ENGINEER DEAD AT THROTTLE, PLUNGES INTO CIRCUS TRAIN WIPING OUT STAFF OF SHOW; MANY FAMOUS STARS PERISH

Train Carrying Hagenbach-Wallace Performers Wrecked Near Gary, Indiana.

BY REAR-END CRASH

Loss of Life, Which Includes Noted Acrobats and Dancers, May Reach 150.

Chicago, June 22.—The personnel of the Hagenbach-Wallace Shows is believed to have been practically wiped out in a disastrous railroad collision between Michigan City and Hammond, Ind., today. According to meagre details received here at Michigan Central offices, a hundred or more persons were killed or injured. Four coaches, in which members of the circus were sleeping, were demolished by a rear-end collision.

The show was traveling in two sections of a Michigan Central train going from Michigan City to Hammond. At East Ivanhoe a hot box caused the second section to stop. A train of empty Pullmans, coming to Chicago, crashed into it, the locomotive plowing its way through the way car and four sleeping coaches. The injured were taken to hospitals at Hammond and Gary.

WRECKAGE CAUGHT FIRE.

Gary, Ind., June 22.—Estimates of the dead in the Michigan Central wreck near Ivanhoe station vary from 100 to 150. The wreckage caught fire, destroying many bodies and killed the injured pinned under the debris. Twenty-six persons were brought to Mercy Hospital, ten to the Gary General Hospital, twenty to the Illinois Steel Company Hospital and three to St. Antonio Hospital.

Crumpled Like Paper.

A telephone message from Gary says the heavy steel pullmans crashed through the lighter wood coaches like so much paper. The wreck was complete.

Here and there in the wreckage, legs and arms protruded, and groans testified to the suffering of those still alive. Trainmaster Whipple of the Michigan Central was on the train, and was reported among the missing.

Fourteen injured persons from the wrecked circus train were taken to St. Margaret's Hospital in Hammond, and it was said that 50 others had been taken to the hospital at Gary.

Ed. Ballard, owner of the circus estimated the dead at fifty, and the injured at 75. A number of valuable horses are believed to have perished also. The accident occurred at about 4:30 a.m. It was impossible to obtain water, and the flames burned unchecked.

Engineer Dead at Throttle.

L. W. Landman, general passenger agent of the Michigan Central, said his only explanation of the wreck was that the engineer of the train of empty cars must have been dead at the throttle.

"In no other way can I account for the fact that he ignored all of the usual danger signals placed by the circus train," said Mr. Landman. "He ran past two block signals, two red light signals, and the usual fuses planted between the rails and throwing off a brilliant red light visible for a long distance.

"This engineer is missing. My information is that with the exception of the engineer, whose fate is a mystery, no one on the train of pullmans was hurt. It will be some time before an accurate list of the dead can be compiled. It is the worst wreck in the history of the road, I believe."

The large number of persons in the casualty list is said to be due to the practice of show trains of sleeping two persons to a berth. The coaches were pullmans of an obsolete type, converted into gaudily-painted show cars.

Famous Stars Killed.

Among those reported missing are the Rooney family of bareback riders, the Meyer family of animal trainers, the Cottrell family equestriennes, Harry La Pearl, Ed Devore, Mark Adams and Joe Coyle, clowns. Heavy loss in dead and injured is said to have occurred among the ballet of 100 girls.

Daylight was just beginning to show when the crash came. Those thrown free from the wreck stood in their night clothes, helpless, while their comrades perished in the flames.

Surgeons and nurses were dispatched from Chicago, Gary, Hammond, Whiting, and other nearby towns.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT.

Chicago, June 22.—Officials of the Michigan Central here confirmed reports of an accident near Gary, Ind., this morning. An equipment train ran into the rear of a passenger train, demolishing six cars and injuring a number of passengers. The accident occurred at Ivanhoe, a station about six miles from Gary. A relief train has been sent to the scene.

ROWELL URGES GREATER EFFORT FROM DOMINION

Declares Situation, Although Not Desperate, Is Still Very Serious.

BOOSTS BEAVERBROOK

Canadian Delegates to Imperial Conference Working Hard With Cabinet.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser by F. A. McKenzie.]

London, June 22.—The dominion delegates to the Imperial conference are working very hard with little time for social intercourse. The Government has provided them with sets of offices in the war cabinet office building in Whitehall Gardens here. Working alongside other members of the cabinet, they are able to keep constantly in touch. They are fully informed of every phase of the war. One break in the work will be the dinners given the premiers by the House of Lords today, when Premier Lloyd George speaks. It is expected the premier will survey the entire situation and mighty efforts of the dominions and also give some indications of the possibilities of the Imperial conference.

War's End Not Near.

Interviewing Hon. N. W. Rowell, I asked him what message he would give the people of Canada after being for nearly a fortnight in close touch with the inner war movement. "I would urge on them how necessary it is to further organize every service of our national life in order to give more effectual assistance for the conduct of the war."

"Then you do not see any prospect of an early end to the war?"

He shook his head in reply.

While Mr. Rowell declines to discuss English politics because his knowledge is necessarily imperfect, he has received the general impression that the nation is behind Mr. Lloyd George, regarding him as the one leader for the crisis.

"The great impression one receives from Lloyd George is health, buoyance and cheerfulness," he declared. "However serious the news, however depressed others may be, he comes in cheerful and confident. He seems to be able to carry his enormous responsibilities easily, to face every crisis with serene courage."

Boosts Beaverbrook.

He and his colleagues have shown in every possible way consideration and kindness for the Empire delegates. Mr. Rowell had on the day of my interview been transacting affairs with two men here, Sir Edward Kemp and Lord Beaverbrook. He spoke of both in very warm terms. All his colleagues had great confidence in Sir Edward Kemp, and what Mr. Rowell has seen here has demonstrated the hard, excellent work he has been doing.

There has been some prejudice in Canada against Lord Beaverbrook. Mr. Rowell came in touch with him as a British minister and found him working in a very remarkable way, breaking from old precedents and breaking through ancient official traditions. "He decides things instantly which it would take a week to arrange by old methods," says Mr. Rowell, "and he gets his decisions carried out."

My definite impressions from Mr. Rowell's conversation were that the situation is serious, but that there is no reason to despair. What we must face, however, is a period ahead of greater efforts and sacrifices. With them we will get through.

NEW "BLACK ROD" GIVEN TO CANADA

London, June 22.—An interesting feature of the supper given last night by the Empire Parliamentarian to the premiers and representatives of the British dominions overseas, who are in London to attend the imperial war conference, was the presentation of a "black rod" to the Canadian Senate by Lord Chancellor Finlay, speaker of the House of Commons.

This "black rod" will replace the one lost in the capital fire at Ottawa on February 4, 1916.

FIFTY PER CENT OF POPULATION ARE REGISTERED

Govt.'s Call Has Been Generally Well Obeyed Throughout Land.

Toronto, June 22.—This is the last day for Canadians to obtain the official certificates of the Canada registration board, indicating that they have placed before the Government, or its official representatives, their qualifications for more efficient service in the carrying on of the war.

Without these certificates no man or woman, youth or maid over 16 years of age, with a few exceptions, can legally buy or sell the necessities of life or receive board or lodging under any roof in Canada, unless it be the place of detention to which he or she may be sent, as a penalty for not being able to produce the certificate.

The Government's call for general registration has been taken seriously in all parts of the dominion, and generally well obeyed, except in some sections of Quebec, and in the Indian reserves, where some opposition has been shown.

It is estimated that in all 50 per cent of the population of the country registered in advance of the last day. In some of the cities 80 per cent was reported on Thursday. There is a great rush of late comers at all the registration centres of the dominion today.

Special provision is made for the registration of Americans and other visitors to the dominion so that it can be accomplished without inconvenience to them.

AMERICAN AVIATORS BOMB METZ STATION

Paris, June 22.—According to La Liberte, American aviators last Sunday night carried out an aerial raid into German territory. Eight Americans bombed the Metz-Sablons railway, and started a large fire.

STATES FIVE MONTHS AHEAD OF PROGRAM, WITH 900,000 MEN ALREADY TRANSPORTED OVERSEAS

Washington, June 22.—Nine hundred thousand men have been transported across the seas, Gen. March told newspaper correspondents at the weekly conference today. These include the troops sent from all American ports of embarkation.

The United States today is five months ahead of its program for placing an army in France, Gen. March said.

The figures on American troop shipments are significant, since Gen. March, at his first conference last week, fixed the number shipped at more than 800,000, the addition of 100,000 during the week showing the rate of progress that is being made.

U. S. CASUALTIES GROW.

Washington, D. C., June 22.—The steadily increasing participation of American troops in the fighting in France was sharply marked in today's casualty list. Of the 153 men named, 52, including 3 officers, were killed in action, the heaviest death-roll from the battlefield yet made public.

TRUSTEES DEMAND WOMEN TEACHERS EXPLAIN CHARGES

School Board Issues Ultimatum to Guild That Resolution of National Council of Women, Charging Discrimination, Be Corrected in View of Facts.

No. 1 committee of the board of education will demand that the Women Teachers' Guild inform the National Council of Women that the resolution which the latter body passed, charging discrimination against women teachers in favor of male teachers, was based on incorrect information given by the Teachers' Guild or its representative.

It was left to Secretary R. McElhern to deliver this ultimatum. The members of the committee declared they would enter into no argument with the teachers. They declared the resolution to be most unfair.

The committee intends to see that the letter goes forth. It also intends to see that the letter does just what it asks. To this end the ultimatum will order that the letter be first sent to the committee for approval before it is sent on to the National Council of Women.

The members of the committee stated that they believed that the guild's sense of fairness and honor would recommend this course to it.

Say Women Were Favored.

In reply to the charges made by the National Council of Women, allegedly on information supplied by the Teachers' Guild, it is pointed out that any discrimination, on the part of the board, was in favor of the women teachers. They were given more than they asked for in increases. The teachers asked that if the board could not raise the maximum salary it should make an effort to deal with the minimum. This it did, raising it from $500 to $550, with the usual $50 increase to $900. It was also said that those starting on the staff in September would in January be given an increase; also that all teachers of the staff should on January 1, 1918, be placed on the $600 a year schedule. About 15 or 16 teachers benefitted, and all those starting September 1st will benefit.

On the other hand the male teachers benefitted were those who figured in the readjustment of school principals. These totalled five male principals and one male assistant.

The opinion was expressed that the committee should deal sternly with such cases. It intends to make its position known to discontented employees.

Lieut. G. Wheable, M.C., will be given the principalship of one of the city schools when he is ready to rejoin the staff. He was assistant at Chesley Avenue School before his enlistment.

R. J. Shaw, a teacher of Westminster, will be taken on the public school staff. Misses Hodges, Tutt, Lout, M. Lancaster and H. Cnnuingham will also be added to the public school staff.

Keeping Supervisor.

Another Ontario city has been making a strong bid for the services of S. R. White, supervisor of manual training. The first offer was rejected and then came another. The local board jumped quickly to retain him. It decided to increase his salary to the maximum for manual training teachers and to place him on the same basis as the principals of the larger schools. His increase will be about $200 a year.

J. J. Williams of Ealing School, who has been assisting the manual training staff, wants to return to his old post. It was decided to advertise for a teacher for manual training.

ITALIANS' FIERCE ATTACKS ARE ROLLING AUSTRIANS BACK TO BRIDGELESS, FLOODED PIAVE

Cavalry, Infantry, Artillery and the Airmen Hammer Ceaselessly Karl's Troops Along Western Bank of River, Cutting Off Many Avenues of Escape—Premier Orlando Announces Victory Rests With Italians.

Italian Army Headquarters in Northern Italy, Friday, June 21.—Cavalrymen, artillerymen and airmen are giving effective aid to the Italian infantry in driving back the Austrians toward the Piave. One of the principal activities of Allied aviators is to prevent Austrian airmen from delivering sacks of bread and other dry foods to the Austrian troops on the western side of the Piave, where the Austrians still are fighting tenaciously.

Around Montello and in the region of the Lower Piave Italian cavalry is being used to help push the enemy back. They are aided by armored cars carrying machine guns.

The rising waters of the Piave and the activity of the Italian artillery are making it difficult for the Austrians to obtain food. While the water carries some bridges away and damages others the guns are sinking boats and hammering the damaged bridges and floats.

BATTLE HAS BEEN WON, SAYS ITALIAN PREMIER.

Rome, June 22.—The battle situation is unchanged and infantry engagements were not resumed during Friday, says the statement issued last night to the Italian Parliament by Premier Orlando. It is now permissible to say that the battle has been won, the premier told the deputies Friday morning, according to the Tribuna.

The Austrians, the premier added, are now gathering all available men in the sections of the mountain front. Only a small part of their reserves have been drawn on by the Italians.

TEUTONS MAY SWAP ARMIES.

London, June 22.—Germany has proposed to Austria to send 12 German divisions to the Italian front to replace 12 Austrian divisions to be sent to France, says an unconfirmed report in circulation in Holland, transmitted by the Daily Mail correspondent at The Hague.

AUSTRIANS ARE USING EXPLOSIVE BULLETS

Italian Army Headquarters in Northern Italy, Friday, June 21.—One out of every ten Italian soldiers wounded in the present fighting bear positive indications of the use of explosive bullets by the Austrians, Capt. Thwaits of the American Red Cross has been informed by hospital directors.

AUSTRIANS OVER PIAVE ARE IN TIGHT PLACE.

Rome, June 21.—Austrian airplanes were compelled to carry provisions to the Austrian troops that succeeded in crossing the Piave River and were in danger of starving, owing to the flood which carried away their pontoon bridges between Zenson and Musile, according to a dispatch received here by the Giornale d'Italia. In spite of the difficulties that he is encountering, General Wurm, the enemy commander, is attempting to press on, but all his efforts are vain in the face of the resistance presented by the Italian soldiers.

SWIRLING PIAVE DEALS AUSTRIANS HARD BLOWS.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, June 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Fresh rains have turned the Piave River into a swirling yellow flood, which moves silently but swiftly, dealing a fateful blow to the Austrians on its western bank, tearing up the communication lines and preventing succor being given the shattered divisions struggling under the steady pounding of the Italian guns of the Duke of Aosta's third army.

The satisfaction of the Italians over the present situation is matched only by the anger of the Austrian commanders. According to prisoners taken by the Italians, the rising of the Piave River has been only the culmination of a series of difficulties.

ENEMY MASSING MORE AND MORE PRISONERS IN AIR RAID ZONE

Five Killed and Six Wounded During Recent Attack on Thionville.

Geneva, June 22.—The Germans are massing more and more Allied prisoners, both officers and men, along the Rhine and in frontier towns, says the Lausanne Gazette. An Alsatian newspaper reports that five Allied prisoners were killed and six wounded during a recent air raid on Thionville, Germany.

HEAVILY ARMED DETACHMENT OF GARRISON TROOPS SENT TO WINDSOR AS PRECAUTION

Machine Gun Accompanies Men Detailed for Border Patrol Duty.

CHECK ANY I. W. W. MOVE

Returned Men, Eager to Get Into Action Again, Join Parade Mysteriously.

As a precautionary measure to deal with the situation at Windsor, 100 men from the 1st Battalion, Canadian Garrison Regiment, left Carling Heights Camp for Windsor Friday night.

The departure was made quietly, and few people were aware that the troops had left. Somewhat of a record was made in getting the men equipped and away. The orders came about 5:30 and by 8 o'clock the men were on the train at the Quebec street station of the C. P. R. and waving farewell to London.

The troops were fully armed and equipped and, in addition, took a Lewis machine gun along for good measure. Rumor in camp has it that a big mass meeting of the members of the I. W. W. was scheduled to take place in Windsor, and that agitators who have for many months gradually gathered together at Windsor from all parts of the country and from across the border are endeavoring to work among the foreign residents there.

Trouble is also feared on Monday, when those who have not registered will not be allowed to go to work. It is said that many of the I. W. W. sympathizers have not registered, and that there may be trouble when they are turned away from their work Monday. The law makes it illegal for them to be employed, unless they have registered.

The returned men in the Canadian Garrison Regiment were more than anxious to get away on active service. When 100 men were called for, the parade mysteriously grew, so that when counted it was found that there were nearer to 150. The number was again reduced to 100, but men slipped into the ranks mysteriously, seeming to come up out of the ground. The chaps back from France were just spoiling for a little action.

A stretcher-bearer section and machine gun section was organized before they left London. The men were in command of Major E. B. Nelles, assisted by Lieuts. W. T. Bartlett and J. C. Frith, M. M., C. de G.

IRISH CONSCRIPTION AND HOME RULE NOT ABANDONED BY GOVT.

London, June 22.—The British Government regard their proposals of Irish home rule and conscription as postponed, but in no way abandoned. The Times says it understands conscription will not be withdrawn nor will efforts be relaxed to frame a measure of self-government for Ireland. Recent events have convinced the Government that the first business is to establish law and order, but their policy is unchanged.

Newspapers say that the Nationalist members of parliament will return to Westminster next Tuesday. The Nationalists believe, according to a report from Dublin, that conscription is dead, but that home rule has only been shelved.

DUAL KINGDOM REVOLT MAY WRECK HUN'S WAR MACHINE

Anti-German Feeling Growing Throughout Hungary.

REBELLION IN THE AIR

Soldiers From Front Show Insurrectionary Spirit at Vienna.

London, June 22.—According to the Arbeiter Zeitung of Vienna, a great strike movement has developed in the Austrian capital, though its full extent is not known.

The Vienna Workers' Council, the paper says, has issued a manifesto saying it hopes the Government will understand in view of the strike movement how necessary it is to increase the food rations.

CRISIS GROWS.

Paris, June 22.—A number of telegrams received in Paris today by way of Switzerland describe conditions in the interior of Austria-Hungary as becoming critical.

Fifty thousand workers at the arsenal, in the Vulcan factories and the Worschalowsky airplane works have gone on strike.

The burgomaster of Vienna has told the municipal council that it would be impossible to distribute potatoes after the week end.

The resignation of several ministers in the Austrian cabinet is expected.

Geneva, June 22.—A commercial traveler who has arrived here direct from Vienna today, informed the Associated Press that there are 100,000 men on strike in the Austrian capital, and that there are smaller strikes in progress at Laibach, Agram and Gratz, all mention of which has been stopped by the censor.

The traveler said that anti-German feeling was growing, especially in Hungary, where it was assuming a revolutionary aspect. The feeling was not aimed directly at the Hapsburg dynasty, he added, but at the regime it represented. The traveler said he was convinced that events might be expected which would change the fate of the war in favor of the Entente Allies.

SERIOUS STREET RIOTS.

London, June 22.—According to the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, during serious street riots in Vienna the police and military were called out and took strict measures, and issued warnings to parents, making them responsible for the actions of their children, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

SOLDIERS REBELLIOUS?

London, June 22.—The Times correspondent at The Hague is informed through a Dutch source that the remnants of some severely-tried Austrian regiments arrived in Vienna on the 16th, many of the men being slightly wounded. These troops were employed on the 18th to patrol the city, but their bearing was such that they were withdrawn the following day. All public buildings in Vienna are now guarded by cavalry, but police heretofore having been able to disperse such gatherings as occurred.

State Takes Harvests.

From the same source it is learned that a Bulgarian commission has arrived in Vienna to negotiate with the Austrian Government concerning a change in relations with Germany. The Times report cites information, apparently from Vienna, that the collection of the harvest in Austria, Germany and Hungary will in the future be strictly a state affair, owing to the fact that Austria now enters the new harvest year without any supplies whatever, and, therefore, the best possible method of securing grain must be adopted.

LOCAL TEMPERATURES.

The official temperatures for the 12 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were: Highest, 63; lowest, 47.

DENIES THAT HE SOLD PASSPORTS TO COMPATRIOTS

Russian, Arrested by Military Police at Ford, Admits Forgery, However.

I. W. W. BUTTON PRODUCED

Documents Will Be Translated and Used as Evidence When He Comes Up Again.

Dronisy Waloshin, a Russian, arrested at Ford, Ont., by the military police, appeared in police court today charged with unlawfully forging the name of Rev. V. Kosoriezoff, to a passport in December last. Capt. Asa Minard of the Dominion police laid the charge, and the prisoner pleaded guilty, through an interpreter, electing summary trial.

The accused stated to the court that he did not realize the gravity of his offence at the time, and denied that he had received money in return for forging passports for comrades to pass into the United States. When arrested Waloshin had an I. W. W. button on his person, which was produced in court as evidence. He objected to the interpreter employed, on religious grounds, and was remanded until Saturday next. In the interim certain Russian documents found on him when arrested will be translated and used as evidence.

William Hewitt, held on a charge of theft of diamond rings from the Canadian Express Company, was today released on bail of $2,000, two sureties of $500 each having been provided.

WANTED FISH, NOT ANY JOURNEY UNDER POLICE AUSPICES

Foreigner Makes Unique Plea in Court—Sentence Is Suspended.

Frank Casacli, a foreigner, appeared in police court today, charged with refusing to answer proper questions when accosted by a Dominion police officer on the local market. He was also charged with refusing to accompany the officer when arrested. The accused stated that he did not resist arrest.

"I ask de policeman, please give me a chance to buy some fish," said Casacli.

As Casacli is a married man of about 40 years of age, he was discharged by the magistrate with a warning to carry his papers in the future.

One drunk was assessed $10 and costs, and a well-known police court habitat appeared on the same charge, but was discharged. "I admit, your worship," he said, "that I had a few drinks, but I passed you on Carling street five minutes before being arrested, and I spoke to you. I was perfectly sober, your honor."

Chief Williams had a warm spot in his heart this cold morning, and did not press for a conviction, and the prisoner was given the benefit of the doubt.

SPECIAL RATES FOR AD CLUB DELEGATES TO PACIFIC COAST

Choice of Routes Accorded by U. S. Government Ruling.

Under a general ruling by the railroad administration, granting summer tourist fares to the Pacific coast, with stop-overs, the traveler is permitted to go westward by one route and homeward by another.

"This ruling is especially pleasing to delegates planning to attend the San Francisco convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, July 7 to 11," said President John J. Foot of the London Advertising Club, who announces that London is to be represented by a high-grade delegation at the war convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs.

"Choice of routes, stopovers, excursion fares, and the fact that national parks are to be open as usual, contribute largely to make the San Francisco trip especially attractive," said President Foot, "and the serious, 'brass tacks,' war service nature of the meeting, with which the Government is cooperating in many ways, make it incumbent on advertising clubs to send their best and strongest representative doers and thinkers to the convention."

According to President Foot of the local club, the war tinge will run through all the convention sessions. A service flag is to be presented by the San Francisco Advertising Club to the Associated Advertising Clubs in a "Voice of Victory" session of the convention, in honor of some 2,000 members of advertising clubs who are now with the colors. The London Advertising Club will be represented on this mammoth service flag by three stars, emblematical of three ex-members now in khaki.

DUCAL TOUR OVER

Vice-Regal Party Back at Ottawa After Holiday in National Park.

The tour of His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, governor-general of Canada, over the Grand Trunk lines during the past month through Ontario was completed on his arrival at Ottawa today. En route to Ottawa the party stopped off in Algonquin Park, the famous Ontario Government reserve and playground, for a few hours fishing in Potter's Lake, where the gamiest of small mouth black bass run to a size which delights the ardent angler.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

ATTACKING LADY NICOTINE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your Saturday's issue, I see that the W. C. T. U. of Ingersoll is opposed to sending tobacco to soldiers.

I do not wonder at this; for the ladies in very many cases are subjected to a shameful breathing of the polluted atmosphere by the "lords of creation" —at home or abroad—who appear to have lost all respect by this slavish habit, and will puff into the faces of the refined or the homes of the most delicate with as little compunction as they would in a pig pen. Surely there is something wrong in this habit, where there are few able to quit using it once acquired. It is no longer the pipe of peace, as it was with the Red Indian, but the pipe of slavery; a craving habit as powerful as opium and surrounded by as fearful consequences, and a producer of such a craving that the strongest minds cannot control. Besides, this indiscriminate giving is encouragement to the boys of tender age to emulate the strut of the soldier, with a girl on each arm and a cigar in his mouth, and evidently few will reach manhood without being branded "a slave of tobacco."

Notwithstanding what I have written, I have a strong sympathy for the man or soldier addicted to the habit being deprived of his smoke, for no person who has not used it can adequately judge of the torture a deprivation of tobacco causes. Therefore I would strongly urge upon the authorities supplying to the soldiers to be bought by them from their own pay what tobacco they require, or perhaps better, give it free, and give an equivalent in money to non-users to spend as they please, just in the same way as rum was dealt to the soldiers 60 years ago, and abstainers got money value in place.

W. WELSH.

Kincardine, June 21.

FARM PRODUCTION.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

A few months ago we were told that food supply was as necessary as the production of shells. (That was on the verge of an election.)

Now we find that that was but a scrap of paper, an election dodge, and now, heedless of promises, we find many farms depleted of help and farmers cannot till and garner the crop as it should be, and if they cannot get help the only recourse left is to turn the untilled land into pasture, as many have done and are doing owing to lack of help.

I have acted as agent for the Government in placing immigrants on farms, and I know the difficulties of getting suitable help and the requirements of farm labor.

To say that the necessary help will be supplied from factories and other places to do the labor of experienced men proves that those who think that the farm can be supplied satisfactorily from that source are ignorant of what is needed, and to suggest female help is just as ridiculous.

What can a man do who has been only feeding into a planer or a band saw? Put him at feeding cattle or swine, he would likely be a complete failure, and be more likely a hindrance than a benefit, and the audacity of sending such help for the farmer would only be productive of loss. He lacks knowledge of horses, plowing, harrowing milking cows, yes, even of weeding or ability to tell a weed from a useful plant. Such ignorance would cause untold loss before becoming useful on a farm to fill the place of agriculturists.

The girls, too, would have to learn many things quite different from running a sewing machine or a typewriter, or deftly fingering a piano. The labor would be quite different from the romping play on farms in vacation time; and this of placing the wages the farmer must pay, as if they were getting trained help, shows whether the farmer or the highly-paid official is the most patriotic. A RETIRED FARMER.

Kincardine, June 20, 1918.

A FARMER TO SENATOR NICHOLS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Please allow me space to reply to some of the misstatements made by the manufacturers in your issue of the 16th. The heading beginning "The farmers get the cream, grain owners get 200 per cent, yet kick on the tariff," I would like to figure this out from the farmer's standpoint. Senator Nichols claims that the average cost of a bushel of wheat is 80 cents. I won't go into that, because I am not a grain grower. My farm is too small. The claim is made that the farmer is getting the cream. Would Senator Nichols go so far as to say that the manufacturer should have equal profit with the farmer? I shall figure that out as I see it. The manufacturer is an individual employing in many cases thousands of hands, and a profit of 20 per cent clear of everything would realize more in six months than 200 per cent from the farmer in ten years. What about the risk, with the frost often coming in June and again in September? Sometimes a total failure from dry spells or heavy floods, and where one section may have a bumper crop, the other may be a failure. But the farmer on the market gets no more for his wheat that costs $2 a bushel to raise it, than the one that cost 80 cents. But what risk does the manufacturer incur? If he has to pay more for the raw material the consumer has to pay the piper. The masses have to suffer for the exorbitant price of every implement needed for food production. This is how the farmer gets protected by the Government. Senator Nichols says that farmers are free from the income tax, and as far as I see, if the manufacturer has his way we shall keep free. The farmer is not likely to have to pay millions income tax, as many millionaire manufacturers are doing, received from the inventive genius and brain and muscle of the working class. And if the real producers of all this wealth should strike for higher wages, this very money is used to pay the strike breakers or call out the soldiers. Protect the manufacturers is the slogan of today. Thanking you in advance, respectfully yours,

T. GOLDSMITH.

FROM A FORMER "HIRED MAN."

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

As regards this talk about helping the farmer out I would like to say that I am an experienced farm hand, and can do anything in that line. During the last five years, however, I have worked in various foundries. I don't intend to go back to the farm, not if I can help it. Why? Because if you work for a farmer he sincerely thinks that he owns you from the time you get up until the time you go to bed. Pitching manure all day in a hot sun is harder then any work done in town; but a hired man is expected not only to put in about ten hours at a job like that, but also to put in two or three hours before and two or three hours afterwards "doing chores," which means milking six or twelve cows, feeding ten to fifty pigs, etc. Then when work is really over, even then the hired man cannot call his soul his own, not by a jugful, but if the family goes to bed at a certain hour, he is expected to go too, just like some kid. I know a man who got sacked because he would keep a light burning to read a dime novel when he went to bed for a hour or so. I am now doing heavy work in a big shop, and I assure you it's a snap compared to farming, however, to show I'm no slacker. I am willing to work like Sam Hill for any farmer who will employ me by the ten-hour day at current wages, and my brother says he'll do the same.

If the farmer is short of help, it's his own fault, because it's a fact that he's scared thousands of men away to other occupations. HAYSEED.

A REPLY TO REV. E. H. BRANDT.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your issue of June 12, reporting the proceedings of the Presbyterian Assembly, the Rev. E. H. Brandt made some unnecessary and misleading, if not deliberate mis-statements. He is described as "an earnest Huguenot." This is reassuring, otherwise one might think he had spoken with the express purpose of insulting our sister province and the church to which seven-eighths of her citizens belong.

Speaking of the reasons for the French-Canadians not responding to the call to arms, he says: "Because the call was not supplemented by the bell of Rome, it remained unanswered." Then he draws a comparison with his own institution and its pupils' response. The inference is plain. Then he draws a comparison between French-Canadian Catholics and French Huguenots, to the disparagement of the French-Canadian, who follows the faith planted by Lalemant and Brebouf. Does not the reverend gentleman know that comparisons are odious always, and this one particularly so, having in mind the time, place of utterance and circumstances. Permit me to inform Rev. E. H. Brandt that I, as a citizen of Ontario and a Catholic, deeply deplore his utterances, because, first of all, they are a wholly unnecessary insult to Quebec in general, and may place the doings of the assembly in a wrong light before many who have not the happiness to count Presbyterians as among their best and truest friends, as I do.

Now as to the statement about the 700,000 Huguenots fighting in France. I would remind my reverend friend that conscription put them there, as it did also those who were Jew, Mohammedan, infidel, agnostic, freethinker and Catholic. There is one point, however, on which my reverend friend and I are in perfect accord, that is, "Give the French-Canadian that which he desires, the gospel of Jesus Christ."

If he is in that commendable work he does not need my good wishes for success, still he has them if he leaves insinuation and innuendo out of his public and private utterances. Should this come to his notice, I would suggest that he recall the commandment against bearing false witness. If he told the truth as he believes it to be, still I must insist that he is wholly wrong in his implications. As to the French-Canadian being without the gospel except as handed out by the separated brethren, that is a fairy tale invented for the express purpose it serves.

Quebec has the gospel of Jesus Christ more so than any other province in Canada if one is to judge by their record as outlined in the Government blue book on crime and irregularities. Her attitude is, however, that of the humble publican, so Senator Edwards of Russell like a true gentleman stated her case on the charge being made by Dr. Peterson-Smyth that her lack of compulsory education was breeding lunatics and convicts. The truth is in the blue book. Pardon the comparison! Ontario has ten times as much crime and irregularities as her fair sister. Has the spread of the gospel produced this contract?

In conclusion I might suggest that having been planted about 300 years ago in a wilderness inhabited by the man-eating Hurons and warlike Iroquois and Algonquins by the heroic Brebouf and Lalemant—the gospel of Jesus Christ has already had something to do with Quebec's good record, outside of what gentlemen like Rev. E. H. Brandt have done.

SQUARE DEAL.

MYSTIFIED.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your issue of the 11th inst, page 12, column 4, is this statement: "The Canadian Northern Railway will spend in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 in improvements and the construction of new branch lines this year." How is this. Were we not told that the Government had taken over the C. N. R., and that it is now the property of the people of Canada? Inquiry of the Toronto Globe and Manitoba Free Press brings no results. Evidently, being super-patriots, they are not at liberty to divulge anything. Can it be (O fearsome thought!) that what rebels, traitors, Bolsheviks, pro Huns, et hoc genus omne say is true after all, to wit, that the Government and the C. N. R. are one and the same institution? Can you explain?

BEWILDERED.

Melville, Sask., June 17, 1918.

Ed. Note.—What does it matter? Continue to be mystified. Was not Sir William Mackenzie mentioned as the general manager of the new lines? Why advance such an absurd theory as that the Government owns the C. N. R., when any schoolboy knows the C. N. R. owns the Government? If you are persistent write the minister of railways or the Government commission that handed out to Bill and Dan a few hundred thousands more than the Government said it should have. Read your answer in the stars.

CIGARETTES FOR THE BOYS.

The Editor of The Advertiser:

In your paper of June 20 one of our London ladies, at a convention held at Ottawa, deplored the fact that so many women in Canada should send cigarettes and tobacco to the soldiers in the trenches. Now, what I would like to know, has this lady any sons or friends in the trenches? If she has, she would know how they enjoy and appreciate what we are doing for them in this line. I think if she was up close to the trenches she would like tobacco or something else to keep her from fainting. How can we refuse to send the boys what they want and plenty of it? As long as I have a dollar to buy the goods I shall send tobacco or anything they ask for. I think this lady would get out and pass the hat and get up a fund to buy tobacco. She would be doing a good act. Hoping you will give these few lines space in your valuable paper and very much oblige,

FIVE CHURCH CALLS ARE CONSIDERED BY LONDON PRESBYTERY

Two Accepted and Others Sustained.

INDUCTIONS ARRANGED

One at Hyde Park Will Be Conducted Tuesday Evening.

No less than five calls to ministers to fill vacancies within the bounds of the London Presbytery were up for consideration at a meeting of the London Presbytery specially called for the purpose on Friday.

Two of the calls were accepted, one from Duff's Church and Tait's Corners to John McKillop, B.A., a recent graduate of Queen's College, and one from Hyde Park and Komoka to James A. Gale, a recent graduate of Knox College.

The ordination and induction of Mr. McKillop will take place at 2:30 o'clock on Thursday, June 27, at Tait's Corners, the moderator of presbytery, Rev. S. H. Eastman, presiding. Rev. W. A. Leach of Kintyre will preach; Rev. R. Stewart of Dutton address the minister, the Rev. James Malcolm of Wardsville the congregation.

Mr. Gale will be ordained and inducted at Hyde Park on Tuesday, June 25, at 3 o'clock. The interim moderator, Rev. G. S. Lloyd of Glencoe, will preside. Rev. J. A. Laverie of Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church will preach, Rev. John Elder of Chelsea Green address the minister, and Rev. J. G. Stuart of Knox Church, South London, the congregation.

The three other calls dealt with were one from Chalmers Church, this city, to Rev. G.M. Young of Kemble, in the Owen Sound Presbytery; one from Mount Brydges and North Caradoc to Rev. G. M. Chidleigh of Gamebridge, near Beaverton, and a call from Knox Church, Belmont, and St. James's, Yarmouth, to Rev. J. W. Steward of Long Branch, near Toronto. All three calls were sustained, and if accepted arrangements will be made for the induction services at the regular meeting of the London Presbytery, to be held at Port Stanley on July 2. This meeting is to be also the annual meeting of the presbytery, and a picnic will be held on Fraser Heights after business is concluded.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

FUNERAL OF REV. E. SOFTLEY.

The funeral of Rev. Edward Softley, whose death occurred last Tuesday, took place at All Saints' Church, Mount Pleasant, near Brantford, on Thursday afternoon. A large concourse of people from the village and Brantford was present, and deep sorrow was shown at the removal of the departed former pastor.

Rev. E. C. Jennings, rector of the parish, conducted a short service at the house, and this was followed by the burial office in the parish church. Rev. Rural Dean Adamson of Paris led in this service. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. N. H. Mills of St. James' Church, Brantford, and the address was given by Ven. Archdeacon Richardson of London, an old intimate friend of the deceased. It was a faithful testimony to the eminent piety of Mr. Softley, his earnestness as a preacher of the gospel, and the beauty of his blameless Christian character. The committal service at the grave was conducted by Rev. A. B. Farney, rector of Simcoe, and one time of All Saints', Mount Pleasant.

The death of William M. Waldhoff, aged 55 years, occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital on Wednesday night. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Waldhoff; one son, William E., of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. F. A. Porter of this city.

The funeral was held from the family residence, 861 Stedwell street, this morning to St. Mary's Church, where requiem high mass was sung at 9 o'clock. Interment was made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

BEEF STEW MADE POSSIBLE THROUGH REGULATION CHANGE

Can Be Served in Cafes at Mid-Day.

ORDERS ARE AMENDED

Evening Meal Hours Changed From 6 to 9 to 5:30 to 8:30.

A copy of order No. 46, issued by the Canada Food Board, superseding all previous orders, was received today by Chief W. T. T. Williams.

Four distinct changes are noted in the latest orders which, according to Chief Williams, became effective on June 19.

The hours specified for the evening meal under the new order are to be from 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon until 8:30 o'clock at night, instead of from 6 o'clock to 9 o'clock, the present hours designated under a previous order.

The hours for the morning and midday meals will remain unchanged.

Pork tenderloins and spare-ribs may be served at any time during the day on any day during the week.

Beef stews made from "left over" meats, chucks, briskets and cheap cuts of meat can in future be served at the mid-day meal on any day during the week. It is plainly specified, though, that these beef stews must be made from the above-mentioned cuts of meat, otherwise the serving of such will be regarded as an infraction of the food law.

Under a former food board order "public eating house" was interpreted to mean hotel, cafe, lunch counter, restaurant, dining-car and steamboat dining-room.

Under the latest order a much broader field is included. The Canada Food Board orders in addition to be observed at the places above mentioned, must be obeyed just as strictly in private families keeping two or more boarders, clubs or clubhouses, boarding-houses, boarding schools, public entertainments, luncheons, dinners, parties, picnics, fairs and at meals or lunches served in lodge rooms of fraternal societies.

With respect to picnic parties, persons who serve beef and pork on the days prohibited at the meals prohibited at the picnics, will make themselves liable to a penalty of $100 for each offence.

"The new order is now effective, and the cafe men can change their evening meal hours and be guided by the above changes, dating from today," said Chief W. T. T. Williams this morning.

FOR CONVENIENCE

Clerk's Issue of Marriage and Birth Certificates for Military Purposes.

Editor of The Advertiser: I notice in your answers to questions published in recent issue of your paper that birth certificates can be obtained from township clerks on application.

I would be pleased to learn your authority for such statement, as by Section 12 of "An act respecting the registration of births, marriages and deaths," division registrars (otherwise municipal clerks), are prohibited from issuing any such certificate. Yours respectfully, A. P. McDOUGALD.

Melbourne, Ont., June 20.

Ans.—Your contention re act is perfectly correct. However, the city clerk of London has issued ten thousand certificates. It is doubtful if Toronto will object, as they are swamped with applications. The local city clerk says he issues the certificates for military purposes only, and feels he has a right to do so, for the convenience of citizens.

CHINA WILLING TO SEND FORCE TO WEST FRONT

50,000 Troops Available, But Not Enough Cash or Ships.

NO LOVE FOR GERMANS

Chinese Premier Recalls the Brutality of Germans During Boxer Uprising.

London, June 22.—Chinese soldiers are available for co-operation with the Japanese at Harbin and near the Siberian frontier, and if necessary more will be sent. Gen. Tuan Chi-Jui, the Chinese premier and war minister, told the Peking correspondent of the Daily Mail. The premier added: "The threatening situation on our front certainly demands safeguards. We do not want the Bolsheviki in China."

With reference to Chinese participation in the war on the European battle-fronts, the premier said:

"I would like to help the Allies, and would be glad to send 40,000 or 50,000 troops, but am prevented by financial difficulties and the activities of the provincial rebels. I have sent 150,000 troops south. I am positive that the Canton rebellion can be repressed within two months, and a good many of these troops can be released for service elsewhere.

"France originally suggested that we send troops to the western front, but questions of finance and lack of shipping compelled us to lay the proposal aside."

No Use for Germany.

Regarding the feeling of the Chinese toward the Germans, Gen. Chi-Jui said the people generally could not distinguish between the Germans and the other Europeans, adding:

"But the enlightened classes remember that because a mob killed two missionaries, Germany forced us to cede Taing-Tao, and owing to that precedent places like Port Arthur and Wei-Hai-Wei were sliced from China. But for Germany, China would be whole today.

"Furthermore, it is impossible to forget that during the Boxer troubles German troops were ordered not to give quarter, while the invasion of the imperial palace by German soldiers was a disgrace unparalleled in our civilization. The Boxer rising itself was provoked by German bullying at Tsing-Tao. Besides, how can we forget the kaiser's continual harping on 'the yellow peril.'"

The premier declared his intention of opening up China after the war by developing mineral deposits and extending railroads.

INROADS ARE MADE IN GERMAN TRENCHES ON VARIOUS SECTORS

French and British Positions Are Improved.

SCOTS SHOW METTLE

Berlin Report Claims That Americans Suffered Heavy Losses Thursday.

PARIS, June 21.—French troops last night carried out operations on the front southwest of Soissons, which resulted in the improvement of their positions in the neighborhood of Faverolles. A similar improvement was effected further south on this front, near Hautvesnes. The war office made these announcements today.

The text of the statement reads:

"The French have improved their positions north of Faverolles and in the region south of Hautvesnes. A score of prisoners remained in the hands of the French."

SCOTTISH TROOPS SCORE.

LONDON, June 21.—The British official communication issued this evening says:

"In last night's raids north of the Scarpe Scottish troops penetrated German trenches, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy's garrison, and captured a number of prisoners. A number of dugouts and several machine guns were blown up and destroyed.

"Nothing of especial interest occurred today."

CLAIM ALLIES FAIL.

BERLIN, via London, June 21.—Attacks by American troops northwest of Chateau Thierry and by the French southwest of Noyon were repulsed by the Germans, according to the German official communication issued today covering Thursday's operations. Both the French and Americans suffered heavy casualties and some prisoners were taken by the Germans, says the statement, the text of which follows:

"The enemy has kept up violent reconnoitring thrusts along the whole of the front. They have been repulsed everywhere.

Refute British Success.

"Northeast of Merris and north of Albert British patrol attacks broke down with sanguinary losses.

"Local French attacks southwest of Noyon and by Americans northwest of the Chateau Thierry broke down. The French and Americans suffered heavy casualties, and some prisoners remained in our hands.

"Southwest of Rheims Italian prisoners were taken.

"Large and clearly marked hospital buildings in the valley of the Vesle, between Breuille and Montigny, which formerly were used by the French, recently twice have been the objectives of enemy air raids."

SUBORDINATES OF MILITARY POLICE REGRET LEAVING Present Deputy Provost-Marshal With Club Bag.

IS CONSIDERED BUFFER

Officer Implicated in Jesuit College Raid Said To Be Official "Goat."

Capt. A. C. MacAuley, for some months deputy assistant provost marshal in this military district, was today presented with a club bag and riding crop by the members of the Canadian Military Police Corps stationed here, under him, on the occasion of his departure for Winnipeg, where he is to assume similar duties in Military District No. 10. The presentation was made by Sergt. H. Wray, and was accompanied by an illuminated address, read by Sergt.-Major H. Garner. The military police squad gathered in the armories for the occasion, and Capt. MacAuley, quite taken by surprise, replied suitably.

Capt. MacAuley has seen service in France, having left here as a subaltern in the 34th Battalion, from which unit he was transferred to the 13th Battalion (Black Watch), Royal Highlanders of Canada, later returning to Canada, and being promoted to the rank of captain. He is one of the most popular and efficient officers of the district, and his departure is regretted by all from the military police to the headquarters staff at Wolseley Barracks. During his 18 months' sojourn here Capt. MacAuley aided in enforcing discipline to thousands of troops in training in the district, and his duties brought him into contact with both soldiers and civilians, all of whom classed him as a gentleman and a friend.

Called Victim of Circumstances.

It is stated that this officer is a victim of circumstances and that his transfer to Winnipeg is a direct result of the recent trouble at the Jesuit College, Guelph, when Capt. MacAuley, acting under instructions from a superior officer, entered this institute, and arrested three students under the military service act. As the result of conscientiously performing his duty, he is being transferred to a western military staff, it is alleged, in order to appease the wrath of offended ones at Ottawa. This action is regretted by the many friends of Capt. MacAuley, who is said to be acting as the buffer for "someone who blundered."

The following is a copy of the address presented to Capt. MacAuley:

Provost Marshal:

Sir,—Upon the event of severing your connection with Military District No. 1, your subordinates in arms and we, your subordinates in arms and members of the Canadian Military Police Corps, take this opportunity of showing our appreciation of having had the privilege of serving under you. We have always found that your interest in the N. C. O.'s and men of this unit has been such as to warrant the greatest confidence being placed in your judgment at all times.

You are leaving behind an organization, whose success as such is due to the zeal always shown by you, in the performance of any and all duties that have fallen to your lot as our captain.

Your going we feel is a distinct loss to us. However, we can assure you that the loss to us will prove a gain to the district in which your future work will lie.

In parting, allow us, sir, to ask you to accept these trifling marks of esteem and respect. Kindly do not value them on account of their intrinsic worth, but rather we wish you to be reminded in their use of the boys you left behind in the Canadian Military Police Corps in Military District No. 1.

London, Ont., June 22, 1918.

Capt. MacAuley leaves for his new duties in Winnipeg on Monday, and carries with him the good wishes of every soldier in Military District No. 1.

OFFICERS DECLINE TO DISCUSS RAID ON JESUIT COLLEGE

Will Say Nothing for Publication On Event.

Officers of Military District No. 1 involved in the circumstances surrounding the military police visit to the Jesuit College at Geulph, decline to talk for publication on the question at all.

Lieut.-Col. Brown, who, press dispatches said, made an investigation, declared to The Advertiser today that he had no official report on the case, and did not know all facts concerning it.

Major John Hirsch, assistant provost marshal of the district, and Capt. A. C. MacAuley, the D. A. P. M., who made the search, declined to talk for publication. Their positions prevented it, they declared.

Inspector Capt. Asa Minard of the civil section military police, said that as he was not the officer in charge of the party he could make no statement.

Lieut.-Col. G. G. Godson, D.S.O., provost marshal and commander of the Military Police Corps, was in the district investigating the case.

AUSTRIA PAYS THE BILL

At Hun Headquarters—The Kaiser (to Carl, the waiter): "You needn't wait any longer, we will return you the empties."—London Evening News.

AUSTRIAN PREMIER GOES TO FRONT TO TENDER RESIGNATION

Vienna Dispatch to Dutch Papers Says Food Situation Is Relieved — Other Advices Enlarge on Growing Seriousness of Crisis.

LONDON, June 21.—Dr. von Seydler, the Austrian premier, left Vienna at midday today for Austrian headquarters to submit the resignation of his cabinet to Emperor Charles, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Zurich.

FOOD IS ARRIVING.

AMSTERDAM, June 21.—There has been some alleviation of the food situation in Austria, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Dutch newspapers. This announces the arrival of a thousand cars of grain at the Austrian capital.

HUNGARY'S PLIGHT SERIOUS.

LONDON, June 21.—"In many provinces of Hungary there is only one-third or one-quarter the food necessary to maintain the population in health," former Premier Tisza declared in a speech to the Hungarian Parliament yesterday, according to a Budapest telegram forwarded by the Exchange Telegraph Company at Amsterdam.

"Germany must be convinced," added the former premier, "that Hungary's population is just as badly situated as regards food supplies as the citizens of Vienna."

It would tax Hungary's efforts to the utmost to hold out until the new harvest, he added.

"Vienna newspapers are quoting a Socialist party manifesto, which declares that the workers and small office holders in Austria are at their wits' end to maintain an existence because of the food situation in the monarchy," says a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam today.

In many Austrian towns, the manifesto declares, these classes are threatened with absolute famine, while similar conditions prevail in Prague, the Bohemian capital, and in towns in Galicia. The situation is declared to be terrible at these points, where the population has not seen bread or potatoes for weeks.

NO HELP FOR BAVARIA.

AMSTERDAM, June 21.—The Frankfurter Zeitung's correspondent at Munich telegraphs that Bavaria is unable to supply Austria with potatoes. Frost has retarded the new crop, and the old stocks must be used sparingly.

LOCAL ROTARIANS LEAVE TONIGHT FOR CLUB'S CONVENTION

Londoners Will Be Played Away by Boy Pipers.

With the skirl of the pipes of Pipe-Major MacDonald and his five boy pipers, the London contingent to the Rotary Club's convention at Kansas City will leave this evening at 9 o'clock. The Montreal, Brantford and Hamilton delegates will come through on the same train and they will be joined by the Londoners. Special cars are being provided. The party will be in Chicago tomorrow and will reach Kansas Monday.

London will be boosted hard at the convention. The large drum of the pipe band has been painted with the name of the city. All pipers will have streamers reading "London, Ont., Canada," and each delegate will wear a hat band with the same inscription.

"Everyone says we will boost the city all right," said W. A. Martin, district governor of the Rotarians, who with his wife heads the local delegation. Dr. E. E. Braithwaite and T. L. Partridge will be the representatives of the London club at the convention. Mr. Partridge will be accompanied by his wife. Others going are Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Yeates, Capt. J. Watt and the band.

The Toronto delegates 43 strong, accompanied by a bugle band, passed through London Friday night.

AIRMAN MAKES HIT ON FOE DESTROYER; SUBS ARE ATTACKED

British Naval Fliers Score Despite Bad Weather.

SUB BASES ASSAILED

Small Arms Employed Against German Shipping—Mines Located.

LONDON, June 21.—The admiralty tonight issued the following official communication dealing with aviation by the naval branch of the air service:

"During the period from June 17 to June 18 naval airmen during the night and day bombed the Bruges docks, the Ostend docks, the Zeebrugge-St. Denis-Westrem and Marinaelier airdrome; LaBrugoise works, Thorout railway junction and railway sidings at Pierre Capelle. Approximately sixteen tons of bombs were dropped with good results.

"Attacks were also made with bombs and small arms on enemy shipping. Two direct hits were observed, one on an enemy torpedoboat destroyer. Other bombs fell close.

Enemy aircraft attacked two of our bombing formations, and one hostile machine was driven down. All our machines returned except one, which was forced to descend in Holland, owing to damages is engines sustained in a combat with an enemy plane. Its crew is safe.

"Despite unfavorable weather conditions our anti-submarines escort and anti-aircraft patrols have been maintained by airplanes, seaplanes and airships in home waters during the same period. Enemy mines have been located and destroyed, hostile submarines sighted and attacked and Allied and neutral shipping escorted."

The attitude taken by Mrs. Gordon Wringht, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, in her address before that body concerning the use of tobacco and the wet canteens overseas, as well as her charge that Canadian boys are bedaubed in England, will, it is expected, be the subject of considerable discussion by the members of the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association at the general meeting Tuesday evening.

The Ottawa branch of the G. W. V. A. has issued a reply to Mrs. Wright's address, and the Toronto branch is also taking it up, and it is expected that the local branch will also deal with it.

FEAR GALICIA AND BOHEMIA.

PARIS, June 21.—A dispatch to the Temps from Geneva says the Austrian Government has decided to put Vienna and other large cities on half the present bread rations in order to ameliorate the conditions in Galicia and Bohemia. These conditions are so bad, the Temps quotes the Vienna Neue Freie Presse as saying, that railroad and other strikes can only be avoided by such a measure. The Vienna newspaper adds that the cities though badly off are still in better condition than the country, where there is virtually no bread.

U.S. TRANSPORT IN RUNNING DUEL WITH GERMAN SUBMARINE

U-Boat Had One Gun Which Outranged Big Liner's Armament.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 21.—An American troop transport, formerly a German liner, which returned this week from a French port, was subjected to a shell fire attack from a German submarine two days out from the port of departure, it became known here today. The transport escaped by superior ship order, although a running battle, lasting more than an hour, took place, in which more than one hundred shots were fired by the two vessels.

The submarine appeared to have one gun that outranged any carried by the transport, and from this gun there were counted 35 shots, none of which, however, hit the American ship. The submarine did not venture close enough to use a torpedo and finally gave up the pursuit.

The people must overthrow a government which is incapable of attaining a speedy peace by understanding."

President Lohmann reprimanded the deputy for the remarks.

Ashamed of Corns

As People Should Be—They Are So Unnecessary

The instinct is to hide a corn. And to cover the pain with a smile. For people nowadays know that a corn is passé. And that naught but neglect can account for it.

It is like a torn gown which you fail to repair. Or a spot which you fail to remove. The fault lies in neglecting a few-minute duty—just as with a corn.

Any corn pain can be stopped in a moment and stopped for good. Any corn can be ended quickly and completely.

All that is necessary is to apply a little Blue-jay plaster. It is done in a jiffy. It means no inconvenience.

Then a bit of scientific wax begins its gentle action. In two days, usually, the whole corn disappears. Some old, tough corns require a second application, but not often.

Can you think of a reason for paring corns and letting them continue? Or for using harsh or mussy applications? Or of clinging to any old-time method which is now taboo?

Or for suffering corns—for spoiling hours—when millions of others escape?

Can you think of a reason for not trying Blue-jay? It is a modern scientific treatment, invented by a famous chemist. It is made by a house of world-wide fame in the making of surgical dressings.

It has ended corns by the tens of millions—corns which are just like yours. It is easy and gentle and sure, as you can prove for yourself tonight.

Try Blue-jay on one corn. If it does as we say, keep it by you. On future corns apply it the moment they appear. That will mean perpetual freedom. A corn ache, after that, will be unknown to you.

SULKING BAROMETER GIVES SOME HOPE FOR LONDON WAR GARDENERS

Climbs a Little Today, But Still Down in Dumps—Pessimists Gloat Over "I Told You So" of Paying Up For June Weather in May.

"Wrap me up in my old winter flannels
And say a poor duffer has friz, has friz,
Get me some coal for the furnace,
And then the June blizzard can bliz."

A good many people are inclined to believe the reliable old sun turned off the steam pipes when it pleased itself to go into temporary eclipse at 2:10 p.m. on Friday, thereby scaring a lot of people into the belief that the end of the world had come.

In that it has grown "wondrous cold," the experience of the ancient mariner has been repeated by humanity in this part of the western hemisphere within the past twenty-four hours. At 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer stood at 47 degrees. The good old weather prophets, of whom a few still grace the planet, are hoping against hope that the clouds will hang together. Otherwise, sure as signs come true, it will be frost tonight, disastrous whatever the color.

The state of the barometer gives some ground for hope. While it was very low in its mindyesterday on account of "that storm," there isn't much to indicate that it will be buoyant in the immediate future. It has, to be sure, climbed a trifle out of the dumps but it is still inclined to sulk.

Pessimists Have Inning.

The pessimists who are always looking for trouble have reason to congratulate themselves that their prophecies have come true. They predicted in the balmy month of May that we would, without fail, "pay up for this in June." We are.

The market looked today more like Good Friday than the day after the longest day in the year, daylight-saving included. While summer vegetables substituted for maple syrup, vendors and marketers shivered in a truly early season fashion. Indeed, March has frequently been as kindly as this "rare day in June," have the advantage over the optimists

In the meantime people are looking askance at summer finery displayed in the windows and developing goose flesh at the thought of ice cream cones. Getting the maximum of misery out of their present shivers, they are ruthlessly talking of cancelling summer vacations.

"What would I d-d-d-d-do, sitting by a b-b-b-beach when I'm almost frozen at home," demanded one woman, her face blue and her teeth chattering.

At the same time, one can never bank with too much assurance upon the next trick the weathermann may pull out of his bag. By his ability to spring surprises, he has kept himself since time immemorial a perennially fresh subject of conversation. He is new, yesterday, today, and tomorrow.

Par-Boil Tomorrow.

Today the people who are always looking for trouble are taking some sold comfort from the fact that we will be "paying up for this" in insufferable heat a week or so hence. Such people as the folks that fake things as they come, in that they are always "prepared." They can't enjoy the cool breezes today because they are worrying over the way they may be obliged to par-boil tomorrow.

Directly against the advice of the editorial writers, who urge the citizens to delay lighting their fires this fall for at least one week later than usual, several conductors had the stoves in the street cars going full blast today. This is the earliest that the fires have been started in the memory of the oldest men on the road. The hope is expressed, however, that Indian summer, which is bound to follow, may be prolonged to an unusual length of time.

The street car men were not the only ones who anticipated real winter weather, as a man was seen meandering up Dundas street this morning sporting a fur coat. At the same time ice cream was being delivered in the same block by a driver in his shirt sleeves rolled to the elbows. The inference is that he was suggesting to his customers the midsummer heat that should have been but was not noticed to any extent.

WITH STROKE OF A PEN PARLIAMENT'S WORK IS ANNULLED, SAYS BENNETT

Four Lines of Order-in-Council Repeals the Military Service Law and Places Wide Powers Entirely in Hands of the Military.

CALGARY, June 21.—That four lines of simple English of an order-in-council repeals all that it took Parliament days to enact placing the power of calling up men for military service entirely in the hands of the military, and even making judges liable to be called upon, was the practical summing up of the first part of the argument of R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P., before the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta this morning, in the case of Norman Earl Lewis of Beddington, the hearing having been adjourned since Tuesday.

In his argument Mr. Bennett traced the history of the militia act, the military service act, quoting a number of authorities in cases where proclamations have been issued which overstepped the powers granted them by Parliament, leading up to the present case, where an order-in-council has been issued which sweeps the labors of Parliament away with the stroke of the pen.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Military Service Act, 1917.

Men 19 and 20 Years of Age.
Harvest Leave.
Leave of Absence on Ground of Extreme Hardship.
Procedure to obtain Leave of Absence.

Men Nineteen and Twenty Years of Age.

It has come to the attention of the Government that there is a wide spread impression that young men of nineteen years, and those who became twenty since October 13, 1917, as well as those who may become nineteen from time to time and who have been or will be called upon to register under the Military Service Act, are to be immediately called to the colours.

This impression is quite incorrect. No date has yet been fixed for calling upon such men to so report for duty, nor has the question been brought before the Cabinet for decision. In view of the need of labour on the farm, it is most unlikely that consideration will be given to the matter until after the harvest is over, although of course the Government's action must be determined primarily by the military situation.

There is no further obligation incumbent upon young men of the ages above mentioned who have registered or who do so hereafter, until they receive notice from the Registrars.

Harvest Leave.

Some enquiries have been received as to the possibility of granting harvest leave to such troops as may be in the country at that time. No definite assurance can be given on this point as advantage must be taken of ships as they become available. On the other hand, harvest leave will be given if at all possible.

Leave of Absence on Grounds of Extreme Hardship.

It is desired that the Regulations respecting leave of absence in cases of hardship should be widely known and fully understood. Such leave will be granted in two cases:— (a) where extreme hardship arises by reason of the fact that the man concerned is either the only son capable of earning a livelihood, of a father killed or disabled on service or presently in service overseas, or in training for such service, or under treatment after returning from overseas; or the only remaining of two or more brothers capable of earning a livelihood (the other brother or brothers having been killed or disabled on service, or being presently in service overseas, or in training for overseas or under treatment after his or their return from overseas); brothers married before 4th August, 1914, living in separate establishments and having a child or children not to be counted, in determining the fact that the man is the "only" remaining son or brother; (b) where extreme hardship arises by reason of exceptional circumstances such as the fact that the man concerned is the sole support of a widowed mother, an invalid father or other helpless dependents.

It is to be noted that in all these cases the governing factor is not hardship, loss or suffering to the individual concerned, but to others, that is, members of his family or those depending upon him.

Procedure to obtain leave of absence.

A simple system for dealing with these cases has been adopted. Forms of application have been supplied to every Depot Battalion and an officer of each battalion has been detailed whose duty it is to give them immediate attention. The man concerned should on reporting to his unit state that he desires to apply for leave of absence on one or more of the grounds mentioned and his application form will then be filled out and forwarded to Militia Headquarters, Ottawa. In the meantime, if the case appears meritorious, the man will be given provisional leave of absence for thirty days so that he may return home and continue his civil occupation while his case is being finally disposed of.

ITALY REDEEMED.

WITH UNFALTERING courage, amazing dash and wonderful mobility, considering the terrain, the Italian forces not only have checked the great Austrian drive, but are counter-attacking and regaining some of the ground lost in the first rush of the enemy. Behind the Austrians who managed to cross the Piave, the river roars in flood, cutting them off from their supports and endangering the safety of the army.

This is wonderful news from the Italian front and inevitably thoughts fly back in comparison to the last big Teutonic attack which was so successful. Betrayed and misled by Teuton propaganda, the Italians at that time broke before the foe and rallied only just in time, but today that failure has been wiped out entirely, more than counter-balanced by the present magnificent stand which has been made to bar the way to Venice.

Undoubtedly the presence of British and French troops and the fact that Amerians are on the way have had an excellent effect on Italian morale, and the British and French have had a share in the opposition offered the enemy, but the bulk of the fighting has been done by the Italians, who have proved themselves warriors of the first grade; to them are due the praise and honor.

When the earlier disaster occurred in Italy, the Allies were amazed. They could not believe that the patriotic, brilliant compatriots of Garibaldi had taken fright and run before a foe, although first accounts seemed to indicate that this was the fact. Later came the explanation which showed that it was not cowardice on the part of the people of Sunny Italy, but effective German propaganda that had opened the way to the Teutons. When this became known there was relief and in Italy a determination to make the foe pay dearly for his success. He is paying now and will continue to do so until the end, for Italy stands shoulder to shoulder with Britain, France, Belgium and the United States, pledged to go on until Germany and Austria are beaten decisively.

Italy has had no easy part to play since the war began. She first had to decide to cut herself adrift from her old associations with Germany and then had to take up the battle on a long front, of which every foot was difficult ground. Through valleys, up mountains, piercing snowdrifts miles wide and many feet in depth she forged ahead, only to be beaten back after her superhuman efforts. Then she had to reorganize her armies, take up a stand on less favorable lines and start once more to hold and beat the enemy. Nobly she has risen to the occasion, and gallantly have her men acquitted themselves. Italian citizens may well be proud of their army; the army may well be proud of the nation which it protects.

EDITORS TO THE FRONT.

MANY OF OUR brotherly, sisterly and grandmotherly Canadian editors will soon leave for a trip to the British Isles and the front. Bon voyage, ye noble crusaders in the cause of liberty! Wish we were going with you, but somehow or other when the names were handed out we looked in vain for ours. Devoted as we are to the cause of Lord Beaverbrook and the Borden party we should have thought our name would lead all the rest, but it was not to be. The only Government trip we expect to get in on will be when Sir Robert decides to have the press inspect the Blond Eskimos, the Aurora Borealis or Central Prison. What matters it! We are snapping our fingers just like that. We have no top coat, our spats are frayed and discolored from tramping through the mud esteemed contemporaries have thrown in our path, and we have not learned to carry a cane before breakfast. Another point to be remembered is that one is on the water wagon, and submarine zones are said by experienced journalists to make ship stewards go insane, their minds breaking because of the constant hissing roar in their ears of the soda syphons, and the vapor clouds incident upon the uncorking of Hennessy's (printer insert three stars, if any, please). Printer begs to report that he, also, is out of Three Stars.

Censorship regulations have been tightened and extraordinary precautions adopted as the hour of departure of the pilgrims of the pure and peerless press approaches. The Hun may start a Brains Offensive, to cripple the empire in the seat of its knowledge, and for this rare collection of editorial prizes offer special tablets in the Hall of Horrors to the U-boat commander who brings to Hunland one or more untamed Canadian editor. For this reason, every editor has been cautioned to go to his drug store and purchase water wings, with special instructions as to attaching, the idea being that the editorial block or bean will show a tendency to sink while the feet stay up. No one will advance the theory that any of the gentlemen are light-headed, and weight goes down. Only hollow high-brows float. Thus the special precautions.

To jest with such a serious matter, when the journalistic honor of Canada goes forth to hearten the boys at the front, to confer with Lloyd George and Haig and Foch, perhaps indirectly to win the war (most of us are winning the war, indirectly), perhaps to be mastered by a sudden impulse and to go over the top, while Sir Robert Borden and Beaverbrook looked on, to fall, fighting, to make the world safe for democracy while Phil Gibbs and the American correspondents stood off to one side, and wrote the story in the soul-stirring phrases, at their command, would be a sacrilege. It is not an editorial joyride, as one writer has stated, but a mission inspired by the highest motives, some of which may be described as follows:

(1) To learn the proper tea drinking schedule and to bring this home as a strengthening force in Imperial ties.

(2) To learn to speak English with a Strand accent.

(3) To learn to write ditto with a Pall Mall Gaz. accent.

(4) To tell the Canadian drawing room colony in England just how the old folks are wearing their hearts away.

(5) To cultivate a real Fleet street style and manner.

(6) To do over Canadian journalism into something resembling the time and to bump the profession up a peg or two.

(7) To give the Canadian public some conception of the war, and to describe the ruined art of Europe.

(8) To give Lord Northcliffe some expert advice on how to handle himself when political circumstances demand.

(9) To whisper in the ear of King George the objections held by Canadians to title giving and how these may be overcome by judicious distribution of a few earldoms among those present.

(10) To visit each bar in London during all the open hours, so that the true condition of affairs may be told in Canada, from the point of view both of the prohibitionist (by hearsay) and the imbiber.

TO TAG OR NOT TO TAG?

WHAT AMOUNT of money has been collected by means of Tag Days will never be known, but it is safe to estimate the total collections in Canada since war began at several million dollars. In almost every city money has been solicited on at least half the Saturdays of the year, and the good work accomplished for the soldiers and for various war activities has been beyond measure. Every five and ten cent piece contributed has gone to some worthy cause, and the public has never noticed the strain.

While every good thing may be overdone, there is little ground for the complaint heard that Tag Days are a nuisance, that the young women who collect the money are merely trying to attract a little personal attention and that it costs as much to collect the money as to buy supplies and comforts for the soldiers. Being stopped by a charming young woman is surely no hardship, and anyone with an unprejudiced mind will realize that there is more hard work than fun in standing all day and soliciting funds from all kinds of people, being rebuffed by the unthinking, sneered at by others and slighted by those selfish folk who cannot regard any effort to reach their hearts through their pockets as other than a "hold up game."

Citizens in all callings should be glad to give up willingly the price of the little pleasures in which they indulge, at least once a week, in addition to whatever else they may give. The women's organizations which are working with wonderful energy and untiring hearts do not seek these small donations in any idle spirit. The need for the money is great and pressing, and anyone who has given a good round sum to the taggers in the past has not commenced to contribute an equivalent of the service given by the workers on war comforts. Theirs is a marvellous work, the gift of the times to mankind, the mothering spirit harnessed to the sternest kind of labor. Who would deny them the pittance that is begrudged by some? Who would whine about the frequency of Tag Days? Hold Tag Days every Saturday in the summer, and encourage those who give their time to them! Don't let the "knocking" spirit enter into this magnificent outpouring of womanly effort and kindness!

London should make every Tag Day a big success. It should give gladly to the women who sometimes have to face humiliation to carry on. The habit of running down Tag Days is becoming too prevalent. Start to meet this ill-considered criticism with a backfire of hearty support.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There are some fine strikers in Austria until it comes to striking the Italian line.

Every Prussian steals, cheats, grabs, says the German Socialist Braun, so the crown prince gets his proclivities honestly.

American firms are desirous of engaging returned Canadian soldiers, showing an example which some Canadian companies might follow.

Germany and Turkey proceed to quarrel over the spoils of war, the Russian fleet. That kind of row has proved the undoing of many partnerships.

Germany's civil population will pay big prices for sick dogs, using them as food. Soon it will be unsafe for the badly-wounded men from the front to return home.

When days of prayer for Allied success are being held, it would not be out of place to devote part of them to prayers for the best possible kind of weather for the crops.

The German press and people are getting sick of hearing Wilhelm rave about what he is going to do to the Allies, and even go to the length of intimating this to him. One sign of sanity.

An Austrian prisoner says his people are convinced the Allies don't need American help to whip the central powers. Nevertheless they have it, and it will hasten the end considerably.

We would rather not print a letter from a subscriber containing the cruel suggestion that the recent amendment to the liquor regulations permitting the use of native wines was put through for the benefit of the temperance friends of the Government.

MURDER IS MURDER.

[New York Times.]

The acquittal of the murderers of Robert Paul Prager was evidently a gross miscarriage of justice. Prager was a German and a Socialist who, it is said, was guilty of anti-American talk about the war in the Illinois mining district where he lived and worked. His talk was violently resented by his fellow-miners, and for his own protection he was placed in jail. The jail was broken into by a mob and Prager was lynched.

Eleven men were placed on trial for this crime, and have been acquitted. The reports indicate that their defence was not that they did not lynch Prager, but that he deserved what he got. "A new unwritten law" is said to have been pleaded by their counsel. The present "unwritten law" is that any woman may kill any man whose conduct displeases her for any reason, and that any man may kill any other man provided there is a woman in the case. The new unwritten law appears to be that any group of men may execute justice, or what they consider justice, in any case growing out of the war. Both "unwritten laws" are recognitions of murder as a defensible and even legal American institution. The old unwritten law is a disgrace and a scandal, and the new one is nothing less.

As ships are being launched from time to time in our various Canadian yards, why is it that they are not given distinctively Canadian names, in order to advertise our Dominion wherever they sail? If we are to have a Canadian Mercantile Marine, it must breathe Canadian spirit.

American Battle Ode

(Dedicated to President Wilson.)

We are the boy of the U. S. A.,
The land of the brave and free;
Though last in the fight, we stand for the right,
And we battle for liberty.
We are rushing our ships across the main,
Our troop trains speed along;
We hail the day that we joined the fray!
Soon we'll march three million strong.

"Shoulder to shoulder" we stand or fall,
With our champions across the sea;
In their dire need for us they bleed,
That the world may again breathe free.
Their myriad women who toil and sweat
In tasks that to men belong.
For them we pray, they are saving the day,
Till we march three million strong.

No Prussian love of power is ours,
Nor of "Plunders' bloody gain";
We battle for right, with all our might,
That the world may have peace again.
We are the foe of tyranny,
The avenger of cruel wrong;
The kaiser's brood will go down in blood
When we march three million strong.

Then courage, brothers! from a hundred camps,
Our boys go marching by,
With feverish speed, for we know your need,
And with you we will live or die.
For you our factories roar and grind,
To you our fields belong.
We'll save the day and end the fray,
When we march three million strong.

EARNING AND GIVING

What the Boys of Canada Are Doing to Help the Men "Over There," and How.

(By JOHN MELDRUM.)

More than 10,000 "Earn and Give" boys are hard at work earning $10 each for the Red Triangle Fund. They were organized by the boys' work division of the Y. M. C. A. during the association's drive for two and a quarter million dollars last May. The call was originally for 6,000 boys, but the challenge was so heartily responded to that the first objective was soon passed. The proposal to earmark all but $10,000 of the boys' contributions, that amount being divided equally between boys' work in Canada and in India—for the overseas work of the Y. M. C. A. was so popular that boys rallied to the "Earn and Give" banner in the most remarkable way. An appeal of this nature always proves irresistible to red-blooded boys, and Canada's sons are red-blooded, whether they be in their teens or have passed the alloted span of the psalmist.

In glancing over the various reports of the "Earn and Give" campaign one is reminded of the words of the poet—slightly revised:

"Breathes there a boy with soul so dead who never to himself has said
'This is where I come in!'"

From coast to coast our older boys eagerly seized this chance to serve in the great war. Among the first promises to arrive was one signed by the ten members of the Lethbridge, Alta. "Older Brothers Class," who pledged themselves to earn and give $10 each as a memorial to their late president, Millard J. Robinson, who fell on the field of battle. Since then all present and past members of the class have signed the pledge.

At a meeting in the little town of Armstrong, B. C., after the "Earn and Give" proposition had been explained to the older boys, a father, who had lost two sons in France, came up with his two remaining boys. One was 17 years old, and he at once signed the "Earn and Give" pledge. The younger son, 13 years old, hesitated, somewhat overwhelmed by the huge sum he was asked to earn.

"Go to it, lad!" urged his father, "you can do it. I'll back you to the finish!"

In a certain rural school in Manitoba every boy signed up, and in another school twelve of the thirteen boy scholars got into line. The organizer in this district wrote to say:

"We have signed up over 80 per cent of the boys eligible for this campaign. We have 108 so far, and there are more yet to hear from. The total may possibly reach 125. If you had allowed us to sign the girls we could have increased this by 50 per cent One girl, in order to get in on this, took it out in the name of her young brother, who is only 8 years old."

Can boys work? Ask the wife of a certain doctor in Hamilton. She was in the middle of house-cleaning and got held up for want of assistance. Hearing of the "Earn and Give" campaign, she phoned Mr. Brace of the Y. M. C. A. A boy, 15 years old, was sent to her home on a Saturday. He worked steadily for seven hours cleaning the winter's ashes out of the cellar and painting the ceiling of the kitchen. On the following Saturday he had another job whitewashing ceilings, and he has become so expert in the work that he will probably earn all his money in this way.

Hamilton boys balk at nothing. One is acting as carter with his express wagon. Another has started in business as a carpet-beater, and a third cuts lawns and cleans up gardens.

The trick is being done in other places, also. A Guelph boy has sold his bantams and given half the money—something to crow about, eh? His chum is raising the wind by raising chickens.

Owen Sound boys don't intend to be left behind. Mr. Cochrane, local organizer there, says:

"We had quite an incident during the campaign when we sent the boys out to get a chum; one 12-year-old boy got his 11-year-old chum and secured a job for him mowing lawns, which during the summer period will cover the required amount. A number of the businessmen of our central committee have established themselves as an employment bureau for the boys under their district to see that they have an opportunity to earn this money."

A crippled boy in another Ontario town heard the "Earn and Give" challenge.

"I must get in on this," he said. "I have only one leg that's any good, but I can get out and hoe turnips to earn my pledge."

One boy in Toronto got 28 others to sign up! He proved himself to be an organizer as well as a recruiter. One of his friends excused himself on the ground that he hadn't a job and couldn't get one. The canvasser pulled out a notebook with a list of jobs waiting for boys, took the lad to a woman whose name was on the list, got a job for his backward friend, and persuaded him to sign the pledge card.

Tommie Little of Toronto is small in name. His letter shows that he has the makings of a big man. Inclosing a first installment of $1, he says:

"I wish you would enlist me in the ranks of the democratic army under Generals "Earn" and "Give." I can save $10 by October, and I also want to help my Uncle Tom to "carry on" over there and wallop the Hun.

"Yours in the great cause.

"(Sgd.) TOMMIE LITTLE."

Way down in the Maritime Provinces the boys have as much grit as anywhere, and they don't take anybody's dust. A letter from Nova Scotia says:

"Inclosed find $10 for your fund. I read in the paper that I would receive a certificate. I earned the money myself. I hired to go lobster fishing; got paid according to the amount of work I did. One day I was in the heat rowing from 6 a.m. until 3:40 p.m., so you may imagine I had hard work. I was 13 years old yesterday.

"YOURS IN THE WORK."

Notice that subscription—"Yours in the Work." That's the spirit of the boys beside the sea! And lobster fishing isn't all it's cracked up to be, either!

Boys like the foregoing do not need much guidance or encouragement in the fulfillment of their pledges, but here and there circumstances arise that may tend to discourage, or, at least, make the work difficult.

With a view to helping over the rough places, the promoters of the "Earn and Give" campaign are arranging for a "Conservation Week" to be held from June 29 to July 5.

Dominion Day, July 1, will be a red-letter date, when all over Canada there will be picnics and parades galore to celebrate and conserve the boys' efforts. It is hoped that at least 40 per cent of all pledges will have been redeemed by that date. There is going to be a race among the boys to secure a clean bill of wealthy by that time; in other words, they are going to strain every nerve and sinew to pay 40 per cent of their pledges on or before Dominion Day. No one on that occasion, with the exception of our soldiers, will be named on a more patriotic honor roll than the boys who will be able proudly to show his receipt for his final payment.

Meantime local committees are being urged not to consider their work finished until each boy has secured a position, and earned and paid his money. Employment bureaus have been formed, and care has been taken, as far as possible, to insure that the work provided is in every case a contribution to the national labor problem, and also that the boys receive a fair wage for their services. Positions available for boys on farms, in pardens, in stores, offices and factories, are listed in each community, and rural boys are being urged to raise various animals and to secure some pay for their work on the farms this summer.

Dominion Day will be awaited this year with more than usual interest. Canadian boys have risen nobly to a great opportunity, and parents and others will be curious to see how performance is going to measure up to promise. We believe that in every case the pledge will be kept, and that when the patriotic oratory and fervor of Dominion Day are forgotten, the solid contribution of Canada's older boys to the cause of the Empire and the Allies will remain as an earnest of a splendid effort splendidly accomplished and, at the same time, a prophecy of something still greater to be achieved.

THE END OF THE TRADITION.

By Vincent C. Perry.

For six generations of the Winchester family, the girls, who had been greatly in the minority, had remained spinsters. Harriet was the only girl of the seventh generation and she had made up her mind that she was going to get married, but apparently Aunt Priscilla, with whom she lived, had made up her mind that Harriet wasn't. That was how it seemed to Harriet, anyway, for Aunt Priscilla had put a ban on young men visitors, and the only one who had ever dared to break that ban had been threatened with arrest if he even came within a half mile of the Winchester homestead. Arrest had no fears for Beverly Porteous, though, and there was hardly a week that he didn't manage to have at least two or three meetings with Harriet.

"There is nothing else for it, Harriet; we'll have to elope," he told her one day after he had spent most of the clandestine visit making friends with a supposed-to-be vicious dog that Aunt Priscilla had purchased for a further precaution.

"But calamities always come to people that elope," Harriet said, mournfully. "Just look what happened to the girl in that movie we saw."

"But she eloped with the villain—a man who didn't love her," Beverly argued. "Those things only happen in movies."

Harriet was convinced at last. "I hope to elope like a thief in the night," she said. "What if the dog should bite you?"

"We won't elope in the night," he replied. "People that elope in the night have automobiles. We won't be able to get a car for a few years yet, but I've got enough to furnish a nice little home. My income is steady and I'll be promoted to manager next. The bank gives me an extra allowance when I get married."

It sounded alluring to Harriet. They had just completed their plans when Aunt Priscilla came on the scene. They thought at first that she had overheard them, but if she had she did not say so. In fact, she said hardly anything. She pointed to the gate and made a motion to secure a rake handle that was handy. Bev. wasn't going to risk being struck and not be able to strike back, so he beat a retreat. He didn't even stop to tell her what he thought of her, but perhaps that was best unsaid.

After that it was harder than ever to get an opportunity to see one another, but when the day arrived for the planned elopement good luck sent Aunt Priscilla to bed with a headache, and Harriet was able to steal out with her suitcase. Bev. was waiting for her at the bank. She left her suitcase there, and they hurried to the minister's.

"I am sorry," the minister apologized, when Bev. displayed the license, "but Miss Priscilla Winchester has warned me never to marry her niece, unless with her consent. Miss Winchester is one of the main supporters of my church, so I fear I must refuse to marry you until I gain the lady's consent."

Harriet burst into tears, but Bev. only muttered: "Hang Aunt Priscilla! I'll show her!"

There was only the one minister in the village, but there was a justice of the peace who could perform the ceremony. He lived at the outskirts, but after they got started the walk didn't seem to be a long one.

"I feel that something dreadful is going to happen," Harriet said dolefully, as they walked along. "What if somebody sees us?"

"Something dreadful is going to happen to your aunt if she puts any more obstacles in our way. I'll never allow her to enter my home."

"But she's my aunt," Harriet said loyally. "We must have her. Just think of how good she has been to me all my life."

"Oh, she's been grand to you," came sarcastically from Bev.

Harriet stopped still on the sidewalk. "I'll not go another step unless you promise that you won't be spiteful toward aunt," she said. "She thinks she is doing everything for my own good. She feels that it would end what has become a family tradition if I should marry. Perhaps she was prevented from being married in the same way."

"If she had been she wouldn't act this way with you. Who would have married her? Come back here! Where are you going?" Harriet had turned back.

"I'm going back to my aunt," she called back over her shoulder.

"She can visit us," Bev. pleaded, Harriet joined him again, mollified.

Their hearts beat rapidly while they waited for the door to be opened in answer to their ring at the justice's.

"He's on a fishing expedition and won't be back until tomorrow," his wife answered to their inquiry.

After she had closed the door on them they faced one another hopelessly.

"What shall we do?" Harriet asked chokingly.

"Postpone it until tomorrow."

"Aunt will be sure to find out. The minister will tell her, or she'll have missed me and my clothes."

They were a doleful couple that started on the homeward journey. They couldn't figure out what was the best thing to do. A big touring car with no one in it but the chauffeur came around a bend toward them. Struck with a sudden thought, Bev. hailed the driver.

"Take us to the city?" Bev. requested. "I don't care what it costs."

"Jump on," the chauffeur said; "that's where I'm making for. We'll be there in thirty minutes."

An hour later Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Porteous left the rectory of a prominent city church, the happiest couple in the world. The chauffeur was waiting for them with his car at the curb.

"I'll take you back home now," he said. "But first, here is a letter that I think belongs to you." He handed Bev. a letter addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Porteous.

"Who could have known so soon that we are married?" Bev. asked, as he tore open the envelope. After an exclamation at the sight of the signature, they read eagerly:

"Dear Nephew and Niece,—You will be surprised to get this letter, but there are lots of surprises in love, you'll find. I overheard your plans and knew about the elopement. I am very happy that you are man and wife. I have always wished you to marry, but it was because I thought you wouldn't that I made it so uncomfortable for you both. It has been a tradition but not a pride of the Winchester family that the girls remained single, and in the last three generations at least the family has tried to break the tradition. It would have ended in my generation had not my father and mother been too eager to have me be the first to get married and showed the young man who might have become my husband that they were anxious for the match. A girl that is easy to win is not often sought after. That is why I made Harriet hard to win. The car that you rode to the city in is my wedding present to you. I hope you will allow your old lonely aunt to visit you. With best wishes. Aunt Priscilla."

"Shall we let her visit us, dear?" Harriet cried eagerly.

"She can come and live with us if she wants to," Bev. said, as he kissed his bride from the sheer joy of the prospect of it.

Can You Solve This Great War Puzzle?

WHO WANTS ME?

Four Things That Will Win The War

WHAT ARE THEY?

THE 16 Circles above can be made to spell out the names of the four chief things that are going to win the war. Our bright loyal Canadian boys and girls can help provide at least one of these things. Every boy and girl should know all of them. Can you tell what words the four magic circles represent?

How to solve it.—Each circle represents a letter of the word called for. The number of dots in the circle represents the position of that letter in the alphabet. For instance: "A" would be represented by a circle with one dot because it is the first letter of the alphabet. "B" would be represented by a circle with two dots because it is the second letter. "C" would be represented by three dots, "D" by four dots and so on. You must correcty count the dots in each circle, figure out the letter represented by its position in the alphabet and when you have them all figured out put them into proper rotation to spell the name wanted. It's not an easy puzzle but if you can solve it correctly you may win this lovely shetland pony or one of the grand Cash prizes above.

As gentle and playful as a dog, providing heaitnful fun for the whole family.

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren G. Partridge.

Copyright 1917 by George Matthew Adams.

JIMMY COON CALLS ON LITTLE GUY CHUCK.

Of course you know that good fellow, Guy Chuck, the Woodchuck. Well, he had built a brand new house that Spring. It was a lovely new house on the south slope of a little hill in the big Pasture. Little Guy Chuck moved into his fine house before it was finished, for it had only one door; and there were no back or side doors or windows.

And little William, the Farmer Boy, bought a brand new steel trap, and set the trap right in the front door of Guy's new house. Now little Guy Chuck was awfully hungry the next morning; and he started to go out of his front door, and behold there was that awful steel trap in his door.

And you see little Guy had no time to build any back or side doors, and he had no windows in his new house. And poor little hungry Guy sat in his front hall, so hungry and so downcast in his heart, as he had no chance to go out of his own front door, or to get any breakfast.

And as little Guy Chuck looked so hungry and discouraged, who should trot along but Jimmy Coon.

And of course Jimmy Coon made a call on his old neighbor, little Guy Chuck. "What's the matter now?" called out Jimmy. "Why don't you come out like a little man, and hear the birds sing?"

"And why don't you come in and call on me? you little 'Fraidy Cat!" answered the hungry little Guy Chuck. And Jimmy Coon had to sit down and hold his fat sides, for it looked so funny to see little Guy a prisoner in his own house!

And Bobby Skunk called too, and Teddy Possum and all the rest of the neighbors. And it was awfully comical to see all those good neighbors sitting around Guy's front door, and giving him advice how he could get out. But not one of those neighbors dared to enter little Guy's bran new front door; for everyone could see the awful jaws of that powerful steel trap!

And while all the neighbors were scolding the Farmer Boy, little William, for playing such a mean trick on Guy Chuck, and while Bobby Skunk and Teddy Possum and all the others were giving him good advice, Guy Chuck put on his "Thinking Cap!"

And little Guy looked very serious and determined, Quilly, the Porcupine, spoke up in his hoarse and funny voice, "Now little Guy, you take my advice; you must be cheerful and look on the bright side, and some day that miserable Farmer Boy may come and take away that trap!" And it looked very dark and sad for little Guy Chuck.

WAS OFF WORK FOUR OR FIVE MONTHS A YEAR WITH CONSTIPATION

If the truth were only known you would find that over one-half of the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels become constipated the stomach gets out of order, the liver does not work properly, and then follow the violent sick headaches, the sourness of the stomach, heartburn, water brash, etc.

Keep your bowels regular by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. They work on the bowels gently and naturally, and will cure the worst cases of constipation.

Mr. Sylvester Clements, Galt, Ont., writes: "I desire to express my heartfelt thanks for what Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have done for me. I have been suffering from a bad stomach and constipation, and would be off work four or five months a year. I was hardly able to be inside without getting a severe headache. I tried doctors' medicine and other remedies, but got no relief until a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Now I can work inside without any headaches or pain. I would not be without your remedy for anything. I write this so that anyone suffering the same as I did may use them and be cured."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RED CROSS AND C. W. C. A. COLUMN

To Organize More Thoroughly.

For a long time the Red Cross workers at Hyman Hall have felt the need of a more thorough organization of the forces throughout Military District No. 1. The work has grown by such strides that it is hard for busy women to keep up to it especially now, with over 300 places shipping in to London.

So it has been decided to appoint an organizing secretary who will go from place to place throughout the district and arrange for one or more centres in each county. The Red Cross workers of each county then will be able to gather all their work together at these centres and ship to London in larger quantities. No doubt the workers of each county will be interested to know just how much they send away each month, and their own work will be much easier managed than under the present system.

Mrs. A. T. Edwards, recording secretary, has been requested to undertake the arduous task of organizing secretary and has consented. Her place as recording secretary will be taken by Mrs. Zeigler until the end of the present Red Cross year. Mrs. Edwards commences her work this week by going to Ridgetown, where a meeting will be held in the interests of Red Cross work.

Thorough organization of all the war-working women is more necessary now than at the beginning of the war, and should the war end this year it would be just as necessary. For Red Cross work will go on for many years to come, with all the wounded and disabled soldiers returning to Canada.

Any place wishing the help of the organizing secretary will be able to avail themselves of it by writing to Hyman Hall.

Donation From Ravenswood.

The paper and envelopes for our boys in the trenches has begun to come in and go out again, and soon they will be getting the benefit. Such a splendid donation came in recently from Ravenswood, in response to the appeal. The C.W.C.A. have been in the habit of sending over stationery to the soldiers from headquarters in England. But all writing materials have risen to such an exorbitant price in England that the C.W.C.A. has appealed to Canadians to send stationery from Canada. And so it is being sent, but much more is wanted. There will surely be other societies anxious to follow the good example of the ladies of Ravenswood.

Is Your Ward at Byron Bright?

There is a room at Byron Sanatorium that always has flowers to brighten it, and the men in it receive a weekly treat of books or magazines or candy, or something to show that the women who provided the ward and whose names appear on the door are looking after them and trying in every way to contribute to their comfort.

It is a very beautiful service, and the sanatorium would be a radiant place indeed if everyone who donated a ward would take such pains. It is, of course, much more difficult for the societies out of town who have given a ward to keep it bright, but even a monthly treat would be a lovely way of letting the men in your particular ward know that your have a special interest in them that did not die when you gave them their beautiful room. The days are very long at Byron, and the road back to health is a very wearisome one, but a little love and thought can do much to make life there happy, and we all know that happiness is a great asset in the building up of one's health.

CLANDEBOYE.—Efficient preparations are being made for a splendid Red Cross social on the lawn of George L. Shipley, Carlisle, on the evening of Wednesday, June 26. The program will be furnished by London talent and the Vanneck orchestra. A bazaar will be held and a tea booth installed on the grounds.

NORTH EKFRID.—An entertainment held here in aid of the Red Cross and Ladies' Aid of North Ekfrid Church was a decided success in every respect. The splendid weather and excellent program made the entertainment enjoyable to all. That Edythe Nash Hourd, reader of London, had made a decided hit was quite evident, as the humorous selections which she gave without stint brought loud applause and laughter. Duets given by Olive Black and Earl Edwards, Appin, were also highly appreciated. The Lombardo Concert Company of London furnished an unlimited supply or orchestral music, as well as duets and solos. Rev. Mr. McCulloch, pastor of the church, very ably filled the chair. The proceeds of the evening were $126, of which $12 was given to the Ladies' Aid, $32 to the Red Cross (which was raised by the sale of a silk quilt, presented by Miss Maud Powers), and $82 to the treasury of the church.

WIARTON.—Mrs. Hambly, Mrs. Perkins, Miss Wilkinson and Miss Ritchie of Clavering attended the North Grey district meeting of the Women's Institute, held in Owen Sound this week. The amount of patriotic work done by the different institutes this year is enormous. There were 1,706 pairs of socks knit during the year, besides other work done.

The quarterly meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Paul's Church was held at the home of Mrs. James Paterson, Sen., Wednesday evening, June 12. Mrs. J. F. Paterson spoke most interestingly on "The Romance of the Early Missions to the Indians and Equimau." The heroic efforts of these missionaries have now been rewarded, as the Indians now have reached a very fair state of civilization, and numbers of the young men have enlisted during the present war. Mrs. Paterson spoke also on the beginning of the French evangelization in Canada. The meeting was largely attended.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

19. Verses 15-16.—What are the conditions for being a Christian, what its benefits, and what comes to those who reject the gospel message?

20. Verses 17-18.—Why did God give to the first Christian preachers miraculous power, and why is that power not given today?

21. Verses 19-20.—How long a time intervened between Christ's resurrection and His ascension, and what are the particulars of the ascension?

Golden Text.—Now hath Christ been raised from the dead.—I Cor. xv.-20.

THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST PROVES HIS CLAIM TO BE TRUE.

The Christian church has made much of the resurrection of Jesus Christ. It was one of the chief themes in the preaching of the apostles, and especially of the Apostle Paul. The resurrection of Christ from the dead has been aptly called the keystone of the Christian arch. If the resurrection is true, everything else in connection with the gospel story must be true; whereas if the resurrection were not true all the rest would prove to be false. This, in substance, has been the reasoning of the Christian church. At any rate, we have such absolute proof that the gospel of Christ is divine, that we can risk our all upon its glorious teaching concerning time and eternity, and all may safely enlist under His banner.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL BOX

"Tommy Waac's" Feet.

Dear Miss Grey,—I always read your column with great interest, and on several occasions I have noticed a request being made to you for a stocking-foot pattern, so now I am coming to you for the first time with a similar request. Thanking you in advance, I remain, yours sincerely, TOMMY WAAC.

Ans.—It is naught but a pleasure to comply with "Tommy Waac's" request. May your economy never grow less, "Tommy."

After "Blondy's" Patterns.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw in June 12th paper where one named "Blondy" had some crochet patterns for anyone who would like them. I would like some, as I am fond of crocheting. Will she want patterns returned? OLLIE.

Ans.—I have "Ollie's" envelope, so will "Blondy" please send me the patterns and say if she wants them returned?

Eager to Join.

Dear Miss Grey,—Could you please tell me how old it is necessary to be in order to join the Woman's Battalion being recruited in London? Also where to apply. Thanking you in advance, I remain, ONE EAGER TO JOIN.

Ans.—Since penning the above you will have noticed the article appearing on this page in the issue of Tuesday, June 18, and which, I think, answered your queries fairly well.

Who Is My Neighbor?

Dear Miss Grey, — Having noticed "S. E. B.'s" letter in the Mail-Box page, I am writing to ask you to kindly send me her soldier-cousin's address. Not having a brother to give to the war, I would be pleased to send some parcels to this soldier, and it would also afford me pleasure to send a few lines to "S. E. B." herself, if I may have her address. This thought often comes to me: "Who is my neighbor?" Not merely those who live next door, but everyone to whom we can lend a helping hand or pass on a word of cheer. Now I will close, hoping to receive a reply soon. CLOVER LEAF.

Ans.—The addresses have been received and forwarded, as desired, to this very good Samaritan.

Your daintiest blouse, Madame, wash it this way

Take, say a gallon of hot water, but not hotter than the hands can be placed in with comfort. Drop in 3 tablespoons of LUX and whisk into a lather. Stir the blouse about in the solution for a few minutes, then squeeze it well in the hands. Rinse in two or three relays of tepid water and hang to dry.

LUX

What's the result? A shining, shimmery, purely-clean garment with the color and life of newness—unshrunken and unfaded. Silk, crepe-de-chine, or any sheer fabric is cleansed with perfect safety.

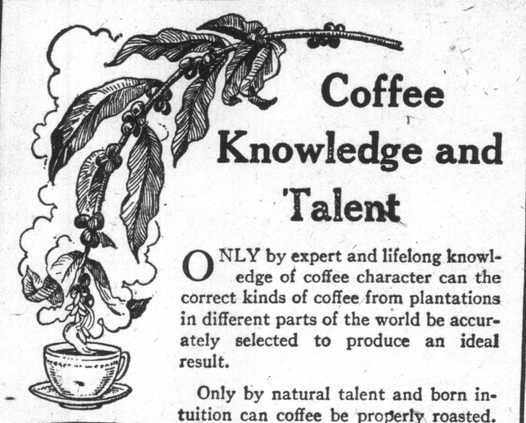

You see, LUX is the purest essence of soap and cannot harm anything that pure water may touch, and it makes the hardest water as soft as summer rain. It won't shrink woollens.

Furnace Management

Ease of the Sunshine

Feeding the furnace;
—shaking down the ashes,
—removing the ashes,
—keeping the health-giving water pan filled,
—fixing the drafts for the night,

—those are the five major operations in managing a furnace—and what a trial of the temper and destruction of your raiment any one of them may be.

If your furnace is the famous McClary Sunshine these operations will cause you little more trouble or effort than winding up the clock.

The feed door of the Sunshine is big—you don't hit the side and damage your shovel and temper and scatter coal and naughty words all over the basement.

You don't shake the Sunshine grates, you merely rock them a few times, —and the ashes drop from the perpendicular fire-box walls and grates and are guided into the big ash pan, —and you lift the ash pan out with handles that are always cool.

—No shovelling of ashes—no ashdust on your clothes or in your hair or in the house.

And at night, without going down to the basement, you drop the damper and open the check with pulls that always work.

And the water pan is right above the fuel door—very accessible—in plain view, where you can't forget it.

Sunshine furnace management is not even exercise.

Engineering Service Free. McClary's own heating engineers are at your service when you buy a Sunshine Furnace, to give you free expert advice on your home-heating requirements. Write to the nearest McClary Branch and ask for particulars about this service. A booklet, "Comfort in the Home," makes clear all the things you want to know about furnaces, and it is sent free on request.

WHITNEY'S JOHREN GOES TO POST TODAY BIG FAVORITE

Seven Best of American Three-Year-Olds Carded to Start in the Latonia Derby—Heavy Track Will Benefit Exterminator.

LATONIA, June 21.—Seven 3-year-olds, reputed to be trained to the minute for the grueling route of one mile and a half, are carded to start in the 36th running of the Latonia Derby tomorrow. According to the announcement tonight, the horses that are almost certain to face the barrier, their weights, owners, trainers and probable jockeys are:

Johren—Weight, 127; jockey, F. Robinson; owner, H. P. Whitney; trainer, A. Simons.

Exterminator—Weight, 124; jockey, W. Knapp; owner, W. S. Kilmer; trainer, W. McDaniels.

Free Cutter—Weight, 122; jockey, D. Connelly; owner, G. J. Long; trainer, P. Coyne.

American Eagle—Weight, 122; jockey, A. Johnson; owner, T. C. McDowell; trainer, G. Denny.

Aurum—Weight, 122; jockey, E. Sande; owner, J. Livingston; trainer, M. Goldblatt.

Hollinger—Weight, 122; jockey, L. Gentry; owner, D. Raymond; trainer, W. W. Moore.

Herald—Weight, 122; jockey, J. McCabe; owner, H. Hewitt; trainer, J. Smith.

From all indications tonight, Johren will rule favorite, for, in the opinion of horsemen, the winner of the Suburban and Belmont handicaps stands out as the most seasoned animal and one who is known to be able to go a long route with weight up.

With indications pointing to showers during the night, those who pinned their faith on Exterminator when he won the Kentucky Derby are claiming that his victory in that event will be repeated here if the track is heavy.

The western contingent is pinning its faith on Free Cutter, George Long's entry, and American Eagle, and both will have substantial backing when the horses go to the post. Jeff Livingston's Aurum is also conceded to be a serious contender. In a race recently at more than a mile, he displayed good speed and was going stronger at the finish than the remainder of his field.

Tom McDowell's American Eagle has also done well this spring, and the Kentucky horse followers are insisting that Kentucky will pull down the honors. Both Hollinger and Herald have raced well this spring, and both are conceded by experienced horsemen to be outside choices.

CANADA REPRESENTED BY RAYMOND'S HOLLINGER

Cincinnati, O., June 22.—The thirty-sixth running of the $15,000 Latonia Derby at the Latonia racetrack today can be termed an international contest, as two of the seven candidates represent eastern stables, one a Canadian owner, and the other four western stables. Johren and Exterminator are the eastern representatives, and the former, owned by Harry Payne Whitney, will probably rule favorite in the betting, because of past performances. Johren won both the Suburban Handicap and the Belmont Stakes.

Exterminator, owned by Willie Sharpe Kilmer, which won the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs over a muddy track, is the lone gelding in the derby field. The weather forecast this afternoon is for fair weather, and the general opinion of horsemen is that Exterminator's chances are not as good under fast-track conditions as over a wet track.

Hollinger, owned by D. Raymond of Montreal, which will represent Canada in the big race, is regarded by horsemen as having only an outside chance. Leaving Exterminator out of consideration on the theory that he is a mud-runner, it is the general idea of horsemen that Johren's most-to-be-feared opposition will come from George Long's Freecutter. Thomas C. McDowell's American Eagle, Jefferson Livingston's imported English-bred colt, Aurum, and H. H. Hewitt's Herald are considered by horsemen to have only an outside chance of winning the rich event.

MERKLE AND BURNS LEADING SLUGGERS

Little Change in Standing of Major Hitters.

Chicago, Ill., June 22.—Very little change has taken place among the leading batters of the National League during the past week, according to averages published today, including games of last Wednesday. Fred Merkle of Chicago continued at the head of the list with an average of .374. Max Carey of Pittsburg took the lead in stolen base honors, having pilfered 25. Omara of Brooklyn, Young of New York and Rousch of Cincinnati are in a triple tie for sacrifice honors, each being credited with 14. Chicago continued to lead in team batting, with a mark of .275.

Leading batters for 25 games or more: Merkle, Chicago, .374; J. C. Smith, Boston, .351; Daubert, Brooklyn, .344; Kauff, New York, .335; Groh, Cincinnati, .328; Holocher, Chicago, .327; Wickland, Boston, .327; Mann, Chicago, .316; Young, New York, .311; Chase, Cincinnati, .311.

Burns of Philadelphia made the best showing of the leading batters in the American League. He increased his lead among the players who have played in 25 or more games to .362. "Babe" Ruth added another circuit drive to his string and has a mark of eight home runs. Roger Pekinpaugh of New York has taken the lead among the sacrifice hitters with 15 and Sisler of St. Louis continues to lead in base stealing with 24 to his credit. New York leads in team hitting, with an average of .275. Leading batters for 25 or more games: Burns, Philadelphia, .362; Sisler, St. Louis, .341; Baker, New York, .340; Walker, Philadelphia, .335; Hooper, Boston, .324; Ruth, Boston, .321; McMullin, Chicago, .312; Pipp, New York, .311; Milan, Washington, .308; Speaker, Cleveland, .306.

BRONX HANDICAP GOES TO LEARY'S IMPORTED HORSE, SUNFLASH II.

New York, June 22.—D. J. Leary's imported colt Sunflash II., gave further evidence of his quality yesterday at Jamaica when he supplemented his victory in the Montague Handicap on Wednesday by winning the Bronx handicap at a mile and a sixteenth. Sunflash met two new candidates in Bayberry Candle, which was sold before the race, and carried the colors of Capt. Parr, and Hanovia. Both are well known racing mares, and the former, with only 118 pounds to shoulder, against 126 by Sunflash, was expected to give the imported colt a stiff battle. Bayberry Candle showed that she had retained all her speed by going to the front and setting a lively pace. It was not fast enough to extend Sunflash which waited on the mare to the bend and then moved swiftly by her. Bayberry Candle held on well in the stretch, but never had a chance against Sunflash, which won handily by a length and a half. Hanovia came through on the inside in time to take the place from Bayberry Candle.

A new winning owner was ushered in when Teddy Rousseau captured the first race from a field of two-year-olds. This is the second season on the turf for Walter J. Salmon, who owns Teddy Rousseau. He has spent money freely in order to establish a capable stable and his first victory was the most popular of the day.

First race, 5 furlongs, Teddy Rousseau, 107 (Ambrose), 7 to 1, 5 to 2, 6 to 5, won; Hohokus, 107 (Collins), 3 to 1, 8 to 5, second; Little Maudie, 109 (Parrington), 2 to 1, third. Time: 1:01 1-5. Alphonse Falls Out With Hazel and Wants a Wife

Mudville, France, June 1, 1918.

The Sporting Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Ed.,—As you have by this time noticed I am stationed at a new hole, which I have christened Mudville. It is not so muddy now as it used to be, in fact, most of the terrain around this joint is fairly clean, but Mudville I have christened it, and Mudville it remains. Shows you how eccentric this war makes a guy.

But on with the tale! I am in a predicament, Ed. Horrible though it may seem, Hazel has gone back on me. She heard I had written you about not stealing my girl and thinks I was alluding to someone else besides her. Well, to make a short story shorter, she has gone back on me. Says she has got a returned soldier to go around with and has no more use for Alf. To get even with her I want you to advertise for somebody to be my tootsie-wootsie till the war is over and after it is over we can get hitched. Do you get me? I want a wife by telegraph or telephone or anything, so long as I can put one over on Hazel.

Tell female applicants for the job of being my wife that it is a cinch. I won't want no waiting on except at meal times. Also tell them that I have no objection if they don't want to work. If I get a soft job when I get to Canada I will be content if my wife makes the beds, gets the meals, cleans the house, peels the potatoes, washes the offspring and little jobs like that. As for pocket money, I can give about $10 per month. Of course she will have to buy her clothes with this.

If you choose a spouse for me, Ed., get one nice and fat. Anything I hate is one like a rag, a bone and hank of hair, like Kipling's wife. Also tell my prospective mate that anything I hate is a girl with too much gab. Tell her if there is gabbing to do I will do it.

And say, old slacker, tell her that my looks are fairly good. They say that wife getting is a question of shooting the bull. If this is true you are the right guy on the right job. Of course I know that I am not a fine looker as movie actors go, but all the same tell her my good points don't stop at my physiog. If you are going to put in an ad have it something like this:

"Soldier fighting for his life in Mudhole, France, wants a mate. He has a ruddy complexion, nice black hair, nose somewhat Roman, nice manicured hands, only one false tooth, bright intellect, will not booze while in Ontario, twenty-eight years of age, feet slightly flat, but not so you would notice it, thirty-six round the chest, expansion four inches, good dresser, never wears anything but fifty cent ties, has a 1910 model Ford car, not much to look at at first, but wears well, takes a bath a t least once a week, has shaken hands with Duke Connaught and Sam Hughes, full of pep and dances the one-step."

Well, Ed, here's hoping you will do your bit by me and help me put it over on Hazel. Will send you an account of a ball game with the Yanks next time I write, but can't now as the writing paper is giving out.

Remember me to Cynthia Grey.

A FAN'S HISTORY OF THE WAR.

An aged, decrepid baseball fan beside the ancient River Shan,
Was telling a young Englishman a tale of years ago:
"My boy," he said, "the greatest game chronicled in the Hall of Fame
Took place ten years before you came into this world, you know.
The game was very nearly won before it scarcely had begun;
A guy they called William the Hun, was dishing up the slants,
As for the other baseball nine, they barely had sufficient time
To practice, and their thin red line was only saved by France.

Now, France took time to get wound up; his first ball pitched was hit by Krupp.
The enemy was five runs up before he steadied down,
A guy named John Bull came to bat. He was so big and coarse and fat
That Will the Hun was certain that John Bull would fan right out,
But John was made of more than mud and William roused his fighting blood,
He hit the ball an awful thud. It was a three-sack clout,
Belgium then stepped to the pan, but William said, "My good young man,
It was not part of my team's plan to play a bunch of mice."
He cursed Belgium an awful lot, but could not move the boy a jot,
Until the latter made a swat—a well-placed sacrifice.

When Hindenberg and Kaiser Bill came up to bat, to hit the pill,
They made a bold attempt to kill the ump, who seemed afraid,
But when the seventh inning came the umpire said, "I'll join this game.
And every one I've got I'll strain. I'll show of what I'm made.
My name is Wilson, and I stand for liberty throughout the land;
I'll show John Bull that I've got sand for Bill has got me sore."
With Turkey holding down first sack, Haig hit the sphere an awful whack;
It easily was a circuit crack and almost won the war.
Our boys had played an uphill game, and when the final inning came Lloyd George smashed that old pill again and got the winning run."

And so a wondering Englishman, beside the sacred River Shan,
Heard from an oldtime baseball fan how England beat the Hun.

American suffragettes want women to learn boxing. If the girls become proficient at the fistic art their husbands may expect to be initiated into the Order of the Naked Fist instead of that of the flat iron when they arrive home late o' nights.

RECORD ENTRY LIST FOR THE THISTLES' DOUBLES TOURNEY

Annual Two-Day Event Promises To Be Best Yet—Bowlers From Ottawa Will Compete — Final Arrangements Completed.

That the Scotch Doubles bowling tournament of the London Thistles, which commences next Wednesday morning will far exceed past records is evidenced by the number of entries in already from clubs that never before were represented.

Secretary H. F. Hartry last night announced that he has received two entries from Ottawa, two from Dunnville, two from Wiarton, four from Windsor, and that Skip Fairful, the noted bowler of Leamington, will also attend.

The bowlers from Ottawa are: J. Lambert Payne, W. J. McCaffery, R. R. Farrow and W. F. Shannon.

The fact that there are 20 greens at the disposal of the committee at the Thistle Club, makes this tourney almost certain to be over by Thursday evening. This means no delays waiting for greens, and eliminates one of the worst features about tournaments.

Chairman A. A. Langford and his committee held a final meeting last night when all details were looked into. Nothing is being overlooked, everything is ready for the big classic, and only rain will disrupt present calculations.

Two hundred dollars in prizes, exclusive of three handsome trophies, the Free Press, the Barnard and the Shea cups, comprise the attractions of the day. The events will be of fifteen ends each. Second rink prizes in the Free Press trophy event will be four pairs of silver-mounted lawn bowls, and second prize, two choice pierced silver flower baskets. Second prize in the Barnard trophy games will be two 8-inch octagon cut glass bowls of floral design. The winners will also get two bronze electric boudoir lamps. Two hot-point electric toasters and toast racks will be given to the runners-up for the Shea trophy, while third prizes are two pierced silver sandwich plates. Two hydro-electric irons will go to the fourth rink.

The winners last year were:

London Free Press Trophy — J. S. McDougall and W. Turnbull, London Rowing Club. Runners-up—W. S. McDonald and A. S. Rennie, Tillsonburg.

Barnard Trophy—W. W. Shannon and W. Hynd, London Rowing Club. Runners-up—F. A. Brown and A. E. Barbour, London Thistles.

Ed. Shea Trophy—W. Allen and W. A. McCutcheon, Hamilton. Runners-up—P. Silcox and Dr. R. D. Jarvis, London Elmwoods.

HORSE TRAINING IS "USEFUL" OCCUPATION

Ottawa, June 21.—Horse breeding and training, whether the horses be for pleasure or for working purposes, is useful occupation in the eyes of the law. This decision was reached by Magistrate Askwith in police court after hearing expert evidence in the trial of Frederick Hale, 1010 Bronson avenue, who was charged with not being engaged in some useful occupation.

Magistrate Askwith stated that after hearing the expert opinions expressed, he could come to no other conclusion than that horse training was a useful occupation and dismissed the case.

COUNTER-ATTACK CARRIES FOE BACK AT SOME POINTS ALONG THE PIAVE

Enemy, Exhausted By Exceptionally Heavy Losses After Five Fierce Attacks West of San Donna-Di-Piave, Forced to Retire

ROME DISPATCH SAYS ENEMY'S LOSSES EXCEED 120,000 MEN

PARIS, June 21.—The Austrian losses in their offensive on the Italian front exceed 120,000 men, according to a dispatch to La Liberte from Rome, quoting the correspondent of the Corriere d'Italia.

FOE TO STRIKE AGAIN.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, June 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is considered only a question of a brief lapse of time before the Austrians will begin another offensive. It is said that this time they probably will concentrate their efforts, instead of scattering them as they did a week ago, when they followed the German plan of attempting to make a big general offensive over a long line before revealing their point of attack.

It is thought that the plan was even dictated by General Ludendorff, the German commander, who did not realize that the Austrians were too weak to make such an attempt, lacking as they were not only in artillery, but general officers and officers of lower grades.

The reported presence of Emperor Charles on the Italian front is considered one of the signs leading to the belief that the Austrians will feel the necessity of renewing their attack.

COUNTER OFFENSIVE BEATS FOE ALL WAYS.

ROME, June 21.—A semi-official note issued tonight concerning the Austrian offensive says:

"The Italian counter-offensive is absolutely superior to the enemy offensive. Yesterday in the Montello region and on the Treviso-San Donna di Piave road, and toward the Zenson bend, the Italians reduced by a good half the ground won by the enemy in his grand attack on the preceding day.

"Statements of prisoners and the number of dead counted on the field show that the Austrians lost heavily in the day's fighting.

"The attack at Losson was carried out by a fresh brigade composed of the 15th and 32nd Schuetzen Corps and special detachments. The Italian counter-preparation caught the enemy while assembling and threw him into disorder. Nevertheless, his attack was delivered, and thanks to the artillery support a strong portion got a footing on the edge o tthe Losson, but later was enveloped by a rapid and brisk counter-attack. Eighty men were captured and the remainder were killed or wounded.

"At Cortellazzo the check was equally costly for the Austrians. Bluejackets and bersaglieri succeeded by a surprise attack in breaking into the third line, sowing death and terror among the defenders and capturing 200 prisoners. The dash enabled the Italians to widen their positions."

30 AUSTRIAN DIVISIONS HAVE RECEIVED MAULING

ROME, June 21.—"The Austrian plan becomes plainer and plainer," says a semi-official note issued today. "The plan is to obtain, no matter at what price, command of the Montello, whence they can hurl forward the divisions accumulated on the left bank of the Piave. Along the Montebelluno-Susagana railroad the battle raged all of yesterday afternoon and night, and the short section of the track which the Austrians captured was covered with the bodies of their dead. Attacks follow one another methodically, but slowly, on account of the difficult terrain, and the continually changing lines, which prevent both sides from using their artillery to the full effect. The fine weather is favorable to air operations, and the Italian airplanes continue to destroy bridges and to direct their machine guns at a low altitude on the enemy troops.

"A lull that probably is only momentary continues in the mountain zone.

"At present more than 40 enemy divisions are engaged in the battle line, and of these 30 already have suffered havily."

ALLIES ARE MASTERS IN ITALIAN THEATRE.

LONDON, June 21.—The barrier the Italians and their allies raised along the great battle area from the Asiago plateau to the sea remains insuperable to the Austrians.

The operations by which the enemy had hoped to press his way from the mountain peaks in the Alps and across the Piave River to the plains of Venetia thus far have met with almost signal failure. Where the enemy was able in the mountains to press back slightly the Allied defenders of the front in the first day of their offensive, the ground has been regained. Where he crossed the Piave River and apparently was threatening the plains with invasion, he now is being sorely harassed at every point by the Italians.

Have the Upper Hand.

The battle is not a stalemate. In the mountains the Allies seemingly have the upper hand. Along the Piave River the Italians, notwithstanding tremendous thrusts by the enemy here and there, apparently are gaining the mastery.

All along the Piave battles of great violence are in progress, with the invaders meeting resistance upon which they had not counted and being steadily pressed back toward the western bank of the now turbulent river, which has swept away many of their pontoon bridges in the centre of the line, leaving them in a rather precarious predicament.

Fresh rains have forced the river well out of its banks, and the question of sending Austrian reinforcements to the western side or conveying food and military supplies to the men already on the border of the plains has become a critical one.

Repulsed on Montello.

Hoping to alleviate the situation the Austrians again have delivered attacks on the Montello plateau, the keystone to the plains, but like previous thrusts they met with repulse. Between the Treviso railway bridge and the Zenson loop the Italians have pressed back the enemy closer toward the Piave, while at Losson, near the Fossetta Canal, enemy attacks were repulsed. Further down the stream a short distance from where it empties into the Adriatic Sea the Italians in a daring assault north of Cortellazzo pierced the enemy front, took 200 men prisoner and firmly held their ground against a counter-attack.

In the violent air fighting that is in progress all along the front the Allied airmen are performing daring feats. American aviators have joined in the fray. Among the enterprises carried out by them has been the bombing of pontoon bridges thrown by the enemy across the Piave.

Empty stomachs continue to play an important role both with the Austro-Hungarian armies and the people inside the dual monarchy. Prisoners taken by the Italians are noticeably ill-fed, and troublous times prevail in cities and towns in the empire and kingdom owing to the lack of food.

ARGUES AGAINST DELAY

Declares New British Engine Is Capable of Turning the Trick.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Establishment of an air route to Europe from the United States, in order to bring the full force of American effort in the air to bear against Germany, has been decided upon as a definite project by the British Air Council, the new organization in which the British air service has been merged. This was disclosed today by Major-General William Brancker, controller of equipment on the council, who is in Washington to discuss this and other projectiles relating to air warfare with American officials.

Plans for an initial flight across the Atlantic in August, September or October of this year are already well advanced. American co-operation is sought, and General Brancker hopes that the t machine to make the crossing carry both British and American pilots. At least three pilots regarded as qualified for the trip are now here, and several types of machines produced in England have ample capacity for the trip.

Arrangements Made.

The attitude of the American Government towards the project has not been disclosed. Under any consideration, a seaplane, carrying at least 750 horsepower, will be the first craft to attempt the flight. Until arrangements have been made for the touching of airplanes at the Azores en route, which is a difficult matter, owing to the rugged contour of the islands, landing there for re-fueling will have to be made in the harbor. As the trip is now projected it would start from British soil in Newfoundland, touch at the Azores and again in Portugal and conclude in Ireland, probably to be resumed after overhauling, to France. While this is not the shortest route, it is said to offer better weather and better opportunity to forecast the weather in advance. There already have conferences with American meteorological experts in this regard.

With Minimum Loss.

The governing factors of the flight were given by the British officer as engine reliability, navigation, and weather forecasts. The probable loss of machines en route could be minimized, he believed, when the weather forecasts had been fully worked out, and flights were started when it was well established that good weather would prevail. The use of weight carrying machines such as night bombers is essential, as the carrying capacity later to be devoted to hauling high explosives to German centres selected for destruction would go into extra fuel during the trip.

The general disclosed the fact that the British air council has definitely decided upon transatlantic aircraft flights in order to find a route for the movement of American-made aircraft to the front. His mission in this city has to do with the arranging for the pioneer flight in which it is hoped the United States Government will co-operate.

Initial Flight in Autumn.

It is expected that the initial flight will be made this autumn in a machine of British make, probably a seaboat starting from Newfoundland and touching at the Azores and Portugal before arriving in Ireland. It has been estimated the trip can be made in 40 hours of flying. Plans under consideration call for crews of four men, composed of an engineer, a relief of pilots and a navigation officer.

The new British high-power Rolls-Royce engine has fully demonstrated its reliability. Either a seaboat or a large airplane equipped with two of these 375 horsepower engines, the general said, would have ample engine power to make the trip, probably at an average altitude of 5,000 feet.

Sir Thomas White Makes Arrangements With Capital Issues Board.

THE EXCHANGE SITUATION

Greater Individual Economy Must Be Observed to Remedy Conditions.

OTTAWA, June 21.—Sir Thomas White, on his return from Washington, expresses himself as being well satisfied with the result of his trip to the American capital. The minister announced that he had been able to make certain financial arrangements which will have a helpful effect.

He said:

"The immediate object of my visit to Washington was to confer with the capital issues board there regarding the general question of permitting the issue and sale of Canadian securities in the United States. The board has before it several Canadian applications and desired to discuss with me the method of procedure and the principles which should be followed in giving them consideration. Upon the invitation of the chairman, Hon. Mr. Hamlin, I addressed the board upon our financial and commercial position and the state of our exchange and international trade with the United States.

Will Admit Certain Issues.

"The board was most courteous and appreciative of the desirability as a partial corrective to exchange, of permitting, so far as may be compatible with the national interests of the United States, the issue of Canadian securities in their markets, and I regard our conference as having served a most useful purpose. As a matter of procedure, the board will require that all Caadian issues before being considered by them shall be approved as to issue in Canada by the Canadian minister of finance. This preliminary having been complied with, the board will then determine, upon their individual merits applications for permission to issue in the United States. These applications must be made and specified before the American capital issues board by the party interested or their representatives. They will not be made or recommended for future consideration by Dominion authorities if for obvious reasons it would be undesirable.

The Exchange Situation.

"While in Washington I resumed with the American and British officials our deferred discussion about the exchange rates between Canada and the United States, which for some time past has been quite unfavorable to Canada. The whole exchange problem of the Allies, which is world-wide in its scope is continuously under study and consideration and is one of the most intricate and anxious questions of the financial side of the war. All the belligerent nations are having very serious difficulties with exchange. That of the enemy has practically broken down. Great Britain's exchange with America is at a discount of over 2 per cent. Both British and American exchange with neutral countries is at a discount representing as high as 30 per cent.

"In Spain, for example, where large supplies are bought for the American army in France, the United States dollar is worth only seventy cents. The reason for this discount on the American dollar is precisely the same as that for the decline in the American market of our dollar, namely, the credits given Great Britain and the other European Allies, whereby they make purchases in the United States and Canada of foodstuffs, ammunitions and other supplies.

Canada Compares Well.

"Without these credits they could not purchase, but the finding of the purchase money in Canada and the United States deprives both countries for exchange purposes of the value of their trade balance with the rest of the world. In this general condition of depressed exchange the Canadian condition is not regarded as onerous. On the contrary it is thought to be exceptionally favorable in comparison with that of the other Allies. It is recognized that the premium upon New York funds is an impediment to international trade, but considerations of trade alone are not regarded as sufficiently important in view of more pressing war-time necessities to warrant specific sterling or dollar credits merely for the purpose of equalizing or stabilizing our exchange. The war has made international trade at least in its purely commercial aspect, of wholly secondary importance.

"In view of this we must, like the other Allies, expect irregularities and fluctuations of exchange and meet them as best we may. While in Washington and New York I was able to make certain financial arrangements which will, I think, have a helpful effect. These will disclose themselves later. At present they cannot be made public."

Decline in Exports.

Speaking of the causes for the decline in our exchange, the minister said that conditions have been aggravated by the marked falling in our exports of manufactured and agricultural products during the months of April and May. "As to the former," he said, "I look for a restoration of the previous figures by reason of orders from munitions which have been already obtained from the United States. As for the latter the falling off seems to be partly due to the fact that there was less grain to come out this year than last and partly to the diversion of shipping to the service of carrying American troops who in ever-increasing numbers are going forward to the battle front. There is another factor which is, I think, of considerable importance. There is no private buying in Canada now by British business houses. All the purchasing is now by the British Government, and is confined to absolute necessities, such as munitions, foodstuffs and other indispensable military requirements. Britain is not importing today anything she can do without. I look upon the drop in our exports as of a temporary character provided we have this year the bountiful harvest which we expect.

May Curtail Some Industries.

"As to the remedial measures which we can adopt to assist our exchange, I urge again the homely but unwelcome admonition to individual economy. If we were not as a people so wasteful of our money we should have little difficulty with our exchange. We can also extend our embargo upon imports and limit the operation of our non-essential industries if this becomes imperative. This latter would save coal and other raw material, which we now import, and add to our industrial and military power.

"It has been suggested that a large Dominion loan in New York would remove our exchange difficulties. So it would, but seriously, owing to the expense of our credit, as interest and commission rates are abnormally high for all outside securities. Any such loan by the Dominion would react unfavorably upon our Victory Loan issues, and the rate of interest which we shall have to pay upon them, it would, moreover, be only a palliative and would promote and facilitate further unnecessary importations. The exchange rate at present, while a detriment to essential international trade, is also a brake upon extravagance. For the present, at least, I do not feel that we should be justified in pledging the Dominion's credit abroad at an exorbitantly high rate of interest, and the further cost of abnormal brokerage charges to balance international accounts, which we can materially help to balance by reducing our consumption of things which we like to have, but which we do not need."

Poor tea that can be sold at a low price is most extravagant in use. A little good tea, like Salada, makes many more cups, hence its real economy.

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE ASKING GARAGES TO OBSERVE THE LAW

Druggists and Ice Cream Vendors May Be Prosecuted.

CHATHAM, June 21.—The local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance has issued a request to the garages, the drug stores and the ice cream parlors to observe the terms of the Lord's Day act. It is alleged that the act is being violated. The president of the organization, D. R. Farquharson, is securing copies of the act, which will be distributed, and it is expected that prosecution will follow violation.

William Brown, alleged to have stolen an automobile and damaged it, was today before Magistrate Arnold after a remand and he paid the cost of repairs, amounting to about $40 and in addition paid $11 costs. He was then allowed to go on suspended sentence.

The annual convention of the Poster Advertising Association of Canada is being held here today and tomorrow. Several matters of importance to the organization are being discussed. Tomorrow the organization will take a trip down the Thames on the Ossifrage and the election of officers will be held.

Alan Allen, a youth in the Central school, shows very special ability in art. He worked in an ice cream parlor so that he could keep in school and he won the art medal this year. He has completed a painting of a study, desks, with books, etc., and this he has presented to his alma mater. He is continuing his study now with A. M. Fleming, a local artist of considerable repute, and friends predict that the lad will make rapid progress.

At the annual meeting of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. John Perkins was re-elected as president for the eighth consecutive year. The meeting was well attended, and the annual reports showed that there had been steady progress during the past year. A memorial service for the late Mrs. J. P. McKellar was held during the afternoon. Other officers in the organization were: Hon. president, Mrs. Wilson; vice-president, Mrs. T. King; recording secretary, Mrs. J. G. Blakely; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Hall, and treasurer, Mrs. Cocker.

DR. HILL WILL NOT REMAIN IN LONDON; SEEKS LARGER FIELD

Resignation of Health Officer Accepted by "U" Governors.

The board of governors of the Western University met on Friday afternoon for the purpose of considering the resignation of Capt. Dr. H. W. Hill, director of the Institute of Public Health. By special request Capt. Hill attended the meeting, the governors desiring, if possible, to prevail upon him to remain. It was with great reluctance the board agreed to accept the resignation after he stated that he wished to stand by his decision, and explained that his field of service will be larger as head of the Minnesota Public Health Association than it has been here. It is probable he will also do military work on his return to his former work in the States, and with which, indeed, he has never entirely severd his connection. Coupled with expressions of regret on the part of the governors were many of deepest appreciation of the work he has done here and good wishes for his future.

Owing to the resignation of Dr. Hill considerable rearrangement has been necessitated of the staff of the Institute of Public Health to take care of the work until a new director is appointed.

A. J. Slack, head of the chemical department, will be temporarily acting director, and Dr. Luney, head of the pathological department is being given more assistance. It is intended to strengthen all the departments.

Capt. Hill's resignation as director of the Institute of Public Health takes effect the end of this month, but it is understood he will take a well-earned holiday before assuming his new responsibilities.

President Braithwaite of the Western University came up from his summer home near Toronto for the meeting yesterday.

ENGINEERS ARE TO BE SHOWN BEST METHODS OF CONSERVING FUEL

Estimate Is That Car In Five Is Being Wasted.

Chairman George Moll of the stationary engineers committee, having in hand the arrangements for the big convention to be held in Hyman Hall here next week, on Friday asked the board of control for permission to string a banner across the street. He was given the necessary permission. Mayor C. R. Somerville was also asked to deliver an address of welcome, on behalf of the city, to the engineers at the opening session on Tuesday. He has agreed.

One of the interesting exhibits to be shown at Hyman Hall will be one dealing with fuel-saving in making steam. This is timely, on account of the shortage of fuel and the appeal to conserve. The exhibit will offer various suggestions as to how fuel may be conserved. There will be demonstrators on hand to show how the various devices will effect a fuel saving. It is estimated that one car of coal in five is wasted through inefficiency, and it has been suggested that those who cannot show that they will employ fuel effectively should be the ones to do without it if some industries are to be cut off.

NO VOLUNTEERS AGAIN

Not a single volnuteer was accepted at the local mobilization centre Friday. Eight apprehended men and six defaulters under the military service act appeared before the medical board. Nine of the draftees, who failed to report when ordered, were placed in Category A-2, one in Category B-2, one in C, and three in Category E. After being boarded they were sent to the W. O. R. for service.

WOULD-BE "WAACS" OF LONDON MARCH IN FIRST PARADE

Section Goes With St. John Nurses to Motor Course.

HAVE LOTS TO LEARN

Requirements of Actual Service in France Make It Imperative.

Learning to drive a motor vehicle isn't the simple thing for the girls who are taking up this important branch of knowledge with a view to turning it to account for military service, as it is for a number of car owners. The young women who Thursday evening attended the initial meeting of a class in motor driving at the Ford plant, discovered that it was acquiring the names and uses of queer-looking pieces of machinery, which, assembled, make up a motor engine.

The class has been arranged by Mrs. J. F. Thomson, superintendent of No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Association, and includes not only members of the division, but a platoon of the first London section of the women's battalion in London. The first route march of No. 4 Nursing Division with the battalion section took place Thursday evening to the Ford plant, where a lecture and demonstration on the automobile was given by one of the mechanics of the company.

Must Know It All.

The girl who expected to hop right into a car and be driving it round the block herself before the evening was over was due for a considerable amount of enlightenment. That is all very well, according to a member of the Ford Company, for the young woman who expects to stay at home and motor for pleasure, with garages at her beck and call. But over in France it would be quite another story, even with a plentiful distribution of repair shops. The motor driver over there must not only be able to steer straight and keep the car on the road, but to make emergency repairs and tell in short order exactly what is wrong with the internal workings of the machine by the way it chugs. Valuable lives may depend upon the thoroughness of her knowledge in this respect.

Members of the women's battalion section were delighted with the first night class, though their wonder has grown to mammoth proportions in regard to all the queer things with queer names that masquerade as a motor car.

Strong for First Aid.

The motor class constitutes the first step in the direction of preparedness for overseas service for the section. Plain cooking is a branch called for, and also clerical work. Proficiency in clerical work has already been achieved by the first section formed. One leading spirit in the section who is just completing her course in first aid, takes the view that this is indispensable though it is not called for in the syllabus sent down by Major Cameron of the Winnipeg Women's Battalion.

A second section has been raised in the city, and there are enough applications in to form almost a third.

Arrangements will be made in the near future for the physical training and military drill. A prominent local military man, interviewed on the subject, states that he will be only too glad to help the good cause by arranging for the instruction.

2. Is a man born in Ireland exempt now? I refer to the new treaty, as announced in your edition of Saturday, the 15th inst.

A.—1. The draft treaty between Canada and the United States makes, with some exceptions, the citizens of either country residing in the other country liable for military service.

2. A man residing in Canada, who was born in Ireland, and has never become a citizen by naturalization of any other country, is liable for service along with all other British subjects under the M. S. A.

A man born in Ireland, and not a naturalized American, residing in the United States, will be exempt for the time being, but will probably be liable to draft if the draft law is put into force in Ireland.

INQUIRER: Q.—1. Is a woman entitled to patriotic money when her husband was ordered to report on January 10, 1918, and has been married since July, 1917? If so, how much should she be allowed per month, and to whom can one apply?
2. Can a woman who has one child and whose husband is now overseas, claim any money from the Government for her child?

A.—1. Yes. If there are no children the wife gets $5 per month; if there are children the wife gets $10, and $3 additional for each child. Apply to the patriotic fund office in your county or town.

2. No. She can claim separation allowance of $25 per month for herself, but nothing extra for children.

M. E. S.: Q.—Do men and women over 60 years of age have to register?

A.—Yes. National registration includes every resident of Canada over 16 years of age.

JACK: Q.—1. A man who has taken out first papers in the United States is examined on crossing the lines and placed in E, but received no papers. What steps should he take to get papers?
2. Said man has no birth certificate. Would age on naturalization papers answer?

A.—1. If he wishes to get a medical history sheet showing that he is in E, let his write to the deputy registrar, Royal Bank Building, London, Ont. If he can prove that he is not a British subject, he is not liable to the act here, and would then only need to carry proof of his United States citizenship.

2. If he is a British subject, and born earlier than 1883, or is not yet 19, a birth certificate would then be needed. Age on naturalization papers should suffice, though a birth certificate would be better.

F. S. F.: Q.—I enlisted in the W. O. R., and was discharged after one day. Am I entitled to a badge to show that I was discharged?

A.—You can apply for a war service badge, Class D, though they are not being issued just now. Write Major C. O. Fairbank, Wolseley Barracks, London, Ont.

A. C. Q.—I was born in England and came out here in 1914. Shall I have to send to England for my birth certificate, or will my military paper clear me, as I am in category E.

A.—You need no birth certificates. Those who have exemption papers need nothing else.

E. P. Q.—What is the latest ruling re draftees born of alien enemy parentage? Will they be required to go overseas?

A.—Draftees who are British subjects by birth, but of enemy alien parentage on the paternal side, will be transferred to forestry or railway construction depots and will proceed overseas, according to the official announcement. Nothing is said in the announcement regarding those of enemy alien parentage on the maternal side, and it may therefore be presumed that they are to be treated as is any other draftee.

W. E. M. Q.—1. I am 21 years of age, and reported for service May 30. I was placed in category D, and given a pass for one month, then to be re-examined. Since then I received an exemption card exempting me until my services are required. Will I report on June 30 or wait until ordered to do so?
2. Will I have to register on June 22?

A.—1. Write to your O. C., informing him that you have received an exemption certificate, and asking if it is necessary for you to report June 30.
2. It would be advisable.

S. H. Q.—1. I am a farmer, 48 years old. Have I got to get a birth certificate and carry it?
2. Can I be fined for not doing so, or can I be put into khaki?
3. My birth was never registered in the township books, so where would I get my certificate?

A.—1. If you appear to be, or might reasonably be suspected to be under 36 years of age, you must carry it.
2. Both.
3. Get a certificate of age signed by two reputable citizens of the community in which you live, and having knowledge of the fact.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN LAWSUIT OVER DEAL IN POTATOES

Mount Brydges Man Claims $101 Owing On Shipment.

Judgment was reserved by Judge Macbeth yesterday in the cases of Pierce vs. George and Webb vs. Reason. The cases were tried at a resumed sitting of the county court.

In the case of Pierce vs. George the plaintiff, Thomas Pierce, a resident of Mount Brydges, sued Joseph George of Belle River for $101.10, as the balance due on a carload of potatoes. The defendant claimed the shipment of 400 bags of potatoes was 26 short when it reached him at Belle River. The plaintiff claimed that the carload of potatoes was shipped to the defendant from Pictou, N. S., under instructions from Pierce. The plaintiff sued for the total amount, representing the 400 bags, as he stated he was charged with that number.

In the case of Webb vs. Reason, the plaintiff, Thomas Webb, sued for $485, claimed due him for wages and the cost of maintaining his home for a number of months. The plaintiff claimed that under an agreement with the defendant, Albert Reason, that he was to be provided with all the necessaries incident to living.

The defendant entered a counterclaim for $385, claiming farm produce had been wrongfully appropriated by the plaintiff to his own use. Judgment was reserved.

"The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the rheumatism left me.

"I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-tives,' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism."

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A Small Bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girl! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

NATURE'S FUNNIEST MIX-UP

The Moropus, Strangest Beast of All Times, Is Part Horse, Camel, Giraffe and Rhinoceros.

The Moropus Is a Historic Contradiction of Science's Belief That Horns and Hoofs Belonged Only to Vegetarian Animals and Claws to Flesh Eaters.

WHEN you visit the American Museum of Natural History in New York city, you will see the moropus, which naturalists have classified as one of the strangest beasts of all times. When this animal was created nature must have been napping, for, evidently, she made a great mistake and mixed up a horse, a rhinoceros, a camel and a giraffe and obtained—a moropus. This weird creature has an enormous claw on each front foot and a smaller one on each hind foot. It is this feature which gives it claim to uniqueness; for by all the rules of the game it should have hoofs, not claws.

The large herbivorous animals of today possess hoofs; nearly all of their extinct predecessors were similarly outfitted. The feet of a vegetarian serve merely for locomotion, not for attacking other animals, tearing apart of food, or digging, the purposes for which other species are provided with claws. So general is the rule that only carnivores may have claws that for many years it was supposed to be a universal law of nature, and a century ago, Cuvier, the great French scientist, in laying down what is now known as his "Law of Correlation," stated that horns and hoofs distinguished only vegetarian animals. Claws belonged to flesh eaters, according to his law, and no animal which subsisted on a meat diet had hoofs.

This law of Cuvier's was accepted for decades. Recently the discovery of a remarkable fossil has disproved it. Scientists claim that in prehistoric days there was a grazing animal which had powerful claws instead of hoofs. The moropus, therefore, is a prehistoric contradiction of Cuvier's law.

When the first scattered bones of this animal and its fossil relatives were discovered in Europe, the teeth and skull parts were associated with an extinct ungulate somewhat on the order of the rhinoceros, the horse, or the tapir, while no less an authority than Cuvier himself identified the claws as pertaining to a giant ant eater—which, according to a writer in the Scientific American, is a reasonable enough guess.

"No entire skeletons," continues this authority, "have been found in Europe, so it was a long time before these contradictory parts were recognized as belonging to the same animal. Not until the Agate Spring fossil quarry in Nebraska was discovered was detailed information available about the creature. This quarry was opened and worked on a large scale by the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh, and there were obtained a number of more or less incomplete moropus skeletons, as well as many of the little pair-horned rhinoceros and the giant pig. Within the past few years, however, the Natural History Museum has been working this field and has unearthed 17 complete skeletons.

"It is now shown that the moropus was a distant relative of the three ungulates mentioned above. It has the size of the rhinoceros, with the same massive legs, though these parts are much longer than in the familiar horned beauty. The rounded back resembles that of the tapir, while the head and neck are those of the horse.

"The teeth and feet are distinctive; the former show beyond dispute that the animal browsed on vegetation, while the latter possess the claws already described. What use their owner made of these is still a puzzle. They could have been of little value in a fight, for the whole limb is too stiff and clumsy for good use in that direction. For the same reason they could have been of small consequence as a digging mechanism. It is suggested that they were designed to aid the animal in scraping away sand in dry river beds in the effort to make a waterhole at which he might quench his thirst. It is thought that the country where he lived was not abundantly supplied with drinking water in the summer."

To Kill or to Capture---Which Is the More Profitable?

IS it more profitable to aim at killing or capturing an opposing army? We very often hear, from the "attritionist" pens, of excellent progress which has been made in the work of "killing off the enemy." "If we can only get them to come up to the guns in this way," and so forth. The writers appear to be content with these tactics. An overwhelming desire for the capture of masses of Germans alive as prisoners is not apparent. Which is the better war aim? Which leads to the quickest and least costly result?

On the surface the policy of destroying the enemy by the infliction of irreparable losses, that is to say by slaughter, appears to be sound. The enemy is to be weakened absolutely and finally by killing off his fighting units, not relatively and temporarily by taking prisoners, who will presently return to be of service to their country, and meanwhile constitute a burden to the nation which has captured them.

"The fact is that the policy of destroying an enemy by process of slaughter is the oldest in the world," says a noted military authority. "It is also the most unsatisfactory. In the first place it is extremely slow of accomplishment, since with fairly-matched opponents it involves a superfluity of heavy fighting and consequent postponement of the issue. Secondly, it is extremely costly; the heavy fighting involves great losses on the victorious side, no less than on that of the vanquished. Thirdly, it cannot in practice be carried out to a satisfactory conclusion. The evidence of history is all to the effect that a policy of extermination never succeeds. A small community may perhaps be annihilated in warfare, but even this is very doubtful. The chances are that a proportion, however small, of the population will escape and survive. With a nation the prospects of conquering it by annihilation are infinitely less.

"Many conquerors, from Ashur-nasir-pal of Assyria to Timur, have employed the policy of general massacre without success. It is perfectly clear that the same peoples whom Ashur nasir-pal speaks of annihilating were fighting his successors as vigorously as ever. Attila and Timur massacred without restraint, but never succeeded in utterly destroying. In battle the same reasoning holds good. At Cannae, Hannibal's soldiers surrounded the Roman army and gave no quarter, but an appreciable portion of the Romans broke through and escaped.

"In modern times the extermination of an army by slaughter has been the rarest of occurrences. One of the worst instances was the destruction of Elphinstone's division in the passes east of Kabul by the Afghans in 1841, and even here there were some survivors.

"To conclude, the wearing down to absolute extinction of an enemy by a policy of slaughter is not practicable, and in any case stiffens the resistance and increases the losses of the victors. No scientific leader of modern times has followed it.

"On the other hand, except with uncivilized races, a policy of manoeuvre, aiming at the destruction of an enemy army as a fighting machine rather than as a human body, is that which has always attained the greatest measure of success. Without speaking of ancient warfare (though it affords abundant examples in support), Napoleon always estimated the completeness of a victory by the extent of his captures. 'No prisoners!' he proclaimed once after a hard-fought success. 'This battle will have no results.' When prisoners are taken by thousands and tens of thousands the indications are clear of weakened morale on the part of those who surrender.

"In modern times at least, and with civilized men, it is always easier to take captives than to kill, since the civilized man places a certain value upon his life, and is not disposed to throw it away unavailingly. Moreover, large captures of prisoners are far more demoralizing than heavy losses in killed and wounded. Men who stand up to heavy losses are not easily taken prisoner, and will retaliate heavily upon their adversaries before giving way. In all history the test of a great success has been the immensity of the captures. The policy of 'kill' was hardly ever followed before 1914, simply because of its impracticability."

SPECIAL Kind of WOOD Required for TEA CHESTS

THE total number of tea chests required for the Indian tea crop is estimated to be between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000. Of this number not more than 1,500,000 chests were, before the war, manufactured in the country. Patent chests are imported from Russia or Japan and the metal fittings required from England or America. Ordinary boxes are imported from Japan in large quantities. Hoop iron, nails and clips for fastening the patent chests also come from abroad.

It is now proposed to develop the manufacture of tea chests in India, and with this end in view factories using "three-ply" machinery will in all probability be established. The Indian munitions board handbook states in regard to this:

"Apart from the machinery used, which is almost entirely imported, the tea industry depends very largely on imported stores. The chief reason for this as regards chests was that exporters greatly preferred the patent chest, either of three-ply wood (as the Venesta and Acme chests) or of metal (as the Metallite chests), because these chests weighed less, were more easily closed, and would hold more tea. With high freights the advantage of a light box is obvious. The big Russian buyers, in fact, would not expert except in patent chests and were in the habit of repacking in these in Calcutta.

"The timber required for tea chests is of a very special kind. It must contain no sap that would corrode the tea lead in which the tea is packed; must be free from any odor, as tea will take this up readily; and must be well seasoned, as the tea is usually hot when packed, and unseasoned wood will warp."

COUNTERFEIT COINS of More Than FACE VALUE

A SHIPPER of platinum from Venezuela recently sent to this country several counterfeit coins which were unusual in that, although counterfeit, they were worth about five times their face bullion value. They were included in a shipment of crude grain platinum and the consignee, believing that they were gold, as they seemed, carefully removed them from the lot of platinum and sold them to a gold refiner as gold bullion.

Later advices from South America informed him that the coins were platinum, plated with gold, and requested that he have them assayed to determine their real value. The agent hastened to the refiner, who admitted that he had had a hard time melting the metal and had himself discovered that it was platinum. Some settlement was made satisfactory to both the refiner and the agent, but the coins were destroyed and no analysis was ever made to determine the exact value of the metal.

In another shipment of grain platinum, received at a later date, the same shipper included a single counterfeit piece. The agent took this to a laboratory for analysis, but intrinsically the single piece was hardly worth the cost of the analysis from the purely commercial viewpoint; besides, the coin being an excellent piece of work in a fine state of preservation, it seemed a pity to destroy it. The gold plating is somewhat worn, disclosing the white metal beneath in spots. It is a counterfeit of an old Spanish piece bearing the date 1789 and the head of Charles IV. It weighs 6.435 grams and has a specific gravity of 18.9. This of course shows that if it is not gold, it must be platinum or at least an alloy consisting principally of platinum. The color of the metal after removing the gold plating, and its hardness, are sufficient additional proof of its character.

It seems that these old Spanish pieces pass current in Venezuela, at least for their bullion gold value, says a contributor to The Scientific American. Some unprincipled person in the long ago must have discovered that the native platinum, found to some extent in Venezuela and more plentifully in the neighboring Republic of Colombia, would if melted make a fair substitute for gold in coins, provided the color were properly disguised by a thin gold plating. Whether these counterfeits were made at or near the date they bear or at some much later period is unknown. They are probably a comparatively recent product—but they must have been made some time before our South American friends were able to market platinum at a price above that of gold, and that is long ago. Whenever they were made, we now have the curious condition of a counterfeit gold coin intrinsically worth several times its face value.

A Substitute for Leather Made of Cotton

A PROCESS for making a new kind of leather substitute has been developed which bids fair to overcome very largely the leather shortage, now so acute. A company has already been formed to manufacture the new product, which is made by compressing unwoven cotton, the fiber being in the form of batting or roving, as the slightly twisted fibers are called. A substance is obtained that is made of closely interlaced strands and so resembles leather structurally. It also has a toughness comparable with that of high-grade leather.

Machines have already been designed for making shoe laces, belts and straps, and only slight changes would be needed to turn out a product several feet wide. The cost of the new substitute is said to be only a fraction of that of leather, and it can be embossed and dyed to look like leather of any grain or hue. In making laces, strips of cotton roving are passed through a binding solution and then wound on to a drying reel. After this, they are fed between steel-roller dies, where compression is begun, and between circular reducing dies that bring them down to the size and shape of flat or round laces. Non-metallic tips are formed by compressing the ends still more. A curing and finishing bath produces a tough wearing surface. Belts are made in much the same manner as laces, except that the edges of the strips are folded over during the process to inclose re-enforcing threads imbedded in the material.

Marvellous FEAT of SEEING TRILLIONS of MILES

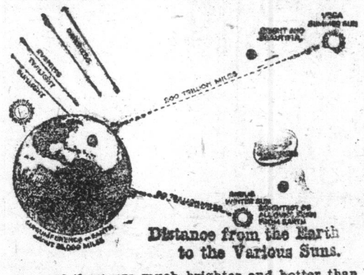

EVERY night that you watch the stars twinkling in the heavens you are doing what seems to be a superhuman feat—seeing a trillion miles! In fact, in one way you can see even trillions of miles. Just how you can extend your power of vision across this distance, so great that it is practically beyond the human mind to grasp, is explained as follows, in an illustrated account in Popular Science Monthly:

"We can see the sun, and he is more than 90,000,000 miles distant. Thus, when we gaze at him we are seeing many millions of miles.

"Now, most of the stars are suns. They shine and give out heat exactly as the sun does, only many of them are much brighter and hotter than he. The reason why they do not look as large and as brilliant, is because they are so very, very far away—trillions of miles, instead of millions. After astronomers had calculated the distance to the sun, they were able to estimate the distance to the other suns. Obviously, these distances to the stars are not accurate to a mile or indeed to many, many miles. However, it is absolutely certain that each one is at a distance of trillions and trillions of miles.

"A few of the stars are not a trillion of miles away. These comparatively nearer stars are known as 'planets,' and all of us have heard about or seen Venus, Jupiter, Mars or Saturn. In fact, there are quite a number of planets, big and little, and these vary in distances from millions to between two and three billions of miles. These planets shine with the light from our sun, reflecting that light to us. We see them with our eyes or our eyes assisted by a telescope. We are able, therefore, to see billions of miles. But, still more wonderful, we can see trillions of miles! According to astronomical science today, all of the suns of night are trillions of miles distant.

"Indeed, so far off are they that astronomers usually speak of their remoteness in terms of 'light-years,' that is, the time it takes the light from these stars to reach us. In the case of the nearest known sun of night, his is four and one-third light years."

Advantages of Pure NICKEL for Cooking UTENSILS

COOKING utensils of pure nickel are said to have many striking points in their favor. Pure solid nickel should not be confounded with the much inferior metals usually sold as nickel, which consist of steel, brass or German silver with a thin plating of nickel. This plating wears off in a short time, leaving manufactured articles unserviceable and worthless.

Pure nickel, on the other hand, does not rust nor oxidize, and consequently every danger of poisoning generally caused by verdigris is eliminated. Neither will the metal tarnish and, even though the surface be injured, there is no danger of corrosion resulting as in a plated article. Furthermore, the tedious and expensive plating operation is entirely abolished. This makes the metal particularly adaptable for use in the manufacture of cooking utensils or food handling equipment where the highest precautions must always be observed to avoid infection and poisoning. The advantage of perfect safety lasts as long as the article itself, whereas plated utensils must be discarded or replaced upon the appearance of the slightest break in the nickel protecting surface.

While not so good a heat conductor as aluminum, nickel utensils are made of a thinner material, which more than overcomes the difference, according to The Scientific American. Pure nickel has a melting point of about 2600 deg. Fahrenheit, whereas aluminum has one of about 1200 deg. There is not the same possibility of this metal being softened under constant use. The metal is also much more resistant to the action of the acids commonly found in food products, and is practically immune to alkaline attack. The fine silverlike appearance of pure nickel does not change in use, and the cleaning of these utensils is as easy and simple as possible, hot water or soda being quite sufficient.

Where Forty-Five Minutes Are a Day's Work

FORTY-FIVE minutes constitutes a day's work for the "sand hogs" who are burrowing tunnels for the extension of the dual subway system of New York city, a work that is now being done under almost unprecedented engineering conditions, according to a statement issued by the public service commission.

The work has reached a point where the engineers and "sand hogs," 110 feet under the surface of the river, have to work under an air pressure of 47 pounds to the square inch. This is the highest pressure ever encountered in compressed air tunnel work, with a single exception. The pressure is so great that the men may stay under it with safety only for a short time. They work in shifts of 45 minutes each, and only two of these periods are allowed in each 24 hours.

A pressure of 52 pounds was once reached for a very short time in the construction of a gas main tunnel under the East river. The law now limits the pressure to 50 pounds.

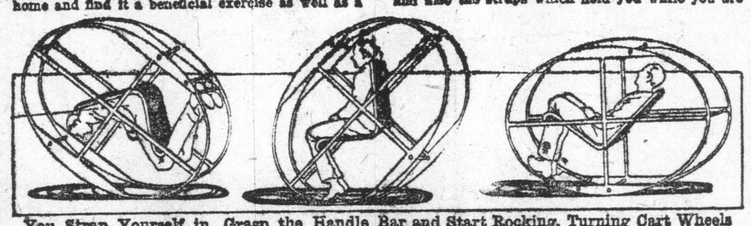

An air pressure of 47 pounds means that men are working under an increase over the normal pressure of almost 300 per cent. At 47 pounds per square inch the air exerts a pressure of about 6768 pounds per square foot, or more than three tons, a pressure so great that if it could be reduced to terms of a hurricane it would be sufficient to level New York city in an instant, or as one engineer expressed it, "to blow the Andes mountains into the Sahara desert."

The tallest New York buildings are planned with an idea of resisting a wind pressure of about 30 pounds a square foot, which, however, is far in excess of the pressure exerted by any gale which in the memory of man has blown hereabouts. This enormous air pressure is necessitated because of the depth at which the tunnel must be built. The channel "scoured out" between the two shores of the tunnel exceeds 100 feet at several points.

LOOPING the LOOP in a ROCKING CHAIR

PRACTICALLY every person who has witnessed the feat of "looping the loop" was satisfied with the thrill it afforded—to say nothing of attempting to do it. But suppose you could do this in complete safety within the walls of your own home and find it a beneficial exercise as well as a diversion. Then glance at the rocking-chair device shown in the accompanying illustration. Imagine yourself resting in it, strapped in, too, around chest and loins. It seems restful enough. But why the straps? Just for safety, for this chair aspires to demonstrate perpetual motion, once it gets started. As you rock, it gathers momentum until finally—hold your breath—it turns you over and over like a cart-wheel.

The skeleton framework of the chair, as described in Popular Science Monthly, is composed of two vertical, parallel elliptical hoops fastened together by a number of horizontal tie-bars. To these tie-bars the seat and back of the chair are attached, and also the straps which hold you while you are cart-wheeling. A bar at about shoulder-height acts as a hand-grasp.

You Strap Yourself in, Grasp the Handle Bar and Start Rocking, Turning Cart Wheels as Long as You Like. To Stop the Chair, Reverse Its Motion.

You seat yourself in the chair, strap yourself in, grasp the hand-bar and give yourself a swing in the usual manner. You start off gently enough, but your progress depends upon your own physical exertion. Before you become seasick, it is best to reverse the direction of the motion and bring the chair to normal position, letting it gradually subside.

How DOCTORS Decide Just WHEN to TRANSFUSE BLOOD

AT a recent meeting of the Academie des Sciences, Prof. Richet presented an account of a series of researches made by Dr. Saint-Girons upon the relation which exists in case of war wounds or grave loss of blood, between the density of the blood and the amount of the same which has been lost. According to the author, the density of blood diminishes as the loss of blood becomes greater. He finds a method by which a rapid estimate can be made of the density, all that is required being to take out a drop of blood and place it in a vessel containing two superposed solutions lying on the extreme limits of density, i.e., chloroform upon vaseline oil, and the drop will take up a position of equilibrium at the dividing line of the two liquids, its height depending on its density, and a good estimate of the density can thus readily be made.

This in turn gives a fair idea of the amount of blood lost by the person, as above stated, and this indication is of great value in deciding at just what moment an operation of transfusion of blood should take place. These results are said to be applicable to all cases of accident to an otherwise healthy person.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Your Body an Explosive Work Engine---Some Gland Effects

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

The glands associated so intimately with the emotions that their products poured into the blood stream may with some justice be called liquid nerves, differ definitely from the heart, the brain and the muscles. These latter structures are not especially engaged in the manufacture of such substances as the thyroid, thymus, parathyroid, adrenals, pituitary and the pineal glands make.

The thyroid stuff seems to make the tissue in general more sensitive to the action of air and oxygen. The adrenal solution appears to endow the blood with certain superlatively active oxygen. It makes the muscles "explosive," a sort of T N T.

You are a whizz-bang, five-nine and a 42-cm. shell all rolled into one. You can explode more forcibly than the 200-pound, thin shell aero bombs that Fritz sprinkles over London on moonlight nights. And the only thing that saves you from blowing yourself up every minute of your life is nature's provision for distributing the spark throughout your system.

Dr. Ronald C. Macfie of Aberdeen, Scotland, has discovered that every muscular movement is accomplished by an explosion. You are different from an airplane motor in three essentials—component matters, design and the manner of exploding. When an aero cylinder explodes just so much gas is gone, not to be regenerated within the motor. But when you wield the hoe in your war garden the muscles of your hand and arm are propelled by an explosion of part of their own substance. The burnt up portion is automatically replaced by natural processes.

If you require a great deal of muscular power—if you explode a good deal, Dr. Macfie explains that you must eat starchy foods and take all the oxygen you can get. In other words, "lay off" the meat, eat potatoes and walk in the open air.

Several External Signs.

Definite physiological and structural appearances seem to go along with lack of action or overaction of the glands. If the individual is tall or short, thin or stout, light or dark, hairy or hairless, big forehead or low, narrow eyebrows or broad ones, well or ill-formed teeth—all this gives clues as to the possible condition of certain glands.

When the thyroid is hale and hearty the teeth are usually white, clean and well enamelled. If the thymus is large and active, the teeth may be poor, ill-formed, pitted and with cracked enamel.

The pituitary gland may cause the teeth to be spaced as well as glistening white. Dark markings or spots on the teeth point to trouble with the adrenal glands. Other gland disorders make for absent, half-moon, twisted or badly proportioned teeth.

Dr. W. V. P. Garretson, professor of mental diseases in the New York Polyclinic Medical School, points out that freckles, moles and larger patches of pigment in the skin call for a study of the adrenal glands. The thyroidal skin is usually blond, clear and smooth. If it is rough, dry and scaly it spells deficiency in the thyroid.

Dark-haired, dark-eyed and heavily-eyebrowed type means a strongly vigorous thyroid gland. A pink or red line, which appears on the skin when the thumb nail is drawn across it, often indicates a hypersensitive state. If there is an associated white line it is the adrenal glands at work.

Cure for Obesity.

Maladies with very distinctive signs accompany enlarged or small-sized thyroid glands. Goitres, which are huge thyroids, have such signs as bulged eyes, trembly muscles, palpitation, rapid pulse, sweats, hypersensitiveness of the emotions, the other glands and the skin.

Obesity can now and then, but far from always, be reduced by the careful administration of thyroid or other gland extract in very small amounts. Only an unusually well-trained doctor, and not a layman, should undertake this treatment. Obviously, indeed, the different glandular excesses or deficiencies can now be treated by dried extracts of sheeps', calves' or pigs' glands. These, you must bear in mind, are not drugs nor foods, but substitutes obtained from animals for the needed human tissue materials.

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. M. E. F.—Q.—Please tell me what to do for a very yellow skin and dark circles under the eyes.

A.—Drink three quarts of distilled water or a pure carbonate of water daily, also cream, olive oil, whey and buttermilk. Eat green vegetables, shun starchy foods, highly seasoned foods, rich, greasy foods, coffee and tea. Obtain daily outdoor exercise. Keep the bowels open, and take 5 grains of bile salt after meals.

M. M. B.—Q.—Is too much sugar harmful to the system?

2. If I have eaten too much, what will get it out of my system?

3. What is good for a tetter on a child's head?

4. How often should the remedy for blackheads be used?

A.—There are half a dozen possible ailments. Too much of any one kind of food may cause trouble.

2. Diabetes is perhaps what you mean. It isn't always due to having eaten too much sugar. If this is what you have the newest treatment for diabetes is to fast in bed two to three days a week until the sugar disappears from the kidney fluids. A doctor must be in attendance, and an analysis must frequently be made of the kidney fluid. Nothing should be taken except a little coffee and whiskey, and simultaneously an analysis of the kidney fluids should be made to see the amount of sugar contained therein. Continue the treatment two or three days each week until the sugar disappears entirely from the kidney fluid. This is known as the Allen fast. Foods without sugar, to be eaten on the days when the Allen fast is not carried out, are: Meats, poultry, game, fish, clear soups, gelatins, eggs, butter, olive oil, coffee, tea and cracked cocoa. Take 10 grains of bicarbonate of soda every four hours.

3. I do not know what you mean by tetter. There is no such disease troubling human beings.

4. The remedy for blackheads should be used every night.

A. D. H. Q.—My daughter, aged 30, suffers slightly with constipation. During the past three years she has been subject to attacks of intense pain in the region above the umbilicus and extending through the back. Injections of morphine seem to be the only thing that help her. Would you please advise me in this case?

A.—Avoid morphine as you would Old Nick. When attacks come give injections of hot water and Epsom salts. Partial constipation, lack of drinking fruit juices and lots of water may cause the attacks.

Dr. Hirshberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JUNE 23-24.

Sunday is peculiarly under the uplift of mental and spiritual astral influences. Neptune—the mystical planet—reigns, turning the faculties, emotions and aspirations toward things supermundane. In worldly matters it would be well to act with much discretion with others, particularly where letters or other writings are concerned.

Those whose birthday it is should deal carefully in all relations for the highest success. A child born on this day will be gifted with peculiar faculties, and be skiful and scientific.

Monday promises to be day on which some sudden and wholly unexpected good will offset disturbing and destructive conditions. Possibly new friends, or change, removal or a journey may prove advantageous, though those in the employment of others should undertake those after deliberation and on good judgment. Hasty words and deeds may precipitate failure. Disputes and litigation should be avoided. Guard against slander, and letters, contracts, etc., are signed only after the maturest deliberation.

Those whose birthday it is should employe a good judgment and great caution in all affairs, though new friends and sudden assistance may be expected. A child born on this day will be a proud hateful of control and original.

THE WASHABLE SLIP-ON

Here Used to Make Black Satin Summery

Cool as it is to the body, black satin nevertheless looks warm unless relieved by some light trimming as of collar or cuffs. But the washable slip-on transforms it so that it seems almost as light as a lingerie. The slip-on of the washable fabric has infinite possibilities, for it makes summery any dark dress, and it bids fair to outdo the light shirt waist in usefulness and in popularity.

The gown shown here has a short yoke with a long kimono sleeves. The accordeon-pleated skirt hangs high from the bodice, instead of from the waist-line, so that the skirt clings softly to the figure instead of flaring out.

Over this is worn a slip-on of handkerchief linen in pale grey. It is embroidered in front with a dainty basket design in dark grey worsted. The sash winds around the waist and is tied loosely in front, ending with soft worsted fringes.

Another beautiful slip-on that can be worn to advantage with dark blue or black satin is of apricot-colored linen. It is embroidered in worsteds of various shades of brown and red, blending together in autumn leaf colorings.

Natural gas is probably formed in the earth by a process of natural distillation from the animal and vegetable remains of past geological epochs, and is nearly the same product as is distilled from coal in the retorts of gas factories, only instead of the heat of fires the internal heat of the earth, aided perhaps by chemical decomposition, has caused its formation on a magnificent scale.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Is It That the Wounded Officer Requires of Madge?

"I wish it were time to clip the claws of that Draper cat," Lillian said, after she had subsided into her chair again. "But I've got to let her have rope enough not only to hang herself, but a lot of other people."

I looked up quickly, wonderingly. Had Lillian forgotten, I asked myself, that if Grace Draper had "rope enough to hang herself," Harry Underwood would in all probability share her fate?

That Lillian would not falter in her duty because the man who had so recently been her husband was involved, I well knew. This was not the cause of my wonder. It was amazement that she could speak so casually, almost flippantly, of a prospect so dreadful.

But as my eyes met hers I saw by her start, by her burning flush, that for once she had forgotten her husband's connection with Grace Draper and the enemy plots in which the girl was involved. I averted my eyes quickly that I might not see the anguished remembrance in her face, and tried to think of some other topic of conversation.

But my brain wasn't quick enough. It was Lillian herself who effectually dismissed the subject of Grace Draper.

"Here," she said brusquely, and I knew she was covering her discomfiture of the moment again by her manner, "you don't ever want to see this thing again, do you?"

She held out the sheets of the letter which she had just reread. Her very finger-tips expressed the loathing with which she regarded them.

"Indeed, no," I said forcibly.

"I wish I didn't have to," she said regretfully, "but I don't dare throw away this piece of evidence against her. Yet I can promise you there won't be any publicity given to it. Probably no one but myself, and one other person will ever see it."

She folded the sheets again and put them away in her handbag.

"Thus endeth another chapter," she said. "Let's not think of the Draper article again until we have to."

Coming to my side she bent over me, and her manner held tender wistfulness.

"You're sure there isn't any lingering doubt in your mind about Dicky, Madge?" she asked.

I hesitated for a moment or two, searching my own soul to be sure that I was truthful in my answer. Then with a sudden realization of the big-hearted loyalty of the woman beside me, and the surer, saner viewpoint that was hers, so much broader and clearer than mine, I banished every vestige of suspicion from my mind.

"If you are satisfied, I am, dear friend," I returned. "Your decision is good enough for me."

She kissed me tenderly.

"Something tells me that you will be very glad indeed some day—and that not so far away—that you have given Dicky your loyal belief in spite of this evil contrivance to deceive you."

There was a solemn note in her voice, a look in her eyes that awed me. I have come to have an almost superstitious belief in Lillian's psychic powers. She is positively clairvoyant at times.

"Change of Thought."

A little, shivery fear clutched at my heartstrings. Was Dicky in some danger of which I didn't know, and had Lillian's telepathic nature sensed it? I was almost ready to believe anything, so unstrung was I by the ordeal through which I had just gone.

I fairly jumped at the light tap that sounded on the door. It was a knock I knew, that of the nurse who attended the wounded officer down the corridor.

Lillian glanced at me sharply.

"I hope you're needed in the other room," she said. "I think I shall send you over anyway. You need a change of thought."

The nurse said a few, low, hurried words to Lillian and then hastened back down the corridor.

"Oh, what is it?" I asked feverishly, as Lillian came back into the room.

Jangled Nerves.

"Nothing of any consequences," Lillian replied. "Your officer is very restless today, and they wish to try the remedy they have found most effective—your soothing presence by his side."

I knew that Lillian was making a jest of the matter, in order to quiet my jangled nerves, but there was something about her words which jarred me unaccountably.

INCIDENTS IN THE LIVES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

BY ELOISE FARRINGTON.

How Hannah Snell Roved the World As a Soldier-Sailor to Find Her Lost Husband.

Although a complete regiment of women soldiers, such as the Russian Battalion of Death, was unheard of since the days of the Amazons, there are, nevertheless, many notable instances of individual women who not only acted as soldiers, but who actually impersonated men without detection for months at a time.

A romantic figure, who for many years completely deceived her daily associates about her sex and identity, is Hannah Snell, soldier and sailor. She was born in 1723 in Worcester, England, of a good family. Her grandfather served under William III., and died in battle, and her own father was also in military service.

At the age of 17 Hannah Snell lost both parents, and at 20 she married a seaman named James Summs. She seems to have been desperately in love with him, for even when he proved himself worthless and deserted her she still clung affectionately to his memory. To find him became her single purpose in life, but this was by no means an ambition easy to achieve, for the gentleman seems to have been possessed of a roving disposition.

In order to make her way about unhampered, Hannah donned men's clothes, adopting both the name and the garments of her own brother-in-law. She later managed to steal a suit of clothes belonging to a recruit, and enlisted as a marine. Henceforth her life was full of thrills.

She Enlisted As a Marine.

She traveled to the East, visited the Indies, rounded the Cape of Good Hope and took active part in many battles. She acted as picket guard, labored as did any of the men in the toil of battle preparations, and handled a musket, 'tis said, as well as the best of them. How she managed to conceal her identity it is difficult to conceive, but the fact remains that her sex seems never to have been suspected. However, she came perilously near discovery on several occasions.

In one battle she fired 37 rounds, but she received herself something like eleven different wounds. Fearful lest she be discovered if she fell into the hands of the military physicians, she enlisted the aid of an old negress, to whom she confided her secret. With her help she managed to extract the ball from her own wound and bandage the lacerated parts. She seems to have had wonderful vitality, for she recuperated quickly, and was soon on her way again as a feminine soldier of fortune.

Soldiering, however, was not Hannah's purpose in life. It was simply a means to an end, and for years she kept on traveling, visiting strange ports and peoples, in the hope that some day she would find her recreant husband and bring him back to England with her.

After many years she finally found a clue. It seems that her husband had run off to Genoa, Italy, where he had become involved with bad associates, was led into crime, and finally was convicted of murder and thrown into the sea. All her thrilling adventures, her courage and her daring had been in vain.

On her return journey to England she revealed her identity to her shipmates, and it is a tribute to the feminine charm that she had maintained through all her escapades that she immediately received several proposals of marriage.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

Solving the Problem of a Smart, Youthful Sport Suit.

"I've decided to go in for a lot of tennis," announced Miss Parker, who's always "going in" for some sport or other, "I've been challenged, and I'm going to make good. I have to beat Billy Collins, and there's only three weeks in which to practice."

So she rattled on, as she strolled around the studio, peeking at this gown, more carefully scrutinizing others.

"How about a nobby sport suit," suggested Madame, following her, "if you intend to go in for a lot of tennis?"

Betty Parker is the kind of girl who "breezes in." She enters the studio with a friendly air, bringing good cheer with her—everyone likes her. There's nothing measured in her actions or her movements, and she wears her clothes in the same way—sort of loosely hanging, but smart.

"What have you that will go well with green eyes?"

"A green sport coat and hat to match," said Madame, who's a great advocate of wearing colors that go well with the color of the eyes. And Miss Parker knows Madame's views.

"Lucky, isn't it, that nature paints the color of both eyes alike?"

"Why?" asked Madame, innocently humoring Miss Parker.

"Well, whatever would you suggest in the way of a pretty color scheme if I were blessed with one eye colored green and the other, say, purple?"

"Green and purple, of course," answered Madame, as they both laughed at the thought.

"But I suppose we'll have to stick to the color nature intended," concluded Miss Parker.

Just then the costume for which Madame had sent arrived and Miss Parker slipped the leaf-green jersey cloth outfit on, and she looked right smart, topped with a sport hat of the same material.

It is a sleeveless coat of green with a white pleated serge skirt. The green coat and the green hat form a striking combination with the white skirt.

The coat is slightly bloused in the waist and is finished with a wide belt and buckle in the front. A tailored collar gives it a slight mannish touch, which is softened by the blouse effect, and the green patch pockets again emphasize its sport appearance.

A silk shirtwaist with turned-back cuffs completes the outfit.

"Well," asked Madame, "don't you think an outfit like this ought to make you feel confident of coming out ahead in your tennis tournament?"

"If good-looking suits help one to win, I'm inclined to believe I will. But, anyway, I expect to win that match on my skill. Wish me luck!"

"Indeed I do," replied Madame, "and now that you've got three weeks ahead of you, you'd better practice hard so you'll have your opponent and his rooters reflecting an envious green."

"That's why I wanted a suit to match the color of my eyes," explained Miss Parker, as she left the studio.

BOSSY'S SILVER BELL.

Bossy was very proud when the master tied the silver bell around her neck. She was glad that the master thought her capable of leading the whole herd, and she loved the soft tinkle of the bell when she shook the flies from her ears.

"Moo!" exclaimed the Yellow Cow when she saw that bell around Bossy's neck. "So we have to follow her, do we?"

"Certainly," replied Mrs. Black Cow, licking the dust from her glossy side. "That's why the master put the bell around Bossy's throat."

"Well, here's one who's not going to follow Bossy!" snorted Yellow Cow.

"Me neither!" mooed White Cow, tossing her head in the air and laying her ears back flat against her head just for stubbornness. "The idea of a fine cow like me following after an old speckled thing like Bossy!"

"Looks have nothing to do with it!" cried Mrs. Black Cow. "The master feels that Bossy's better able to lead the herd than any of us," and, tossing her head, she joined Bossy Cow.

"I wish the others felt as you do about it," said Bossy Cow sadly.

"Don't let them worry you, dear," exclaimed Mrs. Black Cow. "They'll come to it sooner or later."

"I'm glad you think so," mooed Bossy, gratefully, for it made her very unhappy to have Yellow Cow and White Cow show their dislike for the silver bell.

Not many days after this happened the master drove the herd to a new place to feed, and left them.

"I'm Glad You Think So."

Mrs. Black Cow and the other wise cows tried to keep within hearing of the silver bell; but Yellow Cow and White Cow stubbornly stuck their noses in the air and wandered away so far they couldn't hear its tinkle.

"Let those who want to follow Bossy Cow do so!" cried Yellow Cow. "I won't, so there!"

"No, I think it's silly myself," agreed White Cow.

So together they wandered over into the meadows beyond. Everything went lovely until it began to grow dark, and then Yellow Cow and White Cow, to their dismay, discovered that they were lost.

"If we hadn't been so foolish and had kept within hearing of Bossy's bell we'd never have been lost," cried White Cow. "It's all your fault."

"I'm sorry," mooed Yellow Cow. "I guess Bossy's better able to carry the bell than either you or me, and I mean to tell her so if I ever get back to the barnyard."

There never were two happier cows than Yellow Cow and White Cow when they saw the flash of a lantern and heard their master calling them. And neither of them tasted a bite of their supper that night until they told Bossy Cow how sorry they were that they had acted so toward her.

After that the master never had any trouble with the herd, for they always kept within hearing of Bossy's silver bell.

Florence Reed, in a Powerful Photo-drama, "Today," Showing at the Patricia Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Critics throughout the country are loud in their praise of "Today," George Broadhurst's great play starring Florence Reed, which will be shown at the Patricia Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Ada Patterson of the New York American, saying: "I regard 'Today' as the vindication of the motion picture, and none of the enemies of the silent drama can stand against it."

Miss Patterson is not the only critic of national repute who has spoken in strong commendation of the play, the New York Morning Telegraph saying: "Florence Reed's portrayal of the wife will go on record as one of the screen's finest performances. 'Today' is an exceedingly dramatic picture and is one of the strongest of the year."

Florence Reed needs no introduction to the lovers of the silent art or of the spoken drama, as she has long been a favorite with both. She jumped into fame as the star in "At Bay" and "New York," two of the most pronounced successes ever achieved in motion pictures. Then she went back to the legitimate stage and during the past season was the star in "The Wanderer," which had a phenomenal run at the Manhattan Theatre, New York. While at the height of her success she was offered the leading role in "Today," a part which she herself says is the most difficult as well as fascinating which she has ever been called upon to do, which was so alluring that she gave up her part in "The Wanderer" and went back to the screen.

With her clever work, assisted by the extraordinary company which surrounds her, the pulsating, throbbing, surging torrent of emotions found in

At the Patricia Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Florence Reed has more vitality, more magnetism, more subtlety and more art than usually falls to the lot of one woman, and her character in "Today" is the greatest which she has ever been called upon to enact, and in all of her varied triumphs on stage and screen she has never surpassed that which she registers in the present offering.

George Broadhurst's famous stage play, "Today," became the most potent drama on the screen.

It tells the story of a woman. A woman, who is discontent, selfish, whose false pride carried her just inside the perfumed ring of folly, who finally comes to the auction block of "Today" where she sells her soul for the trinkets of man.

Expense is a word unknown to its producers and the lavishness of the picture has excited comment wherever it has been shown. Miss Reed appearing in some of the most expensive gowns ever seen in any production on stage or screen, and all the settings being done in the same magnificent manner.

Twenty years of married life have convinced us that you can win an argument from your wife as often as she wants you to.

Jack Gardiner in "Open Places"

Clara Kimball Young in "The House of Glass" at the Majestic Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

"The House of Glass," Clara Kimball Young's latest production, which is the attraction at the Majestic Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, is a telling illustration of the fact that, of all the forms of dramatic expression, the melodrama, is the most truly American in its psychology and emotional portrayal. Of the hundreds of plays presented on the American stage during the last decade, a bare half-dozen stand out as being made of the stuff which endures, and all of them are melodrama, is the most truly American speedy decision, quick action, startling development, and whole-souled emotion are best revealed and typified in this form of the drama. In this picture Clara Kimball Young follows a long list of successful portrayals and sympathetic characterizations of well-known heroines with a delineation of the role of Margaret Ca s, in which her high artistry rises to even greater heights than in the past. Supported by an exceptionally high-grade cast, adequately directed and sumptuously produced, Clara Kimball Young and her own company have given in this picturization a sterling and worthy presentation of Max Marcin's master-melodrama, "The House of Glass."

Elsie Ferguson in "A Doll's House" at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday.

For more than thirty years, the plays of Henrik Ibsen have held a dignified place on the stage in this country and abroad. One of the more notable of these dramatic creations of this Norwegian master dramatist was "A Doll's House," which was produced in London in 1889, and which served later in this country as the starring vehicles of the leading exponents of the Ibsen school of dramatic acting and thought. "A Doll's House" was picturized for Artcraft under the direction of Maurice Tourneur, and with Elsie Ferguson as the star, it will be displayed at the Majestic Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

This is a realistic story of a doll wife, who, having no idea of her own, commits a forgery to have her husband's life, and who falls into the toils of an unscrupulous money-lender. When her husband learns of her folly he upbraids her, thereby shattering the dreams she had entertained—that in the event of exposure he would gallantly absolve her from, and assume all blame himself. His failure to do so proves a sad revelation to her, and even though the incriminating note is returned and the fear of disgrace obviated, she leaves him, sternly resolved to seek a new environment and to be a doll no longer.

The story of the photoplay is one of unusual dramatic power and affords Miss Ferguson and an excellent supporting cast ample opportunities for the display of their talents.

Anna Q. Nilsson and Charles Richman, In a Stirring Patriotic Play, "Over There," Showing at the Majestic Next Friday and Saturday.

In this day of stirring patriotic plays, a production must be of paramount excellence to win the allegiance of motion picture audiences, but in "Over There," the new production starring Charles Richman and Anna Q. Nilsson, exhibitors feel that they have a sure-fire winner. In it Charles Richman plays the part of a slacker who erroneously believes himself a coward, and his lead is cleverly supplemented by Anna Q. Nilsson, who wins sympathy as his fiancee. The picture, which was made by the Charles Richman Picture Corporation, is being distributed by Select and will be the offering at the Majestic Theatre next Friday and Saturday.

Monte Jackson, from earliest recollections, has had an unreasoning horror of blood and violence. His mother, shortly before his birth, had witnessed a murder and the shock had left its imprint on her unborn child. Monte guards his secret carefully, and not even his most intimate friends gain his confidence. When the war breaks out he is faced with the duty of enlistment, and funks. With continued inactivity on his part, friends begin to fall away; he is blacklisted at his club; his partners ask him to resign, and even his sweetheart, Betty, loses faith and breaks their engagement.

In the end he effects his own regeneration, proves his mettle, and wins back his place in the sun. There is a great lesson in "Over There" and one that Mr. Richman makes the most of. His picture of Monte Jackson, misunderstood and unjustly judged, is one of the finest things he has done and will appeal to the sympathies of every audience.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, In "Moonshine," His Greatest Comedy, To Be Shown at the Majestic Next Friday and Saturday.

In his new comedy, "Moonshine," Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle has another side-splitting picture which doubtless will repeat the success of his recent photo-comedies, "Out West," and "The Bell Boy." The scenes are laid in the Blue Ridge mountains of Kentucky and the story has to do with the illegal operations of moonshiners and their suppression by "Fatty" Arbuckle and his assistant, Al St. John, valiant revenue officers, brave and resourceful, but with a weakness for handsome women.

When they get into the mountains, they have difficulty in bagging their game and many laughable incidents ensue. The moonshiners hold their own with the revenue officers until "Fatty" meets the ragged mountain flower, a girl personated by Alice Lake. Then the love element comes out strong, but the overthrow of the moonshiners is eventually brought about through its agency. "Moonshine," which is to be shown at the Majestic Theatre next Friday and Saturday, is the broadest of broad burlesque, and it affords many amusing incidents of which the principals and their support make the most.

"WHERE LIFE'S WORTH WHILE."

The above phrase expresses the consensus of opinion of all those who have ever visited the Algonquin Provincial (Ontario) Park. Its high altitude (nearly 2,000 feet above the sea), its unlimited opportunities for camping, fishing, canoeing and kodaking, and its comfortable and well-run hotels give it a distinction that is not found in other sections of the country. The hundreds of patrons from the United States, who annually visit this region, alone testifies to its popularity. Situated 200 miles north of Toronto, and 170 miles west of Ottawa, the Park is easy of access by the Grand Trunk Railway. A concise descriptive publication, handsomely illustrated, has been issued and can be had for the asking on application to C. E. Horning, D. P. A., Toronto, Ont. b

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its quick relief in indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis when caused by acidity has made it famous the world over.

Keep this wonderful stomach sweetener in your home—keep it handy—get a large 50-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach it helps to neutralize the excessive acidity, then all the stomach distress caused by it disappears. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming such stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

UNCLE SAM WRONGS SERBIA IN FAILURE TO WAR ON BULGARS

Death Sentence Must Also Be Meted to Turkey—Both Have Committeed Atrocities Beyond Palliation—Delayed Action Violates Stated Championship of Small Nations.

By Frank H. Simonds

Author of "The World War," "They Shall Not Pass," etc.

(Copyright, 1918, Tribune Association, New York Tribune.).

NEW YORK, June 21.—The recent reports of an attack upon the American legion at Tabritz serve to call attention again to a situation which must be the source of real regret for thoughtful Americans, viz., that the United States is still at peace with two nations who are at war with her allies, and whose acts have been as great offences against the principles which we are championing in this war as those of the nations with whom we are actually engaged in hostilities. It is difficult to understand why we have remained at peace with Bulgaria and Turkey during the period of months in which both Bulgaria and Turkey have struck at our allies on the firing line, and have committed atrocities beyond palliation upon civil populations within their power.

Bulgaria's Brutality.

The case of Bulgaria is simple. Bulgaria entered the present war solely for the purpose of aggrandizement. Bulgaria was in the market for purchase. Her military resources were sold out to the German bidders. The price was money and territory belonging to her neighbors. But even before the present war, Bulgaria precipitated the second Balkan struggle by a crime more indefensible than the German invasion of Belgium.

Today Bulgaria occupies territory of Serbia and of Greece; she has subjected the civil population of conquered regions to untold brutality. Her purposes are Prussian. She is seeking to obtain for herself in the Balkans precisely the position Prussia obtained in Germany. She is using the same methods with the same defiance of all moral law.

Violation of Principle.

No nation of all which are fighting has made a more gallant defence than Serbia. As long as the United States fails to declare war upon Bulgaria she contributes to Bulgarian supremacy in the Balkans. She does wrong to the gallant Serb people, who have continued a hopeless fight for liberty and independence; we do violence to our stated championship of the small nations when we apply the principle in Western Europe and ignore it in Eastern Europe.

It is simple to understand why the United States has not declared war upon Bulgaria. Owing to the influence of Robert College there has been an active pro-Bulgar propaganda in this country cleverly utilized by the Bulgarian minister. Every sort of influence has been exerted, precisely as it was exerted on behalf of Bulgaria in the critical months of 1915, when Bulgaria was getting ready to strike Serbia in the back, and Bulgarian agents had the ear of Sir Edward Grey and Sazonoff, and persuaded the Allies to leave Serbia defenceless against the premeditated Bulgar attack.

Must Throttle Turkey.

As for Turkey, there is no argument that one can think of that can seriously be presented against our declaring war promptly upon the authors of the Armenian massacres—upon the nation whose offendings, not alone in the present war, but over the past centuries, should have doomed the Ottoman Empire long ago, and now must carry its death sentence.

A declaration of war upon Bulgaria and Turkey by the United States would have a profound effect all through the near east, in Sofia and in Constantinople. It would be a final evidence to the Greek and the Serb people that this great country stands with the Allies, fighting Germany, big and little, and means to champion the small people in the Balkans, as well as in Western Europe.

Paralyzed by Intrigues.

We are not in this war now with a limited liability. We have become partners in a great struggle, which, if it is to have permanent value, must bring about a reorganization east and west, north and south, based on the principles of right and justice and liberty. It is a matter of surprise in Rome, and in London, that Washington is today paralyzed by precisely the same intrigues which held sway in Allied capitals two years ago, to the very great injury of the Allies' cause in Europe. The enemies of our allies are our enemies, because they are the foes of the principle for which we and our allies are fighting.

No indictment of Germany can be more severe than that of Bulgaria, which has become a servile imitator of all that is worst in German methods, while continuing to protest to American ears affility to American principles toward Robert College. Bulgaria is the plague spot of the Balkans and false sentimentality and mistaken sympathy are contributing to the injury of the gallant Serb and the weakening of the Venizelos Government, which is loyal to our Allies.

There is at the present time before Congress a resolution calling for a declaration of war upon Turkey and Bulgaria. Power and responsibility rest with Congress and this is an occasion where Congress can well afford to lead rather than follow. We ought to stand four square with all our allies against all the enemies on the ideals which are at stake. Turkish troops may tomorrow appear on the firing line facing our own soldiers in France, and Bulgaria, even more than Turkey, is the foe of western ideas at this moment, and unless Bulgaria is beaten and deprived of those territorial gains which she has made by applying German methods and German morals, there will be no proper settlement in the Balkans and the removal of that sore out of which grew the present conflict. We should be at war with Bulgaria and Turkey. They are at war with us and with our allies.

REGISTRATION MADE TO PUT CANADA ON SYSTEM OF RATIONS

B. C. Registrar Declares Card System Will Shortly Be Introduced.

VANCOUVER, June 21.—That a card rationing system is shortly to be introduced into Canada was the announcement made last night by C. A. Mahon, superintendent of registration of British Columbia. One of the principal objects in securing registration, he added, was to provide a basis for establishing a rationing system and to facilitate its operations.

Mr. Mahon stated that he had recently received reports from Ottawa which indicated that the rationing system was to be introduced.

Former Presidential Cabinet Official Recommends Nuxated Iron After Taking It Himself

Action of Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Former Secretary of the Treasury, Highly Indorsed by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, Who Explains the Value of Nuxated Iron as a Tonic, Strength and Blood Builder.

"There are thousands of weak, nervous, rundown folks who need just such a preparation as Nuxated Iron to help build them up, but who do not know what to take, and Secretary Shaw's indorsement of this remarkable product will undoubtedly be the means of giving many people the very information they desire," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York and the Westchester County Hospital. "Secretary Shaw is widely known and his good faith and integrity cannot be questioned. Therefore, his recommendation of Nuxated Iron in public print should inspire the greatest confidence among the public at large and serve as convincing evidence of the genuine merit of this preparation.

Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Former Secretary of the Treasury and Ex-Governor of Iowa.

The Formula of the composition of Nuxated Iron is now being widely published and a careful examination of it by any physician or pharmacist should convince him that it is of great therapeutic value, and one which we doctors frequently could prescribe with advantage to our patients."

Modern methods of cooking and the rapid pace at which people of this country live has made an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women. For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all "run down," while at 40 or 50 in the absence of any organic ailment and with plenty of iron in your blood, you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with energy and force.

As proof of this take the case of Former United States Senator Charles A. Towne, who at past 58 is still a veritable mountain of tireless energy. Senator Towne says: "I have found Nuxated Iron of the greatest benefit as a tonic and regulative. Henceforth I shall not be without it."

Then there is Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr of Chicago, who is past the three score year mark, but still vigorous, active, full of life, vim and energy. Former Health Commissioner Kerr says he believes his own personal activity today is largely due to his use of Nuxated Iron and that he believes it ought to be prescribed by every physician and used in every hospital in the country.

Former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw says: "I have been taking Nuxated Iron for some little time, and feel justified in recommending it as a very valuable tonic."

Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, rundown people who were ailing all the while, have increased their strength and endurance in two weeks' time while taking iron in the proper form.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE—Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Nuxated Iron is not recommended for use in cases of acute illness, but only as a tonic, strength and blood builder. (In case of illness always consult your family physician and be guided by his advice.) If in doubt as to whether or not you need a tonic, ask your doctor, as we do not wish to sell you Nuxated Iron if you do not require it. If you should use it and it does not help you, notify us and we will return your money. It is sold in this city by Standard Drug, Limited, and all other druggists.

GUELPH PASTORS DEMAND JUSTICE FROM MILITARY

Will Not Allow Hon. C. J. Doherty's Statement To Go Unchallenged.

ONE YOUTH IN LONDON

First Contingent Man Said To Be Exasperated Over Treatment.

GUELPH, June 21.—That the Protestant ministers of Guelph do not intend to allow the statement made in today's papers by Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, to go unchallenged was clearly manifested here today. A meeting of the special committee appointed by the Ministerial Association was held this afternoon when the whole matter was again thoroughly discussed, and they freely expressed themselves as being far from satisfied. They have been busy for several days gathering information, and have some facts which they claim will astound the general public.

Have the Date.

Rev. K. H. Palmer of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, who is taking a leading part in the agitation, stated tonight that they have the actual date of the birth of the son of the minister of justice secured by a member of the Dominion cabinet from the family doctor at Ottawa, and they intend to make it public at the proper time.

Rev. Palmer further stated that it was the intention of the ministers to deal with the whole question in their pulpits on Sunday, and demand that they be accorded fair treatment and justice at the hands of the military authorities.

The publication today of the correspondence which passed between Rev. Father Bourque, rector of the Novitiate and General Mewburn, minister of militia, with respect to the raid, is being largely read by the general public, and the friends of the Novitiate are closely watching every move.

Rev. Mr. Palmer stated today that one of the young men who was in the Novitiate at the time of the raid is already in uniform in London. His name is Cleary, and he was a member of the first contingent which went to England. While there his health failed and he was sent back to Canada. When the M. S. A. came into force he was at Kingston, where he was examined and placed in Class A, but left there for Toronto in order to escape further military service. He was apprehended, however, and again placed in Class A, and it was then that he came to Guelph and entered the Jesuit novitiate as a secular student.

Gave Himself Up.

Following the raid he was informed that his presence at the institution might cause trouble, and he at once went to the military police in Guelph and gave himself up as a defaulter, was escorted to London and is there at the present time in uniform. It is understood that he is greatly exasperated at the treatment he has received.

The Ministerial Association is anxiously awaiting a further statement from the Government regarding the status of the young men at the novitiate, twenty-two of whom they claim are physically fit and should be in khaki. They expect this statement to be forthcoming at any time.

FATHER BOURQUE'S PROTEST.

TORONTO, June 21.—The Toronto Telegram today publishes the letter from Rev. Father Bourque, rector of St. Stanislaus Jesuit Novitiate, Guelph, to Major-Gen. Sidney Mewburn, minister of militia, protesting against the action of the military police in visiting the novitiate and parading the inmates, in searching for alleged evaders of the military service act. Father Bourque said the party was in charge of Capt. MacAuley, deputy provost-marshal, and the visit took place at 9:35 p.m. on June 7. Two other men with Capt. MacAuley entered the building, while a cordon of deputy police surrounded the building.

Father Bourque protested vigorously at the intrusion, and asked Father Hingston, a chaplain, who was recently returned from the front, to assure himself of the authority of the captain, while he consulted the legal counsel of the institution over the telephone. He offered to accompany the officer to the rooms of the novices, or summon them all to the refectory for examination, and Capt. MacAuley chose the latter alternative.

Says Statement Is False.

Rev. Father Power, superior-general of the institution, said in an interview that the statement that there were 22 novices liable to service under the M. S. A. was absolutely false. He said:

"If a young man came here to escape military service he would be simply jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Moreover, the religious superiors would not become parties to such deception. They would be giving the garb of religion to a young man who is not of religion to a hypocrite and a coward."

In an interview Rev. Father Bourque, the rector, said only eleven had entered the novitiate since the military service act went into force, and up to the time of the raid. Of these four are 18, three are 19, one is 21, one 22, and one 17; also one is an American, with class E papers.

Novices are employed in humbling occupations, in addition to many religious exercises. Conversation is prohibited. Obedience is the practice of every minute, said Father Bourque.

Doherty, Noon and Smith were arrested by the police, but it was found they were not liable and consequently were released. Doherty is only 19 and holds rejection papers in class E. He is the son of the minister of justice.

RUSSIA STOPS THE RETURN OF GERMANS FIT FOR WAR DUTY

Disagreement Has Arisen Over Exchange of Prisoners.

MOSCOW, June 11.—(By the Associated Press).—Because of a disagreement with Germany concerning the exchange of war prisoners, the Russian war prisoner college has issued an order to stop immediately repatriation of all Germans between the ages of 16 and 45 years who are fit for military service.

THE ALLIES ARE SORELY IN NEED OF FOOD; YOUR WORK WILL HELP THE SITUATION

OTTAWA, June 21.—The Canada Food Board has issued the following bulletin for registration day:

"Today is the day for election; today the people of Canada elect to serve or to swerve. Each individual either promises to help or avoids doing so for personal reasons. These reasons must be very powerful reasons or they would not weigh in the present issue. The question to consider now is whether private personal interests and arrangements outweigh the national necessity—a necessity in which everybody shares.

"The world is short of food. The war has yet to be won. The soldiers at the front have to be reinforced and increased. This continent has to feed them, and the civilian populations of the Allied people cannot be allowed to starve. Nearly five million, it is estimated, have starved to death already.

"Canada has work for every able-bodied man and boy this summer. The women must help. The 1918 crop must be saved. Let each and all consider the relative importance of his or her own plans in true proportion when they fill in the registration cards today."

Four Million Tons of Coal Coming to Canada Via Lakes

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Arrangements to ship 28,000,000 tons of coal to northwestern states and portions of Canada via the Great Lakes were made today by the fuel and railroad administrations. Approximately four million tons of this quantity will go to Canada.

ITALIAN SITUATION GIVES NO CAUSE OF WORRY TO ENTENTE

Confidence Is Expressed by American Officials.

U. S. A FACTOR IN WEST

All-American Forces Hold 38 Miles of Front and Aiding Elsewhere.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—American soldiers are now holding the fighting line for a distance of 38 miles on the western front, according to information given members of the House military committee today at the weekly conference with Secretary of War Baker and General March, chief of staff.

The mileage is held by all-American forces, under command of American officers, located at six different places along the fighting line. Other Americans are at the front with British and French units.

Members of the committee were told again that there was no thought of diminishing the movement of troops across the Atlantic because of the operation of submarines off the American coast.

Fighting on the Italian front was discussed, and military authorities declared it has not reached a stage to be considered serious for the Allies.

Members of the committee said a sufficient number of rapid-fire guns now is being manufactured here to supply the needs of American troops, and that the output will be increased as needed.

400 C. P. R. SHOPMEN QUIT WHEN COMPANY KEEP NON-UNION MAN

Demand Dismissal of the Employee Who Ignored Sympathy Strike.

Winnipeg, June 22.—Machinists, specialists and helpers at the Canadian Pacific Railway shops walked out at 1:30 yesterday afternoon as a result of the company retaining in its employ a non-union man who continued at work when the machinists walked out in sympathy with the striking civic employees. About four hundred men laid down their tools. The men say they will not return to work until the man, Stewart by name, is dismissed.

The following statement has been issued by the company: "Machinists, specialists and helpers employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway at Winnipeg ceased work at 1:30 p.m. Friday on account of the refusal of the company to dismiss a certain employee who has been in the service of the company seventeen years.

"There is no reason, so far as the company knows, why the man in question should be dismissed, and the men's committee was unable to give any reason whatever, why he should be dismissed. I (Grant Hall) pointed out to the committee that I did not think it fair, nor did I consider I have any right to remove an employee from the company's service without just and sufficient cause. This position was not satisfactory to the men and they quit work."

(The above statement was issued last night by Grant Hall, vice-president and general manager western lines.)

ALBERTA CROPS SUFFER FROM WANT OF RAIN AND MANY HIGH WINDS

Calgary, June 22.—With a run of three weeks of dry, hot weather, the Alberta crops are beginning to suffer for the want of rain. If good rains come within the next few days it is estimated that 75 per cent of the crops will be saved, otherwise crops are likely to be light and short. Spring plowing and stubble lands will be poor, but the summer fallow and breaking and plowing are standing the dry spell well. In the southern part of the province the outlook is uncertain, and farmers are getting anxious. There have been high winds in this part which have damaged the light land to some extent. Damage from cutworms is reported to be slight. Whether this district will have a fair crop or a poor one depends on whether the rain comes within the next few days.

The situation is helped out somewhat by the fact that there has been a substantial increase in acreage under crop. The Government's estimate of the land area under crop this year is 8,500,000 acres, as compared with 6,300,000 in 1917.

NORONIC COMMENCES LAKE SEASON TODAY

SARNIA, June 21.—The Noronic, the flagship of the Northern Navigation Company, left this morning for Detroit, and will commence the season Saturday, leaving here for Duluth in the afternoon. The liner has been painted and decorated throughout. H. H. Gildersleeve, the general manager, entertained at dinner on board last night in honor of Mrs. Paton, wife of J. R. Paton, former manager of the company, who recently took up her residence here. After dinner there was dancing till midnight. About seventy-five guests were present.

G. W. V. A. PRESIDENT READS LECTURE TO MRS. GORDON WRIGHT

Resents Speech Made Regarding Soldiers.

QUESTIONS HER POLICIES

While Preaching Temperance She Should Be Temperate in Remarks.

OTTAWA, June 21. — A vigorous protest has been made by the Great War Veterans' Association against the statements made at the Women's Christian Union convention by the president of the union, Col. Pidgeon; president of the Great War Veterans' Association, issued the following statement on behalf of the association tonight:

"The address of the dominion president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, as reported in the press, contains both statements and policies which call for vigorous protest by this association.

"In the first place, the president says: 'We have given our best and our bravest to help the motherland.' It should not be necessary to point out to Mrs. Wright that 'we have given our best and bravest' in defence of Canada, and the cause of right and liberty—that 'we have given our best and bravest'—in defence of the womanhood of Canada, in order that they might not suffer in a like manner with the womanhood of Belgium and France. It seems unbelievable, after four years of war, that any Canadian man or woman should speak of our fighting for England.

Not "Debauched."

"According to Mrs. Wright, while we have given our sons to help England, England in return has debauched and degraded these sons with liquor and its consequences. We would point out to the Dominion president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union that we have been neither debauched nor degraded by liquor or from other causes. We do not know if Mrs. Wright is so fortunate as to have given any sons in the defence of Canada and their mother, but if so, we feel quite certain that she would resent the imputation that their home training was such that they permitted themselves to be debauched, etc. The war veterans are busy seeing that our women are not debauched by the 'unholy Hun,' but are safeguarded by the continuance of British institutions.

"May we point out that such utterances as those of the president are a comfort to the enemy and against our principles, and should be dealt with as provided by the law of this country.

As to Cigarettes.

"Mrs. Wright is unduly agitated at the thought of loving mothers and sisters still continuing to send tobacco and cigarettes to their dear ones in France. We would point out to Mrs. Wright that the home training received from our mothers is quite to our liking, and the comforts for which they deprive themselves to send us are in no danger of further debauching us.

"Mrs. Wright asks 'When will the women of Canada realize the great destruction they are bringing the soldiers by sending them cigarettes?' We would ask one question ourselves: 'When will some of the women of Canada realize that good intentions and good works carried to the point of excess are as much intemperate as any other excess?' We are of the opinion that such remarks as 'debauched' and 'degraded' are the result of intoxication by excess of enthusiasm, and would suggest in the most kindly spirit that the W. C. T. U. become more temperate in their remarks before they attempt to dictate to the world a policy of temperance.

Up to W. C. T. U. Members.

"The slurs cast upon our sons, the pain given to our mothers, sisters and wives, and the comfort given the enemy by such utterances as Mrs. Wright's should not be tolerated in Canada, and a kindly suggestion to the women of the W. C. T. U. would be to apply themselves at home to assist us in our fight for Canada. A little more time and effort spent in the home training of their sons and less time in speechmaking of such a calibre will best fortify those sons to resist the temptations of war and make them the stronger for the fight.

"In conclusion, we are of the opinion that you cannot legislate a soul into heaven, but it must be trained on the heavenly path at the mother's knee, and assisted on its journey by the kind thoughts and prayers of all good mothers, and not thrust aside by the intemperate remarks of ill-advised and misguided women."

ROBBINS REUNION TO BE HELD ANNUALLY

ST. MARYS, June 21.—The first reunion of the Robbins family took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Murphy of Melbourne, and proved such an enjoyable event that it was decided to make the gathering an annual affair. Over 60 members of the family assembled from various points, including Lakeside, Embro, Belmont, Ingersoll, London, Thorndale, Monkton and Dorchester, and spent the day in social intercourse, games, races and baseball. It was decided to organize and the following were elected to office: President, Garnett Robbins, Dorchester; secretary-treasurer, M. T. Sinclair, Thorndale; managing committee, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Robbins of Ingersoll, Mr. and Mrs. William Howitt of London, and Mr. and Mrs. George Whittaker of Embro; program committee, Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Doan of Monkton.

CHATHAM PHYSICIAN DIED VERY SUDDENLY

CHATHAM, June 21.—Dr. J. P. Sivewright, aged 60, died today inside of five minutes after he sustained an attack of heart trouble, which had been affecting him from time to time. He was in the Turner Drug Store when stricken. He practiced here for a number of years and then went to New York. He came back here last winter. He is survived by one daughter, Miss May, of New York; one son, Oswald, somewhere in the States, and two sisters, Mrs. Cook of Boxborough Drive, Toronto, and Mrs. Thomas Wrong of Windsor. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

"Traction"—The Aristocrat

¶ Keep tab on the autos passing you with "Traction" equipment. Almost without exception you find "The Master Tire" on cars whose owners take pride in their possession. "Traction" is so aristocratic-looking that instinctively one feels it is always the right tire for the car he has or the car he is going to get.

¶ It is almost certain if a motorist is not using "Tractions" that he prefers an anti-skid at a lower price like Dunlop "Special," or a smooth tread like "Dunlop Plain."

¶ The Dunlop Line gives you an excellent opportunity to select the tire you want—at a just price.

Polarine

FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

"Makes a good car better"

For Crankshaft Bearings

EFFECTIVE lubrication of the crankshaft and the connecting rod bearings keeps down vibration. Unless these bearings are protected against excessive wear by a film of oil of correct body and lubricating quality, "play" soon develops.

KEEP BEARING WEAR DOWN AND CAR VALUE UP

The actual value of your car, whether in daily use or in the market for sale or exchange, is mainly a question of engine value. A car is no better than its engine. And engine upkeep is largely a matter of proper lubrication.

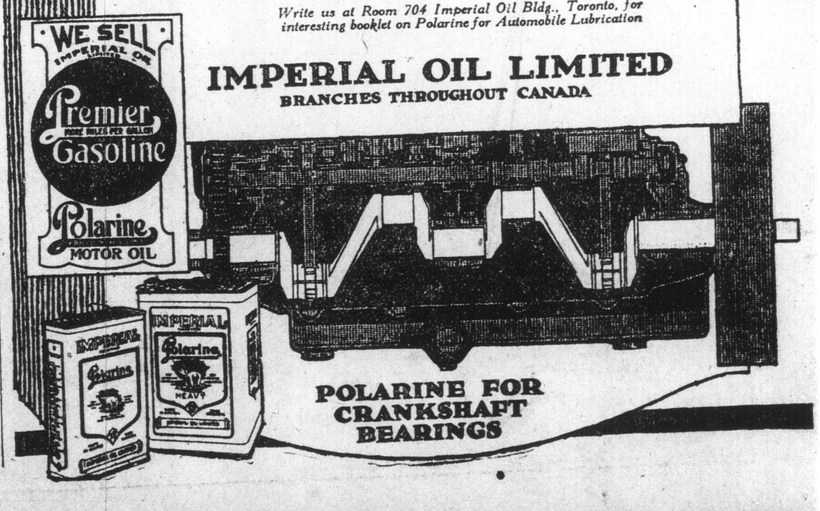

Polarine FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

has the right body to adequately lubricate every wearing part in your motor. It keeps your engine running smoothly with a wear-reducing film of oil that does not break down and run thin under the intense heat developed at high speed operation. It flows freely in low or high temperatures—insures full delivery of power the year round.

Polarine is made in two grades—Polarine and Polarine Heavy. It is supplied in one-half, one and four gallon sealed cans, also in 12½ gallon steel kegs, barrels and half-barrels. There are also Polarine oils and greases for effective transmission and differential lubrication.

Buy Polarine where you get Premier Gasoline—at the sign of the "Red Ball."

LINKING UP OF FARMERS WITH LABOR STARTS

Move to Secure Union Here Already Made by Rural Representatives.

MUTUAL SUPPORT IDEA

Labor Candidates in Urban Ridings to Get Agriculturists' Votes.

Will there be a union of farmers' organizations and labor in political life of Canada?

A move along this line has been made in London. Recently officials of the farmers' organizations approached officials of the local trades and labor council and asked that they join hands. They contended that there was nothing left for the farmers and labor unions to do to protect themselves from the inroads of the capitalists. They made it clear that they wanted no truck or trade with Bolsheviki and Socialists.

The suggestion of the farmers was that labor should support any candidates that they would name in rural sections and they would support labor candidates in the cities, towns and villages.

To show their earnestness in their move the farmers, it is understood, have decided that they will join with the labor men in the local Labor Day parade and celebration in September.

DEPUTY REGISTRAR EFFORTS CERTAINLY NO BED OF ROSES

All Manner of Registrants Give Some Hard Time.

WOMEN NOT GOOD SPORTS

This Is Mother's Soliloquy, After Being Pushed Out of Line.

The drug store was a third filled with waiters in the registration line, but the reporter was seized with an inspiration to stay and do the deed there and then, and see what was going on.

There was a Chinaman who arrived about the same time, perhaps a bit ahead, and his Oriental politeness dictated that he should stand back for the lady and allow her to take precedence. The lady also having retained some manners, and begged to stand upon the order of arrival, whereupon Chin Wing Ching (or something to that effect) firmly stood upon his first decision, and an Alphonse-Gaston camouflage dialogue followed in broken Chinese and Chinese-flavored English.

In the meantime the mob was moving up and others were gathering to form the rearguard.

"Women aren't very good sports, are they?" said a quiet little mother, who was keeping an anxious eye on the door through which her small boy had disappeared a minute or two before. She had been elbowed out of her position at least three times by pushing women who lacked the Chinaman's feeling for a square deal all round.

Just at this moment a newcomer darkened the doorway as she swept in and brushed everybody else aside. Confusion meant nothing to her. Her elbows were good and sharp, and she used them ruthlessly. People were jostled out of the way right and left while the lady shoved herself right up to the counter. But this is where the others got their revenge. They listened, shamelessly listened, while she gave her answers. Doubtless many older people had registered here that day, but there was a gasp and smile when the Lady of the Elbows replied to the question, "Age?" by saying "Thirty-seven." Accomplishing her purpose, she elbowed her way out again, leaving a score or so of people probably as busy as she still unattended to, even if they had arrived before her.

"It would take a traffic cop to manage some women," said a man indignantly.

Chin Wing Ching stood next the reporter when the momentous moment of registration arrived. The girl on the other side of the counter looked and voiced her despair. "I CAN'T register him," she said. "One of the men will have to do it."

"Go ahead," said the cheerful-looking man who had been waiting in line for almost half an hour. "I'll bet his name isn't as bad as mine."

By dint of strangling efforts at conversation and expressive gesticulation, Mr. Chin made it understood that he was a Chinese, a "Presbytelian," and 27 years of age.

The young registrar gasped with relief as this registrant turned away, and smilingly indicated it was the turn next of the cheerful big man.

"What is your name in full?" she asked.

"Llewellyn Roderick——" said the man gravely.

"Wh-a-at?" exclaimed the girl.

"Llewellyn," he replied.

"Goodness, what kind of a name is that!" said the girl. "How do you spell it? Luland?"

"No, no!" answered the man laughing. "I told you it was going to be worse than Chinese."

CHRONIC DESERTER IS SENTENCED TO 2 YEARS

Kingston, June 22.—Pte. Robt. Lilley, who made his escape from Barriefield Camp on Thursday, was arraigned in police court this morning and pleading guilty to the charge of desertion, was sentenced to two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary.

Lilley has an unenviable record as a deserter. He asked the magistrate today for the chance to return to France, but was told that he would have to apply to the minister of militia.

Until she left the city, the bride was an active member of Mrs. Cornish's Young Ladies' Bible Class. They will take up their residence at Stevensville.

LOCAL NEWS

ON SUMMER VACATION.—The students of St. Peter's Seminary are leaving today for their summer vacation, and will not return to the school until September.

PREMIER MARTIN IN FRANCE.—Hon. W. M. Martin, premier of Saskatchewan, son of Rev. W. M. Martin and Mrs. Martin, South London, is visiting the Canadian front in France, in company with the premiers of Alberta and Manitoba.

74 PERMITS.—Seventy-four building permits have been issued by the city building inspector so far this month. They total $38,130. Thomas Fortner, Wharncliffe road, took out the latest permit. He will erect a $2,400 two-story dwelling.

USUAL RUNAWAY.—A team belonging to George Rawlings, 750 Trafalgar street, ran away this morning, going south on Rectory street. Several children narrowly escaped injury. There was no damage done, however, as the team ran to the stable, where it was stopped.

SIXTH OF SERIES.—On Sunday evening, in Talbot Street Baptist Church, Rev. H. H. Bingham will preach the sixth sermon of a series on "Messages Gleaned From the World Conflict," the subject being "Spiritual Aviation." The Sunday school orchestra will assist in the song service, and little Miss Ruby Werner will sing.

FLOWER SUNDAY TOMORROW.—Tomorrow will be "flower Sunday" in Adelaide Street Baptist Church. The morning preacher will be the Rev. F. Patrick Dennison, the popular pastor of Centre Street Baptist Church, St. Thomas. In the evening the pastor will conduct the service and speak on "The Greatest of All Mistakes."

COASTED INTO ACCIDENT.—Coasting down Ontario street near Dundas, on Friday, Lenore Flanagan, 870 Dundas street, ran into the delivery wagon of J. Mahon, 872 Dundas street, but she escaped with only a few scratches. Bystanders say that she was fortunate, as it was feared she would have been seriously injured.

PRAYER MEETING LEADERS.—The noonday prayer meetings are being continued in Cronyn Hall, the leaders for next week being as follows: Monday, Canon Sage; Tuesday, Rev. W. E. Pescott; Wednesday, Rev. A. C. Bingham; Thursday, Rev. W. R. McIntosh; Friday, Rev. H. W. H. Claris; Saturday, Ensign Snowdon.

$300 DAMAGES ASKED.—Action has been entered in the county court by G. W. Weaver against the C. P. R. to recover $300 damages for the death of two cows and expenses paid to a veterinary for the care of two other cows, made necessary by the alleged negligence of the defendants in not caring for them properly while being shipped from Winnipeg to Belmont.

LOTS OF SCHOOL FUEL.—All the schools of the city burning soft coal are well supplied with fuel for the coming winter with the exception of the collegiate institute, and the two cars necessary to complete its supply are now on the way. All told there are about 1,500 tons of soft coal in the different schools. There are some which burn hard coal and an adequate supply for these is not as yet to hand.

MAKING GOOD RECOVERY.—John Petfield, 88 Blackfriars street, a painter of the bridge and building department of the Grand Trunk, who was injured when he fell 20 feet from a bridge at Dundas ten days ago, is as well as can be expected under the circumstances. He is now at his home here. The bone of his left foot was broken by the fall and the right foot sprained. He will be confined to his home for some time.

SOLDIER INJURED.—Sapper A. T. Friday of the Service Company, Canadian Engineers, is in the military hospital at Carling Heights Camp suffering from bruises received shortly before noon Friday, when he was knocked down by a Ford car on Waterloo street, between Princess and Central. The A. M. C. ambulance was called and hurried him to the hospital, but on examination it was found that no bones were broken.

EGERTON STREET ANNIVERSARY.—Tomorrow is to be anniversary Sunday at Egerton Street Baptist Church, when special services will be held, and Principal A. T. MacNeill of Woodstock College will preach at both services. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock he will address the Baraca Class. The Sunday school meeting will be featured by a special tableau put on by the children. This is the fourth anniversary of the building of the church.

PERMANENT SHOW.—The members of the Horticultural Society are keeping up the flower show at the library in a semi-permanent way, the tables and the office being filled at present with named roses, largely from the garden of Mr. McNaughton. Other members are contributing from time to time to keep up the interest, and it is proposed next week to again fill the northwest room with an exhibit of roses, in which all the members will be invited to take part.

DEFENDANT GOT COSTS—Through an error it was stated in last Wednesday's issue of The Advertiser, in a report of the Moorehouse vs. Moorehouse case tried at the supreme court, that costs in the action were awarded to the plaintiff. The action was brought by Mrs. Hannah Moorehouse, Euphemia Township, Lambton County, against her son, Manley Stafford Moorehouse, to secure possession of the farm on which he lives. The report in The Advertiser stated that Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge dismissed the action brought by the mother of the defendant, which was the case, but in error stated that costs were awarded to the plaintiff, Mrs. Hannah Moorehouse. The costs were awarded to the defendant, Manley S. Moorehouse, who, under the judgment, also retains possession of the farm.

WON MULOCK SCHOLARSHIP.—At the graduation exercises of Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, held this week, Miss Marjorie McBride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McBride, this city, was awarded the Sir William Mulock scholarship for general proficiency in the senior division of the intermediate year. The presentation was made by proxy, owing to the fact that Miss McBride is at present in New York, taking the three months' training in Manhattan Hospital, the privilege of those taking the training course in Wellesley Hospital, which is affiliated with the New York institution. Social service work figures largely in the special training in Manhattan, taken up in connection with a settlement house. The clever young London girl, who has taken a high standing since entering Wellesley, completes her three months in New York the end of this month.

DELIGHT AUDIENCE.—Vocal pupils of Miss Belle Brown delighted a large audience at Conservatory Hall last evening. The vocalists appearing ranged in age and experience from the tot of seven years to the professional singer, but each one sang with an ease, clear enunciation and beauty of expression that made their work extremely pleasing. Those on the program were: Misses Delia Packham, Oda Reith, Grace Crouse, Peggy Willgoose, Mildred McGuffin, Viola Stevens, Marie Forbes, Mildred Pocock, Pearl Ruskey, Alberta George, Leila Ironside, Gladys Stanfield, Bertha Armstrong, Elsie Orr, Lydia Torrans, Eva Metcalfe, Myrtle Robinson, Louise McCulloch, Gladys Gray, Mrs. Edgar Leakey. They were assisted by Misses Winnifred Whetter, Gladys Roedding, May Secker and Gladys Gray, piano pupils of Miss Rennie; Delia Packham and Walter Rennie, violin pupils of Miss Dewey; Lilla Baskette and Rena McPherson, elocution pupils of Miss Newbury.

MEAN CHICKEN THIEF BUSY AT TALBOTVILLE

ST. THOMAS, June 21.—A mean chicken thief visited the coop of Mrs. Thomas Fife, at Talbotville, and got away with thirty-seven birds. Mrs. Fife's husband died not long ago, and her son has had to report for military service, and she is endeavoring to work a hundred-acre farm.

The Hundred Per Cent Volunteers

We have never thrown bricks or registered kicks
At the boys who are known as "draftees,"
For they come of a stock that will withstand the shock,
When they're facing the Huns overseas.
When their turn comes to go to lock horns with the foe,
We shall watch with proud zeal their careers,
For they'll play the same game that has won lasting fame,
For the hundred per cent volunteers.

They perform with good will the route march and squad drill,
And they're learning to handle a gun.
They are husky and raw, but there's trouble in store
When they're fit to let loose on the Hun.
There's a glint in our eye as we watch them march by,
And we join with the crowd in the cheers,
While our heart sobs with pride for the brave lads who died
As a hundred per cent volunteers.

REGISTRAR EXPECTS COMPLETE REGISTRATION IN LONDON; RETURNS LIGHT THIS MORNING

Weather Interferes With Expected Rush—Even Distribution of Booths and Adherence to Requested Use of Nearest Ones Facilitates Work of the Deputies Today.

Registration in London and East Middlesex today under the manhood and womanhood power bill is proceeding without the slightest confusion. Owing to the unseasonable weather which prevailed all morning the registration was not as heavy as anticipated. This afternoon and this evening, it is expected, crowds will be at all the registration places.

Registrar R. A. Bayly for London and Registrar W. C. Fitzgerald for East Middlesex, stated today that complete registration was expected in both ridings.

"I expect there will be few unregistered persons in London by 10 o'clock tonight," said Registrar Bayly.

The advice of Registrar Bayly to all persons to go to the registration booths nearest their homes is being generally accepted today, and as a result the duties of the deputies and assistants in all parts of the city are being evenly distributed. Motor cars are being used extensively to convey many persons to the booths.

It is estimated by Registrar Bayly that at least 44,000 persons will be registered in London, and this number may be considerably exceeded as many from outside points have signed cards in the city.

In the riding of East Middlesex it is estimated by Registrar Fitzgerald that over 20,000 persons will be registered.

At the Aberdeen School, Hamilton road, today a long line of foreigners, unable to speak English, waited their turns to answer questions put to them by the assistants through interpreters provided. Registration at this school was perhaps the heaviest during the forenoon of all places in the city.

TAGGERS CHEERFUL DESPITE WEATHER; RESPONSE IS GOOD

7th Regiment, I. O. D. E., Canvassers Stir Up Warmth.

AIDS HOSPITAL FUNDS

Funds Raised Today Go To Shorncliffe Institution.

Noses pink and pinched, and fingers nipping, taggers who are today helping to raise money for the soldiers' comforts and hospital supplies work of the 7th Regiment Chapter, I. O. D. E. stood gallantly by their posts this forenoon, meeting a kindly response from the public. Prominent among the assistants were a number of returned soldiers, some of whom came into the headquarters in the Royal Bank Building at noon, cheerful, but decidedly chilly.

The viewpoint of the workers depended largely upon the kind of clothes worn. One woman who arrived, her face wreathed with smiles, and declaring it was a splendid day, had taken the precaution to don a big, woolly coat to protect her against wind and weather.

"One old man over in the market let me it was too cold to be tagged today," she said. "I answered that if he would give something to help buy the wool to make socks for the cold, tired, wet feet of soldiers in the trenches next fall and winter, it would make his heart so warm, he would be warm all the rest of the day. He laughed and said he guessed I was right."

Mrs. T. J. Murphy, regent of the 7th Regiment Chapter, has general charge of the tag day operations, not only at the headquarters, but is also directing a team of a dozen or so. Among those who are giving out tags and counting the money are: Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. W. Mills, Mrs. Edwin Paull, Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell, treasurer of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., and Mrs. A. A. Campbell, organizing secretary of the Municipal Chapter.

About one hundred boxes are out, and among the team captains are the following: Mesdames J. Cahill, Stanbury, R. C. Barklie, Barclay, Frank Smith, Carleton, Dunlevy, A. C. Joseph, Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. W. H. Smith.

The funds raised will be used to provide socks for the soldiers in the trenches and supplies for the Queen Alexandra Canadian Hospital at Shorncliffe. The 7th Regiment Chapter, by the way, had the honor of endowing the first two beds in the military hospital.

CHILDREN WEEP WHEN COURT GIVES THEM TO FATHER

Tell High Court Justice They Prefer Foster Parents.

JUDGMENT NOT FINAL

Decision Will Be Handed Down On August 1st.

Judgment that the father, Frederick Frobisher of St. Louis, Mo., is entitled to his two children, now in the custody of foster parents, was given today by Chief Justice of the Common Pleas R. M. Meredith at a sitting of the weekly high court at the court house.

The application to have the children restored to the father was granted provisionally. The father must first show that he is financially capable of caring for his two children. An opportunity is provided for the foster parents to make any application they may see fit, and that such representations would be given careful consideration before final judgment was announced was intimated by the presiding judge. Final judgment in the case will not be made before August 1, during which time the father and foster parents will present additional evidence.

The children, girls of 13 and 7 years of age, were questioned at length by Chief Justice Meredith, and both expressed a desire to remain with the foster parents instead of with the father.

When the meaning of the judge's decision was understood by the children, they both wept bitterly.

The children were placed in care of the Salvation Army at St. Thomas by the grandmother. They had been allowed to go on a visit to the grandmother, who handed them over to the Salvation Army Home, her claim at the time being that the father was incapable of caring for them.

CANADA FOOD BOARD ISSUES WARNING ON EXPORTING OF FLOUR

Too Much Being Taken Across Line to U. S.

Ottawa, June 22.—The Canada Food Board is determined to stop the practice of persons without a license transporting flour across the international boundary into the United States. Some time ago the food board was informed that certain persons, who proved to be citizens of the United States, were coming across the border to Cornwall and other points in Canada, buying flour and taking it across the line in automobiles or in other ways. This situation was partially met, but recently reports have been received that Indians are buying flour in Canada and taking it across to the other side of the boundary, where it is delivered to certain persons and taken away.

The food board cautions all dealers not to sell flour to persons who are not residents of Canada, and who have not secured a special permit from the Canada Food Board to export flour. Dealers are also warned not to sell to Indians if they have reason to suspect that the latter are attempting to purchase more flour than will be required for their own use.

It is pointed out that the exportation of flour without a license is prohibited by order-in-council, and that any person so exporting flour or assisting in its exportation is liable to a heavy penalty. Measures are being taken to see that the order is strictly enforced.

DELIBERATE PLAN TO BOMB HOSPITAL

Kingston, June 22.—In a letter received in the city from one of the nurses attached to Queen's Hospital in Etaples, France, this nurse says that at the time the hospital was bombed by the Germans they had some miraculous escapes. Providentially at the time of the bombing most of the staff and nurses were in one of the "huts" in attendance at a concert. Incidentally it is worth noting that one of the German aviators was brought down by one of the British airmen. When brought to the hospital the German was surprised to find how little damage he had done, exclaiming that he had not expected to find a chicken alive, thus clearly indicating the deliberate intention and effort to bomb the hospital with all its wounded and sick.

SCHOOL FEES HIGH AS PROVINCE ALLOWS

Explanation Made of Allegations Made at Commission.

At the meeting of the utilities commission on Thursday charges were made that county pupils attending city schools were not charged enough. The amount which may be charged is limited by the Government to the cost of educating these pupils, and at present those from the county attending city schools pay $2.30 a month, the present estimated cost.

Secretary R. M. McElheran of the board of education, says that there are not more than 20, and he doubts if there are 10 such pupils in the schools of the city. The county pays 80 per cent of the cost of educating its pupils at the high school, and last year paid the board close to $6,000.

BOLSHEVIKI ROUT SEMENOFF ARMY IN EASTERN SIBERIA

Enters Manchuria and Is Caught by Superior Forces.

Harbin, Wednesday, June 19.—Gen. Semenoff's movement against the Bolsheviki in Eastern Siberia has proved definitely abortive, in the opinion of British and French military observers in Manchuria.

Although not defeated in battle, Gen. Semenoff has been surrounded by superior forces and obliged to retreat into Manchuria, there being no other course. The Chinese authorities have demanded that he disarm on crossing the frontier and surrender his cannon and munitions. Gen. Semenoff has refused the demand, but recognizes that unless a third power intervenes the surrender of his arms is imperative.

Germans Aid Reds.

The Bolshevik forces operating along the trans-Siberian Railway and against Gen. Semenoff are assisted by from two to three thousand released German and Austrian prisoners. Good discipline is being enforced and the army has two airplanes in use.

All the Cossacks recruited in conquered territory by Gen. Semenoff have gone over to the Bolsheviki in order to preserve their homes and protect their families. They joined Semenoff gladly, but his retreat left their possessions at the mercy of the Bolsheviki. Their attitude is said to be that it is useless for Russians alone to fight the Bolsheviki and released prisoners.

It is reported that the forces under Gen. Orloff, which had been ordered to assist Gen. Semenoff, had decided not to advance, believing that it is useless to continue the struggle against the Bolsheviki. On the Eastern Manchurian front on June 17 independent forces under Gen. Kalmakoff attacked the Bolsheviki at Grodekova. The Bolsheviki were driven back in a brief engagement but counter-attacked and compelled Kalmakoff to retreat to Pogfranitchnaya.

COMING TO SPRINGBANK.—The third annual basket picnic of the Ford owners of Alvinston and vicinity will be held at Springbank Park on Monday, July 1. A big attendance is expected.

PASTORS TO SPEAK IN GUELPH PULPITS ON NOVITIATE CASE

Claim Is Made Govt. Has Not Got All Facts.

DEMAND AN INQUIRY

No Charges Made and Is Not Case of Religious Intolerance.

Guelph, June 22.—Strong expressions continued to be heard around the streets of Guelph regarding the novitiate affair, but the statement of the department of militia and defence goes a long way to meet the objection raised.

The point that causes the greatest discussion here is the two-year probationary period that some at the novitiate are entitled to enter upon, and whether, this being the case, the students are entitled to exemption under the act. Rev. Dr. Palmer said this morning that he was satisfied with the statement so far as it went, but he thought the department had not all the facts.

Statement by Preachers.

Rev. D. Spence, president of the Guelph Ministerial Association, refused to express an opinion until he had carefully considered the department's statement. He declared, however, that a statement would be ready in some of the Protestant churches of the city tomorrow, which would explain their positions. This statement will be read by Rev. Dr. Gordon in the Baptist Church, Rev. K. H. Palmer in St. Paul's Presbyterian, Rev. H. B. Christie in Dublin Street Methodist, Rev. E. A. Pearson in Norfolk Street Methodist Church, and Rev. D. Spence in the Congregational. It is understood that the intention is not to preach sermons or in any way doing anything that might stir up trouble, but feeling that equal rights are not being accorded to all, the ministerial associations will express their views on the matter. So far as can be learned there is no intention of proceed with the holding of an indignation meeting, as was first planned, which has been held in some quarters to be illegal.

The fact that the heads of the Novitiate have gone closely into the bonafides of every member of the institution here was revealed this morning by its prompt reply furnished the military authorities with reference to the two novices, John O'Halloran and John Holland, who are not registered under the M. S. A. One, the reply stated, is an American student and the other was tonsured years ago in Kitchener, and has been a member of the local novitiate for some time.

Are All Facts Out.

Rev. Mr. Palmer will deal with the question in his sermon tomorrow evening, and says he will produce proofs to substantiate their contention that the Government has not got all the facts. The statement to be given out by the Ministerial Association will declare: "That our attitude is not one of religious intolerance. The issues involved are of universal interest, and consequently of universal obligation. The association has not initiated this matter nor is it inspired by it. The association makes no charges, but seeks investigation of charges of the authorities. If the M. S. A. holds anyone responsible who shields a defaulter, an institution charged with harboring 22 should also be held responsible.

"We, as pastors, refuse to be regarded as a class who have no right to interfere in such matters, or as being incompetent or incapable of holding leaders in the communities or in the charges to which we have been called for such purpose."

HYDRO OPERATORS IN CITY SERVICE ASK MORE MONEY

Petition For Reconsideration of Case Presented.

It is understood that trouble is brewing among the operators of the utilities commission. They are said to be dissatisfied with the increase in salary recently granted on the grounds that they were inequitable, and have recently presented a demand to General Manager E. V. Buchanan that their cases should be reconsidered.

The operatives involved are those engaged at the city pumphouses. The Springbank workers long ago expressed their dissatisfaction on their half loaf of bread a day increase.

It is said that the operators point out that the commission was shortsighted in its dealings with its linemen in not granting them an increase. Four of their best and most experienced men have since left for other cities, where the wages are much higher.

These Days Whisper "Springbank"

Springbank, where the flowers bloom, the songbirds revel in the shaded woodlands and chipmunks scamper as the young deer graze.

Breathe exhilaration, life itself, where the back-to-nature happiness even gets to those caged old man bears, and makes them box and spar and wrestle with cub exuberance.

These days you tire of dusty, blazing city streets, and grow languid breathing "second-hand air." Go with the merrymakers to Springbank.

A straight five-cent cash fare takes you down; another nickel brings you back—more than ten miles of nerve-resting, scenic loveliness, that puts pep in your step and a grip in your fist, for a dime. Less than one cent a mile for the cheapest, prettiest ride in America.

You use no tickets on the Springbank line; transfers are neither issued nor accepted.

Outstanding Springbank tickets will not be accepted for fares, but will be redeemed at our offices, or by the inspector at Dundas and Richmond streets.

A National Asset

ESPECIALLY in these days when thrift is patriotism, you can conscientiously own a motor car. It is a mistaken idea of economy that would prompt you to put off buying one.

Clear thinking men realize today that the automobile is absolutely essential to business and domestic life. One prominent manufacturer has said: "Take the telephone, the wireless and the automobile out of our lives and we would retrograde fifty years."

National economy is a thing to be applied carefully, and with a view to preserving the interests of commerce and business in the healthiest possible state.

The realization is growing everywhere that anything that will speed up production, that will serve to get things done more rapidly, that increases man's personal efficiency is a big national asset. The automobile is an essential utility today because it is doing these things.

GARBAGE COMMITTEE WILL DO ITS BEST TO IMPROVE SERVICE

Engineer Hopes to Cover City Twice a Week Now.

TRYING ZONE SYSTEM

City Will Be Divided Into Three Areas for Collection.

During the recent garbage trouble the city fathers heard some distressing and pointed remarks about the garbage system as it has existed heretofore. They made an impression. This was evidenced last night at the meeting of the special garbage committee. They met to consider ways and means of improving the system with the least possible delay. The committee went after it with a vim. They clearly showed that they were desirous of doing something. There was no dearth of ideas. Many of these were mentioned only. For the most part they involved large money expenditures. What was wanted was a method to improve the system without adding to the present equipment.

The full number of collectors is now back on the job, and Engineer Brazier has put into force his scheme to divide the city into sections and keep the 19 collecting outfits in the different zones at the same time. This, it is hoped, will greatly improve the service when it has been sufficiently tried out and any defects that may make themselves apparent are remedied.

Twice a Week.

By the zone system the engineer hopes to be able to cover the city twice a week. The garbage area is divided into three sections, stretching from east to west. North of St. James street a cart will be kept at work all the time, also for South London. The northern boundary of the first zone is St. James. Monday morning all carts start out stretched from east to west across this line. Monday they are supposed to cover south to a boundary of West London, Central avenue, Adelaide and Dundas streets. Tuesday they start in zone 2, which is south of the first, to Askin, Grey, Clarence, Horton, Waterloo, Colborne, Bathurst, Adelaide and the Grand Trunk east. Wednesday they start on zone 3, which is the remaining portion of the city lying south of this southern boundary of zone 2. Thursday morning they start at zone 1 again and cover the city by the end of the week.

Will Do His Best.

The engineer does not say that his men will be able to cover these zones in the day. He estimates that they will be thereabouts on the days in question. He also points out that he had a number of green collectors, so that it will take some days to get the system working properly, and the seventeen routes in each zone split up so that each man will be able to cover his allotted ground daily.

His system was considered by the committee as the most feasible that has yet been presented. Mr. Brazier points out that under this system each collector will start out each morning except Monday and Thursday, where he left off the night before. In other words each man will do a strip of the city from north to south. They will always be working from the stable in the north to the incinerator in the south.

Big Advantage.

Another big advantage that appealed to the committee is that with all the men working in a small zone, Supt. Walker should experience little or no difficulty in keeping a constant check on his men. The committee have some tall plans for the superintendent in getting after the collectors. These will doubtless be broken to him gently by the engineer. They include checking up the number of calls each man has on his route to see that the division of the work is equitable, and that all do their share. They would also have him inspect the yards and make the citizens conversant with the regulations of the system.

Want to Try.

The committee is earnest about giving the engineer's plan a real tryout. In this connection Mr. Brazier offered a couple of suggestions which led the committee to decide to have the garbage regulations advertised and added to these will be one admonishing all householders to wrap their garbage. This has a two-fold advantage, applicable to the different seasons of the year. In the summer wrapped garbage does not draw the flies. It is easier to handle. In the winter it does not freeze to the bottom of the can. The result is that the can is always emptied clean and is not hammered to pieces by the collectors in trying to get the garbage out of the bottom.

The committee will urge every citizen to co-operate in this. During the strike there were many strong things said about the garbage system. The members of the committee realize that there is room for improvement, but declare that to bring the system up to the expectations of the people and to what it really ought to be there must be co-operation on the part of the public. Two excellent ways in which they can do this are to wrap the garbage and see that their cans are in a place easily accessible to the garbage men.

It was pointed out that a vast improvement could be made in the system were the stables centrally located. The engineer suggested that stables and other city plants should be located in the one place. To erect and equip suitable buildings would cost $50,000. This is out of the question in war times.

Suggest Motors.

Ald. S. R. Manness suggested that a system of motors with trailers replace the horse and the dump cart. His plan was that trailers be placed along the streets. The collectors with a horse would fill them up and leave them on the street when filled. They would then hook onto another trailer and go along. The trucks would gather up the trailers and take a few at a time to the incinerator. There would be a great saving of time in not having the slow-going carts going off to the incinerator.

Controller Moore said he had discussed a plan somewhat similar to that of the alderman's. His idea was to have the trailers travel east and west and motors travel north and south.

Mayor Somerville said he thought the idea worth looking into. It was a matter that could be easily tried out.

Ald. Drake suggested that a big garbage truck in each section might work out better.

Engineer Brazier said this was not feasible. He said he would go into the matter with Ald. Manness and figure out the number of trailers that would be needed. He suggested, however, that if they could get away from the carts and replace them with large wagons they would do well. He said that to be of use the trailers would have to be equal to three times what the wagon would do. To operate a heavy truck would be equal to the cost of keeping two teams.

Controller Saunders said that Toronto was doing away with carts and using single wagons.

The engineer said the average haul to the incinerator was a little over a mile. Over three miles the motors would be better.

Old Ideas Die Hard

But when you tire of treating eczema internally as a blood disease and apply Dr. Chase's Ointment you will soon be convinced which form of treatment is most effective.

Naturally and gradually the skin is healed as you apply this soothing, antiseptic ointment. The new skin is soft and smooth, and you only wonder that you did not try this treatment sooner.

RAISE TAXI LICENSE WILL BE PLEA OF DRIVERS TO COUNCIL

Local Men Would Eliminate "Occasionals" If Possible.

The city council at its next meeting will have a delegation of licensed taxi drivers, with a request that the city license for taxis be increased from $5 to $25. Their contention is that there are certain owners of cars in the city who are not dependant for their living on what they make out of the taxi business. However, when there are some good fares to be picked up they jump in and take the cream of the profit off the regular drivers. They hope that the higher license, with proper police checking, will put a ban on those who make inroads on their incomes.

DENTAL STUDENTS IN RANKS OF C.A.D.C. PASS SUCCESSFULLY

Make Good Showing in Annual Examinations.

The combined examination results of the dental department, Toronto University, and the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario have been announced, and included in the list of successful students are several local boys. In the third year Sergt. Roy A. Wright of the Dental Corps and a well-known Londoner, passed, as did also Sergts. J. A. Milne, W. L. Hughill, S. A. Moore and Wilson Smith of the same corps stationed here.

In the special second year exams for sergeants, Sergt. A. Gemeroy of the Dental Corps, having been called for service, was granted his year. In the first year H. L. Windrim, who is 18 years of age, passed sixth in a large class. He has offered his services to the Government, but was turned down on account of his age. A. F. Barnes of the Dental Corps stationed here was also successful in passing his exams in the first year.

The exams, according to reports received, were difficult this year, but it is interesting to note that every student now on the strength of the Dental Corps at Carling Heights was successful in passing at Toronto.

ONLY ONE LEFT.—One girl, a pupil of the commercial department of the collegiate institute, has the doubtful honor of being the only smallpox sufferer in the city now. Since the first case was reported, there have been twelve in all discovered. Ten came from one factory, and two from the collegiate. Eleven have been cured and regained their liberty. The one lone sufferer is progressing rapidly and will be out in a short time.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, June 22.—Oats opened ¼c to ½c up for July at 67¼@67½c; October, ¼c to ¾c higher at 75@75½c.

Flax, 1c up for July; October, 1½c higher.

There were 204 cars of all grades inspected here yesterday, as compared with 797 on the same date last year.

Chicago, June 22.—Opening: Corn—July, $1 43¾.

Oats—July, 72¾c; August, 69⅜c.

Chicago, June 22.—Excellent crop conditions and the effectual breaking of the hot wave had a bearish influence today on corn. Besides, uncertainty in regard to the scope of the latest restrictions on trading tended to make buyers cautious. Much commission house selling was in evidence, and there was noticeable lack of support. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ⅜c lower, with July at $1 43¾@1 43¾, and August at $1 46⅝@1 46½, were followed by slight rallies and then a decided downturn all around.

Oats gave way with corn. Offerings plainly exceeded the demand. After opening unchanged to ¼c off, with July at 72⅝@72¾c, the market suffered a material setback.

WALL STREET WEEKLY REVIEW.

New York, June 22.—Weekly Financial Review.—War news seemed less of a direct factor in this week's stock market than at any similar period since the inception of the German drive on the western front. In the main, bulletins from France and Italy had only occasional effect, leading financial interests continuing to await the outcome with undiminished confidence.

Developments at home exerted greater influence, albeit these were sometimes conflicting. Crop conditions as indicated by the official weather report maintained their brilliant promise, money rates eased visibly in the local market and industrial production continued at high pressure.

More gold was received from Canada, making a total of $30,000,000 for the movement, and foreign remittances varied only slightly, aside from the further strengthening of lires, or Italian exchange, and some heaviness in rates to Spain. Rails were in a state of deadlock, investment issues holding firm within circumscribed limits, although prospects favor a revision of the proposed form of contract with the Government.

United States Steel and affiliated industrials and equipments were strong, the former attaining its highest level since the payment of the last quarterly dividend, but prices eased later in the week, when doubt was expressed of the war board's attitude towards a higher price schedule.

WALL STREET.

New York, June 22.—Stocks became active and strong in the last half of todays brief session, after early irregularity. United States Steel, Baldwin Locomotive and other industrials and equipments led the sharp rally at 1 to 4-point gains. Tobaccos and leathers represented the specialties at 1 to 2½ points advances. The balance of the list showed no material changes, except General Motors, which came forward at the end. Rails hardened, but most of the trading in that group was confined to low grade issues. Shippings, coppers and oils were inclined to yield. The closing was strong.

New York, June 22—Wall Street, 10:10 a.m.—Irregular changes, in which gains and losses were evenly distributed, marked the irregular opening of today's stock dealings. In no important instance did prices vary more than half a point.

10:30 a.m.—Speculative stocks were the only prominent features in the dull early period of today's trading. Tobaccos gained 1 to almost 2 points, Great Northern Ore a point, and a few inactive specialties were fractionally higher. United States Steel and related industrials and equipments were not adversely affected by the war industries board's failure to advance prices. Shippings, coppers and motors were irregular. Liberty bonds varied slightly.

SUBMARINE OPERATIONS BOOST RAW SUGAR PRICE

NEW YORK, June 21.—Activities of German submarines in the ocean lanes traversed by sugar-laden ships between Cuba and the United States ports have so increased marine insurance that the committee of the shippers have announced an advance in the price of imported raw sugar here today.

"Effective at the opening of business, June 24," said the announcement to the trade, "the basic price upon which refiners' selling margin must be based will be 6.55 cents per pound delivered, duty paid, for 96 centrifugal sugar, New York. Such basic price will be continued until further notice."

ESSEX WOMEN HEAR EXCELLENT REPORTS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Much Patriotic Work Done During Year by the Institutes.

LEAMINGTON, June 21.—The 11th annual district meeting of the South Essex Women's Institutes, held in the Methodist Church, was attended by 90 delegates.

Mrs. William Manson gave an excellent report of the president's work.

The report of last year's work, including individual reports prepared by branch secretaries and auditors' report by Mrs. A. F. Clark showed a very prosperous year. A great deal of patriotic work was done by the institute members.

After luncheon the following address of welcome was given by the local president, Mrs. George Fox:

"Madam President and Ladies,—The most pleasant duty of the day has fallen to my lot of tendering to you a very hearty welcome to our town. We are proud to have you here and to listen to the reports you bring of the good and helpful work which is being carried on by the branch institutes represented here today.

"The responsibility is largely ours to uplift and maintain the dignity of work for after all the work-a-day life of the town should be and is given the proper place in our lives; and what dignity of home keeping and the uplifting of the standard of the home is the greatest mission that falls to the lot of we women. Not many years ago it was a deplorable fact (chiefly among the men of our country) that women were more and more going out into the wild field of commercial activity. They imagined we were getting further and further away from the homes of our mothers' and grandmothers' time. We confess we have gotten away, largely through the teachings of the Women's Institute, by simplifying our housekeeping, using modern labor-saving devices, cooking less unnecessary food and many other ways, but we contend that our homes today are just as clean and well-kept, the children just as well clothed, fed and cared for, as in the days of our ancestors.

"The great war which has been upon us for nearly four years has been a great means of bringing woman into her own sphere, and I think that the women of this country have demonstrated that they have in them the required energy and material to undertake and complete the work which has been thrust upon them.

"Since our institutes were organized we have gone from the simple principles of cooking and hygiene to the deepest principles of character-building and house-making, and have cultivated a broader outlook on life in general and whether rich or poor we may cultivate the spirit of happiness and contentment, and impart to those around us the brighter side of life. It is not what we have, but what we are that counts. Again, on behalf of our Leamington branch, I extend to you a hearty welcome to our midst."

The afternoon session dealt with the reports from branch presidents on work not included in the secretary's report.

Mrs. Ira Pastorius of Kingsville was elected president; Mrs. Hugh Wigle, vice-president; Mrs. A. P. Clark was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. A. D. Maxwell of Windsor spoke on "The Responsibility of the Organization of Women in the Years of War."

Ten dollars was voted to the rest-room at Windsor.

BIG SANDSTORM AT LEAMINGTON INJURES THE TOBACCO PLANTS

Onion Fields on the Marsh Were Also Damaged.

LEAMINGTON, June 21.—A sandstorm did considerable damage to the tobacco plants of several growers of Virginia leaf tobacco on the ridge.

A strong west wind blew the sand against the plants, burning and cutting them down. William Mitchell will have to replant fifteen acres, Albert Hewer five, Verne Fox four acres, and others lesser amounts.

The onion fields in the marsh were also affected by the wind and the crops damaged in places where the light soil had drifted. Here the Essex growers were the heaviest losers, but they intend to replant the land with beans.

As a result of the campaign which Rev. Dr. Albert Hall, senior chaplain for Canada, conducted here in the interest of the British Naval and Marine Institutes, a local branch of the Navy League of Canada has been organized. The following officers were elected: President, Edward Winter; vice-president, George W. Jackson; treasurer, Ernest Sharpe; secretary, George A. Campbell; executive, William T. Gregory, F. S. Moss, B. Lane, E. C. Awrey and B. W. Cox. A check for $100 was given to the local branch by W. T. Gregory.

About 90 per cent of the truck crops of this district will be sold by the Erie Co-Operative Association of this town, as the result of amalgamating with the Ruthven Cold Storage and Forwarding Company.

Henderson, were returning when their car, from causes unknown, turned turtle. Mrs. Blair escaped with a sprained ankle and severe bruises, while the other members escaped unscathed.

He was awaiting internment at Fort Leavenworth as a dangerous alien enemy. He was to have been interned for the duration of the war and then sent back to Germany as an undesirable. He was a deserter from the German army.

HELD UP HUN RAIDERS AND DROVE THEM OFF WITH HEAVY LOSSES

Owen Sound Officer Won Military Cross for Brilliant Action.

OWEN SOUND, June 21.—Lieut. Powell N. Horton, winner of the military cross, who won his commission from the ranks, on his return here was met at the station by a large gathering. He enlisted as a private in the 37th Battalion early in the war and was in France in September, 1915. He served as a sniper with his unit, and has a record of Huns to his credit. Later he was given a course in sniping and a commission, after which he was attached to the 8th Reserve Battalion, and finally returned to France in November, 1917. Soon after he won the military cross.

Lieut. Horton alone not only had held up a German raiding party, but also succeeded in shooting a number of the Germans with his revolver, and, manning a machine gun, single-handed, drove off the attacking Huns with considerable loss.

A few days afterwards he was severely wounded and was taken to a hospital.

Pte. Jack Crowe, son of Mrs. Christina Crowe, Second avenue east, has arrived in Toronto, and is expected home shortly. He was taken prisoner in April, 1917, after lying wounded five days and without any attendance. He had both legs amputated in a German hospital and a few months ago was returned to England.

W. C. T. U. DEMANDS THAT STORED LIQUOR BE COMMANDEERED

Wants Alcohol Extracted for War Purposes.

CONSCRIPT ALIEN LABOR

Attack on Government for Putting Ban on "The Fiddlers."

OTTAWA, June 21.—That the Federal Government will be asked by the W. C. T. U. to commandeer the 12,000,000 gallons of liquor now in storage and extract the alcohol for munitions purposes was the subject of a resolution unanimously passed this afternoon at the W. C. T. U. convention. This body of women will also memorialize the Government to conscript and tabulate alien labor on a war basis, as well as the industries, this latter step to insure that the extra profits reach the Government.

Mrs. Gordon Wright, the president, speaking to the latter resolution, told of secret boasts that had been made by an alien in the west only last week to a friend of herself, and thought that there should be no delay in putting through this legislation in Canada.

Other resolutions supported the action of Presbyterian General Assembly in its attack on the Senate for throwing out the amendments to the criminal code; another criticized the Government for putting the ban on Arthur Mee's "Fiddlers," by which it was stated Canada was placed in a most unique condition in the barring of free speech which does not obtain in any other Christian country.

The enactments of the legislatures made for the prevention of social diseases were indorsed. Thanks to the Government for granting to Canadian women the franchise, a W. C. T. U. declaration to continue its temperance propaganda, a pursuance of "peaceful war" against tobacco and especially the cigarette, and a request to the legislatures to prohibit the terms "beer," "bar," "wines," etc., in connection with places where drinks are sold, were among the subjects that were given hearty indorsation in resolutions.

It was decided to establish a travelers aid department in the Dominion similar to that existing in the Alberta Province. It is hoped to organize travelers aid work not only in cities, but in towns, villages and rural districts.

OTTAWA, June 21.—A. Monro Grier, K.C., of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, Ningara Falls, Ont., was elected president of the Canadian Electrical Association at the 28th annual meeting in the Chateau Laurier today. A number of interesting reports were submitted at the afternoon session, and a unique demonstration was given with the assistance of two linemen from the Ottawa Electric Company, who feigned electrocution in order that the delegates might be given an opportunity of witnessing the pronopressure method of resuscitation. The proceedings wound up tonight with a banquet in the Chateau Laurier, at which 75 persons were present.

FORMER GERMAN LINER IS SUNK IN COLLISION

Goes Down Off North Carolina—One Life Lost.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Sinking of the American steamship Schurz in collision with the American steamer Florida off the North Carolina coast early today, was announced today by the navy department. One seaman was killed, but all others of the Schurz's crew were saved.

The Schurz was the former German ship Geier, of 1,600 tons, 225 feet in length.

MORE SUGAR COMING IN; ENOUGH FOR SUMMER

MONTREAL, June 21.—An official of one of the large refineries here says that the sugar situation in Canada is steadily improving and that shipments are coming to hand more freely and in larger quantities than was thought possible some time back. There will be ample for all legitimate needs, he thinks, this summer, and no shortage for preserving. While there has been an agitation for higher prices there has been so far no serious consideration of advancing the cost of raws, and he adds that on the whole the situation is encouraging.

CURING SKIN TROUBLES

These Are Always Due to Bad Blood, Which Must Be Enriched and Purified.

So many people, both men and women, suffer from skin troubles, such as eczema, blotches, pimples and irritations that a word of advice is necessary. It is a great mistake for those suffering from troubles of this kind to smear themselves with greasy ointments. Often they could not do anything worse, for the grease clogs the pores of the troubled skin and the condition becomes actually worse.

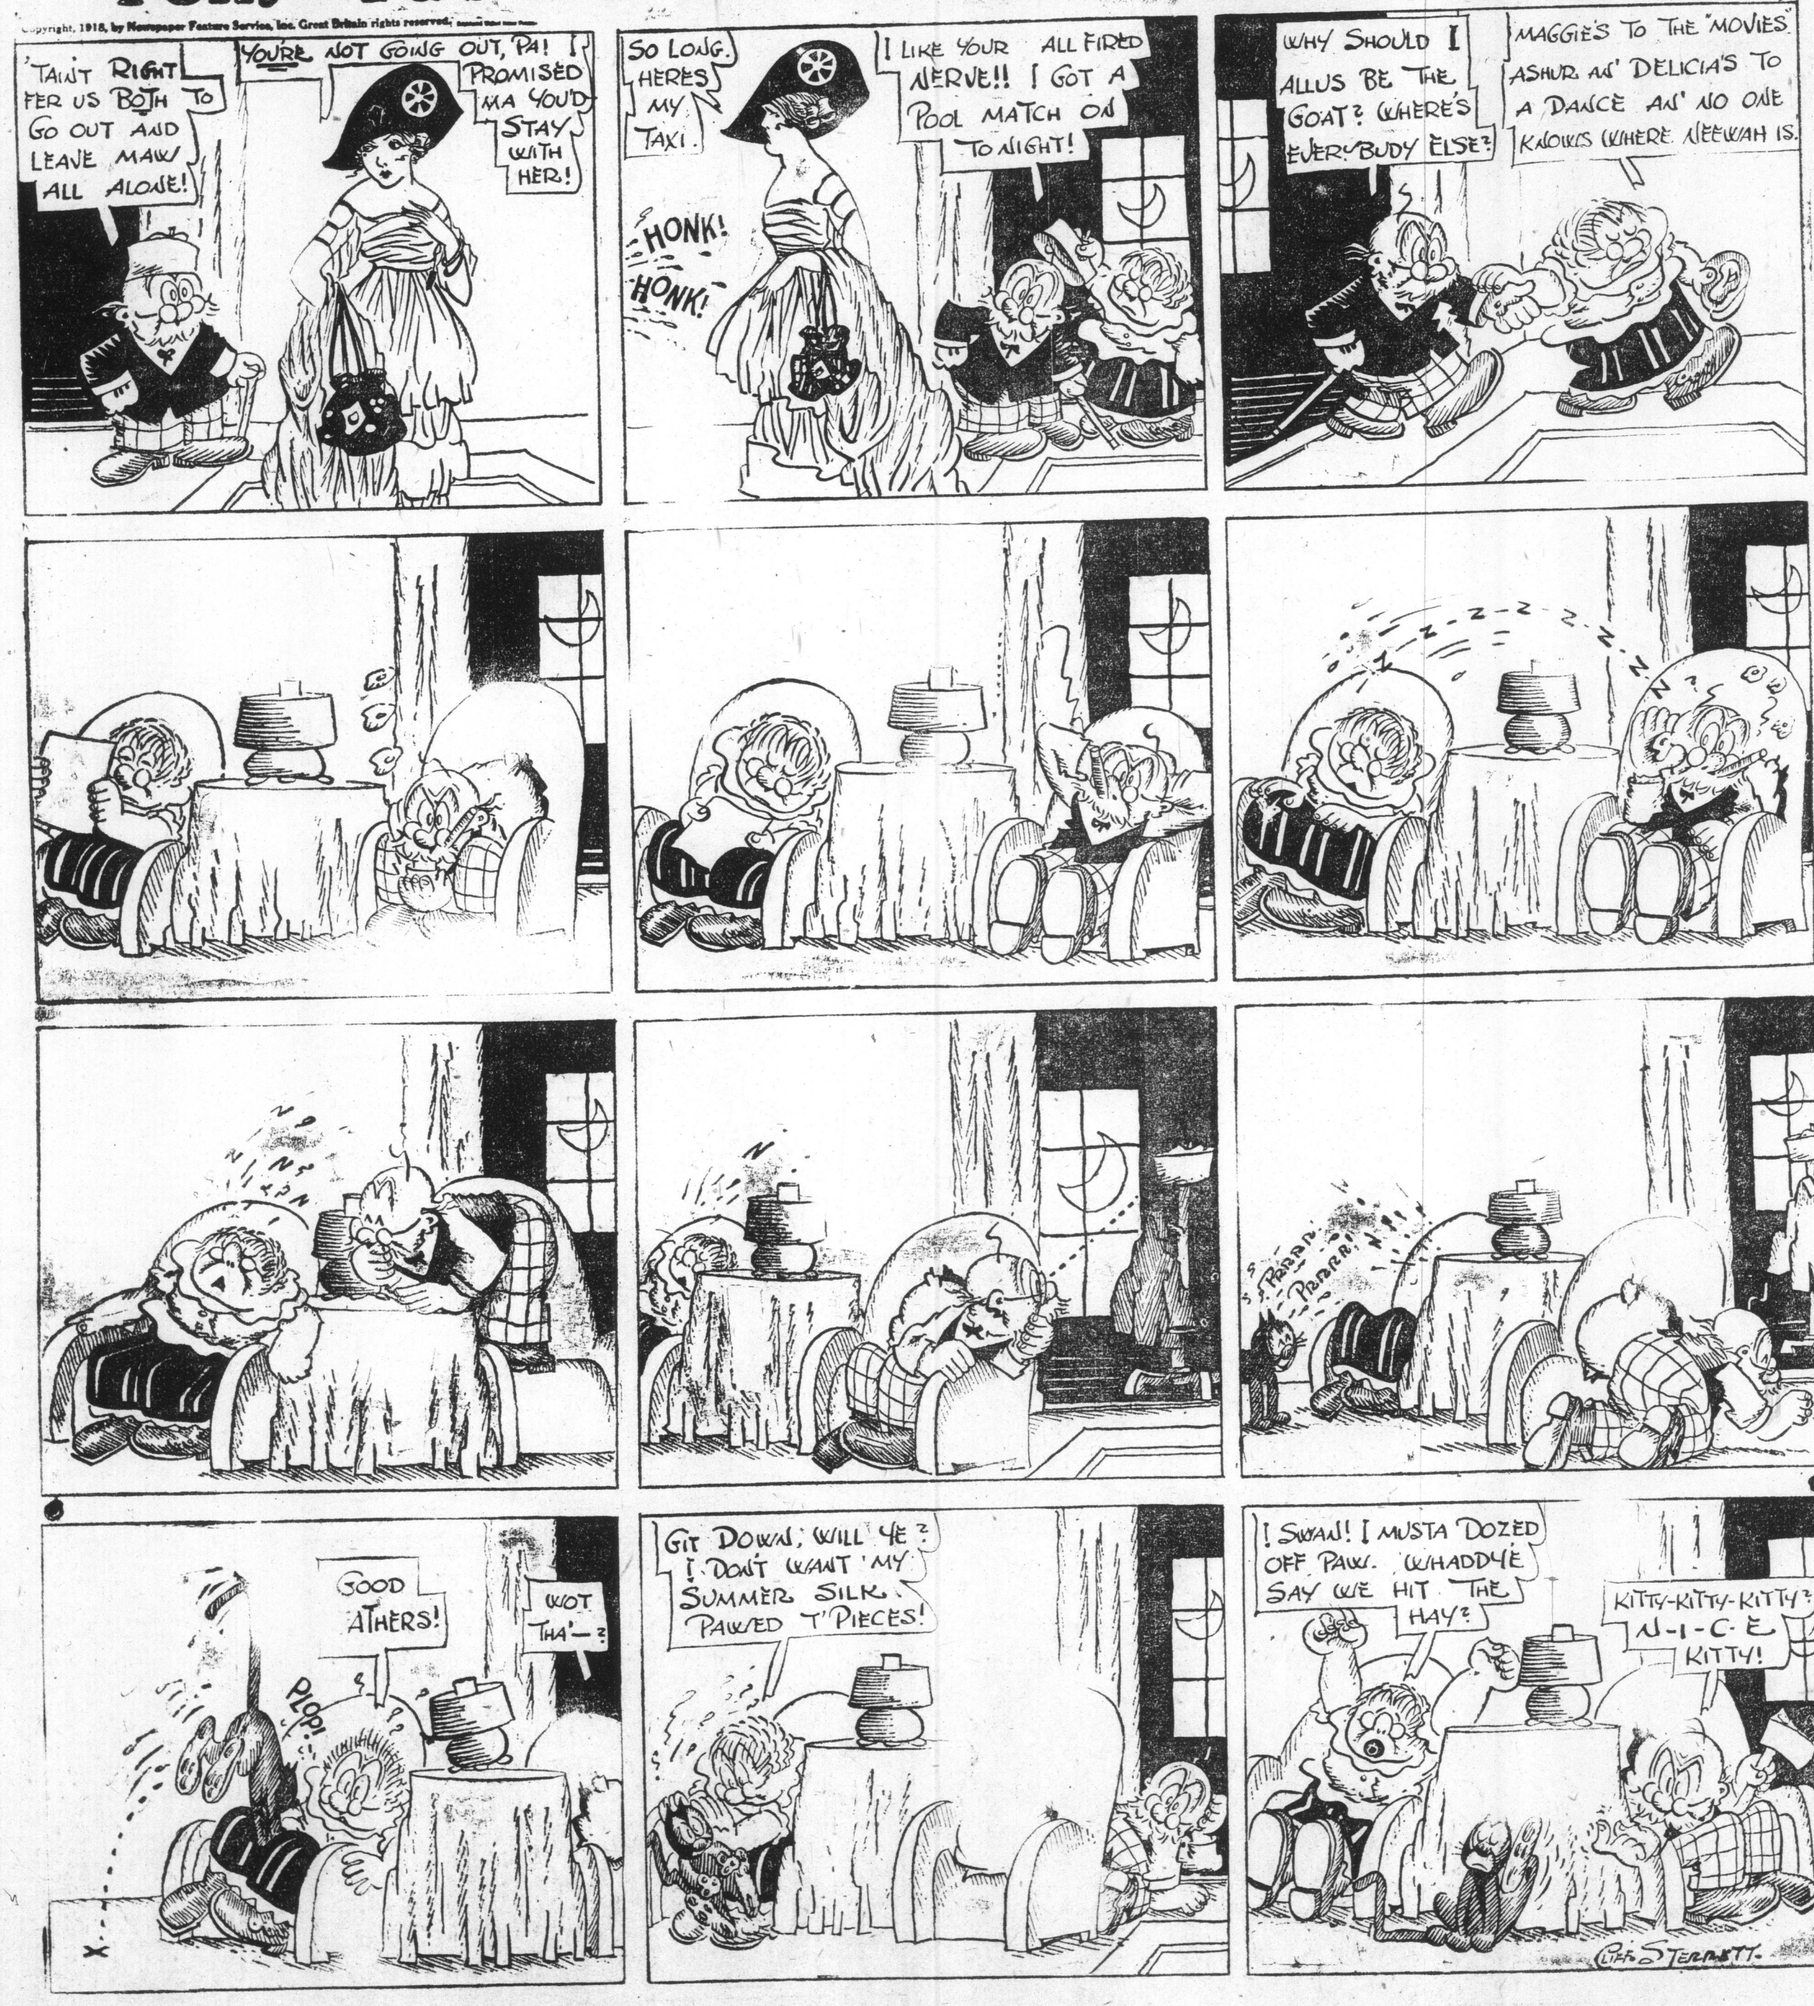

When there are pimples or eruptions, or an irritating or itching rash a soothing boracic solution may help to allay the irritation, but, of course, that does not cure the trouble. Skin complaints come from an impure condition of the blood and will continue until the blood is thoroughly purified. It is well known that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have effected the best results in many forms of skin disorders and blemishes. This is due to the fact that these pills make new, rich blood, and this new blood attacks the impurities that give rise to skin troubles and disperses them. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure skin disorders from within the system—the only sure way. Mrs. W. Ritchie, Parkbeg, Sask., says: "Two years ago I was attacked with eczema on my hands. I tried almost everything that was advised, but as the trouble was growing worse, I consulted a doctor and took his treatment for some time with no better results. By this time my hands were a mass of sores and I began to despair of finding a cure. A friend strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. After using two boxes I could see an improvement, and I got a further supply. I used altogether eight boxes by which time every trace of the eczema had disappeared and there has been not a single symptom of the trouble since that time. I gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for troubles of this kind."

It should be added that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a beneficial effect upon the general health. They increase the appetite and energy and cure all diseases that arise from impure blood. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

MUST CARRY PAPERS.

TWO SENT TO LONDON.

WOODSTOCK, June 21.—Dominion Policeman Burgess brought in two more defaulters. Roy Skillings, Drumbo, was taken to London under escort, and Roy Skillings, from near Bright, was apprehended near St. George. He also is in London.

Pte. Shelson returned home last night. Owing to the new orders at Ottawa no notification was received of his coming, and consequently no reception was tendered the returned hero at the station. Fortunately Mayor West was on the same train and conveyed the soldier to his home in an auto. Pte. Shelson is in a badly crippled condition, and one leg has been amputated above the knee.

ANOTHER DRAFT SENT FROM THE ENGINEERS

The steady stream of reinforcements for the Canadian Engineers' Training Depot at St. Johns, Que., continues to flow eastward. A draft of 94 men left last night at 6:57 via G. T. R. in command of Capt. Roy Garrett.

The men marched to the station behind the A. M. C. pipe band, and in appearance the draft was one of the snappiest that ever left London. They were given a good send-off by a large crowd at the station.
