BEWARE OF DECEPTION

Statistics show that when egg albumen is used as a constituent of baking powder, the amount so used is too small (usually 15/100 of 1%) to affect the quality or effectiveness of the baking powder containing it, and when so used, is plainly for the purpose of fraud. Intelligent buyers will not permit themselves to be deceived by the water glass test.

CHAPTER LXV.
THE UNMASKING.

"No," he said, "I can not feel that it is mine yet, and I will break no bread in it until I do. I will go to the inn directly—now," he added, wearily, and with a certain tone of disappointment.

The lawyer rose; he was still mystified and puzzled.

"It would be better, if you have so determined. Perhaps, though, you would rather wait—"

"For my appointment?" concluded Hugh. "No, I have given up hoping; the hour is too late."

Mr. Reeves took up his hat and Sir Charles did the same.

They all seemed acting and speaking in dream-land, and scarce knew what they were about.

Hugh lifted his cap from the floor and put his arm within Sir Charles's with a touch of his old, frank manner.

"We shall be friends, Sir Charles," he said. "I have to thank you yet in words; I have done so already in heart. Come, we will go to the inn."

For Sir Charles had declared his intention of accompanying Hugh.

The steward, sleepy-eyed and bewildered, opened the hall door and the three passed out.

Before they had reached the gate, however, a horseman shouted to them to stand aside, and pulling up his steed

Lucille was a woman, and with all her present sternness of determination and bulwark of pride, a gentle one at heart.

She sat in her own boudoir, trembling and almost weeping, her trunk packed and lying beside her in a recess.

The hour was approaching when Reginald Dartmouth would come for her; there wanted but a day—one day only—tomorrow would be the last of her freedom; before its sun had set she would be another's—no longer her own mistress, no longer free to indulge her old dreamy disposition, no longer able to fly to solitude as a solace and consolation.

No! Tomorrow was the last day of her liberty.

She sighed, but it was rather the sigh of desperation than sadness.

Now that it was so near she dreaded the step she was forced to take, forced by her uncle's treachery; on his head be the sin, the blame, and the consequences.

To-night, the last night beneath the count's roof and protection, she shrank from retiring to rest; a dim presentiment of coming ill kept her eyelids achingly awake, her heart throbbingly restless.

Her maid—one she could trust—sat sewing in an adjoining room.

The count was out, attending a meeting of the secret society.

She was to have been with him, but she feared to leave the house lest Reginald Dartmouth should have some last message or direction and she be not there to receive it.

Sitting alone, and filled with morbid apprehension, she almost wished she had accompanied the count, and with a sudden impulse rose to order her carriage, intending to follow him, but as her hand touched the jeweled bell a slight tap at the door stopped her, and she sank into the chair again, saying:

"Come in."

Madam Campani entered, serene and placid as usual.

"Your ladyship not at rest yet?" she said, with surprise. "I understood that you intended retiring early?"

"Did I say so?" said Lucille, with a weary but kind smile. "Well, it was but to get rid of thee, madam. What now?"

on its haunches, leaped to the ground.

"Well, what now?" exclaimed Mr. Reeves, with almost angry despair. "What has happened, man?"

"Nothing as I know on," jerked out the man. "The mistress has sent me to bid Mr. Hugh come to the Warren at once."

Hugh started.

And still holding Sir Charles's arm and entreating Mr. Reeves to hurry, he strode off at a pace which would not have disgraced a professional pedestrian.

CHAPTER LXVI.
"TRAITOR, AS WELL AS FRIEND!"

Sweet is revenge—especially to women.—Byron.

Thus the whirligig of Time brings in his revenges.—SHAKESPEARE.

Leaving Hugh Darrell hurrying to obey Rebecca's summons, and Reginald Dartmouth unmasked and plainly revealed in all his naked villainy, we will now transport the reader to the Countess Vitzarelli.

"More terrible than all things terrible is a woman scorned," says a poet. He might, had he known the beautiful and stately Lucille, have put "betrayed" in place of "scorned," and been as truthful.

She fancied herself betrayed and by the person in whom she had placed the fullest confidence—by her uncle, the white-haired Italian count.

No doubt of the truth of Reginald's statement, backed as it was by the forged dispatch and draft, ever entered her mind.

Infamous and improbable as it seemed, she felt assured that the count had sold her to her enemies, and had betrayed her as a sacrifice and ratification of this dishonorable treaty, and with that assurance burning like vitriol in her proud bosom she was resolved to foil and punish him to the uttermost.

She would foil and punish him, though the means might be hard and unpalatable to herself. She did not shrink a hair's-breadth, but the instant the count communicated to her his intention of returning to Rome she informed Reginald Dartmouth that she was ready to fulfil her promise and follow out his directions.

What they were we know already. She was to hold herself in perfect readiness to accompany him at a moment's notice; first, to a priest; secondly, to some foreign port, where they could wait and life over the breaking of the storm.

Reginald Dartmouth was all prepared, had leisure even on his hands, when the fatal discovery of the will was made and Mr. Reeves's summons reached him.

Now, striving by threats and bribes, alternated each hour. He was dashed back to London to keep his appointment with the woman for whom he had conceived a passion—we will not say loved—and fly the country whose justice would demand the squire's life and wealth at his hands.

Madam Campani hesitated.

"Had I guessed you had not retired I would not have knocked," she said.

"A man, a servant of Captain Dartmouth's, is waiting in the lobby. He is anxious to see you. He is the bearer of some message to your ladyship, I imagine, though he will not communicate its purport or say aught but that an interview is imperative."

The countess, with an impatient "Tut, tut!" at her chaperon's precise and formal tone, said, almost eagerly:

"From Captain Dartmouth, madam? I will see him."

"But," ventured the ceremonious old lady, "the hour is late."

"But me no buts, my good madam," interrupted Lucille with the air of an empress. "I will see him."

Madam Campani withdrew, and after the lapse of a few minutes the door opened again and admitted a thin, cadaverous figure, with a white face and a pair of snail-like eyes.

Lucille raised her eyebrows with an air of displeased astonishment.

"I understood," she said, with cold haughtiness, "that Captain Dartmouth's servant wished to see me. You—"

"Was Captain Dartmouth's servant," interrupted Mr. Vignes, with a gesture of profound humility and respect.

"What is your business with me at this unreasonable hour?" asked Lucille, as if scorning to bandy words with him.

"Most important business, my lady," replied the man, in his sleek whisper—"most important, or I would not have dared to ask for an interview."

Lucille inclined her head impatiently and sank upon a stool.

"I will hear it, sir," she said; "that is, if you are brief, and the matter concerns me."

"It concerns your ladyship most nearly," replied Vignes, watching her from under his half-closed eyes as a cat does a mouse—"most nearly, or this notice is meaningless."

And he held up one of the bills, which had been printed, offering a reward for the recovery of the locket.

"Ah!" exclaimed the countess, her whole manner changing in an instant. "You have found my locket?"

"I have, my lady," he whispered, behind his hand.

"Give it to me," she cried, with a profound sigh. "You shall have more than the stipulated sum if it is unrecovered."

"It is unrecovered," he replied, with a glint of hidden sarcasm in his viperish eyes.

And taking a small packet from his pocket he held it out with a profound bow.

The countess almost snatched it and, removing the wrapper, clasped the trinket to her breast.

"Where—where did you find it?" she asked, her face flushed with delight.

"On the terrace of the new Hall, my lady," he replied.

And a certain expression of his small eyes told her that he had been an unseen listener to her confession.

"On—the terrace?" she repeated, slowly, growing paler at every word; "then, sir, you heard—"

"All, my lady," interrupted the man, with quiet composure.

The countess sprang to her feet, but sank down again, her eyes bent upon the floor, her lips writhing with mortification.

"I heard all, my lady, and so I doubt not did another—for there were two unseen spies that night—myself and Captain Dartmouth's other servant"—it would be impossible to describe the venomous tone with which he whispered the ignominious words—"the other servant, John Stanfield."

"Two?" breathed the countess, with a look of alarm.

"Ay, two, my lady," replied Vignes. "He not only listened but played the thief. He it was who first picked up or purloined the locket. I found it where, in his hurry to escape, he let it fall, at the bottom of the steps."

The countess remained silent, but her flashing eyes and tightly-closed lips told of the storm within.

"Well, sir," she said, "you are vile enough to confess, unblushingly, your infamy; what other purpose save that of claiming the reward—which is here on the table before you—have you still in waiting?"

May Break Entente.

France Takes Step Opposed by Britain--Sinister Influences at Work--Ulster Submits Proposition to Lloyd George--Ponzi, To Get Rich-Quick Speculator Surrenders To Police.

ENTENTE STRAINED.
LONDON, Aug. 12. Great Britain has been officially notified that France has recognized General Wrangel as the de facto government of Southern Russia, and the French and British Governments are discussing the question. The evening newspapers characterize the French action as a menace to Entente relations. Owing to the situation King George has postponed his anticipated trip to Scotland to-morrow.

CAUSES SENSATION.
LONDON, Aug. 12. Announcement of recognition by France of Government of General Wrangel as de facto Government in Southern Russia has stirred up a big sensation in press. Pending unravelling of the mystery caused by various contradictory statements in connection with the announcement, including Premier Lloyd George's denial of knowledge concerning it, most of the morning newspapers comment guardedly upon the event although they do not conceal their disapproval of the step.

AMERICA'S PART.
TORONTO, Aug. 12. "We had planned to go through the war without the U.S. and could have done so," declared Ronald Donald before the Empire Club yesterday. America had at the time of the armistice in France a strength of 322,000 although two million were overseas, most of them brought in British ships. These were not in any fighting force but would have been in three months, and it was their presence that was the determining factor bringing about the armistice.

THE ARMISTICE TERMS.
MOSCOW, Aug. 12. That the armistice terms drawn up for Poland by Soviet Russians include a clause demanding that workers be armed as a guarantee to rights of Polish proletariat was indicated in semi-official information gained here to-day. It was said that while Russia acknowledges such is unprecedented in history the Soviets considered action necessary for safety of Russia and at the same time to provide militia for national defence and which it would be impossible to use for imperialistic ends. General impression semi-officially expressed here is that Poland will accept armistice terms preferred her by the Soviet Government.

OFF TO MEET RUSSIANS.
PARIS, Aug. 12. Polish Armistice and Peace Delegates left Warsaw Wednesday to meet Russian Delegates according to a despatch to the Temps from Warsaw to-day.

BREAKING FROM CARSON.
LONDON, Aug. 12. A despatch to the Evening News from Dublin reports a significant split in the ranks of followers of Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Irish Unionist Party. It states that a strong reputation of Ulstermen has gone to London to see Lloyd George and inform him that a large proportion of their following is prepared to sink their old prejudices and advocate an immediate offer to Ireland of Dominion Home Rule subject to Ireland remaining in the Empire. The message adds these men are willing to pledge themselves and their supporters to work for a United Ireland with one parliament.

VENIZELOS LIFE THREATENED.
PARIS, Aug. 12. Premier Venizelos of Greece was attacked and wounded to-day as he was leaving Lyons railroad station for Nice. As the Premier stepped into the train two men fired revolvers at him and he was wounded slightly. His assailants were arrested. Premier Venizelos was taking leave of friends when two swarthy individuals rushed from the crowd one firing three shots and the other five before they were overpowered. The Premier was reported wounded in the right side and left arm. His assailants following their arrest were rescued by police from crowds with great difficulty the mob shouting lynch them. Both of them were severely man-handled.

WILL REMAIN UNITED.
NOYON, France, Aug. 12. Premier Millerand, in the course of a reception at the City Hall here to-day on his trip through liberated regions after declaring that France places no consideration above that of national reconstruction, continued that the Allies are united and will remain so. There are unavoidable differences due to different characters of nations, but their bond of unity was forged amidst severe trials and union firmly formed. Such conditions must not be dissolved.

POLES LAUNCH COUNTER OFFENSIVE.
WARSAW, Aug. 12. The Poles have launched counter offensive with bayonets in region of Pulitusk where Russians have been striving to break Polish defensive lines. Pulitusk is thirty miles north of Warsaw.

SOVIETS AT WARSAW.
LONDON, Aug. 12. Russian cavalry have reached Braga, a suburb of Warsaw, according to a wireless despatch received here from Berlin to-day.

CONSIDERING DIFFERENCES.
PARIS, Aug. 12. Great Britain has communicated officially with France with regard to differences between the two Governments it develops from a statement made by a semi-official Havas Agency to-day. Both Governments are examining in most friendly spirit divergencies in views which have occurred between them but which will not prevent them from continuing their friendly collaboration it says.

PEACE MISSION RETURNING.
WARSAW, Aug. 12. The Polish Peace Mission is said to be on its way back to Warsaw. Reports received here indicate that the dele-

A. O. HUNTER, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who says Tanlac has certainly proven its worth in both his own and his wife's case. He wasn't able to work when he began taking it.

"Last fall I had the 'Flu' and it left me in a very weak and run down condition with no appetite at all and such a weak stomach that even the smell of cooking made me sick. I was awfully nervous and night after night I couldn't sleep to do any good. I would get up in the mornings tired and worn out and was so short of breath that a half hour's job would tire me as much as a whole day's work used to. In fact I finally had to give up a good job.

"When I first started on Tanlac I was working for the Goodyear Rubber Co. in Akron, Ohio. I decided that anything that was being talked about so much was at least worth an honest trial. It worked like a charm in my case. It helped me right from the start and by the time I had taken my third bottle all of my troubles were gone and I found myself well and strong again.

"While in Akron my wife got so she couldn't eat. She lost weight and got very pale. Tanlac was doing me so much good I got her to try it and after taking two bottles, she is looking fine again. Her appetite is just splendid and she looks like a different person. It certainly has proven its worth to both of us and has come up to every word I have read and heard about it."

The above statement was made by A. O. Hunter, 106 W. 7th St., Cincinnati, Ohio, a well-known mechanic now in the employ of the Cincinnati Abator Co.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Baine Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fermeuse; Mrs. Joe Quinn, Renews--adv.

Work Up Local Coal.
Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—Being a consumer of gas both in my shop and home, I read with dismay an item published in your valued paper yesterday, headed, "Shortage of Coal Affects Gas Company." I understand that this Co. has been affected by similar conditions for the past three years, but, has managed to carry on. This coal shortage is not confined to our local Gas Company. The Toronto Gas Co. recently warned its customers that a "Gas Famine" was probable in Toronto. Hamilton, Ont., had two weeks supply, and nothing in sight. Throughout the U.S.A. Gas Companies and other Public Utilities were simply howling for more fuel.

I note that the Newfoundland Government has promised the Gas Company preference as to a supply of coal from St. George's Coal Fields. It would appear that the Government has taken over this coal property. That a branch line of Railway from Carville to the mines is to be constructed as quickly as possible. That, according to Mr. Dowling (Canadian Expert) there is a large lot of good coal available at St. George's. It would appear that the Gas Company is assured of lots of good coal sometime this fall, from St. George's, and, it seems to me that, in the circumstances, it would be strange policy on the part of the Shareholders and Directors of the Gas Company to permit even a temporary "shut-down" with such a good prospect in view.

I understand that since February the gas supply has been kept going by the use of the Company's oil gas plant, using hard coal and oil in place of gas coal. Surely the management can do in the fall what was done in the spring?
It would be of interest to enquire what margin of water supply is now available for the Reid Co's Electric Service. Picture, Mr. Editor, what would happen if a double Shut-Down of Gas and Electricity took place in St. John's.
It is up to the Government to take steps for the mining of coal at St. George's at the earliest possible time, not only because of the Gas Co's shortage, but for the benefit of the Country generally.

Yours truly,
GAS CONSUMER.

Recent negotiations between George Bernard Shaw and certain American moving picture concerns call to mind the sentimental parting between Maurice Maeterlinck and a film producer. "Well, good-by," said the latter affectionately patting the great Belgian poet on the shoulder. "Remember, I am expecting great things of you." We should like to be a tiny mouse in a well protected corner when some one says just that to G.B.S.

Irving T. DIAMOND DUST
 Nothing But the Truth—Without Fear or Favour.

LAST NIGHT'S GAME.

Another new star has appeared on the firmament, or rather on the slab, in the person of Tommy Manning, who last night blossomed forth as a twirler for the Cubs. He was successful in holding down the C.E.L. by 12 to 6, and the redoubtable Claude was plugging short in a manner that evoked admiration. The great Harvey himself was the one that started the fireworks with an atrocious throw to third. The best hit for the evening was Max Churchill's two bagger in the third which brought two men in. Harry Carter pitched well for three innings for the Institute, but got no support. Mr. Fred V. Chesman umpired the game satisfactorily as usual. Owing to rain it was called in the last half of the sixth. One very neat double play was pulled off—Alderice to Max Churchill to Thomas. Manning had 5 strikeouts, Carter 3, and Churchill 1. Demon Duggan also had a two bagger to his credit.

Nothing is being left to chance in the forthcoming games. Already Tim Hartnett and Laird Orr have been appointed coaches—the former on first and the latter on third—and they will conduct the operations through the entire series.

Word was received this morning from Manager Nathanson in reply to one from Manager Orr, stating that he was bringing absolutely the strongest amateur nine in the Sydney. They are known as the SYDNEY MILLONAIRES, and will produce the best brand of ball that can be handed out.

Their players are Buchanan, Norman MacLean, Sugg, Big Alick McDonald, White, Bartlett, Hindman, Bates, Purcell, the two McInnesses, Bert, MacLean.

All these boys are known to many Newfoundlanders, and will no doubt receive the hospitable welcome for which Newfoundland is so famous. Elaborate plans for their entertainment are being made by the Leagues here and at Grand Falls.

Have you booked your tickets yet?

There will be a full practice for the City team to-night at 7 o'clock in the Shamrock grounds, and players are requested to be in full uniform so that strenuous work-out may be had.

The following players were added to the ALL STARS on Wednesday evening but reached us too late yesterday for publication—Max Churchill, Tom Duggan, Tom Manning and Laird Orr.

It is very seldom the fans get anything free, but there will be no gatekeepers looking for your dime tomorrow night when the final contest will be held at St. George's Field between the picked teams. All are welcome and everything's free when Manager J. E. Orr will pick out his pets. A 7 innings game will be played, commencing promptly at 7 o'clock.

"ALL STAR" ORDERS.
 The following are the two teams of ALL STAR players that are to play against each other at St. George's Field to-morrow evening:—

Left Field.	Phelan
Ellis	A. Clouston
Messrs. Chesman and Grace	Umpires.

Teams to be on the field at 7 p.m. sharp ready for umpire to call Play Ball. All players must be in full uniform.
 This is the last practice for the Sydney games and every man that can possibly be there should be in the lineup.

To-day's Messages.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS OUT.
 LONDON, Aug. 12.
 A significant reference to the present crisis was made by Premier Lloyd George in addressing a meeting of Coalition Liberals to-day. After expressing a fervent hope for co-operation between Great Britain and France, which, he said, was by common sacrifice, the Premier continued, apparently alluding to the possibility of war with Russia: "When the terrible question of peace or war has to be decided, our first duty as a Government is to the people who trust us not to commit their treasure to any unjustifiable venture. Nothing but the most imperative call of national honor, national safety and national freedom can justify war. Before this country is committed to it even in a most limited measure, we must be satisfied that these are in peril."

LORD MAYOR ARRESTED.
 CORK, Aug. 12.
 The Lord Mayor of Cork and ten of his associates were arrested by soldiers to-day, while attending a session of the Sinn Fein Court in the City Hall. They were taken to the military barracks.

DROP IN SUGAR.
 WINNIPEG, Aug. 13.
 The price of sugar in retail stores dropped one cent yesterday, and a further decline is expected next week. The decline of one dollar and twenty-five cents a hundred weight in the wholesale price is said to be caused by a competitive battle between the refineries of British Columbia and Eastern Canada.

FRENCH OFFICIAL OPINION.
 PARIS, Aug. 13.
 "Too much importance is being given by the British and French press to the divergence in views between the British and French Governments on the Wrangle incident," was the statement made to the Associated Press at the Foreign Office, yesterday.

COUNTY COUNCILS ARE REPUBLICAN.
 LONDON, Aug. 13.
 Irish County Councils, and the General Council, representing twenty-nine of the thirty-three newly elected Irish County Councils, met here yesterday and declared their allegiance to "the Irish Republic."

Foreigner's Horrible End

Stephen Roreback, a foreigner, met a horrible death at the open hearth of the steel plant on Sunday night when he was burned and crushed by a red hot ingot which fell on him from one of the ingot trucks. Roreback was employed at the open hearth and was passing by the ingots when one toppled over and he was caught underneath. An inquest will be held by Coroner J. C. Townsend at 2 o'clock this afternoon.—Sydney Recorder, Aug. 9.

Note of Sympathy.

We regret to chronicle the death of Moira McGirr, infant daughter of W. J. and Mrs. Higgins, which took place this morning. To the grief stricken parents we extend the sympathies evoked by the early passing of youth. "Those whom God loves die young."

BEAVER BOARD

Beaver Board is real board, real lumber, free from knots, is sanitary, draught proof, vermin proof and labor saving.

Beaver Board, unlike lath and plaster, will not crack and is not messy, it's a guaranteed product warranted to give satisfaction.

Beaver Board is particularly adapted to "Housing Plans", costs can be figured with exactitude.

The Corona Co. of New York built two model houses, using plaster in one and Beaver Board in the other, as a test.

Beaver Board was chosen as being most desirable and accordingly 98 homes were then completed with Beaver Board.

Numerous houses, offices, schools, halls, churches, etc., in Newfoundland were completed with Beaver Board.

Beaver Board is not a fad, not an experiment, it has made good; ask us for proofs.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

A COMPENSATION OF SICKNESS.

RUTH CAMERON

Perhaps you are fretting and fuming because your dream doesn't think she can give you the day she promised next week, and you can't see how you can possibly get that gown you meant to wear to the lawn party finished unless she does. Just as you are fussing over a dress you can't make set right, your husband comes home from the office sick. How quickly that dress fades completely out of your consciousness, and how instantly the lawn party itself assumes its place in the scheme of things as an entirely unimportant affair that you don't really care whether you go to it or not, so long as your husband gets better!

Turn Into Little Bits.

Or you are in the middle of one of those rushed times when you have the harassed feeling that you can't possibly get all the things in that have simply got to be gotten in. There's that jelly to put up before the cherries get too ripe—that can't wait; and two dresses to be finished for your daughter before she goes away—that can't possibly wait; and the bride you promised to give for your neighbor's cousin while she is visiting here—and you must get that in the next week for she goes the first of the week after; and of course you've got to get the house slicked up before you have the bride. You have a sense of being torn into little bits and there doesn't seem one thing you can possibly leave out.

Quite Simple To Give Up.

And then one night the baby wakes up and you find he is in a high fever—and all the other anxieties and worries are wiped out of your mind as cleanly as if a wet rag had been used across a slate. It's very simple after all to let go, you find. Your daughter goes away with only one of the dresses finished. You preserve what cherries you can and give away the rest to a neighbor, who promises in return some of her peaches when they are ripe. You give the bride after the baby gets better—in a house which hasn't been cleaned from attic to cellar but in which the hostess, relieved from anxiety and with a temporarily improved sense of the values of life, is such a happy influence that the party is a great success after all.

Other Usages of Illness.

It is really wonderful the sense of release from the every-day things that any serious anxiety gives you.

This is one of the usages of sickness. I have written elsewhere of another—to make you realize how dear the sick one is and to bring to the surface the tenderness that has been overlaid with the carelessness of every-day living.

True, no one wants sickness or other big problems to come into his or her life. But it is good to know that they are not utterly without compensation.

Famous Children in Fiction.

If the question, "Which is the most famous child in fiction?" had been asked eighty years ago the answer would have been "Little Nell."

At that moment everybody who could read was following the pathetic wanderings of that queer little figure almost breathlessly, and when Dickens "killed" her in the last chapter all England wept, solemn stock-brokers stopping each other and gasping, "Little Nell's dead."

But although Little Nell has somewhat lost her hold on the British public, other children of Dickens's fancy still have a warm place in the British heart. It would be hard to decide which of these takes first place: David Copperfield, Paul Dombey, Little Dorrit, Pip, or the Artful Dodger!

Twelve years later another child took the English-speaking world by storm. This was Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," although interest in the slave-owner's child was almost equally shared by the slave-child, Topsy, who, when asked where she came from, said, "I 'spect I growed."

About forty years ago another child appeared in literature as the young hero of a pathetic story called "Little Lord Fauntleroy." He was of a new

HOPEFUL PROSPECT.

W. J. MASON

The problems which so long have vexed will soon dissolve in air; an editor will be the next to fill the White House chair. And editors are gifted genies who call the largest bluff; they would not give you fourteen cents for all that problem stuff.

The man who on his tripod sits and writes those gems you know, is used to every kind of fits that this old world can throw. New problems face him every hour, each one a rumpus makes; he piles his pastebrush, blue and sour, and solves them in three shakes. The man who runs a paper now, nor takes the poor-house train, has shown that in his bulging brow there is a massive brain. And soon a journalistic scout will walk the White House way, and cry, "The latchstrings always out," and "We have come to stay." And then the problem dire will meet a man who fears them not, who has blue prints to show his feet are comfortably hot. Ye Editor will laugh to scorn the Problem's sticky thuds, drink its confusion in a horn of prohibition suds.

Just Folks by Edgar Guest

THE THINGS YOU CAN'T FORGET.

Used to lose my temper an' git mad an' tear around
An' raise my voice so wimmin folks would tremble at the sound;
I'd do things I was ashamed of when the fit of rage had passed,
An' wish I hadn't done 'em, an' regret 'em to the last;
But I've learned from sad experience how useless is regret,
For the mean things done in anger are the things you can't forget.

'Tain't no use to kiss the youngster once your hand has made him cry.
You'll recall the time you struck him all the very day you die;
He'll forget it an' forgive you an' tomorrow seem the same,
But you'll keep the hateful picture of your sorrow an' your shame.
An' it's bound to rise to taunt you, though you long have squared the debt.
For the things you've done in meanness are the things you can't forget.

Lord, I sometimes sit an' shudder when some scene comes back to me,
Which shows me big an' brutal in act o' tyranny.
When some 'triflin' thing upset me an' I let my temper fly,
An' was sorry for it after—but it's vain to sit an' sigh.
But I'd be a happier old man now my sun begins to set,
If it wasn't for the meanness which I've done an' can't forget.

Now I think I've learned my lesson an' I'm treadin' gentler ways,
An' I'm tryin' to build my mornings into happy yesterdays;
I don't let my temper spoil 'em in the way I used to do,
An' let some splash of anger smear the record when it's through;
I want my memories pleasant, free from shame or vain regret,
Without any deeds of anger which I never can forget.

Regarding the mother of Presidential Nominee Cox, a writer says: "She was a brave woman. She had the reputation of not being afraid to drive any horse there was in the county. And once when a team was running away she stepped in front of the horses, grabbing their bridles and stopped them after they had crushed through a fence. She went down to the river, where a hole was cut through the ice in order that she might enter the water and be baptized."

Startling Revelations

The most recent and perhaps the most startling revelation in the Woodford Affidavit Enquiry is the statement made by Richard Kelly, who was the petitioner against Mr. William Woodford in the Harbor Main election case. Yesterday, Kelly told Commissioners Rendell and Ryan in the course of his examination, that he knew nothing whatever of the contents of the document to which he had signed his name, said contents alleging that Woodford had been guilty of corrupt practices in securing his election for the district of Harbor Main at the polls last November. Kelly further disclaimed all knowledge of the nature of the petition for the unseating of Mr. Woodford, excepting that he was aware that it had something to do with the unseating of the senior member for the district to which the petitioner belonged, and that such unseating would benefit the Squires party. Kelly was apparently quite willing and ready to do anything to help the cause which he supported or the candidate whom he favored, and who was beaten by both the Cashin candidates. The mere fact of his signing the petition without question or cavil proves him to have been a pliant tool in the hands of the men who suborned him. His declaration that yesterday was the first time that he had knowledge of the contents of the petition signed by him, must have produced a sensation in the Commissioners' Chamber. It produced a greater one when it became known in the city, and men asked themselves where it was all going to end and how many other prudent disclosures the Woodford Affidavit would bring forth.

It is high time that all this mess was cleaned up. The new developments place an entirely new aspect upon all the cases arising out of the Affidavit filed by Mr. Woodford against the Prime Minister and an honorable member of the Legislative Council. The affair has become altogether too involved to be dismissed lightly, or to be treated in such terms of vaudeville as are applied to it by the Government Press. Kelly's evidence shows that he did not know, of himself, whether the charges made against Woodford in the petition signed by himself, were true or false. As a matter of truth, he was wholly ignorant of the nature of the accusations made against the senior member for Harbor Main, but was quite willing to sign the document written and prepared by others, thus lending himself to the nefarious plot which has now been shown to have existed. The charge was prepared and Kelly was selected to fire it. It evidently made not a whit of difference to him what he had unhesitatingly signed. He declared to the Commissioners that of his own knowledge he was not aware that Mr. Woodford had been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practices in connection with the election. And that shows the moral calibre of the man. It also discloses the morality of the men who pulled the strings, and throws lurid light on their methods. The duty of the members of the Opposition is clear in the premises. They are bound to have the whole case of Kelly vs. Woodford reopened and subject the petitioner to the most grueling examination and cross-examination. Whatever dark things are hidden must now be made clear, and Justice must be done though the Heavens should fall. There is an offensive stench about this whole matter. The work of cleansing should therefore be thorough.

Foreign Trade and Commerce Representative

WILL VISIT NEWFOUNDLAND.
St. John's is to be favored in September by a visit from Hon. Herbert S. Rand, of Chicago, Ill., eminent lawyer and foreign trade expert. Hon. H. S. Rand will stop off at St. John's on his way to England and an extensive tour of Europe where he will deliver lectures in different foreign languages before the Chambers of Commerce throughout the leading commercial centres of England and the Continent, in an endeavor to foster closer trade relations between American manufacturers and exporters, who are members of the Foreign Trade and Commerce League of Washington, D.C., an organization of four hundred of the very largest and most representative manufacturers in their respective lines in the United States. While in St. John's Hon. Herbert S. Rand will be the guest of the Newfoundland Board of Trade, and his visit is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest, due to the fact that he is considered to be one of the greatest living legal authorities on International Law and Foreign Commerce.

The Price?

There was a splendid sign of codfish on the local grounds yesterday morning for hook and liners, all the crews fishing taking good fares. The trapping voyage, however, is now practically over, and the catch is at least an average. What the fishermen are now worrying about is what the price will be.

Mrs. Chaplin Dead.

The sad news was received by wire this forenoon announcing the death of Jane, wife of Mark Chaplin, Esq., of this city, whose passing occurred at Ocean Park, Maine, whither the deceased lady had been residing for some time, having gone there for the benefit of her health. A more extended obituary notice will appear to-morrow. Meanwhile the Telegram extends sincere condolence to the bereaved husband and family.

War Trophies.

At the store of H. J. Stabb & Co. and the adjoining Naval Quartermaster stores department is an interesting collection of war trophies, amongst which are: the complete frame gondola and engines of a German Zeppelin, with the frame work somewhat smashed up; a gas alarm in working condition, trench mortars, machine guns, submarine compass, torpedo heads, submarine periscopes, belt fillers, field telephones, naval torpedoes, Turkish bayonets, helmets, revolvers and other souvenirs. The trophies arrived here some time ago on the S. S. Lobelia but their disposition has not been decided on.

Archbishop Determined.

LONDON, Aug. 13. Archbishop Mannix, yesterday, declared his intention of visiting Ireland, despite the Government's edict. MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY. LONDON, Aug. 13. Alexander Carlisle, a prominent Belfast Irishman, yesterday, sent to Earl Curzon what amounts to a refusal to apologise for "an affront" to the House of Lords, last Monday, when he dramatically addressed the House on the second reading of the Irish Crimes Bill. In all Carlisle's speech at the time consisted of thirteen words, "My Lords, if you pass this Bill you may kill England, not Ireland."

McGrath, P.P., Marystown, arrived here on Tuesday afternoon on his episcopal visitation on the revenue cutter Carmen. On his Grace's arrival he was received by Rev. T. J. Bride, P.P., and conveyed by motor to the Presbytery. On Wednesday morning he administered the sacrament of confirmation in the Parish Church to over 100 candidates. At the conclusion of the ceremony his Grace spoke at length to the large congregation present complimenting both pastor and people on their ecclesiastical progress and prosperity. He thanked the people and expressed himself well pleased with the welcome accorded him and paid a special tribute of merit to the work of the Sisters of Mercy and their self-sacrificing zeal in the interests of Catholic education. In the afternoon his Grace and party left for St. Lawrence from whence he continues his episcopal visitation to both Lawn and Lamaline.

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE STANDARDIZATION OF CODFISH!

WHEREAS it is essential in the interests of the Colony that the methods of preparing and exporting codfish which are at present in use should be regulated and improved; Be it enacted by the Governor, the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, in Legislative Session convened, as follows:—

1. There shall be a Commission to be appointed by His Excellency the Governor-in-Council, which shall be known as the Codfish Standardization Commission.
2. The said Commission shall consist of not less than five or more than eleven persons, of whom the Minister of Marine and Fisheries shall be one, ex officio, and shall be the Chairman.
3. It shall be the duty of the said Commission to prepare and draft rules and regulations for the improvement of the manner in which salt codfish (hereinafter called fish) is prepared for sale and transported, and in particular governing the following matters, that is to say:
 - (1) The manner of catching, splitting, cleaning, salting, drying, curing, pickling and preparing fish for sale and export; and generally, all and singular the operations involved in the preparation of salt codfish, from the catching of the fish to the production of the finished article.
 - (2) The culling, selecting, assorting, standardizing and determination of the different types or varieties of fish, with a view to the establishment of grades thereof in the local and foreign markets and to the ensuring, so far as possible, of suitability for the several markets.
 - (3) The stowage, storage, packing, inspection, and weighing of fish and marketing of packages.
 - (4) The lading, stowage, protection, dunnageing, covering and conveyance of fish whether within this Colony or from this Colony to other countries, and whether in ships, vehicles, or any other modes of conveyance.
 - (5) The establishment of standards of size, type, condition, grade and quality of fish, and the means of determining and enforcing the same.
 - (6) The fixing of differences between the prices of different sizes, types, conditions, grades and qualities in the local markets, and the provision of methods for accurately determining such sizes, types, conditions, grades and qualities.
 - (7) The fixing of penalties for the breach of any of the rules and regulations to be made as aforesaid. Specific penalties shall be fixed for breach of each particular rule and regulation.
4. All such rules and regulations shall be laid before His Excellency the Governor-in-Council for approval, and if when so approved and published in the Royal Gazette shall at the expiration of 15 days from the date of the Proclamation have the force and effect of Law if incorporated in this Act.
5. This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Fish Standardization Act, 1920."

Notes From Brigus.

Captain Thomas Goshue who has been on a trans-Atlantic voyage arrived home on Friday night. He led again for the city on Monday morning. Miss Alice Bried was here from St. John's to spend the week end with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McRae were in town on Sunday last.

Mrs. Borthwick, daughter of Mr. Henry T. Bartlett, arrived by Tuesday's train on a visit to her parents. Miss May Delaney, who has been ill for some time past, is now convalescent. Mr. Lorenzo Percy, who had been engaged in the shore fishery left by yesterday's train for Harbor Grace. There he joined the S. S. Sagona for Labrador, in the hope of bettering his luck.

Mr. P. J. Kent is in town spending his usual vacation. The rain which has been threatened by Jupiter Pluvius during the past few days is now badly needed to "make good" the excellent work done by the custodians of the funds of the Public Works Department. In yore olden days folks, who were sufficiently well off to have some coin to spend in diversion, used to hire a "cab" to take them for a drive and return in a couple of hours. In these days of modern ingenuity they hire a motor car, which goes many miles farther (and very much faster) but which sometimes fails to return till the "wee sma' hours". It reminds us of an old ditty:—"My head is like a cabbage, I'm labouring under a still, You'll hafter get a holsting horse To draw me up a hill!"

To-night the people of that section known as the Gullies, are holding a concert in the Academy Hall. No doubt the affair will be as enjoyable as those held in their school room in the past. —NEMO. Brigus, C.B., Aug. 12, 1920.

Crew Needed Medical Attention.

Yesterday afternoon the s.s. Basis, grain laden and bound from Baltimore, U.S.A., to Copenhagen, put into port, the captain and several of the crew being ill of dysentery. Hon. Taaker Cook, Norwegian Consul, secured the services of Dr. Burden, who boarded the ship on her arrival and prescribed for the men.

 Mr. Kelly—You petitioned early in the year that William Woodford be not declared elected and returned.
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Your petition was filed on the 2nd of January, according to the court records.
 Mr. Kelly—Somewhere around there.
 Mr. Kelly—Were you in town on that date?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Who got you to come in to make this petition?
 Mr. Kelly—Mr. Meaney.
 Mr. Kelly—Where did Mr. Meaney first speak to you about this petition?
 Mr. Kelly—Down in Mr. Gibbs' office.
 Mr. Kelly—About when would that be?
 Mr. Kelly—I do not know the date.
 Mr. Kelly—Was it before the end of the year, the Court records give the 2nd of January.
 Mr. Kelly—I cannot say, sir.
 Mr. Kelly—Were you in town more than once about that time with regard to that petition?
 Mr. Kelly—That was my first time.
 Mr. Kelly—Did Mr. Meaney send for you or did he go out to see you about it?
 Mr. Kelly—I came to town.
 Mr. Kelly—Did he ask you to come in, or did you come in of your own accord?
 Mr. Kelly—I was sent in by Capt. Kennedy.
 Mr. Kelly—So that Captain Kennedy would have been acting for Mr. Meaney in the matter of getting you?
 Mr. Kelly—Well I could not say whether he did or not.
 Mr. Kelly—Did Captain Kennedy tell you what you were wanted for when you were coming in?
 Mr. Kelly—Well he asked me if I would sign the petition and I said yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you know the nature of what you had to sign?
 Mr. Kelly—No, I did not.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you promise to sign the petition not knowing whether it was correct or otherwise?
 Mr. Kelly—Well, I was only asked to sign a petition and I signed it. I thought Mr. Woodford's election was unfair and I signed the petition.
 Mr. Kelly—Well, you made certain charges in your petition against Mr. Woodford, indicating that he had been guilty of bribery. Did you know of any of these yourself, personally?
 Mr. Kelly—No, I did not. I did not know what was on the petition at all.
 Mr. Kelly—Even when you signed it?
 Mr. Kelly—No, I did not know anything about it.
 Mr. Kelly—Well, in a general way you considered Mr. Woodford may have been guilty of corrupt practices in connection with the election and you signed the petition without knowing just what was on it, making accusations against Mr. Woodford's character that you did not know were correct or otherwise?

 Mr. Kelly—Well, I did not know what was on the petition. I did not know anything about it.
 Mr. Kelly—And if you were asked to make certain statements to hang a man, would you do it?
 No answer.
 Mr. Kelly—However, you came in at the request of Capt. Kennedy. Did he tell you to go and see Mr. Meaney?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Did he meet you in town?
 Mr. Kelly—I went to Mr. Meaney's house.
 Mr. Kelly—And then did Mr. Meaney tell you just what he wanted of you?
 Mr. Kelly—Well, he asked me if I would sign the petition and I signed it.
 Mr. Kelly—You agreed to sign it then?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes, of my own free will, I agreed to sign it.
 Mr. Kelly—Where did you sign it, at his house?
 Mr. Kelly—at Mr. Gibbs' office.
 Mr. Kelly—That would be the same day you came in town.
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Was there any explanation given you with regard to the details of this petition by Mr. Gibbs or Mr. Meaney?
 Mr. Kelly—Nothing whatever.
 Mr. Kelly—Was there anybody else in Mr. Gibbs' office when you signed it, or only the three of you?
 Mr. Kelly—Just the three of us, Meaney, Gibbs and myself.
 Mr. Kelly—Were you paid for coming in here?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—Travelling expenses came out of your own pocket?
 Mr. Kelly—Oh, that was paid.
 Mr. Kelly—Who paid that?
 Mr. Kelly—Mr. Meaney.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you ask for any payment?
 Mr. Kelly—No, I never asked for any.
 Mr. Kelly—Had you heard from Mr. Gibbs before that all in connection with this petition, before you heard from Captain Kennedy?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—Who drew up this statement, which you say you merely signed without reading it at all?
 Mr. Kelly—I do not know.
 Mr. Kelly—It was done when you came to Mr. Gibbs' office?
 Mr. Kelly—I had nothing to do only sign my name.
 Mr. Kelly—You do not know whether the statements made here are true or false?
 Mr. Kelly—I do not know.
 Mr. Kelly—Have you seen in the papers or elsewhere what you declared in this statement?
 Mr. Kelly—I have not read the things at all.
 Mr. Kelly—You do not know anything about the paper either at the time or since?
 Mr. Kelly—I do not know.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you know that you stated here in this paper that William Woodford himself did bribe or his agents bribed for him. You stated that or signed it. Is that correct, according to your belief or knowledge?

 Mr. Kelly made no answer.
 Mr. Kelly—You made a further statement that the said William Woodford was guilty of illegal practices, of paying the expenses of travelling of certain electors in going to and from said election and providing means of conveyance for electors. Did you know that with your own knowledge?
 Mr. Kelly—I have not heard of that before.
 Mr. Kelly—Was not this paper read to you before you signed it?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—Didn't they tell you what you were signing in Mr. Gibbs' office?
 Mr. Kelly—No; just a petition against Mr. Woodford's election.
 Mr. Kelly—You say here further that the said William Woodford by himself, his agents and by other persons with his knowledge was guilty of the corrupt and illegal practice of influencing the returning officer in the matter pertaining to the duties of said returning officer. Did you know anything of that?
 Mr. Kelly—Nothing whatever in connection with what the petition contained.
 Mr. Kelly—You merely know that this paper was something that would help Mr. Meaney and the new Government and unseat Mr. Woodford. That is about all you know?
 Mr. Kelly—That is all I know.
 Mr. Kelly—On the 2nd of January you signed this petition, according to the Court records. Did you come to town afterwards in connection with the petition or how many times did you come to town in connection with it?
 Mr. Kelly—I cannot say, I came more than once.
 Mr. Kelly—That was your first visit when you signed that petition?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Well you can give us a rough idea as to how often you were in town about it since, one, two, three or four times?
 Mr. Kelly—I do not think I was in again until the petition was withdrawn.
 Mr. Kelly—That would be on the 18th of March, I think. The court records state on March the 18th Mr. Gibbs, petitioner, that is for you, asked leave to withdraw the petition. You came in town about that time?
 Mr. Kelly—I did not know the petition was to be withdrawn at the time.
 Mr. Kelly—But you were in town at the time. Who sent for you?
 Mr. Kelly—Mr. Meaney.
 Mr. Kelly—Your travelling expenses were again found by Mr. Meaney? He paid you your travelling expenses?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Were you paid for the time you lost coming in about it?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—What payment did you get?
 Mr. Kelly—Ten dollars.
 Mr. Kelly—Ten dollars besides your travelling expenses?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Who paid you?
 Mr. Kelly—Mr. Gibbs.
 Mr. Kelly—In his office?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Did he explain why they wanted to have you withdraw the petition. Did he tell you what they wanted you in town for?
 Mr. Kelly—To prove that I was the voter of Harbour Main District, that signed the petition.
 Mr. Kelly—To prove that you were the voter from Harbour Main district who signed the petition?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Didn't they tell you that they wanted the petition withdrawn?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you sign that petition in the first place and agree to its withdrawal afterwards without using your own mind or judgment at all. The Court records say that Gibbs asked leave to withdraw the petition for the petitioner. Didn't Mr. Gibbs have your authority to do that?
 Mr. Kelly—He asked me if I was satisfied to have the petition withdrawn and I said yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Why, after making application for judgment against his return did you make application for withdrawal of petition?
 Mr. Kelly—When Mr. Gibbs came back he had the petition withdrawn.
 Mr. Kelly—That is after he came back from court?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes. I told him I was satisfied to have the petition withdrawn.
 Mr. Kelly—Well had you no mind of your own in connection with this thing? You filed a petition and afterwards you applied to have the petition withdrawn. Were you merely a blind servant of Mr. Meaney and possibly Mr. Gibbs in this matter or did you use your own mind? Did you allow yourself to be led by others?
 Mr. Kelly made no answer.
 Mr. Kelly—You must have some ideas with regard to that. You simply put yourself altogether in the hands of Mr. Meaney and Mr. Gibbs with regard to this election petition, trusting they would do the right thing by you?
 Mr. Kelly made no answer.
 Mr. Kelly—What is your answer to that. Had you put yourself blindly in their hands believing they would do the right thing by you?

 Mr. Kelly—I did not understand anything at all about the petition.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you understand anything at all about what the withdrawal meant?
 Mr. Kelly—No I did not.
 Mr. Kelly—Well you did all this to oblige Mr. Meaney or Mr. Gibbs or what was your object in doing it?
 Mr. Kelly—Towards the Government and Mr. Meaney.
 Mr. Kelly—The new Government that is the Government you were in favor of and supported by your vote in the elections?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—You may have thought that it would be an election for the new Government if you could do anything to disqualify the members of the late Government, that is what actuated you more than wanting to oblige Mr. Meaney?
 Mr. Kelly—I was in favor of Mr. Meaney.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you see anybody else besides Mr. Gibbs and Mr. Meaney on either of these occasions?
 Mr. Kelly—That is all I saw.
 Mr. Kelly—Did Captain Kennedy come in with you on either occasion?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—Well that is two visits that you recollect your made here, did you make another?
 Mr. Kelly—Not that I remember.
 Mr. Kelly—Were you asked to come in later at all; did they ask you to come to town after the 18th of March? Had you any request to come in later?
 Mr. Kelly—I do not remember.
 Mr. Kelly—On that second visit you made an affidavit. Do you remember the nature of it or did you sign it blindly to oblige Mr. Meaney and possibly Mr. Gibbs like you did the first time? You made a statement to the best of your knowledge and belief that no arrangement or terms of any kind whatsoever had been made, and no undertaking of any kind, entered into in relation to the withdrawal of said petition or any person on my behalf. You made that sworn declaration on the 18th of March on your second visit here?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—You knew when you were about?
 Mr. Kelly—Mr. Woodford gave me nothing nor promised me anything to have petition withdrawn.
 Mr. Kelly—Were those the grounds on which the said petition was withdrawn, that the respondent, William Woodford had resigned his seat in the House of Assembly?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—While all this was going on in connection with the petition, did you have any talk with William Woodford?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—You know him, do you?
 Mr. Kelly—I know him to see him.
 Mr. Kelly—What reasons were given you for asking that your petition should be withdrawn? What reasons were given you by Mr. Meaney and Mr. Gibbs? They must have put some reason before you when you came to town the second time as to why you should go back on what you had already stated. They must have given you some kind of explanation?
 Mr. Kelly—Mr. Woodford resigned his seat in the House of Assembly I made no hesitation then.
 Mr. Kelly—That is all you wanted then, to do your part in getting a further seat for the new Government and you thought this would bring it about. Was that it?
 Mr. Kelly made no answer.
 Mr. Kelly—When you petitioned for the disqualification of Mr. Woodford and afterwards he resigned, you thought that resignation would answer your purpose just as well as if you had gone on with your case against him. Was that it?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—I'm going back again. That second visit you must have given some reason why you should withdraw your petition; the only reason put before you was that you were told Mr. Woodford had resigned, that satisfied you?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—You thought that was sufficient so far as you were concerned?
 Mr. Kelly—That is all I know about it.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you look upon that as a fact of gaining your case when you got him to give up his seat?
 Mr. Kelly—That is all I know about it.
 Mr. Kelly—Did you arrive on the 18th or the day before, do you remember? Were you in town more than one day?
 Mr. Kelly—Just one day.
 Mr. Kelly—You went back again as soon as you could to attend to your ordinary work?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Were you satisfied when you got the ten dollars?
 Mr. Kelly—Yes.
 Mr. Kelly—Were you aware yourself that Mr. Woodford bribed anyone in the district?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—You did not see any money or any other transaction pass between Mr. Woodford and any resident in the district?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—How did you find out that there were corrupt practices used by Mr. Woodford?
 Mr. Kelly—The Supreme Court found Mr. Woodford guilty and had points enough to unseat and disqualify him.
 Mr. Kelly—That was long after the petition. You do not know yourself that Mr. Woodford bribed any person personally?
 Mr. Kelly—No.
 Mr. Kelly—And you swore to that petition that you presented against Mr. Woodford. Did you go into a court or swear to it anywhere? Did you swear before a Justice of the Peace or any person of this charge you made against Mr. Woodford?
 Mr. Kelly—Not that I know of. I swore to the affidavit.
 Mr. Kelly—Without knowing the contents of the affidavit you swore against the man that he was guilty of corrupt practices; you swore that?

Secrets of the Admiralty.

REVELATIONS OF A NAVAL CENSOR.

Keep the bad news back in the hope of better news coming along. That seemed to be the policy of the Admiralty during the war, judging by the revelations of Admiral Sir Douglas Browning, Bart., in his book, "In-Discretions of the Naval Censor" (Cassell).

For four and a half years the Admiral was Chief Censor at the Admiralty, and in his book he reveals much of the truth concerning how the public was kept in the dark at times. "I wish," he says, "I could have told the whole truth."

He makes the startling confession that Mr. Winston Churchill had made up his mind to admit that the Audacious had been sunk in a German mine-field on October 17, 1914, a few weeks after the event. "But just as we was about to go out of the Admiralty door," says Sir Douglas, "he was tackled by Lord Fisher, who cajoled and threatened and browbeat him to such an extent that the First Lord allowed himself to be turned away from his intended course. At no subsequent date could I induce anybody to agree with me that we might as well let the matter out."

The First Lord was a bit of a gambler, i.e., he would hold on to a bit of bad news for a time on the chance of getting a bit of good news as an offset, and I must say," continued the Admiral, "that it not infrequently came off."

The Battle of Jutland.

An amazing picture of Mr. Churchill is presented by Sir Douglas in his references to the Dardanelles campaign, during which the First Lord did the censoring himself. Sir Douglas took Mr. Churchill the cabbies at 9.15 a.m., and "he presented a most extraordinary spectacle perched up in a high bed, with the whole of the counterpane littered with despatch-boxes, red and all colours, and a stenographer sitting at the foot—Mr. Churchill himself with an enormous cigar in his mouth, a glass of warm water on the table by his side, and a writing-pad on his knee. . . . On one occasion he had a badly swollen face, and, with two turns of a flannel bandage round it and a security lock, escaping here and there, presented a truly extraordinary picture."

As an illustration of the extraordinary methods of the Admiralty it is mentioned that the account of the battle of Jutland was held up for three days in this country, although it was common knowledge in practically every other part of the world. "Our ports were full of damaged ships and the hospitals were full of wounded men, and the Germans had got away with their fairly complete story of the battle" through their wireless to every country in the world except these islands," says Sir Douglas. "As it was, some American papers, in fact, on the German statement, assumed that the Grand Fleet had been defeated, and that kind of thing did not do us any good."

Not only this, but "officers and men were writing to their friends saying they were all right. . . . On this occasion messages of the nature indicated were held up for inquiry before being sent on. It was at once decided, however, that the number—about 5,000—being so enormous it was out of the question to hold them up."

So the Admiralty decided to admit that there had really been a battle, and sent out the famous report on the evening of June 2 (the battle was fought on May 31) which to nine out of ten English men and women "came as a frightful staggerer"—to quote Sir Douglas's phrase.

Franz Liszt, Lothario and "Saint".

(Thornton Hall in John O'London's Weekly.)

Of Franz Liszt, the great pianist and composer, it has been said that "his nature consisted of uneven proportions of demon and angel." Under one influence he yearned for the life of the Church—"to live," as he declared, "the life of the saints and perhaps even to die the death of a martyr." Under the other, he would plunge into dissipation, flinging elementary decency to the winds in his pursuit of shameless pleasure; or, in his more restrained mood, flaunt in the face of the world his amour with another man's wife.

It was from his mother that he drew his strain of piety and asceticism; from his father, Prince Esterhazy's steward, he derived his passion alike for music and for errant love. From neither did he draw the power to control his ill-balanced nature. And this moral weakness was almost emphasized by the fact that from the cradle to the grave he was the spoilt child of Fortune.

The "Heaven-child."

In his early childhood he is described as beautiful, with an almost unearthly beauty—with delicate features, mysterious blue eyes, and a wealth of golden hair, framing his face like a picture. And to this physical dower he added a winsomeness none could resist. He was the "Heaven-child," loved, almost worshipped, from his infancy by all who knew him.

He was but ten years old when his amazing gift of piano-playing electrified his native Hungary. After his first concert at Presburg, we are told, the ladies rushed to the platform to smother the wonder-boy with caresses. Prince Esterhazy placed his palace at his disposal, and half a dozen Hungarian noblemen subscribed on the spot a sum sufficient to pay for his musical training for six years.

"Eighth Wonder of the World."

The next year, in 1822, he swept Vienna off her feet on the tide of a wild enthusiasm. Beethoven himself mounted the platform to kiss him amid a scene of delirious excitement; and those great masters of music, Czerny and Sallari, begged to be allowed to teach him for nothing. Thus early was the Hungarian boy surrounded with a homage and adulation calculated to turn a much better-balanced head.

And when, in 1824, he went to Paris, he became "by a leap" the idol of the French capital. At his first concert in the Italian Opera House, the members of the orchestra were so carried away by his playing of a solo passage in the Hummel concerto that they forgot to come in at the proper place. "Orpheus touched the heart of the field and moved the stones, but the little Liszt," to quote a chronicler, "so affected the orchestra that it became dumb." And each year that passed added to Franz's laurels until all Europe was ringing with the fame of the "eighth wonder of the world."

But Liszt grew surfeited with such idolatry. His instinctive yearning for the religious life became so clamorous that he implored his father with tears and supplications to allow him to become a priest and renounce the world. But his father was adamant.

"Thy calling is music," was his stern answer. "The Church is not for thee." And though he rebelled fiercely, it was not long before thoughts of the Church took wing before his first passion, when he lost his heart to one of his pupils, Caroline, the beautiful daughter of the Comtesse de Saint-Cric. To the young musician this was the opening of a new and wonderful world; for his love was returned, and the Comtesse smiled on his suit. Then, followed a few months of Paradise for the young lovers, when life took on the glories of Heaven; but these glories were fated to an early eclipse, for the Comtesse died, and her husband, who did not approve of the match, put his foot resolutely down and insisted on his daughter marrying a man of his own choice.

With Tears and Pleadings.

In the bitterness of his disappointment Liszt abandoned himself to grief. He shut himself out from the world, spent long days and nights fasting, meditating, and reading religious books, and would have "renounced all things earthly for the life of the cloister," had not his mother, with tears and pleadings, persuaded him to change his mind. Then followed an illness so serious that a report of his death was circulated, and the press of Europe deplored the tragic closing of a life so full of the highest promise.

But Liszt was not dead. He fought his way bravely back to life; and we see him alternating feverish practice at the piano with nights of shameless orgy. For many years, we are told, he led a life of "shocking immorality," at which the world of his admirers only smiled indulgently; the women especially "affecting to judge him as though he were a king whose divine right placed him above moral laws."

The Moths and the Flame.

In extenuation of Liszt's many irregularities, it should be said that few men have ever been so tempted, or more temperamentally weak to resist temptation. Wherever he went, foolish women "flew into the blaze of his attraction as moths fly into a flame."

And so it was with Liszt almost to his last day, long years after he had entered the Franciscan Order and been dubbed Abbot Cardinal Honelohé, in 1865. Even the aegis of the church was powerless to shield him from the homage and wiles of women, though he had ceased to worship at their shrines. But Lothario had turned "Saint," and a "Saint" he remained to the end, in spite of their allurements.

Pussy's Adventures.

Admiral Beatty tells an interesting story regarding the ship's cat on the Lion. During the Jutland battle the sick bay was shattered by a shell. Happily, the invalids had been removed beforehand, but, by an oversight, the cat, who lived in the bay, had been left behind.

General grief was expressed by the crew at the loss of the cat, but greatly to the surprise of the men told off to clear away the debris, a good healthy meow was heard, followed by five little meows. Pussy had hidden away on a shelf, and had signalled the battle by giving birth to five kittens, who are now distributed throughout the Navy.

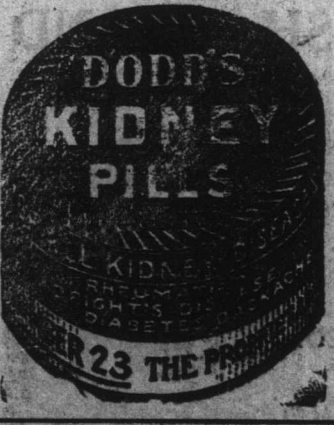

Another cat story is told by Captain Llewellyn of the S.S. Naldora. One of the ships which he commanded in the war was blown up by a mine. In a rough sea all the passengers, some 500 in number, were safely taken off in boats.

When rowing away from the scene of the wreck, the captain noticed one of the ship's cats floating on a mallet-bag. He shouted to the officer in charge of the boat nearest the cat to have her taken on board, but ascertained some days after that this had not been done, as before the explosion the cat, when chasing a rat, had lost part of her tongue in a rat trap. This had made her savage, and the officer in charge of the boat had, therefore, deemed it unsafe to act on the captain's request.

Now for the sequel. Twenty-four days and twenty hours after the sinking of the ship, the cat and the mallet-bag were washed ashore. The cat, although thin and feeble, was still active and comparatively well. Her tongue had healed, and she is now installed as head cat on a pleasure yacht, the owner of which had heard of her marvellous escape. Rain fell heavily during some part of the twenty-four days, and the cat is supposed to have kept herself alive by licking the water from her coat.

DR. SCHOLL'S FOOT POWDER.

(Antiseptic)
An ideal antiseptic foot powder for hot, tender, perspiring feet. Dr. Scholl's Foot Powder is sprinkled on the feet and in the stockings and shoes, giving a cool, restful feeling. Takes away the friction of the shoe and stocking upon the foot and has truly antiseptic, deodorizing qualities. Put up in an original shaped attractive can which makes it convenient for reaching either the tip of the toe of the shoe or the foot of the stocking. Dr. Scholl's Foot Powder should be used by all. It is a truly medicinal and toilet necessity of great merit. Price per can, 35c.

DR. SCHOLL'S PEDICO FOOT BALM.

This is a soothing, cooling and healing cream-like preparation which should be rubbed well into the skin. It is refreshing and penetrating and relieves various foot discomforts and keeps the feet in good condition. It tones up the foot muscles, making them respond more freely, and leaves the feet as smooth and soft as nature intended. Prior to this treatment we strongly recommend bathing the feet using Pedico Foot Soap to cleanse the pores of all impurities. Price 35c. per jar.

DR. SCHOLL'S PEDICO FOOT SOAP.

Blood circulation is slowest at extremities and careful attention to the feet is absolutely necessary, particularly regular washing with a real cleanser. Washing with ordinary soap and water is not sufficient to deodorize, purify and thoroughly cleanse the feet. Dr. Scholl's Pedico Foot Soap is chemically compounded in granular form in order that the rubbing massages the tissue and increases blood circulation thereby. Cleanses the pores of the skin of all impurities, leaving the feet soft, smooth and healthy. After this bath, feet should be dried and a little Dr. Scholl's Pedico Foot Balm applied. Price 35c. per can.

Eccentric Advertising.

Sure Methods of Literary Log Rolling.

(John o' London's Weekly.)

Some queer methods have been adopted by authors who sought advertisement for themselves and their books. Mr. Francis Gribble some time ago collected amusing examples. He begins with an instance from the Colonies:—

Murdered a Chinaman.

A New Zealander committed a murder in order to give the world a sufficient motive for heading an economic treatise. He had written a pamphlet on the evils of Chinese cheap labour, and it had fallen still-born from the press. The reviews had been disappointing, and the advertising had produced no result. The author decided, after reflection, that there was nothing for it but to shoot a Chinaman. Carrying his book under his arm, he walked into a restaurant and shot one, and then quietly surrendered himself to the police, explaining that he bore that particular Chinaman no grudge, but merely desired to obtain publicity for his views on Chinamen in general. He obtained it, though the price which the law exacted was heavy.

Pink Hat at a Funeral.

Eccentricity of dress and personal appearance is another device by which many authors have made themselves interesting. The case of Oscar Wilde in his knee-breeches and velvet jacket, with a jewelled brooch in his long hair, is probably the best remembered; but there have been plenty of others. Dierack, as all the world knows, draped his waistcoat with gold chains and affected green trousers, and wore rings outside his gloves. M. Paul Bourget, now a model of elegant correctness, also wore green trousers in the days when he dwelt in the Latin Quarter. Parson Hawker, the Cornish poet, is even better remembered for the eccentricity of his garb than for his poetry, though he was a great poet. He rode about his parish in a poucho—which is just a blanket with holes cut in it for the arms; his cassock was all the colours of the rainbow; he attended his first wife's funeral in a pink hat without a brim; he was seen in the streets of provincial towns in a crimson jersey and wading boots. People naturally came to the conclusion that it might really be worth while to look at the poetry of a poet who had such a singular taste in dress.

George Sand's early popularity also probably owed something to her habit of going about the streets of Paris in male attire—a hussar jacket, trousers, and a felt hat; and the songs of Aristide Bruant—the songs which Yvette Guilbert used to sing in her early days—first gained an audience because their composer was never seen in any costume but that of a Californian gold-digger.

Sainte-Beuve, the famous critic, got an excellent advertisement out of a duel, fought on a wet day, by insisting upon holding his umbrella up with one hand while he fired his pistol with the other.

Only for ladies who end corns

Dainty shoes are only for those who pare corns and keep them. Or they pad them. Or they use a treatment harsh and ineffective.

The way is simple, quick and easy, and is sure. Millions of people employ it.

Apply Blue-jay, the liquid or the plaster. That touch will stop the pain.

Then wait a little and the corn will loosen and come out.

Then why does anybody suffer corns? Just because they don't know. They pare corns and keep them. Or they pad them. Or they use a treatment harsh and ineffective.

Blue-jay is scientific. This world-famed laboratory created it.

Year after year, it is keeping millions entirely free from corns.

Perhaps half the corns that start are now ended by it.

Ask your druggist for Blue-jay. Learn tonight how much it means to you.

Mainly About People.

William Watson, the famous English poet, was born 62 years ago this week. It is now "Sir William" by the way. (In case the reader does not recall any of his poems at this moment, it may be remarked that the most widely known is entitled "The woman with the Serpent's Tongue.") well as his throne. Wilhelm's boat, Meteor, has been called the most luxurious vessel afloat. Some Hamburg bankers got possession of it after the war and now it is being transferred to a group of Pittsburgh millionaires, according to a report from Paris.

F. Henry Royce, the famous British engineer, and manufacturer and the designer of the engine which made possible the flight across the Atlantic and the linking up of Great Britain with Australia by aeroplane, prides himself on the fact that he began his career as a mill boy.

Thomas Hardy, the eminent English novelist, has a habit of invariably wearing two waistcoats. Indeed, in a severe winter, he has been known to don as many as four, but even on the hottest summer day he sticks to his two, the outside one being generally of the old-fashioned knitted sort.

Rev. Dr. Greene Received by His Holiness.

Rev. Dr. Greene of the R. C. Cathedral, who has been on an extended trip to Europe, returned by S. S. Sachem yesterday. During his tour he visited Ireland, England, Belgium, France and Italy. While in Dublin Rev. Dr. Greene received special medical treatment which we are glad to learn has greatly benefited him. During his visit to Belgium and France he met Major (Rev.) T. Nangle, and for several days went over the battle grounds on which the Newfoundlanders fought and bled. Father Nangle at the time being engaged in graves restoration work. While in Italy Dr. Greene spent most of his time in the Eternal City, and had the privilege of a private interview with His Holiness the Pope, which lasted some considerable time. On the arrival of the Sachem yesterday a number of members of the Star of the Sea and Holy Name Societies were at the pier, to welcome back the rev. gentleman, who is the spiritual adviser of these societies.

Glencoe Sailed.

The s.s. Glencoe left Placentia at 8 p.m. yesterday for ports on the South Coast. She had a small freight and the following passengers: Mrs. J. Rowe, Miss Rowe, Mrs. J. Butler and child, R. Benning, C. Benning, Rev. J. Grandy, Mrs. Grouchy and child, E. Elford, Mrs. S. Rowell, Mrs. Elford, Miss Harris, Miss J. Angel, Miss N. Foote, Mrs. W. French, Miss S. Harding, Capt. Spracklin, W. Kennedy, Adjt. and Mrs. Oke and child.

Winner of Rony Race.

Master John Cole, aged 12, son of Mr. James Cole, Torbay Road, rode Gosse's pony which won the race at the Church of England Garden Party at Shannon Munn Field, on Wednesday afternoon. The youthful horseman's paternal grandfather was a famous jockey in his time, and in guiding his mount beyond the winning post ahead of all others, young Cole, must be taken as another instance of heredity.

Personal.

Hon. R. K. Bishop returned from the Old Country yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Innes were passengers yesterday by the Sachem from Liverpool.

Miss Henrietta Shore, of New York, and Miss Paul, of Toronto, are spending the summer with Mrs. J. A. W. W. McNelly, Dunluce.

Lady Crosbie, accompanied by the Misses Crosbie returned yesterday by the Sachem from England.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hickman, who had been on an extended visit abroad, arrived yesterday by the Sachem.

Mr. J. C. Hepburn returned yesterday after a business trip to the Old Country.

Mrs. J. Robinson, of Cabot Street, left by this morning's train for Trinity on a visit to her friends where she will spend an enjoyable holiday.

Mainly About People.

With the celebration of the 30th birthday of John Jacob Bausch, a pioneer in the industrial activity of Rochester and founder of the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, a fund of $250,000 was distributed among the several thousand employees of the optical plant. Mr. Bausch announced, that he had already made an additional gift of $50,000 to be added to the benefit fund of the employees.

Abdul Ali Khan, Persian Minister to Washington, arrived in America last week on the liner Baltic. He says he went to Paris to see the Shah before the latter's return to Teheran. The minister said Persia was doing fairly well, although he admitted the Bolshevik propaganda was proving annoying. He declared, however, it would not take root in Persia, and that the existing government was not menaced by it.

NOTE OF THANKS—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowell wishes to thank Rev. E. Moulton, Mrs. E. Coyell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Max Rowell, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Barter, Mrs. W. P. LOW MARKETS!

With practically all stocks at their lowest price in years—with the wave of pessimism sweeping over the country over the war cloud—with thousands of weakly margined accounts liquidated—

Surely this is the time for the investor with money to pick up some rare "buys".

The recent price-smashing wave has caused a slump in nearly all stocks, although their intrinsic value is unimpaired.

Our advice is—take advantage of the present prices.

Bedrooms & Beds

There's nothing more important to the bedroom than the Bed itself, is there? From the point of usefulness or ornament it ranks first. Does your Bed suit your taste? Does it harmonize with your room? Does it give you the sleep-comfort you need? No? Well, then it's time to discard it and get another, quick.

We are showing All-Brass, Brass and Enamel, and All-Enamel Beds in all sizes and very fine designs. Each and all of which Beds can be fitted with Springs and Wool or Felt Mattresses if desired.

Prices quoted on request.

The ordinary adding machine only adds. THE DALTON adds, subtracts, multiplies, divides. This is all any adding or calculating machine can do, and THE DALTON furnishes a printed proof of each operation.

Come in and let us demonstrate this last word in adding machines to you.
