Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER XII.

They left the church, laughing and talking, and he heard the jingle of the keys. Then Ernscliffe and Miss Sterne advanced toward him, and he tried to compliment the baronet's daughter upon her playing. He walked with them a little way, and remarked at length:

"Are you leaving Blairwood tonight, Mr. Ernscliffe?"

"I desired to do so, but fear that I cannot catch the last train to London."

Colin was quick to notice the rector's perturbed manner.

"Miss Sterne," went on Mr. Vallance, "can you spare me half-an-hour to-morrow afternoon at the Park? I have a little matter of business to discuss with you."

"Yes," replied Elsie, brightly. "Try and come to Lady Helena's five o'clock tea. I am sure that we shall be delighted."

"I will come, but what I have to say is for your ears alone," was the grave reply.

Colin turned away. He knew that the rector's "business" referred to himself.

Mr. Vallance looked after them when they had exchanged good-evening with him and were walking down the hill.

"A handsome couple!" he murmured, "but I must know more of this artist. I must learn if Sir John knows anything of him, and how long this intimacy has been ripening into love. Can it be possible that Sir John overlooked this one item? No—no! And it would appear that Miss Sterne had been guilty of a little deceit. I can hardly believe it of her; but must credit what has passed before my own eyes! I will try and learn all to-morrow, and upon that must base my future conduct toward Miss Sterne. The charge I have undertaken is a serious one, and God help me to act uprightly."

CHAPTER XIII.

Lady Helena was both surprised and mortified that Miss Sterne should confess to having walked to the church with a comparative stranger, and return home in the gathering twilight.

after an absence of nearly three hours!

"It was ridiculous of Sir John to invest the slightest power in the hands of a mere child, to my prejudice!" she thought, "and when he returns home he will see the folly of it. I am unable to assert the authority which my seniority warrants in consequence, and must really consult with the rector."

It was one of the peculiar coincidences that occasionally happen, for the rector was at that very moment thinking of speaking to Lady Helena upon the same subject!

Mr. Ernscliffe coolly announced that he was obliged to remain at the Park until the next day, and after dinner spent a full hour in the library, alone, busy with pen, ink and paper.

"It is all stuff and nonsense," Lady Helena said, irritably. "Mr. Ernscliffe could easily have caught the train if he had desired to do so. It is extremely bad taste upon his part, but I know what these artists, poets and literary men are. They ignore all the set rules of society, and carry their abominable license labeled 'genius' everywhere with them, in defiance even of the common rules of propriety."

Though Elsie strongly resented this interference, she pretended not to hear a word of Lady Helena's complaint, but became absorbed apparently in a new novel from Muddie's.

When Mr. Ernscliffe's letters were written he reappeared in the drawing-room, and dangled about Miss Sterne in a way that Lady Helena considered disgusting. What there was to talk about in an underbone she was at a loss to conceive, unless a flirtation was being carried on under her very eyes! A flirtation between the daughter of Sir John Sterne and a man who was really little better than a stranger!

Her ladyship ran up to her private apartments, and opening an escritoire, hastily penned a letter to Lord George Somerton:

My Lord—I am sorely in need of your advice. I promised to send you news of Miss Sterne's latest developments, and regret to inform you that I cannot do so, but I have returned to London, but I shall be at Blairwood Park, and carrying on a shameful flirtation with its youthful mistress. I would not presume to pen these lines to you, but for your assurance that Miss Sterne is your promised wife, and will certainly one day become Lady Somerton. My position here is now a most untenable one, and I await your commands. Sincerely yours, HELENA GRAHAM.

She addressed this to Lord Somerton's town house, whither he had returned that day. She did so with a flush of pleasure, conscious that she was doing something for the annuity my lord had promised her upon his marriage with Miss Sterne.

Lady Helena, with all her middle-aged "gush" and outward simplicity, had a keen eye to the main chance. She knew that her business as chaperon was practically drawing to a close, and she had no liking for the position of a mere housekeeper.

She went downstairs, and sent the letter to the post by a special messenger, and it was a great relief, half-an-hour later, to hear that the rector was announced.

"What can bring him here at this hour?" she thought, with a little thrill of pleasure. "He has heard of Elsie's abominable conduct."

Mr. Vallance met her gravely. He had been unable to rest, after what he had seen in church. He felt that he was neglecting a serious duty by delaying until the next day.

He heard Elsie's voice and that of Mr. Ernscliffe in the west drawing-room, and he asked to see Lady Helena elsewhere.

At the moment of his arrival she was crossing the hall, and greeted him enthusiastically.

"I wish to speak with you alone, Lady Helena," he said. "I promised Miss Sterne that I would see her to-morrow, but upon consideration I think that it will be best to talk to you first."

She motioned to him to follow her into a room where they would not be disturbed, and when they were seated, he began without any further preamble.

"Who is this Mr. Ernscliffe, Lady Helena?"

"I have not the slightest idea, except that he claims to be an artist," replied her ladyship. "He is very handsome and disfigure in appearance, but I do not like him, Mr. Vallance. His manners are so unconventional. For all we know, he may be a mere adventurer."

"Mr. Colin Ernscliffe, the painter, is a member of the Royal Academy, and I should imagine that he is a gentleman," the rector said, thoughtfully. "I do not like to doubt any man without proof, but there are so many masquerading scoundrels with handsome exteriors that one has to be careful."

He left his seat and paced the floor. "I suppose that Miss Sterne met the artist in London some time since," he asked, presently.

"Good gracious no! She never saw him until one day last week," exclaimed Lady Helena. "He came here presenting that he had been sent by Sir John's wicked nephew, Noel Campbell, but Sir John refused to see him. Immediately after he knew that Sir John was safely out of the way he came again, and I believe that he intends to stay! He is flirting with Miss Elsie in an abominable manner."

"It is almost incredible," groaned the rector. "I would have staked my salvation upon Miss Sterne's honesty, and yet, what am I to think now? Lady Helena, do you know what they are to each other? Lovers? Yes, lovers! How blind you must have been—how willfully blind!"

Lady Helena affected to be shocked, and resolved to write another letter to Lord Somerton next morning.

"It is cruel that I should have to bear the blame of this," the whim, "when Sir John practically deprived me of all control in the household the very day he left. Oh, Mr. Vallance, what are we to do? I can assure you that Miss Sterne can be very willful if she pleases. I believe that it is an understood thing that she is to marry Lord Somerton, and yet she conducts herself in this disgraceful way. It is always the same with your innocent-looking beauties."

"Stop!" the rector said, sternly. "I will not hear one word against her. She shall tell her own story. As for Lord Somerton, he has paid me several unwelcome visits to the rectory, but I do not believe one word that he has told me. I do not like Lord Somerton."

"It will be a lengthy letter to my lord to-morrow," thought Lady Helena.

"I do not think that I shall speak to Miss Sterne until to-morrow afternoon, your ladyship, and in the meantime I beg of you to be upon the alert. I cannot say that I doubt Mr. Ernscliffe, and I have no right to question him. Whether I do or not depends upon the result of my conversation with Miss Sterne."

The rector went away a little later, and looked into the west drawing-room as he passed the door. He distinctly saw that Mr. Ernscliffe was holding one of Elsie's hands, and that she was looking up at him with a happy smile.

Neither knew that Mr. Vallance had been to the house, and Lady Helena did not see fit to mention the matter.

Personally, she did not feel at all gratified. The rector had not taken her into his confidence, and he had spoken of Lord Somerton in terms of disparagement. He had not even hinted that he required her presence when he spoke to Miss Sterne on the following day, and had expressed a certain amount of blind faith in Mr. Ernscliffe, a man whom her ladyship now cordially detested.

"The rector was Sir John's confidant," she told herself, "and I really believe that the baronet had a skeleton in his cupboard. I will find out what it was, and then we shall see who will dare to dictate to me! Lord Somerton shall find that I am of use to him—I will earn that annuity!" (To be continued.)

Loaf of Bread for 800,000,000 Marks

Berlin, Oct. 11 (Associated Press)—The people of Berlin awoke yesterday to find the dollar "at two billion marks" and last night went to bed with the knowledge that the mark fell to 6,500,000,000 in unofficial quotations with little hope that to-day will bring improvements.

"Prices were as wild as the market quotations and shoppers who had to have food and other necessary supplies rushed madly from market to market in an effort to get some. There was utter confusion in the price scales."

"Although dealers generally quote prices on larger articles in gold marks they vary greatly in their quotations and use such a sliding scale in converting the gold piece into paper that the public is frantic. From hour to hour yesterday the prices varied with rumors of the mark's further fall and housewives were dazed by the staggering sums asked for foodstuffs."

Railway rates increased 50 per cent yesterday and will again go up 50 per cent Saturday, which will not be an increase comparable to the decline of the paper mark in relation to the pound and the dollar.

Best of the cheapest quality was quoted yesterday morning at 150,000,000 marks for a pound of twelve ounces, but none was available. People, especially old persons, are wholly incapable of comprehending the size of the bills.

A twenty-four-ounce loaf of bread sold yesterday for 80,000,000 marks, but the price to-day will be 110,000,000. Butter was 500,000,000 marks yesterday for a twelve-ounce pound, but scarce. Potatoes brought 7,500,000 marks per pound and grapes 100,000,000 marks per pound.

Household Notes.

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

"Hair-Groom" Keeps Hair Combed—Well-Groomed

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair—Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly.

A few cents buys jar of "Hair-Groom" at any drugstore, which makes even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stay combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it.

Food Riots in Mannheim Cause Sixty-Eight Deaths.

Chaotic Conditions in Germany Reach a Crisis—Dominions may Co-operate in Naval Defence Scheme—London Doctors Decide to Strike.

READ IN MANNHEIM RIOTS.

MANNHEIM, Oct. 18. Sixty-eight persons are reported to have been killed and many wounded as a result of today's food riots in Mannheim, which frequent clashes between demonstrators and the police. The trouble was the result of the high prices charged for national economic structure, is making the Socialist party restive, in that it apparently no longer is able to cope with the clamor of the masses, whose cause is being espoused by the more militant of the Communists. This phase already is seriously reacting on the United Socialist Party's attitude, in which it is holding three cabinet posts.

DOCTORS TO STRIKE.

LONDON, Oct. 18. A strike of several hundred British physicians on January 1st was decided upon to-day. The strikers are members of the Doctor's Union which represents fifteen million men and women contributors to the National Health Funds. The decision to strike was taken as an act of refusal to accept the reduction in fees proposed by the Minister of Health.

PREMIERS DISCUSS NAVAL DEFENCE WITH ADMIRALTY.

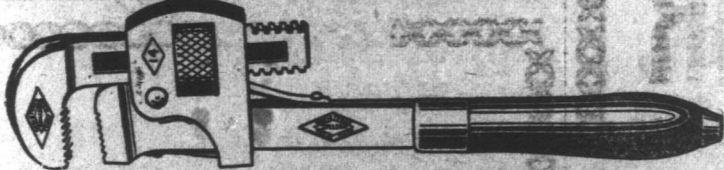

LONDON, Oct. 18. (Special Canadian-Press Cable by George Hamilton)—The members of the Imperial Conference met at the Admiralty this afternoon to discuss the problem of Empire defence. The primary concern in political circles, but without official confirmation, that the Admiralty has submitted or intends to submit a scheme of naval defence involving assistance of the Dominions and based on the principle

LOTD GEORGE TO VISIT LINCOLN'S TOMB.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. Former Premier Lloyd George and his party, after two days in Chicago, resumed their tour to-day. His train departed at 10 o'clock this morning for Springfield, Ill. There he will visit Lincoln's Tomb. His health has much improved and little signs of his cold remained.

38,000 SEEK EMPLOYMENT.

DUSSELDORF, Oct. 18. Thirty-eight thousand railroad men in the occupied area applied for positions under the Franco-Belgian regime yesterday, it was announced at the headquarters of the occupying forces here. Apparently they will be informed in a few days if accepted or not. It is understood that only native Rhinelanders will be taken on at first and that French and Belgians will retain all directive positions.

NO ATTEMPT TO SALVAGE ABERDEEN.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18. No attempt to salvage the Canadian Government steamer Aberdeen, which went ashore off the South Coast of Nova Scotia last week, is likely to be made by the Department of Marine and Fisheries. Advice was received to-day by the Department that she was practically a total loss and salvage operations would be more costly than the value of the boat. The Aberdeen has been in the Government's lighthouse service over twenty-nine years.

MR. ALLISON'S NEW PRESIDENT.

SACKVILLE, N.S., Oct. 18. George Johnson Trueman was this afternoon amid an impressive scene, and in the presence of an audience that taxed the capacity of Fawcett Memorial Hall, inaugurated as fifth President of Mount Allison University.

IN MEMORY OF LORD NORTHCLIFFE.

LONDON, Oct. 8. Sir Leicester Harmsworth, in memory of his brother, Lord Northcliffe, has presented the Canadian Government with a collection of letters, diaries and manuscripts, including the famous Monckton papers with Wolfe's original letters and orders.

SPEDDY PAPYRUS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. Papyrus, the English Derby winner, started the rail birds at Belmont Park early this morning in a dazzling speed trial, the final long workout for the international race with Zev on Saturday. With Donoghue up she went a mile and a furlong in 1:51 2-5, doing the mile in 1:38 3-5.

Re Pensions

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir—I would thank you very much for permission to use your columns in order to register an emphatic protest against the growing tendency of pensioning stalwart Government officials who, the moment they feel satisfied that the public chest of Newfoundland is there to draw on indefinitely, fold up their tents like the Arabs and silently glide away to more sunny and genial climates. If government officials become too tired to earn their easy money in soft and secured jobs in Newfoundland and then exercise sufficient pull to get snug yearly pensions extracted from our suffering taxpayers, then the least those pensioners might do would be to spend amongst the people who pay that money to them instead of hiking off to foreign countries and blowing in our dollars to the advantage of those foreigners with whom they desire to throw in their lot in future. We have had several instances from time to time in other years of officials being so pensioned and then going abroad to spend the remainder of their years whilst our public treasury, without a protest, forwarded every month to them, substantial cheques to blow in amongst the delusions of other lands. Of late the practice seems to be revived with a greater intensity than ever. It is no wonder that many people are complaining that it is high time to end this rotten state of things, and that if it is necessary to pension a public or civic official, hat pension should be paid him only conditional upon his residing amongst the taxpayers who are called upon to so provide for him. Thousands of dollars will henceforth be extracted from the sufferin' fishermen, the ill-paid working classes generally, and the tortured, highly taxed business people to be sent abroad to these sunshine revellers who will not have a care to worry them. Even now other public officials are planning these sunshine cruises, I am told, on the strength of being shortly pensioned, whilst the majority of the taxpayers who will be bled to provide this pension fund can scarcely eke out a living for their families in our own poor distressed country. It is time then to put a stop to this pernicious practice, and I am glad to hear that some legislation is planned for next session, whereby pensioners may go and live abroad if they wish, but their pay must stop here to be put back again into the pockets of the Newfoundland taxpayers. Let us hope this news is true; if so our members may rely upon it, that public opinion will strongly favor such action.

Yours truly,
INDIGNANT TAXPAYER.

THE SICK GOLFER.

I shuddered when I heard him say:
"I am not feeling well to-day."
I hoped he'd not propose a bet.
I've never licked a sick man yet!

And as we stood upon the tee
A sense of fear came over me—
I heard him talk of aspirin,
And knew I had no chance to win.

I've tackled men with fevers high,
And golfers just about to die,
Neuritis patients, men with boils,
And never taken home the spoils.

I've played them when they couldn't see,
Sat down and moaned at every tee,
Sobbed dolefully their list of ills,
And stopped the game to swallow pills.

I've tackled men with swollen knees
And men with every disease,
Men who could hardly use their legs,
And never taken home the eggs.

I've played with men whose backs were lame,
Men who'd come out to play the game
Against the doctor's stern command,
So weak they said, they couldn't stand.

I've played them after nights of woe
When indigestion laid them low—
And when much younger, and less wise,
With golfers ill I'd sympathize.

So sorry for their plight I felt,
I could not give the ball a belt—
And then waked up too late to see
Those poor sick men outdriving me.

And so I sighed to hear him say:
"I am not feeling well to-day!"
Though countless invalids I've met,
I've never licked a sick man yet!

Fashions and Fads.

A bandana of cloth of gold is trimmed with a flower motif outlined in pearls.

A graceful veil of brown Chantilly lace is draped over a turban of black satin.

Bands of nutria fur are used on the circular side panel of a beige satin dress.

Black silk braided edged with white broadcloth trims a frock of cocoa-colored poplin.

Black astrakhan makes the collar and cuffs of the jacket of a red worsted suit.

It is rarer refreshing to see the new slipper, which is both strapless and buckless.

The fashionable green of the summer has become a little more yellow for winter.

Openwork embroidery of crepe is used on a straight dress of brown duvetyl.

Red silk poppies and green leaves are sewed to a net foundation for a striking bandeau.

A sports frock of plaid wool has large buttons running from the high collar to the hem.

Embroidery of blue, green and gold is used on an evening frock of black crepe satin.

A small white ostrich pompon is used at the side of a tunic of finely smooth peony skin.

Some of the sleeves are finished at the wrist with a band of embroidery, from which falls a fringe.

A demurely ruffled French over-blower has the neck quite high in front and daintily low in the back.

Taupe colored crepe de chine embroidered in black makes the blouse of a frock of black matelasse. A great many buttons and bands of nutria fur trim a street dress of cocoa-colored woolen material. A panel of cinnamon-colored crepe de chine embroidered in steel is used on a frock of black duvetyl. A tunic of white kasha cloth elaborately embroidered in silver and black is used on a black satin frock. Purple and orange flowers outgirded with tan and black are embroidered on a frock of rose crepe de chine. The soft silk frock, skirt and jacket make an ideal three-piece costume for travelling or a week-end visit. A huge buckle of antique silver is the only trimming required for a girlish frock of silver gray flat crepe. A cap of silver cloth is covered with Chinese embroidery in maroon and antique gold, and lined with blue chiffon.

Paying Our Debts.

The general prosperity which was in evidence in every country previous to the war is to-day for the most part conspicuous by its absence.

Trade is stagnant, manufacturers are in many cases at a standstill, or are carried on with a considerably reduced output, and unemployment is general.

At the root of the whole trouble is indebtedness. Every country involved in the war strained its resources to the utmost, and in consequence the recovery is slow and protracted.

Whether or not the example set by the countries in piling up great debts has had a bad influence on private individuals, or whether the practice of running up bills has resulted from strained circumstances it is difficult to say.

Undoubtedly there is much to be said for the system, but in times of stress such as we are passing through, it is well to stop and consider if we are serving our own purposes best, if we are helping to reestablish our business concerns on a firm footing, and if it is in the general interest of the community to live in this way.

The Installation Ceremony

HON. TASKER COOK IS RAISED TO THE OFFICE OF DISTRICT GRAND MASTER OF NEWFOUNDLAND S.C.

One of the largest Masonic assemblies that have ever met in the Island came together in the Temple last night to witness the impressive ceremony of installing R.W. Bro. Hon. Tasker Cook as District Grand Master of Scottish Freemasonry in Newfoundland.

The installing Master was W. Bro. Henry E. Cowan, District Grand Secretary, who when the Commission issued the Grand Lodge of Scotland had been read, addressed the D.G. Master designate, and raised him to his high and important office with all due observance of the ancient rites and ceremonies.

The following were then invested by the District Grand Master:—W. Bro. Henry E. Cowan as District Grand Master Deputy; W. Bro. Robert Duff as Substitute District Grand Master; W. Bro. David M. Baird as District Grand Secretary, and Bro. (Rev.) Ernest C. Harp as District Grand Chaplain.

The installation of R. Wor. Bro. Tasker Cook was the occasion of many expressions of the high regard in which the late D.G.M. R. Wor. Bro. C. H. Duder had been held, and of the loss that had been so severely felt in Masonic circles and in the community by his untimely passing.

The toast list was as follows:—"The King and the Craft." "God Save the King." "The Queen, the Duke of Rothesay and Members of the Royal Family." "God Bless the Prince of Wales."

DR. W. T. SCULLY PASSES SUDDENLY TO THE GREAT BEYOND.

A shock passed through the city this morning as the news of the sudden demise of Dr. Scully quickly travelled from one to another. His was a figure so well known to all and possessed of such virile energy and vigour, his was a personality which made him so welcome in every household, that the news at first seemed incredible, and when at last it was fully realized that it was, but too true, each and all felt that they had sustained a personal loss.

DREADFUL CONDITIONS IN TENEMENTS IN NEW YORK

Stories of whole families suffering from malnutrition because they could not pay the rent and buy food, also of mothers starving that their babies might eat, of tenement districts where average infant was six pounds underweight, of "safely" lit fire escapes and gauding landlords all because of the shortage of homes and exorbitant rents, were related before the housing commission yesterday.

Especially Boots and Shoes, Are Dear at Any Price.

A WHOLE LOT of people appear to be puzzled by the use of the term DUMPING, which is a practice against which the Shoe and Leather Manufacturers of Newfoundland are protesting.

Applied to the Boot and Shoe Trade, the word Dumping covers the importation of goods that have become damaged in manufacturing, that are out of style, that are culls discarded by large jobbing houses, that are culls from large retail houses, that are especially made from factory cleanings or waste.

In the fish trade such products would be termed "Cullage." Lumbermen would refer to it as "chips."

But the practice of Dumping doesn't merely concern goods of faulty manufacture or goods that have become back numbers as far as style is concerned.

Some manufacturers make a practice of putting up trashy stuff that the home market absolutely refuses to touch, quote it at ridiculously small prices and have it dumped into other markets where the purchasers are supposed to be content to buy and to wear any old thing handed to them over the counters.

"IN ADDITION to our regular products," says this circular "which we make and sell to the wholesale trade on regular terms, less regular trade discount, we stock each month several lots of so-called FACTORY FILLERS. THESE FACTORY FILLERS are made to level and keep up even production in our factory.

"These FACTORY FILLERS we keep separate and apart from our regular product. These are figured different from our regular product, with less overhead figured into the cost, and in this way figured and listed so that we move these lots quickly."

The significance of the practice described in the quoted circular is obvious. Cheap goods are produced to sell cheaply and frequently because they won't last long. They are manufactured to fill in the spare time of foreign workmen and to keep foreign machinery running all the time. They are turned out to utilize waste material, which is discarded as utterly unfit for use in good, dependable, first class boots and shoes.

Do Newfoundlanders want this "Cullage"?

Are Newfoundlanders prepared to buy and wear these "Refuse" Boots and Shoes to oblige foreign manufacturers and workmen and to make it easy for short-sighted local retailers to make quick turnovers and big and rapid profits?

Are Newfoundlanders content to discriminate against first-class and dependable local products; against local workmen and against local manufacturers and in favor of cuts foreign manufacturers and their employees just to oblige folk who have no stake in the country and others who do operate locally but who play the foreigners' game to suit their own pockets?

Remember DUMPED GOODS are dear at any price. Purchase of these goods means purchase of articles that will not give value in use, no matter how small the price paid for them.

Purchase of DUMPED GOODS of the sort described tends to kill local manufacturers.

Purchase of such goods tends to put local workmen out of employment.

That is too big a price to pay for such trashy stuff.

Behind the Times

The first of the following items of news is taken from a recent despatch, the other from an English paper dated Sept. 30:

LOSS OF CRAFTSMEN
WORRYING BRITAIN.
 London, Oct. 16.—The loss of many of the best craftsmen of Great Britain who are seeking employment abroad particularly in the United States is said to be causing the trades unions and employers of the United Kingdom considerable concern. In the past four months more than forty thousand emigrants left Scotland for the West, twenty-one thousand going to Canada and over nineteen thousand to the United States. In August eight thousand left Scotland for Canada. A large number of these went to engage in harvest work and the great majority are remaining in the Dominion.

LOSS OF SKILLED MEN—SHORTAGE OF MASONS FOR BUILDING—EMIGRANTS WHO CANNOT BE SPARED.

As the volume of emigration grows it is of increasing importance that some effort should be made to keep skilled men in the country. A large number of emigrants are highly skilled artisans whose departure is a serious loss to the country. Referring to the matter in his presidential address to the conference of the National Committee of the Amalgamated Engineering Union at Southampton, Mr. J. T. Brownlie computed that the capitalised value of a skilled engineer of 23 was in the region of £10,000, and they made a present of that value to another country when he went abroad. Amongst the Scottish emigrants men who have mastered a craft predominate, the majority being drawn from the engineering and building trades. The exodus of masons is actually impeding the erection of houses. In Edinburgh the shortage is particularly marked. The northern capital has on hand at the present moment schemes for the erection of 1,774 houses. To carry on with this work within a reasonable period a staff of 250 bricklayers, or masons and bricklayers combined, is required. Apart from the Corporation schemes, there are housing contracts proceeding in Edinburgh (including the erection of fully 200 houses of the villa class), requiring approximately 600 masons and bricklayers. The total number of stone masons in the city is 640. Of this number only 25 men are engaged in the work of house-building for the Corporation. It is apparent, the Director of Housing observes, how deficient is the skilled man-power available for the city's housing needs. A ten-fold increase is required. In previous times there were in the city 800 masons and bricklayers, so that the present figure shows a reduction of 280. During recent months 82 Edinburgh masons have left the city for America, where the wages offered by public advertisement represent £18 per week for a bricklayer. The first result of this insufficiency is the practice of excess payments above the standard rates of wages to the men employed by certain of the employers in order to retain the men they have, and, if possible, to induce further men into their service from other works and employers. Among suggestions put forward as possible remedies for the situation are:—

Representation to the Trades Unions to find men for the Housing Work; and to increase the number of apprentices and trainees.

Representation to the master builders not to offer inducements above the standard rate of pay.

Some possible restriction against the erection of buildings which could stand postponed.

Side by side with this great shortage of skilled artisans is the fact that there are to-day in the city of Edinburgh about 12,500 men registered as unemployed, the cumulative cost of which to the citizens of Edinburgh is about £500,000 per annum, producing no economic return to the citizens.

Baldwin and Poincare

The Times: We cannot endorse for a moment the singular suggestion that this Paris meeting will stand out in history as having the importance of King Edward's famous visit in 1902, which literally changed hostility into friendship and laid the foundation-stone of the Entente Cordiale. But it will at least do something to ease the deadlock which at present renders hopeless the task of restoring Europe. The visit of Mr. Baldwin to Paris has recalled our friendship to the minds of our nearest neighbors. It was always in existence, and it will always continue so long as France prizes as much as Britain those principles which make for international peace and collaboration. But any policy that seems unnecessarily calculated to cause of to perpetuate ill-feeling—even towards a former common enemy, is one for which no Prime Minister would gain, or attempt to gain, the support of this country.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

WHAT THE DEAF ENDURE.

Which would you rather be, deaf or blind? Don't say—"A little of neither, if you please, and am much obliged." I know that already. But if you had to choose!

I suppose ninety-nine out of a hundred are saying that they would rather be deaf.

It certainly would, myself. But there is one thing about deafness that makes it harder to bear—

The deaf person does not get one of the sympathy and forbearance that understanding that the blind man does.

In fact, the deaf person has often to find impatience and "fidgets" on top of his deafness.

If you tried hard enough.

Then anyone says he can't see, no one doubts him.

But if you say you can't hear, people seem to think you are just being careless or inattentive and that if you tried hard enough you could hear.

I have a friend who has recently become quite deaf. Her mother-in-law lives in the home with her. When the phone rings and my friend is up, she does not hear it. It will ring and ring and finally her mother-in-law, who is a very disagreeable old lady, will answer it or will call her attention to it. And she always says: "You can't mean to say, really, that you don't hear that. It's making a frightful noise for five minutes."

As if it weren't bad enough to have all the inconvenience and deprivation of being deaf, without being rebuked for it on top of that!

We have learned now that the apparently inattentive child in school may be near-sighted or deaf, and we look out for such things. But we still treat the grown-up who has committed the sin of deafness to a certain amount of impatience and irritability.

I don't mean that we intend to. Or that we always realize when we are doing it.

It Does Creep In.

But the exasperation, the "you could hear if you tried to" tone, will creep into your voice in spite of us and unbeknownst to us.

And there are many people who would be horrified at the idea of laughing when a blind man stumbles over his obstacles and makes some ridiculous mistake.

And don't believe the deaf man doesn't mind just because he doesn't show it. The pluckiest deaf man I know (and it takes some pluck not to let oneself be changed and soured by deafness) says: "It used to make me feel as if I wanted to sink through the floor if people laughed, but now I try to laugh when I see I've made some fool blunder and that takes some of the embarrassment out. But you can bet I don't like being laughed at, even at that."

A Reason But Not An Excuse.

I suppose there are two reasons why we are less kind to the deaf than to the blind. One is because the blindness seems the greater tragedy to us. The other is that the deaf man's disability makes more demand upon his friends. We don't have to try and make an effort to make the deaf man hear. And we unconsciously resent that effort.

But if we drag our resentment out into the light, surely, we shall overcome it and show our own gratitude for sound eyes and ears by doing all we can to make our deaf friend forget his luck.

The Season's Greatest Attraction

THE NICKEL SCORES WITH "RICH MEN'S WIVES."

A story rich in human appeal, settings rich and in good taste, a cast rich in talent and feminine beauty are the outstanding characteristics of "Rich Men's Wives," a Preferred Picture, which opened yesterday at the Nickel theatre.

In many ways this is one of the most unusual screen dramas that has been seen here in many a day and Gansler, the producer who attained such artistic heights in making "Kismet," is to be commended for giving to picture lovers what may, in all legitimacy, be termed an exceptional entertainment.

A cast of extraordinary quality has been selected for the interpretation of the story, and therein the creators of the picture display their wisdom, for the roles are so trying they could easily have been ruined by inferior acting. House Peters, who seems to be always in demand by producers seeking the "he-man" type of artist, has the leading masculine role, and Claire Windsor, one of the best actresses and most beautiful women on the screen, plays opposite him.

Then there is Baby Richard Headrick, the screen's most wonderful child; Gaston Glass, the unforgettable hero of "Timoroseque."

It would be unfair to readers and the picture to divulge the plot of the play, but suffice to say that the authors and the director have transplanted to the screen a cross section from life, done in vivid colors and virile lines.

Selling Stock Within the Law

At a recent gathering of mining brokers the statement made that a "blue sky" law was unnecessary and that the brokers themselves can check suspicious offerings. Can they? And if they can why do they sit around and see the public skinned? Here is a case in point: A foreign mine manipulator enters the Canadian field, having acquired either by option or by outright payment the major portion of the capital stock of a Northern gold prospect, a raw property by the way, upon which little work has been done, and upon which, if it ever develops into a mine, will require an expenditure of anywhere from a half million to a million dollars. Having acquired this stock for a few cents per share, he proceeds to make a market for it. This is done in various ways, by offering stock sellers a huge commission on their sales; by washing sales backward and forward thus establishing some semblance of a real demand, and lastly by advertising it. According to the advertisements the price is always going up, irrespective of the fact that the hole in the ground does not go down with any degree of alacrity.

All this means that little real money will ever reach the treasury for development purposes. The "boobs" who buy will be simply paying a handsome profit to the promoter, who will pocket the difference between the few cents that he originally paid for the stock and the many cents he is now selling it for, and the prospect, if it is really worth developing, will starve to death for lack of funds. Such is the way of the schooled promoter with his wild cats and tom cats, and who, incidentally, hemispheres a decent business in his attempt to make a dishonest living. But, of course, he is within the law.

Well Balanced Programme at the Crescent

Biggest Amateur Contest Will be Held To-night.

A splendid programme of music, song and pictures was delivered at the Crescent Theatre last night. The singers, Messrs. Harrington and Shields, were in particularly good form and were heard to excellent advantage in their various solo numbers. Mr. Shield's selections were "Shipmates O' Mine" and "It's Raining," and by request he and Mr. Harrington again rendered that popular duet "Nobody Lied," which was received with the same enthusiastic reception that it got when previously rendered. "The Sea Flood" was the feature attraction at this theatre last night, and one of the most remarkable expressions made by the photography is that here before our eyes, a group of people have thrown off the mask of every-day activities and shown us the working of their thoughts. How this is done is seen by witnessing the picture and to see it is to enjoy it.

To-night another big Amateur Contest is being staged and judging from the list of contestants to hand, a most interesting and entertaining night is in store for all. Come early and secure your seat.

Rev. Dr. Mullock on the Resources of Nfld.

great public benefit, they could not see where the funds were to come from, as the revenue at that time was indeed very limited. The steamer was passing Bell Island at the time, and the great prelate, pointing to the Iron Isle, exclaimed: "Do you gentlemen see that little island there? Well, there is enough wealth hidden there to pay off the national debt of England."

I have never been able to ascertain upon what grounds the bishop based his remarks, especially as for many years subsequently I have seen the boats from Bell Island ballasted with the ore which is to-day such a source of employment and wealth to our country. It was in 1858 that the great prelate published his historic letter in the St. John's newspaper (the Courier) advocating the laying of the Atlantic Telegraph Cable, connected the old world with the new. That historic letter was dated November 8th, 1858, and wound up with the words: "I hope the day is not far distant when St. John's will be the first link in the electric chain which will unite the Old World and the New."

"Patriotism was a passion with Dr. Mullock. The day has gone by when the outrageous expression, 'Anything will do for the Colonies,' shall be permitted to be uttered and acted upon, or find a slavish echo in the spirit of a young but vigorous civilization." This was always the idea of the Bishop frequently and most emphatically expressed. He loved the country and he came to cast his lot among our people and was ever proud of it. "It is a great and noble country," he wrote, of untold wealth, of wonderful and unknown resources. The people, sprung from the most energetic nations of modern times, English, Irish and Scotch are destined to be the founders of a race which, I believe, will fill an important place hereafter. Among the hundreds of millions who will inhabit the Western Hemisphere, if his deeds had not spoken even more eloquently, such words, repeated as they were at every opportunity, would tell what the man was, and what the colony expected and did receive from him. What he saw and proposed for the good of the country, though often beyond common ken, and apparently credited to an improbable future—has already, in great part, come true. No one ever will be able to efface his mark from the features and institutions of Newfoundland.

It is not my intention to write about Dr. Mullock as a Churchman—that has already been done by able pens than mine, notably the late Archbishop and the Rev. Dr. Richard Howley. I wish to bring under the notice of the readers of the Telegram the great interest he always manifested in the temporal interest of the people of Newfoundland, and how versed he was in the public affairs of our country. I cannot help thinking that every great movement in the march of science and civilization in this country, was conceived in and emanated from the great mind of the illustrious prelate. He travelled over the country in all directions, and being observant and interested he, with voice and pen, advocated improvements and enterprises that were not thought of by the politicians, public men and writers of his day. In a lecture delivered in St. Bonaventure's College, on February 1st, 1890, he eloquently described the great resources of our country. The fisheries—agriculture, minerals, etc., were all reviewed by him, as I glance over his remarks, I am struck with wonder of the thorough knowledge possessed by him of the hidden resources, and with the faith he had in these resources being developed at a future date. In fact, with all due respect to our politicians of the past, and we had men of profound learning and great eloquence and patriotism amongst us, every improvement that was made for the benefit of our country and our people, originated in the great mind of Dr. Mullock. I need but his remarks to prove the truth of this statement.

In speaking of our chief industry—the codfishery—he said, sixty-three years ago, that in the Lofoden Islands in Norway under the Arctic Circle, a great codfishery is carried on, but as far as he could learn, the catch was under 100,000 quintals. The fishery there has great attention to the curing, the fish is neatly packed in boxes, the fins trimmed off, and though in reality not as good fish as that of Newfoundland, brings higher prices, as a fancy fish, among the Spaniards and Cubans.

The medicinal qualities of the fresh liver oil have been fully proved, and the manufacture of that article has brought a great source of wealth to the country. Like all good things, however, it is easily imitated; the common cod oil, made by the purifying process, has been refined at home by animal charcoal, filtered so as to deprive it of all bad smell, being already deprived, by purification in its manufacture, of iodine, and all other medicinal qualities, and passed off by dishonest dealers as the genuine article. It would be well, therefore, for the credit of the article and the advantage of those who require it, if some particular seal or mark was fixed on bottles or vessels here, which would, in some sort, serve as a guarantee of its purity in Europe. I know not if Mr. W. A. Munn, the Cod Oil King, has ever perused Dr. Mullock's remarks; however, he has acted upon them, as he for many years has manufactured a very great extent a quality of cod oil that cannot be excelled, and takes a foremost place in the markets of the world.

There is another fish, however, the salmon, which requires strict legislative protection, as it comes to spawn in the river, and is therefore easily destroyed by the cupidity of man. It is the duty of the government, as the guardians of the public interest, to look to this, to appoint a committee to investigate the laws made for the preservation of salmon in Great Britain and Ireland, and to use the most stringent measures both here and in the Labrador, to prevent any wanton destruction of the fish, or any annoyance to it in the breeding season. We know that through ignorance or carelessness, this rich fish has been almost annihilated in some of the home rivers, and it costs a series of years and the strictest precautions to nurse up the remnant and re-establish the breed once more; for by the extraordinary law of nature, this fish always returns to the place where it was spawned, and if disturbed disappears forever.

There is another delicious fish, which is now only hunted for bait and manure, for the little cured is of no consequence, but which will hereafter become a great source of wealth—this is the caplin, or, as naturalists call it the Salmo arcticus. We see what a source of profit the sardines and anchovies are to the people of the Mediterranean. Now, I am quite sure, that if we had hands enough to cure this delicious fish, it would take rank with these delicacies, and, like

No Corns

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. Stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in clear liquid and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

At your druggist

the codfish, the supply of caplin is inexhaustible. I am quite sure that the habit of taking large quantities for manure from the spawning beaches has, in some cases, chased away the fish, but, being almost annihilated in fishes, that if impeded in the operation of spawning they generally seek other localities. Indeed, I never could believe that the use of this delicious fish for manure is legitimate. If they were merely packed and dried, a simple operation which could be performed by children, they would be worth at least a dollar a barrel, and a million barrels would find a market, if introduced into fish-eating countries, and not sensibly lessen the quantity, which every summer swarms in every bay and creek of the island and Labrador. I have no doubt but that hereafter they will be preserved in various ways and in extraordinary quantities. (How it is to be regretted that we have not our enterprising countryman, Capt. Richard Gosse of Vancouver, British Columbia to-day, as he would adopt some plan even as he does the millions of fish of salmon, small herring, etc., in his adopted home, and find a ready market for them in nearly all parts of the world. Perhaps Capt. Gosse will interest himself in our salmon, herring, caplin, etc.—when he will visit his native land next year.)

A Multitude of Women Recommend It

The strongest recommendation possible for any medicine to have is the sound testimony borne by the vast multitudes of women who have used it. It has been proved that 95 out of every 100 women once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair have been restored to the joys of health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This marvelous record shows its power over the ills of women, and the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper should induce every ailing woman to try it.

At the Casino

The Mac Edwards players were greeted with another good house last night, the fourth night of their engagement. The bill was "Two Daddies of Mine" and is a light comedy. It centres around two old men, one a retired doctor and the other a retired lawyer, and their ward, whom they are trying to marry—the doctor to his adopted son, Robert, and the lawyer to his guest, Madeline Stanford. The merit throughout is caused by these two old cripes trying to accomplish their object, and the situations as they develop, cause much fun. The leading part was taken by Mac Edwards who played the part of the joint ward; Mr. Smith acted as the retired lawyer and Mr. Murray as the retired doctor. Massey and Mr. Newcombe acted as the adopted son and the daughter respectively. Mr. Jack Corbin took the part of the "dark horse" who, at the crucial moment, stepped in and won the girl himself. Miss Fischer as the maid, and Miss Riggs as the colored servant, certainly played their parts very well indeed. The vaudeville between the acts was really good and the musical selections were of a high order. To-night and Saturday night, "What Every Girl Should Know."

All Excitement

ALL ROADS LEAD TO THE STAR MOVIE TO-NIGHT.

THE LEATHER PUSHERS Starring REGINALD DENNY

As will be seen from the ad on another page the second series or round seven of the exciting "Leather Pushers." This series is probably the most exciting and attractive of any series yet seen in this city, and to-night when the second series starts, patrons of the popular Star will find it more exciting than the previous ones.

As will also be seen from the ad, Fawcette and Tesori has for to-night another big singing and dancing duet and to those who have seen those two talented artists (Tesori and Fawcette) they are fully conversant with the class of entertainment they are giving their audience, as probably no two such talented artists have appeared before our footlight. We would advise all our readers to see the ad, which the Star Movie are presenting for Monday, as in it Fawcette will dance the dance she danced in the making of Theda Bara's Special Production.

A Plain Talk

Most of us are ambitious; indeed, ambition flourishes and grows naturally, like the wild flower. Efficiency is quite different. It requires thought, study, hard work, and experience for a person to become efficient. No amount of ambition alone can make us efficient. One of the great troubles with many young men is that they long to become leaders without using one-third of their real ability. Somehow, they do not appreciate the necessity of doing so. It does not matter how much ability they may have; if they do not use it they will never get beyond a small position and a minor success. More men fail to succeed for neg-

LOOK FOR THE RED BEAVER BORDER

1. GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is the only wall board made of virgin spruce fibre, through and through. The long, tough, unbroken new fibres of spruce give to Beaver Wall Board its greatest toughness and durability.
2. GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is a natural insulator. Due to the use of the long, virgin fibres of spruce, it is filled with millions of microscopic dead air pockets, one of the best non-conductors of heat and cold obtainable.
3. GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is of 26-layer construction. Another reason for its great durability. Twenty-six layers of virgin spruce fibre are pressed into one perfect panel, giving the maximum strength and resistance against warping and buckling.
4. GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is kiln dried and seasoned before leaving the factory.
5. GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is rendered practically impervious to moisture and climatic changes by our patented SEALITE process of sizing.
6. GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is especially calendered and primed to produce our art mat surface. This, plus the perfect sizing which makes priming unnecessary, gives unlimited decorative possibilities. Either side may be used.

Donald Crisp in "Bonnie Brier Bush"

FAMOUS SCOTCH STORY AT THE MAJESTIC.

Donald Crisp, a popular "old timer" appears in an excellent role in "The Bonnie Brier Bush" now at the Majestic Theatre.

Lachlan Campbell, a stern Puritanical deacon of the "kirk" at Drumtochty, Scotland, quarrels with his daughter Flora, when he learns that she is engaged in a love affair with Lord Malcolm Hay, son and heir of the Earl of Kinsplindie. The latter is anxious that his son wed Kate Carnegie, the most beautiful and wealthy girl of the village, despite the fact that Rev. John Carmichael, the minister, loves her in his quiet unobtrusive way.

But Lord Hay loves Flora and beside the bonnie brier bush, he makes her his wife by Scottish rite, with Posty, a letter carrier, as the only witness. The couple are surprised by Campbell who orders Hay to leave. Flora faints and Campbell carries her home. Hay and his father go to London and Flora hears that her sweetheart is to wed Kate. While she is writing a letter to him, her father surprises her and on learning the truth, he turns Flora from his door and she goes to London in search of Lord Hay.

Learning that he has gone to France, Flora obtains employment in a humble shop and becomes seriously ill. Lord Hay returns and begins a search for Flora. Dr. William MacClure has found and taken her to her father who is overjoyed at her return. The Earl urges his son to marry Kate, but she refuses him, openly declaring her love for Carmichael. The programme appeared to be one hundred per cent Scottish as Miss Gallivan sang "Old Edinburgh Town" and Annie Laurie. She rendered her solos in the same splendid style as on previous nights, and was heartily encored.

Senef Returns From Labrador

S.S. Senef, Capt. Barbour, arrived from Northern Labrador via Conception Bay ports at 5.30 p.m. yesterday. Capt. Barbour reports a very stormy season on Labrador, easterly winds and fog prevailed whilst ice and bergs were numerous and caused considerable damage to fishing gear. All the fishermen except some stationers have left the coast and these will be coming south by the S. S. Meggie. The Senef brought a full load of fish, and the following passengers:—Mrs. S. Barbour, Basil Outerbridge, A. Jenkins, M. Rossler, Dr. Alfred Johnson, Capt. D. M. Thomson and J. G. Snow.

Papyrus Had a Splendid Work-Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(United Press.)—Papyrus, the English champion 2-year-old, brought to the United States to race Harry F. Sinclair's Zev, for the international championship, to-day covered a mile and an eighth in 1:45 4-5. The Derby winner ran with his stablemate, Bar Gold, in which was declared to be a remarkable work-out. Sinclair and Sam Hildreth, who witnessed the performance, expressed surprise. Giving Bar Gold a lead of more than a sixteenth of a mile on the Belmont Park track, Papyrus started from a standing position and picked up his stablemate before a half mile had been covered. The fractional time of the course run by Papyrus was: :13; :25; :36 2-5; :49 2-5; 1:14 2-5; 1:36 3-5; 1:59 4-5 and 1:54 4-5.

Wrapped bread, which escapes handling and exposure to germs, is now sold by 42 of the largest bakeries in Lancashire.

Vehicles using the roads of England during one day recently were counted by an army of 8,000 men stationed at 4,000 points.

A Matter of Tastes

PARTNERS IN THE GAME OF MATRIMONY MUST BE PREPARED TO MAKE CONCESSIONS.

Fate, Providence, or Cupid—it really doesn't matter who or what is responsible—has so willed it that a man and a maid love each other. So far, so good.

In due course they embark on the sea of matrimony, and then, well almost anything may happen. There are reefs, rocks, and dangers, known and unknown. Their craft may founder, or—if that catastrophe is avoided—there may be discord on board.

One source of discord is that suggested by "love me, love my dog." Only for "dog" there must be inserted a score of other things—friends, hobbies, games, food, and much else.

Yet is there anyone who would contend, seriously, that because a man and a maid happen to love each other, each must therefore love what the other loves?

It is asking too much. The demand is unreasonable. But it is made and so it is that the discord starts.

She loves dancing; he doesn't. He loves football; she wouldn't walk a yard to see the Cup Final. She has girl friends whom she adores; and he doesn't care for them. He has a man pal of whom he thinks worlds; she doesn't see anything in him at all.

Then, she is passionately fond of music; he only knows the National Anthem because people stand up when it is played. He is a gardening enthusiast; she carves nothing for digging and delving.

And she loves her mother—quite well and proper too! But—well, he doesn't!

Don't Demand the Impossible. The list could be extended, but the moral remains the same. It is this—that it spoils, and may possibly wreck all hopes of happiness if either party in a marriage demands that the other should love what he or she loves.

Marriage has been called a "glorious adventure." Adventures must—rat, last, and always, be co-operated. And to obtain co-operation there must be whole-hearted give and take, and an adjustment of likes and dislikes. Neither men nor women change their natures because they marry. They take into married life their old likes, dislikes, prejudices, and so forth. So in place of the demand that each must promptly love "what the other loves, and be uninterested in what the other doesn't care for, there should be the realization that mutual concessions can and must be made.

She, for instance, should try to begin to like gardening, and he should sample dancing. It is more than possible that her lack of interest in gardening is a result of lack of knowledge. He, also, may know nothing of dancing.

Mutual interests can soon be established if each is frank enough to admit that, behind a like or dislike, there is, in many cases, at least, nothing but a habit, an inherited prejudice, or lack of experience.

Revise the habit, shed the prejudice, acquire the experience, and the way will be cleared for that which makes for concord—mutual interests, mutual likes, mutual dislikes. When these are attained, love is established more firmly than before.

Duke and Duchess of York

HAD A VERY NARROW ESCAPE.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Duke and Duchess of York narrowly escaped serious injury at noon today while journeying to the City Guild Hall to attend the ceremony of the presentation of the freedom of the city to Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and Premier Mackenzie King of Canada and Stanley Bruce of Australia.

A brown dray dashed around a corner while the Duke's car was passing through the suburb of Fulham and collided with the machine. The glass panel on the side on which the Duke was sitting was shattered and fragments of glass flew in all directions. Neither the Duke nor the Duchess was injured.

Full coat sleeves of velvet are gathered at both arm hole and cuff.

Aspirin Hastens Death

Woman Takes Excessive Quantity to Stop Head Pains.

Aspirin tablets taken in excessive quantities were stated at an inquest at Portsmouth to have been the principal cause of the death of Flora Violet Foster, 45, of Westfield-road, Eastley. "She had a tooth drawn," stated Mrs. Foster's daughter-in-law, "and her gums bled all the following day. She had pains in the head and took a packet of aspirin tablets in two days."—Dr. David McAstie explained that Mrs. Foster had fatty degeneration of the heart, and that her death was accelerated by hemorrhage after excessive use of aspirin. "She would not have died," he added, "had she not taken so much aspirin."—A verdict of "Death from Misadventure" was returned.

THE SHOE MEN

Brook that is worn after 6 Lattice bands of red leather are used on slippers of beige suede. Fur-trimmed blouses of metal brocade are quite gorgeous affairs. The apron tunic and bustle bow are features of the evening mode. Crocodile hide and snakekin are used for imported walking pumps.

Here's a Triumvirate of Champions from Bud Fisher, the world's best known Cartoonist on whose famous "Mutt and Jeff" pictures the sun never sets; Jack Dempsey, a long king of the Heavyweights, and Ring Lardner, who takes regular falls out of the English language. It is seldom that such a trio of stars is assembled. The occasion that drew them together was Dempsey's last chapter in his training course for the Firpo match. Fisher and Lardner, anxious to know just how Jack looked and felt as he made ready to enter a 24-foot ring with the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," journeyed to Sulphur Springs, near Saratoga, N.Y., and saw for themselves. It was not long before that Fisher made Dempsey a present of a wild-cat, a worthy gift to a champion. Ring made personal visits to the training quarters of both fighters and telegraphed daily stories, in his inimitable style, of what he saw to hundreds of papers throughout the country.

Municipal Council.

WEEKLY MEETING.
The weekly meeting of the Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Martin, Ryan and Dowden were present.
After the minutes of previous meetings were read and confirmed, the following matters received attention:
Tenders were received from the St. John's Light & Power Company, Bowring Brothers, Ltd., and the St. John's Electrical Repair Store, for the wiring of the new Sanitary Stables, Hayward Avenue. The tender of the St. John's Light and Power Company was accepted.

Communications were read from J. D. Halfyard, Hayward Avenue; and Charles Dutoit, Quidi Vidi Road, the former asking that the fountain be moved to a more suitable location, and the latter stating he was subjected to considerable annoyance from the rock crusher, which is situated near his dwelling. Both matters were referred to the City Engineer.

The St. John's Directory Company informed the Council they were compiling a new directory for the city of St. John's, that all the preliminary arrangements had been made, and the enumerators were now at work. They asked the privilege of using the Council's maps and plans, and also any data in connection therewith. The application met with the approval of the Council, who will be only too pleased to give any information required.

Mr. Jonas Barter, Mundy Pond Road, called attention to the advisability of having poles on sidewalk near St. Clare's Home, removed, as they are very dangerous to pedestrians using this thoroughfare. The matter was left in the hands of the City Engineer, who will interview the New Brunswick Railway with a view to removal of same.

Mr. J. Rowe wrote to the head of the Marine Police, Puller Street, inquiring as to the removal of the old permits issued to the following:—Harwood Printing Company, to their Adrian Building, Water St.

C. J. O'Keefe, to build extension, Hamilton Street.

W. Clouston submitted plans of proposed concrete structure at rear of building, Water Street. Same were referred to the City Engineer, who is to obtain full particulars and if satisfied may issue permit.

The Scarlet Fever Outbreak.
The Medical Officer of Health reported 25 new cases of Scarlet Fever during the past week. With regard to this outbreak, he submitted the following:—

"During the past year the city has been passing through an extensive and widespread epidemic of this disease. Until the summer of 1922 we had been practically free from Scarlet Fever for several years. The disease had for some time been quite prevalent in many parts of the United States and Canada, and when the infection was in some way introduced here during that summer it found plenty of susceptible material to work on, as there were large numbers of children who had not had the disease. From October 1st, 1922, up to the present date there have been 532 reported cases of Scarlet Fever in the city. The disease has, generally speaking, been of a very mild type, though exceptional cases have been quite severe. There have been eight fatal cases, the mortality rate being 1 1/2 per cent. The true mortality rate of the whole outbreak has, however, been much lower than this as there have undoubtedly been a large number of mild un-reported cases, none of which have been fatal. The disease has prevailed pretty uniformly in all parts of the city, and the cases have not been traceable to any common source of infection."

"The continued prevalence of the disease and the great difficulty in stamping it out are undoubtedly due to the fact that many very mild cases occur which are unrecognized or unreported. This is no doubt partly due to ignorance of the real nature of the illness, but there must also be many cases of deliberate concealment, the parents taking the risk of doing without medical treatment for the sake of avoiding the inconvenience of quarantines. These cases, however, mild as they are, are highly infectious in the earlier stages, and the absence of all precautions leads to the conveyance of the disease to others, in neglecting to obtain medical treatment, parents are incurring a very grave responsibility, as even the mildest cases of Scarlet Fever, if not properly treated, may develop complications, such as Bright's Disease, deafness, etc., which may have a fatal result or may prove a life-long handicap to the child."

The Sanitary Supervisor requisitioned for the usual supply of hay and oats, for which tenders will be called in due course.

The City Engineer reported the following roads are undergoing repairs: Prescott Street, Quidi Vidi and Allendale Roads, George Street, New Gower Street, Bogan Street and Queen's Road. In connection with the Sewerage Dept., that 250 feet of 12 inch earthenware pipe had been laid for the Belvedere storm sewer, and 600 feet excavated to grade; also that the Waldegrave Street sewer has been completed.

Estimate of cost of placing concrete sidewalks on the North side of Duckworth Street and curbs, gutters and other improvements in the vicinity of King's Beach, in order to make the surroundings in keeping with the War Memorial which is soon to be erected there, was submitted, and was ordered to stand over for consideration by the full Board.

Statements of revenue and expenditure to September 30th, last were tabled.

Reports of the Sanitary Supervisor, Plumbing Inspector, etc., were submitted and discussed.

Many other routine matters were disposed of; accounts for week ordered paid. The meeting then adjourned.

Reparation Figures

The Reparations Commission have issued a set of revised figures as of June 30, showing Germany to be credited with reparation payments totalling $213,870,000 gold marks, of which 1,900,000,000 were in cash, 3,370,000,000 in merchandise, and the remainder in shipping, cables and credits for the Saare Valley Mines and ceded territory.

Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium advanced Germany 352,000,000 gold marks under the Spa agreement to improve food conditions in the Ruhr, which had a prior claim under reparations along with the army costs.

The army costs were:
France, 1,321,000,000 gold marks;
Great Britain, 963,000,000;
Belgium, 246,000,000, and Italy, 10,750,000.

The American Army expenses of more than 1,000,000,000 gold marks were not included in the commission's statement, but are mentioned in a footnote.

Of the total receipts, 5,500,000,000 gold marks have finally been distributed, while the shipping, cables and territorial credits are still kept in the "suspense account," pending various settlements.

Belgium received most of the cash distributed, getting 1,081,000,000 gold marks under priority, while France received only 144,000,000 but the latter country received 1,367,000,000 marks' worth of merchandise, or double either Great Britain's or Belgium's share.

General's Daughter
ONLY DAUGHTER OF HIS EMPLOYER—CUPID'S TRIUMPH.

WELSHPOOL—Miss Carol Wilding, of Penryn Hall, Montgomeryshire, only daughter of Brigadier-General Arthur Wilding, the head of one of the proudest of Welsh county families, has married Reginald Davies, her father's valet.

It was in May that the fair-haired, good-looking young man entered the general's service as a valet. Carol Wilding, an only child, made the acquaintance of the humble manservant, and Cupid did the rest.

All her life Miss Wilding had lived at the ancient hall, and was well known and loved by rich and poor alike in the neighbourhood. In the beautiful gardens and ground-landed meetings took place, unknown and unsuspected, till she was ready to sacrifice rank and family to go with her lover.

Her father, at first adamant in his refusal to entertain the idea of such an alliance, but, seeing that his authority was no longer of avail, gave his consent, and the lovers were allowed to wed.

The first fortnight of the honeymoon was spent in the Cumberland lake district, whence Mr. and Mrs. Davies have now travelled to London.

A new staff of servants has been engaged at Penryn, and the couple have returned to Penryn Hall to take up their married life.

Brigadier-General Wilding had a distinguished career in the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, and saw service in Nigeria, Burma, and the great war, being three times mentioned in despatches.
