MANUFACTURERS AND TARIFF. CARRIE NATION AGAIN.

THROWN OUT OF THE WHITE HOUSE.

Arrested at the Capitol-Created Scene in the Senate Chamber-Paid Her Fine by Selling Some Souvenirs.

Washington, Nov. 20.-Carrie Nation was forcibly ejected from the Executive offices yesterday. She called there early and demanded to see the President. Secretary Loeb declined to allow her to see Mr. Reosevelt and she became so demonstrative that he called upon two officers to remove her. She continued to shout so loud that it was necessary to take her out of the grounds. As she left the building she shouted: "I am going to pray for a prohibitionist bresident, one who will represent the people and not the distillers and brewers.

Mrs. Nation went direct to the Capitol after leaving the White House and appeared in the Senate gallery a few minutes before the Senate was called the senate gallery and the senate was called the senate gallery and the senate was called the senate gallery as the s ed to order at noon. seat well to the front in the ladies' pub-lic gallery. She announced her inten-tion to make a speech to the Senate, but when told that she would not be a lowed to do so she acquiesced readily and took her departure. She had been absent from the gallery about ten minutes when she reappeared at one of the doors of the ladies' gallery, and, raising her right hand far above her head, shouted in a loud and clear

"Saloons are anarchy; saloons are treason and conspiracy."

She was preparing to go on when a doorkeeper caught her and pushed her out of the door.

The Senate was at the time engaged in receiving bills, but Mrs. Nation's voice was so much more penetrating than the reading clerk's that it was distinctly heard throughout the Senate chamber and even in the corridors. The incident created a ripple of excitement. Senators generally smiled. citement. Senators generally smiled, but no public attention was given the matter. NEARLY ASPHYXIATED.

Narrow Escape of Bray Family at London.

London, Nov. 20.—Early yesterday when Mrs. John Bray of 514 Mill stree when are some the awakened and started to prepare break-fast, she recognized that something was wrong, feeling so dizzy that she fell to the floor, breaking a chair in the endeavor to retain her footing. The noise arou to retain her footing. The noise aroused Mr. Bray, who soon became aware that the room was full of coal gas. Mr. Bray struggled to the window, and, breaking a pane of glass with his fist, the cool air soon revived him and he was able to throw open the doors. Mr Bray's daughter and a nephew were aroused and soon out of serious danger. The baby was found asleep, and apparently unaffected by the gas. The various members of the family are recovering, but they had a close call. It appears that Mr. Bray's nephew had filled the stove with coal last night before retiring, but falled to properly arrange the drafts.

MR. JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN HAS A NEW IDEA.

Cobden Club Congratulates Leader of the Australian Opposition -Strong Criticism of Protection Propaganda.

London, Nov. 20 .- Mr. Chamberlain' introduction to his reprinted speeches, issued to-day, urges the principle of the Swiss referendum as the only way of separating great national questions from the complicated issues of party

Mr. Laur, a distinguished French economist, says he considers Mr. Chamberlain the foremost statesaman of the times, the morning bellman awakening a slumbering country. Litte Napoleon and Bismarck, he has no scruples. When his projects become law America will fire off a few squibs and leave Germany to fight the battle.

Mr. Asquith, speaking at Seven Oaks last night, said the Unionists were united and could sing in chorus the blessed word "realization," some with full-throated conviction, others, like Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, with a half-hearted, tremulous quaver. Retaliation was put forward as a sticking plaster to reunite the fragments of the shattered party. Canada at present sent to this country more bounty-fed iron than either the United States or Germany. Was Premier Balfour's system of retaliation for the good of the empire to be applied by singling out Canada for hostile treatment?

The News says Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has his reward in a cartoon in The St. James' Gazette, depicting him ignominously returning from the cold water of Cobdenism to the Retaliation bathing machine.

Mr. John Morley, speaking at Dumfries yesterday, declared that the protectionists proposed to bring down a great clumsily-fashioned axe on the delicate machinery upon which the food and well-being of the country rested. Would the fiscal reformers put on the 10 per cent. duty proposed against the manufactured productions of other countries upon colonial manufactured products? If they did they would be depriving of support the very cause they had started, namely, a preferential could not run in double harness.

Replying by cable to The Daily Express, Premier Sedden of New Zearent of the country could be deprived to the colonies. Having given the preference, they then came to the foreigner to retaliate. Retaliation and a preferential could not run in double harness.

Police Deal Promptly and Sternly With an Angry Mob.

With an Angry Moh.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Despite the united efforts of Mayor Harison and the Aldermanie Mediation Committee to bring about a peaceable adjustment of the Chicago City Railroad strike, there is little change in the situation. Soon after a wrecking waggon and car containgin policemen had left 38th stret last night two cars came up from the opposite direction. As they were crossing 26th street the mob left fly a shower of stones, demolishing the car windows and causing four passengers on the first car to fee for their lives. The mob then swarmed upon the cars, and had begun to beat the train crews when the two cars with the policemen and the crew of the wrecking waggon came hurrying back. The mob, which had greatly increased by this time, was in an ugly temper and refused to move. The police drew their revolvers and clubs and charged at once. The mob used stones, while the police swung these dubs with vigor. There was a warm fight, which lasted about two minutes, and then the mob broke and field in all directions. A number of those engaged in the rioting were arrested.

A LIBEL ON LANADIAN WOMEN.

The Toronto Star offers the following freezy comment to some remarks made by an "Englishwoman" about the women of Canada:

An Englishwoman writes a letter to the London Leader, severely criticising the women of Canada as hard featured and sallow, often muddy-complexioned rooms and eating pastry and candy. They have, she says, long black hair, which, after they pass the age thirty, they wear dragged up behind, and tight in front, adding to their hard-featured expression. No English girl whose lover comes out here need fear, this English woman writes, that a Canadian girl will win him away.

This is terrible! This Englishwoman has done something that will shape history. As a blow at British connection her letter may, have more farreaching influence than the blunders of Lord Alverstone. The Daughters of the Empire will never forgive this, although their president lovally wrote a letter approving whatever it was that Lord Alverstone had done.

This is terrible! This Englishwoman ally be supposed, had written her letter without having visited Toronto, has been consorting for years, On famous the continent over for its handsome women. But she specially his youth, will take him to her arms mentions this city. It is here that she sees women with their hair dragged up behind and pulled tight in front, surmounted by felt hats-hardfeatured, unattractively dressed.

It is impossible at first to calmly make answer to the libels uttered by this Englishwoman. In a week or a month, anger having subsided, an asswer might be penned. But this we know, or we mistake the spirit of our countrywomen, from now on no English girl may safely let her lover come to Canada for if he be worth having he will be taken from her by some Canadian girl. Our girls have been libelled by this lady visitor, whose lover they would like to see visit Canada for a few months-just for the fun of it.

Our islands may be taken from us, our sea coast cut off, our institutions belittled, our importance minimized but when we are told that our women are not beautiful, flesh and blood can stand no more. That is enough. Let England apologize, or look to her-

A MODERN MIRACLE.

In almost every newspaper and magazine nowadays we see some mention of that article of modern science Wireless Telegraphy, and this Firday evening our citizens will have a chance to see a Wireless Telegraph Station in full operation. Prof. Pat ty, the Liquid Air demonstrator, brings a splendid apparatus to-night and explains in language so simple Government with affidavits. If this that even the young will understand style of warfare is discreditable to the marvellous subject. It is a topic that every intelligent person is in terested in, and an opportunity that should not be lost. By this marvel-lous agency, messages were recently exchanged between King Edward of

Of this also the Globe was well aware.

Mr. Crossin's business was relieved to the truth before the Royal Commission or told what was not the fine from shore by wireless teiggraphy, and some scientists predict that before long every steamer, most rail-road trains, and perhaps many up-to-date men will carry a telegraph or wireless telephone apparatus. When the last prediction comes true, the apparatus will probably be put in head-grant then there will be more "talking through hats" than he present. But in the meantime, a comprehensive demonstration of the marvel is timely, instructive and highly entertaining. instructive and highly entertaining.

Anecdotal.

It is said that Mark Twain was standing in a crowded street car, hanging to a strap, the other day. As the car swung around a corner the strap broke, dumping him into the lap of a well-dressed woman. The humorist arose and bowed. "Madam," said he, "this is the first time the street car company ever conferred a favor on me."

A missionary in China was endeavoring to convert one of the natives. "Suppose me Christian, me go to heavent" remarked Ah Sin. "Yes," replied the missionary. "All lite," retorted the heathen, "but what for you no let Chinaman into Amelica when you let him into heaven?" "Ah," said the missionary with fervor, "there's no labor party in heaven."

Abraham Benedict of the New York har tells the story of a young man who entered a street car with a dog and attracted the attention of an Irishman, who enquired what kind of a dog it was. The young man replied: "It is a cross between an ape and an Irishman." "Then we are both related to it," responded the Irishman.

The teacher of a country school asked his pupils one day if any of them could tell him who Joan of Arc was. The question was followed by profound si-lence. Some of the pupils stared at the teacher, and some turned and stared at one another, as if seeking information in the faces around them. Finally a boy burst out with: "Oh, yes, I know; she was Noah's wife."

Ones, when they were talking literature, Mrs. Isobel Strong said to Robert Louis Stevenson: "At least you have no mannerisms." Whereupon Stevenson took a copy of his own "Merry Men," which she was reading, out of her hands, and read, "It was a wonderful clear night of stars." "Oh," he said, "how many, many times I have written 'a wonderful clear night of stars."

In 1885 an Englishman and his wife were being driven about Ireland by a rather melancholy jarvey, who could see no silver lining to the cloud overshadowing his country and his own particular trade. "Never mind, Pat," said the Eng-lishman, "you'll have a grand time when they give you Home Rule." "Bedad, yer hanner, and we will-for a week." "Why for a week?" "Drivin' all the gintry to the boat," answered Pat.

A good story is told of Professor Jebb of Oxford. In the classroom immediately above his own Professor Veitch lectured on logic. One day the peroration of the professor of logic was greeted with such rapturous applause that it brought down some pieces of ceiling in the room below. As the bits of plaster dropped about his room Professor Jebb quietly remarked, "Gentlemen, our premises will not support the conclusion of mises will not support the conclusion of the professor of logic."

Congressman Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey tells a story of a small boy who was over supplied with green apples. "I had gone to see one of my constituents down in Union County," said the Congressman, "and found him trying to give some medicine to a young son who had eaten too many green apples, while a Christian Science neighbor was assuring the boy that there was nothing at all the matter with him. I think I ought to know," groaned the boy. I guess I've got inside information."

At a banquet after the overwhelming defeat of "Shamrock III." Sir Thomas Lipton said: "You Americans are hard to beat. You remind me of the Scotchman who came up to London and was set upon by two highwaymen, whom he so unmercifully mauled that by the time they had overcome him they were about ready to go to the hospital themselves. And they only found tuppence in his pocket, whereat one of them said: It's lucky, Bill, he didn't 'ave sixpence. If he 'ad, 'e'd a killed both of us.'"

A wall-known ghurchman of Memphis

A well-known churchman of Memphis—the late Dr. Patterson—used to take pleasure in relating several good ones on himself. One of his favorites concerned himself. One of his favorites concerned a generous-hearted but rather wild young friend in whom the reverend gentleman took a special interest. The climax was reached one day when the doctor was walking along the atreet and suddenly came upon the young man as he staggered out of a cafe. "George, George, drunk again," sighed the scandalized priest. The answer was quite as unexpected as it was unsteady. "Thash all right, doctor; so'm I."

An anecdote which has lately been going the rounds in British official circles concerns the memorable experience of a certain member of Parliament during the last year of Queen Victoria's reign. The statesman in question is not one of those who are most firmly convinced of the benefits of total abstinger of the certain public convinced of the benefits of total abstinence, and the evening of a certain public function at which royalty was to be present found him in a condition which would not have been edifying to the supporters of that movement. The late Queen was receiving the guests of honor, and it was necessary that the convivial
M.P. should be presented with the rest.
As he approached his sovereign, Victoria extended her hand for him to kiss.
But he did not kiss it; instead, he grasped and shook it with vigorous enthusiasm, while he scrutinized her face with grave perplexity. "Your face, madam," he observed, "is perfectly femiliar to me, but I'm blowed if I can remember your name!"

An amusing story is told of Phil May, the late famous cartoonist of the London "Punch," and an English conjurer at a fair at Stratford-on-Avon. Phil was watching the very clever gentleman who was wrapping up sovereigns and half-crowns in pieces of paper and selling them for two shillings. The "sharp" had a beautiful face-such a face as Phil May loved to draw. So he sketched him furtively. But the gentleman saw him, and made a speech forthwith. "If that there celebrited portrit painter with the tight breeches on vill 'and up the picter, the equally celebrited benefactor to 'commanty wot is givin' away quids for coppers will reward 'im accordingly' he shouted. Phil, with a twinkle in his eye, handed up the drawing. The conjurer was delighted with the sketch and planed it to the tail-board of his cart. With another preliminary speech he threw three sovereigns, three half-sovereigns and several half-crowns into a piece of paper, screwed it up and handed it to the artist. "You'll be president of the bloomin' R'yal Academy some dye, young man," said he. "Here, catch!" "A bargain's a bargain," said Phil, walking off with the packet of gold and silver, which when opened proved to contain two pennies and a half-penny; bat Phil said that it was the most entertaining commission he had ever been paid for.

The general standard of measurement for wo man hood is "grown-up-ness."
When a girl is emancipated from school and arrives at the dignity of trailing skirts and elaborate hair dressing she is looked upon as a young woman. But nature knows nothing of such standards. When the womanly function is established womannow is attained according to her standards, and there is need of womanly care and caution. It is girlish ignorance or neglect at this critical time which often results, in long years of after misery.

Map Making. Map making has kept pace with the progress of other arts, though its steps are not so loud and are heard oftenes in the schoolroom. It is really an art to make a map and has always been so. From the time of the earliest crude affairs to the elaborate and exact pictures of today a great degree of skill has always been necessary to give a perfected representation. Map making is now at the height of its excellence and popularity. The man with land to cultivate, houses to build or land to sell must have everything set down on his map for reference. Nobody thinks of traveling any great distance without consulting a map. Indeed it is almost impossible to escape it, for the obliging ticket agent thrusts it into one's hand with thoughtful kindness, mindful of the advertisement within the pages as well as of the convenience of the tourist. Maps are so common now that there are no more little boys who think the soil of one state is green, another brown, another red, because that is the way it is colored in the geography.

A City of Roof Gardens. The majority of the houses in Buenos Ayres have but one story, whose flat roof serves all the purposes of Yankee lawns and dooryards. While the patios are frequently utilized as dining and sitting rooms, it is the universal custom to promenade in the cool of the day on the house tops, to sit there at morning and evening enjoying the refreshing breezes, extensive views and varied panorama in the street below. The children find their favorite play ground on the roof. There the nurse bring their infant charges, the seamstress her sewing and the maid her mistress' bedraggled finery to put in niles from Monterey. On the death of order again. ### An Honored Chinaman.

Queen Victoria, with the prince conort and her family, attended in state the opening of the great exhibition of While the choir was singing the 1851. "Halleluiah Chorus" a Chinaman su-perbly robed suddenly emerged from the crowd and prostrated himself be-fore the throne. No one knew who he was. He might be the emperor of China himself come secretly to England to share in the great doings. The lord chamberlain, greatly perplexed, applied to the queen and the prince for advice instructions. He was informed that there must be no mistake as to the stranger's rank and that it would be best to place him between the arch-bishop of Canterbury and the Duke of Wellington. In this position of honor the Chinaman, with magnificent dignity, walked through the buildings to the delight and amazement of all who watched. Next day it was discovered that he was the keeper of a Chinese junk which had just cast anchor in the Thames and which everybody was invited to visit on payment of a shilling

A Japanese Custom In Japan the well to do have almost always in their houses one room called the "chamber of the inspiring view." Its essential is a beautiful view, but taste is catholic in Japan, and the delightful view may be a blossoming cherry tree, a glimpse of a river, a miniature garden or only the newly fallen snow. In this delightful country they get up parties to visit the maple trees in the glory of autumn color or the fresh, untrodden snow, as in this country one gives theater parties and dinners. Mushroom hunts are a fashionable diversion, and verse writing and harp playing are occupations which, in the estimation of these eternal children, befit the gentlewoman when she is within doors.

Wrecked Nervous System.

You cannot meet a person having the first symptoms of Nervous Exhaustion, such as irritability, sleeplessness, neuralgic pains, loss of energy and vitality, without calling to mind many terrible examples of paralysis, locomotor ataxia, prostration, insanity or some form of helplessness and suffering.

On account of their gradual and insidious approach nervous diseases are most liable to be neglected. But they never wear away of themselves. The nerve force that has been wasted must be replaced. The most effective means of creating new nerve cells and building up the nervous system is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Natural and gradual in its reconstructive effects and truly marvellous in its curative influence, this great food cure promptly arrests nervous waste and sets in action the process of restoration.

It makes pale, weak, nervous men, women and children strong and well.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can be certain that new firm flesh and tissue is being added to the body. This is one of the most satisfactory proofs that the whole system is being benefitted.

Mr. E. C. Bradt, 51 West Avenue N., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Three years ago I was a physical wreck, unable to work and of no material use to myself, family or friends. I could not sleep well, was tired in the mornings, had no appetite and had severe neuralgia pains through my body. Though I consulted five city physicians, at considerable expense, they could not help me and gave me no hope of recovery. no hope of recovery.

"Being strongly advised to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I did so, and before I had used three boxes I was much stronger and better. I then resolved to give this treatment a thorough trial and continued using the food until I had taken twenty-four boxes. To-day I am a well man and in better physical condition than ever since my birth. My weight increased from 135 to 153 pounds and I am feeling splendid, I am firmly convince I that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food saved me from a lingering death from nervous exhaustion, and gladly recommend this great medicine to others suffering as I did."

Its Application to a Loudly Crying Child In a Car.

The child was screaming lustily on the elevated train. Unreasonably it insisted on getting off and going home between stations. The passengers were that look of patient endurance which so frequently overspreads murderous desires. Vainly the mother appealed to the child's regard for the suffering public, to its duty to itself in such phrases as "Folks don't like to hear a little boy cry" and "Be a good child and listen to mamma." But each appeal seemed to be a stimulus to renewed vigor, says a writer in Scrib-ner's Magazine. At length the mother announced that doubtless there were bears at the next station that are up little boys who cried. The youngster ceased instantly, apparently as much through interest in outwitting the bears as through fear. He became cheerfully curious and pressed his tear stained face to the pane. To the afflicted passengers never was there a more pleas-ing prevarication. Those who had frowned now smilingly shared the Mttle one's interest in this alleged fact in the city sojourner on an outing, looking across the wooded valleys and over the grass grown hillsides. It was the "vesper time" of the day, insects hummed drowsily, and here and there a be-lated bird winged slowly westward. "Look a little more closely," said the native, "and let me give you a few en-lightening facts. You will find that the

For instance, look there at that small cedar struggling pitifully in the toils of the luxurious growth of 'poison ivy' that almost covers it. The casual observer notes the contrast of the follage, a pretty sight, and gives ne thought to the war of life and death the two are waging. Wherever the cedar puts up a stronger branch there fastens another tendril with strangling grip, and another cedar hope is 'nipped in the bud.' day morning it drifted in close to the shore.

Mr. Nelson and Mr. Charron walked out on the ice to where the launch was, and Mr. Charron is to-day trying to get the launch off the shallow bar where it has drifted. It is a handsone launch called the "Hattie T" and it is thought that during a heavy blow it broke away from one of the docks on the St. Clair flats and drifted over to the bay. The rope at the bow was snapped, and this surports this agrument. It seems strange, however, that the launch has not been searched for by the owners, who must have missed it.

A man's cap and a few pieces of bread and butter were found in the bottom of the craft, but it is not thought that anyone was bast, as there is no water in the launch and it was found right side up. The boat would cost about $300. Mr. Nelson captured the cushions and is saving them for the owner until he comes after his launch, Meanwhile Theodore has the use of the cushions in his club house.

Under the Ice.

Captain Joseph La Barge, one of the early pilots of the Missouri River, was noted for his courage and daring. In the winter of 1834 he experienced the following adventure, which is recorded in the "History of Steamboat Navigation on the Missouri River," by Mr. H. M. Chittenden. He had occasion to cross the river, which was frozen deep. There was a path across, which ran between two large air-holes through the ice. The weather was extremely cold, and a blizzard had already begun.

Captain La Barge wrapped himself in a blanket coat, held tight to his body by a belt, and was armed with a riflet tomahawk and knife. He felt confident of crossing all right, for the distance was short, and he knew the way so well that he felt as if he could follow it blindfolded. In fact, that was practically his situation, for the wind drove the snow into his face so violently that it was impossible to look ahead. Getting his bearings as well as he could, he started on a slow run in face of the blinding storm.

It was in any case a reckless performance, considering the existence of the air-holes near the path; but La Barge was not given to fearing inture dangers, and forged boldly ahead. For once his confidence deceived him. All of a sudden he plunged headlong into the river. He instantly realized that he was in one of the air-holes, but which one? If it was the lower one he was certainly lost, for the swift current had borne him under the ice before he came to the surface. If it was the upper hole, he might float to the lower.

He soon rose to the surface and bumped the overlying ice. Sinking and rising again, he bumped the ice a second time. The limit of endurance was almost reached, when suddenly his head emerged into the open air. Spreading out his hands, he caught the edge of the ice. Headel on until he could draw his knife, which he plunged into the ice far enough to give him something to pull against, and after much severe and perilous exertion drew himself out. He had stuck to his rifie all the time without realizing the fact realizing the fact, and came out as fully armed as when he went in.

But now a new peril awaited him. The storm was at its height, the cold intense, and his clothing was drenched through. The bath which he had received had not chilled him much, for the water was warmer than the air outside, and his exertions would have kept him warm anyway, but out in the wind the chances were that he would freeze if he did not quickly reach a fire. Hastily recovering his bearings, he set out anew, and had the good-fortune to reach the post without further trouble. out further trouble.

A story in which a pointer's loyalty persistence and foolhardiness are mixed in about equal proportions is quoted below from the New York "Sun." Point ers are not naturally good water dogs but some of the breed, as sportsmer know, come near perfection, and such ar exception is a dog owned by a Texar named Burleson.

One night Mr. Burleson obeta a refer named Burleson.

One night Mr. Burleson shot a wild goose which was flying over to its night retreat in a sait bay. The bird was wing-tipped, came down on a long slant and fell into a tank a quarter of a mile out. The dog did not notice it.

The next morning Mr. Burleson was walking over the prairie with the dog and found the bird quietly swimming in a pond not more than a quarter of ar acre in extent, but deep. It was in perfect condition, except for its slight wound, a large gander, and very power ful.

The dog recognized instantly that it was a wounded bird, and plunged in without a word of command. For a little while the gander kept out of the way, but it was finally penned in a corner. Then it dived, went under the dog and came up five yards away.

The dog resumed the chase, and the unequal contest was kept up for a quarter of an hour. The dog dived time after bird, but of course could not catch it active adversary. Soon it was swimming with its nostrile barely out of water, and once or twice they went under It was deaf to all commands. Its final drowning was only a matter of minutes

It was deaf to all commands. It sinal drowning was only a matter of minutes Mr. Burleson had no gun. As a last recourse he gathered a little pile of stones from the edge of the pond and began hurling them at the gander. Finally, by chance, he struck it on the back near the base of the neck and stunned it for a moment. In that moment the dog closed and grasped it.

The dog was so tired that it could do nothing with the bird, but its hold kepi its head out of water while the gander thrashed it with its wings. The battling pair, the distressful snortings of the dog mingled with the hoarse calls of the gander, tonght their way to within ten feet of the bank, and Mr. Burleson jumped in. The water came to his armpits when he reached them, but he grabbed the gander, took the dog in one hand and the bird in the other, and brought them ashore. The pointer was too exhausted to stand, but fell on the pebbly shore and lay there panting.

A POPULAR HEALTH RESORT.

A Grand Trunk official stated today that the mineral waters of St.
Catharinas. Ontario, are becoming reaowned throughout the country, as is demonstrated by the large inflax of people to that city during the past year. The water is like that of the great Kreutznach springs of Prussu, and is claimed, if anything, to be even more effective in cases in which it is used. The business at the resort at St. Catharines has increased about 100 per ceat. over last year.

Clothing For PracticalMen

Define the practical man? Certainly! He's the man, to take one side of him, who knows what he wants and how and where to get it, and to use a lot of common sense in his decision.

CLOTHING for instance. The practical man who wants a suit or overcoat that will fit him and look well on him, wear a rationally long time and cost him a reasonable amount, will come to AUSTIN'S every time for it. If he's impractical, maybe he will go somewhere else and pay a fancy price for a fashionable tailor's name and not a bit better garment.

Here are Some Clothes of the Practical Kind.

OVERCOATS.

Cheviots, Vicunas, Beavers, Presidents, Box Cloths and Chincillas, made in the full long Raglanette styles with cuff sleeves, slash pockets, also made with plain sleeve, straight pockets and top breast pocket, in genteel, dark and mid grey shadings, and a big variety of the always popu'ar three quarter length, in plain black, navy curls, cheviots and beavers, the best fitting garments made, linings and finish stand without equal, sizes to fit all shapes and conditions of > $5, $7.50, $10, $12 and $15.

SUITS.

In the very swell novelty tweeds nobby olive, grey and brown effects plain blue and black worsteds and serges, neat genteel pattern worsteds and rough goods, made in the three and four button sack coat, single and double breasted style, and our special tailor made black sui ts in S. B. and D. B. sacks and skirt coat suits, wide facings, all piped edges, honest linings and fit beyond question. Prices

Getting Ready For Christmas

On Dec. 1st we are going to display our Christmas Goods. We have this year bought as much as we have before in any three years put together. They are coming in now and shall be put on display Dec. 1st. In the meantime we are getting ready for the rush. In looking over our stock we find we have about Two Hundred Purses more than we should have. To clear these out we are going to sell them on Saturday next at 25 per cent. discount. These goods were bought in June at a scrifice price which enables us to clear them off at a price very seldom seen in leather goods. This discount is for Saturday only.

Chamois Vests That Fit.

There's no question about the value of chamois vests as lung protection, but most of them are so ill shapen and poorly constructed as to produce irritation instead of comfort. We have a line of vests that it is a pleasure to wear and a comfort as well. They are perfectly form fitting and so put together that no weight comes on the seams. Our prices on these chamois vests are so reasonable that you really have no excuse for exposing yourself to danger by not wearing one. Prices

ad Fell Into Crowded Detroit

The journal says :-As the noon-day crowds were rus

ing along Woodward avenue, between the Campus Martius and State street, yesterday, they were horrified to see a colored lad falling headlong to the stone pavement from one of the front second story windows of R. H. Fyle & Co.'s store, 183-185 Woodward avenue. Women shrieked, and for a moment the big crowd stood as if paralyzed. The body darted through the air and struck the ground before anybody had a chance to break his fall in any way. Fortunately, the body turned slightly in its descent and landed almost lengthwise on the street. But for this lucky change in the course of the fall it is quite certain that the victim would have been picked up fead.

As it was, everybody expected to see

As it was, everybody expected to se the lad's brains scattered over the pavement and his body a lifeless mass of broken bones and mutilated flesh. To the great surprise of all, however, his body was apparently still intact after the frightful impact.

The victim was Sherwood Webster, the colored porter at Fyfe's. He was in the act of cleaning the second-story window when he fell. The ropes of the window, to which he was holding these

The Physician as a Gambier.

The physician is generally considered to be rather a poor business man, and his history in Toronto compels us to assert that he is not a good gambler. The historian tells us that all peoples, of all shades and colors, gamble, but the biggest plunger of the lot is the Anglo-Saxon, "because of his superb vital life-forcs." We incline chiefly to three forms: horses, cards and stock margins. The gambler at the Woodbine has a good time for a couple of weeks, has his ups and downs, and, of course, comes out short at the end of the races. He doesn't mind, however, if he has had lots of tun, and he goes to work with the laudups and downs, and, of course, comes out short at the end of the races. He doesn't mind, however, if he has had lots of fun, and he goes to work with the laudable aim of saving something for the mext races. Card gambling is less healthy. The player works at night in a room which becomes close and stuffy, and generally smokes and drinks too much. Neither of these forms of gambling is considered correct; neither meets with the approval of the clergy. Stock gambling is really the only form that is eminently respectable. Here the doctor can work shoulder to shoulder with the preacher, the elder, the church warden, the class-leader, the widow and orphan, or the fellow who has the widow's and orphan's money. We understand that the preacher is more scientific in his methods than the innocent doctor, and becomes therefore the shrewder speculator; he knows more about selling short. We learn from experts that in stock margin gambling it is more satisfactory to sell what you haven't got.

short. We learn from experts that in stock margin gambling it is more satisfactory to sell what you haven't got than to buy what you don't get.

Of course, in the long run, the large dealers capture the pois. They then become great philanthropists, pillars of churches, and by common consent occupy the highest seats in the synagogue. Occasionally, however, even the topby the highest seats in the synagogue. Occasionally, however, even the top-notchers come to grief, but strong influences come to their rescue. The press loudly proclaims that they are men of undoubted integrity. The banks help them in various ways and assume an "attitude" that has "reassuring effect." In troublous times things sometimes become unhinged, but gradually "stability" comes. This is well explained in a certain instance in one of the leading papers as follows: "The cause making for stability week held." tain instance in one of the leading papers as follows: "The cause making for stability is the fact that many weak holders have been wiped out, and their places taken by strong interests, fully able to protect themselves." The devil may take care of the small holders, the press, the banks, and the people in high places don't bother much about them.

Stock fever has been endemic among the physicians of Toronto for the last twenty-five years. Our profession furnishes a fine share of the "small dealers" who are necessary for the game. Dufin's Creek, Hogs' Hollow and Mimico stocks are put on the market at a suit-who are necessary for the game. Duffin's Creek, Hogs' Hollow and Mimico stocks are put on the market at a suitable time. They may mean nothing, but for gambling purposes they answer very well for a while. The nothing is intermingled with the substantial in a very ingenious way. Whether one is buying 10 per cent. of nothing or of something he is in any case getting nothing. The physician who gets his tip, buys and sells shrewdly, and increases a capita of one or two hundred to five hundred or a thousand dollars within a year is for a time the happlest man who walks ounstreets. There have been many of them during the last five years, but he is generally sadder and wiser to-day. After careful consideration and consultation with those who know we tender the following advice to the clever and ambificious young physician: Don't be a clam start at once; play the game like a man, you will be more apt to be closed out soon. The recent death of Martha Canary—better known as "Calamity Jane"—has revived many tales of her remarkable ad ventures in the West during the early troubles. The Upheaval of the Celt.

Someone has been yelling forth the stirtues of the Celt. The upheaval of the Celt is a periodic event, and is in some way distantly related to the Australian drought cycles and the spots on the sun. Personally (says a writer in an Australian paper) I have always found that you can make a fast friend and aworn ally of the Celt by simply remarking in an affable manner, "Good night, Sergeant!" The Celtic chest swells immediately, there is a more dignified atmosphere about the movements of his hind legs; and after passing that remark three nights running you are free to commit any crime in the calendar—murder, arean, abduction; anything, in fact, but the crime of tearing "me uniform." Yes, the Celt is a very fine fellow as long as you address him as "Sergeant"—uniless he is a sergeant—then I am always careful to address him as "Imspector." That, however, has to be done with discretion—if done too often or too sudden'y the Celt is liable to burst.

It was nearly half a century since she devoted the national Crimea testimonial of £50,000 to the foundation of the Nightingale Home for training nurses. The other day the Mayor of Derby gavu a garden party at Lea Hurst (Miss Nightingale's former home) to the nurses of Derby and district, and Miss Nightingale sent them a cheery message. # EXECUTORS' SALE Of Valuable Farm Property

Under and by virtue of the powers contained in the last will and testament and Codicil thereto of John Josiah Walrath, late of the Township of Harwich, in the County of Kent, in the Frovince of Ontario, Farmer, deceased, there will be sold by public auction at the Rankin House, in the city of Chatham, in the County of Kent, on Saturday, the 21st day of November, 1903, at the hour of 12 o'clock moon, the following lands:
All and singular that certain parcel

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Harwich, in the County of Kent, and being composed of the northeast half of lot number sixteen in the front or first concession from the River Thames, in the said Township of Harwich, containing 130 acres more or less.

of harwich, containing 130 acres more or less.

This is one of the best farms in the County of Kent, lying on the south side of the River Thames in the Township of Harwich, about seven miles from the city of Chatham and five miles from Kent Bridge. On the premises there are two good frame Reuses, two barns, a granary, implement shed and other small buildings. The land is all cleared except about one and a half acres on which there is some valuable timber. The farm is well fenced and the buildings are all in first class repair. The soil is a clay loam of the best quality, there being no waste land on the whole farm. A church and school house lie within one mile of the premises.

News of the appointment of a receiver by the High Court for the Ship Inn at Greenwich has caused no small amount of indignation in the locality, where this famous hostelry is a cherished landmark, says Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper. Such an event stirs the dust of history, and the old Ship has a history detling back cen-Ship has a history dating back cen Ship has a history dating back centuries. To judge by a metal token lately unearthed, the house was flourishing in 1640, and tradition has it that there was a tavern by the Thames here when Queen Elizabeth came to Greenwich. In modern times it is for its Ministerial dinners that the Ship is best known, the last being that of the Rosebery Cabinet of 1894, when the Premier missed the boat 'at Westminster, and the "Old Moores" of the party prophesied rocks ahead.

As Prince of Wales the King used to be a frequent visitor to the Ship. He liked to go there quietly, and would drive up in a hansom with a friend and be served just as an ordiirrend and be served just as an ordinary customer. A chair His Majesty used is an object of interest to visitors. The late Shah of Persia liked whitebait at Greenwich even more than King Khama. The latter potentate on his last visit enjoyed four helpings of the little fish, and likewise consumed not four but s.x steaks. Of Bismarck's visit to the Ship no anecdotes are recorded. Ship no anecdotes are recorded; there are more French than German celebrities on the list, from Napoleon III, downwards. Marshal Bazaina rested here, and it was in the coffee room that Henri Rochefort was introduced to the control of the control troduced to G. A. Sala. Boulange too, came sometimes when he was in this country. Visitors of a different calibre were President Kruger and General Joubert some time after the first Boer War. After the last war came Lord Roberts and Lord Kitch-ener, General French, Sir William Catacre, and many other distinguished British officers.

The Ship suffered an irreparable loss by the destruction of its visitors book in a fire some 15 or 16 years back. As a collection of autographs the volume was unique. It contain-ed the signatures of Pitt and Fox, and every famous statesman after them, and, indeed, most men of note in the last two centuries. The Pitt and Fox Clubs dine at the house to this day. The Cobden Club dinner is a notable gathering at the Ship, and it was at one of them that Mr. it was at one of them that Mr. Chamberlain made a striking speech in support of the principle of Free Trade that is particularly remembered at the present time by the opponents of his new policy. Another club dinner of note is that of the Blue Seal Club, whose members are officers of the Guards. They dine here on a Sunday once a year, and the Duke of Cambridge takes the chair. An amusing incident occurred on one of these occasions. Among the waiters the Duke espied a colored boy, and thinking, no doubt, he

With a broad grin the boy replied, "Commercial road, sir," and Sir Redvers Buller led the roar of laughter that went round the table. THE STATELY STORK.

His Immense Power on the Wins and His Lack of Voice. In Holland the nests of storks are generally on the summit of a tall post, put up on purpose for them, on which is fixed an old cart wheel. Says an English writer: "A Dutch gentleman of my acquaintance has one such post in his grounds within sight of his li-brary window, but he improves on the cart wheel by having an iron frame-work for the reception of the nest. The first year it was put up, toward the end of June, a solitary young stork used to come daily and inspect this framework. I saw him there myself one day, standing in the empty receptacle exactly like a would be Benedict inspecting an empty house, contem-plating the view and wondering if the drains are all right. The verdict was apparently favorable, for next season saw the nest occupied by the newly wedded pair. Their pewer of wing is very fine, and on hot days I have watched them ascending spiral circles, kardly moving their broad, black wings, till they have looked no bigger than flies. After the young are hatched they appear to be suspicious of one another and unwilling to leave the nest unguarded."

Storks have no voice. The only noise they make is "klappering" (snapping their great red mandibles rapidly and loudly). Thus they greet one another, generally by throwing back the head until the upper mandible rests on the back, but occasionally "klappering" is performed with the head and bill in the former position.

A Practical Demonstration. "See this valve," said the officer. "You will always have to open that before turning the faucets for the show er. Should you fail to open it you will get no water.' "Aye, aye, sir," said the sailor, standing at attention, with a solemn look. The officer, fearing that his explana tion might not be understood, stepped under the shower and turned on both faucets.

Some one had opened the lower valve, and when the young officer opened the faucets the water came down through the shower in a deluge, soaking his uniform.
Still standing at attention and with the most respectful look of interest in the proceedings of his superior officer, the sailor watched the practical demonstration of the working of the faucets, never allowing a smile to cross his face "I think I understand the workings of it now, sir," he said.

Shoes.
Considerable difference will be found in the wearing qualities of two pairs of shoes of the same quality and make worn by different persons. Shees worn continuously in the house and outdoors will never give as much wear as if worn one day and left to rest a day. It saves money to Wear cheap house she within doors and let the shoes worn outdoors rest and get into shape. Keep an old pair of shoes to wear under rubbers. Peculiarities of Worms. Many creatures supposed to have some of their "senses missing" are not so insensitive as people often think. Worms have neither eyes nor ears and yet are sensitive to light and music (vide Darwin's "Earthworms"). A bluebottle, in spite of not having a nose, finds out a piece of bad meat easily enough. In short, many of the lower animals contrive to see, hear, taste or smell sufficiently for their purpose, and often in a high degree, without being able to point to any special organs of these senses in their bodies and to suppose they are devoid of a sense because we are unable to discover it is frequently to confess our

FOILING A HIGHWAYMAN.

The Proper Thing to Do When Introduced to a Holdup.

A man who carries his money and his watch in his left hand will never lose a penny nor a timepiece in a hold-up. The precaution, which is a perfect one, is so simple that few people have thought of it. Yet it has the sanction of the police, and its efficacy has been proved in more than one in-

As soon as the citizen is confronted by the holdup man he will, if he has his money and his watch in his hand, throw them on the nearest lawn or Into the ditch. No highway robber has time enough to stop to look for either. There is no sense in carrying valuables in the right hand, because the first move of every accomplished holdup man is to grab his victim by the right This movement is made to prevent the victim from reaching for revolver.

The man who tries to draw a revolver while a holdup man is in front of him takes his life in his hands. If a citizen carries a revolver at all he should carry it in his right hand while in a dangerous street. His money and his watch should always be in his left. Then after he has thrown them away and the robber has departed discomfited the victim can take his time about finding his property.

This simple plan discounts all the revolvers, sword canes, slungshots and brass knuckles ever invented and has the added beauty that it can be employed by a woman as well as by a man. To throw the purse or the watch away takes but a fraction of a second,

BRAIN FOOD

Nearly everyone will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the spend a month in the Sandwich jail rather than pay the fine imposed upon them by Magistrate Bartlett for selling liquor to Indians was

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

and asked Governor Sparks to take them im As no commitments had been issued, and the Governor had received no instructions, he refused to receive the applicants. Disappointed at the jail, the quartette visited their attorney, R. F. Sutherland, who pointed out that they had been premature in visiting the jail, as their fines are not due till Monday. The hotel men say they will then ask Magistrate Bartlett to make out commitment papers, vowing they will live on prison duff for a month rather than pay the fines, part of which would go to the finding informants. The hotel keepers throughout the county are incensed at the number of cases brought against them recently for breaking the liquor laws, and they look on their unlucky brethren as so many martyrs. The police department, naturally, is not anxious to see $200 im fines slip through its fingers. heavy meat dret and continue in health.

As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of food eaten.

But many of time most nutritious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak to assimilate them properly. It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the relaxed digestive organs, and several years experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which may be taken daily pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which may be taken daily with the best results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, pepsin-diastase, and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloris acid.

royal procession passed beneath one long canopy of bright colors and triumphal arches and masses of people gave their Majesties a splendid reception

The Italian King and Queen reached the Guildhall without incident. Onentering the library their Majesties were greeted by a distinguished gathering, including the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, the Duke and Duchess of Argyll and other members of the royal family and many Cabinet Ministers, Peers, members of the House of Commons, etc. No diplomats were invited, with the exception of the Italian Ambassador. The scene at the Guildhall was brilliant. The Lord Mayor, Sir James T. Ritchie, met the guests at the entrance of the historic city hall and conducted them to the library, where the corporation's address was presented in a gold casket. The banquet was then served. After digestives; cocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine and Stuart's Dys-pepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and after a week's use note the improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

address was presented in a gold casket. The banquet was then served. After the Lord Mayor had toasted King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, his Majesty replied to the Lord Mayor, thanking him in behalf of himself and the Queen for the splendid hospitality extended to them and for the address of welcome. The Italian King and Queen left the Guildhall amid a fan fare from the city trumpeters and the cheers of the crowds along the thoroughfares without. Their Majesties took a train from Paddington for Windsor. At the convocation of Oxford University this morning the degree of Doctor of Civil Law was by diploma conferred on King Victor Emmanuel. It was determined to presecute the protests pending in the four by-elec-tions—North York, North Grey North Perth and North Norfolk, and also to lend generous assistance to the party candidate, E. A. Dunlop, in North Renfrew, which is 'an expensive constituency in which to campaign. It is very extensive and requires a large expenditure for legitimate expenses of a canvass.

It was decided to prosecute the protest in Sault Ste. Marie.

A DESPAIRING MESSAGE.

Telegraph Operator Wired that He Was Being Murdered.

Elmira, N.Y., Nov. 20.—W. H. Clenden-in, aged 28,a telegraph operator at Browne, Pa., a station fifteen miles north of Wil-Hamsport, on the Beech Creek division of the New York Central Railway, was found the New 10th Cental dead in the telegraph tower shortly after 1 o'clock last night. At 6.50 o'clock the operator at Oak Grove, Pa., on the same road, received this message from Clen-Rotterdam on Oct. 31 and from New-castle on Nov. 3 for Montreal, has not road, received this message from Clendenin: "Send switch engine quick to me; I am being murdered by ——". The wire opened and not another word came. A switch engine was sent to the scene and reached Browne in a short time. The body was found lying under the desk, the head crushed in. A bloody spike mail lay on the floor beside it. Robbery was apparently the motive, the watch and money of the operator being missing. A suspect was arrested at Allenwood to-night. He answers the description of a man who was seen loitering around the operator's tower. castle on Nov. 3 for Montreal, has not yet been reported. She passed Dunnet Head, Scotland, on Nov. 4 and signalled "delayed owing to steering gear being disabled." She has a full cargo of steel rails for the C. P. R., and, although the owners have no fears for her safety, they are naturally anxious to hear word of her appearance in the St. Lawrence, as navigation will soon close. Mr. Thomas Harling, the agent, does not fear anything serious.

Montreal Live Stock.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—About $50 head of cattle, 100 calves and $500 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the east end abattoir yesterday, and the offerings today were about 250 head of cattle, 50 calves and 700 sheep and lambs. Trade was good and prices of cattle have an upward tendency all round, excepting for the lean canning cows, about 200 of which were offered yesterday and a number of them remained unsold to-day, as the canners have more than they can handle at present. Prime beeves sold at from 440 to over 44,60 per lb.; pretty good animals at from 3%c to over 4c. and the common stock at from 2%c to 3½c per lb., or about one-quarter of a cent per lb. more than the prices paid for them two weeks ago. Canning stock sold at from 1½c to 20 per lb., with a number remaining unsold. The calves were nearly all grassers, but some of them were in good condition and sold up to 4c per lb., while from 2½c to 3½c per lb. were the general prices. Sheep sold at from 25c to 3½c per lb.; good lots of lambs sold at about 4½c, and common fat hogs sold at about 4½c, and common fat hogs sold at about 5¼c per lb., with an unward tendency in prices.
