner in the living room may be reserved for a revolving book dias and reference volumes are compactly brought together. A large dictionary laid on a steel frame where the pages may be opened without lifting is the best way to hold this useful family

It is made of pine boards and painted the color of the voodwork against which it stands The case is four and one-half feet high and three feet long. The shelves are cight inches deep and high enough to accommodate the magazines in bound form. There is no back to these shelves, and they are light in weight ard can be easily moved about when cleaning days come around. Any long wall space is available for holding bookshelves. If these are made without a middle support the weight of the books will cause the shelves to sag in the middle.

Cameo Catting. Refo.e the discovery of onyx as the material specially adapted for cameo stones, eggshells and other materials. The Greco-Roman, and especially the Augustan, period was rich in cameos, and almost every great Roman wished to have his portrait cut in onyx. One of these, an exquisite portrait of Emperor Augustus Caesar himself, is perhaps the finest existing cameo. Such portrait cameos were practically indestructible, except by accident. A Pioneer Patentee

It is rather remarkable that the first patent taken out in America should have been secured by an Englishman. It was in the middle of the seventeenth century that an Englishman named Jenk secured a monopoly in America for the sale of a hand machine for ex tinguishing fires which he had invented in England some years previously, until he migrated to America. The monopoly only lasted for fourteen years, but Jenk made a very ample fortune out of his sales of the apparatus.

A Costly Ton of Coal.

On Jan. 10, 1789, thirteen men brought a wagon with a ton of coal from Loughborough, in Leicestershire, to London as a present to the then Prince of Wales. When the coal was emptied into the cellar the clerk of the cellars gave them 4 guineas, and as soon as the prince was informed of it his highness sent them 20 guineas and ordered them a pot of beer each man. They performed their journey, which is 111 miles, in eleven days and drew the coal all the way without any relief .- London Tit-Bits.

Pineapple Souffle In Shell,

When pineapples are in their prime there is no more delicious dessert to serve at a social luncheon than one made after the following recipe; Select a pineapple from the crown of which the spines can be easily plucked, then tou may be sure the fruit is ripe; scrub the fruit with a vegetable brush in cold water to remove all dust; wipe ary, then cut the crown end a little more than a quarter of the length of the fruit. With a sharp silver spoon scoop out the pulp, leaving the shell unbroken, and set on ice until ready to cups of fine sugar; let stand one-half hour, then press through a sieve, only using that which goes easily through; add one lemon; partially freeze one quart of cream, add the pineapple mixture and finish freezing, adding more sugar if needed. Place the shell on cold plate, surround with spines and heap full with the souffle.

STATE INFANT NURSERY

IS NEW ZEALAND'S LATEST SOCIAL-STIC REFORM PROPOSAL.

Premier Seldon's Plan to Conserve the Natural Increase of the Colony-May Be Laughed At, He Says, But Every Life Saved Is Worth $1,500-Statistics Show Many Infants Die From Preventible

State Socialism in New Zeland is to be carried still a further stage, if Mr. Seddon is able to give effect to his views next session, says a recent despatch. He intends that the State shall, in future, take steps to protect the lives of infants and administer to the sick poor of the colony. Two years ago an attempt was made by Act of Parliament to minimize the decrease in the birth-rate by prohibiting the sale of certain nostrums; now Mr. Seddon intends to save the lives of as many infants as are the lives of as many infants as possible by establishing a huge nurs-ery department.

Mr. Seddon admits that his scheme may be laughed at, but his heart, he says, prompts him to lessen domestic affliction and save valuable human lives, each of which, upon a commercial basis, he declares to be worth $1,500 to the State. The idea has apparently been suggested by statistics showing that the deaths of children under five years of age during the past ten years numbered 20,-000, due largely to preventible

Briefly, Mr. Seddon's scheme is this
(1) The registration and control of midwives, and provision for their at-tendance on the poor gratis; the es-tablishment and support by the State of maternity hospitals; the establish-ment of State hospitals for the treatment of children of poorly-housed working people, the management of the institution to be placed in the hands of trustees; the providing by the State of nurses to the sick poor In their homes; making provision for the training of such nurses in the general hospitals, the State paying the board and lodging of the probationers for two years; adoption of the lines laid down in the United the lines laid down in the United Kingdom for the prevention of cruelty to children; the establishment of homes for the daily care of young children whose mothers have to go out to work; making it illegal to insure children of tender years for sums beyond that which would cover the cost of interment, viz., £5, and making it illegal for any parent or curadian to commute (capitalize) the guardian to commute (capitalize) the weekly or monthly amount payable for the maintenance of a child.

A CHINESE FUNNY STORY. Typical Example of the Humor of Flowery Kingdom.

Here is a typical example of a Here is a typical example of a Chinese funny story: A passenger boat full of people was on the point of pushing off from the share when a man came running up in hot haste and asked to be taken on board. "There's no room. We can't take you," answered the boatman. But he was not to be put off so easily. "If you will let me come," he cried, "I will tell you a tale!" The passengers began to discuss the situation. "We have nothing to do," they said to each other, "and it's very tedious. If he were to tell us a story it would while away the time." Accordingly (regulations as time." Accordingly (regulations as to the number of passengers being by no means strict in the flowery land) the applicant was allowed to come on board. The passengers squeezed closer and so managed to squeezed closer and so managed to make room for him, proving the truth of the German adage, "Many patient sheep go into a small fold."

After giving the newcomer a little breathing time they asked for the promised story Without hesitation he begen: "Ch'ao Ch'ao once led 830,000 men (infantry and cavalry) to the south of the Yangtse." Ch'ao Ch'ao was a famous Chinese general who lived in the time of the Han dynasty about the beginning of the who lived in the time of the Han dynasty about the beginning of the Christian era, and whose deeds of prowess are still related with great gusto among his fellow countrymen. 'On their way,' went on the story teller, "they had to cross a river by a bridge which consisted of a single plank. They crossed over one by one." Here the narrator began to make noises which were supposed to make noises which were supposed to represent the trampling of the steeds, "Teh-teh-teh." This went on till his audience grew rather tired of it.

At last some one said, "Please go on with the story." "You must wait for them to cross the bridge," was the answer. "When 830,000 men and horses have to cross a one men and horses have to cross a one plank bridge it won't do to hurry them. They must be careful or they might fall into the water," and he calmly resumed his "teh-teh-teh." Again his audience pleaded for a continuation of the story, but again he declined to be hurried. "They can't cross the bridge in a short time." he said. "They must go slowly and carefully." So he went on with his "teh-teh-teh," and, how ever much he was urged, he would say nothing else. So the boat reach-ed its destination, and the story was never finished because Ch'ao Ch'ao's army had not yet had time to cross

According to The London Daily Mail, an important and useful con-cession to the rural population of England is announced by the British postoffice. It will now be possible for those who live in places quite remote from postoffices to hand parcels to the postmen for transmission through the mails. A rural postman, whether on foot or mounted on a bicycle or tricycle, is to accept parcels tendered to him, provided that he is not already fully loaded and that the weight of the parcels handed by any one person does not exceed eleven pounds. If the sender's limit, arrangements will be made for its collection if a day's notice is given. If the postman uses a horse and cart he will be allowed to accept any number of parcels, provided he can conveniently carry them in his vehicle. When these conditions do not apply the sender has yet anothnot apply the sender has yet angular or opportunity, for he has only to proceed to the nearest country letter box at the time appointed for emptying it, and the parcels may then be handed over to the driver of the mail cart, who, however, is not required to weigh the parcels or to check the postage. For the accommodation of farmers, market gardeners and those who are in the habit of regularly despatching goods by parcel post, special arrangements have been made, and in cases where a sufficient number of parcels are regularly sent there will be, if desired, a direct collection from the premises every week day or on certain specified days each week.

In the Days of the Samural. Som? of the stories that come from Japan seem as neat and dainty as their paintings, their landscapes and their geisha girls. Here is one, from a recent book on that country that partakes both of the neat and the heroic. Every one admires an artistic piece of work, even and especially if it deals with the foiling of an assassin. Such was the device of a newerful samural whose enemies were pressing him hard. It was in the stormy days of the shogunate: "He had been hunted day and 'He had been hunted day and night, but had successfully evaded his pursuers and was resting at a wayside inn. All was quiet and peaceful as he sat alone in a room drinking his tea and planning his way through the tangle that beset him, when, about a foot from where he set and always grazing the edge. he sat and almost grazing the edge of the tray before him, a spearhead glided swiftly and silently up through the mat. Almost before it had ceased its upwards bounds the samurai had the cooling teakettle in his hand and was pouring a thin stream of lukewarm water over the spearhead and down the shaft. Then he tranand down the shaft. Then he tranquilly resumed his tea, knowing that the enemy in the dark below, satisfied that he had felt the blood of his victim trickling down the shaft, would do no more."

Is there any wonder that the Japs get the better of the icon worshiping and thick witted Russians?

"Oh, don't be so inflexible." pleaded the fair suppliant. "Think of my helpless children! You are too hard upon me! Indeed you are! Ought I to be punished so cruelly for a hasty action, committed in a moment of anger and bitterly repented of immodiately afterward? Where is your sense of justice? Reconsider your decision, I beg of you!"

Curious Contest For a Bride In Tibet tribes in the Koko-nor there is a curimarriage ceremonial function.

This consists in placing the girl, on a tree, while her male relatives remain on the lower limbs, or else in the back part of her father's tent or hut, while these same relatives guard the entrance, in each case the latter being aimed with lolo thorn sticks.

The groom, when these preparations have been completed, rides up and an-nounces his intention of solzing the bride. This requires fortitude, for the relatives bent him numercifully when he attempts to reach the woman. If he manages to elude his assailants and touch the toe of the woman she is his, he is welcomed into the family and complimented on his ardor. Should he fall he suffers not only the inconvenience of being wifeless, but the loss of cattle and other presents given during the negotiations. ### Which Eye Is Stronger?

Here is a little test for your eyes that will soon show you which of them is the stronger. Place an object about two inches in diameter on a level with your eyes and move back from it about ten feet. Then point to it and take sight along the top of your pointing finger until the object and the tip of your finger are exactly in a line with the eye from which you are sighting. Next open the other eye and see if the object seems to have moved from the straight line. If it has not moved to one side apparently, the eye with which you first looked is the stronger, as the addition of the other's vision does not clainge the focus. If the object seems to have moved, it proves that the other eye is the stronger, the difference being measured by the distance that the object appears to have moved.

Try sighting with both eyes open first. Then look with first one eye and then the other and see how far out of line each makes the object appear. The one that is farthest out of line is the

Bumps on the Head.

The lump raised by a blow on the head is due to the resistance offered by the hard skull and its close connec tion with the movable elastic scalp by many circumscribed bands of conne tive tissue.

The result of a blow, when the scalp is not cut, is the bruising and laceration of many of the small blood vessels or capillaries. Blood or its fluid constituent, serum, is poured into the tissue, which is delicate, spongy, distensible and cellular, and the well known bump or lump is quickly formed. This cannot push inward at all and naturally takes the line of least resistance. Similar lumps may be formed on the shin in exactly the same way, for the shin bone also is covered only by skin and subcutaneous con aective tissue.

The Largest Cities of Antiquity. The greatest cities of ancient times were Babylon and Rome. The former s said to have had an area of 100 to bree or four stories high, but palaces and gardens occupied much of the vast real so that the population was not what these figures would seem to in-lic te. In fact, it is said by one historian that nine-tenths of this area was taken up by gardens and orcherds. The total population of the city under ch is estimated at upward of 2.000.-Rome reached its greatest size uring the fourth century of our era, its population was then about 2,500,000.

Saved by a Bullet Wound. A soldier who served under General Welfe in the campaign resulting in the fall of Quebec was dying of an abscess in one of his lungs. "Well," said he, "as I am to die, I will die in battle," and he insisted on joining the firing line. Very soon he got a bullet through the lungs. The bullet pierced the abcess at the psychological moment, and drained it. The surgeons were able easily to cure the bullet wound, and that soldier lived for many a year afterward.

The striking thing about the execu tion was the appalling quickness of it all. Action was so rapid from the instant the condemned appeared in the doorway of the prison to the moment sible to distinguish the slight chain of incidents. He flung himself eagerly against the plank, was strapped to it, and in the flash of a glance the plant was pushed forward on the platform of the guillotine. An instant's vision of a recumbent figure, face downward. In the same moment a head, with two staring, wide open eyes, whirled almost defiantly, as it seemed, and with a sright zigzag movement, to the right-ward, while simultaneously the pinioned body rolled, inert, convulsive, into the capacious basket, also at the right hand side of the guillotine. The swiftness, the mechanical promptness of the business, fairly stupefied the spectator. It was impossible to realize that a human life had ended in less time than it would take to draw a full breath. The guillotine had done its work well. There was scarcely a sense of horror in the sight.—London Stand-

THE PROPER TREATMENT FOR A SPRAINED ANKLE.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unneces-sary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chambertain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. Some of Swift's Sarcasm Swift's "Rules and Directions For Servants" are quoted in What to Eat as an evidence that the servant of the eventeen century did not differ materially from the modern American article. Montreal, Sept. 2.—Yesterday, after a call at the flower show, the Archbishop of Canterbury, accompanied by J. Pierpont Morgan, Sir George Drummond, Bishop Carmichael, President George E. Drummond of the Board of Trade and others paid a short visit to the Bank of Montreal, where they were received by General Manager Clouston. There the most interesting incident of the day took place.

His Grace arrived in the Chambre de Commerce, where the leading French-Canadian business men had gathered. These Roman Catholic gentlemen delighted the head of the Church of England with the following address, read by President H. A. A. Brault: "The Chambre de Commerce is happy to unite with your flock and the citizens of Canada to tender to Your Grace our profound respects and our most, sincere thanks for the honor of a well-appreciated visit to our chambre. Will Your Grace allow me to say that although we French-Canadians do not though we remember the leieve though we French-Canadians do not though we French-Canadians do not belong to your own faith, we believe in the one God, who wishes all His people to live in peace. You well understand His command and the hroadness of your mind, of which you have given proofs, not later than a few days ago, when, in Quebec, you extolled the virtues and heroism of our missionaries, as well as those of the men of your own race. You are welcome among us, and may God preserve you and when you return home will Your Grace assure His Majesty our King of the good results home will your Grace assure his ma-jesty our King of the good results which the fiberal institutions under which we live have obtained for this country and for the different races of

His Grace in reply said that he heartly thanked the members of the heartily thanked the members of the Chambre de Commerce for their very kind words, spoken through their president. This reception would live long in his memory as one of the most welcome features of his visit to Canada, and above all he prayed that God would bless the Dominion and its people, and it was his earn est prayer that all would live in har

The City Hall and Board of Trade were likewise visited, also Notre Dame Church, where the Rev. Sons of St. Sulphice cordially welcomed the Archbishop and his friends.

The party lunched at Sir George Drummend's.

Closed With Service

The day's proceedings closed with a most impressive service at the Eng-lish Cathedral, when the Archbishop delivered a very imposing address. His grace alluded to the fact that it was a strange thing to be 3,000 miles from home, but he met them here in their own field of work and could have a better appreciation of their labors. He also referred to the great resources and possibilities of Camela, which formed a support for the Empire and spoke of the great influence that the Church of England had in connection with the future of the Do-

Fred. Waghorne, who acted as referee at the Orillia-Chatham game yesterday, returned this morning. reason to feel blue over Chatham's high tax rate this year as people are led to believe," commented Ald. Harry Westman this morning.

"If you will stop to consider, there has been a lot of building going on in Chatham this year and all of this building has been going on in the heart of the city, on paved streets, whereas formerly the building was chiefly on the outskirts of the city and on unpaved streets. This will increase the assessment next year, and the higher the assessments the smaller the rate will be. Eighteen new houses have been put up between the C. P. R. track, and the Grand Trunk track on Queen St., and for all of these improvements to the city there will be no expense to the city for the extension of sidewalks and sewers to them. The city is commencing to fill in with buildings and becoming more compact.

"I understand that Larry Howard is going to put up a number of houses on the Stone property on Queen St., facing Patterson avenue. That will mean more assessment. About 75 new houses have gone up this year and all are good buildings.

"Then, for the last 15 years the city has been piling up debentures and paying the interest on them and none of them have matured. One of them matures next year and two the year after, and from this on some of them will be maturing every year. So that the new debentures that we will add in the coming years will not increase the debenture debt, as for each one added an old one will mature, and so we can go on adding improvements to our city and not increase the taxes at all.

"So you see I don't think we need feel alarmed, as conditions are much provided the provided the

How the Oldest Highland Regiment Obtained Its Name - A Unique and Interesting History

No historical narrative makes more interesting reading or more inspiring to the heart of every Britisher than the story of the Black Watch and its splendid roll of victoreis. The origin of this most attractive name is of great interest. In 1725 a number of Highland gentlemen volunteered for the service of the Crown to preserve order in the Highlands and for years later these loyal Highlanders were constituted as a part of the domestic military force of Scotland. At that time six independent companies were formed numbering 525 men and the officers were all leading Highland. At the officers were all leading Highland Chieftans.

officers were all leading Highland Chieftans.

These independent companies wore the clan tartan, consisting mostly of of the black, blue and green of their respective commanders, and from sombre appearance they were disignated "Am Freiceadan Dubh" or "Black Watch" to distinguish them from the regular troops, who were called "Saighdearan Dearg" or "Red soldiers" on account of the prevailing color of their uniforms. The private men of the "Black Watch" were provided with muskets and bayonets, and besides these weapons each Highlander had his broadsword, target, pistols and dirk. The sergeants carried the Tuagh or Lochaber axe. As the operations of these companies were confined to their own terfitories, they enlisted the services of the members of many distinguished families.

The brass and pipe bands of this famous regiment will make a tour of Canada, beginning in September. They will be in Chatham on Monday afternoon, September 12th.

ROASTS BROWN

Such as the following appears almost daily in the Maritime Province journals: "There were four Scott Act cases tried at Amherst, N. S., last week. All were from the Joggins mines. They each contributed $50 and costs to the exchequer." Joggins is a small town of 500 inhabitants, and has about twenty places selling drinks of one kind or another. The Rev. Mr. Brown, of Blenheim, and Carrie Nation; the one with his constable's baton and revolver, and the latter with her hatchet, would make a fine combination to suppress liquor selling in such towns as the Joggins and other villages in Nova Scotia: and New Brunswick, where the Scott Act has been tried and found to rather increase than decrease the places where the ardent is sold.—Railway News and Commercial Traveller; devoted to the interests of railways, steamboats, hotels and commercial men.
