TRENTON ARENA SCENE OF FIRST EXHIBITION

What Has Been Accomplished by Business Men in Two Weeks—A Unique Exhibition of Flowers, Produce, Manufactures—Trenton Wants Fall Fair in 1921.

Two weeks ago there was concentrated in the minds of a few Trentonians the need of an exhibition which would do justice to the town and the surrounding district. On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week there was held in Trenton a show which demonstrates the power of initiative and energy when directed upon a definite object. Lack of time meant intense labor, but keen business men brought the affair to a fruition which far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its promoters.

Today the townspeople are going forward with the slogan, "Boost for a fall fair in Trenton for 1921." This year's exhibition surpassed anything seen anywhere in this part. It was, of course, not intended to rival a fair, but in its scope was unrivalled.

Men Behind the Exhibition
This week's achievement was a tribute to the men and women in charge. Mr. J. A. Sutcliffe was president and, as every Trentonian knows, a more energetic man could not have been chosen. His right-hand man was Mr. T. P. Dixon, chairman, whose abilities found full scope. Secretary W. R. Bonter was the chief of the staff behind the scenes. Mr. James Cook, the indefatigable secretary of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, had a large share in the success of the undertaking.

The committee in charge of the exhibition were: Management—Mrs. (Dr.) Farncomb, James Shurte, Alex. Nielsen, R. M. Foster, G. W. Fairman. Flowers and Potted Plants—Mrs. W. Booth, Mrs. Blecker, Mrs. Cranston, Mrs. Robert Cummings, Miss Evans. Fruit—D. Jones. Vegetables—W. Dixon, W. H. Ireland, M.P.F. Canned Fruit—Mrs. (Dr.) Farley, Mrs. (Dr.) Farncombe, Mrs. J. M. Shurte. Home Cooking—Mrs. Temple, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. W. H. Waldorf, Mrs. Andrew Shurte. Poultry—W. H. Bensey, T. McCordelle, W. G. Hutton, Edward Chown. Fancywork—Mrs. Keith, Mrs. H. Whittier, Mrs. S. J. Young, Miss Minerva White. Tearoom—Mrs. James Reddick, Mrs. Rixon, Mrs. W. H. Ireland, Mrs. Jowett, Miss Reddick. Decoration—Mrs. Blecker, convener.

Among those whose assistance is greatly appreciated by the management of the fair are Brigadier-General Dunbar and Mrs. Dunbar, of Ottawa, Mr. C. K. Temple, Prof. Kinney, Rev. Cranston, H. F. Whittier, B. H. Siddall, P. W. Fairman, Mrs. Stikwood, Con. Vanalstine. Special prizes were awarded by a willing company. Mr. W. R. Bonter gave two prizes for school vegetables. The Frankford Cannery offered ten cases of canned goods, as prizes. Many specials were offered by citizens.

Local Spirit Strong
They were ably backed by the merchants of the town, who subscribed four hundred dollars. The Town Council loyally supported them and donated one hundred dollars towards the expense. With admissions and donations the receipts will total between $1,400 and $1,500, which will cover the cost of the undertaking. The general public stood by the venture.

Tuesday, the first day of the show, saw an attendance of 2,400 people, and so pleased were the committees that the exhibition was continued on Wednesday, the total attendance being well over 3,000.

When the Horticultural Society was first spoken of, one of the directors stated in the Daily Ontario reporter yesterday, "a few citizens got together and laid plans. They have been surprised at what can be accomplished by advertising. The

Does MacSwiney Eat Tabloid Food?
Extreme Care and Precautions Against Blood Poisoning Makes Fast of Less Note.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—In rebutting the arguments of Lord Mayor MacSwiney's friends that the extreme care given him and the precautions taken against blood poisoning make the duration of his fast less remarkable, it is suggested by some of the newspapers that this explanation would not be difficult to accept in his case, but seems to be illogical when it is considered that there are eleven hunger-strikers in Cork who have been abstaining from food for two days longer than MacSwiney, and all of them seem to be making out as surprising an exhibition of endurance.

Canada's Ambassador (Not Yet Appointed)
OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—Cabled reports state that the appointment of a Canadian ambassador to Washington is likely to be delayed for a while as the general impression that he prevailed here for some time past. There is no indication, however, that the plan will be abandoned. It is understood that no Canadian statesman with the necessary qualifications for the post has yet indicated any strong desire to become representative at the United States capital.

There will also be swimming and life saving classes.

Rumors of Plots Agitate Britain
LONDON, Sept. 29.—Rumors of widespread plots, which have ranged from conspiracies to assassinate King George to the blowing up of public buildings, have been current in London during the past few days. These reports have been caused by the fact that the lives of public men in Great Britain might be jeopardized should any of the Irish hunger-strikers die, particularly now that the Black and Tan police have made reprisals in several Irish towns. Police authorities have investigated some of the more plausible stories, and the newspapers have run down many more, always with the same negative results.

Unafraid of U. S. Shipping
Wonderful Recovery by Old Land Shippers Says T. H. Morley, of Canadian Shipping Coal Situation.

"We have made a wonderful recovery in the maritime position and have no fear of United States competition," stated Thomas H. Morley, of Cardiff, president of the Cardiff and Bristol Shipowners' Association, who is at the King Edward, Toronto. "We know that the United States companies are putting out a number of ships, but we have the experience of management over mere construction."

Airman Was Engaged in Work in North Country

Forest Survey Was Also Carried Out From the Air With Splendid Results.

Brockville, Sept. 29.—Captain P. Wickens, of St. Alban's School, and late of the Royal Air Force, has just returned from Northern Ontario where he has been carrying out some interesting aerial operations. With a flying boat of the H.S.2L type fitted with a 330 horse power Liberty motor, flights were made from Haliburton, on Lake Temiskaming, over the surrounding forests. Dr. Swayne, the Dominion entomologist, and Mr. Craig, assisted by Major Edgcomb, forest engineers for the commission of conservation, were taken on these flights as passengers.

Dr. Swayne is studying the injury caused by an outbreak of the spruce bud-worm which is spreading into Ontario pulpwood forests from northern Quebec. The injury is being done to the balsam and spruce timber and is caused by myriads of caterpillars devouring the foliage. The injured timber turns red and may be distinguished from the air. After mapping the area, the timber-owners can be advised of the rate and direction of the spread, so that they may salvage their timber in advance of the outbreak.

Half-Dozen Gamblers May be Indicted

In the testimony presented to the grand jury, Attell, it is said, handled the money and paid the White Sox players. More players may also be indicted.

RAY GOSSEN ELECTROCUTED ON FRANKFORD BRIDGE

Then Fell Twenty Feet or More Fracturing Neck and Skull—Foot Was Burned Off.

Frankford bridge was the scene of a terrible fatality at four o'clock yesterday afternoon when Ray Gossen, son of Mr. Charles Gossen, manager of the Frankford Carling Co., was electrocuted. The unfortunate lad, who was only thirteen years of age, was in company with a number of other boys, who had climbed up on the arch girder of the bridge across the Trent River and were near the Frankford side. To get down the arch, it appears that the Gossen boy started backwards on his hands and knees. It is thought that in this position he put his feet across an electric wire strung on arms at the top of the bridge. There he was held by the wire and the steel arch, for several minutes until the electric current had burned the foot off. His body being against the steel, the current flowed through his body.

Finally the body fell against a girder, about twenty or twenty-five feet below. His neck was broken and his skull fractured. Dr. Simmons was called to the scene but could do nothing as life was extinct. The fractures themselves were sufficient to cause death, had it not been for the electric shock.

Owing to the fact that several discharged soldiers expressed the desire to enter the faculty of medicine at Western this year, it was decided to continue the five-year course through 1920-21, but not thereafter, so that final five-year course entrants will be accepted for this year only. In addition to the last five-year course squad a regular class of six-year students will take lectures on the opening of school.

There are nine candidates for the five-year course registered at Western to date, while a record enrollment of six-year Meds is noted. Other universities of the Dominion, including Toronto and Queen's have extended the medical course to one of six years, and are accepting former soldiers for the five-year period this year only.

October 4 is registration day at Western and lectures begin the following day.

Lancers Said to Have Exacted Reprisals
(Special 4 p.m. Dispatch from Canadian Press Ltd.)

CORK, Sept. 29.—The sacking of the town of Mallow, County Cork, during last night, followed promptly on the Sinn Fein coup of yesterday in which the military barracks were raided and the sergeant was killed. Not the Black and Tan but the Seventeenth Lancers are said to have exacted reprisals. There was much promiscuous shooting by soldiers but no casualties have been reported. The fire was still burning this forenoon.

Ex-Ald. Robinson Calls for Economy

Editor Ontario.— Herewith you will find an editorial which I clipped from last Friday's Globe, and as I feel that it would be of considerable interest to our civic taxpayers I submit it for insertion in your valuable paper, trusting that this will meet with your approval.

It can be gathered from this editorial that we have in all probability in our midst a false prophet and therefore one not always safe to follow in relation to predictions and advice concerning municipal affairs. Mr. Fredericks should learn that arguments based on facts are more convincing than mere unwarranted predictions. The Globe's arguments in favor of the municipality of Toronto acquiring the Toronto Street Railway are based on magnificent facts and figures and are to my mind unanswerable.

Following is the editorial from The Globe, referred to by Mr. Robinson.

A PROPHECY OF BILL

There will be very general agreement with the resolution passed by the Congress of Chambers of Commerce that the operation of public utilities, whether by the nation or a municipality, should be conducted on a self-supporting basis, and that charges for such service should be sufficient to pay the actual cost of operation without having to make up a deficit by taxation.

But there will be dissent no less general from the prediction of Mr. E. Fredericks of Belleville, who moved the resolution, that Toronto will furnish a good illustration of the inefficiency of State control after the Toronto Street Railway becomes municipally operated. He tells the citizens in the cocksure manner indulged in by Sir Henry Pellatt years ago, when he declared that the civic light and power plant could not compete with the privately-owned Electric Light Co., that the lowest fare they will enjoy under civic operation of the street cars will be four tickets for a quarter.

The prophecy is a rash one. Some increase may have to be made as a result of basic conditions. The Street Railway Company is operating at present only in the crowded centre of the city and has thrown upon the supplementary civic system the unprofitable business of carrying passengers to the suburban districts. It costs citizens living in St. Clair and Danforth areas, during other than limited hours and by the purchase of tickets, 5-6 cents for a single ride on the combined systems. Were the city to charge a fare of 64 cents after the consolidation of the two systems the difference to tens of thousands of citizens would amount to less than half a cent per ride.

But there is no probability that the increase indicated by Mr. Fredericks will be made. Year by year ever since 1891 the citizens using the street cars of Toronto have not only paid the actual cost of the service, but they have contributed sums aggregating almost seven million dollars in relief of taxation.

The statement made by Mr. Bradshaw before he left office as to the debt of the city showed that the Waterworks, the Hydro-electric system, the Toronto Railway pavements and the Exhibition are "wholly self-sustaining," and that the only civic services of the sort not wholly self-sustaining are the Civic Car lines and the Abattoir. The Toronto Railway will turn over to the city this year over a million dollars of its gross receipts. About a quarter of a million of this will go toward the redemption of taxation or to street maintenance, which would otherwise be charged against the taxpayers. The Waterworks, which will yield no less than half a million dollars of net surplus is also being used as part of the city's taxing machinery. During the past two years over a million dollars were obtained from Waterworks surplus earnings that would otherwise have had to come out of the taxes.

There is not much danger of the ratepayers of Toronto being taxed to meet deficits on the civic services. The danger rather is that the less well-to-do citizens who use the Street Railway and other services shall be charged excessive fares and rates in order that taxation may be lessened by the amount of the resulting surplus. This danger in the case of the Street Railway is not so serious as it would have been had a Committee of Council—instead of a Commission—that has no interest in elections—been chosen to manage the road. The British delegates to the Chamber of Commerce may accept with confidence the assurance that the civic services of Toronto are assets, not liabilities.

Harvest Festival at Christ Church

Rural Dean Byers of Stirling, the Proverbes of the Day

The parish of Christ Church yesterday observed harvest thanksgiving, the Rev. Rural Dean Byers, of Stirling, officiating. The organ, the pulpit and altar was adorned with flowers of the season, and the baptismal font was decorated with the produce of the field emblematic of harvest. In spite of the intense heat there were large congregations. The choir under the direction of Miss LeVoe with Mrs. (Col.) Campbell at the organ sang special anthems, rendering the service very attractive. The Rev. A. L. Goen of this city assisted at evening last evening.

The curse for modern unrest, the preacher said, lies in the teachings of Christ. Mr. Byers attacked the mad chase of the world today for pleasure. What he asked, are many Christians doing in the church for the work of God? They forget the harvest to be and they take Lord's Day as if it were their own. Sunday is made a picnic day, people take their automobiles, spending the day at resorts and rob God of their service and miss the privilege of worship. Today there are about three hundred and fifty religious bodies. Are people suffering the seed of discord? Many so-called Christians today are practically Unitarians, handing out a religious dose and calling it religion—the most blasphemous of doctrines.

Rural Dean Swains of Christ Church, occupied Rural Dean Byers' pulpit yesterday.

Men Hurt in Motor Wreck

Eugene Donegan, aged 34 years, living at 639 Chene St., Detroit and his brother-in-law, Patrick Ryall, 35 years, living at 549 Hall Avenue, Windsor, had a narrow escape in an auto accident late Saturday afternoon on the fourth concession of Sidney. The men had been travelling in a Buick car, No. 4-532, and thought they were going to Toronto. They were advised to turn back and had turned when near the top of a hill the accident occurred. They claimed a wheel struck a stone, the wheel being smashed. They claimed the car did not overturn but some who have seen it think it might have tipped over. The top was smashed, the windshield crushed up on the seat, the wheel broken, and other damage caused. Ryall was thrown out and suffered cuts to his face. He stated today that Donegan was not thrown out but that he kept control of car which bumped on down the hill. Donegan did suffer some damage to his clothing.

The man sent a message to the city and had the car brought in to McLaughlin's garage. Ryall was given medical attention by Dr. Cronk, Coleman St. Later, about seven o'clock Sergeant Napf and P. C. Vanmeer arrested the two men for being drunk on front street.

In court today Magistrate Mason asked Ryall whose eyes were blackened. "Have you been through a threshing machine?" Ryall replied—"No we had an accident. I was sitting on the high side and had the worst of the fall." Ryall said he was guilty of intoxication. "I met a fellow here after the accident. I felt a little weak. I thought I might have concussion of the brain," and accordingly he was given some liquor.

Donegan, who said he was the owner of the car, said he was intoxicated when arrested. The liquor was given him by a man at the latter's home.

The two were fined $10 and costs each or 21 days. Donegan had more than enough to pay the fines. The repairs to the car will cost about $275.

BAYSIDE

Important Changes in Farm Property

We little know what a day may bring forth. Yesterday we had neighbors but today they are gone. Mr. Fred A. Gardner, who for many years has followed agriculture here has sold his farm to Mr. Wm. Blair, of Trenton. Mr. Blair also purchased the crop, stock and implements. Mr. Gardner has bought the valuable fruit and garden lands of Mr. S. Pine and will take possession in the near future.

Mr. Pine and family are moving to Jersey City, U.S.A., where there is practically no winter. If the people of Jersey City intend moving out we haven't heard of it. Mr. Charles Downas has purchased the residence and garden land formerly owned by the late D. A. Parks. Mr. E. Waldron, one of our oldest and most respected citizens has disposed of his farm to Mr. Arnold Harrison, of Thomasburg. Mr. Harrison sold his farm near Thomasburg some time ago and has decided to come to Bayside where the real live people are.

Mr. and Mrs. James Vanderburg, of Dunnville, Ont., are visiting relatives and friends here. Jimmie is of U.E.L. stock and when it comes right down to being a good live sport, can keep his end up with anybody. Mrs. E. Finkle spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Bonisteel. Quite a number from here attended the school fair at Wallbridge on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Masters and son visited Mr. and Mrs. Silas Robinson's Mills on Sunday. The sound of the engine cutter is heard in the land but who wants to hear that kind of a sound anyway? Mr. and Mrs. David Coon and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Coon of Con. A. Sidney, took tea with Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hunt Sunday last.

On Wednesday evening last in White's church under the auspices of Bayside, W.M.S. the Rev. Mr. Wickware of Northport lectured on his experiences in Africa during the sixteen years of his stay there as a missionary. A series of lantern slides depicting life as Mr. Wickware found it in Africa were also given and enjoyed by all. Mr. Wickware is a pleasant speaker and his lecture is full of wit and humor—a real necessity if interest is to be aroused. About five or six hundred people partook of the dainty and sumptuous supper that was served by the ladies at the close of the lecture. The proceeds of the evening were $50.00.

Rev. and Mrs. Sharpe, of Rednersville visited Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Joblin on Wednesday.

THE DESTRUCTIVE BONFIRE

Now that some of our streets are paved and others about to receive the finishing coat of asphalt, we hope that our citizens will not use the pavement this fall for burning up leaves and rubbish. To light a fire on the pavement will of course ruin the asphaltic top.

MORE LARGE POTATOES

Mr. George Belcher exhibited two large potatoes this morning which he grew in his garden at the corner of St. Charles and Meira Streets. The two weighed three pounds and a quarter. Both are clean potatoes without protuberances and do not seem to have reached their full growth. These potatoes were not larger than the ordinary run of potatoes in the garden.

INJURED HORSE SHOT

On Sunday morning at 8.30 o'clock the police were called to the corner of Holloway and Howard streets, it being reported that a horse was suffering badly. P. C. Vanmeer investigating found a bay mare which had become fastened in a fence, and had been hurt. The animal was owned by Mr. T. M. Rankin of Ormsby, and was in charge of his son, Mr. J. C. Rankin. It was outgrasping when caught in the fence. Mr. Rankin gave permission to have his horse shot as it was badly hurt and P. C. Vanmeer destroyed it.

TO MEMORY DEAR (PICTON TIMES)

"To those who will fall Easy: You will not die, but step into immortality—your names will be revered forever by your grateful country, and God will take you unto Himself!"

These are the words of General Sir Arthur Currie included in his special order issued to the Canadian troops on March 27, 1918. The pledge thus given is being faithfully fulfilled by Prince Edward county people in regard to the boys who at the call of King and country left all that was dear to them, endured hardships, faced danger, and finally passed out of sight of men by the path of duty and self-sacrifice.

This sentiment was very manifest at the huge gathering which assembled to witness the ceremonial unveiling of the splendid tribute to the fallen erected by Prince Edward County Council. The designer of the handsome monument had evidently been imbued with the spirit of the occasion, the details being worked out in perfect harmony.

The buildings and poles in the vicinity were decorated with flags and bunting and the whole business part of the town was prettily decorated. From eleven to twelve o'clock all business was suspended and the entire population gathered at the scene of the unveiling. The handsome and appropriate monument was erected by Mr. W. A. Jones of Pictou, and is a credit to all concerned. The design and size are most admirably suited to the site. The names are plainly engraved and can easily be read from the walks on either Main or Ferguson streets.

The finished work is fully up to the most ardent expectations and the Warden and the County Council are the recipients of many congratulatory remarks on their good judgment in selecting site and memorial. The cold wave of Monday was followed by bright sunny autumn days on Tuesday and the change was very welcome. The Mayor had taken the precaution to have the streets converging at the site of the monument closed for vehicle traffic, consequently the crowd filled the four streets and all the vacant land in the vicinity as they reverently followed the ceremony and listened to the speeches.

The detachment of mounted horse-men from the Royal Military Riding School, the Royal Military Cadets, the G.W.V.A., and the Collegiate Cadets formed the band of Honor. The band of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery furnished the music. The school children of the county were massed west of the monument and took part in the singing.

Warden Hazel, who has been closely in touch with the memorial work, had the details well arranged. Warden Hazel acted as chairman of the day. He called attention to the brave men who had paid the supreme sacrifices in the great struggle for right. The monument, he said, was Prince Edward county's token of appreciation to these men. Each municipality shared equally in the expense through the county council. In conclusion, on behalf of the county council, he thanked the citizens of the county for their hearty co-operation during the year. He also called attention during the year to the Rev. Major A. H. Creighton of Deseronto, Military Chaplain overseas, to lead in prayer.

Friends, Residents of Prince Edward County and Visitors.—It is my duty as Warden of the County of Prince Edward to preside over this meeting to-day. This assembly marks a very important day in the life of this community, and solemnly reminds us of the brave sons, brothers and friends, who, following steady the path of duty, answered the call of the Mother Country, went overseas, and fought for the principles of justice, truth and right. We are gathered here to-day to honor those brave sons, devoted and faithful men and boys from Prince Edward county, who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Great Conflict. This monument, which is to be dedicated to the principles and faith which they upheld and fought for, has been erected by the residents of this county. Each person in the county had a part—as great as the other—in contributing to the memorial. The county council were unanimous in agreeing that a monument of this nature would best represent the wishes of the majority of the people. Next, a hymn, with band, "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Mr. Gen. W. E. King, C.M.G., D.S.O., G.O.C., M.D. No. 3, Kingston, was the next to address the gathering. He said Germany had learned the fate they took up arms. He spoke feelingly of the large number of Canadian lives lost in the terrible struggle, but the deeds these men have accomplished will live forever. With the military band standing at the "present" Brig-Gen. King pulled the string allowing the huge Union Jack to fall from the monument.

A wreath was placed on the monument by Mrs. W. A. Jones, mother of two of the boys whose names appear on the monument. A hymn, with the band, "Nearer My God to Thee."

Major-General Sir Archibald Cameron Macdonald, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Commandant the R.M.C., Kingston, spoke briefly. He said it was his privilege to command one of the Canadian divisions in the front line trenches for some time. He told of many actual experiences and started his story by saying he spoke very highly of the 2nd Battalion, which a great many Prince Edward men fought, and made such an enviable record.

Mr. Gen. A. E. Ross, C.B., C.M.G., Kingston, concluded the speaking with a short address. He had also taken a prominent part in

Today's Market Was Very Large

Tomatoes Slump—Butter and Eggs Advance

The Belleville market today reached its old style proportions with a large attendance of buyers, sellers and plentiful offerings in produce of all kinds. Since last Saturday there has been a little shifting of prices. Tomatoes were the greatest slumper. Several large loads of these were offered in smaller quantities. While the ruling price was around 70 cents, there were many sold as low as 60c. The tomato crop is so exceedingly large that prices are being reeling. Many remained unsold today. Potatoes seem to be stationary at $1.00 per bushel. The offerings were not so numerous as usual. Those offered were large as usual in this year of phenomenal crop growth.

Many luscious pears were offered but they kept high at 80c and 90c per peck. Apples ranged from seven to 15 cents to one dollar per bus. The quantities of apples offered were very large and all were excellent. Onions were selling today at 50c to 60c. Green corn brought 15c per dozen. Plum tomatoes were quoted at 10c per quart. The offerings were numerous. Strawberry tomatoes were plentiful at the rate of two quarts for 25c.

Meat being offered today, load after load, was excellent. Watermelon brought 15c to 30c and muskmelons 5c and upwards. Green tomatoes were offered at 50c per bushel. Melons being sold at 5c, 10c and 15c today. Pumpkins are worth 10c and upwards. Crab apples were numerous at 25c per peck. Cauliflowers were in evidence. Delicious grapes were sold for 10c per box. The grain market has taken a slight movement downward. Oats are offering at 70c, barley, $1.25 and wheat at $2.30.

In the inner market, eggs sold up to 62c and 65c per dozen. Buyers looked for a decline but were surprised. They are offering at 58c and 59c. Butter took a move upwards, reaching the peak of 75c. Some sold at 73c. Chickens brought $1.00 each for this year's birds. Old fowl sold at $1.50 and upwards. Loose hay was not offered. Baled hay is very firm. Buyers are offering $25.00 to $26.00. Meat prices are holding their own contrary to expectation, and quotations at butchers and meat markets are selling at 20c wholesale, lamb 25c, veal 15c off the market. Live hogs are worth about $20 each.

There was a plentiful supply of vegetables of all kinds at moderate prices. SHANNONVILLE. King Albert MacDonald went to Kingston to undergo an operation for appendicitis a few days since. We are pleased to hear she is doing as well as can be expected.

Macdonald and Bernice were seen camping during the summer.

Fur Business Will be Heavy During Season

Never have furs been lovelier or more varied than this year, and even accessories as linings or fasteners surpass in fabric and hue those of any former year. Though conservative lines have been followed here and there, indications are that the lavish new fur wraps show a decided tendency to be capelike, following out the designs of cloth and taffeta wraps which were so very popular during the summer, and which will continue in popularity throughout the autumn.

Furriers are looking forward to a big fur season, and it is expected that more furs will be sold this winter than ever before, despite the H.C.L. Fur coats, fur neck pieces, both large and small, fur sets and the plain, long styles continue in favour and are very much in demand. Many big, wrappy dolmans and fur capes will be shown. These have long, straight back panels, some bloused at the waist, while others hang loosely. The back and sleeve are cut into a flaring cape effect falling unbelted from cuff to hem. While the plain, practical thirty-six inch length coat is still shown, the prominent coat, however, is that of the full cape flaring from shoulder to hem unbelted, and with Madras sleeves. The dolman coat cut straight from shoulder prime favourite.

Seal is still the favourite material, and is certainly very practical. Sometimes these are made with contrasting bands of squirrel, Canadian marten, beaver, or Australian opossum. Although the demand continues to be fairly strong for garments shown in combination, making use of various contrasting furs, the opinion of many of the furriers is that the plain coats are coming back into their own, and for the most part contrasting fur trimming is confined to collars, and is not used extensively in cuffs or borders, as in former winters.

Broadtail, once relegated exclusively to those of mature age, and carcass, which resembles broadtail, are going to be extremely popular too. The popularity of caracul is attributed to its likeness to broadtail. Only the finest grades of caracul are selling and it is believed that it will be worn by women who can not afford broadtail, and are turning to the best likeness. Formerly, caracul appeared entirely in black, but this season it appears sometimes quite unexpectedly, in grey.

A number of attractive coats are also devoted to mole, racoon, muskrat and squirrel. A few more expensive coats are shown in sable, and opossum has been made up into a beautiful garment.

Lining is Important. Not the least feature in a beautifully made coat is the lining, and the woman who purchases a fur coat is always persistent in seeing what kind of lining goes into her coat. For this reason furriers have an assortment of linings which will in every way cope with the skins used in making the garment. As has been the case in fur since furs have become such an essential part of a woman's wardrobe, linings have also become very important, and if the maker of fur garments does not carry an assortment of linings, he is sure to lose out, for woman's vanity does not stop at the fur. The past year's craze for the Oriental lining is persisting this year, and linings are really gorgeous. Metal brocades, gold and silver embroideries, heavy satin ribbons, and metallic laces in Algerian blue, Chinese red or Cleopatra green, line all winter furs.

In fur neckpieces, the demand is again strong for the ever popular fox, and it is anticipated that a very large number of the animal designs, which are so smart, will be worn extensively this fall. Straight styles are said to be favoured and are shown in a variety of styles in mole, Hudson seal, mink, nutria and lynx.

Mole is a Leader. Mole is one of the leading furs for the coming season, and this fur is made up in stoles, chokers, fur sets, coats and capes. Skunk and kolinsky are also included in the line of neckwear, in capes and long stoles, as well as in the one or two animal effects. While furs are taboo, with the exception of ermine, which is to be really smart must only be worn at the right place at the right time.

Will Divide Profits Equally With Staff

Unique Profit-Sharing Plan Announced by National Cash Register Company—Pay Workers in Cash—Aims at Reduced Labor Turnover, Increased Production, and Greater Loyalty.

A profit-sharing plan of an original and unusually liberal character was announced to the Canadian employees of the National Cash Register Co. by Frederick B. Patterson, vice-president, who made the trip from Dayton expressly to explain the many unique features of the plan.

The profits of the company are to be determined by an outside firm of accountants. From the total profits will be deducted an amount equal to six per cent. interest on the money invested by the company—but this investment will take no account of the thousands of dollars' worth of patents and the "good-will" belonging to the company.

Share Profits Equally.

After this six per cent. interest is deducted, the remaining profits are divided equally between employees and company. The employees are to be paid not in stock or bonds, but in spot cash as close as possible to the accounting dates which are on January 1 and July 1—an unusually generous feature as the company pays for its product often extends over a period of time.

While there is no restriction whatsoever as to the use to which employees may put their share of the profits it is stipulated that the company's fifty per cent. of the profits may stay in the business—to erect new buildings, buy new machinery, for inventions and improvements, enlarging the business and safeguarding it against unusual and unforeseen losses. Thus all the risks and hazards are borne by the company; the employees themselves carrying no risk.

The employees of the Canadian company have extra cause for gratification in that they share not merely the profits of the Canadian company but in the total profits accruing from the whole activities of the N.C.R. in both the United States and Canada. In addition, the plan is not only effective immediately, but also made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1920.

Interviewed regarding the profit-sharing plan, Frederick B. Patterson stressed the fact that it is a purely voluntary act on the part of the company—not induced by agitation or dissatisfaction among the employees.

The policy of the company has always embraced the reasonable hours, fair wages, good working conditions and promotion from the ranks. The company's welfare work—clinics, schoolhouse, welfare fields, dining rooms, children's lectures, health bulletins, etc.—is internationally famous and regarded by the president, John H. Patterson, as the best investment the company ever made.

Through the profit-sharing plan thus introduced the company hopes to achieve reduced labor turnover, closer co-operation, increased efficiency, less waste of material, time and labor, decreased costs and a stimulated desire for promotion, and, most important of all, increase the profits. With a view to making each employee keenly desirous of a better position, the employees' share of the profits is graded. Each employee is placed in one of five groups, according to efficiency, responsibility and knowledge of the business.

The first group—executives (not including the owners)—will receive 12 per cent. of the profits. The second group—foremen—will receive 5 per cent. The third group includes employees of the rank of job foremen and will receive 3 per cent. of the profits. The fourth group is the largest and includes all who have been in the company's employ over one month. These will receive 2 1/2 per cent. of the profits. Only those who have been with the company less than thirty days—the fifth class—will not be entitled to profits. As an employee merits promotion from one class into a higher class he will be getting a greater proportion of the profits. Each employee's share of the profits is based on the salary or wages he receives.

Asked about business conditions, Mr. Patterson said that the N.C.R. provided perhaps the best available barometer of conditions throughout the country. Each month's business showed a marked increase this year

Deepening of St. Lawrence

Question Treated From Entirely New Angle.

Windsor, Ont. Sept. 28.—The value of the St. Lawrence deep waterways project was viewed from an entirely new angle here yesterday by D. J. Bourke, general manager of the Great Lakes Navigation Company, who pleaded the waterways cause before the Border Cities Chamber of Commerce.

Completion of the project, Mr. Bourke claimed, meant the solution of the problem which had arisen from the separatist movement in Western Canada. This movement was largely due to United States and Western Canada being drawn together by common commercial interests and by making adequate provisions for Canadian products being borne by Canadian Great Lakes shipping this question would be solved.

Mr. Bourke stated that Eastern and Western Canada were slowly growing apart. Business interests in the west were gradually becoming more closely affiliated with the United States transportation facilities were much more efficient for the handling of Western Canadian grains and a large percentage of Canadian grain was going to seaboard over American roads.

Canadian railways are unable to handle the volume of freight from the West at the present time, and this fact was a further argument for intensive development of Canadian transportation facilities. Under the present situation freight from the Canadian west was transhipped several times in its journey from the western provinces to tide water.

The only remedy for this situation lay in the development of Great Lakes water borne commerce by which western freight loaded in Fort William could be barge directly to tide water without transhipment with its consequent delay.

Mr. Bourke showed the value of the lakes for commercial purposes, stating that 52 1/2 cents was received for each ton of coal which was transported 800 miles, and declared that he believed there was no other place in the world where similar freight was obtained.

Three Trainmen Killed

Boiler Explodes—Freight Cars Are Blown to Pieces

An extraordinary accident on the St. Lawrence Division of the New York Central on Tuesday morning resulted in the death of three trainmen. Locomotive No. 5159, drawing an extra freight train from Watertown bound to Malone Junction, exploded one mile east of Matton signal station, half way between Kansas and Gouverneur at 4.16 a.m. Wesley J. Cook, of Henrieville, brakeman, died within two hours after sustaining burns and other injuries. Fireman Leo A. Moore, of Eben, sustained injuries which resulted in his death at the City hospital at 11.20 the same morning; and Engineer William H. Corey, 106 Mechanic street, suffered injuries which caused his death in the afternoon. All three men were on the locomotive when it exploded from some unknown cause, while Conductor H. R. Shoen and the other members of the crew were riding in the caboose at the rear of the train, escape.

The force of the explosion completely demolished the huge locomotive, which is one of the heavy freight hauling type furnished the local division while under federal control, directions and smaller parts were thrown hundreds of feet in different directions and smaller parts were scattered over a greater radius. Eighteen of the 35 heavy freight cars of the train were either piled up, thrown to the sides of the track, or blown to pieces, and over 200 feet of rails were torn from the ties some being twisted out of shape, as if by a giant. A great hole, almost crater like in depth and cone shaped, was made in the earth beneath the track.

Four-year-old twins were burned to death in a barn at New Virginia, Ia. They were playing with matches.

Ratification of the suffrage amendment was voted down by the Maryland House 50 to 43.

HAVELOCK HAD SERIOUS FIRE.

Havelock was again visited with a disastrous fire last week when the Thompson block was entirely destroyed and several other big buildings threatened with loss. The block was occupied by Mr. G. R. McGregor, who conducted a grocery and bake shop, and the flames broke out in the bake shop in the rear about 8.30 o'clock Thursday. The chemical engines put out the fire in the bake shop, but not before the flames had travelled through to the main block, which despite heroic efforts to save it, was burned to the ground.

At one time the cement block adjoining, owned by Mr. Edward Fennell; the frame building to the rear owned by Mr. M. H. Swain, the Anglican church, the town hall and several residences, were all on fire from burning embers, but all were saved by prompt attention and hard work on the part of the fire fighters, coupled with the assistance given by the C.P.R. shopmen and the use of that Company's fire hose and appliances.

Fighting for Fireside

You Can Get a Cottage for $44, or You May Have to Pay $700 Premium for $500 Flat.

(By C. H. J. Salder)

HOUSING PUZZLES

London, Sept. 28

Thirty per cent. increase over 1914 rent is what landlords can charge tenants occupying houses from that date.

Six-room modern houses, built under housing schemes, cost from $4,500 to $5,000. Year ago they cost $3,500.

Tenders for even three-room cottages have run as high as $7,500.

London people pay sometimes two years' rent as "premium" on flats.

Cottages in the country have sold recently as low as $44.

House that would cost $40 a month five miles from heart of Toronto costs $20 a month five miles from heart of London.

Building wages increased since armistice 115 per cent.

Building material increased in cost 60 per cent.

"A house, a house, my kingdom for a house!"

So may King George exclaim, echoing the cry of most of his liege subjects in this fair land.

Houses—in the right place—are very scarce.

All over the country, borough councils and municipal bodies are going into housing schemes.

Health Ministry's Houses

The British Ministry of Health has a Housing Department. The Ministry has approved 140,000 tenders on building houses. Applications for approval are coming in faster now at the rate of 1,000 a week.

Average cost of a Housing Department house has been:

Parlor type, $4,520.

Non-parlor type, $4,055.

Ground, $915 per acre.

There have been altogether 5,300 housing schemes submitted with regard to 247,147 houses, and approval has been given to 4,530 for 230,867 houses. Out of the 154,741 houses for which tenders have been submitted, 137,562 have been approved.

Building Not Brisk

Building is not going ahead rapidly. Last week only 134 privately-built houses were completed, and that is the highest figure for any week since the armistice.

Government grants to the builders of these amounted to $140,569, or nearly $1,000 per house.

In the "London Area," which goes all the way to the Isle of Wight, Kent, Sussex and Surrey, only 36 houses were completed during the week. Builders hold back in view of extortionate labor demands.

Manchester needs 52,000 houses. Of these contracts have been let for 10,000 municipal houses this year, but 200 bricklayers were required, and it has only been possible to secure 130. At a generous estimate only 1,000 houses will be finished by the end of the year.

One of the Reasons

A Slater, who was a witness in court the other day demanded 20 shillings—$4.80—for loss of time. Asked by the magistrate if he didn't think that rather steep, he said, no, he made $6.25 a day.

Billericay District Council—in an Essex suburb, 24 miles from the heart of London—opened tenders yesterday for houses and found they would cost $6,000 each. The chairman said they "would just buy till employees and workmen came to their senses."

Premiums for Flats

Amusing figures of "premiums" for flats in London are quoted; tenants who had to have accommodation paying $250 to $700 premium for a flat renting for $50 a year.

Before adjournment on Monday a bill was introduced into Parliament to give local authorities power to hire houses that have been vacant for three months and rent them with or without the landlord's consent.

4,800 Houses Empty

This has thrown a cold chill into aristocratic Kensington. In Gloucester road stand many fine mansions placarded with "For Sale" notices. The thought of them being turned into poor men's apartments horrifies their dignified neighbors. There are said to be 4,800 empty houses in London.

A Sample Rent

In the suburban residential districts of London rents are not extortionate. The other day the writer visited a nice little eight-roomed house, 40 minutes by tram car and Shanks mare from the Strand. The equipment was, generally, what you would find in a $40 a month house north of Bloor and west of Ossington or east of Broadview. The tenant was paying 28 pounds a year rent and "rates," that is to say, he paid the local taxes. This, he said, brought up the cost to a pound a week, which would make his rent $20 a month by Toronto figures. He admitted he had a good bargain, and he expected an increase in rent within a month or two.

Going Up Moderately.

The United Kingdom is in the throes of the Rent Act. Landlords were prevented—to some extent—from profiteering during the war.

Now they are allowed to increase rents to pre-war tenants up to 30 per cent. over pre-war prices for this year, and 40 per cent. next, but they have to make repairs. If they don't the tenant can pay his rent into court and have the repairs made and deducted from the landlord's check.

That is a layman's rude summary of an act declared by legal authorities very complicated and difficult of interpretation. Compared with the ruthless rent raising of Toronto, its provisions seem moderate.

Leiton, in Essex, just outside of London, has started a municipal housing enterprise of 142 houses, to cost $5,500 each. They will have parlor, living room and scullery downstairs, and three bedrooms and a bath upstairs. Fronts will be plain brick and roughcast.

It amazes the stranger in England to find whole cities given over to nothing but dwelling houses. There are scores of these. The inhabitants, particularly of the male persuasion, scarcely know them by daylight on week days. They catch the 7.22 for London, do their day's work, catch the 8.15 back, and smoke the pipe of peace in the garden through the long English twilight, admiring the sky-line scenery of ten thousand similar roof-tops. There is nothing else to see in the whole city—no roaring forges or stately ships or fascinating shops of blinding electric signs. All is as peaceful, till the morning train rush begins, as a country cemetery.

Some Recent Bargains

Outside of the large centres houses are, gauged by Canadian prices, cheap.

At Elton, Derbyshire, a cottage "got into the papers" by selling for $250.

This was promptly beaten by the sale of a thatched cottage at Colworth, in Bedfordshire, with a considerable garden, for the same figure.

Then four cottages with gardens, at Wilden, Bedfordshire, took the palm for low prices by selling for $525—about $121 apiece.

Lowest record seen since landing this month was the sale of five cottages at Colchester, Essex, for fifty pounds for the lot, which would be $44 apiece if you were paying for them in Canadian money.

Those Rose-Wreathed Cottages

Of course, there is this to be said of English cottages in general—they are more picturesque than practical, more soulful than sanitary. Thatched roofs and rose-maned walls are common. Plumbing and electric lights are not. And a $44 cottage at Colchester doesn't do much good to the man who has to earn his living in a big centre a hundred miles away. Still, it is better for his family than one or two cramped rooms in London; even better than one of the army huts that people are forced to buy for lack of something better.

On the Other Hand

The officials of the Housing Commissioners have put up in the country a superior style of bungalow at a cost far less than builders' tender quotations for workmen's cottages. The bungalow has four bedrooms, a dining room 16 ft. high—a sort of miniature baronial hall, with a timber music gallery at one end, ample storage accommodation and a constant hot water supply provided by a slow combustion boiler. The cost is $6,000 altogether, or $4,700 after taking advantage of the Government subsidy to private builders for the construction of houses.

Wheat Crop in Alberta is of Excellent Quality

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 27.—The value of the crop now being taken off five greater production farms is estimated at $2,500,000 by officials of the Department of Indian Affairs here.

It is stated that the wheat on the Alberta farms is running 45 bushels to the acre and is grading No. 1. Fifteen cars have been moved east. The wheat is being threshed at the rate of 20,000 bushels a day by ten outfits. About 100,000 of the estimated 500,000 bushels crop has been threshed. The year's profits will be well over $1,000,000.

Crude Sugar is Hailed as New Fuel in Hawaii

Sugar—the motor fuel of the future!

Starting as this may appear at first glance as the mind flashes through a lightning calculation of what sugar costs for table use only, scientists assert emphatically that the "crude" of sugar, which is molasses, is destined to furnish the gasoline of the future.

Great strides in this direction are already reported by J. P. Foster, chemist for a large sugar plantation on the island of Maui, Hawaii, who is said to have produced a satisfactory "motor alcohol" out of the lowly and sticky molasses.

Experts who have studied the proposition from every angle say the motor fuel of the future will be grown, not mined, as at present. There will then be no fear that this gasoline substitute will be exhausted since as much can be grown from year to year as the country and the world will require.

Since the world's available supply of petroleum is known to be decreasing rapidly, the British government has been active in investigating possible substitutes and its chemists report that vegetable materials containing sugar, such as molasses, sugar beets and mangoes; other cereals and potatoes, and those containing cellulose, as peat, sulphite wood pulp, lyes and wood are suited for the production of motor fuels of excellent grade.

The fuel development by Mr. Foster in Hawaii is said to give more power, easier starting and more freedom from carbon than the best grades of gasoline now on the market. Moreover, in recent tests, it was used on motor cars without an adjustment of the carburetor.

Will Britain Have Another Oliver Cromwell?

New York, Sept. 28.—Under the title, "Will Britain Have Another Cromwell?" the Wall Street Journal publishes an interesting article on conditions in the Old Country, written by Herbert N. Gasson, one of the paper's London correspondents. Mr. Gasson, says in part:

"Now that the threat of a new terrorism of labor has appeared in England, thousands of people are asking for a strong hand at the helm of the Ship of State.

"The general belief is that we cannot go on forever merely dodging dangers. We must face them and put an end to them if we are to remain a prosperous and self-governing people.

"On all hands—in labor halls and in the clubs of Pall Mall, you will hear the question asked—'Shall we have another Cromwell?'

"There is no general agreement as to who this new Cromwell is, nor as to what class of the nation he will represent.

"He will not be a financier—that is fairly certain. At any rate, there is no financier in sight who could address a mass meeting in Hyde Park with any chance of an audience.

"He will not be a militarist. Not even Earl Haig appears at the moment to have any ambition or opportunity to become a national leader.

"There are 3,000,000 members of the ex-soldiers' organizations; but they have no leader, no policy and no influence. They cannot even get jobs for their 200,000 members who are unemployed.

"Of all Britain's victorious generals and admirals, there is not one in public life, nor is there likely to be one.

"There are three men, at last, who are unquestionably Cromwellian. The first is Carson—the leader of the Irish Orangemen. The second is Smilley—the leader of 11,100,000 coal miners. The third is Kenworthy—the most formidable member of the Opposition in the House of Commons.

"As to Sir Edward Carson, the next few months will tell the tale. It is the alone who is now preventing Ireland from receiving a complete measure of Home Rule.

The latest news—unreliable, of course—as everything is on the Irish question, it that Carson's men are deserting him; and that he will be compelled to vote in favor of Dominion Home Rule, or else become a 'man without a country.'

"As to Robert Smilley, he has made himself the uncrowned King of British Trade Unionism. He is dictator by nature and he has succeeded in coercing even the moderate men in the labor party to agree to his amazing plan for a British Soviet.

"At the labor conference it was agreed to call a general strike to prevent Britain from making war on Russia. This conference was the most united and the most sensational labor meeting ever held in Great Britain.

"The fact is that the recent attacks upon trade unions by Churchill and the Duke of Northumberland have unified all classes of labor leaders; and the control has gone into the hands of Smilley, who is most extreme and revolutionary of the lot.

"A 'Council of Action' has been formed. This is in reality a Soviet. Its purpose is to establish a dictatorship of wage workers by the threat of a general strike. It means a terrorism of labor. It may do either of two things—but Smilley above the British parliament as a Labor Cromwell, or smash the whole structure of British trade unionism.

"As to the third embryonic Cromwell, Commander Kenworthy, M. P., there is not so much to be said. He is the dark horse of British politics, picked by many wise observers as a winner.

"He is in many ways the most remarkable personality in the present Parliament. He is a combination of opposites. He is a radical, but he is a pacifist, in the navy, yet he is a pacifist.

"Kenworthy is only 34 years of age; and he has the physical basis of leadership. He is not an invalid, as Smilley is; and neither has he burnt himself out in political feuds, as Carson has. He has the virility and independence of a Cromwell. But whether or not he has the wisdom remains to be seen."

Industrialism a Tyranny

Principal of O.A.C. says That the Towns Have Been Given Undue Advantages by Government.

"That the town is dominant in these days is the result of industrial development. We have built up our cities to the detriment of country life. Rural problems have been neglected by the Governments, especially in England and the United States," said President J. B. Reynolds, M.A., of the Ontario Agricultural College, addressing the members of the Theological Alumni of Victoria and Wycliffe Colleges.

The Governments had favored the cities by protective tariffs, whereas the farmers sell in open market, he said.

"In view of the present agitation for decreased milk prices and proposed action of the Board of Commerce," he proceeded, "I would like to state that if farm products were paid for at so much an hour for labor expended, and charged for at the rate the mechanic in the city must have in order to support his family, the food we eat would be the dearest of our commodities.

"As an example of well-ordered British democracy, the present flagrant Canadian city is a failure. The whole round of town industry is divorced from nature and economic laws. Industry and most native-born Canadians enter farming, business or the professions, since they cannot endure the tyranny of industrial conditions.

Also by reason of the dominance of the town, the country is losing its freshness and distinctive originality—see the invasion of the telephone, the rural delivery, motors and city fashions.

"We must destroy by tariff revision the preference given to town industries and have town and country competing on an equal basis. We must also encourage rural organization for business and even for political purposes, while agriculture and country life must certainly be fostered by community organizations, rural credit societies and the like.

"Above all things there is needed a return to the type of true Canadian democracy which we are fast leaving behind."

Costiveness and Its Cure.—When the excretory organs refuse to perform their functions properly the intestines become clogged. This is known as costiveness and if neglected gives rise to dangerous complications. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will effect a speedy cure. At the first intimation of this ailment the patient should procure a packet of the pills and put himself under a course of treatment. The good effects of the pills will be almost immediately evident.

A Ready Weapon Against Pain.—There is nothing equal to Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil when well rubbed in. It penetrates the tissues and pain disappears before it. There is no known preparation that will reach the spot quicker than this magic Oil. In consequence it ranks first among remedies now offered to the public and is accorded first place among all its competitors.

FEAST OF TABERNACLES

Hebrews in Belleville yesterday celebrated Tabernacle Day, one of the important days in the religious calendar. This is the 15th day of the month Tishreth, and this day is the one set aside in which to celebrate the arrival of the Jewish people at Succoth, the first stop made on their way into Canaan, the promised land. The entire holiday, known as the Feast of Tabernacles, which lasts nine days, combines several different meanings. While the arrival at Succoth was in the spring, it is celebrated in the fall so that the people will realize the full meaning better. It is also a harvest celebration, for at this time in the Holy Land the wine, oil, and fruits are being taken into the houses for the winter. It is celebrated by special prayers and by each Jewish family sleeping and eating under a bower or tent as the early Jews did so many centuries ago as they journeyed across the wilderness. It is for this reason that the observance takes place in the fall when the cool nights will emphasize to them more strongly the important occasion they are observing.

A VERY CURIOUS SITUATION

There is a curious situation in the dairy industry, Kingston, according to prominent members of the Kingston and District Milk Producers' Association. It was stated at Thursday night's meeting, that milk is being sold in Kingston, made from powder and butter, products of milk condenseries. It was explained that having produced a surplus, the condenseries started in to manufacture butter without salt. This was not intended for the market, but was placed in cold storage, and sold and converted back into cream to which milk powder was added and a marketable milk was the result.

When dealing with a Lindsay representative, you as a purchaser, need not fear being obliged to pay more than your neighbor because you are a less shrewd buyer.

Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

Holloway Street Church Societies Pay Tribute to Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Quincey.

A unique event took place last evening at Holloway Street Methodist Church when a reception was held in honor of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Quincey. The function which was under the joint auspices of the Epworth League and Woman's Missionary Society, was held in the school parlors. The societies took occasion to invite all the old people of the church and automobiles were used to bring and take them home at the close. Between forty and fifty of the older members of the congregation were present.

Mr. Ewart Jones, president of the league, presided. The Rev. A. H. Foster delivered an address in reference to the golden wedding and their associations with Holloway street church, where for about thirty-five years Mr. Quincey has been a class leader.

The Woman's Missionary Society presented Mrs. Quincey with a life membership in the W.M.S. Miss Fones took occasion to give a life membership in the cradle role to her little grand niece, the certificate being presented to Mr. James Biggs for the grandchild. The congregation, particularly Mr. Quincey's morning class presented Mr. Quincey with a purse of gold.

Mr. Quincey was very nappy in his response, referring to the days now past. He gave a resume of conditions in Belleville in the year 1870, and remarked on the changed aspects of things. He pointed out the difficulties through which the church had struggled. He prophesied a brilliant future for West Belleville congregation. Mr. Quincey expressed his gratitude for the gifts to Mrs. Quincey and himself.

The first part of the program was given by members of the league as follows: Instrumental solos, Miss Myers, Miss Jones; piano solo, Rosa Farrell; vocal, Miss Walton, Mr. Jones; readings, Marjorie Hudgins, Rae Farrell.

The elderly people who took part were: Mrs. Farrell at the piano, Mrs. (Rev.) Martin who sang a solo and Mrs. Graham who gave a reading. Mr. A. E. Bailey expressed the gratitude of the congregation to the leaguers.

The decorations were fitting, being in gold and white. All autumn flowers were in evidence. At the close refreshments were served. Miss W. Pearce, organist, presided at the piano.

The Rev. Mr. Foster closed with the repetition of the 23rd psalm.

Carry Your Lunch, It Pays

For 28 Cents a Capable Wife Can Pack up a Lunch Equal to a 60-Cent Counter Snack

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—A "carry your lunch" campaign to force a cut in the prices for food carried by restaurants was started yesterday when Max Adamowski, chairman of the City Council committee on living costs, and Russell J. Poole, its secretary, appeared at their offices with lunches from home.

"At a cost of 28 cents we received more wholesome food than can be purchased at Loop hotels and restaurants for from 60 cents to $1," Mr. Poole said. It consisted of a sandwich containing two ounces of meat, 3 cents; one apple, 2 cents; sandwich containing two ounces of cheese, 4 cents; one piece of pie, 4 cents, and one pint of milk, delivered by a milkman at 10 cents.

Managers of five leading hotels and of two restaurant chains have been summoned to appear today before the committee to explain "why their prices have not been reduced in proportion to the drop in wholesale food prices."

E. J. Stevens, manager of another big hotel, has promised "an immediate downward revision in prices."

"We have the facts and figures to prove to these gentlemen," Ald. Adamowski said, "that they have been profiteering."

"Potatoes have dropped from $9.50 a hundred pounds to $2.50, yet an order of potatoes still costs from 15 to 40 cents," he added. "The same can be said of tomatoes, corn and beans. If these prices are put down where they belong, less meat will be eaten."

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, deprive infants of the nourishment that they should derive from food, and mal-nutrition is the result. Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the morbid conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the full enjoyment of the child is assured and development in every way encouraged.

GERMANY

Editor Ontario:
Three German writers are responsible for the late war—Von Bernhardt, Treitschke and Nietzsche. These men wrote voluminously on the question as to the necessity for war on the part of Germany. All of them declared that England and France were jealous of the commercial success of Germany and were awaiting the hour to strike when war would commence by the two countries above referred to. They pointed out that Germany was much better prepared for war than her enemies, and that now was the time to strike. Bernhardt did not attempt to conceal the terrible dangers which were apparent. He pointed out in strong terms that the German officers, even those of the General Staff, would have to learn a great deal as to modern warfare. That the war would be fought upon different lines from previous wars.

One important question was the attitude of Italy. This country was bound by treaty with Germany and Austria; but she had great interests in Morocco and had exhibited a tendency in that direction which might lead (as it in fact did) to a withdrawal from the treaty. Italy might not side with England and France. If she remained bound by the treaty and assisted Germany, then the destruction of France was certain, as Italy could dispatch her army across the boundary and assault France, while Germany would make a direct descent upon France. This unquestionably would result in the complete destruction of France.

But another danger was to be encountered. Austria had Balkan provinces, which were in an unquiet state, threatening trouble. In case of war, these provinces might rebel and assault Austria from the rear in vast numbers, and in such an event Austria's assistance in the war against England and France would be very limited.

For many years immense stores of munitions of all kinds had been prepared by Germany. Krupp had been at work forging all kinds of weapons. The German fleet could not of course contend with the English on anything like fair grounds; but the remedy was to build war ships at once, and an immense number of torpedos boats.

Germany and Austria could place in the war many millions of men. A descent could be rapidly made through little Belgium, notwithstanding the treaty, the scraps of paper, and Paris and the whole of France would be overcome as the frontier fortresses were so weak that they could not prevent the advance of the German army.

In the event of a continental war, England was in no position to fight. At the utmost, she could only send 150,000 troops to the continent to assist France. England could not have support from her colonies. India was in a state of unrest and was threatened by a war with Abyssinia, and could despatch no troops. The small army in Egypt was in conflict with rebellious Sudanese; Ireland in a state of conflagration. Canada had only militia, which could not be used in war. England's army would be composed of only six infantry divisions, two mounted brigades, and army troops without columns and trains.

Bernhardt stated that these troops many of them were stationed in the colonies. England could only use her troops now in the colonies in case all was at peace therein. Bernhardt adds: "In case of war, we should threaten and make trouble in the colonies." He adds that in time of war every advantage should be taken, whether fraudulent or not. He stated that the self-governing colonies of England could be completely ignored in case of war on the continent. As to the maritime strength respectively, Germany had a displacement of 332,410—25 ships, 12 buildings. England, a displacement of 793,250—50 ships, 12 buildings.

How completely were these Germans deceived. The children of our great mother rushed to arms at her command, and thousands of battle fields were reddened by the best blood of the colophon, who cheerfully gave their lives for king and country, and assisted greatly in defeating a nation which hated England so bitterly as to teach her young children the accursed "Hymn of Hate."

Classes Open at the Y. M. C. A.

Business Classes and Senior School Started—Races

Monday night was the opening night at the Y. M. C. A. with a fairly good attendance of the Boys of the Junior Business Class.

With a fairly hot game of baseball and finishing up on the track with a fast relay race the boys adjourned to the swimming tank where the first swimming events of the season were run off.

In the two lengths of the tank it was necessary to run three heats as follows:

First Heat:
1st—R. Buskard.
2nd—H. Townsend.
3rd—L. Barlow.

Second Heat:
1st—P. Cole.
2nd—F. Symons.
3rd—O. Barnett.

Third Heat:
1st—W. Saunders.
2nd—F. Reeder.
3rd—F. McArthur.

Final Heat:
1st—P. Cole.
2nd—R. Buskard.
3rd—W. Saunders.

The second event was diving. The boys have had very little training in this event, but with a little practice will develop into good divers. Two dives were held: the running neat, and the Back Dive:

1st—W. Reeder, 16 points.
2nd—P. Cole, 15 points.
3rd—L. Barlow, 12 points.
4th—W. Saunders, 12 points.

It is the intention of the Physical Department to organize classes in the Life Saving, and the events last night will help to give the contestants confidence in the water which is the first requisite in good swimming.

Belleville at the Congress

All Four, Motions of Belleville C. of O. Met With Approval at Toronto

Belleville's delegates creditably held their own at the recent gathering of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire. Representatives of New Zealand, the West Indies and the Mother Land took an especially prominent part in the proceedings, and the results of the six days' conference were eminently satisfying both in the invaluable information shared, in the fruitful discussions, the practical resolutions and the spirit of unity intensified through personal intercourse and through the realization, in proper perspective and proportion, of the goodly heritage which as co-trustees we share together in the great Commonwealth of the British Family of Nations.

Four Belleville motions were on the agenda and met with approval. The Resources, natural, industrial and ideal—of the Empire—with special reference to Ontario—were vividly outlined by Colonel Ponton, Mr. John Elliott and Mr. R. J. Graham. The important subjects of Shipping and Shipbuilding and of Public Utilities were ably dealt with by Mr. E. P. Fredericks, Colonel Ponton was "at home" in his motion on the systematizing and assimilating of Laws and had the honor of being chosen one of seven appointed by the Congress as the Canadian Committee to arrange for Canada's part in the next International Congress in connection with the League of Nations to be held in May or June next. Mr. R. J. Graham also spoke with weight and experience on the tariff question and the British Preference. Mr. John Elliott with a stroke of genius advertised Belleville by providing 2000 1918 and 1919 cheese for the use of the Overseas Delegates on their tour through Canada, now progressing. The last motion on the agenda was moved by "Belleville" and yesterday a letter was received from the head of the Commission of Conservation at Ottawa officially congratulating the Belleville delegates on their good work for Canada and the Empire. Mrs. R. J. Graham, Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. R. D. Ponton and Miss Ponton attended all the various social functions and business meetings and helped effectively to interpret Canada to the many visiting ladies from overseas who accompanied their husbands and fathers.

The Toronto Board of Trade was splendid in its generous hospitality and its strikingly well conceived and educating entertainments. Sir Geo. E. Foster, Sir Robert Falconer and Premier Drury made speeches of momentous importance and made a deep impression. Canada may indeed be proud of three such leaders of thought and action, who, whether we agree with all their policies or not, are personally outstanding Canadians and Imperialists.

East Belleville Playground Carried on Successfully

The ladies interested in the East Belleville Playground met on Monday, Sept. 27th to finish up the season's business. The playground work was carried on very successfully, with Miss Ketcheson as supervisor. Thanks to the generosity of some of our citizens, several pieces of new equipment were added, needed repairs made, and a new tennis court was a very popular sport. The subscriptions received were $384.25.

It was decided to send Miss Sinclair, school nurse, to the Child Welfare Convention in Ottawa, Oct. 19th 1920 as our representative from the East Belleville Women's Institute. This step will doubtless lead up to interesting work in the near future.

Petes Win From Old Rivals in Hard Battle on Saturday

Rose Worst Goyer in Pitching Duel and CPeberow crew Earn the Decision by One Run to Nothing in one of the Best Games of the Year.

In one of the snappiest games of the season, the Petes vanquished their old rivals, the Belleville team on Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park by 1 run to 0. It was a pitchers' battle between Lornie Rose for the home brigade and Freddy Goyer, the crack southpaw of last year's Ontario champions, and for the second time this season Rose edged on Saturday, allowing Belleville only five hits and walking one man, while twelve of the enemy retired by the strike-out route.

Rose had fine speed and control with a curve that broke nicely, and delivered one of his best games of the year. Goyer, too, was at his best. The elongated left-hander has rarely had such good control against the Petes as he showed on Saturday and he kept the seven hits garnered by the home crew scattered. His twirling was good enough to win ninety-nine games out of a hundred but he had no chance on Saturday when his team could not make any runs for him.

The Petes, who had been in a slump for the past few weeks, returned to form with a vengeance and were a real ball club in all departments, their showing being a most welcome one, in view of the fact that on Saturday they play the first game in the final for the Ontario title. Their fielding was good and they played intelligent baseball all the way.

The only run of the game was started by Goyer himself when he plugged Harrison on the leg. Manager Solomon took quick advantage of the slip by calling upon Ray Rose for a sacrifice, placing Harrison on second. The Petes pilot then ordered a hit and run play, and it came through perfectly. As Harrison tore for third, Walter Jackson shot a single down the right field foul line and Harrison scored the only runner of the day.

The most exciting feature of the game and one of the finest pieces of defensive work the Petes have pulled off this season prevented Belleville from sewing up the game in the seventh. Mill had led off for Belleville in that inning with a double, the only extra base hit of the afternoon. Casey batted, but Symons, usually dangerous in the pinches, shot a single into centre, which looked easily good enough to score Mills. McCarter, however, fielded the ball nicely, and his quick and accurate throw to the plate was handled perfectly by Swanston, who blocked the Belleville catcher off the rubber and nailed Mills. On the throw to the plate Symons broke for second, but Swanston's fine throw to Ray Rose got him sliding into the bag, completing one of the most timely and most snappily executed double killings of the year.

Seed Grain Distribution

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The annual free distribution of samples of seed grain will be conducted as usual at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, by the Dominion Cerealists.

The following kinds of seed grain will be sent out this season:—
Spring wheat (in about 5-lb. samples); white oats (about 4-lb.); barley (5-lb.); field peas (about 5-lb.); field beans (about 2-lb.); flax (about 2-lb.).

Only one sample can be sent to each applicant.

Applications must be on printed forms which may be obtained by writing to the Dominion Cerealists, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, at any time after Sept. 1st.

As the stock of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early to avoid disappointment. Those who applied too late last season are particularly requested to send in their names at once so that application forms may be forwarded to them. No application forms will be furnished after Feb. 1st, 1921.

CUSTOM DUTIES OR DIRECT TAXATION

Editor Ontario:
I am frequently asked to explain the difference between the policy of the United Farmers, represented in West Durham by their nominee for the House of Commons, Mr. T. A. Reid, and the policy of the Liberal Party, represented by my nomination for the representative of this country in the Federal Parliament.

The published policy of the U.F.O. declares in unequivocal terms for the abolition of all Customs duties, and in favor of direct taxation to provide the revenue which will be lost by the abolishment of Customs duties.

In view of the necessity of providing for an annual expenditure of $500,000,000 a reasonable policy of Customs duties is essential to provide at least $250,000,000 from this source annually.

From the standpoint of either population, wealth, assessment or the aggregation of municipal taxation, it is a reasonable proposition that upon either one of these bases, at least $1,000,000 would be assessable to each electoral district in this Province under the U.F.O. platform upon which Mr. T. A. Reid unquestionably stands.

This means the following distribution of tax for Federal purposes every year upon each of the following municipalities:

Bowmanville . . . 12 % . . .	$ 120,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	$ 61,000
Cartwright 05 % . . .	50,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	26,800
Cavan 10 % . . .	100,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	47,000
Clarke 13 % . . .	130,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	48,500
Darlington 15 % . . .	150,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	51,400
Hope 10 % . . .	105,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	42,500
Manvers 10 % . . .	100,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	28,000
Millbrook 03 % . . .	30,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	6,200
Newcastle 02 1/2 % . . .	25,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	3,900
Port Hope 19 % . . .	190,000	Municipal taxes, 1918 . . .	87,000
Totals	$1,000,000		$401,300

This means that for every one dollar for which a ratepayer is now taxed for municipal purposes, he will have to pay $3.50 annually to the Dominion Treasury under the U.F.O. policy.

If the municipal tax bill is $50, the Dominion tax will be $125.
If the municipal tax bill is $100, the Dominion tax will be $250.
If the municipal tax bill is $200, the Dominion tax will be $500.

Every elector may figure out what his Dominion tax will be under such a policy by looking up his own municipal tax bill.

And against this taxing proposition of the U.F.O., I am unalterably opposed, and I am supported in this course by the policy and traditions of the Liberal party, just as Mr. T. A. Reid is supported in his course by the policy of the Party of which he is the nominee in West Durham.

Upon this issue alone there is a clear and distinct line of cleavage between Mr. Reid and myself. Whatever doubts there may be upon other questions there is no possible doubt on this.

I think I can, therefore, appeal not only to the farmers of West Durham, but to the general electorate for their support in opposition to any proposal to abolish Customs duties in favor of direct taxation.

Chinaman Desires His Marriage to Catholic Annulled

Henry Fong Makes Application in Quebec Civil Court of Quebec yesterday for annulment of his marriage with Florida Mallette, French Roman Catholic. Fong professes the religion of Confucius, and he married his Catholic wife, who was a minor at the time, in December, 1918. Rev. F. H. Sproule, a Methodist minister at St. Henri, performed the ceremony.

After twelve months the bride deserted and her husband also alleges misconduct. The Roman Catholic archbishop has already annulled the marriage on the ground that it is a mixed marriage not performed by a Catholic priest. Fong is asking the civil court to confirm that decision.

Filipinos Gain New Confidence in Island Rule

Birth of a Nation is Seen at Manila

MANILA, Sept. 27.—To all intent and purposes the Filipinos today are self-governing—and, taking everything in consideration they are doing a fairly satisfactory job.

Most of the work of running these scattered islands with their 11,000,000 people is in the hands of the Filipinos. There are still a few score of American officials, but they are retained because the Filipinos themselves want them to remain. Of the different government bureaus, only those of education, audit, and science are headed by Americans.

Governor-General Harrison has tremendous powers of veto, but he has exercised them very little. He and the other American government officials here have attempted to carry out the full spirit rather than the letter of the Jones law.

There has always been a certain amount of friction between the American government and the local government, but it is now being smoothed out. The most glaring defects are:

There have been and are great defects in the Philippine Government. In the first place, it is an autocratic, one party government, with the real power in the hands of the chief executive, who is elected by the people of the islands.

It is true that the Government has far too much favoritism and party loyalty, and there is unquestionably a good deal of bribery and graft and numberless election frauds. But these are all the ills of young countries, and there is no fundamental reason why the islands cannot eventually outgrow these evils.

Under the Jones law, the islands are governed by the Philippine Legislature, consisting of an upper house of 24 senators, elected for six terms, and a lower house of 90 members, elected for three-year terms. Executive powers for appointment and veto are placed in the hands of the governor-general, who is appointed by the president of the United States.

The different provinces, corresponding to American states, have locally elected governors, while the 900,000 non-Christian people of the islands are ruled by governors appointed by the Governor-General.

Both in the matter of appointment and veto the present governor-general has been to the wishes of the Filipinos. It is understood that he came under definite instruction from President Wilson to make the islands actually self-governing. This policy has brought down upon him the most intense criticism of the American businessmen here. But it has resulted in giving the Filipinos several years of practically full governing experience.

As they have been during the twenty years of American civil government, the islands are self-supporting. The Government of the United States has spent no money here except for the upkeep of the United States army and navy and for purely military purposes. What might be called the insular government has always paid his own bills out of Philippine revenue.

BURGILARS VISIT STIRLING

Great excitement prevailed in Stirling on Monday evening when a burglar was caught in the act of attempting to rob McGee & Lagrow's Hardware store.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock, Mrs. Hugh Morton was awakened by hearing some one at the rear of the garage downstairs. She looked out the window and saw two suspicious looking characters flashing a light in the window of the garage. Thinking to frighten them away she rattled the window, one of the men ran across the bridge and a few minutes later returned and joined his companion. She watched them cross the street and remove the gratings in front of Cook's shoe store where they entered the cellar, and were there about 15 minutes. When they came out Mrs. Moore heard the noise and from her window saw them crawl through the opening and replace the gratings. Mrs. Morton and Mrs. Moore got busy at the phone and sent in an alarm and Mr. Jackson Moore with a number of citizens formed a scouting party to search for the burglars. They saw one of the men enter McGee & Lagrow's store by the back door which he had broken open. They searched the store from cellar to roof and finally decided to remain on guard until daylight. The burglar finding he was trapped came out from hiding and was held until Constable Tanner arrived when he was taken to Belleville jail to await trial. He gave his name as James Naylor. He was allowed his liberty on suspended sentence only a few days ago for an infraction of the law. It is alleged that three young men were implicated.

Improved Tanks Being Evolved

Great Secrecy is Being Maintained Regarding Experiments in Britain.

London, Sept. 27.—Whatever hopes may be centred in the League of Nations as an insurance against future wars, almost every nation has been busily engaged since the armistice in experimenting with a view to developing and improving the weapons of war generally.

The most important experiments have been directed towards the development of the tank. The French and the Americans it is believed, have achieved very important results in this direction. British tank experts have not been idle, and although the greatest secrecy has necessarily been maintained, there is every reason to believe that they are highly satisfied with the progress made.

At Wool, in Dorset, the Tank Corps has an excellent experimental ground, but it has the disadvantage of having no other troops stationed in its vicinity. Combined operations, therefore, cannot be carried out. The military authorities are believed to be fully alive to this disadvantage, and it is thought that very shortly, as the end of the training season is approaching, a number of tanks will be moved to one of the chief training centres, either Salisbury Plain or Aldershot, with a view to a small scheme of combined operations, in which the Royal Air Force, the tanks, artillery and infantry will all take part. It is to be hoped, however, that if these operations take place, some cavalry also will be able to participate, since it is of the utmost importance to have some light troops on the question of what extent tanks can take the place of cavalry.

MAN WAS TARRED

Unusual Case Heard by Cornwall Magistrate.

Cornwall, Sept. 27.—Four young men from Marlton, Wm. Merwad, Wm. Paradi, or Allinet, Jos. Ladouceur and George Plaro, appeared in police court on a charge of assaulting Frank Tye on the night of August 29. The case was heard by Gline.

BOY WAS SHOT BY TRAP GUN.

Percy Vincent, aged between 12 and 13 years, who resides with his parents, Sergeant and Mrs. Thomas Vincent, 43 Markland Street, Kingston, was shot last night through the knee by a bullet from a trap. He had been at a meeting with some boys and was returning home about 9.30 o'clock. The boys entered Mr. Charles Powell's orchard, which extends from the rear of his house on Raglan Road to Markland Street, to get some apples and pears. In the orchard there is a trap set to keep people away from the fruit. The trap was set with a wire attached to a 25 calibre rifle, and while in the orchard Percy evidently tripped on the wire and was shot through the knee. He was taken to Mr. Stevenson's home on Markland Street and his father was summoned.

Starts New Crusade Against Japanese

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—California has again girded her loins and started on the trail of the "Yellow Peril."

Resuming the anti-Japanese movement which resulted in the passage of the so-called anti-Alien Land Law of 1914, preventing Japanese owning land in California, a definite program of state and national legislation, aimed to stop Japanese immigration in form and restrict the activities of the Japanese now within the country, has progressed sufficiently to attract attention of the state department and the Japanese Government.

The legislature program will first come before the voters of the state at the November election, when an anti-Japanese measure will be on the ballot by initiative petition. It has two main phases which are:

Extension of the present law forbidding Japanese ownership of land so as to prevent Japanese holding land by lease.

Revision of corporation laws of the state so as to prevent the present alleged practice of Japanese of holding land through "dummy" corporations.

While leaders of the anti-Japanese movement declare that any interference with this program by the state department or by representatives of the Japanese Government would merely increase the majority for the measure of the polls, many observers believe that only a showing by the Washington Government that passage of the law would result in serious international complications, can prevent its enactment.

Chum's Loss Cause of Girl's Suicide

Anna Daly Poisoned Herself After Hearing of Death of Olive Thomas.

New York, Sept. 23.—A touching story of an overwhelming grief culminating in the news of the tragic death of her childhood friend and playmate, Olive Thomas, was revealed when Detective Jacob Feudner, of the missing persons bureau, identified the body of "Elizabeth Anderson" in Bellevue Hospital as Miss Anna Daly, of Ontario, a beautiful junior model who had been employed by a Fifth Avenue modiste until a week ago.

"Elizabeth Anderson" registered at the Seyville Hotel, Madison Avenue and Twenty-ninth street, last Thursday night on Saturday evening the sign "Do not disturb," tacked on the door of her room aroused the curiosity of a chambermaid. Inside she found the girl dying from venereal poisoning. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where, after stubbornly refusing to tell who she was, she died on Monday morning.

Anna Daly was born in McKees Rock, Pa., home of Olive Thomas. She was petite, and had a mass of golden-red hair, large blue eyes and a clear skin.

Until last Thursday she lived with Betty Martin, of the Ziegfeld Follies, at the Monterey Hotel. When Miss Martin returned to the hotel after the performance she found a tearful note from her chum, enclosing a package of letters written by a Chicago man. Miss Daly's note read: "He doesn't love me any more; Olive is gone; I can't stand it any longer."

Miss Martin searched for her friend, and on Monday called the police department before starting for Chicago. Detective Feudner answered the call.

On the centre table of the drawing room was a newspaper describing the mysterious "Elizabeth Anderson," and Miss Martin described her chum as being blue-eyed and fifteen-haired, five feet two inches in height and weighing 115 pounds. The detective checked the newspaper description.

Without telling Miss Martin of his fears he went to Bellevue Hospital and found Anna L. Daly dead.

The injured lad was then taken to the Hotel Bien Hospital after Dr. Crowley had been called, and an examination showed that the bullet had gone through the knee joint. He is resting quietly today, although his knee is very painful.

Stirling's New Fair Grounds Auspiciously Opened on Friday

A Bright Summer Day in Late September Brought a Tremendous Crowd to See and Be Seen—The Grounds Eminently Suited for the Purpose—A Model Set of Buildings and an Exhibit Worthy of the Place and the Occasion.

(Daily Ontario Staff Report)

About six months ago a group of men caught a vision, and yesterday that vision was transformed into actuality. The group of men is known around the home town as the Board of Directors of the Stirling Agricultural Society. What they saw last winter as a vision was an agricultural fair that would ultimately be second to none among the rural fairs of Ontario and a home for the fair that would be in keeping with so important an institution.

Stirling has had for the past quarter of a century one of the common garden varieties of fall fairs. It was better than many, but not so much better than one would feel like writing home about it. Stirling fair is the direct lineal descendant of the old North Hastings fair that was held for many years at West Huntington and in that vicinity. The fair grew stale in its old environment and the directors moved it to Stirling, in hopes that a change of scene and air would transform the invalid to vigor and usefulness. These fond anticipations were not fully realised.

But, last winter came the vision and, already it is possible for the untrained eye of the wayfarer to see a grand future for this sturdy pioneer.

Grounds Just Right for the Purpose

The new grounds are conveniently located immediately to the west of the village, and comprise 32 acres.

The lot is to the south of the township line and therefore in the Township of Sidney. Nature fixed it up for purposes for the home of a big fair. At the north is a great field, as level as a floor and sufficient in extent to permit of the construction of a half-mile track within its confines. The track is already laid out and needs only a touch here and there and further setting and leveling to make it one of the best in the province.

The southern part of the grounds is covered with a grove, not too dense, in which magnificent pine, elm and maple keep gracious company.

Fine Buildings

All buildings have been put up with the idea of permanence. No slaphop, mushroom construction has been tolerated.

The main building, a large, graceful structure, 140 by 47 feet, is made of concrete and steel. It is floored throughout with cement and the contractor understood his job. There is no chance for dust or dirt anywhere. Merchants can display the most delicate goods there without fear of damage or deterioration.

A new grandstand has been built from materials from the stand in the old grounds, and the addition of a new steel roof. There are comfortable chairs to accommodate 250 people. Extensions can be made as desired.

The smaller buildings, already constructed, are home for the secretary, band-stand, speakers' stand, poultry building, three ticket offices and four booths.

The directors do not sell any concessions for booth privileges and keep the privileges and resulting profits to themselves.

The Bill of Costs

In these times of plundering and profiteering the marvel is that Stirling Agricultural Society escaped with so moderate a bill of costs.

In the first place they secured the land at a bargain—only $1,700, we were told. The main building, with fixtures and all, will run to rather less than $5,000. Grandstand, secretary's office, booths, poultry houses and other small structures and fencing and light installation represent a total of about $4,000 more, making the entire cost to date $16,700. Stables for horses and cattle and pens for sheep and swine remain yet to be provided.

The financing is not proving a burdensome proposition. Over $1,000 was realized on the 24th of May celebration, and several hundred dollars have been taken in since. Yesterday's big gate receipts will swell the total that will go to swamp the mortgage.

Splendid Line of Exhibits

The main building, large as it is, was taxed to its utmost capacity to provide space for the large and varied exhibits.

Merchandise Displays

Quite a number of merchants and business representatives were given space and fixed up some exceedingly attractive displays of their various lines.

As one entered the doors he saw immediately in front of him the latest model of Ford touring car, with wire wheels and all the recent accessories. This was Mayor Riggs' contribution to the exhibit. The Gray-Dort Company, represented by Ed. Baker and Son, of Stirling, had a line of their cars outside the building and a booth filled with Dort accessories inside. L. R. Melkielehn and McGee & Lagrow each had extensive displays of stoves, heaters and miscellaneous hardware. Geo. E. Reynolds had a fine line of boots and shoes, and R. Elliott and Son, from their large store, had a most attractive exhibit of furs, ladies' suits and other goods. The Wm. Thompson Furniture Co., Ltd., of Belleville, had some exceedingly beautiful pieces of furniture on exhibition, and James Ralph, of Stirling, showed a very fine tamed oak dining table. The two well-known Belleville musical houses, J. W. Lindsay Company and the J. M. Greene Company, were the centres of interested groups to hear the phonographs and pianos give out their melodies.

Monster Vegetables

One only had to look around and see the mammoth potatoes, turnips, mangels, pumpkins, and so forth, to realise that the summer of 1920 was just right for the promulgation of bread, delicious pies and tempting cakes of many varieties. A number of collections of canned fruit, pickles and vegetables made one long to try out the contents.

The ladies, of course, were most deeply interested in the endless variety of articles of fancy-work that was spread over the walls and the tables. It all looked well to us but we forbear giving a more intimate description. Oil paintings and water-colors were shown in profusion. Some really meritorious work was exhibited.

Horicultural Display

Stirling has another wide-awake organisation that forms an able auxiliary to the Agricultural Society and that is its near relative, the Horticultural Society. This energetic band had a corner filled with foliage plants, flowers and cut flowers that was well worth the price of admission to see. Particular mention should be made of the wonderful begonias shown by Mrs. John Haig, of Rawdon. Several rural members, indeed, contributed to the display.

Another exhibit of remarkable variety and excellence was shown by Mr. E. O. Stickle, of Glen Miller. This consisted of nearly 100 varieties of garden fruits and vegetables. It was better than anything seen outside of those made at the large exhibitions by seed-growers.

Holsteins Predominated

There was a fine showing of dairy cattle on the grounds and the Holsteins had it by a big majority. Mr. S. Barke, Shamrock Factory, John Cross, Bell Factory.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM W. POWER

William Walter Power, a former resident of Belleville, died last evening in St. John's Hospital, New York City. He had been ill for some time. Mr. Power with his brother, Mr. T. P. J. Power, at one time managed the opera house in Beloit. He was the owner of a trained herd of elephants, which have been playing in the Hippodrome, New York, for a long engagement.

COLONEL ANGUS LIGHTHALL

The passing of Colonel Angus Lighthall whose death occurred Sept. 16, removes one of the pioneer business men of Picton. Born in the County of Prince Edward, Angus Lighthall, early took an interest in real estate, learning the cabinet-making trade at a time when all articles of household furniture were made by hand. He entered into partnership with the late John N. Gilbert and the firm carried on a flourishing business for many years, manufacturing in the building now occupied by Hyatt & Hart, West Main street, and conducting a salesroom downtown. After the death of Mr. Lighthall, the firm was continued by Mr. Gilbert and retired about 15 years ago. For a time after retiring he lived at Bloomfield but again returned to Picton. He was a Fenian Raid veteran and for many years was connected with the 16th regiment, retiring with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. When in business in Picton he frequently held a seat in the council and at the same time was a member of the village council. He was a member of the Methodist church and of the Masonic fraternity. His funeral on Saturday was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Alfred Brown, being the officiating clergyman. Colonel Lighthall was twice married, first to Allie Baile who was the mother of his sons, Gus Lighthall, who lives in British Columbia, and Dr. Donald S. Lighthall of Picton. On Feb. 1, 1908, after reaching the manhood, his second wife was Hannah Anderson, who survives him.—Picton Times.

MRS. H. ELIZA MASTIN

Mrs. H. Eliza Mastin, widow of Stephen B. Mastin, died at the residence of her son, Walter Mastin, West Toronto, Y. T., following a long illness, due to a complication of ailments, aged seventy-six years. Her remains were brought to Cherry Valley, her former home for burial. One sister is Mrs. Dordan, Picton, and one daughter, Mrs. L. A. Mastin, who lives in West Belleville, and one son, Mrs. Delaney, Mtford.—Picton Times.

SAMUEL E. FERGUSON

The death occurred on Tuesday morning last of Samuel Edward Ferguson, the popular assistant gaoler at the counties jail at Cobourg, after an illness of about five years from diabetes. Though in failing health for some time he had been able to be up and around until this summer, and for the past three weeks had been confined to his bed, and gradually grew weaker until death came to his relief on Tuesday morning. Samuel Edward Ferguson was born in Cavan township 87 years ago, his father being one of the pioneer residents of that township. From young manhood he took an active interest in municipal affairs and in 1880 when 27 years of age, he was first elected to the township council, and from that date until his death he held that position in a very satisfactory manner. Sam Ferguson was as jovial, good tempered and kind hearted man as ever lived, and in every day life he lived the life of one who “do unto others as you would be done by.” He was a bachelor, and is survived by one brother, James, and one sister, Mrs. Seeley, both residing in Cavan township.

FUTURE OF WORLD;
COMING OF CHRIST

Editor Ontario:—

The above subject is one that concerns all and a few lines on it may be of interest to some who are exercised about it.
It was no doubt thought by many that when the Great War was over and the Kaiser put where he would be powerless to exercise his ambition to be a world ruler, that the nations would settle down to a time of peace and the world would enter upon a time of quietness and prosperity, and wars be almost done away with; but, alas! how do we find it now?
There are few today who will say the world is getting better, and the condition of unrest all over is such that the common question is: "What is it coming to and where will it end?"

This leads us to ask "Is there any way by which we may know what is ahead for this world?"
In reply we can say "Yes" there is, and if we go to the Word of God we can find it.
Its future is there plainly brought before us and we might profitably take a look at it before going into the future. We might look back and notice what a failure man has been from the beginning. God made him perfect, placed him in the Garden of Eden; but we all know what followed. He disobeyed God, and death followed.

God tried man again under conscience, as he knew how wrong was right and what was wrong, but here again he proved a failure.

Again God tried him under law, but he failed again. That law which he said he would keep, proved too much for him, and he could not keep it.

Last of all, God sent His Son. He went about doing good, healing the sick, opening blind eyes, causing the lame to walk, feeding the hungry, and raised the dead to life. But He showed man how bad he was, and what did they do to Him? Crucify Him! Crucify Him!

Crucify Him! Both Jews and Gentiles joined in the cry. He was not the fellow that the Jews had crucified for. The Jews were looking for one who would deliver them from the bondage of the Roman Empire and give them back their land, and not for a savior from sin.
Had they received Him He would have set them free and reigned here, and this world would have been a different world today. The world is still refusing Him His place, and not till He comes and reigns will it be put right.

That time will come sure, but strange things have to take place first, according to the Word, and comparatively few have any idea of what is in store for this Christ-rejecting world, because the Word of God is a neglected book.

But let us look at what Scripture says the world will be like in the last days. We are now in the time of the Holy Ghost, and for nearly 2,000 years have continued, and the close of the 2,000 years will finish them.

The following Scriptures speak of the last days: I. Tim. 4—"Now the spirit speaketh expressly that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils, speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared with a hot iron, forbidding to marry and commanding to abstain from meats."

II. Tim. 8—"This know also, that in the last days, perilous times shall come; for men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, fierce breakers of oaths, they shall be lovers of despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, having a form of godliness but denying the power thereof."

Rev. 19:12 contains the Lord's address to the last church (Laodicea) and shows us what the church's condition at the last will be. Read it!

and see how it compares with the professed church today. Other Scriptures of a like character might be quoted, showing that the very reverse of an improved condition of a Christ-rejecting world may be looked for.

Many ways are suggested to put the world right. We read of brotherhoods, church unions, a coming together of all denuminations to make the church a greater power, and other schemes, but they are not God's way.

Why, then, does the Lord not come and put it right, and put an end to all the awful sin, crime and suffering and lawlessness now rampant all the world over? This He will do; but before so doing, God has something else to accomplish, and that is now doing. What is it, some may ask. It is important to this.

The Lord Jesus is without a bride in the glory, a companion like unto Himself. Angels there are of wonderful power and glory, but He bride whom God is now in this dispensation doing is taking out of the world those who will occupy that place. This bride is composed of all who are born again and washed in His blood which He shed to wash away our sins and have accepted Him as their saviour. When the last one has come who is going to come the bride will be complete and 1. Thessa. 4 will be fulfilled: "For the Lord Himself shall descend from heaven with the with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first; then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord."

In I. Cor. 15 we find it will be done in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye. A host of Scriptures might be quoted showing the same truth.

Death is not what the Christian is told to look for, but over and over again is told to be looking for the Lord from heaven.

The Lord Himself told His disciples that He was going to prepare a place for them and that He is coming again for them. He didn't say He would send the undertaker, nor an angel, but that He would come. Nothing points to the fact that His coming is near at hand.

About the close of this dispensation the old Roman Empire is to come together again, and the League of Nations to bring it about. The land was not a part of the old Roman Empire but Britain was, and it looks as if Ireland is to get political separation.

The Jew about this time is to get his land back and have it as his national home, and he is on the eve of getting it.

When the true church is caught away there will then be one universal religion, with antichrist at the head of it, and things in the religious world are working that way. Often meetings are held where ministers of all denominations, including Roman Catholics, Universalists, Unitarians, and all Protestant denominations come together and talk about his own fellowship. You can imagine what kind of a religion it would be but it is the kind that is coming.

After the Lord comes for His own a period of seven years will befall the church, and Satan will be chained and cast into the bottomless pit, and the millennium reign of one thousand years comes in, and under the blessed reign of the Lord Jesus the poor sin-cursed world will know what it is to enjoy universal peace, and not till then. What will take place during those seven years that follow is beyond our comprehension.

That some who read this may be led to accept Him as their Saviour is the earnest wish of

Geo. Perry.

Crooked Players
Must be Ejected,
States Comiskey

Rascals Must Be Caught and Swiftly Punished, He Says.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Discussing the investigation of the Grand Jury as to alleged crookedness in organized baseball now proceeding, Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, said today: "Every dishonest baseball player must be driven out of the game and never allowed back in it. The rascals must be caught and swiftly and openly punished. There must be no white washing. The public must be fully informed why crooks are booted out."

Comiskey declared while the exposure would temporarily hurt baseball the public's faith in the integrity of baseball would be greater than ever because of the thoroughness of the investigation.

"I am disgusted to think that there may be players and others who would criminally injure an institution which is the delight of millions of people," he said. "Every possible step must be taken to eradicate gambling from baseball and restore the game to public confidence. As violent as the shock of exposure is sure to be, the game is big enough to stand it, no matter if one or ten or thirty crooks are caught and held up to public scorn. If there are found to be crookedness among players, the game will be stimulated by being cleansed and public confidence in it will be restored by fearless search and determined prosecution of the rascals."

Baseball's next peril, Comiskey said, is gambling. A Federal law dealing specifically with the sort of inter-State gambling syndicate which he says has been trying to fasten itself on baseball. Money is needed, Comiskey said, to prosecute "Such a law might, by its very existence, put an end to baseball gambling," he said.

"If betting is not suppressed, it will utterly destroy baseball. The game will endure only if it is kept clean. The destruction of baseball would be a great loss to the nation and we cannot afford to let it go the way of horse racing."

"I have had under investigation since the world's series last year stories that there were disloyal players on the White Sox. I think thorough, but I shall not abandon it. We held in the purses of several players during the early months of investigation, but they all were paid some of the talk of 'thrown games' started by the switching of betting."

Solving Fuel and Power Problems

Automobilists are disgusted and alarmed at the soaring price of motor fuel, but how will they feel when a few years hence it costs two or three times as much as now. Supply is not keeping pace with demand and a continuing rise of the product is inevitable. The prospect seems to be that electricity will largely take the place of gasoline. With the next quarter of a century we shall see in this country an immense development of great plants from which power will be widely distributed. Many of these plants will be established at the mouths of coal mines. Other, far more numerous, will utilize falling water for the production of electricity. At intervals along all important traffic roads will be charging stations, to re-load the storage batteries of auto-batteries. The automobile storage battery is steadily gaining ground. Already it is largely used for trucks, being found as convenient and economical as the gasoline engine where travel is not extended over great distances. The electric storage locomotive has proved for certain uses altogether satisfactory, and in the subterranean tunnels of mines the same means of propulsion is today widely adopted. As fluid fuel grows dearer "canned" power will gain correspondingly in popularity. At another reasonable expectation is that before very long on important traffic roads we shall see the electric trolley taking up a new function. Trucks will be run by trolley, and it is even possible that private vehicles will avail themselves of the same means of propulsion. The next fifty years will see an astonishing development of water power for electrically over most of the eastern part of this country. Enormous hydro electric plants will be built at dam sites established along the rivers, and these, supplemented by virgin plants at the mines, will furnish unlimited quantities of the "juice" for manufacturing, transportation and other purposes. Eastern Canada lacks coal, but has plenty of available water power. This is no mere dream; it has gone on some. As coal (the main cost of which to the user is for transportation) becomes dearer the demand for a less expensive substitute to furnish power, heat and light will compel resort to electricity. Whole regions will be electrified and the motorists of half a century from now will refer to the gasoline tank of their grandfathers in much the same way as we are accustomed to speak of the dodo.

Sugar Market is in Uncertain Position

Readers Don't Know What Will Happen, But Decline Likely
Sugar is selling retail in Toronto today at 21 1/4 to 22 cents granulated; 19 to 21 yellow; and 18 cents dark brown.
Wholesale prices delivered Toronto are $21.30 for granulated, $20.90 for No. 1 yellow, and $20.80 for No. 2 yellow and $20.70 for No. 3 yellow.
The market appears to be in a very unsettled condition and dealers and refiners are very reticent in expressing opinions as to what will happen.
"There is a slump in many things this morning, I think there must be a slump in sugar very soon," said Hugh Blain of the Eby, Blain & Co.
"We cannot tell what is going to happen," said Manager Reeves of Michie & Co.

Peak of High Prices
Reached in America

"Shaking-Down" Movement to Reduce Living Costs Is Now General.

New York, Sept. 25.—Proof that the peak of high prices has been passed and that the direction of the curve is now downward is seen by today's announcements of price reductions from large firms in various parts of the United States. These reductions, covering a wide variety of commodities, are taken as symptoms of a general "shaking-down" movement that will eventually bring living costs back to a stable basis.
—Some of the local papers, notably the Times and Tribune, have secured expressions of opinion from business men in many cities supporting the view that the readjustment of prices is under way on a definite and permanent program.

Following the original announcement by Henry Ford of a price revision on his cars almost to pre-war basis, the manufacturers of the Franklin car announced cuts of from 17 to 21 per cent. Two of the largest mail order houses in the United States, Sears-Roebuck & Co., and Montgomery, Ward & Co., both of Chicago, announced substantial reductions in many lines of merchandise. It is reported that several New England mills intend to follow the example of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., in reducing prices of cotton goods.

OH THAT ODOR!

Editor Ontario:
Why is it that the citizens of this beautiful city, lying along the Mohr River, have to suffer unmercifully from that stagnant perfume arising from its waters? The odor is so pronounced that one has to keep windows and doors fastened in order to breathe freely. It seems strange that the source of the nuisance and a remedy cannot be found. For the past month or six weeks, before the heavy rains, when the river was at its lowest and naturally the odor at its worst, the water was clear and with no noticeable odor, also the fish were plentiful and lively. Since the rains of last week the water has raised enough to allow a current and since then the water has become polluted and heavy like black soup, well seasoned with dead fish. In fact during the past few days thousands of dead fish have been seen floating down the river. We would like to see a move by the health officials and that mighty soon, before we are in the throes of a typhus or malaria epidemic.

The Mystery of the Spawning Eel

Danish and British Professors Seeking to Learn Secrets Regarding Life of the Eel.

CARDIFF, Wales, Sept. 24.—Dr. Johannes Schmidt, a Danish scientist is searching the Atlantic between the Azores and the West Indies for spawning fresh water eels, which the eye of man has never seen.
This announcement was made by Dr. W. A. Herdman, professor of oceanography at Liverpool University, in his presidential address before the annual conference of the British Association.

"All the eels of the streams, and lakes of northwestern Europe," Dr. Herdman said, "live and feed and grow under our eyes without reproducing their kind—no spawning eel has ever been seen. After living for years in immaturity, at last near the end of their lives the large male and female yellow eels undergo a change in appearance and in nature. They acquire a silvery color and their eyes enlarge, and in this bridal attire they commence the long journey which ends in maturity, reproduction and death."
"They migrate in the autumn to the coast, from the inshore seas to the open ocean and still westward and south to the mid-Atlantic, and we know not how much farther, for the exact locality and manner of spawning have still to be discovered. The youngest known stages of the Leptocephalus, the larval stage of eels, have been found by Dr. Schmidt to the west of the Azores, where the water is over 2,000 fathoms in depth. These were about one an inch in length and were probably not far from the spawning ground, in the hope of finding the missing link in the chain, the actual spawning fresh water eel in the intermediate waters somewhere above the abysses of the open ocean."

Must Give Evidence

Relatives to be Examined in Reference to John Doughty

Mr. Justice Ross issued an order at Osgoode Hall yesterday, following a motion of George T. Walsh, solicitor on behalf of Mrs. John Doughty, that Mrs. E. Lovett and William Wilson shall attend, 48 hours after notice of the appointment, for examination in reference to John E. Doughty, former secretary to Ambrose Small.

Notice of the present motion, the solicitor said, had not been served on Miss Jean Doughty and William Doughty, whose presence was also desired.

Mr. Walsh said that he believed that the four witnesses possessed valuable information concerning John Doughty and his disappearance.

Miss Clara Brett Martin, opposing the application, asked for an adjournment to bring, as she said, the whole case into court, but his Lordship said that she could not bring anything that would show why the Doughtys should not submit to examination.

Some Groceries Decline

With sugar, rice, tea and coffee, staples of the grocery business, all substantially lower this month than last, wholesalers look for still further declines in the near future.

"The prospects are for a gradual decline," commented Mr. John Medland of Medland Bros. Limited wholesale grocers, to-day.

"Sugar, which is the largest single item handled by wholesale grocers, has declined $3 per hundredweight within the last two months with prospects for a further decline of at least $1 per hundredweight before long and probably a still further decline about February when the new crop of Cuban raw comes on the market."

"Rice continued Mr. Medland, "has declined about $2 per hundred pounds with prospects for a still further small reduction. Tea has declined from five to ten cents per pound and coffee about five cents a pound. This downward readjustment in wholesale prices is tending its way to the consumer."

U. S. Restaurants Slash the Prices on Some Dishes

With the Authorities on Their Track They Make Outs Averaging 88 Per Cent. Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 25.—With the Federal authorities investigating them and the Allegheny Fair Price Committee hard on their heels, the Hotel and Restaurant Men's Association, which numbers among its members the proprietors of all large restaurants in the city, yesterday gave up the ghost after a hard fight and agreed to reduce prices on many of the dishes listed on their bills of fare. The new list, which becomes effective not later than the first of next week, cuts the price of staples approximately 88 per cent. While many of the staple dishes, including meats, are not included in the appended list, which becomes effective next week, the price of staples approximately 88 per cent. Canadian Unions Have Succeeded

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—A secession from the International Trades Union organization, which has been brewing in some local unions came to a head last night when the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, with a membership of eleven hundred in local unions and American Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers with a membership of five hundred in local packing plants, severed their connections with the International to set up national organizations. The reasons given are alleged to include the flag incident at New Orleans convention, when it is stated the Canadian flag was draped on the platform with the Stars and Stripes only after a protest by Canadian delegates and the fact that several thousand dollars are annually sent over the border.

Shipbuilders Blame Labour for Failure

TORONTO, Sept. 25.—Labor's demands killed the Dominion Shipbuilding Company, according to the statement of the firms legal representatives. McMaster, Fleury and Montgomery, to the Court of Revision here. The company objected to its business assessment of $307,825 as it had gone out of business some months ago. "Is there no chance of reorganization of the firm?" asked the Court. "None," said the solicitor for the company. "The Dominion Government is finishing its ships by arrangement with the Liquidation, so is the Guelph Navigation Company, but that is all that is being done," Chairman Drayton. "The firm is dead, then?" "Yes, labor killed it." The Court cut 6-12 of the business assessment off, making allowance for the period of the year which the firm is not operating. This means a cut of $128,000. "This is designed to check reorganization, so that in future Canada will not be ruled by the Chinese and other foreigners," remarked Chairman Drayton by way of explaining to an assessment appellant the new clause which provides a $200 exemption for every child under the age of eighteen.

Divorce Evil Cure Suggested by Judge

Would Make It Impossible for Guilty Parties to Re-Marry. New York, Sept. 25.—Justice Benedict, of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, voices strong condemnation of the State Legislature which has changed the divorce law as to allow guilty parties to apply for permission to marry again after a period of three years instead of five years as the law previously required. "It has become my firm conviction, after many years' experience upon the bench, that the only really effective way to cure the so-called divorce evil would be to make it practically impossible for either party to the marriage to marry any one else during the lifetime of the other party," he declares. He also expresses the opinion that a very large proportion of divorces suits would never be brought if the plain wife were prohibited from contracting a new alliance, arrangements for which are not infrequently made before the suit is begun. Justice Benedict declares that the Supreme Court of New York is constantly striving to lessen the divorce evil while efforts are being made in various States, including New York, to loosen the marriage relation. "Such Socialistic attacks, however, effective they may be, should be combated at every point if the sanctity of marriage is to be preserved," he says.

Scavenger Birds Our Only Relief

Editor Ontario: Carrion birds sailing around and swooping up the putrid fish appear to be the only scavengers that care for the condition of our river. Have we not to stop this out-of-rage? If so it must be used, at once, and stopped permanently. Endurance will merge into writs for damage. J. E. WALMSLEY.

Lloyd George Repeats Last Word to Miners

Smillie Says Miners Are Anxious to Increase Production, But Rejects Suggestion. London, Sept. 24.—No progress was made to-day towards a settlement of the coal miners' dispute, although hope has been revived from the fact that a meeting of the Triple Alliance has been called for Thursday to hear the reply of Premier Lloyd George to the committee of the alliance which visited him late to-day. The reply of the Premier was a reiteration of the proposal made to the miners' Executive Committee that, there being a difference of opinion as to facts and figures, the question of an increase of wages should be referred to an impartial tribunal, alternatively, the miners should consent to work out with the colliery proprietors and the Government some scheme whereby in return for increased production the miners could get increased wages. The Premier considered that by the alternative proposal the miners would get a greater increase than they demanded, while the country also would benefit. To this Robert Smillie, the miners' leader, replied: "We are as anxious as you to increase the output, but you can only get that if you have the good-will and desire to increase it."

Millionaire Bookie

Expires Suddenly

Joseph Pickersgill in Victim of Heart Failure

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Reputed to be a millionaire, Mr. Joseph Pickersgill of Barrow Hill, Westwood, Leeds, the well known bookmaker, and a familiar figure at every race meeting died suddenly from heart failure. He was in his 71st year, and in appearance more resembled a parson than a bookmaker. His career was one of the many romances of the turf. He "began life" as a butcher's boy, and when in his teens conducted his own butcher's shop in the locality "then known as the Shambles, Leeds. Later he founded the firm Cheyney & Pickersgill, Limited, lithographers and bookbinders. While quite a young man, he was shrewd enough to recognize the possibilities of the "betting" business, and having got a substantial start, as a bookmaker from a success at Pontefract, in the early seventies, he gradually retired from the meat trade and built up a turf commission agency named to map in the country. For the last thirty years he had been a familiar figure at every important race meeting. He usually stood, with a small notebook in hand, near the entrance to the members' enclosure, where, in a quiet, unobtrusive way, he received commissions from the "big punters." No bet was too big for him to take, and he did a great deal of business with King Edward, who made a point of going out with him to every race. "The little man on the rails" at any race meeting he attended. It is understood that one time or another he made bets with every monarch in Europe, with the exception of the Tsar.

To Prolong Their Health and Strength—She Has Used DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS with Entire Satisfaction.

Lyster Station, Megantic Co., Que. Sept. 27. (Special).—Among those who testify to the benefit received from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills none is more enthusiastic than Madame Frederic Lambert, a well-known resident here.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills gave me both relief and satisfaction," Mrs. Lambert states. "For two years I suffered from kidney disease, which greatly enfeebled me. I tried other treatments from time to time, but without success.

"Having read much about Dodd's Kidney Pills, I decided to give them a trial. I bought four boxes and the result was to my entire satisfaction. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to young persons to prolong their health and strength."

Madame Lambert speaks especially to the young, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have been used by young and old who have suffered from sick kidneys. The results they have given are a claim to popularity with the Canadian public.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the standard remedy for kidney trouble.

Harding Outlines Policy to England

Tells Correspondent He is For "America First"

London, Sept. 27.—The morning Post correspondent who has spent the past few days at Senator Harding's home in Marion, Ohio, has had several conversations with the Senator on his policy, especially so far as it relates to England. The correspondent says that Harding is not averse to having his position clearly stated to English readers through the Morning Post and that where he has been quoted it is with his own permission.

"Harding's policy, in few words," says the correspondent, "will be a policy of 'America first' protection of American interests, fostering and developing of American commerce and an American merchant marine and recognition that the first duty of an American President and his Government is to America."

"With this policy in view there is bound to be a sharp commercial rivalry between the United States and Britain and it is inevitable that in some direction their material interests will clash. That rivalry, however, will be, in his own words, 'honorable and fair.' It will be a contest in which there will be no foul play- ing and will not disturb the long continued friendship that has existed between the two nations."

"Harding has no hostile feelings toward England; on the contrary, he does not hesitate frankly to voice his admiration for the cleverness with which England has always managed her affairs—managed them with such ability that her power and prestige and importance have constantly increased. He says this without envy or rancor, but he also says that England has set an example that America should follow and the same single purpose that has always been the British policy of promoting national interests should now be pursued by the United States."

"It would have been gross folly for the United States," he said, "to assume a mandate over a country in which the United States has no political interest."

"In one of our conversations I brought up specifically the subject of Anglo-American relations and the commercial rivalry between the two countries as a sequel to the war which may produce some irritation. Harding anticipates some, but he does not fear it will threaten the harmony of intercourse. He believes that the United States ought to carry the great bulk of her Atlantic commerce in her own bottoms and is firmly convinced that this is for the benefit of America."

"How foolish we have been," he says. "We built up England's great merchant fleet, we made Germany's mercantile marine possible, but we must not repeat that folly. We must not give our carrying trade and its profits to other nations when we ought to keep those profits in our own pockets."

"Harding foresees a sharp struggle between England and the United States for the trade of South America, which in his opinion the United States and not England should control, because South America is within the sphere of America's influence and not England's."

While two robbers were looting the ticket office of a New York ferryboat line, two patrons appeared at the ticket window. One of the burglars checked his regular operations and sold them ferry tickets.

Tanks Will Clear Paris Snowdrifts

Paris, Sept. 27.—Although the poet's dream of turning swords into ploughshares apparently is not to be French Government has at least adopted the principle of utilization of military material for more peaceful purposes, and this winter will see the French tanks, which so surprised the Germans on more than one memorable occasion, being used as snow sweepers.

The tanks were tried out recently in the French Alps, where it was found even the most difficult roads were easily negotiated by the climbing monsters.

In the past certain important mountain highways were closed throughout the winter season because the expense of clearing a path sufficiently wide for ordinary traffic was prohibitive. By attaching front and side spurs, however, several miles of roadway, ten feet wide, can be cleared in a few hours, the tanks plunging into the deepest drifts and cutting their way through with the ease of an express train in a January blizzard.

The French Government has several hundred of these otherwise useless machines, and is considering the possibility of using them throughout the winter resort areas, as special attractions for mountain "joy riders," as well as snow sweeping, although it is probable that a few will be assigned to the Paris district to clear the streets if the perennially threatened "hard winter" really arrives.

To Pass Drastring Laws for U. S. Motorist

Look to Legislature to Enact Stern Measures Against Reckless Drivers

New York, Sept. 27.—Automobile legislation, especially directed against reckless and speed drivers, combined with more severe penalties than the motor vehicle law of the State now imposes, is practically certain to be one of the features at the forthcoming regular session of the New York Legislature. The exceptionally large number of accidents occasioned by motor cars in New York City and the vicinity within the last month has directed public attention very strongly to the possibility of obtaining reasonable measures of safety by legal enactment. Just how far such measures can succeed is a mooted question among motorists who have given careful attention to traffic conditions and increasing safety on the streets.

There is no doubt, however, in the minds of many of these experts that the motor law of New York State is too lenient in respect to penalties for improper driving, and more drastic measures seem to be needed in preventing persons of various physical disabilities from obtaining operators' licenses. It is quite possible that an entirely new policy may prevail in the conduct of the automobile affairs of the State and it would be no surprise to see a Commissioner of Motor Vehicles appointed as an adjunct of the Secretary of State's office, to devote his entire attention to the work. There are more than 600,000 motor vehicles of all kinds in New York, an enormous increase within the last few years, and, as Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb pointed out last week, the Secretary of State's office has been for some time inadequately supplied with funds and with an insufficient staff to fulfill its duties properly.

Habits and Customs of the Esquimaux

Some Interesting Data Supplied by Prospector From Arctic Coast

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 27.—Arthur Thompson, American prospector from the Arctic coast, recently arrived here from the country of the Esquimaux which stretches from Herschell Island to the Coronation Gulf, and in an interview detailed the latest data regarding the habits and customs of the most northerly Canadians.

"Very little snow was experienced on the Mackenzie river delta last winter, while the natives of this region have waxed fat and wealthy by reason of the prevailing milder frosts of furs at the northern outpost. Mr. Thompson stated:

The Esquimaux of the Mackenzie river district appear to be especially well-to-do, and own a number of schooners which they operate up and down the river to the islands in the Arctic sea, and have the reputation of being fair sailors.

Mr. Thompson was prospecting and trading as far west as the Coronation Gulf and in this neighborhood was in contact with the supposed "broke Esquimaux," but as far as he could see there was but little difference between these natives and those further west. They appeared to have the same features, the only difference of note being that their eyes were of a lighter color.

In common with other tribes, these Esquimaux are described as being extremely childish and simple, and as companions on a long winter habitation they are not at all to be depended upon.

Many of these tribes still use the bow and arrow. Firearms are, however, gradually making their appearance, but on the whole the Esquimaux are poor hunters and by no means comparable to the Indians.

The dialects of the various tribes differ, but all are able to understand one particular trait: that of appreciation of white man's grub and whether it be tinners' grub or pork and beans that forms the menu, anything which comes in a can is regarded as the manna from the gods.

Contrary to the general belief, Mr. Thompson says, the Esquimaux suffer from the cold more than do the whites, one reason being that their headgear exposes the entire face and their features are constantly being frost bitten.

Returning travellers from Japan report Japanese women are entering business offices and stores in increasing numbers in competition with men. They are serving as conductresses on all the big lines of Tokio.

west of Toronto, and which held large interests in the Grand Trunk subsidiary lines. But another company, headed by Sir Hugh Allan of Montreal, at once came forward and began a hot fight for the charter. Allan was one of the greatest Canadian magnates of the time, possessor of a fortune of $6,000,000, a vast sum in those days, and a power in politics and finance. Associated with Allan in the effort to secure the prize were prominent American capitalists, including W. C. Fargo, Jay Cooke, bankers and railway promoters. Allan tried to effect an amalgamation of the two companies that were fighting for the charter, but this scheme failed. The difficulty, however, was finally got over by the formation of a new company, Allan having in the meantime offered inducements to some of the leading Grand Trunk men to unite with him. The new company was granted a charter by the Government on February 5, 1873, the company pledging itself to construct the railway within ten years from July 29, 1871, in consideration of a land grant of 50,000,000 acres and a subsidy of $130,000,000. The company's capital was to be $100,000,000.

A big pile of old rails, conveniently placed for use, disappears into the big mouth of the engine. One might reflect that it is more fitting that these old rails, split fifty or sixty years ago by the fathers and grandfathers of the present generation, should supply the energy for harvesting the grain of the fields than be put to more domestic use. These old rails, rock-elm and oak, cedar and black ash, show a surprising length of life. After half a century they are often still firm and tough. Today the rail fence gradually gives way before the more up-to-date wire fence, but it will be a long time before the younger generation of Ontario will be without this object lesson of the toll that their forefathers went through in the big job of clearing this country and making it the fruitful district that it is today.

THE YEARLY RAISE

When Eugene Field first went to work on a Chicago paper he asked his employer for $50 a week for the first year, and $50.50 a week the second year.

This odd request was part in jest and wholly in earnest. Field loved a prank. His sense of humor was gratified by demanding a raise of 50 cents a week. But the real reason that he asked for the raise was because he wanted to be able to say that he was earning a little more money each year.

Ever since Field had gone to work as a reporter at $10 a week, he says in a letter to Melville E. Stone ("he had gratified this desire to earn a little more each year." Evidently in those days men were a little more patient than they are now, for it was evident that the poet felt willing to work for two years on practically the same salary, asking for a substantial raise the third year. But the 50 cents was enough to maintain his record for consistent advancement and that was what he wanted.

Field, who loved a good joke more than he would ever have loved the whole treasury, would probably turn over in his grave if he thought that any one were trying to draw a long face or preach a sermon from his droll remark about the 50-cent raise.

But, just the same, it isn't a half bad idea to make up one's mind to go forward and not back each year, even if the going forward is only the size of a half dollar.

A person has a right to demand a yearly raise in more ways than one. It's very fine to earn a little more money each year, but it's just as fine to grow a little in grace each year and to be able to look back and check off the advancement.

How about giving yourself a 50-cent raise this year in confidence and self-respect, or perhaps making up your mind that you'll tack on at least a dollar raise in the number of books you have read or the friends you have made.

Why not say to yourself, just as Field did, and with as much gentle humor, that you have got to be worth at least 50 cents a week more to yourself and your community this year than you were last? Then, even, if the gains are small, there will be a decent total some day.

POLITICAL HISTORY

It is just half a century since the Canadian Government took over the vast tracks of land known as Manitoba, the North West Territories and Prince Rupert Land, and opened a fertile empire for settlement. While held under the feudal regime of the Hudson Bay Company the colonialization of this vast territory was systematically discouraged. Like most men who exercise great powers the fur lords could see nothing beyond the exploitation of the fur trade. They made no effort to teach the Indians agriculture, and they opposed their attachment to missions where they might learn something of the arts of the white man's civilization. But when the Government extended its sway over the West enterprising capitalists immediately began to consider its possibilities as a new field for the employment of their energies. The Canadian Government had already shown itself very generous to railway promotion, and here was a great opportunity to build a transcontinental railway, and incidentally obtain possession of great areas of fertile lands. So on April 11, 1871, the Canadian House of Commons went into committee to consider a resolution to construct a railway to the Pacific by private enterprise, generous public support to be given in the form of land grants, money and other forms of subsidy. Sir George E. Cartier, then a paid solicitor of the Grand Trunk, moved the resolution and A. T. Galt, one of the leading promoters of that railway, was the seconder. Evidently it was the intention of the Grand Trunk interests to obtain the proposed charter with its valuable subsidies. The head of the Inter-Oceanic Railway Company which wanted the charter was Senator David L. Macpherson, who was a member of the contracting firm of Gzowski & Co., which had constructed the Grand Trunk

But on April 2, 1872—a few months after the charter was granted—Lucius S. Huntington rose in the Commons and accused Premier Macdonald and the Government with having sold the charter of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. in return for a large sum of money for election purposes. An investigation was demanded. At first Premier Macdonald refused, but later a committee of Parliament was appointed to investigate—an unusual procedure in the circumstances. This committee did not make much headway; so presently Huntington published a series of letters and telegrams written by Sir Hugh Allan. These created a sensation and the Government was forced to appoint a Royal Commission to investigate. Before this Commission Allan described his transactions with considerable candor, and produced the letter in which Sir George E. Cartier asked him for various sums of money for use in elections. Cartier's letter "marked private and confidential," and dated July 30, 1872, read: "The friends of the Government will expect to be assisted in the pending elections, and any amount which you or your company may advance for that purpose shall be recouped to you. A memorandum of immediate requirements is given below: "Now wanted. "Sir John A. Macdonald $25,000; Hon. Mr. Langevin $15,000; Sir G. E. C. $20,000; Sir J. A. Add $10,000; Hon. Mr. Langevin $100,000; Sir G. E. C. $30,000." Allan testified that "these sums, with the preliminary expenses on the Pacific and various other railroads in which I was engaged, more or less connected directly with the Pacific enterprises, made up the amount of my advances to about $350,000."

Premier Macdonald's own evidence showed that he had personally bargained with Allan and that he had received money from Allan for election purposes. As a result of these revelations the Government resigned, and the charter granted Allan and his associates failed to receive the sanction of Parliament and all his scheming went for nought.

THRESHING DAYS IN ONTARIO

The beauty of spring and the promise of summer are being given their fulfilment these autumn days all through rural Ontario. The grey wood smoke of the engine that drives the whirling thresher is a part of the landscape almost always seen in some direction. Man's ingenuity has added tremendously to the efficiency of the machinery, so that a threshing that once would have taken two days will now be done in one, but there are human sides to the operation that have persisted from the past, and that will probably long continue. Threshing is more than a mere mechanical or business operation. It has very human aspects. It is one of the occasions of the year on every farm when the housewife feels called upon to show her prowess in setting a good table for the men who toil all day in the dust and sweat of the barns and stacks. Not that the threshers give any very outspoken expression of their appreciation. Time is too precious to be spent in any lingering over the delicacies—indeed, it seems to be a point of professional honor to stay no longer at the table than is barely needed to satisfy the appetite, then back to the big job while there is daylight to carry on. The past mingles with the present around the big traction engine. A big pile of old rails, conveniently placed for use, disappears into the big mouth of the engine. One might reflect that it is more fitting that these old rails, split fifty or sixty years ago by the fathers and grandfathers of the present generation, should supply the energy for harvesting the grain of the fields than be put to more domestic use.

There is no time lost in the threshing days. The last sheaf has scarcely been fed into the separator before the outfit is preparing to move on to another place. There is almost a touch of the gypsy in the procession that winds along the country road, tractor, separator and water wagons in order, pulling in at some gateway, past the farmhouse and on to the barns, there to be set up and started going. Out on the western prairies the same operation going on from the Red River to the Rocky Mountains, but there it is big, so purely mechanical in its rush, that it is shorn of much of the human side that seems still to stay with the Ontario threshing.

THE OPEN ROAD

Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road, Healthy, free the world before me, The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose. Henceforth I ask not good-fortune, I myself am good-fortune, Henceforth I whimper no more, postpone no more, need nothing, Done with indoor complaint, libraries querulous criticisms, Strong and content I travel the open road. —Walt Whitman.

OLD HANDS

Old hands are not for kisses Nor the gifts of long ago; But old hands in a garden Can make the flowers grow. We look at them in wonder One day and, sighing, see Them changed and old and withered, Surprised that this should be. Such smooth, soft hands they once were, Pink tipped, pink palmed and now So thin—or plump—and wrinkled, But useful anyhow! They don't see the difference; They only feel a touch Of tender understanding And blossoms twice as much. Old hands can hold a baby And smooth a pillow too; Old hands can write a letter Signed: "Grandma's love to you." Old hands return the pressure Of strong, big hands of sons, Of grandsons and granddaughters— The loving little ones. So old hands do God's bidding In gardens and highways, And at evening in contentment Old hands are clasped in praise. —Caroline Russell Bispham.

BUILDING THEATRES

Some people are expressing alarm over the fact that a very large percentage of the new building now going on in the Dominion of Canada consists of structures for the exhibition of moving pictures. We hesitate to say just what the percentage is, for it would require a very careful compilation of statistics than is at present available; but the most casual observation will show that there are in process of erection, in almost every centre of population in this Dominion, from one to four large new theatres for the exhibition of moving pictures or of moving pictures combined with vaudeville. Since other varieties of building activity are comparatively quiet, it is obvious that the proportion of new amusement structures to new structures of other kinds, industrial, residential or commercial, is certainly an abnormal one.

It may be doubted whether there is any real reason for alarm in this situation. We are at present passing through a period of revolution in the habits of the masses of the population. But the leisure time and the surplus wealth of the wage-earning classes have been increased in the last few years to an unprecedented extent, and it is not unnatural that a considerable part of this surplus wealth should be devoted to the more attractive forms of amusement. Coincidentally with this change in the situation of the wage-earning classes has come to serve up at a very low price in any community of a few hundred population an entertainment of exactly the same quality in all respects as that which is served up to audiences gathered together in the greatest metropolitan cities of the world. Ten years ago these wage-earners and their families, even if they had much surplus time and surplus money to expend upon amusement, could not have attained to anything better than an inferior and colorless imitation of a London or New York stage performance. The same economic revolution, which happened ten years ago, and which has happened ten years ago, has had the effect of increasing somewhat the attendance at the ordinary theatres. But it would certainly have increased it by nothing like the total number of attendances which have been achieved by the new form of artistic representation.

There is doubtless a saturation point in moving picture entertainment as in all other forms of business. It is not infrequently happens that expansion is at its liveliest just before the saturation point is reached. But we may not reach it immediately. There is still in progress a steady movement of population towards the cities and away from the rural portions of the country, and as the average city dweller is assuredly good for three moving picture performances as against the rural dweller's one, this movement in itself represents a natural increase in the moving picture clientele. The moving picture habit may be an extravagance, but it is a very moderate extravagance, compared with some others which are largely practised by the people of this country, nor do we fancy that it is one which is likely to be readily abandoned even in a period of relative industrial and commercial quietude. The films are doubtless by no means all that they might be in respect of their improving effect upon the intelligence or moral character of their holders, but they are improving and will continue to improve. Probably the worst thing about them is the astounding mechanical nature of their plots and episodes. It is scarcely any other field of art in so completely impossible to tell the work of any one artist from that of any other as is the case of film producers, and one is forced to the conclusion that individually it swamped under the enormous burden of the mechanical processes and the weight of the organization. This will have to remedy itself in time. It is probable that the artistic regeneration of the film will first come from some European country rather than from the United States, which is at present the controlling force in movie production.—Journal of Commerce.

VISITED FRENCH BATTLEFIELDS

Two Kingstonians, who have recently returned from the old country made a tour of the battlefields in France before returning home. Leno Vimy Ridge, the Somme, Arras, Bapaume and other places where Canadians distinguished themselves were visited. While the destruction of war was everywhere apparent there were many signs of reconstruction. The roads especially had been almost entirely rebuilt. The farmers were busy filling up the shell holes and bringing the land under cultivation again and an abundant crop was ready for the harvest this year. Considerable building was going on in the towns and cities affected by the war. What impressed the local men most of all was the spirit of optimism displayed by the French people.

ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH, MILFORD.

The burning of St. Philip's Anglican church, Milford, means the loss of one of the old landmarks of that village. It was a frame structure erected many years ago, and had long been the church home of the Anglicans of that vicinity. The fire started in the belfry immediately after being struck by lightning. Owing to the lack of water and fire fighting appliances, it spread to the main building, which was soon in flames. The memorial tablets, altar and ornaments were saved, but everything in the vestry was lost, including the register, Bible, hymn and prayer book, altar linen, vessels, font, etc.

STEAMER GRANT CAUGHT IN A TERRIBLE STORM.

On her way from Charlotte to Cornwall the steamer Grant, owned by the Ontario Navigation Company, and under the command of Capt. Frederick Rusco, was buffeted by a severe gale on Lake Ontario on Friday and forced to seek shelter in Sackett's Harbor, according to information received in marine circles here.

The steamer was on her way to go on dry dock in Cornwall. She suffered but slight damage. Great credit is given Capt. Rusco for the able manner in which he handled the vessel. The Capt. stated that in all his career on the lakes, he never experienced such a terrible storm. He endeavored to enter Oswego, but found it impossible. He reached the Galloups and it was then that the gale reached its height, the wind being fifty-five miles an hour and continuing southwest. The vessel finally reached Sackett's Harbor, with the members of the crew exhausted.

MOVING BACK THE TRACKS.

Men are at present engaged in moving back the tracks at the esplanade at the Cobourg harbor a distance of about 15 feet. The C. P. R. are supplying the rails and the G. T. R. the ties. Mr. Robt. Hicks, of Peterborough, who is bringing in coal over the harbor, is having the derrick from the steamer W. J. Carter placed on the esplanade, and will use it to unload the coal into cars. At present it takes a day to unload a boat, but with the derrick on land a boat can be unloaded in 6 hours. During the past few months a considerable quantity of coal has been brought into Cobourg by Mr. Hicks, and from now until the 1st of December he will have three boats running into Cobourg with coal from Oswego. Part of the coal brought in is given over by him to the fuel controller, and sent to Owen Sound, Sudbury and other places that are short of coal. Coal is hard to get by dealers, but Mr. Hicks is getting all he can carry. And we were given to understand that Mr. Hicks was coming to Port Hope to carry on these operations.

Mr. Reddick had just passed the offices of J. P. Morgan, and was scarcely a block away, when he heard a tremendous explosion, the terrific concussion knocking him off his feet. He, however, rushed back to the scene of the explosion, and regardless of the danger of further possible explosions, set to work helping to remove the injured persons from the scene of wreckage. Mr. Reddick stated afterwards that the sight was an appalling one. Injured and dead persons lay in all directions, and debris was strewn all over the street. Cries of the injured were heartrending. Mr. Reddick stating that the sight was as terrible as any battlefield.

Eighty-five holes were drilled, each thirty-five feet deep, and by means of a battery all of the charges were set off simultaneously. As a prelude there was a blowing of whistles and the sending of flags up and down the C.P.R. track. When the shot went off the earth trembled as from an earthquake. The rock is being crushed for ballast on the C.P.R. Montreal-Toronto line.

MAY NOMINATE LABOR CANDIDATE

That the Independent Labor Party should nominate a candidate for the Federal House in the coming by-election in West Peterborough was the general sentiment of the meeting of the I.L.P. Tuesday evening. It was thought that the Labor Party should remain independent of the farmers at the coming by-election, as it is generally thought in local labor circles that the farmers gave the Labor candidate in the provincial election last autumn little support, excepting Ennismore and Young's Point.

The wolves continue to stay in the vicinity of Apsley village, and almost every night their howls are heard. No trace has been found of Mrs. Grant's four lambs. They have evidently fallen victims to the marauders. Two near-by farmers have also lost sheep, and it is reported that a small herd of cattle was attacked by the pack, one yearling being killed and others more or less mutilated. "Did you hear the wolves last night?" has become the current salutation between neighbors in the place of "fine day" greeting.

Would Force Men to Stay on Farm

Quebec Minister of Labor Makes Pointed Address at Ottawa

Compulsory retention of young men on the farm, and the prohibition of strikes, were points of the Hon. J. E. Caron's address at the Exhibition luncheon at Ottawa on Friday.

How to Do It

Mr. Caron had a scheme to keep young men on the farms by preventing them joining labor unions unless they had technical training.

Must Restore Balance

"The equilibrium between the revenue of the farmer and the industrial worker is upset, and it will have to be adjusted again if we want to see our agricultural situation on a par with industrial activity," he said.

LONGFELLOW GARDENS

Written for The Ontario by Rev. A. M. Hubby.

The Longfellow Gardens were established in 1907, and have become a place of national import, wherein are grouped numerous and varied species of living creatures.

"Denizens of earth and air, And fawns of the deep,"

This scene of zoological display and horticultural beauty, lies not far from Minneapolis and St. Paul, and is a popular resort for the people of these twin cities of Minnesota.

Strangers visiting or passing through this state of the union, are attracted in large numbers, to this grouping of varied products of nature, and are pleasantly reminded of the popular poet of a past century whose name the gardens bear.

"He is gone from us forever, He has moved a little nearer, To the Master of all music, To the Master of all singing."

On the north side of the grounds is seen, among a grove of old oaks, that tower high over its lofty gables a reproduction of Longfellow's loved colonial in style, with its gables, its winks in the roof, its wide porticoes, and its Corinthian pillars, shaded by lofty trees. It would invite the soul of an artist, and inspire to song the tongue of the most mature poet who would chance upon its hiding place.

From the broad porches of the house a full view of the grounds may be obtained. Especially from the west porch which overlooks the flowing Minnehaqua waterway, where all so large oaks and many willows give yet more gladness to the joyous nature garden, is the view most picturesque. Near the center of the grounds, on an eminence, that attracts the attention of the entering visitor, stands a noble statue of the great poet, done in cool gray granite.

It shows Longfellow standing with respectful mien, as of old of the domain of Hiawatha and Minnehaha, which he has immortalized in his matchless poetic narrative of the imaginary romantic pair.

There is an attractive curio on a short distance from the administrative building called "The Living Hiawatha."

It is a bas relief, sculptured in granite, of the heroic Indian in his warrior regalia. This image is set in a live oak tree, which forms a shaft of natural, living, growing wood for this unique bit of artistic skill.

The profile of the wildwood warrior stands out in bold relief. The figure adds a touch of the unusual, and breathes an atmosphere of Indian poetry.

"And the desolate Hiawatha, Far away amid the forest, Miles away among the mountains, Heard the sudden cry of anguish, Calling to him in the darkness, Hiawatha! Hiawatha!"

As one enters through the administration building, a building of architectural beauty, he descends a

Let All the People Choose President

Primary System Instead of Convention Method is Now Suggested

Sacramento, California, Sept. 24.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson, may be out stamping for the Harding-Coolidge ticket, but he has not forgotten what happened at the Republican National Convention in Chicago last June, and just as soon as this campaign is over the California Senator means to lead the fight for a revision of the methods by which candidates for the Presidency are chosen.

Should Prohibit Strikes

"I am aware of the serious objections which could be made to this proposition, in so far as the limited number of competent industrial workers would bring another raise of salaries, against which the public should be protected, but we could settle this question by the organization of a special tribunal for the speedy hearing of every kind of industrial conflict. Strikes should be prohibited by law, as detrimental to production as well as to the welfare of the worker."

Could Tell if He Would.

The California Senator might tell an interesting story about what took place at Chicago, if he were disposed to do so. He could, for instance, reveal the absolute pledge given him by other leaders at the Chicago convention, that when the rest was taken on Saturday afternoon, it was with the understanding that an opportunity would be given for all concerned to agree upon a man that the progressive wing of the Republican party could support wholeheartedly.
