BRAZIL NEUTRAL.
RIO JANEIRO, April 30. The Brazilian Government issued a proclamation of neutrality to-day in respect to war between the United States and Germany.

IN MACEDONIA.
LONDON, April 30. Severe fighting continues on the Macedonia front, where the British took the offensive last week. The war office to-day announced that an effort to expel the British from positions captured had been defeated.

TURKISH LOSSES.
LONDON, April 30. The Turkish losses during the fighting against the British in Mesopotamia from April 13th to 22nd, were estimated officially to-day at about 4,000. The announcement reports the Turks entrenching fifteen miles north of Samarra, after their recent defeat by the British in the fighting around that place.

NO SEPARATE PEACE.

PETROGRAD, via London, April 30. It is evident from foreign telegrams that the attitude of the Russian democracy towards peace has been misconstrued by the foreign press. The desire for peace has become more widespread and articulate since the revolution, but it is based on entirely different conceptions from those entertained during the old regime. These new conceptions have nothing to do with premature peace with Germany, as a matter of fact they have not yet taken any definite form, simply emanating from the spirit of democracy which wishes to build a foundation for a durable world peace. The idea of a separate peace died here with the old regime.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, April 30. During the night quite violent artillery actions occurred south of St. Quentin, and in Troyon, Hurbise and Craonne regions, our batteries continued their destructive fires against German organizations. In Moronvillers area several German attempts against our trenches and small posts in Hurbise section towards Mount Cornillet and on Chambrettes failed under our certain fire. Elsewhere, quiet night. During the night enemy aeroplanes dropped several bombs in Dunkirk, Nancy and Belfort regions; no victims and only insignificant damage. Chalons and Epervy were also bombed, several victims among civilians. During the night of 28-29 our armoured aeroplanes executed several operations, numerous projectiles being dropped on Pont Feveger and Bethenville stations, and on bivouacs near Epoye.

THE SUBMARINE MENACE.

LONDON, April 30. Replying to questions in the Commons to-day, Sir Edward Carson, First Lord of the Admiralty, said as the number of German submarines had been increased, the danger to shipping must be expected to increase in proportion. As a matter of fact during April, he said, the loss to shipping in the English Channel had been less than in any of the preceding three months. This was partly due to the increase of submarines in other areas and partly as a result of the increased number of patrol boats in the English Channel. Generally, the First Lord said, the losses were increasing.

PRISONERS AND GUNS CAPTURED

LONDON, April 30. The capture of some prisoners and machine guns in minor operations is reported in the official statement issued by the war office this morning.

used by the war office this morning. The statement says in a small local operation between Monchy Le Preux and Scarpe River we captured a few prisoners and improved our position during the night. Our troops also made a successful raid north of Ypres capturing 15 prisoners and a machine gun.

PETAINE'S APPOINTMENT POPULAR

PARIS, April 30. The appointment of General Petain as Chief of Staff is generally welcomed as a timely reform which has long been advised by military experts. Petain as technical adviser to the Government will occupy very much the same position as General Sir William Robertson in London, and will be responsible for the general conduct of operations wherever French troops are. In addition to this appointment it is understood the Government contemplates various other measures of reorganization based on examination of the military situation and lessons taught by recent operations. The Petit Parisien says that certain services whose working has been shown to be defective, will be overhauled, and changes will be made among leaders whose talents could be more judiciously used. The paper adds that this would be done without prejudice to the discipline of those, whatever their previous services, who have committed faults and made mistakes.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

BERLIN, April 30. The official issued here to-day says that the town of Oppy on the front of the British attack, remains in German hands. On the front of the French offensive between Soissons and Sulpes, artillery fighting increased to a point of great violence. In the British assault on Saturday, the statement says, more than 6,000 men fell before the German positions, and more than 1,000 prisoners were taken. The Germans also captured forty machine guns and destroyed ten British armoured motor-cars. The announcement further says the French and British lost eleven aeroplanes on the Western front on Saturday and 23 on Sunday.

THE U. S. ARMY.

WASHINGTON, April 30. The figures made public to-day for April 29-30, show the total recruits accepted for the two days from all the States was 1,436, making 27,590 men added to the army since April 1st.

AMERICAN OIL TANK STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, April 30. The American oil tank steamer Vacuum has been sunk. The captain and part of the crew and a naval lieutenant and nine American naval gunners are missing.

HOME RULE AGAIN.

LONDON, April 30. The message of American Congressmen to Premier Lloyd George in reference to Ireland is printed in the morning papers without comment, except in the Daily News, which says that it re-emphasizes more than it reveals the intensity of the feeling in America on the Irish question. The Daily News adds, the message very properly avoids discussion of the terms of the Irish settlement. The whole topic of an Irish settlement continues to figure largely in the press. The parliamentary correspondent of the Chronicle says to-day there is a better hope for settlement this week than at any time since the war began. He adds that the sentiment in Parliament and the country in favor of some solution is so strong that the Premier will have a powerful backing from men of all parties if he decides to take bold action. The newspapers give letters, interviews and suggestions from more or less prominent people. The Daily News quotes John Dillon as saying, "One of the gravest features of the situation is that the Irish Constitutional party in its efforts of the last three years to meet the difficulties of the Government and abate the opposition of Ulster Unionists, has undoubtedly lost a good deal of its control over its own people. If the Government again offers some utterly unsatisfactory solution, Ireland will rapidly drift into a condition which will rapidly embarrass the Government and make it wholly impossible for England to stand before the world with the United States as the champion of liberty."

WANT INCREASE IN WAGES.

NEW YORK, April 30. May Day demands for increases in wages will be submitted to-morrow by thousands of workers in this city, and labor leaders declared to-day that unless they are granted, strikes will follow.

CONVALESCENT HOSPITAL.

The Committee of the Convalescent Hospital for Soldiers and Sailors, gratefully acknowledge the following gifts received since April 21st: Mrs. Ganning, table and 2 chairs; Mrs. Baldwin, fruit, malted milk, ash trays, papers, cup towels, candle sticks, cigarettes; Mrs. McKee, Mrs. McDougall, Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Tessier, eggs; Mrs. F. TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.00 A. M.

AMERICA AND THE IRISH QUESTION.

LONDON, To-day. Interviews given by a number of Americans on the Irish problem and published in English papers were the subject of questions in the Commons to-day. Major Newman, Unionist, asked whether the Government was aware that statesmen and public men of an allied nation had been invited to give through the medium of the public papers their opinion on a subject of controversy domestic to the United Kingdom, and if the Government would favor a reciprocal policy of non-interference either by Britain or the Allies where the questions at issue were domestic and not of international importance. "I do not think any action on the part of the Government is called for in this matter," replied Bonar Law. "Would America tolerate interference on our part in a question?" Major Newman asked again, the Speaker interrupting with a call for "Order, order."

FRENCH ADVANCE IN CHAMPAGNE.

PARIS, To-day. In a powerful attack to-day in the Champagne region the French troops captured several fortified lines of trenches in the neighborhood of Mont Carniel to a depth of five hundred to a thousand metres, according to a war office report issued to-night. The text of the statement reads: In the Champagne after spirited artillery preparation our infantry at 12.40 o'clock delivered an attack against the German lines on both sides of Mont Carniel. To the west we captured several fortified lines of trenches from that point as far as south of Beine to a depth varying from 500 to 1,000 metres. To the east we pushed our lines forward on the north slopes northeast of Mont Hant as far as the approaches to the road between Maurey and Moronvillers.

RACING STOPPED IN UNITED KINGDOM.

LONDON, To-day. All racing will cease in the United Kingdom this week, it was announced in the Commons to-day for the Government by Captain Bathurst. He added that an order providing for the racing of thoroughbreds would be issued shortly. Questioned by Arthur Lynch, Nationalist, as to whether the prohibition would be extended to small meetings in Ireland, Captain Bathurst replied that he was not authorized to say that any exception would be made.

BRITISH REPORT.

LONDON, To-day. A British official communication issued this evening says: An attack made by the enemy during the day upon our new positions between Monchy Le Preux and the Scarpe River was completely repulsed. Hostile artillery has been active on both banks of the Scarpe. There was great activity in the air yesterday. During the night bombs were dropped with effect on a number of points behind the enemy's lines, causing several fires and in one case a large explosion. Three enemy trains were also hit by our bombs. The enemy fought hard to protect the points attacked. In the course of the fighting ten German aeroplanes were brought down and ten others driven down out of control. Fifteen of our machines are missing.

SIGNIFICANT.

COPENHAGEN, To-day. No Berlin newspapers have arrived here for two days. Such stoppages are often preliminary to important military developments.

RUSSIA RE-ORGANIZING HER ARMY.

PETROGRAD, To-day. The Council of Soldiers' and Workers' Delegates to-day decided, in view of the necessity of providing new formations for the army operating against the Central Powers, that the Petrograd garrison hitherto held in the capital by order of the Provisional Government to be in readiness to oppose any movement against the revolution, may henceforth be sent to the front if needed, provided authority is first given by the Council. A new general alliance of military and naval officers has been constituted at Petrograd with the aim of assisting the higher command in organizing the army on a new basis for the object of attaining victory.

AMERICA FORMALLY TAKES OVER GERMAN SHIPS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. By a unanimous vote the Senate passed a resolution last night providing for the transfer to the American Government of the title and possession of the enemy ships in American ports and for their use in commerce under direction of the Shipping Board.

AMERICAN OIL TANKER SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. The American armed steamer and oil tanker Vacuum has been sent to the bottom by a German sub. and it is feared an American Naval Lieut. and his gun crew of nine men perished in the disaster. The captain and several of the crew of the Vacuum are known to have been drowned. Returning to the United States from a trip to Europe the Vacuum encountered off the coast of Ireland the sub. which gave her her death wound. Scant details of the sinking are available and it is not known whether the Americans were able to bring their guns into play on it or if the vessel was torpedoed and sunk unwarmed. This is the second armed American vessel sunk in the war zone, the steamer Aztec having gone to the bottom on April 1st as the result of an explosion.

Whether she was the victim of a torpedo or mine has not been definitely established. One member of the American naval crew on board the Aztec was lost.

WAR SUMMARY.

LONDON, To-day. The expected battle in the Champagne region of France, following days of acute gun preparation by the French forces, which was answered almost shot for shot by the Germans, has at last broken, seemingly synchronizing with the somewhat lessened activity on the part of the British against the Germans on the Arras front. The French on Monday eastward from Rheims launched an attack over a front of about four miles from south of Beine to the east of Mont Cornillet, and captured several fortified German trenches. Delivered at midday the offensive was swift and sharp and at its conclusion the French line had been driven forward into territory previously occupied by the enemy to depths ranging relatively from 500 to 1,000 yards. Simultaneously to the eastward a thrust by the French northeast of Mont Hant netted them a gain of about two-thirds of a mile and placed them virtually astride the Moronvillers-Faucy road. That the fighting in this region has not yet been brought to a conclusion is indicated by an official statement by the Paris war office which announces that artillery duels of violence are still going on. There has also been a continuation of great artillery activity from St. Quentin to the Oise, along the Chemin Des Dames northeast of Soissons. Little news concerning the situation along the front from Lens to St. Quentin, where the British for several weeks have made notable gains, has been vouchsafed in the last official communication, the London war office on Monday night merely mentioning the repulse of the German attack east of Arras between Monchy Le Preux and the Scarpe River. A Berlin communication dismisses the Arras sector with the assertion that Monday saw only an artillery engagement of varying intensity, but goes to a considerable extent into a description of the sanguinary operations on Saturday at Oppy, which it is still asserted, remains in German hands north of the Douai road. British casualties in this fighting are declared have been over 6,000, while more than 1,000 prisoners and forty machine guns were captured and ten tanks destroyed.

CANADIANS MAKE ANOTHER GAIN

Canadian Headquarters, France, (by Stewart Lyon, special correspondent Canadian Press.)—Another crease in front was ironed out to-day. Enemy trench elements were captured north and east of Arleux, bringing our troops in this sector close up to the wire defences before the village of Fresnoy. German gunfire is increasing in volume as the menace to their positions becomes more serious.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Preliminary exchanges of views have been completed, and the members of France's War Mission, and representatives of the U. S. began detailed conferences to solve the infinite number of difficult problems related to American co-operation in the war. All day long the conferences were in progress. The most important was at the White House between President Wilson and Rene Viviani, head of the Mission. No information regarding the nature of the talk, which lasted an hour, have been made public, but it was understood to be a general discussion of the needs of France and the part the U. S. can best play in helping the sister republic in their struggle against the Germans. Other conferences between officials of the Naval Department and the naval section of the mission, headed by Admiral Chocheprat, and between representatives of the War Department, especially officers of the General Staff and members of the military section headed by Marshal Joffre, and by American Finance experts. Members of the economic section of the Mission would leave Washington on Thursday to visit Chicago, and later would go to Kansas City, St. Louis, Springfield, Illinois, Philadelphia, New York and Boston. At the conclusion of the tour the party will return to Washington.

MONCHY.

These are proud days in Newfoundland. When the heavy casualty list came in, telling of the losses of April 14th—that will be a memorable date in our history—it left an impression of little but terrible uncertainty. The dreaded "missing" ran down each page. But there was one thing of which no one was uncertain: it was known that the Regiment had distinguished itself. How far and in what manner we are now beginning to learn. The Premier's message yesterday is followed to-day by specific mention in the public despatches, one of which explains more exactly what our men did, and from which it is clear that they saved a serious situation at Monchy when the German counter attack was at its height. Who the commanding officer was we are not yet told, but to his initiative a piece of unusually clever work seems to have been largely due. Beaumont Hamel was in some measure avenged at Guedecourt; the measure has been made a more flowing at Monchy and the tale of German dead, if it could be told in its fullness, would be the answer to ours of July 1st.

Once again Sir Douglas Haig mentions the Newfoundland Regiment specially in his despatches and that is high honour indeed. We owe a particular debt of gratitude to the Times for its tributes and the prominence it has given in its accounts to the deeds of the Newfoundlanders. "The Island's fighting men in the British Army have blazoned its name upon the imperishable records of the Empire." Perhaps we shall cease henceforth to be regarded as a "small community very remote from the world." If we have been so regarded in the past it has been largely our own fault, and if we are better known to the world in the future let us remember to whom we shall owe it. Our soldiers have done for their country what generations of politicians could not do. If we hold a higher and more honourable place than we have done among the dominions of our great Empire, it will not have been won for us in St. John's or London but on the fields of France.

Times like these events occur and occasions arise which pass almost unnoticed among a thousand others and which it is left to history to distinguish and mark out as worthy to be remembered. But there are some which the present can judge as surely as the future, and one of these was related to us yesterday. One hundred and thirty-four years have passed since by solemn treaty, in the words of a history before us, "Great Britain acknowledged the independence and sovereignty of the United States, and a new nation took its place among the governments of the earth." When Rene Viviani proffered the tribute of France to the United States, the act, memorable as it was, marked but the continuance of a friendship that had never been broken. When Britain's foreign minister stepped to the tomb of the great Washington and laid thereon the wreath which the British nation sent, his act marked something more. No one thought then of the independence of the United States but not the victory her greatest man had won for the cause of freedom, justice and the equality of men in the sight of heaven. In the cause of freedom, justice and equality America is today allied with Great Britain, and among its champions "a new nation takes its place." When Arthur Balfour placed on Washington's tomb the token that bore the British flag the breach that had existed for a hundred years and more was healed forever.

Many Live Wires Down in City

DURING STORM.
During the progress of last night's storm many live wires fell down in the city making it dangerous for people to move about the streets. Fortunately very few persons ventured out, the weather was so bad, and no accidents are reported to have occurred to anyone. The wind blew at the rate of ninety miles an hour, subsiding somewhat after midnight. In the early part of the night a live wire was discovered down on McBride's Hill by the police, who notified the substation and got the power shut off while repairs were being effected. There was similar trouble with electric wires on Church Hill, the R. C. Cathedral grounds and other places so that the Reid Company's electrical repairing staff spent a busy night of it.

Old Municipal Basin

SCENE OF MUCH WRECKAGE.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock last night the old Municipal Basin at the rear of the Reid Mfd. Co's. freight sheds presented a picture of a mangled mass of steamships, sailing vessels, motor boats, hulks and fishing boats, pounding against each other in the wildest confusion. At the time mentioned a terrific hurricane swept the waters of the harbour, causing several large ships to drag their anchors, and those tied on to the different waterfront premises to pound against the shores of the wharves. The first to break loose was a hulk used as a lighter by the Smard Co. Ltd., which when caught in the teeth of the gale broke her moorings and drifting up the harbour collided with the schooner Defender. The latter, being loaded with lumber, was made fast to the Horwood Lumber Co's. wharf. After hitting the schooner several severe blows her lines parted, and the next victim was Job's steamer "Tommy", which however escaped without serious damage. Another ship which received severe punishment was the Reid Co's. yacht Fife, which emerged from the fight minus a bowsprit and foremast, while her stern, which projects outward in yacht fashion, was literally smashed to pieces. Several motor boats and fishing boats which were docked at the Basin were considerably damaged. When the wreckage was cleared away this morning it was found that the old lighter, a relic of a one-time coastal clipper, had sailed her last voyage and with her only mast rising above the water, her bones quietly resting on the bottom.

Afraid of It.

No higher compliment could be paid to President Wilson's address than the fact that it is not published in full in Germany, except in the Berlin Tageblatt. Why Mr. Wolf was allowed to print it cannot be explained until we learn why he has been unmolested in many another assertion of his independence. The reason why the more complaisant German publications did not print the speech was because of its destructiveness as a weapon. It is dangerous to let such a devastating document get abroad in Germany, and yet it will get abroad and will do its damaging work. Parts of the speech were printed in a way to give the German reader the impression that it was the full text, and when we examine the parts that were printed and those that were omitted we can see why the rulers were afraid of it.

It was the first part of the speech that was printed, the part reciting the German submarine warfare and its crimes. That could be published, because Germany is fairly well tuned to the world's opinion on that subject. But no German paper, except the one already mentioned, let its readers know that the President proposed financial backing for the Allies. Germany's only hope is to starve and bankrupt the Allies; the news that the starving and bankrupting of the Allies have now become impossible would wreck that last hope. Germany did not dare let its people know what the president said about Russia; he put too clearly the fact that the Russian revolution and the American declaration of war had completed the issue of one of democracy against autocracy. As for the President's own definition of that issue, Germany could not and did not let her people read that. She could not and did not let her people know of the President's account of the German plots within and against the United States, for that would have destroyed the pretense that the Zimmerman Mexican intrigue stood alone and was merely a natural and innocent precaution against eventualities. She could not and did not let the people, who are being told that ours will be only a half-hearted and limited war, read this announcement:

"We are now about to accept the gaze of battle with this natural foe to liberty, and shall, if necessary, spend the whole force of the nation to check and nullify its pretensions and its power."
She could not and did not let them read the President's declaration that we enter the war for the liberation of the world's peoples, "the German peoples included," and the revolutionary unrest that is being reported from Hamburg and other places shows why she could not. She could not and did not let them read his declaration that "we seek no indemnities for ourselves, no material compensation for the sacrifices we shall freely make," for it would have led to questioning about the accuracy of the picture so carefully painted of the "gold-sated Yankees" entering the war for money. She could not and did not let them read his denunciation of "the selfish designs of a Government that 'did what it pleased and told its people nothing,' or the words that followed it:

"We are accepting this challenge of hostile purpose because we know that in such a Government, following such methods, we can never have a friend; and that in the presence of its organized power, always lying in wait to accomplish we know not what purpose, there can be no assured security for the democratic Governments of the world."

The President's speech was excluded from publication because it was not a speech but a deadly weapon.—N. Y. Times.

TORIC LENSES

ARE MORE BECOMING THAN FLAT LENSES.

The edges of Toric Lenses do not show as prominently as those of flat lenses. They fit in close to your eyes. You will find Torics much more becoming and useful. They give you a wider, clearer field vision. You should know about Toric Lenses. Let us explain them.

Hindenburg Lines.

(By Henry Dalby.) *
Lloyd George says that the most characteristic of all Prussian institutions is the Hindenburg line, a line drawn on territories of other people, warning them that the people of these territories shall not cross it except at the peril of their lives. For fifty years it has been thrown across Europe in many lands. Recently it has been drawn along the shores of America and Americans have been forbidden to cross it. They have had a series of Hindenburg lines in France and the French and British troops are constantly mapping it and tying it in knots and shoving it backward. The only way left for the Wooden Man to straighten out the Hindenburg line effectively is to make a bee line for Berlin; and it will not be long before he does this—of course for strategic reasons and in accordance with the Hindenburg plan of campaign. There is a story of a self-satisfied individual who stepped on a banana peel and then took a seat on the sidewalk. Instead of getting across and using a lot of wicked words as common people might have done; he remarked proudly: "That is the way I always do it." So with Hindenburg every time he runs away he claims a great strategic victory and proudly observes: "That is the way I always do it." Then like the warrior of the classic age he pours out copious libations (not on the ground though) in honor of the great god Force.

We must not holler, because we are not yet out of the wood; but in the German camps there is more whimpering and cursing than shouting. All the recent happenings, big and little, seem to make for the straightening out of the Hindenburg line for Berlin. The great victory at Vimy means one of two things. Either about 60,000 German casualties or the German troops individually are very anxious to surrender. It is all very well for a German general to persistently vociferate, "We have won the war! We have won the war!" but I doubt if that kind of thing deceives anybody even the unfortunate

Huns it is chiefly intended to deceive. The falsity and the motive of the lie are too apparent. These Berlin magnates have not the ghost of an idea beyond saving the Hohenzollern dynasty and that is one to which the Entente Allies will never consent. It is tacitly admitted by all but Prussian lunatics that there is no longer any question of German victory; it is no longer possible to look for a "as you were" settlement. It would be an unpardonable sin for the Entente to recognize the Imperial German Government in any negotiations for peace. It would be a sin not only against their own people but against the German people. It is the Hohenzollern interest which is keeping Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey in the war. The war was started in the interest of the Hohenzollern ambitions and it is our bounden duty to see that no other war is ever started to serve the interests of the Hohenzollerns or any other royal autocrats. There should be no such thing as an autocratic government left in Europe and especially in Prussia. I believe in allowing every man the right to deal with his own affairs exclusively but a Prussian autocracy is not an exclusively Prussian affair; it menaces the rights of every nation on earth. It is the nature of the beast. There will be a Hindenburg line around Prussia until the beast is killed.

Philadelphia Ledger: — How does 230 per cent profit appeal to you as an investment? Or put it this way: How would you like to plant a dollar and see it grow three dollars and thirty cents? A dollar invested in United States Steel or Pennsylvania Railroad, or Standard Oil or a Government bond, or the stock of our biggest bank, steamship companies, gas works, electric plants or telephone companies will bring back to you in a year only from three to ten cents. But 611 little Philadelphia farms, last year, upon which was spent $9,000 by the Vacant Lots Association, yielded $30,000. So you will see that every dollar sent to market over that route came home again with two dollars and thirty cents in the basket.

Cavell and the wraiths of scores of young French girls will stand at his shoulder, and no decent man will do business with him. Imagine the German clerk back once more in London! His very presence would excite memories of murdered Belgians and submarine assassinations. He would be a pariah, and if he found an employer he would be shunned and condemned as a moral leper. For a hundred years the name of German must stink in the nostrils of humanity. This is deplorable. It will certainly add to the difficulties of the future. It is none the less the inevitable consequence of ruthless crimes which have no parallel in the history of the world.

Household Notes.
Salad leaves should be put into cold water for an hour before they are cleaned and after they are clean be rolled in a towel and put on the ice. By this means they are drained dry and will be very crisp.
Roll out left-over pie crust in large cookie shapes and in the middle of each put a few currants or raisins, nut meats, sugar and a dash of sugar or cinnamon, fold over as you would a tart, roll flat again and bake.
French salad dressing is made with 1 tablespoonful of vinegar to 3 of oil, beaten well together. Add 1 salt-spoonful of salt, a pinch of cayenne and a dash of paprika. A clove of garlic may stand in it while the dressing is on the ice, but should be removed before serving.
Celery au gratin is one good way of using the tough pieces of celery. Boil them tender, make a white sauce and alternate the celery with layers of grated cheese and white sauce until the dish is full, cover the top with bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes.

All life is full of conflicts. We want to be good and we want to be bad at the same moment. We want our way and we want to be useful. We want to be cultured and educated, yet we aren't willing to make the requisite effort. We would not play false and yet would wrongly win. We want to spend our money and we want to save it.

And in the case of the average human being, I don't believe there is any conflict that rages more, constantly or more fiercely than that last. Miserliness is the rarest sin I know.

A Sin We Might Well Try to Commit. Most of us could try our hardest to sin in that direction with advantage.

There are always so many easily justifiable ways of spending money. Good looking, becoming clothes are a justifiable expenditure—"personal publicity," you know. Only the rich can afford to be shabby.

And an attractive home,—what's the use of living if you can't have your surroundings reasonably attractive? And then there are books and magazines and theatres and good music,—these, too, are duties we owe ourselves.

Of Course We Must Have Vacations. And we must have vacations or we can't work efficiently. And so it goes.

We want to save but we want so many other things, and usually want them more keenly. To be sure, there is a great satisfaction

THE GIANT.

WALT MASON

You have had a lot of woe, Kaiser Bill; and a lot more you will know, Kaiser Bill; for the giant of the West straps his harness on his breast, and will knock you from your nest, Kaiser Bill. Patient was the giant long, Kaiser Bill, bearing injury and wrong; Kaiser Bill, hoping that a ray of sense would provide your cranium dense, that you'd let up your offense, Kaiser Bill. But you tramped the giant's toes, Kaiser Bill; and you tweaked the giant's nose, Kaiser Bill; now you see the giant rise, with the war light in his eyes, and he'll soak your Prussian guys, Kaiser Bill. You're exhausted by the strain, Kaiser Bill; full of weariness and pain, Kaiser Bill; you are going stony broke, and your folks will bear the yoke of taxation till they croak, Kaiser Bill. You have strained your last resource, Kaiser Bill, in your work that's rude and coarse, Kaiser Bill; dotards who are bent and gray, children from their schoolyard play, you are dragging to the tray, Kaiser Bill. But the giant of the West, Kaiser Bill, has an ample treasure chest, Kaiser Bill; tortured by no bloody thirst, by no war lord visions cursed, he will chop you into wurst, Kaiser Bill.

What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.

The gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel. No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Cares. Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how rood the draught may be, clouds of ashes rise and settle on the furniture. It Eliminates Hard Work. Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt, and best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

St Lawrence Notes.

Five more of our boys have recently enlisted in the Navy and one in the Regiment. This gives St. Lawrence 5 per cent. of the population in the local forces and 3 per cent. with the Canadians, which give the creditable showing of 8 per cent. for the place.

Mrs. Echecken, young widow of Private Echecken, C.E.F., received a returned letter with "Shot Sept. 17" written across it. Private Echecken was missing since last September. Private Alonz Slaney, C.E.F., and Private Robert Pike, C.E.F., were also killed in action last year.

Private Hy. Pike, C.E.F., has been wounded three times and Private Augustus Farrell, C.E.F., who had been wounded, is unfit for further active service.

Mrs. Jas. Reeves received a message saying her husband, Private Jas. Reeves, C.E.F., has been wounded in the legs.

All of the boys in the Canadian troops enlisted while away to work. Their parents and families are living here.

Besides the three with the Canadians who have been killed in action, two of our boys of the 1st Nfld. Regiment died in hospital, and one R.N.R. in hospital at Chatham.

St. Lawrence would like to see some of her neighbouring places around wake up when we would spur up to keep our place at the head of the district. A. A. April 26th, 1917.

Our Prisoner of War

WRITES HOME FROM GERMANY. Private Peter Barron, of the First Nfld. Regiment, who was taken prisoner in France and is now a prisoner of war in Giessen, Germany, writes home to his wife as follows:—

Giessen, Feb. 26th, 1917. My dear wife, I am now sending you a few more photos to let you know I am safe, well and getting along all right and I sincerely hope that they will find you and both the children in the same state. I am looking forward to hear from you soon that some of the photos which I sent you early last month have arrived safely. And now as I have no more news to tell you this time I will close and with fond love to my brothers and sisters, yourself and both children I will remain Your loving husband, P. F. BARRON.

Giessen, March 12th, 1917. My dear wife, I was very pleased to receive your nice letter safely today, dated January 13th, and to hear that you are all well at home. I have received all your parcels and I thank you very much for them, but I do not want you to send me any more, as it takes such a long time for them to come, and as the Nfld. War Association in London send me parcels I get along all right. I enjoyed the things you sent me in your parcels, as they seemed so much like home again. St. John's must be a dry place now, but we shall have to find one or two when we get back again; but I don't suppose it will be prohibited then, will it, eh? Glad to hear both the girls are going on fine. I often think of you all when I see the photo which you sent me. I shall be glad to hear that you have received some of the photos which I sent you in January. Now I don't think I have any more news to tell you this time except that I am quite well, so I will close with fond love to my brothers and sisters, yourself and the children, and I will remain Your loving husband, P. F. BARRON.

The Rising Sun Daze the Germans.

AND THEY WERE STIFF AND COLD. The Splendid Dash of the French as They Swept Forward and Captured the Hun Trenches.

(By Henry Wood.) With the French Armies in the Field, April 29.—From a nameless hill to-day I saw the endless maze of German trenches. It represented three years' work of millions of men, countless tons of barbed wire, numberless carloads of steel plates, miles of concrete fortifications marked it, and thousands of bomb proofs, many fitted with electrical plants, equipped with most costly modern conveniences.

These the French captured intact. The ardor of the advance, the irresistible sweep following the battering down of the preliminary works by the terrific hail of French artillery, drove the Germans out. Most of these positions were taken on Tuesday. Then the fighting centered in the Rheims St. Souplet sector. The French advance was executed over ground which curiously aided them. The Germans occupied the crest of a hill so strongly fortified that in the plain below the French had heretofore not been able to advance since the battle of the Marne.

But the French shell bombardment was so destructive that in fifteen minutes after leaping out of the trenches, the French infantry occupied the German positions on a front of more than two-thirds of a mile, advancing forward more than a mile and a third in an hour.

Despite this terrific artillery fire, the positions were so dotted with machine guns that there was brisk fighting. The French settled down during the night. At dawn, just as the brilliant sun crept over the horizon glistening on the snow, the French dashed forward. The Germans, blinded by the glare of the sun, and dazed with cold, were unable to use their machine guns before the French were upon them.

A Russian brigade which took the oath of allegiance to the new provisional government shortly before going to action, distinguished itself in one attack of the offensive to-day.

A Big Boom is Coming

PROSPERITY AFTER THE WAR.

It is predicted by many people that, when the war is over, there will be great distress throughout the land; but we may regard this view as utterly misleading.

"All the men and women now engaged on war work will be discharged, and, in addition, there will be millions of men coming back and looking for employment—it will be terrible," say the croakers; while the fact is we have every reason to expect that after the war we shall enter an era of prosperity such as we have never known before.

This may sound too good to be true, but the lessons of the past all show that a nation emerging successfully from a great war at once proceeds to enjoy a huge trade boom, and to grow wealthier than ever.

In 1815, for instance, when, with the battle of Waterloo, England ended the great French war that had lasted twenty years, she was faced with what was then an unprecedented National Debt, and did not receive a penny indemnity.

The Fighters Turned Farmers. Prices had risen fearfully during the long struggle; suffering was great among the poorer classes of the population. Yet no sooner was the war over than mills and factories began to spring up on every hand, trade advanced with magic strides, the great banks began to be founded, and it was then we began that industrial supremacy which we have maintained ever since.

In 1865, when America finished up her Civil War, which, being fought at home left a great part of the country devastated, and her commerce entirely dislocated, it looked as though trouble was in store for the States, but the South had hardly surrendered before the fighters turned farmers with double energy.

Every kind of factory was started, immigrants poured in, daring spirits set out to open up the West, boom cities sprang up like mushrooms during the night, and America's commerce and wealth grew till it reads now like a fairy tale.

For an instance from the East, in 1904 Japan made an honorable peace with Russia after a war for which she had prepared for ten years. To cope with so strong an adversary Japan became a nation in arms; all classes made large sacrifices for victory; the losses in men and cost in money were extraordinary, and as she got no indemnity to help her, nothing but distress seemed ahead.

The Inspiration of Victory.

But with the close of war she at once set to work to copy Western methods in trade, as she has copied them in naval and military affairs. Instead of turning out only Oriental stuff she competed against the West in manufactures, and soon she was a great exporting country. To-day she is able to supply the Allies with arms and munitions of war.

For a last instance, Italy, in 1861, ended a string of wars with Austria and gained independence and unity under one king. Poor before and during the struggles, she was penniless after them, but under the inspiration of newly won victory work of all kinds was undertaken and an enormous trade expansion resulted. Agriculture and urban industry both grew apace, and from a country that the Great Powers ignored she became one of the strongest in Europe.—Pearson's Weekly.

Drinking Tea Upset Nerves

Mr. Burroughes Compares Canadian Customs With Those in Old Land, and Tells How Nerves Were Set Right.

Orillia, Ont., May 1st.—"How to be well and strong"—is the question many are asking at this time of year, and in this letter you will find the answer.

It tells something of the blood-forming, nerve-invigorating influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, a restorative which is causing so much talk here just now.

Nature's way of curing disease is by building up the vitality of the body, and this is exactly what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does. The blood is made rich and red, and it nourishes the exhausted nerves back to health and vigor.

The experience of Mr. Burroughes as described in this letter is similar to that of hundreds of others in this community who have recently put this well-known food cure to the test.

Mr. George Burroughes, 23 Peter street, Orillia, Ont., writes: "A few years ago, after coming out to this country from England, the change of customs seemed to have some effect on me. In the old country the habit of drinking strong tea was prevalent, and after arriving here I suffered very much from nervousness. If I put my arm down on the table it would shake very noticeably, and while performing my work I would easily tire, and want to sit down and rest. A friend recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I secured some and took a treatment. It built me up and made me strong and healthy. I have not had a trace of the nervousness since. I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment also, and that it heals the skin very quickly. In fact I find all of Dr. Chase's medicines good."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Your Boys and Girls.

A practical way to encourage a child in the composition of "thank you" notes is to talk, beforehand, about what he wants to say to this or that person. Childish phraseology is an elusive thing, more often caught on the lips than the finger tips, and talking a note over in advance makes the actual writing of it a comparatively easy matter.

The possession of a little writing desk, with attractive furnishings, and a low, comfortable chair, is a healthy incentive to letter writing and will work wonders toward interesting the average child.

A box of miniature correspondence cards, decorated with nursery designs, is a help for the child who seems discouraged at the sight of even a small sheet of letter paper. It takes such a few words to appear to good advantage on such a card that several "thank you" notes can be disposed of without unduly tiring the juvenile correspondent.

Household Notes.

If there is chicken gravy left from the stewed chicken bowl soup beans, put them through the wire sieve and add them to the chicken gravy. This makes a delicious soup.

All the window curtains should be taken down and allowed to blow in the wind for an hour or two about once a month. If this is followed they will not require laundering so often.

There are so many meat dishes that can be made from the cheaper cuts of meat minced fine and flavored and combined with other ingredients that there is little excuse for buying the high-priced cuts.

Lest They Forget the Fire Department.

We have it on indisputable authority that when the Legislature opens next month the vote for the Fire Department will be increased, but to what extent remains to be decided. However, it is considered not amiss to keep those concerned—that is the powers that be—posted on the fact that our brave fire-fighters are still in receipt of the same paltry stipend as they were receiving when promised the raise of pay by the Government last year. Coupled with the extra pay, it is also understood, will be a Resolution expressing the contrition of the Government for not fulfilling the promise made to the Firemen when the House was last in session. We hear that the amount voted by the Government in addition to the quota to be contributed by the City Council will increase the Firemen's wages $10 per month. After all, it is better late than never.

Lieutenant Victor Gordon Wounded.

We regret to state that Lieutenant Victor Gordon, serving with the King's Own Scottish Borderers, was severely wounded on April 23rd. His sister, Mrs. T. A. MacNab, received a notification to that effect a couple of days ago, but we are glad to report that Mr. Harry Carter has since had a wire from Mr. Benson, of the Bank of Montreal in London, to the effect that Lieutenant Gordon has written to him and seems to be doing well. He is in the hospital at Gamlers (Etaples) to which Major Harry Shees is attached. He was wounded in both hips by a rifle bullet. His many friends here will hope for his speedy recovery.

Our Food Situation.

Dear Sir,—With your permission, and being drawn on by recent actions of our beloved food distributors, I fear would wield my feeble pen in defence of right and justice and of our working men.

To-day, sir, Newfoundland is pouring out her very heart's blood on the fields of the continent. Her gallant lads are sinking to rise no more until the sea gives up its dead; they are dying so that at home loved ones may enjoy the principles for which the Union Jack so nobly stands. And yet sitting at home in a high and prominent seat there is an enemy who by dint of extra charges and very little more wage for the employees is helping the Hun to sap the people of the very joy of life.

Instead of the co-operation of rank and file throughout this our Island Home there is the constant grind of the wheel of autocracy, depriving the man who earns the money the right of its proper use, its excuse being because of the present conflict between the nations of the earth. Fellow countrymen the war no doubt has caused provisions to advance, but we would look to the authorities in whom we place our confidence, for a thorough investigation into the matters concerned. We, as laborers, are looking with longing and expectant gaze for a favourable reply and we'll only bear until we're nipped.

Many a child to-day is scarcely able to enjoy good bread and butter, whose father and bread-winner is panting for breath to stay the cruel hand of the merciless oppressor and thereby to defend the man who at home is gnawing the flesh off his bones. As the ordinary class of men it is up to us to defend our Country, to keep the ships plowing the seas. Surely, then, it is our place to defend the oppressed. Why not marshal our forces, appeal to the Governor in State that at least an explanation may be given if not a charge that will mean the Unity of the Brotherhood of Man, kind and bring the Kingdom of our Blessed Lord down about the habitation of men.

The Scotsman.—Public opinion is not going to be sidetracked on the Irish question. If they have any prudence, the Nationalist party will not provoke feeling in this country by an inopportune, and, for the moment, barren controversy. They desire a settlement—let them work for it in Ireland, and when they have reached agreement with their fellow countrymen they may appear in Parliament with the assurance that their policy will be accepted. But a necessary preliminary in that they should desist from the tergiversation and is the knowledge that from the buying standpoint Ladies' Ready-to-wear Goods, in most cases, show much better values than purchases of the materials to be made up. It was not always so, but this is how the matter stands to-day.

Prices have been continually rising, with ever increasing prices of raw wool, and more lately tremendous advances in the prices of raw cotton.

are always booked up with the manufacturers at least six months ahead of the season, to catalogues and samples of goods which these manufacturers have made up and priced on materials generally booked up about six months ahead of them.

The retailer of Piece Goods would not be booking for his requirements as far ahead as a clothier, and as lately piece goods have had very large advances, it stands to reason that the later bookings of piece goods show poorer values than the made up goods. We have realized this in our buying. Our buying has been made a long way ahead, and we are giving our customers all the benefits of money saved by advanced buying. What Our Boys Did at Monchy.

LONDON, To-day. (Through Reuters' Ottawa Agency.)—Sir Edward Morris, Premier of Newfoundland, informs Reuters that he has received from the Right Hon. Walter Long, Colonial Secretary, a despatch in which General Allenby makes special reference to the gallantry of the Newfoundlanders in the recent fighting in France. The General says, "The Newfoundlanders did gallant work, repelling very heavy counter attacks by the Germans. Their casualties were high, but they showed splendid staunchness and fought like heroes. The Divisional Commander reports that the Germans were advancing and the eastern defences appeared weak, whereupon the Commanding Officer and the remainder of the Headquarters gunners signalled, and proceeding as rapidly as possible to the southeastern corner of the town the Commanding Officer climbing a ladder saw the Germans jumping into our starting trenches. His small party then ran across to a garden fence, losing some men as they crossed, but getting cover in a sort of ditch. From there they were able to fire all day at close range, getting the trench nearly in enfilade, and accounted for a large number of Germans. I have personally recommended the good work of this battalion and of the Commanding Officer, his headquarters staff in particular. By his promptness and personal bravery he avoided what might have been a very serious situation."

HAIG PRAISES NEWFOUNDLANDERS.

LONDON, To-day. Commenting on General Haig's latest attack on the western front the Times expresses gratification that the General Haig's report mention is made of certain units, particularly of the gallant conduct of the men from Newfoundland. "There is a small community very remote from the world," says the Times, "but the Island's fighting men in the British army have blazoned its name upon the imperishable records of the Empire."

GENEROUS LOAN FROM U. S. TO ALLIES.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Additional loans will be made to France and Italy totalling between $300 million and $500 million. The United States will soon make a loan to Belgium the amount of which is not yet to be determined. Unofficial estimates of the size of the Belgian loan place it approximately at $150 million. Indications are that the French and Italian loans will be made within the present week, the Belgian loan probably not to be made until a somewhat later date.

GREAT PROGRESS AT WASHINGTON.

Arthur J. Balfour dined informally with President Wilson at the White House to-night, and afterwards the two statesmen had the first intimate talk since they met a week ago. In that week Balfour has announced that there is no thought on the part of the Allies of asking the United States to enter into a formal alliance for war against Germany. A loan of $200 million had been made to England. The French Commission have arrived. The War Army draft bills have passed both houses of Congress. Informal conferences have established an agreement of principles between Britain, France and the States on military, naval, economic and financial matters. The three Governments have come to know each other both as to strength and weakness, and the lines have been laid down for the most effective co-operation possible toward the defeat of German autocracy. These things are understood to have been revised by the President and Balfour with the idea of taking stock and seeing particularly where Britain's experience could further be of value to the U. S. To-night's meeting marked the half way point in negotiations with the British War Commission. It came at the conclusion of eight days of investigation and statements and at the beginning of formal conferences to work out definite understandings. As a result

The world has need for your fine, red blood, Rushing to waste in a very flood, Lost for a single ruler's gain! Lost for a sinful cause and vain!

Whiskey and War.

Whiskey is one of the articles which mankind can very well do without, whether there is war or peace, plenty or scarcity. It is not a food, but its manufacture requires large quantities of grain which at this time can be used to much better advantage in the manufacture of bread than in the production of intoxicating beverages. This fact is recognized by the distillers themselves, who proposed to the Senate Agricultural Committee a voluntary restriction of the manufacture of liquor to the extent of diverting 15,000,000 bushels of grain a year from the distilleries to the bakeries, as well as permitting the use of 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 gallons of molasses and other materials in food channels instead of in the manufacture of alcohol. The experience of Russia with vodka, and England with beer and spirits, has warned the liquor manufacturers of the United States that war and whiskey do not mix well, and they hasten, therefore, to offer concessions before Congress decides to proceed with restrictions still more far reaching. The spokesmen for the liquor interests were willing for the imposition of a heavy tax in order to produce the result set forth and to forestall a prohibitive law which is quite possible. They used their old arguments that the suppression of the liquor trade would throw thousands of persons out of work, while bad results would follow any severe restrictions on the manufacture of alcohol. The labor problem need not enter very seriously into the case. There is plenty of work—and much better work—available for persons who might be forced out of the manufacture of intoxicating drinks. What Congress will do in the matter is problematical at present, but every citizen can form a committee of one to see that he consumes no whiskey or beer while the war lasts, without waiting for governmental action. A cessation of the demand, if that cessation be at all widespread, will be followed by a smaller production.—From Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

When the pimples come to a "head," instead of squeezing out the contents, sterilize a needle by holding in a flame until red hot. Winter Fishery

BIG SHORE VOYAGE.
 Vessels did well the past winter on the western banking grounds and the shore fishermen, especially at Rose Blanche, had a phenomenally successful voyage. Virtually all the fish taken were disposed of green, and shortly after being landed to American and Canadian agents, who were on the coast all the season. In consequence of the keen competition amongst the buyers the fish fetched fancy prices. There was not as much oil manufactured this year at Rose Blanche as heretofore.

Citizens' Committee

Chairman Mr. Soper presided at last night's meeting of the Citizens' Committee. The section dealing with the Pensions for employees were passed with slight amendments. Section 335 which reads:—"No official or employee who is dismissed by the Council for misconduct shall be entitled to receive any payment from the Pensions Fund" was amended to read that any person dismissed for a criminal offence would be given back the money he contributed towards the fund without interest; dismissed for other causes before the end of two years, no interest will be allowed. Any person voluntarily leaving the service after two years would receive his money back with interest at 3 per cent. The system of paying bonuses to employees came up for discussion and the opinion of the Committee was that the practice should be discontinued.

The consideration of the Secretary's report on the new Municipal Bill was the next order of business. The report, though not yet finally decided upon, contains much of interest to the citizens of St. John's, and when completed will be a document worthy of the Citizens' Committee. Half the report was gone through last night and with but few exceptions was passed as written. When completed the Telegram will publish the same in the interest of the citizens of St. John's. The next night of meeting will be Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Another "Chimney" Alarm.

At 8.35 p.m. yesterday the Central and East End Fire Companies were summoned to the residence of Mr. Joseph Pippy, Freshwater Rd., where the burning of soot caused some sparks to fly from the chimney. On reaching the scene they found their services were not required. A few sparks from a chimney are not sufficient to call out the fire companies when the application of a bucket of water will quench the fire.

It was really marvellous how soon the healing powers of this balm became apparent. Trinity College London

From Musical Opinion, April 1st, 1917. Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir,—I think that the cutting from "Musical Opinion" (London) which I am sending you enclosed would prove of interest to many of your readers, should you be able to find room for it. I enclose my card, and remain, sir, Yours faithfully,

ORGANIST.
 St. John's, April 30th, 1917.

The petition for a Charter of Incorporation presented by Trinity College of Music was heard before a Court of Privy Council, the Marquess of Crewe presiding, on March 14th. The petition was opposed by the Royal Academy of Music, the Royal College of Music, the City Corporation (on behalf of the Guildhall School of Music) and the Incorporated Society of Musicians. Counsel for Trinity College of Music repudiated imputations that the College was a commercial undertaking. The College founded its application for a Royal Charter on its historical record, its character, the educational value and extent of its work, its sound financial position and its ability, the charter being granted, to establish a School of Music of the University of London and also a general standard of education for teachers of music and an effective register of teachers. The Guildhall School of Music, in opposing the application, alleged that diplomas of Trinity College of Music were no true index to the value of the musical training received, and that it was essential the music should as far as possible be excluded from the sphere of commercial speculation. The Royal College of Music stated that the institution now conducted by Trinity College had had a chequered career. In support they brought forward Sir Edward Clarke's pamphlet published in 1880, in which Trinity College was described as a joint-stock trading company, doing a considerable business in the manufacture and dissemination of certain titles. The Royal Academy of Music stated that the business of Trinity College was for examination, not education. Counsel for Trinity College of Music protested against the allegations made against the character of the examinations. The petitioners considered that Trinity College should now have the same standing and charter as the Royal Academy and Royal College, with a view to co-operating with these bodies in the standardisation of music teachers. The Court eventually adjourned for a fortnight.

Shortage of Fishermen

Never before was it as difficult as it is now to get fishing crews, owing mostly to enlistments in the various forces. Planters from different parts of the country are offering the highest wages on record to secure trawpers, but without success. The consequence is that the codfishery will be prosecuted this summer very much short-handed and this condition applies all over the Island, including the Labrador.

Ireland Divided Against Himself

Glasgow Herald: Irish Nationalists and their friends took advantage of the passing of a resolution of sympathy with the new Russian Democracy to allege once more a want of consistency in congratulating foreigners—even though they happen to be valued Allies—on the attainment of their aspirations after freedom, while still refusing to recognize the legitimate aspirations of the majority in Ireland. There is, however, no parallel between a country which has required to emancipate itself by violent methods from an age-long despotism with a country which can enjoy the largest possible measures of liberty to-morrow if it will tell a bewildered Government and democracy how its aims are to be achieved. Ireland is a house divided against itself, and if that division persists neither the British nor any other conceivable Government, nor any external authority to which it may experimentally delegate powers of pacification can succeed in allaying unrest by conciliatory pledges and promises and producing concord and harmony. Nevertheless the Government, in spite of the risks of failure and a consequent aggravation of the situation, have decided on their own responsibility to make another attempt. Ulstermen, it pointed out, are not adamant, and arrangements with Ulster would be facilitated if the Nationalists would publicly avow that they were prepared to act. Thus the Nationalist party holds the future of Ireland in its hands to make or to mar.
