

WRIGLEYS
AFTER EVERY MEAL
THE FLAVOR LASTS
Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEYS is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good. Fresh and full-flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.

UNITED CHURCH HOCKEY LEAGUE BEING ORGANIZED FOR THE COMING SEASON

Senior Group Of Six Teams Now Ready To Begin Play—Managers Secured And Personnel Of Teams Arranged—Schedule Drawn Up—Club To Be Represented In Town League If One Is Formed This Year—Rumors of Trophy Heard.

Arrangements for an active and most interesting season of sport are being completed by officials of the United Church Hockey Association here. The new club is divided into two playing sections, senior and junior. The first section is comprised of boys from 12 to 15 years of age while the latter is made up of young hockeyists of from 15 to 18. Organization of the senior league is already completed. The schedule has been drawn up, players have been chosen and coaches secured for each of the six teams in this section.

Practices are being held this week prospects are good for an engaging season of sport. If it is found necessary, changes may be made in the line-ups of the different squads, but this will only be done where such rearrangement is deemed expedient for the good of the club.

It is further announced that a series of picked players will be chosen from the senior section to represent the club in a Town Hockey League, if one is formed this winter in Campbellton.

Open-Air Rink

Officials of this new hockey organization have also got well started on the proposed open-air rink. This is located at corner of Andrew and Aberdeen Streets and will shortly be in shape.

Trophy Suggested

This week it is rumored that a local organization has under consideration the presentation of a trophy to the winning team of this group. Nothing definite has yet been announced but the possibility that a cup may be put up for competition is being discussed with much interest.

The schedule of the senior section of the United Church Hockey Club appears below. A list of the teams, their managers and their personnel also follows. Similar information concerning the junior group will appear immediately it is announced.

SIFTING FAKE NEWS FROM THE TRUTH
News Gathering Have Great Responsibility and Nobly Live Up to it.

"Fake News and the Public" is the title of a very interesting article in Harper's monthly. It is from the pen of Edward McKernon, superintendent of the eastern division of the Associated Press, that famous organization for gathering news which has nerve centres in almost every habitable portion of the globe. Mr. McKernon essays to tell his readers "how the press combats rumor, the market rigger and the propagandist." His article deals for the most part with the experiences of the Associated Press, but he gives us this little word picture of what is going on continually in the editorial offices of newspapers all over this continent.

As an instance of the persevering manner in which news-gathering organizations seek for absolute verification or denial of sensational rumors before sending their stories broadcast, Mr. McKernon relates this dramatic incident which happened in the New York office of the A. P.

The rush of the day seemed to have ended in the New York office of the Associated Press on the afternoon of June 8, 1924. The wires hummed monotonously with Wall Street's price of pork, tomorrow's weather. In about 20 minutes, the final editions in the east would go to press. The night shift was nearly due. The day editor, that autocrat of the news room, looked at his watch and yawned.

Suddenly out of the air flashed an S. O. S. followed by "Struck an iceberg off Newfoundland. Leaking." There was no signature, the name of the vessel in distress having been lost somewhere as her cry for help was picked up by the British liner Orduna and relayed to the wireless station at the Charlestown Navy Yard. Now this measure in itself might have caused no great excitement except for the coincidence that during the preceding night, the French liner steamer Rochambeau had telephoned the office of the line in New York that she had "sighted ice off the North Atlantic coast."

The Rochambeau was known to be in the general locality from which the S. O. S. had come. Instantly the two messages were associated. As quickly, members of the Associated Press staff were communicating with the office of the French line, others were locating by sea charts and shipping reports, every large vessel in the ice-berg zone and ruffing wireless inquiries to the commanders. The wiremen were connecting the news from North Sydney, Nova Scotia, by direct cable in order to pick up any wireless messages intercepted there. Ten minutes passed. They worked fast. But rumor worked faster. Telephone calls choked the switchboard. "What about the Rochambeau?" "We hear the Rochambeau struck an ice-berg." Have you any word of a collision at sea? To all went the same answer: "We do not know of any disaster."

JESUS OF NAZARETH WAS NOT A MYTH

Says Rabbi Wise—Jews Must Embrace His Teachings.
New York, Dec. 21.—Standing before a capacity congregation in Carnegie Hall, Sunday, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, asserted that the contrary to Hebraic teaching, Jesus of Nazareth was not a myth, but a man and that the Jews must embrace the teachings of Jesus. If Christianity is practical and unattainable, as the Jews say it is, said Dr. Wise, then it is because the Christians have failed to live up to their teachings of Jesus. He declared these teachings comprise a code of ethics unparalleled in any writings in history, being the very foundations of morality.

"In uniting our countries with eternal bonds of steel we have cemented a union of sympathy and understanding unique in history," said Mr. Ingham. "The railroad is the tie that binds us most closely together."

CAMPBELLTON, N. B. DEC. 24, 1925

1926 PROSPECTS

The Financial Post reports that the dominant factor in the current business situation is the confidence with which business leaders are moulding their plans for 1926. In support of this opinion it quotes the head of one of the largest advertising agencies as saying: "Just now there are so many indications of better business ahead that it would take considerable space to list them but one of the most significant is the general disposition of manufacturers to plan confidently and considerably for bigger sales. Already a number of our largest clients have increased their advertising appropriations for 1926 and there is every indication that the number of national advertisers and the volume of advertising for next year will show an increase over 1925."

THE CITY OF TOMORROW

Some startling ideas have been put forward as to cities of the future—skyscraper buildings running to a height we know nothing of at the present day, several of them at various levels far above the ground. A city would thus be in layers, one above the other, and connected at intervals by means of perpendicular street cars, or electric elevators. It is not an altogether new idea. In Toronto it has been proposed more than once that the street level on Yonge street should be given over entirely to vehicular traffic and the sidewalks raised one storey. In the Toronto Star there appeared a year or so ago drawings showing the city of the future with all the street levels used by trolleys and motors and elevated sidewalks at various heights above the ground and connecting the different skyscrapers. It is not likely, however, that the city of the future will be like that. There is a very direct connection between congestion of population and lack of transportation. The skyscraper, to some extent, resulted from the fact that the electric elevator for use in buildings improved more rapidly than the trolley service for transporting the public. Also it was easier to go to the fifteenth floor of the building you were in, than to go two or three blocks to another building. There is

THRIFT AND INHERITANCE

Highly thrifty parents too often have spendthrift children. It would almost seem that the inhibitions of the elders the desires denied in order to save money, sometimes break loose in the next generation.

Parents of only moderate—sometimes even meagre—means, curtailing their own simple pleasures to provide for their children advantages they themselves were denied, will find these children soon exhibiting a marked tendency toward extravagance.

Never having had their parents' experience in saving money, never having tasted the sacrifices entailed, they spend it quickly and thoughtlessly. They are impatient if they are not permitted to satisfy every wish of the moment. Their spending habits often cause dissension between themselves and their parents.

But despite ingratitude and disrespect, most parents retain for their children an affection and concern over their welfare that extends even beyond the grave. "When I am gone," the speculation of what will happen them often saddens the declining years of parents who had little enjoyment themselves, but worked hard to give their children a fair start in life. Knowing their children's weaknesses they want to save them from the consequences, even in the years to come when they will themselves have passed beyond earthly cares.

In some instances they recognize in their children the same traits that, indulged by some ancestor, were responsible for their own early poverty. There may be an inherited talent that shows itself in an unaccountable temptation to gambling or speculation. It may be an utter irresponsibility concerning money that displays itself in wastefulness or extravagance.

IT PAID HIM TO ADVERTISE

One of the most persistent advertisers in the history of success was Robinson Crusoe. He knew what he wanted—and he put an ad. for one. He hung a shirt on a pole, at the top of his island, and that, in the language of the sea, was plain to every sea-faring man.

The circulation was small—there was no other medium, but Crusoe kept at it, despite the fact that he got no inquiries for a long time. He changed his copy—as one garment after another was frayed out—and in the end got what he wanted.

Suppose Crusoe had taken down that signal after a time and declared—"Advertising doesn't pay," where would he be and his story be now?

Put up your signal and keep it there. Crusoe advertised under very discouraging circumstances. You've got a sure thing—it is only necessary to have the patience, persistence and pluck of Robinson Crusoe—and the good ship "Better Business" will soon tie up alongside your pier. USE THE GRAPHIC.

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted
DOROTHY A. F. MARCELL

SYNOPSIS John Mantering, District Attorney, and his wife, Eileen, have returned to their home from the police station after midnight. Their son, Bob, has been in a fatal motor car crash and is held on a man-slaughter charge. Eileen pleads with John to find a way to release the boy, but Mantering, despite his affection, declares his duty is to the state and that it is impossible to release Bob on bail. Eileen, in desperation, all but threatens her husband.

"Well, John, your son is your client now. What are you going to do for him?"

A soul torn with anguish, he faced her, yet she did not seem to sense it. "I am District Attorney," he said humbly.

"That gives you power and influence. With your brains there should be many ways in which you can help Bob. What are you going to do for him?"

"Nothing!" And the word as it came from him was almost a groan.

She viewed him in amazement, as if in truth he was but a distorted image of her husband having a place in one of the families which had beset her that night.

"Nothing! You will do nothing for Bob—our boy? Why?"

"I am District Attorney."

"But, John, that can mean nothing to you when Bob's happiness, when my happiness, is at stake. I don't understand you."

"I'm a sworn officer of the law. I must do my duty."

Duty? What greater duty have you,

W. C. T. U.

May all the peace the Christ-Gift came to give be ours this Christmas Season.

Christmas peace is God's and He must impart it to us with his own hand or we should never get it, go then to God Thou art his child as Christmas day declares.

Be not afraid to go to thy Father pray to Him, say Father I fear I cannot keep Christmas aright for I have not a peaceful Christmas spirit within me and I know I shall never get it by thinking and reading and understanding for it passes all that and goes far away beyond it in the very essence of Thine Eternal Godhead. O Father give me thy Christmas peace.

The highest ambition of any life should be to live a life of usefulness. Our pattern in all things is our Lord and Master. He went about doing good and bringing good cheer and comfort to the poor, sick and needy, also to the sinful, weak and oppressed. We are to love our neighbors as ourselves. The parable of the Good Samaritan recorded by Luke alone teaches us that our neighbors or any one in need.

Where should our service be? In home, school, community, country, province, dominion, all nations. Many are reaching out hands to reach some sort of help, many are suffering. Let us awake to the fact that we who know and have an under obligation to enrich the lives of others with the best blessing of life.

We are so busy, we have so many claims on our time and attention. These about have so much and more. Let us then turn our eyes to those in need and a true vision will present itself.

Friday morning when the Cape Oso school teacher Miss Viola Lenfesty, went to her school for closing day exercises, she found that during her absence some of the scholars had put up a nice Xmas tree in one corner of the room, and had decorated the tree and school room with Xmas decorations.

On the tree were many presents for their teacher, also all kinds of candy and fruit for the children but the teacher was not going to be caught. Let us then turn our eyes to those in need and a true vision will present itself.

The people of Cape Oso are all very a teacher, this being her first year, pleased with Miss Lenfesty's work as she is very popular with her scholars, as well as with the grown up folks, Miss Lenfesty's home is at Cape Cove, Gaspe.

CAMPBELLTON, N. B.

John Mantering, than to me, to whom you have pledged your troth, and to your son?"

"My duty to my state—to my country," he said gently.

Before his persistence she hesitated and, gazing into his face, read the unhappiness there. She reached forth and touched him, while a pleading note crept into her tones.

"You have never failed me before, John."

He eyed her pityingly, shaken by the greatness of his emotion. It was true. In the long years of their married life he had denied her nothing. To him her slightest wish had been a law, the fulfillment of her heart desire a joy. For love of her he had labored to win a place in his profession. His love for her had uplifted him and driven him again to renewed effort in the dark days when, unrecognized and unappreciated, he had almost yielded to despair. This same mighty force had kindled his ambition to even greater achievement again and again in the years which had followed. It was for her sake that he had entered the arena of public life when his own tastes caused him to care little for politics. The turmoil of campaigns, the need to lead for the favor of the electorate, to ingratiate himself with Tom, Dick and Harry were repugnant to an innate dignity which fitted so appropriately with the solemn procedure of the law.

First, last and always, John Mantering was a lawyer. He had been urged with every prospect of success to run for Congress, and even now was much spoken of as a future Governor. But always his tastes had led him to seek judicial honors. Well aware of the reflected honor of place and position, he had entered politics for Eileen's sake. Inevitably it was the office of District Attorney which had appealed to his tastes and training.

And now by a cruel turn of fate, this very honor which he had sought and won for her had come between them. His own high sense of its duties, of the solemn obligations of the oath he had taken, was forcing him, even amidst his own grief at his son's plight, to turn against his heart's beloved. Yes, overwhelmed with sorrow as she was, to wound her yet more cruelly.

Even as he contemplated his predicament, a great wave of feeling seemed to leap from the very depths of his being.

"Ah, Eileen," he said, "don't you know that I, too, love the boy? That I love him and you with every fibre of my nature? Can't you see that I am suffering? Think what it all must mean to me—what it is doing to me!"

And then, as if his words no longer bear to face her, he turned and moved away.

She watched him go. Watched him sink down into a chair and bury his face in his hands. There was affection and sympathy in Eileen's face as if more and more she was appreciating the struggle going on within him. But there was hope in her eyes, too. The hope of a woman who has never been refused. The hopeful confidence of one who, holding a man upon the golden tangle of love, feels that she has but to play her line warily and, his resistance ceasing, he will go her way.

Now she approached him and, pausing beside him, caressed him gently with her hand, a great tenderness in her face.

"Or boy," she whispered, and then "my fighting man?"

With his face still buried in his hands he seemed unaware of her presence.

"You have not to give your mind to John, your wonderful mind, and don't trouble your head over it. I know you."

"I'll do it," he moved.

"With Bob's affairs in his room, John, I can't sleep. I am so— Ah, how I should sleep."

He moved now as if her shot had no home.

Taking comfort from it, her voice was even more decisive.

"You will help him, John?"

He made a movement which she interpreted with doubt.

"You will not, not for me, not for Bob?"

Soberly he withdrew his face from her hands, and, rising, gazed down at her.

Upon his face was the strained and wearied look of a man who was trying intensely, but in his lines was a decision. The unalterable decision of a strong character refined and clarified under the stress of great emotion.

"I cannot," he declared firmly. "I am District Attorney."

Eileen leaped up, brought to her feet by the certainty of his tones. She gazed at him as if she could not believe her own ears, as if there were something about him which she did not recognize. He might have been a stranger from whom she withdrew white faced and hopeless.

Shocked at the startling change in her, John stepped forward. He moved as if to embrace her.

But, quick as a flash, she evaded him, receding from him with a shudder, and standing with her wedding ring and still cycling him. Then she flamed forth with bitter scorn.

"You have spoken truly! You are not my husband! You are not the father of my son! You are the District Attorney—the cruel, hateful District Attorney."

With never a word he stood there before this outburst as if fascinated. Could it be possible that this determined, angry eyed creature was his wife? Where was Eileen—the gentle soft spoken and kindly Eileen? What latent force could work such a miracle of transformation, as to arouse her tender nature to such heights of hostility?

Now came the answer in her own words, half hysterical, yet leaving not the slightest doubt but that she meant exactly what she said.

"But I can fight, John! Thank God, I can and will fight, even if you do turn your back on our boy—for I am his mother."

Still speechless, John Mantering stood there staring at her. Then, as if accepting the challenge she had so boldly hurled at him, he bowed gravely.

LOCALS DEFEAT BATHURST IN SPECTACULAR GAME

CAMPBELLTON TEAM SET NEW PACE IN FIRST LEAGUE GAME ON BATHURST ICE TUESDAY.

Bathurst Fails To Score While Locals Tally Twice—Brilliant Teamwork Gave Campbellton 1-1 Victory—Fast, Clean Contest Witnessed By Over 1100 Spectators—Two Hundred Local Fans, Conveyed To Game By Special Train Cheer Victors On.

Playing like a perfectly adjusted machine, cleverly frustrating even the most brilliant efforts of their opponents to notch even a lone tally, and exhibiting a brand of hockey that was winning hockey cheers from every paper-down fan, the Campbellton hockey team triumphantly opened their season's fight for honors in the Northern Section of the M. A. H. A. league on Tuesday night by defeating the fast Bathurst squad on their own ice in a thrilling contest to the lively tune of a 2-0 score.

The game, which will take its place as one of the fastest and cleanest contests in hockey history on the North Shore, was witnessed by over 1100 fans who stood on tip-toe and soaked the arena with their prolonged cheering. Campbellton supporters probably contributed the greater volume of applause for 200 local fans, brought by special train to witness the encounter, occupied a space especially reserved for them on the right-hand side of the rink and cheered themselves hoarse in a frenzy of excitement.

A Great Game.

Mondays game was a brilliant encounter. With the exception of the first few minutes of the opening period—when both teams seemed to be "feeling each other out"—the play was fast and replete with thrills for those who crowded the sidelines. At intervals too, clever attempts to nag the rubber called forth terrific bursts of speed from both squads and the referee was forced to attend to what was almost a two-man job.

Considering the fast pace of the contest, the game was exceptionally clean. Few penalties were handed out and no evidence of any ill feeling among the opposing players was at any time apparent. The game was, in fact, a memorable exhibition of sportsmanship at its best and far removed from even a suggestion of "rough-house" hockey.

Superior Performance

A superior performance in every way—made possible by the fact that every man was in excellent shape—and skilful and effective teamwork gave Campbellton the victory. The locals had the edge on their opponents throughout the entire game and at times set a pace of such velocity that the Bathurst players could scarcely follow.

Two Goose-Eggs.

Neither team bagged a score in the opening stanza. Play began without any great rush but steadily increased in speed until the gong sounded. While McLean was off for one minute, Bathurst played a five man attack; but without result. Finnigan was more successful several times but saved.

Miller Scores.

Eleven minutes of fast play had passed in the second period when Miller scored the opening tally on a

CHRISTMAS AT THE S. M. HOSPITAL

Elaborate Preparations Made Xmas A Happy Time—Xmas Trees And Decorations.

Elaborate preparations were made and carried out for the entertainment of the patients and Staff at the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital for Xmas Day.

The Merry Xmas Club provided Xmas decorations and gifts for the Staff.

The decorations were in green wreathing, red and green garlands and icicles. The rotunda looked effective with its red streamers from ceiling hanging light and the glistening icicles hanging from garlands, and miniature Xmas trees gave the most festive look.

The Sun Parlors on the three floors had each very handsome, electrically lighted Xmas trees, gay with tinsel and bangles. The trees, standing in the windows, could be seen quite a distance from the Hospital.

On Xmas Eve, the St. Andrew's United Church Choir, rendered music from the Cantata, "The New Born King," which was much appreciated by the patients and staff.

At 5.30 a. m., Xmas morning, the Nurses sang Xmas Carols in the corridors. The patients were made happy through the day by Xmas remembrances and many visitors to the Hospital enjoyed the sight of the prettily decorated wards and trees.

The many friends of the Hospital were most generous in their gifts and on behalf of the Nursing Staff and patients we would like to express our very sincere thanks and appreciation to the Merry Xmas Club for their undertaking to make Xmas a happy one. Also to the St. Andrew's United Church Choir for the music on Xmas Eve, and to all those who individually contributed to the Day's happiness.

M. F. BLISS, Superintendent.

AMERICAN PRINCESS IS DEAD AT PARIS

Dowager Princess of Monaco Was Formerly Alice Heine of New Orleans.

Paris, Dec. 22.—The Dowager Princess of Monaco, who was Miss Alice Heine, of New Orleans, died suddenly here to-day. She was born February 10, 1858, and was married to the Prince of Monaco, October 30, 1889.

Their marriage was dissolved by the Monaco judiciary in May, 1902, and the separation was confirmed by Civil Tribunal of Paris the following June.

H. Moores; penalty timers, C. Brown and E. W. Henry.

Express Thanks.

The members of the team and club wish to express their sincere appreciation to citizens here for their support in making the Bathurst trip such a success. The generosity of those who contributed to the special train project, although unable to go, has not been forgotten; neither has the fine spirit shown by those who backed the team with their presence and their cheers been under-estimated.

After Tuesday's victory it is easy to believe that with the team showing such marked improvement and such a keen interest being taken by the fans, Campbellton should set a new pace in hockey this year, and barring accidents, be a close contender for Maritime honors.

Mr. G. E. McGrath and Master Jack McGrath are visiting in Newcastle.

HON. GEORGE P. SMITH, former Minister of Education, who is under arrest following an investigation into methods under the Liberal regime which ended in 1921.

THRILLING GAME ENDS IN A DRAW

Cattley and Murray, A Campbellton Man, Star in Hard-Fought Contest.

In the opening game of the season in the Lower St. Lawrence Hockey League, Sayabec and Rimouski fought a draw on the former's ice on Monday.

The game was one of the fastest and most thrilling exhibitions of hockey ever witnessed in that district. Brilliant and spectacular rushes, clever combination play and stick-handling of the snappiest style were features of the game and both squads put up a grim contest for the honors.

Cattley a Star

Both squads appeared in excellent form and it is thought that considerable overtime would have been necessary to decide the winner.

Cattley on the defence line for Sayabec was one of the stars of the encounter. His brilliant end to end rushes were thrilling to watch and it was only through ill luck that he failed to sag the Rimouski net several times.

Delaney Murray, a former Campbellton player, also did splendid work on the Sayabec defense line. He was invariably at the right place in critical moments of play and his clever stick-handling evoked frequent cheers from the numerous fans.

The line-up follows:

Sayabec	Rimouski
R. Imbeault	Goal E. Forcier
D. Murray	Defenses F. Guereite
E. A. Cattley	Defense F. Fillion
H. E. Forrest	R. Wing M. McGee

GRAND FALLS WILL GO TO THE BIG THREE IS REPORT

Government Officials And Hydro Commission Off To Montreal To Sell People's Birth Right—Looks Like End of Development By The Public.

Fredericton, Dec. 30.—Members of the Provincial Government as well as members of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission are at Montreal today conferring with capitalists and members of big pulp and paper concerns regarding details of a deal which is expected to finally dispose of the problem of Grand Falls development.

Premier Baxter, Provincial Secretary Legere, Hon. E. A. Bently, K. C., chairman of the Hydro Commission, and other members of the Government and of the Hydro Commission, left St. John last evening for Montreal, and at Fredericton Junction they were joined by Hon. C. D. Richards, Minister of Lands and Mines, and J. D. Palmer, member of the Hydro Commission, from Fredericton. At McAdam other members joined the party.

Following a recent visit of Premier Baxter to Montreal, when he conferred with President Graustein of the International Paper Company, it was announced in the Financial Post that Grand Falls would be developed under an arrangement with the International Paper Company, the Fraser Company Limited, and the Bathurst Company—The Big Three—and completion of details of that scheme is said to be the reason for the present conference.

The Rodney when commissioned in 1927 will be the largest battleship in the world under the Washington treaty. Its displacement is limited to 35,000 tons, armament is also restricted but the vessel will probably mount line 16 inch guns in three triple turrets instead of having only two barrels as formerly. It is estimated that the contract will bring $33,950,000 to the shipyards.

THIS MAN DID NOT LACK WIVES

Forty-Eight Wife Now Seeking Annulment of Marriage to Him.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—John D. Weidemeier, who came into police notice recently through his arrest in St. Louis with the wife of a Chicago furrier, has been termed a "professional husband," who has been married at least 48 times in testimony in an annulment suit brought by one of his wives.

Mrs. Esther Weizer Brooks, concert violinist, who said she had married Weidemeier in 1924 when he was using the name Arthur Brooks, told Judge Lewis yesterday that she was the forty-eight or forty-ninth wife, she wasn't which sure and the judge indicated the annulment would be granted.

"I've been collecting information about this man," said the pretty musician, "and I find he is known on both sides of the sea as a defrauder and professional husband."

"I have gotten in touch with nine women whom he married in the last two years always under a different name. And he managed to get more or less money from each of them."

Three months after their marriage in Des Moines, Iowa, she said her husband deserted her after defrauding her foster parents of $18,000 under pretense that he would establish them all in the movies. Some $6,500 of her money went, sighed Mrs. Brooks.

The plaintiff who identified Weidemeier from a "rogues gallery" photograph, told the judge some of his aliases were Lord Cornelius Beaverbrook, Wallace Siegfried, Sidney Runnee, and asserted that he must have obtained more than $1,000,000 from deluded women. His right name was given as Sigmund Engle. Among women he married, she named Mrs. Virginia Martin, of Washington; Mrs. Rose M. Eukrein, of New York, and Miss Olga Furch, Milwaukee.

Have you a "Twenty Pay Life Policy"?

A Policy on your life will do much towards carrying out your intentions—whether you live or die.

Nothing can absolutely replace your life—but a policy will in some measure offset the financial loss which will come to those who now look to you for support.

It may pay off the mortgage, supply food and clothing for your family, keep the children at school.

It may be all that is left of your life work—to keep you in comfort in your old age.

But—your Policy must be large enough.

The Twenty Payment Life

policy is selected by many for the following reasons

Premiums cease in twenty years—therefore your policy will be fully paid for before you reach later life—when your earning power will have declined.

Cash values increase year by year, and after the third annual premium the policy cannot lapse as long as sufficient value exists.

Dividends are paid during the twenty years and as long as the policy remains in force thereafter.

After two years the policy is indisputable, and you may reside or travel in any part of the world, or engage in any occupation (except aviation) without affecting your insurance.

A twenty pay life policy will provide an amount in event of death equal to twenty or thirty times the annual premium, and produce an estate of $2,000, $5,000, $10,000, or more as arranged.

An Easy Savings Plan

These active progressive years of life in which you are earning the most money are the years in which premiums can be most easily met.

Twenty years is a convenient period and premiums spread over that length of time are moderate and easy to handle.

If You Are Insurable

—do not delay decision on this important matter—delays are dangerous.

ASSESSMENT FACTS FOR MR. CROCKET

Graphic and Tribune Assessments as the Assessment Books Give Them.

Mr. C. S. O. Crocket devotes considerable space in his paper endeavoring to prove that he is a much abused taxpayer of this town, and in his endeavor to prove his assertions hides behind half statements of fact, which are correct as far as they go.

If our readers will remember we distinctly stated in our issue of December 17th that The Graphic was assessed $11,700 whereas Mr. Crocket's estimate assessment was $8300.

Substantially this is correct, and we will give the figures quoting from the assessment roll, to prove this. Before doing this however we wish to state that The Graphic, Limited is a duly incorporated company, capitalized at $7000. Its stockholders are three in number, viz. H. B. Anslow, Mary C. Anslow, who hold 20% of the stock and another party who holds the balance. No other person or party, despite Mr. Crocket's frequent assertions to the contrary, hold a dollar's interest in the company. We hope we have made this clear.

Again we wish to state that we have never had any complaint to make in reference to our assessment. We feel that perhaps it was as fair as the average in Campbellton and have endeavored to pay our taxes each year.

Neither have we had any criticism to offer so far as Mr. C. S. O. Crocket's assessment on real estate is concerned. While he perhaps has, as various dealers have stated, been very leniently dealt with in this respect, yet he is perhaps paying a fair amount.

But we do say that as regards personal property which consists of the piano of The Tribune and a piano in his home, he is ridiculously under assessed.

With the facts of ownership as stated above in mind we will quote now from the assessment roll. Mr. Crocket's assessment on real estate is $8300, which is plant $4000.

C. S. O. Crocket, personal property, which is plant of Tribune and should include a piano, $500.00.

Will any fair minded citizen say that these two assessments are fair and equitable? The Tribune has a plant capable of turning out the same kind of a paper as The Graphic, and for doing practically the same line of work, yet Mr. Crocket is assessed $500 and Mr. Anslow $4000.

Now take the matter of income. H. B. Anslow who is editor and manager of The Graphic is assessed on $2100 while Mr. Crocket who is editor and owner of The Tribune is assessed on $900.00. Again we ask fellow citizens is this fair?

We admit that our income is larger than Mr. Crocket's, but will anyone knowing the circumstances dare to state that Mr. Crocket's business is only worth this figure a year to him.

Then take the matter of building. Both papers have their own buildings, and in general appearance are much the same, that of The Tribune being slightly larger than The Graphic's, but The Graphic is built of terra cotta blocks. How do the assessments compare?

Mary C. Anslow, Graphic building and lot $5350.

C. S. O. Crocket, real estate, being Tribune building and lot $4000.

Now these are the facts as shown by the assessment roll.

Here are two short extracts from The Tribune, the first has appeared about the only smile that paper has copied upon the correspondence of the Mayor and Town Council, past and present, and the town officials who have yearly had to come in contact with Mr. Crocket.

"We find no fault here, Mr. Crocket being a man who would rather be over-assessed than under-assessed and always takes that attitude."

The other quotation is as follows: "On another occasion when the management of The Graphic tried to have the assessment of that company reduced by deliberately making a false statement that The Graphic was assessed nine times as much as its competitor, we dealt with the matter, and the manager of The Graphic at that time crawled into his hole and dropped the discussion like a hot pan cake."

The Graphic still claims that its assessment on plant is eight, not nine times, although last year it was nine times as we have been favored with a slight reduction in this respect, this year it is clearly shown on the 1925 books as quoted above.

If Mr. Crocket says he dealt with this matter on a former occasion it must have been when the writer was away from home, as we assure him we never saw his contribution, consequently his name is not on the assessment books. But why quibble over the facts, anyone who is interested can verify this by examining the assessment roll.

OUR DAIRY BUSINESS

Some figures recently given indicate that a marked change has taken place in the dairy business in Canada during the past few years. For many years Canada was the foremost cheese exporting country in the world. This has changed. In 1904 the exports totalled 233,000,000 pounds. Twenty years later, the exports totalled 150,000,000 pounds, or a reduction over 80,000,000 pounds. On the other hand the production of butter has increased from 36,000,000 pounds in 1904 to 111,000,000 pounds in 1924 and to 132,570,000 pounds in 1924. It will thus be seen that Canada has switched from cheese to butter and has pegged New Zealand to supplant her in the British market, so far as cheese exports are concerned. Yet there is the testimony of Dr. J. A. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, who was formerly Dairy Commissioner in New Zealand, that the Canadian product is superior to that of New Zealand, and that the British people favor it. They are more concerned about the quality than about the price. He said recently in Toronto: "If we will make all our cheese as good as the best, we need have no fears of not being able to sell it in spite of any competition."

MEET WITH ACCIDENT

The friends of Mrs. Robt. Smith of King St. East, will regret to learn that on Saturday evening, while leaving a store she had the misfortune to fall upon the sidewalk and receive painful but not serious injuries to her ankle and also to her side. As a result of her mishap, Mrs. Smith may be confined to her home for some little time.

BIG PRICE FOR FISHING RIGHTS

Changes of Ownership of Fishing Property on Restigouche and Matapedia.

Two valuable fishing properties in this vicinity have changed hands recently. The Cola Steam Camp property on the Matapedia, purchased three years ago by H. H. McLennan and others of St. John for a sum in the vicinity of $60,000 was turned over to a purchaser in Dec. for a sum in the vicinity of $150,000. This property besides the camp consists of the fishing rights, some of which are under lease of about eight miles of water on the Matapedia river a few miles above Matapedia.

Mr. Alex Mowat has also disposed of his property at the mouth of the Kedgwick river. There is considerable property and a fishing camp as well as some fine salmon water. The price is said to be about $25,000.

OFFICER STEWART MAKES STATEMENT

Has No Answer To Graphic's Questions—Justice Department Seems Responsible

G. P. Stewart of Chatham makes the following reply to The Graphic. It will be noticed that our questions remain unanswered, but Mr. Stewart passes the buck along to the Department of Justice and our local constables.

Evidently what was apparent to citizens generally that two or three autos were making regular weekly trips to the Gaspé coast, was not suspected by the officers who are supposed to be watching this traffic.

It is evident that there are not enough officers to watch this traffic. Possibly those now engaged do the best they can, but this matter should be put up to the Department of Customs, and re-inforcements provided at certain seasons of the year.

To the Editor of the World.

Dear Sir:—While it is not my desire as a Civil Servant and public Officer to engage in any newspaper controversy regarding official business, I must ask space for one more letter dealing with the Campbellton Graphic's article of the 17th inst, purporting to be a reply to my letter which appeared in Wednesday's World dealing with the smuggling question.

I appreciate the space given to my letter in that paper, but deeply regret that no offer to support in our work is offered.

The questions asked by that paper as to why the cases were not prosecuted as originally planned, why the parties were not arrested and why warrants were not issued, are entirely outside my or any other Customs Officer's jurisdiction to answer.

Our duties are to get the evidence make the seizure, lay the information in Court and appear as witness when the case is called.

We cannot execute the warrants. That is the duty of county or provincial constables or town police. If there was pull or interference the editor of the Graphic knows full well that it was not our fault and why does he, if he is sincere, not go after the ones responsible. He is in a better position to do so than any officer.

And I want here to assert quite plainly that the Customs Department or its Officers are not in any way responsible for what the Department of Justice may see fit to do.

I know nothing of any goods crossing the Campbellton ferry, as I and other Officers who are employed cannot afford to watch some place for a few cases and allow a schooner to discharge a cargo some place else.

The Graphic errs again when an assertion is made that there was only one or two cases before the courts. I myself have had fifteen prosecutions of the Customs Act alone, and I have received all support possible from the Officials who work in the different Customs offices. Many of those men, who work in the office all day have been out all night with me and on Sundays as well.

In every Customs warehouse from Campbellton to Port Elgin, amounts of liquors have been stored as a result of seizures, not only liquor but automobiles, cigarettes, etc., besides several vessels have been placed under seizure. And we have only a three mile limit and a couple of third rate vessels for patrolling purposes and a Preventive Officer at sixty and seventy mile intervals along the coast. The U. S. A. have an army and navy employed and booze is cheaper in Boston than in Campbellton or Chatham. I could fill many columns dealing with this question and reply effectively to every criticism levelled by parties who are always knocking someone, but I intend to let this letter close the argument as far as I am concerned. While we have not the ability of dime novel detectives like Nick Carter or Sherlock Holmes. I am satisfied that most of us are honestly doing our best, and I will be pleased to recommend that an officer be placed at Campbellton ferry if that will stop the smuggling next summer.

Yours truly,
G. P. STEWART, S. C. O.

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted

DOROTHY A. F. MARCELL

Copyright, 1926, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"THE WIFE WHO WASN'T WANTED" with Irene Rich in a photograph from the novel.

SYNOPSIS

Young Bob Manning has been arrested for driving a car which crashed into another and killed a woman. Bob's mother, Eileen, pleads with her husband, John Manning, who is District Attorney, to release the boy, but he insists Bob must stay in jail. His own duty, John declares, is to the public. A "Then," shouts Eileen, "you are not my husband! But I can and will fight, even if you do turn your back on our boy—for I am his mother!"

Chapter VII

Regardless of certain journalistic assertions to the contrary, there was at least some interest displayed in the campaign Jerome Wallace waged for the office of District Attorney.

Naturally Wallace was interested himself, so interested, indeed, that this morning he had even forsaken his bed and the comforts of his luxuriously appointed apartment up town at an unusually early hour to come down and visit his campaign headquarters.

Slick Jennings, too, had likewise displayed sufficient interest to be stirred himself and be on hand to welcome cordially him whose political destinies he was supposed to forward with deft touch and masterful skill. This self same ability to make a masterful touch deftly was doubtless responsible for the vigor with which Slick chewed away at his after breakfast cigar and regarded with satisfied complacency the presence of the opulent Mr. E. I. Blodsoe—apparently another interested party—at the very moment his principal discovered tidings which seemingly caused him pain.

"Look here—can you beat it?" grumbled Wallace, holding a newspaper aloft that his followers might read its startling headlines, "District Attorney Manning stands firm in decision to prosecute his own son."

"It's somethin' fierce—somethin' fierce," affirmed Mr. Jennings with heat, and then, as Wallace had coolly pre-empted his desk and chair, Slick strode about, a wanderer in his own office, to finally halt at Wallace's elbow and stare over his shoulder as he read aloud.

"With the election only three days away it is almost certain that Manning will be re-elected. Here is the type of public servant the people want, a man who has the courage and fearlessness to see that the law is enforced regardless of whom may be the victim."

"It's somethin' fierce," repeated Slick with feeling. "Some people get all the breaks." Then he stared over at Blodsoe, who, with his hands in his pockets, was gazing out of the window with a frown upon his face. Slick's look was not without satisfaction, as if at least one "break" had not escaped him. Furthermore, it was calculating, seemingly estimating what this particular "break" would stand. Yet his tones lost nothing of their lugubriousness as he went on. "Instead of hurting this guy, Manning, all this stuff about him and his kid is helping him—making a little tin god of him. If I had an ole man an' he threw me down like I'd slip him a slow pill—that is, if this isn't just bla-bla. If Manning is on the level—"

"He is on the level all right. Don't make any mistake about that. He's just d—mned fool enough to carry it through," Blodsoe broke in. Turning impatiently from the window, he moved over to the desk and picked up the paper only to toss it aside in disgust. "He's got his re-election all sewed up, I tell you. Nothing but a miracle will stop him." With which political forecast Blodsoe turned as if to depart.

But Slick was before him. Confidence and assurance lighted his eye as he intercepted the millionaire. In the very face of the other's gloomy prediction he was cheerful.

"Nobody never won no election till the vote was counted," he declared firmly. There was a super-abundance of negatives in the assertion, but it was meaty—very meaty. It conveyed meaning, and great minds are prone to neglect nonessentials.

"Things can happen—d—m n fun-ny things can happen sometimes," continued Slick with feeling. Evidently this man was a student of life, for here was sound philosophy if somewhat crudely expressed. A modernist was Slick, yet one who conceded that miracles were possible. Yes, in his manner there was a vague something which seemed to express a willingness to see that miracles took place—more, even to the extent of performing them himself. And his confident smile, the cocky angle of his hat and the jaunty tilt of his cigar seemed to breathe the marked capabilities in that line did he but set his mind to it.

But suddenly the hope and promise in Slick's mein seemed to fade. It was as if the brightness of a cheery day were veiled by mist, and all his powerful as he was Mr. Jennings could not escape an immutable law. He hooked a finger into the rotund waistcoat of E. I. Blodsoe and regarded it as though he contemplated further explorations.

"It takes gas—a lot-a-gas—to make the ole bliver climb a hill," he exclaimed cryptically, "and the tank is low—runnin' blame low."

Mystic words these to the uninitiated, but apparently not to Mr. Blodsoe. He hesitated, looked very grim and then with a sigh produced a check book from his pocket.

The effect of this action upon Slick was electrical. In an instant he was his cheerful self again—indeed, more so, for now joviality and cordiality appeared to exude from every pore of his plump body. As one who has completed a difficult task, he mopped the perspiration from his brow and waxed very busy. In his haste to see that Mr. Blodsoe was given every convenience and comfort in the preparation of his check Slick was rather unceremonious in the manner in which he ousted Wallace from the desk and chair.

But Wallace did not appear to mind. Such was his confidence in Slick's abilities, seemingly, that the mere sight of Blodsoe's check seemed to erase the memory of the morning's bad news. Flicking a speck of cigarette ashes from his carefully pressed trousers, he adjusted his tie and departed with that inscrutable smile of his upon his face. He went apparently in the best of spirits to take a drive, a long drive, which led, in the direction of the jail, a place where at that very moment in the visitors' room Eileen and two lawyers were in conference with Bob.

Yet it was a curious conference, a rather one sided one, for Bob sat apart and gave little heed to what was taking place.

"As to the postponement," one of the lawyers was explaining to Eileen, "we have procured a continuance of thirty days, which in the congested state of the calendar means that the case will not come to trial for at least six weeks."

Eileen bowed and turned to give Bob a smile of encouragement, which faded as another thought claimed her.

"Did my—did the District Attorney object?"

"Oh, no," said the lawyer quickly. "There could hardly be objection to that. We have been retained so recently in the case that as a matter of course we are entitled to ample time to prepare an appropriate defense for our client."

"But did the District Attorney say anything? I should have thought he would have said something," persisted Eileen, and there was a wistful look in her eyes.

"No; he merely nodded. Perhaps he didn't even do that. I am not certain," said the lawyer, beginning to gather up the papers before him and place them in his brief case. "There is nothing more to be done at present, Mrs. Manning, I think. Anyway here is the jailer. Our time is up."

Eileen rose and, moving over to Bob, took hold of his hand as the dincer approached. Mechanically the youth got to his feet, and as he faced her his lips began to quiver. Instantly she gathered him in her arms, and the brave smile with which she had regarded him became a pathetic grimace over his shoulder as she fought back the tears which brimmed her lids.

"Mother, you are crying; you must not." Bob protested, as withdrawing from her embrace, he gazed into her face a moment later.

"Oh, no, darling," she protested with an effort which would have deceived nobody. "That's the penalty of vanity—there is some mascara in my eye."

"Well, anyway, I'm all right. I'm getting along fine, getting a great rest," he declared with a sorry attempt at gaiety, which quickly faded. "There's dad, mother; it's pretty hard on the pater, this sort of thing, with him in office."

"Y—e—s," she agreed, but with a final embrace she followed the jailer without another word to turn almost fiercely upon the lawyers as the door of the visitors' room closed upon them.

"We must win," she said. "Do you understand? We must win!"

And so, with her thoughts dwelling upon the plight of her son, Eileen emerged from the jail just as the big car of her husband drove up at the curb. Filled with surprise, even with suspicion, she watched it. What was it doing there? Did its presence bode ill to Bob? As she waited John Manning descended. "What was he doing there?"

Suddenly Eileen was aware with a wave of feeling that he looked wan and tired—yes, dreadfully tired. Promptly she steered her heart. Why should she care? Ah, but under the strain which burdened him John might become ill, said a soft small voice within her. Let him, cried the iron of her soul; he could not prosecute Bob. But someone else—

Eileen hesitated there on the curb, then waited for her husband to get into his arms filled with a certain apology in which she had indicated them.

"Five things for Bob," he murmured, a vague aloofness about his eyes.

"I'll remember Bob," she murmured in her comfort. He loves me, too, said that wee small voice within her. Yet swiftly her heart was as steel. If he loved her how could he prosecute him, did him imprisoned in that horrid place of cheerless cells, of clanging metal doors and bars, steel bars. She thought of the thought of them.

"Stay 'til a moment," he went on. "If you care to remain I can run you out home on my way back to the office."

Eileen decided to wait, and, seating herself in the car, fell to thinking. How swift had been the change in her feelings towards him. Yesterday he had been all in all to her; today—she did not know. Obtrusive as everything about her, she sat there wondering.

Thus it was that she did not perceive the approach of Jerome Wallace's car. Nor for that matter did Wallace himself become aware of her presence until, having parked his own machine, he descended and started to cross the sidewalk. Then he paused, clearly surprised to see her there. But not for long. Too successful was Wallace to be at loss over a course of conduct for any extended length of time. As coolly as if he had but that minute caught sight of a friend with whom he was on terms of the closest intimacy, Wallace made for the Manning car.

Deep in somber thought, her face pale and weary from loss of sleep and anxiety, Eileen was leaning back in the seat with her eyes closed as Wallace drew near.

For a second he paused, peering in at her, drinking in her beauty. Then bold as brass he stepped up to the door.

She opened her eyes and stared at him, startled at his presence and amazed at the familiarity of his address. Then swiftly came the remembrance of his liles.

Without a word she turned to gaze into the distance with unseeing eyes.

He did not flinch under this cold reception; instead, with an impulsiveness unusual in a man of his poise and reserve, he thrust open the door of the car.

"Eileen," he burst forth as if driven by overwhelming sympathy. "I know of your trouble and I would gladly be of service to you if I could. Isn't there something, some little thing, that I could do for you?"

Amidst her suspicions, it seemed to Eileen that not only was there warmth in his tones, but that sincerity rested in his face. Could she have been mistaken about Wallace? The disinterested regard of an honorable man? Very lonely and forlorn had Eileen felt since her break with her husband. She needed sympathy, encouragement, help—yes, help from any source which would benefit Bob. He seemed to sense something of the drift of her feelings and it gave a new direction to his words.

"Because fate has seen fit to array me against your husband in the race for District Attorney has meant no feeling of unfriendliness on my part. The nomination came to me undesired and unlooked for. To one who realized as fully as I the enticement in which your husband is held in this community it has partaken somewhat of the nature of a forlorn hope."

Into his words was creeping a greater warmth.

"I tell you frankly, Eileen, the thought of being District Attorney has meant little to me—that is, until this moment. Now, for the first time, I realize the power of the office and recognize what it would enable me to do for you and your son."

Eileen's heart leaped and her coldness departed. Were not these the words of a friend? Of a true friend who, seeing eyes to eye with her, recognized what would benefit Bob? But even as she changed, he changed. Wallace, appearing to regret his impulsiveness, grew contrite.

"After all, it is very stupid of me to go on talking in any such strain," he declared. "Doubtless your husband will be re-elected, and

Pittsburg Terminal Coal Company Pay Car Relieved of $47,900

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 27.—The Christmas payroll of the Pittsburg Terminal Coal Company, totalling $47,900, was taken from the pay car by six armed men at Mollenbauer, a mining settlement, near Pittsburg today. The robbers made their escape in an automobile.

The bandits shot I. L. Gump, a guard, in the abdomen. His condition is critical. Leroy Hutton, paymaster for the company, and Gump, another guard, had just alighted from a special Pittsburg and West Virginia Railroad pay car to go to a mine nearby, when the robbers drove up. The bandits opened fire immediately. The first volley brought down Gump. Hutton drew a pistol but was forced to drop it. One of the robbers jumped from the machine, took the bag containing the payroll and then returned to the car. As the robbers drove away towards Liberty, they fired a parting volley of shots at Hutton and the guard.

The police, county detectives and deputy sheriffs were sent out to guard all roads in the region.

ATTACKED BY BOBCAT

On Wednesday afternoon, while Fred Morrison of this town was taking one of his usual rambles through the woods near the Forrest Road, a bobcat sprang from a tree, alighted on his left shoulder and proceeded to claw him up. Young Morrison was heavily clad, wearing an overcoat and sweater besides regular clothes, which no doubt saved him from more severe punishment or perhaps death when the incident occurred and it knocked him to his knees, but he got to his feet as quickly as he could and attempted to throw the animal to the ground.

This he finally accomplished but not before he was badly scratched about the face, hands, arms and chest and his clothes torn to ribbons. The most severe scratches are on the left arm and chest, where one claw in each case went to the bone. The scratch on the chest is two inches long and that on the arm about the same. After he had shaken the beast to the ground he put his foot heavily upon it and reached to his trousers pocket for a revolver he carries on his trips. But in the effort to get the weapon he relaxed his weight on the animal and it slinked away under the trees. He had been attacked so suddenly and had so much clothing on—all tightly buttoned up that he could not get to his gun sooner. It was four o'clock was eight before the young man reached home. He had to travel three and a half miles through the woods to John Cripps' farm and that gentleman hitched up his team and drove him home. He is able to be up and about the house today and while smarting under the wounds is cheerful and thankful that he is alive—Chatham World.

FORTIFY YOURSELF AGAINST PNEUMONIA

The one thing to keep always in mind during the winter months is that pneumonia attacks only those who cannot fight back—those whose systems lack the power to drive off the insidious disease germ. Many people who apparently are in good health, lack this fighting strength to resist disease.

Pneumonia is really a cold that has attacked the delicate lining of the lungs.

Are you fortified, well through, vitality and your rich blood, to resist pneumonia? If, at the first sign of a cold, you take Father John's Medicine, you not only get rid of the cold itself but also gain the vitality and fighting power to ward off further colds.

The worst part of our winter is still to come. Build up your health and strength by taking Father John's Medicine.

EFFICIENCY

A Dutchman was recently expatiating on the folly of giving women the vote as has been done in England and Canada. He declared that in Holland, there was a greater efficiency among the female sex where they did not possess that doubtful privilege. He pointed to the fact that the Dutch woman sits with one foot on the spinning wheel or churn and with the other she rocks the cradle containing the twins; with her hands, she knits socks for her husband, while on her knee she rests a book from which he is improving her mind by study. And all the while she sits on a cheese pressing it for market. Greater efficiency than this hath no woman.

TUDOR CITY TO HOUSE A MILLION

Greatest Apartment Development in World Projected in Prospect Hill Section.

Development of a Tudor city in the Prospect Hill section enclosed by 40th and 44th streets between Second and First avenues, overlooking the East River at a cost of $32,500,000 to $100,000,000 and housing 800,000 people, was announced recently by Fred F. French, real estate operator. Five acres of the ground in that section, comprising 200,000 square feet, have already been purchased, and it is expected that these parcels will be augmented by the purchase of from two or to five more acres. The general layout of the tremendous development, which when completed will be the largest apartment house operation of its kind in the world, will be that of a compact residential community, complete, with market place, gymnasium, gardens, swimming pool and other centres of communal life. The connected structure, developed along Tudor lines, with gables, old English rates, hanging lanterns and other architectural features, will be capped by a 30 story central tower hotel. The development will graduate down from the central tower to one-storey residences. A central heating plant at 40th street and First avenue will warm the city within a city. Above the heating plant there will be constructed a 15-storey garage for the motors of the residents. "This building project solves the traffic problem of Manhattan Island," said Mr. French, "by pointing the way for similar developments in other sections of the city. It brings a high-class residence nearer a concentrated business district within walking distance. "Manhattan Island must be rebuilt and it can't be done by individual builders constructing small buildings. Future construction in Manhattan must be done on this large communal scale, where great numbers of the best men can be housed in the best manner near their places of business. "We must learn to build by the block. "Because we have been able to purchase the land cheaply and will be able to build with similar economy, it will be possible to rent apartments at $500 a room a year, instead of the $1,000 a room charged on Park Avenue. "Apartments will range from one room and a kitchenette to twelve rooms and four baths, so that every type and kind of family can be accommodated."

PLAN REVIVAL OF ANCIENT CHURCH

Anglican Bishop of Jerusalem Sanctions Hebrew Branch of Apostolic Church Jerusalem, Dec. 23.—The Anglican Bishop of Jerusalem has set the seal of his approval upon a movement designed to revive the ancient Hebrew branch of the Apostolic Church. In a public statement the Bishop holds that now that there has come into being, by the approval of the League of Nations, a Jewish spiritual and cultural centre in Palestine, where the Jewish national feeling may learn to express itself in some tangible form, the revival of the ancient "Jewish-Christian" branch of the Church becomes possible. The Jews who are to form the principal body of this Jewish-Christian congregation proclaim their right to observe the national and social customs of Israel. The Hebrew branch of the Apostolic Church fell into disuse following its ban by the Council of Nicea in A. D. 325.

What About Your BATTERY AT ZERO

Cold weather is a severe test of any battery. Your engine is harder to start. You burn the lights longer. And a battery which will deliver 100% of its rated output at 70 degrees will deliver only 50% at zero. Proper attention to your battery NOW will save time, temper and money. Don't blame the battery for YOUR neglect. IF YOU DRIVE YOUR CAR 1.—Make three or four Hydrometer tests over a period of a month to be sure that the generator is keeping the battery sufficiently charged.—As a rule the charging rate of the generator should be increased for winter driving. 2.—If your battery is not in first-class condition have the necessary repairs done. 3.—Have the oil in your crank case changed to the grade recommended for winter driving. IF YOU LAY UP YOUR CAR Let us store your battery. This will save you from worrying over a possible costly freeze-up and ensure your battery being in first-class condition in the Spring. Wet Storage Dry Storage This method of storage keeps your battery properly charged all winter—prevents freezing. Your battery is dismantled and re-assembled with new insulation in the Spring. POSTAL SERVICES INSPECTOR RETIRES

Dawson McKendrick is Honored by Postmaster-General and Co-workers.

St. John, Dec. 26.—Dawson McKendrick, inspector of postal services, who has been for a number of years in charge of the railway mail service branch of the department, is retiring on superannuation Dec. 31 after 47 years in the postal service. During the last six months Mr. McKendrick has been on leave of absence. W. F. Griffith is acting in his place at the present time but no permanent appointment has been made as yet.

On Wednesday Mr. McKendrick was called to the office of the district superintendent, H. W. Woods, who, on behalf of himself and the staff, made the presentation of a beautiful floor lamp to Mr. McKendrick, and also presented a parchment letter received from Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster-General. The letter conveyed the Postmaster-General's appreciation of the faithful service Mr. McKendrick had rendered to the Dominion during a period of about 47 years.

Mr. McKendrick replied suitably, thanking his office comrades for their kindness and their gift and expressing his pleasure in the Postmaster-General's commendation.

Entered Service in 1878.

Mr. McKendrick entered the railway mail service in May, 1878, and was transferred to the inside office at St. John in 1910. He was promoted to be superintendent of railway mail service in 1918 and at the time of the amalgamation of the superintendency of railway mail clerks with the post office inspectors' department he became an inspector of postal services. He has enjoyed the goodwill of all members of the postal department with whom he has been associated, and they have extended to him hearty good wishes in his retirement.

MRS. GALLOP A PIOUS PRISONER

Says She Became Converted During Pilgrimage to St. Anne De Beaupre.

Quebec, Que., Dec. 29.—The most pious of the one hundred or more prisoners in the Quebec jail at the present time are said to be two facing murder charges, Mrs. Emily Sprague Gallop, and W. Bigaouette. Mrs. Gallop is charged with the murder of her husband by poisoning, and Bigaouette with the murder of his mother.

Mrs. Gallop has become a Catholic, saying she decided to do so during a pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre. Bigaouette spent Christmas praying and declaring that he was innocent of the charge against him, adding that the whole affair was a terrible mistake. It is understood that a mental examination will be asked for in the latter case before being brought to trial.

Mrs. Gallop was arrested at Moncton, N. B., last fall.

HE PINNED HIS HOPES TO HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN

For the past ten years I have been employed as a dining car steward, and the following story is the best I have heard during my railroad career.

A short while ago, while on my run from Toronto to Windsor, I had the pleasure to have as guests in my dining car Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, and Mr. A. Ellis, Canada's official hangman.

Mr. Ellis wished to meet the Hon. Arthur, so I introduced them.—After they had finished their conversation I asked Mr. Ellis how his health was, and also in a joking manner asked him how business was getting along in his line. His reply was as follows: "Well, business is pretty bad at present, but I think it will pick up should there be a change of government."
