

850 LIVES PERISHED ON C.P.R. LINER TODAY

Terrible Nature of Big Marine Disaster is Disclosed Fully in Late Despatches From Toronto-- Uncertainty at Headquarters as to What Has Really Happened--Awful Toll of Accident is Certain--Company Officials Doing All in Their to Get Correct Account of the Sad Affair.

TORONTO, May 29.—The latest estimate of the loss of life on the Empress of Ireland disaster is 850.

It is the theory that when the Storstad rammed the Empress the latter's engine-room was cut in two and all the machinery immediately put out of commission.

MONTREAL, May 29.—While no official statement in regard to the number of lost in the Empress of Ireland disaster near Father Point was forthcoming up to noon today, it was computed that nearly one thousand people went down in her after the collision with the Storstad.

assistance, soon failed, though it was responsible for the despatch of the Lady Evelyn and Eureka, Government ships, which fortunately were ready with steam up as they had conveyed the mails to the Empress only a short time before.

minutes. The accident occurred at a time when the passengers were in bed, and the interval before the ship went down was not sufficient to enable the officers to arouse the passengers and get them into the boats.

That such an accident should be possible in the St. Lawrence and to a vessel the class of Empress of Ireland with every possible precaution taken by the owners to ensure safety for the passengers and the vessel, is deplorable.

DISTRESS FELT WAS VERY KEEN

Twenty Brantford Lives On Board The Stricken Ship

Heart Rending Scenes Enacted at Telegraph Offices To-day.

Heart rending scenes were enacted at the telegraph offices this morning by relatives of Brantford people on board the sunken ship, Empress of Ireland.

Young men and old, with trembling lips and in great distress of mind begged for details.

In all cases the reply had to be given that there was a paucity of news, until later in the morning a despatch came through, which however, was not believed in Montreal, that all had been saved.

Against this was pointed the terrible brevity in which the ship sank, ten minutes, for 1640 souls to leave, and the reports of Marconi operators on the scene were of a distressing nature.

Adjutant Hargrove of the Salvation Army was among the first to call at The Courier office, as several of his people sailed on the Empress of Ireland, along with the Canadian contingent.

As each hour passed this morning the grief of those who may have lost their dear ones, was most intense.

Steele did not arrive in the city from near Galt until noon, when he was first apprised of the dreadful accident. His wife, two children and his sister, sailed on the Empress of Ireland, and when informed of the tragedy the poor man was almost frantic with grief.

Samuel Howell also called at the Courier office, stricken with grief and fear at the possible fate of his wife and to year old son.

The wires between Rimouski and Montreal are apparently choked with inquiries, and this made the situation more distressing.

SCENE ON RESCUE BOAT WERE OF MOST DISTRESSING NATURE

Storstad Did Not Rescue Many People—Indescribable Was the Condition In Which Survivors Were Picked Up.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] RIMOUSKI, May 29.—The following description of the arrival here of the survivors, wounded and dead from the Empress of Ireland is given by J. McWilliams, chief operator of the telegraph station at Father Point:

"When daylight broke by the aid of our telescopes, we saw the government steamers picking up the survivors from nine lifeboats, while the Storstad was also picking up the people from the water. The Eureka was the first to arrive here and she had thirty-two survivors and several bodies. It also had a number of wounded.

The scene on the Eureka was most distressing. Mr. Webber of Montreal, C. P. R. passenger agent, who had only got off the ship a short while, took charge of the handling of the survivors and wounded.

would be paid for by the C. P. R. Among the survivors on the Lady Evelyn, which came in shortly afterwards, was Captain Kendall, who had been picked up while clinging to some wreckage by a lifeboat.

Most of the survivors were almost naked, and suffered acutely, as there had been a frost during the night.

The Storstad came in after a while and disembarked the few passengers she had saved and also some bodies.

NO BRANTFORD NAMES THUS FAR ON THE LIST OF SURVIVORS

[By Special Wire to The Courier] RIMOUSKI, May 29.—Mr. Danfort, Marconi operator of the Eureka, reports the following incomplete list of survivors at Rimouski:

Clarke K. Laski, Savein, King, Scott; Haas, assistant purser. Only one woman, Mrs. Simon, is among those picked up by the Eureka.

The greater number are members of the crew and third class passengers. The second-class passengers rescued were:

TORONTO IS GRIEF STRICKEN

Greater Sensation Than That Caused by the Titanic Disaster

[By Special Wire to The Courier] TORONTO, May 29.—Not since the Titanic disaster has this city been staggered as it was early this morning when the news reached here that the Empress of Ireland had been sunk.

Hundreds of Toronto people are affected directly and indirectly. Extra editions of the morning and evening papers were soon on the streets, and these were eagerly bought up, hastily scanning the meagre details of the appalling disaster, the friends and relatives of those on board besieged the C. P. R. offices and all the newspaper offices for more details.

It was after ten o'clock before any list of survivors could be had, and this afforded but little consolation to the anxious relatives. Among the more than 100 passengers looked from this city were Thomas Greenway and wife, and Captain J. E.

TWO BRANTFORD LADIES LUCKY

Were To Have Sailed but Unable To Do So At Last Minute

1030 Still Unaccounted

OTTAWA, Ont., May 29.—A message to the Marine Department here from its agent, McWilliams, at Father Point, says 387 were saved and taken to Rimouski. It is not certain whether this number includes those on board the Storstad, but it is believed that it does not.

They Are Fined. TORONTO, Ont., May 29.—Players Beshe of London and Shultz of Toronto Canadian league teams have been suspended for three days and fined $25 each for fighting at London. Manager Reising's case is laid over for a week for future evidence as to whether he was acting as peacemaker or not.

TWO BRANTFORD LADIES LUCKY

Were To Have Sailed but Unable To Do So At Last Minute

1030 Still Unaccounted

There are two Brantford ladies who consider themselves most fortunate in not sailing on the ill-fated Empress of Ireland, as they first intended. They are Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Freeman, two English ladies, who bought tickets last Saturday from Mr. T. J. Nelson and booked their passage. On Monday they were not sure whether they would be ready to catch the boat, and on Tuesday night they cancelled their booking on the Empress and took passage on the Teutonic, the White Star liner, which sails from Montreal to-morrow. Both Mrs. Freeman and Mrs. Clark left last night for Montreal.

Dismissed His Ship. At a naval court martial at Chatham on Saturday, Artificer-Engineer Ernest Taylor, of the Lord Nelson, who was charged with being drunk on board, was adjudged to forfeit six months' seniority and dismissed his ship.

MANY PRACTICE FALSE ECONOMY

Farmer Saves 15 Cents, Squanders Big Sum, FORGETS HOME MERCHANT.

Catalogue House Cannot Enter Community Where Local Pride is Considered—Be Frank With Merchant and Ask Him to Be Same With You. A Town Worth While.

If you know how to spend less than you get you have the philosopher's stone.

Economy is the parent of integrity, of liberty and of ease and the beautiful sister of temperance, of cheerfulness and of health.

Willful waste is a cruel and crafty demon that gradually involves her followers in dependence and debts and so fetters them with iron that enter their inmost souls.

Economy is a procedure by which a certain sum of money can be saved and waste, on the other hand, by which the same sum of money is dissipated.

To illustrate, a farmer wishes to buy an ax. The local merchant's price is $1.40, but the farmer can buy "an" ax from the retail catalogue house for $1.25. He is economical and is going to save that 15 cents.

Abandons Machinery In Field.

The previous summer the economical farmer bought a new mower with which to harvest his hay and paid therefor $85.

The machine was nice and new and shiny, and when the farmer completed the cutting of his hay he promptly unhitched his team and abandoned the pretty new mower to the tender elements of the hayfield, and there it remains, the seat and tongue protruding from a huge snowdrift.

That seems to be a case where waste took economy by the hand and led it out into the fields and lost it.

Neglect is Noticeable.

It is a regrettable fact that the practice is not uncommon that it is the rule rather than the exception among farmers.

Look out of the window of any train as you pass through the country, and almost the first thing that meets the eye is a neglected piece of farm machinery standing in a vacant field unprotected from the rains of the summer, the winds of the fall, the sleet, ice and snow of winter and the mud and mire of spring.

What must be the condition of that machinery when in the course of time the farmer is again ready to put it into service?

Have rust, neglect and the elements added to its value and efficiency? Depreciated 50 Per Cent.

Have they not depreciated it at least 50 per cent in every way? Neglect of this kind is willful waste.

There is no better field in all the world in which the farmer can practice economy than in the proper care of his machinery.

Some farmers protect their machinery all right from the elements. They haul it in under a shed.

The barnyard fowls have also discovered this "nice shed" and find that machinery makes the nicest kind of roosting place, with the result that the machines are again brought out into the sunlight they are things of sordid appearance rather than of worth and beauty.

Machinery Rusts Out.

The back door robs the house, and the back door leads to the machinery shed and to the open fields. Go out and see if your machinery is protected from both the weather and barnyard dirt.

Remember it is better for machinery to wear out than to rust out. Saving 15 cents on an ax and losing $50 on a mowing machine is false economy, the practice of which leads past the gate of thrift and industry straight to the door of "willful waste" and willful waste" and to the fireside of indolence and neglect.

The man who neglects and abandons his farm machinery in the field is not only the most indolent man in the world, but also the most stupid.

And the strangest part of it all is that a man will admit his indolence, but will fight if called stupid.

He sort of persuades himself to believe that indolence cherishes all the peaceful virtues and that without degrading the others it merely suspends their functions.

Be Frank With Dealer.

Be frank and open and manly with yourself and ask your dealer to be the same.

Then there will be more consumers in the town to feed, and the farmer will profit by it. So will the retail merchant and also the consumer, citizens of the town, the professional man and the employee, as they will be profitably employed and earning money.

When the citizens of a town have money in the bank or jingling in their pockets a town worth while is in evidence; a farming community worth while is also very noticeable.

What helps one helps all, and no catalogue house can better conditions in a locality that works together in this way.

Selfishness, jealousy and stubbornness are a certain kind of harpoon that cuts deep.

Mrs. Arthur Wallace, of Salamanca, N. Y., and Mrs. Dr. Wynn, of Erie, Pa., are visiting friends in the city.

SANK IN 10 MINUTES --STORY REASS LIKE THAT OF THE TITANIC

RIMOUSKI, Que., May 29.—The Marconi Company's operator here supplies the following account of the sinking of the steamer Empress of Ireland in the early hours of this morning, after a collision with the Norwegian collier Stordstad, in which it is believed one thousand lives were lost, three hundred and fifty passengers being saved.

"The Empress of Ireland was rammed this morning, at 1.45, by the Stordstad, 20 miles out from Father Point. The Empress sank within ten minutes. The S.O.S. signal sent out was received at Father Point, and the Government steamers Eureka and Lady Evelyn were despatched to the distressed vessel's assistance. The Empress of Ireland listed and was unable to get most of the boats out.

"Captain Kendall was saved, being picked up on some wreckage by No. 3 lifeboat, fully 30 minutes after his ship had foundered. Both wireless operators, assistant purser, chief engineer and chief steward were saved. Chief officer and purser are amongst the missing.

THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTY SAVED

"At present three hundred and fifty passengers have been landed at Rimouski, and others are to follow. When the first S.O.S. call was received from the Empress of Ireland at 1.45 this morning, the operator on the doomed vessel said she was sinking fast. The Government steamers Eureka and Eureka were at once rushed to the scene of the disaster, but the ship had gone down before the ships arrived. Repeated attempts were made to get the Empress by wireless, but nothing was received here beyond the announcement that the Stordstad had rammed her in a vital spot, and that she was going down rapidly, and that the weather was clear."

DISTRESS FELT VERY KEENLY

ing than ever, as little news of an authentic nature trickled through.

"As far as can be learned, most if not all of the Brantford passengers were travelling third place on the Empress of Ireland. They were largely from the rank of Brantford's industrial class, and a sterling lot they were, judging by the numerous enquiries concerning the welfare of each and every one received by the Courier to-day. Some ray of hope is cast by mention in a couple of the despatches that there are many third class passengers among the survivors. The names of these have not yet been forwarded, but will be published or bulletinied by the Courier immediately they are received.

Mill Workers' Flooded Homes

Hungry Man's Plea
Charged at Heywood on Monday with breaking a plate glass window, value $20, at the premises of the Heywood Industrial Co-operative Society a man named Frederick O'Brien said he deliberately threw a large piece of flag through the window because he was hungry and without food. If suffragettes could break windows for nothing, surely he said, a working man could break windows to get something to eat. He was sent for trial.

LOCAL SYMPATHY.

The sympathy of this entire community will be extended to all of the bereaved in connection with the latest sea toll, and especially to the local families.

THE LATEST MARINE DISASTER.

It is not so very long ago that the civilized world stood aghast over the appalling disaster to the Titanic. That was about the middle of April, in 1911, and over one thousand souls perished.

What can be said in the face of such a calamity—a calamity which has sent a thrill of sorrow and regret throughout the civilized world?

It is common in connection with such tragedies to talk of the "lesson" conveyed. That is, in reality, the immutable fact that human agencies and human designs are, after all, subjected to the great forces of nature and a higher Power.

And the poor souls who, in the midst of health and happiness and hope—the husbands and wives, the children, the all of them—suddenly brought face to face with death—the mere thought is agonizing.

MARINE DISASTERS

There is a very long list of marine disasters, especially among British men of war. Everyone remembers the sinking of H.M.S. Victoria, after collision with H.M.S. Camperdown when hundreds perished.

Perhaps the earliest incident of such calamities in a large way, was the sinking of the Royal George on Aug. 29th, 1782. She was the then biggest man of war afloat.

Probably the most remarkable of all catastrophes was that which happened to H.M.S. Captain in 1870. She was with the Channel Fleet off Cape Finisterre.

boats. For the rest, the officer in command lined the men at attention, and thus they went to their deaths, standing shoulder to shoulder. It is one of the many fine traditions of the British service, and so impressed the King of Prussia, that he had each of the regiments in his kingdom brought on parade to have the story read to them as an illustration of discipline and courage.

WALT MASON.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET

Samuel Woodworth, the son of a modest Massachusetts farmer, was born in Scituate, that state, January 19, 1785. While the family were poor and had no luxuries, their lot was worse than that of the ordinary New England family, and they lived in comparative comfort.

While living in New York City, on Duane street, he came home one July day, nearly overcome with the heat, and with nothing to drink but the tepid water of the city—ice being unknown in those days in the summer months—he exclaimed to his wife: "What would I not give this moment for a long draught from the old oaken bucket hanging in my father's well!"

But perhaps the most striking of all such incidents was the calamity to the troopship "Birkenhead," in 1852. She was an iron paddle wheeler of 556 horse power, and struck on a rock off Simons Bay, South Africa.

Pays to Have Real Live Member in the House

Not only has W. S. Brewster, K.C., M.P.P., proved an able supporter of Good Government in this province, but he has, as the member for South Brant, shown that kind of initiative in behalf of the people he represents which has won for him not only distinction in the Legislature, but encomiums from his constituents of all ranks.

Here are two of the clauses of Mr. Brewster's Public Utilities Act, which was made law at the recent session of the Legislature.

(1) After the same have first been submitted to and approved of by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council by-laws may be passed by the councils of all municipalities to prohibit the sale or distribution within the municipality of natural or manufactured gas containing sulphuretted hydrogen.

(2) If a company contravenes the provisions of any such by-law or after the passing of such by-law neglects or refuses to furnish supply sufficient for all public and private uses of gas not containing sulphuretted hydrogen any right, privilege or franchise which it possesses for the sale or distribution of natural or manufactured gas within the municipality shall ipso facto come to and be determined.

It pays to have a real live member like W. S. Brewster, K.C., as South Brant's representative. It will pay to keep him.

Rifle Shooting in County Districts.
Several members of the rifle shooting fraternity are somewhat indignant that the police should haul them up before the bench for sport shooting in the Brantford district. This supposition is not backed up by the new by-laws, which state that no firearms or fireworks are to be discharged in the county.

SPLENDID ADDRESS ON CITY PLANNING

Mr. Thomas Adams, of London, Eng., Delighted His Hearers Last Night.

Mr. Thomas Adams of the Home Government Department of England, gave a splendid illustrated address at the Y. M. C. A. last evening when a large and representative gathering of citizens gathered to hear his views on Civic Improvement and they were excellently impressed with Mr. Adams' knowledge of his subject and his very rational views of matters pertaining thereto.

Mayor Spence opened the meeting and expressed his hearty appreciation of the fact that Mr. Adams, an Old Country expert was present, and as the Mayor of Brantford he gave a welcome to the speaker of the evening. Mr. Dunnington Grubb also was present and he would give his opinions after Mr. Adams had spoken. The Mayor then introduced the speaker.

Mr. Adams, speaking with an almost typical English style, said that if such a subject as Civic Improvement, one must remember that conditions were vastly different in Canada and England. England was compact and to a great extent a settled land, while Canada was in its infancy. Civic improvement was the result of a general movement in all countries and to Canada especially. It is always easier to prevent than to cure and with all our civilization we have to contend with the bad planning of cities and towns as they had been laid out without thought for the future. Streets without width and design, houses without health or comfort giving architectures. It was a great work and one of vital interest.

City planning is no new subject, and for a very long time towns had been planned in various ways. The ancient Romans had their system. Edinburgh had quite an architecture of its own, which was planned generally over a century ago. Adelaide was a town which had grown up considerably lately. It was unfortunately situated for ravines and bad patches of land, interspersed the good, and yet, owing to the planning, it was a fine city.

Town planning was a great question in the United States and Rochester was seriously considering a new laying out of their city. In medieval times there was great architectural beauty as evidenced by a castle thrown upon the scene. Slides of Germany showed that the city plans, but their improvement had considerably increased the cost of living as wide streets increased the cost of building land being much dearer.

Referring to Brantford, the speaker said that it should have a spacious and good street leading from the railway station to the centre of the city. It should impress visitors and give them a good opinion. This should not be overdone however, as the poor man and his taxes were to be considered. Besides this, was not the most important part of the city. The residential section and the manufacturing district should be equally impressive. It was not only necessary to make wide streets, but it was also desirable that they should be free of dust and some streets of Germany were excellent examples of good streets. They having flower beds on each side of the tramway tracks, and on the outer edge a wide asphalt walk for pedestrians. Slides of certain sections of Germany showed how the tenement system existed, owing to the high price of real estate. Town planning in Germany was not the town planning of England. The system of laying straight lines and building blocks was ancient and the ancient Romans were well aware of its advantages as was to be seen in many of old London Streets. Diagonal streets, however, should not be neglected, because of their utility for business purposes, furnishing direct routes between two points. Had London been built as Sir Christopher Wren had planned after the great fire, it would have saved many million pounds since that time. In spite of the rumour that Britain was a dying nation, Greater London was doubling itself every three years. In London he held sway then, provided that only a few houses could be built to an acre. There was a tract of 6,000 acres in London, upon which 60,000 houses would be built and thus as this area developed, owing to the scheme, the total cost to the community would not be more than $100,000 and up till the time of actual operations not more than eight houses per acre were allowed and when it is realized the damage that was done to plots of land under the name of liberty, the wisdom of the scheme would be apparent. Dealing with the garden city of Letchworth, the speaker said a part of it was set apart for agriculture. Its factories were ideally situated. They need not be ugly and it should be remembered that it was just as necessary to have a good place to work in as to live in. Beautiful little homes could be rented at $2.50 a week. Various types of Letchworth roads and byways were shown and Mr. Adams remarked that they were shown not with a desire to show Canadians how they should build their streets, but he hoped if they would adopt them, so much the better. England had its improvement difficulties every bit as much as Canada had. Monumental buildings and fine streets were not the first principle of city life. If the splendid buildings were present at a cost to the character of the citizens, they, more than anything else spoiled scenes of rural river scenes.

With regard to a new town hall he would not advise too great a structure or one too imposing. It should be made with a view to future enlargement, and not be too great a strain upon the ratepayers of to-day, for he saw no reason why the citizens of to-day should stand the burden of the citizens of the future, and, he, therefore, advised an adequate structure built with a view to future enlargements.

Mr. Cocksbutt wanted to know if he would include the widening of Bridge street in the West street improvements, and Mr. Adams replied that he was not aware of the actual state of the street, but if it was narrow, he would include it in the widening.

There were no more questions put and the Mayor expressed his sincere thanks to Mr. Adams and to Mr. Grubb and said he had gained many points which would prove of use to him.

Repeating, Mr. Adams said he was pleased if they had gained any knowledge upon the subject. He was glad of the opportunity for observation which Brantford afforded and of the exchange of ideas from which he had benefited in his search for information.

Mr. Gould, chairman of the Parks board moved a vote of thanks, and it was seconded by Mr. C. A. Water-ous, both of whom expressed their appreciation of the excellent address given by Mr. Adams.

The speaker thanked them for their kindness and the meeting concluded with the National Anthem.

FIRST REPORT REVEALED AWFUL NATURE OF DISASTER AT SEA

First Despatch Received This Morning Told of Most Terrible Marine Disaster Ever Recorded in Canada—Marconi Messages First Received But Ceased When Ship Went Down.

BULLETIN

MONTREAL, May 29.—The first official account of the disaster to the Empress of Ireland came from Captain Kendall, who sent a wireless message to Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the Canadian Pacific here, as follows: "Empress of Ireland, stopped by dense fog, struck amidships in vital spot by collier Storstad."

(By Special Wire to the Courier)
MONTREAL, May 29.—The C. P. R. liner Empress of Ireland sank last night thirty miles off Father Point, after a collision with a collier, it was believed at an early hour this morning; over 300 people on board, who have been lost.

The collision took place at 2.30 this morning and the first announcement of the disaster came from the Marconi station at Father Point, which had received word that the Empress was sinking. The C. P. R. liner sent out the S. O. S. which were picked up by the Government Steamer Eureka and the mail tender, Lady Grey which immediately rushed to the rescue of the sinking ship.

The Marconi station at Father Point kept in communication with the Empress for some time when wireless messages suddenly ceased. Those on the shore at Father Point discerned lifeboats as day was breaking, and a coal steamer, which was believed to have been in collision with the Empress, was standing by.

Later about 135 passengers and crew were landed at Rimouski. Reports early this morning were that the Empress ran into the collier in a fog and sank within ten minutes. A number of the passengers were hastily roused from their beds and rushed into the boats. Captain Kendall, who won renown as the man who first detected Crippen, the murderer on the Montfort, and who was in command of the Empress, was said to be among those picked up by the lifeboats. The Steamer, the Empress of Ireland was in collision with, is believed to be the Collier Storstad. She is said to be badly injured.

FIRST REPORT REVEALED AWFUL NATURE OF DISASTER AT SEA

First Despatch Received This Morning Told of Most Terrible Marine Disaster Ever Recorded in Canada --- Marconi Messages First Received But Ceased When Ship Went Down.

BULLETIN

MONTREAL, May 29.—The first official account of the disaster to the Empress of Ireland came from Captain Kendall, who sent a wireless message to Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the Canadian Pacific here, as follows:

"Empress of Ireland, stopped by dense fog, struck amidships in vital spot by collier Storstad."

[By Special Wire to the Courier] MONTREAL, May 29.—The C. P. R. liner Empress of Ireland sank last night thirty miles off Father Point, after a collision with a collier, it was believed at an early hour this morning; over 300 people on board, who have been lost.

The collision took place at 2.30 this morning and the first announcement of the disaster came from the Marconi station at Father Point, which had received word that the Empress was sinking. The C. P. R. liner sent out the S. O. S. which was picked up by the Government Steamer Eureka and the mail tender, Lady Grey which immediately rushed to the rescue of the sinking ship.

The Marconi station at Father Point kept in communication with the Empress for some time when wireless messages suddenly ceased. Those on the shore at Father Point discerned lifeboats as day was breaking, and a coal steamer, which was believed to have been in collision with the Empress, was standing by.

Later about 135 passengers and crew were landed at Rimouski. Reports early this morning were that the Empress ran into the collier in a fog and sank within ten minutes. A number of the passengers were hastily roused from their beds and rushed into the boats. Captain Kendall, who won renown as the man who first detected Crippen, the murderer on the Montfort, and who was in command of the Empress, was said to be among those picked up by the lifeboats. The steamer, the Empress of Ireland was in collision with, is believed to be the Collier Storstad. She is said to be badly injured.

ANIMALS IN "MOVIES"

SCHOOL FOR WILD BEASTS SUPPLIES QUADRUPED ACTORS.

Business Is One Full of Danger for the Human Being Who Participates in the Show—Greater Difficulties Beset Trainers Than In Teaching Animals for Stage Because Break Will Spoil Film.

Undoubtedly the most unique school of dramatic art in the world is a place where all manner of wild creatures are trained to pose along with human actors for the moving picture manufacturers. Such a school has just been visited by Mr. Robert H. Moulton.

"The films are made here," Monsieur Bourgeois explained, "because the animals do not act so well when we take them to a strange place. Here they are at home—and behave like the other actors—the men and women—come to us, and we have no trouble at all. Now for the animals."

A door at one side was opened, and we passed into a long room lined on either side with iron cages and resembling an ordinary menagerie or zoo. Wild animals filled the different cages, a few of them apparently dozing, while others were pacing nervously back and forth. At our entrance all ran to the bars and peered anxiously through, some rearing up on their hind legs to obtain a better view.

"They think it is dinner time," laughed Monsieur Bourgeois. "Such enormous appetites, too! Raw eggs, bread and milk, beef, vegetables, hay, and other things—we feed them often, even if the market price is high."

Suddenly a roar that shook the whole building came from a cage at the rear. Immediately there followed a chorus of lesser roars, snarls, barks, and trumpets, while through the din could be heard a deep voice bellowing, "Monsieur Paul! It is Nero. Come quick!"

Running swiftly to the scene of the uproar, Monsieur Bourgeois vaulted lightly over a railing beside a cage in which a huge lion stood alternately snarling and roaring, while he made desperate efforts to get at one of the keepers.

I watched the lithe young Frenchman who had distinguished himself in the special and dangerous vocation of training wild beasts to take part in plays in which he assumes roles with them. Seizing a long whip he applied it vigorously through the bars until the lion retreated sullenly to a corner. Then the trainer stepped into the cage, the door of which was swiftly closed after him, and confronted the angry lion. Then began a series of advances and retreats in a panther-like staccato, again and again with whirlwind movement, the eyes of the man never leaving those of the big beast. Little by little, amid wild roars and an evil howling of Nero's teeth, the lash and the pistol did their work and the great lion quieted down.

"Nero is not in good humor this morning," said Monsieur Bourgeois, as he returned to my side. "He has what you call the temperament. But he is a star, and we must put up with his moods."

"How then," I asked, "when the animals are really dangerous, can women be induced to run the risk of being torn to pieces in the brief, but all too long, period of posing?"

"Oh, the animals are not as dangerous as they look," replied Monsieur Bourgeois. "And then—I do not know how to explain it—the women seem to be more fearless than the men. They are willing to take greater risks when posing. Look!"

and he pointed to a beautiful young tigress in a nearby cage. "That is Princess, one of our stars. She has taken part in four productions, so far. Doesn't she look gentle? Women regard her as a pet."

One of the productions referred to, the trainer told me, was "Beasts of the Jungle. Princess, the tigress, while something of a pet, was not exactly the playmate a child would choose, but the little actress nestled up to the beast and apparently felt no fear of the great yellow eyes and dangerous claws. The company, the trainers, and the employees of the moving picture company were not so secure as to the disposition of Princess, and stood in breathless silence, each carrying a loaded revolver pointed at the beast.

Although Monsieur Bourgeois has made a business of furnishing domestic and wild animals to the different moving picture manufacturers, and although he has, at one time or another in his eventful career, come in contact with most birds, beasts and reptiles, he says he has not yet discovered any real histrionic ability among these creatures.

Accustoming a wild animal to a number of people, according to Monsieur Bourgeois, is even more important in training these creatures for moving pictures acting than in training them for the variety stage, since in the "movies" the animal actor has actually to take part in a cast of real people, while the stage animal performer need only grow accustomed to the audience and his keepers. Another important difference is that the animal can walk, trot, amble, or perform his numerous tricks without being hampered by space restrictions, but in the average indoor moving picture studio setting the stage is not much larger than an ordinary bedroom.

KING AND QUEEN OF ALBANIA DRIVEN FROM COUNTRY BY REBELS

PRINCE WILLIAM OF WIED AND HIS WIFE

MAP OF ALBANIA.

Word comes from Durazzo that the insurgent supporters of Essad Pacha, formerly Minister of War in Albania, have attacked the city and that Prince William, the Princess and their suite have taken refuge aboard the Italian war ship Misurata. A revolution has broken out at Triana, to the east of Durazzo, and the government forces there have suffered defeat. A column of five thousand rebels was reported to be advancing on Durazzo. Austria and Italy are making preparations to send troops to Durazzo from Scutari.

EIGHT PARIS PEOPLE ON THE EMPRESS

Town is Greatly Shocked by Distressing News of Occurrence

PARIS, May 29—Eight Paris people were on the ill-fated Empress of Ireland, which sank this morning off Father Point. They are Mrs. Fred Blackhurst, wife of Fred Blackhurst, of the firm of Blackhurst and Gill, clothiers; Mrs. Walter Jeff and son, who were joined in Hamilton by Mr. Jeff, Chas. Read and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grant and baby.

Mrs. Blackhurst is very well known throughout the town, having a host of friends, who are anxiously awaiting for some word. She was summoned on Monday by cable from Belper, Derby, Eng., where her father is seriously ill, and she left on Wednesday to board the boat.

Harold and William Crawford, former residents of Paris, but now of Flint, Michigan, were in charge of the Flint Salvation Army band on its way to the convention in England. Capt. Urfaki, a former member of the S. A. here, but transferred to Dundas two years ago, was also on board the boat, having been sent by the Army in Dundas to the convention. He leaves a wife and one child in Dundas.

The scenes around the telegraph office this morning were very pathetic. Numerous telegrams have been sent to Montreal, but as yet none of them have been answered. Mr. J. H. Fisher,

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Inquest Last Night Into the Death of Italian on Railway.

The jury empanelled to enquire into the death of Louis Cergesetti, the Italian laborer killed on the L. E. and N. last Tuesday, brought in a verdict of "accidental death" with no blame to any party, before Coroner Fissette last night.

Only two witnesses were called, they being Engineer Fred Shultz, who was running the train and an Italian, named Perison, who saw the unfortunate man fall.

Engineer Shultz said that on Tuesday morning he had stopped and told all the men to get off. Cergesetti with the rest of them dismounted, but when the train started again he attempted to get on the tender.

After hearing the evidence of these two men, the jury were only out about ten minutes, returning a verdict of accidental death with no blame resting on any one person or persons.

MISS FIELD DID NOT SAIL

At Darwin Inquest on Tuesday Concerning the Death of Levi O'Brien

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it was hard to understand how an accident a few miles out could not have been prevented but he hoped that investigation would show that it could not have been. He was overcome with the terrible news and expressed his sincerest sympathy for the families.

At a Darwin inquest on Tuesday concerning the death of Levi O'Brien a boy of eight of Back Hacking St., who was found drowned in a mill lodge, a little girl named Alice Ann Tomlinson shyly told the coroner that she tried her best to pull the boy out of the water, but she could not hold him and ran for assistance.

WHERE PEACE ENVOYS ARE HOLDING MEDIATION CONFERENCES

Clifton Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ontario. The Clifton Hotel, at Niagara Falls, Ont., is where the "A. B. C." mediators are holding conferences with Huerta's envoys and the envoys of the United States in an effort to establish peace between America and Mexico.

Dependability

---the heart, the backbone, the mainstay, the staying quality, the serviceability, the shape retention---call it by any name you like---in GOOD clothes it must be BUILT IN to have dependability. Clothes must be made from all wool materials and EVERYTHING that goes into the making must be in keeping to insure the best

If your coat breaks, shoulders sag, or if your clothes shrink on becoming wet, they are not dependable.

A RUN ON THE UNION LABEL.

Tip Top Tailors Open a New Store in the City and Take 336 Orders for Union Label Suits in One Day.

Patrons Who Are Out on Style Will Spend Heavily for Their Demands, and Wear Craftsmen in Other Cities to Make the Best Known That the Right is On.

The oft-made assertion that union men will not patronize the union label is certainly going out of date these days, as a witness of fact, the union label in favor of buying union made goods is steadily growing stronger. For tips the fact was never better illustrated than in the case of the Tip Top Tailors, who week before last opened a new establishment in the city. Hitherto the workers of the city have had considerable difficulty in securing a union label of the United Garment Workers, as for some reason or other the local business men did not show a disposition to handle the goods. However, when the fact became duly known, it was shown most unmistakably that the same men of Brantford were willing to back the union label when they were offered the opportunity. In one day the firm took orders for 336 suits, a record that showed that the old assertion did not hold good in the Telephone City at the present time.

Storstad Had Dead on Board

(By Special Wire to the Courier) FATHER POINT, Que., May 29—The Norwegian Steamer Storstad with which the Empress of Ireland collided passed inward at 6.40 a.m. with her bow badly driven in, but proceeding slowly to Quebec under her own steam. She has a few survivors and dead bodies from the ill-fated Empress of Ireland, which she is placing on the government steamers, Eureka and Lady Evelyn to be landed at Rimouski Wharf. The Empress sank in nineteen fathoms of water.

The disaster recalls the accident which happened to the sister of the ill-fated vessel, the Empress of Britain, which two years ago rammed and sank the Collier Helveta in almost the same spot that the collision took place this morning.

LIBERALS IN OPEN REVOLT

Rowell is Setting Back Temperance Clock Many Years. WATFORD, May 29.—That the "abolish the bar" policy of Newton Wesley Rowell, K. C., M. P. P., is not meeting with the support of a general party as a whole has been known for months, but the fact was more than ever impressed upon the leaders of the party at the convention of East Lambton Liberals held here yesterday afternoon. Three of the men whose names were presented came out strongly against it, and declared that as a means of political preferment, it would never be a success.

The attack on Mr. Rowell's remedy for social and all other evils was led by Mr. H. J. Pettypiece, ex-M.P.P. of Forest, and he was seconded ably by Dr. J. H. Pickering of Forest, and by ex-Reeve John Dewar, of Plympton, a strong temperance worker in that township. Othes would not commit themselves on the question.

Mr. R. J. McCormick, M.P.P., was nominated on the first ballot, Mr. Pettypiece and Mr. Duncan White, of Bosanquet, also allowing their names to stand. There is every evidence of a serious split in the party. Thirteen names submitted.

They were: McCormick, J. McCormick, M.P.P., H. J. Pettypiece, ex-M. P. P., Forest; Duncan White, Bosanquet; Dr. Brown, Camlachie; Hector Patterson, Forest; Dr. J. H. Pickering, Forest; J. E. Collier, Warwick; D. McEachern, Alvinston; J. Dewar, Plympton; Sam Bailey, Uttoxeter; W. McDonald, Brooke; Lachlan Lindsay, Brooke, and J. H. Fowler, London. All retired except Messrs. McCormick, Pettypiece and White.

Early in the day there were rumors of friction, and when the first gentleman named Dr. Brown, commenced his speech, he made an attack on Mr. Pettypiece for the latter's editorial in the Forest Free Press in which the Rowell policy was attacked. He did not impute any ulterior motives to Mr. Pettypiece, he declared, but the opposition to the policy was unwise, to say the least.

"Had Mr. Pettypiece gone about systematically to discover something to work harm to the Liberal party in East Lambton, he could not have succeeded better," said Dr. Brown. "When he secured the approval of The London Free Press, he must have known that he had done wrong."

Peace May Now Ensure

(By Special Wire to the Courier) WASHINGTON, May 29.—Plans for Mexico's pacification practically agreed upon at the Niagara conference were up for discussion to-day in the cabinet. With assurances that the international phase of the question promised a satisfactory solution, interest grew to-day in the attitude that Carranza might take. It was reported that he had sent his representatives here an announcement of his position, toward the work of the Niagara conference. The constitutional agents, however, declined to discuss further information on the reported landing of war cargoes at Puerto, Mexico, by the Hamburg-American steamers Bavaria and Ypiranga was being expected from Rear-Admiral Badger. Doubt over whether the steamers actually had delivered ammunition for Huerta was cast by a statement from the navy departments that reports of the landings had not been verified. The pair appears to cause little uneasiness, and in some quarters it was indicated that the incident is more or less closed.

PILOT GOT OFF

QUEBEC, May 29.—Pilot Santerre, who took the Alsatian up the river arrived here early to-day, and reports meeting the Empress of Ireland last night about 10 o'clock at Cape Aux Noyes, and that the weather was exceptionally clear. The Empress was in charge of Pilot Adelaar Bernier of this city, who had gone off the boat at Father Point, barely an hour previous to the collision. He returned here to-day on board the Alsatian.

After Five Months.

A woman's hat and coat found on Dec. 16 to the quay at Railway Dock, Hull, led to inquiries being made for Mrs. Edith Annie Jordan, a young woman, but not until Monday was her body found. She had suffered from nervous debility following the birth of a child.

SHIP GONE IS MESSAGE

Special Train Despatched From Montreal at 8.30 Today. A special train was despatched from Montreal at 8.30 to Father Point to bring back the survivors. Captain Kendall, in conveying the intelligence to Captain Walsh that the Empress had gone down, said: "Ship gone."

The Empress of Ireland was a vessel of 14,141 tons and was built by the Fairfield Company, Limited, at Glasgow, in 1906. She carried a full wireless equipment and was a twin screw boat.

The Storstad, with which the Empress collided, weighs 6,028 tons. She was built by the Armstrong, Whitworth Company at Newcastle in 1910, and is owned by the Akties Maritime of Christiania, Norway. She is a single screw steel ship and was loaded with coal.

BOARD OF WORKS

At a meeting of the Board of Works held last night, it was decided to open the street decided to the city, to be known as Coulson avenue, running between Chestnut avenue and St. Paul's avenue, to be 66 feet wide. Angus McAuley presented a petition from the residents of Park avenue, between Mary and Murray streets, for a new pavement. The board recommended that the city purchase the property belonging to Robt. Gillies as an outlet for the sewer from Glanville avenue. It was also decided to recommend that a cement sidewalk be placed on the north side of Dundas street, between West street and High street, outside the boulevard.

CANADIAN LEAGUERS PLAY AGAINST MAJOR LEAGUERS

TORONTO, May 29.—The Beavers before the crowd for the first time yesterday, downing the Ottawa Champions, 6 to 5. Sir James Whitney and several members of the Ontario Cabinet did the opening honors before a crowd that was disappointed throughout, Murphy pulling the prize handle when he stole home cleanly in the sixth, while Peterson was winding up, Ottawa was off in fielding, five misplays being chalked up against them, two of these figuring in the scoring. Graham, late of the Toronto Internationals, pitched fairly for the locals. Ottawa outbit the Beavers 10 to 7, but the locals earned their victory with clean-cut work on the paths.

PITCHER HUGHEY WAS WILD
Hamilton Won From St. Thomas by a Score of 6 to 3.

HAMILTON, May 29.—In the early stages of yesterday's game between St. Thomas and Hamilton, Pitcher Hughey, of St. Thomas, had difficulty in deciding whether to try to put it over the plate or the umpire, and when he had the problem decided for him it was fairly easy for Hamilton. The only features of doners, and he was pelted for a variety of bingles. Hammond, on the other hand, had a rather easy time of it, being whacked only when he saw his way through and slackened his pace.

NEW YORK BEAT ERIE
ERIE, Pa. May 29.—The New York Giants defeated the Erie, Canadian League team in an exhibition game yesterday 6 to 2. Home runs by Thorpe and Behan featured. Score: New York . . . 201 012 000—6 12 1 Erie 000 100 100—2 7 9 Batteries—Witase, Palermo, Fromme McLean and Johnson; Stark and McNeil. Umpire—Bedford.

ANOTHER FOR LEAMINGTON
LEAMINGTON, May 29.—After defeating the Wolverines of Detroit, by the score of 4 to 1, on Victoria Day, the home team came back strong yesterday and won from Miller's Semi-Professionals, of the same place by 5 to 4. This is the third team from Detroit to suffer defeat from the locals in as many games.

HEINIE ZIM LAID UP.
CHICAGO, May 29.—Henry Zimmerman, Chicago Nationals' third baseman will be out of the game for some time, it was said yesterday, after his twisted ankle had been examined. Until he is able to resume playing, Phehan will take his place. Zimmerman hurt his ankle in sliding during Tuesday's game.

LONDON, May 29.—The Tucumseh continued their mad pace in the first with the men of Peterboro yesterday afternoon, and won out without trouble 11 to 3. Soccer Games Tomorrow Should be Real Hummers

Cockshutt United and Dufferin Teams Will Clash at Mohawk—Big Doings Are Expected—How They Line Up.

Schedule of games for Saturday
Cockshutt v. Duffin.
Paris v. Tutela.
Scots v. Holmedale.
S. O. E. v. Wanderers.

Some interesting games of football will be witnessed on local fields on Saturday next, if the weather allows. The Cockshutt and Duffin match at Mohawk Park will probably prove to be the best game, as it will be remembered that last week in the John Hill Cup the Duffin were too good for the weakened Cockshutt team. It will be a real tester. The Duffin are playing a good brand of soccer just now and it will take the Cockshutt team all their time to beat them. Six injured men has the Mohawk team handicapped and it is doubtful whether they can pull through. Tutela are visitors in the French capital and it will now be seen what local enthusiasm and following does for a team. Paris retired from the Tutela ground beaten, last week and thus before their own crowd will be anxious to atone and make things even. Tutela, already a strong team, will be strengthened by the service of S. Pickwell transferred from the Duffin to their team on Wednesday. The game is called for 8 p.m. sharp and the Team with the Reserves are requested to be ready on the field by 5.45 p.m.

meet at Tutela, and the encounter will be practically a rehearsal for the John Hill Cup in which the two teams are drawn together for July 4. The Wanderers have started upon their first win and they are a peculiar team to handle, when they get going. For it will be remembered they gave the ex-champions a nasty pill last year when they defeated the prospective league champions easily. The Roses will work for all the points they get. Much of the natural rivalry in football circles between the Saxons and Celts will enter into the game at the Scots enclosure. Both are reputedly strong combinations and the Scots have it slightly over the Tigers. The Holmedale boys never bow the knee without a desperate struggle, while the stubborn nature of the Scot is admitted. The war will wage merrily and strenuously until the last call of an more uncertain match could not be.

Wanderers vs. S. O. E. at Tutela
The Wanderers will line up as follows: Goal, Dudden; Backs, Charlick and Johnson; Halfbacks, McDonald, Wallace and Atkinson; Forwards, Hutchings, Mears, Bonner, McKellar and Johnston; Reserves, Hayes and Ruskin. The game is called for 8 p.m. sharp and the Team with the Reserves are requested to be ready on the field by 5.45 p.m.

Sport Comment

One satisfaction about the Canadian League this year, is that we have not got to go to listen to any ravings from Guelph.

Brantford fans know pretty well how fast LeCroix gets the ball back to the pitcher. Well, on Wednesday when Deneau was pitching, it was a funny sight to see the Rube passing it back to LeCroix. At that, the catcher seemed to have the Rube beat for speed.

Deneau never keeps a player who he does not think will make good very long. Gallagher the new pitcher, did not look to have the goods, although he might be successful going around the circuit once. With the arrival of Asher from South Bend, Gallagher will probably be released. The club will only carry four pitchers.

The Brantford team has thirteen men only, while all the other clubs are carrying 17 or 18. The Red Sox are getting results too.

Brantford doesn't come home until June 4, when three games are scheduled with Hamilton. That schedule maker must have been a funny guy.

Ottawa's pennant chances are considerably enhanced by the fact that the Senators play 75 per cent of their games at home.

Brantford fans have been disappointed in Wagner's work this year. If Deneau should let him go it would occasion no surprise, but Wagner could probably find a place on another team, Hamilton for instance, where they need an infield.

London looks at this distance like the club to beat. The Kockneys surely are going strong.

Ottawa by dropping one yesterday at Toronto came mighty near going back into third place. Locally little luck is wished the Senators these days and still less London.

One week from next Monday, London will be in our midst. If Brantford fans don't turn out for this series it will because they have all been corralled and locked up in the daffy house.

Hamilton put it over St. Thomas yesterday and another directors' meeting is postponed for 24 hours.

Don't think because you have taken many remedies in vain that your case is incurable. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many seemingly hopeless cases of scrofula, catarrh and rheumatism, kidney complaint, dyspepsia and general debility. Take Hood's.

GUELPH TROUNCES BRANTFORD STARS

Touch O'Connor for 18 Hits and Win by 15 to 2 Score.

GUELPH, May 29.—Brantford and Guelph played a W. O. B. L. scheduled game here yesterday afternoon before a small crowd, the latter winning out by a score of 15 to 2. The home team was never in trouble, while the Eagle Place Stars did not shine very brilliantly in any department of the game. O'Connor was hit to all parts of the grounds, while Schenck and Barber held the losers safe all the time. The Brantford outfit will have to strengthen if they expect to make any showing in this league. The score: Brantford . . . 0100000—2 5 8 Errors . . . 4251012—15 18 3

Oh, Listen!

(Hamilton Herald)
Why Hamilton is not in the running: They make too many errors. Score too few runs. Can't hit in the pinches. Make too many miscues in the pinches. Can't run bases. Outside of these few defects they are perfect.

Canadian League Notes

No; Not So Very!

A few days ago the Hamilton scribes were informing the world at large that the Brantford team was no better than last season, and that Hamilton was the class of the league. And yet Brantford has just taken two in a row from the Hams, right on their own grounds. Peculiar, isn't it?—St. Thomas Times.

Erie Is Peeved.

The Erie Club from Manager Geo. Smith down are incensed over the treatment they received from Umpire Evans in Ottawa. They say that that official's work was bad all through, but the climax came on Saturday, when with two on the bases and none out McNeal cracked a liner to centre. Shaughnessy came in and dove for the ball. The Yankees claimed he dropped it and fell on the ball, but when he got to his feet he claimed a foul catch and Evans decided in his favor, the result being a triple play. The assault on the official by McNeal followed and the catcher and Manager Smith were both banished. President Fitzgerald first suspended both men but yesterday changed his decision, raised the suspension and fined McNeal $750 and Smith $50. The suspension was raised in time to let Smith get into yesterday's game.—Peterboro Examiner.

Having Hard Luck.
The Petes are having more than their share of hard luck. Yesterday

Muly Miller, who was just rounding into form, and who had four hits in six times up, had his hand spiked in the ninth innings, one finger being badly torn and he will be out of the game for a week at least. Pitcher Stan Cresswell is ill and will be out for ten days or two weeks. Bob Sterling has a poisoned heel, and King was spiked in London and had a finger badly hurt yesterday, although the injury will not keep him out of the game.—Peterborough Examiner.

Cricket

The royal and ancient pastime game of cricket will be played at the O. I. B. grounds on Saturday when Brantford and Paris meet at 2.30.

The Brantford team has been selected as follows: A. Bland (capt.), W. West, E. J. Wingard, G. Johnston, F. W. Stewart, C. Smith, J. Usher, J. Frost, G. Whitwell, G. Merridee, Archdeacon, C. Bowden.

The glistening waters afford splendid bathing, while boating may be indulged in here with almost absolute safety. Delightful drives and walks are numerous and the scenery is superb. Splendid fishing is available in numerous adjacent localities. There is a mineral spring said to possess wonderful curative properties, and an Indian reservation of 1,000 acres is near at hand. This is truly a charming spot for the summer vacationist.

At the wharf, near the railway station at Iona, is the train steamer "Blue Hill" ready to transport passengers through the twelve miles of beautiful scenery to Baddeck, made famous by Charles Dudley Warner. On the way from Iona to Baddeck many small vessels are passed, their white sails on the blue water backed by the dark green of the hills dotted here and there with numerous farm houses, make a picture of rare beauty and loveliness.

Baddeck has a population of about fifteen hundred with good stores, two hotels and numerous boarding houses. Near the little town is the charming summer home of Doctor Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, who is now devoting much time to the problem of aerial navigation, and here some remarkable experiments are taking place. It is said that the people of Baddeck are so accustomed to the whirr of the aviator's motor that they now pay no attention to it, and that horses have never seen a railway train betray no symptom of fright when a biplane playfully sweeps over a load of hay. Beautifully located on high land overlooking Ross's and Boulardie Island, this delightful town offers a view of land and water that captivates every visitor. It is one of the best centres to see the Bras d'Or Lakes, as from here many enjoyable trips can be made by steamer or by driving. The residents are hospitable and the yacht and tennis clubs freely extend privilege to visitors. There is splendid fishing in the Baddeck and Middle rivers, and salmon in the Margaree.

Cape Breton Island

Is part of the Province of Nova Scotia, being separated from the mainland by the narrow Strait of Canso. This remarkable island has a length of 110 miles and extreme width of 87 miles, and its total area is 3,704 miles. It has been aptly described as "the front door of Canada."

Here nature seems to have made a special effort to produce a perfect vacation land. Not content with making a wonderful coast line of picturesque sandy bays and bold rocky promontories, Cape Breton possesses the beautiful Bras d'Or Lakes, over 460 square miles in extent, surrounded by well-wooded hills, which are dotted here and there with charming villas and prosperous looking farms, through many of which are streams, brooks and rivers, so abundant in this favored island.

Hidden away in these forest-clad hills lies unknown mineral wealth, while in the numerous waterways that almost divide the island in sections, and in the waters around the coast, is that great wealth of fisheries which has attracted the fishermen for centuries, even from distant Europe.

Much fertile land yet awaits the farmer, with a steady market practically at his door for all he can produce. Immense lumber areas will some day furnish employment for the lumberman. The great mineral deposits are commanding the attention of the miner and capitalist, both of this and other lands.

True, the climate is cold in winter, but not so cold as many other parts of Canada or the Western States. The Baddeck is the home of aviators. In sleep, while the finest of fresh sea foods and good wholesome farm produce soothe the effect of the strenuous, nerve-racking demands of modern metropolitan life.

Orangedale is situated at the head of one of the numerous arms of the Bras d'Or Lakes, and at this station conveyances meet all trains to transport passengers to Whyocognah, a charming drive of eight miles. Whyocognah nestles at the base of a

Playing in the sand—Bras d'Or Lake.

A good sailing breeze. The Pittsburg of Canada. Under the term of "The Sydneys" are included Sydney, North Sydney, and Sydney Mines. The latter two are five miles apart by water from Sydney. They are all linked together by a trolley line and are united both socially and commercially. Sydney has one of the finest harbors in America, deep, safe and easy of access. It is two miles wide at the mouth and after extending for four miles it divides into two arms each reaching several miles further inland. In this vast harbor the combined navies of the world could easily find anchorage and vessels of the largest tonnage find ample depth of water in almost any part of it.

It is a progressive business city with splendid stores, hotels, residences and churches. The summer climate is delightful and there is abundant opportunity for boating, yachting, canoeing, bathing, fishing and all the usual summer sports and pleasures.

Salmon caught near Baddeck.

It is stated on very positive authority that fish are really not conscious of pain and that their terror of the rod is only a fear of the unknown. A legend has been taught them in connection with the curious long shadow which stretches at best food time across their watery heavens that many of their bravest ancestors have been mysteriously spirited out of existence. The young fisherman can therefore be as bloodthirsty as she baits her hook for "bottom" fishing nor the fish which she proudly plays to land is actually suffering.

Everything about the sport of fishing is so thoroughly delightful—the long, peaceful hours, when the noisiest companion must be quiet if a good day's haul is to be made; the lovely lake or stream, where one can enjoy the beauty of the clouds and the country half consciously while constantly flipping back and forth the supple rod and length of slight string, with which one soon becomes as proficient as the cowboy with his lasso.

Yachting on the Bras d'Or Lake.

It is said that in learning the art of fly casting if it is not possible to procure a regular coach or teacher the next best thing is the companionship of another amateur. Two persons practising together for an hour a day each with a book of instructions — of which there are many — and carefully watching and criticizing the other's throws, become fairly expert at the end of a fortnight. Once they have acquired the knack and can swing the line a good fifty feet and come within a few inches of the object aimed at, then they can try their luck in open water.

The girl who desires a new amusement this summer and has decided to add to her already fair list of accomplishments that of being an expert fly caster should begin her practising at once. Already the fishing season is well on its way and who knows but that when the father or older brother sees how much in earnest she has become and how clever she is with her rod and line an invitation will be extended to go on one of these fascinating fishing trips to Canada or the Maine.

Grand Narrows.

Is a most interesting place, the fishing here is almost at your doors, cod and pollock will take a fly in this part of the Bras d'Or Lakes and sea trout may be caught in July and August at the bridge. The roads are good and the drives beautiful. This is the halfway point between the Straits of Canso and Sydney, and the Narrows are spanned by a substantial bridge, with a length of 1,697 feet. There is good accommodation and every requisite for summer recreation. From Grand Narrows by Boldsdale, Barrachois and Georges River to Sydney is delightful. There are no end of undeveloped attractive tourist places and everywhere is an abundance of water and attractive scenery—the possible summer homes of thousands of people in years to come. Many of the scenes are most strikingly picturesque and novel, until Sydney is reached.

This city has had a remarkable growth during the last five years, due to the development of its steel industry, which has given to it the name of Children enjoying the Beaches of Cape Breton.

It was with a very subdued air that the Man-with-the-Grouch dropped the wedding announcement of his old friend Gayly into the waste basket.

"There he goes," he grumbled. "The best of a brilliant set—except me."

"And I'll have to walk with the utmost circumspection or some designing woman who wants a husband more than she does a vote will grab me."

"It seems impossible to think of Gayly as a married man. If ever a human being had the happy faculty of being sufficient unto himself it was Gayly."

"I remember him when he was just recovering from his first love affair. The girl in the case was wrapped up in Gayly, but her folks made her marry a rich man."

"Gayly was dependent over the affair for one whole day. He wanted to forsake civilization. He proposed that a half-dozen of us buy a felucca, or a barque or some other queer little craft and sail away."

The Brantford team has been selected as follows: A. Bland (capt.), W. West, E. J. Wingard, G. Johnston, P. W. Stewart, C. Smith, J. Usher, J. Frost, G. Whitwell, G. Merridew, Archdeacon, C. Bowden.

Peter's Adventures In Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Miss M. Tarbell and R. McCulloch as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

Resting!

PETER read a letter from Mary, "you must come up here over a week-end soon. Everybody else's husband does, and it doesn't look well for you to be an exception to the rule. The fare is pretty high, I know, but we can economize some other way when I get home."

If that isn't consistency for you! Not once has Mary mentioned the extravagance of her summer at the lake, but she calmly speaks of economizing in the same breath with my railroad fare. I decided to go in spite of the extravagance, however, and departed one Friday to surprise her. She didn't expect me until Saturday. After a railroad journey of considerable tediousness we arrived at a country station and proceeded by rickety stage to a summer boarding house by the shore of a lake.

A Hotbed of Gossip.

I shouldn't forget my first glimpse of the rocking chair brigade on the porch. There they sat, eyes upon flies of mud and forth and fussing over the ridiculous fancy work with which women waste so much time. Occasionally one would dart hysterically from the piazza and rescue a squalling youngster from the lawn. Over in a corner four gray-haired ladies with somewhat masterful chins were squabbling furiously over a novel. Through the trees beyond I glimpsed several of the elderly card groups and an in a hammock was reading a novel. Through the trees beyond I glimpsed several of the elderly card groups and an in a hammock was reading a novel.

Of all hotbeds of petty gossip, commend me to such a place as this! A summer hotel that caters to married people of mediocre mentality and medium circumstances is the most deadly thing under heaven! It is calculated, I'm willing to wager, to increase tenfold the petty fallings of every woman there.

How Mary could exchange our trim little country house for this squabbling, wretched crowd of holiday-hunting malcontents was more than I could understand. Women lay much upon the altar of fashion. I said as much to her at dinner. "It's very cool and healthful here," my little wife said firmly, "and I'm surprised to hear you speak so. I'm resting wonderfully. I feel ever so much better than when I came up here. And you can't imagine," she added with a certain youthful naivete, "how nice it is to write to your out-of-town friends and say casually 'I've been away all summer at the lake!'"

Worse Than at Home.

The irascible old gentleman with the too, however, told me a different story. He upbanded his vexed soul to me over a post-prandial cigar. "Rest!" he roared at me when I mentioned it. "These women don't know what rest is! They'd rest more at home. Here they fuss from morning to night, changing their duds at every opportunity to dangle each other. Rest! I'm imprisoned here with this curious lot, and I wonder like a hawk I'd escape tonight, too grumble, talk clothes and ailments and death and babies until I don't wonder they get on each other's nerves. They brag by their every one of 'em homesick, but they stay on—got to, you see, folks expect 'em to. When a woman goes off the porch with a new gown on the buzz is equivalent to a gang of 60-horsepower mosquitoes running wild. I know, sir, I know! The kids light and the mothers take sides and the old ones squabble over bridge."

"And it's just as hot and dusty up here as it is home. They swear they're having a good time! They're not. When the stage comes on a Saturday night packed with the husbands they ought to be home with, they're a different bunch. 'Tis a holiday! Just let my toe get better and I'll get away from Ann and go somewhere where there isn't any rest."

True bravery is shown by performing without witnesses what one might be capable of doing before all the world.—Rochefort.

Modesty is bred in self-reverence. Fine manners are the mantle of fair minds. None are truly great without this ornament.—A. B. Alcott.

It is the privilege of posterity to set matters right between those antagonists who, by their rivalry for greatness, divided a whole age.—Addison.

MAK no mistake, dear friends, he is no Mormon or aspirant for the dishonors of bigamy. He's just a plain, honest, likable chap whose sin is being in love with a great many lovely girls and not knowing just how to discriminate against all the others by asking one. If only he could marry them ALL! If only that almighty cushion might be indented by the whole delightful brood, all at once—anything to escape that heart-twisting business of pushing all the other charmers away from any one. You see, he happens to know so many girls who LOOK just like brides; and here's JUNE coming and the blossoms and honeymoon time tables and heaven knows how many other inducements to bridal thoughts. Such a young man needs sympathy—and good advice. He needs to be reminded that just ONE requires a whole lot of love and a whole lot of money, and that he's lucky if he gets that one to HAVE him.

Paper Dress Frolics for Children

By Jeannette Young Norton

CHILDREN, aping the grown-ups in their search for new party sensations, love the crepe paper frolics. Many novelties are made from their crinkly rolls, and each child may design her party after her own ideas, and even help in the making of her costume.

Perhaps the economical mother may consider it a great deal of trouble to make a dress for one occasion only; but when she takes into consideration the fun it gives in the wearing she will admit the preparation is no more troublesome than seeing to the proper laundering of the lace and cambric dress, the pressing of sashes and hair ribbons.

Some of the dresses are made on cambric foundations, and others right on to the petticoat and waist combination. The paper is quite tough, and is not nearly so difficult to handle as one might suppose.

The flower costumes are exceedingly pretty. A sunflower design may be worn either by girl or boy. Both skirt and trousers are made of leaf green, as is also the jacket. A big sunflower is fastened to the belt in front; another behind. A green paper hat trimmed with the flowers is worn, or just a big flower with yellow ties under the chin. A sunflower wand is carried, and is quite as tall as the wearer of the costume.

The Wild West boy is all in brown with fringed trousers, a big sombrero, with bells on the brim, and a lash whip in his hand makes him look the part to perfection.

As the refreshments are nearly always served at small tables or are passed in buffet fashion, many charming effects may be achieved with the paper decorations for the table. One device is that of having the centerpiece a "Jack Horner" pie in the shape of a bee hive. This is surrounded by a circular mound of brilliant flowers with big bees resting here and there upon them, and some may be suspended in the air by fine black thread which does not show.

The creams and jellies may be frozen in flower individual moulds, sandwiches cut in diamond and heart shapes, cakes frosted and marked like dominos, a big wasp's nest filled with prizes having little gray ribbons hanging out of the holes to burst it with when the time comes, and little Marzipan peas, radishes and strawberries in tiny yellow market baskets for the bon-bons.

Indeed, crepe paper is a boon for these affairs, for there is nothing to launder, and all the waste may be thrown out together, leaving only a few dishes from the serving for the maid to clear away.

Where Liberality Counts.

Mrs. Wabash—Don't you believe in liberal divorce laws?
Mrs. Lakeside—Well, the laws don't matter much if the husbands are liberal.

Not Wholly True.

"Is he a true poet?"
"I don't think so. His wife got a divorce from him."

One That Will Work.

"It has a new attachment on a auto."
"What's that?"
"I don't know. The sheriff put it on."

Three Minute Journeys

Where the Natives Seek Slavery

By TEMPLE MANNING

NOTWITHSTANDING all that has been written in this country and abroad concerning the atrocities practiced on some of the rubber plantations in Peru and Bolivia, this much I can say about the slaves in one large district on the Amazon, about a thousand miles below the trading post of Puerto Allanza:

They rank higher socially than the free, unattached natives; are really envied. It is the common ambition to become attached to some trader as his chattel.

The reason for this is not hard to find. Instead of wandering wild about the woods they are brought into the camps, given clothes and a gun and introduced to alcohol. A good crop is invariably followed by increased supplies of alcohol, more guns and ammunition and finery for the women.

Sometimes, when there is gross laziness, whipping is resorted to, but care is taken in this. If the ill treatment be excessive—that is, more than the men think they deserve—the next morning they find the master assassinated. I know of at least two slave owners and their staffs who met their fate in this way—all wiped out in a night.

Of all the miserable, monotonous trips I have ever taken the journey to the Madre de Dios river, a tributary of the Amazon, was the worst. We had to punt our peculiarly shaped canoes with long bamboo poles up some of the worst rapids in South America, and we could only do this by keeping close to the shore. This was at the expense of great suffering, for hordes of mosquitoes, "manita blancas," and other biting and creeping pests came out early from the jungle banks to feast upon us.

When you have travelled thus for days you will appreciate a thatched covering in a clearing and the presence of a few cheerless savages. I most certainly did; and the roasted monkey, turtle cage, wild pig, wild turkey and small hard cakes, which pass for bread, were as delicious as any banquet in the centre of civilization.

To show the pride of the natives, and explain the primary reason why they will work so readily if their owners keep on hand an assortment of cheap finery, I was sitting with a Hutloto chief over the remains of a feast one evening when a huge copper-colored savage appeared. He was in process of taming, preparatory to being sent out to gather gaulcho. A trade shirt and trousers covered part of his frame, and on his head was an old felt hat with a lining of greasy silk.

I was wearing an unlined felt cowboy hat that greatly interested the natives. Suddenly, monkey fashion, the big newcomer reached down and grabbed my feet, looked at them and the absence of lining, gazed at his own resplendent headgear, and then laughed and danced about in native style, waving the corners of a more elegant hat than mine.

The governments of Peru and Bolivia have never recognized the state of slavery as it exists on the Amazon, but little or no attempt has been made to wipe it out. Men and women are bought and sold freely. When I was at Madre de Dios the market price of a man was $300, a woman $200, and a child $50. One land owner there bought 20 families in one deal—say $0 persons in all—for $25,000.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie: There is a boy who lives near us whom I like very much. He has been told that I like him. And when ever I see him I am so shy I don't know what to do. But what makes it worse is he doesn't care for me. What shall I do. How can I make him care for me?
SWEET SIXTEEN.

HOW can you "make" him care for you when he doesn't?
There's no how about it, little girl. There's no such word as "make" when it comes to love.

Who told him that you liked him, and do you tell some one to do it, you foolish little girl?
So you are so shy you don't know what to do, are you? What makes you shy? Are you afraid of the boy, or what?

You just stop thinking about that young man, Sweet Sixteen. Don't there some work you ought to be doing this

Beware Cramp If You Swim After Eating

By Dr. L. K. HIRSHBERG

CHEERED by the milder beam, the brightly youth speeds to the well known pool. A while he stands gazing at the inverted landscape—half afraid—to meditate the blue below. Then he plunges headlong.

The old swimmer hole of boyhood's happy hours has been found in these matters of fact, bacteriological days to be not all that it is cracked up to be. Like the old caken bucket that hangs in the typhoid infected well and the cakes that mother used to make, the swimming hole is a nest of lurking microbes.

How many a time have you, like the Two Foscari, cloven with arm stiff lustre and breast more dar'ning, the waves all roughened at the swimmer's stroke?

Who in these litesome, litesome hours, be she a swimmer or he only a bather, has not pined for thirst amid the sea of waves. Then comes the thought, as you hatchet and chop the green water, that, however near or far one shore may be to another, the wave which now ripples across your moving foot will soon be on the distant strand.

To swim with discretion means never to venture in the earth-absent depths when you are the slightest bit heavy after a meal nor brave even the ripples after the loss of a night's sleep.

The waves are full of whippers wild and sweet: They call to me—inevitably they beat Along the side from stern to curved prow."

These usually assail the bold swimmer when he is tired, overfed, underfed, overworked, shocked, or otherwise in want of a complete physiological balance.

"Children are we of the restless sea, Swelling in anger or sparking in glee; We follow our race, In shifting chase, Over the boundless ocean-space! Who hath beheld where the race began? Who shall behold it run?"

The waves are full of whippers wild and sweet: They call to me—inevitably they beat Along the side from stern to curved prow."

NO LONGER EXEMPT FROM MILITANTS

"MadWomen" Evade Sentries at King's Palace and Smash Windows

LONDON, May 29.—Buckingham Palace is to be no longer exempt from the window smashing raids of the suffragettes. It leaked out last night that between 11 and 12 o'clock two militants succeeded in evading the sentries outside the palace. Entering the quadrangle they began throwing stones at the windows and had smashed two of them when the sentries seized them and took them to the police station within the precincts of the palace, where they gave their names to the police. The master of the royal household refused to prosecute them and they were released after a few hours' detention.

Cheer Announcement

At a meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union last night, when Mrs. Mansell told of what the two women had succeeded in doing, the audience burst into cheers lasting several minutes. The suggestion that the Queen must be horrified at the treatment meted out to imprisoned suffragettes was received with loud cries of dissent.

Mrs. Mansell strongly protested against the action of the Archbishop of Canterbury in "refusing sanctuary" to Miss Annie Kenney, adding that the archbishop would be allowed no peace until women obtained the vote.

Miss Barbara Wylie, alluding to the raid on Buckingham Palace, said that "Red Thursday" would have results more widespread than had yet been seen. One result would certainly be that the women would become more and more determined to cast off their chains, hold up their heads and blow down to neither the Government nor the King.

East St. Louis Sets Pace For Go to Church Movement—Great Enthusiasm Shown

EAST ST. LOUIS had a banner GO TO CHURCH Sunday. Eighty-two per cent of the population went to divine service. "How did you do it?" was the question asked by hundreds of other cities throughout the country. The answer came:

ALL CITY OFFICIALS ASKED THEIR EMPLOYEES TO GO TO CHURCH. THE CHIEF OF POLICE ASSEMBLED ALL THE POLICEMEN AT ROLL CALL AND ASKED THEM TO GO TO SOME CHURCH. JUST BEFORE GOING HOME SATURDAY NIGHT HE REVISED THE PATROL SCHEDULE OF ALL THE PATROLMEN AND DETECTIVES SO THAT THEY COULD GET AWAY TO SOME CHURCH SERVICE SUNDAY. IN THE PRESENCE OF MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS HE HANDED THE SCHEDULE TO THE SERGEANT IN CHARGE.

The chief of the fire department just after returning from a fire run Saturday afternoon assembled the entire fire department and told the men the schedule would be arranged so they could GO TO CHURCH. The superintendent of public instruction assembled all the teachers and asked them to GO TO SOME CHURCH. He also instructed them to tell their pupils to GO TO CHURCH.

THE RETAIL MERCHANTS ENTERED THE SPIRIT OF THE THING. THEY INVITED THEIR PATRONS TO ATTEND SERVICES. WHEN A WOMAN WENT TO A STORE TO MAKE A PURCHASE THE GROCER WOULD ASK HER IF SHE WOULD BE IN CHURCH NEXT DAY, OR HE WOULD SAY PLEASANTLY, "WILL I SEE YOU IN CHURCH TOMORROW?" THE DELIVERY BOYS ALSO EXTENDED CHURCH INVITATIONS. "SEE YOU IN CHURCH TOMORROW!" WAS HEARD IN MORE HOMES IN EAST ST. LOUIS THAN EVER BEFORE. THE STREET CAR COMPANIES CARRIED SIGNS GRATIS ADVERTISING THE MOVEMENT.

That's how East St. Louis did it. Other cities and towns are planning the same kind of a campaign.

There is the most intimate relation between the condition of the blood and the activity of the stomach. THE RETURN OF TARZAN

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copyright 1913 by W. G. Chapman.

Hazel Strong? What memories the name inspired! It had been a letter to this girl, penned by the fair hand of Jane Porter, that had carried to him the first message from the woman he loved.

How vividly he recalled the little boat squatted outside her window, watching her every move. And this was Hazel Strong, Jane Porter's best friend!

Let us go back a few months to the little, wind swept platform of a railway station in northern Wisconsin. The smoke of forest fires blazed over the surrounding landscape, its arid fumes smarting the eyes of a little party of six who stood waiting the coming of the train that is to bear them away toward the south.

Professor Archimedes Q. Porter, his hands clasped beneath the tails of his long coat, paced back and forth under the ever watchful eye of his faithful secretary, Samuel T. Philander. Twice within the past few minutes he has started absentmindedly across the tracks in the direction of a nearby swamp, only to be rescued and dragged back by the tireless Mr. Philander.

Jane Porter, the professor's daughter, is in strained and lifeless conversation with William Cecil Clayton and Tarzan of the Apes. Within the little waiting room but a bare moment before a confession of love and renunciation had taken place that blighted the lives and happiness of two of the party, but William Cecil Clayton (Lord Greystoke) was not one of them.

Behind Miss Porter hovered the motherly Esmeralda. She, too, was happy, for was she not returning to her beloved Maryland? Already she could see dimly through the fog of smoke the murky headlight of the oncoming engine. The men began to gather up the hand baggage. Suddenly Clayton exclaimed:

"By Jove!" he cried. "I've left my ulster in the waiting room," and hastened to fetch it. "Goodbye, Jane," said Tarzan, extending his hand. "God bless you!" "Goodbye," replied the girl faintly. "Try to forget me. No, not that. I could not bear to think that you had forgotten me."

"There is no danger of that, dear," he answered. "I wish to heaven that I might see dimly through the fog of smoke the murky headlight of the oncoming engine. The men began to gather up the hand baggage. Suddenly Clayton exclaimed: 'By Jove!' he cried. 'I've left my ulster in the waiting room,' and hastened to fetch it."

"Goodbye," replied the girl faintly. "Try to forget me. No, not that. I could not bear to think that you had forgotten me."

he meant never to claim his birthright? If this were so, what right had he, William Cecil Clayton, to thwart the wishes, to balk the self sacrifice of the strange man? If Tarzan of the Apes could do this thing to save Jane Porter from unhappiness, why should he, to whose care she was intrusting her whole future, do ought to jeopardize her interests?

And so he reasoned until the first generous impulse to proclaim the truth and relinquish his title and his estates to their rightful owner was forgotten beneath the mass of sophistries which self interest had advanced. But during the balance of the trip and for many days thereafter he was moody and distraught. Occasionally the thought obtruded itself that possibly at some later day Tarzan would regret his magnanimity and claim his rights.

Several days after they reached Baltimore Clayton broached the subject of an early marriage to Jane. "What do you mean by early?" she asked.

"Within the next few weeks. I must return to England at once - I want you to return with me, dear."

"I can't get ready so soon as that," replied Jane. "It will take a whole month at least."

She was glad, for she hoped that whatever called him to England might still further delay the wedding. She had made a bad bargain, but she intended carrying her part loyally to the bitter end if she could manage to secure a temporary reprieve, though she felt that she was warranted in doing so.

"Very well, Jane," he said. "I am disappointed, but I shall let my trip to England wait a month. Then we can go back together."

But when the month was drawing to a close she found still another excuse upon which to hang a postponement, until at last, discouraged and doubting, Clayton was forced to go back to England alone.

The several letters that passed between them brought Clayton no nearer to a consummation of his hopes than he had been before, and so it was that he wrote directly to Professor Porter and enlisted his services. The old man had always favored the match. He liked Clayton, and, being of an old southern family, he put rather an exaggerated value on the advantages of a title, which meant little or nothing to his daughter.

Clayton agreed that the professor accept his invitation to be his guest in London, an invitation which included the professor's entire little family - Mr. Philander, Esmeralda and all. The Englishman argued that once Jane was there and home ties had been broken she would not so dread the step which she had so long hesitated to take. So the evening that he received Clayton's letter Professor Porter announced that they would leave for London the following week.

But once in London Jane Porter was no more tractable than she had been in Baltimore. She found one excuse after another for why they were to stay. Tennington invited the party to cruise around Africa in his yacht she expressed the greatest delight in the idea, but absolutely refused to be married until they had returned to London. As the trip was to consume a year at least, for they were to stop for indefinite periods at various points of interest, Clayton mentally anatomized Tennington for ever suggesting such a ridiculous trip.

It was Lord Tennington's plan to cruise through the Mediterranean and the Red sea, and for the purpose of this and thus down the east coast, putting in at every port that was worth the seeing. And so it happened that on a certain day two vessels passed in the strait of Gibraltar. The smaller, a trim white yacht, was speeding toward the east, and on her deck sat a young woman who gazed with wide eyes upon a diamond studded tocket which she idly fingered. Her thoughts were far away in the dim, leafy fastness of a tropical jungle, and her heart was with her thoughts.

She wondered if the man who had given her the beautiful bauble, that had meant so much more to him than the intrinsic value which he had not even known could ever have meant to him, was back in his savage forest.

And upon the deck of the larger vessel, a passenger steamer, also passing toward the east, the man sat with another young woman, and the two idly speculated upon the identity of the dainty craft gliding so gracefully through the gentle swell of the lazy sea.

A DEAD FLY

May be as Dangerous as a Live One!

It is certainly more repulsive, and, if left, will breed far more disease than ever it did when alive. It is not sufficient to kill the fly. You must destroy the germs as well. These, if allowed to multiply, will spread disease and death. Give up using the fly swatter and the ordinary fly paper.

Buy WILSON'S FLY PAPER - the only really effective method of exterminating the pest. You will kill all the flies in the house in a few hours. No dead flies left lying about. Be careful to follow directions found in each packet.

CHOIR CONCERT AT FIRST BAPTIST

A Difficult Program Was Rendered in Exceedingly Fine Style.

The choir of the First Baptist church assisted by Mrs. David Wright, elocutionist, and the National Male Quartette last evening gave a very enjoyable and highly appreciated concert in the church. The edifice was filled with an attentive and appreciative audience who signified their approval by hearty rounds of applause for each number rendered.

Mr. J. A. Halrod acquitted themselves admirably. Mr. D. L. Wright, the organist and choir leader, was in charge and his several organ numbers were exquisite in harmony and expression. Mr. Wright proved himself to be a thorough master of the pipe organ, his touch and expression being almost perfect. The numbers rendered by the choir showed the good results of weeks of training. Mr. Wright's rendition of Brewer's "Echo Bells" and Shelley's "Scherzo Mosaic" (Dragonflies) were perhaps the most difficult of his numbers. The soft chiming of the bells resounded throughout the church in vibrant chords, while the louder tones of the organ filled the church with a flood of harmony. Edward Johnson's "Midsummer Caprice," also brought out the finer qualities of tones while his rendition of Charles Dennee's three mountain scenes "The Rainbow," "Forest Streams" and "The Placid Lake" brought forth great rounds of applause, showing that the efforts of the musician were highly appreciated.

"The Carol of the Lark" (Bailey), sung by Miss Edna Phipps brought forth the finer qualities of this young lady's exquisite voice. Miss Phipps has a voice of great culture and one which is heard to advantage at any time. Her rendition of this number would set one dreaming of the singing of the birds so well was it rendered. Perhaps, the most difficult solo work of the evening was done by Miss Rhea Hutchinson, the leading soloist. Besides her solo number, "Spring" by Herschel, a very difficult number, Miss Hutchinson also took the soprano solo in anthem by the choir, "A Song in the Night," nothing need be said of Miss Hutchinson's work. Her ability is well known and last night she lived up to the name she has earned of being one of Brantford's best. Every word and note was as distinct and clear as one could wish for.

too much praise is Miss Elsie Senn, whose rich contralto voice more than pleased everyone in her rendition of the "Serenata" (Maschevoni). To say the least it was exquisite. Her full, rich contralto notes fairly rang through the church as she sang this difficult number.

Never before has Mr. J. A. Halrod been heard to better advantage than at last night's entertainment. His rich baritone fairly filled the auditorium. Beside his solo "A Song of Thanksgiving" (Allitsen), rendered in an admirable manner, he also had a solo and duet part in the first anthem.

It was in the male quartette that splendid harmony was brought out. The National Male Quartette consisting of Messrs. W. McIntyre, J. A. Halrod, C. R. Armstrong and W. Byers rendered the old but ever popular "Juanito" (Parks). Enough cannot be said about it. The harmony and expression put into the selection was admirable. Mrs. David Wright delighted the audience with one of Ian MacLaren's poems, "Through the Flood" from "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush." Her manner and enunciation was above criticism, and the great applause showed the appreciation of the audience.

The choir rendered four difficult anthems in an excellent manner and they were greatly appreciated. After the concert the Ladies' Aid of the church served an impromptu banquet to the artists in appreciation of their splendid work.

Teething time is usually a time of worry to mothers. It is usually accompanied by nervousness, stomach trouble and extreme fretfulness. The mother can avoid all this; she can have her baby pass through the dangerous teething time without pain or crossness. Baby's Own Tablets are the mother's greatest friend at this time. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, allay feverishness which usually accompanies the coming of new teeth, and in this way make teething easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

URIC ACID IN MEATS CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.
