Appeal to Children Who Have Grown Up
The Playground and Recreation Association of St. John's have taken over the Prince's Rink for Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, till the end of February, and will invite the children of the city, who cannot afford to pay the admission fee, to be their guests on these afternoons. It has been found that many of the children who would like to take advantage of this invitation do not possess skates. If you have a pair of child's skates knocking around your home, won't you hand them over to the Association for one of these youngsters? You can leave them at the Rink Office or at Gray & Goodland's, or if you drop a line to the Secretary of the P. & R. Association (P.O. Box E2017) the skates will be called for.
We thank you!

The Heir to Beecham Park

CHAPTER IX.

Miss Charteris smiled, and seating herself, opened her book, while Sir Douglas retraced his steps through the hall to the front entrance and walked thence across the sweep of lawn to the lodge gates.

"So the wind blows in that quarter," he mused, while a frown contracted his brow. "I am sorry and disappointed. He is a good lad, worthy of a better woman than that proud, selfish creature. Well, I am an old fool! The sooner I go from here the better. I shall grow too fond of Sholto's son if I stay much longer."

"Better—much better," returned Sir Douglas. "There, Margery—you hear?" the woman turned again to the figure— "better. Lor, if there ain't that baby awake! Excuse me, sir, and dropping a hasty courtesy, Mrs. Clark rushed into the house.

"You have come to inquire after the young squire?" Sir Douglas began, addressing the stender, blarobed girl in kindly tones. "The head was bent, the plain skirt was thick with dust; but there was about the young girl's figure an air of unspeakable grace, and a tress of the red-gold hair that shone beneath the black straw hat gleamed as a touch of wondrous color to the somber picture.

Margery raised her head. "Yes, sir," she replied, and then stopped, almost in alarm. Sir Douglas had moved forward as his eyes rested on her face; his color faded to a deathly whiteness, and he almost staggered against the gate, his eyes still fixed on her wondrous countenance.

"Who are you? What is your name?" he gasped, rather than spoke. "Margery Daw," she answered, trembling a little with fear. Then, seeing his head droop, she added quickly: "You are ill, sir; let me get you some water."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

post for support. Then gradually she awoke to the fullness of her pain and humiliation. Pride was swelling in her heart; she seemed in that instant changed from a girl of glowing living hopes to a woman who had tasted the bitterness of all earthly grief. She bent her head and walked steadily down the lane, heedless of the sun, heedless of the rough stones, heedless even of madame's presence, as she dashed past in her carriage. She was oblivious of everything save her pain and trouble, and the memory of her wasted love.

CHAPTER X.

"Friendship is constant in all other things, Save in the office and affairs of love; Therefore all hearts in love use their own tongues. Let every eye negotiate for itself, And trust no agent."

Vane Charteris closed abruptly the book she was reading. She had commenced the quotation scarcely heeding what she read, but the sense dawned upon her as she reached the end. She colored faintly and looked up hurriedly, then gave a sigh of relief. Soothed by the musical monotony of her voice, Stuart had fallen into a doze, and the last words had no meaning for him.

Vane opened her fan and sat back; her eyes were fixed on the lovely picture before her, but her thoughts were a tumult of anger, vexation and jealousy. To find her plans upset, her hope of power pass from her in the very moment of its birth, was a bitter mortification. Her short dream of ambition was broken, and for what? A mere country girl, whose eyes had bewitched Stuart, and whose charm had beguiled the passing hour. A feeling of self-annoyance succeeded the vexation. Vane bit her lip and tapped the ground with her foot. What had she done? Promised to befriend and assist the very woman who had pushed her aside. She was a fool, the proud girl told herself, not to have laughed Stuart's tale of love to scorn. A few cold words might perchance, have checked the ardor of his flame. Now it was too late; she had given her promise, and she must meet this woman, a deeper flush spread over Vane's cheeks.

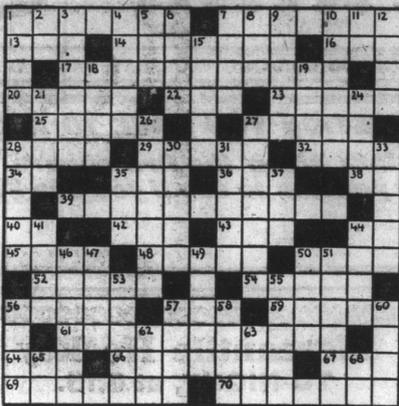

She shut her fan quickly, and looked curiously at her sleeping cousin. A thought had suddenly come into her mind. After all, she had not been so foolish, for was she not to meet Margery alone, with no other influence to work against hers? Could she not so manage as to rouse, say, if not the demon of jealousy, at least the spirit of pride? The girl had pride, Vane was compelled to admit—she had not forgotten Margery's dignity that day in the courtyard, nor the graceful hauteur and ease with which she had moved away. Wordy warfare was not unknown to Miss Charteris, and it would be strange, indeed, if she could not plant some poisoned arrows in this presumptuous country girl's breast.

Stuart could not write a line—that was fortunate; he would not be able to leave the castle for three or four days at the least—that also was fortunate. Vane felt her spirits rise again, and her hatred, fanned by proud vanity and jealousy, grew stronger and stronger.

Some vague thought of trouble seemed to come at that moment to Stuart, for, on turning her head, she met his open eyes fixed with an anxious look on her.

"You have had a delightful sleep," she said, rising, and moving toward him. "I am so glad!" Stuart passed his left hand over his brow.

PAINS ACROSS THE BACK Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mitchell, Ontario. "I have taken your medicine for a number of years. I do not take it steady all the time, but I am never without it. I always keep it in the house. I took it first for pains in the abdomen and bearing-down pains, headaches and pains across the back. I have my home to look after and many a day I could not get up at all. I saw the advertisement in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Mrs. John Miller told me about it, too. Every time I take it, it makes me feel better and I always recommend it to my friends. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about this medicine and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. E. J. WASSMANN, Mitchell, Ontario.

Hastings to Retain Quebec Escutcheon "Hastings Town Council have decided not to return to Quebec the escutcheon taken from the gates of the latter town when it was captured by General Wolfe," says the Times. The matter arose owing to a letter received from Col. Courthope, M.P. for the Rye Division, in which he stated that many prominent men in Quebec, including the Prime Minister of the Province, had approached him when he recently visited Canada with a request that he would use his influence to obtain the return of the escutcheon. The trophy was presented to Hastings by General Murray 140 years ago, and on many occasions Quebec has tried to get it back.

Bomb Icebergs in Greenland Urged

PROFESSOR BARNES SAYS THEY SHOULD BE DESTROYED AT THREE SOURCES.

Heat Bombs Useful Things With Which To Aid Menace.

The great menace to Atlantic shipping, the icebergs, can be destroyed by heat bombs, declared Professor Howard T. Barnes, of McGill, to the members of the Kiwanis Club at the Windsor Hotel recently. There were only three places in Greenland from which icebergs came and it should be possible to go there and destroy them before they floated down to the Atlantic shipping lines.

It was there that they became dangerous, said Dr. Barnes, but not until they came down on the American routes. On the Belle Isle and other Canadian routes they were so large that they could be easily perceived and avoided. Once they commenced to break up as they floated down into the Gulf Stream they constituted the greatest danger to shipping as it was almost impossible to see and to avoid them.

The maritime nations of the world called a conference in London and inaugurated the International Ice Patrol to ensure safety at sea from icebergs. This patrol was operated by the American government who, said the speaker, had done it fairly well and performed very good service to Canada. Canada had to contribute to this service, and it was the speaker's opinion that it would have been more appropriate if Canada had been asked to carry out the work.

It was in February that the icebergs, released by the heat of the previous summer commenced to come down from the north. Then until May the danger from them was at its height. After that they disappeared until the next year.

"The International Ice Patrol deals chiefly with the American routes. The Canadian routes do not require it so much," said Professor Barnes. "Canadian routes are safer. The Belle Isle route is the shortest, safest, and best of them all."

Dealing with adverse comment on the safety of the Canadian routes, the speaker said that most of this was caused by the irresponsible American newspaper writers who knew little of what they were writing about as far as icebergs were concerned. It was with regret that he saw Canadian papers ready to copy so much misleading matter from the States on this subject.

Citing the story concerning the blowing up of an iceberg with high explosive shells the speaker said that it was just as easy to blow up the Windsor Hotel with a squib. Icebergs in the Arctic were often of the size of the Mount Royal Hotel; in the Atlantic routes are safer. The Belle Isle route is the shortest, safest, and best of them all.

Government Announces Its Safeguarding of Industrial Policy—Non Stop Flight Made From France to W. Africa—Matrimonial Alliances Announced Between Carnegie and Rockefeller Families.

VEILED PROTECTION.
LONDON, Feb. 4. Countries in Britain may henceforth secure protection if they prove the satisfaction of the Board of Invention that they are suffering unfair competition and also that their industry is being injured economically, and the period for protection will be limited by the finance bill wherein protection will be considered on application will be considered in relation to food and drink. The summaries of a long white paper detailing the Government's safeguarding of industries policy announced yesterday, and which received a warm reception in the press. Congressmen welcome them as a very reasonable proposal which they all but the most hidebound traders: the exception being many in the House of Representatives who are in favour of conscientious objection to the tariff by the back of their hands and accuse the Government of breach of pledge by failing to embody the proposals in a regular legislative bill.

WOMEN SCOTIA MINERS IN CONVENTION.
SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 4. Over sixty delegates in attendance representing all the important coal and approximately 12,000 miners of Nova Scotia, a special convention of United Mine Workers, District 20, opened here this morning, the principle business being the consideration of an ultimatum of the United Mine Workers in demanding a 25 per cent wage cut.

TRUCKS THROWS ANOTHER BOMB.
GENEVA, Feb. 4. The truckers threw another bomb at the League of Nations today by protesting against the treatment of the Turkish aspects attached to the League of Nations Special Commission which is investigating the spot the dispute between Turkey and Great Britain over Mosul. Great Britain insists that the experts in question are experts, who already have shown partiality in favour of the Mosul Vilayet and declares their lives will be endangered if they are allowed to remain with the Commission in its capacity of investigation. The controversy started with a telegram to the League of Nations from Shukri Bey, the Turkish Foreign Minister, who stated that the British had interned two men, Nazim Bey and Mustafa Bey, duly appointed as Turkish experts, attached to the Commission because of their knowledge of the country in dispute. Shukri charged that the alleged mistreatment of the Turks was merely an attempt to prevent an impartial inquiry into the rights of the inhabitants of the territory in dispute. Continuing, the Foreign Minister accused Great Britain of working to menace and coercion the people to tell the Commission that they favored British Dominion in Mosul, instead of Turkey. He stated that only recently King Faysal of the Irak Region, and other persons had traversed the Mosul area, representing acceptance of the thesis that Mosul should remain in the hands of the British.

THE MISSING LINK.
LONDON, Feb. 4. A fossilized skull whose owner is believed to have been probably near the missing link between the Broken Hill and Java specimens, has been discovered at Tanna, Bechuanaland, Professor Dart, of Witwatersrand University, who ascribes great importance to his find. He says the skull represents something midway between man and the great apes and much finer than previously discovered prehistoric skulls.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4. A successful day's business was reported by the Canadian Fur Auction Sales Company, Ltd., at the close of the year's selling. RELEASE FROM UNPLEASANT SITUATION.
CAVETOWN, Ky., Feb. 4. A slide in S and Cave this morning left Floyd Collins, aged 35, foot free for the first time since he was imprisoned on Friday morning last, when a boulder wedged his legs where the rescuers were unable to reach them. Collins was left walling in behind a rock which fell from the side of the cave.

L.O.A. Anniversary at Bay L'Argent

INEFFICIENT CONTROL AND DISCRIMINATION.
Outside the cost of hospitals, asylums and other fixed charitable institutions, the cost of medical and surgical services to the public, for so-called sick poor, has been immense and rapidly increasing in recent years.
In 1923-4, for instance, the amounts paid to doctors alone were as follows:

Medical attendance to Paupers	$ 32,938
Emergency Cases	7,371
Public Health Outposts	21,359
General Diseases	5,608
District Doctors	2,717
	$ 69,983

There are several noticeable things which appear upon an examination of the details of expenditure. For instance, the public health cost the most where there were the greatest number of doctors, and the query naturally arises, what about the health of people residing in districts far from hospitals, and with few doctors? The cost to the public of medical attendance on the South West Coast, for instance, was very small; parts nearer St. John's cost five times as much. Again, in parts of a certain Bay where four doctors are situated, the charge to the public funds is large, while in another adjacent part of the same Bay, where there is only one doctor, the charge is very small indeed. There seem to be certain spots in the Colony in which, for some reason or other, the expenditure is out of all proportion to the average of the Colony. In one of these spots there is no resident doctor, but medical attendance is frequently asked for, and occasionally sent from long distances, very often from St. John's, at very great cost. There seems to have been very little or very indifferent control over services in some places, assistance being given at public cost for almost any ailment, and without any enquiry, and in other cases the condition of the applicant being carefully looked into and care exercised by the authorities. All these matters require the closest investigation.

The latest Rex Beach picture, "Recoil," will be the attraction at the Nickel Theatre for three days. It has been produced by J. Parker Read, Jr., and directed by T. Hayes Hunter from a continuity by Gerald C. Duffy. The picture was made in its entirety in France—in Paris, in Deauville, and on the French Riviera. "Recoil" shows for the first time in a screen photoplay scenes from Deauville, France's most famous watering place. The Monte Carlo sequences show the famous Casino in reality and not from studio sets.
The cast is headed by Betty Blythe and Mahlon Hamilton, with Olive Brook, Fred Paul and Ernest Hilliard in other important roles.
The story is one that should appeal strongly to the general public. It is the love story of an American millionaire and a penniless American girl whom he marries in France on a few days' acquaintance. Their personalities fail to fuse at first and the girl leaves him for another man. The husband, in revenge, decrees that the two shall never be apart from each other for the rest of their lives and the big climax of the picture—comes from this determination. The man finally is convinced of the woman's love for him and they seek happiness together in South America. Betty Blythe and Mahlon Hamilton have the leading roles.

The splendid band of Brothers paraded to the church and upon entering were greeted with the melodious strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers" which was splendidly furnished by Mrs. F. Bond. The service was conducted by our Lay Reader, Mr. G. Bryant. The service ended and the parade wended its way around the little town and from that back to the Lodge room.
Soon we saw the ladies appearing with their baskets and, in a very short time, the Brotherhood united in one family and were enjoying to the utmost their annual tea. The younger members afterwards expressing a desire for a dance, the hall was cleared, and dancing was kept up until the late hours of the night. The interest taken showed that the enjoyment of the annual L.O.A. parade could not be excelled.

Thomas Wells, D.M., has been elected for the ensuing year. We wish him success and that under his ruling powers the Lodge will still go forward with zeal, and will stand as the always has been, upon the strong foundation of "Unity." The writer wishes No. 73 greetings and further trusts that the true spirit of Orangeism will be firmly maintained.

Queer Cargoes
(By T. C. Bridges.)
Thirteen tons of dried fish formed part of the cargo of a liner which arrived at Plymouth in December last. They came from Mexico, and are to be used in the manufacture of paint. Dried fish are also imported from Brazil, but not for paint-making. These are made up into food for poultry and pheasants.
Besides all the ordinary necessities, such as wheat, meat, oranges, and tobacco, which come pouring into this country from abroad, there arrive here a quantity of goods so fantastic that, when you read their descriptions on the manifest, you are driven to wonder of what possible use they can be to anyone. For instance, a case of walrus whiskers—you might make many vain guesses as to the purpose to which these were to be turned before you were told they are to be made into toothpicks.
Frogs' skins, again. Now and then a package of these comes from India, and they are used—of all things—for book binding. It appears that the skin of this Indian frog makes a very fine soft leather which, when dyed, takes the most delicate colours. A well-known English binder has produced some wonderful effects by the use of frogs' skins.
"Twenty-five Tasmanian Devils" may sound rather a gruesome conglomeration, yet it was only lot in a cargo of Australian animals and birds which reached London. The "devils," in spite of their name, were not nearly so dangerous as a case of "diseases" brought to Southampton on board a cargo steamer arriving from the west coast of Africa. The case was actually full of cultures of germs of blackwater fever, malarial fevers, and all kinds of tropical diseases.
Snails and frogs come to London in large quantities and find their way to Soho, where there are cooks who

London Oddities
In the days of George I. there was a Royal official called the "King's Cooker." His job was an easy one, for the duties lasted only through the winter months.
Thinking he was being affronted, he was very annoyed, and it was with difficulty that the interpreter could make him understand the nature of the custom. From that time the King's Cooker ceased to function.
Another quaint custom which obtained years ago, says C. G. Harper in "More Queer Things About London," was for each fire insurance company to have its own freeman. It was the custom to affix on an insured house the company's "fire-mark," so that when the freemen arrived on the scene they could at once perceive whose concern it was to put out the flames.
The freemen of other companies cheerfully permitted the fire to continue, and went away without lending a hand, assured that their own employers were suffering no loss.

"Jellicoe's Skill" and "Beatty's Blunder"

ADMIRAL SIR REGINALD BACON DEFENDS ADMIRAL JELlicOE AND ATTACKS LORD BEATTY.

Admiral Sir Reginald Bacon has made a further contribution to the Jutland controversy, which has been going on for upwards of six years, and his book, "The Jutland Scandal" (Hutchinson's), may be regarded as a rejoinder to the "Admiralty Narrative," issued several months ago. "We are told," says Mr. Archibald Hurd in the Telegraph, "that Lord Jellicoe has had no hand in this latest book, though it is known that he condemned the official narrative, in particular on account of the injustice which, he urged, was done to Admiral Sir Hugh Evan Thomas. In the Jutland Scandal the country has for the first time a detailed statement on the manner in which that action was fought, written by a flag officer of the highest technical knowledge and very wide sea experience, who was not himself present at the action. He was at the time in command of the Dover Patrol.

"Sir Reginald Bacon's suggestion is that the Battle of Jutland has been misrepresented, and he implies that that misrepresentation has not been accidental, or due merely to the inevitable ignorance of the general public of naval strategy and tactics." Lord Jellicoe, who has just completed his term as Governor of New Zealand, has been made an Earl in the New Year Honours.

Charges Against Beatty.

"Sir Reginald Bacon," says the Daily Chronicle, "severely criticises Lord Beatty for his part at Jutland. He declares he made serious tactical errors, steamed away from the Germans, and has since silently allowed Jellicoe and Admiral Evan Thomas to be blamed for his mistakes."

"The general motion in the public mind about the battle is that Beatty met and daringly engaged the enemy and drew them into a trap, the British admiral knowing the Grand Fleet was coming up."

"Admiral Bacon says that Beatty did not lead the enemy into a trap, but steamed away from them at high speed, leaving four battleships under Evan Thomas to fight them."

"Beatty is accused by the writer of a tactical error in this part of the battle, which was largely responsible for the loss of the Queen Mary and the indefatigable."

"Owing to this error, Evan Thomas's battleships were not engaged during most of the phase, for which, says the writer, Admiral Thomas has been 'ungenerously and unjustly blamed.'"

"After this, he proceeds, Beatty lost touch with the German Fleet through running North, and was unable to give Jellicoe vital information as to where the enemy fleet was."

Beatty "Merely a Junior."

"Lord Beatty was merely a junior admiral commanding a cruiser squadron," explains the writer. "His most important duty was to convey information to the Commander-in-Chief as to the exact position of the German Fleet. This he failed to do."

"Far from bringing the German Fleet to Jellicoe's feet as a cat brings one a mouse, 'the cat ran away from the mouse, lost sight of it in twenty minutes, and never saw it again. When asked where the mouse was, the cat had to confess it didn't know.'"

"In spite of this lack of information, 'by 7 p.m. Lord Jellicoe had manoeuvred the Fleet between the enemy and his harbour.'"

Beatty had nothing to do with this, comments the book.

"Instead:— 'Between 6.55 and 7.12 Admiral Beatty had been having a little circle turning of his own. . . . If any confusion existed at all, it was not in the German fleet, but in our own battle-cruiser fleet, which waltzed round like a kitten after its own tail."

"It is believed the reason for this excitement was a gyro compass which went wrong."

"But at all events, Admiral Beatty, far from leading the Germans into a trap from which there was no escape, was busily trying to straighten out confusion among his cruisers."

Failure in Chivalry.

"Let us be quite frank. The battle-cruisers steamed away at high speed from the German battle fleet and left the 5th Battle Squadron to fight them."

"The men of the Queen Mary and the indefatigable did not die in vain. But their loss was largely caused by not bringing the 5th Battle Squadron into action until the indefatigable had been sunk and only a few minutes before the Queen Mary was blown up."

"The writer regrets that Lord Beatty 'did not say a few words to instruct public opinion' when Lord Jellicoe was being attacked."

"The traditions of the British impelled such action," he comments.

"Lord Beatty was receiving wholesale on behalf of the Navy the many honours that this country, in their gratitude, showered on the Senior Service. This failure in chivalry on its part at such a time will never be forgotten or forgiven by the Navy.

"The writer contests the commonly held opinion that had been in command at Jutland should have had a crushing victory at the Dogger Bank."

"He recalls that Beatty's series of errors, and as for more damage to the German fleet was done by Lord Jellicoe."

"No one wishes to pretend that Jutland was a glorious victory," adds. "It was not. No glory was possible under the conditions that prevailed."

Why Did They Escape?

"If it be asked, 'Why did the Germans escape after all?' Admiral Hurd, 'The Admiralty, in the place, failed to pass on a signal showing the course the Germans were steering, and, in the second place, he blames the captain of the battleships Malaya and who sighted the main German fleet at 11.35 p.m."

"Here were two battleships every signalling appliance and experienced officers of rank and command, but who never informed Commander-in-Chief, nor even their own admirals, that they were breaking through astern of the main fleet."

"The escape of the German fleet must be attributed largely to the failure of the officers commanding these two ships to pass such information to the admiral."

THE MOTHER TELLS HER TO THE CHILDREN

When first I met your father, I was at a wedding dear, and he wore a high white collar which stretched right up to his ears. He was thin and short and and his dress coat didn't fit. And I didn't like the way he had his hair a little bit. It was parted in the middle and looped across his brow. And I never dreamed that one day I'd be married to him and I knew a dozen fellows who were all of them were richer, and thought a lot of me. And they brought me flowers every time they called.

So this meeting with your father not mean much after all. And besides his ways were so funny. I'd have told him if I'd had that I didn't like his manner of vulgar way he started.

Well, next Sunday after church came to call on me. And stayed so long that Grandpa invited him for tea. After that he came so often that Grandpa used to say "That skinny gawk is driving a healthy stock away!" But somehow I'd grown to like him and I marvelled that I could for he never tried to kiss me. I often wished he would Now that's all there is to tell. Next June I was his bride. But before that I had made his hair upon the side. And I'd made him change his and I'd slicked him up. For I taught him what he should do and the things which he should not.

But now don't tell I've told you that's the way I've met your father. I would I do the same thing myself. 'Well—he hasn't been so bad."

Graham, then Financial Secretary to the Treasury, stated that the contract had not been completed.

The Old Collegians

OBJECTIVE SURPASSED.

The annual meeting was held last evening and a large number of members were present. The chairman Mr. Arthur Mewa gave an inspiring address of welcome.

The secretary's report reviewed the work for the year. The treasurers report was read and adopted. Nurse Lodgers gave a most interesting and valuable address. She outlined the Health programme of the London county council schools, where she was last engaged and then discussed local conditions showing that much work needs to be done.

Mr. C. P. Ayre then addressed the meeting emphasizing the need for unity especially at this time and that the best work could be accomplished if the East and West End boards combined with the college board and erected elementary schools in the East and West ends as well as rebuilding the college.

Mr. J. C. Hogg also addressed the meeting and asked for the assistance of old Collegians in organizing games for the younger members of the schools and to put to full use the splendid Ayre Athletic grounds.

Mr. A. Soper then reported the result of the campaign for 1,000 members at $1.00 each. The net result was announced as $1108.00. Mr. Herbert Wyatt's team No. 16 won the prize for the highest number secured by any team. Mr. Wyatt also secured the prize for the highest score made by an individual worker, he being responsible for 38 members. The report of the nominating committee was accepted and the new council was elected. Mr. Arthur Mewa was

Grand Falls Approves Redistribution Scheme

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I beg leave to compliment you on your editorial of the 23rd inst. It is appropriate that the "People's Paper" should be the one to take the lead in this important matter and I feel that you express the sentiment of most of the thinking portion of the country. During the decade before the war the country was allowed to drift into the hands of a few bosses and place hunting politicians. Then came the war when all except the halt, the lame, the blind and the poor in spirit (whom you will always have with you) were very strenuously engaged in overcoming the particular brand of Coakerism bred in Germany. However, the time has now arrived when we should throw off our apathy and take an intelligent interest in our political affairs. I may state that some few weeks ago a movement was started in Grand Falls having for its object a purpose such as outlined by you in your article referred to. That portion of the district of Twillingate which lies between Glenwood and Kitty's Brook along the line of railway and including Botwood and neighbourhood are at present practically unrepresented, no matter what government may be in power. Our interests are vitally different from the other portions of the district and we need a representative of our own.
For this purpose, public meetings have been held and resolutions passed asking for such a redistribution as will give the 8,000 people living within this area a member of the House of Assembly to take care of their particular interests. In due course copies of these resolutions will be sent the Government and members for District of Twillingate asking for their support. I may also state that copies of these resolutions with petitions accompanying have been sent to all places interested. Trusting you will find space for this note and wishing the good old Telegram many generations of usefulness and prosperity I beg to subscribe myself,
Yours Faithfully,
M. J. NUGENT.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cleared Up
Joseph Lessard's Kidney Trouble.

Quebec man tells how and why he is now enjoying all his old-time health and vigor.
St. Leon, Que., Feb. 4 (Special)—
"It gives me pleasure to tell you how satisfactory your Dodd's Kidney Pills have been to me." Mr. Lessard states in an interview, "I have had boils for the past eight months and have spent over $40 for treatments, which did not relieve me of them. After taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills my boils have disappeared. I also had violent pains in my kidneys and they have also gone with the boils. I am now feeling fine and am quite well. I would like to recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all persons who suffer with similar complaints to my own."
Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. You will be surprised how quickly they begin to cleanse and purify, to soothe and heal the kidneys, at the same time backaches, rheumatism and other disorders caused by impure blood, disappear.

Obituary

CAPT. NICHOLAS WALSH.
(H. F. SHORTIS)

Fortified by all the rites of Holy Mother Church of which he was such an exemplary and practical a member, Capt. Nicholas Walsh passed peacefully away in the General Hospital early yesterday morning. The deceased gentleman was born in Bona-vista 84 years ago, and at an early age removed to Catalina, where he was employed in the prosecution of the seal and cod fisheries, and few men in this country possessed a more practical knowledge of our great industries than the subject of this brief sketch. He possessed a most retentive memory and great descriptive power.
A fine old school gentleman, strong in the faith of the Catholic Church, rock-ribbed in his moral code, he suggested as he stood before you, the immutability of each and every one, as all had occasion to realize his goodness of heart, magnanimity of mind, and resolute application to duty, and he was esteemed by those who knew him intimately as a man of sterling qualities and wisdom, which the hard trials of experience alone can bestow.
About half a century ago, the deceased entered into partnership with the late Mr. McCormack, and conducted a most enterprising business up to the present day. He was largely interested in the Labrador, Seal and Bank fisheries, and at the time of the crash, the firm of McCormack and Walsh was one of the few which paid 100 cents in the dollar. About 46 years ago he was master of the S.S. Marlin to the sealfishery and secured 13,000 seals.
No matter how the weather was Nicholas Walsh was never absent from Mass every day in the week.
A great character, a most delightful companion, and a universal favorite, he had long been recognized as one most upright and esteemed, who will be sadly missed by his fellow citizens. He was held in the highest estimation, and by none more highly than the great Liberal Statesman, the late Sir Wm. V. Whiteaway.
Two brothers were lost at sea, Capt.
John Walsh of the brig, Haldea, on a passage from England to Harbor Grace about 1863, and the other brother, Thomas, in the brigantine Advance. His brother, Capt. John, was one of the best known master mariners sailing out of Newfoundland. I remember her last voyage as she sailed away with flags flying in the month of August. She was decorated with bunting owing to the presence of the Rev. Bertram Jones, pastor of old St. Paul's Episcopal Church, being on board as passenger on a visit to England. George Maher was first mate, John Fogarty, second mate, and Tim Conran was one of the crew.
I forget the rest.
The deceased was one of the oldest members of the Holy Name Society and the Benevolent Irish Society.
On to-morrow (Friday) will be laid to rest in Belvedere the mortal remains of our venerable citizen, and there will be the one feeling in all hearts that one of the most respected, modest, unassuming Catholic gentlemen of St. John's will be added to that great and growing majority who have been delivered from life's pain and struggle and find happiness in another and better life. One son and several relatives are left to mourn their sad loss.—Requester in pace.

EXHIBITS RETURNED.—Seven cases containing birds and other exhibits from the Newfoundland Pavillion at Wembley arrived by last night.
The cases were removed to the Museum to-day.

Will the Hohenzollerns Return?

Following the German elections, it was found impossible to form a party capable of undertaking the responsibilities, or backed by a sufficient majority, to make its position secure.

A committee consisting of Messrs. D. Baird, J. C. Hepburn, Dr. N. S. Fraser, C. U. Henderson, (Secretary of the Congregation) and J. H. Baird, (Treasurer of the Board of Managers) was appointed with the School Board to carry on the negotiations.

Among those who have been appointed to office are Martin Schiele, Minister of the Interior; Count Kanitz, Minister of Food, and Herr Neuhaus, Minister of Economics.

The German Republicans view with considerable misgiving the placing of the reins of Government in the hands of the Lutheran Ministry, and that their fears are not unwarranted, is shown by the fact that already the Cabinet have discussed the question of the restoration of the Monarchy.

The oath of office which the holders are obliged to take reads as follows:—"I swear fidelity to the constitution, obedience to the laws and the conscientious performance of my public duties."

The general terms of the oath, and the latitude of interpretation which it allows have made it possible even for the most ardent opponent of the present constitution to take it, and save his conscience at the same time.

Time will show to what extent the fears of the Republicans are justified, but the enthusiasm with which the ex-Crown Prince has been received wherever he has made a public appearance since his return from exile is sufficient to indicate that the regard in which the world's greatest assassin and his brood was formerly held still exists.

Bird Hunters Rescued by Tug

Yesterday Inspector General Hutchings was informed that two men in an open boat were adrift about two miles off the Narrows. He communicated with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries who quickly dispatched a tug to the rescue.

A PROBABILITY.—It is probable that Farquhar & Co. will send the s.s. Stella Maris to the icefields this year. The ship it is said will prosecute the fishery in the Gulf.

St. Andrew's Congregation UNANIMOUS FOR FEDERATION.

Mr. J. C. Hepburn presided and a large gathering attended the special meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's last night when the following resolution was discussed and passed unanimously:—

"Realizing that success in life depends to a considerable extent upon education, and that co-operation of all educational effort would be productive of greater efficiency with decreased expenditure; BE IT RESOLVED, that the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of St. John's, Newfoundland, declares itself in favour of federation with the various educational bodies in St. John's or such of these as are willing to become a part of such federation, and that the persons being Directors from time to time of the Presbyterian College, together with such others as the congregation may nominate, be appointed a Committee and empowered to meet with representatives of other educational bodies, and to negotiate and report to the congregation for their approval."

A committee consisting of Messrs. D. Baird, J. C. Hepburn, Dr. N. S. Fraser, C. U. Henderson, (Secretary of the Congregation) and J. H. Baird, (Treasurer of the Board of Managers) was appointed with the School Board to carry on the negotiations.

Among those who have been appointed to office are Martin Schiele, Minister of the Interior; Count Kanitz, Minister of Food, and Herr Neuhaus, Minister of Economics.

Festival of St. Blaz Observed at Long Hr.

The festival day of St. Blaz was celebrated with great pomp and ceremony in St. Jerome's Church, Long Harbour yesterday, February 3rd. Rev. Francis Cacciola sang the High Mass and preached a glowing sermon on the life and labors of the Saintly Bishop, who underwent terrible sufferings under the impious emperor Diocletian. St. Blaz bishop and martyr wrought many cures and is called the patron of sore throats. The blessing of the throats of the people and children by the pastor, Rev. Francis Cacciola of Bar Haven parish was observed at the close of Mass yesterday in St. Jerome's Church, Long Harbour and its dependencies.—COM.

PEPPY BEHIND THE SCENES.

Feb. 4th.—This day, meeting Povey, he tells me the Department of the Controller is now closed, and will remain so till Monday next, being that there is now a stock-taking on there. This annoys me greatly, since if I had known it before, I might have bought my tickets for the weekend and an now left without a bottle of it.

This afternoon to the hockey game, which is very close, yet a poor game. To Povey's for tea, and then to the Ritz to see the St. John's Grammes play. Ladies with the Black Watch and for some time in 1917 acted as A.D.C. to the Governor of Newfoundland.

Obituary MR. ANDREW BLACKWOOD.

A highly respected citizen passed away yesterday in the person of Mr. Andrew G. Blackwood, who had been ill for many months and recently underwent an operation in the hope that it might bring relief.

Mr. Blackwood in spite of his four score years was remarkably active right up to the time of his illness and for the past thirty years was engaged in the commission business. Formerly he was a partner in the firm of Blackwood & Blair which carried on an extensive business on the site at present occupied by the Bank of Nova Scotia Building. Mr. James P. Blackwood, K.C. the senior partner of the law firm of Blackwood, Emerson & Winter, is the only son surviving.

The funeral takes place at 2.30 p.m. on Friday, from 88 LeMarchant Road.

To-Morrow Night's Dance

"GAIETY" HALL. In Aid of Reduction of Debt on C.C.C. "Gaiety" Hall. To-morrow night's Dance at the "Gaiety" Hall promises to eclipse last Thursday's Dance which proved such a splendid success.

The dates have been somewhat conflicting, as first it was advertised to take place on the 11th, then it was changed to the 9th, then put back to the 11th, now it takes place to-morrow (Friday) night, February 6th, definitely. This was due to the fact that the "Silvia" on which the Coloured Artists had booked passage, sails on the afternoon of the 11th, and to-morrow (Friday) will be the last chance to Dance to this wonderful Dance Orchestra. Therefore, get your tickets at Hunter's or G. Byrne's Bookstore today, as they are limited to 200. Prices: Gent's, $1.00; Ladies, 75c. The Dance starts at 9 p.m. to the music of a special Orchestra from the Mount Cashel Band, and they will play extras until the arrival of the Coloured Orchestra at 10 p.m., when there will be a full programme of Dance and Extras. Don't miss this one.—Feb.5.11

Trains Stopped by Birds

Not long ago a bantam held up a train in a Yorkshire station. It had been strutting up and down the line defying all efforts to catch it, and when a train came in the bantam disappeared beneath the engine. The train could not proceed until the bantam was dislodged, unharmed, from its perch on the axle.

A flock of starlings stopped a train in a curious manner. An engine ran into them while they were on the wing, and the impact knocked the vacuum brake bag from its fastenings, thus pulling up the train.

Similar incidents are by no means uncommon. An engine-driver was startled by the smashing of his lookout window. He was cut about the face and stopped the train, thinking that a hold-up was being attempted. But the accident had been caused by a wild goose—which had flown against the glass.

Another train was held up through a partridge flying against the engine lamp and putting it out. This was noticed by a signalman, who stopped the train to demand an explanation.

INTRODUCTION OF NEW SYSTEM CAUSES FRICTION.

All work at Bell Island mines ceased to-day as the men ignored the introduction of a clock checking system by the Besco management which required that the men should punch in on going to work and register again when leaving in the evening. This new system was put into operation on Monday but nearly all the men ignored the clock. Yesterday the same thing happened and the company issued an order to the effect that if the men did not obey the new regulation they would not be permitted to work, and threatening to close down operations. Neither the men nor the Government were made aware that the company intended to introduce this new system. Under the present arrangement it appears the men are required to put in a ten hour day under ground.

For years past the practice has been that the men work on a contract basis—that is, when two overhauls had finished loading their 20 cars of ore they were at liberty to cease work, or they could remain longer and earn a bonus. A short while ago when the Commission on the Labrador Boundary was in Canada arrangements were made for the men to work on a contract basis for 800 men, on what was thought to be the old terms. At least nothing was said about a new system. The Government is taking the matter up and has wired to the management at Bell Island for full particulars. From present conditions the move on the part of the company looks like a breach of agreement. Should this prove to be the case a strong stand may be expected on the part of the Government.

Tentative arrangements have been made between various Governments and the Company from time to time in order to state off a closing down of the mines or to further relieve the company from complying with the full terms of their agreement. If it is found that any breach of agreement has taken place in this instance, it should be made the occasion for a complete understanding to be arrived at without further delay.

Radiology (By DR. HAM.)

G.N.R.A. Moncton, is perhaps the best station for Newfoundland Radio Fans. He was certainly good on Tuesday night, and the only fly in the ointment was the squeals and howls from the neighbours.

Radio reception will never reach perfection until we have learned to "Do Unto Others as You Would Have Them Do Unto You." Let this be the Golden Rule of Radio. Moncton has been heard from California to British Isles.

Last Saturday night, Pittsburg, the pioneer broadcasting station of the world, announced that his programme was being relayed in Geneva and Australia. Radio is world wide.

There has been a decided improvement in the broadcast of programmes from local stations, and everyone, nowadays, is talking valves or cathode ray crystals. You will need to be lonely if you own and operate a receiver.

The symmetry dial, etc. on the front of your panel should be a secondary concern. Maximum efficiency and low loss are synonymous terms in Radio. Therefore see that the parts you use in the construction of your receiver are of the best quality. Good parts and strict attention to your wiring diagram, make for efficiency and strong action is necessary on the part of the Cabal.

It has been conclusively demonstrated that the best way to overcome static and other interference is by increasing the power of the broadcasting station. It is proposed to install a 100 foot length, 1,000 watts—which is at present the maximum—to 50,000 watts. When constructed in the near future, it will be an outside aerial, then, all you will want is a piece of wire round your room, which reminds me to say that I am at present using a 100 foot length of "Talking Tape" stretched round the room. This gives ample volume with the head-phones, on a three valve regenerative, from Moncton, Springfield, Schenectady, Pittsburg, and even from Hastings, Nebraska, and Miami Beach, Florida.

A New Service

It is stated that Farquhar & Company propose operating a steamer on the South Coast during the coming summer. The ship, which is more than ready for an outside aerial, then, all you will want is a piece of wire round your room, which reminds me to say that I am at present using a 100 foot length of "Talking Tape" stretched round the room. This gives ample volume with the head-phones, on a three valve regenerative, from Moncton, Springfield, Schenectady, Pittsburg, and even from Hastings, Nebraska, and Miami Beach, Florida.

New Disease Puzzle BOMBAY—It is announced that an apparently new disease has broken out on the Afghanistan frontier, causing many deaths. The symptoms consist in the victims turning yellow and having a violent headache, fever, and a cough. Patients coughing up blood recovered, but if no blood were brought up death followed. Medical men here are cautious in their opinions on the nature of the disease. One suggests that it may be a new form of pneumonic plague. There are three forms of plague, writes a medical correspondent, the bubonic, the septic, and the pneumonic. The last named attacks the lungs and is very infectious. Cases of the disease in Essex some years ago gave anxiety to the health authorities, but strict measures of isolation put a speedy end to the outbreak.

Town Sinks Ten Feet FLOOD DISASTER FEARS. At a meeting of the Ebbw Vale (Monmouthshire) Urban Council, held to discuss means of preventing the flooding of houses and public buildings in the suburb of Cwm, the clerk, Mr. W. A. Jones, stated that he had been informed on reliable authority, that within comparatively recent years the whole township of Cwm had dropped 10 feet owing to subsidence. Several members expressed the opinion that the erection of a river wall was useless, as the subsidence, helped by a huge shale slip, were rapidly closing in the river. Mr. Leach, a member of the council from the Cwm district, said that it only needed a slight move in this tip to bring down the whole of it as well as a large proportion of the mountain side, completely blocking the river and flooding out the district. Mr. Dan Davies suggested that this would blot out the whole of Cwm. The position was alarming. It was decided to proceed with the erection of a river wall in concrete as an unemployment scheme and to hold a conference with the Ebbw Vale company who own the shale tip. Cwm is a suburb of Ebbw Vale, with a population of more than 12,000 people. It contains two of the largest collieries in Monmouthshire. The river, which passes through Ebbw Vale, is not very dangerous in normal times, but at the moment it is in high flood and subsidence on a large scale is taking place all over the district.

Artie Marks Show Opens in Casino

INITIAL OFFERING "MY IRISH CINDERELLA."
Lovers of the spoken drama will welcome with enthusiasm the Artie Marks Players who arrived in St. John's this morning to open an engagement in the Casino Theatre. This marks the first visit to our dominion of this widely known and popular company of artists. In Canada, the marks title is symbolic of successful entertainment, and we feel certain the same impression will be left with St. John's folks after they have seen the class of production this company gives.

The opening bill which will run from now until Saturday night is "My Irish Cinderella." We need not linger longer on this play as we have already told you the particulars concerning it. It is a play on the style of "Peg O' My Heart" only it is more complete in every respect.

The specialities between the acts are exceptionally attractive, and elevate the hour waits between changes. The numbers are: popular songs by Clarence Kane; violin selections by Miss Scott; Miss Peggy Logan in song and dance and Billy Phillips in song and dance. A particular feature of the vaudeville side of the show are the Scotch Lads and Lassies in "A Breeze from the land of the Heather."

The Marks Company is a one hundred per cent Canadian attraction, and its name is one of the oldest on the road. The show is clean, clever and witty and doubtless will get a genuine Newfoundland reception. Tonight is the night at the Casino.

Neglected Children

At the Magistrate's Court yesterday Probation Officer Noseworthy, removing the veil of secrecy from the home life of a resident of Cadogan Street, who was charged with neglecting his child, disclosed a condition of affairs which Judge Morris characterized as "a disgrace to a civilized community." Last week the judge, hearing that the family was living in filthy surroundings, sent the Probation Officer to investigate. Giving evidence yesterday, Inspector Noseworthy said he visited the home on Friday morning at 9.30 and found the eldest son, aged 14, and 5 daughters, sleeping in what he described as a "pand." There was no bed, nor was there any way for a gleam of sunshine to enter the sleeping quarters. The bed coverings, like the children's clothing, were in tatters and reeking with filth. The house, so the Inspector said had but two rooms and in the centre portion of one a pound of soap was piled on a board, all around which was piled a heap of worthless junk. The kitchen beggared description. The eldest boy, aged 17, slept there on a sort of stretcher. There were no chairs in the room, a part of a shop counter served as a table, and a smoky stove completed the equipment. There was a basement, but this was used to stable a pig, and two years accumulation of manure was piled therein. When asked about the sanitary appliances, the Probation Officer told an astonished court that the plumbing consisted of a hole chopped in the floor over the manure pile. The only redeeming feature in the story of squalor and filth was that the children said "they were not hungry." The accused was placed on the stand, said his wife was at present in the Grace Marley home. His eldest boy was seventeen and the other fifteen. The ages of the girls ranged from three up to thirteen years. The older son and himself slept in the kitchen, with the exception of the morning when the mother called, all the rest slept together. The accused affirmed that he had always done everything - in his power to make his wife and children happy and contented.

Judge Morris, pointing out that the Act empowered him to inflict a penalty of six months imprisonment on anyone who had care of children and neglected to do so, gave the accused a severe dressing down and ordered him to have the home cleared of filth and made otherwise suitable for the family requirements, failing which he would be sent down for the full term. The Probation Officer was instructed to see that the orders were executed with despatch. The accused is a shoemaker, but gave up his trade several years ago to deal in junk. He is owner of the dwelling and according to the Probation Officer has sufficient ready money to buy lumber for dividing and carrying out the other injunctions imposed by the Magistrate.

YESTERDAY'S HOCKEY GAME.

FELDIANS	2
ST. BON'S	1

The hockey game played yesterday afternoon between the Feldians and the St. Bon's, proved to be a close and hard fought contest, and ended in a victory for last year's champions by the close score of 2 goals to 1. The game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds of spectators for the season, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed throughout. During the course of the game, Caul of St. Bon's, and Alderdice of the Feldians, were laid out and had to be assisted off the ice. The former player escaped uninjured, but Alderdice received such injuries that Doctors Burden and Fox, in attendance, ordered his removal to hospital. The game was marked for its tricky stick handling, flashes of combination play and the splendid goal keeping of the opposing net guardians. The advantage seemed with the Feldians for the first forty minutes of play, with St. Bon's having the better of the argument during the latter stages, when Hunt was called upon to give one of the most brilliant exhibitions of his long and useful career as a goalie. Amongst those present were His Excellency the Governor and Prime Minister Hon. W. S. Monroe.

First Period.

Referee Tobin called the players together at 3.10 p.m. The game opened slowly and the Feldians set the pace however, after a while, and then Ewing tried his luck, but his call on Ryan was averted by Phelan, who made a similar call on Hunt. A head-on collision then occurred near the fence, between Caul and Rendell, with the result that the former player was temporarily knocked out and carried off the ice. His place had to be filled by Skinner and the game was continued. At this juncture the Feldians pressed hard, with Rendell, Ewing, and Alderdice attacking vigorously. Hunt, the Feldian goalie, was given a busy time in casting aside the shots from Furlong on the right wing, while Ewing, Winter, and Alderdice on the firing line for the champs likewise kept Ryan particularly busy. There was no real outbreak of cheering by the large crowd in attendance until ten minutes after play, when Alderdice found the net on a close-in shot. The Feldians then pressed hard from the face-off, for further results. Cahill took possession of the Rubber near mid-ice and, by tricky stick-handling he got past the defence and, being unable to shoot from the front, he continued to the rear of the goal, and after the rubber had been passed out to the goal mouth, a mix-up occurred and Skinner was responsible in driving home the equalizer. Phelan then made a pretty sweep of the rink but he failed to get past Rendell. Considerable play then followed near the Feldian goal, and many were the well directed shots from Furlong, saved by Hunt. Rendell eventually cleared the rubber out of danger and made a speedy sweep of the rink, but he lost to Cahill near the goal area, who in turn made a combined run west with Furlong, all to no result. A moment later Reid took control and beat the St. Bon's players as though they were standing still, and safely placed the disc behind Ryan, scoring No. 2. The goal then sounded with the Feldians 2 goals; St. Bon's 1.

Second Period.

Upon resumption of play Furlong made a pretty getaway and sent a low but swift shot to Hunt. Bayly prevented a score on the rebound and made a good run west, but a splendid opportunity was lost through failing to pass. St. Bon's then pressed hard with Halley and Phelan getting in some good work, but the rubber was in the attempt to get on the inside instead of passing over to the right or left. A moment later Bayly was sent to the "cooler" for two minutes. With the Feldians minus Bayly's services, St. Bon's made a determined attack to equalize matters. They threw every player up in the attack, but by good back checking and several clever stops on the part of Hunt, the Feldians kept their opponents at bay. Play then transferred from end to end at a lively clip, and a special feature of the game at this juncture was the spectacular stick handling of Ewing for the Feldians, and Phelan and Halley for St. Bon's. Towards the end of the period St. Bon's tried their hardest to equalize the score, but many a good chance was lost through faulty shooting. Just before the gong sounded Halley swept the rink and circled the Feldian defence, but lost out through hard luck near the mouth of the goal. The period ended with the score still standing Feldians 2; St. Bon's 1.

Third Period

In the final session Gordon Caul, who had been knocked out in the first period, again made his appearance. Play had only been in progress a few minutes, however, when Alderdice collided with another player, near St. Bon's goal, and received such injuries that he had to be carried off the ice and attended by a doctor. This unfortunate mishap took the sting out of the play for some minutes, and his loss was felt by the Feldian team. With the score still standing 2 to 1 in favor of the Feldians, excitement was intense. Caul, despite his severe shaking up in the early part of the game, kept hustling, and many were the accurate shots he placed on Hunt's pads. Rendell was next benched for two minutes. St. Bon's took every advantage of this and sent every man up in the attack, but the Feldians countered their opponents on every occasion and by fast skating and by good back-checking, they kept the rubber clear of all danger. Ewing, who was playing one of his best games of the season, made a pretty sweep of the rink, but the shot missed by inches. A moment later "Duke" Winter had matters all his own way and sent the puck dead on, but too high. Bayly again ran foul of the referee and was benched. St. Bon's then staged another rally during the last few minutes, with Cahill and Phelan getting in some very effective work. On two occasions of disc was worked near the mouth of the Feldian goal, but try as they would "Nix" was found unbeatable. Just before the close Cahill made a good individual effort for St. Bon's, and sent a hot one to Hunt which grazed the upright and went behind. The stroke of the gong, announcing the finish, left the Feldians winners by 2 goals to 1.

The St. Bon's by their defeat yesterday, are now out of the running for the championship. The team put up a splendid exhibition of hockey right through the series, and proved themselves foemen worthy of their steel.

WINTER SPORTS PROGRAMME AT PRINCE'S RINK.

The winter sports meet, arranged by the Feldian Athletic Association, took place in the Prince's Rink last night. There was a large attendance and much pleasure was derived out of the programme which followed.

The first event was the Inter Collegiate Relay Race. Two teams entered, viz: St. Bon's and Bishop Field College. F. Rendell took the lead for the Feldians and maintained that position until the second lap when he fell, thus giving St. Bon's a commanding lead. The second and third men for the Feldians kept up a hot pursuit and gradually narrowed down their opponent's lead, but St. Bon's kept to the front and won out by a few yards. The winning team was A. Graham, T. Sutton and M. Monahan.

The next was the Senior League Relay Race. Three teams entered, viz: Feldians, St. Bon's and Terra Novas. The Feldians took the lead at the start, followed by St. Bon's, with the Terra Novas close behind. In the fourth lap the St. Bon's skater fell, allowing the Terras to take second place. This order was maintained until the final three laps. In the second last lap Rendell, who was leading for the Feldians, fell, and Churchill, for the Terras, shot out to the front and kept the lead to the end. The race finished Terra Novas, 1st; Feldians, 2nd; St. Bon's, 3rd. The winning team were W. Peters, W. Barrett and E. Churchill.

The exhibition of hockey between a team of ladies and a male team, under the name of St. John's Granites, proved to be the feature event of the programme. The Granites played with sticks on which there was a blade of only a couple of inches long, and they had to use one hand only. The "fair sex" were in regular hockey attire. The game ended three all.

General skating then followed to the music of the C.L.B. Band.

MARKET LETTER.
There is so much unanimity of opinion as to the future of the stock market as was the case at various times in the course of the advance since last June. A number of the larger forecasting bureaus in which the public places a good deal of faith are openly bearish and others are talking about the possibilities of or predicting a serious reaction. And the stock market itself has been hesitating as if it was not quite sure as to which direction it should take in its next decisive movement.

The situation, as we see it, is as follows. The menace of political radicalism to the future of the stock market conditions are greatly improved and while competition from that source is something that must ultimately be reckoned with, the first phase of the rehabilitation of European industry must be the purchase of large amounts of goods from this country. For the first time in more than ten years the country's two most important industries, farming and railroading, are prosperous at the same time. Money and credit conditions are unusually favorable. The trend of industrial activity and therefore profits is obviously upward and the volume of general business in 1925 gives promise of exceeding that of any preceding year.

The history of movements of the stock market has been that prices have continued to move upward so long as real betterment and expansion in trade continued. It is only when apparent improvement was in reality unsound and inflationary that stock prices have appeared to be moving in the opposite direction to general trade. We continue of the opinion that stock prices in general have yet to reach the highest levels which are to be recorded before the present bull swing is over.

While trade and monetary conditions remain favorable, conditions lying within the market itself are undoubtedly less so. Often during the course of a bull market when the enthusiastic public has temporarily completed its purchases, the market becomes subject to professional attacks, and technical conditions are sufficiently weak, such attacks are successful in bringing into the market a supply of stocks from weak holders which will turn the trend of prices temporarily downward. The biggest argument against such a development at the present time is that so many traders are expecting it. Reactions in bull markets usually occur at times when the rank and file are most bullish. It would not surprise us if the market rallied sufficiently to restore bullish enthusiasm and the reaction, which has been widely anticipated, then materialized. January 23, 1925.

Dredging Work Appreciated

The Dredge Priestman, having operated at Red Island, Placentia Bay, for some time, is leaving shortly after having completed and made a good job of the harbour in spite of unfavourable weather. We wish to offer our thanks to W. J. Walsh, who left nothing undone to have her finish the work, also Capt. Winsor who is well worthy of the trust placed in him and ever willing to do his best wherever he may go to please the people, also to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries as when the boat was in danger of being laid up, he quickly sent a crew and had her continue the work. As always there may be some who are not satisfied, but no blame can be laid to Captain Winsor as anywhere he didn't have rocky bottom to contend with a good job was done.—C.O.R.

Making Friends and Keeping Them.

There's little satisfaction in coaxing customers in one day with the bait of some "scheme" or deal, only to lose them to-morrow, when someone else does the same thing. That's not the kind of customers that make for permanent success of the grocer.

If we have Babbitt's Borax right one day and "almost as good" the next—sold it on a "drive" one day and at the "regular price" the next—there wouldn't be any "regular price" or quality either.

A CLEVER WOMAN.
 It's the easiest thing in the world to spend money. That's what almost everyone thinks. And almost everyone is right. It's the easiest thing in the world to spend money if you don't care what you get in return. But do care it's one of the hardest things in the world.
 That is one of the best paid jobs in the big department store? The job of a woman buyer gets from $2,000 to $10,000 a year just to travel around the world and buy pretty things. What a snap, you may think. Well, ask one of them sometime what she says.
Why They Get Big Money.
 Good buyers get so much money for many reasons that employees ever get large money—because they are hard and hard to get hold of.
 First class buyers are rare. Not only do they have to be good, but they must be in the home buys with their own money.
 How good a buyer are you?
 Did you ever ask yourself that question?
 If you are a married woman, buying is an important part of your intricate life. How well do you perform it?
 A good buyer in the home buys with her own money.
 She knows what stores carry the things she wants. She knows what she ought to buy for everything. She studies the advertisements. She talks over her job with the other women of her acquaintance who are also in the business of buying and is always quick to pick up tips from them.
 A good buyer buys with intelligence. She is always able to recognize values and she knows the shoddy goods which she can go into a store and pick out. She always knows just what she wants and no one can tell her she is buying it, not some time later. The clerks never palm off a poor piece of meat or the wilted vegetables or the ill fitting stockings on her because she has her eyes too open, they save these things for the woman who buys carelessly.
 Even these two qualities do not make a perfect buyer. A perfect buyer is not only with thrift and intelligence but she buys with taste.
 I have a friend who is what I call a perfect buyer. She puts thrift, intelligence and taste into every purchase she makes. She studies the magazines which specialize in beautiful things for the home and for women's wear, and she knows how to get things that other women with as much money, but not as much taste as she, would not know existed.
Everything in Her Home Has Distinction.
 Almost everything in her house, her silverware, her furniture, her cooking dishes have a certain amount of color and line.
 The last time I went to her house I had a new gold fish bowl. Both in

THE GOOD PROVIDER.

The village praised James Bungart Snyder, and threw him nosegays day by day; men said: "He is a good provider, he surely keeps grim want away, he feeds his folks on pie and cider, and dresses them in brave array."
 He blew his coin with princely ardor, and modern comforts graced his shack, and costly victuals filled his larder, including cake and canvas-back; and hard he toiled and ever harder, that he might blow in lots of jack. How different was Tighward Tacker, whose wife and children were old hats! He often dined upon a cracker washed down with water from the vat; he clung to every hard earned smacker, as plague germs cling to city rats. Men used to say, as he went drilling: "There goes a stony grasping knave"; his only thought to gain a shilling, to pare and pinch and skimp and save; his hoarded coin he should be spilling—he can't take guilders to the grave." Then came disease, and these two voters, the good provider and the screw, were soon as dead as Yarmouth blasters, poor victims of the Spanish flu; in vain we used the town's pulmonators, and called police and doctors too. The good provider's wife is aching with thoughts of luxury once known; the village washing she is taking, to earn a piece a paltry bone, and she does scrubbing, charring, baking, and does it with a weary groan. The tightwad's widow rides in splendor, she has a gaudy limousine, and she has stacks of legal tender, of stocks and bonds and good long green; "My husband's course needs no defender," she says while buying gasoline.
CITY CLUB.—The Annual General Meeting having been adjourned until Thursday evening next, February 5th, 1925, at 8 o'clock, in the Reading Room, the election of Officers and Committee for the ensuing year will then take place.—febs.5

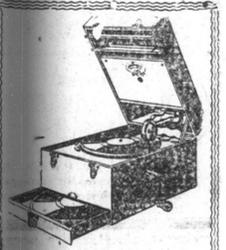

A Different Type of Tuner.
 The tuner we show to-day is presented with some reservations. It is not a new circuit, having first appeared, to our knowledge, some years ago, and being patented by one of the Navy men located in Washington.
 Low-loss enthusiasts may shy at the circuit on the basis that the inclusion of a big resistance "R" in the circuit will not be in keeping with the general policy of "low loss," and will have detrimental effects on the operation of the set. If you fall in this class do not get worried about it; the circuit is quite sensitive, has a good degree of selectivity, and is generally satisfactory. Although possessed of some of the general qualities (selectivity, for instance) of a fairly loose coupled receiver, the tuner has only one tuning control and one additional control for regeneration.
 Explaining the diagram, in Fig. 1 we show a tuner in which grid and plate tuning is effected by means of variometers. "R" is a non-inductive resistance—grid leaks, or Bradley variable resistances, or Crescent L.V. variable resistances, for example—with a resistance of the order of 10,000 ohms. The rest of the circuit is standard.
 In Fig. 2, the resistance of "R" is still the same. The only difference between the circuits of Fig. 1 and Fig. 2 is that in Fig. 1 we have a variable-tuned receiver, and in Fig. 2 we show a condenser tuned and tickler-regeneration method.
 In Fig. 2, "S" is one of the standard secondaries. This, as mentioned before, may be 60 turns of No. 22 d. s.c. wire on a four-inch cardboard tube. The condenser "SC" is a .00025 mfd. variable. The size of the tickler will have to be determined by experiment.
 According to the man who originally brought out the circuit, some interesting results may be had by experimenting with various values of resistance for "R." We suggest that as low as 100 ohms, and as high as 50,000 ohms be tried. Without any experimenting whatever, however, the circuit will be found to be quite satisfactory where interference is not too great.

1923 there were gales that were destructive to property along our coast less by reason of the force of the wind than because they drove great tides up the Severn and the English Channel.

The Size of Rain

A weather expert once set out upon the laborious task of measuring the dimensions of raindrops, and he found that the largest were about one-sixth of an inch and the smallest one-fiftieth of an inch in diameter.
 An interesting fact he also discovered was that raindrops are larger in hot than in cold climates.
 At the moment of condensation of the water vapour to the liquid state, great numbers of extremely small drops are formed close together. As they fall they merge, and thus what we call raindrops are formed. The size of the drop when it reaches the earth depends upon the height from which it has fallen.
 Now, in summer the air is warmer than in winter, and, therefore, clouds are formed at a greater height, where conditions are favourable for rapid condensation.

A Wigan Eccentric
 Buried in Coffin He Made for Himself Years Ago.

Mr. Edward Croston, of Whelley, Wigan, who has just died, was buried in a coffin which he had made for himself several years ago, when he was paraded in the district lying in the coffin on a lorry.
 The coffin at that time had a plate inscribed, "Edward Croston; have no fear—his only fault was drinking beer," but on his real burial this was changed to the ordinary brass plate giving the name, date of death, and age. When he was married Croston went to church on a coal lorry. He was at one time an agent for a local firm of undertakers, and he could often be seen conducting funerals wearing a tall hat and a pair of clogs.

Girl Guides' Association

ANNUAL REPORT OF ISLAND COMMISSIONER.

At the annual meeting of the Girl Guides Association held on Tuesday night at the Synod Hall the following report for 1924 was presented by Lady Allardyce:—

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT (1924).

In the absence of the Island Secretary it is my duty, may I say my pleasure, to report on the progress of the Girl Guide Movement in Newfoundland during 1924.

I use the word progress advisedly. Eight Guide Companies, 4 Brownie Packs, and 1 Ranger Company have been added to our number. New Outpost centres started and new willing workers enrolled.

Let me first refer to the Executive side. We have held six meetings for Commissioners. Eleven of the Executive, 3 of the Local Association, and 10 Guides' meetings, at which we discuss and try to stimulate Company management and plans for the future.

Company reports are sent monthly and are published in the Fleur-de-Lis, our official Gazette. This keeps us in constant touch with the Outpost Companies, and for their further assistance special tests and papers are compiled as requested to make their badge work less difficult.

Miss Mary Mackay was one of the first to join our Organization, and it is sad that other calls prevent her remaining our Island Treasurer. We hope that she will not forget the Girl Guides whose funds she has so carefully husbanded.

We regret that Mrs. Urquhart, our Equipment Officer, has had to resign. The Association must always be grateful to her for organizing this Department, and we are glad that she still remains on our Executive and will help us with our Headquarters and Outpost visitors. The Equipment Department is now in the capable hands of Misses Margaret Duley and Muriel Rogerson. We welcome them warmly. Miss Duley's report speaks for itself.

The Literature Department under Miss Dorothy White has been of great help, while Miss Bartlett as Librarian and Miss Beth White as Badge Officer have done valuable work.

Early in the year Mrs. Harold Mitchell resigned the Secretaryship of Headquarters. Mrs. Hutchings was unanimously elected in her place, and has been entirely responsible for its care. Her interest and willing work is deeply appreciated. We are very proud of our large and airy Headquarters, though we hope the day will come when we may have a house in some less dusty centre with a playground when, weather permitting, company meetings may be held out of doors.

The annual expense of the Headquarters, including rent, heating, light, cleaning, etc., is over $700.00.

Last year we received many generous donations—35 subscriptions from 43 Vice-Presidents. Subscriptions of $1 from 23 members, which added to the proceeds of various entertainments left us with a handsome bank balance. This year we have made no special appeal to the public for funds, nor have we asked the Outpost Companies to contribute to Headquarters' expenses. We hoped that this organization which knows no barrier of class or creed might receive such recognition that would make it unnecessary to hold sales of work or entertainments. But owing to the many other calls on a generous public our subscriptions have fallen off, and we earnestly trust that all interested in this movement will join, or rejoin, in some capacity that we may not have to advertise our needs.

It will be noted in the Treasurer's report that one of the chief expenses was that of the Hais Camp. This Camp was organized to allow three members of each Outpost Company to be present at the Unveiling of the National War Memorial. We felt that our Sister Guides should share in this unique occasion. 65 Outpost Guides and Guides spent 10 happy days under the leadership of Miss Norah Bright at Bannerman House, which was generously lent by Sir Marmaduke Winter for the occasion. Members of the St. John's Association did all in their power to make the visit a memorable one. Many of these Outpost Guides visited St. John's for the first time, and their programme included the privilege of attending some of the functions arranged for Field Marshal Earl Haig, a visit to H.M.S. Constance where they were welcomed by Capt. Campbell himself, and many motor drives and picnics. We wish to renew our gratitude to Misses Hayward, Furlong and Helen Reid for their untiring efforts to make this Camp a success, and to Miss Bright for her true Guide leadership and care of our guests.

It is our dream, if funds permit, to hold a Newfoundland Training Camp this year under the direction of a diploma holder, to which representatives of every Company in the Island will come, and we are in communication with Imperial Headquarters on this matter.

Now for the Guiding side of the movement. My Sister Commissioners have worked keenly and well. All have lent a hand whenever called upon and have shown true Guide spirit in their thought for those who look to them for guidance. Miss Macpherson represented us at the World Camp in Foxlease, England, where last July Guides gathered from every corner of the world.

To my Guiders I tender my sincere thanks for the progress made. They have learned much during the last year, are surmounting difficulties and are steadily growing to their responsibilities. All who were able to take their Guides to Camp are to be warmly congratulated on their successful and efficient efforts. The Outpost Guiders should be specially commended for their work often single handed, learning as they lead. I urge them all to read carefully the Girl Guide Gazette and subscribe to the Guide for Company use. These excellent magazines help to widen our views and to stimulate our work.

We believe that the Guides and Brownies are one and all trying to do their best to keep their promise, their first step in training themselves to grow up good and useful women. A glance at the list of Badges awarded is interesting. Grace Watson was our first Gold Cord, and three of her school fellows gained All Round Cords. The Thrift Badge so far does not figure in our list.

We aim humbly to set our guides on the path which leads first to healthy, wholesome girlhood, and on to wise and practical home-makers.

Wise Guiding calls for sincere work, courage and sympathy. If it is to succeed as we dare to hope.

During the past year I have taken many enrolments and as I watch the eager, earnest, little faces and listen to the steady, clear voices of the children making their solemn promise, I long for others to see and hear them that they may feel that Call to Service. There are hundreds and hundreds of children we cannot reach, and Guiders are urgently needed to replace some who have gone overseas or are unable to continue active service, and to form new companies.

The world-to-day calls out for unity of effort and willing, joyous service, and the Girl Guide Movement affords every woman and girl a chance to prepare herself to meet these needs. In it we may learn to live more nearly as we pray.

We are sincerely grateful to the many friends who have helped us during the last year, to our Lecturers and Examiners, to our Honourary

Notes on Votes

A great many reasons have been advanced as to what was the strongest influence towards the woman's vote in the election of Great Britain.

Some say that the vote was granted through fear that, otherwise, the militant suffragettes might renew their aggressive tactics, but amongst other reasons the one most generally credited is, that the war work of women was a revelation to the world, not only in organized ability and downright hard work, but in bravery and sacrifice as well.

This last reason would seem to be the true one, for if women's work during the Great War, returned soldiers have nothing but praise.

Mr. Arthur Appin, the well-known playwright and novelist, has something to say about women. When the Great War broke out Mr. Appin joined the United Arts Rifles, went to Egypt with the R.N.A.S. as engineer officer, "wangled" his way into the R.F.C. as pilot and observer, and when he was invalided home flew free balloons all over England, making night flights for the purpose of reporting on Zeppelin attacks.

Mr. Appin has this to say:—"I do not believe there can be any room in the England of to-day for mere male dominance. I am all for the absolute equality of men and women. Indeed, I can find no difference between the sexes mentally, morally, or spiritually. Physically, perhaps, women are the stronger and braver, for has not Nature chosen them for a destiny that brings both pain and pride?"

And now to recall a striking war-time incident. A British hospital ship in transit to England, and filled with wounded soldiers, was torpedoed. There were between forty to fifty nurses on board, and these women absolutely refused to get into the lifeboats, insisting that soldiers' lives were of more value to their country in war-time. No soldiers faced death more heroically than did these nurses when they went down with the ship!

In the face of sacrifice and bravery such as this, how can anyone say that because women cannot fight they should not have the vote?

Dorothy Dalton Has Unique Role in "Fog Bound"

POPULAR STAR HAS EXCELLENT PART IN HER LATEST STELLAR PICTURE VEHICLE.

The character of Gale Brenon, portrayed by Dorothy Dalton as the star in the Paramount picture, "Fog Bound," which opens at the Majestic to-day, is one most unique in motion pictures.

Gale is the daughter of a revenue officer, living with her father on a Florida orange plantation. Next door lives Roger Wainright, a wealthy New York man, played by David Powell, who has bought this neighboring plantation for the purpose of being near Gale, whom he loves. Things progress more or less smoothly between the two until after a wild night spent at a nearby Inn, Wain-

Little Jack Rabbit
By DAVID CORY.

Now let me remember, Little Reader, where we left off in the last story. Professor Jim Crow had just written some poetry in his "Wisdom" Book. "That's tucking it under his wing," he said to dear Uncle Lucky, the old gentleman rabbit: "You gave me some new ideas. One is never too old to learn. On Monday I shall read what I have just written to the scholars." and, with a flap of his wings, away flew that wise old professor bird to his pine cone bungalow in the Shady Forest.

"All of a sudden, just like that, the kitchen door swung open and out ran Little Miss Mousie. "Help, help!" she shouted, waving her apron. Goodness me, I hope the pretty flowers on the border won't fall off.

"I'm coming," shouted Uncle Lucky, and away he hopped, followed by the Old Red Rooster.

"The nut cake! The nut cake!" sobbed Little Miss Mousie as the breathless old gentleman bunny hopped up on the back porch.

"What happened to it?" gasped Uncle Lucky, relieved, however, to learn that nothing more dreadful had happened.

"Squirrel Scatterbrain is in the pantry," whispered little Miss Mousie, all a tremble, wiping her eyes with her pink bordered handkerchief. "He has picked out all the nuts and licked off all the frosting."

Without a word Uncle Lucky opened the pantry door. Sure enough, there on the shelf stood the naughty squirrel, his whiskers covered with frosting and his pockets stuffed with nuts. "How dare you!" shouted Uncle Lucky, picking up a fly swatter.

"Cock-a-doodle-do, I'm glad I am not you," crowed the Old Red Rooster, snapping his wings, as Uncle Lucky hopped up on the sugar barrel.

For a moment the surprised little squirrel was too frightened to move. Indeed, he didn't know which way to turn. Guarding the door stood the Old Red Rooster, a big feather duster clutched under his wing, and just behind him, Little Miss Mousie, all indignant, with the big potato masher in her paw.

"Come down off that shelf or I'll swat you," shouted Uncle Lucky. But hardly were the words out of his mouth than the nimble little squirrel jumped right over the old gentleman bunny's head on to a loaf of fresh raisin bread and over the all of the pantry door, scattering nuts all over the floor. Dear me, how poetical my typewriter becomes when your Uncle Dave gets excited! Then through the open kitchen door, he sped back to his Shady Forest bungalow.

"There, there, don't cry," said Uncle Lucky to poor Little Miss Mousie. "I'll telephone down to the Three-in-One Cent Store for a dozen doughnuts."

"Here's a pass for the movie play, I'm glad I have a holiday."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Enjoyable Sociable
AT CONGREGATIONAL LECTURE HALL.

In the lecture room of the Congregational Church last night, a very enjoyable sociable was held, under the direction of the Congregational Ladies' Aid. The room was filled to capacity and all present derived much pleasure from the programme arranged. The concert consisted of Songs by Mrs. H. Small, Misses Jean Taylor, Josephine McNamara, Marguerite Ross, Janet Anderson, B. Langmead; Messrs. Ruggles, McIntosh, H. B. Wardell, Fred Wylie. Reading by Miss Alice Woods, Recitation by Miss Joan Brown and a Pianoforte solo by Mr. Bob McLeod. Following the musical programme tea was served by the ladies. The affair was very successful and the proceeds are up to expectations.

The New Europe
"From time to time reminders of the picture of the new Europe as outlined in the Treaty of Versailles is still far from being complete in details, that the process of adapting the minds of the peoples with habits of breaks, and that it may sometimes be difficult to establish after the ceaseless action of the war, some reasonable continuity between the past and the present," says the Times.

"The latest Allied Conference, unfortunately appears to have succeeded in its main purpose, that a way of solving some of the most difficult international problems has been discovered along and trying search. Agreement on the principal questions at hand has been achieved, and it is only to say that the Conference marks another stage in the slow progress towards normal methods of international co-operation in post-war conditions."

Gent's good English Spats, at SMALLWOOD'S.—Jan 23, 1925

"I don't need help, thank you"

"It is kind of you to offer it, but Fred left us beyond need of financial assistance. Three years ago he was persuaded to buy an Imperial Monthly Income Policy."

"I opposed the idea then, but I have learned the sad lesson that though wives may object to life insurance, widows never do."

"The hundred dollars which I am to get from The Imperial Life, every month, as long as I live, makes it unnecessary for me to become a burden to my friends."

"If I don't live for twenty years, the monthly income will go to Mary to keep her until she is well able to look after herself."

"It is not until lately that I have realized how many good friends we have, and I count not the least among them the young man who persuaded Fred to buy that Imperial Monthly Income Policy."

Thousands of good wives and mothers, made desperate by circumstances, are literally compelled to fall back upon the practical kindness of those whom they have known in "better days".

It may mean some sacrifice on your part to protect your loved ones from such misfortune, but are they not worth the sacrifice?

Write for a copy of our interesting booklet which tells all about Imperial Monthly Income Policies. There is no obligation involved. Address:
