Glimpse of Early Days

By Dr. Roderick A. McEachen. (Written for the N.C.W.C. News Service.)

A reading of early religious texts impresses us with the fact that the Christian teachers of the first centuries were confronted by practically the same problems as those of today. Human nature is always the same; the same human inclinations exist in all ages. In those far-off days there was the same love of pleasure, the same worldly spirit. In the midst of the luxury and pomp that prevailed in pagan civilization, the Christians had adopted a new form of life fashioned after the life and teachings of Christ. It was the mission of the Christian teacher to develop this 'new life' amongst his people by warning them against the practices and vices of pagan life, and by training them to live in the light of divine truth.

The 'Didache' (The Teaching of the Apostles) (written by an unknown author toward the end of the first century, is a text used for religious teaching. In the first part the author describes the 'two ways,' the way of life and the way of death. Beautifully he portrays the virtues of the 'Christian' life. The second part of this work treats of the Mass, showing clearly that Mass was celebrated in the far-off day as it is today. Gather together, it says, 'on the Lord's Day to break bread and give thanks. But first confess your sins so that your sacrifice may be pure.' The Didache admonishes the faithful to prepare well for the reception of the Holy Eucharist. 'If any one is holy, let him approach; but if any one is not holy, let him repent.'

Love was then the distinguishing mark of Christians, according to the mandate of Christ. 'By this shall all men know that you are my disciples if you have love one for another.' (St. John 13, 35). It was this quality, in the lives of the Christians that impressed the pagans and made them exclaim: 'Behold those Christians, how they live, how they love one another.' Yet then, just as today, sometimes discussions arose among the faithful.

We have a copy of a letter written to the Corinthians by Pope Clement about the end of the first century. There was some trouble in the congregation of Corinth and the Saint was writing to remind them of their duty. It is love that is to restore peace and harmony among them: 'Who can describe the bonds of God's love! What man can tell in a fitting manner the excellence of its beauty. The height to which love elevates us is unspeakable. Love unites us to God; love covers a multitude of sins; love beareth all things, is always long-suffering. There is nothing base, nothing arrogant in love. Love admits no schisms, gives rise to no seditions. Love does all things in harmony. Through love all the elect of God have been made perfect; without love nothing is pleasing to God. By love the Lord has taken us to Himself. Out of love for us Jesus Christ, submissive to the will of the Father, shed His blood for us, gave His flesh for our flesh, His life for our souls.' This remarkable passage shows that the third successor of St. Peter realized the unifying power of love.

—Perhaps the most important catechetical text of antiquity which we possess is 'The Shepherd,' written about the middle of the second century by Hermas, of Rome. In a series of visions, precepts and similitudes he teaches the Christian life. The Church he symbolically describes as a tower in course of construction. The faithful are the stones already placed in the wall. Other stones are lying round about. Some of these the builders reject because they will not fit into the structure (the impenitent). Others that are round and uneven must be hewn and made smooth so as to fit into the wall. These are those who are too much attached to worldly goods and pleasures.

The early Christian teachers emphasized the position of brotherly love in the Christian life. We have a letter written by St. Polycarp (martyred in 155) to the Philippians, in which he says in part: 'Be you lovers of the brotherhood, loving one another, be united in the truth, treating one another with the meekness of Christ.' In the same letter he speaks of a certain Valens and his wife who had fallen away: I am very sad, Brethren, for him and his wife; may the Lord grant them true repentance. But you be prudent in this case; do not look upon them as enemies, but call them back as suffering and erring members. St. Polycarp was a disciple of St. John; little wonder, then, that he knew so well the Gospel of love.

St. Ignatius, another disciple of St. John, in a text which he has left us, might well have been advising us how to deal with the bigots of today: 'Pray without ceasing for them. There is always hope that they will repent and turn to God. Teach them at least by your example. Be meek in the presence of their arrogance, humble in contrast to their boasting; offer your prayers in return for their blasphemies. Be steadfast in faith to offset their error; put your gentleness against their cruelty. While we take care not to imitate their conduct, let us be their brethren in all things.'

Today we hear much about immodesty in dress, painted faces, and other social offenses. Clement, a priest of Alexandria, has written a treatise which shows that the same abuses existed in his day. This text was written towards the end of the second century; it is called the Pedagogus (The Tutor). In ancient times the slave who was entrusted with a boy's training and education was called a pedagogus. Clement, in this work, is teaching the art of the Christian life. Christ is our pedagogus. Christian training, the author tells us, must first lead us to love God and to understand His love for us. We must become as little children and live the divine truth in all simplicity. We are the children, Christ the Teacher.

Describing the faithful as children (at play), he says: 'Christ from a window above gazes down upon our laughter.' He refers beautifully to Christ's love for us in the Holy Eucharist: 'The Word (Christ) is all things to the child, father, mother, teacher, nurse. 'Eat my flesh,' He says, 'and drink my blood.' (St. John VI, 53-54). The Lord indeed supplies us with fitting nurture; He gives us His flesh and He pours out His blood, and so nothing is lacking in the growth of His children.'

MILBURN'S

Laxative PILLS

Stimulate the sluggish liver, clean the foul-coated tongue, do away with the accumulation of the stomach gases, banish the bilious headaches, cause the floating specks before the eyes to disappear, and prevent constipation, jaundice, heartburn, water brash and all sickness arising from a disordered condition of the liver and bowels.

The author enters into the details of every day-life, showing how the Christian should live. There is a chapter on foods, one on drink, one on house furnishings, one on banquets and other social functions, and one on laughter. 'Our speech should be polite and agreeable,' he says, 'but we should not be carried away by laughter. To laugh with moderation is a mark of good breeding.'

It is as we have always recognized that politeness, good manners and all form of gentility are an integral part of the Christian life. When well-bred men lift the hat to ladies, rise when they enter the room, offer them the seat which they occupy, and concede right of way to safety first in time of danger; they are observing customs that have grown out of our veneration for the Blessed Virgin Mary. Good table manners cheerful greetings, politeness in address, and many little acts of courtesy, such as holding the door for others to pass, beg pardon when passing before others, undoubtedly are old Christian customs that have their origin in the brotherly love that existed among our ancient brethren.

Many reprehensible practices that prevail today existed in the pagan society in which the early Christians lived. Clement gives us a remarkable chapter on true beauty. Then he speaks his mind on the use of cosmetics. 'The practice of excessive ornamentation,' he says, 'belongs not to ladies, but to women of the street. They season their flesh like sauce. They spend the day shut up in their rooms, lest they be discovered mixing the colors with which they are to be adorned. In the evening this artificial beauty crawls forth from its dark corner into the light. From the use of these cosmetics they are pallid, subject to disease; their flesh, which has been so often painted with poisons, is disintegrating. They insult the Creator by acting as though He had not given them all the beauty that belongs to them.'

Nothing escapes this Christian writer. He tells us how the hair should be worn, how they should deport themselves at their social gatherings and at the games, and even how they should walk. It is an adjustment of the to the teachings of Christ, who is our Model and our Teacher. In conclusion he cries out: 'O followers of a blessed teaching! Let us conform to the beautiful person of the Church, and like little children let us run to our mother. If we hearken to her words we shall glorify the teachings whereby we are trained and sanctified as little children of God.'

Mr. F. W. Gray, Edmonton, Alta., writes: 'Last winter I was in bed for a month with fever. My kidneys constantly gave me trouble, and I was warned to be very careful. On an evening attack of kidney trouble, followed by constant pain in my back, I took two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. Relief was quickly apparent, and now I have no trouble. "Doan's" have saved me much pain, and I am deeply thankful to them. Price, 50c a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.'

The Premier in London

Outside of the conference room, Premier Meighen probably has done and will do less talking than any of the other Dominion representatives in London, but he did not go overseas to address the people of Great Britain or to make copy for the interviewers of the English papers. His business is with the conference itself, and, although the sessions of the conference are held in private, intimate cable reports indicate that his attendance in London is not to lose force through his concentrating on it. It is evident that as the conference develops Canada's representative is to have a voice in it of major influence and effect.

Neither Canada nor the other Dominions have any occasion for immediate worry on the score of their status within the Empire or on that of their position in respect of imperial and foreign affairs. Canadian interests have not recently been and are not likely to be prejudiced by policies pursued or actions taken by the British Government. And eventually a status that obtains respect in fact must come to have recognition in form. But since it is desired that a general Empire scheme of things be defined it is important that Canada should have a powerful voice in the defining of it. Sessions of the conference show that Mr. Meighen's presentation of Canada's views in respect of the foreign policy of the Empire is of a kind calculated to enhance the authority of Canadian representations in final decisions. It commanded the attention and respect of the Premiers to such an extent that Premier Hughes and Premier Smuts demanded discussion of it while it was still freshly before them.

Even those in Canada who believe that the statesmen at Westminster are much better qualified to decide Empire matters than Canadians and who hold that Canadian Premiers and Cabinet Ministers might better confine their attention almost entirely to Ottawa cannot take objection to the Premier's definition of Canada's attitude in the matter of the foreign affairs of the Empire, if they keep in view the enlarged outlook and extended interests of the principal overseas Dominions, especially of Canada. In such matters as those pertaining to eastern mandate territories and similar affairs with which Great Britain is chiefly concerned the British Government must retain the principal authority, but as they are liable to involve the whole Empire the Dominion Governments, the Premier declared, should be kept constantly informed regarding them. On questions of foreign policy affecting the Empire at large, the Dominion Governments must be consulted, while they should have a voice in regard to the making of foreign treaties or alliances. In the case of questions coming up between the United States and Canada, the advice of this country should be decisive.

Another generation will view as a matter of course the easy operation of these principles of Empire Government, for the best means of establishing which the leading political minds of the generation will be struggling earnestly with new problems which will arise after the solution of ours and which as yet we cannot see. It is the process of Empire development, and the fact that we have so much yet to settle for ourselves in the matter of our Empire Government is a reminder of how young this "old" British Empire still is. When we have still so far to go in the working out of a scheme of imperial relationship we are not yet even approaching middle age, and many generations must still witness the forward progress of the world's greatest political organization. Today the British Empire exercises the greatest influence of any power in the world, but we may only attempt to visualize the extent of its influence in times to come.

Indianapolis News: After such a war as that from which the world has only recently emerged, there was bound to be great demoralization and uncertainty, and much confusion of purposes. It does not seem reasonable to attribute all this to the League of Nations. The surprising thing is that so much progress should have been made toward restoration. Perhaps the League is entitled to some of the credit. There is one point that seems to be generally overlooked, and that is that some sort of organization, committed to certain broad and enlightened principles, was necessary to restrain the victors from making such a peace as would have been the sure forerunner of future wars. This was the only kind of peace that Europe had ever known. It may be, therefore, that the comparative moderation of the Versailles Treaty is due in no small degree to the fact that the victorious nations themselves were bound by the League covenant.

Medicine Hat By-Elections

The defeat by so great a majority of the Dominion Government candidate in Medicine Hat seems to prove beyond cavil that the grain-growers' party is much the strongest of any in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. The Liberals dared not nominate a candidate, and the grain-growers' candidate, backed by the labor "reds" and the Liberals, has swamped the Union candidate. Little reason exists to doubt that a similar result would appear in most constituencies in the two provinces if further elections were held. This indication accompanied by the unquestionable fact that the farmers' party is strong politically in Manitoba and Ontario, points to that party as the dominating factor in Canada next to the Union party. The Liberals have little strength anywhere save in Quebec and possibly Nova Scotia; Labor has apparently no distinct political fighting programme.

The phrase "labor reds" has been used to designate some of the support received in Medicine Hat by the grain growers' candidate. William Ivens, who was sent to jail for his part in the Winnipeg riots, was one of the orators in support of the grain-growers' candidate in Medicine Hat. There were several others of that kind from Winnipeg and Vancouver, helping Mr. Carr. Premier Meighen a couple of months ago stated at Granby that leaders of the farmers' party had "aligned themselves with the Winnipeg and Vancouver seditionists," and at Kingston he said: "You have to decide between a destructive policy and a protective one. The William Ivens, the Thomas Richardsons, who misrepresent labor in this country—that sort of representation will be found in the ranks of the opponents."

For these utterances he was savagely attacked by Farmer and Liberal papers. The Toronto Globe in an article headed "Meighen the disruptionist" said that "no more sinister figure had appeared in public life," chiefly because of his reference to the reds. Yet in the election Monday in Medicine Hat, several of the notorious "reds" of the west, besides Ivens were speaking against the Union candidate. And in the Medicine Hat district, the "red" element is strong.

Some men try to convince you that they are good by telling you how bad they used to be.

London Times: The proximity of our shores, the undying memories of our union through out the Great War, and the community of our most vital interests in Europe join us, in ties that should never be severed or weakened, to our French Allies. An understanding with them, at once thorough and comprehensive, must in all contingencies remain the corner-stone of a Continental policy. England has tried at various periods to dispense with such a policy. Isolation has always brought her war and disaster in the end. Less than ever can she pursue it now, when aviation, modern gunnery, and the submarine have impaired her insular security and have almost made her a part of the Continent. Invaluable in itself, this understanding would have the great advantage to both partners of smoothing the way for the policy that is proposed from Washington. The better our relations with France the easier will it be for the authors of that policy to commend it to the people of the United States, while anything approaching a British quarrel with France, or even a marked coolness between her and England, would almost certainly result in a return of America to the policy of "isolation." Only our own folly, or the folly of France, could lead to such a catastrophe.

Times of India: If India will it, she can take her place among these free and equal nations, and help on the coming of the Brotherhood of man. But for that purpose she must eschew narrow nationalism. She must join hands with the rest of the world. She must take their thought, their science, their education, their experience; and in return give her thought, her help, her co-operation. Nationality is very well as a means; as an end it is an end, whereas India should have a beginning, a new beginning. Patriotism is a good thing so far as it goes, provided that it goes forward and not back into the barren past. But, even at its best and finest—"patriotism" is not enough.

Some men try to convince you that they are good by telling you how bad they used to be.

Discovery Tour

London, June 28.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, who commanded the British Antarctic expedition in 1907-09, is which he reached within comparatively few miles of the South Pole, and also the antarctic expedition in 1914-16 will be the leader on a new voyage of discovery covering 30,000 miles of uncharted sections of the southern Atlantic, the Pacific and Antarctic seas. He will sail from the port of London at the end of August in a 200-ton ship, brigantine-rigged, named "The Quest." He will have with him a small picked staff, including six companions of former polar expeditions. The Daily Mail publishes this announcement.

The expedition which will be called the Shackleton-Roswell Oceanographical and Antarctic expedition, will be financed by John Queller, Minister of Agriculture researches, and Fredrick Becker, a well-known paper manufacturer. The Quest will be equipped for every branch of scientific research. She will carry a complete hydrographic survey and soundings and will touch at various little-known islands, where the flora and fauna geographical and geological structure will be studied and photographed. A specially constructed seaplane will be taken and air currents will be charted. The first objective will be the Salvages, a group of rocky islands in the Atlantic between the Canary and Madeira Islands; thence the vessel will proceed for St. Paul's Rocks, a little-known island group on the equator, thence to Trinidad where Shackleton landed in 1901 from Captain Scott's ship "Discovery" which will be explored.

Murray Harbor District.

The Liberal-Conservative Convention for the Murray Harbor district, held on July 1st at Murray River Hall for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the coming by-election and of appointing a convener and other party business, was well attended and resulted in appointment which promise a successful future for the party in this district. Mr. Albert Prowse of Murray Harbor presided at the meeting. The following appointments were made unanimously:

Convener and District President—Mr. Christopher McGuigan. Secretary—Mr. Wm. McPherson (reappointed). Poll Chairman: Montague Poll—Geo. A. Poole. Heatherdale Poll—M. C. McGowan. Glenwilliam—Alex. McDonald. Highbank—J. D. Livingston. Murray Harbor—Morr. Jordan. Nominations were called for a candidate to contest the district at the coming by-election, and the following persons were nominated: William Leith McLean (nominated by Messrs. Geo. A. Poole and Archie Bowles). John Beck (nominated by Messrs. Geo. A. Thompson and John Mann).

Ballots were cast and Mr. McLean by a vote of 19-10, was nominated as Liberal-Conservative candidate for the district. At the conclusion of business the meeting was opened to the public and the chairman called upon Mr. J. D. Stewart, K. C., M. L. A., leader of the Liberal-Conservative party in the province, to address the audience. Mr. Stewart expressed his pleasure at having the opportunity of delivering his first address as party leader before the electorate of Murray Harbor district. He congratulated Mr. McLean upon his nomination and emphasized the importance of a solid organization.

Further addresses were made by Mr. James McLean, M. P., and by Mr. J. A. McDonald, Cardigan. Mr. McLean took the opportunity of thanking the electors of the Murray Harbor district for their splendid support at the last Dominion election. Both speakers emphasized the importance of organization and congratulated Mr. McLean upon his nomination. Heartly applause from the audience expressed the general approval with which the addresses were received and at the conclusion of the meeting a vote of thanks was extended to the speakers.

Submarine Tunnel

London, June 29.—Construction of a tunnel under the British Channel to connect Great Britain with the Continent is recommended in the report of the committee on transportation of the International Chamber of Commerce, in convention here. The committee also recommends that the Chamber take steps to bring transportation laws of the several countries to a common level. Resolutions urging international commercial arbitration laws, applying to the interpretation and execution of business contracts between citizens of different countries, were recommended by the special committee on distribution.

The laws suggested would render valid in any country the awards of foreign arbitration committees, regardless of nationality. The committee's measure contemplates the creation of pan-national arbitration boards by the International Chamber of Commerce, which would pass finally on disputed transactions. This suggestion, with that part of the resolution calling for uniform international business legislation, will probably be taken up by the chamber at its next regular session on Friday.

Head On Collision Near Moncton

Moncton, July 4.—As a result of a head-on collision on Saturday morning between two freight trains at Pangburn on the M.T.R., forty miles from Moncton, fireman Harold Power of this city now lies in the city hospital in a serious condition from scalds and burns. Fireman Power was the only one injured in the accident, some others receiving slight sprains and a severe shaking up.

Shackleton will then go to Tristan Da Cunha, in the South Atlantic and Gough's Island, eight miles long and 4,000 feet high, which has been only once visited before, by the Bruce expedition in 1904, when four unknown species of birds were observed. Soundings will be taken of the ocean plateau about Gough's Island in an endeavor to settle the surmises regarding an underwater continental connection between Africa and America.

The vessel will continue on to Capetown, whence begins the exploration of Antarctic regions where no keel has been in the last ninety years. Enderby Land will be visited. This is a large tract, but whether a continent or an island is unknown as its limits remain unmarked. Possibly the icebound coast may bar the progress of the Quest, but if she succeeds in getting through the pack ice interest centres in whether she will come upon volcanoes or open seas.

The vessel will emerge from the Antarctic by the Weddell Sea and call at the South Sandwich Islands and South Georgia. She will then proceed eastward and make landings at various sub-Antarctic islands, such as Bouvet Island and Heard Island. The next country to attract the Quest will be New Zealand, and the Pacific will be dredged for the lost island of Tuanaki, which has been mentioned in old nautical records and native legends, but has since disappeared. The party will search for Dougherty Island, whose existence and position are doubtful. If accessible it might serve as a wireless relay station between New Zealand and South America.

The Quest is now at Southampton. She is 111 feet long, 23 beam and 12 feet in depth. She was built in Norway in 1917, is of oak, pine and fir, and has been tested in heavy ice. Her sides are two feet thick and her bows are of solid oak sheathed with steel.

Her steaming radius is 9,000 miles, and under sail, with a stiff breeze, she can make eight knots. She carries wireless equipment. Shackleton's chief companions will be Frank Eillo, second in command; Commander Frank Worsley, Major A. H. Macklin, biologist; Lieut. Commander J.R. Stenhouse, and Capt. L. Hussey, meteorologist.

January Carnival of Economy

FOR OUR The old year took away, for ever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and

THE MOST STIRRING JANUARY PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN. No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.

The decrease in the cost of living in the United States between June, 1920, and May, 1921, according to Washington advices was 15.7 per cent. according to figures based upon prices in 32 cities made public by the Department of Labor. Except for fuel, light and housing, all items dropped in price between June 1920, and May 1921.

Dominion Day was observed in Paris by the Canadian colony, and a large delegation, led by Philippe Roy, Canadian Commissioner-General to France, went to the grave of the unknown soldier at the Arc de Triomphe, and laid a wreath upon the tomb. Another wreath was laid upon the grave by officers and soldiers of the Twenty-second Franco-Canadian Battalion of Quebec.

In accordance with the judgment and order of the Railway Commission dated January 14, the rate of exchange in connection with shipments of freight between the United States points from July 1 to July 14 inclusive will be 13 15/16 per cent and the surcharge on this traffic will be eight per cent. The rate of surcharge on international passenger business will be based on 14 per cent exchange.

Winifred Josephine McKinley, aged three years, passed through Port Arthur on the C. F. R. the other day en route from Glasgow, Scotland, to her uncle's home in Swift Current, Sask. Her baggage includes two letters giving the official version of her father's war record.

Kingston, Ont., Public Utilities Commission is going after the firm of Davis & Farnum, Waltham, Mass., in the United States courts to recover about $7,000 which the local commission, through an error, over-paid the American gas tank contractors on a big job done here last year. The company admitted the over-payment but has presented a revised bill and offers 1,800 in settlement, which the commission refuses to accept.

Germany on June 28th paid 44,000,000 gold marks (about $10,000,000) to the Reparations Commission. The payment was in European currency because of the Commission's recent decision temporarily not to require dollar payments because of the adverse effect on exchange. This payment makes a total of about one quarter of a billion marks that Germany has turned over to the Reparations Commission. The balance of the instalment, which is in ninety day drafts, is due at the end of July.

Ex-President William Howard Taft has been appointed, by President Harding, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, in succession to Chief Justice White, recently deceased. Mr. Taft is a member of the Arbitration board to determine the value of the Grand Trunk Railway, taken over by the Dominion Government. He is the nominee of the Grand Trunk. The board of arbitration is now sitting in Montreal; but the sittings will soon be finished, as the evidence is all in and the argument of counsel is going on. When this is finished Mr. Taft will go to Washington and be sworn in. Afterwards he will return to Canada and assist in studying out and presenting the award.

The evidence of Dr. Tolmie, Canadian Minister of Agriculture, before the British Commission enquiring into the cattle embargo has been given wide prominence in the British Press. Dr. Tolmie had little new light to shed on the problem, his evidence being mainly a repetition of his stand outlined time and time again in the Canadian Parliament. In conclusion, however, the Canadian minister made this significant statement: "Should the embargo be continued Canada must endeavor by all means in her power to secure a permanent one by a restricted outlet for her surplus in the United States." The Daily Lord Beaverbrook paper, seizes upon this and says that this constitutes a warning which the British people cannot afford to ignore.

Voice Approval

London, June 30.—The League of Nations' Union dinner in honor of the Dominion Premiers last night was a colorful sight, the immense dining-room being filled to the doors with a brilliant assembly wearing every known decoration and representative of forty nations, including the entire British Empire. "The United States and Canada are the world's greatest examples in the reduction of armaments, with a boundary of three thousand miles not boasting of a single gun," said the chairman, Viscount Grey of Falloden. "Britain should regard the water frontier separating her from the United States precisely as Canada does the land frontier. There is no question of bargaining on the relative size of navies." Premier Meighen, of Canada, said there is no lessening of confidence in the League of Nations in Canada, and expressed the belief that it was bound to continue, though possibly with a modified constitution. Any failure to succeed resulted because the League does not concentrate on essentials within its scope, but dissipates its energy over too great an area. Mr. Meighen said that the League of Nations' Union should be formed in all participating countries, and especially in the British Empire, and referred to the new Canadian organization. General Smuts advocated the admission of many countries into the League of Nations, which complained it was not sufficiently supported by the Great Powers, who send Ministers to the Supreme Council. In preference he suggested the League undertake the disarmament problem. A. J. Balfour, H. H. Asquith, Lord Robert Cecil and Premiers Massey and Hughes also spoke.

JOHN F. WHEAR, Post Office Inspector, Post Office Inspector's Office, Ch'town, April 21, 1921, April 27, 1921—8j

Did you ever notice your wife's new dress?
 Did you ever give her a warm caress?
 Did you ever linger a little while to have her kiss you, and see her smile?
 Did you ever praise little things she does?
 Did you ever come home from the daily buzz to take her hand and to pinch her cheeks?
 And tell her the love that she seeks and seeks?
 Did you ever care when she changed the way?
 She'd been wearing her hair for many a day.
 Did you ever notice the pains she took to fix herself so she'd always look pleasing and sweet to you when you came?
 Did you ever whisper her gentle sweetness just as you used to do?
 In the years way back when your love was new?
 Did you ever tell her she looked so fine?
 Did you ever whisper: "I'm glad you're mine!"
 Did you ever try to follow her whim?
 And fathom her fancy, and through the dim drift and dream of the rolling years,
 Sweeten her sorrows and heal her tears,
 And pet and comfort her heart each day?
 Did you ever think of your wife that way?

The Surgeon's "Miracle"

(Concluded)
 The operation was successful and the patient, rallying from the first, recovered rapidly. This result, stipulating to Sister Angela, but hailed as miraculous by the city's medical lights, brought to the Surgeon a greater and more enviable reputation. But the little man did not seek him out. However, she had nothing to tell the Surgeon now and he, the atheist, could point to that fact and—Oh, it was so difficult for those who were not Catholics to know that all prayers cannot be answered at once!
 Of course he had realized from her various remarks that she had considered the loss of this case necessary for his own spiritual welfare. Sister Angela was young, and her sensitive soul was finding some questions too intricate and too sorrowful to analyze or understand. Her prayers never ceased through these trying hours.
 The Surgeon went to her.
 "Well, Sister Angela—"
 "Well?" she said in reply, lifting her steady eyes to meet his own.
 "I performed the miracle."
 "Yes."
 "But not without help," he added.
 "No?" inquired the little nun.
 "Can't you guess what I have to tell you?"
 Sister Angela glanced curiously at the speaker. In some unaccountable way his appearance seemed changed in spite of the still quizzical expression of his countenance and the half-cynical lines about his mouth.
 "No."
 "I performed the miracle with God's help."
 "God's!" whispered the little nun.
 "Yes—it is not necessary to go into detail why I never believed. But for many years I have been too busy and too successful to even think about such a thing—thought I was I mean. This case was the nearest loss ever threatened me. Perhaps it would not have bothered me if you hadn't started praying. Something—that, I think—underved me. I knew if I lost it would gravely affect my future and—I felt sure that I would lose! Your positive position about the success of your prayers—and a few other things I have noticed here in the hospital—shook my confidence in myself in my unaided efforts. So I concluded that if there were a God He could help me to terminate Minard's Liment Believes Neuralgia.

Pain in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or agnate condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely unwise to neglect, so important a healthy action of these organs.
 They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and despondency.
 "I was taken ill with kidney trouble, and became so weak I could scarcely get around. I took medicine without benefit, and finally decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After the first bottle I felt so much better that I continued the use, and six bottles made me a new woman. When my little girl was a baby, she could not keep anything on her stomach, and we gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured her." Mrs. Thomas L. W. Walsworth, Ont.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It cures kidney and liver troubles, revives the back, and builds up the whole system.

successfully that operation. I knew I could not do it, and if I couldn't no man would attempt it. And I promised if He helped me I would acknowledge His power always, whether in the years to come I should win or lose. We won—God and I!
 "Oh!" cried Sister Angela. "What a way heaven had to solve problems!"
 "And I would like to state, Sister, that I wanted to win because I knew in my heart that I wanted God—not an unassailable reputation. I envied you, Sister Angela!"
 "I believe that," said the little nun. "Oh, I love God!"
 "I think God must love you," replied the Surgeon, smiling happily.
 "He answered your prayer?" Sister Angela reminded him with a smile as radiant as his own.

Huldah's New Outlook

There was a suggestion of a frown on the pretty face of Huldah Horley as she stood by a window in her home looking out on nothing in particular. She sighed a little and put her hand to her mouth as if to repress a yawn. Her Aunt Helen, who was a visitor in the home, had discovered in the two weeks she had been there that Huldah was not as happy as a girl with such a home as hers should be. She seemed to be filled at times with a vague discontent, and had said only the day before that it must be "just lovely" to live in the city from which her aunt had come and in which she lived. Noting the way in which Huldah was gazing out of the window, her Aunt said:
 "Well, my dear, what do you see? What is the outlook today?"
 "It is what it always is—narrow," replied Huldah. "How can it be anything else? To tell the truth, Aunt Helen, I am blue and dull sometimes simply because my outlook is so narrow. You—well, it is so different with you in your wide outlook of the city. Your mind has a chance to expand, your intellectual powers have something to stimulate them and you come into contact with so many things one can never have in a small town like this. Sometimes I feel starved intellectually and in every other way. Honestly Auntie, what outlook is there for one here?"
 Her aunt put aside her embroidery loop and came and stood by Huldah with an arm around her waist. Then she said:
 "My dear, do you want me really to help you discover a real outlook in this town? Very well, I will. What is that pretty little stone and brick building down there at the foot of the hill?"
 "Why, it is our public library, and it is said to be the best public library in this part of the state."
 "A little note of 'local pride' came in to Huldah's voice.
 "I think that is true," said her aunt. "And because it is true it helps to broaden your outlook. What better intellectual stimulus is there than a good library? And you see the spire of the pretty, little white and green church rising among the trees just across the river at the end of the bridge. There is another widening of your outlook."
 "In what way, auntie?"

PALPITATION OF THE HEART

Some people are painfully sensitive. We know a man who can't ask the grocer for a pound of raisins and a cake of yeast without getting red from the color to the roots of his hair.
 "I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exertion, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation. If my time was near. A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now, although in my 66th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. As a line of sickness I weighed 120 lbs., now I weigh 150."
 Price, 50c. a box at dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

are just the remedy you require to do this. Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes:—"I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exertion, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation. "CHOLERA INFANTUM"

THE SUMMER COMPLAINT OF INFANTS.

The trouble occurs mostly during the hot seasons, and is confined to infants between the ages of from four to twenty months, and generally happens about the time of the cutting of the first teeth.

Mothers should look well after their children at this stage and not experiment with any new and untried remedies, but procure on hand the best of many years usage in thousands of families.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for 76 years and is acknowledged by all who have used it to be the very best remedy for Cholera Infantum, Diarrhoea, Colic, Dysentery and all Bowel Complaints whether in children or adults.

Mrs. S. R. Alcorn, 2 Black St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—"My little girl was very bad with summer complaint caused from change of milk, and was also teething at the same time. I tried several remedies, but until I was advised to try 'Dr. Fowler's' I was and by the time one bottle was taken she was as well as ever. I cannot too highly recommend it for both children and adults."

Price, 50c. a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Your pastor is a man of unusual intellectual attainments. Many city churches have pastors who are not the equal of Father Corrigan. One cannot hear him Sunday after Sunday without having one's outlook of life widened and also receiving a real intellectual uplift. He can help you to broaden your outlook if you will allow him to do so. Then you do not live in a town of ignorant people. Some of your neighbors and friends are far more intellectual than some of my neighbors in the city are. Do you ever look at the daily papers or read any of the magazines your father takes setting forth the current events of the day?

I can't say that I do, auntie.

If you want to broaden your outlook on life you can do it by reading a magazine of current events and a good daily paper. One can be as intelligent and have as wide an outlook on life in a town like this as in the city. One really has more time for intellectual development in a town like this than in the rush and whirl of the city. If you will look at it from the right point of view, Huldah, you will discover that you can have a very wide outlook right here in this small town.

Huldah was silent for a minute or two and then she said:
 "I guess you are right about that, auntie. I never thought of it in that way before. I—I—well, I see hope from the window than I did when I first looked out. I have discovered a new outlook, I suppose."

It was a "new outlook" that many girls in many small towns can discover to their great profit if they will.

YARMOUTH, N.S.,

Mr. Joseph LeBlanc, Secretary of the Athletic Association, who were the Champions for 1920 of the South Shore League and Western-Nova Scotia Base Ball, states that during the summer the boys used MINARD'S LIMENT with very beneficial results, for sore muscles, bruises and sprains. It is considered by the players the best white liniment on the market. Every team should be supplied with this celebrated remedy.

PALPITATION OF THE HEART

Some people are painfully sensitive. We know a man who can't ask the grocer for a pound of raisins and a cake of yeast without getting red from the color to the roots of his hair.
 "I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exertion, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation. If my time was near. A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now, although in my 66th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. As a line of sickness I weighed 120 lbs., now I weigh 150."

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

are just the remedy you require to do this. Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes:—"I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exertion, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation. If my time was near. A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first was used I began to improve. January Carnival of Economy FOR OUR

The old year took away from us, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and

THE MOST STIRRING JANUARY PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN.

No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.
