MOST SICKNESS COMES FROM WEAK, INACTIVE KIDNEYS

Recent Reports Show Hundreds Suffer With Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It...

There are scores of nervous, tired, run down people throughout the city, suffering with pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, weakness of the bladder (frequently causing annoyance at night) who fail to realize the seriousness of their troubles until such conditions as chronic rheumatism, bladder troubles, dropsy, diabetes or even Bright's disease result. All this is due to weak, inactive kidneys. The kidneys are the filters of the blood, and no one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly. It is even more important than that the bowels move regularly. If you suffer with such symptoms don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure an original package of the new discovery, Croxone which costs, but a trifle, and commence its use at once. When you have taken a few doses, you will be surprised how differently you will feel. Croxone cures the worst cases of kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism, because it removes the cause. It cleans out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the bladder and quickly relieves you of all your misery.

EX PRESIDENT

ficial investigation into the death of ex-President Francisco Madero and ex-Vice-President Jose Pino Suarez on Saturday night is to be initiated at once. The morning newspapers also herald the new era and prophecy immediate peace and the early resumption of prosperous conditions.

General Huerta's government undoubtedly has now at least the upper hand in the country.

A committee of the followers of Emiliano Zapata arrived here last night to discuss with the government arrangements to bring about peace in the south.

espoused, members of the Sonora State Congress met in special session to decide whether they shall formally declare the state in rebellion against General Victoriano Huerta, the Provisional President of Mexico. Intense excitement prevailed. Many of the congressmen attended a secret session last night after which it seemed apparent that Sonora would not be declared a rebel state without opposition, but it was said by some that they would surely refuse to fall into line behind Huerta and Diaz, if Huerta has appointed as provisional governor Manuel Mascareñas, jr., the former follower of Salazar, who is cordially hated by the Sonorians. Antonio Rojas, a rebel leader, has appeared with a body of northern insurgents, avowedly with the intention of aiding those who want Sonora to secede from the Mexican republic. MURDER CASE (Courier Leased Wire).

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—Vigorously chewing gum and much interested in the proceedings, Victor Vantour, five years old, was this morning asked to point out in the coroner's court the man he said he saw kill his mother and father, Mrs. and Francis Vantour. The body of Mrs. Vantour was found in a room of her home on Grand Trunk street yesterday, while the father died later on in the day at the hospital.

The boy pointed to his uncle Frederick Michaud, who at once jumped and showed a mistake in his identification. He was removed from the court.

The boy was then asked by the coroner to give an account of what he knew of the tragedy and he said that hearing a noise in the middle of the night in his mother's room he peered through a hole in the wall and saw Michaud stabbing his mother who was lying on the bed.

Later the lad said his uncle struck his father over the head with some weapon, he thought was an axe. An axe found in the house and blood stains on the wall were produced and shown to the boy, who said he had never seen it around the place before.

EXPERT ADVICE

Money spent on keeping time pieces "on the job" is really a necessary expenditure.
Plenty of good watches aren't doing their best work, simply because they can't.
Many a fifty or hundred dollar watch is being slowly but surely ruined, because it needs a dollars worth of cleaning.

will stop off at Brantford on their return trip. They propose to spend an afternoon here and take a tour around the city, and arrangements for the entertainment in the city will be looked after by the proper authorities.

Police Court Ras Clouse was charged with securing liquor for an Indian. Ras, however, is not only quite at home in the court, but has learnt the ways of the same. He kept squirming this morning until his Worship decided to adjourn the case till the necessary parties to the case can be found. The court was then adjourned.

Public Health Exhibit The public exhibit under the direction of the Provincial Board of Health, will come to Brantford via the G. T. R. on Thursday, March 25th arriving at 9.30 a.m. and will remain until 10 to a.m. the following day. The exhibit is shown in a first class railway car fitted up by the Provincial Board of Health, and while in the city will be in the care of the local Board of Health. It is the intention of the Provincial Board to have Dr. D. A. McClenahan here on that occasion.

At Rest. The funeral of the late Mrs. Hossie took place this morning from the family residence in the O. I. B. grounds to the 10 o'clock train G. T. R. at Goderich. Rev. Mr. Gordon, of St. Andrew's church, conducted the funeral service at the residence. The floral tributes were very numerous and exceptionally beautiful.

Small Fire. The alarm was turned in at 1 a.m. Sunday morning for a fire at Roberts and Van-Lane's Boot and Shoe Store on Colborne street. Mr. La Rush, barber of Dalhousie street, was going home at that hour when he noticed a glare near the centre of the floor. He thought at first it was light left, but after going a few steps he returned and notified P. C. Humphries, who pushed the men at Box 61. When the brigade arrived, they broke in the door and a chemical application did the trick. The blaze was caught in the nick of time. A gas jet near a joist caused the trouble.

Good Meeting. The Alexandra Young Men's Club held a large meeting yesterday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A., about one hundred young men being present. This young men's class is the largest of its kind in the city. Mrs. A. McFarland, the very popular teacher, certainly deserves great credit for the capable manner in which she keeps the class together.

Yesterday the following program was put on:
Overture by the orchestra of Alexandra church; hymn by the young men; chairman's address, Mr. E. Sweet; prayer, Rev. Llewellyn Brown; Scripture reading; solo, Mr. Sam Steadman; address, "Making Ironsides," Mr. Harold Waite of Toronto; address by F. Thompson; address, H. H. Hamilton; solo, "Carry Your Bible With You," Mr. Darwin; closing prayer, Rev. Mr. McClintock.

CHURCH NOTES

Congregational Church
Two bright uplifting services were held in the church on Sunday, the pastor preaching from the text, "The Field and the World," in the morning, and the evening sermon, "The wise and otherwise," which were ably dealt with. The musical numbers for the day were especially bright, consisting of anthem, "How long wilt Thou forget me, oh Lord," solo by Mr. Hunter; anthem, "Face to face." The male quartette numbers were all splendidly rendered. Next Sunday will be the monthly song service.

Alexandra Presbyterian
The pastor, the Rev. D. T. McClintock, occupied the pulpit for both services. The morning session was one of an interesting series on the life of Samson, the subject being "The unconscious Loss." In the evening the pastor spoke on the disregard of human life founded on the text, "Thou shalt not kill." The music of the choir was good. In the anthem solo parts were pleasingly taken by Miss Agnes Heath, Mr. Jeff and Mr. Longmuir. A splendid quartette, "Shall you, shall I," was sung by Messrs Jeff Bros, Scott and Howison.

Wellington St. Methodist
The preacher of yesterday was Rev. A. E. Russ, of Woodstock, a former Wellington street pastor. Mr. Russ gave two very able and eloquent discourses which were of great interest and spiritual uplift to the congregation. He spoke very appreciatively of the good work of the choir, and said: "I ought to preach well after listening to music like that." Mr. Louis Stander spoke at the brotherhood and Mr. W. Darwin played a violin solo. At the morning service Mrs. Wm. Cook sang "The Homeland," and Misses C. Chave and M. Limburg assisted in the anthem. The Sunday school session was very interesting. The men of Bible class No. 2 led in the opening exercises and Mr. Frank Houghton sang a solo at the close. At the evening service the choir sang "The Radiant Morn" by Woodward. Mr. Arthur Haro gave a fine rendition of the solo, "Outward of the Deep." A duet by Messrs E. Mealing and C. Darwin, "Watchman, what of the night" (Sarjeant) was given with fine effect.

St. Andrews' Church
The song service in St. Andrew's church last evening was very largely attended. The choir, under the able leadership of Mr. S. P. Davies, with Mr. K. Tennant at the organ, did some excellent work. The soloists taking part were Miss Annie Howarth, Miss Carrie Cork, Mrs. George Chamberlain, Mrs. Chas. Hay and Mrs. S. P. Davies. The Rev. Mr. Gordon gave an exceedingly interesting talk on the origin, time and use of our hymns.

A Fine Company

The Pollard Juvenile Opera Co. will be at the Kerby House during their stay in the city, arriving Wednesday, a.m. The Company carries with it about 50 people and not one of the actors or actresses is over 20 years of age. The Company started out of Australia where it has its headquarters, last July, and the tour will not be completed until more than two years from now. Before they return home South Africa and the Orient will be toured. In accordance with the laws of Australia, the show is accompanied by three chaperons and the entire foreign trip is made under the supervision of the Australian Government, which does not allow the taking of minors out of the country on such an expedition unless satisfied that the treatment accorded the young people will be all right.

Every one in Brantford should see these clever young Australian cousins and give them a welcome. Give them a welcome not only because they are cousins who have come ten thousand miles to pay us a consoling visit, but because they are musical and historic artists, whose talents and training places them in line with the best of the American adult organizations that appear before us and very far ahead of the majority.

Gifted with a splendid soprano voice and a charming personality, she has invested the leading girl's part in the pantomime with much more than its accustomed interest, and on Saturday night was the recipient of many floral offerings from the delighted audience.—(English Press).

TURNBULL—GREY.

The marriage took place in Hamilton Saturday at 4 p.m., in the Hamilton Street Presbyterian Church, officiated by Rev. Beverley Ketchum officiating, and Mr. Hewlett at the organ, the Rev. John William Gamble Greig, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Greig, Toronto, to Constance, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Turnbull, Hamilton. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, Madonna lilies and pink roses, and during the signing of the register, Mr. Marvin Rathbun, Toronto, sang a solo.

The tall and beautiful bride, who was brought in and given away by her father, wore a gown which was made in Toronto and was one of the most beautiful ever designed in Canada, composed of oyster white chiffon, with the soft folds of which took the most exquisite opalescent shades.

it was made a la Josephine, the Empress girde of finest Point de Venise, extending down the sides of the skirt, in panel shape, the very long train falling from the shoulders. The yoke was of hemstitched tulle and chiffon, hemmed with real seed pearls the gift of her parents, and the bridegroom's gift, a sapphire and diamond pendant, set in platinum. Her veil of the finest and most transparent silk tulle (brought specially from Paris) fell to the bottom of the gown and was caught into a mob cap with a narrow wreath of orange blossom, jessamine, and white heather, merging into a tiny round bouquet on each side of the head. The bouquet was a shower of white orchids and lilies. Her attendants were Miss Edith Kay, a cousin, maid of honor; Miss Margaret Hay, also a cousin, Miss Meta Gibson, all from Toronto, and Miss Hilda Murphy, Ottawa. They were gowned alike in gowns of hydrangea blue satin, with crocodile trains caught with a large blue silk tassel over a lace petticoat, a white Chantilly lace coat over pale pink chiffon, the basque of the coat ending in a point at the back, from which depended a large blue silk tassel. With these dainty gowns were worn blue shoes and stockings, and tiny transparent toques of pink tulle, with a high upstanding pink ostrich and marabout feather at the back. They carried bouquets of Spring flowers, violets, lilies, sweet peas, tied with blue ribbons. The bridegroom gave them long bar pins of pearls; the best man was Mr. Lyn Plummer (Toronto), and the ushers Mr. Charles Fellowes, Ottawa; Mr. Eric Armour, Toronto; Mr. Robert Turnbull, Montreal; Mr. Percy Waldie, Toronto, who all received gold penknives from the bridegroom. After the ceremony Mrs. Turnbull held a reception at Arkle-dun, which was beautifully decorated with palms, Madonna lilies and American Beauties, the bride's table with pink roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Turnbull wore a very handsome gown of midnight blue, draped muscadine and cut velvet, trimmed with plain satin, a waistcoat of white net and Point de Venise, sewn with blue pearls. With this she wore a hat to match with blue plumes shading to yellow and a large stole of chinchilla, diamond ornaments, and carried a bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Greig, mother of the bridegroom, wore grey chiffon velvet, with a bouquet of pink and white roses. Mrs. Greig was present, and the Messrs Douglas, Paul, Stephen, and Philip Greig, brothers of the bridegroom. Later, the bride and bridegroom left for a short trip to the United States, before coming to reside in Chestnut Park, Toronto, the house having been a present from the bridegroom's father. The bride travelled in a gown of French double worsted, in a rich shade of dark blue, slashed over a petticoat of white broadcloth, braided with black, a blouse coat, with the newest shaped French collar of white cloth, braided with black. With this was worn a blouse of blue chiffon, over the Bulgarian shades in flowered chiffon silk, a hat of amethyst, banked with every shade of Shasta daisies, and a stole and muff of baby lamb, lined with ermine, the gift of her father.

"The Dr. Blank who treats stomachs," "Precisely sir." "Then, Dr. Blank, as it's the luncheon hour and our table d'hôte is excellent, I wish you would treat mine!" said the joker.

Dr. Blank's veins, as we all know, run rich with generous sporting blood, and he treated the stranger—an amiable western millionaire, as it turned out, to lunch. But he got his revenge. Later on in the afternoon he approached a group of men with a roll of small bills in his hand.

"Has anybody here," he said, "got a ten spot?" "The western joker promptly produced a $10 note and handed it to Blank. Blank thanked him, thrust the note in his pocket, and turned away.

"Look here," said the westerner, "what did you want that bill for?" "What did I want it for?" said Blank, blandly. "Why, for treating your stomach, of course. It's my usual fee."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The sick man had just come out of a long delirium. "Where am I?" he said feebly, as he felt the loving hands making him comfortable. "Where am I? In Heaven?" "No dear," cooed his devoted wife, "I am still with you."

"Johnny," said the mother as she vigorously scrubbed the "small boy's" face with soap and water, "didn't I tell you never to blacken your face again? Here I've been scrubbing for half an hour and it won't come off."

"I—ouch!" sputtered the small boy; "I ain't your little boy. I—ouch! Ise Mose, de colored lady's little boy."

In the Strand there is an interesting article descriptive of the Electric hotel which Georgia Knap is building in Paris.

Every room in the hotel, he says, is in direct communication with the pantry, which is situated in the basement. Around the combined kitchen and pantry you see the electric coolers and the various switchboards controlling the electric currents. But the apparatus to which I would specially draw your attention are the electric lifts—I cannot think of a better word for them—which are placed on the numerous tables seen here and there.

What happens? An occupant in one of the rooms desires breakfast. He rings a bell placed near his bed-head, and immediately a voice, issuing from the chandelier, where one of my loud-speaking telephones is hidden, asks what monster desires. Without going to the trouble of seizing a telephone and speaking into a receiver he gives his orders.

Every word he says, though it is spoken in quite an ordinary tone, is heard by the invisible servant. First of all, he wishes the shutters to be opened and the blinds drawn. All such things are controlled from the servants' quarters. The room he finds too hot; its heat must be modified.

Then he will be glad to have his morning coffee and rolls, his newspaper, and his correspondence. No sooner said than done—that is to say, in five or six minutes his wishes are attended to. How does he receive his breakfast, etc? Through the door, to which it is carried by a servant? No, no, I have changed all that. It comes to him through the top of the little bedside table which is fast to the right of his bed.

This table is in communication with one of its lifts in the kitchen below. All the servant has to do is to place the petit déjeuner on the round tray of the lift and turn on the electric current. On the tray and its contents reaching the top of the table, the top opens automatically and the tray, secured by a catch, forms the top of the piece of furniture.

The reverse of this happens when the occupant of the room has finished his meal. He touches a button, and immediately the tray and its contents descend to the office.—Brooklyn Eagle.

WHAT SOME WOMEN HAVE DONE ALONG INVENTIVE LINES. A remarkable versatility in talent is shown in the case of Harriet Hosmer. She is noted as the sculptor of the Sleeping Faun, and also as the inventor of the permanent magnet as a motive power for lifting large masses of metal and of a novel method of changing time into marble.

The ice cream freezer was invented by Mrs. Nancy M. Johnson. The science of anatomy is indebted to Miss De Condray for the manikin—white Jean Powers is the author of the aquarium.

Miss Mary Walton of New York has contributed to the comfort of mankind a device for deadening the sound on elevated roads, and also a successful smoke consumer.

In 1871 Margaret Knight, of Boston, invented a machine for making paper bags, and a Washington woman has given her name to the Coston light so valuable in maritime signalling. Frances Dunham is responsible for the comb foundation for beehives.

It should be borne in mind that all these products of woman's skill are eminently practical and successful, and are only a few random examples of what the sex has accomplished.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

The Useful Green Pepper.

Few people begin to realize how manifold are the uses of the common sweet green pepper.

When you start your soup, put some chopped green peppers in when you fry the onions and see what a nice flavor it gives it.

When there is some left over steak or any cold meat that means hash for luncheon the next day, fry a pepper or two (depending on the size, for they vary much) in either lard or butter, first cutting into thin slivers as possible; mix with the meat, and see what a wholly different delicious taste it gives the dish.

Try it, this way either as an entree for dinner or your chief meat dish for luncheon: Take what is left from your roast or chops or steak.

Do not think because you have a very small quantity that it cannot be utilized. First cut your peppers in two length-ways, remove the stems and seeds, and put to soak in cold water. Put the meat through the meat chopper, mix with some chopped onion that has been fried in butter, add a tablespoonful or two of stock from the soup kettle (or hot water if that is not obtainable), then some fine bread crumbs or powdered shredded wheat until you have the quantity desired; flavor with salt and pepper; fill them, sprinkle crumbs on top, dot with butter and bake. They do not need it very long—just enough to thoroughly heat the meat, and then the peppers look better to serve if not all shrivelled up as they do when baked a long while.

When you use the meat in the form of croquettes, some chopped pepper makes a new and delicious addition, and very much improves the flavor.

Any left over vegetables may be used to advantage by baking in pepper cases. The peppers should be first prepared as given above by cutting in half lengthways and removing the stems and seeds. The piece of cauliflower that is left may be broken into pieces, mixed with a thick cream sauce, put into the pepper shells, the top covered with crumbs and dotted with butter and baked. String beans are treated in the same way, and squash, beets, onions, and mashed potatoes are all given a new attractiveness, very foreign to the usual dab of warmed over vegetable.

Art Gallery at Ottawa.

The National Art Gallery which was founded in Ottawa by H. R. H. Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne, while the latter was Governor-General of Canada (1880), nearly thirty-three years ago, is a most interesting spot to visit at the Capital. The top floor has been allotted to pictures—some by Millais, Auden, del Estro, Sir Thomas Lawrence, Daniel Mythen's (1890-1896), Caravaggio, Reynolds, Gainsborough, Lawrence Hoffer, Barnsley, as well as paintings of many Canadian artists of note. Sculpturing occupies the floor below—a really fine collection of both modern and antique works of art which is constantly being added to.

At present the government grant to the art gallery is fifty thousand dollars per annum—an amount that will probably be increased as time goes on. And there is a whisper that the large tract of land recently acquired by the government—on the heights and near the Parliament Buildings—may be used as a site for the National Art Gallery later on.

From the standpoint of Ottawa citizens that situation would be ideal for such a building.

More Terrible Work

All the foreign population, gathered in the streets, all stunned by what seemed the grossness of the act, were placed on the benches after the report of the killing of Madero and Suarez became public, representatives of foreign countries were besieging the cable office to send the information to their home governments. Attaches of the American Embassy were the first to carry the information to Ambassador Wilson and Consul-General Shanklin, both of whom were stupified by the report, and unable at first to believe it.

Shock to Mrs. Madero. Mrs. Madero, her heart already torn with fear and doubt for the safety of her husband, was apprised of the end that had come to the man of whom she was so proud. She was paralyzed by the shock, and is in a most critical condition.

Directly following the shooting of the two men, soldiers under orders of Provisional President Huerta became patrolling every street in the business section, extending their forces even into the residential districts. No foreigners have been molested, but whenever a group of Mexicans become demonstrative, soldiers order them to disperse. The reign of martial law is more complete than it has been at any time since Huerta's accession to the Presidency.

It has been impossible for correspondents to get into touch with anybody in authority at the American Embassy. It is known, however, that Ambassador Wilson called Washington at the moment confirming the death, and is eagerly awaiting a reply from Secretary of State Knox.

The official version of the killing of former President Madero and Pino Suarez, former Vice-President, as issued by provisional President Huerta, declares that an attempt was made to rescue Madero and Suarez, they attempted to escape and were killed. The would-be rescuers were driven off.

Widow Asks for Body. Broken-hearted and weeping piteously, Mrs. Madero, widow of the murdered ex-President, sought an audience with President Huerta to request that the body of her husband be turned over to her. This request was refused.

President Huerta has announced that he has ordered a rigid investigation of the affair, and in the meanwhile the officers and guards who were in charge of the prisoners are held under arrest.

People Cowed by Soldiers. Thoroughly cowed by the display of armed force and by the knowledge that the Huerta government is serene in its present position and will brook no opposition of any sort, verbal or otherwise, the people are suppressing their feelings and are afraid to express any opinions.

The city has quieted down after the first wild scenes of excitement this morning, following the shooting of the two former high officers. The presence of soldiers in almost every street in the city has had much to do with this, and now a general holiday air prevails, but it is hysterical in nature.

Huerta as Dictator. President Huerta has indicated that he will follow the tactics of President Diaz, known as the "Dictator of the Mexican Republic," during the early part of his administration, relaxing in severity as the necessity passes.

He is using the utmost severity at the present moment to terrorize the malcontents and to secure peace as early as possible.

It is agreed by officials of the government that such steps are necessary: at present, as the city is a veritable smoldering volcano, which needs only a breath to set it in eruption.

The bodies of Madero and Suarez are held in the penitentiary, which is surrounded by a cordon of troops. No one is allowed to enter to view the bodies.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh), that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

DO YOUR VERY BEST.

And Then Be Sure That You Are Satisfied With Yourself.

It is not what people say about you—it's what you are that counts.

Are you satisfied with yourself? Is it your own fault if you are not?

Look yourself straight in the face this morning in your mind's looking glass.

Put yourself in the other fellow's place and try to see your actions through his eyes.

Remember this, too—other people's opinion of you is based on your own opinion of yourself.

But weigh yourself frequently. Weigh yourself carefully.

CRABBE, THE NEGLECTED.

A Poet Whom Byron Called Nature's Best and Sternest Painter.

Dante was a great traveler and the greatest pen impressionist who ever wrote.

He writes about the poor as they are, without sentimentality and without exaggeration.

Writing For Posterity.

A prominent French critic, the story runs, once said to George Bernard Shaw:

"You are putting on a new comedy Monday night. Let me attend one of the dress rehearsals, won't you?"

"Impossible," said Mr. Shaw. "My dress rehearsals are always private. I have to refuse even the most distinguished critics access to them."

"But," said the other, "I want to write a critical criticism. If I have to write and telegraph it in a few minutes on Monday night it will be very hurriedly done, and I fear it will give a wrong impression of your comedy to Paris the next day."

Restoring Rubber.

People using articles made of rubber that frequently lose their elasticity through oxidation may restore the material to its original condition by a simple process.

Just Like an Immigrant.

"Charley is so position. When I accepted him he said he felt like an immigrant entering a new world."

What's in a Name.

"But now that these sisters are married, a social gulf separates them hopelessly."

Indeed?

"Yes. One of them married a mechanic and the other a mechanic."

Catfish.

"Do you think Oscar proposed to me merely on account of my money?"

"Well, my dear, you know he must have had some reason."—Fliegende Blätter.

MR. BOWSER DYES

Aided and Abetted by an Eminent Tonsorial Artist.

BUT HE FINALLY RENEGES.

After Mature Deliberation and a Look in the Mirror He Decides That Gray Locks Are Far Superior to Green and Yellow Ones.

By M. QUAD.

(Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.)

THE Bowser clock went tick-a-tack as Mr. Bowser read his evening paper.

It had gone any other way he would have thrown it out of the window.

Now and then he glanced slyly at Mrs. Bowser.

Now and then he consulted a hand-glass at his dresser, which he had pocketed half an hour before.

"Looking at the dozen hairs on his head," said Mrs. Bowser to herself.

"Now, I wonder what new fad he is about to develop."

Five minutes later he carelessly inquired:

"Do you notice how fast my hair is turning gray?"

"Not particularly," she answered.

"You have been old enough these five years to have gray hair. You haven't got a great deal, but what there is of it looks well."

"What do you mean by old enough?" he demanded, with the threat of a family row in his tones.

"Why, most men have gray hair after passing forty, don't they? You were forty-seven your last birthday, and—"

"Who said I was forty-seven?"

"Why—why?"

"There's no why-why about it. My true age is forty-two. If I look five years older it's because I have so much trouble with you. If you had your way about it you'd make out that I was a doddering idiot. How old do you think folks take me to be with my hat on?"

Mrs. Bowser wanted to pass a peaceful evening, and she therefore put the figures at thirty-six.

"From thirty-six to thirty-eight," said Mr. Bowser as his vanity could be read in his face.

"Why should I permit these hairs to make me look ten years older. Only yesterday Brown was saying that I had the step of a man of thirty."

"But what can you do with them?"

Mrs. Bowser giggles.

"I could dye them, I suppose?" he half questioned as something like a blush came to his face and he turned to the glass again.

Mrs. Bowser laughed at the back of his head. She didn't mean to, but she couldn't restrain herself. It was one of Mr. Bowser's funniest as well as latest fads.

"Where you go with your giggle-giggle," she shouted as he turned on her.

"Is there anything so excruciatingly funny in my putting a little dye on my hair? During the last four weeks you seem to have lost what little sense you ever had!"

"It just struck me as funny that you should want to dye your hair," she explained.

"Oh, it struck you, did it? You are always being struck if I make any particular move. I might have known that you would be—how he over it, but I was fool enough to ask your opinion. Nevertheless I shall go ahead and do as I please about it."

"That is, you will dye your hair and perhaps you will look all the better for it. As you say, there is no need of your looking ten years older than you really are. Did you bring home a bottle of dye?"

"Well, yes. It's not the ordinary hair dye you find in drug stores, with the smell of a dead horse about it, but something prepared expressly for me by Professor Caton, the eminent tonsorial artist."

Mr. Bowser Applies.

"The eminent barber—yes," mused Mrs. Bowser. "He prepared something for you that will deceive even his fellow artists? Well, I should try it and see how it works. If you can look to be only thirty I shall feel proud of you."

Mr. Bowser didn't know whether to glare or smile, but finally decided to go up to his room and apply according to directions. The family cat had been watching things as she lay on the lounge, and as she left the room she jumped down and looked at Mrs. Bowser in an inquiring way. She received a shake of the head in a reply and walked over and sat down under the piano to await coming events.

Mr. Bowser had no hair without loss of too much dignity and he smiled as he sopped the dye over his scanty locks. He had paid $5 for that special preparation and the eminent tonsorial artist had guaranteed that the results would be almost immediate.

Not more than ten minutes had passed when a change could be seen and the bottle and Bowser went downstairs together. Mrs. Bowser was reading and had no remarks to make, and it was ten minutes before she raised her eyes and took a look at the dyed hair.

As she did she gave a start of surprise and choked back an exclamation.

"What's the matter with you?" asked Mr. Bowser.

"I—I—nothing!"

"You jumped as if something had bitten you. Do you see any difference in my hair?"

"I think I will go upstairs. My head aches."

"Got another cold probably," he growled as she left the room.

"She's also a bit mad about this hair dye. I'll take a look in the glass and—"

Those white hairs had not turned black, but a queer brindle, and Mrs. Bowser had realized that she must get out of the house.

One look in the glass and she was jumping Mr. Bowser a foot high, and as he came down on his heels he yelled:

"It can't be! It can't be! I must have dirt in my eyes!"

But the color of the hair was the color of a brindle cow, and when he had satisfied himself of the fact his heart stood still for a minute. Then a great wave of relief came.

"It's simply the first change, of course," he whispered. "One more application and it will be black. What a fool I was to get scared!"

The Experiment Fails.

He wasn't over three minutes in putting on another coat, and he held his head to the light and registered to dye the quicker. When he straightened up and took another look in the glass his hair was a no longer brindle, but the color of a yellow dog.

"By thunder! By thunder!" was all he could say as he stood staring at himself, and the cat was rolling over the floor in hysterics.

Hope came again, however. There was probably three ply hair dye—brindle, yellow and black. The third application would take ten years off his age by bringing out the true gloss of his hair and dried in, and Mr. Bowser consulted the glass again. What he saw reflected was a head of celery green color, and what Mrs. Bowser heard was such a yell of fury and despair that she was sure the piano must have lifted up one of its legs.

She seemed to be kicking at the door and chasing the cat about a few minutes, and then there was the silence of death. She waited for half an hour and then slipped downstairs. The cat lay on the floor as if dead, and Mr. Bowser was on his knees on the floor before a footstool full of soap. Some water was poured over his hair and he tried to restore his gray hairs and his old age, and as he soaped his green locks he muttered:

"I will see that eminent tonsorial artist tomorrow. I'll take him by the throat and I will cry 'Ha, ha, ha!' and I will sweat the life out of his lying, swindling carcass and trample on his quivering heart!"

Mrs. Bowser Weeps.

And the cat lifted her head and chuckled, and Mrs. Bowser softly retreated to her room.

At breakfast next morning, as Mr. Bowser didn't look very fierce, he was asked:

"Isn't there a law to punish such swindlers?"

"What do you refer to?" he asked as innocently as a yearling babe.

"Why, that barber?"

"The one that sold you the hair dye?"

"Humph! I don't understand you. You kicked around a great deal last night, and you must have been dreaming of a barber about it."

"But you brought home hair dye?"

"I just have warned you my times against its use. Has it struck in and bewildered your brain?"

Mrs. Bowser looked at him in astonishment.

He returned the look without flinching and quietly said:

"It seems a bad case, but we can wait a week longer before having a council of doctors. Don't worry, little woman. If you have to go to an asylum they will probably cure you in six months, and you will have no more of these delusions."

And with that he started away for his weeping.

Happy Stone Age.

The man of the stone age, they say, lived in a state primeval.

He drew on bones and wrote on stones, nor knew of good or evil.

There were no Sunday papers then with jokes and news and poms, else he'd had need.

Of a dray, indeed, to lug the blamed things home.

There were no automobiles then, of nuisances accursed, the mammoth grins of mighty limo.

Of dangers was the worst.

He never had an aeroplane in which to try to fly, but he could wait Upon a pier.

Odacity in the sky.

The stone man dearly loved to fight his neighbor and to slay, but the lucky wog knew not one cop Like those upon Broadway.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Proving Their Value as a Family Medicine

Quebec Man Tells How They Helped Him and Cured His Nephew of Kidney Disease.

South Ham., Wolfe Co., Que., Feb. 24 (Special)—There is fresh proof every day that as a family medicine Dodd's Kidney Pills are growing in favor with the people of Quebec.

Just to quote an example, Amable Pinard of this place says, in an interesting letter:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills helped my rheumatism, backache, gravel, and heart disease, from which I suffered for twenty years.

"They have not yet cured me completely, but they did completely cure my nephew, who suffered from kidney disease."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure kidney disease. They will complete Amable Pinard's cure, because all the diseases mentioned are the results of kidney disease. They cured the young man's kidney disease quickly, because it was taken in its early stages.

Amable Pinard's troubles are of twenty years' standing, and take a longer treatment.

The moral is that if you cure your kidney disease early with Dodd's Kidney Pills, you will never be troubled with rheumatism, gravel, and other diseases that are caused by sick kidneys failing to do their work.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Proving Their Value as a Family Medicine

Quebec Man Tells How They Helped Him and Cured His Nephew of Kidney Disease.

South Ham., Wolfe Co., Que., Feb. 24 (Special)—There is fresh proof every day that as a family medicine Dodd's Kidney Pills are growing in favor with the people of Quebec.

Just to quote an example, Amable Pinard of this place says, in an interesting letter:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills helped my rheumatism, backache, gravel, and heart disease, from which I suffered for twenty years.

"They have not yet cured me completely, but they did completely cure my nephew, who suffered from kidney disease."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure kidney disease. They will complete Amable Pinard's cure, because all the diseases mentioned are the results of kidney disease. They cured the young man's kidney disease quickly, because it was taken in its early stages.

Amable Pinard's troubles are of twenty years' standing, and take a longer treatment.

The moral is that if you cure your kidney disease early with Dodd's Kidney Pills, you will never be troubled with rheumatism, gravel, and other diseases that are caused by sick kidneys failing to do their work.

Lady Marjorie's Love

"Ah-h," Barrington said. The ejaculation was almost as long drawn out as the whistle had been; it was a sound of comprehension; his look seemed to show that he understood many things. He nodded, digesting them, and with the hint of a smile. Then he sought more information. "How did she come to know him, Mrs. Tring? You know, I suppose, eh?" "Oh, of course, sir," cried the housekeeper readily. "That is really how it came about, I think, sir. You see, my lady has lived such a quiet life down here that she has not had the chance to take her fancy."

"Cousin? Ah, indeed." His tone seemed expressive of still further enlightenment. Mrs. Tring, like the good natured creature she was, supplied him with a little more in addition—slightly involved after the manner of her sex. "When I say Mr. Bligh's cousin, sir, I mean you to understand that it is not her first cousin. It was quite a distant relative of my late lord's that married Viscount Rydersdale. But if you think you'll know that without my telling," said Mrs. Tring, who kept a Peamage in the place of honor in the bookcase in her sitting room, and studied it religiously, as became a respectable woman.

"Shall I? I doubt it. You could pluck me in five minutes over an exam in Debert." He took a turn about the room still contemplative. "He has been here a good deal I suppose," he said suggestively. "And Lady Marjorie has always known him and been used to him? Is that about it?" Mrs. Tring assented. The statement fitted the case like a glove. Barrington took another walk. "What is he like a handsome fellow, eh?" "This time the assent was grudging, but Mrs. Tring was bound to admit, and did admit, that Mr. Bligh was all that." Barrington walked again, and she found of him?

"I say, Mrs. Tring, in strict confidence, is she found of him. Mrs. Tring, still indignantly dwelling upon the neglect of her child, opined slightly and vaguely that it was more than he deserved if she was adding a rider to the effect that 'that was all she had got to say' on the subject. The climax being given with vigor was perhaps the reason why Barrington pursued the subject no further. He had put down the letters now he took it up again. "I'll give Lady Marjorie this if you don't mind, Mrs. Tring. I can say a word of apology then for its having got among mine, you understand. You don't object." Mrs. Tring did not object, being indeed only pleased to assent to any proposition from a person who held so snug a corner in her good graces. "Mr. Barrington, a question or two solicitedly asked and indifferently responded to, on the prior subject of his dinner, and she withdrew and left him to himself, with Lady Marjorie's love letter still in his hand.

His brightness had suffered only a momentary eclipse, for the gloom which had overcast his face was gone, as he looked at it. He laughed presently. "Her cousin—she has always been used to him—she has not had much chance of seeing others—that's how it came about," he said slowly, repeating the various items with which Mrs. Tring had supplied him. "Yes, I think I have got about the hang of it—his absence and neglect included. The reason's pretty plain." He laughed again. "Odd," he said. "I'm not specially vindictive in a general way that I know of, but I should uncommonly like to punch the head of Mr. Lotus Bligh. And if he were more of a man and didn't richly deserve it I should enjoy it all the more. I suppose in some circumstances it is decidedly consoling for a fellow to conclude that the other fellow's a scamp. Hallo. Was that the carriage. And will this confounded letter get me into a row or not?"

It was the carriage, for the hall-door was being opened as he entered it, and Marjorie came in. The Countess, possessing more size, more weight, more dignity, was a longer time in alighting, and was not yet visible, as Barrington, advancing, saw that she was heavy-eyed and pale. Marjorie saw him and paused as she looked at him questioningly. "I must beg to offer you my excuses Lady Marjorie. I find myself in unlawful possession of some of your property. In looking through my letters just now I found this one addressed to you. Jonathan is the culprit, I fancy. Let me return it to you."

"A letter?" said the girl quickly. She was near enough to see the address as he held it out, and her lips parted with a little gasp, but the rosy color that flowed so warmly and instantly over her whole face had ebbed from her again as she took it from him in the momentary contact of their fingers: he fancied that hers were cold. Certainly her voice was, although gentle enough. "Thank you Mr. Barrington," she said quietly. "It does not matter at all, and of course it isn't your fault. I dare say Jonathan is to blame—he is dreadfully careless I know."

"Jonathan again? What has that most tiresome boy been doing now? Good afternoon Mr. Barrington. How oppressively hot it is. Have you only just come in? You must be tired to death. What is it Marjorie that you are saying about Jonathan?" The Countess, sailing serenely in, at last, handsome magnificent, rustling, had caught the last words and put the questions—graciously as regarded the agent, tartly as regarding Jonathan. Her stepdaughter replied, not without impatience. "It is nothing, Penella. A letter of mine was put in the oak parlor with Mr. Barrington's. I say I suppose it is some of Jonathan's carelessness, that is all."

Extreme Case of Eczema

So quick to relieve the itching, so certain to heal the sores, it seems a waste of time to try other preparations in treating eczema and salt rheum when Dr. Chase's Ointment can be obtained.

You may know of many cures brought about by this great ointment, for it has a record unparalleled in the history of medicine. This letter is a fair example of many received. Mr. Wm. Angus, postmaster, Loggish, Man., writes: "My father was almost covered with salt rheum or eczema, and, though he doctored and tried almost everything he could hear about, he only got worse. Someone advised Dr. Chase's Ointment, and relief, and to his surprise, he was cured, and has never had it since. My wife was also cured of salt rheum on her hands by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after other treatments had failed."

HAIR TURNING GRAY OR FALLING?

JUST MIX SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

It's Grandmother's Recipe for Dandruff and Restoring Color to Hair.

Almost everyone knows that Sage and Sulphur, properly compounded brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can positively tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly says a well known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.

A Miserable Graft.
"That looks like some crib to crack," said the first burglar to his pal as they passed a suburban mansion.
"None of that for me," said the pal. "One of the biggest grafters in the United States lives there."
"How do you know that?" asked the first burglar.
"I broke in there once and he caught me wit' the goods on," said the pal. "I had to pay him $10 to let me go."—Harper's Weekly.

A BLOOD MEDICINE WITHOUT ALCOHOL

Recently it has been definitely proven by experiments on animals that alcohol lowers the germicidal power of the body and that alcohol paralyzes the white corpuscles of the blood and renders them unable to take up and destroy disease germs. Disease germs cause the death of over one-half of the human race.

A blood medicine, made entirely without alcohol, which is a pure glyceric extract of roots, such as Bloodroot, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Mandrake and Stone root, has been extensively sold by druggists for the past forty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital force of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, the founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and a physician of large experience and practice, was the first to make up an ALTERNATIVE EXTRACT OF ROOTS, without a particle of alcohol or narcotic.

"It is with the greatest of pleasure, that I write to let you know of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicine and self-treatment at home," writes Mrs. Wm. H. Evans, of Ledyard, R. C. "I suffered for three years from a running sore. Consulted four doctors but they failed to mend or give relief. Finally I was told I was in consumption and would have to consult a specialist concerning my ear, that the dead bone must be cut out before the wound would heal. A kind friend advised me to write to Dr. Pierce, which I did, and after seven months' use of the treatment the sore is healed, and I enjoy better health than I ever did. I dressed the wound with Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve and took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Peppermint' for my troubles. I shall always recommend your medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Peppermint regulate liver and bowels.
