MARITIME RATES ARE BEFORE BOARD HERE

A. T. WELDON IS QUESTIONED BY COL. RALSTON

C. P. R. Solicitor Makes Statement Relative To Saint John

TIMES-STAR CASE TAKEN UP LATER

Lancaster Applies In Matter of Service By Express Companies

FURTHER submissions in connection with the Maritime freight rates case were made before the Board of Railway Commissioners at a sitting in Saint John this morning. During the hearing it was stated by E. P. Flintoff, assistant general solicitor for the C. P. R., that the railway was deeply interested in Saint John as its Atlantic winter terminal and anxious to bring all the traffic it could this way.

TIMES-STAR CASE

The board decided that an application by the Saint John Times-Star for a ruling on the matter of discrimination in the sale of papers on the platform at the Moncton station would not be heard until after the judgment of the police magistrate in connection with the arrest of K. D. Clifford of the Times-Star staff had been given.

COL. RALSTON HEARD

At the opening of the hearing Col. J. L. Ralston said he would like to ask the board to give some intimation of the time when they would sit to hear the reply of the railways to the submission of the Maritime case in order that he might prepare a reply to their answer. He would also like to have the board name a time when he would have an opportunity of asking A. T. Weldon several questions.

NAMES OFFICIALS

Mr. Ralston asked Mr. Weldon to name the officials in charge of traffic and Mr. Weldon said J. E. Dalrymple, vice president in charge of traffic, was the head of the department for the system. Next to him came Mr. Martin, both were at Montreal and then came the regional traffic managers, six far as the Atlantic region was concerned he was the head of that department. When the changes in rates were made in 1912-1913, C. A. Hayes was traffic manager for this region.

MARITIME FREIGHT

Col. Ralston asked where he could obtain statistics of freight movements in the Maritime Provinces and was told it was in the general office at Montreal but he felt that a request to the Moncton office would get it for him. Questioned as to his authority to make rates, Mr. Weldon said that he had the power to make a rate in his own region without consulting his office, but it was customary to consult the head office in these matters. With regard to the removal of the differential in 1911, Mr. Weldon said he was not in the service at that time or was not familiar with what took place.

COMMISSIONER QUERIES

Asked by Dr. McLean about the statistics in regard to loaded and empty cars, Mr. Weldon said these statistics were sent to the Montreal office by the division superintendents. The local office at Moncton kept track of the larger commodity shipments, such as coal, sugar, steel, pulp and millstones. They did not keep track of the L. C. L. movements of freight, or what originated in the division.

Col. Ralston then asked the board if they might give some intimation when the reply of the railways would be made.

Ark, Afloat, Was Wet On Inside As Well As Out Beer and Brandy Filled Jars Carried, Say Tablets of Noah

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—Beer and wine made up part of Noah's cargo on the ark. This was revealed, speakers before the American Oriental Society said, through the translation of a tablet found in Nineveh by George Smith, of the British Museum, and restored by Paul Haupt, professor of Assyriology at Johns Hopkins University.

Professor Haupt told members of the Oriental Society that the flood tablet was found in 1872. It had been deciphered previously by other Assyriologists, but the speaker said his recent translation was more comprehensive.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The stock market, which has been drifting rather evenly for a week, suddenly turned weak today when selling pressure was induced against the motor shares, cores of issues fell to nearly 50 points, Bethlehem and Sloss Sheffield, Hudson and Jordan Motors, Idewater Oil and American Agricultural Chemical common and preferred ranking to new low levels for the year.

U. S. Aircraft Factory Works On Fog-Dispelling Machine

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—Paratus for dispersing fog is being developed at the Philadelphia naval craft factory. A simple charging unit, a transformer with rectifying coil, an aeroplane propeller and a fan, all mounted on a truck, it has been found, will electrically 700,000 cubic feet of air a minute and cut a path 2,000 feet wide and 1,000 feet high through a fog. The experiments were undertaken to reduce one of the hazards of flying, but its possibilities include the lessening of traffic dangers in large cities on foggy days and the reduction of peril and delays to shipping in crowded harbors.

AIRPLANE FLIES INTO UNKNOWN ARCTIC REGION

Captain Wilkins Sets Record For Farthest North

AT POINT BARROW

New Mark For Non-Stop Flight In Frozen Area Is Established

Canadian Press. FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 12.—Carrying 3,500 pounds of freight, mostly gasoline, Captain Geo. H. Wilkins and Pilot Capt. Ben Eilene, have made the 560-mile flight to Point Barrow, northernmost colony of Alaska, according to North American Newspaper Alliance despatches. The explorers reported their arrival by means of a small radio set. Their last message from the air, at a point 300 miles from Fairbanks, is regarded by experts as remarkable.

THREE ACHIEVEMENTS

In their first flight from Fairbanks to 73 degrees, 30 minutes north latitude over the Arctic Ocean, North of Barrow, Captain Wilkins and Pilot Eilene achieved three notable ends, experts here said. They set a record for non-stop flying in the Arctic; they cut a swath at least 100 miles wide and 100 miles long into unknown regions, setting a new mark of exploration more than 80 miles north of that set by the expedition led by Dr. Peary in 1913. They proved that aeroplanes can be successfully operated in the Arctic.

VESSEL IS HELD AT SHELBURNE; FEDERAL ORDER

Sailed With 22 Men; Only Seven Reached N. S.

NO BOND IS ASKED

Captain John Mackenzie Ordered by U. S. Owners To Take Command

Canadian Press. SHELBURNE, N. S., April 12.—With her flag flying at half-mast, and the body of her lost skipper, Captain Alden Gele, who died by his own hand, lying in the town of Shelburne, a jinx seems to be pursuing the Gloucester schooner Thomas S. Gordon, now at anchor in the harbor, and it is possible that international complications may develop.

15 MEN SHOT.

The ship, it is stated, sailed from Gloucester with clearance papers showing a crew of 22 men, but Mr. Bruce, acting collector of customs at Shelburne harbor, she had only a crew of seven men, the supposition being that the intended shipping to the rest of her crew here. In this case, it is likely the Dominion Government will claim a breach of agreement under the international fisheries regulations, which comes under the marine and fisheries department.

NO BOND DEMANDED

Collector of Customs Bruce stated today that the customs department had not asked for a bond to be put up by the ship, nor has one been offered.

According to the international regulations an American schooner may put into Canadian ports in case of illness on board, but she cannot stop or for food, but she cannot stop a crew.

The Thos. S. Gordon arrived from Gloucester Thursday and was taken into Customs. The crew found Captain Gele, master of the schooner dead, the man's eating with a bullet wound in his head, a suicide.

2 HURT, 25 JAILED AS KIDDIES PARADE

Scenes of Wild Disorder During Strike Demonstration at Passaic, N. J.

PASSAIC, N. J., April 12.—Albert Weisbord, young leader of the 12,000 textile strikers in the case of Passaic, is in jail, two strikers are in a serious condition and 25 others, including nine children, are out on bail, as the result of a children's parade here Saturday. The parade in which some 2,000 children of textile workers took part, was broken up by the police amid scenes of the wildest disorder. Police waded through the ranks waving their clubs over their heads, terrified children dashed for safety while their fathers and brothers engaged in arguments with police officers and the patrol wagons rushed clanging up and down the streets to take in those arrested.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., APRIL 12, 1925.

WHAT SHALL THE HARVEST BE?

The citizens today are electing three members of the Common Council, a Mayor and two Commissioners.

Judged by conditions about the polling booths this morning the vote will be light. Only a little more than half of the taxpayers have paid their 1925 tax, and therefore are not eligible.

It is announced that Parliament today will discuss Maritime Provinces problems. From that discussion we may learn how many of the Maritime Provinces M. P.s place party before country, and how many place country before party.

"Former Premier Vernet of New Brunswick," says the Montreal Gazette, "is in agreement with Premier Baxter in deploring talk of secession in the Maritime Provinces. The word secession," says Mr. Vernet, "should not be in the vocabulary of any Canadian, much less in a resident of the Maritime." This is good sense as well as patriotism.

Luther Burbank, the horticultural wizard, has made the long traverse, some weeks before his death he started a world-wide controversy—or rather a world-wide controversy—rather than a lack of civic administration which has not been remarkable for its strength, vision, or efficiency. The old machine has done fairly well in many respects, but it has been somewhat lacking in constructive policy, and it has had altogether too much respect for the status quo.

Whatever the voters do today, we need look for no civic revolution. The best we can hope for is that the Council, when supplemented by today's voters, will turn its thoughts resolutely upon the various civic problems which are pressing for solution, some of which are of very great importance, and get on with the job with more wisdom and more ginger than have been in evidence for a long time at City Hall.

The new Mayor, if he has the capacity and the desire to serve the citizens wisely and faithfully, can do much. He is but one man in a Council of five, but if he has proposals to make which are obviously sound and which promise to help Saint John, such proposals will be easily recognized by the public as containing merit, and it would be unlikely in such circumstances that the Commissioners would hesitate to give them approval.

Sometimes in the past when a Mayor had ideas and encountered opposition or blockading tactics in his own official family at City Hall, he appealed over the heads of the obstructing Commissioners to the people, by means of public addresses on appropriate occasions and by presenting his views through the Press. That avenue of advance not infrequently has proved both necessary and productive.

The new Mayor will be confronted by the rather disturbing factors. The controllable revenue is small. Interest charges and the school money absorb so high a proportion of the revenue that there is scarcely enough left to turn around on. At election time always there is extravagance and inefficiency in the departments, but some of the critics, if they were in City Hall tomorrow, would find that to combine progress with economy in present conditions is a rather tough proposition, however desirable the objective.

There is that matter of unpaid taxes. The new Mayor will be asking himself—has already asked himself, doubtless—how it is that so many people fail to pay their taxes; and his examination of the list of those in default will show him that there are a great many who can pay, a great many who could pay readily, yet who do not pay until they have lost their right to vote, who, indeed, postpone payment to the last day possible, under pressure. He will find the number of those who are wholly unable to pay, who could not be expected to pay, far smaller than he had supposed, unless he has given special study to this angle of civic administration.

The new Mayor, let us hope, will be a man who is not afraid to budge, who realizes the possibilities which lie before Saint John at this hour, who knows that while nothing revolutionary is needed, Saint John should be a leader in the forward movement which is gradually taking effective form in this province, and indeed in the Maritime Provinces.

The financial situation of this city is by no means alarming; the reverse is the case. Drastic economy at this time—economy not economy's sake—is neither wise nor necessary. An effort should be made, of course, to get a dollar's worth for every dollar spent, but Saint John, now that business prospects are improving, must keep in mind the fact that the best way to develop INSTALLMENT BUYING. (The Ableton Reporter.) You wouldn't think it, perhaps, but installment selling has reached the stupendous sum of one billion dollars annually in this country. The United States chamber of commerce is authority for that statement. It has been conducting a survey of domestic distribution. And, before you hold up your noses at the figure, remember that this is the installment plan, which deals in automobile paper exclusively has handled over half a billion dollars' worth of such paper in the last seven years. For 1925 its loss ratio was only .012 per cent. Every year it handles a billion and one-fourth billion dollars' worth of motor cars, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, phonographs, furniture, pianos, jewelry and radio apparatus are sold on the installment plan. When a method of merchandising reaches that total, it is hardly worth while to try to stop it. It has arrived, whether it's good for business and business' customers or not. Not long ago somebody asserted that 85 per cent. of all automobiles are sold on the installment plan—"deferred payments," as some call it. The installment plan has been the salvation of the motor car industry. Without it, relatively few families could buy a motor car. How many persons in your block could not afford a car? To accept the deferred payment plan, it is true, but a vast majority of motor car owners could never own a car if they had to pay for it all in a lump sum. The installment plan is invading all lines of business. It may be good for business, but it is here, and here to stay, at any rate.

TWO million dollars are being sought by the former governor of the Philippines, W. Cameron Forbes, to educate the children of American fathers and Kanaka mothers. Many of these unrecognized children are the sons and daughters of American soldiers. There are 18,000 children of American blood in the islands and 4,000 of these are too young to shift for themselves.

Forbes is now chairman of the American Guardian Association which is working in harmony with the present Governor-General Leonard Wood. Forbes is the grandson of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Forbes is 65 and a graduate of Harvard University. In 1904 he was made a member of the Philippine commission and secretary of commerce and police in the islands. He became vice-governor in 1908 and governor-general a year later.

He occupied this post for four years then resigned. In 1921 the late President Warren G. Harding sent him to the Philippines to investigate conditions there.

POEMS I LOVE

"After Love," by Arthur Symonds. I DO NOT think this English poem has been appreciated as he should long since have been. He is better known, perhaps, as a critic and as a translator from the French than as a writer of exquisite lyric verse.

TWO million dollars are being sought by the former governor of the Philippines, W. Cameron Forbes, to educate the children of American fathers and Kanaka mothers. Many of these unrecognized children are the sons and daughters of American soldiers.

Forbes is now chairman of the American Guardian Association which is working in harmony with the present Governor-General Leonard Wood. Forbes is the grandson of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Forbes is 65 and a graduate of Harvard University. In 1904 he was made a member of the Philippine commission and secretary of commerce and police in the islands. He became vice-governor in 1908 and governor-general a year later.

He occupied this post for four years then resigned. In 1921 the late President Warren G. Harding sent him to the Philippines to investigate conditions there.

The Very Idea!

IN THE OPEN IT'S fun to go down to a small country town, where people are still living sanely. It's really a treat, when you lie down a street where restlessness predominates, mainly.

It makes you feel surer that air is much purer in hamlet spots, out of the way. You sense the real pity, that every big city holds freshness and saneness at bay.

There isn't the wear and the madness of fear in small towns where wise folk reside. There's no business rattle. They're not packed like cattle. They're living—and working, outside.

Like nature? Well, listen—that's just what you're missing—the best thing this world has to give. Hop off, on vacation, at some small town station. Just loaf for a while—and live!

Middle west farmer boasts a cow with one wooden leg. Hilda, with "peeps" his small throat shook. But, shucks, instead of peeping, folk. All took a dern good look.

DINNER STORIES A GERMAN who had been severely and painfully stepped on by a burly Irishman who plowed his way through the crowded car, said: "Mine friend, I know that my feet were meant to be walked on, but not privilege belongs to me."

THE train near the city the passengers straightened up in their seats and began to gather together their belongings. The colored porter approached the jovial-faced gentleman, saying with a smile: "Shall I brush you off, sah?" "No," he replied, "I prefer to get off in the usual manner."

HULLO! What is the matter with your wife?" said a man to his neighbor, who was noted for his fast horses. "I see she has her hand in a sling. I suppose it's that new trotter of yours. I saw her out with it yesterday, and I thought no good would come of it. Reckless driving, I suppose, eh?"

"Yes," was the reply, "reckless driving—but not of the horse."

"What then?" "A nail."

PROTECTED by SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS

(And there is a lesson in this for you.)

Back and forth across the wide Atlantic these great modern ocean liners rush a score of times a year, their palatial saloons and cabins fitted out with the last word in modern comfort. Naturally the wear and tear on the decoration of these speeding ships is very considerable. Many of the finest ships afloat are decorated throughout with Sherwin-Williams Products. Their interiors always present a fresh, clean appearance; the buffeting of the wild Atlantic storms leave little discernible imprint on their Sherwin-Williams protected surface.

The Liner and the House

What is good for the ocean liner is good for your home. You are just as anxious to protect your home from the weather, to keep it sound, to keep its value high, and to keep it looking spick and span.

A gallon of Sherwin-Williams Paint goes a very long way, covers a large surface, and its protection is lasting. It is made in Canada to suit the Canadian climate.

Sherwin-Williams Paints are pure—absolutely. They are free of grit or lumps, no impurities. Even a novice can do a good painting job with them—such as a floor, odd furniture, a radiator perhaps—it lays so evenly, so smoothly.

In your neighborhood is a Sherwin-Williams dealer, your "Paint Headquarters." This dealer will gladly assist you, no matter what the work you have in mind. Ask him for one of our valuable "Household Guides."

The Curse of the Overtender Mother—The Young Wife Who is Bored With Home Life—How Can a Mother Prevent Her 17-Year-Old Son from Marrying?

DEAR MISS DIX—Don't you think mothers do their children a great injustice by treating them too kindly and waiting upon them as if they were invalids? My mother has been too good to me all my life. She has spoiled me by overlooking my faults and bad habits, instead of helping me to overcome them and instead of teaching me to stand on my own feet and struggle through the world myself; she has protected me from every hardship.

I am about to be married, and as she has always watched and directed my every move, she takes it very hard because I refuse to live with her after I am married, but I realize that my only salvation is to get away from her and try to make a woman of myself. I have a 17-year-old brother who is being spoiled as I was and I hate to think of him growing up to be one of the helpless men who are always tied to their mother's apron-strings. But what can one do?

MISS TWENTY-TWO.

ANSWER: I agree with you, Miss Twenty-two, the overtender mother is the greatest curse that any child can have. Terrible as it is for a child never to know any mother love at all, it is better for one to have such a fate than it is to have a mother who loves it overmuch.

Such mothers absolutely until their children for life. They rear them up to be weaklings by protecting them from every harsh wind that blows and standing between them and every hardship. They kill every particle of initiative by doing all of their children's thinking for them.

They are so afraid of their children getting hurt that they make them cowards who dare not take the slightest risks. They cultivate selfishness in them by sacrificing themselves for them and making them think that they are the centre of the universe, and they make them overbearing and tyrannical by spoiling them and pampering them so that they can never get along with other people.

These mothers forget that in a few years their children are going to be thrown into a world that is not padded with mother love and in which the battle goes to the strong and the race to the swift, and in which mother's pet is trampled underfoot because he has not been taught to fight. He has not been disciplined, he has not even been taught to stand alone.

Half of the men who are failures could point their fingers at their mothers and say, "You did it. You never made me stick at a task until I finished it when I was a boy. You never made me do anything I didn't want to do, and so I formed no habits of industry or perseverance. You let me loaf and idle and so I have never been able to settle down to hard work. You never taught me to do without things, and so I became extravagant and wasteful. You never taught me to control my temper, and I have lost good job after good job because I could not get along with those with whom I worked. You enervated me. You made the very muscles of my soul flabby."

And many a divorced woman knows that she owes her wrecked marriage to her mother's rearing which made her so soft and self-indulgent; which made her so lazy and idle and extravagant; which made her so selfish and self-centred that she killed her husband's love and drove him from her.

You are a wise woman and a brave one, Miss Twenty-two, to leave your mother and to try to correct the faults in your character that she has fostered. It is your one chance to make a real woman of yourself.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a boy of 17 who tells me that he is going to get married in seven years and have two children. I missed all the pleasures of my girlhood by marrying too young, and now, although my husband is very good to me and makes a good living, I want to leave him and my own support and that of the children, I am tired of this life—bored, and think I would be happier if I were doing something else. What do you think?

ANSWER: I think that if you should try supporting yourself and your children for about a couple of weeks you would come crawling back on your hands and knees to your husband and beg him to give you back your nice, thrilling, interesting job as wife and mother.

You made a mistake, of course, in marrying too young and missing your girl time, but you can't turn back the hands of the clock, my dear. That hour of care-free pleasure is over. It will never come back to you and you will just have to accept that fact and get your pleasure in other ways.

You speak blithely of supporting yourself and two children, as if it were something you could do with your left hand while you lifted the cup of pleasure to your lips with your right hand. Have you any idea of what it costs to feed and clothe and lodge three persons? And have you any idea how long a woman has to work and how efficient she has to be before she can command that sort of a salary? And have you any idea of how little demand there is for untrained women and what a pittance they get?

Take my advice, and before you leave your good husband and your good home go down to some factory or some department store or some employment agency and talk it over with the girls who have jobs and who are hunting jobs. What they will tell you will make you a happier and a more contented woman.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a boy of 17 who tells me that he is going to marry a girl I have never even seen, and he wants to bring her to my house to live. I am a poor woman who makes a living taking roomers. My son has no trade or vocation by which he can make a decent living. How can I prevent this marriage that is bound to bring disaster on all concerned?

ANSWER: The only thing you can do is to tell your boy that if he marries he cannot bring his wife to your house, that he must set up his own home and support his own family without any help from you. Then hunt up the girl and tell her the same thing, and impress it upon both your boy and the girl that you mean exactly what you say.

The poor, foolish young couple are counting upon your supporting them. They will promise, of course, to pay board, but they will never do it, because they know that mother will never have the nerve to put her children out on the street. So they will spend their money for clothes and gambling around, and they won't even be grateful to you for slaving for them.

Your son knows well enough that he couldn't get married if he had to pay rent and couldn't take his bride home to live on mother. So does the girl, for any young woman who has earned her own living has a very shrewd idea of how short a way a dollar goes. So do brace up and try to have enough courage and firmness to stop this affair at once by convincing this silly boy and girl that you will shut your door in their faces if they get married.

For a lad of 17 to get married is the absolute ruin of his every hope and chance and prospect of happiness and success in life. It is moral suicide, and you will fall in your duty to him if you do not do everything possible to save him from making such a terrible mistake.

And can't you invoke the law to help you? Can a boy of that age be legally married without the consent of his parents?

DOROTHY DIX.

Lure of The East Felt In Oriental Rugs

The charm and mysticism of the East are best suggested to Western worlds in the beauty of the oriental rugs and carpets which find themselves beautifying the homes of the appreciative folks of the western hemisphere.

Constance Talmadge, whose home in California is noted for its collection of oriental rugs, possesses a variety of rugs which best interpret the weavings of the countries of the Far East.

The word "oriental" is really quite vague when used in connection with rugs. It is merely a general term, as there are numerous provinces and districts in Persia, Turkey, Asia, Turkestan, Beluchistan, Afghanistan, India, etc., where rugs are made and from which many derive their names.

In Persia some of the well known localities are: Sultanabad, Kirman, Feraghan, Mamadan, Kurdistan, Khoassan and Fars. In Turkey, Ghiorde, Konia, Ladik and Bergama. In Turkestan: Bokhara, Samarkand. In Beluchistan: Jhalawan and Sarawan. In Afghanistan: Herat and Kabul. In India: Kashmir and Warangal.

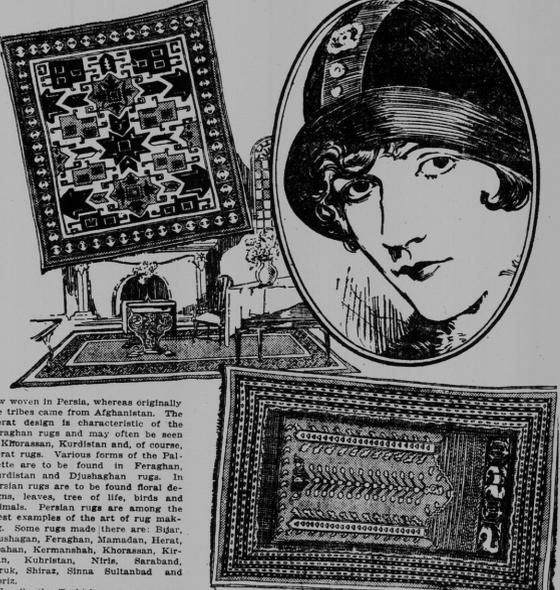

Aside from the beauty of coloring and design of many of these rugs, to fully appreciate them, it must be remembered that patience and skill is required in the weaving of them. In each rug thousands and thousands of knots have to be tied. They are generally made by women and young girls, but in some cases entire families practice their skill in the making of the rugs.

The warp is stretched on the frame-work and then a piece of yarn is twisted between the strands of the warp and tied in a knot. This begins at the bottom and when one row is finished another is added and so on until the end row is woven.

The two forms of knotting generally used are the Persian and Turkish. The number of knots to a square inch—anywhere from 50 to 300—vary according to the quality of the rug and coarseness or fineness of the yarn. The knots are clipped to make a pile or nap. Various materials are used in the making of the rugs, including camel's hair, sheep's wool, silk, cotton, linen, goat's hair, etc.

Color is an important factor in the value of a rug. It is from the vegetable and animal dyes that the colors with which permanent colors are obtained. Aniline dyes cannot compare with them, but these chemical dyes, which are more easily obtained, are used largely in the rugs of modern manufacture.

The rugs of each district generally have characteristics of their own both in quality and design, which distinguish them. However, with the spreading of tribes and nations the influence of one locality is brought to bear upon the other. For instance, Herat rugs are now woven in Persia, whereas originally the tribes came from Afghanistan. The Herat design is characteristic of the Feraghan rugs and may often be seen in Khorassan, Kurdistan and, of course, Herat rugs. Various forms of the Persian rug are to be found in Feraghan, Kurdistan and Djushagan rugs. In Persian rugs are to be found floral designs, leaves, trees of life, birds and animals. Persian rugs are among the finest examples of the art of rug making. Some rugs made there are: Buzah, Djushagan, Feraghan, Mamadan, Herat, Isfahan, Kermanshah, Khoassan, Kirman, Kohistan, Mire, Seraband, Saruk, Shiraz, Sima Sultanabad and Sabziv.

Usually the Turkish rugs are not as finely woven as the Persian rugs. Some Turkish rugs are the Akhissar, Anatolian, Bergama, Bursa, Ghiorde, Konia, Kula, Ladik, Malas, Mosul, Ouchak, Sparta. In Bergama rugs geometrical figures are frequently used. The old Ghiorde were generally in the form of prayer rugs.

There are numerous rugs not mentioned by name, but they are all characterized by so many different characteristics. The output of this industry covers a large and varied field. But the art of rug making, carried on from the shepherds of the steeps to the museum, together with the life of the worker, weaves a story as interesting as the rug itself.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Stewed Chicken with Rice—One-half pound rice, a fowl suitable for steaming, salt and pepper, one egg, butter, grated cheese. Cut up the chicken and stew until it is tender. Wash the rice and blanch it by letting it come to a boil and cook a few minutes in salted water. Do not cook it too long or it will be mushy and use the broth from the stewed chicken, adding a little at a time to be sure the rice is not too wet when it is done. Season with cheese and butter and add the egg yolk to bind it just as it is taken from the fire. Serve as a border around the chicken.

Florentine Prune Cream—One teaspoon granulated gelatin, one-quarter cup cold water, one-quarter cup scalded milk, one-half cup sugar, white of two eggs, one-half pint heavy cream, one-third cup milk, one-third cup cooked prunes, cut into pieces, one-third cup chopped figs. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes, dissolve in scalded milk, and add sugar. Strain into a bowl, set in pan containing ice water, and stir constantly until mixture begins to thicken, then add white of eggs, beaten until stiff; heavy cream, diluted with milk and beaten until stiff; prunes and figs. Turn into a wet mold, with sides and bottom garnished with halves of cooked prunes. Chill. Remove from mold to serving dish, and garnish with whipped cream (sweetened and flavored with vanilla, forced through a pastry bag and tube) and cubes of green mint jelly.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

CHARLEY OTTER GETS EVEN

Charley Otter went on sliding down his mud slide into the creek. When he struck the water he rolled over and swam on his back, and then on his side, and twisted and turned and had the best time ever. He seemed to have forgotten all about Marty Mink stealing his fish. Really Charley was in a very happy frame of mind. He really is a very good-natured person.

He is also a very smart person. Charley Otter is one of the smartest of all the outdoor people.

That is what the March Hare whispered to Nancy and Nick in their hiding hole behind a big green rock. The fairy rabbit and the children had seen everything. They had seen how Marty Mink played the trick on good natured Charley by stealing him fish when he stopped to shout out loud at the mink's suggestion.

Just now Marty was eating the fish on the other side of a fallen log where no one could see him.

"Um, te, um, te, um, tum, tum!" sang Charley Otter. "Slide! Splash! Swim! Climb up again! Slide! Splash! Swim! Do it all over again!"

"Just watch him," said the March Hare. "He hasn't forgotten what Marty did—not for a minute. He's only fooling."

Just then Marty Mink stuck up his head and peeped over the log. He was licking his lips.

He watched Charley Otter sliding and splashing and decided he'd try to make Charley catch another fish for him.

"Ho, Charley," he called. "Let's play that game again."

"All right," said Charley cheerfully, splashing his webbed feet about in the water. "Only you are so much better at fishing than I am. You're the best

DYSART TO RESUME DEBATE ON BUDGET IN HOUSE TUESDAY

Atkinson, S. Leger, Reilly, Oulton and Premier Slated to Speak

SOME EXPECT END OF SESSION APRIL 30

Measure to Carry Out Direct Taxation Proposals Impending

FREDERICTON, April 11—

Night sittings of the House which have been the order for the past two weeks are expected to be the regular procedure from now on until the end of the session, which some political prophets place as late as April 30. The budget debate will start its third week Tuesday afternoon when A. A. Dysart, Opposition member for Kent and former speaker of the House, will make his contribution. So far 13 speakers have taken part and by the time the end is reached a division taken on the amendment offered by the Opposition to increase the stampage rate, the number may very well run into 20. The House will sit on Monday evening to consider several bills. Following Mr. Dysart's speech on Tuesday, it is likely E. C. Atkinson, Mr. S. Leger, Opposition member from Gloucester, may take part and it is known that Hon. E. A. Reilly, chairman of the N. B. Electric Power Commission, and Dr. M. J. Dutton, Westmorland, will be included in the government list with Premier Baxter concluding.

TO START ON ESTIMATES.

The end appears certain, however, his speech with a statement of consideration of estimates. This will be some time and will be followed by the introduction of Government bills to carry out proposals in the budget, the most important being the bill relating to direct taxation. The last proposal probably will be that referring to the Grand Falls development. One of the members are expecting to get away about the first of May. There were several outstanding incidents of last week's sitting, including Governor Ford and Mrs. Todd with a brilliant company assembled last Tuesday evening and Hon. P. J. Veniot, leader of the Opposition, Hon. C. D. Richards, minister of Lands and Mines, and Hon. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works.

SPEECH AWAITED.

The address of Mr. Dysart Tuesday being awaited with more than ordinary interest by the House members in a way it will be one of the few speeches he has made in the House, although he has been a member since 1917. He was elected Speaker in 1921 and discharged those duties with credit to himself. In some quarters, he is looked upon as the logical successor to Hon. Dr. Veniot as leader of the Opposition in the event of Hon. Mr. Veniot's leaving the provincial arena. It is suggested in a despatch about a month ago that he would be appointed a member of the International Joint Waterways Commission. On this question, however, Hon. Dr. Veniot has maintained a strict silence. Mr. Dysart was born at Cocagne, Kent county, of English and Scotch descent. He was educated at Guelph Agricultural College, St. Joseph's College and Dalhousie Law School, being a member of the New Brunswick bar.

GIFTS AT FAREWELL

Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Adams in Exmouth Street Church

Parting gifts and expressions of very high regard were made to Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Adams in the Exmouth street church yesterday, keen regret being expressed at their coming removal from the city as Mr. Adams has accepted a position in Bristol, England. They leave on Tuesday morning to sail from Halifax for England. At the evening service in the Exmouth street church last night before he commenced his sermon, Rev. E. E. Styles, the pastor, called Mr. Adams to the front of the church and presented to him an illuminated address and a very handsome gold watch and chain. Mr. Styles referred to Mr. Adams' splendid service to the church recording steward, secretary of the Board, trustee and for one year superintendent of the Sunday school. At the meeting of the Women's Bible Class in the afternoon Mrs. Adams was similarly honored and a very fine Morocco hand bag was presented to her on behalf of the members by Mrs. Andrews, president of the Bible class. Mr. and Mrs. Adams will be greatly missed in Saint John. They resided at 60 Gilbert's Lane and Mr. Adams has carried on business as a machinery agent.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY GAINS 300 MEMBERS

Impressive Ceremony of Enrollment Held in St. John The Baptist Church

Three hundred of the men of St. John the Baptist congregation were received into the Holy Name Society at a very impressive service held in the church last evening when the seating capacity of the church was taxed to its utmost. Rev. Francis Gillen, of the Cathedral, recited the Rosary and an eloquent sermon on the "Holy Name" was delivered by Rev. James Moran, C. S. R., of St. Peter's church. For the formal reception after the service Rev. Beneditio, Rev. J. J. McDermott, priest of the parish, was the celebrant. The old men inmates are subject to little or no discipline, wear no badge or uniform to advertise their position, and can stay out as late as they like, and may even play away for weeks at a time without losing their pay.

DEATHS

William Lord. Relatives in the city received word yesterday of the death of William Lord, son of the late John and Margaret Lord, of this city, which had occurred the day of the Maritime Oddfellows Home, Picton, N. S., at the age of 78. Mr. Lord was well known in Saint John and very highly esteemed. He followed shipbuilding and ship carpentry in Saint John for many years and was only about three years ago that he left Saint John to reside in the Oddfellows' Home. He had been a member of Peers Lodge, I. O. O. F., in Saint John for a long period. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Joseph Beville, of 59 Thorne Avenue, and the funeral will be held from her residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

DEATHS

Henry P. Harvey. Henry P. Harvey passed away at his residence, 42 Sewell street, Sunday morning after a brief illness. Mr. Harvey was born at Greenwich, Kings county, Feb. 4, 1850, son of the late Jesse Harvey. His wife, Catherine, and one sister, Mrs. Charlotte Gorham, survive. Walter T. McBay and H. W. Jones, of this city, are nephews.

DEATHS

Horton A. Tower. The death of Horton A. Tower, eldest son of Mr. Alexander Tower, of Rockport, N. B., occurred at the County Hospital, East Saint John, on Sunday morning. The late Mr. Tower, who was 27 years of age, had been in failing health for the last year.

BREAK AT DUCK COVE

Three Summer Cottages There Are Entered and Ransacked

Three cottages at Duck Cove which have been occupied by C. C. Kirby, Mrs. A. C. G. Tapley and Mrs. Arthur McBride, Montreal, have been broken into, it was discovered yesterday afternoon by James Kean, who promptly notified the occupants. Mr. Kirby and Mrs. Tapley's sons visited the cottages last evening and as far as they were able to discover the intruders had been content to ransack the premises, pulling out drawers and making a general search through the contents of the cottages. It was not found that anything had been taken but as it was late in the evening by the time the owners had arrived on the scene they could not make a very thorough investigation. Their uninvited guests had gained entrance to the cottages by breaking in the doors and it was thought that they had made their visit on Saturday, as Mr. Kean has kept close watch over the cottages and saw no signs of any entry having been forced when he had been by that place on the previous Sunday. Tuesday afternoon, interment was in Mount Hope cemetery, Deer Island.

COTTONSEED IS BASE OF "HASH" ALREADY MADE

Contains More Than Double the Amount of Protein in Meats
MUCH COOKING OIL NOW IS PRODUCED
Is Backing Olive Oil and Hog Lard Off the Market

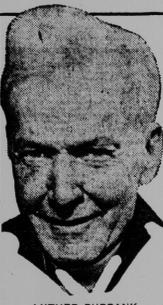

TULSA, Okla., April 10.—Visions of synthetic beefsteaks produced at a cost of 5 cents a pound were conjured before the eyes of members of the American Chemical Society by Dr. David Wesson of New York, Chemical Director of the Southern Cotton Oil Company.

REPLACES LARD
"Cotton is a food crop of high rank," said Dr. Wesson. "Since 1878, when the chemists entered the field of cotton and cotton products, one improvement after another has taken place in the refinement of cottonseed oil and the preparation of edible fats until there is but a small field left in this country for the oil of the olive, while the lard of the hog has been equaled if not surpassed by the various excellent cooking fats now on the market made entirely from the once despised cottonseed.

MUCH PROTEIN
"Analysis of cottonseed indicates the presence of considerable protein, so that it is possible after removing the oil and other products to obtain a substance containing about 65 per cent of protein. This would make a good meat substitute. With cottonseed meal costing 800 per ton and carrying 50 per cent of protein we can get 1,000 pounds of protein for $50, or at a cost of about 5 cents per pound.

IN SCOUT WORK

Secretary of District Retires To Go Into Commercial Life

HAS DONE MUCH FOR ORGANIZATION

Praised by Leaders Here for Good Work He Has Done

Gives Up Position

L. L. JOHNSON
Who retired as Scout official to enter commercial life in city.

THE Boy Scout movement in Saint John is losing the valued services of Leonard L. Johnson as district secretary, though his interest and some of his spare time will continue to be given to the work of the scout association. Mr. Johnson is going into commercial life on the staff of one of the large business houses of the city, and necessarily, this prevents him being an all time official in the scout work. He will carry on, however, as scoutmaster of the Boys' Industrial Home troop.

Local News

ON SAD MISSION
Mrs. K. M. McBeth, Brookline, Mass., reached the city today to attend the funeral of her brother, E. S. Stephens.

AT END OF APRIL
News that he had tendered his resignation became known today. It is to take effect at the end of this month. He has held this position for the last three years and has been a deeply interested and hustling worker, a decided factor in building up the scout organization and has seen it increase largely in number of troops and members. The same applies to his work for the Wolf Cubs here, in which he has been assistant commissioner for his district. He retires from his office with the whole scout and cub organization in better condition in membership, in work and in interest than it has ever been since. He is also a scout and a Gilwell scout. He is a member of the Saint John Rover Scout first aid team, which won the New Brunswick championship recently, and has taken examinations for the Dominion championship and Wallace Nesbitt general championship. The results are expected in June.

The fire department was called out to a house in Somerset street this morning to answer a call from Box 10. The fire was in a bed and was quickly extinguished.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL ILL
Friends of I. Newton Fanjoy, principal of the Fairville Superior School, of Boston and Beverly of this city, and the sister, Mrs. Charles McNulty of West Saint John. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

J. B. MOONEY ILL
Joseph B. Mooney, 108 Watson street, West Saint John, a member of the staff of the Globe, has been seriously ill at his home for several days. There was a slight improvement today.

MRS. MARY A. KERR DEAD.
The death of Mrs. Mary A. Kerr, widow of James Kerr, occurred in the General Public Hospital this morning. Mrs. Kerr was a daughter of the late Thomas and Margaret Moore Vincent, and is survived by two brothers and one sister. The brothers are Walter of Boston and Beverly of this city, and the sister, Mrs. Charles McNulty of West Saint John. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

SPOKE TO THE BOYS
Rev. A. K. Herman, who has been filling the pastorate in supply at Main street Baptist church for some time, spoke to the younger boys of the Y. M. C. A. at their Sunday morning meeting yesterday, 65 little fellows being present. It was the largest meeting of the season, the average attendance being 55. Next Sunday will be the last of these winter meetings. Rev. Mr. Herman told of his war experiences.

BIRDS IN COUNCIL
Yesterday in the Old Burying Ground a convention consisting of large robins, red-headed woodpeckers or a variety of woodpecker, hedge sparrows and "juncos," otherwise known as bluebirds, assembled in the shrubbery and talked trees and it would appear from their animated chatter they were protesting against the unpopularity of their old haunts for spring occupancy. It was a springlike touch although the air was chilly.

APPLICATION REFUSED.
Before Judge J. A. Barry, in the Saint John County Court, an application was made on behalf of the defendants in the case of A. G. Sholter, vs. Rosenhek & Glickman to change the venue from Saint John county to Restigouche county. A. B. Gilbert appeared for the defendants in support of the application, and Kenneth A. Wilson appeared for the plaintiff, against. The application was dismissed and the action directed to be held in the county of the Saint John County Court.

Weddings

Ferris-McInerney
A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception at Nuptial mass by Rev. Joseph Floyd at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning, when Miss Evelyn Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. McInerney, of 23 White street, became the bride of Charles Gordon Ferris of Hartford, Conn. The bride was attired in a blond satin costume with shoes and hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Theresa Y. McInerney, who was attired in tomato Canton crepe with shoes and hat to match. The bridegroom was attended by James A. McInerney, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. After a short wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Ferris will reside in Hartford. The bridegroom's present to the bride was a check. They received many beautiful presents, including a check from the bride's parents.

As Hiram Sees It

CLIFTON SPRINGS.
N. Y.—Well, sir, fer a man that wants all his complaints looked into—an' somebody fust'n' around all the time—guess I've come to the end of a perfect day. The nurse gimme a 'sleprin' tablet las' night—an' it took two nurses to wake me up this mornin'. Anyway two of 'em was at the door. They come in an' one of 'em gimme some orders an' took my pulse an' went right away. The other one handed out a spear an' told me to roll up my sleeve. 'I hed some blood took out o' my other arm yesterday,' says I. 'Well, I'm gonto put somethin' into this one,' says she. 'Let 'er go,' says I—an' she did. An' she didn't hurt me, neither. Then she gimme some orders an' went away—an' I hed my breakfast. Then in come another nurse with a sort of timetable. 'This here,' says she, 'tells what treatments you're to her—an' the day an' the hour.' 'Jist a mimit,' says I, after I looked at it. 'Let me git this thing straight,' got three cards there now tellin' me what I got to do today—besides one I forgot yesterday. 'Well,' says she, 'the's only one down there fer today.' An' off she went—an' come another one to take my order fer breakfast tomorrah. After that they let me git up an' dress—an' start on my rounds. An' that's a story in itself. I'll tell it tomorrah. Here's another nurse comin'. She'll order me to be tied up.

EARLY VOTE IN CITY ELECTION TODAY'S LIGHT

More Polling At Noon As Workers At Lunch Hour

CANDIDATES ALL BUSY MEN TODAY

Polls Close At 7—Telegraph-Journal Will Publish Results in Extra

THERE WAS not much activity at the city polling booths this morning in connection with today's election of a Mayor and two commissioners. Though there was brilliant sunshine, cutting wind made it uncomfortable for the outside workers who were not so numerous as usual. Even the ranks of habitual election staffs were thinner than other ballottings, apparently an indication of the proportionate lack of interest in today's contest.

EXPECT LIGHT VOTE.
Friends of the candidates were on hand with automobiles and there were public conveyances of the kind under hire. Some here printed legends indicating the candidate in whose interest they were being utilized but until the 12 to 1 o'clock rush of lunch people the cars were not requisitioned very often. It was a slow morning at all the booths and Commissioner Wigmore and Bullock, old campaigners, said that they did not expect a heavy total vote would be polled.

CANDIDATES BUSY.
Up to mid-day any remarks indicating the outcome of the election were conjectural. All the candidates were busy visiting polling booths in continuous round. Dr. Barton expected to get a large vote from the fraternities with which he is connected and a West Saint John majority. A. M. Rowan's workers were banking on a solid North End. Dr. White made no observations as to the volume of his vote but his managers were certain he would receive a very generous proportion of the total vote cast in all divisions with a distinct majority in Queens, Duke, Sydney, Victoria, and other wards.

FOR COMMISSIONERS.
Amongst the candidates for the two vacant commissionerships active campaigning was in progress from the opening of the polls by Alexander Corbett, George Carvell, John B. Jones, Commissioner Wigmore and Commissioner Bullock and R. J. Logan.

THREE BIRTHDAY PARTIES ARE HELD

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Wakeham, Albert street, entertained 26 relatives and friends, at their home Saturday night. The guest of honor received beautiful gifts, coupled with congratulations. The newly appointed supper table was centered with a three tier birthday cake, illuminated with pink and green candles and there were favors for all the guests. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music. George Wakeham, gave piano selections, and Harold Crossy, several violin solos. Delicious refreshments were served.

HELD AS STOWAWAY
Harold Johnson, 25, a native of Manchester, Eng., was arrested this morning by Sergeant Dykemans, being given in charge by Captain Stott of the steamer Manchester Brigade as being a stowaway on that vessel. He appeared before Magistrate Henderson and on pleading guilty was remanded until the end of the week, when he will be returned to England on the steamer.

MELITA TONIGHT
The wireless station at Red Head reports that at 8:10 a.m. the steamer Melita was 96 miles south of Yarmouth bound for this port. She is due at 11 o'clock this evening.
