The concussion, says the Commercial Advertiser, was so great, that it seemed to shake the foundations of every building in Wall Street. The earth trembled as if it had been shaken by an earthquake.

"It was most providential that the building came down in the night, since it could scarce have fallen at any hour of day-time, without crushing many people in the street, independently of those who might have been engaged at work in the interior.

"No blame can attach to the proprietors. The structure was of stone, massively built, and neither pains nor expense have been withheld in the building. The work has been in progress near a year; the materials, of every description, were of the first quality, and the labor has been executed by day's work. The fault was in the architect."

There can be no doubt that the fail of the building was attributable to the imperfect form of the arches of brick used in place of rafters. Every care and expense to render it durable had in all other respects, been lavish-

The oil burns well, affording a clear flame without smoke, and is extensively used in China for this purpose. In the same country it is employed as an esculent oil. Immense quintities of it are consumed in this way, most of the boats of any considerable size on the Canton river being supplied with it. Is taste is agreeable, and hence it might be conveniently substituted for the Florence oil which is used for salads in this country. In this respect it would be especially serviceable to the eastern colonies of England.

Show Stronn in England.

Show Stronn in England.

Show Stronn in England took place in the year 1614. It is recorded in the register of the parish of Watton Gilbert that it began on the 15th of January, and snowed every day until the 12th March. The loss of human life and cattle was immense.

Adapdy was one day sitting in a lavern porch dressed in tights, when a waggoner coming slong, said. "Stranger, I'll het you a bottle of wine, that with my whip I can cut your tights and not tunch your skin."—"Done," said the dandy; and at the word the waggoner drew his whip with all his might, and cut the fellow to the hone, at the same time calling for the wine and declaring that he had lost the bet.

Theodore Hook being in company where he had said something humorous in rhyme of every person present, on Mr. Winter, the late Solicitor of Taxes, being announced, he made the following imprompts:

Mats comes Mr. Winter, collector of taxes, ladying you to give him whatever he axes, ladying you to give it without any flummer; for the his name's Winter, his actions are summer;

A brother editor, who is somewhat calebrated for the magnitude of his nasal organ, in reply to an antagonist who has threatened to sail his nose, says if he attempts it, he will have his hands full.—Boston paper.
