PROPERTY BURNED LAST WEEK.

Burchill's Blacksmith and Carpenter Shops Destroyed Thursday Evening.

DERBY FIRE.

Mrs. Newman's Home Destroyed With all Contents Mrs. Gerrish Also Loses Home.

Thursday evening an alarm of fire was sounded. The fire proved to be at Messrs. Burchill's mill, Nelson. The blacksmith and carpenter shop were destroyed.

The fire was discovered shortly after the mill closed down for the day and is supposed to have caught from a spark from the mill. A heavy northeasterly gale was blowing, which, fortunately blew the flames and burning embers away from the mill and lumber piles. The mill whistle called the men to the scene and soon three good streams of water from the mill pump were playing on the burning building, and soon the fire was under control. The Newcastle fire company went to Nelson and lent valuable assistance. The damage was in the vicinity of one thousand dollars.

Fire destroyed the house of Mrs. David Newman at Lower Derby, during a severe gale of wind on Thursday. Mrs. Newman is a widow and lives with her son. About noon on Thursday, while at dinner, they smelt something burning and going to the front of the house saw the flames shooting down the stairs from the upper flat. Flamed by the gale the fire swept through the house so quickly that mother and son had to flee for their lives. Everything was lost, including winter clothing and a considerable sum of money which was up stairs in a bedroom bureau. The flames spread with such rapidity that a pet dog which was in the house was burned to death before it could escape. The house had only recently been rebuilt and was very neat and comfortable in every respect. The loss will amount to considerably over one thousand dollars.

The house owned by Mrs. Garrish, Inghamtown, was destroyed by fire last Tuesday. While fighting the flames Mr. Mat. Jardine had his head quite badly cut.

MR. CORNELL SERIOUSLY HURT

Was Assisting in Making Survey of Steamer "Loyal Briton."

WAS UNCONSCIOUS.

A young man in the employ of Mr. Malcolm MacKay, the lumber shipper of St. John, was quite seriously injured Friday afternoon while assisting the Port Warden make a survey of the steamer "Loyal Briton" now loading coal at O'Brien's mill.

Mr. Cornell was in the fore hold of the steamer examining some plates which had been patched after the steamer had run aground on the Newfoundland coast, and in some way he slipped and fell a distance of ten or twelve feet, striking on his head. Two had cuts on his head had to be dressed by Dr. Hayes, who was promptly called. The injured man was unconscious for some time but on Saturday he was much improved and on a fair way to recovery. He will not be able to be about for a week or so, but no serious consequences are anticipated.

MAIL CHANGES ARE NEEDED.

Little Southwest People Want Mail Days Changed.

The residents of the Little Southwest would like the government to make a slight change in the mail service up that river. At present they have two mails a week, Monday and Thursday. It is the opinion that the better days would be Wednesday and Friday. On these days the mail is carried from Newcastle up the Northwest to Redbank, where the Little Southwest mail is made up. By having the mails connect on these days the residents would receive their mail with less delay. Now if mail misses Wednesday it has to remain at Redbank until the following Monday.

The residents should send a petition to Mr. Loggie, M. P., and no doubt he would have the matter attended to.

WILL HAVE DOG SHOW

The executive of the Exhibition Association has decided to hold a dog show in connection with the big fair this fall. Thomas McCullough will be in charge of the exhibits and a capable man will be brought here to act as judge. Prizes will be provided and it is expected that this will prove to be one of the strong features of the exhibition. It is probable that the southern end of the machinery hall will be utilized for the display of canines.

Manager C. J. Milligan left yesterday for St. Stephen, where he will confer with some of the manufacturers regarding the placing of exhibits in the big show.

A BRITISH OFFICER IN EGYPT KILLED

CAIRO, Egypt.—Captain S. C. Bull of the Sixth Inniskillen dragoons, was killed and four other British officers were badly injured, by natives near Tantah, yesterday. During the march of a detachment of British troops from here to Alexandria the five officers, apparently on the invitation of a village official went to a hamlet to shoot pigeons. The villagers surrounded the party, deprived the officers of their guns and attacked them with bludgeons, with the result that Captain Bull was killed, another had an arm broken, and the others were badly injured. The affair appears to be the outcome of the recent Pan-Islamic campaign carried on during the Anglo-Turkish dispute over the Tabah boundary.

Mr. James Robinson, ex-M. P. of Millerton, has contributed $50 towards a fund to provide play grounds for St. John children.

PORT WARDEN HOLDS SURVEY

John Ferguson, Esq. and Others Hold Survey of S. S. Loyal Briton.

WAS ASHORE

Ran on Small Point, Newfoundland—Was Repaired at St. John.

A survey of the steamer "Loyal Briton" was held at O'Brien's mill, where Nelson, on Friday afternoon by Port Warden John Ferguson, assisted by Capt. Oscar W. Smith, Master Mariner, and James Dickins, engineer and machinist. The steamer ran aground at Small Point near Cape Ballard, during a fog, but got off and proceeded to St. John's, Newfoundland, where repairs were made under the direction of Lloyd's agents, given a certificate of seaworthiness and proceeded to this port arriving here Friday.

After a careful survey of the vessel the Port Warden pronounced her seaworthy and eligible to receive her cargo and proceed on her voyage.

BOYS' CLUB CLOSED FOR HOLIDAY SEASON.

Since its organization March 15, 1905, the K. O. K. A. has had eleven meetings, and five new members have been enrolled. On the evening of the 15th, the boys marched to the hall, wearing the regalia of their order.

At the opening of the conference the boys sang the Castle hymn in unison. The Rev. Mr. Snell was present and gave an address of about twenty minutes, in which he held the earnest attention of both members and visitors.

Mr. Miller delighted the boys by playing two selections, accompanied by Mrs. Miller on the organ. Clarence Jones recited "The Banner of St. George" in a very acceptable manner. Mr. Thos. A. Clarke, who was appointed by the Newcastle S. of T. to assist with the club, and who was present at its organization, was called upon for a speech, and responded, much to the satisfaction of the boys.

Refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, provided by the Ladies of the W. C. T. U. were then enjoyed by all, after which the meeting was brought to order and the closing exercises gone through with, ending with the National Anthem and the Castle cheer.

EMPERESS OF BRITAIN BREAKS THE RECORD

New C. P. R. Steamer Travels From Land to Land in Little Over Three Days.

Montreal.—The C. P. R. royal mail steamer "Empress of Britain" sailing from the landing stage at Liverpool at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, June 9th, passed out to sea from Moville at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. She was in communication with Cape Race by Marconi wireless telegraph at 6 o'clock this morning being at that time 100 miles east of that station, thus completing the run from land to land in 3 days 21 hours. This not only beats her own record, but the record of any other steamship over the same route. A westerly gale is reported at Cape Race, which may delay her advance up the river. The Empress is expected in Quebec early Saturday morning. She carried 107 first class, 412 second and 850 third class passengers.

The fact the House of Commons will hold morning sittings after this week is evidence that the session is drawing to a close—at last. The session can hardly be called a short one, and the members are expected to be back in Ottawa in November.

Mr. John McMullin, the factory inspector, is now in the northern part of the province making an inspection of the mills and factories there. His trip has already extended over a period of more than a week. It will probably continue for several days to come.

There is good news for the I. C. R. train men. The Government has assented to an order for over 30,000 tons of steel rails for the Grand Trunk Pacific eastern section being given to the Sydney Steel Company. This will mean big hauling on the Intercolonial summer and winter.

At the closing exercises of the Provincial Normal School, Fredericton, last Friday, Miss Alice Thistle of Hillsboro, Albert Co., was presented with the Governor General's bronze medal, awarded to the leader of the junior class for proficiency in professional work by Dr. J. R. Inch, chief superintendent of education.

A telegraph operator in the I. C. R. service said recently that the operator who told Mr. Morin, M. P., that an operator had nothing to do "but listen to the trains go by" is untruthful and does not deserve to hold a position in the service. He says the operators in this section are rushed all the time and earn every cent they are paid.

The rapidity with which the Western country is filling up, says an exchange, is instanced by the increasing sales of C. P. R. home-stead lands, and higher prices which are being given for them. During May sales amounted to 69,260 acres at a total price of $537,733 as compared with $8,095 acres for $380,746 during the same month last year.

Arrangements are being made to have the owners and drivers on the maritime circuit, who have signed a declaration not to start on the Chatham track until certain alleged unjust fines are remitted, meet a delegation representing the Chatham track at Moncton at the time of the circuit races there this month.

There has been a lot of talk about the Chatham trouble during the winter and it is hard indeed, to prognosticate the result of the proposed meeting.

When owners and drivers get together it would be as well for them to form an association to work in with the association controlling the circuit and thus put a stop to clashing dates as caused by such tracks as that at Amherst which seems to delight in bucking against somebody.

Thursday morning at an early hour Mr. Maddison who resides near the lower I. C. R. reservoir Moncton, saw two moose running through Mr. Charles Jones' field. He also saw them on Sunday morning in the same place.

Mr. John McDonald who was one of the three who are walking from Sydney to San Francisco and return was here last week on the return trip. Mr. McDonald states that he has walked 7,500 miles and is several months ahead of time.

John Hamilton of Dalhousie Junction committed suicide on Saturday night of last week. The unfortunate man had been working all day Saturday and on Sunday morning was found in his barn suspended by a rope from a beam. He was seventy-six years of age.

The Presbyterian General assembly holds out the latch string for Anglicans and Baptists to come into the greater church with the Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists. Church union has been approved by majorities so overwhelming as to be almost unanimous.

A new stamp has been issued by the post office department for use by postmasters in connection with letters which are not fully prepaid. Hitherto letters not fully prepaid have been marked with a figure specifying how much the receiver would have to pay. The stamp is bluish in color and is in several denominations.

The following Provincial appointments have been made:—Resignation—James Valentine Magee, a justice of the peace and a commissioner of the parish of Dalhousie civil court; James S. Harquail, a sitting magistrate for the town of Dalhousie; W. Elder Trueman, judge of probate, pro hac vice, in reference to the estate of John Chalmers.

By a judicious deal in real estate with the government a Moncton man is said to have cleaned up $8,725 in a few weeks. The same sort of thing is done in private speculation every day, or whenever opportunity occurs, but governments are expected, at least by the opposition, to be sharper than other people in regard to such matters.

Earl Grey, who is coming to New Brunswick to enjoy a few days' salmon fishing on the Tobique, will arrive at Plaster Rock at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday. He will travel from Montreal in his private car attached to the C. P. R. express, and will take a special at McAdam for Plaster Rock. His Excellency will be accompanied by his daughter, Lady Sybil Grey, also Capt. Trotter, A. D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Ford and Miss Howard, of Montreal. The party will drive from Plaster Rock to the Tobique, and will likely proceed from that point to the seven mile pool in canoes. The Tobique Salmon Club has extended to the party the privileges of their club. Mr. W. T. Whitehead, M. P. P., has made all arrangements for the expedition.

The Last Roll Call

By MICHAEL WHALEN.

IN MEMORIAM
Major Templeton And Miss Snowball.

A grand old veteran grim and gray,
His brilliant battles won.
A brave old soldier passed away,
His life and labors done.
A fair young girl at the morn of life
The roses on her breast,
Who scarcely knew of its bitter strife,
Laid 'neath the last, long rest.
Ah, such is life in this weary world.
For each of us, one and all,
When the fight is finished, the flags
are furled,
The last Roll Call.

A fair young maiden who brightly bloomed
A rose upon Life's tree,
A dear old man who had well consumed
The taper of life, are free;
When God, the Gardner great and good
Goes forth in His glorious bowers,
He fells the trees of the grand old wood,
He calls the fairest flowers.
He plucks the finest fruits that grow
On His fruit trees firm and tall,
He lays the lordly oak trees low,
In the last Roll Call.

And though we weep we must not sleep
In the onward, upward way,
Bat ever eternal vigil keep,
For the Master watch and pray.
We are soldiers all, and the trumpets
call
To the trial and the test
We must on to the fight for God and right.
Ere we lay us to our rest.
There is work to be done ere set of sun
Though the fairest flowers fall,
Then arise and away to the final fray
And the Last Roll Call.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE

IN KENT COUNTY.

Harcourt, June 8.—Rev. George A. Beaman and Allan Haines joined Grangeville division last Saturday night. Last night George Lawson, John Miller, Frank Campbell, Clifford Warman, Frank and Lorne Fearon, were initiated into the Bass River division, bringing the latter's membership to eighty-one, of whom the great majority are young men.

Last night a temperance reunion was held in Bass River division. Twenty-three attended from Harcourt, fifteen from Grangeville, and six from Richibucto, and about seventy of Bass River's members attended. All but two from Harcourt were members of the S. of T. The total membership of Kent County divisions are: Bass River, 81; Harcourt, 73; Grangeville, 54; Richibucto, more than 40; and McLaughlin-Road, about 30. The first three, with 208 members were not in existence two years ago. Since that time the consumption of liquor, judging by the freight Records of this station, has decreased one-half; and one of the licensed hotels has closed up its business. Bass River division prepared a good programme for the visitors, including a supper. Speeches were made by A. E. Pearson, H. W. B. Smith, H. H. Stuart, Robert Phinney, G. L. Kezwick, A. D. A. (kinson, Rev. G. A. Beaman and Miss Lela E. Ingram.

A MYSTERIOUS HAND

SNATCHED THE PAPER

CURIOUS YARN FROM ENGLAND ABOUT TWO MEN AND A LAWSUIT.

LONDON, June 18.—A curious story of a mysterious hand has just been related at Kirkham County Court.

Henry Trefall, greengrocer, was sued by James Rigby for the return of a deed or $250 its value, and $50 damages.

Both men were interested in a will, and a deed of settlement was drawn up and signed by eleven beneficiaries. Trefall promised to sign the deed, and he and others met in an inn for this purpose.

A room was specially cleared for this transaction of the business, and when the deed was produced Trefall took it, went to the door, and asked the landlord for a pen and ink.

A second or two later he turned round and exclaimed: "Somebody has taken the deed." No footsteps had been heard, nobody was seen in the passage, and Trefall did not know who had taken the deed away.

Trefall said that when he opened the door a hand appeared suddenly and snatched the deed from him. He could not say whether it was a man's or a woman's hand.

Eventually the parties agreed to find a practical way of settling the action.

NINE BRITISH SAILORS KILLED BY EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

Either Internal Machine or Barrel of Naptha Caused Terrible Disaster on Steamer Haverford, at Liverpool Dock.

Liverpool, June 14.—Five men were instantly killed and about forty were wounded as the result of a terrible explosion this morning on board the British steamer Haverford, of the International Navigation Company. The vessel which is commanded by Captain Nielsen arrived here yesterday from Philadelphia, landed her passengers and proceeded to Huskisson dock early today in order to unload. The stevedores were in the act of loosening the hatches when the explosion occurred. It blew off the hatches, rent the decks and hurled dead and wounded men in all directions. Several bodies were dismembered and the deck resembled the floor of a charned house.

The explosion, which according to the rumor, was caused by an internal machine, was followed by an outbreak of fire. The cargo consisting of linseed oil cake in whole numbers 2 and 3, was soon blazing fiercely. Firemen and police hurried to the dock and the injured were quickly taken to a neighboring hospital, while the work of searching for further possible casualties proceeded with vigor in spite of the fierceness of the fire. After two hours hard fighting, the firemen obtained the mastery of the flames. Later it was said that the disaster on board the Haverford was apparently caused by the explosion of a barrel of naptha. The death list now totals nine.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house.

The Red Rose Flavor and Strength

NO Ceylon tea nor Indian tea alone can have the "rich fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea, because neither variety in itself possesses all the qualities of strength, richness, delicacy, and fragrance. Each has its own peculiar qualities, but each has its weaknesses.

By combining the two in the Red Rose proportions, 1 produce a tea with the "rich fruity flavor" and strength of Red Rose Tea, a flavor and strength found in no brand of Ceylon alone.

NEWCASTLE'S MAYOR RECEIVES ATTENTION

Brief History of Mayor Hennessy's Life as Written for the New Freeman.

The following sketch, specially prepared for The New Freeman, will be read with interest by the many friends of Mayor Hennessy, of Newcastle, in all parts of the province:

MAYOR HENNESSY.

On the seventeenth of April last the electors of the town of Newcastle directed themselves of any sentiment which might have guided them in their choice for municipal honors in the past, and elected as mayor Mr. Patrick Hennessy, one of their foremost business men. This is the first time a Catholic has been called upon to fill the honored position of head of the council board.

Last year Mr. Hennessy was defeated at the poll by a very small majority in favor of Stanley Miller. This year the defeated candidate was again opposed by the same rival, but the ratifiers saw they had made a mistake in their choice of last year and they concluded that it would be very unwise on their part to allow the public welfare to suffer by repeating their former mistake, so they wisely elected Mr. Hennessy, who had during the four years he served at the council board, proven himself to be a careful, industrious, honest public servant.

Mr. Hennessy is a native of Battelstown, County Wexford, Ireland, and a son of the late Mr. Michael Hennessy, who emigrated to the Miramichi in 1840 and entered the employ of William Abrahams, at that time engaged in an extensive shipbuilding business at Rosebank. Mr. Hennessy did not accompany his parents to America, but came out thirteen years later, landing at Beaubears Island (his father having moved there some time previous to the suspension of the Abrahams firm) and entered the employ of Harley & Burchill, one of the largest ship-building firms on the Miramichi, where he served his apprenticeship as ship carpenter, and afterwards worked at his trade successively in the ship yards of the late Hon. Peter Mitchell, Hon. Richard Hutchinson, and the late John Hays at Kacbank. Late in the sixties, the shipbuilding industry in the colonies received its death blow by the introduction of the iron vessel. Those firms that had engaged in building wooden ships that gave employment all the year round to a very large number of mechanics, and to the farmers in winter time getting out the frames for such vessels, were forced out of business and the ship carpenters had to seek employment in the neighboring state of Maine or wherever such employment could be found. Mr. Hennessy, unlike many of our young men who went abroad in search of golden opportunities never found, stayed at home and made opportunities for himself. In 1875 he entered the grocery business on a very small scale on the very site where he is to be found today. His dwelling and capacious ware-houses erected for the purpose of carrying on the large wholesale and retail grocery and provision trade that he has built up during those years that he has been engaged in business are ample proof that industry, fair treatment to purchasers and a strict attention to business are the secret of his success.

Mr. Hennessy has always identified himself with the welfare of his town and when assistance was wanting to encourage industry to start in the town it was not found necessary to solicit his subscription or his time, as they were voluntarily offered. Mr. Hennessy has on several occasions served on delegations on matters of vital importance of the town such as the equalization of freight rates, extension and connection of railway facilities, steamboat connection and the regulation of licenses of parties doing business in our town and county; and Mr. Hennessy has held very important offices. He was a member of the school board for sixteen years prior to the town's incorporation Act, he was appointed a county almshouse commissioner in 1892 which office he still holds, and is chairman of that body since the death of the late C. L. Call. He has been president of the Board of Trade of the town for several years past, and although the large business which he manages would naturally occupy most of his attention still he finds some time to devote to works of public utility and philanthropy.

BATHURST

Social and Personal

Bathurst, N. B., June 13.—The church of England presented a very handsome appearance on Tuesday night at 9:30 o'clock, having been beautifully decorated by friends for the marriage of Miss Mollie Gervin, and Mr. A. Griffith Bishop. The church was crowded with the relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who looked charming in a handsome gown of white silk with veil and wreath, entered the church on the arm of her father Mr. G. Gilbert, and was attended by her sister, Miss Francis Gervin, who wore a becoming dress of blue silk. Little Miss Ruth Gilbert, acted as maid of honor. Mr. R. M. Bishop, of Boston, brother of the groom, was groomsmen. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. H. Hooper, the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, where they were entertained until time for the Quebec express. The happy young couple, after a tour to include the principal Canadian and American cities will reside in Bathurst. Very many good wishes for happiness and prosperity are extended by their many friends to Mr. and Mrs. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Rive, and Mr. Rupert Rive, of Carleton Place, spent several days in town this week.

Mrs. T. M. Fraser and little son, of Halifax, have come to spend the summer, and are the guests of Mrs. J. F. Bryer.

Miss Georgie Burns, after a visit to Halifax is home again.

Miss Aelen Bishop has returned after a lengthy and very pleasant visit to Chatham. Mr. Chas. Morrissey, of Newcastle, spent a few days here this week.

Mr. C. P. Hickey, of Chatham, visited Bathurst this week.

Mrs. W. A. Cragg, returned to Dalhousie after a pleasant visit to her mother.

Mrs. A. Grant, went to Campbellton this week.

Mr. H. Adams, of New York, is visiting his relatives here.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the kind ever held here was a social given by the Citizens' Band on Friday night at the Masonic hall. Much praise is due the young men who organized the affair and made it such a success.

Peter Murray, of Chatham was seriously hurt yesterday morning while working at the Miramichi Pulp mill. He was working on the mill track pushing a wood car when another came behind and knocked him down. His hip was found to be dislocated and his body bruised. He was taken to the hospital.

The Central Telephone Co. have all the poles erected on their line from Bathurst to Newcastle and a service will be established between the two shiretowns in about six days.

The Adventurers

By H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"I confess that I was utterly at a loss what to make of him and was inclined to interpret him for a mild lunatic, but we proceeded along the roadway, I with the bridle of my horse over my arm. He still clung to me, discoursing quietly in a melodious voice upon his views of life and the philosophy we should derive from it, while I listened, for the most part, in silence. But after waiting for a quarter of an hour, the latter part of which time was spent in a somewhat laborious ascent, we came out upon the summit of a little hill clad in the splendid livery of summer and surrounded by what seemed in the distance to be the ruins of a castle. Here the old gentleman came to a halt, ceasing simultaneously of his chatter, and looked toward the building.

"I am fully conscious, Mr. —, I don't think I caught your name, Mr. —." "Greator, I told him. "Thank you," said he. "I am fully conscious, Mr. Greator, that I am under a deep obligation to you for your great service this afternoon. Greator: There are, if I remember aright, Greator: in Hampshire."

I explained that we were cadets of that family. He bowed his acknowledgments of my explanation and proceeded.

"Hospitality tells me that I can do no less than offer you the opportunity of refreshment for yourself or—his eyes dwelt abstractedly upon my horse—'for your animal. But I am reluctant to press the offer upon you, seeing that it is very probable you have ridden far'—he was observing poor Jupiter's flanks—"and are still far from your destination."

His eyes interrogated me, but with no rude curiosity, rather as if they offered a remark which I might consider a question or not, as I chose. I answered frankly:

"I am staying at the Swan, in Raymond, and to say truly—I laughed—"I am not quite sure how far I am from the town or in what direction it lies."

"In that case," he said urbanely, but with a sense of satisfaction, as I imagined, "my reluctance vanishes. You are some seven miles from Raymond, and my horse is here."

Without more ado we resumed our walk and, entering an avenue of limes, came next upon an iron gateway set in a high brick wall. It was of very ancient workmanship, but as nothing to the house itself, which came passed into full view as soon as we had passed the entrance. It lay some 300 yards back, approached through a patch of park ground with grass and interspersed with noble trees. My first impression had not been wrong. It was nothing less than the ruins of a small castle, one of those fortresses reared by the border barons against the incursions of Welsh barbarians in the Plantagenet times. As we drew near my gaze devoured the building and took in many points of interest. It was quite small, but, saving for one wing in perfect integrity. From the huge masonry of the drum towers down to the moat and portcullis all was as it had been in the days maybe of Hugh Lupus. The wing of the quadrangle to our left was dismantled and lay strewn with huge stones in precarious ruin. A hundred yards or so upon the other side, however, gleamed the red roof and heavy thatch of farm buildings, and a round stack or two in the neighborhood proved that the fortress kept its ancient uses no longer.

"You will see that I am able to resist a siege," said my host, with a whimsical smile, as we crossed the drawbridge, adding, with what seemed to me a comical irony and looking down at the bridge, "I fear, though, we should find some trouble with the hinges."

We passed through the arch of masonry and into the courtyard within, where the old gentleman speedily summoned a man and gave him charge of my horse. And here again I noticed that further appearances testified to the use of the castle as a farm. From a scrutiny of this pleasant aspect I was aroused by my host, who, pausing as he pushed open a huge oaken door, turned to me suddenly.

"I am extremely remiss, Mr. Greator," he exclaimed with a gesture of apology. "You have not yet the style of your grateful host. My name is Kesteven, and this is generally known as Ivor castle."

All this was conceived in the most formal and eccentric temper, and doubtless had it not been for the strange interest of his habit and conduct I might not have consented so meekly to be his guest, for it was now time for my homeward journey. However, I must, it appeared, sit and drink with him a glass of sherry in his library, a large and ancient room with a very fine display of oaken shelves and paneling.

A little later I excused myself, and rose for departure. For a minute or two he appeared to have fallen into abstraction, and then, glancing at me quickly, he regarded me with a steadfast, inquiring gaze.

"Mr. Greator," said he, "you are a young man. I begin to think that we should find much in common. You will permit the question? Are you married?"

I assured him that I was not. He nodded, as if this were satisfactory news. "Nor am I," he answered, "but very probably for another reason. I cannot expect you to take part in my philosophy, but I am reminded that you have seen nothing of a house which is of some historical interest, and which I should esteem myself happy to show you. Is it necessary that you should return to your Swan this evening?"

The invitation in the query took me aback, for, eccentric as my host undoubtedly was, I had not anticipated this proffer of hospitality. Yet there was certainly no pressing reason for my return, and here, at least, I should have more congenial company than in my miscellaneous taproom. I replied something to the effect of this thought.

"Good," said he, brightening a little. "You are kind to cheer a solitary. I can even promise you a bottle of champagne if you are young enough. If you will allow me I will call my housekeeper." He rose and went to the bell, but, pausing with his hand upon the rope, looked at me gravely.

"I should be doing you wrong, Mr. Greator," he said, "if I were not to let you know that by consenting to be my guest tonight you are conferring upon me a great favor. You place me under a particular obligation."

I told him, laughing, that the obligation was mine.

"No," said he. "I fear that my meaning is not plain. Let me say this—I have a particular reason for wishing your companionship tonight."

I bowed politely and offered some conventional reply, though this deep air of mystery puzzled me.

"You are a strong man, Mr. Greator," he continued, surveying me seriously. "I must tell you that I have no one sleeping in the house save my housekeeper and a maid. The man you saw, who took your horse, sleeps in a cottage at Llanellan." He paused. "I was unfortunate enough to lose my valet a month ago and so far have been unable to fill his place."

I began to understand. He was in some fear of his lonely condition. Possibly he dreaded an attack by his late assailant. Suddenly, too, ran into my memory the scene in the taproom on the previous night, the miller and his long pipe and his story. There was that same tale that should have been exciting about a burglary. And here I was in Ivor castle.

"If you are thinking of that scoundrel!" I began. "Surely the police—"

He interrupted me with a smile. "The police, Mr. Greator, are seven miles from Ivor castle. But pray do not misunderstand me. I shall be infinitely obliged by your company. It's long since I had an intelligent conversation. But I would not detain you if you had any scruples about staying."

I laughed. "Not I!" said I. "I will stay and gladly." And in truth I meant it, for the adventure interested me not a little. Was it burglary?

It was in the dining room that we spent the evening. There was a long, low roofed chamber occupying the ground floor and opening with windows upon the cobbles courtyard on the one side and the meadows of the park on the other. It was a great chamber to contain but two people, but somehow the black oak of the walls and the general air of the upholstery prohibited the thought of discomfort. These walls were not vacant, nor this space, but teeming, if one considered duly, by a concourse of illustrious faces and high stepping ghosts. Upon this point, as it happened, I was not long left in curiosity, for Mr. Kesteven was in the mood to confide the history of the castle to me. He was a queer creature, partaking, as it seemed to me, of the most diverse and incongruous emotions. Constantly he would set me wondering upon his statements, striving to pick some order in their apparent confusion. One moment quite a sounding pride rang in his pompous annunciation of the titles of some great noble, while the next I was driven to suppose by very clear signs that he displayed nothing but a pitiful contempt toward the whole prejudice of race and family. The man struck me as wearing a mask, and that a mask of such severity and primness as to offer very few secrets to his company. And even at his moments of most spacious frankness I was never able to determine the depth of its genuineness.

He fetched me out some wines, giving me a generous choice, but himself drinking but sparingly.

"No, thank you; I have never smoked," said he in reply to my offer of a cigar. "Will you not smoke yourself, Mr. Greator?" And pray try that port. I understand it to be of a particular year. He insisted gently upon helping me from the decanter and then dropped softly into his chair.

Suddenly he rose and going to a window threw it open and leaned forth. I heard somewhere from the deep recesses of the old house a clock striking the hour of 1. Mr. Kesteven closed the casement and turned to me.

"I fear, Mr. Greator," he said, with a smile, "that I have fetched you here under false pretenses, but at least you have saved an old man from his own company, which is, after all, somewhat dull fellowship."

He threw open the window and leaned forth.

"No," said I, echoing his smile. "I have been myself preserved from the hard chairs of a very crowded taproom and the quarrelsome attentions of half drunken farmers."

"Come, come," said he genially, "you must not give the Swan a villainous reputation."

"Oh, it was not I," I answered lightly, keeping up the triviality, "but a young gentleman of the Gwent."

Mr. Kesteven ceased to smile. "May I ask his name?" he asked.

"Montgomery, I believe, but I understand we are sworn friends now, so that no harm is done."

"Montgomery!" he repeated slowly. "Yes, I have heard the name—a very young and thoughtless man," and he regarded me with a certain reflectiveness.

But it was not of Montgomery I thought when I went to bed, but of the window and the silence of the night, with the moonlight striking on Kesteven's head. Why had he thrown open the casement and discharged me, so to say, from my obligation as policeman? For that was how I interpreted his words.

CHAPTER III.

BEFORE breakfast I had the opportunity to make a narrower inspection of the castle as it appeared from without. The morning was fine, the air of those hills delicate and stimulating, and the sunlight struck the woods and valleys with a golden glory. Smoking a cigarette, I strolled round the edifice, surveying with admiring eyes the details of the design. The entrance by the portcullis lay between two solid drum towers, very formidable to look on. The battlements, which were extremely plain and by no means perfect, the machicolations being worn into great chasms here and there, stood two stories away from the base of the castle, and three if the bottom of the moat be counted. Upon the one side of the irregular square which the buildings made the stonework, as I have said, had fallen into disrepair, and, indeed, no rooms were habitable here. The detritus of centuries had dowed over into the courtyard, and the stones were heaped in a solid accumulation and overgrown with masses of huge Irish Ivy. The southern face of the castle was, so to speak, but a hill of rock. It was at the junction of the southern and western walls that the keep stood, itself raised some twenty feet above the level of the battlements and the termination of the habitable portion of the fortress. The moat, which was some ten feet deep, was grown upon with grass, and its sides were covered with blackberry and furze and divers wild creepers. Completing my circuit of the castle, I struck upon a stream which ran in a full body through the park and, reaching the verge of the woodland, leaped suddenly into a torrent and scattered into a waterfall down the steep face of the hill. While I was wandering upon the margin, watching the tide and swirl of the tiny eddies with lazy satisfaction, I encountered my host, who greeted me courteously.

"You are admiring my little brook,"

TROUT Mezzowork

The undersigned have received from Mr. Nash of Maine the agency for New Brunswick for his famous trout mezzowork. A trout mezzowork is one half the fish so mounted upon a convex elliptical panel as to stand the fish out in bold relief, giving the effect of an oil painting or of a carved fish, with the real thing to see at your prow. The process of preserving fish in this artistic way was discovered by Mr. Nash in 1900, and patented by him.

DOCTOR BRIGHAM SAYS

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womanhood is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and restorative ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ill, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:
"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties. My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for female trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, bloating (or flatulence), weakness of organs, displacements, inflammation or ulceration can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If advice is needed, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. No other living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ill. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well.

Old Crossby worked eighteen hours out of every twenty-four until he amassed a fortune.

Yes, and now his son is working twenty-four hours out of every twenty-four.

No, trying to find a way to spend the fortune his daddy made.

BROKEN SLEEP TIRED NEXT MORNING.

Sleep not only rests, but builds up the body. Cut down the hours of sleep, and you cut down health in the same proportion. Rebuilding then ceases, never go to sleep, you grow tired, weak and withered. To restore sleep you must get more bodily strength, more nutritious blood, healthier nerves. Ferrozine solves the whole problem, makes you sleep soundly gives endurance, vim, and vigor. No more morning weakness—instead the fire of youth will run in your veins, supplying abundance of energy and vigor. Write very express the instant effect of Ferrozine; try it.

he said. "Yes, it is pretty, but prettier in the copest below, where I think you must have observed it yesterday. Here it runs very gravely; below it is a noisy vagabond. You see it has uses here."

"You draw your water here?" I asked, fascinated with the primitive idea. "Not unusually," he replied, "but there is a well within the castle, doubtless from the same springs. Yet the brook rendered a more important service in my predecessors' times."

I looked at him inquiringly. He smiled.

"Let me see," he resumed, "if I can give you ocular proof. It should be here." He stopped and, dipping his stick into the water, poked among the pebbles of the stream. "Ah, here it is! I think I have it!" He looked toward the castle, above the battlements of which now flamed the morning sun. They rose some fifty yards away. "There is a connection with the moat by means of a conduit," explained Mr. Kesteven.

I uttered an exclamation of delight and vowed that I must explore farther. Assenting graciously, he led the way toward the house and, letting himself gently down the sloping bank, walked, peering about him, along the bottom of the moat. "You will find it overgrown, no doubt," he said. "But your eyes are better than mine. It is ten years since I looked for it."

I searched amid the trailing creepers and presently discovered the mouth of the conduit. It was of thick stone and mortar and from its appearance must have been of very ancient construction. But the opening was choked with earth and grass and probably had been so for centuries. I said as much to Mr. Kesteven.

"No," he returned, "I think not. I believe my predecessor in the tenancy of the castle had it opened some fifty years ago, and flooded the moat for his own amusement. I understand that the experiment was quite successful and entertained a party of guests, one of whom," he added dryly, "fell into the water and was only rescued with some difficulty. But you shall make better acquaintance with our neighborhood after breakfast. I assure you, Mr. Grestorex, it is worth your study, and this castle of mine is by no means singular."

TRIBE OF 2,000 CHOSE DEATH

St. Petersburg, June 18.—One of the most terrible stories of nomadic vicissitude ever told has just reached St. Petersburg. It is to the effect that an entire tribe of the Tshukotoes, numbering about 2,000, has just perished by its own act as the last avenue of escape from famine.

The tribe inhabited one of the bleakest parts of Yakutsk and obtained a precarious subsistence by rearing reindeer. Early in 1905 a deadly disease appeared among the deer and by Winter the entire herd had perished. The unfortunate people endured much, hoping that Spring would bring some better prospects. This hope was disappointed and, with slow starvation staring them in the face the elders of the tribe spent a day in discussing what should be done. The almost incredible decision was that each father should first kill his family and then himself.

On the following day the appalling tragedy was carried out in the open air in a general assembly. The only exceptions were a few old men without families, who when left to themselves had not the determination necessary to commit suicide, and some of them continued to drag on a miserable existence until they were found.

Why, Harker, I haven't seen you in five years. I am always glad to meet two old friends.

Very nice of you, old man, but where is the other old friend?

In your hand. That is my umbrella.

Jack—So Katherine decided to withdraw from the field of literature?

Helen—Yes, indeed. After she found out the much-talked-of literary style had nothing to do with gowns or hats she was disgusted.

The millionaire's motherless son had just filed his application for a job as husband to the fair maid.

You'll have to excuse me, Percy, she said, but I can never be anything more than a mother to you.

A mother! echoed the surprise Percy.

That's what I said, rejoined the m.

Some of The Stringent Royal Rules.

Regal Etiquet at Royal Courts and Restrictions of Royal Power.

A curious curtailment of the the royal prerogative is effective by an act of parliament passed in the reign of George III, which deals with Sabbath breaking. In this act it is distinctly stated that the monarch shall not have the power to pardon any persons convicted of a certain form of Sabbath breaking. Yet his majesty can, of course, pardon 90 out of every 100 prisoners in the land.

A number of years ago it was perfectly permissible, and, in fact, a matter of strict etiquette, for a visitor who should obtain an audience with the Sultan of Turkey to bow and kiss the hand of that oriental potentate. Anarchists, however, took advantage of the privilege, and on one memorable occasion a treacherous emissary drove a dagger into the heart of a sovereign, and from that time forth the privilege has been disallowed.

When the youthful King of Spain was 12 years of age he one day had the misfortune to slip and fall down a flight of the palace stairs. The fall would very probably have been attended with fatal results had it not been for a servant who extended a kindly hand and saved his young master by breaking the fall. But by a stringent rule of Spanish etiquette, no one dare even touch the sacred person of the King, and for this very grave offence the servant was at once dismissed from his position.

By a remarkable law of royal etiquette which has existed for a number of years past at the court of Siam, no person is permitted to sleep in an apartment situated above that occupied by the King. A deliberate breach of this rule has on more than one occasion been punished by death.

Recently, when the King of Siam paid a visit to Paris, a number of bedrooms were reserved directly above that in which the King was to have slept for the dusky followers of the royal visitor. The blunder caused great consternation among the fearful courtiers, until the matter was explained to the management and duly rectified.

It is a traditional etiquette custom in the Malborough family for each duke to present a Blenheim spaniel to the duchess when she enters Blenheim palace for the first time as its mistress. The story from which this custom has its origin, is that during the battle of Blenheim a spaniel followed at the heels of the great duke throughout the day, never leaving him until the victory was assured.

When the emperor or empress of China appears in public, no other person is allowed to occupy a higher place than they do. Therefore on such occasions the shutters of all buildings are drawn and the upper parts of the houses past which the royal procession is expected to move, are deserted, the inhabitants swarming to the ground floors in order to show deference to their rulers.

Woman, remarked the home-grown philosopher, is a conundrum without an answer.

Huh! rejoined the man who had been married three times. I never saw a woman who didn't have an answer.

Giles—Our old friend Scapem has joined the ranks of the star gazers.

Miles—What! You don't mean to say that he has taken up astronomy?

Giles—Oh, no; he has got a job as dramatic critic on the Weekly Owl.

Dick—Was Jack jealous because I called the other night?

Edna—Terribly! He almost hates you.

Dick—Does, eh? Well I shall send you a box of candy tomorrow for revenge. Adna—Ah, revenge is sweet.

When the Liver is out of Order calomel, cascara, salts, strong liver pills and purging mineral waters won't do any permanent good.

When a person is bilious, the liver is not giving up enough bile to move the bowels regularly—and some of the bile is being absorbed by the blood. In other words, the liver is in a weakened, unhealthy condition.

Now, purgatives don't act on the liver at all. They merely irritate the bowels, and afford only temporary relief. But FRUIT-A-TIVES are the one true LIVER TONIC. They act directly on the liver—strengthen and invigorate this vital organ—and put it in a normal, healthy condition.

FRUIT-A-TIVES also stimulate the glands of the skin—and regulate the kidneys and sweeten the stomach. When skin, liver and kidneys are normally healthy, there can be no biliousness, no constipation, no kidney trouble, no impure blood, no headaches.

No other medicine known to science is so reliable and so effective in curing biliousness as these fruit liver tablets.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices with tonics added—and are free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. 50c. a box or 6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price, if your druggist does not handle them.

PAPER MILK BOTTLES

Toronto News: Paper milk bottles are now being put on the market along with paper beer bottles, paper carbonated water bottles and paper moisture-proof cigar boxes. As Canada is unquestionably the paper country of the future with her immense spruce forests, this interests us. Many advantages are claimed for the paper milk bottles over its glass competitor. In the first place, it is sterilized, while it is claimed it is difficult to sterilize a glass bottle. Then with breakages, cost of collecting and the smaller loads carried the dairies figure that the glass bottle costs between four and five dollars per thousand bottles of milk delivered, whereas the paper bottle costs $3 per thousand and the drivers take out larger loads and make better time by reason of the fact that they do not have to wait to collect empties. The paper bottle is, of course, used only once and is then thrown away.

IMPROVE YOUR COMPLEXION

Give up Cosmetics and Seek the Cause of Your Bad Color.

When it's so easy to bring back the bloom of youth, to remove the blemishes and fill the hollows, isn't it foolish to plaster on cosmetics? Sallow skin and fallen cheeks are produced by disorders of the alimentary canal. Remove the cause—correct the condition that keeps you from looking as you ought. Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and very soon you will have a complexion to be proud of.

Just imagine how much happier you will feel when those purples and mucky look have gone.

Dainty looks came to Miss Vrooman, a well-known resident of Belfast, from using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Read what she says.

"My friends all admit that I have a very delightful complexion. This I owe positively to Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I used to look so yellow. I thought it might be jaundice. There was simply no color in my cheeks at all. Today my skin is clear and never gets that mucky, dull appearance that before. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have given me a good appetite and improved my general health also."

Not only the complexion, but every organ of the body is strengthened, cleansed and made healthy by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The yellow, sallow and a fading of vigor invariably follow their use. Sold in yellow boxes by all dealers, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail from N. C. Pills & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

On Saturday two Newcastle young men left town for the Ox-bow to enjoy a day's fishing at that popular pool. They drove up and took refreshments for man and beast in the wagon. Arriving in the vicinity of the pool, they drove the horse a short distance into the woods, unharnessed, tied it to a tree and fed it, then proceeded to fish. At the conclusion of the day's sport they wended their way to the locality where the horse was left, but only the carriage greeted them. The horse, evidently tired waiting and being bothered by the flies, had worked the tie loose and proceeded to Newcastle. The young men hauled the carriage to Redbank and stored it, then hauled it home, arriving at an early hour Sunday morning, a foot sore pair.
