-Status of the Contest. Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 14.-About 40 women appeared on the road leading to Plum Creek. The party was headd by the strikers' queen, Emma Haas, wearing a wreath of daisies, and carrying a flag. A number of banners were displayed, bearing striking inscriptions, among which were: "We are out for women's rights. Sixty-nine cents or bust. "United we stand, divided we fall. It's bread and butter we want." The deputies received many taunts and jeers, but the marching women were

undaunted.
Supt. DeArmitt, of the Oak Hill Mine, No. 4, will make another deter-mined effort to operate his mine with a largely increased number of diggers. Instead of importing men, the niners now idle through sympathy with the strike, are to be rounded up, with a view of getting them to work. Deputies will be placed on guard at he homes of the miners willing to work, but unwilling to run the gauntof the strikers. Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 14.—Despite the orders of the miners' officials, the cammorning, but the deputies were on the alert and both bodies were forced to break ranks and return to their camps. Distressing word comes from the Moon Run district, where 300 families are said to be in want. It has been seven reeks since the miners went out, and at that time they had little or nothing ahead of them. Much distress and ahead of them. Much distress and sickness is said to prevail. A fund for the distressed has been started.

POWER OF SUN ON LARCE BUILDINGS

Washington Monument Moves Perceptibly on a Hot Day.

The problems confronting architects have increased greatly in recent years because of the upward tendency of oig business buildings. Beauty of form and convenience of arrangement are now of less importance than great strength to resist the strains which very tall structure must meet. Every time a cyclone has oc-curred in the west there has been speculation as to what would occur f a big wind storm visited the bus-ness district of New York. Archiects and engineers have anticipated this possibility. They have considered also the effect of the sun's heat on great buildings, because observations have shown that on a hot day these tall structures move away from the sun as though shrinking from its heat; while on a cold day the marble is rent by the freezing of the winter rain in narble in midsummer.

These effects are not so noticeable New York as they are in some other cities, because New York streets are narrow, and the tall building are so ose together that they protect each from the sun.

In Washington scientific observations ave been made which prove conclusively the effect of heat and cold on marble. The Washington monument stands on a slight eminence in the middle of a plain. It is wholly unpro tected from the elements. When the monument was being erected the investigation of its vibration was begun. cord and plummet being suspended from the top of the structure, with a needle to make the record of any movement. One day it was reported that the monument was about to fall The needle had made a number of eccentric variations and was still mov ing about when the observation was taken. Investigation showed that an owl had got into the shaft and, flaping about had caused the vibration

The needle under normal conditions, however, showed a movement of the shaft, and observations made since its completion confirms this record. There is a cord hanging from the top of the monument, protected by a metal tube. At the end of this cord is fastened a endulum which hangs in a bowl of nercury. The pendulum moves with the movement of the column, but it cannot oscillate. The record of the pendulum is taken every day. It shows that the top of the marble col-555 feet high, moves four inches to the north on a very hot, clear day, At night the monument returns to the perpendicular. With what show of justice or right can the government of the United States claim to go beyond this range?

"Let any one read over the words of the treaty and ask himself how it i possible that it could be seriously argued that, under the terms of this treaty, the United States can acquire any right to territory further inland Where the United States have drawn their boundary is in many places mor than 100 miles from the coast. When one looks at the terms of the treaty and at the maps prepared by Ameri can geographers, he can well understand how it was that when the pro posed treaty of arbitration was unde discussion, the Senate of the United States did not wish any question of boundary to go to arbitration. The Canadian people and the Canadian Government ought to feel sufficient interest in the maintenance of their own territorial rights to prevent them throwing them away as though they had no value."

Local business men are preparing for a lively fall trade, with indications that it will begin earlier than usual. It is no time to grumble.

The Yukon River is thirty miles wide six hundred miles from its mouth. That is a magnificent stretch of water, but

Gratefully and respectfully,
"MISS H. B. STOWE,
"MISS E. T. STOWE." This rebuke should be laid to heart by the busybodies.

35 35 In the midst of all the allurements of foreign lands, Sir Wilfrid Laurier never omitted an opportunity to praise his native land of which he is the First Minister. At the banquet given in his honor at Paris, the minister of finance presiding, the Canadian premier told those who listened to his eloquent periods that "Canada was a nation composed of two different races springing from the two strongest nations of the world, and both tenaciously preserving their memories and aspirations. Paris, with all its beauty, did not speak to his heart as Canada did. Canada was proud of its history, of its free institutions, of its climate.

Recent rains guarantee a magnificent supply of late grass and root crops in this portion of Canada. This will be an cattle for export.

The New Departure Viewed by

Sir Charles Tupper cannot refrain from wailing and imprecation as he sees them dashed. The post hoc, ergo propter hoe argument, which is enough for most people, happens at this juncture in the United States to count in favor of protection. In Canada, happily, it will count the other way, and with so much prosperity as now seems reasonably assured, the new tariff is likely to remain in force until its results become understood and appreciated. Trade with the United States will suffer, but trade with England will improve, and the history of that power shows that freedom from legislative meddling may be a greater stimulus to trade than natural advantages. Mr. Goldwin Smith points to the map and conclusively demonstrates the folly of separating Canada from the United States, Separation, however,

The Canadian government does not see how it is frozen up for the greater part of duties generally, and it proposes, for significance of which the world takes the present at least, to limit the reduction to countries admitting Canaduction on German and Belgian products. The proceedings of these conventions and the editorial comments thereon have filled the columns of many of the religiou papers for weeks past. In a general article on these meetings, under the title, "The Month of Young People," the Independent says: "These conventions indicate a new order of things. Such assemblies never were dreamed of in any other century of the Christian era. When the apo salem they did not invite the young people to come, and no council since has departed from that example. They and they wanted mature wisdom settle them. In an editorial note the Commonwealth (Baptist, Philadelphia) there is a reference to this question of expense. It says:

"We have no word of criticism on these young people's gatherings. They have been of vast service to the church and have conduced to increased earnestness therein. We have been inclined, however, to put an interroga-tion mark in connection with the ad-visability of these long journeys for the very flower of our young people, save under auspices that do not always obtain, and frequently to wonder whether the vast expense incurred has found its most judicious investof a somewhat noted book, are 'worth thinking of.' It seems this latest seance had been devoted to a discussion of the uses of electricity, and grandma, who studied physics before such things were thought of, was delighted to learn what a domestic helper the dreaded lightning of her childhood had become.

The guestion to be seriously considered. The question to be seriously considered is not the good which may arise from such gatherings, but this, Can the church afford to have them? The united Protestant denominations hardly give so much as this estimated sum to foreign missions, and the expense incurred by many societies, not alone the Christian Endeavor societies, in sending delegates to conventions often cripples the home society for some contents. The lecturer of the afternoon had declared that electricity now takes the place of steam, water, gas and compressed air, for while it acts as motive power, as do all these, it also supplies light at the same time, and without any waste of material or extra expense. Then it can do so many things about the house for which neither water, gas nor steam could be used as easily or as cheaply. It takes many cases, the Irish "K" became "C" in Cornish. FIRE AT TILSONBURG. A Very Painful Accident to Dr. L. C. Sinclair, Jun.

Special to Advertiser via G. N. W. Line. Tilsonburg. Ont., July 15 .- About 11:30 this morning fire broke out in E. J. Woods' bookstore. The flames were extinguished with small loss, but Dr. L. C. Sinclair, jun., met with a painful accident on his way to the fire hail. The horse he was riding stumbled and fell, crushing the doctor's left leg, and breaking it just above the ankle.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trou-ble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good." Lord Kelvin, the famous British scientist, who is a delegate to the convention of the British Association for the advance of science, has arrived, with Lady Kelvin, in New York.

TURKEY'S TACTICS. The Turkish newspapers, evidently inspired from the palace, are printing lurid pictures of the disaffection in India, said to be caused by British outrages, and, in short, there is a regular propaganda upon the part Turkey to create troubles for Great Britain in Mohammedan circles, as an offset to London abetting the Armen ian agitation. The officials of the India office admit that Afghan officials have been concerned in the recent ris-ings in India and the strong reinforcements of British troops which are now being pushed to the front, show that the authorities are fully alive to the dangers existing. For Those Interested in the Great Strike of the Coal Miners.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 15 .- For the next few days the eyes of the industrial world will be turned toward Pittsburg. This is not quite true. What is true, and is a sufficiently incongruous mixture of the East and West, is that a system of electric cars is in operation in Cairo itself, something like a dozen lines converging in the heart of the town. None of these run to the Pyramids of Ghizeh, because they lie across the river, and the bridge is opened at intervals to permit the passage of boats, which renders the operation of a trolley less impracticable. What is called the Ghizeh line really runs only to South Cairo, where it connects with additional fare with a queer steam ferryboat, newly put on this season, which conveys passengers to the vil-lage of Ghizeh, near the museum. He Took Fifty-two Grains of Quinine and Says He Has Been Awake Ever Since.

St. Louis Republic. John C. Stutte, carpenter and builder, has been awake 25 years. His last slumber came so many years ago that he has forgotten what it is like to lie quantity with Stutte, and while others are buried in a deep somnolency he either lies upon his bed and gazes on the stars, or if in a restless mood takes long; walks out into the country, re-turning at daybreak to begin work in his little shop fust north of the house. An old man walking with a cane is a very familiar sight in Stutte's neigh-borhood. So widely known has his insomnia become that all the residents thereabout call him "The Man Who Never Sleeps."

Stutte attributes his sleeplessness to a noise which continually roars in his head like a oataract. A. times it sounds like the buzz and whirr of wheels sawing their way through heavy timber. Again the sounds resemble escaping steam, and at times they mingle in a horrible, deafening roar. Owing to the noises in his head Stutte loes not hear readily. He says that the ringing in his ears was caused by an overdose of quinine which was administered to him in 1872. He took 52 grains at one dose, and when he woke up the next day he heard a noise in his head which has remained there ever since, keeping him awake every day and night for 25 years. "The Man Who Never Sleeps" is 70 years old. He carries his age grace-fully and does not look the worse for his long siege of wakefulness. He is a strong, powerfully bullt man, and shows slight trace of age. During the Mexican war he served under Col. Jefferson Davis as a drummer. In the civil war he fought gallantly under the stars and bars.

"I considered that a man had a right to keep what he had acquired by his brain or labor, and therefore I was with the South," he says. "I was in favor of a convention to pay the owners of the slaves and ship them back to Africa. I told the fellows that shouldered guns to free the nigger that after awhile they would shoulder guns against the nigger, and now I see that I am about right."

Stutte is a church member and is said to be truthful. His claim that he has not slept for 25 years is given credance in the neighborhood. His own family is not able to dispute it, be-cause they are always asleep during the time the old man says he is awake The craving for unconsciousness has entirely disappeared, and he finds re-freshment in simply closing his eyes and lying still as long as possible in Tather one of your gentlemen friends should do it. I was always like that as a girl myself. Who now will you choose, my dear? Sir Stephen." She beckons in her homely way to Wort-ley, and Wortley gives her her answer. He makes a slight, but emphatic gesture—a gesture towards Grant. Nell

> Lady Hopkins, smiling from ear to ar, and now thoroughly convinced hat Grant is engaged to Nell, calls tle byplay between her and Wortley. He comes at once, and the good, fat oman gives him the pretty bangle nd asks him to fasten it on Nell's

Nell, whose smile to Lady Hopkins is a little pale and forced, holds out her hand, and the bangle is clasped around it by Alec-to the admiration of a large and conversational crowd.

"I suppose your brother thinks he is a love with that silly little fool," says Mrs. Cutforth-Boss to Bella." "I really don't know," says Bella, thoughtfully. "It would," with an anxious sigh, "be a risk, wouldn't it?" In her heart she is wondering fear-fully whether the "little fool" thinks she is in love with her brother. That would mean so much. Little fools with three hundred a year, however objectionable, are not to be sneezed in these pauperish days. Meantime Alec has closed the clasp of the bangle round Nell's wrist, and has heard her laugh of pleasure. Nell, who is still only half a woman, has recovered her chagrin and been elevated into a very heaven of delight over her day's victory.
