GUARD KEPT THE DUKE WAITING

Investigation at Ottawa May Now Be In Order LIEUT. ROPER DEAD

Was Honorary A. D. C. to Earl Grey—Governor-General Contributes to Sunday School Fund—Museum Walls Parting—Newfoundland Passes Explosives Law

(Canadian Press) Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 17.—There may be an investigation into the tardiness of the guard of honor for His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught at Quebec which kept the royal governor-general ten minutes waiting.

Lieut. Col. Sydney C. D. Roper, at one time commander of the governor-general's foot-guards and honorary A. D. C. to Earl Grey, died yesterday, aged 62 years. He was employed in the dominion customs department.

The Duke of Connaught yesterday sent a contribution of $25 to Christ Church Cathedral toward the Sunday school fund, following his attendance at the children's Sunday service at the cathedral yesterday.

The crack in the tower walls of the Victoria Museum has within the last few days begun to cause real anxiety among the officials. The plaster on the tower ceiling is now so loose that there is danger of its falling at any of the four stories on to the heads of those below.

On the top floor the fissure in the walls now gapes to a width of nearly six inches. It is also said that some of the steel girders have only about three-quarters of an inch of square left at the ends. Workmen are engaged in the work of erecting a temporary roof over the junction of ceiling and walls, and the whole situation will be made the subject of expert investigation and report.

The little island of Newfoundland which Canadians are wont to regard with patronizing eyes has in one respect, shown itself more enterprising than the dominion itself by passing a replica of the Explosives Act which was introduced into the Canadian house of commons months ago.

A rather curious feature is a request from Newfoundland to the mines branch of Canada for a copy of the Canadian bill as passed. It appears that Newfoundland has already several parties in Canada. Such has not been the case.

WHOLE FAMILY MURDERED Ellsworth, Kan., Oct. 17.—Slain as they slept on Sunday night, the bodies of Will Showman, a chemist, his wife, and three small children, were discovered last night in the Showman home by a neighbor. The features of all were battered with an axe, the baby's head being severed.

GOVERNMENT AT ODDS WITH NATIONALISTS

Differences Arise Over Financial Provisions of Home Rule Bill Though Agreed on All Else

(Canadian Press) London, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press)—Serious differences have arisen between the government and the Irish Nationalists over the financial provisions of the Home Rule Bill. On all other points, there is practical agreement.

The Irish parliament is to consist of two elected chambers and Irish representation, largely reduced, is to be maintained at Westminster.

The Irish government is to have control of police administration on which the Nationalists propose a saving of $700,000 annually.

LUMBERING IN SUNBURY J. P. Wetmore of Oromocto Company Says Cut Will Not Be Large—The Market Outlook

Predicting that the lumber cut on the Oromocto river will not be half as large as last year's, J. P. Wetmore, manager of the Oromocto Lumber Co., Ltd., left for his home in Central Blueville last night.

In reference to the British market, he said: "The Baltic supply has always to be considered, for that territory has many advantages over the British market. The present slack will give the British merchants a chance to get rid of their stocks which have been accumulating for years and it may in the long run prove to be of advantage."

CHINESE FORCES BEGIN OPERATIONS TO REGAIN THE CAPTURED CITIES

Troops Camp Near Hankow And Gun Boat Prepares to Shell Wu Chang—Rebel Officer, Caught Pocketing Money, is Beheaded

(Canadian Press) Hankow, China, Oct. 17.—The imperial government today began aggressive preparations for the recapture of Hankow and Wu Chang. The first train load of troops from the north arrived on the scene and camped north of Hankow.

Earlier in the day, the imperial navy force in the river was augmented by the arrival of one of the navy's modern gunboats which carried Admiral Sir Chen Ping, who immediately took command of the situation.

The first move was to assure the foreign consuls that the foreign consuls would not be endangered by any bombardment which he might undertake. His purpose, it was believed, was to begin shell the rebel force around Wu Chang at once.

WOODSTOCK GRAND JURY IS HEARING THE BRADGEN CASE

Charge is Killing Woodman McCluskey in May Last—Judge Asks Them to Report on Condition of Jail

(Special to Times) Woodstock, N. B., Oct. 17.—At the circuit court session, opened here this morning, Judge White presiding, the most important case is that of Wm. Bradgen, charged with the murder of Wm. McCluskey. H. P. McLeod is prosecuting, and P. B. Carvell is counsel for Bradgen.

Other business was taken up by the grand jury which elected J. A. Lindsay foreman. Judge White said that part of their duties was to pronounce upon an indictment for murder in the case of Wm. McCluskey, who was charged with having in Woodstock on May 3, shot with a pistol shot, Woodman McCluskey who died within twenty-four hours as a result of the wounds. He pointed out what the evidence would have to establish to find a true bill for murder. If the evidence did not warrant it the verdict could be manslaughter or even the prisoner could be found not guilty.

TO CONTEND EXPLOSION DUE TO GAS

A Line on Defence in McNamara Case Is Obtained MONTH TO GET JURY

(Canadian Press) Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 17.—Speedy completion of the jury, that is within a month or a little more, was the outlook when the McNamara murder trial opened here today. Estimates that the jury room would remain unfiled until December 15, or perhaps until Christmas, were held down to Thanksgiving or December 1, and predictions that the trial would not end before May 1, were abbreviated correspondingly.

The examination of Z. C. Nelson as a witness has cleared the atmosphere, it was agreed, by defining many issues involved in the effort to determine whether or not James B. McNamara is guilty of causing the death of Charles J. Haggerty in the Los Angeles Times explosion and fire.

Any witness who believes the Times building was blown up by gas believes McNamara innocent, in the opinion of the defence. This position was taken by Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel for the defence, and it is noted by the belief that it can be made serviceable to them in examination of witnesses whom the state believes to be undesirable.

He was steering, missed a spoke of the wheel and fell into the water. He sank quickly, a boat being unable to reach the spot in time to save him. He leaves two sisters in Halifax.

Regina, Sask., Oct. 17.—The German-speaking Catholic society, at a meeting last evening, to discuss the advisability of taking steps to give the bilingual system introduced into the schools of the province, decided to institute the bilingual system in the St. Mary's school in this city, where 200 of the 375 pupils are Germans.

DIGGS MUST HOLD DOWN BOTH JOBS In the police court this morning Thomas Comors, James Murphy, William Hare and Phillip Bushman were each fined $8 or two months' jail on the charge of drunkenness, and Daniel McAfferty a like amount for profanity. Alex Diggs, a friend of Bushman, asked that Bushman be allowed his liberty as he had work to go to. He said that if he were sent to jail he (Diggs) would have to hold down his job, as well as his own, and he did not want to do this. Bushman was sent to jail however.

CHRYSTIE MATHEWSON AND COOMBS TODAY

Likely Choice For Third of the World Series NEW YORK LESS CONFIDENT

(Canadian Press) New York, Oct. 17.—That the big baseball title at stake between the New York Giants and Philadelphia Athletics, largely depends on Christy Mathewson, the veteran giant pitcher, who won the first game here on Saturday, is the opinion of the big crowd of fans who returned from Philadelphia last night and today. It seems a safe prediction that the crowd of some 40,000 enthusiasts, who are expected to storm the polo grounds today, to see the third game of the series, will have less confidence of a local victory.

Mathewson and Coombs, the hero of last year's championship series, will probably be the opposing pitchers in today's game. If Mathewson loses the duel, it will be a still harder blow, seemingly necessitating the resort to White or Ames, the relief pitchers.

Marquard's nervousness, exhibited in a costly wild pitch at the start of yesterday's game, had been predicted by many fans because of his sensitiveness to opposition "rooting." The fans believe that on some grounds he would make a better showing.

So intense was the interest in yesterday's game that thousands of enthusiasts abandoned their work to follow the contest at the bulletin boards, and the tickers and newspaper bulletins.

Justice Charles Brown, of Buffalo, who is sitting in the supreme court here, hearing the interesting testimony in the "Rustie-Lambly" breach of promise trial, was so much interested in the baseball contest, that he arranged with the reporters to serve him with lunch during the play.

KEEPING BACK THE ONTARIO ELECTIONS FOR THE NEW LIST Toronto, Ont., Oct. 17.—The date of the coming provincial elections will be as late as possible so far as the new list is concerned. The date of the elections will be announced at a later date. The early morning was not encouraging from the standpoint of weather. While there seemed to be no immediate prospect of showers, the chance in favor of rain looked about the same as the prevailing odds on the game, six to five. A postponement of the election would mean that the game would be played here tomorrow.

PLAIN STATEMENT NEEDED
Dr. Daniel's resignation in order to make a place for Hon. Mr. Hazen, together with this morning's announcement that the by-elections are fixed for November 3, and nomination day for October 27, will intensify St. John's interest in the attitude of the new Minister of Marine, and of Mr. Borden's government, toward the Canadian navy and the Courtney Bay project.

Dr. Daniel is no longer young, though he is hale and hearty, and he has run many elections. Therefore, his translation to the sweet repose of the Senate, beyond the reach of hungry patronage hunters, is politically natural enough, however the people of the city and county may regard the somewhat precipitate decision of their member to turn their interests over to a successor.

It is not, however, with Dr. Daniel, but rather with Hon. Mr. Hazen, that the people of the city and county have to deal just now. Only a few days will elapse before nomination day, and, as the time is very short, the electorate will expect a prompt, definite, and exceedingly plain statement from Hon. Mr. Hazen first, as to the Borden naval policy of which he is to be the official exponent, and secondly, as to what the government proposes to do with respect to Courtney Bay and the additional harbor facilities required on the West Side.

The old government, thanks largely to Hon. Mr. Pugsley, had brought the plan of national harbor development here into a very satisfactory state, and Parliament had not only authorized the department of public works to proceed with these important plans, but had voted public money sufficient to carry them through the preliminary stages. There are national works formally recognized as such by Parliament. The Borden government is pledged to the nationalization of the leading ports and to their equipment in a measure sufficient to handle the traffic which should come to them because of our rapidly expanding transportation system and because of their geographical position, which we are pleased to remember, in the case of St. John, is peculiarly fortunate.

In these circumstances, the carrying forward of the projects in Courtney Bay and on the West Side, the completion, in fine, of the whole comprehensive plan of harbor development here, not only constitutes a national work of the first importance, but is of overwhelming local significance in the sense that it will do much to give St. John a great forward impetus and prove a factor of no little moment in the development of the province at large. The position of Hon. Mr. Hazen, and the government he represents as minister for New Brunswick, in relation to these matters, should be made clear without delay or equivocation.

WHAT WILL THEY DO WITH IT?
The Monetary Times has been looking into the attitude of the Canadian manufacturers toward the British preference, as disclosed by the Conservative newspapers since election day. In spite of the expressed opinion of a few of the high protectionist manufacturers that the British preference should be dropped, the Monetary Times favors the conclusion that for the present at least the Conservatives will not bow to the guidance of that wing of their party which wants a tariff as high as Haman's gallows. It is, perhaps, significant that a journal like the Monetary Times appears to realize that since the defeat of reciprocity the fate of the British preference is more or less uncertain. It says:
"The three most strenuous competitors for Canada's trade are Great Britain, the United States and Germany. The last-named country will probably seek better trade relations in the near future. Their business with Canada is increasing rapidly. In the case of Great Britain, the British preference is an important factor. Through all the discussions which were waged for and against the proposed American reciprocity agreement, this question of British preference was examined and exhibited in a dozen different lights. Only three important suggestions were made: one, that the British preference should be maintained; two, that it should be increased to fifty per cent, and three, that it should be abolished until Great Britain's legislature considered practically the question of trade within the Empire and Imperial preference.
"Of the three alternatives, the Monetary Times believes that the maintenance of the British preference is the only one which has been given serious thought. The Canadian manufacturers realize that an increase in the preference to fifty per cent. would mean, in their present position, an important factor in the domestic

LIVERPOOL AFTER THE BIG STRIKE

Effort to Turn the Cause of the Riot Trouble Into a Blessing—Some Phases of it Reviewed

(Times Special Cable)

Liverpool, Oct. 16.—It is said that some good people lived in Paris through the Commune and never knew anything about it. No one lived in Liverpool during August without knowing a great deal more than they cared to about the big strike. The three weeks of Tom Mann's ascendancy are indeed an extraordinary episode in the history of a civilized town, and the events that filled them have set many a thought on foot to strengthen and buttress the slight rampart that stands between the orderly life of cities and modern anarchy.

Liverpool had a very bad fright indeed. Strangers are a little inclined to talk about nerves and the strange effect wrought in proximity to violence. But they have not watched that most terrible of all sights, an angry mob turning its fiercest energies against the guardians of order. They have not waited in tense anxiety wondering where next the sound of rifles would ring out. They have not gone through terrible hours in the imminent danger that a great city would be plunged in darkness, and all the undisciplined hordes of the slums let free to riot and pillage without fear of detection.

Such a thing does not happen in the reign of George V., declares the optimist, but it very nearly did happen in Liverpool when a great mob of strikers frightened the men from the great electric power station at Lister Drive to leave their work. In the end the forces of order prevailed to triumph, for they have got the rifles and the Maxim guns, but even a single night of anarchy is no pleasant prospect.

Times Were Critical

It is not without reason that those in authority speak of the state of Liverpool for two or three days as critical, and the warning of their experience must be taken to heart by all who profess to join in the government of a country where great industrial centres lie thick. No doubt Liverpool has special and not very creditable difficulties which multiply danger. But had a second strike been begun and protracted for three weeks in Hull, or Manchester or Cardiff, or even in London, the pre-eminence in disorder might easily have passed from Liverpool to another centre. The elements are more volatile there, but they exist everywhere.

The fundamental similarity of all great industrial towns gives more than a mere historical interest to the course of events in Liverpool for they afford an analogy of value. On the whole the experience is reassuring, since the scuffling between a determined strike committee, striving to make life impossible in the city, and the forces of good citizenship ended in a victory for the latter so complete and so effective that for years to come any repetition of the "general strike" tactics is most improbable. The lesson of Liverpool points the difference between a strike of trade unions to gain definite ends and the unprincipled attack upon orderly society preached by the syndicalists.

In Liverpool two successive phases stand quite clearly distinct. In June and July Liverpool, in common with all other ports, had a seaman's and firemen's strike, and since the owners of great Atlantic liners have more than most shipping firms to lose by delay, that strike ended with a victory for the men in less than a week, but not without involving other workers at the riverside. Dockers and coal-porters, encouraged by the success of the seamen, continued their resistance.

For about a month negotiations lasted between their union and the shipowners, but finally a comprehensive agreement signed by the leaders on August 3. The owners said that they had conceded a great deal for the sake of peace, and since Ben Tillett, the secretary of the National Union of Dockers—a rival society to that of Ben Tillett, having its headquarters at Liverpool—described the victory of the men as "one of the most magnificent in the history of industrial organization."

Notwithstanding the fact that the agreement had been signed on behalf of the men by the appointed representatives, some hundreds of the dockers again left work in protest against the method of organizing work adopted by one firm and stevedores. The officials of the union in vain pointed out that the joint committee which had been set up under the agreement provided machinery for the consideration of these questions. Sectional strikes continued. The dockers and the seamen to induce the men to return were undoubtedly strenuous and sincere, but it is questioned whether all his colleagues were equally determined to hold the men to the bargain. The preaching of Tom Mann had taught discontent at the trivial triumph of a few pence a day.

Meanwhile a considerable number of the goods carriers and porters employed by the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway had come out on strike, and the dockers, animated by the doctrine of "indirect black-legging," which is an important element in the new strike theory, refused to handle the goods coming from the railway depots. During the first week in August men from the London and North-Western Railway and the Chesapeake Lines joined the others, thus causing almost a complete stoppage at the docks.

This was intensified by the action of the strike committee who on August 9 called on all transport workers not to handle goods at the docks until the railway men's demands had been conceded, since the railway carters and porters had rendered assistance in the dockers' and seamen's disputes; this although the dockers had completed their agreement and returned to work.

Took on New Phase

There can be little doubt that Tom Mann saw in the general unrest the opportunity for putting to the test of practical experiment the theory of a lifetime and using the railwaymen's dispute as a lever for the general strike. From this moment onwards the struggle at Liverpool entered a new phase. Meanwhile the shipowners were determined to put an end to the sectional strikes of the dockers and they informed the lord mayor on August 11 that they would bring about a general all-outlook at the docks on August 14 unless in the meantime all sections of the workers returned to work. They then decided to use a weapon which had long been employed by the master builders of Lancashire in the cotton and mining industries, and in many other cases, and by which regular men shall be increased they were doubtless influenced by the fact as far as possible and the fringe of casual men work at the docks was in any case completely disorganized.

On August 13 Mr. Mann announced at the demonstration in St. George's Place which was the occasion of the notorious riot that he had addressed a letter to all the railway men. Yet an effort to cope with the whole problem will be made, which, if successful may turn the curse of the strike force with the strike committee on the

THE NORTON REVIVAL

Norton, Oct. 16.—The revival is on in Norton—not a revival of noise and demonstration, but a real revival of God's power. A revival which magnifies Jesus Christ, as the Saviour of men.

The influence of these meetings, under the leadership of all the churches, and the preaching of Rev. G. P. Goodson, of New York, has extended to all the centres within a radius of ten and twelve miles. They are coming from Bloomfield and Hampton, Apohaqui and Sussex, Belleisle and Smithfield. Among those who have made definite decisions for Christ, and indicated the churches into which they are going, are people from these near-by towns.

Rev. Mr. Goodson's preaching is not occasional—but scriptural—and incessant. His nightly appeal is: "I present Jesus." A great feature of the services is the large chorus choir under the direction of Rev. John Lennox, and the young people's choir of nearly 100 voices which Mr. Goodson organized for this campaign.

The services will continue into next week. On Sunday Rev. Mr. Seely will preach at 11 a.m., Rev. C. P. Goodson at 3 p.m., and Rev. John Lennox, Presbyterian, at 7 p.m.

It is just as well to look a gift automobile in the gasoline tank.

SOME WAYS OF MAKING TRICK PICTURE FILMS

The Little Man in the Cigar Box—The Man in the Suit Case—Inanimate Objects, Which Are Given Life

Many people who go to witness a cinematograph entertainment are often puzzled and mystified by the projection of trick films, or, as they have been termed, "faked" pictures. Among the numerous methods of the cinematograph films can be found many who adopt characteristic methods of "faking" or "tricking" pictures. The following are some of the most popular methods employed by manufacturers.

LIGHTNING EFFECTS. A scene is set with a back-cloth representing a very heavy and cloudy sky, and across this sky at intervals flashes of forked lightning are seen. They are produced in this way. At each flash of the scene, a man in a suit, stands two "supers." Each has in his hand a whip, the lash being composed of a long, wide white ribbon. Behind the cloud-scene is another "super," who explodes magnesium ribbon, which gives in the negative a flash of light. Simultaneously with the explosion the two "supers" flick their whips into the focus of the picture, and the result is that the white lash zigzags and curls as if it were a real whip.

DWARF FIGURES. In a good number of films one can always see little figures, either in the act of entering a cigar-box or some other small box. A mirror is placed at one end of the studio, and the outer edges are draped in black to stop any stray reflections. Directly opposite to this mirror, but some distance away, a table is placed, and on this table is deposited the "proper" cigar-box, which contains easily averaged adult. Next the actor or actors get on the table, and climb in out of the box, according to the effect required. The mirror, being such a distance away from the real objects, reflects them on a much smaller scale. It is the reflection that is photographed. The camera usually stands at an angle, but focused direct on the image, so that it cannot be reflected in the mirror.

MAN IN TRAVELLING-BAG. Often can be seen in the screen different stages of the picture. The effect is produced by means of faking the negative. When the man is seen to spring into the air and jump into the bag, the bag closing afterwards without being touched, the illusion appears to be marvellous. In reality the man jumped on to the bag, walked away from it as he touched the ground, and someone closed the bag up. But when the negative is developed the parts where the man walked away and where another closed the bag are cut out and the film re-spliced to make it appear that the man actually jumped into the bag and that it closed of its own accord.

ARTICLES MOVING. Often, again, can be seen on the screen plates, dishes, knives, forks, etc., moving about without a hand touching them. All this is done by means of a hand.

SECOND GAME GOES TO ATHLETICS; SCORE 3 TO 1

Home Run By Baker Made Victory Sure for the Philadelphia Team—Christy Mathewson Analyses Game for Readers of Times

(By Christy Mathewson, the Giants' star pitcher, copyright 1911 by W. W. Bolton, Copyright United States by the New York Herald Company. All rights reserved.) Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 16.—One ball pitched to Frank Baker in the sixth inning here today for a home run, scoring Collins ahead of him. If the ball had been pitched on the outside or had been a curve, the result would probably have been different.

The sixth inning was the critical inning of the game, and finally the victory hung on that one ball and Marquard served Baker the wrong prescription. I don't think a minute that he intended to hit the ball over the plate for him, but he did it and this cost the Giants the game.

Couldn't Fool Athletics. Meyers saw this scheme and immediately walked out to the pitching box and said to Marquard: "Pitch him two curve balls, a fast one for the benefit of Collins, and a fast one for the benefit of the Athletics." Meyers knew only two kinds of balls, a curve and a fast one, the latter ball coming up to the plate with all the speed that the pitcher possesses.

Outguessed Marquard. I don't for a minute think that Marquard meant to hit Baker with the ball. He was in a pinch that one, but he did not get it exactly where he wanted it, and Baker, knowing what was coming, was waiting for it. He saw it would be foolish to suppose that a left-handed batter would hit a left-handed pitcher so hard.

London, Oct. 16.—In the Leicester-shire constabulary there is a clever boxer, named Johnson, whose efforts in the cause of justice created much amusement at Loughborough police court the other day.

Plank Pitched Well. Plank pitched a beautiful game of ball and had a lot of things of the sphere. He made only one mistake I think, and was probably ordered to do that by "Cunny" Mack. Herzog had doubled in the second inning with one out and had gone to third on Fletcher's infield out.

PRINCE WILLIAM APARTMENTS OPEN

New Residential House is Beautifully Fitted Up.

The Prince William Apartments, the new apartment house, was formally opened yesterday, and promises to become one of the institutions of St. John, as it will fill a long felt want, providing a comfortable home for those who want all the conveniences of home life with all the comforts of a hotel. The new apartment house, formerly the Victoria Hotel, has been completely remodelled, and both interior and exterior have been changed. The main entrance to the new apartments is at the southern end of the building, and the lobby has been very attractively furnished in native woods. The old office has been converted into one of the prettiest parlors in St. John, with beautifully paneled walls in dark woods and attractive paper. The lighting fittings are modern, the carpet a new one of Oriental design, and the furniture all in harmony, and there is a cheery open fireplace, making this a room that the house guests and their friends will highly appreciate. The main stairway to the upper floors is in the front of the entrance, and beside it is the desk and office. The second floor also has a large trunk room, a meter room in which is lighting service for each of the apartments, and a trunk room in concrete, with steam-heating apparatus. On the second floor is the dining room, a very beautiful and well-appointed room with nine small tables, giving ample accommodation for 30 meals. Opening off this are the kitchen and storerooms, all with the necessary fittings, and a refrigerator of the most modern design. On this floor, in the rear, are quarters for the maid with private bath, while in the front several rooms to be rented singly or en suite. The second floor also has rooms both singly and en suite, and with private bath. Altogether there are some 35 rooms and ten baths. The rooms have all been attractively papered and carpeted, and the furniture is sure to satisfy. Throughout the papering, painting and furnishing have been done with excellent taste, and patrons will find these apartments thoroughly homelike and comfortable. Mrs. Fred Hilyard is in charge of the building, and will prove a most efficient director. Already a number of the permanent guests are in residence, and others will take up their quarters within a few days. A few private rooms will be available at all times, and there is no doubt these will be in demand, for the Prince William Apartments will be both a home and a hotel.

CONDITIONS IN CITY OF DEAD PLEAD FOR ATTENTION

Water Leakage Causing Situation of Which it is Painful to Think—Early Action by City Sought

The Directors of the Fernhill Cemetery Co. are beginning to worry about what will happen at Fernhill unless prompt attention is paid by the city to the leak in the city water main which passes through the cemetery and which has been causing trouble for the last three years.

The leak is declared of serious proportions, and has caused such conditions in the burial plots which are not at all pleasant to contemplate. The drains which have been laid to carry off the ground moisture, have been overtaxed by this extra burden and have been unable to carry the water away as fast as it leaks in and in the whole lower portion of the cemetery shows the effect of the steady overflow.

Complaints have been made to the city officials, but without satisfactory results. It was said today that the only step taken by the city employees was to dig a hole on the pipe line about 100 feet below the place where the leak seems to be located. The hole which was dug has filled with water and overflowed and is now sending a steady stream down through the lot.

Three years ago, when another big break occurred in the cemetery, ice formed in almost glacier proportions, causing great inconvenience during the winter and considerable expense in the spring when a large amount of work was found necessary to repair the damage done to the grounds. It is feared that if repairs are not undertaken at once the situation this winter may be even worse.

The directors addressed a letter to the council on the last meeting, on October 2. This letter outlined the situation with sufficient clearness to demand attention, they say that so far no steps have been taken to remedy the conditions which were described. The cold weather is now approaching, and unless the work is undertaken at an early date they declare it will soon be too late to do so, and the cemetery will be exposed all winter to the damage which may be expected to follow neglect.

TRUCKERS IN UNION AND WANT HIGHER RATE OF PAY

New Conditions Apply to Winter Port Work This Year—They Ask Increase to 20 Cents an Hour

The recent absorption of the older of the two St. John Longshoremen's associations, the Longshoremen's Union, by the International Longshoremen's Association has brought about a new condition of affairs at this port. The local branch of the international organization includes in its membership all the truckers, men who have been previously outside of the union and have not been organized.

From now on, it was said, conditions will be the same from a labor standpoint as prevail at all the large ports, that is all the men employed in handling cargo will be members of one organization. In line with their plans of action the 300 or so truckers have notified the C. P. R. and others interested that they require a change in the matter of remuneration.

Last season they were paid seventeen cents an hour, monthly pay, but this season they have asked for twenty cents an hour with weekly or fortnightly pay. From what can be learned they will adhere to these demands, failing which they will decline to go to work.

It was also said today that as matters now look the New Ship Laborers Society will also be amalgamated with the new international.

NEW BUILDINGS GOING UP

The handsome three-story wooden building which has been erected on the site of the old structure which stood in front of Black's bowling alley in Main street, is now nearly completed, and the lower flat will soon be ready for occupancy. The building has a frontage of only twenty-three feet, but extends back eighty feet. Behind this again the bowling alley extends right through to Metcalf street.

The new building has on the ground floor a well appointed shop with plate glass front, the interior sheathed with hard pine, and hardwood floors and metal tobacconist's department, which may be operated on an enlarged scale.

Upstairs there are two separate flats which have been laid out in a convenient manner and fitted with all modern improvements. Garnett W. Wilson is the architect in charge.

Among other buildings which are nearing completion are a handsome two-family dwelling being erected by Thomas E. Powers and a pretty two-story self-contained house of the most modern type and equipment, which is being built for E. Kenneth Brown. Both are off Cranston avenue.

OAK HALL! ST. JOHN'S HEAD-QUARTERS FOR Men's Clothing

Offers an Unequalled Variety of the Newest Fall and Winter Styles at Unmatchably Low Prices

Headquarters is defined by the standard dictionaries as "the main distributing point," and this term fittingly describes the Oak Hall Clothing store in its relation to Saint John.

For over twenty-two years we've been selling satisfactory clothing to the men of our city and for the largest part of that time we've sold more than any other store.

It is the men of Saint John, therefore, who have made Oak Hall the city's headquarters for clothing.

And why, in the face of stronger competition that prevails in any other city in the country, has the clothing trade centered at Oak Hall?

Because the clothing we sell is the most satisfactory clothing that can be made. No matter how much the changes—can give you better fabrics or workmanship, or can put more snap and style into his garments than you will get in ours.

No other store can show you such a large variety of the new styles and patterns.

Nowhere else can you get such value for your money—for in buying from us you buy directly from the makers and you save the middleman's profit. You therefore pay us 25 to 35 per cent. less than you'd have to pay for the same grade of clothing in any other store.
