An Imposing Parade of School Children and Militia

Marks the "Hoisting of the Flag" Celebration

On the Anniversary of the Dominion's Birthday.

Five Thousand in Line—A Magnificent Display — Royal Salute — Songs and Speeches on Victoria Park—Guests on the Grand Stand.

The soldiers and children had an outing yesterday and a splendid affair they made of it. The presence of the former combined to make the third celebration of the "Hoisting of the Flag" one of the largest and most imposing seen in London for many a day. It took the procession over half an hour to pass a given point and the number in line is estimated at 5,000 to which the soldiery contributed about 2,000. Viewed from an elevated point the spectacle was magnificent for its variety of color and brilliancy of effect. King street from 9:30 a.m. until the procession started presented a gay and animated appearance. Here it was that the little ones met to form in line, and from Richmond away up to Colborne the thoroughfare was blocked up with bright, happy, restless children, resplendent in holiday attire, carrying flags and banners innumerable. Teachers hurried hither and thither in the attempt to get their flocks into their proper positions in the line of march. The school trustees, too, were there with beaming faces, and each showed a fatherly interest in the whole turnout in general and that of his own ward in particular. The weather was perfect—a bright sky with a cool breeze tempering the sun's rays. This was a blessing for the children, who must have suffered had they stood the time they did on a hotter day. The militia arrived at 10 o'clock and took up their station in the rear of the juvenile galaxy. At last order evolved out of chaos and promptly on time the head of the gigantic column, resting on Richmond street, began to move forward. The route lay from King north on Richmond, thence east on Princess avenue through the central westerly gate of Victoria Park. The following was the

ON THE MARCH.

The crowd that lined the route applauded any feature that caught the popular fancy. Col. Payne and Major Beattie led the Seventh on horseback. Surgeons Dr. Piper and Dr. Mitchell and Captains Hayes and Fitzgerald were also mounted in the rear. London's crack battalion compared well with the camp militia. The kindergarten 'busses were gaily decorated. One of them had two streamers with the legends: "No Kid-Nappers Wanted," and "We're Not Rattled." Next came the "Flag Bevy," the ends of a huge Union Jack being carried by Misses Tillie Wright, Harriet Flory, Minnie Kay, Tena Brenner, Gertie Armitage, Ethel Freeland, Minnie Smith, Edith Craig, and Flora Lepper.

THE SCHOOLS.

Askin street made a good turn out. The "Queen" was Maggie Schram, who was attended by Olive Mulhern and Hattie Tatham as maids of honor. The Maple avenue contingent had a handsome banner, "God Save Our Noble Queen."

Lorne avenue headed the delegation from ward 5. Rectory street was headed by Master Higgins on horseback.

The fourth ward was led by Park street pupils. Waterloo street had as its queen Leona Parker, while Masters Ed. McCoy, Norman Williams, Sidney Partridge and Norman Nicholson were on horseback. The girls were prettily attired.

The London West school, under Head Master Liddicoatt, made a splendid showing. The village board engaged the Hackett Brass Band, of this city, which made its first appearance, and also adopted the sensible idea of giving the lady teachers and smaller children a ride in carriages. There were several handsome banners.

Tottie Hobbs was the queen of the Princess avenue pupils, and was conveyed in a neat cart drawn by a trim pony. Four pages and four maids of honor attended her.

The Colborne street school turnout was attractive. Elsie Fraser, the queen, rode a bicycle, supported by Max Fraser and Ewart Field. Her maids of honor were Lena Sanborn, L. Buck, Annie Yates, R. Bradford, Dolly Abbott and Leta Smith. Canada was represented by Miss May Higgins, and the nine provinces by as many little girls.

Hamilton road completed the third ward; Edith Murray was the queen.

Talbot street school, under Principal Stewart, did credit to No. 2 ward in numbers and appearance. An appropriate banner inscribed "Emergere" depicted a phoenix rising from its ashes, indicating the restoration of [illegible] Talbot street school after the recent fir[illegible] a charming display. King street m[illegible]d in white with blue The girls were dre[illegible]s; the boys were also sashes and hat rib[illegible]hite jackets and blue uniformly attired [illegible]e Queen was Minnie and white caps. Kay.

Simcoe street b[illegible]ght up the rear with a pretty queen dr[illegible]g a decorated pony. The little girls w[illegible] white dresses and red sashes. A mis[illegible]neous assortment of aldermen, school [illegible]stees, water commissioners and citize[illegible]ollowed on foot.

[illegible]ILITARY.

The D. A. G. [illegible] his staff in brilliant uniform preced[illegible] the military. The Cavalry Band m[illegible] their first appearance on horseback a[illegible] acquitted themselves well. It is no eas[illegible] to keep your eyes on the notes, blow [illegible] instrument and guide your horse at the [illegible]ne time and the bandmen have been [illegible]cticing hard at it the last two wee[illegible] Col. Gartshore and officers led the [illegible]alry, 150 strong. The regiment presen[illegible] an imposing appearance. The arti[illegible] corps, four guns, commanded by Col. [illegible]ers, followed. Plenty of music was f[illegible]shed by the soldiery, each battalion [illegible]ving its band. The Twenty-first, o[illegible] Essex, led under Col. Beattie. The [illegible]panies were: No. 1, Capt. Cheyne, [illegible]indsor; No. 2, Capt. Johnston, Lear[illegible]ton; No. 3, Essex; No. 4, Capt. Sycles[illegible], Amherstburg; No. 5, Capt. Dawson, [illegible]dsor.

The Twenty[illegible]nd Battalion Oxford Rifles, nearly 2[illegible]ooked well in their dark uniforms. Th[illegible]mpanies and captains were: No. 1 C[illegible]ny, Capt. Ross, Woodstock; No. 2, [illegible] D. R. Ross, Embro; No. 3, Capt. W[illegible]nson, Princeton; No. 4, Capt. Vance, I[illegible]oll; No. 5, Capt. Blakeley, Norwich; [illegible] 6, Capt. Ball, Woodstock; No. 7, [illegible]t. Knight, Tilsonburg; No. 8, Capt. C[illegible], Thamesford. Lieut.-Col. Munroe [illegible]manded. During a stop on Richmond [illegible]eet the Oxford boys amused the [illegible]ators by singing glee songs.

The Twenty[illegible]enth of Lambton and their fine ban[illegible]lowed under Col. Ellis, Major Kenwoo[illegible] staff. The captains of the respective [illegible]mpanies were: Capt. Dawson, Petro[illegible] Pollock, Forest; Gattis, Thedford; J[illegible]on, Watford; O'Neil, Point Edwar[illegible]olbier, Warwick; McKenzie, Sarni[illegible]

The Twent[illegible]th, of Waterloo, 200 strong, won [illegible]rable comment. Col. Cowan and M[illegible] Radford, of Galt, were at the head. T[illegible]mpanies were: No. 1, Capt. Bowma[illegible]erlin; No. 2, Capt. Kerr, Galt; No. 3, [illegible] McCallum, New Hamburg, No. 4, [illegible]t. Gibbs, Galt; No. 5, Capt. Ellis, H[illegible]er; No. 6, Lieut. Harsly, Berlin.

The Thirty[illegible]d, of Bruce, was at the rear of the [illegible]ssion. Col. J. H. Scott, Kincardine; [illegible]r J. W. Stafford, Port Elgin; Paym[illegible] Hon. Major A. B. Klein, and Adjt. [illegible] W. J. Holden, Southampton, we[illegible]e officers, and the companies were [illegible]ded by W. C. Luscombe, Kincardine; [illegible] E. Jefferis, Lucknow; A. McGraw, P[illegible] A. Weir, Walkerton; John Dougl[illegible]arran; John Henderson, Mildway, an[illegible]h. Gillies, Teeswater.

[illegible]HE PARK.

Thousand[illegible] people from London and the surround[illegible]istrict were in waiting at Victoria Pa[illegible]view the procession as it filed in at th[illegible] entrance past the guns, where a ban[illegible]d been erected on which was inscribe[illegible]itish Pluck Won These." The Sevent[illegible]attalion, at the head, marched be[illegible] the guns and formed in line on the [illegible] at the east side of the park. Those who decried Canada and her institutions were unworthy the name of freemen, and were of that class who were not pleased because the making of the world was intrusted to other hands than theirs. The apathy that so many people had shown toward the condition of the schools was being rapidly displaced by a growing feeling that the important function of educating the youth of the country was the paramount duty of the citizens as well as the state. The more people of intelligence, cultivation and refinement we could attract to our community the better for us. A country was nothing without men, men were nothing without mind, and mind was nothing without culture. The products of the farm, the shop, the mill, the mine, were of incomparably less value than the products of the school. Wherever children were neglected, wherever people were indifferent or careless about them, it was a sure sign of degradation and decay. The central point of every wisely-administered government is its system of education. Good schools and seminaries give a standing and high reputation to a place. The money that is invested in them was safe and sure; it was repaid in compound interest. On behalf of the committee and the board he thanked Col. Smith, D. A. G., the officers and men for their co-operation; the principals and teachers who entered so heartily into the arrangements for a successful demonstration, and all, strangers, citizens and pupils for their presence there.

The children here sang "Rule Britannia," and the Seventh fired a feu-de-joie—"fits of joy" as the boys called it.

Letters of regret at inability to be present we announced to have been received from James Armstrong, M.P., Hon. John Carling, Rev. Dr. Proudfoot and Charles Hutchinson.

Dr. J. H. Sangster, of Port Perry, Ont., was introduced as orator of the day. He has a good flow of language and a resonant voice. The major part of his address consisted of an elaborated comparison between the past and the present in Canada and the memories of those who heard him were kept flitting from a 100 years back down to the year of grace, 1892. His descriptions of the hardships and usages of the pioneer settlers, of the condition of the country and relatively of the changes which time had wrought for those of to-day, were sometimes very entertaining. Leaving that he dwelt on patriotism and incidentally on politics. "If we were not growing as fast as our neighbors," said he, "we were growing perhaps as fast as we ought to grow. We hadn't their reckless speculation, or their business morality, or their $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 failures, or any Tammany Hall rings."

We didn't ordinarily carry revolvers in our pockets or bowie knives in our boots. We lived in peace and security and generally died in our beds. "Let us set our faces" he exclaimed, "against faction that for miserable party purposes asperses our country's fair fame." The speaker described the noblest patriotism as that ideal sentiment which uplifted every citizen morally as well as physically to the level of the measure of the country's needs. Patriotism refused to be whipped into line by political hacks, and that was what we need just now. They did not pretend that the political atmosphere was all serene. There were rocks ahead, and they had collisions to escape and storms to weather before the ship of state rode safely and proudly among the nations. The greatest danger it had was of being sunk by our own politicians.

Voice—On which side?

Continuing, the speaker said all sensible people recognized the villainous factiousness amongst them. The unknowing multitude would consent and continue to be used for the furtherance of par[illegible] ends. They had seen in this demo[illegible] stration the flower of Canadian m[illegible] hood armed, ready to face fire, danger [illegible] death in defense of Canada, homes [illegible] beauty. But where were the vete[illegible] lead us against this treacherous foe [illegible] in the garb of a friend and know[illegible], clothed a familiar name?

LINDSAY, July 1.—Len Ritchie, 9 years old, son of S. S. Ritchie, accidentally fell into the river to-day and was drowned.

TORONTO, July 1.—Fred Prosser, aged 17, was drowned in the Humber to-day by the upsetting of a boat as he stepped into it.

TALK OF RETALIATION.

Harrison's Message and the Davis Bill Causing a Commotion.

DULUTH, Minn., July 1.—President Harrison's message to Congress urging retaliation on Canadian vessels until such time as the discrimination against American interests shall cease, followed by Senator Davis' bill to give effect to retaliation, has caused considerable commotion at the head of Lake Superior, whose business will be most affected, by prohibitory canal tolls on Canadian vessels passing through the canal and locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

OTTAWA, July 1.—It is understood that the Dominion Government has proposed as a basis of settlement of the canal tolls dispute to allow a rebate of the tolls on grain trains shipped at Ogdensburg, N. Y. Hitherto a rebate was only granted on grain carried in Canadian bottoms to Montreal.

Gladstone's Campaign One of Wonderful Energy.

His Home Rule Scheme Had Spurgeon's Approval.

Varying Estimates as to the Irish Electoral Results.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN'S CONTRIBUTION.

A letter from Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, was received yesterday by the Irish National Federation, which is composed of Irish-Americans who favor the McCarthy section of the Irish Parliamentary party. It contained a check for $200 to aid the cause of home rule in Ireland in the approaching general elections. "The folly of a small minority, "wrote Archbishop Ryan, "should not be permitted to injure a great and just cause. It is in a dark hour like this that genuine disinterested sympathy will show itself, and the present list of subscribers to this fund will, I believe, contain the names of all in this community who love or take a deep interest in Ireland. If Mr. Gladstone and the great English Liberal party are hopeful of the future of the island, should we despair?"

IT WILL BE A BUSY ONE.

Mr. Gladstone's Midlothian campaign will be busy enough to tax the energies of a man of half his years. He spoke in Edinburg last night, and to-day he rested. On Saturday he goes to Glasgow to address a meeting of delegates from all parts of the west and south of Scotland. In the week beginning on July 4 a series of drives is proposed in the county. Mr. Gladstone will leave Dalmeny by special train for Stow, where he will begin his drive, and go through Fountainhall, Heriot, Tynehead, Fushiebridge, Gorebridge and Dalkeith. At Gorebridge he will address a meeting of local electors, speaking only for about a quarter of an hour. For the second drive the arrangements are: Train from Dalmeny to Duddingstone and Craigmillar, then in a carriage to Niddrie, New Craighall, Inverness, Cousland, Pathhead and Dalkeith he will address a meeting in the Foresters' Hall, and may extend the the journey to Bonnyrig. The third drive will be from Newington to Liberton, Loanhead, Roslin, Auchindinny and Penicuik. The fourth drive will be from Dalmeny to Kirkliston, Ratho, Currie, Colinton, Slateford and Cortophine.

LONDON, J[illegible] RED HOT.

[illegible]uly 1.—The present generation has [illegible]seen no general election which will be so [illegible] hotly contested as the one now proceed[illegible] being [illegible]ing. Enormous sums of money are [illegible] spent by both Conservatives and Libe[illegible] Bri[illegible]rals in hidden ways so as to evade the C[illegible]bery Act. The Liberals charge the Conservatives with running paid Socialist and labor candidates to break up the Liberal vote. As a matter of fact, the list of both Socialist and labor candidates who are standing for election has become thinned during the week. To-night's list presents 33 labor candidates, including those who are seeking re-election. Seven of them have no chance of success, and their only aim is to spoil the chance of the Liberals standing in their districts. Thus there are only 26 genuine labor candidates in the field, of which fourteen only are likely to be elected, making the labor vote in next Parliament of the same value as it was in the last. The Socialists are nowhere. Still the labor question is the front plank in the platforms of Liberals and Conservatives alike.

THEY MAY WELL BE.

The trades unions are suspicious as to the Conservative pledges, and continue to incline toward the Liberal candidates. No new factor has appeared during the week to alter the party forecasts. A high Government official told the representative of the Associated Press that the Cabinet had shown their conviction of coming defeat by setting their private papers in order in readiness to vacate their offices.

ROSEBERY ANGERS THE RADICALS.

Lord Rosebery has made a speech in which he approved Lord Salisbury's foreign policy, and has thereby so angered the Radicals that they are already wire-pulling to place Lord Ripon in the foreign office.

French papers concur in the opinion that Lord Rosebery has dispelled the illusion that Mr. Gladstone's accession to power would mean the evacuation of Egypt.

A COUNTERBLAST TO ULSTER.

The British Nonconformists have issued a manifesto as a counterblast to the Ulster movement. The declaration is a vigorous defense of Mr. Gladstone.

A SHOCK TO THE IRISH PARTY.

Mr. Gladstone's declaration that the rejection of the Home Rule Bill by the House of Lords will not involve a fresh appeal to the country, as Parliament will then proceed with other measures has been a shock to the Irish party. It is certain that they will not tolerate any action of the House of Lords tending to indefinitely shelve the home rule question.

A TORY ESTIMATE.

The Speaker's estimate of the Irish electoral results is anti-Parnellites 75, Unionists, 20, Parnellites, 8. The Unionists say they are certain to have 28 seats, and the Parnellites predict the return of 24 of their candidates. Timothy Healy offers 10 to 1 that the Parnellites will get only 5 seats.

MRS. CHAMBERLAIN ON THE STUMP.

Mrs. Richard Chamberlain, who has taken the stump for her husband, has acquired distinction by her intrepidity in facing rowdy opponents. An effective orator, she has won the admiration of the Liberals by facing and quelling uproarious Islington. She persisted in being heard, overcame her opponents and made them friends.

GLADSTONE IN EDINBURGH.

EDINBURGH, July 2.—When Mr. Gladstone left Lord Rosebery's residence at Dalmeny on Thursday night, as already briefly cabled, he stepped with Mrs. Gladstone into an open carriage and drove off via Granton, a little town on the Firth or Forth. Crowds were assembled at every hamlet to cheer the Liberal chieftain. His drive from Dalmeny to Edinburgh was an ovation, and a prodigious multitude was assembled to greet him outside the Music Hall at Edinburgh. The people were fairly frantic with enthusiasm. Cheer rang upon cheer, until the whole city seemed to be animated with one common purpose, to impress Gladstone with the admiration and affection in which he was held by the people of Scotland's capital. It appeared as if Edinburgh thought it might be the last time that Mr. Gladstone would present himself as a candidate, and was determined to show him all the honor possible. The Music Hall was packed to the doors with all that it could hold—about 2,500 people. Indeed, the hall had been filled for two hours before Mr. Gladstone's arrival, and an immense number had sought in vain for access. The cheers outside gave notice to the people within that the Liberal leader had arrived, and as Mr. Gladstone entered the hall at five minutes after 6 the audience rose as one man, waving their hats and handkerchiefs and cheering themselves hoarse for the Grand Old Man. The demonstration lasted for five minutes. Then Mr. John Cowan, chairman of the Liberal election committee, was able to call the people to order. With him on the platform were all the Liberal candidates for the city and county of Edinburgh. Mr. Cowan, in introducing Mr. Gladstone, spoke of him as the greatest statesman of the day. At these words the ovation was renewed, and Mr. Gladstone, who had risen to begin his address, had to wait for several minutes until the cheers had subsided. Then came deep silence and attention on the part of the audience, while the voice of the speaker filled the great hall.

Mr. Gladstone said he had never met his constituents with greater pleasure or greater confidence. He had every reason to believe, as he hoped, that Midlothian would go solid for justice and truth. Mr. Gladstone denounced what he called the mean trick of the Government in preventing the pollings from being held on Saturday. It was a trick that showed fear of the working classes, and would recoil upon the heads of its authors. Towards the end of his speech Mr. Gladstone said that he desired to contrast the behavior of the friends and opponents of home rule. The latter asserted [illegible] education and enlighten[illegible] of the country, the men of leisure [illegible] and high station, were all against home rule. He was sorry to say that this was true to a large extent, but this condition of sentiment among the classes mentioned had been painfully reflected in almost all, if not all, great political controversies during the last 50 years, whether those controversies affected the franchise, or commerce, or religion, or the wicked and abominable institution of slavery. The classes of leisure, the educated classes, the titled and wealthy classes, had always been in the wrong.

Cheer upon cheer greeted the above statement of Mr. Gladstone, the audience jumping to their feet in enthusiastic indorsement of his words, and the multitude outside echoing the applause from within. When the people had calmed down Mr. Gladstone continued, with solemn emphasis, as follows:

"It has been reserved for the broad, manly sense of justice, to cast effectual light on the path we ought to pursue, and to lead us through all difficulties and contentions to a happy consummation." In what spirit, he asked, had the educated classes met their proposals? Their conciliatory suggestions had been hurled back with mockery. Ranged on one side, their opponents declared, were all that was graceful and virtuous in Great Britain and Ireland, all that was intelligent, all the men of title and of land, and on the other side the poor men who constituted the Irish nation, with their few disparaged leaders. Who, in this case, had shown liberality of view and a desire to interpret everything in its best sense? Certainly not the titled, the wealthy, the educated classes.

Mr. Gladstone proceeded to arraign the Government for its action in Ireland. He denounced the Irish Local Government Bill as a monstrous measure and a wanton insult to and mockery of the Irish people.

"Let us go forward," said Mr. Gladstone in his peroration, "in the good work commenced. Let us put our trust, not in titles, not in squires, or in peers, or in acres. I will go further and say, not in man as such, but in Almighty God, who is the God of Justice, who has ordained the principles of right and equity and freedom, to be guides and masters of our lives."

Prolonged applause followed the close of the address, the audience repeating the ovation with which they had greeted Mr. Gladstone. He spoke 84 minutes, without showing any sign of exhaustion in voice or manner. The address is pronounced equal to any he ever delivered in Edinburgh.

RELATIONS IN THE COMMONS.

There are three Healys (brothers) and three Chamberlains (brothers and son) in the House of Commons. In addition there are two Gladstones (father and son), two Sidebottoms (brothers), two Alexanders (brothers), two Allsopps (brothers), Ashmead-Bartlett and a Burdett-Coutts (brothers in fact, though no longer in name), two Balfours (brothers), two Cavendish-Bentincks (cousins), two Brights (uncle and nephew), two Elliots (brothers), two Fryes (cousins), two Hamiltons (brothers), two Gathorne-Hardys (brothers), two Harringtons (brothers), two Knatchbull-Huggessens, three Lowthers (father, son and cousin), two McCarthys (father and son), two Mowbrays (father and son), three Peases (all related), two Redmonds (brothers), two Samuelsons (related), two Stanhopes (brothers on opposite sides).

THE HOME RULE BILL.

LONDON, July 2.—Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, while speaking last evening, was asked whether Mr. Gladstone had got the consent of Messrs. Dillon, McCarthy and Healy to his declaration that the rejection of the Home Rule Bill by the House of Lords would not involve a fresh appeal to the country as Parliament would then proceed with other business. Mr. Goschen said that such an arrangement was impossible, that the defeat of the Home Rule Bill must mean the dissolution of Parliament and the putting of the question straight to the people without accessory programmes confusing the issue. The opinion of Mr. Goschen is the opinion of every prominent politician on each side excepting Mr. Gladstone, and it is likely that even he will have to concur with them.

CHANGES IN IRELAND.

The Nationalist conventions at Donegal, Fermanagh and Monaghan have selected three Protestant candidates. In Cavan, the most Catholic county in Ulster, one member has been a Protestant; the other, a Roman Catholic, became a Parnellite. The Nationalists have decided to replace him by Mr. Samuel Young, a Protestant from Belfast. County Longford, the two divisions of which are to be contested by Mr. Edward Blake, a Protestant, and "Tim" Healy, a Catholic, is in Leinster; but the Roman Catholics form 90 per cent. of the population.

On the Rocks!

The City of Chicago Ashore on the Irish Coast.

Her Passengers Landed by Means of Life Boats.

The Fears That Cholera Will Invade Russia Fully Realized.

The Cholera Plague Spreads.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 1.—The number of victims in cholera-stricken Baku is steadily increasing. On Monday 55 fresh cases of the disease were reported at that place, and on the same day 57 deaths occurred.

PARIS, July 1.—Newspapers announce that the number of cases of cholera in the outskirts of the city is increasing. The Director of Public Aid admits that the disease has existed in the vicinity of Paris for the past three months, but declares that no true case of India cholera has yet been reported.

The City of Chicago Ashore.

LONDON, July 1.—The Inman Line steamer City of Chicago, Capt. Redford, which left New York June 22 for Liverpool, and was signaled off Brow Head at 4:45 this afternoon, is ashore on the Irish coast, two miles west of Kinsale. The City of Chicago went ashore in a dense fog. Tugs have been dispatched to the scene. The steamer ran her stem into the cliff. The life boats were at once launched and other life-saving apparatus brought into play. The sea was smooth. The west head of Kinsale is about twenty miles west of [illegible]

The passengers and mail are now being landed by means of the life boats.

The fore compartment of the steamer is full of water. The fog is still dense; and the vessels which are to be dispatched to the assistance of the City of Chicago will have to proceed very slowly and cautiously.

The vessel is in a bad position and from all that can be learned at present it is believed that it will be a difficult task to get her afloat.

LATER.

QUEENSTOWN, July 2 — 8 a.m.—The steamer City of Chicago which went ashore last evening on the Barrel rocks remains fast. When the passengers were told that they would have to abandon the ship there was absolutely no panic. The sea was comparatively smooth and the passengers entered the boats without hesitation and were landed in safety. Sixty of the passengers on landing were given a temporary shelter at the Allydes signal station. The rockets sent up by the City of Chicago conveyed the intelligence to the people living in the vicinity that a wreck had occurred, and in a short time about 100 peasants gathered upon the high cliff, looking down upon the scene of the wreck. The members of the coast guard arrived shortly afterward, and they procured rope ladders, which they lowered down the face of the cliff. The ladies below then ascended in safety by means of these ladders. The men were hauled up by the ropes by the peasants and the coast guards. No accident happened except to a 6-year-old boy, who fell 40 feet from a rock. Most fortunately for him he was seen to slip by the sailors of the City of Chicago standing below, and they rushed and caught him before he reached the ground.

The Trans-Caspian Quarantine.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 1.—A number of doctors sent by the Government have arrived at Baku to aid the physicians there in combatting the ravages of cholera. The Russian flotilla in the Caspian Sea has been ordered to watch all ships leaving Persian ports. The quarantine stations in the trans-Caspian territory have been increased in number, and a week has been added to the time in which individuals are subjected to quarantine. All imports of food are subjected to a strict medical examination, and everything known to medical science will be done to stamp out the dreaded scourge.

In Dzizak, in Turkestan, 130 of the inhabitants have died with the disease in four days. The epidemic prevails in a more virulent form at Kaabka, in the trans-Caspian territory.

The fears that the disease would invade European Russia have been realized, and already several hundred cases have been reported on this side of the frontier. The inhabitants and the troops stationed along the frontier are panic-stricken. The wealthier classes are seeking safety in flight from the infected towns and villages.

Peace Overtures Refused.

LONDON, July 2.—King Beha[illegible], of Dahomey, who has been carrying on warfare with the French forces in that country for a considerable period, has made overtures looking to the establishment of peace. The French, however, have refused to accept his offer.

The Commandant Has Come.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Herbert Booth, son of Gen. Booth, head of the Salvation Army, arrived here on the steamer Teutonic. Ballington Booth and his pretty wife, who have charge of the army in the United States, with a band of Salvation soldiers were on the dock to greet the new arrival. Herbert Booth is a bright looking young Salvationist, and, after spending a few days with the army in New York, will go to Canada and reorganize the Salvation phalanx across the border.

REDUCED TO ASHES.

A Conflagration in Yarmouth, N. S., Causes a Loss of $50,000.

YARMOUTH, N. S., July 1.—Yarmouth to-day was visited by a serious conflagration which started in the south end of Water street, occupied by a number of mills and factories and all filled with inflammable material. The largest of these was the Kinney-Haley Manufacturing Company's establishment. The fire spread rapidly and the total loss is placed at $50,000. The dwellings destroyed were all occupied by poor people.

WOODLANDS, Cal., July 2.—A fire yesterday destroyed the Jackson Block and Exchange Block, containing the opera house, Exchange Hotel and a number of stores and offices. The losses will reach $250,000; insurance light. Two men were killed by falling walls.

FORESTERS' FETE.

The A. O. F. Demonstration at Guelph Was a Decided Success.

GUELPH, Ont., July 2.—The A. O. F. had a beautiful day yesterday for their demonstration. At 9 o'clock the Foresters from Galt with their band arrived. The same train also brought the Berlin and Waterloo Bands together with a large number of the citizens of those places, who were met at the station by the reception committee of Guelph Lodge. Towards noon a special arrived from the Queen City containing A. O. F. fife band, members and about a thousand citizens.

At 1:30 p.m. a procession was formed at the city hall of bands, visiting Foresters, juvenile cadets and citizens, and proceeded to the Exhibition Park where 5,000 people had congregated.

In the football match between the Guelph team and Govevale of Toronto, the latter won by two goals to nothing in 5 and 20 minutes respectively.

The tug-of-war between the Ancient Foresters of Galt and Guelph, was won by the home team.

In the competition drill of juvenile Foresters, the London lads were 1st, Galt 2nd.

There was a grand open air concert to complete the day's amusements.

Nine Prisoners Bolted.

NEW BIRMINGHAM, Tex., July 2.—The prisoners at the ore bed State prison attempted to escape. Nine of them, armed with rocks, charged the guard. The guard fired upon them, killing one and wounding four, two fatally. Four of the prisoners escaped, one being recaptured.

Skeleton of a Sea Cow.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., July 2.—The special treasury agents, just returned from the Russian seal islands on the Siberian coast, have brought back a perfect skeleton of a sea cow, an animal extinct 160 years. The only other specimen is owned by the Czar. The skeleton is 30 feet long and 20 high.

The Bride Was Barefooted.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., July 1.—Ely Dobbs and Susan Edwards came all the way from Christian county, Kentucky, yesterday morning. The bride was barefooted, with uncombed hair, and had hardly sufficient clothing of the commonest sort to hide her person, while the groom looked like a Mississippi River deck hand just off from a long trip. Yet, after being made man and wife, this couple walked out of the principal streets of the town looking as happy and contented as possible.

Dominion Day Sports in Chatham.

CHATHAM, July 1.—A cricket match between the Chatham Cricket Club and a team from Detroit resulted in a victory for the home club. Chatham 84, Detroit 74 runs.

A football match between an Essex club and that of Chatham resulted in a score of 1 goal for Chatham to none by Essex.

The Detroit high school sent a baseball team to try conclusions with the Chatham Baseball Club and an exciting match took place. Score, Detroit 9, Chatham 6.

A Bering Sea Sensation.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 2.—There is great excitement here over the report that American cruisers have seized the steamer Coquitlam in Alaskan waters and a number of Canadian sealers. The Coquitlam is owned by the Union Steamship Company of Vancouver and chartered by an association of sealers to carry supplies to schooners in Bering Sea and bring back skins. Her owners will make representations to the Dominion Government in regard to the matter. It is said 4,000 skins were seized.

WORDS THA BURN.

SILAS PETERS ON EDUCATION.

Believe in eddication, sir? Well, I jest guess
I do,
I've seen too much o' how works to take the other view.
I've seen how knowledge kes a spot that's sort o' cold and bare.
'Nd covers of it up with q a nickle-plated air.
I sees the difference everday 'tween eddicated folks
'Nd them as thinks it's no ' but a fraud 'nd sort o' hoax.

Why, right to home I sees. There's my wife, she's studied well
Not only how to read 'nd e, to cipher, 'nd
to spell,
But she's an artis' likewise a most uncommon way,
'Nd I believe to find her lik u'd travel many a day,
For instance, she can kno tune from our melodeon
As easy as the huntsman the trigger of his gun.

I've seen that woman pl song with one note up in G,
'Nd then the next one come down—as far,
I s'pose, as Z—
'Nd not a bit of difference it ever seem to make
If she had twenty-seven n or only one to take;
Her fingers they would ho out, 'nd all the needed keys
She'd seem to strike as ea , as you or I could sneeze.

But best of all her talents way she decorates.
She'll make a lovely whatn ith two simple apple-crates;
'Nd all the picture frames ave upon our parlor wall
She's made of colored leaves she'd gathered in the fall;
'Nd all our books, from a cs to Doctor
Browne on Hope,
She's got in cases that s built of boxes
made for soap.

The organ stool she uses she sets her down to play
Ain't store-made as you'd k, but jest a stump she'd found on She's covered of it up with all trimmed with fringe and stars
'Nd set a cushion on the 'Nd all our ginger jars
She sort o' paints in ge style, with dragons in a fight;
'Nd when she sets 'em rou house, they makes a pretty sight.

I tell ye, sir, it takes a ga kn ws a fearful pile
To take a lot o' common 'd give 'em such a style
They seem to be worth h d my wife does all that—
I've seen her make a basket ted beaver hat.
It's eddication's done it, ' kids isn't fools,
I'll see they gets as much o there is in the schools.

Beauty and Comfort.

Women know how much comfort and health conduce to comeliness of person. To men beauty does not seem to call for analysis. If a woman imagines she cares more for beauty than for comfort and health, it is because she does not see that beauty is impossible without both. CONVERSAZIONE.

Do the Duty which liest nearest thee, which thou knowest to be a Duty. Thy second Duty will already have become clearer.—[Thomas Carlyle.

A Car that Writes.

After 20 years of patient labor and study, Mr. P. H. Dudley has invented a car that writes. It records, slowly or rapidly, the condition of the road-bed over which it travels. A curious electrical machine controls a number of small glass tubes, finished to a point, that are filled with ink. These tubes trace on paper, specially made, all the variations of the track; where there is a difference of the sixteenth of an inch, the difference is recorded. The sheets of paper, which are eight feet long, pass over rollers that are connected with the wheels of the car, and keep the record of each mile of the road traversed. Every curve, as well alignment and variation of the height of the rails, is recorded; each defect is clearly marked, and it is then an easy matter to locate and repair them. This car is also the home of Mr. Dudley, who owns it. The car is known as the Dudley Dynograph Car.

Wrecks and the Drowned Sink to the Bottom of the Ocean.

There is a rather common, but erroneous notion, to the effect that a human body, or even a ship, will not sink to the bottom of the protounder abysses of the oceans, but will on account of the density of the waters at a great depth, remain suspended at some distance above the surface of the earth. This is an error. No other fate awaits the drowned sailor or his ship than that which comes to the marine creatures who die on the bottom of the sea; in time their dust all passes into the great storehouse of the earth even as those who receive burial on land.

However deep the sea, it is but a few hours before the body of a man who finds his grave in the ocean is at rest upon the bottom; it there receives the same swift service from the agents which, in the order of nature, are appointed to care for the dead, as comes to those who are reverently inhumed in blessed ground. All save the hardest parts of the skeleton are quickly taken again into the realm of the living and even those more resisting portions of the body in time are, in large part, appropriated by the creatures of the sea-floor, so that before the dust returns in the accumulating water to the firm set earth it may pass through an extended cycle of living forms.

The fate of animal bodies on the sea-floor is well illustrated by the fact that beneath the waters of the Gulf Stream, where it gasses by southern Florida, there are, in some places, quantities of bones, apparently those of the manitee, or sea-cows, a large herbivorous mammal, which like the seal, has become adapted to acquatic life; these creatures plentifully inhabit the tropical rivers which flow into the Caribbean Sea, and are though rarely, found in the streams of southern Florida. At their death they drift out into the open water and are swept away to the northward by the ocean current. For some weeks, perhaps, the carcasses are buoyed up by the gases of decomposition which are retained by their thick, oily skins; as they decay and break the bodies fall to the bottom.—[From "The Depths of the Sea," by Professor N. S. Shaler, in the July Scribner.

Booth and Labouchere.

A press cablegram from London says that the fact that Henry Labouchere recently signed an appeal made by General Booth for funds for the Salvation Army's work occasioned considerable surprise and comment, as he had formerly been understood to regard Booth as a sham. In an interview just published Labouchere explains his attitude, saying that he has satisfied himself that the money raised by Booth is being rightly expended. He says that he recently visited the "Farm Colony" near Hadleigh, and found a very interesting state of affairs. An enormous work has been accomplished. A complete village had been built up in thirteen months. The colony possesses 300 acres of land under crops, and 1,200 acres of land are being reclaimed from the sea by the dumping of London refuse. Thirty-seven acres are devoted to fruit trees. There are 600 chickens, 600 cattle, and a large number of sheep and pigs. A rabbit warren is a novel and useful part of the stock-raising establishment. The colony also has a sawmill, a brick-yard with a capacity of 30,000 bricks per day, a chair factory with a daily output of 500 chairs, and other manufacturing plants.

Mr. Labouchere found the "submerged tenth" working hard, and proving themselves worthy of the help Booth, by the aid of the generous public, has extended to them. Booth's theory, that by giving these poor wretches a little encouragement—a start—they could be redeemed, seems to be substantiated by the results attained. Men are constantly leaving the colony to accept good situations. The moral effect upon the beneficiaries seems like a physical tonic. Labouchere considers Booth's enterprise an honest, fruitful, and successful one.

Miscalculation.

The Boston Globe prints a story which reminds one of the old saying about the shoemaker and his last.

A Yarmouth captain had a small coasting schooner lying in port, and decided to give a lesson to painters in general by himself painting the vessel's name on her bows. He could not reach high enough from the float, and did not care to put out a swinging stage, so he reached down over the side to do the lettering.

After finishing the job on one bow, he went ashore to view his handiwork, and this is what met his gaze—ƎIꓨꓨAM

Anarchy Effectively Done For in Chicago.

At the headquarters of the West Side police one is in the neighborhood of the "Anarchist Riot" of 1886. In that building the police force was mustered and formed for its march out to the Anarchist meeting-place, 500 feet distant; and there 67 of the police, killed and wounded, were laid when brought back a few minutes later. The messenger in attendance is one of the severely wounded, now too much shattered to do more than light tasks about the station. Conversation with some of the men at this station has led me to a new appreciation of the magnitude of the issues then and there fought out, and the finality of the settlement arrived at. A lieutenant of police recently said to me:

"The whole thing is played out. They will never make another experiment. There is no interest in anarchy or socialism any more, and no meetings to speak of. They do get together, some of them, at Twelfth Street Turner Hall, but you'd never know that they had ever planned a riot or loaded a bomb. No; they have no connection with hardship and poverty. They can always get their beer, and that's the main thing with them."

These quiet and unassuming officers of law and order know that they did their duty, and think that their success was a foregone conclusion. They do not know that though other "stronger" governments could have put down anarchy by force of arms, and hanged or shot the insurgents by martial law, yet this is perhaps the only government on earth which could have met such a movement by the ordinary police power, and then have given the guilty a long public trial before "a jury of their peers," and have relied on a verdict of conviction, a judgment of death, and the deliberate execution of that judgment.—From "Among the Poor of Chicago," by Major Joseph Kirkland, in the July Scribner.

—[BROWNING.

London, Saturday, July 2.

BUT how can a man with a hobby ever be happy?—[New York Recorder. Did you ever find a man happy who had not a hobby of some kind?

IT IS alleged that Judge Elliot, having been granted immunity by Sir John Thompson, is again editing the London Free Press.

THE bicycle is on the top in Britain. The manager of a large constituency in rural England writes to the London agent of one of the great parties, that if he wished to carry his seat, "be sure and send down a good cyclist as your candidate."

ALMOST every newspaper in Canada, without regard to political leanings, has given Hon. Edward Blake a generous send-off on his departure to take a seat in the British House of Commons. It has been left to our city contemporary, which has defended every misdeed of the present Administration, and has supported the policy of burking inquiry into every charge of wrongdoing, to pelt mud at the honorable gentleman. Is this also from the secret hand?

THERE are strange developments in the English religious world. The Bishop of Chester has given express permission for dancing. He finds Bibical authority to be on the side of dancing, and does not see why people should not indulge in it. The Bishop of Barking, on the other hand, has invited his parishioners to Sunday afternoon concerts in his garden. He has engaged a military band, and they will discourse sacred music, while his parishioners sit around, smoke and chat.

THE Montreal Star points out that partly printed and partly written notices issued by societies for the purpose of notifying members of the date and place of meetings to be held must in future be prepaid at letter rate. This is a very stupid regulation by the Dominion postoffice authorities. The charge made is supposed to cover the cost of delivery. A postman has no greater labor in carrying around a bundle of society summonses inclosed in an envelope than he has in delivering a collection of postcards. On the broad ground of a commercial transaction, therefore, it would be advisable to let these monthly or fortnightly notices go at a one-cent rate as formerly. There is another reason for this view. The societies are constant customers of the mails, and they are, moreover, engaged in a philanthropic work, for the benefit of a very large section of the people. They ask no bonus or government aid. They simply hold that they are overtaxed to make up deficiencies in other branches of the public service. Is the course pursued either fair or wise?

THE CENSUS EXPOSES THE RACE AND RELIGION OUTCRY AGAINST PREMIER MOWAT.

Some instructive figures are supplied by the chief census officer of the Dominion Government in a bulletin recently published. He points out that of the 4,800,000 inhabitants of Canada but 475,168 are natives of England, Ireland or Scotland—a decrease of natives of Ireland in ten years of 36,680, and of natives of Scotland, 7,645; while the native English have increased 49,469. Of persons born on the continent of Europe there are in the whole of Canada 53,778, an increase of 14,624. From the British Isles, the total increase is 5,144—making the grand total of 19,613. These statistics show that despite the fact that Canadian taxpayers paid millions of llars to coax immigrants to Canada in the ten years, they have all left us except 000. How huge has been the exodus be imagined when it is remembered Mr. Carling has claimed that between 000 and 800,000 immigrants were ght from Europe. Then the Dominion rnment has paid for the maintenance expensive immigration agency at P but the result of its labors is the in of 993 citizens of that country, or an av e of 99 a year.

T statistics regarding the French-spe population of Canada are especiall teresting to the people of Ontario, in iew he fact that Mr. Meredith and his tive friends may at any moment outcry upon which he attempted trol of the Ontario Government f years ago. Who does not re he tremendous outcry that was ust the Mowat Government, in Provincial campaign, over the overrunning of Ontario by king settlers from Quebec. resented that Mr. Mowat specially favored the new-comers, and that the Province was becoming Frenchified so rapidly that it was only a question of a few years when we would all have to parlez in the French tongue or get out. The outcry was a contemptible appeal to race and religious prejudice, and every lover of his country must have been rejoiced when it so signally failed. The census returns show how little foundation there was for the crusade inaugurated by the Conservative leaders in the Legislature. It is pointed out in that official document that whereas the French-speaking Canadians, were in 1881 but 30.1 per cent. of the population, they have decreased in ten years to 29.4 per cent. In Quebec, those who speak French are now 80.4 per cent. of the total population. In all the other provinces except New Brunswick, where the French have increased to 19.2 per cent. of the population, and Prince Edward Island, where their increase is 2 per cent. in the ten years, bringing their proportion up to 10.8 per cent., the census shows that the English-speaking population has increased in a greater ratio than those who claim French as their mother-tongue.

Coming to Ontario the census confirms our contention that the Province is overwhelmingly an English-speaking Province, and that those who speak French have lost ground rather than gained it. The French speakers now number but 4.8 per cent. of the population. Yet the enemies of the Mowat Administration have been telling us that the 95.2 per cent. of the population were about to be swallowed up by the 4.8 per cent.! If the census served no other object than to expose the hollowness of the cries raised against the present Ontario Administration, it has not been taken in vain. But how can the formulators of the race and religion cry of last Provincial campaign have the assurance to face the electors and the census at the same time?

POLLING BEGINS ON MONDAY.

The polling in the imperial elections in Great Britain begins on Monday. As the House was only dissolved on Monday last, this is speedy work. The burghs will first be heard from, and before the end of the week over a third of the constituencies will have voted. Salisbury goes to the country with a majority of 86 in a House of 670. The belief is, however, that the Grand Old Man will succeed in overcoming that majority. It is claimed that he will gain largely in London and the southern counties, where the Conservatives are now very strong. There is certainly room for a change, as in 1886 London returned 48 supporters of Salisbury to 13 followers of Gladstone, while the adjoining counties of Middlesex, Sussex, Surrey, Berkshire and Hertfordshire return a solid phalanx of Conservatives; Kent returns fourteen Conservatives to one Liberal, Hampshire nine Conservatives and one Liberal-Unionist to one Liberal, and Essex eight Conservatives to one Liberal. These districts will be heard from soon, and much will depend on their verdict. The contest is one of the most exciting ever fought in Britain.

PATRIOTS CANNOT BE DRIVEN OUT.

One Canadian newspaper that has reached us got so little patriotic inspiration from the Dominion Day celebration that it at once, parrot-like, took up the pampered official demand that every person in Canada who is dissatisfied with the way the affairs of the country are conducted should get out. That would be a nice, convenient arrangement for the plunderers and the rascal fraternity generally. But would those who accept such advice be patriots? By no means. They would be cravens, unworthy of the name of Canadians. For ourselves, we shall continue to expose wrong-doing and call for a remedy wherever needed, and we trust that the majority of the Canadian people will do likewise, albeit when it comes to voting they are gerrymandered to prevent the real voice of the country from being heard.

In all countries and in all ages patriots have not been deterred from calling for justice in the administration of public affairs and for the remedy of abuses by the silly caviling of defenders of class legislation and wrongdoing in high places.

Where would Great Britain be to-day if the men who wrote down the progressive statesmen in every age of the country's development, and called them croakers and dissemblers, had prevailed upon them to leave the country? How much worse would the position of Canada now be if the Fathers of Liberalism in this land had accepted the estimate of them entertained by the Family Compact manipulators?

The British opponents of class legislation, such as we now have in Canada, were traduced and insulted, and doubtless told to get out. The early Liberals of Canada were called traitors and scoundrels and everything that was disreputable because they exercised their right, as free men, to think and to act as they believed to be right. It is therefore no new experience for opponents of that which is wrong to be assailed by men who believe in the "let-alone-evil-so-long-as-I-am-comfortable" policy. The point to keep in view is that the man or newspaper that palliates wrongdoing, by trying to drive those opposed to it out of the country, cannot be successful while patriotism remains.

WOMEN READ ADVERTISEMENTS.

[St. Louis Globe Democrat.]

It has been my good fortune during my week's stay at this hotel to be seated at table with three or four bright women. Every one of them comes down to breakfast with a newspaper in her hands. And what do suppose she reads first? Why the advertisements of the big drygoods houses, of course. She dwells and comments on every item of the advertisements with the serious interest I devote to market reports.

DIVORCED IN ENGLAND.

The Wife of a Toronto Physician Secures a Decree.

LONDON, July 2.—The Divorce Court has granted, on the wife's petition, a divorce to Mrs. Strange from Dr. F. W. Strange, who formerly practiced in London, but who now resides in Toronto. Dr. Strange was formerly a member of the Canadian Parliament. According to Mrs. Strange's statement, she was married in 1868, and six months after her marriage she accompanied her husband to Toronto. They lived happily together until they met Mr. and Mrs. Mathieson, who became patients of Dr. Strange. Mathieson died and afterward Dr. Strange left his wife and lived with Mrs. Mathieson. He told his wife that Mrs. Mathieson had what she had lost—his heart. Dr. Strange made no defense.

SPORTS AT ST. JOHNS.

Grand Dominion Day Celebration—A Calithumpian Procession and a Programme of Sports—The List of Prize-Winners.

Londoners went in every direction yesterday, and many who went north stopped at St. Johns, where a series of sports were going on. Fully 3,000 people were on the grounds and enjoyed the day immensely. The Arva Brass Band distinguished itself by its rendition of numerous popular selections. For the convenience of spectators refreshment booths were erected on the grounds and were very liberally patronized. In the commodious dancing hall the young folks enjoyed themselves to the music of the Routledge String Band. At 10 o'clock in the morning there was a grand calithumpian procession, in which a large number took part. It was the feature of the day. The afternoon sports resulted as follows:

One hundred yards' race—1 Chas. Young, 2 J. Jones, 3 G. W. Dennis.

Running jump—1 J. Jones, 2 Chas. Bush.

Vaulting with pole—1 J. Jones, 2 C. Bush, 3 D. Grey.

Standing high jump—C. Bush and J. Jones (tied.)

Running high jump—1 J. Jones, 2 C. Bush, 3 C. Young.

Running hop, step and jump—1 J. Jones, 2 C. Bush, 3 G. W. Dennis.

Putting the stone—1 E. Hudson, 2 J. Jones, 3 C. Bush.

Catching greasy pig—Chas. Avery.

Farmers' running race—1 Reuben Higgs, 2 Wm. Talbot.

Farmers' trot (protested)—1 S. Young, 2 D. Flood.

Trotting race (open)—1 R. Smith, 2 J. Flannagan.

The judges on sports were Thos. H. Talbot, George Elliott and Ambrose Powell. Those on horse races were R. Smith, J. Harding and — Ardiel. The committee of management was composed of J. Watson, secretary; A. Cummings, treasurer; Jas. Wyatt, W. Oliver, Geo. Flannagan, Geo. Crowley, and W. Fraleigh.

The day's proceedings closed with a display of fireworks in the evening. The people of St. Johns are certainly not behind the times in providing amusement.

THE HORSEMAN.

There are several reasons why a horse should be regularly and thoroughly curried. No self-respecting man neglects the bath. If he does—if circumstances compel him to forego such a luxury—he becomes a different man in every respect, mentally as well as physically, and if such neglect be long continued, as in the case of a man deprived of liberty, the lack of cleanliness helps to break the spirit and to rob him of vitality, energy and self-respect.

The effect is similar upon a horse. The chief object of the curry is purely sanitary, to keep him clean. If this be done thoroughly other objects are attained. Health is aided, the spirit and the fire of the horse is maintained, and the appearance of the horse is as good as it can be. All these come from systematic currying, provided the horse is properly fed and housed.

There is another object in currying, quite as important to the enthusiastic horseman. Of course, the man who can afford it will employ a stable boy to do the currying, but if the man wishes to get the most out of his horse, if he wishes to win the horse's confidence, affection and willing obedience, he will curry the horse himself, if not regularly, then often enough to keep up the acquaintance and friendship that may exist between a man and his horse; so often that the horse will learn the difference between his master's hand and that of the stable boy, who may be rough and "unconscious;" so often that the horse will look for his master's coming, and by unmistakable signs show his pleasure and affection.

All domestic animals, from the canary bird to the ox, delight in having the head rubbed. The horse is no exception. He will rest his head on the edge of the manger and half close the eyes in dreamy forgetfulness when the brush in gentle hands is applied.

Many horses are injured by the rough curry, by the man who hurriedly drives the metal comb harshly over the bony parts, against the ears and over the eyes. A horse subject to such treatment—and there are tens of thousands of them—dreads the hand of man—any man—and dodges and leans to hold the head high when the bridle is to be put on.

Let the man who wishes to be on friendly terms with his horse go over the head with a stiff yet pliable brush, rubbing back and forth on every part, parting the roseat on the forehead, brushing vigorously between the jaw bones, a place the horse cannot reach, and doing all so quietly and gently that the horse stands motionless, apparently oblivious to all surroundings.

And over the body of the horse use the metal currycomb carefully, if at all, and use it, or better, the stiff broom brush, not only to straighten the hair and remove stains, but also get below the surface, to reach the skin, that every particle of dust and dandruff be brushed out. Then what have we? A horse with a glossy coat that glistens like satin in the sunlight—a horse that feels as a man feels who has been to the barber's and has bathed, been shaved and shampooed. The glossy coat depends upon the food, but if it be right and the currying be thorough, the horse may be not only the pride, but also the affectionate, appreciative companion of the owner.

ON FIRE WITH ECZEMA.

Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and Two Hospitals Fail. Cured by Cuticura.

My baby boy, 5 months old, broke out with eczema. The itching and burning was intense; the eczema spread to his limbs, breast, face and head, until he was nearly covered; his torturing agonies were pitiable to behold; he had no peace and but little rest night or day. He was under treatment at different times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in this city without the least benefit; every prescription of the doctors was faithfully tried, but he grew worse all the time. For months I expended about $3 per week for medicines, and was entirely discouraged. I purchased CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and followed the directions to the letter. Relief was immediate, his sufferings were eased, and rest and sleep permitted. He steadily improved, and in nine weeks was entirely cured, and has now as clear a skin and is as fair a boy as any mother could wish to see. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.

THE UNDEFEATED ALERTS.

Yesterday morning and afternoon London's crack ball club, the Alerts, faced one of the best teams in the Province, the Galts, and defeated them in both games. The work of the visitors in the morning was extremely ragged and that of the Alerts exceptionally good. Galt made only two hits off Sheere, but evened up matters by a brilliant succession of errors—in all fifteen. On the contrary the Alerts knocked out hits with great regularity and kept the error column down to a unit. The star feature of the game was a great one-handed catch by Hynd.

The attendance in the afternoon was splendid and so was the game. The Galts seemed to be a different team and they made the Alerts hustle for victory. Jones was effective and received good support. Sheere went in the box again; his work again was highly creditable. Ball in left field covered himself with glory, having seven put outs and no errors.

The scores are as follows:

ATHLETICS.

THE BIG PULL.

INGERSOLL, Ont., July 1.—The annual sports of the Ingersoll Amateur Athletic Association took place to-day. The great feature of the celebration was the international tug-of-war between a picked team from the townspeople of Nissouri and the American team. The Nissouri team was captained by Mr. Quinn, and the champion Humboldt team of Chicago by Chas. L. Lacy. The Americans won the first pull in 30½ minutes, and the second in 17 minutes and 10 seconds.

LONDON BOYS VICTORIOUS AT BRANTFORD.

At the Y. M. C. A. demonstration and games in the Agricultural Park, Brantford, Friday, the London Y. M. C. A. Baseball Club defeated the Brantford Club by a score of 16 to 0, and won a handsome copper bat valued at $50. In the games the London boys were very successful as contestants, Fred. Beltz winning first prize for high jumping, first for hop, step and jump, and first for vaulting with pole, securing a medal also in an all-round athletic contest. In the half-mile bicycle race Frank White won first prize and Charles White second, the same parties winning first and second prizes in the three-mile bicycle race. In the five-mile team race Frank White, Charles White and Walter Mann beat the Brantford team by 15 to 6 points. There was a large attendance, and the London boys returned to the city at 10 p.m. well pleased with their day's outing, and with the reception given them at Brantford.

LAWN TENNIS.

The Hamilton Lawn Tennis Club were to have played a London club in this city yesterday afternoon but the players here could not get together sufficient men and the expected visitors did not come.

CRICKET.

LONDON DEFEATS BERLIN.

The London Cricket Club spent the afternoon very agreeably on their grounds in the north end in the process of defeating the Berlin Cricket Club. The home team which was captained by C. S. Hyman, M.P., won the toss and went to bat. They put up the very respectable score of 150. Hall went in when the second wicket was down and carried his bat through for a well-earned 77, not out. Bayly, Sayers, Hyman and Love played well for their double figures.

The visitors secured 47 in the first and 40 in the second, thus losing by 63 runs and one inning. Bowlby and Lay played steadily for their runs. The London bowlers, Hall, Macbeth, Harris and Becher, were very effective. Berlin was reinforced by Simpson, a crack bowler from Galt. The score:

THE WHEEL.

BICYCLISTS AGAINST SUNOL.

HARTFORD, Ct., July 1.—On July 4 at the Columbia Colt Bicycle meet at Charter Oak Park, the three crack riders, W. W. Windee, T. J. Perlo and H. C. Tyler, mounted on a triple tandem bicycle, will attempt to beat the world's trotting record now held by Sunol, of 2:08¼. This will be the first time that a triple tandem has appeared in this country on a race track, and the event is awaited with interest.

RECORD-BREAKING AT KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, July 1.—This was a day of record-breaking in the Canadian Wheelmen's Association. All the records were buried and some of them had many seconds cut off. There were 650 wheelmen and 6,000 visitors. Following are the results:

~~And still they come! What! Testimonials from thousands of smokers all over the land, speaking in the highest terms of the worth of the [illegible] cigars. The popularity of this brand has been something remarkable, and is due solely to merit alone. It is made by H. McKAY & Co., of London, a firm possessing one of the largest and best equipped establishments in Canada.~~

One-mile championship—Wells, of Toronto, won in 2:32; best previous record 2:41 1-5.

Two-miles (6:30 class)—Gould, Hamilton; Lyons, Toronto; Nugent, Rochester; Dall, Toronto, and Manville, London, were starters. Nugent and Lyons retired early. Dall, Gould and Manville were bunched till the final quarter, when they finished in the order named. Time, 5:50 1-5.

Quarter mile—Smith, of Toronto, 1st in 41 seconds; Connolly, of Rochester, N. Y., 2nd in 46 seconds.

Three-mile championship—Carman, of Toronto, won it in 8:08⅗, almost 50 seconds less than previous records; Smith 2nd.

One mile safety, open—Hyslop, Toronto, won in 2:33 4-5; Smith, Toronto, second.

Half-mile championship—Hyslop, Toronto, won in 1:13 2-5. He pulled down the record by some seconds.

One mile, high wheel—Lawson, Montreal, on an ordinary, cleared out D. Robertson, on a geared pneumatic. Time, 2:51, remarkable speed for an old-fashioned wheel.

Five-mile championship—Carman, McQuillan, Smith, Nasmith and Wells, Toronto, were in it. Wells won, 13:58 2-5; the fastest ever made in Canada.

The open race resulted in Sweetness taking 1st, Steve H 2nd, and Connaught 3rd. Best time, 2:30½.

The running race, five-eights mile heat, went to Peek-a-Boo 1st, with Jack Hardy 2nd.

THE FIRST OF JULY

Celebrated Throughout the Dominion by Parades and Sports.

OTTAWA, July 1.—Dominion Day in the Capital was celebrated by a review of the troops in camp and a street parade and by sports during the afternoon.

Parades and sports were the order of the day in Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and most of the Canadian cities, towns and villages.

At Goderich an immense crowd of people from all sections of the country was present; games and sports of all kinds were provided and in the evening a grand display of fireworks took place. The third lacrosse match in the western district between Clinton and Goderich resulted in four games to one in favor of Clinton.

AN OHIO WOMAN'S LUCK.

A Rejected Sweetheart Leaves Her Over a Million Dollars.

CINCINNATI, July 1.—Near this city lives Rev. Thomas McLean, a Methodist preacher, whose wife is soon to receive over $1,000,000. Years ago a young German, a titled member of the army of his country, met Mrs. McLean, then an attractive young lady of Madison, Ind.

He fell a victim to her charms, but her heart did not respond, and a short time after she was united in marriage to the man of her choice.

The German count, who remained unmarried, died six years ago. It has recently been made known that his will bequeaths the whole of his immense fortune to his old sweetheart, on condition that she was living seven years after his death. If Mrs. McLean lives another year she will come into the possession of over $1,000,000.

A College Boat Race.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 1.—Yale won the college boat race to-day. She finished about eight lengths ahead of Columbia, who led Harvard by two and a half lengths. Time—Yale, 12:03¼; Columbia, 12:20; Harvard, 12:28.

Boiled to Death.

LIMA, Ohio, July 1.—Martin Costello and Timothy O'Brien, laborers employed at the Solar Refinery here, were standing on top of one of the huge stills on Tuesday afternoon when a steam valve burst. Both were enveloped in the hissing steam and cooked to death.

Wives and Daughters

The Leading and Most Popular Ladies Monthly in the Dominion.

CONDUCTED BY WOMEN FOR WOMEN;

The character of the circulation of "Wives and Daughters" is superior to that of most publications, and embraces the well-to-do portion of the community who are able to, and do, purchase liberally. As this publication appeals directly to those who form the purchasing power, and who, more than men, closely study advertisements, it must follow as a natural result that advertisers will get liberal returns for their outlay. It circulates throughout the whole Dominion, and to a large extent in the United States, but more particularly in the Province of Ontario, the largest, most populous, wealthy and progressive of the provinces.

The Camp Breaks Up.

The camp grounds present an entirely different appearance this afternoon. All the men except those whose quarters are at the Barracks have gone to their homes. They all went this morning, the Oxford Rifles leaving as early as 5 o'clock. The marques, tents, latrines and refreshment booths are all standing yet, but No. 1 Company, C. R. I., is working hard, and the tents are coming down at a rapid rate.

KILLED ON THE TRACK.

Thomas Haywood Killed on the Egerton Street Crossing of the G. T. R.—A Well-Known Character.

Old Thomas Haywood, a resident of the city for years, was killed on the Egerton street crossing of the G.T.R. this afternoon. He was crossing the track with his horse and wagon just as No. 7 mail train from the east, due here at 12:40 p.m., was thundering along. It is said by an eye-witness that his horse stopped on the track. Whether this is so or not, the locomotive struck him, killing him instantly. His rig was shattered into splinters and his horse escaped. The remains of poor Haywood were gathered up and conveyed to the G. T. R. freight sheds. The right leg was mangled and the left broken; his head was cut badly and the body otherwise injured.

Haywood was well known in the city. He came to London as a member of the fourth division of the Sixtieth Royal Rifles at the time of the Trent affair in 1861. He left the army in 1867 and since then has followed the occupation of a peddler, dealing in fish, iron, rags, bones, etc. Occasionally he worked in the refineries. His wife is dead and he leaves three children, a girl and two boys, grown up. Deceased lived on Trafalgar street. At the time of his death he was engaged in selling fish.

The driver of the locomotive, No. 728, was John Robertson, of Niagara Falls, and the train was in charge of Conductor Turnbull, of Windsor. Coroner Flock will hold an inquest this afternoon at the City Hospital. People who knew Haywood say that his hearing and sight were defective.

Facts About Dyspepsia.

Wrong action of the stomach and liver occasions dyspepsia. Dyspepsia in turn gives rise to bad blood. Both these complaints are curable by B. B. B., which acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and blood, and tones and strengthens the entire system, thus positively curing dyspepsia, constipation, bad blood and similar troubles.

Miss Hogan and Miss Maggie Hogan, of Chicago, are the guests of Miss Pauline Hennessey, Dundas street.

Mrs. Portwood, Talbot street, has been visiting relatives and friends of childhood in Princeton during the past few days.

Mr. George T. Bell, assistant general passenger agent of the G. T. R., and wife, are in the city, the guests of his father, Inspector Bell.

J. McClary, the stove manufacturer, of London, Ont., arrived in the city from the east yesterday, and is at the Queen's. He is accompanied by his wife.—[Winnipeg Free Press.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards are spending a few days with their cousins, the Misses Lewis, of South London. They will visit Hamilton, Toronto and other Canadian cities before returning to their home in Caledonia.

Misses Effie Carson, B. Breckenbridge, Kirkpatrick, Smith and Gower, of this city, and Miss Grimes, of Tilbury, leave London on Wednesday for New York, as local delegates to the annual convention of the Y. P. S. C. E. societies of America. They go by the official route, i.e., the M. C. R. and the West Shore Railroads. A number from the city are expected to take in the cheap trip.

ELECTIONS HELD.

LONDON, July 2.—Elections were held to-day in the Parliamentary divisions of West Bristol and East Bristol. In the former division Sir Michael Hicks-Beach (Conservative), president of the Board of Trade, was returned without opposition. In the latter the candidate was Joseph Dodge Weston (Liberal), who was also returned without opposition.

LONDON, July 2.—Mr. Evershed, Liberal, has been elected for Birton-on-Trent, without opposition.

LACROSSE.

The Shamrock Lacrosse Club, of Montreal, defeated the Toronto Lacrosse Club Friday at Rosedale by six games to none.

The Dominion Day lacrosse match at Stratford between the Stratfords and Olympics of Milton, resulted in a tie, each club taking two goals.

TURF.

RACING AT STRATFORD.

STRATFORD, Ont., July 2.—The chief feature of the celebration of Dominion Day in Stratford was the meet of the Stratford Turf Club in the Agricultural Park. There was a very large attendance. In the named race Fred Baechler's Harry Golddust took first and Geo. Larkworthy's Florence C., took second money, the other five horses running being distanced in the first heat.

The 2:50 trot was won by A. E. L. Easson's Roy Golddust, being first in the three heats, Jas. Duncan's Headlight second and J. Rapson's Crusoe distanced.

In the free-for-all A. Thompson's Ariel took all the heats. Easson & McTavish's Johnny Golddust second. Rapson's Donaldson was distanced.

BASEBALL.

EUREKAS VS. CLIPPERS.

The Eureka Baseball Club and the Clippers, of the North End, played a very exciting game of ball on the college grounds yesterday morning. The feature of the game was the remarkably good fielding of both clubs. Score:

Eurekas	0 1 0 0 0 8 0 0 1	10	10	1
Clippers	0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0	2	5	5

Batteries—Tapp and Arscott, Breen and Leach. Umpire—A. Hill.

The Tilsonburg Blues beat the Detroit Athletic Club in Friday morning's game by 13 to 5. The Blues got twelve of their runs in the eighth inning. In the afternoon Detroit won by 11 to 4.

The Browns, of St. Thomas, and Nationals, of Toronto, played two games in St. Thomas Friday. The Browns won both games, the morning by 9 to 3 and the afternoon game by 28 to 5.

THE WHEEL.

KINGSTON, July 2.—The bicycle road race was won by Carman, of Toronto, with Palmer, of Hamilton, 2nd, and Smith, of Toronto, 3rd.

Those who never retract their opinions love themselves more than they love truth.—[Joubert.

The O'Connor Girls

BY MRS. HUNGERFORD ("THE DUCHESS"), AUTHOR OF "MOLLY BAWN," "HER LAST THROW," "MRS. GEOFFREY," ETC.

"Don't!" says he vehemently. "Don't cry like that, Molly. Don't darling! Oh! Molly, if only you could have loved me! But, you see, it was too presumptuous a thought. Don't add to my grief by making me think I have caused you grief. Come—come back to the house. All this excitement is bad for you. And really, Molly, it is not so bad after all. I," with a most wretched attempt at gaiety, "shall get over it. This time next year, perhaps, I shall be so far recovered that I shall be able to dance at your wedding."

Here he stops dead short—as though the sound of his own words had killed him. He looks like one suddenly stabbed.

"I pray God I shall be dead before that," says he. He turns abruptly from me, and continues his walk to the house; but I stand still. I don't think he knows that he has left me behind him, so full he is of his own thoughts. But he is going! That is the one fact that remains with me. He is going—once gone—shall I ever see him again. To me, this parting seems final.

"Wait—wait—one moment! I gasp. "You don't understand!—you ———"

I am holding out my hands to him in the dim moonlight. It is so dim now, indeed, that we can hardly see each other's faces. Diana, who can be very pleasant sometimes, is decidedly out of temper to-night. In fact the moon, that just a second ago was flooding the garden with her rays, making it difficult for me to hide my tears, has chosen this particular instant of all others to hide herself behind a cloud, so that Sir Willouby cannot possibly see my face. If he had, I shouldn't have had occasion to explain anything!

"What don't I understand?" asks he, rather severely this time. "Have you not understood me? Do you think I am blaming you? Surely after all I have said you can have no doubt that. How could I hold you guilty for my unhappiness? It is all my own fault as I have said. I am a dull fellow—and an ugly fellow—and—that's the whole of it."

"Dull! Ugly! Oh, no!" say I, with vehemence. "I," slowly—"I—I don't think you ugly at all. I," trembling and half afraid to say it (though really it is the truth), "I think you a great deal nicer looking than any man I know."

"The men you know," says he contemptuously, "must be modern Calibans!" And then, "Look here, Molly. I suppose your idea is to let me down easy. To be as good to me as you can. But I can't stand that sort of thing. I'm not fool enough—or sneak enough—to accept a girl's pity. As long as you were poor we cried quits — now! There!" seeing the little gesture I make, "I'll admit you don't think me as ugly as you used to think me; you," with a queer laugh, "have probably grown accustomed to me, but ugly I am, and ugly I shall remain to the end of time."

"Oh! you won't believe!" cry I, a little wildly; "perhaps you don't want to believe. But you shall hear it all the same. I don't think you ugly, and," putting out my hands to him, "I love you."

To my surprise and grief he takes my hands, but only to use them as a means of cutting me from him.

"Molly! this is unworthy!" says he. "It," breaking away involuntarily from the icy battlements he has erected round him, "it is unfair to you as well as to me. You should not tempt me. No! not another word. Come back to the house, like a good girl, and don't perjure yourself further."

"I shan't stir until you listen to me," say I; standing back from him defiantly. "You have compelled me to hear you—now hear me. I'm not perjuring myself. I am telling you the truth. I—I—I never knew it until—until you said you were going to give me up."

"What!"

"Well, until you said I was going to give you up. It is all the same," say I, impatiently. "I don't want to give you up!"

"Molly—think!" says he. His voice is low and unsteady.

"If I think any more, I will think you want to get rid of me!" cry I. "You—you are tired of me, perhaps," my voice breaking. "You—haven't kissed me once since you came, and you ———"

"Do you know what you are saying!" interrupts he hoarsely.

"I do. I do indeed," sobbing. For really I am beginning now to believe in my own words—to feel afraid that they are true—to see occasion for his having grown deadly tired of me. Suddenly, as if compelled by will stranger than my own, I move nearer to him, and, raising my face, lay one hand upon his breast.

"Will, if you still love me," I begin—I am indeed prepared to make a telling speech—when all at once I feel speech beyond me!

I am folded to my Will's heart, and with a divine sense of rest and peace and rapture combined, I lift my arms, and, flinging them round his neck, kiss him with all my heart—kiss him as warmly — well, very nearly as warmly as he kisses me.

CHAPTER XXI.

"The end is, to have two made one
In will and in affection."

To no one of us is it given to be more than five minutes in paradise whilst still the burden of fleshis on us. Presently we—Will and I—come to our senses, and find ourselves able to articulate respectably, though still somewhat incoherently so far as Will is concerned. Fancy my ever having called him Sir Willoughby! Oh! it is too funny!

"It seems too good to be true," says my dear idiot, after a while, who cannot see, in spite of all I have said, that he is throwing himself away. "I'm happier than a fellow ought to be. But, after all, other fellows haven't met you!"

"No, poor fellows!" say I, with what I believe to be sarcasm deep enough to open his eyes. He proves, however, impervious to it.

"No; luckily," says he, "for them! But I'm afraid this happiness is too great to last, Molly! It seems too—too big some way. To think that you do love me, now—now when you have got a fortune of your own."

"I don't see what that has got to do with it."

"Can't you? I do! Don't you think I appreciate the fact that a pretty girl like you should love me for myself alone! Oh! I say, Molly," nervously, "it doesn't sound true, does it?"

"What doesn't sound true?"

"That you should lose such an ugly fellow as me."

"Now, one word for all," cry I, indignantly. "I won't allow you to disparage my ———"

Here I have the grace to pause.

"You what?" eagerly.

"Future husband!" whisper I turning away rather shyly, yet finding it impossible to repress a gay little laugh.

"Molly! Molly!" says Sir Willoughhby. And then, "How lovely that sounded! I say, Molly, say it again, will you?"

This, I feel, is too much.

"If your a one-idead person," return I, with a tilt of my chin, "I'm not, Molly! You needn't ask me. I sha'n't repeat myself. But, really, Will, I mean it. I sha'n't let yot say horrid things of yourself———"

I hesitate, and glance at him, and he looks so nice and kind, smiling down at me in the moonlight, that impulsively, but softly, I add—

"Your darling self!"

It is a mere whisper and I rather regret this weakness on my part a second later, when I feel that there is no more breath left in my body. I push him away from me with a protest; but he still holds my hands, pressing them against his heart. When everything is said, surely the greatest joy of all is to know that one has made some one else altogether happy. Will is altogether happy now!

"Still, it must be confessed," says he, gazing down at me with deep delight, and looking—well—almost—— No! I don't care what the girls say—looking downright handsome!—"that I'm not much where features are in question. It will be a case of 'Beauty and the Beast.'"

"Enough of that!" interrupt I. "I'm tired of hearing you called ugly by stupid people—you, yourself, the stupidest of the lot. Do you know, Will," catching hold of his coat and giving him a little shake, to conceal the embarrassment I am feeling, "at first I used to think you ugly, too. I used, really! That was horrid of me, wasn't it? But now—now I know what a mistake I made—I think, honestly, you know, that if you are not exactly handsome, you have the nicest face in all the world."

"Do you?" says Sir Willoughhby; and then, after a struggle with himself, that I can see is violent, he gives way to most uncalled-for mirth.

"It's awfully good of you," says he. "It is, indeed! There don't be angry, Molly! I'll try—I'll try to regard myself as a modern Adonis for the future, if you wish. I'll give all my time to it. I daresay I shall be able to convince myself at last."

"Oh! you're laughing at me now," say I with a pout.

"Well, and isn't laughter the best thing in the world? I can tell you I think so. I've had too jolly little of it of late. I have never been sure of you all through, and today I thought I should have gone mad. I'll never forget how I felt when I heard you had come in for that abominable fortune of yours. Money is sometimes a most accursed thing, I think."

"It is an excellent thing," say I, with decision. "It is ridiculous to say otherwise. And, at all events, I am glad we found that old chest."

"Why?"

"Because—well, because—if I had married you when I was so very poor, you might always have doubted that I loved you."

"True!' says he, I might! And yet," brightening, "I was not altogether far out, Molly, was I? I always said you might come to love me in time, and here you are loving me all at once."

Joy in Every Drop.

This may be truly said of Polson's Nerviline, the greatest pain remedy of the age. It brings comfort to the weary sufferer when failure has attended the use of every known remedy. Nerviline is an absolute cure for all kinds of pain, internal, external or local. Purchase a 10 cent sample bottle and try this great remedy. Nerviline, nerve pain cure. Don't forget the name, at any drug store.

Mrs. Nellies Grant-Sartoris now lives in London and is a woman of wealth. Her father-in-law left his estate to her and her two children, on the condition that they would make their residence in England.

Mr. J. R. Allen, upholsterer, Toronto, sends us the following: "For six or seven years my wife suffered with Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Inward Piles and Kidney Complaint. We tried two physicians and any number of medicines without getting any relief, until we got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. This was the first relief she got, and before one bottle was used the benefit she derived from it was beyond our expectation."

The widows of General Grant and Jefferson Davis are staying at the same hotel at West Point.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband: but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

Nature knew her business when she made usblind to our own imperfections. Suicides are too common now.

E. ADAMS, ESQ.,

A FORMER MEMBER OF THE VERMONT LEGISLATURE.

He is Now an Officer of the United States Government and Resides in Montreal.

He Speaks for the Benefit of Canadian Men and Women.

He Tells Canadians of the Great Agent That Gave Him New Life and Strength—He Strongly Advocates the Use of Paine's Celery Compound—He Nobly Does His Part Towards Implanting Hope and Courage in Every Sufferer's Heart.

The American Government have a staff of very efficient and gentlemanly officers in Montreal—men who are in every way qualified by education and social position to reflect credit on the Administration to whom they owe their appointments.

Amongst the American officials located in Montreal we wish at this time to speak particularly of one who is popular and well known, and who has become a great favorite with the traveling public. We refer to Mr. E. Adams, deputy collector and inspector of United States customs.

Mr. Adams is a native of Vermont, and is in every respect a true representative of the Green Mountain State, that has given to the Union so many distinguished warriors and statesmen.

Mr. Adams is a Vermonter who has done good service as a politician. He represented his native town and district for four years at the seat of Government in Montpelier, and afterwards occupied the important position of sergeant-at-arms in the State Legislature. His reputation for honesty and attention to public matters induced the Federal Government to place Mr. Adams in his present important position, where he is esteemed by all classes of the Canadian people.

Mr. Adams, amid all the turmoils of politics, and while in the performance of the duties of office, was for years a great sufferer from neuralgia. When he came to Montreal to attend to his work in the customs department, he suffered terribly at times from this intolerable malady. Later on, owing to the pressing work and cares of his office, he suffered from insomnia (sleeplessness), and became physically weak and run-down.

Mr. Adams was not utterly discouraged, though he met with many failures in trying to regain health and rid himself of life-destroying troubles. He fortunately heard of a remedy which had given new life to thousands in Canada. He heard his friends speaking of Canada's mighty agent, Paine's Celery Compound, and was astonished when he heard of the almost miraculous cures it had effected.

He wisely decided to try the wonderful remedy, and test its efficacy. He did not try in vain; the first acted like magic; he felt that Providence had led him to the fountain of healing that he so often wished to drink from.

Paine's Celery Compound in a short time banished every trouble, and perfectly restored Mr. Adams to health and strength.

We believe that we only voice Mr. Adams' opinion, when we assert, that no other remedy known to mankind could have produced such grand results. Scores of Mr. Adams' friends in Montreal know of the marvelous cure, and are ready to vouch for every statement that he makes.

It is with very great pleasure that we give to the public Mr. Adams' testimonal; we feel certain that it will be the means of influencing thousands of sufferers who are in doubt, or who have been looking in vain for an honest agent to renew life.

Mr. Adams says:

"It gives me very great pleasure to add my testimony to the thousands of testimonials you have already received in favor of Paine's Celery Compound.

"For several years I was troubled with neuralgia, and suffered very much from it. Paine's Celery Compound has entirely banished this affliction. I was also sleepless, weak and run-down, and in these serious troubles, your Compound has proved a valuable friend.

"I can assert with confidence, that I have never used any remedy which has so thoroughly built me up in every way.

"I have great pleasure in recommending it to all who may have need of an honest and efficacious remedy, as I feel certain Paine's Celery Compound will accomplish all it claims to do." Yours very truly, E. ADAMS.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, is ear ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, in which the young are specially subject.

OUTLOOK IN TEMPERANCE.

The declaration of Dr. Rainsford that saloons should not be abolished until substitute social institutions were provided, and that at present beer gardens would form a commendable substitute for groggeries, has created much discussion in temperance circles. The Christian Union states its opinions on the subject and they so fully accord with our own that we cannot do better than give them in full. It says:

To begin with, let it be repeated that Dr. Rainsford is one of the ministers who have done most in evangelical church work on the East Side. In most of his methods he is not far from a Methodist, and he has met with some persecution in his lifetime for his sympathy with the work of the Salvation Army. It is plain, therefore, that he would not have taken a position so opposed to that of most deeply religious minds unless there was some strong reason therefore. There was such a reason, and it will help the temperance agitation in this State if his fearless utterances compel the people in the country districts to realize the situation in which he is fighting.

Philanthropic workers on the East Side in this city are agreed that the saloon-keepers are not the worst class in the community. That a German should sell beer no more indicates moral turpitude than that George Washington should have held slaves. Men cannot be imprisoned for doing that which they and the community about them believe to be right, and it is the conflict between the law and the local sentiment that brings about the corruption of the police force, against which Dr. Parkhurst's crusade was directed. Dr. Rainsford, it should be remembered, was one of the first and strongest of Dr. Parkhurst's defenders, and the reason is that they have the great reforms at heart. The people on the East Side are as unanimous in their condemnation of the brothels and the gambling houses as the people on the West Side. Three-fourths of the saloon-keepers on the East Side share in this public sentiment. Were it made the duty of the police simply to enforce laws that the public supported, an honest police could be secured, and laws be enforced. Under the present arrangment the police are of necessity the corrupted protectors of law breaking. Abram S. Hewitt struck at the heart of the political situation when, in his letter of approval read at the mass meeting in indorsement of Dr. Parkhurst, he said:

"The enforcement of the law is a duty which cannot be disputed, but if the law itself offends the public sense of right it cannot be successfully or permanently enforced, and it is upon this fact that Tammany Hall bases its policy and secures its control of municipal affairs. True statesmanship looking to reform must therefore deal with municipal affairs. True statesmanship looking to reform must therefore deal with existing conditions and notify them so as to secure the support of the powerful agencies which are now used by Tammany Hall to strengthen its hold on the city government."

The substitution of beer-gardens for liquor-saloons in no way commends itself to us as a temperance agency. If there is one sharp distinction between plain people and society people that holds good, it is that plain people can be brought over to a thoroughgoing reform more easily than to a half-way reform. The Salvation Army, demanding a complete transformation in the character and life of a man, can get more recruits among the working people than the churches which permit their members to live pretty much as the world lives. The Methodist Church with its ascetic doctrine has reached millions of working people whom comfortable Christianity could never touch. In dealing with working people, therefore, a half moral institution like the well conducted beer-garden would bring fewer people to give up whisky-drinking than a fanatical preacher of political prohibition. Yes, for all this, Dr. Rainsford most decidedly had a point when he urged that substitutes must be provided for liquor saloons. In the current Scribner's the Rev. W. T. Elsing, who has one of the city mission churches on the East Side, speaks as sharply as Dr. Rainsford of the necessity of social gathering places for the people there. Beginning almost in Dr. Rainsford's words, he says:

"The saloon is the poor man's club, and flourishes most vigorously in the poorest sections of the city. Instead of denouncing the saloon on account of the numerous evils it afflicts on the poor, something better must be supplied to take its place. It is absurd to denounce the saloon in unqualified terms. The multitudes who patronize them are not all absolute fools. Many simply seek to satisfy the craving after fellowship which the Creator has implanted in their natures. The saloons are well lighted, conveniently located social clubs, provided in some cases with a pleasant reading room, and always with obliging proprietors. Wise men are beginning to see that a substitute must be supplied to take the place of the saloon which shall retain all its good features and simply discard its evil elements."

With these sentiments we heartily agree, and note with pleasure every social or intellectual institution established in the poorer districts, whether by churches or private philonthropy. The public must also take up the work and provide the means of physical recreation, just as London is already doing. If in every school house in the evenings there were reading-rooms and lecture-rooms and discussion-rooms and music-rooms, the higher life might be advanced as rapidly through this agency as the lower life is through the agency of the saloon.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Among the applicants for marriage licenses at Detroit this week were Wm. F. Rolfe, 27, London, Ont., and Hattie E. Elder, 25, Detroit.

—An immense crowd went from the city to Port Stanley yesterday and the popular resort swarmed with visitors. Captain Foster's steamer at home was well patronized.

—A retreat for ladies will begin at the Sacred Heart Convent on Monday evening, July 4, and close Saturday morning, July 9. For cards of invitation, apply to the lady superior.

—The teachers of Waterloo street school in connection with the celebration yesterday visited Mount Pleasant Cemetery for the purpose of decorating the late Inspector J. B. Boyle's grave.

—The Stratford Women's Hospital Aid hold a calico ball in the Stratford Rink on July 8 for the purpose of raising funds for the general hospital. They hope to have a large attendance from this city.

—Mr. F. P. Weldon, of Chatham, was united in marriage to Miss Hattie O'Donohue, of Winnipeg, on Thursday, at St. Peter's Cathedral, by Rev. Father Tiernan. Miss Mollie O'Meara, of this city, assisted the bride, and Mr. Jerry McCarthy, of Buffalo, acted as groomsman. The happy couple departed on the 2:15 G. T. R. train for the west.

—The $50 copper bat and medal won by the city contestants yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. tourament in Brantford, are on exhibition in the window of Mr. E. Beltz, Dundas street. The trophies are both handsome and valuable, and the Y. M. C. A. boys are justly proud of their success in the contests in which they were competitors.

—Court Forest Queen, A. O. F., will run another of their popular excursions to Detroit via Grand Trunk main line, on Monday, July 4. As this is the greatest day of the year in the States many will doubtless take advantage of this cheap trip. Special train will leave at 6:30 a.m., arriving in Detroit at 9:30 a.m. Tickets good for two days, to return either via Windsor or the great St. Clair tunnel.

—The Waterloo Street South Presbyterian Sabbath school, which was begun the first Sabbath in the present year with an attendance of only seven pupils, has now completely outgrown the room in which the meetings have been held, the number now rapidly nearing the three figures. The accommodation has therefore been extended by the addition of another and larger room so that there is now sufficient seating capacity for some time to come. The new addition has been neatly painted and kalsomined and to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be an open meeting conducted by the Rev. W. J. Clark, to which the parents and friends of the scholars and all others interested in the good work are cordially invited.

—In the east end the nuptials of Miss Sarah T. Branchflower and Mr. W. J. Spettigue, of London, were celebrated at 5:30 yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. G. Wright. Rev. J. S. Ross, M.A., performed the interesting ceremony in the presence of about 35 guests. The bride looked pretty in a gown of cream cashmere with chiffon trimming and orange blossoms. The bridesmaids were dressed in pure white, and were Miss Tena Buchanan, of Ingersoll, and Miss Georgina Scott, of Curries. The groom was assisted by Mr. Foote, of London, and Mr. H. Branchflower, a brother of the bride. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Wm. Branchflower. Mr. and Mrs. Spettigue left on the 8:40 train for London, where a reception was held in their own house.—[Thursday's Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

A Crowd at Camp.

The expectation of witnessing a sham fight at the camp grounds yesterday afternoon attractrd a big crowd of Londoners and outsiders thither. But the morning's doings sufficed the militia for the day. After the parade to Victoria Park the men mustered for pay and this took up a good part of the afternoon. The officers of No. 1 Company, C. R. I., were busily engaged in escorting visitors and showing them the sights. The last day at camp was quiet as far as the soldiery were concerned.

The Police Call on Mrs. Barnes.

Sergt. Crawford and a posse of police made a call on Mrs. Esther Barnes (nee Forsythe) at her residence Thursday evening shortly after 10 o'clock. They were not very cordially welcomed. The inmates of the house, besides the mistress, were a young woman, a stranger, giving her name as Minnie Smith; "Bob" Barnes, Esther's husband; and two of the militia—an officer and a private—who should have been in camp. The three men and Mrs. Barnes were bailed out and Minnie is now in the cells. A police court investigation will ensue on Tuesday, the girl having been remanded until that day.

A Great Picnic at Mount Hope.

The annual picnic in aid of the Mount Hope Orphanage took place on the beautiful grounds at the rear of the home last evening. This is always an unusually pleasant affair, and yesterday's probably eclipsed all its predecessors as far as attendance, receipts and enjoyment were concerned. A crowd of nearly a thousand of London's youth and beauty assembled and whiled away a few merry hours. The excellent band of the Twenty-second Battalion, Oxford Rifles, aided in making the evening a most enjoyable one. Refreshment booths were liberally patronized. Those who attended to the wants of the hungry and thirsty were Mesdames Wright, P. Pocock, Ceaser, Munro, Coles and Keene, and Misses Cook, McPhillips, Fitzpatrick, Coles, O'Rourke, Goldsberg and M. Leitch. Messrs. Thos. Ranahan, J. P. Cook and W. Miller aided the fair ones during busy times.

You can go into the Santa Clause business on an extensive scale next Xmas without costing you anything if you use the B. and M. B. coupon book between now and then for all your purchases; besides, you will be dealing with the most respectable and enterprising of London's merchants. They'll save you 4 per cent. on all you have to buy, and you can get them at 441½ Richmond street.

Mr. Scandrett's Large Funeral.

The largest funeral that has occurred in London for a long time was that of the late John Scandrett yesterday afternoon. There were nearly 200 rigs in the cortege and the grocers of the city marched on foot. Each wore a black rosette on his arm. The remains were conveyed from the family residence, Princess avenue, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, the burial services at both places being conducted by Rev. George Boyd. The pall-bearers were the deceased's four sons, John B., Joseph W., Frederick R. (Toronto) and T. W., and his two sons-in-law, Thomas A. Browne and William Magee. The attendance at the last sad rites were a proof of the popularity and esteem Mr. Scandrett enjoyed in the community.

The "Y's" and Their Work.

A monthly meeting of the Y. W. C. T. U. was held in their rooms, Nitschke block, Thursday afternoon. A Bible reading on "Consecration of Thoughts" was given by one of the members. Reports being the order of the day, the following were submitted: Treasurer's report, general secretary's report, which gave the total attendance at the rooms during the month as 1,413; number to lunch, 328. The Y. W. C. A. report showed the attendance in the evening to have been 624. At the usual literary evening a paper was read on "Purity in Literature," followed by a sketch of the "Life and Works of Milton," with selections from "Paradise Lost." One of the most enjoyable evenings spent by the association was very appropriately called a flower evening. The rooms were prettily decorated with floral offerings, and various flowers were impersonated. The King's Daughters circle in connection with the association now numbers 95, and much good work is being accomplished through their efforts. The superintendents of the summer outing home feel much encouraged by the response which has been already made to their appeal, and feel sure that when the object of the home is fully understood by those who have not as yet either taken stock or subscribed the needed sum will not be long forthcoming. The superintendent of pledges reported ten honorary members for June, which makes a total of 52. The president of the union, who has just returned from the W. C. T. U. convention at Ottawa, gave an interesting address on the various phases of work discussed there. Meeting then adjourned until September.

Jolly Red-Coats.

The officers, non-coms. and men of "D" Company, Seventh Fusiliers, dined at the Grigg House Thursday evening. It was the occasion of their annual dinner, which is always a gay affair. The menu provided was served in the usual excellent style of the Grigg House. Capt. Booker presided, and Sergt. Hayman and Sergt. Milligan were the vice-chairmen. A pleasant feature of the evening's programme was the presentation of a gold-headed cane to Sergt.-Major McCrimmon by Capt. Booker on behalf of "D" Company. Sergt. Milligan read a kindly-worded address. Those who partook of the dinner were Capt. Booker, Col. Payne, Lieut. Barker, Queen's Own, Toronto; Lieut. Magee, Col. S. Simpson, Queen's Own; Sergt. Cramp, Sergt. McCall, Corp. Cuthbert, Corp. Legg, Corp. Smith and Pte. Jackson, of the Twenty-second Battalion; Col. Sergt. Freeman, "A" Company, Seventh Fusiliers; Col. Sergt. Allan, "E" Company; Sergt. Price, "B" Company; Sergt. Brown, "C" Company; Sergt. Jacobs, "F" Company; Sergt.-Major McCrimmon, Sergt. Hayman, Sergt. Milligan, Corp. Gauld, Corp. Shillington, Corp. Graham, Judges, Brooks, Skellett, Clarke, Brooks, Ryckman, Dumaresqu, E. Pellow, Simmons, Crook and Peacock. They spent a happy time until a seasonable hour in the morning. Speeches, songs and sentiment whiled away the time.

The Doctors Arrived To-day.

It is hoped that our citizens will remember that at the urgent request of a large number of our most influential citizens the staff of eminent physicians and surgeons have decided to return and take up their permanent residence in London. They have secured a lease from Mrs. Trebilcock, of that commodious residence, No. 428 Park avenue, and will be prepared to receive patients beginning Monday, July 4.

All who visit these eminent doctors before Aug. 1, will receive services for the first three months free of charge. The object in pursuing this course is to become rapidly and personally acquainted with the sick and afflicted.

The doctors treat every variety of disease and deformity, but will not accept incurable cases. If your malady is beyond all hope they will frankly, kindly tell you so, also caution you against spending money for useless treatment.

Remember, it costs nothing whatever to consult these eminent gentlemen, and therefore the most humble in circumstances can have the benefit of their vast experience. b

DEATH IN THE MILK CAN!

It is extremely dangerous to feed young infants during the intense heat of summer with a poor quality of cow's milk. In this respect, city mothers are more to blame than the mothers of country districts.

The city milkman is on his rounds for hours; his milk cans are continually exposed to the burning sun, and his milk (always sufficiently watered) is so warmed, that it quickly becomes sour and unfit for nourishment.

Imagine a weak and frail baby being fed on such a diet; it is almost certain death. This stale and sour milk is, without doubt, the direct cause of a vast proportion of the infantile mortality of all large cities during the hot weather.

Mothers, you are responsible for your infant's safety and life. With the light you now possess, see that summer diseases, such as cholera infantum, dysentery and diarrhœa, do not lay hold of your babe. You may preserve it by feeding it on health-giving Lactated Food which contains all the best constituents of pure and healthy breast milk.

Lactated Food will bring back life to your infant if it is physically weak and run-down; it will cause the little one to rest and sleep well; it will cause it to grow strong and vigorous; it will make it bright and happy.

Trust no longer in cow's milk as a health-giver and strengthener, and have a care how you feed baby with the common prepared foods now so abundant; they have a tendency to produce irritation, and few little stomachs can endure them; indeed, many of them produce inflammation and dangerously affect the digestive organs.

One trial of Lactated Food will convince you of its many excellencies and great worth. When it is used, you will find baby thriving and progressing beyond your most sanguine expectations. Go at once to your druggist and purchase a tin; you will find that it is just what baby loves to take.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than sanitary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

Unhappy poverty is not so bad as unhappy wealth.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

Turkish women eat rose leaves with butter, to secure plumpness.

Edward Linlef, of St. Peters, C. B., says: "That his horse was badly torn by a pitchfork. One bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT cured him."

Livery stable men all over the Dominion tell our agents that they would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT for twice the cost.

Flax Seed Emulsion
Read what the most eminent physicians of America say:
Wakeful and restless nights are unknown to those who use Flax Seed Emulsion. Nervous prostration and general debility, weak and delicate children, are made strong by using Flax Seed Emulsion. Flax Seed Emulsion will increase the weight, and give perfect peace and rest to the weak and weary.

A Square Deal in Boots and Shoes.
Small Profits and Quick Returns!
HUBERT ASHPLANT having for the past two months conducted his immense boot and shoe business (under Molsons Bank and west corner Market Lane) strictly upon the ONE PRICE system, desires to express to the public, including his numerous customers in the city and surrounding country, his appreciation of their hearty support. Some business men have said business cannot be done by keeping to a one priced system, but Hubert Ashplant has tested it by marking his prices down, and is convinced that it is the only way to do business honorably. All goods are marked in plain figures at the lowest prices the trade can supply them, and all goods are sold in the store at same prices ticketed in the window. Clerks are instructed to represent goods for what they are. We do not advertise shoddy for solid leather. Stock extra well sewed and riveted.
