HOME AGAIN

Miss Lillian Pratt Chats of her Trip—Didn't Secure a European Engagement.

Miss Lillian Pratt is home again, after her European tour.

"It is so nice to come home to your friends," said Miss Pratt yesterday morning. "I believe that is one of the greatest pleasures derived from going away, but there was one thing about my return that I didn't enjoy. I travelled all over Europe and wasn't bothered by customs officers at all, and the minute I return home I am charged duty on my wearing apparel."

"I had a delightful time abroad, visiting Germany, Holland, France and Italy. I spent 10 days in London, where I met Mr. and Mrs. Roy Toboy. In the European cities we visited we saw and heard many famous musicians. In Paris I heard Samson and Delilah in the Grand Opera House. In Boston, last week, I saw the beautiful little opera, Prince of Pilsen, and was surprised to see Zella Frank, a former Chatham girl, in one of the leading roles."

"I reached London the morning after the coronation, just in time to miss the ceremony, but I saw all the beautiful decorations."

"I saw the Shah of Persia, and other celebrities, but I didn't meet any of them personally."

Edinburgh was the most beautiful city I visited. The streets are divine. Of course I enjoyed Holland and Switzerland for their quaintness and the difference in the customs and living from what I had been used to. I was delighted with Venice, nobody could help that."

"And here I am back. You might say," added Miss Pratt smilingly, "I didn't get any European engagements, and I will be pleased to see my pupils as usual in Chatham."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Clarence Tickner was committed for trial on the charge of assaulting Wm. Monck and doing grievous bodily harm. William Monck, the man hit, was the only witness at the adjourned sitting of the preliminary hearing yesterday morning. Monck is still weak. He says he was older and stronger than Tickner, and he felt satisfied that he could whip the prisoner. For this reason he had invited the prisoner to throw down his club. And if Tickner had done so Monck said he would have thrashed him.

Judge Houston held that there was sufficient evidence to warrant Tickner being committed for trial. Tickner was released on bail, himself in $500 and his father in $300. The case will be tried at the Fall Assizes, Oct. 27th.

NEW PAVEMENT

"Do you know we are going to have an asphalt pavement down Queen St. here," said a popular and prominent Queen street business man this morning to The Planet. "Well, we are. Of course, it won't come this year, but we will surely have it next year. We can't allow them to take all the traffic off this street to William, and that's just what will happen until we get our pavement down. I think we better have it asphalt. We'll be different from the rest and then it's the best after all."

"Well," he concluded, with a wink, "I think we'll put the men in the Council that will get it here for us."

HOTEL FOR EAU

There is a rumor on the street to-day that seemingly has the best of support. It is to the effect that a $50,000 summer hotel will be built at Erieau, Chatham's ever popular summer resort, in the spring, by Cleveland magnates. The new hotel will be built on the old athletic grounds and will accommodate from 300 to 350 persons. It has been a talked of affair for a long time, but it now seems as if it will go right ahead. It is the proposal to move the station, post office and telegraph office right there, and everything will be convenient. This will be the building up of this already international popularity.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10.

TEACHERS AND SALARIES.

Says the St. Thomas Times:—
The low salaries paid to the teachers of our children is something to be regretted and the cause is not far to seek. The teaching profession is overcrowded for the reason that nearly all parents nowadays are ambitious, and properly so, to see their children educated for the best stations in life. The result is that for a few years past there has been an overflow of certificated teachers especially of female teachers, and salaries have been forced down to a point below the wages of mechanics, and even below a common labor level. Now a reaction appears to have set in as regards young men, and it appears that women are to monopolize the field.

The law of supply and demand applies here as in all lines, and until there is a demand which will insure reasonable remuneration, there will be a decline in the number of suitable applicants.

As in every other calling, there are grades among teachers. A great many in the profession can never rise above mediocrity, because they lack the native characteristics for imparting instruction. A "natural born" teachers is a scarce commodity, yet there are a good many patient plodders who can do fairly good work in teaching the young idea, because they possess the qualifications of patience and kindness.

As it is absolutely necessary that teachers shall be model men and women, capable of impressing, by the example of their lives, good standards upon the pupils, fairness demands that they be paid on something like an equality with the other learned professions. The professor in a college may get a living salary, but the teachers nowadays who are receiving respectable remuneration are few and far between. Professors in colleges and the principals of high and public schools have great responsibilities, and have undergone much trying study to prepare themselves for their work, but the teachers in the lower forms have, we believe, more to do in the formation of character than those in the higher grades. Children of from seven to ten years are more impressionable than those older, and the impress left by the young woman of the kindergarten or junior class is more likely to influence the future life than the instruction imparted by the man or woman in charge of the advanced class. On the principal of the more work the greater the reward, it is very well to grade salaries according to the status attained; but all should be made to feel that to teach is an honor, and about the best way to induce that feeling is to pay proper salaries.

In Saturday's Globe there were 27 advertisements under the heading "Teachers Wanted," and in most cases high qualifications were demanded; the salaries offered reached the magnificent figure of from $250 to $325 per annum in quite a number of instances. What an encouragement to our bright young men and women who aim to become teachers! No wonder there is a hiatus to our callings. Some of the best of St. Thomas teachers have left and the number of male teachers qualifying at the Normal is very small in proportion, and will become smaller if the present niggardly remuneration continues. Men who have the brains to teach cannot marry and build up homes and secure a competency for old age on salaries ranging from $550 a year up to $800; and there is no school section in this rich province of Ontario that cannot afford to pay a living salary.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

He—Do you—er—think your father would object to our marriage?
She—Well, if his views are anything like mine, he certainly would.

There is a good deal of difference between having a mission before men and having one for them.

Necklace of Ants.

A necklace made of black ants is an article of adornment of New Guinea.

The Anglican mission there gives particulars of one which measured over eleven feet long and was composed of as many as 1,800 bodies of ants. Three little pieces of shell and a dozen English beads were incorporated into it, and there was a native string holding it together, yet its weight only reached 2 drams 2 scruples 13 grains. These large black ants make big nests in the native gardens, and the native women and girls catch them, pull off their heads, bite off and swallow the other end and thread the thorax.

A Very Queer Custom.

A curious custom takes place in villages of the Luxembourg district, Belgium, in May. After Sunday service numbers of lads cluster round the church entrance and as the girls come out seize them one by one, one lad grasping a girl by the shoulders and the other by the heels, the two lifting her well up while a third bumptkin passes under the human bridge thus formed. This is done in the presence of the parents, who themselves have passed through the same ordeal.

The Way He Came.

At the finish of a football match a youngster in his hurry to get out scrambled over the paling that surrounds the ground.

A burly policeman standing by shouted to him as he was about to drop outside, "You young rascal, why don't you go out the way you came in?"

"So I am!" shouted the boy as he vanished into the crowd.

The policeman also vanished, amid the laughter of the bystanders.

Profitable Walnut Trees.

The English walnut is said to be the most profitable of all nut bearing trees. When in full vigor, they will yield about 300 pounds of nuts to the tree. The nuts sell on an average at about fourpence per pound. If only twenty-seven trees are planted on an acre, the income would be about £135 per acre.—London answers.

Agnosticism in regard to heat will not prevent the blisters from following the burn.

HENRY CLEWS' REPORT.

Henry Clews, in his weekly letter to The Planet, says:—

The coal strike has now about gone to the point where one side or the other must give in, or make a concession, and it does not look as if it is likely to come from the operators.

Public opinion will demand a settlement, however, before very long, as anthracite coal is one of the necessities of life. Warmth is life-cold is death; and winter means the latter to many if coal is unobtainable. The approach of cooler weather is bringing the matter home to the mass of the people who will compel action.

NURSERY NOTES.

The only way you can bring a child up is the way you're going yourself. It never makes children better to tell them a dozen times a day that they are too mean for any use. Children will refresh the morning cereal that contains dates, figs or even prunes as a relief from its sameness. It takes so little to make a child happy—a smile, a caress, a five minute story, a song that can be crooned while the mother goes on with her sewing or ironing or what not. Try it. If baby is old enough to wear buttoned shoes, see that they are a little larger than the foot and fit comfortably at the ankle. Almost all infants' buttoned shoes need to have the buttons altered. There is no better tonic for a debilitated person, old or young, than plenty of fresh air and sunlight. Weak children should always be kept when possible in sunny rooms and be encouraged to sit or play in the sun. Every child should be furnished with a cot or bed to itself and not be compelled to sleep with an attendant or with other children. If constant attention be required, the mother or nurse can have her own bed placed just next to that of the child.

Washing Blue For the Hair.
Gray hair is an ordeal to the average woman under the most favorable circumstances, and she probably finds it little that is to be palliated. On the other hand most women would probably not mind it so much if they were certain that all their hair would become white immediately and not remain for several years in the yellowish, mixed stage that comes to all women who have not black hair. It is the problem of getting their hair white all at once that troubles most women. Some of the Paris hairdressers are said to be able to make the hair quite white when once it begins to turn. The process is expensive under any circumstances.

A remedy has been found which has been successful in the case of most of the women who have tried it. It is not expensive, for the process consists in giving the hair a bath of washing blue.

The blue must not be too strong, but must be liberally mixed with water. If one bath does not have the effect of taking all the yellow out of the hair, the operation should be repeated. In a day or two after the bath of blue has faded from the hair and in a short time it will be quite white.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Acquiring a Smart Effect.
The smartly gowned girl knows that it is the touch that makes all the difference between a dandy and a painting, between mere clothes and an artistic costume. She has observed that exquisite taste presents itself in details—trifles light and airy, yet sufficiently weighty to turn the scale from failure to success, from inferiority to distinction. Because of this she is always on the alert to discover that little touch which makes the smart girl smart.

The smart girl is careful. A scarf or bow tie too carelessly tied looks like a vulgarly tied necktie. The ready made man's tie, a ready made necktie, is a disgrace. The blance that femininity abhors. The proper way to do the neck tie is to knot it loosely. This does away with the ready made appearance that comes of too careful tying and gives an artistic effect. There is quite a knack in doing the thing correctly, that is, getting just enough of the negligee into the appearance of the tied up scarf.

Testing Flour.
Although flour is in daily use in nearly every family in the United States, comparatively few cooks or housekeepers know anything about the quality of different brands of flour or can tell whether they are using flour of a whole or of an inferior grade.

There are various methods of testing flour, but this is one of the simplest. Take some flour in the left hand, add a little water and with the hand, add a little water and with the finger mix a rather stiff dough.

Let it stand a few minutes, then knead and work the dough with the hand. If the dough is good, it will be working and stiffer and drier, the feeling, the dough will become soft and sticky under pressure.

Woman's Invention.
Fifty years ago most women were incensed at the thought of a woman capable of learning Greek, and a woman in general were of the same opinion. A hundred years ago the belief was so universal that no woman could excuse for it since, until that date, no woman in the United States had ever patented an invention. But in the eleven years from 1884 to 1895 women in this country took out patents for 8,905 inventions, some of them of great value.

Blanket Soap.
For a soap for washing blankets, shave the two pounds of good white soap and put into a saucepan with two quarts of boiling water. Keep on the fire until the soap is dissolved, stirring occasionally. Add four ounces of borax, stir well and the soap is ready for use. Never use brown soap when washing woolen goods.

Table Damask.
When selecting a cheap or medium quality of table damask, choose a pattern that nearly covers the ground. Such a tablecloth will wear better and look better than one of the same quality where there is a great deal of plain surface displayed.

The 8 Hour Day

Which the working man has fought for and succeeded in obtaining is something the wife has no share in. Her day begins before his and ends long after it, and many a night her rest is broken by the baby's fretfulness. The healthiest woman must wear out under such a strain. What can be expected then of those women who are weakened by womanly diseases? Women who are weak, worn-out, life and new strength in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and is sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I suffered with female weakness about eight years—tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. John Green, of Danville, Boyle Co., Ky. "This medicine was recommended to me by other patients. I have taken six bottles and I feel like another person." The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" is only seeking to make the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss. Refuse all substitutes. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

Three Long Words.
The two longest words in Worcester's Webster or the Century dictionary are said to be palatopharyngobasilarian and transubstantiationists. A longer one is noted in American Notes and Queries. It is methylenedimethylammoniumtetrahydroxydiphosphoroborohexylate.

Spiders a Barometer.
If spiders in spinning their webs make the termination filament long, we may, in proportion to their length, conclude that the weather will be serene and continue so for ten or twelve days.

A Simple Life Saver.
It is not generally known that when a person falls into the water a common felt hat may be made use of as a life preserver, and by placing the hat upon the water, rim down, with the arm round it, pressing it slightly to the breast, it will bear a man up for hours.

Iron Plows.
Cast iron plows were introduced about 120 years ago and were much objected to upon the ground that they poisoned the land.

Pineapple Juice.
The best lubricant for the organs of the throat is pineapple juice. It is said that people living in countries where the cone shaped fruit is grown never suffer from bronchial affections.

Table Decoration.
A new way of decorating the table for a small party is to stand a tall crystal vase in a shallow bowl of cut or baccarat glass, the bowl filled with short stemmed flowers and the vase with a few long stemmed blossoms.

The Yew Tree.
Palms never live more than 250 years. The yew is the longest lived of trees.

An Australian Custom.
The natives of Australia tie the hands of their dead together and pull out their nails. This is for fear the corpse may scratch its way out of the grave and become a vampire.

Buildings.
Buildings are at one and the same time the most affectionate and ferocious of animals. One of the species will guard with its life the person or property of its master from either actual or fancied danger.

Our Newspapers.
In the United States newspapers appear in twenty-four different languages.

HOUSEHOLD TIPS.

Use stonemasons' dust instead of soap for scouring tables and floors. It will make them beautifully white. A cloth saturated in vinegar is about the only thing that will clean the little mica "windows" in the coal stove.

A new soft paint brush is a good thing to dust carved furniture with, as the bristles will penetrate the deepest crevices. When your wiping towels begin to get thin, double them and quilt them on the machine. They make soft cloths for washing china and silver.

If a teapot pours badly, rub a little butter around the spout. This will prevent the tea dripping or trickling down on the clean tablecloth.

Cover window sills of kitchen and bathroom with enameled cloth or ordinary oilcloth to save the window sills from wet saucers and cups that disfigure paint.

Covers of bleached muslin slipped on over pillow ticks and the pillow-slip drawn over them add to the good appearance of the pillows, as the striped ticking does not show through.

Airing the Linen.
No portion of a housekeeper's responsibilities requires more conscientious performance than the airing of clean linen. It is not enough to hang the ironed linen on a clotheshorse before the fire for so many hours. The articles must be turned and returned, and thick things, such as sheets, require turning inside out. Pillowslips, too, should be opened out; a pillow cover ever so slightly damp is apt to cause carache or toothache, and a damp sheet has been again and again the beginning of lifelong agonies of rheumatism. It is the truest economy of time to thoroughly complete the airing process before putting away. The drawers or press should always be placed in a dry position, of course, and it is expedient to remove all the articles from the drawers and air them at least once a month. In summer time expose them to the air and sunlight for an hour or so.

Cucumber Milk.
Cucumber milk should have a place on every woman's toilet table during the summer months. The formula for it is: Oil of sweet almonds, two ounces; fresh cucumber juice, ten ounces; white castile soap, quarter of an ounce; essence of cucumber, three ounces; tincture of benzoin, thirty drops. Slice the cucumber unpeeled, boiling in a little water made by mixing equal parts of the juice and alcohol. Dissolve the soap in the essence, add the juice, then the sweet almond oil and finally the benzoin. Cucumber milk is a sovereign balm for sunburn and tan. A fresh cucumber cut in halves can be used to remove sunburn. It should be rubbed on the face with more or less friction, the juice being allowed to dry.

Girls' Books.
Some very sensible remarks have been made recently in a literary journal on the drivel that is too often set before girls in the books specially written for them. There are one or two writers who understand girls and have produced breezy stories for them which they would not be ashamed for their brothers to read, but the average girls' book is an exercise of the intelligence, idealism and sense of humor of the little modern maiden, who, be it remembered, has all the same interests as her brothers.—Lady's Pictorial.

Bags.
The bag habit is now assuming a formidable universality. Not one bag, but as many as possible are claimed by the girl. Black or tan suede bags as well as tailor made dresses, brocade or beaded bags with evening dress, and delicate white satin ones embroidered with flowers are in vogue. The "individual" bags are catching on. You have your favorite motto, your crest, monogram or some Egyptian hieroglyphic worked on your bag.

As Others See You.
If a woman wishes to see herself in the mirror as others see her with the eye, or as nearly so as possible, she should keep the surface of her glass highly polished and have a plentiful supply of white—not cream—gauze of fine Indian lawn. Gather the material at the center of the top and let it fall on either side, framing the glass with soft folds of pure white. A draped mirror always gives a more becoming reflection than one with a hard frame.

Puffy Eyes.
Puffy places under the eyes most frequently signify some sort of kidney ailment. Half the women do not drink enough water. Tea, coffee and chocolate will healthy. Tea, coffee and chocolate will healthy. Tea, coffee and chocolate will healthy.

Sandpaper.
The uses of sandpaper are manifold. In the kitchen it is invaluable for cleaning pots, pans and kettles. The coarser kind is used, and if a roll is kept on the kitchen shelf pieces can be cut off when needed. On the writing table sandpaper is useful in giving the finishing point to a pencil after sharpening it.

Vinegar For Removing Glue.
For all the fish glue vinegar is a good solvent. When gluing a piece of woodwork, if any particles of glue get on places where it is not desired, wet a bit of cloth with vinegar and rub it off. If the glue in the bottle becomes too thick, thin it with vinegar rather than water.

A Night Cap.
Before retiring at night a glass of
taken, either pure or mixed with soda water, will soothe the nerves and clear your stomach of any uneasiness. It will bring you a Sound Refreshing Sleep. "naist upon having the 'CLUB' Brand it's the Finest." BOVIN, WILSON & CO., MONTREAL.

Ontario and the beaches that are reached through Port Huron, Mich. The publication is enhanced by direct reproductions in half-tone from photographs and is printed in the Luxotype process. In addition to a description of that part of the country there is information for the lover of travel and gun, lists of hotels, with accommodation and rates, and a great deal of other data that is of interest to those who are looking for a summer play ground.

MORE BLUNDERS

Chief of Police Holmes was cross this morning, at least as cross as it is possible for Chatham's good-natured, big chief of police to be. The accurate Banner-News, with its usual ability for bungling, as evidenced in the T. C. Macnabb interview, stated last evening that a colored man named Harris had paid his fine for being drunk and that the fine was a dollar and costs, $3 in all. As Dan Jordan, Sr., for whom Harris works, had paid the fine and costs, and as he had paid $5, he thought the Chief had bunched him out of $2. Harris, too, thought he saw a chance to get $2, and he went after the money. Chief Holmes was in consequence put to considerable bother.

The attention of the Banner-News was called to their blunder, and they will once more be called on to acknowledge to-night that they have again mis-reported matters.

"IT'S GOOD TEA"

This is what the proprietor of Red Rose Tea claims for it. Some say the claim is too modest, but you may notice that a good tea is often asked, "Have you any good tea?" The word "good" in this sense is probably intended to mean "best." So perhaps Red Rose Tea is The Best Tea.

MR. GAVIN'S IMPRESSION

J. E. Gavin, commercial agent of the Vandalia Lines, west of the Mississippi River, with head office at Kansas City, Mo., is spending a few days with J. M. Pike.

He is much impressed with our city and thinks that it is the equal of, if not more advanced than any city of its size than any in America, and was agreeing to be disappointed to find it so, having the erroneous impression that the cities of the United States of a similar size, were more advanced in architecture and parks. One drawback to most American cities is the lack of parks and breathing spots for the masses. Chatham, he thinks, is especially favored in the possession of the beautiful Tecumseh Park, so centrally situated. He says he fails to see the pure Italian hand of the trusts visible to the naked eye. This, he thinks must be a great blessing to the Chatham merchants.

Mr. Gavin has been a resident of Kansas City, Mo., for over 20 years, and has watched the growth of that western city closely during that time. When he first came there it had a population of 85,000. Now it has a population of 150,000. Kansas City, Kansas, (which is only separated from M. C. Mo., by an imaginary line) of 260,000.

Kansas City is situated on the banks of the Missouri River and Kansas River. The source of the Missouri River is in the Rocky Mountains, and the source of the Kansas River is in Arkansas. The city has over 100 miles of electric street car lines, including one electric railway.

It has the second largest stock yards and packing house industry in the world. It is also the largest distributing point for implements and carriages in the world, and is one of the largest railroad centres in the United States, and being the gateway from the east to the west its future as one of the large United States cities is assured.

Its climate is considered very fine. The heat in the summer months very rarely exceeds 94 degrees, and winter is always of short duration, never commencing before the month of January and lasting for only two months. Kansas City is built on a hill, or rather, a thousand hills, and its drainage is absolutely perfect. Its water supply is from the Missouri river and the water is filtered by a new process, and is considered the third best water in the U. S. It is chemically pure.

Mr. Gavin is sorry that his stay in Chatham cannot be of longer duration, as he is much impressed with the beauties of the city and thinks Chathamites are all right.

PEACHES

I will be prepared to furnish the celebrated Elberta or that finest of all peaches, the Crisp, to parties desiring them between the 18th and 25th of September. Orders left with C. D. Williams, C. Wheeler or Thomas French will receive my most careful attention as to grading and packing. Special attention given to packing for distant shipment.

MILTON BACKUS.

Consumption is infectious

Every precaution should be taken to prevent the spread of the "White Plague." Persons coming into contact with consumptives should inhale Catarrhazone several times each day as it is a powerful destroyer of disease germs, and renders them innocuous. Catarrhazone is a most efficient preventive and may be thoroughly relied upon to promote expectoration, soothe the cough, and benefit in many ways too numerous to mention. Both from a medical and scientific point of view Catarrhazone is the most valuable addition to the armament against consumption. Its merit cannot be too warmly applauded. ## HER MAJESTY

By Zoe A. Hutchings

Copyright, 1902, by Z. A. Hutchings

The prime minister mopped his forehead and the duchess dried her eyes. They had just been through a trying ordeal with her majesty the queen, who "would not marry the Duke of Corray, state reasons or no state reasons." The minister and the duchess, the young queen's mother, had yielded and had sent her highness, triumphant, into the garden, to make her proposal to her favored subject, the Earl of Norwood.

Queen Marie wandered along the garden paths until she espied Lord Norwood, and then she began plucking roses in embarrassment at his approach.

"Ah, my queen!" he said, bending his knee and pressing her hand to his lips. "You will hurt these tender hands with the cruel thorns. I shall break the roses for you."

"I have to tell you something," she said, with averted eyes.

"Do you really care? Have they consented? Oh, my queen, I never dared hope!"

"Consented to what, pray?" she said coldly. "I haven't told you anything."

"No," he stammered.

They walked on in silence between the rows of blooming azalea bushes.

Suddenly she said, with an impatient movement of her hands:

"I wish I were a dairymaid."

"Why, your majesty?" he exclaimed, stopping short in amazement.

"Yes; I wish I were a dairymaid," she continued, "and I should be milking a good old cow, and then the farmer's lad would chance along, and he would look at me as if he were not afraid of me, and he would say: 'Oh, Marie—I mean, 'Oh, Tilly—I love you better than my wealth, better than my title—I mean, 'better than my plow. Will you be my wife? And I would say—I might say, 'Yes, if—if he would beg hard enough.'"

The queen hung her head and blushed.

"Would you say that?" Lord Norwood cried eagerly, seizing her hand.

Then, remembering, he dropped it.

"I wish I were a farmer's lad!" he muttered impatiently. After an embarrassing pause, "You see, your majesty, we are slaves to custom, slaves to a sometimes annoying and severe master called etiquette and ceremony, and more abject slaves to our own miserable cowardice."

"Now, you will have to yield me the victory in the argument we had last night!" she said gleefully. "Concede!"

"YOUR HUMBLE SERVANT AWAITS YOUR PLEASURE," HE ANSWERED.

that I was right when I said that people in humble life are happier than we of pomp and ceremony. At last you will have to say that I am right and you are wrong." And she laughed triumphantly, clapping her hands and peering him with azalea blossoms.

"Say you are wrong quickly!" she ordered, seizing the sword from his scabbard and holding it above his head.

"No; I will not say it, not even to my queen," he answered, fascinated by her change of humor.

"What! Will not acknowledge you are in the wrong? Oh, he!"

"But I'm not in the wrong. It is the way in which we look at things whether our environments need order or our happiness or not."

"Ah, you are cornered! Did you not say a moment ago that we are the slaves of custom, which amounts to the same thing?"

"Well, then, we'll set custom aside," he said, a trifle piqued at being caught.

"We'll suppose you to be a dairymaid, for you know you really are no better, being a mortal and only elevated by—well, say by the chance of custom."

"Indeed!" she said icily, tossing her head. "If so you consider me, we may as well discontinue any further acquaintance." And she turned about and walked toward the castle. He was not prepared for this development and was for a moment too stunned to do anything but stare after her. Recovering himself, he sprang to her side.

"Your majesty," he cried, "forgive me! I did not think—I would not have vexed you for the world. It was only for the sake of argument, you know."

"Then any you have lost the argument," she said petulantly.

"No, I haven't lost it, because you would not hear me out."

THE "SANKERO."

Unhappy Lot of a Peculiar Figure of the Irrigation Country.

An eastern farmer coming to an irrigated valley finds everything as different from his accustomed life as he can well imagine. He must learn an entirely new language of farming and a new set of farming rules.

His neighbor greets him, not with the remark, "it looks like rain," but "Have you heard when the water is coming in?" or "The ditches are low today."

He learns to speak of miners' inches and acre feet of water, and he can soon tell at a glance whether a ditch is carrying 50 or 100 miners' inches of water. He hears wise discussions of headgates, weirs, laterals and canals.

He finds that he is "under" a certain canal, which by and by will come to seem to him like an inexorable fate.

He will very promptly make the acquaintance of the king of the irrigated land, the zanjero, in Arizona called "sankero," in California sometimes shortened to "sanky," the water master or ditch rider, a bronzed man in overalls and sombrero, who drives about in a two wheeled cart, with a shovel and a long crooked lined fork by his side.

He is the res and nay of the arid land, the arbiter of fate, the dispenser of good and evil, to be blessed by turns and cursed by turns and to receive both with the utter unconcern of a small god, for it is the zanjero who distributes the water. He opens the headgate of each farmer's canal, and when the water has run the necessary time he shuts it down again and again locks it securely.

If the water is short, he sees that it is divided properly between Smith and Jones and Brown, usually with Smith and Jones and Brown watching him like cats. It is a hard place, that of zanjero in the valleys, subject to accusations, temptations, heartburnings; but, be it said to the credit of the American, there is many a zanjero who is universally respected in his community as an honest man.—Ray Stannard Baker in Century.

A WORK APRON.

One That is a Real Help to the Busy Housekeeper.

Work aprons like the one shown in the accompanying illustration are easy to make and are a wonderful help to a busy woman around the house. The diagram shows how the material should be cut. For the apron pictured here you will need three-fourths of a yard of gingham and one-fourth of a yard of calico for binding. Bind the pocket first on the sides, then baste it to the apron at the bottom from the lower edge of the binding and bind around from the top of the apron to the top on the opposite side. Put a belt at the top as you would an apron, with ends long enough to tie around the waist. With a graduated ruffle sewed around the bottom instead of the binding it makes a handy work apron for knitting and crocheting. As the apron could be hung up with the work left in ready for service when needed. It could be made of any kind of wash goods desired. It was designed especially for clothespins.—Woman's Home Companion.

Wear the softest slippers always in the house. To wear a street shoe after you come inside your front door is to imprison your foot so much longer, and the more it is exposed to light and air the healthier and more comfortable it will be. Patent leathers are ruinous to the feet, especially when they are built with high heels and narrow toes.

The feet perspire, the heels throw the weight on the toes, and the poor little things, all buddled up in a bunch, are utterly miserable and make you weak. Soak your feet in cold water—not ice cold, but coolish. Warm water draws the blood into the feet. You wish to reduce the inflammation and fever by driving it away. The chiropodists say there is nothing like cold water for sore, tired feet. Cold water, besides, toughens the skin rather than makes it softer.

After you have brushed your pedal extremities with a stiff flesh brush, massage them comes into play, to be well rubbed into the callouses and joints. With this sort of treatment your feet are kept in such good condition that they are a positive joy, and that, you know, is worth living for.

For Harsh Hair.

For hair that is dry and harsh there is no better lotion than that given by Dr. Erasmus Wilson. Here is the formula:

Eau de Cologne, eight ounces; tincture of cantharides, one ounce; oil of English lavender, one-half dram; oil of rosemary, one-half dram.

Rub this into the hair at night two or three times a week until the hair begins to revive under the treatment. After that do not use it oftener than once in two weeks.

For dandruff there is nothing which can quite equal an egg shampoo. It is made in this fashion:

Yolk of one egg, one pint of rainwater, one ounce of rosemary spirit.

Beat the mixture thoroughly and use it warm, rubbing well into the scalp. After it has dried shampoo the hair with soap shampoo and warm water.—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Expert in Counterfeits.

Miss Lillie Burns, for over twenty-nine years a treasury employee, is a famous and efficient governmental attaché. So expert in the detecting of counterfeit money has she become that her dictum is regarded as final authority in such matters, and she has been sent nearly all over America upon private business connected with the treasury department, and withal Miss Burns is quite sufficiently girlish, attractive and witty to be known as a veritable and charming bachelor girl without the slightest undue distention of the truth.

The Rubber Thimble.

The rubber thimble which protects the forefinger of the left hand in sewing, says one woman, is a real friend to me, for I was perpetually sewing into the skin, and not only spoiled the appearance of the finger, but made it rather sore. It took time for me to get used to the kid covering which I first used and the rubber one which succeeded it, but I persevered and finally reached the point where I did not mind it.

Mattress Filling.

Excelsior ranks well for a mattress filling and, if made up with cotton, is comfortable; but, as cotton is a strong absorbent and apt to retain the exhalations of the body, it cannot be recommended from a sanitary standpoint.

THE CORONATION DURBAR.

It will be unparalleled in splendour—54 Rajahs and numerous lesser chieftains will attend at Delhi.

There is no truth in the report that the Prince of Wales will visit India for the coronation durbar on January 1.

It is, on the other hand, practically settled that a State visit for the durbar will be paid to the Viceroy by the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, who will be conveyed from Great Britain to Bombay on a British warship.

The obvious difficulties of precedence have hitherto prevented the question being settled. The Duke of Connaught will represent the Royal family; the Viceroy, Lord Curzon, the King.

It will, of course, not be the first visit of his Royal Highness to India, he having been commander-in-chief in India.

As to the subsequent plans of their Royal Highnesses nothing has, of course, been thought of, but it is certain that few if any, ceremonial visits will be paid to the courts of native princes, as the latter would be attending the durbar and unable to make adequate arrangements for a proper welcome.

Meantime the work at Delhi is being pushed rapidly forward. The manoeuvres which precede the durbar will be of the most important character, and Lord Kitchener will arrive in ample time to supervise them.

Fifty-four of the leading princes of India, who, owing to their importance, are entitled to an invitation direct from the Supreme Government, have been formally invited to the durbar, and most of them have accepted.

Beyond these specially distinguished guests there will be present numerous chiefs of lesser rank, who will be brought to the durbar by the various local Governments.

Taken as a whole, the assemblage will be one of absolutely unprecedented Royal magnificence.

The two divisions of the army which have been detailed for the durbar will be encamped close to Deerpore, while taking part in the functions. For the first time in the military history of Indian balloons will be used in the manoeuvres, which form part of the celebration.

The coronation durbar will mean a great deal more to the Indian people than a mere pageant, trained as they are for tradition and the ceremonial of generations to spectacular ceremonies. It will be the final coping-stone placed upon the Imperial experiment of 1877, and will convey to the princes of India a full and complete demonstration of the British rule, which they accepted on that date, also at Delhi, at the hands of Lord Beaconsfield.

Most of the tents in the Viceroy's camp will be two great ones, one on either side of the main road, and clustering round will be multitudinous tents of the staff and officials.

The official amphitheatre is built in horseshoe shape on rising ground. The floor is 350 feet in diameter from seat to seat, and the total accommodation is designed for nearly 8,000 persons. The most elaborate seating arrangements are planned whereby the different ranks will be placed in tiers, and behind the actual chairs is a broad promenade, affording space for many thousands more.

Outside the official proceedings and the military manoeuvres, one of the greatest attractions of the durbar will be the Art Exhibition, which has been organized on a very great scale. The entrance hall of the exhibition somewhat resembles the Agara Tah, and is approached by an imposing flight of steps. At right angles to the main hall will be spacious pillared galleries containing the exhibits of real Indian work only, no mere imitations of European work.

The serandaas surrounding the exhibition will contain native shops of the best class only. Many of the foremost Indian jewelers will have magnificent exhibits. A Madras firm is showing goods to the value of £200,000. A native Bombay firm is sending £150,000 worth, and among the exhibits are two jewels worth respectively £30,000 and £15,000.

Besides jewelry, the exhibits will be representative of all that is best and most typical in every branch of Indian art and industry.

"England" or "Britain."

The London Spectator has been called down for using the term "England" in referring to the people of Great Britain, where the latter name should have been used. In extenuation the Spectator pleads that the word "England" is more euphonious and more attractive by association than the word "Britain," and adds: "We wish the English could be held to mean the English-speaking race."

Office Mistake.

In a public park at Calcutta are several birds of the adjacent species. They are the storks of the East, and average about six feet in height. These birds parade in a stately way and at a distance look so much like soldiers that strangers often mistake them for grenadiers.

MRS. IDA L. ROSER

Grand-Niece of Ex-President James K. Polk, Writes to Mrs. Pinkham Saying:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been married for nearly two years, and so far have not been blessed with a child. I have, however, suffered with a complication of female troubles and painful menstruation, until very recently."

MRS. IDA L. ROSER.

"The value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was called to my attention by an intimate friend, whose life had simply been a torture with inflammation and ulceration, and a few bottles of your Compound cured her; she can hardly believe it herself to-day, she enjoys such blessed health. I took four bottles of your Compound and consider myself cured. I am once more in fine health and spirits; my domestic and official duties all seem easy now, for I feel so strong I can do three times what I used to do. You have a host of friends in Denver, and among the best count, yours very gratefully—Mrs. Ida L. Roser, 328 16th Ave., Denver, Col.—5000 Perfect If above testimonial is not genuine."

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free.

Moons and Weather.

It is said of the moon that "if the new moon appears with the points of the crescent turned up the month will be dry; if the points are turned down, it will be wet."

Salt Takes Out Ink.

Ink stains can be taken out by the application of dry salt while the ink is wet. As soon as the salt is discovered by the ink brush it off and put on some more, dampening it a little. This is to be continued until the stain is out.

THE WHISTLE WAS SILENT.

Why His New Set of Teeth Didn't Help the Blower.

A small town in Posen, near the Silesian frontier, still keeps that relic of other centuries, the night watchman who calls the hours. One night—the London Telegraph tells this remarkable story—one of these watchmen, an old worthy long in service, failed to blow his whistle when the clock struck the hour.

The burgomaster summoned the delinquent to account for his negligence. After some hesitation he declared that his last tooth had dropped out and that he could not hold in his mouth the official flat tin whistle.

A council was called, and the subject was gravely discussed. Finally one of the members said that he had heard of a dentist at Breslau who supplied artificial teeth. After long debate the council appropriated money to send the aged watchman to Breslau to get a set of new teeth.

In due time the watchman reported that his teeth had arrived. That night the burgomaster sat up to hear the result. To his astonishment there was no whistle at 10, at 11 or at midnight. The next morning he summoned the watchman.

"You have got your teeth," he said indignantly. "Why do you not whistle as before?"

"Yes, I've got a new set of teeth," replied the old man, "but the doctor told me to put them in water at night."

An Old Welsh Custom.

The kindling of bonfires on hills is the simplest of celebrations at any time. The Druids made four great fires at their festivals in February, May, August and November. Wales seems to have been a country especially tenacious of this custom. Each family used to make its own fire, and as it was dying out each member would throw a white stone into it, the stones being marked for future identification. Then all said their prayers and went to bed, and in the morning they tried to find all the stones again. If any stone was missing, it betokened that the owner of it would die within a year.

Some superstitions are pretty and picturesque and attractive; this was one of the many which were cruel as well as picturesque. It would take but a slight accident to cause a fright that might be actually dangerous to a superstitious person, and it would not be hard for an enemy of such a person to cause that fright by stealing his stone from the fire.

London's Sewer Hunters.

The London sewer hunter before commencing operations provides himself with a bullseye lantern, a canvas apron and a pole some seven or eight feet in length, having an iron attachment at one end somewhat in the shape of a hoe. For greater convenience the lantern is invariably fixed to the right shoulder, so that when walking the light is thrown ahead and when stooping its rays shine directly to their feet. Thus accoutred they walk slowly along through the mud, feeling with their naked feet for anything unusual, at the same time rapping the accumulation from the walls and picking from the crevices any article they see.

Nothing is allowed to escape them, no matter what its value, provided it is not valuable. Old iron, pieces of rope, bones, current coin of the realm and articles of plate and jewelry—all is good fish which comes to the hunter's net.

The Chinese War.

In its war with England and France in 1859-60 China was easily conquered and forced to a humiliating peace. The Peking Gazette, the official organ of the government, however, reported the following concerning that treaty of peace:

"As the western barbarians have admitted their wrongs and humbly solicited for peace, the emperor in his infinite goodness has granted their prayer and, moreover, has made them a present of a large sum of money (in indemnity of war) to enable them to begin an honest life; so that they may not again be driven to murder and rapine."

A Way of Explaining It.

Wife—Why, John, just see what a stupid blunder the newspaper has made in its account of our silver wedding! Don't you remember I wrote it out for the reporter that we had spent together twenty-five years of married happiness, and the stupid typesetter has gone and made it twenty-five years of married happiness. Isn't it awful?

Husband—Oh, well, dear; don't be too hard on the poor fellow. Perhaps he's been married twenty-five years himself.

Precaution.

"Do you think you can give my daughter the surroundings to which she is accustomed?" asked the parent.

"Well," answered the young man, "I won't guarantee that. You see, Charles has talked the matter over and says she's tired of the neighborhood."

His Occupation.

"Haven't you any occupation?" asked the woman at the kitchen door after listening to his tale of woe.

"Yes, ma'am," replied Tufford Knatt; "I'm a hunter."

"A hunter? Of what?"

"Grub, ma'am."

If a woman is good and old-fashioned, she has an uneasy feeling when inside of any house unless she has an apron on.

Bronx river, New York, derives its name from Jenda Bronx, who settled in that region in 1639.

THE FAST TRAINS TO CHICAGO.

New York Central's Express Service Added to.

George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent of the New York Central Road, talking yesterday of the company's fast train service, said that, in addition to the new twenty-hour train, there are now four twenty-four-hour trains to Chicago, and two Empire State expresses daily.

The Twentieth Century Limited, twenty-hour train, leaves New York every day at 2.45 p. m. and arrives at Chicago the next morning at 3.45. The Lake Shore Limited leaves New York at 5.30 every afternoon, arriving in Chicago the next afternoon at 4.30. The Fast Mail, a fine twenty-four-hour train, leaves New York at 8.45 a. m. every day, reaching Chicago the next morning at 7.50.

By both the Lake Shore and the Michigan Central. The noonday Chicago Limited leaves New York at 1 p. m., reaching Chicago by the Lake Shore the next morning at 11.50, a twenty-four-hour train, really twenty-three hours and fifty minutes. The Detroit and Chicago Limited leaves New York at 4 p. m., reaching Chicago the next afternoon at 4.30. A fourth twenty-four-hour train—From the New York Times.

Note.—The New York Central also has 15 trains a day between New York and Buffalo and Niagara Falls; 5 trains a day between New York and St. Louis and Cincinnati; 4 trains a day between New York and Montreal and by its Boston and Albany Division 1 train a day between New York and Boston via Springfield.

The new route to the Yellowstone is via the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line Railroads to Monida, Montana, thence daily by palatial Concord coaches of the Monida & Yellowstone Stage Company to all points in the Yellowstone National Park.

WORLD OF SPORT

THE GUN

There will be a shoot of the Maple City Gun Club on Thursday next, at 3 o'clock sharp.

BOWLING

Two rinks of local bowlers went on a tour on Labor Day. They played two games, winning one and losing one. The first game was played at Ridgeway, in the morning and resulted in a victory for the Blenheim bowlers. After the game they journeyed to Thamesville and played a game with the Thamesville bowlers the afternoon. At this place they were defeated by one shot.—Blenheim Tribune.

BASEBALL

Within the last two weeks the Downey Co. formed two baseball teams, one in the spring and one in the fall department. They have played a couple of games and the spring department has been the winner on both occasions, having easy victories. The game has stopped for the season but without a doubt the Downey works will figure in the city league which will be formed in the early part of next season.

LACROSSE

The Wallaceburg lacrosse club has secured five of the players of the London senior team, which disbanded a few weeks ago, and on Friday last, in the burg, they administered a coat of whitewash to the Kent county champions, the score being Wallaceburg-London 9, Chatham 0. The game, however, did not raise Wallaceburg in the estimation of sportsmen of this district. Previous to their obtaining the London men the Wallaceburg team had been beaten by every team in the league, Rodney alone excepted, and their desire to win games has evidently been stronger than their love of amateurism.

The return game between Chatham and Wallaceburg was played Monday in the Maple City, and to strengthen their team the Chatham boys secured the services of Shillington, Blewett and Knight of the Kents. The players in the Kent County League have never professed to be anything more than intermediates, but the presence of five London seniors made Wallaceburg a senior team. It was a contest of Wallaceburg and London against Chatham and Blenheim, and those who saw the game say that it was the best that has been played in western Ontario this season. A large number of Blenheim spectators were present and were even more enthusiastic over the game than were the Maple city rooters. The score at the close was three to one in favor of the Chatham-Blenheim team. Both teams played in splendid style, but Wallaceburg would never have scored at all had the Chatham point and coverpoint not had the single weakness of being too easily drawn out. The Blenheim boys, though checked very closely, were prominent at all times, and the Chatham boys' raters were generous in their play. Two of Chatham's goals were scored by Blenheim.

Thornton & Douglas Limited.

A new organization, but no change in personnel. The same men, the same methods, the same old names over the lintel stone.

We keep the name of the late senior partner. While the business goes on, following its old progressive ideals and building new records on the basis of solid merchandising it is fitting that W. S. Thornton's name remain at its head as in the past. When we fall short of the old standards—when ambition and achievement fail, or any shadow of slant dealing creeps into our store methods—we shall eliminate the name, having no longer a right to its use.

To the patrons of the three T. & D. stores we would repeat that the re-organization of this business means absolutely no change in leadership, staff or store policy. Mr. Geo. H. Douglas remains at the head, and every employee stays in his or her place. Fresh capital has been invested, and incorporation secured as a company; that is all.

Dating from the opening of the parent store at Stratford, this business has been fourteen years in the field, and the output of our clothing factory has been before the public for thirteen years. During this time, you, the wearers of men's clothing, have learned to expect much of us. We stand ready to surpass your expectations during this Fall season of 1902.

The next ten days will see the season fairly launched. Already our stores are abrim with the newest and best in clothing and furnishings. No announcement or assurance that we can make to you is half so convincing as the real stocks in these real stores for men and boys.

Hardly necessary to repeat it: the same old money-back guarantee, the same safety for the smallest child or most inexperienced buyer. Same stores but better, and getting ready for further betterment still.

OLD ARM CHAIR

"I was looking for Mr. Baxter's place the other day," said Richard Slagg, the North Chatham Baker. "I knew I was in the neighborhood of Mr. Baxter's home but I didn't know the house from a load of hay. Suddenly I spied an old rustic chair in the yard of a residence on Amelia St. There is where Mr. Baxter lives; said I to myself. I knew that chair. I had seen it often when I was a much bigger than a grasshopper. I had often seen it at L. R. Baxter's father's. The chair was made by an uncle of P. D. MacKellar and father of Peter MacKellar, Harwich, when he lived on the third concession.

I know that chair is old for I sat in it 45 years ago. The legs have often been replaced but the upper part is still as Mr. MacKellar made it years ago.
