Predicted to Strike Galveston or

Friday Night. The Conditions Were Ominous, Though the Storm Was Delayed-Wind Reached a Velocity of 100 Miles ar

Galveston, Texas, by dispatch boat to Houston, Texas, Sept. 10 .- The terrific cyclone that produced such a distressing disaster in Galveston, and all through Texas, was predicted by the United States weather bureau to strike Galveston Friday night and created much apprehension. The night passed without the prediction being verified, but the conditions were ominous. The southwestern sky was sombre. The gulf beat high on the beach with a dismal thunderous roar that presaged trouble. The air had the stillness that betokens a storm. Then from out the south the wind began to come in spiteful puffs, increasing in volume as the day dawned.

SATURDAY MORNING. By 10 o'clock Saturday morning it was almost a gale. At noon it had increased in velocity, and was driving the rain, whipping the pools, and tearing foliage in a vicious manner. Residents near the beach were aroused to the danger that threatened their homes, as stupendous waves began to send their waters far inland. The gulf force drove the waves with irresistible pressure high upon the beach, and the gale from the northeast pitched the waters against and over the wharves, choking the sewers and flooding the city from that quarter.

THE FLOOD BEGINS. The streets rapidly began to fill with water; communication became difficult, amounts to suit investors, at 4% interest, pay- and the helpless people were caught between two powerful elements, while the wind howled and rapidly increased in velocity. Railroad communication was cut off shortly after noon by the track being washed out; wire facili-ties completely failed at 3 o'clock, and Galveston was ISOLATED FROM THE WORLD.

At 6 p.m., just before the anemometer blew away, the wind had reached the frightful velocity of 100 MILES AN HOUR. Then sturdier buildings swayed and trembled and crashed, carrying death and destruction to hundreds of people. Windows were driven in or shattered by flying slate; telegraph, telephone and electric light poles, with their masses of wires, were snapped off like pipe stems, and through the air flew house roofs like stringless kites before the hurricane. What velocity the wind attained after the anemometer blew off, is purely a matter of speculation. The lowest point touched by

HARMONY IN CAMP.

Shanghai, Sept. 10 .- The Taku steamer, which has arrived here, brings reports of the latest events in Pekin. These advices are to the effect that the greatest harmony prevails among the officers of the allies, who treat each other with extreme courtesy, and that the soldiers are living as though members of one army. Late arrivals say that if any clash occurs during the occupation of Pekin it will be brought on by the diplomats in Europe, and not by the soldiers in the field.

AN HISTORIC EVENT. The march through the palace was a histon sevent. Every army was represented. The Russians led, and the troops of other nationalities followed in the order previously reported by cable. A Russian band and the Sikhas' bag-pipes played national airs while the troops filed through the grounds and buildings. There were many eunuchs attached to the palace remaining, and they stood by looking as though they were attending a funeral. They were evidently deeply humili-

AFTER THE PROCESSION.

After the procession, which began to move at 8 o'clock in the morning, and was an hour and a half in passing through the grounds, a party of civilians, including the legation ladies, and some prominent missionaries, were admitted. Tea was served to them, and the palace was inspected. The most remarkable feature of the buildings are said to be the gilded exterior staircases carved from single stone, with dragons, lions, and other ornaments. The empress' bed is trimmed with solid

After the inspection the palace gates were again closed, and no one was permitted to enter the grounds. The troops arriving here are for-warded to Pekin as fast as they land. The ministers remain in Pekin.

repair the daily waste of the body and store up the energies required for the duties of the day following. If the nerves are weak and exhausted, and you lie awake, longing for morning to come, you know that you will arise tired and worn out, and one day nearer to nervous collapse, nervous prostration or paralysis.

Sleeplessness, irritability, headache, neuralgia, loss of energy and ambition, confusion of the mental powers, and feelings of lassitude and despondency are among the indications of an exhausted nervous system.

The first thought is to take some opiate to induce sleep, a grave error, indeed, against which many nervous and physical wreck could warn you. There is no rest, no restoration in sleep, or rather unconsciousness, produced by opiates, and the deadening effect on the nerves merely hastens paralysis or prostration.

The most natural and most thorough nerve restorative obtainable is that which is known as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food (pills). It gets right down to the foundation of disease, and by forming new, red corpuscles in the blood. and rekindling the vitality of the wasted nerve cells, gradually and perfectly restores new life and vigor to the weak and run-down system. There is no guesswork, no experimenting, and no faith required when you use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food (pills). It is composed of the elements of hature, which go to form new nerve tissue, and can no more fail than can the laws of nature. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food (pills) is no miracle worker. Though many cures brought about by its use were truly miraculous, it was after the treatment was used regularly and persistently for many weeks or months, as the sase required. You can be absolutely easured of a restored and revitalized nervous system if you use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food (pills) according to directions. The phenomenal growth in the sales of this great restorative are the strongest evidence of its wonderful merst. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2 50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. are army officers. The newspaper correspondents had a controversy with the officers, who at first proposed that no correspondent should be admitted to the palace with the procession, but the press represent-atives were finally allowed to accompany the troops.

Dr. Morrison, the Pekin correspondent of the Times, wiring Aug. 31, confirms the reports of the treachery of the Chinese Government and the issuances of imperial decrees ordering the extermination of foreigners. Conservative Mass Meeting in

Sir Charles Tupper, Hugh John Macdonald and Mr. Foster-Nomination for Richelieu.

Montreal, Sept. 11.—The Conservative rally last night in Windsor Hall in honor of Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, and Hon. Geo. E. Foster, was a great success in point of numbers, the building being packed and hundreds turned away. The interior of the hall was handsomely decorated with flags and mottoes bearing the in-scriptions: "Welcome to Our Chiefs," "Tupper, Macdonald and Reciprocity in Preferential Trade," "The Macdonald Welcomes Its Founder's Son," "Can-ada's Young Men Are With Canada's Grand Old Man." Mr. D. A. McCaskell, president of the Sir John A. Macdonald Club, occupied the chair, and read an address welcoming the leaders.

Sir Charles Tupper, who was the first speaker, was greeted with hearty applause. He said the Conservative party met the electorate without hesitation, and with the strongest conviction that every honest, patriotic and intelligent man would not find it difficult to decide which party was best entitled to their confidence. If they wished a sure test they had only to realize that in all the great measures involving the prosperity of Canada, the Conservative party had been right. He said that he challenged the Liberals to show any policy or set of principles to which they had adhered for any length of time After attacking protection, the Liberals had gone back on all their declarations. Sir Charles charged Laurier and to defend them to the end. The heav- tariff; privately they had given a pledge ing around, for the Liberals would certainly steal it. He (Sir Charles) had proposed the policy of peferential trade in a speech at Montreal, and soon afterwards Laurier had come out indorsing the policy. But after he had returned to power and had gone to England, Sir Wilfrid had turned his back upon the policy. He charged Sir Wilfrid with having shamelessly betrayed his country's interest on that occasion.

The policy of the Conservative party was to build up a great united empire by a mutual preference between the From Shanghai comes a report that if Hung Chang has dispatched an urg-

Sir Charles spoke for an hour and a quarter.

Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, when the applause which greeted him had subsided, spoke of the friendship that had existed between his father and Sir Charles Tupper, who were generally known as the Siamese twins. Mr. Macdonald gave reasons for his belief that the Liberals would be defeated at the polls. The present campaign, he said, was being entered upon by the Conservatives under totally different auspices. The breaches in the ranks were closed, and the party was under the leadership of a man in whom everybody had confidence. He was just as confident of winning now as he was before the last election in Manitoba. After the ballots were counted his honored friend, Sir Charles Tupper, would be prime minister of Canada, and the Liberals, now utterly discredited, would be again relegated to the shades of opposition for a long period.

EAST LAMBTON CONVENTION. The Liberals of East Lambton meet at Watford today to select a candidate for the commons. The party in the riding have never been more confident of victory than they are in the coming contest. Thorough organization and perfect harmony are strong factors in determining the result of an election.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTIONS. The Conservatives of Center Wellington will hold their convention at Fergus on the 18th inst. South Perth Conservatives will select their candidate at St. Marys on the 20th inst.

NOTES. One of the greatest Liberal meetings ever held in Eastern Nova Scotia was addressed on Monday night by Hon. William Paterson and Hon. W. S. Fielding, at New Glasgow. It was the largest held in the county for many years. Fully 3,500 men and women were assembled.

Gen. Bruce Hamilton Credited With Ladybrand's Relief.

How Lydenberg Was Captured-Honors for Brave Father O'Leary.

London, Sept. 11 .- Major White commanded at Ladybrand, with a company of the Worcestershires and the Wiltshire Yeomanry, whose officers behaved most gallantly. The credit for their relief is due to Gen. Bruce Hamilton, who marched 80 miles in four and a half days.

GOT AWAY. It is reported that ex-Presidents Kruger and Steyn have fled, and that

Gen. Hamilton is in pursuit. The colonial office says that the British government issued a notice in South Africa on Saturday, Sept. 8, to the effect that every concession granted by the late government of the Transvaal Republic will be considered by her majesty's government on its merits, the British government reserving the right to decline to recognize or to nullify any concession. The commander of the Chinese forts the present government with having THE CAPTURE OF LYDENBURG. London, Sept. 11 .- A dispatch from Rietfontein says that when the British captured Lydenburg the Boers were completely out-maneuvered. They bolted through the village in the direction of Pilgrim's Rest. Gen. Hamilton ontflanked them on the right, causing them to evacuate their strong posi-tions. They abandoned some of their artillery, and shelled Buller's force to cover their retreat. Their projectiles fell short, and the British sustained no casualties. Gen. > A dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Belfast, Sept. 6, describes the opera-tions preliminary to the capture of Lydenburg. Gen. Ian Hamilton was clearing the way for Buller's column, which was driving the enemy before it. Gen. Buller had sustained a loss of two wounded. The dispatch says: Gen. Hildyard's troops occupied Wakkerstroom on Sept. 5, the Boers, under Commandant Joshua Joubert retiring. The British had one killed and two wounded. The enemy continues to fire upon trains. They are very pe their efforts to derail trains and destroy the lines. Scarcely a day or a night passes without accidents. Recently the Boers shot a driver and injured a stoker. Last night the Pretoria-Belfast train was derailed and the engine dynamited. The Boers opened fire, but there were sufficient soldiers traveling to drive them off.

BRAVE FATHER O'LEARY. Father O'Leary, the respected Roman Catholic chaplain of the Royal Canadian Regiment in South Africa, has arrived in London, and is now in Charing Cross Hospital. Father O'Leary had a severe attack of dysen-tery in South Africa, following enteric fever, and although well on the road towards recovery and anxious to re-main at the front, the army authorities insisted upon his making the trip to England on three months' leave. Father O'Leary is in good hands in London. Both Lord Lansdowne and Lord Strathcona have called upon him in hospital, and as the fame of the plucky priest who got into the fighting Paardeberg and elsewhere has preceded him, Father O'Leary oids fair to be lionized in London. One of the first acts which he did on arriving at the metropolis was to place a wreath of South African silver leaves on Wolfe's monument in Trafalgar

Square. Mr. Burdett-Coutts, M.P., who has gained considerable notoriety in connection with his exposure of the alleged hospital scandals in South Africa, will entertain a large party of Canadians and Australians, invalids from South Africa, at his country residence, Holly Lodge, tomorrow.

The Government We Need. It is well to remember the limits of governmental power. A government cannot make bricks without straw, or cause grass to grow without rain; but by wise abstention, as well as skillful positive guidance, it can do much to help the commercial and social life of a country. The two things we need from a government in this enlightened policy. On the eve of a general election, it is the duty of patriotic electors to face this question, and ask if they are more likely to get this from the men who are in opposition than from the men in power. Change for the mere sake of change is simply folly.

The Government will soon go to the country to claim a record for clean, honest administration, if not perfect, a vast improvement on that of its predecessors. It has tried to carry on the business of the country on fair, honorable lines. What is more, it has developed the business of the country. This may mean increased expense, but it is an expense that will yield a good return. Economy is a good thing, but a man may ruin his business by cutting down expenses too low. The thing required is a judicious enlargeof operations, subject to needs of the growing Then we need, not a national policy in a narrow, selfish sense, but one that by allowing Canada to take its proper place in the Empire and the world, enriches the country in what it gives as well as what it takes. No country can live to itself, the opinion of Boers and Boxers notwithstanding. The real national policy is international as well as national; for in making "concessions," the benefit is never all on one side.

The foreign and graveyard vote cannot be polled for Tupper candidates in the ensuing general election, as they were in 1896. The Provincial voting system has put an end to that outrageous system.

A prominent gentleman from Winnipeg, who was recently in London, terms funk. He made all sorts of promises Hugh John Macdonald the worst speaker he ever heard. What! worse than Dr. Sproule?

A Splendid Record.

After paying the cost of government, of the development of the country, of the enlargement of the canals, of the Englishman says: "It is seven years extension of railways into new territories, the management of the Yukon, and all charges for the Canadian contingents in South Africa, the Dominion Government has over $3,000,000 to be applied to the wiping out of the national debt and the sinking fund for meeting it.

That is a good beginning. Next year, with our expenditures very much curtailed, the surplus applicable to clearing off the debt of the country, will be very much largerprobably three times as much.

This has been accomplished in four years of the new order of things. The next four, under the present Government will see the country still further improved, the trade greatly increased, the settlement of our vacant prairies with hardy, industrious agriculturists energetically accomplished, and the public debt enormously decreased.

Cold storage has enabled the Austrathans to place their ducks-wild and tame-on the British market in excellent condition. Here is another field for the industry of Canadians. We should be able to raise and market at a profit a plentiful supply of ducks and prairie chickens for the British people, and at paying prices, too.

Good News for the Veterans. An important announcement was made by Mr. Wicksteed, Q.C., at a meeting of volunteer veterans in Eastern Ontario the other day. He stated that he had had an interview with impossible, and the issue is whether Hon. Col. Gibson, who stated that the Government of Ontario had come to the decision to give the volunteers who served in repulsing the Fenian raid of 1866 and also the South African veterans from the Province a bounty grant of 160 acres of land, free from all conditions as respects the grantees (the veterans), and with permission to assign within a limited time, settlement duties being compulsory on the "civilian" assignees. In this way they thought the locking up of public lands for an indefinite period would be avoided, and their settlement procured, with what would be good cash bounty or bonus obtained by the veterans as the price of the lands. The veterans are thus conetituted either good settlers or energetic egents for the disposal to suitable settlers of the land awarded them.

This will be good news to Ontario veterans. It shows that the Administration of the Province is fully alive the public sentiment with regard to the service of their citizen soldiers.

The Scare Manufacturers.

The Nova Scotia coal mine owners are finding it very difficult to get workmen enough to man their mines, so busy are they. Even an increase in wages has not brought them a sufficient number of hands.

This experience shows how little reliance can be placed on Opposition prophecies. When the Liberal Government of Nova Scotia, headed by Hon. W.S. Fielding, put in force their policy for the development of their coal mines, the electors were told that the policy was ruinous-that the mines would not be operated under it, and that the workmen would have to leave the country, or starve. The very reverse, as we have seen, has been the case, and this year's experience shows how utterly absurd were these prophe-

It is indeed a had year for the Opposition prognosticators, who on all hands see prosperity and happiness in Canada where they had prophesied that disaster and misery would come because of the Liberal management of public affairs. Many a long day will go by before a sensible man pays any age are honest administration and wise attention to the foretellings of these Opposition manufacturers of scares.

> For the past fiscal year the Canadian Government has the tidy surplus of $7,940,392. No wonder the large majority of Canadians lend a deaf ear to the plaintive cry of Sir Charles Tupper that we should change back to the old order of deficits that preceded this the new and happier era of Canadian development and prosperity.

Bradstreet's trade review today gives a very bright outlook for Canadian trade. Everything is active, remittances good, bank business increasing, travelers report rushing business, the harvest reports are encouraging, and everything couleur de rose. Truly, these are the days of peace, progress and prosperity in the Dominion. Who would go back to the dark days of depression and misgovernment prior to

No Backward Move.

The total value of Canada's exports of cheese, butter and bacon in 1896 was $19,617,881. For the year ended June 30. 1900, the value had increased to $38,908,279. That is a very creditable showing. The farmers of Canada do not wish to change back to the old order of things. They will not listen to the voice of the politician who expresses himself as hostile to the preferential tariff that has been established in favor of Great Britain, and which has caused a great revolution of British sentiment in favor of everything Canadian.

The impression prevails that Hugh John Macdonald's retirement from the Premiership of Manitoba is a case of of what he was going to do, including prohibition, and that he would stay to see them all carried out. But hardly has he warmed the premier's seat, before he funks out.

Dr. Bernard has been in Toronto. on a visit. This is what the observant since I was last here, and the change is wonderful. In 1893 I found a people-I speak of the agricultural population-despondent and almost hopeless. Now I find hope and prosperity in the air, that electric feeling, don't you know, that makes one look to the future with elation."

Lord Wolseley's Retirement. Lord Wolseley retires from the command-in-chief of the British army on Nov. 1, and already speculation is rife as to who will be his successor. The most probable appointee is Lord Roberts, who is recognized as an exceptionally able and deserving officer, with experience not only at home but actively on the two continents of Asia and Africa. By Nov. 1 ft is believed the African situation will not further require Lord Roberts' services on the spot, and he will be able to take the command at headquarters. Lord Wolseley will no doubt have his past services fully recognized when the imperfal authorities come to consider his retiring allowance. As field marshal his Arrow hints that Lord Lansdowne may make the rate of retired remuneration equal to full pay. That will be a modest allowance compared with those which have, from time to time, been granted to similarly situated successful British warriors.

"Our adversaries wish to present to you an issue as between the present tariff and absolute free trade. That is not the true issue. Free trade is for us the present tariff is perfect or defective and unjust."-Hon. Edward Blake in 1882.

ACTOR MACDOWELL

Charged With Ill-Treatment of His Wife-Was Husband of the Late Fanny Davenport.

New York, Sept. 10 .- Melbourne Mac-Dowell, the actor, who was the husband and leading support of Fanny Davenport until her death, was arrested Saturday on an order which charges him with cruelly treating his wife. who was Mrs. Wilhelmina Maria Brafman, the divorced wife of the wealthy Baltimore broker, who alleges that since she married the actor in June last he has constantly ill-treated her. MacDowell was taken to Ludlow street jail and was told that his bond would be fixed at $2,000.

His wife has filed a suit for divorce, charging cruelty. She left him in this city last week, and, it is understood, returned to her parents in Baltimore. They were married last June. Mac-Dowell refused to make any statement.

LOVED HIS NURSE

Settled $12,000 a Year on the Lady and Will Make Her His Wife.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 11 .- Congratulations were showered upon Mrs. Leila Davis today in the Atlantic City Hospital by the other nurses. They had just learned of her coming marriage to J. B. Hillman, who was recently a patient in the institution and was under her charge.

Mr. Hillman is a wealthy Englishman of middle age, and is in America on a business trip. He has been inspecting the American Tube and Boiler Works, of which, it is said, he holds the controlling interest.

Mrs. Davis is a young widow, and her kindness and gentleness excited the admiration of her patient, who, after his recovery, asked permission to call upon her, and a few weeks later proposed marriage. It is said he has settled upon his affianced property which will give her an independent inome of $12,000 a year. Mrs. Davis refused to talk about her engagement, but the matron at the hospital said the ceremony was to be

THE DEVASTATED CITY. Galveston is situated on an Island extending east and west for 27 miles, and is seven miles in its greatest width north and south. In no part of the city, with its 60,000 population, is it more than six feet above the sea level. flat condition not only points to the desperate situation of the people at such a time as this, but their danger may be considered emphasized when it is known that exactly where the city is built the island is only one and onequarter miles wide. On the north side of the city is the commercial section, wharves stretching along for nearly two miles, lined with sheds and large storage houses. Then, in that portion of Galveston, there are three elevators—one of 1,500,000 bushels ca-pacity, one of 1,000,000, and the third of 750,000.

The island, from the north side, connected with the main land by railroad bridges, and the longest wagon bridge in the world, nearly two miles in length. In 1872 nearly the entire east end of the city was swept away by the tidal wave that followed a terwhite, 10c. All the rest, large and rific storm that swept the gulf coast small, 10½c. The cloudy sky and showers of rain which this morning threatened to mar today as an enjoyable fair day happily disappeared before the morning had advanced far. the opinion of the big majority of people must necessarily decide as to the merits of any exhibit or article, and according to the crowd's verdict display of Heintzman & Co.'s the pianos in the main building, is the most attractive there. They are drawn thither, not only by the beauty of the arrangement, but also by the exceeding sweetness of the music that is played and the artistic designs of the cases. It goes without saying that the most important quality of a piano is tone, not the mere frame that incloses the works, and it is because of Heintzman & Co.'s long and careful attention to the tone requirements that they have made the name of their piano famous throughout Canada. That the music-loving people are aware of this position held by the Heintzman & Co. piano has been very evident since the fair opened. Every day there has been an immense crowd blocking up the alley-way in front of their exhibit, and the concensus of opinion seemed to be that the display itself was the most attractive, and the pianos the sweetest, fullest-toned and most beautifully finished in the building.

THE NORDHEIMER COMPANY. One of the most attractive displays in the main building is that of the Nordheimer Company, whose pianos command so great a sale throughout the Dominion. This is the first year that this well known firm has exhibited in London, and it is apparent that no expense has been spared in making their first display a memorable one. There is one very noticeable fact in connection with this display that will make it seem more important to intending purchasers. It is that the pianos on exhibition in the palace are chosen from the regular stock, are, indeed, simply representative of the every-day stock and were not chosen, as is sometimes the case, for exhibition purposes. The public may rest assured therefore that when they inspect the instruments in the Nordheimer display, they will see nothing that departs in any way from the ones that are sold regularly. One of their handsome pianos was sold yesterday, this, we understand, being the first instrument sold since the fair opened. Mr. J. J. He will be pleased to explain still further about the merits of his planos at his downtown warerooms, where the same kind of planos are always to be seen.

BLUE RIBBON TEA COMPANY. The first strikingly attractive exhibit that one sees upon entering the main building is that of the famous Blue Ribbon Tea Company, where a bevy of pretty girls dispense this most refreshing of beverages to the thirsty public. The good quality of this much-used tea would of itself command attention, but when the exhibit is arranged with the care and taste that makes the Blue Ribbon Company stand out prominently, it is little wonder that the aisles in front of it are continually thronged. No visitor to the fair should fail to see this beautiful display and sample the excellent drink that is concocted there.

WILLIAM COLEMAN'S DISPLAY. The tempting honey display made by Mr. William Coleman, of Birr, is one of the most noticeable in the dairy building. It consists of pyramids of clear and extracted honey from about 150 hives. Mr. Coleman, who is one of the most successful men in Ontario in his special line, says that this year's erop is small, but in spite of this it is of excellent quality. It certainly makes a most beautiful exhibit, that is well worth more than passing notice. year Mr. Coleman has been particularly successful in winning prizes, taking the sweepstake for the most tasty exhibit, and winning five firsts. He took first in 20 pounds of comb honey, beeswax, foundation for brood chamber, and comb foundation for surplus honey. He also took seconds on 200 pounds of comb honey, 40 pounds of granulated honey, and on 200 pounds of extracted honey. MUSSELMAN,

C. D. Johnston's Old Stand, 198 Dundas Street.

"Now, sir," he said, at length, to Arthur, who was sitting in sullen silerce, his head bowe dupon his hands, 'I am going to find out what you have done with that money." 'Are you, really," was the sarcastic

"Yes; will you tell me what you have done with it 'No;" with an oath.

"Very well," Louis returned, quietly, and apparently not in the least disturbed by his refusal.

He arose and went toward the door "What are you going to do?" demanded Arthur.

"I do not feel obliged to explain my movements or plans to you," coolly replied Louis

Come, Dunbar, can't we compromise this matter?" Arthur asked, in a conciliatory tone; "if I will make a clean breast of evtrything to you, will you let me out of this and give me time to escape from the country."

"If I will give you a written confession to take to the authorities, will that move you? It is very mean to take advantage of a fellow this way.' "Oh, you begin to see it in that light

Arthur flushed angrily.

"You need not twit me," he muttered. "Your father has been arrested for the crime, and, as I understand, you are not very fond of him, and I have wanted to get rid of him, this would be a good way to do it."
"My father arrested," Louis cried.

"Yes; he was run down this morning, or last night. It came out that he been trying to bleed you pretty freely, and that you had refused his demands; so suspicion naturally fell upon him."

"And you think I would let an innocent man suffer for your crime!" Louis indignantly exclaimed.

"Innocent? when he has been up to such things all his life. I had no idea you were so fond of the gentleman gambler," retorted Arthur, with a derisive laugh.

"Whatever he may have done in the past, he is guiltless of this crime," Arthur said, sternly, "and you greatly mistake my character, if you imagine I would entertain for a moment your nefarious proposal. I will make no conditions with you. I have you just where I want you, and I shall pursue whatever course I may think best. At all events you may remain just where you are for the present."

You may keep me here until I starve, or you may give me up to the authorities within an hour; but I will never divulge the secret you are so anxious to learn," Arthur declared, driven to desperation-"you shall never have the satisfaction of restoring that money to your company."

"We shall see about that," responded Louis, in an unmoved tone. "Perhaps I shall even ferret it out myself, since I am convinced that it is concealed in this building." "Ha! what makes you think that "

Louis was watching him intently, and noticed his surprise and alarm. They confirmed his suspicions. "I am right," he said to himself. with a thrill of triumph-"it is hidden

"Your own movements made me think so," he said aloud. "I have listened to your footsteps, and I am sure you have not lingered in this empty building simply for the pleasure of walking about."

"Much satisfaction may you derive from that theory," muttered Arthur, mockingly, but his tone was con-

Louis turned again toward the door, which he unlocked and passed out into the room beyond, leaving his victim to his own bitter reflections.

missing money.

The rooms, as we know, were bare and empty, not a thing in them to conceal anything; while carefully examining the floors, he could see no evidence of a single board having been raised from its place.

There was a closet in the outer room, and one leading from the landing at the head of the stairs, but upon exploring these he was confronted only by bare walls, empty drawers and shelves, and all festooned with cobwebs and musty from dampness. He descended to the lower room, only to find the same unpromising aspect

Under the stairs, however, he found a long, deep closet. Entering this he began to investigate. Like the others above, it was empty and bare, but at his feet he saw a trap door in the floor.

Raising this he saw another flight of stairs, leading, as he conjectured, into the cellar. It was rather late, he thought to attempt to explort such a place that day, and he finally returned to the room where he had left Arthur, to wait until morning. He found hi msitting as he had left him, sullen and despondent. He looked up, however, with a deflant toss of his head and a muttered oath, as Louis entered.

 "I supposed you had gone and left me to my fate," he said, after a mo-"Oh, no; I intend to pass the night here with you. I do not intend to show myself in public until I know something definite about the money, and I shall make a thorough search of these premises."

"It will be a pity to have so much labor lost." "It will not be labor lost, Louis returned. "I am sure that it is somewhere here. It is my belief that you came here tonight to remove it to a place of safety-perhaps to take it to some other country, to deposit it where you could draw upon it without attracting suspicion."

"Plato, thou reasonest well," was the sarcastic response, as the young man paused in these reflections.

Louis paid no attention to his illhumor, but seating himself upon a chair, he deposited his revolver upon the floor beside him, and began to inspect the package that Arthur was in the act of passing to him when he found himself confronted by the muzzle of Louis' weapon.

It contained some fresh rolls, from which he began to feed himself, as he was hungry and faint of the excitement of the recent events. Having at length eaten sufficient to appease his appetite, he drew forth another chair for his feet, and made himself as comfortable as circumstances would allow. In this position he succeeded in catching an occasional nap, and thus the night passed and the morning of a new day dawned.

Louis awoke at an early hour, and refreshing himself with a few of the rolls left over from the previous night, stole as quietly as possible from the room, and began again his search for the lost treasure.

His first venture was to mount into the third story, but this was as bare as the rooms below. He kept on to the attic, but there the dust upon the floor had not been disturbed by even so much as a footprint, and he knew it would be useless to waste any time looking about among the rafters and beams.

again, where he removed the trap leading to the cellar. He crept down the narrow stairway and found himself in a large open cellar, running under the whole of that portion of the building.

Here he determined to examine every inch of ground to see if it had been disturbed .; and every stone in the wall with the same end in view.

The moment the door was closed and locked after Louis, Arthur Aspinwall sprang from his couch, muttering a malediction upon his foe, and began to look wildly about him for some means of escape.

On two sides of him there were those impassable iron bars fastened into the floor at the bottom and running up into the beam above the ceiling. It was impossible to stir them, though he threw his whole weight against them, hoping that some of them might be loosened in that way.

But he found himself powerless in that direction. On the other two sides of his place of imprisonment there were only bare walls, and that had been painted some neutral tint. Suddenly his face lighted, as his eye caught the gleam of a substantiallooking knife and fork upon his table. I wonder if I could cut through this plastering, then whittle through the laths, thus making my way into another portion of the building, and escape in that way," he muttered. He pounded upon the wall with his fist, as if to ascertain what he would have to contend against: but it only

Yet the farmer who understands that he can't have a healthy corn crop without feeding and weeding, seems to think that he can have a healthy body without either care or culture. But the body is built up just as the corn is, by the assimilation of the several chemical elements on which vitality depends. And what weeds are to the corn, diseases of the stomach and nutritive systems are to the body; they divert the necessary food supply from the proper channels, and the body becomes lean, sickly and ill-nowished and ill-nourished. The proper digestion and assimilation of food is a primary essential of health. By healing diseases of the stom ach and organs of digestion and nutrition, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery increases the digestive and assimilative powers, stimulates the action of the blood making glands, and sends to every organ of the body the rich red-corpuscled blood on which physical vigor and vitality depend. pear very promising.

"If I could have time enough, I believe I could do it," he murmured; "but if he should take a notion to deliver me up within a day or two, I should have all my labor for my pains. However, it will do no harm to try.' He pulled out his lounge from the wall and marked off a place to begin operations "If I could make a hole I could con ceal the debris under the lounge, and he would never suspect my purpose; he is down in the cellar and cannot hear me plainly, and," with a little derisive laugh, "he may hunt for his treasure until doomsday. Meanwhile I will not be idle; this kind of life is maddening me."

He fell to work at once; marked off a square which he thought would be large enough to allow him to creep through, and then began to cut into the plastering.

He soon found that it would not be so difficult as he had at first imagined. A couple of hours would suffice to take away the whole square. This discovery so encouraged him that he stopped for a while to eat something, for he was very hungry. His appetite was excellent, and he partook heartily of the food that he had brought for Louis. (To be Continued.)

NATIVE TROOP FLED.

Kumassi, Sept. 11 .- News has been received here that a body of 3,000 native levies, under Capt. Benson, attacked Ojesu, the famous fetish town, ten miles east of Kumassi, Aug. 29, instead of waiting to co-operate as ordered, with Lieut.-Col. Brakes, consisting of the Central African regiment, which destroyed Ojesu, Aug. 31. As soon as they were under fire the levies turned and fled. Capt. Benson, who had only one white man with him, is reported to have shot himself in order to avoid falling into the hands of the Ashantees.

PLEASANT EPISODE IN PARIS Paris, Sept. 11.-Notwithstanding the extremely strained feeling between the French and English, several very pleasant episodes lately go to show the possibility that better relations may be re-established. Admiral Seymour's cordial appreciation of the work of the French contingent in China during the first attempt to relieve the ministers in Pekin was welcomed with undisguised delight. enthusiasm prevailed. Lord Avebury, better known as Sir John Lubbock, also made a statement which was widely commented upon by the French press. It was a thing, which, strange to say, his hearers had not apparently realized—that England absorbed one-third of France's total exports. This appealed strongly to the bourgeois mind.

BUTCHERED IN BEL

Mail advices from Australia by the steamer Warimoo gives details of an atrocious series of murders in the country districts of New South Wales by a band of blacks, a reference to which has already been sent by cable. It appears that the murderers first entered the Mawley homestead, at Getgaudia, where several young ladies were living. The inmates were killed in their beds. The blacks, after the terrible butchery, fled through settlements on stolen horses, murdering and robbing as they went. They were chased by 1,000 volunteer policemen and 12 bloodhounds, and two out of six of the gang only had been caught. The bodies of their victims had been mutilated with hatchets. The names of the victims are: Miss

Peterboro Somnambulist Threw His Child Down Cellar.

Perth, Sept. 11 .- An unusual incident which occurred at the home of Mr. D. R. Noonan on Monday night is reported in the Expositor. Mr. Noonan, who has been unwell for the last day or two, retired for the night, his youngest son occupying the same bed alongside of him.

In his somnambulistic state he thought his little boy was a bag of explosive material, and, catching him in his arms, ran yelling frantically to the cellar door, and threw the little fellow down the cellar with great force. He continued shouting at the top of his voice, and turned on all the lights in the house, and in an instant the household was aroused, and some of the older members coming to the rescue, succeeded in waking him. He was overcome with emotion and fear when he awoke, and had to be assisted to his bed. The little fellow was brought out of the cellar, and it was found that he had sustained severe though not serious injuries to his head and face, and will soon be as

WOMEN.

The Trouble Is Easily Controlled.

PRODUCES

When women are afflicted with sleeplessness and the many ills arising therefrom, they should be aware of the fact that they can, by their own efforts, control and banish all troubles. By the use of Paine's Celery Compound the impure blood that undermines the stomach and the nervous system can be purified and enriched and the number of red corpuscles in-creased. Sleeplessness that causes much of the nervous prostration among women is a trouble that Paine's Celery

Compound never fails to cure. Paine's Celery Compound by its well known nourishing powers enables the nerves to get back their control over the circulation, so that the blood supply becomes greatest where it is most needed, as in the stomach after eating, and least where its presence can only do harm, as in the brain when sleep is needed. If wearied, worried, weak and nervous women desire full health and a happy life, we urge them to give Paine's Celery Compound a fair and honest trial. Paine's Celery Compound has a marvelous record of rapid and permanent cures that embraces every city, town and village in our broad Dominion. AT THE BIG FAIR

Citizens' Day Passed Off Very Successfully.

Over Three Thousand People in Attendance.

Some Good Speeding Events-Grand Display of Fireworks in the Evening.

Citizens' Day at the Western Fair passed off very successfully. The attendance was over 3,000, which is considered good for Monday. A director remarked that it was somewhat surprising that more of the citizens of the Forest City do not take the opportunity of visiting their fair on a day when they can enjoy the viewing of its many departments, unembarrassed by the crowds that are a necessary accompaniment of a visit to the grounds on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Yesterday every department was the afternoon and evening, and everything passed off very successfully.

THE AMUSEMENTS. The full list of attractions was presented in front of the grand saind, both afternoon and evening, and the spectators gave every evidence of appreciation of the many excellent acts presented. The balloon ascension and double parachute drop was again the feature of the afternoon. The aeronauts as-cended about 5:15, there being a brisk breeze blowing from the southwest at the time Mme La Roux waited till the huge aerial monster had attained an altitude of nearly 2,000 feet before dropping. Her parachute opened al-most immediately and she descended slowly. Prof. La Roux continued his ascent till he could be barely distincut loose and made his descent in safety, the big balloon following shortly after. The professor, his wife and the balloon were picked up by a dray-man, and they returned to the grounds accompanied by an escort of curious bicyclists. The Rexos, skatorial artists, gave a Cadieux repeated his performance on The Gillette family, consisting of three men and four boys, did a clever Gourley and Lamoth again gave their which should prove a decided incentive laughable clown and donkey act. The colored cakewalkers again roused the enthusiasm of the spectators by their performance of the cakewalk. They also rendered several vocal and instrumental selections.

SPEEDING EVENTS. Considerable interest was manifested in the horse races, which took place in the afternoon. In the first race, a gentleman's wagon race, Bonnie Pacer, owned by Wm. Collins, London, won easily. West Point finished first in the first heat, but Bonnie Pacer had no difficulty in taking the following three. Frequent breaks on the part of Polly Stanton and Medium Jack marked the heats. The summary was:

West Point, br. g., Elmwood London Time—1:17, 1:17¼, 1:14½, 1:16½.

In the second race, the three-quarter mile run, there were five starters. Owing to her recent showing at Toronto Exhibition, Mamie Calan, was picked to win this event, and this expectation was fulfilled. The summary was: Running race, three-quarter mile

THE FIREWORKS. The fireworks display in the evening was provided by the well-known firm of Hand & Co., of Hamilton, and it is needless to say that it was comience who witnessed it. The display included three large fire balloons, one having an electric spray of one hundred feet in length attached to it; a double revolving sun wheel; a number of columns of fire in red, white and blue; and a series of fountains of fire. One of the prettiest pieces was a spray of white fire, 100 feet in length, resembling a fall of snow. The spray was supported by a cross-fire, and it illuminated the entire ring. One set piece showed the rose, shamrock and thistle, surrounded by revolving wheels of fire. while the closing piece showed an armored train moving out from beleaguered Mafeking to attack a Boer po-This piece, which was design-ive evidence of this fact is needed than They show a full line of gas and gasoline stoves, and ovens, and all at prices to prospective buyers. A line deserving special attention is their water-heating bath attachment, by which water can be so quickly heated, that in one min-ute's time, water at a temperature of 120° can be run off at the rate of one gallon per minute. These attachments can be placed in any bath-room, laundry or kitchen, and can be attached to any ordinary gas-pipe, or the same result can be produced with gasoline. The price for the gas heaters is $18, and for the gasoline heaters, $20. The value of such an appliance in every household can at once be appreciated, while in cases of sickness, when a few minutes' delay in securing hot water means serious results, and perhaps loss of life, its value simply cannot be calculated. The fact that a discount of 10 per cent is being made on every order given at the company's exhibit at the fair grounds should have the effect of materially increasing their sales of their really mer-

KHAKI. When Canada's brave soldier boys sailed away last year to do battle in South Africa, it was but fitting that from the land of their birth should be supplied the clothing in which they went forth. So it was that the Sanford Manufacturing Company, of Hamilton, received the order for the khaki suits which Canada's soldiers donned. So well did the Sanford Company execute favored with an order from the imperial2 2 government for 30,000 suits of military rray, clothing — the largest clothing order ever placed in the Dominion of Canada. The same methods which have gained such marked recognition from the English authorities are pursued by this company in the manufacture of their various lines of clothing, to be convinced of which fact it is only necessary to visit their retail establishment, Oak Hall, 152 Dundas street. Here will be found complete lines of men's and boys' clothing, at prices to suit all purses. Mr. Wm. Gibson, who has been engaged in the clothing trade in London for many years, is the capable and popular manager of the establishment.
