IT IS BAD BUSINESS

to allow Schooners and Cargoes on the ocean during the Summer season without adequate insurance protection; but at this period of the year such a course is equal to suicide. Consider what one loss may mean to you. Your business may be crippled for years. In any case your working capital would be greatly reduced. Consider then the small amount of premium asked for insurance against such a contingency. COVER UP YOUR INTERESTS TO-DAY AND AVOID AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE.

The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

OR

"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XXII

She had striven to speak calmly; but Lloyd, watching her, saw how she trembled, and how but for the support of a chair on which she leaned, she must have fallen. At any other time he would have tried to soothe her distress; but her last words had startled him even beyond his own powers of self-control, and he could only look at her in amazement, and wonder at the meaning of her words.

"You don't understand," she said, striving to steady her trembling lips—"you don't know all. Frank loves her, and Stephen; but Mr. Rutledge was wealthy, and she married him, and they were miserable. She," she went on, with sudden fierceness—"she is the one who deserved to suffer; she was the cause of it all, not Frank, who only faulted in loving her."

"As you say, I do not know all," he answered gravely. "I remember reading the case at the time; but it slipped my memory. Stephen was not even a witness, I think," he went on meditatively. "If he had had anything to say, probably I should remember it all the better on that account. But she is mistaken in the notion that Mr. Greville, who was supposed, I think, to have eloped with the murdered man's wife, was engaged to some young lady here?"

"No, you are not mistaken," she said, desperately. "He was engaged to me."

"To you!" he said, in intense surprise.

"To me."

Lloyd Milner was silent then. Sorry as he had been for Sidney—ay, and for his husband—a few minutes before, he was doubly sorry now; and, although it was impossible that he should guess at all the truth, he could not help filling in for himself the blank

Like a Thief in the Night

The death rate among children of school age is still far too high. One week the child may be at work and play, the next week life itself may be trembling in the balance.

School Children need VIROL

VIROL is the great Life Saving Food. Doctors and Mothers testify again and again to children who owe their very lives to VIROL.

If you give your children VIROL regularly, you will build up their constitutions and give them strength against the crisis.

VIROL

40 million prescribed portions of VIROL were given in over 3,000 Hospitals and clinics last year.

New Laws

RIGHTS OF WOMEN AND "INFANTS"

Three new Acts have come into force in Great Britain: Administration of Justice Act, 1925; Guardianship of Infants Act, 1925; Summary Jurisdiction (Separation and Maintenance) Act, 1925.

In the first, the Lord Chief Justice is given power to dispense with the holding of assizes where unnecessary. There is a scheme for the establishment of district probate registers to supersede the present very much larger number of such offices; and there is an extension of power to make grants of probate and administration in district probate registers.

Henceforward it will be possible for appeals from the equity jurisdiction of country courts to be taken in the Chancery Division.

The second Act lays down the principle that "the welfare of the infant" (a person under 21) shall be regarded as "the first and paramount consideration" in deciding all questions relating to the custody or upbringing of an infant, or the administration of the infant's property. To effect the mother is put on an equal footing with the father in the power to appoint testamentary guardians, and the rights of the surviving mother as to guardianship are equal to those hitherto belonging to the surviving father.

A Wife's Rights.

Under the third Act it will no longer be necessary for a wife seeking separation and maintenance orders to prove that the cruelty or neglect of the husband has caused her to live apart from him.

Among new grounds for such orders granted to husband or wife is that the other has been guilty of persistent cruelty to the children.

An act of misconduct hitherto could invalidate an order granted to a wife, but the court now has discretion to refuse to discharge the order if the failure of the husband to make proper payments.

An "habitual drunkard" henceforward will include one who takes opium or other dangerous drugs.

CHAPTER XXIII

The snow was falling softly, covering the town of Ashford, the park at Lambewold, and the pretty ornamental grounds surrounding Easthorpe with a pure spotless covering charming to look at from the windows of warmed and cozy rooms, but not so pleasant to encounter, if one was compelled to be without at the time. A tired wayfarer, a man who was walking wearily along the high-road leading to Ashford, which town he must walk through before he got to his destination, shook it off his shoulders with an impatient sigh as he went on his way.

Sidney and Christine Greville were in the former's boudoir, watching the flakes as they whirled and danced before the windows, at one of which Sidney stood, an expression of perplexity and care on her fair face as she looked out, while Christine was crouching over the fire, holding out to its warmth two tiny hands which were almost transparent in their emaciation.

It would have been difficult for any one who had not seen Christine Greville for two years to recognize her, and in the past few months especially the change in her had been very great. All her fierce resentment and rebellion against her brother's fate had faded now; she no longer gave way to despair; she had not strength to rebel; she could only suffer.

Walter: "Yes, sir, we're very up-to-date here. We cook everything by electricity."

Customer: "Is that so? Well, suppose you give this steak another shock."

Labour Party Leadership

One conclusion that can now be formed from the Labour Party conference at Liverpool, writes a Political Correspondent, is that Mr. MacDonald is still firmly established as the natural leader of the party.

Nor does there now appear any reason to predict a split between the left and right wings of the party with the object of forming a more progressive left party under separate leadership.

One reason for this may be a falling-off of the influence exercised by Mr. John Wheatley, the Clyde-side ex-Minister of Health. If any left party is formed it is now more likely to be frankly Communist.

Another Forth Bridge

The River Forth at Stirling is to be spanned by another bridge, to provide more convenient communication between the burgh of Stirling and the village of Cambuskenneth, to reach which by road a long detour is necessary. There is a ferry service in operation, but this is now somewhat out of date.

Plans for the erection of a two-span flat arch ferro-concrete bridge, 14 ft. wide, and to carry a load of 12 tons, have been approved by the Joint Bridge Committee of Stirling County Council and Stirling Town Council. The cost will be £11,562, towards which an unemployment relief grant of £2625 will be received.

"The City That Never Sleeps"

Heart Appealing Feature by the Man Who Made "The Covered Wagon," at the Majestic To-night.

Is a modern girl safer in the full glare of the bright lights than behind the drawn curtain of society homes?

Indirectly, that question is answered in powerful, compelling fashion in the new James Cruse production for Paramount, "The City That Never Sleeps."

The story begins on the Bowery in 1910. Miss Dresser, destined to become known throughout all New York as "Mother O'Day," decides her saloon is no place to rear a child, so she makes secret negotiations with a lawyer to have the child adopted by an impoverished Fifth Avenue society woman. This is Miss Williams.

Years pass, and the saloon becomes a modern jazz cafe. The girl (Virginia Lee Corbin), believes that Miss Williams is her aunt, and Miss Williams herself does not know whose the child is. Every year she receive payment through the lawyer.

Mother O'Day, who has gone along believing her child was being reared in "refinement," suddenly discovers that she has become a modern jazz man. Highball-drinking, cigarette-smoking sapper, and that she is engaged to a man Mother O'Day believes to be an unscrupulous fortune hunter. How can she save her child without disclosing her secret? That is the mother's problem. She solves it in an entirely original and unsuspected way, and Director Cruse builds the story up through a smashing series of incidents to a tremendous climax.

"The City That Never Sleeps," which will be the feature at the Majestic Theatre to-night was adapted to the screen by Walter Woods and Anthony Coldewey from the magazine serial, "Mother O'Day," by Leroy Scott. There's a high class supporting cast.

Fire on S. S. Mary

The Central and East End Fire Companies were called to George Nell's wharf at 11.30 yesterday to extinguish a blaze which was discovered in the engine room of the S.S. Mary. Due to the promptness of Sergeant Nugent, who rung in an alarm on seeing smoke issuing from the ship, the fire had gained but little headway and was easily extinguished with the aid of chemicals.

PHYSICAL CULTURE SCHOOL.

I instruct—men, women and children personally, in classes and by mail to all parts of the country. After long study and experimenting I am now able to cure many diseases through fasting and physical culture with my assistant Miss Otilija Letland, Lady Physical Instructor, Face, Hair and Teeth Specialist.

Any lady who would wish to beautify her form, face, teeth and hair, do not let this opportunity pass. Private office and office hours for lady pupils. Do not be shy or slow about calling for your first lesson, don't worry about any one seeing you come to my office. You want to forget about some of your childish thoughts and worries and try to look for something greater in life. Fear and worry is your worst enemy, health, strength and development is your best friend. I can and will help you in every way if you will let me. I am talking from experience, no other man has ever climbed up the hill in life as fast as I have myself, within the last two and a half years. I was under medical treatment for over 8 years and was in poor health when I first started to exercise about two and a half years ago. I am to-day about ready to meet any man in the world of any weight for a strength contest, but will not be in any hurry about it. I will gain more strength within the next year or so, than I had when I started to exercise. I am telling you this just to show you what can be accomplished through physical culture and don't want you to mistake me in any way, and think that I am boasting. I am just advertising what I have done and can do, and I am not altogether interested in myself alone. It is a great pleasure for me to enroll a weak little boy or man and transform his body over into a real strong, well developed boy or man.

Special Notice to All Pupils—I will be performing 3 or 4 days a week, one night in each town the next month or so. I will be in St. John's every Friday and Saturday of each week, and would like for you all to make it a point to take your lesson on Friday and Saturday any time in the day or night that suits you.

Special notice to all people in Bay Roberts, Harbor Grace and Placentia, Nfld.—I will perform at Bay Roberts Monday night, Oct. 19th, Harbor Grace, Tuesday night, Oct. 20th, Placentia, Wednesday night, Oct. 21, 1925. Don't miss your opportunity of seeing this performance. A free dance following each performance. I guarantee you all a real good time.

Young People's Day at St. Mary's Church

Yesterday was observed as Young People's Day in St. Mary's Church. There was a corporate celebration of Holy Communion at 1.45 a.m. when a very large number of young people, their parents and friends approached its altar. The choir was in attendance and a semi-choral service was rendered. The Rev. A. B. S. Stirling was celebrant, being assisted by Rev. J. Goodland, who gave a brief but most practical address.

At Matins the Rector occupied the pulpit and dealt with the Religious Instinct in the Child, emphasizing the fact that this instinct needs to be very carefully guided and trained, being, as it is the very foundation of religious education and development in child-life. The preacher closed his remarks by asserting that the greatest asset of any community is its Young Life.

It was an inspiring sight to "look upon" an immense number of young people who gathered in the Church at 3 p.m. for a special service. The full choir attended and led the worship of praise which was most inspiring. An address was delivered by Rev. Canon Facey, Principal of Queen's College. The speaker based his remarks on the story of "The Builders," emphasizing specially the seven pillars which support the enduring structure, viz., Faith, Obedience, Love, Truth, Gentleness, Prayer and Work. Canon Facey earnestly appealed to the young folk to build the structure of their lives on the Sure Foundation, and to erect the lasting pillars referred to.

The closing service of this memorial day was Evening which was attended by an immense congregation.

Rev. J. Goodland delivered an appealing message from the words "Remember Thy Creator." The preacher addressed himself to the two main divisions of his hearers—young people and their parents and guardians. It was a great exhortation and made a fitting close to a day which will long be remembered by all who took part in any of the services.

Maple Icing:

I find that I can make delicious cakes with Crisco, just as with expensive butter. When a recipe calls for butter, I use the same amount of Crisco and add one teaspoon of salt for each cup of Crisco used.

The Halifax Road Race

Newfoundland has good reason to be very proud of her runners who took part in the Halifax Herald road race Saturday afternoon, not only on account of their brilliant achievement, but because of their splendid exhibition of grit and endurance.

The undertaking of such a venture in itself called for confidence and pluck; to have secured a close second place—which but for a misfortune might have been a first—and also the fourth, seventh and twelfth places on a strange track, and against a field of twenty-nine selected competitors, is a proud record; to have won the team prize from the Wanderers is a triumph.

Keen interest was taken by the community throughout the whole course of training of our runners, and on Saturday afternoon an immense crowd gathered round the Telegram notice board where news of the progress of the competitors was posted as received. When the final results came in, while there was a natural feeling of regret that a Newfoundlander was not first, but everyone concluded the best man had won, and there was great jubilation over the fact that the Newfoundlander boys had done so remarkably well.

The news received later through the Canadian Press that O'Toole had been put out of the running by an obstructing vehicle at the close of the race, was learnt, however, with surprise and considerable indignation, and while we cannot but say frankly that it was a most regrettable incident, we feel convinced that the resentment felt in the city cannot be greater than that of the citizens of Halifax, particularly as it robbed a visitor of the chance of winning at the most critical moment in the race and prevented the contest from being decided on merit.

Sufficient information is not yet forthcoming to understand fully how it happened that a vehicle obstructed the course just at a place where there should have been a clear run home. Under no circumstances would such a thing have been possible here, and it should not have been allowed to occur in Halifax. If we accuse those who had charge of the race of mismanagement, it is only because they have thrown themselves open to criticism, and while we do not for a moment suggest that an unsportsmanlike act was committed, which would be an unpardonable offence, it is most unfortunate that they have placed themselves in the position of having to make an explanation, and explanations as to why a contestant wins in a sporting event should never be necessary and in fact seldom proves convincing.

All honour to the boys who scored such a signal success! In a few days they will return to the city, and we feel certain that the reception which they receive will lack nothing of all that is meant by a real Newfoundland welcome.

Hope Springs Eternal

Of late there have been signs of returning vitality in the camp of the opposition after a considerable period of a somnolent lack of interest in public affairs, and the actions and expressions of some of the aforesaid heavyweights in the political ring might be taken seriously were they more original; as it is, they are only mildly amusing.

Trusting to the forgiving nature of the general public, or to its short memory in matters which have made, or rather have marred history, these gentry are trying to stage a comeback after their ignominious defeat, but their timeworn old tactics mislead but few, and their virtuous garb is somewhat too threadbare to conceal their blemishes.

It matters not that the impending crisis, of which they warn the public, is apparent only to themselves; they see nothing ludicrous in talking poverty and unemployment, when everything is prospering and the employment bureau is idle; in damning the administrative ability of those in power, they would have the public forget the fact that their own incompetency has been proven and punished, and they see nothing incongruous in being as thick as thieves to-day with those who yesterday were their sworn enemies.

There was a time when noisy demonstrations, flaring posters and claptrap could stampede the public, or even a few paid brawlers could intimidate the Legislature, but those days are past, and the aspiring politician who resorts to such methods to-day makes himself ridiculous and only hastens his political demise. That this is true was practically demonstrated in the last general election and again in the bye election in Bonavista Bay, and the wonder is that the lesson was not learnt.

If there is some question at issue, the decision may safely be left to the intelligence of the community at the proper time and place, for clearly it has learnt to distinguish between cant and sincerity, and to value at their true worth those who have found it necessary to become the trumpeters of their own virtues.

For the individual or the team that accepts defeat gamely there is every sympathy, but whines and protests arouse no feeling but contempt, and the blusterer is invariably an object of ridicule. Is it any wonder then that the public remain utterly indifferent to the jerebards heard in certain quarters, or are unmoved unless it is to laughter by the loud demands for another chance? And is it surprising that the people, whose lot is happier by far than it has been for years, refuse to allow themselves to be used as a battering ram to knock down the walls which have not fallen flat at the blasts of the brazen trumpets?

Magistrate's Court

A drunk in charge of a horse was fined $2 or 7 days. Two drunks were each fined $1 or 3 days and blacklisted. A carman for failing to stop his horse while passengers were alighting from a street car was fined $5 or in default 10 days imprisonment. A man convicted of selling cigarettes to a minor was fined $10. Fifteen delinquents were summoned for non-payment of poll tax up to 15th November last. They all made good the amounts with the exception of two. A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of the latter for failing to answer the summons.

Opening of the Industrial Fair

The Industrial Fair in the Prince's Rink, was opened this afternoon by His Excellency the Governor, in the presence of a large and representative gathering of citizens. Full particulars of the occasion will be given in to-morrow's issue.

Installation to Canonry

THE PRINCIPAL OF QUEEN'S INDUCED TO THE STALL OF ST. PATRICK AT THE ANGLICAN CATHEDRAL.

Yesterday morning the Feast of St. Luke, the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland, acting in his capacity as Dean, in the presence of three of his Chapter and a large congregation, installed as Canon and inducted to the Stall of St. Patrick, the Rev. N. S. Facey, LL.D., Principal of Queen's College.

The members of the Chapter in attendance were Rev. Canon Jeeves, (sub-dean), Rev. Canon Bell (Registrar), and Rev. Canon Field. The student together with the Vice-Principal and Mr. S. S. Horsley, Resident Lecturer.

After the chanting of the psalms the Bishop, seated in his chair as Dean at the choir steps, received the Canon-elect, who was presented by the Sub-Dean and Canon Field. After the Bishop's mandatory letter had been read by the Registrar, the Canon-elect was solemnly installed and inducted having first duly made the customary declarations. Canon Facey then publicly recited the Lord's Prayer and read the first lesson, afterwards preaching the sermon, taking as his subject St. Luke, the Evangelist and Physician.

Dr. Facey is a son of the late Robert and Caroline Facey, and was born at Trinity. He received his early education there and at Bishop Peild College, later proceeding to St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, where under the wardenship of Dr. Murray, he studied Divinity for three years. On the completion of his course he returned to Newfoundland and was admitted to Deacon's Orders by the late Bishop, Dr. Jones, on the Festival of All Saints' 1906. After serving as curate to the present Bishop at Heart's Content, Canon Facey, on his ordination to the Priesthood, became Incumbent of Change Islands. In 1911 he obtained leave of absence in order to pursue a further course of study at the Universities of Durham and Cambridge, where he ultimately graduated as B.A. and LL.B., having taken the Honours Courses in Law and Philosophy. Later he incorporated into Trinity College, Dublin, where he successfully passed the examination for the degree of Doctor of Laws.

During his stay in England the war broke out, and Dr. Facey interrupted his studies to serve as a Chaplain in the Forces, first in England and later in Belgium he saw much active service.

On his return to Newfoundland in 1919 the Bishop appointed him Principal of Queen's College. In this position Canon Facey has rendered a unique and distinguished service to the Church. His appeal for a new endowment for the College resulted finally in the sum of $50,000, this being largely subscribed in small sums by the Church of England people of the Diocese. He has added Vice-Principal and a Resident Lecturer; has trebled the number of students; and adjusted the courses of studies pursued at the College to make them correspond with those now general at the colleges in England. Queen's College in this way greatly benefitting from its association with Durham University.

In addition to his work at Queen's Canon Facey has rendered valuable work as Hon. Sec. of the Board of Directors of the C. of E. College, and as a member of the Executive of the Synod. All of those who during the past six years have witnessed the growth and development of Queen's College and its work, will unite in rejoicing at the honor which the Bishop has conferred on its Principal.

Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D.

WILL BE PREACHER AT COCHRANE ST. CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY.

Last evening at Cochrane Street Centennial Church a most thoughtful and earnest sermon was preached by the Rev. E. C. French on the special theme of Thanksgiving, preparatory to the annual thanksgiving services to be held next Sunday. It was announced during the service that the Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., of Toronto, who up to June last was the General Superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada and Newfoundland, would be the special preacher at both Thanksgiving services next Sunday, when a special offering is to be made for the further reduction of the debt on the church.

Will Hold Investigation

An investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of the girl, Beattie Barrett, whose body was found in Quiet Bay Lake yesterday, will likely begin to-morrow. The post mortem examination, showed no marks on the body or disclosed no reason for committing suicide, and the conclusion is that she was temporarily insane.

TRIAL TO-MORROW—The trial of Gertrude Ashley, who is charged with perjury, takes place in the Supreme Court to-morrow before a special jury.

Wesley Church Notes

Yesterday was Sunday School Day, and there was a large attendance at all the services. Rev. C. H. Johnson, M.A., in the morning preached an excellent sermon on "The Authority of Jesus".

In the afternoon there was a grand rally of all departments of the Sunday School. Mr. Robert Jaggus, Supt., presided, and an address of welcome was well spoken by two little girls, Gertrude and Joyce Butler. It charmed everybody, and the chorus "We are little builders" by the Primary Dept. went splendidly. Misses Cox and Driscoll sang a duet very nicely, but the item contributed by 16 girls from the Methodist Orphanage was just delightful. The audience was greatly pleased and Misses Staples and Leslie could see that their training was appreciated.

Rev. S. J. Mathers, M.A., a specialist in "Young People's Religious Training" was introduced and he presented an expert in holding the attention of all was soon demonstrated. His stories and clear voice will make him a popular speaker. The "Sunbeam Class" filled the choir gallery, thirty young ladies led by Mr. Pratt, and "This is my Father's World" and later the Adult Men's Bible Class, number about sixty, and making a fine appearance almost filling the east gallery, rang out in fine style that grand old hymn, "Star of peace to wanderers weary." Its inspiring prayer for those in peril at sea was appropriate.

At the evening service, Rev. J. G. Joyce, B.A. delivered a very able discourse on "The Bible, Christianity's Inspired Book, the story of man's search and discovery of God and God's seeking and finding man. It was a powerful defence of the inspiration and authority of Holy Scripture, the pearl of greatest price and permanent value. That no prospector has ever discovered such a mine of wealth was fully proved as he quoted eminent authorities on the value of the Bible as an uplifting force not only in determining the conduct of the individual but the shaping of the destiny of the nations and the true secret of greatness. A. W. M.

Caribou's Hour of Arrival Uncertain

SHIP DELAYED ON ACCOUNT OF STORM.

According to a message received by the railway management from Capt. Stevenson of S.S. Caribou, the time of the ship's arrival is uncertain, as since Saturday last she has been bucking against a heavy N. N. W. gale. The latest message received was at noon yesterday, when Capt. Stevenson reported that the ship's progress was slow since Saturday owing to a raging sea. Her position was then lat. 47.44 N., long. 45.15 W., which is about 300 miles off this coast.

Lady Allardyce Presented With Three Flowers

A feature of the opening ceremony at the Industrial Fair this afternoon will be the presentation to Lady Allardyce of a De Luxe package of "Three Flowers" Toilettries. The package, which is a magnificent creation of the perfumer's art, is beautifully finished in Pink, White and Green, the Newfoundland colours, and was designed expressly for the occasion by Richard Hudnut, New York. Little Miss Mary Martin, daughter of Mrs. and Mr. M. E. Martin, who will be attired in an appropriate costume suggestive of "Three Flowers", will present the package to Her Excellency immediately after the Governor's opening address. The package is described as follows: Presented to Her Excellency Lady Allardyce as a souvenir of the Newfoundland Industrial Fair, 1925, with compliments of "THREE FLOWERS."

Ayre & Sons Up-to-Date Showroom

ENTERPRISING FIRM INSTALLS ELABORATE SHOW CASES.

Keeping abreast of the times Messrs. Ayre & Sons have recently had installed in their show rooms, magnificent display cases of the most modern design, and equal to the best to be found in the great departmental stores abroad. There are cases for the display of hats, ribbons, underwear, small articles, such as combs, pins, etc., and each case is specially designed for the particular class of goods which it contains.

From the artistic point of view the Show Room is a work of beauty, the advantage to customers is apparent and the old method of opening box after box has become a relic of the past, and customers need no longer fear putting assistants to trouble in making a selection. Stocks that were under the old system take hours to show can be seen at a glance, and there is no more need for the assistant to call attention either to the fact that such and such an article is in stock or to point out the good points of the article. The customers see for themselves. The cases are the product of Kent McClain, Toronto.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Oct. 17th—Up betimes and abroad, the weather pretty fair, yet a great deal of dust about. Meeting Povey, he tells me how the new street coach will be here soon, and their colour being red, methinks are like to be known as the "Crimson Perils." Much excitement everywhere about the Halifax Road Race and all pleased that our competitors should do so well. I am not so well pleased, however, concerning the sweepstakes I did buy this day, finding that one of these unclaimed did have the same time as a ticket I have and so pleased at the thought that I had won a prize at last, did spend the half of it on a gift for my wife. But Lord, anon examining my ticket do find it bears the wrong entry number and I have won no prize at all, but at rather money out. This a good lesson to me to be more observant in the future.

A great storm of wind all this night, so I home and do toast my feet before a great fire and read in a book of M. Arlens, to my great content. Oct. 18th, (Lord's Day)—Lay long, being a mighty cold day and blowing hard. Indeed, at times 'twas so dark, that I did greatly fear a fall of snow. Anon up and to dine, my wife and I, with the Poveys, in their motor coach, but the wind too high and the dust so annoying that we took little pleasure from it. Passing the new hotel, do notice how quickly it is being built, and do reflect the greatest credit to the workmen. Much discussion in the press concerning a name for it, but Lord, how better can any name advertise the country than the one it bears, being the Newfoundland Hotel, and to call it Fort William, or Sebastian or aught else, would be methinks a foolish thing.

Stinnes's Hotels

The two famous Stinnes hotels, the Esplanade in Berlin and the Atlantic in Hamburg, have just been bought by a consortium consisting of the Ritz and Carlton of London and the brothers Brenner, owners of the famous Stephanie Hotel in Baden-Baden.

Hugo Stinnes bought the hotels for a song from the founders, Princes Furstenberg and Hohenlohe-Ohringen, after the losses during the war and the years of currency inflation had decimated the fortunes of the two noblemen.

The Stinnes fortune in its turn has suffered so greatly through the currency stabilization in Germany that the hotels formerly reckoned worth well over £1,000,000 sterling, have now brought only £260,000.

The Piccadilly Button

ELECTRIC SIGNALS PLAN.

Among novel traffic-control devices for London that are under consideration is one for the simultaneous stoppage and movement of north and south-bound traffic at all crossings in Piccadilly between the Circus and Devonshire House.

The policeman opening or closing the north and south traffic lines at the Circus would, by moving an electric switch, communicate a similar and simultaneous order to all the crossings farther west along Piccadilly—Sackville Street, Bond Street, Albemarle Street, Dover Street, and Berkeley Street.

The object is to secure uniformity of traffic movement and to avoid the delays to east and west-bound traffic consequent on the irregularly timed stoppages at the various crossings.

Estimates for the installation of the system are to be considered by the Traffic Advisory Committee.

The White Line.

The use of white lines on the roads as warning signals to traffic is now spreading so rapidly that there are few parts of the country where they are not seen.

In cities and towns a development in the painting of two white lines across the road to mark crossings for pedestrians, the lines serving both as a warning to traffic and as boundaries outside which people crossing should not stray.

The Ministry of Transport had announced its intention of calling a conference to standardise the use of white lines, but it was stated recently that no date will be fixed for this yet. The reason given was that it would be better for local authorities to gain experience of the system before standardisation.

NO WORK.

"I can't get work," said Sherlock (Shirk), his mien inviting pity; "in vain I trot from lot to lot, throughout the heartless city. I wish to toll that I may holl some cabbage from my niece; I make my pleas on bended knees, but they are shot to pieces. There are no jobs," so Sherlock sobs, for one who's strong and willing; on weary feet I pace the street, and fail to make a killing." Yet other men earn franc and yen, to work they're blithely skating; if fate should rob them of one job, they find another waiting. There's Jimpson Jawn, who mows my lawn, and prunes the ready hedge, who's making good at hewing wood with saw and axe and wedges; he does his tasks and never asks a question that would grieve me, and all I fear is that some year he'll pack his traps and leave me. For there are scores of moneyed bores who'd have him in their service; and they'd engage to raise his wages—their efforts keep me nervous. They come and fawn on Jimpson Jawn, and beg him to consider; the dread is mine that he'll resign, and seek the highest bidder. I do not think that any sink who works with fiery ardor need join the mob that has no job and nothing in the larder. Employers long for workers strong and quick and blithe and willing; such men don't walk around the block where busted ones are drilling.

When the Prince of Wales visited Buenos Aires arrangements were made for school children in that city to sing before him the National Anthem in English. How they recanted the Spanish accent with that attempt is indicated by a phonetic version of the anthem printed in the "Standard," Buenos Aires. The title of the anthem is translated "Himno Ingles." The following is the version, as phonetically sung, of the first two verses:—

Halifax Herald Modified Marathon

R. O'TOOLE J. BELL

Ronald O'Toole and John Bell, Favourites, with Three Others in the Halifax Modified Marathon Race, Finished Second and Fourth Respectively—Newfoundland's Hope for First Place Honours Was Shattered in its Crucial Stages when O'Toole Was Forced to the Sidewalk—Newfoundland Won Team Trophy by Wide Margin—John C. Miles of Cape Breton, the Winner, Unofficial Time, 53.48 3-5; O'Toole Second, 54.04—Stone comes seventh and Ralph twelfth.

O'TOOLE WAS FORCED TO SIDE-WALK 200 YARDS FROM FINISH—VEHICLE CROSSED THE COURSE.

(Canadian Press.)
HALIFAX, Oct. 17.—John C. Miles, Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, Canadian 5-Mile Champion, won the Halifax Herald's Annual Ten Mile Road Race here this afternoon, defeating R. O'Toole, St. John's, by about 25 yards. Miles' time was 53 minutes, 48 3-5 sec. The St. John's Nfld. team, consisting of O'Toole, Bell, Stone and Ralph, won the team prize. O'Toole's time was 54 min. 4 2-5 secs. Bell came fourth; time, 55 min. 28 sec. Stone seventh; time, 57 minutes, 1 sec. Ralph twelfth; time, 59 minutes, 34 sec. Hawboldt, Westville, N.S., came third and McLellan, Noel, N.S., came fifth. Miles and O'Toole started a grueling contest, the two men running neck and neck to within a couple of yards of the finish when a vehicle crossing the course caused the Newfoundland boy to take to the sidewalk. Miles thus secured an advantage which O'Toole was unable to overcome. Both runners finished strong and in excellent form. Thirty-three men started and all finished. The race was run in a heavy downpour of rain. The Newfoundland boys are to compete in indoor athletic meet at Dartmouth, N.S., on Monday, and will leave for home Tuesday.

Manager Robertson sent the following message to the Halifax Herald Marathon Sweepstake Committee on Saturday night:

"O'Toole second, Bell fourth, Stone seventh, Ralph twelfth. Boys won team prize; all satisfied and happy. They are taking part in Dartmouth indoor sports on Monday night, which includes two-mile relay, one mile, etc. O'Toole led for six miles, then O'Toole and Miles ran neck and neck till about six hundred yards from finish when Miles spurred and beat O'Toole to tape by forty yards. Boys were all in at the finish but are O.K. now; sincerely hope you are satisfied. They did wonderful work considering the terrible muddy road, and the heavy rain, which fell for the entire race never let up. Their uniforms are ruined and I am saving them for the Exhibition. We have won a beautiful shield and four cups."
ROBERTSON.

A message from Mr. J. E. Ahearn, Sporting Editor of the Halifax Herald, to Mr. J. M. Tobin, was received, reading as follows:

HALIFAX, Oct. 17, 1925.
J. M. Tobin, Esq.,
St. John's, Nfld.
Miles beat O'Toole by twenty yards in a wonderful race. Newfoundland wins club championship.
AHEARN.

Later in the evening Rev. Fr. O'

there were great hopes of one or the other carrying off the much coveted honours. Hence all anxiously awaited the result. Before dinner Saturday the spirits of the crowd were lowered somewhat when a message came through that it was pouring rain in Halifax. Nevertheless there was general excitement in town at 3.30 p.m. when a flash message was posted on the Telegram notice board that the race was on, with Bell in the lead. About half an hour later a flash message to the Anglo stated that O'Toole and Miles were leading at Armdale, over half the course, followed by Bell and Hawboldt, while the next in order were Donald Young and Gower Stone. At 4.15 p.m. a third message to the Anglo stated that Miles had won over O'Toole by twenty yards in a sprint to the tape, and further that Hawboldt finished third, Bell fourth, Stone seventh and Ralph twelfth. When this message had been received all felt that our local runners had done wonderfully well, considering they had to run the race in a downpour of rain, over a heavy and muddy road. But at the same time there was general regret felt that O'Toole, the local champion, should have lost the race by such a small margin. According to a message received by Mgr. Robertson, O'Toole led for six miles, then both he and Miles travelled the remainder of the distance neck and neck, and just about the time when O'Toole was preparing to make the supreme effort to shake off his opponent to bring honour to his native land, he, as already stated, was robbed of his chance. However, when the news flashed across the wires that Newfoundland had won the team prize by 25 points, there was great jubilation.

The team as a whole no doubt ran a wonderful race, having secured second, fourth, seventh and twelfth places, which is the best performance of any one team since the year 1908. They have annexed four silver cups and a beautiful silver shield. Such is the splendid record of Newfoundland's representatives in the Halifax Herald Modified Marathon, for the year 1925.

As yet no official time has been received, but the time as received by the Anglo and as mentioned in the Canadian Press despatch, if true, can be considered wonderful, under the wretched conditions with which they had to contend. The winner's unofficial time is 53 min. 48 3-5 seconds. If this proves to be correct, it will mean that the showing made beat the previous record of MacAnlay by over two minutes. Many are of opinion that the course as run over on Saturday was much shorter of the course previously run over, but this cannot be verified until full particulars of the race have been received. The order of the finish with unofficial times, is as follows:—
1st, John C. Miles, Cape Breton; Time 53.48 3-5 sec.
2nd, Ronald O'Toole, Nfld.; Time 54.04.
3rd, J. Hawboldt, Halifax.
4th, J. Bell, Nfld.; Time 55.38.
5th, S. McLellan, Noel, N.S.
6th, D. Young, (Wanderers).
7th, G. Stone, Nfld.; Time 57.07.
12th, J. Ralph, Nfld.; Time 59.34.

Thirty-seven entries had been received for the race, but only thirty-three started. Four having been turned down by the medical examiners before the race. The Newfoundland team under their trainer and manager Eric Robertson, have proved themselves foemen worthy of their steel. Handicapped somewhat by a stormy passage of 61 hours to Halifax, and with only a few days left at their disposal to prepare for the long grind, their victory can be considered all the more remarkable. Eric Robertson, as a team manager, could hardly be improved on. He is a wise and shrewd hand, and by accounts received all four entered the race in the pink of condition. This has been more than proven by the outcome of the race. Although the runners were in a bad state after the finish, this was caused by the fact, that the going was very strenuous, the road being filled with mud due to the torrential rain storm before and during the race.

Many telegrams of congratulations were sent the boys on their prowess. As a fitting tribute to the success of the Athletes, a public demonstration should take place on their arrival. They are richly deserving of it, and we feel sure that if such an event should take place every man woman and child in the city of St. John's, will join in extending the team a right royal hearty Newfoundland welcome.

The following message was received by Mr. J. R. Robertson this morning from his son Eric:—
"All boys well, and delighted with result. Returning Tuesday by Rosalind."

During the progress of the race on Saturday, the positions of the runners was announced from time to time on a notice board in the Telegram window.

A Great Woman Ruler

By ONE WHO KNOWS HER.

Her Highness Nawab Sultan Jehan, Begum of Bhopal, in Central India, who is visiting London on her second visit to England, is one of the outstanding women of our time. Since the beginning of the century she has ruled Bhopal with vigor and efficiency, and has worthily maintained the traditions established by her famous grandmother, Sikandar Begum. For nearly eighty years Bhopal has been the only State of India to be under the rule of a woman, and to-day it has reason to rejoice in the distinction. The Begum Sahiba is a devout Moslem, and many years ago made the pilgrimage to Mecca and Medina; but she is both original and progressive in thought and outlook.

Her first visit to this country was in the year of the Coronation of King George, and we may be sure that the feature of the great social and political changes which separate us from 1911 will attract the interest of Her Highness more than the advance of women in so many directions. She is an eager supporter of female education in her State, and though she has not finally renounced purdah she does not wear the veil with any strictness. Only a few weeks ago she allowed herself to be photographed with face unveiled for newspaper reproductions, when engaged in the favourite pastime of water-colour painting.

The Begum has had a full measure of domestic vicissitude. She was kept under a system of jealous suppression by her mother; she lost her husband six months after her accession in 1901; and last year her heir, Nawab Nasrullah Khan, and her second son, Brigadier-General Nawab Ostadulla Khan, died within a few weeks of each other, both leaving two boys. Her only surviving child is Sahibzada Mahomed Hamidulla Khan, who has two daughters, and by whom she is accompanied on her present visit.

It is understood that the Begum has made representations to the Government of India asking for the Sahibzada to be recognized as the heir instead of the elder boy of the late Nawab Nasrullah Khan. It is believed that she has based the application partly on Islamic law and partly on local family custom, as against the ordinary rules of primogeniture. The issue is a complicated one and is under investigation by the Viceroy.

Krassin as Coal Dealer

Extraordinary interest has been taken in the arrival at Rouen of a Greek ship with a cargo of Russian anthracite consigned to Krassin, the Soviet Ambassador in Paris.

It is reported that the coal has been delivered at a price one-third less than English anthracite, and it is also stated that the Soviet means to become a serious competitor with Britain in the Foreign coal market.

The assertion of the Soviet agents that the coal is as good as, if not better than, British coal is received somewhat sceptically by French coal buyers.

Tariff Campaign

A scheme involving the expenditure of £60,000 upon a campaign to promote the safeguarding of British industries will be considered by the National Union of Manufacturers at its annual general meeting.

The administrative committee of the union recommends that it should concentrate its energies on a vigorous and sustained educational campaign to demonstrate to the country generally that a considered tariff on imported goods is one of the few remedies for the relief of British trade difficulties.

The means which it is proposed to adopt in the campaign, include:

1. School of trained lecturers on economics, who will cover the whole country by an organised lecturing campaign upon all matters affecting British industry.
2. Special statistical bureau for disseminating information on vital business matters.
3. A publicity department to follow up the work of lecturers.

The new scheme will be directed by Sir John Corcoran, who is shortly relinquishing his post as Director of Army Contracts. To cover the programme indicated, it is estimated that £20,000 per annum will be required for the next three years, and the union is appealing to manufacturers to subscribe towards the cost of the campaign.

Distressed After Meals?

Indigestion, no matter how slight, is a nuisance. It can ruin the good nature of the most genial of us.

If you are troubled this way, you'll be glad to know a simple way to avoid it.

Just try eating a few pep-o-mint Life Savers after meals.

It's wonderful how these little mint circles relieve that heavy, lousy feeling after eating.

Probably that's why our grandfathers so often had their bulky little bags of peppermints handy in their pockets.

Life Savers are grand-dad's bag of peppermints up to date.

Dentists were much interested in a type of denture which has been in use in the United States for some time, consisting of a background of vulcanite on the surface of which a thin layer of pure gold is chemically deposited. On top of this any desired thickness of gold can be added by an electric bath.

This gives the possessor a perfectly-fitting vulcanite denture covered with gold which is so easy to keep clean. Among the subjects on which lectures will be given is a dental germicide rejoicing in the name of trichlorophenylmethyldioacetyl—Mercurially known as T.C.P. for short.

Lessons of the Manoeuvres

AEROPLANES THE STRONGEST ARM—FAITH IN TANKS UNSHAKEN.

To hear with what masterly grasp of the tactics of their generals the hundreds of young officers here discuss the Army manoeuvres just concluded is to realize that the mimic war just held will undoubtedly prove the most valuable ever held.

It was aimed at teaching the generals of the future, rather than testing the commanders of the present, so well tested have they been by the present war.

important, why, and after that, why it failed or succeeded.

The cumulative opinions of the "spectator officers" who have peeped into every corner of the battlefield and yet have always seen the whole form as good a criticism of the campaign as one could get anywhere.

Aeroplane they regard as the strongest arm of any general, robbing an army of men and materials if it tries to move in the open. Dragon-drawn artillery they hail as a great improvement, although I found few who would take away the horses from the dashing Royal Horse Artillery.

Infantry, moved on wheels and tractors, they regard as essential to any army, and their entire belief in tanks has been very little shaken by the fact that most of the tanks used in the war between Wessex and Mercia were adjudged lost. There is considerable support for the idea that cavalry and tanks should be brought up in the science of warfare side by side.

Medical statistics will show that no army of such size has endured such rigours of weather and marching with such few casualties. The 3rd Battalion Grenadier Guards have gone through five weeks' training and the manoeuvres without losing a single man through sickness.

Guards March 60 Miles.

Part of the 1st Guards Brigade marched 60 miles—not counting the extra miles caused by development—in the 70 hours of the manoeuvres, and, despite the rain, had nothing but foot and other minor troubles to report. The 2nd Royal Fusiliers, after a whole day of forced marching, were well enough to play a game of football in which half of the battalion took part.

The generals are certain that the freedom from illness—rheumatism and lumbago have been practically the only troubles—is due to the fact that the Army of to-day is taking part in every kind of field game.

Most of the Army had to sleep another night in the open air before they marched away this morning on embarked in crowded troop trains. But they were cheerful. Even the 1st Guards Brigade, beginning to march to Aldershot which is to last three days, left the "battlefield" with laughter and song.

The O. M. S.

HOME SECRETARY'S APPROVAL.

The Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, has sent the following letter to a correspondent who consulted him about the Organization for the Maintenance of Supplies (a new body of volunteers to defeat the Communist conspiracy by maintaining food, heat, light, transport, and sanitation services in the event of a general strike.

I will be perfectly frank with you. I have known of the inauguration of this body for many weeks past; in fact, the promoters consulted me as their desire to form some such organization.

I told them quite frankly that it was the duty of the Government to preserve order and to maintain the necessary supplies for keeping the life of the country going in an emergency. This duty the Government is prepared to carry out. My plans have been long since made and have been approved by the Government as a whole.

On the other hand, we have not thought it necessary or desirable to make a public parade of our willingness and ability to do that which is our duty, nor have we desired to assume what might be considered a provocative attitude by enrolling several hundred thousand men who would be willing to assist in maintaining the services vital to the country's life.

Great Assistance.

This being so I told the promoters of the O.M.S. that there was no objection on the part of the Government to their desire to inaugurate the body to which you refer; that, if and when an emergency arose, the Government would discharge the responsibility which is theirs and theirs alone; but that it would be a very great assistance to us to receive from the O.M.S. or from any other body of well-disposed citizens, classified lists of men in different parts of the country who would be willing to place their ser-VICES at the disposal of the Government.

From this statement you will see that not only is there no reason why you should object to the O.M.S., but that you or any other citizen who would desire the maintenance of peace, order, and good government in times of difficulty, would be performing a patriotic act by allowing yourselves with this or any other similar body formed for the sole purpose of helping the public authorities in the way I have suggested.

Congregational Church Celebrates 150 Years

numbered with God's people, with those who are called to be saints in the Church of Jesus Christ, we must do the work of Christ. Wherever that work is to be done, we must be ready to give up our lives and do it.

FOR THIS WAS HE MANIFESTED.

Wherever there are souls that perish because there is none to bear them the good news of Him who reconciled the world to God—we must be active in supplying the need. Wherever there is a crippled child that lacks care and nurture, a mind that is starved and stunted through lack of the light of knowledge, wherever human life becomes debased through evil conditions which we would never tolerate for ourselves, wherever there is a home debased through drink or impoverished by the passion of gambling; wherever men play fast and loose with the higher interests of the people; wherever respectable society is satisfied with a respectable standard of morality and recognizes no higher call; wherever woman's honour and chastity is sold for money; wherever there is the corrupting, cutting, degrading work of sin—there it is our duty and our privilege to be fellow-workers with Jesus in the redemption of the race. For this cause was He manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil.

MY PEOPLE! OUR GOD.

How often in the Bible God speaks of "my people"; how often God teaches us to think and speak of Him as "Our God." God's ownership of man, Man's ownership of God. The Bible is full of these two things. Nor can we separate the one from the other. If we are God's, God is also ours. We are His because He fashioned us, gave us life; not only He is our maker and our King but He is our Redeemer—

"With His own Blood He bought us And for our life He died."

And He, too, is ours. His infinity of wisdom, life and grace and power—the inalienable riches of Christ—these are all ours because He is ours. Ours from the moment that we respond to His call and take upon us His yoke and learn of Him and become fellow labourers together with Him.

One hundred and fifty years ago simple-hearted men and women in this place responded to His call—gave to Him their hearts and their lives. They took upon themselves His yoke and His reproach. And He has owned them and the work which they began. He was not ashamed to call them brethren. And they found Him faithful. In Christ the promises were fulfilled. In Him those promises were Yea and Amen.

We stand in their succession. Now in this 150th centenary as we gather in this act of worship, in the communion of the broken bread and poured out wine, that mystic act which links us on to the fellowship of all who have gone before us and make us one of them—I would pledge you all once more to renew the vow of dedication. Jesus is not ashamed to call us brethren. Shall we be ashamed to own Him Lord of our lives?

Following the service, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered.

Historic Communion Cup

IN POSSESSION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

At the Communion Service held in the Congregational Church, following the regular service last evening, the pastor, Rev. D. L. Nichol, referred to the fact that the Communion cup was perhaps the oldest in the country. It was presented to the Congregational Church here by the Church at Plymouth, England, in 1784, and has been in use ever since.

He's the agent for the jinx machine
And several other brands.
He hasn't shot a horse for years
For fear he'd soil his hands.

He wears a gold watch on his wrist
A pearl pin in his tie,
His lugs are more of amethyst,
The finest he could buy.
There's not a link the smithy wears
That doesn't please the eye.

Week in week out, from morn till night,
He sees the autos come
With brakes that are not working right.

And axles on the bum,
With gas, repairs and grease and oil,
He makes a tidy sum.

He has a staff of skillful men
That number twenty-four,
Who toil from six a.m. till six,
And sometimes even more.
The smithy never does a stroke—
He thinks that work is a bore.

The children come home from school
Look in at the open door,
And laugh to see some city fool
Set up an awkward pair
When called to pay some whopping bill—
The smith has soaked him for.

He goes on Sunday to the kirk,
His mind quite free from cares,
Because his men are hard at work
With punctures and repairs,
And if the weather's fine and warm
The smith says grateful prayers.

Oiling—refilling—repairing,
Onward through life he goes,
And never once despairing
So long as his income grows.
Each night the thought of someone done
Augments his sweet repose.

See Harold Lloyd at the Nickel To-Night

Popular Comedian in "His Royal Styness" and Blanche Sweet in "Sporting Venus."

The Nickel Theatre offers for the week ending a program of features that is difficult to duplicate. First we call your attention to the comedy side of the bill which consists a brilliant comedy classic "His Royal Styness" featuring the inimitable comedian Harold Lloyd. This is the best gloom-chaser you have seen in many a month.

To-day's feature is Marshall Neilan's "The Sporting Venus." And—oh boy what a cast—Blanche Sweet, Lew Cody and Ronald Colman. Blanche Sweet, who has risen to greater heights than ever before since her return to the screen two years ago, plays the titular character of the "Sporting Venus." It is a role which she plays with such dash and finish that it seems impossible that she is the same person who created the screen role of "Anna Christie."

Opposite Miss Sweet in the leading male part is Ronald Colman, who rose to international popularity in "The White Sister," "Tarnish," "Romola" and "Her Night of Romance." Lew Cody, one of the most villainous villains of the screen, combines his usual "cinema" rascalities with some delightful comedy as an impoverished European Prince.

The supporting cast includes Edward Martindel, Kate Price, Arthur Hoyt, Hank Mann, Josephine Crowell, George Fawcett and others.

Fight With Sharks

Albert Medal for Hero Who Swam Alone to Rescue Bather.

A brave but unavailing rescue of a youth attacked by a man-eating shark is described in a recent issue of the London Gazette.

The rescuer, Gordon Lees, of Newcastle, New South Wales, has been awarded the Albert Medal by the King.

Jack Canning, the victim, was attacked by the shark when bathing on the beach at Newcastle, N.S.W., on March 12.

A rush was made to launch the surf beat, but before this could be done, Lees, employed by the city council to assist surf bathers, put on a belt with a life-line attached and swam alone to Canning's assistance.

Canning had been attacked three times by the shark, was terribly injured, and was abandoning all further effort to save himself when Lees reached him.

The shark was then only a few yards away from rescuer and rescued.

Lees lifted Canning up when he was almost submerged, and the two were then immediately hauled in to the beach by the life-line.

Canning died from his injuries shortly afterwards.

GOOD YEAR FOR RUBBER COMPANIES.

Production Heavy and Earnings the Best Since 1920.

(Halfax Chronicle, Oct. 14.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Demand for high-pressure and balloon casings continues unabated, and indications are 1925 will be the best year enjoyed by rubber and tire manufacturers since the industry turned the corner. Continued heavy production of passenger automobiles, buses and commercial trucks presages a large fall and winter demand for tires. Another important factor is the popularization of closed car models which permit use of machines all year round.

Manufacturers have agreed not to ship spring stocks to dealers until the first quarter of 1926 has elapsed, and orders for spring business will not be taken until after the first of the year. This forward step and possible standardization of tire sizes will do much to put the tire and rubber industry on a firm foundation. Elimination of the "spring dating" system will help relieve the acute demand for crude rubber usually prevalent at this time of the year.

Earnings of the leading manufacturers in 1925 will be far in excess of those for any year since 1920. The first statement to be published will be that of Fisk Rubber Co. for fiscal year ended October 31. Sales are expected to approximate $70,000,000, with net profits of over $8,000,000. This compares with sales of $52,946,531 and net profits of $2,736,664 in the previous year. Production of casings and tubes in the first six months alone increased 33 1/2 per cent. over the same period of 1924.

Fisk is entirely free of bank loans, and its only flooded debt consists of $8,474,000 sinking fund 8 per cent. bonds, being retired $500,000 annually. Directors are working on a plan to refund the 26 per cent. dividends accumulated on preferred. Dividends were resumed a short time ago at $1 quarterly, but on August 1 the regular quarterly of $1.75 was declared, placing the stock on its regular annual basis of $7.

In both earnings and sales 1925 will be the best year enjoyed by United States Rubber Co. since 1920. Business in second half is running slightly better than first six months, when net was $5,874,204, or $4.02 a share on $10,000 common shares. In first half of 1924 net of $4,422,487 equalled $2.32 a share on the common. Indications are Rubber's profits will continue to show the same increase the second six months, which will mean the highest earnings since the company's affairs turned the corner.

Sales in six months ended June 30 totalled $82,520,127, while in July and August they were approximately $8,000,000 more than the same two months of last year. It now seems likely sales in 1925 will exceed $200,000,000, giving the second largest turnover in its history.

The company is maintaining an enviable inventory position, especially in crude rubber. Plantation holdings were recently augmented by acquisition of 6000 acres on Malay Peninsula, which brought total acreage above 116,000 in the Far East. The management recently arrived at cost price of 15 cents a pound for crude rubber produced on its own properties, after good allowance for depreciation and development. With crude currently selling around 95 cents, the advantage Rubber has over other manufacturers is obvious.

Improvement in affairs of B. F. Goodrich Co. was attended when directors resumed dividends on common early this year at $4 annually, after a lapse of over four years. In quarter ended Sept. 30 earnings were sufficient to pay the full year's common dividend, being approximately $2,000,000 and preferred dividends. The company has 600,000 common shares outstanding. In first six months earnings were $9.56 a common share, and officials estimate final returns for the year will exceed $15 a common share. Goodrich is entirely free of bank loans, and is not expected to become a borrower for some time.

These examples are typical of the tire and rubber industry as a whole and make it clear the better managed companies are definitely on the rebound. Of course, in the near future judicious purchases of crude rubber will have to be made if substantial profits now being recorded are to be maintained. Many outfits are manufacturing output with crude rubber around 30 cents.

Fall and winter demand from dealers for footwear, mechanical goods and sundry articles is reported as far better than at the same time last year.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—It is a long time since anybody from here had anything to say about public grants. I wish to ask if someone could let us know what has become of our paltry local grant. Our roads, drains and bridges are in a deplorable condition. One very long drain in particular near the station was covered with second hand two inch rotten planks but there is only about eighty feet of it now and you cannot risk to take a horse over. What are our representatives doing. If Cashin had only time enough to spy on the Government, surely Phil might try to do something if he knew how. A year ago now (if not looked after) that long wall at Riverhead instead of costing but a few dollars to repair will cost thousands. Hoping somebody will take a little interest.

Yours truly,
NIX.

Red Savagery Intensified

SOVIET GLOATING OVER CRUELTY

For some months past there has been a recrudescence of brutality and terrorism by the Soviet-disciplinary authorities in Russia, believed to be due to the expression of resentment by the civil population against the savagery of the administration of the local commissars.

Six weeks ago the Cheka (the despotic counter-revolutionary organization) of Petrograd, who rule the city at the point of the bayonet, ordered 38 executions in the yard of the police office in the Gorokhovaya-street, and has since as an act of discipline, ordered the deportation of the wives of 200 citizens to concentration camps at Archangel and in Siberia.

The policy of renewed terrorism by the Soviet administrators is being reflected in the official publications of the Russian Government, in which accounts of recent outrages are being given with the object of warning the people of the terrible power of their rulers.

To Cew The Public

For the purpose of cowing the public the columns of the Soviet magazine, "Red Novelties," have been specially selected. This publication, the title of which, literally translated, is "Our New Regime Under the Soviets," is produced in Moscow at the Government printing office. In consequence it is allowed to state that it reflects only realities, and it has to pass through the sieve of the official censorship.

The current number of the magazine, to which the factory workers are compelled to subscribe, contains an article entitled, "In the Cellars of the Cheka," with the purpose of restraining and intimidating readers. A series of incidents is related, of which the following are the least offensive:—
The inquirer Prichvine, thin and fleshy, in torn boots, his face crossed by a scar, was examining a prisoner. The eyes of the latter! Eyes full of terror, sheep-like eyes, were fixed on the mouth of Prich-

A dim lamp was burning. The young Mitka, a "nagan" (a type of freeman) in his hand, stared with tired look at the dying light. Mitka glanced at Prichvine, then lowered his head. "Just so"—he snapped his fingers—"she's a fine peasant girl!" He smiled, showing his white teeth. But the next moment his laugh vanished under the stern look of Prichvine. The prisoner made a gesture as if cutting something and shouted, "Look here! No jokes, you'll be shot yourself!" Suddenly he turned towards Prichvine, who was pacing along the wall covered with little white bits of dry human brains. A man clad in a dark shirt was brought by Prichvine called out "Korovin!" Silently the man stepped to the wall, threw his head back, crossed his self, and answered "Present." He was a naval officer. Hidden by the obscurity Pougatshoff in his coat lifted the "nagan." After the shot the skull was heard splitting like a walnut. In the next room someone began to howl prolongedly, terrified.

Body of Bessie Barrett Found in Quidi Vidi Lake

The body of Bessie Barrett, the 18-year-old girl reported missing from her home on King's Bridge Rd. since Sunday, Oct. 12th, was discovered yesterday afternoon at the head of Quidi Vidi Lake. As reported previously in the Telegram, the girl left the home of her employer, Mrs. Thomas Smyth on Sunday last, without putting on a hat or intimating where she was going. Neither Mr. or Mrs. Smyth thought anything of the matter for the time but became alarmed when she did not return at the usual hour and reported the matter to the police. During the week many enquiries were made but nothing was learned that would give a clue to the searchers until yesterday when the police were informed that a person answering to the description of the missing girl had been seen in the vicinity of Quidi Vidi Lake. Sergeant Simmons, Constables Peter Lee, R. Pittman, and J. Walsh immediately set out to make a search in this vicinity, and made their gruesome find about one o'clock. The body was found in about three feet of water just a short distance from where Renne's River enters the lake. On being conveyed to the morgue a postmortem examination was held on the body by Dr. Anderson and death was pronounced due to drowning. Undertaker Myrick took charge of the remains.

The girl's father is dead, but her mother and sisters are now living in Halifax, where they went some years ago from the West Coast, their former home. It was only on Saturday last that a letter came from her people, asking Bessie to go up to them.

Endorses "Gilbert"

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Will you permit me space in your paper to say that I think the suggestion made by Mr. Jackman re the name of the new hotel is an excellent one. The historical figure of Sir Humphrey Gilbert is well known to students of history and in honour to the man who laid the foundation stone of the British Empire, I think it only logical of Newfoundland to bring to the notice of the many foreigners who will be staying at this hotel the island's unique position, by emblazoning over its portals "The Gilbert Hotel".

Very sincerely yours,
JOHN GILBERT.
St. John's, Oct. 17, 1925.

Be sure you attend the C.L.A. Autumn Dance on Thursday evening next, and witness the latest novelties that shall be introduced.—Oct 19/25

The Name of the Hotel

Dear Sir,—Quite a few letters have appeared in your columns recently, re the naming of our new Hotel and to my mind the most appropriate so far mentioned is the "Newfoundland" as it is full of meaning. Again many names that would be historic would not necessarily convey any meaning to the casual visitor. However, referring to historic names, I would suggest the being called the "Cabot Hotel" seeing that John Cabot first discovered and claimed our Island as an English possession.

Yours truly,
ANOTHER LADY.

Obituary

JOHANNA DONNELLY KING

On Friday, Sept. 16th, fortified by the rites of Holy Church, there passed to her eternal reward, Johanna Donnelly King. Medical assistance proved of no avail as death came suddenly, due to heart failure. Although passed the three score mark, deceased enjoyed excellent health up to the time of her demise. She was born in St. John's, her maiden name King, and married Jeremiah Donnelly, who died some years ago. She later married Richard King, who is left to mourn the loss of a devoted and dutiful wife. Ever of a kind and gentle disposition, always ready to lighten the sorrows of others, she was well beloved by those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance, and those more closely intimate will long remember her many kindly characteristics and sterling qualities and will deeply regret her sudden passing. Besides her husband and she leaves to mourn three sons, John (Donnelly), David in the grocery business, and Patrick J., our well known barber of the West End, also two sisters and one brother residing in the U. S. A.

The funeral cortege wended its way to Belvedere Cemetery yesterday, followed by hosts of mourners who join in extending heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved ones.—R. I. P.

THOMAS J. DONOHUE

By the last American mail Mrs. Bridget Simmonds of Lime Street, of this city, received word of the death of her brother, Thomas J. Donohue, in Boston. The deceased, who was a son of the late Daniel Donohue, left here many years ago and settled in the States, and the following obituary taken from a Boston Journal indicates how largely he was esteemed in the place of his adoption.

(From Boston Journal)
Thomas J. Donohue, one of the best known undertakers in this city, died at his home, 331 Smith street, late last night, after an illness of about a week. He was 53 years old.

Although Mr. Donohue had been ill for some days, his death came suddenly, as he was able to sit up for breakfast at his home yesterday morning. Shortly afterward, however, he suffered a relapse, and sank rapidly until his death.

Mr. Donohue for many years prior to establishing his own business was associated with the late Horace B. Knowles in the undertaking firm of Horace B. Knowles and Sons for 25 years.

About 16 years ago, however, he left the Knowles firm to form his own business, and was located for some time on North Main street. Later, however, he moved to his present location on Smith Street.

Mr. Donohue never married. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Schindhelm of East Boston and Mrs. Bridget Simmonds of St. John's, N.F., and a brother, Jeremiah, of the latter place. He was born in Newfoundland, but came here at the age of 16. He was a member of Providence Lodge of Elks.

Fear

By F. AVELING, M.C., Ph.D., D.S.C.

The finest literary productions of every age and race are written round the theme of human instincts; and of them all the great tragedies woven of the strands of fear are the finest and most lasting masterpieces. We love to have our flesh creep, from what time in childish days we listen, eyes wide with terror, to the grisly fairy tale, until at last, sophisticated by life, we sit in comfortable stalls and watch the inevitable net as it closes round its victims. Why do we seek the portrayal of dread, the counterfeits of horror, when real fear is coiled so deep, and yet so near, the surface in our own hearts? Why do we weep at pathos on a stage and turn from the pathos of life with impatience or disgust?

The answer is that fear is a law of life.

It is the law that runs in the jungle; claw against claw and tooth against tooth; living creatures pitted against the elemental forces of the universe—drought and storm; against the nameless, formless terror of the dark.

DO MEN LIKE IT?

Every time anyone speaks of bobbing now a-days someone is sure to say: "Oh, my dear, they aren't doing it any more now. Why they are all letting their hair grow. That's awfully passe."

I don't know exactly who "they" are. In fact no one ever has been able to run them to earth, but this I know, that whatever "they" are doing, a lot of other perfectly real people are still bobbing their hair.

Most Children Don't.

In the past two weeks two of my friends have taken the plunge, one a youngster, the other a woman over 30 with big boys. Incidentally, the boys begged her to do it. That, I think, is unusual. I know several families in which the mothers wistfully contemplate bobbing, and in which the children with the modern child habit of speaking its mind on all matters of family policy, positively forbade her. In one family the daughter threatens to run away from home if her mother bobs. To tell the truth, I don't wholly blame the children for feeling that way. I think as a rule a child wants a mother to be something different, something apart. He likes her to be young but he doesn't like to have her ape the way of youth. Besides he doesn't want her to change, she is his mother, a tremendous vital fact rather than a personality, something stable in a world of change. She is satisfactory to him whether she is pretty or young looking or not, and he doesn't think of her as an individual still craving to be young and pretty.

The Orchestra Without The Viola. But to return to the main road, whatever "they" say about it, apparently, "to bob or not to bob" is still a vital question.

And since in the last analysis, whether they admit it or not, women have men in the back of their heads when they seek by one means or another to make themselves more attractive looking, I think it would be interesting if we could find out more about what men think of bobbing.

Lately I have heard two men express themselves on this subject.

The first one said to a woman who has not yet taken the plunge: "I'm glad you haven't bobbed your hair yet. I think women make a mistake chopping off their hair right and left. Woman's long hair is her most distinctive charm. It's like having the orchestra without the viola—all these short-haired women."

Like Short Skirts On A Bow-Legged Woman.

The other said: "Bobbing is like all styles, for some women and not for others. I like it if it's becoming to a woman but I think that depends wholly on the type. It makes some women look younger but it makes others look older, sharpens their features, brings out the marks of age. I think it's absurd on some types of women, the distinctly matronly, for instance. If it goes with a personality and a face, I like to see it but if it doesn't it's very like short skirts on a bow-legged woman."

Perhaps some other men can tell us how they feel on this vital subject.

"Little Miss Mousie! Little Miss Mousie!" called Uncle Lucky, hanging up the receiver. "Would you like to go over to call on Lady Love and Little Jack Rabbit?"

"Will I have time to put on my new gown?" asked the pretty little lady mouse, smiling at Uncle Lucky.

"Give you three minutes, and maybe four. While I close the windows and lock the front door."

answered the kind old gentleman rabbit. So off scampered his tiny house-keeper to her little room under the kitchen floor, and while obliging Uncle Lucky was making the house safe from disagreeable persons like Danny Fox and Mr. Wicked Wolf, she smoothed her hair and put on her gown.

Locking the kitchen door, she slipped the key in her pocket and scampered out to the garage. Uncle Lucky was already seated in the Luckymobile, and as soon as his tiny house-keeper had settled herself beside him, he gave the horn a honk or two and out on Lettuce Avenue flew—beg pardon, I mean, rolled. The proper way to describe the motion of an automobile, I imagine, although the Luckymobile almost seemed to fly at times it went so fast when the dear old gentleman rabbit was anxious to get to a place.

Turning into the Shady Forest, careful Uncle Lucky guided the car down the path under the tall, leafy trees, where up in the branches the nimble squirrels chased each other, shaking the nuts from the twigs to the ground below.

All of a sudden, bang! one of them hit the dear old bunny man's precious wedding stovepipe hat. Wasn't that a shame? You know how fond he is of it. Worn it every day since 1883.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" exclaimed excited Uncle Lucky.

Who threw a nut at my dear old hat? Some rascally squirrel lad?

I'd like to take him across my knee and cure him of being bad."

"Knocked off a nut by mistake."

explained Squirrel Feathertail, looking down from an overhanging branch.

"Excuse me, Uncle Lucky, I didn't notice that you were in your motor car. Beneath your precious hat."

"You're a polite young squirrel, though a bit careless," answered the nice old gentleman bunny. "Here's a coughdrop," and tucking the candy up to the little squirrel, then away sped Uncle Lucky, for he wished to be on time to see the angel cake taken from the oven. Yes, he loved angel cake as much as Little Jack Rabbit loved lollipops.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" exclaimed excited Uncle Lucky.

By and by, not so long, he said to Little Miss Mousie: "Where did I put the knife I bought for my little nephew?"

"In your waistcoat pocket," answered the tiny mouse housekeeper.

"Well, it's too late now to go back for it; in case I slipped it into my desk," sighed the forgetful old bunny man, and he turned into the Sunny Meadow and down the Old Cow Path to the dear Old Bramble Patch.

"Here comes Uncle Lucky and Little Miss Mousie," chirped Tiny Miss Cricket, and in the next story, you shall hear what happened after that.

Silkworm Secrets

The secrets of rearing silkworms have been handed down among Chinese farmers from father to son for hundreds of generations. The Chinese farmers buy silkworm eggs in the spring. These are very minute and are sold on sheets of stiff paper each containing 200,000 to 240,000 eggs.

The egg sheets are placed in a clean basket, in a small rearing room, and charcoal fires in earthenware braziers are used to keep the temperature at 80 degrees day and night for nine days. Then the eggs turn green. A day or two after this the worms hatch. For the first two or three days the young worms must be fed every two hours day and night.

shredded very fine and sprinkled over the newly-hatched worms; their jaws are too weak to chew much of the leaf, but they can suck out the juices.

The worms reach their full growth in eighteen days (says a writer in "The Scientific American"). Some idea of their ravenous appetite can be gained from the fact that a group of 200,000, the number hatched from one egg sheet about one foot square, eat a ton and a half of mulberry leaves in a little over a fortnight. On the eighth day the farmers transfer the worms to a bamboo rack, and almost immediately they begin to spin their cocoons.

HEALY'S GOOD STORY OF A DANCING RAID.

An Irish correspondent comes from St. John's, telling of a dance party held by Mr. Healy, Governor-General of Ireland, at a small country dinner party in London. Apparently care of State was taken by Mr. Healy as they do in St. John's. Mr. Baldwin, and he amused his guests by examples of old Irish songs, "all-eyes," or street ballads.

There was a story, too, of a somewhat well-known priest who was determined to put down Sunday dancing in his parish. He raided a room where dancing was supplied by a blind fiddler. He was surprised to find the dancer, but the unconscionable fiddler, who had been told of the priest's intentions, said: "Don't you know the Ten Commandments?" demanded a voice from the elbow. "I can't say I do, but I'll try to find it over I might be able to find the tune."

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

THE TRAGEDY OF A BAD HABIT.

Oh, there is a little girl with brown hair that doesn't curl.
And a saucy little twinkle in her eyes.
And this pretty little maid is in danger. I'm afraid.
Of a punishment which little girls despise.
Oh, I write this in despair, as I sit and watch her there,
For I fancy I can hear her as she wails,
And I shudder through and through at what mother's said she'll do if she doesn't stop that biting of her nails.

It's no use, it seems to scold such a lovely 3-year old.
And all argument and threatening in vain.
So her mother has declared something bitter is prepared.
If she ever sees her doing it again; She will paint those finger tips with a dose which once she sips she'll remember. It's a cure which never fails.
Says her mother, solemn-faced: "She'll learn just how aloe taste if she doesn't stop that biting of her nails!"

But that lovely little miss gives her doing and a letter.
And seems to pay no heed when mother scolds.
While her dad is sitting near she has not the slightest fear
Of the punishment the future playfully holds.
To that little girl in vain I have tried to make it clear.
What a tragedy her dreadful vice entails.
And I dread that day of woe, for she'll meet it soon, I know, if she doesn't stop that biting of her nails.
