SCHOOL FLAG DEDICATION

Teacher and Pupils of Victoria School Hold Public Exercises.

A well conceived and charmingly rendered program was presented by Miss Harper and her pupils at the Victoria school on Friday last, the occasion being the official christening of the Union Jack recently procured through the interest and energy of the teacher and scholars of this school.

A considerable number from around the district were present and greatly enjoyed the following carefully prepared and highly appropriate exercises:

Raising the flag, accompanied by singing "Raise the Flag". A fitting and hearty salute to the emblem of truth, justice and liberty was followed by singing God Save the King.

The Flag over the School House Door, Mildred Cook.

Our Soldier Boy, Israel Boyer.

Physical Drill, Advanced Grades.

Recitation by Fred Jenkins.

Exercise, British Empire, 13 girls.

Recitation, Hope Somers.

Motion, five girls.

Dialogue, Marion Somers and Roy Hayward.

Recitation, Kathleen Albright.

Recitation, Mary Birmingham.

Drill, Primary Grades.

Recitation, Hazel Birmingham.

Recitation, Donovan Jenkins.

Recitation, Ada Boyer.

Recitation, Helen Oliver.

Military Drill eight boys.

Throughout the exercises short talks were made by several present.

Rev. E. C. Jenkins spoke mainly on the opportunities offered the scholars of the present and the duty of each to make the most of the great privileges of today in the development of every citizen of the grand old empire.

George A. Somers spoke of Canada's natural facilities and great possibilities, while Joseph York in a short speech became rather reminiscent contrasting the schools and educational equipment of today with conditions that obtained when he was a youngster at school.

Following short remarks by Mrs. Somers and Mr. Shaw, Miss Harper, in closing the day's exercises spoke eloquently, though all too briefly of the responsibility attached to the work of her profession, emphasizing among many good points, the fact that to the teachers of today falls the duty and responsibility of moulding in a large degree the characters of the men and women of tomorrow.

In Session at Hartland Today and Tomorrow.

The Minstrel session of the Woodstock Methodist District Meeting opens this afternoon in the Hartland Methodist church, Rev. R. W. Weddall presiding. Eleven ministers are in attendance.

The evening session will be open to the public when Rev. A. C. Bell, B. A., S. T. B., of Andover will preach the sermon. All are cordially invited to the service this Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The business of the District will be transacted by the laymen and ministers of the District on Friday.

Rev. Percy A. Fitzpatrick will leave for Charlottetown, P. E. I., on Monday where he will attend the annual meeting of the N. B. and P. E. I. conference. At this conference on Sunday the 15th Rev. Fred Bertram who spent one year of his probation in Hartland will be ordained.

Summerfield.

(Held over last week)

This place was saddened by the death of Miss Lavicia Lunn, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Lunn, on the 13th. Although she had been in poor health for a long time. She was only confined to her bed six or seven weeks. The dread disease consumption took her away in her 23rd year. She was liked by her young friends, who will miss her very much. She leaves to mourn, beside her parents, three sisters, Mrs. Wylie Smith of Clearview, Willa and Faye at home and one brother, Sampson, Lowell, Mass. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. C. H. Orser of Mars Hill by her choice; also the bearers of the pall were selected by her. They were cousins of hers, Beecher and Howard Lunn, Judson and Wilbur Lunn. Her last words were, "I am going home."

Mr. Robert Green of Plaster Rock and Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Gee of Lakeville were here to attend the funeral of their niece, Miss Lunn.

James Green and Miss Joyce Gee of Mars Hill were here to attend the funeral of their cousin, Miss Lunn.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Lunn and little Nellie, Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Lunn and baby of Coronation were in the place on May 18 by auto to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Lunn are rejoicing over the birth of a baby girl.

Mrs. Jessie Green and daughter, Mrs. Giberson of Plaster Rock, spent the week-end with friends and relatives here.

Ralph Smith of Knoxford is spending a few weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Smith.

Rev. E. C. Turner filled his regular appointment here on Sunday and a very impressive service was performed. Five infants being baptised. The parents were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Armstrong, Greenfield, Mr. and Mrs. Glasier Kilcollins, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kilcollins, Mr. and Mrs. John Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Hamilton. Mr. Turner has preached two very powerful sermons on baptism the two last Sundays. The subject last being infant baptism.

Arthur Corey of Westfield, Maine, was visiting James Brown on Sunday.

Sampson Lunn of Lowell was here to attend his sisters funeral

"HIS DOG"

The dog had followed Owen Ridley up to the bedroom, and when he turned from the dressing-table he saw that the big Newfoundland was spread out luxuriously on the hearthrug.

"You're no business here, you know, Ruff," he remonstrated in a tired voice.

Glancing at the clock he noticed that it was earlier than he had thought. He pulled up an armchair.

"You can tell I'm in trouble, can't you?" He stroked the dog's ear, staring into the fire.

He was glad, in a way, that he had sent his wife to some relations for a fortnight. He knew that lately he had been depressed and irritable, foreseeing the catastrophe ahead. She was returning that night, however, and he would have to break the news.

How Vera would take it he could not guess exactly. He hoped that she would spare him reproaches, for it was through no fault of his own that he was to lose his situation with Danehurst's. He would have to thank Kenneth Frome for that.

Frome had always disliked and rivalled him. When Ridley first made Vera Thornhill's acquaintance, Frome had displayed jealousy. He was penniless then, and unable to support a wife. Ridley remembered his outburst on hearing of their engagement.

"You've persuaded her with your money! She'd have waited for me otherwise. She's only marrying you because her people are poor. She doesn't love you, Ridley, and she never will. But I'll pay you out one day!"

Frome's insinuation was well founded; he realized that now. Although he had been happy enough with Vera during the few months of their life together, he admitted to himself that he had never understood her. One thing was obvious—their marriage had not turned out quite the success he had hoped for. Doubtless she still thought of her other suitor.

She had known genteel poverty all her life, and had been afraid to face more of it with Kenneth Frome. Now she regretted this.

The irony of Fate, too, had made Frome prosper. With an unexpected legacy, he had joined a rival firm, which was now amalgamating with Danehurst & Co. The staff would consequently be reduced. Ridley knew that he would have to go.

On the previous day he had encountered Frome at the office.

"So our positions are reversed!" A triumphant smile had accompanied the words. "I suppose you imagined your job here was permanent."

His meaning was apparent. He would use his influence to have Ridley included in the list of those to be discharged.

The Newfoundland rubbed his massive body against its master's leg. He stretched out his hand again.

"That's right; make yourself comfortable, Ruff. Old boy. You may not be here much longer."

Soon his search for work must begin. He knew how hard it was to find fresh occupation of any sort, especially at the salary he had been obtaining. It might take months, and he had saved very little.

Ridley smoothed his pet's rough coat. Somehow, it comforted him to speak to the dog.

Always fond of animals, he was attached to the Newfoundland for a special reason. It had saved his life that Easter, when he had cautiously bailed alone in a rough sea. Seized with cramp, and carried away by the current, he had shouted despairingly.

Once again he recollected his joyful relief on seeing the dog approach. Clinging to its collar, he had reached shallow water again.

Now his voice shook a little as he patted its head.

"You love me, old boy, if nobody else does."

Presently he got up. There was time for an hour's billiards at his club before Vera returned. Perhaps the game would occupy his mind.

"I'll leave you here, Ruff." The dog was asleep. "Better shut you in, though, else you'll howl all over the house."

Wearily, with shoulders bent, he descended the stairs.

A gesticulating group covered the pavement near his gate, he noticed when he turned the street corner on his return. He wondered idly what could be their reason for staring up towards the roofs.

"Somebody's chimney has caught," he muttered, catching sight of the smoke.

As he drew nearer a presentiment made him quicken his pace. Reaching the spot, he partly guessed the truth.

Before he could ascend the steps the front door opened, and their servant rushed out. The girl was white and trembling.

"Fire!" she screamed. "Fire!"

Ridley stopped her, and caught her arm.

"What's the matter? What's wrong? Pull yourself together!"

"The house—it's on fire, sir!" she repeated hysterically.

A shout from the watching crowd announced that flames had appeared. Someone was already speeding to the nearest alarm. Ridley turned towards the hall.

"Ought to have gone up to tell him, but I—I couldn't, sir."

"What's that?" he queried sharply, with a stare.

"Gentleman came to see you," the maid faltered. "He's in the sitting-room. Didn't answer when I tried to make him hear just now."

The lower staircase he scaled at a run. Dense smoke met him on the landing. Bending low, he stumbled on.

Instantly there flashed into his mind the fact that Ruff was a prisoner at the top of the house. Apprehension caught him by the throat.

He was fighting for breath by the time he reached the sitting-room. Crawling in, he dimly discerned a prostrate figure. Next moment he had lifted the man's head.

He gave a choking cry of amazement. It was Kenneth Frome.

Temptation came to him. He drew back in an agony of indecision. Perhaps there was time to scale the upper flight, and unlatch the bedroom door. This was his enemy. He owed Frome nothing, and the dog so much.

Certainly, if he had carried Frome to the street, it would be impossible to return, whereas now he might release the Newfoundland if he acted at once. A few seconds' delay, and the chance might be gone.

"Ruff!" he murmured hoarsely.

"Ruff, old boy!"

Others were coming up the stairs. He could hear them calling wildly.

He seized Frome almost roughly. It must be done. His decision was made. He must first save the human life. But he stifled a sob as he struggled down to safety with his burden; and when he would have swung round again, many hands restrained him by force. He fought with them frantically.

"Can't be done," a fireman insisted, after a vain attempt to ascend. He signalled to a comrade.

"All safe; only a dog."

Ridley tried to speak, but could not manage to utter the retort which came to his lips.

"Let me go," he said, with an effort, to the men who gripped his arms. "You needn't hold me now."

He brushed a hand across his eyes. They pointed to the others who were carrying Frome. He followed blindly.

An approaching cab stopped a short distance away.

"Let the lady pass. She lives there. Tell her it's all right."

They led her in Kenneth Frome's direction, telling the story of his rescue. At that moment Ridley recognized who it was. Then they came face to face.

"This is the gentleman who saved him, ma'am."

Agitatedly she caught his sleeve, but before she could speak Ridley indicated Frome's unconscious figure.

"Don't be afraid, Vera. He'll soon revive."

He laughed harshly.

"You went—went in for him?"

"That's true. Foolish thing to do, wasn't it? And I had to leave Ruff behind. Yet the dog—the dog was upstairs."

She laid a hand gently on his shoulder, and he walked mechanically towards a neighbor's house.

She sat with her hand in his, bending close.

"We must look on the bright side of things, Owen. Everything was insured."

He would not meet her gaze.

"The bright side?"

"Ah, you must try to forget poor Ruff! It's difficult, I know; but—"

"And I ought to rejoice over Frome; is that what you mean? Oh, I'll leave that to you!"

"I don't understand, dear. Mr. Frome has never been anything to me. I'm glad he escaped, of course, but I'd have felt practically the same for any stranger."

She dropped his fingers, and turned away.

"It was you I was anxious about. It's always been you I've loved. Not so much, perhaps, when we were first married; but since then, I've longed for you to see it to now! But you never would!"

He looked up; then suddenly put his arm around her and pulled her close.

"How foolish I've been!"

For a while they sat in silence, rejoicing in their newly-found happiness. Presently Ridley began to speak of his impending trouble.

"Yes, he's going to have me turned out of the office. And that's the man I had to rescue!"

He did not mention the dog again, but she guessed what was in his mind, and kissed him sympathetically.

"As for Mr. Frome, he can't really injure us. We'll be poor, perhaps, but we're everything to each other, Owen. Nothing matters but that!"

MRS. DAVID LIVINGSTONE'S MONUMENT.

Mary Moffatt Livingstone, the wife of David Livingstone, the African explorer and missionary, was the daughter of David Moffat, who spent 54 years as a missionary in Africa. She died at Shupanga House, April 27, 1923, and this monument on the Zambesi in Africa, marks the place where her body was interred.

Someone rapped on the door, and Frome himself entered, moving shakily.

"The doctor expected me to lie down for an hour more; but I was worrying. I couldn't rest till I'd seen you both. The people of the house said you were here."

He leaned against the table, and continued in a hesitating fashion.

"First, I'll confess why I'd called on you, Ridley. It was to tell you that, Danehurst's—Thorpe & Danehurst now—wouldn't require your services any longer. I wanted to watch your face when you heard the news. I wanted to laugh at your dismay—go on over it—"

They stood up and faced him.

"Wait, please!" He made a gesture.

"Now, of course, I—I've given up all such ideas. While I was waiting for you to return, Ridley, I was taken ill. When I realized the house was on fire I tried to leave, but I—I couldn't. I slipped down, and gradually the smoke stifled me."

He paused for a second or two.

"I have to thank you for saving my life, Ridley. I'm hoping you'll forget the past, too, because I want to be your friend."

"Please stay with the firm at your own salary. There may be a better opening soon, and then I'll recommend you for promotion. This isn't only gratitude. I owe it to myself."

Ridley hung back, but his wife gently pushed him forward. The two men were shaking hands when a ring sounded at the front door, and excited voices were raised in the passage.

The owner of the house bustled in.

"Great news!" he exclaimed. "You'll be so very pleased to hear it. Your maid's just come to tell you."

The servant-girl pushed past him in her eagerness. She was panting for breath.

"Ran all the way, I did, directly I heard. Old Ruff—the dog, sir—"

Ridley gave a start, and a stifled exclamation.

"The bedroom window was open, very likely—"

"It was—it was!"

"And he must have jumped out, frightened, on to the top of the scullery, then over to the roof of the next door, sir, and along over more houses the same way, trying to find a place to get down. Do you think he started it all, sir—knocked over the towel-horse into the fire? I'd lighted for the missis!"

Ridley gasped.

"The question is—"

"Oh, he's all right, sir, if you mean that! I've seen him myself. Just a ladder it wants to reach him, up against the corner house, sir—"

"By Jove, I'm very glad!" said Kenneth Frome, whole-heartedly.

But Ridley and his wife did not hear. They were already in the hall—London Answers.

Still Hope.

Mr. Young—My little girl is nearly 2 years old and hasn't learned to talk yet.

Mr. Peck—Don't let that worry you. My wife says she didn't learn to talk until she was nearly 3, and now—

But Mr. Peck's voice at this point was checked with sobs.

If you have too much money you can easily acquire more.

If you are going to combine business and pleasure, be sure you don't lose the combination.

Recipes for the Sick.

Sippets with Milk.—One slice dry toast, one tablespoonful butter, three-fourths cup scalded milk, one-half cup boiling water. Add oats mixed with salt to boiling water gradually. Boil two minutes, then steam in double boiler 45 minutes to one hour. Force through a fine strainer, mold, chill and serve with sugar and cream.

Oatmeal Jelly.—One-third cup rolled oats, few grains salt, one and a half cups boiling water. Add oats mixed with salt to boiling water gradually. Boil two minutes, then steam in double boiler 45 minutes to one hour. Force through a fine strainer, mold, chill and serve with sugar and cream.

Oatmeal Gruel.—Three tablespoonfuls rolled oats, one-fourth cup scalded milk, two cups water. Add rolled oats to boiling salted water, cook until thickened over direct heat, then place over boiling water and cook 1½ hours; strain and season to taste.

Cornmeal Gruel.—Two tablespoonfuls cornmeal, one-fourth cup scalded milk, two cups boiling water; three tablespoonfuls cold water. Add meal and salt to cold water; stir to a paste. Add to boiling water; stir constantly until it thickens and let boil one hour. Add milk or cream according to the needs of the patient.

Rice Gruel.—One tablespoonful rice, one cup milk. Wash rice, add to milk and cook for 1½ hours in a double boiler, covered, steam, season and serve hot or cold.

Cracker Gruel.—One tablespoonful cracker crumbs, a few grains salt, three-fourths milk. Scald the milk, add the cracker crumbs and cook over boiling water for about ten minutes, season to taste.

Baked Apple Sauce.—Two apples (cored, pared and cut in eighths), one tablespoonful water, two tablespoonfuls brown sugar, one teaspoonful lemon juice. Put alternate layers of apples, sugar, and seasoning in a small baking dish, cover and bake in a slow oven for one hour. A little grated nutmeg may be added, if desired. Serve hot or cold.

Apple Snow.—Wipe, pare, core and quarter one sour apple. Put in small strainer, place over boiling water, cover and let steam until apple is soft, then rub through a sieve. There should be one quarter cup of apple sauce. Beat white of one egg until stiff. Sweeten apple pulp to taste and add gradually to beaten white of egg. Pile lightly on glass serving dish, chill and serve with steamed custard or cream.

Baked Banana.—Wipe banana and loosen one section of skin, then replace, put in shallow pan, when banana should be soft. Remove from skin, sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once.

French Dressing.—Three tablespoonfuls olive oil, one-fourth cup lemon juice or vinegar, pepper. Mix ingredients and stir until well blended. French dressing should be added to salad greens just before serving. If allowed to stand in dressing they will quickly wilt.

Boiled Salad Dressing.—Yolk of one egg, one tablespoonful butter melted, one-half cup cream, few grains cayenne, three-fourths teaspoonful salt, three-fourths teaspoonful mustard, one tablespoonful vinegar. Mix ingredients in order given, add vinegar very slowly.

Cook over boiling water, stir constantly until mixture thickens, strain and cool.

Two Recipes for Sponge Cake.

Two cupfuls sugar, six eggs, leaving out the whites of three; one cupful boiling hot water, two and a half cupfuls flour, one tablespoonful baking powder in the flour. Beat the yolks a little, add the sugar and beat fifteen minutes; add the three beaten whites and the cupful of boiling water just before the flour, flavor with a teaspoonful of lemon extract and bake in three layers. Put icing between them, made by adding to the three whites, beaten to a stiff froth, six dessert spoonfuls of pulverized sugar to each egg. Flavor with lemon to taste.

Best Sponge Cake.—Four eggs, two cupfuls sugar, two cupfuls flour, three level teaspoonfuls baking powder, one level teaspoonful cornstarch. Add sugar to the eggs and beat thoroughly, then the flour with the baking powder and cornstarch, sifted together, and last three-quarters of a cupful of boiling water and one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Bake in a quick oven and it is delicious.

Hints for the Home.

It is never economy to buy cheap eggs.

Cook carrots and beets whole, then skin and slice.

Sweet potatoes should always be boiled with their skins on and pared after.

A good dish drier can be made of a big roasting pan with a cake rack set into it.

Golden yellow Chinese silk curtains are delightful in a room with a cool north light.

Mission furniture of the good, not heavy, type is excellent for a simple dining room.

An excellent gift for a friend living in the country is a small table—for tea or sewing or writing.

One of the best darning baskets imaginable is made of strong reed and raffia worked in a simple stitch.

An aluminum strainer that stands on its own feet in the sink is a handy thing to have for washing lettuce, etc.

In making gingerbread, the butter, sugar, milk and molasses should be melted together, then added to the dry ingredients.

A wide-mouthed thermos bottle is excellent for cooking cereals. Boil the cereal a few minutes the night before it is to be used, then put in the bottle and cork tightly. It will be ready for breakfast.

The lid of a saucepan often need to be raised while cooking—and a cloth peg with a tack in its top will master the purpose. Fix the peg in the edge of the saucepan as if it were a line, and rest the lid on the tack.

A little vinegar kept boiling on the stove while onions or cabbage are cooking will prevent the disagreeable odor from going through the house.

Oh, soft, woolen articles—blankets, dressing gowns, worn shawls—should be beautifully cleaned and mended, then put away for use in an emergency. They are much more comfortable than new ones when sickness comes.

Never hurry the baking of a cake—the oven should be steady, but slow. If the door must be opened, close it very gently or the cake will fall.

To save time to cut the dough for baking powder biscuits with a sharp knife, the biscuits will be in pretty square and there is no waste.

Good light is necessary for the person pressing men's clothes. Also the irons should be very hot, and a piece of cotton cloth should be handy.

To save time in cleaning windows, let a kettle of water boil in a room till the windows are covered with steam. Then wipe with a dry cloth.

After making a hairbow work a small thread eye on the inside of each loop. Slip a hairpin through each eye and fasten to the braid over hair with its help.

A good pearl button sewed to the back of a boy's collar band will do the same work as the regular collar button, and he will always know where to find it.

Test potatoes by cutting in two and rubbing the cut surfaces together. Then press through two parts together. If they stick, the potatoes are good.

A table made on a gocart frame is a handy thing for an invalid. Attach it to the bed with a ribbon, and the invalid can push it away when through with it.

A clothes basket with two parts is convenient for keeping white and colored clothes separately. Or the division may be made small and used for clothes pins.

Christians in India.

The London Times places the number of Christians in India at nearly 4,000,000, of whom 3,547,000 are natives. The total is about one every 80 of the 315,000,000 living in the great dependency. The Roman Catholic church has the first place, with 1,304,000, an increase of 22,000 in the last decade. The Baptists have grown from 217,000 to 331,000; the Anglicans 304,000 to 332,000; the Presbyterians from 17,000 to 124,000; and the Methodists 97,000.

THE ECHO TEST.

Safety Device for Preventing Collisions at Sea.

Sir Hiram Maxim, inventor of those terrible agents of destruction, cordite, smokeless powder and the Maxim gun, has just invented a safety device for preventing collisions at sea. The tragic fate of the Titanic moved him to try, and he had reflected only four hours on the problem when it occurred to him that ships could be provided with what might be called a sixth sense, by which they could detect large objects near at hand without the aid of a search-light. This sixth sense, which may be called an "echo" sense, he knew to be possessed by bats.

Bats, nocturnal though they are, have not especially powerful eyes for seeing in the dark. Moreover, in total darkness no creature can see, but a bat in the thick blackness of a cave at midnight can fly about with perfect security, so can a bat that is blind. The sensitive nerves of the face and wings are so arranged as to produce the echo sense, which warns them always of any solid mass near by.

In many cases, the organ that gives the bat the sixth sense is spread all over its face. In the vampire bat, the organ is on the tip of its nose; it stands up in the air and is called the "shield"; but in most of the small bats which catch insects on the wing, we find two little leaves, not unlike the wings of the insect that it pursues, standing up just in front of the ears.

These sensitive spots, together with the fine nervous network of the entire head and wings, are all closely connected with each other and with the brain. As the bat flies about, the beat of its wings sends out a succession of air-waves or pulsations. These are not rapid enough to constitute sound, but striking against surrounding objects, they are reflected back just as sound or light would be; and these reflected vibrations, received by the sensitive organs so exquisitely arranged, enable the bat to judge the distance of any object by the lapse of time between the departure and return of the air-waves.

The ingenious apparatus which Sir Hiram Maxim, acting on this hint, has invented to warn ships at sea of approaching icebergs, vessels, rocks or fog-veiled shores could be described fully only on considerable length; the unscientific reader will probably understand it quite as well if he is simply told that it is an echo test.

We have all heard of the tabled mouse that saved the lion. In plain truth, his little winged cousin, the flittermouse, may do far more. Some day—who knows?—a greater Titan of the sea than the lost Titanic may owe her safety to a bat.

SCULPTOR AND EMPEROR.

How Napoleon III. Got Even With Sculptor Carpeaux.

Although he was a man of great earnestness and seriousness of purpose, Carpeaux, one of the most famous French sculptors of the last century, had a droll tongue and a capricious humor that he vented on lackey and emperor alike. Loquacious Pour Tous relates some amusing anecdotes of him.

At a reception at the Tuileries, Napoleon III. engaged in a few minutes' private conversation with Carpeaux. At its conclusion, the young sculptor was besieged by a crowd of courtiers and envious rivals, who wanted to know what the emperor had talked about.

"Promise to tell me no one!" whispered Carpeaux, as he drew the eager listeners to one side of the ballroom. "Well, then, the emperor was trying to borrow five francs from me."

Some years later, when Carpeaux had received the commission to do the decorations for the Pavillon de Flore at the Tuileries, Napoleon often came to watch him at work on the scaffold that had been built against the face of the building. Occasionally the emperor mounted aloft to this improvised studio, hung between earth and sky.

One day Carpeaux, in a particularly merry mood, told him that when he wished to rest from his labors, he would make tiny pellets of clay, and drop them on the heads of passers-by.

"It's very amusing," he explained. "People stop and look about them. They can't imagine where the missiles come from."

"Here," he continued, holding out some of the little clay bullets, "try it yourself."

"I wouldn't dare," laughingly said Napoleon, amused at the idea of the Emperor of the French, throwing pellets of clay at his subjects.

"Bah!" muttered Carpeaux. "What's the use of being an emperor?"

Napoleon did not forget this remark. A few months later, when the sculptor sought a title, the emperor, unable or unwilling to grant the request, exclaimed:

"Bah! What's the use of being Carpeaux? Isn't that better than baron?"

We always feel sorry for the man who has really done his best.

Our Agricultural Society now has a paid up membership of 90 and is in a very healthy condition. At a meeting Saturday evening the prize lists for the big two days show September 24 and 25 were arranged and will soon be printed and ready for distribution.

The Agricultural Society tried to procure adjacent land for the purpose of building a race track. The price asked, however, was prohibitive and the project will have to be dropped for the present.

If suitable grounds can be procured the horsemen of the village and vicinity may try to build a track this summer. Financing the proposition will be the only obstacle but probably a way will be found to overcome even that.

Mr. Wass, engineer Valley road, spent Sunday in the village.

Mr. Chisholm has a crew working on the railroad on the Ward Webb farm. The station site has not yet been decided. We hope to see it now placed between the two streets on the S. Perkins property.

Miss R. Wilson is assisting her brother, Glen, in his store.

Miss Greta Walden is home for a short vacation. Miss Walden is training for a nurse in Providence, R. I.

Rev. C. W. Walden expects to leave here about July 1.

SHE TOOK HER FRIEND'S ADVICE

AND DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HER SON.

Straight and Simple Statement Tells of Another Grand Cure By the Old Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Springhaven, Yarmouth Co., N. S., March 31 (Special).—Simple and straight to the point is the statement of Mrs. Erven C. Treffy, of this place, but it tells of another grand cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My fifteen-year-old son, Angus," Mrs. Treffy states, "suffered from pain in his back, headache, and a pain over his eyes."

"He was so bad he could not walk across the floor. My friends advised me to give him Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"They cured him."

"That young Treffy's kidneys were wrong is evidenced by the cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills only cure diseased kidneys. They never fail to do that."

The reason they cure rheumatism, backache, gravel, dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes, and kindred diseases, is that these all spring from disordered kidneys.

If you have any of these diseases you haven't tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbors. They'll tell you Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure them.

HOW FAR MAN HEARS.

Science Now Busy Determining Human Range of Sound.

In the sense of hearing, numerous problems have interested physiologists, writes Professor A. T. Boffenger in the Strand Magazine. Among these may be mentioned the range of sounds that can be heard by an individual—that is the limit above and below which no sound can be heard.

The solution of these two problems, the determination of the upper and lower limits of sound, has occasioned a great deal of careful work and the construction of many forms of apparatus. For determining the upper limit of sound for any individual—and individuals differ considerably—the Galton whistle is generally used. It consists of a tiny pipe, which is lengthened or shortened by a piston adjusted by a micrometer screw. This little instrument can be regulated to make a tone which is too high for any human ear to hear, and which will finally produce only a painful sensation.

The Galton whistle was devised by Francis Galton for his study of individual differences. He had one of the whistles built into the end of his cane, and as he walked through the Zoological Gardens he would blow it near the ears of the various animals. He adjusted the whistle too high for his own ear to hear, and if the various animals responded to the sound he knew that their upper limit was greater than that of the human ear.

The ordinary human ear can detect a tone whose vibration is at least twenty-five thousand vibrations per second, while the whistle will produce fifty thousand per second. This upper limit varies with the age of the individual to such an extent that, if the upper limit at sixteen years of age were fifty thousand vibrations, at sixty years of age it would be about twenty-five thousand per second.

FLY TO PIECES.

The Effect of Tea and Coffee on Highly Organized People.

"I have been a coffee user for years, and about two years ago got into a very serious condition of dyspepsia and indigestion. It seemed to me I would fly to pieces. I was so nervous that at the least noise I was distressed, and many times could not straighten myself up because of the pain."

Tea is just as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.

"My physician told me I must not eat any heavy or strong food and ordered a diet, giving me some medicine. I followed directions carefully, but kept on using coffee and did not get any better."

"Last winter, my husband, who was away on business, had Postum served him in the family where he boarded. He liked it so well that when he came home he brought some with him. We began using it and I found it most excellent."

"While I drank it my stomach never bothered me in the least, and I got over my nervous troubles. When the Postum was gone we returned to coffee, then my stomach began to hurt me as before and the nervous conditions came on again."

"That showed me exactly what was the cause of the whole trouble, so I quit drinking coffee altogether and kept on using Postum. The old troubles left again and have never returned."

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one came from Mrs. J. M. Treffy, of Boston, Mass., and full of human interest.

M.P.'s Have Big Thirst.

To the refreshment department of the British House of Commons legislators pay over $40,000 a year for wipers. The kitchen committee has an exceedingly low tariff for alcoholic beverages. Champagne is many shillings a bottle lower than in good restaurants outside the House. An excellent half bottle of white or red wine can be bought for 12 cents, while 3 cents only is charged for a small cup of black coffee and a liqueur of brandy. The teetotalers in the House number about a hundred.

Umbrellas for Warships. In order to gain protection from bombs dropped from aeroplanes, the British have invented "armored umbrellas" for their warships, and they have been received and tried out at Portsmouth. Unusual secrecy has been maintained in the fitting of a ship with the umbrellas. To each funnel, however, will be a sort of umbrella, to prevent the bombs falling into the uptake of the funnels and blowing up the ship's boilers.

He—"I am going to ask your father for your hand." She—"Oh, that will be lovely!" He—"You are glad?" She—"Delighted! I will call and bring you flowers every day until you are able to be out again. I have never seen the inside of a hospital."

Men Who Don't Exercise

Suffer From Indigestion, Head-Aches, Poor Appetite, Sleeplessness.

Nothing so Sure to "Set Up" a Man, Make Him Feel Brisk and Vigorous as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Lack of exercise and overwork were the causes that combined to almost kill Samuel S. Stephens, Jr., one of the best known citizens in Woodstock, Vt.

In his convincing letter, Mr. Stephens says:

"A year ago I returned home after a long trip, completely worn out. I was so badly affected by chronic biliousness, so much overcome by constant headaches, dizziness, that I despaired of ever getting well."

"It was a blessing that I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In one week I felt like a new man. The feeling of weight and nausea in my stomach disappeared. My eyes looked brighter, color grew better, and, best of all, I began to enjoy my meals. The dizziness, languor and feeling of depression passed away, and I fast regained my old-time vigor and vitality. Today I am well—thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

For health, strength, comfort and good spirits there is no medicine like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from The Catabolism Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Paper Money Began in China.

Paper money is said to have had its origin in China in the year 806, when the government issued it to relieve a financial stringency, receiving coin in return, which enabled it to pay off outstanding obligations. In the museum of St. John's College in Shanghai is a paper bill worth 1,000 cash, the equivalent of 50 cents American money, which was issued by the first Ming emperor (Hung-wu, A.D. 1368-1398). It is nearly two feet long and one foot wide, printed on mulberry bark paper, and is a dark slate color.

OLD SORE HEALED IN SIX DAYS

Nearly Impossible to Heal Skin. Badly Hurt. Sore, Red and Inflamed. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

Bowman River, Manitoba.—"When I was thirteen years of age I got my shin badly hurt and when healed the skin was attached to the bone. The least bruise would injure it and it was nearly impossible to heal. The sore would be very red and inflamed round the edges and had a burning sensation. When cuticura ointment was applied it healed in six days."

Ways wore a cotton bandage on it from the ankle to the knee. For a number of years I used sticking plasters, then got a salve, but the salve did not cure it. I then used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample and purchased some more and in six days the sore was healed completely."

(Signed) James Edwards, June 21, 1912.

FOR PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Treatment. Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and feeding. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each free, with 35-p. Skin Book. Address post card, Cuticura, Dept. 7, Chem. Corp., Dept. 77D, Boston, U.S.A.

FRENCHMEN FEAR AIRSHIPS.

Think They Are Being Outclassed By the Germans.

French opinion is waking up to the fact that Germany, in the sphere of military aeronautics, is leaving France badly in the rear.

General Lacroix and a number of other eminent strategists unite in declaring that France has nothing to show against Germany's aerial cruisers but a fleet of "penny steamers," and they strongly deplore the attitude taken generally in France towards dirigibles.

They think the sudden development of aeroplanes came, an entirely unwarranted enthusiasm for those machines, and a corresponding disavowal of dirigibles. General Lacroix holds that the opposition to rigid dirigibles in France is quite wrong; the couple type of airship favored by the French military authorities is, from the military point of view, exceedingly risky, a pin prick sufficing to destroy them. Airships of the German rigid type, with their several compartments, are capable of withstanding considerable damage before being put absolutely out of action.

BRICKS OF SAWDUST.

New Industry Being Operated With Success in Germany.

A new industry may be successfully combined with the planing mills, that of making of the sawdust briquettes to be used for firing under the boilers, thus considerably decreasing the cost of the fuel to the mill owner. This is being very advantageously done in Germany. The sawdust is automatically gathered and conveyed to a place near the presses. From here it is carried over a heated belt conveyor to a drying-room. This has a cylindrical revolving drum about two feet in diameter and 30 feet long. In this drum the sawdust is partially dried, the pitch contained in the wood is softened, and hereafter as a binder. From here the sawdust is conveyed over an incline to the after-dryer of the same shape as the first dryer which forms a part of the press.

Silence of Chinese Bride.

Would you like it if you could talk to no one for three days? Yet that is the fate of the Chinese girl who is married. For three nights after the marriage the Chinese bride veiled, must stay awake and listen to the banterings, the teasing and the jokes of some girl friend who is there just on purpose to make her laugh, cry, or anything else that will cause a sound. But the Chinese bride must not allow her voice to escape her. She must show, by staying silent those three nights, that she will be a quiet wife.

"Have you noticed any change in your husband with the passing of years?" "Yes; he used to tell me of his throbbing heart. Now he talks exclusively about his liver."

CLIMATE OF NOVA SCOTIA.

Many Advantages of Living in Proximity to the Sea.

A gentleman who has spent some years in Nova Scotia writes as follows:—"We have 336 days in the year out of 365 in which the thermometer goes above 32 degrees. This is 28 days greater than for any other part of Canada. We have 276 days in the year in which the thermometer rises above 40 degrees of temperature. This is better by 26 days than any other part of Canada, save the Pacific Slope. We have 200 days in which the thermometer goes above 50 degrees of temperature during the year. This record is the same as enjoyed by the southern section of Ontario and by the southern strip of the Western Provinces. When we get into the higher degrees of temperature we find we do not have the same excess of heat as in Ontario or other portions of Canada. 141 days above 80 degrees as compared with 180 and 180 in Ontario 150 to 75 days above 70 degrees during the year, while parts of the west of Canada, as well as Ontario, have as many as 75, 100 and 115 4 days in which the thermometer reaches a higher degree of temperature than 70 degrees Fahrenheit. This is evidence for our statement that we share neither the excessive heat nor the extreme cold of the Western part of Canada or the Northern United States. A splendid environment of fresh air, clear water, green fields, and leafy woods, added to other advantages, gives us an abundance what is necessary for ideal home life."

The World's Best Liniment

Needed In Every Family From Infancy To Old Age

If Your Home Is Without "Nerviline" Read the Following Closely.

The high cost of living today demands economy in every article. Nerviline is as positive, far better to treat little ailments before they grow serious. For this reason every home should have handy on the shelf a good remedy like Nerviline, which cures the minor ailments that occur in every family.

For example, when the boy comes in with wet feet and a slight cough, Nerviline will cure him. If a cold has settled on his chest, rub on Nerviline and the cold will go.

If something has been eaten that causes cramps, nausea, or diarrhoea, just twenty drops of Nerviline—that's all and cure is effected.

As a liniment for outward application in cases of Neuralgia, Lame Back, Sciatica, Lumbago or Rheumatism, it's really hard to imagine how Nerviline relieves, and how soon it cures.

Nerviline is something new. No. 1 is one of the most and best known remedies. Used in thousands of homes by the people of many nations, simply because it stops pain, cures sickness, and ends the family troubles before they become troublesome. Get the family size bottle, price 30c. trial size 25c. at all drug stores and druggists or The Catabolism Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Logic.

"What are you doing, dear?" asked the little girl's mother, as she paused to look at some very strange marks the child had been making on a piece of paper.

AFTER EFFECT OF FEVERS

Banished Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Following wasting diseases such as fevers, many people may find it difficult to regain their former strength. They become breathless and tired out at the least exertion; their appetite is feeble and they often feel as though death was staring them in the face. The trouble lies with the blood, which has not returned to its normal condition and is lacking in the red corpuscles, without which good health is impossible. It is at a time like this that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills prove their great tonic value. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood, which means health and vitality. Mrs. Theodore Foley, Athens, Ont., says: "Following an attack of typhoid fever I was left in a very weak and disheartened condition. The smallest exertion left me worn and tired out, and I was hardly able to get around, and naturally felt despondent. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they proved of the greatest benefit to me. I am now as well and strong as ever, and can do all my own work; and as we live on a farm, it goes without saying that there is much to do. I feel, therefore, that I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

If you are suffering from the effects of fevers, grippe, or any acute disease, you should begin to get new strength today through the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHERE EVERYTHING IS GUARANTEED

Will you please read this ad., consider well the prices and examine the goods to prove that what we state is Absolutely True? You can generally tell where the business is being done by following the crowd, and that crowd you always find at Manzer's. If we were not living up to our ads we could not hold the people. If you have never traded with us, get out of the rut and just for once give us a trial. All the goods being offered are New Goods. Always remember, we will tell you if they are old or out of style. At the present we are overstocked in some lines and we are going to give you the benefit of our mistake.
