BRANTFORD AND MOUNT FOREST
GET IN THE TROPHY FINALS

Ed. Seagram's Rink Loses to Dr. Beacom in the Semi-Final With Spectacular Finish, While Nightingale's Thistle Four Goes Down Before Dr. Wylie.

The finals of the Labatt trophy will find two medical skips fighting it out this afternoon, Dr. Beacom, of Mount Forest, and Dr. Wylie, of Brantford, being the lucky winners of the semi-finals this morning.

They were two grand games, full of the kind of play that makes the royal game of bowls one of the finest on earth. Eddie Seagram, than whom there is no more popular skip at the tourney, bowled a hand up hill battle against Dr. Beacom, and lost out by the narrowest possible margin. George Nightingale and his gallant Thistles had to go down before Skip Dr. Wylie, of Brantford, in just as memorable a battle.

Brilliant Bowling.
Large crowds of interested bowlers watched every minute of play. It was ideal for the sport, and the eight good men and true played brilliant bowls every minute of the way.

The two games were strikingly similar in the windup. The score of each on the last end was 18 to 14. Each losing skip tried for a big end to tie it up. Eddie Seagram got 3 shots, and only lost the fourth by an inch. It was hard luck. George Nightingale had five, if he could move Wylie's bowls. He tried it, but an unfortunate wick lost him the game by two shots. It was a hair-raising climax to a great pair of games.

Seagram-Beacom Game.
The Seagram-Beacom game was the first finished.

Eddie got away to a bad start. His Dutchmen were not up to their usual good form and for seven straight ends the men from the north kept scoring. Eddie was in many holes. Twice his opponents lay 5, and he had to draw the shot by a perfect bowl. He always did it. On several other occasions he had many shots against him, but by steady work he kept his crew from a disastrous end.

On the eighth end he started to score, and from that time on he had considerably the best of the play. Dr. Beacom only made five shots after that, but the skip from Mount Forest always had bowls close at hand so that he did not suffer a disastrous end.

The last end was a very long one. Seagram got three shots, while Beacom had a fourth. Seagram took this out on his first, while Beacom pulled short.

Just an Inch Out.
Eddie had a chance to wick the fourth shot in on his last bowl. He tried it, and it seemed that he had made the play. Dr. Beacom was short on his last. Eddie had three shots sure, and on measuring for the fourth or tying shot, it was found that he was about an inch out.

It was a great game, and both skips were congratulated on their brilliant play.

The Second Game.
The Wylie-Nightingale game was a see-saw affair all the way. The visitors scored on the first five ends, before the London man got busy.

Nightingale then pulled four shots, and was close up. On the tenth end, the London man had three to the good. Dr. Wylie then came back with a four and took the lead. He repeated with another four end, and here the game was lost. Nightingale stuck to his guns, however, and was only two to the bad on the fourteenth end. On the fifteenth, and Wylie scored a pair. A dispute arose on the sixteenth end that spoiled Nightingale's chances somewhat. Nightingale tried a runner, and carried the kitty back, giving him three shots. However, in going into the ditch it struck the foot of a spectator, and Dr. Wylie claimed a burnt end. The umpires allowed it, and Nightingale's advantage was lost. Dr. Wylie added two more when this end was played over. The London man came back with one on the seventeenth end, but only added two on his last and lost by two shots. It was a tough one to let go. An Oil Fire Flames 2,000 Feet High Tampico, Mex., July 30.—The fact that the great oil fire in the San Gerónimo district, 75 miles from Tampico, is increasing in fury from day to day, leads to the belief that the oil basin from which the supply is flowing is doomed to destruction.

It is the theory of oil experts that all the coast oil fields in Texas and playing in great form in the consolation and have won several times.

"Hurrah for Ireland," shouted a Mt. Forest enthusiast as Dr. Beacom's rink came home with the game.

Fred Halstead and his Dutchmen are inviting everybody to come to the Twin City tourney to be held in Waterloo. He promises everybody the time of their lives.

"Young men are all right, but they never win the trophy," commented one seasoned veteran as he watched George Nightingale's coils go by the boards.

Col. Dougherty, the veteran from Mitchell, had a great game with Williamson, of Tillsonburg. The Mitchell man was down 13 to 6 at one time.

The 13, however, proved to be a hoax, as Williamson could not get away from it and the colonel won the game. It was in the Association series and created a great deal of fun.

Dr. Gray and his Candy Kids had a warm struggle with Dick Thomson's Paris rink. The Stratford City boys won in an extra end.

"I don't care how soon I get through now," said Dick Thomson after he had been shoved out of the trophy competition.

Skip Warren, of Parkdale, is still in the Association, and is going strong. He will have to be reckoned with yet.

Dick Frame, of Stratford, is hustling along in the Association and will be heard from.

The defeat of George Nightingale and his band of youngsters was a sad blow to the local bowls. However, the boys bowled well and truly and deserve nothing but kind words for their brilliant work. The decision against them on the burnt end was hard, but it could scarcely be otherwise. The luck of the game was against the locals, and that settled it. Great credit must be given Dr. Wylie, who bowled a fine game—the way through.

Dr. Beacom and his gallant bunch have been coming here for years, and their chance to play off for the trophy is the result of several years hard and conscientious play.

"The German band from Waterloo" will play tonight regardless of what happens to the splendid rink of Eddie Seagram. It will be the farewell performance.

The choir, under the able direction of Chorister Billy Jackson, is making great progress and will sing its prettiest this evening.

During the bowling tournament on Wednesday Mr. A. H. Scarff, of Essex, lost a gold locket, which contained the photo of a lady and child. If the finder would hand to Secretary Tyler or notify Mr. Scarff, he would esteem it as a great favor.

CIVIL SERVICE
INVESTIGATION

Judge Cassels Will Resume Inquiry Sept. 2—Judge Kehoe's Son Drowned.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, July 30.—Judge Cassels will resume his inquiry into the civil service commissioners' charges against the marine department on Sept. 2 in Montreal.

After hearing evidence there he will go to Quebec and then to St. John, where the officials of the department, contractors and others who might be able to throw any light on the charges of lack of competence, etc., will be examined.

Another Drowning.
J. L. Kehoe, the 17-year-old son of his Honor Judge Kehoe, of Sault Ste. Marie, was drowned this morning, while swimming in Ottawa River, at Rockcliffe Park. He was a clerk in the Imperial Bank here, and it is supposed he was seized with heart failure while in the water, another brother having died from that cause.

Coroner's Jury Will Investigate
The Death of a Dorchester Woman

Husband Arrested on Charge of Having Assaulted Her.

Mrs. George Crowe, wife of George Crowe, a Grand Trunk laborer, living half a mile north of Dorchester Village, died at her home this morning, and an inquest will be held this afternoon to inquire into the cause of her death. On Saturday afternoon last Crowe was arrested by High Constable Hughes on a charge of assaulting his wife on July 21, and occurred actual bodily harm. Mrs. Crowe's condition was such at the time that she was unable to appear. The case was adjourned to await development, and Crowe was bailed in the sum of $1,000, $400 of which was furnished by himself. Crowe was given the hearing before Squire McCann, of Dorchester. Mrs. Crowe died at an early hour this morning. Coroner Doan, of Harrietsville, has been notified and a jury will be empanelled this afternoon to view the body.

Mrs. Crowe was a woman about 45 years old, and had several children. Mrs. Crowe had been in a delicate state of health, and had been under the care of Dr. Banghart, of Dorchester, and Dr. Babb, of Thamesford. It was stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that Mrs. Crowe was suffering from an affliction of the kidneys, which she would have died before many months.

Crowe is well known in Dorchester, and owns a little farm of about 20 acres.

SAD SUICIDE OF FEVER PATIENT
She Leaps From a Four-Story Window in Grace Hospital, Toronto.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, July 30.—Getting rid of the bandages with which she was tied in bed and scrambling out of a fourth-story window at Grace Hospital, Annie Cockeroff, a typhoid fever patient, hurled herself to the ground and was almost instantly killed about 6:30 this morning.

The patient had taken advantage of the nurse attending her, and had hurried herself to the ground and was almost instantly killed about 6:30 this morning.

The patient had taken advantage of the nurse attending her, and had hurried herself to the ground and was almost instantly killed about 6:30 this morning.

Directly the night orderly and another nurse appeared on the scene and carried her into the hospital, but she died before they got her inside.

Miss Cockeroff, whose home is at 7th street, New Toronto, was admitted to the hospital Tuesday evening and placed in the public ward. She was very sick, but showed no signs of delirium until about 5:30 this morning. Then the nurses in charge tied a sheet across her body in bed, as well as tying one of her feet to a bed post. She managed to get out of this, however, and made a rush for the window.

YOUNG TURKS ARE MASTERS AT CONSTANTINOPLE NOW

Demonstrations in the Streets Are Over, But Signs of Dissatisfaction Remain—Situation Lacks Clearness—Sultan's Name Hooted at Banquet—Young Turks Well Organized.

Constantinople, July 30.—Although the demonstrations in the streets of Constantinople over the granting of a constitution have practically ceased, nevertheless there are signs of much dissatisfaction among the public at the delay in the reconstruction of the ministry by the introduction of liberal elements. Scenes of the wildest description continue in the cafes, where officers and civilians embrace each other, and express their delight at the ending of the tyrannical regime. The situation still lacks clearness, and it is impossible to forecast the next development.

Masters at Constantinople.
The Young Turks are masters of Constantinople, and the European provinces, and except in the capital the feeling is anything but favorable to the Sultan. Even in Constantinople the disloyal cries were heard during the recent street demonstrations. At a banquet in Zeres to celebrate the re-establishment of the constitution, the name of the Sultan was hooted, while the Christians at the place are beginning to distrust the professions of the Young Turks.

In the Asiatic Provinces.
Hardly any news has been received from the Asiatic provinces, and this is regarded as disquieting. The Valia and the military commandant at Smyrna have been dismissed by the Young Turks, owing to their hostile attitude towards the constitution.

Everybody has been greatly impressed with the perfect organization of the Young Turk movement, and the absolute discipline in all ranks. The directing hand is still unknown. The only incident of today has been a noisy demonstration of artillery officers and soldiers at the Porte, where the men gathered together, apparently clamoring for promotion. The object was really hostility towards Zekai Pasha, grand master of the artillery, whose withdrawal was demanded.

It has become known that Zelm Melamed Pasha, minister of mines and forests, was assisted in getting out of it by the office of the Italian embassy, and this fact has produced a bad impression among the liberal Turks.

It is confirmed that the Minister of Marine, Rami Pasha, has been forced out of the office, and replaced by Hamid Pasha.

An irade issued yesterday appoints Izzet Pasha, president of the commission for the inauguration of the Hejaz railway. He will leave Constantinople for that region at once.

His Boat Fired on While Going Up the Ohio—Lady Near Him Was Wounded.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 29.—The Island Queen had steamed slowly around the bend at Dayton, Ky., and was near the middle of the river, when persons leaning on the starboard rail saw a man emerge from the cabin of a shanty boat, moored on the Ohio bank, and fire a shotgun. Mrs. Russell gave a scream and declared she had been shot. She was hurried into the cabin, where it was found she was not seriously injured. One of the shots had penetrated the skin over her left eye and another had struck her on the chin. The distance from the shore was so great that the charge of shot had almost spent itself when it reached the boat.

The officers of the boat stated that they would make an investigation in order to learn the identity of the man who fired the gun.

A special dispatch to The Advertiser from Tilbury in connection with the shooting of Wm. Healey, of London, says: According to legal opinion the verdict of the coroner's jury leaves Kimball open to the charge of murder, as nothing explicit is in the verdict as to whether the shooting was premeditated or not. But it is certain that Kimball cannot be convicted on a murder charge and one of manslaughter will probably be entered against him.

"From what I have heard and read of Chief Kimball's action in shooting William Healey at Tilbury, I should think that he had absolutely no justification for firing the shot," Chief

WHERE WERE THE WHITE MICE?
Absence of the Little Fellows Nearly Resulted in a Naval Disaster.

London, July 30.—While the British submarine flotilla was manoeuvring off Folkestone No. 9, was seen to be falling behind, flying a signal of distress. A rescue party was organized, and nine men, were found unconscious in the boat.

It seems that the officers were in the conning tower, and noticing that no attention was being paid to the signals they sent below, descended the ladders and saw the crew lying about unconscious from the fumes of petrol, to which they, too, fell victims. The men were finally resuscitated on being brought to the open air. The accident, which might occur at any time on any submarine, was due to the failure of certain springs to work properly on account of the rolling of the boat. These springs are connected with the valves by which the noxious gases are expelled from the boat.

It had been the custom until recently for British submarines to carry white mice in the well. These little animals are peculiarly susceptible to the fumes of petrol, and as the heavy gas invades the well first their squeaking serves as a warning in the case of an accident like the recent one. Several weeks ago the British Admiralty ordered that the mice should be carried no longer.

CHOLERA KILLING SHEEP.
Rochester, Mich., July 29.—A peculiar disease, something in the nature of cholera, is attacking the sheep in this section. Calvin Shoemaker has lost a number from his flock, and other farmers report fatal cases.

Veterinary surgeons who have made examinations of affected sheep, are puzzled in their efforts to diagnose the disease. Some attribute it to the dryness of the fodder and scarcity of water. Rain is badly needed.

SAYS DAUGHTER SENT A BROOCH

And the Friend Who Has It Refused to Give It Up.

Lilly Young, a young lady employed as a waitress at a local hotel, appeared before Magistrate Love this morning on a charge of stealing a brooch. The information was laid by Mrs. Esther Edwards, who alleges that her daughter took a brooch of hers (Mrs. Edwards'), and lent it to Miss Young. Miss Young, it is claimed, will not give the brooch up, and Mrs. Edwards is taking steps to make her. Mrs. Edwards' daughter also worked at the hotel for a short time, and until a few days ago her mother did not know where she was. The case was left over until next Tuesday.

LONDON, THURSDAY, JULY 30.

CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE.

Canada's trade continues in a healthy condition. While the exports of merchandise during the year ended May 31 last largely exceeded those of the preceding year, the imports show a slight falling off as compared with 1937, but a large increase over 1936.

According to a summary statement recently issued by the department of trade and commerce, the exports for the past year amounted to $260,619,002, as compared with $249,211,351 in 1937, and $243,789,331 in 1936. A portion of the exports represents foreign goods passing through Canada, Canada, of course, profits by the transportation of these goods across the country and in their shipment from Canadian ports. The value of this foreign produce, in 1938, was $16,130,640, in 1937, $14,759,155, and 1936, $10,793,537. It will thus be seen that this foreign carrying trade is a growing one. The exports of coin and bullion last year totalled $13,684,626, as compared with $17,768,336 in 1937, and $9,417,901 in 1936.

Following is a statement of imports for the last three years:

Year ending	Merchandise	Coin and Bullion	Total
1938	$232,014,353	$1,823,980	$233,838,333
1937	$242,674,271	$10,623,658	$253,297,929
1936	$229,874,551	$1,382,084	$231,256,635

In the three years Canada exported $19,000,000 of gold more than she imported.

Our total exports, including coin and bullion, foreign and home produce, in 1938, amounted to $274,303,268, in 1937, $266,979,314, and in 1936, $233,207,392.

The total foreign trade—that is, exports and imports—for each of the three years was:

Year	Total
1938	$613,161,079
1937	$620,277,643
1936	$539,265,467

Like almost every country Canada's exports exceed her imports. But when it is remembered that the value of the exports is not that at which these sell abroad, but the home value as declared at the custom house at the time of export, and that a considerable amount of our imports is made up of settlers' effects, it will be seen that the trade balance is not so "unfavorable" after all.

The value of the exports of domestic merchandise for three years and the duty paid on the imports were:

Year	Exports	Duty paid
1938	$244,505,362	$55,001,953
1937	$234,452,196	$4,539,718
1936	$232,990,794	$4,539,718

The relationship of free goods to dutiable goods imported is here shown:

Year	Dutiable	Free
1938	$206,940,621	$126,073,737
1937	$206,559,657	$136,084,614
1936	$171,155,877	$108,718,874

Canada's largest business dealings are with her neighbor, the United States. Of our total exports of home and foreign produce and of bullion, amounting to $274,303,268, we sent $88,216,912 of home produce, and $19,836,309 of foreign produce to our neighbors, and took from them $104,234,259 worth of dutiable goods, and $95,214,125 worth of free goods. In the year ended May 30 last, our trade in all descriptions of articles, home and foreign products, and bullion, totalled $613,161,079, of which $307,601,605 was with the United States. Next comes the mother country. Last year we imported from the United Kingdom $67,094,364 of dutiable goods, and $21,596,666 free, and exported to that country $125,425,897 of home produce, and $7,903,258 foreign produce, or a total of $232,020,181. So that of our total aggregate trade of $613,161,079, these two countries do $519,621,786, leaving to be divided between the rest of the world a little over $93,539,293.

SASKATCHEWAN'S SCHOOL TAX.

The Saskatchewan Supplementary Revenue Act has now been a year in operation, and it is not a little interesting to learn how it is working out. The object of the measure, the main principle of which was unanimously approved by the Legislature, is the imposition of a provincial tax of one cent per acre on all assessable rural lands in the Province for educational purposes.

Hon. Mr. Calder, the provincial treasurer and minister of education, in introducing the bill, estimated that there were between 20,000,000 and 26,000,000 acres of assessable land in the Province that did not contribute one cent towards the cost of education. By far the greater portion of this land is held by speculators and non-residents. The Government took the ground that the owners of these lands, who were making enormous profits therefrom, should be made to contribute towards the maintenance of the Province's educational institutions, and that the whole burden of cost should not fall upon those who happen to reside in existing school districts. As a result of the act being put into operation Mr. Calder estimated that for every dollar levied on the lands in school districts there would be returned to the trustees on the average about $2.49.

The results of the first year's operation of the act afford much satisfaction to the Scott Government and the settlers in the new Province. The total amount realized is $149,439, of which $144,568, or 97.9-10 per cent has been devoted to rural schools, leaving 2.1-10 per cent for higher education. Under the laws passed by the Territorial Assembly, parents residing outside the larger town and village school districts who desired to have their children attend high school classes, were required to pay fees of $21 a year for each child. The new law does away with these fees.

The effect of the act, as the Winnipeg Free Press points out, is not to create a new burden, but to shift the existing one. Instead of the residents of school districts bearing the entire cost of education the burden is borne by all landowners in the Province. The cost of maintaining rural schools is not increased, but the moneys required for the purpose are partly derived from a cent per acre tax on lands previously exempt from taxation.

The contention of the Scott Government is that it is only just and fair that all property-owners should contribute toward the cost of education, and especially non-residents who hold immense areas of land merely for speculative purposes. The Government has simply adopted the same principle that applies in the case of road work and other local improvements.

ILL FEELING OVER THE OLYMPIAD.

The Olympic meetings, where the athletes of all nations meet in honorable rivalry, should serve the cause of international goodwill. This hope was voiced by Sir Edward Grey, the British minister of foreign affairs, at the opening of the Olympiad in London, but it has not been furthered by that event. The Associated Press dispatches have been full of complaints from American sources of the unfairness of the British managers, and judges, and there is considerable soreness in the comment of a large section of the American press.

It is significant that the Americans appear to be the only fault-finders, and that the dispatches reflecting upon British sportsmanship have been furnished exclusively by an American news agency, Baron de Coubertine, president of the International Olympic committee, in a public letter, testifies to the excellence and impartiality of the British management, and avers that reports to the contrary are unfounded. He says he voices the unanimous opinion of the international committee, which presumably includes Americans.

We, in this country, have been led to believe that British fair-play was something more than a phrase, and that it shone particularly in the field of sportsmanship. It will require more evidence than has been forthcoming to convince Canadians that athletes of the United States have been singled out by their kinsmen for unjust treatment. It is to be hoped there will be plenty of impartial testimony to convince the American press and public that they have been misled. The usefulness of the Olympic meetings is at an end if they create international ill-feeling.

For the next month Western Canadians will have wheat on the brain. The British admirals are so full of fight that they are fighting among themselves.

Gamey is preparing to leave public life. He says he will run against Mr. Aylesworth in North York.

With the aid of a little paint even the grim old city hall is trying to look pleasant for the celebration.

The curtain has rung down at Quebec. We have honored the Canada of the past, but the Canada of today is a bigger proposition.

Ottawa will give Lord Roberts two banquets and a civic address, and oblige him to make a speech and open a lacrosse match, all within seven hours. No wonder he is giving some other cities the go-by.

Two made-to-order cities, Prince Rupert, B. C., and Gary, Ind., the one created by the Grand Trunk Pacific, the other by the steel trust, have been formally "opened." We shall see whether they have points of superiority over other cities which like Topsy "just grew."

NOISE OF THE CITY.

[Philadelphia Inquirer.] The whole country will hold its breath while Police Commissioner Bingham, of New York, enforces his orders concerning unnecessary noises. Barking dogs are to be suppressed. The kicking of tin cans around the streets is to be stopped. Old clothes men must whisper instead of shout when they make their rounds. There are to be restrictions upon steam whistles, automobile horns and the like. No doubt there is a good deal of noise incident to life in a big city which can be partially abated, but the noisier millennium will not be realized until wheels are made of something besides steel, until the rails are composed of some soft material, until all wagons are put in rubber boots. When the racket of ordinary business operations on the streets is disposed of the rest will be easy.

A MISSING PICTURE.

[Toronto Telegram.] No. R. L. Borden & Co. will not demand their money back in case the Quebec pageant does not stage a reproduction of Quebec swatting Sir Charles Tupper along with the other great events in history.

SHERRY OR GOIT.

[Philadelphia Record.] When one of the largest firms of wine merchants in London began business it sent Lord Derby a dozen of sherry, which was represented as being a specific for the gout, of which the prime minister was a martyr. The nobleman replied: "The Earl of Derby presents his compliments; he has tasted the sherry and prefers the goat."

OLD LONDON'S POLICE.

[Hamilton Spectator.] The London police force have recently been subjected to the investigations of a royal commission. When the report was referred upon it, and received a splendid vindication. Those who have been privileged to come in contact with any of its units while visiting the metropolis of the world, noticed its splendid physique, and envied themselves of its unflinching and general courtesy, and cordially endorsed such a verdict on the finest body of urban police in existence.

THE REQUISITE.

[Punch.] It's all right to marry blindly if only you can be sure of staying blind.

WILL HE ABIDE.

[Montreal Gazette.] Englishmen will have their little joke. London papers are telling that at the wedding of Anna Gould to Prince Helle de Sagan the organist played "Abide With Me."

A SILENT SUFFERER.

[London Punch.] (If telephone users would cast the idea of a machine out of their minds, and use the same courteous and common sense practices in talking by telephone as they observe when talking to a fellow-being face to face, they would appreciably raise the standard of the telephone service.—National Telephone Journal.)

Companion of my troubles and my toil,
Who share my study—yes, my very
dear—
Who, sleepless, burn with me the midnight oil,
Recumbent, unresponsive and grotesque,
It may be that when Pegasus has bucked,
And half-unseated my confiding mule,
I have employed you as the best of due,
To air, with frank brutality, my views,
But hold me not unkind, though I have been Ungracious, treating you as a machine.

Had I, in clasping your black, slender
waist,
Recalled how oft you've whispered to me,
"Avowals passionate but sweet and chaste,
My words and all been meant for you to hear."
Had I been mindful that it ought avail—
To oblige your tender diaphragm,
Because, at times, your best endeavors failed—
To take my meaning, I had not said:
"Tut! tut! how tiresome!"
But how remember, while you are, to me,
"Gerrard, eight, double-seven, double-three?"

THE PERILS OF THE MOTORIST.
[Punch.] From a notice board outside the Sandhurst national schools:
"DANGER.

The School Children."

DEFEAT—ITS LESSON.

[Toronto Telegram.] Canada was in danger of going crazy on the subject of track athletics. Canadians generally would go mad in the madness of victory more than they enjoy the sanity of defeat. Defeat has its compensations in so far as defeat may lead to a realization of the everlasting truth that there are bigger things in Canada's life than running marathons, and bigger men in Canada than Thomas Longboat.

PAID IN FULL.

[Brooklyn Life.] Hiram (coming to the point)—Sally, I've been paying you for five years for five years come next August, ain't I?
Sally (blushing)—Yes, indeed, Hiram.
Hiram—Well, all I'm a-goin' to say is that I'm darn sick up the installment plan!

Sally (in his arms)—Pa's agreeable, Hiram!

WHERE WE EXCEL.

[Toronto News.] Anyway, we can beat the United States at lawn bowling.

WHY THEY LAGGED.

[Detroit Free Press.] The more haste in the Marathon race was again the less speed.

WOMAN TOUGHER THAN MAN.

[New York Globe.] Although men as they run are perhaps muscularly stronger than women, their inability to withstand the elements and their reliance upon clothes places them considerably below the so-called weaker sex in the matter of unclothed toughness. "Women wear clothes for ornament; men use them as a protective covering. A group of men marooned on a desert island in the tropics might be expected to die off in a month from draughts and colds and rheumatism. The health of women similarly placed would suffer little from the exposure. The fact appears to be, therefore, that in everything but muscle—in vitality, ruggedness, character, disposition, brain power, etc.—woman is the tougher, not the weaker, sex."

THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

[Montreal Gazette.] Canada has, on the whole, no reason to feel ashamed of the record made by its representatives. We are, numerically, a small people, and we have not, fortunately, like our friends to the south of us, got into the habit of making a business out of athletics. There is still something more in the game for the winning. The victory of Bobby Kerr, the young man from Hamilton, was one of the kind that is good for athletics, and almost as striking as that of his fellow-townsmen, Sherrington, who won the Marathon at Athens two years ago. Hamilton has reason to feel proud of the fact that it has sent forth two such notable performers.

Questioning the Beck Scheme

(Hamilton Spectator, Conservative.)

Everything that has happened since the Hamilton city council decided to deal with the Cataract Power Company rather than the Hydro-Electric Commissioners, has but confirmed the wisdom of their choice. Other municipalities which were to be embraced in the hydro-electric scheme, although not so favorably situated as Hamilton is in relation to DeCew Falls, are wondering whether, after all, it will pay them to go on with the Beck project.

Ex-Mayor Coatsworth, of Toronto, is one of those who "want to know," and he "wants to know hard." It was in his term that the ratepayers passed a bylaw authorizing the city to purchase from the hydro-electric commission, for lighting, heating and power purposes, current at from $14 to $18 per annum, for continuous power ready for distribution. But, the ex-points out, in the contract with the commission this bylaw was not followed. An entirely different arrangement is made, namely, $10 40 for power at Niagara Falls, with an unlimited liability for transmission from the Falls to the city. The city is to assume the cost of transmission from the Falls (less use made by other municipalities of transmission line part of the way), at what the city knows; and then it is to assume the cost of distribution within the city. This last expense, when the bylaw was submitted, was estimated at $3 to $5 per horsepower, but good authorities now place it at $2. It is estimated that light and power would be sold at the same price to all, whereas it is now said that there is to be discrimination between large and small users. That is to say, people voted under the impression that they were to be treated equally, and small consumers although in any business conducted on commercial principles one would think discrimination was inevitable—and now they find the thing they voted for is not what they are likely to get.

Coatsworth also points out that the city was to take 2,500 horsepower from the hydro-electric commission for pumping purposes, and he wants to know why the city has just ordered steam pumps at a cost of $187,700—pumps which cannot be adapted to electric power. A number of other questions the ex-mayor asks in a series of letters to Mayor Oliver, and to which he has no answer been received. Alluding to this correspondence, the Montreal Gazette says: "There is nothing particularly new in any of these queries. The source from which they emanate is the most remarkable thing about them, since the questions were one and all put during the electric bylaw campaign. They were not answered then, being buried under an avalanche of generalities that sounded well but meant little. If Mr. Coatsworth can now force an answer out of the civic authorities, he will merely have placed the people in possession of facts that should have been laid before them prior to the vote on the bylaw."

The other day a deputation from Brantford, composed of members of the city council, board of trade, and a number of local business men, called on all-visited the electric power plant at DeCew Falls. Chairman Andrews, of the light committee of Brantford, said that "while they were looking into the hydro-electric scheme, it occurred to them to consider whether they might not do better by dealing with the Dominion Transmission Company."

The mayor of Guelph has refused to sign the contract for the hydro-electric commission until it is made clear that the city will not have to pay more for its service than it had been led to believe, or more than the people figured on when they voted for "cheap power."

In Galt, too, it is felt that there is too much uncertainty about the hydro-electric contract, and at a public meeting the other day influential citizens thought a halt should be called to the scheme. The mayor of Galt, a leading manufacturer, it is said, demonstrated that he could supply his own steam power at a lower cost than the rate at which it might be possible for him to receive Niagara power.

The Kingston Whig, which is far enough away from the scene to speak dispassionately, says, in alluding to some of these developments: "Thus it can be understood that the Hon. Adam Beck's dreams are far from being realized, and that the power union had an awful nerve when some days ago it undertook to discipline Hamilton for its desertion of the hydro-electric commission. Toronto to herself is none too secure upon the subject."

The Hamilton city council knew its own business best when, after weighing carefully every aspect of the question, it rejected the advice of rival municipalities, and concluded to "lie to" a local concern. The perplexity and perturbation of other communities it can afford to regard with indifference. Guesswork schemes may come and guesswork schemes may go, but DeCew Falls run on forever.

TOMMY MURPHY TRIMS BOER UNHOLZ

Boston, July 29.—Thomas Murphy, of New York, had the better of Rudolph Unholz, of South Africa, throughout the twelve rounds of the main bout, lightweight class, at the arenas at the Police Club last night. The New Yorker did all the leading, and landed five blows to one by the Boer, although the latter had the harder punch, and with faster work might have had the decision.

LOU SCHOLES MEETS DEFEAT

Von Gaza, a German, Wins Olympic Regatta—Even Money on Contest.

Henley-on-Thames, July 29.—Lou Scholes, of Toronto, a former winner of the Diamond sculls, made his first appearance in the Olympic regatta here today in the first event of the day, and was defeated by Von Gaza, of the Viking Club, Berlin, by a length, in 4:57 for the mile and a half. This is Von Gaza's second victory, he having beaten Killer, the Hungarian sculler, yesterday in the first heat.

There was deep sorrow in Canadian circles at Henley over Scholes' defeat, and much money was lost at odds on Scholes.

The Canadian was confident of winning, but at the finish seemed dead to the world. Scholes got the water first and led for the first quarter, steering a line course, but passing the island he steered somewhat wild.

German in the Lead.

Von Gaza was holding Scholes well at half the distance, with the German slightly in the lead. The time at the half was 4:38. From this point it was a magnificent race. Although Scholes was beaten he spurred splendidly, but could not reduce Von Gaza's lead, and the German won the race by a length.

In the heat of the single sculls, Blackstaffe, England, finished alone. His opponent falling from his boat, Walter Bowler, of Toronto, Canada, not completing the race.

Bowler and Blackstaffe were equal at the end of the island, but the latter gradually got away a length or more. When 750 yards from the start, Bowler ran into a pile, and, after extricating himself, he had another mishap a few yards further on, running again into a pile and falling out of his boat. Blackstaffe waited for him on the first mishap, taking opportunity to blow his nose, but, seeing Bowler fall from his boat, pulled away leisurely. Bowler was rescued by a punt. Time, 10:03.

The Argonauts of Toronto won their heat with the Norwegian Rowing Association. They led from the start, never being pushed. Their time at the half was 3:55 and for the full course 8:06. Leander beat Hungary two and a half lengths in 8:10.

LARRY BURKE FOR EASTERN LEAGUE?

The Spectator says: There is a job as umpire awaiting Larry Burke, the well-known Hamilton man, who gave such universal satisfaction in his work in the defunct International League this season, and it would not be surprising to see the only Larry "umping" in the Eastern League before long. The Toronto team was struck with his work when he officiated here at the game between the Hamilton nine and the Eastern leaguers earlier in the season, and have claimed all along that he had it on anything that Pat Powers had in his league drawing a fat salary as an "umpire." Burke is known to other people in the Eastern League, and has been mentioned for a job, and as Powers is at present on a still hunt for good officials, Burke, or rather his friends, may land him on the job before he is aware of it.

The Eastern League has had a pretty high time with their umps this season, and a good many new ones have tried the game in vain. President Powers was in Toronto last week, looking for men, but got away before Burke's name was brought up. However, since then his name has been sent on to Powers by an official of the Toronto club, and there is no doubt but that there will be a job for the little Irishman if he wants it.

POOL-ROOM FIGHT AT FORT ERIE

Buffalo, July 29.—A contest full of interest to those who speculate on the races at Fort Erie track in Canada, opposite Buffalo, has sprung up, and is likely to be of a sanguinary character, unless some gifted diplomat intervenes and arranges a truce, if not a permanent peace. The parties in the contest are the Niagara Racing Association, which controls the track, and the poolroom "information" service, representing the poolrooms in all sections of the country. The contest difficulty has arisen over a failure to reach an agreement as to the proper price for permission to report the Fort Erie racing and results. The racing association asks $500 for this privilege, while poolroom men are unwilling to give more than $200.

CANADIANS DEFER MARATHON ATTEMPT

London, July 29.—The attempt of the Canadians on Dorando's Marathon record, which was to have been made today, was abandoned on account of the sultry weather.

All the Canadians are well except Lester, who sprained his ankle in the Marathon, and Bobby Kerr, who fell in a race at Birmingham, who will be unable to run again in England.

On City Diamonds

The McCormick baseball team defeated the Y. M. C. A. at Springfield Tuesday evening, in a fast seven-innings game, by the score of 6-4. The features of the game were the twirling of Monahan and good hitting of Noah and Blake, for the winners.

Batteries—McCormick—Monahan and Waud; Y. M. C. A., McEwen and Marsh.

The Riverbends last night defeated the Ridout street Stars on the diamond, by a score of 17 to 16. "Bunk" Hill, as usual, starred for the victors, getting two homers, a triple and a home run, as well as putting up a phenomenal game in the field.

"Bunk" is a peach, all right.

The St. John's Athletic Club, with their Springfield ball team, in the North End League last night killed all Manager Stewart's expectations of capturing the tinware by an overwhelming score of 9-2.

Kelley, for the Saints, pitched a good game, while O'Rourke, the opposing slasher, was a little off color, allowing six of the Saints to round the bases in the first inning before being benched.

The batteries—Saints, Kelley and McColl; Talbots—O'Rourke, Walden and Stanton.

In a battle of the jungles yesterday the untamed Clarence street Lions devoured the Tammany Tigers by 5-4. In one of the fiercest contests that the denizens of Saunby's Flats have ever witnessed. It was claw and nail all the way, and each team felt that it had been engaged in a battle when the end came. Mascari and Hewitt did the honors for the Lions, while Boots and Duckwood officiated for the Tigers.

The Arncliffe Puzzle

By GORDON HOLMES, Author "A Mysterious Disappearance."

"Say," remarked Bradshaw, confidently, "there aren't any two men in the county who are going to get ahead of me when I spread my net." He swung himself lightly into the saddle, took his hat off, and with a kindly smile to Edith and an ardent glance at Phyllis, cantered off, with the easy swing of a horseman bred on the western prairie.

On to the village; two minutes of hasty chat with Inspector Hobson, who, according to custom, had been down to the postoffice, and then onward, accompanied by Wilson, until he reached the point where May Manning had seen Warren drive past.

The American trotted slowly along the narrow lane, scanning it closely as he went. There was no trail that it was possible to follow. But he was no looking for tracks, on the road. There were altogether too many of them. What he wanted was an indication of tracks leaving the road, and presently he found them. The line of the dog-cart over the moor was so distinct that he could follow it at a hand gallop. To a man who had ridden the prairies, the inequalities of the ground offered no obstacles. He just hung his rein loose and left matters to the horse.

He held on until he came in sight of the deserted shooting-box, a place built almost like a Martello tower. He pulled up his horse, and then, as the face of Leigh appeared at one of the windows, "Surest thing you know," he added, still quietly. "Without further ado, he tethered his horse to a stump and walked briskly toward the door."

Leigh met him. Bradshaw had expected him to meet him, and the two men stood a little away, eyeing each other warily.

"Now," said Bradshaw, in placid self-commanding, "if I didn't have a little gun in my pocket, 38-calibre, self-cocking, safety trigger, I'd get licked out of my socks. I've had a fight that man in a square rough-and-tumble for eleven and a half million dollars."

Leigh, however, did not seem inclined to fight. He had often seen Bradshaw at the inn, and he made a slumpy attempt to pass matters over. "Good-day, sir," he said, pulling at his greasy cap.

"I know," replied Bradshaw, "but when is Dr. Lester?"

The gypsy started, and then stepped forward threateningly. "You know too much, maister," he growled.

"Not a bit," said Bradshaw cheerfully. "You can never learn too much. But you had better show me up to Dr. Lester, who, I presume, is partaking of your hospitality at the present moment."

Leigh cast a comprehensive eye around, he said that Bradshaw was alone. The American's lean figure seemed to amuse him.

"Maister," he said, "I am either going to put you with Dr. Lester up there, or else I am going to hurt you. But if I do that it will be your own fault."

Bradshaw smiled grimly. "Partner," he said cheerfully, "there are two notches on the butt of my gun, and they represent two venison heads up to my complaining of the drought at this very moment. Throw up your hands, quick!"

And now that 38 was covering the burly figure of the poacher.

"I am giving you a little license because people don't seem to know how to get shot in this God-forsaken country, but I'll surely kill you in a minute," cried Bradshaw again.

He was indeed right when he said that English people did not understand getting shot. Leigh did not realize the peril of a pistol pointed at him by a man who meant to shoot, and he ran forward like a bull. Bradshaw, cool as ice, took a quiet aim at his antagonist's body. He was going to hit him in the solar plexus—that spot beloved of the prize-fighter. If you hit a man there he goes down, and in addition there is always the pleasing possibility of cutting his spine in two. And so Bradshaw pulled the trigger of his pistol. The hammer dropped, but no report followed. He pulled the trigger again, but the hammer did not answer.

That beautiful .38 "gun," which had faithfully killed two men, had gone out of order at one of the most crucial moments of his life.

Bradshaw dodged away alertly, still pulling the trigger in desperation, though he knew well that it was hopeless to expect any result. Then he fired the useless weapon at his adversary's head.

It was not retreat, but merely a strategic retirement. He could see clearly that he must be worsted in a hand-to-hand fight with the gigantic poacher, and he was looking around for some weapons with which to equalize matters a little. He lighted presently on a gnarled stick, a fair enough cudgel, and returned to the fray with set teeth. Leigh sent the disabled revolver spinning through the air to him, and greeted this new attack with a burst of bucolic laughter.

"Don't do it, maister," he cried. "You're a rare plucked 'un, but there's nobody on all the border that can stand against me, old as I am."

"Isn't there?" said Bradshaw, dangerously calm. "I don't belong here. The only border I know is the Mexican border, and down there we see things through to a finish."

He was still advancing, and Leigh, realizing that in the matter of activity he was at a serious disadvantage, stood firm, watching for an opening. He began to understand that this lean, wiry young man was a formidable antagonist.

Still Bradshaw came on, so slowly that the suspense became wearing—ten feet, nine feet, only six feet.

"Look here, sir," began the poacher.

Bradshaw sprang forward, his stick uplifted to strike. It was just the sort of foolishness Leigh looked for, and while the arm went up like a flash to ward the blow, the other was swung forward to clutch the American in a grip that would hold him helpless as a child.

The blow did not fall as Leigh expected. The heavy stick, which swished through the air, but the parrying arm was untouched, and an instant afterward Leigh was rolling on the ground in uncontrollable agony from the swift escape that had fallen on his knee-cap.

As Bradshaw explained afterward, there was no "fair fight" nonsense about him. He knew that in a moment Leigh would be up again, enveloped by his sufferings, and for that reason more formidable than ever. So he coolly stepped over the prostrate man and dealt him a vicious blow on the head, not extremely particular whether it might prove fatal or not.

"I guess, partner, you've miscalculated on borders, this trip," he muttered, looking at his fallen foe, from whose head there ran an ugly trickle of blood. "And now for Lester."

"There was no answer." "Good Lord! They've wiped him out! I must go and see if that old border champion has the key."

He went down again, and, to his surprise, found Leigh sitting up and rubbing his head a little dazed, but apparently not much the worse for his injuries. Bradshaw was frankly afraid even now of this man with the sinister face and enormous chest development, but he went up to him with all the arrogance of a conqueror.

"Now, then," he said sharply, "where is Dr. Lester? No, no, sit quiet, my friend, or this time I'll kill you for keeps."

Leigh was thoroughly cowed. He had not forgotten that merciless blow, dealt him when he lay helpless on the ground. This slightly built man, with the thin mouth and unfinching eyes, was a revelation to him.

"Don't be hard on a poor chap," he whined. "The doctor is upstairs, as well as you are. I'd just taken him a bit of grub when you came."

"You're a liar!" was Bradshaw's uncompromising retort. "I've shouted myself hoarse without obtaining any reply."

"By gum!" he cried. "I told Maister Warren the doctor was a real gentleman! He gave me his word he would not utter a sound if we didn't gag him, and I trusted him."

"Here," said Bradshaw, "go up ahead of me and let him out. No nonsense, mind, or I'll brain you."

Thus politely addressed, Leigh led the way to Lester's prison room, and in a minute rescued and rescuer were clasping hands.

"Why in thunder didn't you answer, when I called just now?" asked Bradshaw.

"I had given my word."

"Say," exclaimed his rescuer with some disgust, "you are too good to be true. However, it's all right now, and the sooner I restore you to your sorrowing friends the better. Do you know that Miss Holt is worrying about you just a million times more than you deserve?"

"Miss Holt?"

"Yes, of course, Miss Holt. But, come along—you can ride behind me on my horse—and tell me about things on the way. As for the British policeman, I guess he'll get hold of you whenever you are wanted."

"I give up, sir," said Leigh, calmly. "I saw Mr. Warren knock the old gent on the head, and he's been brining me ever since to keep quiet. But I've got the books he did it for, and I'm ready to hand them over when they're wanted."

"I have settled all that," interposed Bradshaw. "I suspected you directly Dr. Lester disappeared, and by this time Detective Hobson has been through your place with a search-warrant. Anyway, you can vouch now; but if you take my advice you'll stay and face the music."

Lester and Bradshaw mounted the horse and left Leigh to consider the situation. Their mount was a fine upstanding animal, and entirely capable of carrying double weight for at least a fair portion of the journey. Luckily, however, they fell in with a farmer driving into the village when they reached the road, and so Lester was given a lift.

Bradshaw was naturally eager for details of the kidnapping of Lester, but, strangely enough, the subject seemed utterly uninteresting to the young doctor who kept delicately engineering the conversation round to Edith. What he wanted to hear was with happiness. Edith was true, after all! And then came the despairing thought—would she forgive him?

Phyllis was right. Lester was going to be abject, indeed.

"Erle Belle" One of the Best. Old Time Schooners.

Niagara Falls, July 29.—The old Erie Belle was burned to the water's edge at Chippewa Creek last night, ending in flames the last chapter of a life full of vicissitudes. The fire broke out at 10 o'clock, and the vessel gained great headway before discovery, and crowds gathered to watch her destruction.

The "Erle Belle" had been an object of interest to visitors for years, artists painting her as a representative of the best sailing vessel of the old type.

The story of her last trip has been a subject for novelists. She was a three-masted, square rigged forward, with double topsail and hip-gallant sail, was built at Port Burwell in the early seventies, and was the belle of the great lakes. Her last trip was made twelve years ago. She was unloading at La Salle, when the crew went on strike for wages. The captain, single-handed, ran her from the dock and with the aid of a tug brought her to Chippewa. Upon her arrival she was seized at the instance of a Toronto bank vicelike. The vessel, however, has remained at Chippewa ever since.

A month ago a firm of Toronto contractors bought and dismantled her, intending to use her as a scow, but it was impossible to move her and the task was abandoned.

PALMER WEDDING WAS VERY QUIET

Only the Immediate Relatives Witnessed Marriage of Miss Kohlsaat.

Chicago, July 30.—Seven years' courtship culminated at last in the marriage of Miss Pauline Kohlsaat, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Kohlsaat, to Potter Palmer. The service took place at noon in the Kohlsaat residence, 188 Lincoln Park Boulevard, the Rev. A. W. Griffin, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, officiating. Only the immediate families witnessed the ceremony.

The house was beautifully although simply decorated. Asparagus ferns, oak leaves, water lilies and white roses carried out a color scheme of green and white.

Mr. Kohlsaat gave away his daughter. She wore a bridal gown of white chiffon, over soft white satin, empire in style with yoke and sleeves of fine tucked net and trimmings of silver embroidery and Venetian point lace. The veil was of tulle, caught up with orange blossoms, and an ivory-bound prayer book was carried instead of flowers.

The wedding party was small. Miss Katherine Kohlsaat, who will not be presented to society until next winter, acted as maid of honor. She wore a gown of white chiffon and lace, with maroon feathers. Her hat was of fine white straw, trimmed with white feathers and she carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and swansonia.

Miss Bertha Honore, 5 years old, daughter of the bride, acted as flower girl. Mrs. Lockwood Honore, performed her first service as a flower girl, and wore a white lingerie frock and carried a basket of white flowers. Honore Palmer was bridesmaid.

Mr. Kohlsaat, the bride's mother, wore a gown of grey chiffon over grey liberty satin, with trimmings of cut steel embroidery. Mrs. Palmer was in white satin, veiled with white silk gauze, trimmed with silver lace and embroidery. Her hat was of grey straw in modified Gainsborough style, and trimmed in white osprey feathers and black velvet.

Gen. and Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, of New York, were among the guests. Mrs. Grant being an aunt of the groom. She wore a gown of blue grey satin, with white lace, and a hat of light brown straw, trimmed with white plumes. Mrs. Lockwood Honore was in a princess lingerie gown of white and wore a large white hat trimmed with white plumes. Mrs. Honore Palmer wore black chiffon over black satin, with a large white hat trimmed with white plumes. With her was her small son, Potter Palmer III.

There was no reception, the wedding guests forming a breakfast party.

Carrying out the desires of both bride and bridegroom for the elimination of everything that savored of ostentation, no list of wedding gifts was given to the public, although the collection given to the couple is of interest and value.

The wedding attracted more than the usual interest, even when young people of equal prominence have been concerned. Their love story has been known for years, ever since the bride's graduation from Miss Masters' school at Dobbs Ferry, and her presentation to society. Since that time Mrs. Kohlsaat and her daughter have taken several European trips and Mr. Palmer's presence in Europe at the same time often gave rise to the rumor that the two were engaged. The denial by the two families were as persistent, and not until last winter was formal announcement made of the engagement.

Mr. Palmer is a Harvard man, and since the death of his father has passed much of his time abroad with his mother. Recently he has lived in Oregon, where the Palmer estate has interests.

During the summer and the wedding preparations Mr. Palmer and Miss Kohlsaat passed several hours almost every day putting the house at 183 Lincoln Park Boulevard in readiness for their occupancy. The furnishings at Chicago and at New York, and together they selected the fittings and decorations according to their own tastes.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer departed during the afternoon for New York, and they will depart on Saturday for an automobile tour of three or four months in Europe.

LEFT ONE WIFE TO KILL ANOTHER

A Terrible Crime of a Former Toronto Man—Sequel to Mysterious Life.

St. Catharines, Ont., July 28.—Louis Armour, who killed his wife and attempted to kill his daughter in Toledo on Sunday last, was formerly a resident of St. Catharines, having left here about two years ago. Besides the wife he shot in Toledo, he has two others still living, one in St. Catharines and another in Detroit.

The crime was the sequel of a mysterious life led by Armour, who is 31 years of age. Sixteen years ago he deserted his wife, two daughters and one son, without even bidding his family good-bye. No word was heard of him by his first wife until about a month ago, when he returned to Toledo and begged his wife to take him back. She refused.

Mrs. Armour was going to church, and had opened the door, when her husband stepped in from the street. He again asked her to take him back. Mrs. Armour refused. Without more words Armour whipped out a revolver and fired three shots at her. One struck her behind the ear as she turned to run.

As the dying woman fell to the floor of the vestibule the eldest daughter, Mrs. D. Shea, rushed to the door. Armour fired one shot at her, but the bullet went wild. Armour then turned the weapon on himself, but it failed to explode.

Throwing the revolver away Armour ran down an alley and has not been seen since.

The wife here says when she discovered that he had two other wives she left him, and has resumed her maiden name.

Armour worked in Toronto for some time and used his wife as a model. His landlady was several times obliged to interfere and call in the police. From Toronto the couple came to St. Catharines. When he lived here he worked as a painter.

Lord Lovat is the hereditary chief of the Fraser clan, and is over here as a representative at the tercentenary.

QUICK-WITTED WOMAN

She Throws Fan After Lost Hat and Recovers Both.

Philadelphia, July 29.—Quick wit on the part of Miss Erba Townsend, a Baltimore girl, who has been visiting at Atlantic City for the last few weeks, and who was here yesterday afternoon for a few hours, on her way home, saved her hat from being a total loss.

Sitting in the roof garden of the Bellevue-Stratford in the afternoon, when the wind and thunderstorm descended upon the city, her hat was carried off by the gale and fell into Broad street. Without looking what direction the hat took, the Maryland girl, with her escort looking on in astonishment, caught a fan on the table and hurriedly wrote:

"Three dollars reward for return of hat with blue and red feathers to desk, Bellevue-Stratford."

She held up the fan and then let the wind carry it away. Fortunately, the current carried it in the same direction as the hat. Both fell within a few feet of a newsboy who was standing at Broad and Spruce streets. He carried both to the hotel and there received the reward.

Although bedraggled by the rain and the flight through the air, the hat was in fair condition and was worn triumphantly to Baltimore by Miss Townsend.

FULLY RECOGNIZED LONG LOST BROTHER

After Having Caused His Arrest As An Impostor.

Spokane, Wash., July 30.—Royal Raymond, living near Madison, Wis., found his brother, H. J. Raymond, given up for dead years ago, at Sprague, Wash., after causing his arrest under the impression he was an impostor.

Royal received a letter from H. J. Raymond several weeks ago, asking for financial assistance. He looked upon the letter with suspicion, and his conclusion was that the man at Sprague had gained some knowledge of the Raymond family through the long-lost brother, who was believed to have been killed by his partner on the way north from California, where they were in 1895.

When Royal reached Sprague he obtained a John Doe warrant in Justice Etelson's court on the charge of obtaining money under false pretences. A detective arrested Doe on the McMillan farm, where he was working.

Doe asked permission to shave before appearing for trial, and when this was done Royal recognized the man as his brother. The matter was explained to the court, and the proceedings were quashed and the two brothers started for the old home in Wisconsin.

SUPPOSED SLAYER OF MCCORMICK NEW CUT OPEN TO NAVIGATION

Captured in Boston and Said to Have Been Identified.

Niagara Falls, July 28.—A press dispatch from Boston that Lee, the supposed murderer of Patrolman McCormick, had been arrested in that city as he was attempting to board a steamer caused considerable excitement at the Falls today.

The fact that he had been identified as the murderer of the Falls patrolman has been confirmed. Chief Lyons, an interview today, says he is sure there is no possible chance for Lee to escape the clutches of the law. He believes that if not already captured he is in hiding, secreted away by some of his pals.

"Ed" Lee, known as "Blackey," after the shooting made tracks for the north end of the city. There, it is supposed, he boarded a train on the Falls branch and rode through to Lockport into the Rochester yards of the New York Central. A man answering Lee's description was seen in Lockport, but disappeared before the police of the village could be informed. The next day he was seen in Syracuse hanging about an old rendezvous. He disappeared in less than an hour. The police of that city have carried on a systematic search, but to no avail. Detective-Sergeant Callahan was brought back from Quebec city and went to Syracuse in quest of Lee, but the murderer had fled before his arrival. Police Chief Lyons has every reason to believe that Lee was the man who laid low Patrolman McCormick. He was seen hanging about Williams' place in Main street for two days before the shooting, and the photograph of Lee has been positively identified as the likeness of the man who was known as "Blackey."

Patrolman Magner has also identified the photograph of Lee as the man who did the shooting. Lee is described as being about 25 years old, five feet eight inches in height, dark complexion, black hair, dark blue eyes, square jaw, good teeth, several scars on right cheek and of medium build. At the time of the shooting he wore a blue serge coat and trousers of fine texture, a gray cap and had about a three days' growth of beard. The Niagara Falls police authorities, who have been in telegraphic communication with Boston, will not confirm or deny Lee's arrest at Boston.

WAR OF POWER LINES

Buffalo Claims to Have Been Subjected to Discrimination.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 29.—War upon Canadian power corporations goes likely in this city. Indeed, it has gone so far since the board of aldermen convened yesterday that the corporation is now under orders to investigate the relations of the Ontario Power Company to this city and to obtain evidence showing how much that corporation transmits to Buffalo, by what authority, by franchise or otherwise, whether the power goes and what prices are charged for the same.

After a stormy session yesterday the board adopted such a resolution. Ald. Fisher, chairman of the lamp committee, led the attack upon Canadian power. He declared that the Ontario company has no rights in this country.

"We want to know," he exclaimed, "why Canadians can get this power for $10 per horsepower when the Buffalo rate ranges from $15 to $25 per horsepower to $56 charged to private consumers."

It is claimed by those who have begun the war that the power lines across the river owned by the Niagara Falls Power Company are supposed to convey power from Niagara Falls, N. Y., but that source of the power is actually in Ontario, and that Buffalo is being discriminated against, in that power is being transmitted to New Rochelle and other far eastern points for the benefit of favored corporations.

TRADE WITH PHILIPPINES.

Ottawa, July 28.—The marine department has been informed that an act has been passed by the United States Congress by which the provisions of the law restricting the transportation of passengers and merchandise, directly or indirectly, from one port of the United States to another, shall not be applicable to foreign vessels engaging in trade between the Philippine Islands and the United States. The result will be to throw open the trade between the Philippines and the United States to Canadian and all other foreign shipping.

DEAD BESIDE HER BED

Husband Told the Neighbors and Then Went to Sleep.

Ottawa, July 29.—Mrs. Thomas Berrigan was found dead lying beside her bed in a hotel on Ellen street this morning. Her husband was lying insensibly drunk in the adjoining room. He had awakened the neighbors to tell them his wife was dead and then fell off to sleep again. There were marks on the woman's forehead as if she had fallen, but probably the death was due to natural causes accelerated by drink.

LOST A FOOT.

Hanover, July 29.—An accident took place yesterday on the C. P. R. a few miles east of this town, when Mr. Arthur Whittaker, of the gravel train, was struck by the special mail cars, losing a foot and receiving a very painful scalp wound. He was taken to the Walkerton hospital.

MARRIED IN JAIL.

Cripple Creek, Colorado, July 29.—A marriage at the county jail took place under unusual circumstances yesterday when Prof. Hans Albert, a musician, formerly of Ottumwa, Iowa, was declared man and wife by Rev. Mr. Inman, a Methodist minister. Albert's arrest was caused by the girl's father to prevent the marriage, the charge being insanity. Miss Haddell and the minister visited the jail and asked to see Albert. The request was refused and the jailer thinking the incident closed, went up-stairs. During his absence a box was placed out side Albert's cell window. Miss Haddell mounted it, and, clasping Albert's hand through the barred window, was made his wife.

Since Japan recovered from Russia as part of the Island Saghalien schools and hospitals have been introduced, and about 20,000 immigrants have arrived from Japan.

Looseness of The Bowels.

It is very seldom during the summer months that most people are not troubled with "looseness of the bowels."

Sometimes it only goes that far, but generally it develops into Diarrhoea, Dysentery or Summer Complaint and has a tendency to weaken the whole system.

When the bowels get loosened up in this way and you wish to check the unnatural discharge without bringing on constipation, there is only one remedy to use, and that one is Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. This remedy is not an experiment as it has been used in thousands of families during the past sixty-three years.

When you ask for Dr. FOWLER'S be sure you get it, as many unprincipled druggists will try to palm off a cheap substitute on you.

Miss M. Hopkins, Roseville, Sask., writes: "I have used Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY, and found it is all it is recommended to be for Diarrhoea and Summer Complaints. We would not be without a bottle of it in the house."

TURKISH CRISIS IS NOT OVER

Demonstrations Favoring the Sultan May at Any Time
Be Reversed.

Constantinople, July 29.—The crisis in Turkish affairs is by no means over. The demonstrations that have been in favor of the Sultan may at any moment turn against him if he does not yield to the demands of the constitution party for the dismissal of the palace camarilla.

It is believed that the Sultan will make the concessions asked for, although to do so is difficult. Some of the officials already have been removed and it is believed that others will either flee the country or seek refuge at one of the foreign legations. It is apparent that the Sultan is becoming uneasy.

Troops yesterday evening prevented further demonstrations in front of the palace.

An imperial trade made public today convokes the first Turkish Parliament under the new constitution for November 1.

The document announcing this decision appeals to the people to cease their demonstrations, pointing out that as the Sultan has proved his good intentions and that he will strictly observe the constitution and labor for the prosperity of all his subjects.

A Correction.
In connection with the unfortunate shooting of Mr. Wm. Healey, at Tilbury, it was stated in last evening's Advertiser, that he had married a Tilbury lady several weeks ago. The Advertiser was misinformed in the matter, and now learns that this is untrue. The widow of the late Mr. Healey resides in this city.

A Delightful Picnic.
A very pleasant afternoon was spent by the St. George's Church choir of London Junction at Springbank Tuesday afternoon. The members of the choir and also their numerous friends who were present were loud in their praises for the ladies who had charge of the culinary department. The tastefully arranged tables were loaded down with innumerable dainties. The old-fashioned apple pie, however, was the favorite with the more prosaic appetites of the men. The programme was short, but excellent, in all its details. Ideal weather and the enthusiasm of the members of the choir made this picnic one of the most enjoyable in the history of the choir.

OPPOSE EMBARGO ON OUR CATTLE

Many British Members Want It Lifted—Mr. Chamberlain's Condition Serious.

London, July 30.—The Italian press commenting on the Quebec referendum, concludes that it is a powerful demonstration of the entente cordiale between France and England.

Three hundred members of Parliament and several ministers all pledged to the removal of the Canadian cattle embargo. It is pointed out that 2,000,000 Canadian cattle have been imported in twelve years, and no cases of disease have been reported. The Canadian Cattle Association was determined to make another appeal to the Government.

The commission appointed by the Government does not include the question of the embargo.

Chamberlain's Condition.
Joseph Chamberlain, who returned from the continent on Tuesday and is remaining in London for a few days on his way to Birmingham, passed his 72nd birthday a few days ago. Though from time to time optimistic paragraphs as to his health are published, his friends know well that his retirement from active politics is final. There is no hope that he may recover sufficiently once more to speak on a public platform or to enter the House of Commons. Since his withdrawal from Westminster politics has become decidedly duller, for he had a great gift for keeping everybody up to concert pitch. Latest reports say his condition is serious.

CASTRO PLAYING THE AUTOCRAT

He Closes Gulf Ports to West Indian Trade—Britain May Interfere.

Port of Spain, July 29.—Following the issuance of a decree by President Castro last May prohibiting the dispatch of vessels from Venezuelan Gulf ports to Trinidad, cocoa and other Venezuelan products have been forwarded from these ports to the Island of Grenada, in the Lesser Antilles, and thence to Trinidad.

President Castro has now issued a decree prohibiting the dispatch of vessels with cargo for Grenada or other islands in the Antilles, thereby closing the gulf ports entirely to export and import trade with the West Indies.

Great indignation is felt in the British colonies, and it is expected that the aid of the British Government will be sought to secure protection against the methods of President Castro.

COLLATERAL FORECLOSED

Banks and Trusts Bid in Lake Superior Corporation Stock.

Philadelphia, July 30.—Six banks and two trust companies of Philadelphia have bid bonds of the Lake Superior Corporation with a par value of $6,666,500, which has been held as collateral by these institutions against a loan to the Canadian Improvement Company of $1,061,000. The securities were sold at $1,522,487, which nearly equals the amount of the financial institutions' loan. Each institution bid in its own holdings, with no opposition. The sale does not affect the status of the reorganized Lake Superior property, but simply transfers the control of the Lake Superior Corporation from the New York interests identified with the Canadian Improvement Company to the Philadelphia institutions that hold the loan.

The foreclosure of the collateral at public sales resulted from an attempt of the Canadian Improvement Company to finance the organization of the Consolidated Lake Superior Corporation through loans placed in New York, and the failure of the former to make satisfactory arrangements for an extension of time on the 6 per cent notes held by the local banks.

G.; Thomas Holmes, V. G.; George Cannon, treasurer; John Wheeler, financial secretary; J. E. Burns, recording secretary; A. Nicholson, warden; Wm. Miskill, conductor; John A. McBean, chaplain; Thomas Nicholson, R. L. N. G.; Edward Kent, L. S. N. G.; Wm. Brown, I. G. H. Leacock, O. G.; Andrew Miller, R. S. S.; Wm. Carter, L. S. S.; Wm. Gray, R. S. V. G.; Wm. Arnold, L. S. V. G.

After the installation short speeches were given by Bros. Clark, Matthews, White and McBean. Refreshments were then served, and the meeting was closed about midnight.

BIG HOTEL FOR KINGSTON.

SHIPPING ORGANS TO OLD COUNTRY

The Sherlock-Manning Company Greatly Expanding Its Business.

The Advertiser was pleased to receive a visit from Mr. Wm. Thomson, of Glasgow, Scotland, who is on his third visit to Canada, accompanied by Mrs. Thomson, one of his daughters and his son. Mr. Thomson is a typical Scottish musical instrument dealer, between forty-five and fifty years of age and has been engaged in selling musical instruments since early youth.

Mr. Thomson stated to The Advertiser that although he had traveled extensively in Canada this was his initial visit to the Forest City. He was delighted with London, having a good opportunity of viewing it at its best. Mr. Thomson spent two days here, a guest of the Sherlock-Manning Organ Company, visiting different places of importance and amusement and says the people of London may be justly proud of their city, the splendid residences, clean streets and long avenues of beautiful shade trees placing it in the front rank of Canadian cities.

Speaking of the methods of conducting business in Scotland as compared with Canada, Mr. Thomson says they are widely different. For instance, he has been engaged in selling organs and pianos for twenty years, and at present his total organ sales for a year aggregate from seven hundred to a thousand, with a like number of pianos, and he has never had a salesman on the road canvassing for business. The Scotch people will not buy from an agent who calls at the house, preferring, when ready, to call at the warehouses. He says it is unusual business to sell twenty instruments on a Saturday.

Mr. Thomson has seen considerable during his three visits and says he is becoming more attached to the country each time. Before visiting Canada Mr. Thomson entertained the same erroneous opinion that a great number of people in Great Britain have that Canada was a place where "one wears a fur coat all the time and sees nothing but snow and ice." He was pleased to acknowledge his faulty and incorrect opinion regarding the country.

Combining business with pleasure Mr. Thomson inspected the Sherlock-Manning Organ Company's plant, paying particular attention to the process of manufacture of the Sherlock-Manning organ. He was just in time to examine a shipment of organs prepared for exportation to Australia. The Sherlock-Manning was an agreeable surprise to him, and his own words are, "I found an organ built on the good old-fashioned plan." Encouraged on this phrase, he continued, "The aim of the Sherlock-Manning Company appears to be to produce a high-grade instrument that will contain musical excellence and sell on merit rather than to produce unlimited quantities to sell at a price." He further stated that before visiting London he did not expect to transact any business with the company, but he was so favorably impressed with the goods that he secured the agency for Glasgow, leaving with the firm a good substantial opening order, and
