

HOW LOCAL OPTION HAS WORKED IN THE TOWN OF CAMPBELLFORD

Representative of Town on the River
Eight Years of Local Chants, Manufacturers
Have to Say.

As forecasted in our editorial columns yesterday, we produce today a report of a visit of a representative of the Daily Ontario to the thriving town of Campbellford, which, as the most of our readers are aware, is located thirty miles to the north-west of Belleville on the beautiful shores of the river Trent.

Campbellford voted on the local option test in January 1907 and carried the measure by a majority of seven votes over the sixty per cent. requirement. The town has therefore had more than eight years of thought, and the opposition has never felt strong enough to bring on a repeal vote.

The town authorities enjoy the reputation of having given the bylaw good enforcement and conditions there might be accepted as fairly representative of what we should expect where local option had been given a reasonable opportunity to prove its worth.

A Wealthy Farming District
The town has a remarkably beautiful situation between the hills that flank the magnificent Trent valley. For many miles on every side, the rich valleys and fertile, sloping hills extend.

Commodious farm houses and spacious barns give ample evidence of a degree of prosperity among the tillers of the soil such as few rural communities in Ontario enjoy. The Scotch strain of settlers predominates, and we are therefor not surprised to find in the tokens of thrift, thoroughness and consistent progress. A town with such a well-to-do environment is indeed fortunate.

A Thriving Town

Campbellford itself gives one the impression of stability rather than of bustling progress. One does not see whole streets of new homes erected overnight for the thronging workmen. There has been growth, but it has been slow. Perhaps fifty new homes of substantial character have been built within the past five years, and the population has increased from 2900 in 1907 to 3200 at the present time.

There is not a vacant dwelling in the entire town. Campbellford has four large industries—the Weston Shoe Co., the Trent Valley Woollen Mills Co., the North-Underland Paper Co., and the Dickson Bridge Co. All are exceedingly busy and some are compelled to work night shifts to complete their orders. The town has not realized its ex-

JAMIE R. ANDERSON'S
FINE BARN BURNED

Big Loss to Prominent Prince Edward Farmer—
Caught From Windmill—The Stock Saved
—Loss $5000.

(Special to The Ontario.)
MOUNTAIN VIEW, Nov. 23rd.—Between ten and eleven o'clock this morning Jas. R. Anderson's fine barn at this place were totally destroyed by fire. The windmill above the barn generated sparks and these falling to the roof ignited it. The flames at the top of the roof soon attracted attention and neighbors hastened to the scene, many coming by auto. The large herd of cattle and several horses were in the stables. Through the timely assistance of a large band of willing workers all the stock was driven out to safety. The drive-house located near the barn was also soon a mass of flames and at one time it looked as if the house could not be saved for a westerly wind was carrying a shower of sparks

GET READY NOW
SAYS MR. MIKEL

Belleville Tory Gives Advice to Ward
Two Conservative Association.

Mr. W. C. Mikel of this city has been handing out some advice to his Conservative friends of Ward Two of Toronto. On Thursday night he was one of the speakers at the annual meeting he said: "It is opportune that we should be alert at all times now, and getting ready to do a little election work. The Liberals are holding up their hands in abhorrence when election talk is evident, but just the time they think that they would have a chance to win, and we must not be caught napping."

Would Prepare Now.

"We must take our time now and make a complete record of the late election in power, and be ready for them when election time comes. There has been a lot of talk about the 'loyalty' of the French-Canadians since the war started, but they have been misled. Their conduct is such that leads away from unity of empire. While they claim loyalty, their judgment has been very bad and they have wide influence in some directions. We surely do not want a party in power that has this element strongly mixed with it."

Took the Place of the Widow's Son

Lieut. Chas. Sprague has discovered another branch of the Sprague family on active service in France. He has sent to this city a photo of a namesake, G. Sprague of Barnstable, England. He states that G. Sprague volunteered to take the place of a soldier who was the only survivor of the four sons of a widow, so that this last son could return home.

Committed on Murder Charges

Sanford Lindsay and His Wife Receive Their Preliminary Hearing.

After futile efforts to escape arrest, during which they travelled hundreds of miles, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Lindsay of the township of Dummer, were arrested on the 27th ult. in the wilds of Haliburton and brought to the county jail in Peterborough on the following day, by auto, with their three small children, two boys and a girl. County Constable Archie Moore and Constable Walsh of Minden effected the arrest.

The following were the charges upon which the arrest was made:
Against Sanford Lindsay: With murdering his 14-year old daughter, Lillian May Lindsay, on September 17th in Dummer township. With committing incest, with wilfully causing the death of the unborn child of Lillian May Lindsay.

Against Mrs. Sanford Lindsay: With murdering Lillian May Lindsay on Friday, September 17th, 1915. With causing the death of the unborn child of Lillian May Lindsay on Sept. 13th 1915.

The prisoners were remanded until the 11th inst., when they were given their preliminary hearing before County Magistrate Langley at Peterboro. Two days were spent in taking evidence. The hearing finally resulted in the Lindsays being committed for trial on four of the foregoing charges.

The one charge eliminated was that preferred against Sanford Lindsay of murdering the unborn child of the deceased. This was dismissed with the consent of Crown Attorney Hatton.

The prisoners were represented by Mr. G. N. Gordon. Their trial will not likely take place until the Spring Assizes.

The evidence taken at the hearing was much the same as that already published in the report of the inquest held some weeks ago before Coroner Kindred at Havelock.

Absent Yet Not Forgetting

Colonel Ponton has received from the Belleville Old Boys' Association of Toronto a cheque for $25 to be applied in sending Christmas presents to the Belleville boys now doing duty for the Empire in France and Belgium and will hand this sum over to the two organizations which have this specially meritorious work in hand. The letter accompanying the cheque, all of loyal love for their old city is signed by W. S. Morden, president; W. J. Wilson, treasurer, and T. A. Stevenson, secretary, and the gift will be doubly appreciated by the men who are thus remembered in the midst of the hardships and privations which they are enduring for all of us during this severe winter campaign of life and death. Hats off to the Toronto-Belleville Old Boys!

Ladies' Class
Tendered Banquet

Last evening the young ladies of Mr. W. B. Horje's Bible Class tendered a banquet to the young people of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. In response to the invitation the parlors of the church were filled with young people. The Rev. A. S. Kerr, M.A., pastor, was chairman. A delicious spread of good things thoroughly satisfied the guests who were unanimous in their praise of their hostesses. When the precious viands had been enjoyed a program of songs and songs was carried out. Rev. Mr. Kerr acting as toastmaster. The pledge—"The King" was honored with the singing of the National Anthem. Toasts were responded to by the following: "St. Andrew's Church," by Mr. William McIntosh; "The Ladies' Bible Class" by Mr. W. B. Horje; "The Brotherhood Bible Class" by Mr. John McIntosh. Solos were sung by Miss Helen Ketcheson, Miss Lellie Campbell, Mr. Irwin, Miss Davis, Mr. T. Bowie, and Mr. John McIntosh. The function closed with the strains of God Save the King.

Soldiers Guests
at Y.M.C.A.

Last evening soldiers of platoons 3 and 4 of the 80th Battalion were at the Y.M.C.A. as guests of the institution, enjoying its fullest privileges, baths, basket ball, gymnastic sports, reading, music, etc., and wound up with a fine banquet of refreshments supplied by the ladies of the Victoria Avenue Baptist church.

Capt. Blecker has gone to Tweed on a recruiting tour.

Sergt. Wells at the Battle of St. Julien.

'Sergeant Fred F. Wells, New Westminster, a veteran of St. Julien, where he was taken prisoner by the Germans, told the story of his experiences to a reporter of "The Ontario" last evening at Hotel Quinte where he has been staying. The sergeant will be in Belleville for the rest of this week. He went to the front with the 7th Battalion, C.E.F., and lost his arm as a result of wounds sustained in the great battle of St. Julien.

FIVE BULLETS STRUCK HIS LEFT ARM

"My regiment went into action on the night of the 22nd of April in front of St. Julien. On the morning of the 24th I crossed the road with my platoon to cover the retreat of the companies on my right and left. We got out off there by the Germans. I was standing up directing the fire of my platoon pointing with my left arm when a German machine gun located me and put five bullets in my left arm.

"I seemed to have fainted then. The next thing I remembered hearing was a bugle blowing and somebody shouting 'here they come!' I shouted to my men to get away as best they could and made an effort to get back myself, but being weak from loss of blood, I only got a very short distance. The Germans charged and got our parapet. The companies who had retired had by this time taken up a position and opened up into them, killing quite a number of the Germans. They supposed it was wounded men that were shooting proceeded to bayonet everything that looked as if it were alive. There were six of my men who were able to stand up and put their hands in the air. I saw those men get bayoneted by the Germans. As I lay on the ground with my left arm helpless across my body one big German ran at me with his bayonet

First Aid Saved
Railway Man's Life

Battle Creek, Nov. 23.—The value of first aid instruction in big industrial plants has been demonstrated in a striking manner. An accident in one of the Grand Trunk shops resulted in one of the men having his right leg broken in two pieces. The case was handled by the Grand Trunk Railway first aid class, and on the patient reaching the hospital the surgeons called "in the whole nursing and student staff to see the manner in which the splints and bandages had been applied. The doctors stated that if the man had been moved without this expert care there would have been a very serious chance of his losing the limb or being lame for life. They stated that this was the first case of a fracture of this nature coming to the hospital from an industrial plant that had received proper first aid.

Autumn Wedding.

One of the prettiest of Autumn weddings took place at the home of Mr. J. W. Brooks, "Rockwell Green" Solina, on Wednesday Nov. 10th, the sixth anniversary of his eldest daughter's wedding, when his second daughter, Effie Mildred, was united in marriage with Mr. Harry E. Grooms, Toronto son of Mr. Z. A. Grooms, Nanapanee. Promptly at four o'clock the bridal party took their places in the drawing room which was prettily decorated with chrysanthemums and foliage a bank of bronze and white "mums" making a pretty background for the group. Mrs. Ray Grooms, Nanapanee, sister-in-law of the groom, played Lohengrin's wedding march. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked beautiful in a gown of white mousseline silk with lace and carried a bouquet of brides' roses and lily-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister Gladys, who wore a charming frock of pink silk crepe and carried pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Raymond Grooms Toronto. Rev. Geo. Brown, the bride's pastor, performed the ceremony. Mr. Geo. F. Stewart, Belleville, interviewing Mr. and Mrs. Grooms, said: "The evening of conflict and good wishes, left on the evening train for Watertown, N. Y. and other points east, the bride traveling in navy blue serge suit, velvet hat and white plumes. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Grooms will take up their residence at 19 Barrie Avenue, Toronto. Among those present from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Z. A. Grooms, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Grooms, Nanapanee, Miss Kelly, Trenton, Mr. Raymond Grooms, Mr. L. McAfee, Toronto, Miss Garbutt, Stouffville.

DEFEATED BULGARIANS FALLING
BACK AT ALL POINTS IN SERBIA

Veles in Danger of Recapture by Serbians—Italians to Rush Across Albania to Attack Austro-Germans in Serbia—Montenegrins Will Co-operate—Why Greek Ministers Met Demands of Allies—French Front Calm Today.

WHY GREECE MET ALLIED "DEMANDS."

LONDON, Nov. 24.—A Reuter message from Athens says the entente ministers presented a collective note to Premier Skouloudis "demanding" that Greece define her attitude. A meeting of the cabinet was immediately called. After the meeting the Greek minister said the situation had been cleared by the presentation of the note which had revealed that the Allies' demands were less exacting than was expected.

BULGARIANS DEFEATED EVERYWHERE IN SOUTH.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—A Serbian official report received here says the Bulgarians have been defeated everywhere in the extreme south of Serbia and are in retreat as all points. As far north as Vles the Bulgarians are reported falling back upon Istip, and Veles itself is said to be in imminent danger of recapture from them.

SERBIANS BEING STRONGLY REINFORCED.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The Serbian army at Monastir is being reinforced according to a despatch from the Serbian front. Guns and munitions are being sent from Saloniki. The Serbians occupied positions southwest of Prilep at Prilic, Khushevo and Brodo.

The situation on the French front is described as calm.

ITALIANS STRIKING ACROSS ALBANIA.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Swiss advices say Italian troops now landing on the Albanian coast will strike at once across country for the Serbian frontier in order to attack the Austro-German forces engaged in the southern drive through Serbia. In the flank Montenegrin forces are expected to co-operate with them.

ITALIANS CARRY TWO FORTS BY STORM.

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—Caring the Austrian positions between Salventino and Podgora by a smashing charge, the Italians, according to information received here have taken two forts defending the Podgora Bridge on the Isonzo line. A thousand Austrian prisoners fell into the Italians' hands.

REPORT OF VON BUELOW'S VISIT TO SWITZERLAND.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—According to a Swiss correspondent of the Standard, Prince von Buelow's recent reported visit to Switzerland was connected with a scheme to obtain Roman Catholic sympathy for Germany by proposing to restore Papal sovereignty after the war.

TORONTO MUSIC TEACHER SUICIDES.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov 24.—William Elliott Haslam, 55, a leading city music teacher committed suicide today in his studio by shooting himself through the head.

FOUR MILLION MORE BRITONS UNDER ARMS.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Earl Kitchener, the British Secretary for War, in conversation with Greek officials in his recent visit to Athens, is reported to have declared that England will have four million soldiers under arms and will be in a position to arm and provision six million Russians, and that consequently it would show great stupidity to think the war could end otherwise than in complete defeat for Germany.

This information is contained in an Athens despatch to the Havas Agency, which adds that Lord Kitchener admitted that the declaration of war found the entente powers insufficiently prepared for so long a campaign, but said that the allies had known how to utilize the time that has since elapsed to complete their military preparations.

FRENCH GUNS SILENCE GERMANS' ARTILLERY.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The following official communication was issued by the French War Office last night: "The day was calm on the whole front, the fog retarding the artillery action. Our batteries quickly silenced the enemy artillery, which attempted to destroy our trenches in the region of Rochincourt, our positions between the Aisne and the Argonne, as well as in the region of Le Retre wood. Several mines were exploded without infantry action, in the Aigonne, the north of Houyette, and in the Mallincourt wood.

"The Belgian official communication reads: "There has been slight activity by the enemy artillery. Some projectiles were thrown on our advanced positions and against several points along the front. Our artillery dispersed numerous groups of enemy pioneers, and shelled the adverse positions."

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and an entire cessation of manifestation of internal trouble.

BULGARIANS DEFEATED WITH LOSSES OF TEN THOUSAND MEN BEFORE MONASTIR

Gallant Serbians Win a Glorious Victory and Drive Back the Enemy Five Miles--British are Hurrying Forward Reinforcements--No Blockade of Grecian Ports--Lord Kitchener Pleased With His Interview With King Constantine.

GERMANY RUSHING MILITARY SUPPLIES TO CONSTANTINOPLE

GALLANT SERBIANS WIN GREAT VICTORY.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Ten thousand Bulgarians have been killed and wounded in the fighting for Monastir, according to Saloniki despatches. The Bulgarian forces attacked the town on Saturday, but it is learned today for the first time, that they were repulsed. Repeated earlier reports were to the effect that the town had fallen. The Serbs driven southward from the Babuna Pass and Prilep rallied before Monastir and fought desperately. The struggle was at close quarters. The Serbs were heavily outnumbered but finally forced the Bulgarians to fall back five miles. Meantime British troops are pouring northward from Saloniki to help the Serbs, big guns are being mounted and the town's defences are being strengthened heavily.

NO BLOCKADE OF GREECE.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Foreign Office states that no Greek ships are being seized or held up in the ports of the United Kingdom and that no blockade of Greek ports has been instituted or is in force.

GREAT DEMAND FOR WAR LOAN.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—The Minister of Finance who was here yesterday expressed his gratification at the reception accorded the war loan by the press and public. He said he had felt from the beginning that the issue would be a conspicuous and unqualified success, and that the patriotism of the Canadian people and financial and other institutions would ensure its over-subscription. Asked as to when the lists would be closed the minister said that they would be kept open until he was satisfied that the farming community, and in fact, all investors had had a fair chance of subscribing.

BRITISH AIDED BY FRENCH BATTERIES TOOK TURK TRENCH.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—A French official statement last night says regarding Gallipoli operations: "During the week of Nov. 15-22, the underground warfare continued on both sides. We successfully exploded several camouflages (small mines)."

"On Nov. 15 a local action on the front of a British division permitted the capture of a trench and a bomb depot. The fire of our batteries and of a French armored cruiser supported the action. The gain thus realized was consolidated on the morning of Nov. 16, notwithstanding violent counter-attacks carried out by the enemy, who was everywhere repulsed."

Dance at New Academy Rose Williams

Johnstone's "New Academy" on Campbell street, was the scene of a pretty dance last evening. The affair was one of the best patronized of the season. Besides the young people of the city a number of military men lent their presence to the gathering. A most enjoyable time was spent.

Was Arrested

Rose Williams was arrested yesterday afternoon by the Belleville police on the charge of keeping a disorderly house. She was allowed out on bail to appear in court Dec. 1st.

SCOTCH LECTURE AT BAPTIST CH. LAST EVENING

Rev. W. A. Cameron of Toronto gave his lecture to a large audience last evening on "A Pilgrimage to the Land of Burns." Mr. Cameron had visited the places associated with Burns' life and work and spent a summer holiday in that neighborhood. His descriptions, therefore, were fresh and original but his interpretation of Burns' life and work was the thing of greatest interest and value. Many devoted admirers of the Scottish poet were present and even they confessed that they saw the poet in a new light after Mr. Cameron's portrayal. He paid a tribute to the essential greatness of Burns, both as a poet and as a man, and even those who were not Scotch could not resist the infection of the speaker's enthusiasm. Mr. Cameron touched upon the faults and failings of his hero with a broad Christian charity rarely exhibited to the unfortunate bard, and the audience left with a kindly sympathy and admiration for Burns who sank so early under his woes.

The Scotch songs, "Annie Laurie" and "Auld Lang Syne" were sung by the audience. Miss Brown sang "Afton Water" and Mrs. MacLaurin, "Mary of Argyll." The pastor of the church, Rev. C. G. Smith, occupied the chair.

Engineer Cummings' Body Has Been Found at Salmon Point

CAPTAIN AND CHIEF ENGINEER OF TURBINA IDENTIFY FORMER SECOND ENGINEER.

PICTON, Nov. 23.—The body found on the north shore of Salmon Point on Sunday by Mr. Tuttle, a fisherman, was identified this evening as that of Engineer Archibald McGregor Cummings of the tug Frank C. Barnes by Chief Engineer Noonan and Capt. Byron Bongard of the steamer Turbina, on which steamer Cummings was second engineer until the Turbina was laid up. Mr. Cummings has a sister who is a teacher in a college in Toronto. On his person was found $97.76. The body will be sent to Toronto today.

Methodist Minister Dons the Khaki

Rev. D. Dickson of Coe Hill Joins the 80th Battalion as Private—A Veteran of the South African War—His Meeting With Sergt. Sandford.

Rev. Douglas Dickson, Methodist minister at Coe Hill for the past two years has set an example worthy of emulation by all. He has in answer to the call of King and Country laid off the clerical garb and put on the khaki as a private soldier. Coming to the city yesterday, he was found medically fit. This morning he was sworn in before Mr. H. F. Ketcheson. The soldier-minister is a veteran of the South African war, having served with the 3rd Battalion Highland Light Infantry. He is going into the work now with a vim and will take up the N.C.O.'s course.

To his enlistment is attached an interesting little story. He and Sergt. Sandford of the 8th Battalion, C.E.F., now of this city attended school together in Glasgow, Scotland. They drifted apart for years without one trace of one another until they met some four weeks ago in North Hastings at a recruiting meeting at Coe Hill. Sergeant Sandford was one of the speakers and Rev. Mr. Dickson was one of the patriotic committee. They renewed their old-time friendship and after the meeting Mr. Dickson told Sergeant Sandford that he was going to enlist in a few weeks. True as his word the minister arrived yesterday to keep his pledge.

He is now in khaki as a member of the 80th Battalion and left this afternoon for Coe Hill to straighten out his affairs. Incidentally he will try to do a little recruiting for his King, trying the effect of his transformation from a minister to a soldier upon the people of the north.

How Local Option Has Worked in the Town of Campbellford

It is the best thing that ever struck the town. I have also heard men who are accustomed to just taking a social glass say that they hoped the license system would never again be adopted in Campbellford, for it has certainly cut out the treating system which is the curse of the whole trade.

"So far as the town is concerned I know that it means a vast improvement and benefit to many families, and I would say that no business man need be afraid of the passing of the bylaw injuring or hurting his business in any way."

No Drunken Employees.

We found Mr. D. F. Robertson, Reeve of the town, at his beautiful home on the west side of the river. He is the general manager of the Northumberland Paper Company, employing about eighty hands, and is one of the pushing energetic young business men who mean so much to the welfare of a town and to the country's progress as a whole. He has had three years of the reevehip and Campbellford seems well pleased with the choice for his last election was by acclamation.

"I cannot remember," said Mr. Robertson to The Ontario, "a single instance of when there has been intoxication among our employees. There is no question about local option having reduced the evils of intemperance in Campbellford. Hotel accommodation is very much better than it was before."

A Magistrate Who Enforces the Law

In Mr. G. A. Payne, barrister, and police magistrate, Campbellford has a citizen and official who is a valuable asset to the community. The would-be perjurer who comes before G. A. Payne to lie about who gave him the whiskey has a mighty slim chance to get away with the goods. He is plainly informed that he is lying and requested to save trouble and tell the truth. He generally tells the truth—after he is warned. Mr. Payne is not a wild-eyed temperance enthusiast, but a plain practical lawyer who knows the weaknesses of local option and does not gloss them over.

"We have in local option a splendid law," said Mr. Payne, "which if strictly enforced by the proper authorities would reduce drinking to a minimum. We have had 15 convictions for drunkenness in Campbellford during the present year. This is possibly more than would have taken place in a similar period under license. But, there is this difference—we now arrest everybody who is feeling a bit hilarious and make him tell where he got the liquor. There were four convictions this year for illegal sale. I think that perhaps four-fifths of the liquor consumed in Campbellford is purchased in Campbellford. Speaking generally however, consumption had very decidedly decreased. There was now no drunkenness around the hotels, and not near the amount of drinking in a social way or by treating. No beer was sold. The sale of ardent spirits was increased in proportion, though not absolutely. There was almost no drinking among youths or minors. There had been only one or two cases of that in eight years. I do not think that there is greater consumption of liquor in the homes. But you must not assume that local option cures everything and makes all homes happy. There had probably been in increase of perjury or attempted perjury. I am not altogether suited with the act, but yet I cannot suggest improvements. The enforcement means everything."

No More Wife Beating

Robert Linn, Chief of Police, affirmed that drunkenness had very greatly decreased. "We sometimes go two or three months now without an arrest," said the chief. "There has been only one case of street fighting caused by booze in several years.

There is some bottle drinking. This seems to run in streaks. Following a conviction everybody is very careful for a time. I am very cautious about laying information to see that I have my facts clear. There is only once that I did not secure a conviction. Local option is certainly a success as compared with license. I have much less work to do now. There is not nearly so much treating among our young men now. I used to have ten calls where I have one now where women were being abused by drunken husbands."

Mr. Linn has held his position for ten years and knows both systems. Local Option Does Thousands of Dollars Damage.

Mr. J. B. Ferris, head of the firm of J. B. Ferris & Co., who have the largest general store in Campbellford, informed us that he had voted and worked for local option, but he would never do so again. "It has done thousands of dollars damage to Campbellford" was the emphatic and rather startling statement Mr. Ferris made to The Ontario. We asked him to elucidate and he explained by saying that thousands of dollars were being sent out of the town every year to buy liquor, and at the same time the town is losing the revenue from the licenses. We asked Mr. Ferris what effect it had on outside trade, and he answered that it was difficult to say in any specific instance why a man went to another town. But there were many men who liked a drink and they naturally preferred to go where it could be purchased without let or hindrance. "There is

was the significant remark made by Mr. Ferris. The temperance people thought that all they had to do was to pass the act and then they could sit down and the law would enforce itself. "But has not drunkenness diminished?" asked the reporter. "There is not so much open drunkenness on the street," said Mr. Ferris, "but there is drunkenness of a worse kind at the homes. The amount of broken bottles in the lanes and back yards is a disgrace."

Some Cases of Reform

Mr. Harry Black, head of the firm of H & L Black, the largest butchers in town, was very moderate in his expressions. He hadn't noticed much difference in regard to the payment of accounts, but he did know of some cases of reformation and quite a number of young men who had been moderate drinkers who had quit. Speaking generally the evils had been reduced, but there was a considerable bottle trade.

Another leading merchant who would not permit us to use his name said that there was a large bottle trade in strong liquors. He saw several groups with bottles on the previous Saturday night. There was not so much absolute intoxication now but was more drinking around livery stables and back yards.

Getting Away From Temptation

Mr. Geo. A. Kingston, publisher of The Herald, who issues one of the best local papers in eastern Ontario, was the next victim of the interviewer. "Our boys are not drinking or learning to drink" said Mr. Kingston. "What drinking we have is mostly confined to the old timers in whom the habit has become fixed. Intoxicated men were rarely seen. I know a number personally who have reformed. I know of families who have moved to Campbellford to get away from temptation. Men who used to be continuously drunk are now keeping fairly straight. Many moderate drinkers have quit entirely. Hotel accommodation has improved. Travellers speak of the quietness of our hotels in comparison with those under license. So far as I am aware no farm trade has been driven away."

Improved Conditions

Mr. Richard Weston, secretary-treasurer of the Weston Shoe Company, which employs ninety hands was very much in favor of local option. They had previously been established in Toronto, but they never knew when their men would be absent on account of drunkenness. After coming to Campbellford they found conditions vastly improved. They now almost never had a hand who failed to report for duty. He had seen only one or two intoxicated men on the streets in months.

Drinking Reduced

Mr. Charles West, the town clerk, whom no one would accuse of being a man of sentiment, expressed his opinion that there was not near the amount of drinking that had been taking place under license.

No Detrimental Effect

Mr. J. A. Irwin, several times mayor, and proprietor of one of the largest general stores said that he noticed no detrimental effect as the result of local option. He knew of families that had little or nothing before the passage of local option that were now comfortable. Outside of ten or a dozen confirmed lovers of drink in the town he saw little drinking and very rarely saw a drunken man. He had heard of no case where trade had gone to licensed towns, because of local option in Campbellford, but he did know of at least one instance where a customer came to Campbellford because the temptation was removed. There was no better hotel accommodation in the country than that possessed by Campbellford. The commercial men all spoke highly of it.

Prefers Local Option

Mr. E. A. Terrill, manager of McIntosh Bros' Fine store at Campbellford is a bright young business man who is well satisfied with the working of local option. Their business had doubled in fourteen months. He saw no bottle drinking among the young men or boys. He knew of no ill effect on business. He had lived under both the license and local option systems and unhesitatingly endorsed the latter.

Brought Up in a Hotel

Mr. Charles Davidson, the leading baker of the town, confectioner, etc., as well as a member of the town council, stated that he had kept hotel for twenty-two years, but was now out for local option. "It has helped my own business and has helped the town," said Mr. Davidson. "I know of a large number who used to spend their money in drink who are now saving their earnings and paying for what they get. I do not know of a single case where trade has been driven from the town. There is some drinking but it is mostly confined to booze-fighters. Occasionally I see a drunk, but I can see more in an hour in some of the licensed towns around here, than I would be likely to see in a whole month in Campbellford."

Messrs. Caskey and Allan who have the largest grocery in town had only been in business there a few months said that their accounts were promptly paid in cash. There was a certain amount of drinking but it was not serious.

Well Satisfied

We saw Mr. Moore, the manager of the Trent Valley Woolen Mills where two hundred hands are employed. He was too busy to answer any questions at the time of our visit, but he said that a paper he and 65 of the leading business and professional men had signed expressed his sentiments. His paper contained a general statement that local option had been a pronounced success in Campbellford and that they were all well satisfied with its working.

Mr. W. H. Ashton, for 35 years master mechanic at the Trent Valley Woolen Mills, spoke of the greatly improved conditions in regard to sobriety. Now, he said, there was rarely a lapse among their workmen.

It may be inferred that because the balance of testimony recorded above seems to favor local option that our representative deliberately sought out those in its favor. Such is not the case. As outlined in yesterday's editorial our plan was to interview the chief town officials, the leading manufacturers and merchants as far as time permitted. We did not seek advance information as to the opinions held, but took them just as they came. We have in every case used the utmost endeavor to give a fair and accurate report of each interview.

Each man interviewed will be mailed a marked copy of the paper.

In Friday's issue we will give a re-

Mr. Sinclair Makes Reply to Mr. Mikel

Editor of The Ontario.
In your issue of Monday last, Mr. W. C. Mikel in his letter, refers to the now famous statement of the Right Hon. David Lloyd George, who said, "Great Britain is fighting three enemies, Germany, Austria and drink and of these three, in my opinion, the greatest enemy is drink," and Mr. Mikel proceeds to say that this statement applied to Britain and not to Canada. Perhaps I am a little more British than Mr. Mikel and would say that Britain's enemies are also Canada's enemies, and I go the full length of saying, fight them all, Germany, Austria and drink.

Then Mr. Mikel proceeds to say that "Britain's drink evil is apparently very great, for they drink up one and a half dreadsnoths every week." I agree with Mr. Mikel that this is going some, for it represents an economic waste that in time would ruin Britain if allowed to go unchecked. But does Mr. Mikel know that Canada's drink bill last year was $103,049,128.00, or exactly one half of the total agricultural exports of the Dominion of Canada, and the price of Ten Super-Dreadsnoths, or does he know that Ontario spends One Million Dollars every Ten Days in strong drink and that Canada could fully equip one soldier with what she spends every minute in the day on strong drink.

Let any intelligent man think these facts over and he must conclude that for a young country like ours, we may use Mr. Mikel's words as applied to Britain, and say "The drink evil is very great," while at the same time there are a dozen reasons why Britain may be the last of the great nations to deal seriously with the liquor traffic.

I think Mr. Mikel's reference to what he claims as a Jewish custom, is to say the least very questionable, and his implied suggestion, "that young children should be taught the use of liquor and to avoid the abuse of it" is to say the least very dangerous.

In the same issue of your paper in which Mr. Mikel's letter appears, you record what you very properly describe as one of the saddest sights ever witnessed on Belleville streets, the account of "Four boys, ages nine years and upwards, under the influence of liquor on our streets," and yet according to Mr. Mikel, these little boys "should be taught the use of liquor and not the abuse of it." I have no idea who these boys were, but I doubt whether Mr. Mikel would dare approach their parents with his dangerous teachings.

I am sure such a visit would result in a Wan Ad., "A Head for a Belleville Lawyer," and Mr. Mikel would likely come to, or wake up in the Belleville Hospital.

Mr. Mikel's last suggestion is as ridiculous as his teaching is dangerous, for there are few men in Belleville who would care to enrol in a battalion to be known as Belleville's defenders of the Liquor Traffic.

Respectfully yours,
D. V. Sinclair.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle.

sight of the bayonets I marched. In a very weak state I was taken to Roulers. There I was attended by Belgian sisters and had my arm amputated by a German doctor. I was given only six hours to live and at my own request my arm was taken off. I cannot speak too highly of the Belgian sisters and the treatment I received at their hands. The day after my arm was amputated I was put on a train and taken to Ohdruf, Saxony. When we arrived at Ohdruf, the wounded, about 50, had to lie out on the open station platform for about two and a half hours in quite a heavy rain and finally they brought up beer trucks in which our stretchers were placed and we were driven over rough cobble stone roads through the city for the benefit of the natives who could not get down to the station to see us. The people as we passed along the streets kept shouting "Schweine Eschender" and drawing their hands across their throats as a sign that they would like to eat our heads off! At the prison hospital, owing to the numbers of wounded, the wounds were dressed once only an seven or eight days.

WHAT HOSPITAL FOOD IS LIKE
"The food in the hospital at five in the morning would be a cup of coffee made out of acorns; at 10:30 we received a piece of blackbread, about 3 slices; at noon we got a soup that was sometimes eatable and sometimes not and a very small piece of horse flesh. At five o'clock we got another bowl of soup."

"After being in hospital about two months and a half I was transferred to the prison camp. Here we had to get up at 4:30 a.m. Breakfast was composed of a kind of soup porridge, bitter and absolutely uneatable. At 10:30 we got a piece of black bread not quite as good as the hospital bread; at noon a bowl of soup that we never touched; at five o'clock a raw salt herring and three black potatoes." The Prussian prisoners were given very meagre subsistence, one-half of what the French and English received.

PRETENDED TO BE INSANE

"Having seen about 30 Russian and French prisoners sent home through being mentally deficient a Scotchman belonging to an English regiment and myself thought by affecting insanity that we would be sent back. My comrade developed a mania for saluting everything he saw and I for a few hours a day rode an imaginary horse around the square. The Germans concluding we were insane sent us to the concentration camp where the exchange took place. After a severe examination and three days of mental torture we were finally booked for exchange. There were however 13 men who could not pass the examination who were sent back to their various prison camps. This sight was undoubtedly one of the most pathetic I have ever seen. The poor fellows broke down and cried like children and I only felt myself safe when we were handed over to the Dutch authorities in Holland.

THE BELGIANS' GRATITUDE

"The trip through Belgium on the way to Holland was one of the greatest experiences of my life. Here the Belgian people would rush out with flowers and fruit and various things for us, only to be forced back at the point of a German guard's bayonet.

"One young lady with a bunch of flowers forced her way through the guards and threw the flowers in the car window to me. She was immediately seized and taken away. I suppose to prison.

"We were treated exceptionally well by the Holland Red Cross authorities and on our arrival in England at the Tilbury docks we were given one of the grandest receptions that wounded soldiers could ever expect.

"It is hard to realize that I have been through the greatest battle, and that I spent four months in the camps of the enemy. It seems like a dream. However I am back again in Canada and I am glad of it. Not speaking in the spirit of bravado, my one ambition is to get back out again to the front."

"While at the Third London General Hospital at Wandsworth he had the extremely high honor of being visited by their Majesties the King and Queen who shook hands with him on his arrival from Germany.

Sergeant Wells is on a four months' tour lecturing on a series of films in the interests of recruiting. While he was in Ottawa the Ladies' Canadian Club formed a committee in aid of the prisoners of war fund in which Sergeant Wells is deeply interested.

He is anxious to meet any one in Belleville who is interested, and explain what has been done by the Ottawa Ladies' Canadian Club as well as explain prison camp conditions in Germany.

At Ottawa he was invited after an address to the box of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, H.R.H. the Princess Patricia and the royal party, the Duke expressing his pleasure at the remarks of the gallant soldier.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or gripping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and an entire cessation of many of the internal troubles.

MEN BORE GUNNER IN TRIUMPH FROM HOME TO TOWN HALL

Charles Gatum Honored at Reception in Cannifton Last Evening—Hundreds Paid Tribute To Returned Hero who Tells His Experiences—Speeches by Prominent Men

Gunner Charles Gatum, borne aloft on the shoulders of the stalwart sons of Cannifton and Thurlow, was last evening carried from his home to the Cannifton Town Hall where hundreds paid their tribute to one who has gallantly done his bit at the front. The municipal building proved all too small for the enthusiastic people of Thurlow. The capacity of the hall is about four or five hundred. It was packed and many were unable to gain admission to take part in the welcome to the hero.

The vicinity of the town hall was the scene of great excitement before eight o'clock. When the Foxboro band arrived the male portion of throng marched to Gunner Gatum's residence led by the musicians. When the soldier had come out, he was seized and raised on the shoulders by his most enthusiastic friends and carried in triumph amid cheers to the town hall. Then he was borne into the building and placed on a chair at the front of the platform. When the cheering had subsided, the chair was taken by Mr. N. Vermilyea, reeve, who made a most fitting address of welcome.

An important feature of the program was the presentation of a wrist watch to Gunner Gatum by Mrs. (Dr.) J. A. Faulkner, Foxboro, on behalf of the Red Cross Gunner Gatum expressed his appreciation of the gift and recited at some length his experiences in England, in France at the front, and in hospital after he was wounded and explained his present condition.

Many numbers were contributed by the Foxboro Band and songs, patriotic and otherwise, were sung by local entertainers.

Besides the chairman, the other speakers were Dr. J. A. Faulkner, H. F. Ketcheson, H. K. Denyes, J. G. Sills, R. J. Garbutt and M. E. Wilson.

Thereception lasted until about eleven o'clock when the singing of the National Anthem brought the function to a close.

Trenton

TRENTON, Nov. 22.—St. George's church was the scene of a very interesting wedding when Miss Mabel Vandervoort, one of Trenton's most popular young ladies became the bride of Mr. Kenneth Couch of Sutcliffe and Sons. The Rev. Canon Armstrong officiated. The bride who was given away by her father, looked very charming in a dark green dress and a handsome seal skin coat, the gift of the groom. She carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies of the valley and was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Vandervoort, who wore a smart suit of African brown and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Walter Couch. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends and admirers, and the happy couple left the church grounds amid showers of rice. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Jufferin Ave. Mr. and Mrs. Couch left in the evening by C.N.R. for Toronto and Brantford. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mr. Chas. Foster of Foster and Sons has bought a pretty home on Queen St. from Henry Bontor who has moved to Mr. A. H. Hawley's residence on Marmora street.

Mr. Sydney Cotterill, owner and manager of the Trenton Phasing Mills has moved into his fine new brick house.

Trenton is keeping up its reputation as a busy town. With the Pants and Coat Factories, running with a full complement of hands and with the button factory working overtime and the bridge works employing so many laborers, there is scarcely an idler in Trenton. It is to be hoped that this condition of affairs will continue throughout the winter.

The bazaar held by the ladies of St. Peter's Church in the parish hall from Nov. 15th to Nov. 22 was a most successful one. A number of beautifully made useful and fancy articles were offered for sale in tastefully decorated booths, one in charge of Mrs. O. E. Fortune and Miss Julian and the other Mrs. Dion and Mrs. T. D. Kinross. A delicious and substantial tea was served each evening in a large room, ably presided over by Mrs. Sullivan. The pretty waitresses were most attentive in serving the dainty dishes provided for the occasion. During the early part of each evening a musical program was rendered, and the entertainment wound up with an informal dance. On Monday, Nov. 22, the bazaar was brought to a close with a very enjoyable box social, and the names of the winners of the various raffles were announced. Among the lucky ones were, Dr. Johnson, a sofa pillow; Wm.; Rose's sofa pillow; Mrs. Percy King, center piece; Mr. Fred L'Esperance, center piece; Mrs. Rogers, Miss McDonald and Mr. Murphy, each a $5 gold piece; Mr. Lamore a two dollar and a half gold piece; Mr. Hennessey, a barrel of apples. In the popularity contest Miss Margaret Gauthier was voted the most popular young lady and Mr. H. Leclair the most popular young gentleman. The net proceeds of the entertainment are not yet known.

FOXBORO.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Jno. Sprague, when his eldest daughter at home was united in marriage by the Rev. Mr. Jones to Ira Francis Eggleston, our popular young baker. The bride tastefully gowned in blue silk came into the parlor leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, played by her sister Cora. The ceremony was performed under an arch from which hung a white wedding bell with a bang ground of green potted ferns and evergreens.

After the usual congratulations the happy couple with about 40 guests repaired to the dining room which was beautifully decorated in red, white, and blue, where a sumptuous repast was served.
The Foxboro band serenaded the young couple of which the groom is a member and were invited into the house and feasted on the good things provided. The beautiful presents showed the high esteem in which the bride is held. Previous to the wedding her young friends had presented her with a lovely clock and a silver cake knife. The groom's gift to the bride was a twin sapphire and diamond ring and to the sister a brooch set with pearls. They at once took up house keeping in the home already prepared and furnished by the groom, near the bake shop. The fervent wish of all is that they may be spared for a long and happy life together and that they may be a blessing to our village.

Since writing last week another donation has been given to the Thurlow Red Cross Bazaar, by Mr. Frank Knight, it being a barrel of his very choicest Northern Spy apples. The one guessing the nearest to the number of apples in the barrel gets the barrel. So come on with your guess. It's well worth the try for they are the very best of the kind.
A turkey has been donated by Mr. John McDonell, any person paying 10 cents gets a number and the right number gets the turkey.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

On Friday evening, Nov. 19 the friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. Jno. Emmons to bid farewell to him and family prior to their departure to Belleville, Mr. Emmons having sold his farm.
Mr. Emmons has been a life long resident of this community and will be greatly missed in all spheres of work. For twenty-four years he has been steward of Emmons' church and is the last living member who helped to build the same church.
After the friends had assembled, the following address was read when the presentation of two fumed oak chairs was made.
Shannonville, Nov. 19, 1915.
Dear Mr. J. Emmons, Miss Emmons, Miss Bessie—
In event of your near departure we as friends and neighbors have gathered here to show in a slight way our deep appreciation and sincere regard for your worth and willing efforts both in the social and religious work of our community.
Mr. Emmons, as a life-long resident, we cannot value your faithful service to our neighborhood and we realize that we are losing a friend, one who has been with us in sickness and in health, ever ready to lend a helping hand in time of trouble and to extend sincere sympathy in time of sorrow, but what is our loss will be the gain of the town to which you are going. May what you have done for us remind you that in losing your life for others, you have found it in a fuller and more abundant way in the hearts and lives of those you have blessed and encouraged along this earthly pilgrimage and we pray that God's richest blessings may rest upon you in your declining years and that you may ever look to Him for divine guidance.
Miss Emmons and Miss Bessie, we cannot allow you to leave us without expressing in some tangible way the esteem and good wishes we cherish for you. We have found you always ready and willing to aid in our church work, assisting in the trying work of preparing entertainments and you have taken a kindly interest in whatever would further the interests of our community. We trust that the many good qualities which have won our respect, will raise up friends for you in your new home.
Now we ask you to kindly accept these chairs as a token of our esteem and friendship and we extend to you a hearty invitation to visit us whenever possible.
Signed on behalf of the community
Theo. Blatherwick
J. H. Thompson

A Ready Weapon Against Pain.

There is nothing equal to Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil when well rubbed in. It penetrates the tissues and pain disappears before it. There is no known preparation that will reach the spot quicker than this magic Oil. In consequence it ranks first among treatments now offered to the public and is accorded first place among all its competitors.

PARRY SOUND MUNITION PLANT BLOWN UP

Magazines Used for Storing Lyddite Blown to Nothing, Causing Fire Which Spread to Other Buildings—Force of Explosion Damaged Buildings Seven Miles Away—Call to Toronto Soldiers Who are Ready to Leave Any Time.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY MEN OF NORTHERN PIONEERS ON GUARD

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Nov. 23.—Five buildings were blown to atoms and several more set on fire at 7 o'clock last night, when the magazines of the Canadian Explosives, Limited, situated at a hamlet called Nobel, seven miles from here, were blown up. So far as is known, no lives were lost, though there is a report that at least five men had been buried in the buildings. This, however, is not confirmed. That the explosion was the work of alien enemies is taken for granted here, as there are hundreds of Bulgarians in the district, and the factory was turning out explosives for war purposes.

The first shock of the explosion was so strong that Parry Sound residents thought an earthquake had struck the town. Buildings were rocked, windows broken, plaster fell from walls of houses, and the C.P.R. station is a wreck. People at once became excited, and there was great confusion, as there are 1,500 men employed at the Canadian Explosives' plant, many of whom either live in Parry Sound or have relatives here.

A relief train was organized immediately because of the early reports, which spread to Parry Sound, that there had been great loss of life, but as they were found to be untrue, the train was canceled. A special train was sent out, however, containing 150 men, in charge of Major Storey, who is in command of the overseas battalion in training here. These men, upon reaching Nobel formed a cordon around the wrecked and burning buildings, in order to keep everyone away from the danger zone. Word was telegraphed to Toronto to send a company of men from Exhibition camp to guard the work, but this later was canceled.

The Canadian Explosives' plant covers many acres of ground at Nobel, and the buildings, which were blown to nothing, were located a mile and a half or two miles from the main buildings. No men are at work in the magazines after dark. The fire, which followed the explosion, spread with great rapidity to other frame buildings, and at an early hour this morning many of them were still on fire, there being no water supply.

In the buildings which blew up were stored large quantities of lyddite, used in the manufacture of high explosive shells for the use of the allies.

The only means of communication between Parry Sound and Nobel is by the C.P.R. short line, which carries the workmen to and from the works, and by road. As the soldiers will not allow anyone near the burning plant, no further information can be secured until later.

Soon after the declaration of war, Nobel was chosen as the site for the lyddite factory, and it has made Parry Sound one of the busiest spots in Ontario. For a considerable time munition workers have been sent from Toronto and other places to work in the factory seven miles from here.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS RECEIVED IN REFERENCE TO "NEWS FROM HOME" BUDGETS

W. K. George, Esq., Toronto.
Dear Sir:—
I have been asked to write to you in reference to the "News from Home" budgets which are sent to the soldiers at the front. This plan, I believe, originated with you and has been organized and developed throughout Canada by the League of the Empire. I have had some experience with these budgets and I can say they are greatly appreciated by officers and men.
The advantage these budgets have over the newspapers is that the clippings pasted into them are really newspapers in a condensed and much more convenient and durable form, and more than that they are made up of extracts from the newspapers which are most likely to be of the greatest interest to the men at the front.
If I might suggest anything it would be any news relating to any of the battalions or contingents at the front is always found to be most interesting, and, also, I would suggest that all casualty lists and lists of prisoners be inserted. I have noticed that a prominent part is given to all kinds of sport, which is much appreciated by the men.
I understand that these budgets are being made up in different localities throughout Canada and each battalion receives the news made up in the locality from which it was received. This naturally is the best plan as each battalion then gets news from its own home and district. Last winter the budgets I saw were those furnished by the schools of Toronto, and I would like to say that the teachers and boys and girls throughout Canada who provide these budgets steal it, yet one knows that if it is missing it is being read and not used to feed the fire or clean the mud off boots—the usual fate of a newspaper. Please convey my best thanks to the makers of these budgets and to the League of Empire for the pleasure they are giving so many of us at the front.

Sincerely yours,
Sgd. Herbert Alley, Capt. Q.O.R.

Mrs. H. S. Strathy, Toronto.
Dear Mrs. Strathy,—
As soon as the packages of "News from Home" reach us they are divided up and forwarded to the front. There is no delay as far as we are concerned and we know they reach their destinations as we invariably get our advice forms returned with an acknowledgment written upon them.

Form all I hear I know that the budgets are greatly appreciated by the men and if you can obtain larger quantities they will certainly be welcomed, and we shall be glad to cooperate with you in ensuring their prompt and efficient distribution.
I notice in your leaflet which you enclose it is suggested that parcels addressed to the Association should be marked "News from Home" for the men of (fill in name of regiment and brigade) (fill in name of regiment and brigade). The name of the regiment and brigade is very rarely put on the packages and it would assist very much in dividing up the parcels if this were done in every case. We do the best we can in making the division of the packages, but the men at the front would certainly appreciate the budgets all the more if they knew they were sent from certain places in Canada and were specially got together for particular battalions.
I quite endorse all that Colonel Morrison says in his excellent letter which is quoted in the leaflet. It is confirmed by other letters and personal communications that have reached me on the subject.
Believe me,
Yours sincerely,
Sgd. J. G. Colmer,
Hon. Secty to Canadian War Contingent Association.

Extracts
"Ever so many thanks for my 'News from Home.' You do not know how much the men like them, to say nothing of how much we enjoy them. Many more thanks."
"Many more thanks for my budgets. They are regular institutions with our section now. Of course, many of the boys get papers, but they like their news condensed and my 'News from Home' is where they find it."
"Many thanks for the budgets. They are absolutely the most popular things in this shack."
"Many thanks for the budgets. The officers read them first, then they are passed on to the non-coms, and the men, and as we go along the trenches the men often stick their heads out of their dug-outs and ask if any more 'News from Home' have come."

Roblin's Mills Shoot.
The 22nd annual shooting match of The Ameliasburg Rod and Gun Club was held here on Friday, Nov. 19, 15. The day was very disagreeable raining all day and the attendance not as large as usual, but the shooting was one of the best if not the best in the history of the club. "The Trophy Cup" of the club was won by Mr. Jas. R. Anderson, after a very closely contested match. Following is the score:
Possible 12
John Anderson 9
D. T. Stafford 8

HOW LONG WILL THE WAR LAST?

The War Against Health Is Quickly Ended By "Fruit-a-Lives".

MRS. DEWOLFE, East Ship Harbour, N.S.
"It is with great pleasure that I write to tell you of the wonderful benefit I have received from taking 'Fruit-a-Lives'. For years I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches, and I was miserable in every way. Nothing in the way of medicines seemed to help me. Then I finally tried 'Fruit-a-Lives' and the effect was splendid. After taking one box, I feel like a new person and I am deeply thankful to have relief from those sickening Headaches."
Mrs. MARTHA DEWOLFE.
"FRUIT-A-LIVES", the medicine made from fruit juices, has relieved more sufferers from Headaches, Constipation, Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Skin Troubles than any other medicine. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or on receipt of price by Fruit-a-Lives Limited, Ottawa.

Opened New School House

The opening of the fine new schoolhouse at Huff's Island, Prince Edward was the occasion last evening of a Patriotic and Red Cross meeting. Huff's Island now has the finest schoolhouse in the rural part of Prince Edward, it is believed. Something new in construction of rural schools is a basement for the children to play in during inclement weather. That is what the Huff's Island building possesses.

Mr. J. E. Benson, Public School Inspector for the county occupied the chair. He gave an address as did Rev. Canon Beamish, Editor A. E. Calnan, Picton, J. Elliott, H. F. Ketcheson, Lieut. H. L. Wallace, Sergt. Sandford, Rev. Webber and Rev. Douglas Dickson, the latest recruit of the 80th.
Following the rousing speeches and songs by the gathering, the ladies served bounteous and delicious refreshment, the audience enjoying the good things to the full.
Some $35 was realized for patriotic purposes.

Half Million Pounds of Halibut Coming from Prince Rupert

Prince Rupert, B.C., Nov. 22.—A new fishery record for the Port has just been made, over a million pounds of fresh halibut being landed here in two days. Just as fast as the fish can be packed in ice and placed in refrigerators, it is being sent to the eastern markets. Seventeen car loads of halibut, the greatest single shipment ever made, left on two trains over the Grand Trunk Pacific. The big catches have followed a period of rough weather on the fishing banks. With better conditions prevailing the water front here presents an active appearance both day and night, many of the ships bringing in over 100,000 pounds of halibut. There is little difficulty in disposing of even these big catches as the markets in Chicago, New York, Montreal, Toronto and other large cities now look forward to consignments of Prince Rupert halibut, the method of transportation in Canadian Express refrigerators cars guaranteeing perfect condition.

Soldiers' Reception.

Last evening about 75 soldiers of platoons 1 and 2 of the 80th Battalion attended a reception at the Y.M.C.A. from 6.30 to 9.30. They were given the freedom of the building and surely enjoyed themselves.
"About nine o'clock the ladies of Bridge Street Methodist Church spread before them a fine array of refreshments.
Tonight the Baptist Ladies will serve the viands.

A Ready Weapon Against Pain.—There is nothing equal to Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil when well rubbed in. It penetrates the tissues and pain disappears before it. There is no known preparation that will reach the spot quicker than this magic Oil. In consequence it ranks first among liniments now offered to the public and is accorded first place among all its competitors.

Trenton

TRENTON, Nov. 22.—Mr. H. A. Thomson, local manager of the Molsons Bank, has been transferred to the Owen Sound branch. Although the people of Trenton unite in their congratulations to Mr. Thomson on his promotion, it is with the greatest regret that they will hear of his departure. He will be missed not only in his business capacity, but also as a citizen, for he has aided in every possible way to advance the best interests of the town. All the members of his family are deservedly popular in their different social circles, and their departure will also be much regretted.
Mr. Webb, successor to Mr. Thomson is expected to arrive today.

The St. Andrew's Society of Trenton and surrounding country with Mr. Robt. Weddell as president, have decided not to hold the time honored St. Andrew's banquet this year; but to have instead a Scottish patriotic concert of a high order in the opera house on St. Andrew's night. Without a doubt the concert will be one of the best Trentonians have ever had the opportunity of hearing. The proceeds will be turned over to the Red Cross Fund.
Mrs. Harry Whittier, who has been visiting relatives in Chicago, returned home on Friday evening.

Trenton Patriotic Working Club held its second meeting on Saturday afternoon in one of the offices of the Trenton Electric and Water Co. Mrs. A. Whittier, as president was in the chair. There was a large attendance of enthusiastic workers. The society is continuing itself chiefly to making comforts for the men in the trenches—socks, woollen caps, and mitts obtaining their attention at present. Anyone desiring to help with the good work will be welcome. The next meeting will take place in the Odd Fellows' hall on Saturday, Nov. 27th at 3 p.m.
With the skating season drawing near, and no efforts being made toward the construction of a new rink, the Boys' Gymnasium Club of Grace Church, took the matter into their hands, and are constructing an open-air rink at the rear of the church property. The opening will take place in a few weeks.
Mrs. A. E. Bywater left last week for England, where Major Bywater is at present taking a staff course.

THE BALKAN GAME.

The situation in the Balkans from the outset has been so perplexing, and the despatches which are being sent out at the present moment are so conducive to pessimism, that it is well to examine the situation as it is presented to us by one of the most competent commentators on the war. No writer has gained a higher reputation during this war for the sanity of his judgments than Mr. Hilaire Belloc, whose opinions are eagerly sought and widely published. A few days ago, he delivered a lecture at Manchester in which he discussed at some length the Balkan situation. He said that his judgment the attack on Serbia was intended by Germany as a political diversion, with the object of creating disarray and chaos among the Allies and of producing depression among their civilian populations.

In the first part of his lecture Mr. Belloc discussed the war of attrition in process on the Western and Eastern fronts, and declared that the decision of the war would be reached on one or other of these fronts, and not in the Balkans. So long as the Allies continued firm and united the preponderance of power of equipment and production of munitions would ensure the wearing down of the enemy. The only hope of the opposing side was to bring about, by causing division among the Allies, a stoppage of the war before it reached the termination which would logically result from the policy of attrition.

All wars, he said, were ended by the reduction of one side to such a state of inferiority that it could not continue the conflict, and the only difference between wars like that of 1870 and the present one was the factor of time. The second Punic War, the latter stages of the American Civil War, and Napoleon's campaign of 1813-14 were examples of long-continued wars of attrition. "If any man is weary of the present situation," said Mr. Belloc, "it is not the soldier, but a few civilians and newspaper proprietors," a shot at the Northcliffe and Milners, which was received with applause.

Mr. Belloc repeated statements he has made recently to the effect that in a little time from now the Germans will begin to experience a decline in their effectiveness. Their Headquarters Staff knew that while the end of their reserves was in sight there was no indication whatever that the Allies were approaching such a stage. Therefore they had to choose between two policies—on the one hand to husband their remaining strength and use it sparingly, or on the other to make a great effort with all their available reserves in the hope that it would carry them to success. In deciding upon the Balkan campaign they had clearly adopted the second alternative.

They were attempting that diversion with about five per cent. of their forces, and Bulgaria would only bring in another six or seven per cent. If it succeeded it would enable them to equip a certain amount of new material, but even under those circumstances it would remain from the military point of view a diversion.

Politically the effect of this move was more important, he thought. The object was to introduce divergent aims among the Allies, and doubts as to whether a sufficient number of men could or could not be sent. Mr. Belloc did not think that we could hope very much that the army of the Allies would be able to help Serbia to hold the north-eastern corner which Germany and Bulgaria were endeavoring to capture. The aim would probably be to attack in flank the Constantinople line in Bulgaria.

Turning to the Western front, where half the military effort of Germany is now being spent, Mr. Belloc stated that if the attacks, such as the Allies were making in the offensive movement around La Basse and in the Champagne district, succeeded in breaking the front, they might be decisive, but apart from that possible result, they had a great value. During this new offensive he estimated that the Germans had lost 200,000 men, and the Allies' losses had been slightly lower. But even if they had been as heavy, the Germans would have been left relatively weaker than they were before. "Unless we fully understood this trench warfare we should suffer from the depression which the enemy desired to impress upon us. If we did understand it and the Alliance held together, the war of attrition would proceed to its end with mathematical exactitude. If the enemy won the war it would be because of chaos and disaffection among the civilian population of the Allies. On the other hand, if Prussia lost the war the power to begin again the abominations of the past fourteen months would be destroyed for ever."

In closing, Mr. Belloc said that he felt bound to say something which was on the border line of controversy. In his considered judgment there was only one thing in the Old Country which would imperil our victory in the war, and that was internal dissensions. "It did not matter much what particular group of men were in power so long as it could be continuous and have no divergence in aim. There should be no attempt to find scapegoats. If we begin a policy of discussing authority in the midst of action we weakened ourselves in the only way possible and did exactly what the enemy desired."

Whatever the outcome of the present Balkan crisis may be, we may be quite sure that the object of the enemy, in so far as it was designed to create chaos and divisions among the Allies, will not be achieved. Britain, France, Russia and Italy have made it doubly clear that they cannot be diverted from their real object and already steps are being taken to co-ordinate as they have never been co-ordinated before the military operations of the Quadruple Entente. The only danger, as Mr. Belloc very wisely warned his audience, is in divisions at home. This is a time for unity, and given that, we have ample faith, notwithstanding the sombre tone of many of the despatches that the Kaiser's desperate adventure in the Balkans will be foiled.

Professor M. E. Sadler, lecturing in King's College, London, said that he believed that the experience of the last fifteen months had been preparing the young people of Great Britain, to a degree hardly yet realized, for strong control by the State, but he thought that to set up in England the absolute authority of the State would be to give up all the very best influences for which England had stood in the past twenty years. "Was it too sanguine to hope that the fine tradition learned by many for the first time in the war might be reflected back into our industrial life, and that something of the spirit of the Guilds at their best might inspire, illumine, and transfigure modern industry?"

Mr. Lawrence Godkin in a letter to the New York World warns the American people that the Germans will shortly be at President Wilson "outwardly bluffing but really whining for peace," and there will be a German-made campaign in and out of the American press for peace. Mr. Godkin says that this will simply be another phase of the German campaign, as already manifested in the blowing up of American munition factories, the sinking of the Lusitania, and other ships bearing Americans, attempts to kill American bankers and "all other acts that an alien-hearted race can do here." Mr. Godkin expresses his opinion quite emphatically when he says that "there can be no peace acceptable to humanity until the Kaiser and his progeny are put off the German throne and his Junkers are squelched." This is the conviction of a distinguished American; it ought to be, as we believe it will be, the unalterable determination of the Allies to be content with nothing else.

Apropos of Mr. Asquith's caustic remark about the "professional whippers," the Westminster Gazette makes this delightful comment, with the London Daily Mail clearly in mind:

There happened to be a thunderclap just when the frog had come to the top of his pond and done his morning croak. "It's answering me," he said, and croaked again to bursting point. "He's answering us," said the professional whippers this morning, in dealing with the Prime Minister's speech, and proceed to fresh exercise in self-inflation and boosting vanity which, if any of their readers have a glint of humor, let alone a sense of propriety, should dissolve the whole whimpering business in ridicule.

TREASURED.

There are so many things to make me glad; Remembered music, snow and daffodils; A one-day meeting with a bare-foot lad With two limp-hanging fish (such pride he had) And once-trod foot-rails high among wild hills.

There are so many things to make me good; Easters, and Junes, and frelight reveries; And August shadows in a fragrant wood; And swimming in cool waters, oh, and trees That spoke to me as only comrades could!

There are so many things—each laughing day More sweet with little gladnesses has been; A friend's hand touching mine, a word to say, A laugh to hear, a flower along the way; And memory to keep my treasures in!

—Mary C. Davies, in "The Epworth Herald."

Other Editors' Opinions

THE WAR'S LOSSES AND ITS DURATION.

General Francis V. Greene, U.S.A., retired, having carefully studied all available evidence bearing on the war losses, included his findings in an address to the West Point cadets.

General Greene estimated that the entente allies have lost in killed 1,036,000, in wounded 1,846,000, and in prisoners and missing 1,235,000—a total of 4,117,000. The losses of the Teutonic allies and of Turkey he puts at 1,030,000 killed, 1,780,000 wounded, and 1,020,000 in prisoners and missing—a total of 3,830,000. A little more than a year has reduced the combatant strength of each side approximately 4,000,000. Some of the wounded will return to the ranks, but the greater part will not, for General Greene has excluded the slightly wounded from consideration.

The number of males of military age in any country physically fit for war is usually put at 10 per cent. of the population, although Germany asserts the percentage of her availables is higher than this—about 12 per cent. Counting Germany at 12 per cent. the total number Germany was able to enlist when the war began was 7,800,000. Since, something like 500,000 German boys have attained a military age. Deducting from the German losses of 1,900,000 the 500,000 in the new class, and it appears that Germany's availables are now 6,400,000. If these figures are correct the net German loss is 18 per cent., and at the present rate of destruction the last German soldier would be killed, wounded, or a prisoner in something more than four years.

Of Austria's availables of 5,000,000, a liberal estimate in view of the hostility of a large part of her Slav population, 1,800,000, or 38 per cent. according to General Greene, are out of the conflict. Austria is thus theoretically able to hold on at the present rate of loss for two years. As to Turkey, it is probable her continuance in the war will be determined by strategic considerations; so it is not necessary to estimate how long she can endure attrition.

On the other side, the loss of France is put at 1,400,000, with total availables at the beginning of the war, counting the excellent military material of her colonies, of 5,000,000. France thus has but 28 per cent. of her manhood into the war. Allowing for the new classes of recruits, she could theoretically hold on for three years more.

Great Britain, counting English-speaking colonies, was capable on the 10 per cent. basis of raising for army and navy approximately 5,000,000. Of this number she has lost 392,000, or only a little more than 6 per cent.—not as many as have come of military age since the war began. Great Britain at the present rate of loss can thus keep up the struggle indefinitely.

Russia had approximately 17,000,000 availables at the war's beginning, and, despite her 2,200,000 losses, has now almost an equal number of availables. In Russia, where families are large, something like 1,500,000 boys have come to military age during the war.

The Italian losses thus far have been small—only 1 or 2 per cent. of her 2,500,000 availables.

If the Greene statistics are anywhere near the truth it would seem that a year or more of attrition will reduce Germany and Austria to hopeless inferiority. Despite German valor and efficiency, when the tide once begins to turn against them it is likely to flow fast. The German staff seems well aware that once the German armies are pushed back to the German frontier they are beaten, for every mile of German territory occupied diminishes Germany's power of resistance. The supreme strength of Germany is apparently being put forth beyond her borders in the hope of victory, and also in the hope, if the worst comes and Germany feels compelled to submit, little physical harm will have been done to the Fatherland. Germany, in view of what has occurred in Belgium, France and Poland, prefers to lose, if she must, while fighting on foreign soil.

In estimating the potential strength of the combatants it is necessary to take into consideration facts other than the number of potentials. Great Britain, France, Italy, and Russia to a large degree are able to import military supplies, while Germany and Austria must make or produce them at home. No small part of the German availables must be kept out of the firing line to manufacture things to supply the army. The work cannot all be altogether done by old men and women and children. It is probable that Germany must retain a half million of her availables in her war factories—men whose skill is absolutely necessary if munitions are not to fail. For the entente allies, doing similar work, as many as a half million throughout the world are working, releasing an equal number of Britons, Frenchmen, Russians, and Italians for military service. The preponderance of the entente allies is greater than is indicated by a comparison of population figures of the belligerent countries. The possession of sea power and the ability to buy abroad is easily worth 1,000,000 men to the entente allies.

The opinion is now generally held that the war is to continue indefinitely. The figures of General Greene do not support this view. They rather suggest, barring miracles or the entry of new factors, it cannot last more than a year longer. If the conflagration rages with the rapidity of the last fourteen months it will burn itself out before 1917.—New York Times.

WATERS' DRUG STORE

213 Front Street

Trial Court.

Before Falconbridge, C.J.

Blohm vs. Hayes; Hayes v. Blohm F. E. O'Flynn, Belleville, for Blohm A. Abbott, Trenton, for Hayes. Action by Blohm for damages for non-performance of agreement to deliver a certain number of apples of a certain quality and action by Hayes in County Court to recover $399.80, balance of purchase money and damages. The action was consolidated.

Judgment. I find all the facts stated in the evidence of Hayes and his wife. Without hesitation I would accept the testimony of Hayes, even without his wife's corroboration. In preference to that of Blohm, on grounds of demeanor and the circumstances, Hayes' account of the transaction is the real bargain. The contract, should it be necessary, be reformed, as Blohm's conduct amounts to a fraud upon Hayes. The result will be that Blohm's action is dismissed with costs. Hayes will have judgment for $399.80, plus $10 damages, $409.80 with costs. Hayes will have an order to take out of court the sum of $182.20 and interest and apply it pro tanto on his debt. Fifteen days' stay.

HELPING THE EMPIRE TO UNDERSTAND INDIA

Colonies Should Not Despair an Ancient Civilization, Declares Indian M.P.—India's Valuable Trade

A strong campaign for a better recognition of India's loyalty and importance in imperial affairs is being made by Sir Krishna Gupta, M.P., the only Indian member of the British Parliament. Sir Krishna writes as follows: There is a tendency, especially in self-governing colonies, to cast all Indians in the same fold with the savage races, forgetting that in Indian civilization goes back to a time when Greece was scarcely known and Rome was not born, and when the nations of Europe were steeped in ignorance and barbarism, and that it reached an eminence which has not yet been surpassed. Hegastheyta, who was the Greek Ambassador at the court of the illustrious Indian Emperor Claudia Gupta in the third century before Christ, found that the people were pious, fruitful, contented and thriving, and that the relation between King and subject was that of father and son.

The excellence of the Sanscrit language and literature is a matter of common knowledge, and one has only to refer to the Vedas, the great epics and to various works on logic, theology and philosophy. Sanscrit literature is also rich in drama and poetry while its grammar is one of the most scientific in the world, study of which in Europe led to the foundation of comparative philology. As the inventors of the numerical figures, which were introduced into Europe by the Arabs and by which the whole world reckons, and of the decimal system based on these figures, the Hindus became the greatest calculators of antiquity, just as the Greeks were the greatest geometers. From the very earliest times the Hindu sages have concentrated their trained minds to the consideration and solution of the inner problems of life and to the inculcation of a high sense of duty performed without desire for reward.

Great Religion. Out of the four great world religions India has given to the world two—Hinduism and Buddhism. She has been the birthplace of many religious preachers and reformers who have left their mark for all time. In the writings and teachings of the Rishis of India may be found some palliative for the feverish pursuit of the pleasures of the flesh and some remedy for the unrest and discontent, which threaten to break western society to pieces.

The people of India undoubtedly have fallen from their high estate, but even in their present condition they are not to be classed with the savage races or treated as inferiors. Both in intellect and physique they are able to hold their own with the other subjects of his majesty; and there need be no hesitation to accept them as fellow citizens of the greatest empire that ever came into being. Coming to more material tests, the value of the exports and imports of India is a little less than a fourth of the aggregate value of the exports of the United Kingdom and is far ahead of that of any other part of the empire. Most of the foreign trade of India, especially in imports, is with the United Kingdom, and the material gain which thus accrues to this country is very much more than a negligible quantity, any diminution of which would be seriously felt in the British Isles.

Trained Our Great Men. India likewise is the training ground of Britain's best soldiers and civilians. The hero of Waterloo won his first laurels on the India soil, and the late Lord Roberts was pre-eminently an Indian soldier, while it was in India that Lord Kitchener perfected his powers of organization. During the many decades of peace which followed the Crimean war the only region which afforded a practical training ground for the British soldier was the Indian frontier. It will thus be seen how from every point of view India occupies a very important place in the Empire.

The Wonderful Wristwatch

It is a marvel of minute workmanship. Some of its screws are so small that 130,000 go to the pound! The pivot of the balance wheel has a diameter measured by the two-hundredth part of an inch, and more marvellous still, in order that the pivot may have free play, the jewel hole into which it fits is exactly one five-hundredth part of an inch larger! What do you think the jewels in your wristwatch weigh? What is called a pallet jewel weighs a pound when there are 150,000 of them. The largest round hair-spring stud in your watch is four-hundredths of an inch in diameter and nine-hundredths of an inch in length.

You did not realize it now what a marvellous piece of human ingenuity and skill you were carrying about with you.

RAISE ANGORA GOATS

Government Pamphlet Gives Complete Advice to Canadian Farmers

"Most parts of Canada where live stock production prevails are suitable for the raising of Angoras, especially if the land is high and dry the greater part of the year. They will withstand the rigor of even the coldest winter and do not require any greater shelter than a shed to protect them from wind and storm, providing a sufficient quantity of nutritious food and pure water are supplied. The Angora goat performs a two-fold service in the Canadian scheme of farming. It produces a high grade of mohair and at the same time may be used for the destruction of underbrush on lands to be broken for subsequent cultivation."

Such is one of the opening paragraphs of a pamphlet of the Sheep and Goat Division of the Live Stock Branch of Canada devoted to the Angora Goat and a general discussion of the court of the illustrious Indian Emperor Claudia Gupta in the third century before Christ, found that the people were pious, fruitful, contented and thriving, and that the relation between King and subject was that of father and son.

The pamphlet gives a brief sketch of the origin and history of the Angora, which from being a native of Turkey in Asia has travelled somewhat extensively into South Africa, and is well known in the United States, and not as well known in Canada as desirable. Mohair, of which Turkey, in times of peace, supplies 10,000,000 pounds annually, South Africa 15,990,000 pounds, and the rest of the world 6,000,000 pounds, is the technical name given the hair of the Angora goat. The word is derived from the French "moher," and primarily from the Arabic "mukhayyar," meaning mohair cloth. This with a vast deal more information about a particularly useful goat, is furnished in the pamphlet under notice.

Nature and the necessary treatment for breeding and raising are set forth with details of market possibilities, of shearing, of grading and of preparation for shipment. Extracts from letters written by successful breeders in Canada and the United States telling of their experience are printed, as well as some account of the complaints to which the animals are occasionally subject, with advice as to preventives and remedies.

MARVEL IN MINIATURE

Perfect Landscape Painted on a Grain of Corn

Marvels in miniature are somewhat common, but the record in oil paintings must surely be held by Samuel T. Schultz, the world's champion painter in miniature, who executed a painting on a grain of corn. This painting, perfect in every detail, was done nearly fifty years ago, and apart from its face value has had a remarkable career. In the course of its journey to the various European capitals it was lost. Recently the miniature was located through an advertisement and was sent to America from Berlin.

The miniature presents a winter scene, executed with the great care and skill which made the artist famous. Schultz, who is nearly seventy years old, will never paint another picture so minute and yet so perfect. Schultz got his inspiration while attending the funeral of President Buchanan, at Wheatland, Penn., the home of the President, in 1868. On his return he plucked an ear of corn from a field on the President's estate. His first intention was to paint a miniature portrait of Mr. Buchanan on one of the grains of corn. After many unsuccessful attempts, he decided to substitute a landscape. The final result was a well-balanced snow scene, with a windmill on one hand, a chalet on the other, mountains in the distance, and a single figure to accentuate the effect of space and distance.

ONIONS FOR EVERY ILL

Make Persons Live Longer and Are Very Cheap

Eight persons out of every ten eat too much, and thereby die too early. Nine persons out of every ten eat too much meat, and thereby suffer in health and pocket. And nowadays ten persons out of every ten—financially if not for stomachic reasons—are searching for a substitute for meat. The substitute is—onions.

Like other things, they are dearer now, but are still from one-fifth to one-seventh the price of meat. And note this—7 pounds of onions are worth 1/2 food value—that is, in nutrition and sustaining power—1 1/2 pounds of meat. Regular onion-eaters rarely, if ever, fall ill from infectious diseases, and they are singularly immune from practically all ailments.

Onions, too, are a grand specific for the complexion. They should be boiled whole in milk—drink the latter—or steamed, and eaten with bread and butter and cheese. Then they make a satisfactory and nutritious meal, on which you can do brain work or manual labor. Try onions. The taste and after smell? A mouthful of hot coffee takes away both.

Battalion of School Cadets

Kingston, Nov. 20.—A splendid movement, which originated from E. E. Snider, principal of Port Hope High School is on foot to establish in Ontario a battalion of infantry composed of ex-cadets of the corps of School Cadets. Mr. Snider's idea is to have the battalion composed of young men from the ages of 18 to 23 inclusive and that it should be officered mainly from the Corps of School Cadet instructors. Should this movement become a reality there would be formed one of the new battalions of the service. All the young men who would join would be well versed in military discipline and manoeuvres, and in a short time they would be a crack unit. It is understood that Col. Hemming is entirely in sympathy with the movement and Major Geo. Gillespie, Instructor and Organizer of Cadet Corps in this division, approves of it. The feeling that predominates in the city is that there are a number of ex-cadets who are in a position to join the new battalion. These young men are all of exceptionally good character, and it is felt that the young men in the other parts of the Province are of the same calibre.

PARDONED TO ENLIST.

Roscoe De Wolfe, of Athens, who some time ago became mixed up in an illicit liquor case, and received a sentence in the Brockville police court, of a fine of $300 or three months in jail, has had his sentence remitted to permit him to join the colors for service overseas. When the sentence was pronounced he was given time to pay the fine, and failing to do so, was recently placed in jail to serve the alternative of three months. Friends at Athens intervened in his behalf, and a petition for clemency was circulated, with the result that the Attorney General suspended the sentence on the condition that DeWolfe enlisted for overseas service. He was released and at once enrolled at the armouries.

Mrs. Thos. F. Oulton Passed Away

The death of Mrs. Thos. F. Oulton took place in Toronto General Hospital recently. Only a short time previous she suffered the loss of her only child, and was suffering from a malady from which she had suffered for two years past. On Thursday her condition had been reported favorable and the end came as a great shock to her family and friends. Annie Catherine Harris was born in Madoc township in 1866 but has resided in Campbellford since her marriage to Mr. Oulton, and during that time made many friends and acquaintances, who held her in high esteem. Besides her bereft husband, one son, Charles, and two daughters, Misses Kathleen and Evelyn, at home, mourn her death. Her father, Mr. Robt. Harris of Belleville, two brothers, Mr. Robert in the West, Mr. Fred in the States, and seven sisters, Mrs. Rose of Belleville, Mrs. Hamilton of Strathroy, Mrs. Ackerman, of Toronto, Mrs. Fred Dunning and Mrs. Arthur Dunning of Strathroy, Mrs. J. Cramp of Coboville, and Mrs. J. D. Wilson of Campbellford, also survive.

NO GERMANSON WOLF ISLAND.

Wild and unfounded stories of the presence of Germans on Wolfe Island, who have strongly entrenched themselves, have been circulated in Watertown and the press of that city has fallen for the thrilling stories of Germans being on Wolfe Island. According to the story told in Watertown, there are supposed to be Germans on Wolfe Island who have built caverns so constructed that they would defy any of the "Canadian aeroplanes." It is also stated that the places are to be used for stores. The story is in line with other tales told of the activities of the Germans in nearby places. In the summer the students of Star claimed that there were three surveyors who spoke German and broken English, who were charting the region around the lake for military purposes. Dr. Spangle, Reeve of the island, says the story is "absolutely absurd."

A NEW WRINKLE ON CATCHING FISH.

Lindsay disciple of Isaac Walton has struck a new idea by way of catching fish, without hook or line and as he has a patent pending on the invention he is not afraid to give the secret to the public. He will place a mirror in the water of the lake or a stream, and in front of it a plate glass slating at an angle of 45 degrees. The bait will be placed between the two. As the fish approaches he will see his image in the mirror, and, thinking it is another fish that is after the coveted morsel will act promptly by making a quick dash for the bait, striking the plate glass and sliding up into a net placed at the top.

Lt. J. H. Patton is on duty today at the barracks, Sergt. Caille "A" Co., and Corporal Loyer "A" Co. are also on duty.

PETERBORO COUNTY TO HAVE A BATTALION

The offer made by the Speakers' Patriotic League of Peterboro has at last been taken advantage of, and Peterboro County will raise a whole battalion of men. Thursday night the league met to discuss the request of the Government that they raise a battalion, and stood by their former offer. As a result the 93rd Battalion will not only have its headquarters here, but will be recruited from Peterboro County. This will mean, of course, that "C" and "D" companies of the 93rd Battalion at Lindsay and Cobourg will have to be transferred to other units. It is generally accepted now that the Lindsay company will form the nucleus of the 109th Battalion but no suggestion is yet made in regard to the Cobourg company. In connection with the recruiting for the latter company, it might be said that only a start has been made and so far but a handful of men have enlisted there. Peterboro was the first county in Ontario to volunteer to raise a whole battalion and at first they were only granted the privilege of raising two companies. Now, however, that the Government has seen fit to avail themselves of their offer, the Patriotic League feel that this county will not disappoint the authorities. Provision for only half a battalion can be made at the Armouries so that other arrangements will have to be made for over 500 men when the battalion is recruited up to full strength.—Review

ALLEGED FARMER MARRIED NIECE

The romance of Samuel Adams, a well known farmer residing at Fenella Post Office, north of Cobourg, came to an abrupt ending when he was placed under arrest by Chief Ruse on a warrant issued in Toronto charging him with perjury in connection with the securing of a marriage license. Sunday afternoon he was taken back to Toronto in charge of Detective Cronin and lodged in the Court St. Station. Later he was released on bail. The charge on which Adams was arrested arose out of the allegations that he married his niece. The crown claimed that he went to Toronto to claim and met the girl there. The two went to an issuer of marriage licenses, where it is stated Adams swore that the girl was no blood relation to him, and he was immediately and, following the ceremony, took a train for the bridegroom's home at Fenella.—Cobourg Post.

THE MEN WHO ARE DYING FOR YOU

Nothing can quench the love of freedom in the heart of man. Here are three stories which help us to appreciate the spirit of the men who are living and dying for you and me. The first is of a private in an Irish regiment, whom a visitor found in a hospital. He had been very badly wounded; it is said there was hardly a whole bit of skin on his body. "That's a bad case. What are you going to do with him?" said the visitor. "He's going back, sir," replied the ward orderly. "Going back!" echoed the visitor in tones of surprise. "Yes, sir, he believes he knows who did it," gravely answered the orderly. The next story is of the sea, where one of our destroyers lay pitching in a raging gale with her engine in distress. The commander ordered that oil should be poured on the troubled waters, and the seaman who carried out the order was suddenly washed overboard. But the returning wave washed him back again, and as he picked himself up on deck he saluted his officer, and quietly said, "Very sorry, sir; lost the bucket!" The third picture is drawn for us by an Italian scholar who has been to see the British trenches. Our men, he says, live with heroism and dig with dignity. One day, he writes in an Italian paper, a whole regiment shouted to their comrades in some distant trenches, "Are we downhearted?" And there was an instant's pause. Then a blood-stained spectre raised himself from a trench, shouted "No!" with his last breath, and fell back—dead!

Believes Deceased is His Uncle

A despatch appeared recently in the press to the effect that one, Thos. Fallon, had died in South America recently, leaving a fortune estimated between $15,000 and $50,000. An effort is being made to locate relatives, and Mr. Lawrence Fallon, of Lindsay, believes the deceased was his uncle, who bore the same name, and who went to South America some years ago. Mr. Fallon has taken steps to secure further particulars.

PROMOTED TO OWEN SOUND BRANCH

Mr. H. A. Thomson, manager of the Molson's Bank in Trenton for some time has been promoted to the management of the Owen Sound branch of the Molson's. Mr. Thomson who has been one of the active leaders in Trenton will be deeply missed in the social and financial life of the town. He has been secretary of the Board of Trade, a body which has done much to promote the industrial development of Trenton. The Canadian Club likewise is indebted to his industry. Mr. Thomson will leave to take up his position on November 30th.

HOW TO CURE RHEUMATISM

The Disease Is In The Blood and Must Be Treated Through The Blood. There are almost as many ways of treating rheumatism as there are doctors. Most of these treatments are directed at the symptoms and are considered successful if they relieve the pain and the stiffness return particularly if the patient has been exposed to dampness. This shows that the poison was not driven from the system by the treatment employed. Rheumatism can be relieved in a number of ways, but there is only one way to cure it, and that is through the blood, expelling the poisonous acid that causes the aches and pains and stiffness. To renew and enrich the blood there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which go right to the root of the trouble and cure rheumatism as it is cured. The following is an example of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can do in cases of this kind. Mr. Henry Smith, St. Jerome, Que., says:—"For several years I was a victim of rheumatism in a most painful form. The trouble was located in my legs and for a long time was so bad that I could not walk. The suffering which I endured was only to be imagined by those who have been similarly afflicted. Doctors' treatment did not help me and then I began trying other remedies but with no better results. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and although I had begun to lose faith in medicine, I finally decided to give the Pills a trial. I am very grateful now that I did so, for after taking eight boxes of the Pills the trouble completely disappeared. I was free from pain and could walk as well as ever. I did not lose my life, as well as take the Pills occasionally as a precautionary measure and I cannot speak too highly in their favor. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WALKED FROM MONTANA TO JOIN SOLDIERS

That he had come all the way from a Montana ranch to enlist, and that he had walked the distance from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., to Coldwater, Ont., a 400 mile tramp, was the remarkable story told by Harry Windish, a young Englishman, who enlisted with the 83rd Battery at Peterboro Wednesday. Windish arrived in this city Tuesday, going there from Lindsay, with a kit consisting only of the clothes he was wearing. Windish said he was born in England and had had some military training with the Suffolk Yeomanry. For the past seven years he has been a resident of the United States, and has been employed on a ranch in Montana. When he had decided to enlist he determined to send his wife back to the old country, and this took nearly all the available funds the young man had saved. He said that he had just enough money left to purchase a ticket to the Canadian border, and when he reached Sault Ste. Marie decided to walk to Toronto.

WOUNDED SOLDIER WELCOMED TO BELLEVILLE TODAY

Trooper Murray Patterson Arrived by C.P.R. at 2.18 p.m.—Troops Were at Depot.

Trooper Murray Patterson, of the 18th C.M.R., one of the most popular Belleville young men, who enlisted at the call of duty and was wounded at the front, arrived in Belleville at 2.18 this afternoon by the C.P.R. He was accorded a grand reception, the 80th battalion being at the depot with many citizens to greet him. Trooper Patterson moved away from Belleville some years ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Patterson to the west. When war broke out he enlisted at Portage La Prairie. He was first with the 6th Battalion and later with the Royal Canadian Dragoons. A shrapnel shell splintered his ankle. He was taken to England for treatment. The train arrived a little ahead of time, but a large crowd welcomed the returned soldier as he stepped from the train. He was using crutches, as he cannot rest his left foot on the ground. After many had greeted him he was escorted to an automobile driven by another returned soldier, Bombardier Blaylock. A procession was formed the 80th Battalion leading; then came the car with the wounded soldier and other cars in which were Mayor Panter, military officers and citizens. The route of march lay along Dundas, Front, Pinnacle streets and Victoria Avenue. As Trooper Patterson is going to stay in this city for a few days the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Sinclair, Victoria Avenue, their residence was decorated with flags and bunting, and preparations were ready to receive him. When the soldiers reached the residence, they formed companies on both sides of the avenue and as the car with the returned soldier passed through the aisles of infantrymen, cheers rang out along the lines. Trooper Patterson was introduced to the officers of the 80th after he had taken his stand in the porch. Meanwhile the band of the 80th played "O Canada." Despite the heavy rain many were on the streets to aid in the welcome to the returning hero. Murray Patterson was a well known local hockey player a few years ago.

$6,000 FIRE IN THURLOW OCCURRED AT MIDNIGHT

House, Barns, Stock Destroyed—Three Horses and Fifteen Head of Cattle Burned—Second House Had Narrow Escape.

(From Friday's Daily) A disastrous fire swept away a great deal of valuable property shortly before twelve o'clock last night on the eighth concession of Thurlow at Zion's Hill. How it originated is not known, but in spite of their efforts the building was totally burned. Mr. Job Clapp retired last night about nine-thirty and two hours later awakened to find his large barn ablaze. Such a start had the flames gained that to extinguish them or save any of the contents was impossible. The barns which were well stocked with the season's crops were entirely destroyed. Besides three horses and fifteen head of cattle were burned to death. The loss is estimated at $3,500 with but small insurance. Mrs. Charlotte Lloyd's house which is nearby became ignited from the fire at the Clapp barn. Neighbors were able to save a part of the contents of the house but in spite of their efforts the building was totally burned. The blaze then spread from the Clapp barn to the barns of the neighbors who formed a fire brigade, worked heroically and with great difficulty managed to save the dwellings. The total loss caused by the conflagration is figured at $6,000.

A Health, My Lads!

Here's to them all Who answered the call From the Province of Old Quebec. Down, Down, Drink her down! French in his name, He is British the same, From the Province of Old Quebec. Let's drink the Midland Province then Her sons are all of them among men. Down, Down, Drink her down! For here's to the strong That came in a throng When the 80th went on the warpath. And here's to the boys from the Plains of the West, From Manitoba to the Golden Coast They are Canada's Pride and Canada's boast. Down, Down, Drink her down! Their shooting's to kill, And their fighting's like hell, Our lads from the Plains of the West.

Wedding Bells.

A very pleasing event took place at Grace Church parsonage, Trenton on Thursday evening, Nov. 11th, 1915 when Mr. Earl Derry was united in marriage to Miss Hazel Irene Dafeo youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Dafeo. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of blue silk and was attended by her sister, Miss Blanch F. Dafeo. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Hedy V. Derry, while the beautiful ceremony of the Methodist church was performed by Rev. G. E. Ross. The young people are both of Trenton and highly respected. They took the train for the east the same evening, followed by the best wishes of a large circle of friends and showers of confetti.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETING BROUGHT TO AN ABRUPT CLOSE

Lieut.-Col. Barragar's Leave of Absence From Queen Mary School--High School Boys Making Modern History.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The Board of Education last evening held its first meeting since September 15th, and a rather interesting session it was because of the discussion of the place of the German language in the High School curriculum and the unusual manner in which the session was brought to a close. The greatest interest was taken in the debate on many important questions.

The members present were Lt.-Col. W. N. Ponton, chairman; F. E. O'Flynn, C. M. Reid, L. R. Terwilliger, Miss F. S. Denoon, L. C. Farnsworth, P. J. Wims, B. Mallory, Geo. T. Woodley, John Elliott and T. E. McKechnon.

Miss W. Cunningham of the Q.M.S. suggested the school management committee recommended the appointment of Miss Elva T. Buchanan at an initial salary of $650 per annum to begin in January.

Your committee further recommended that Mr. Victor Bullock be continued in his position as assistant master of Q.A.S. until the termination of the present school year at the same salary.

These clauses of the report were adopted.

COL. BARRAGAR AND PROVISIONAL SCHOOL

The committee "having considered the letter of Col. Barragar in reference to Lieut.-Col. Barragar's leave of absence recommended that his leave be granted until January 20th, 1916 without salary after the first of January."

Col. Barragar in his letter had requested that Lieut.-Col. Barragar be given a leave of absence as long as necessary to continue his work of instruction of young officers at Kingston.

Lt.-Col. Barragar may be kept in Kingston for some time because of the formation of so many new regiments. He has already held four classes of instruction of over 45 officers each and larger classes are expected.

Lt.-Col. W. N. Ponton's letter to Mr. R. G. Peever, K.C., was read. Col. Ponton stated that as Lieut.-Col. Barragar was so valued an officer to the division, the Board was willing to give leave to Jan. 20th, the probable termination of the next class, but suggested that as Col. Barragar was commanding officer of the 15th of Belleville and of the provisional school, the next P.S.I. be held in Belleville, because we have an infantry regiment here.

Col. Ponton spoke on the matter in the board meeting stating why the P.S.I. should be brought to Belleville Ottawa street school building could be put at the service of the P.S.I.

The recommendation granting leave to Lieut.-Col. Barragar until Jan. 20th, 1916, was adopted.

The recommendation for certain supplies such as those required in the art department at the Belleville High School was adopted.

Metal strips will be ordered for the Q.A.S. and Q.M.S. windows. The cost will be about $15 per room. The expenditure is limited to $150.

The High School enrollment is now 238. The principal's report drew attention to the deaths of Leo Ross and Cecil Bowyer, recent students of the Belleville High School.

More lights are required in the High School. Owing to the large attendance, more rooms are required for classes. These rooms will be lighted, in accordance with the board's order.

The penny bank report showed deposits per pupil as follows—Q.M.S., 12c; Q.A.S., 24c; Q.V.S., 24c; average 21c.

Economy by letting children deposit money in the penny banks was urged in a circular from Ottawa. All the deposits go to Ottawa. The funds really belong to Ottawa.

Miss E. J. Guest, M.A., asked for leave of absence from Jan. 1916 to Sept. 1916 in order to conduct research.

Col. Ponton moved in favor of granting the application, the school management committee to work out ways and means.

Mr. Elliott moved that the matter be referred back to school management. The amendment of Mr. Elliott carried.

A sewing circle was authorized to meet in the Queen Alexandra school assembly room. All their work will be sent to the soldiers at the front.

The question of Strathcona shields was referred to the committee of printing and supplies to report.

"What would constitute our school a collegiate institute?" asked Mr. C. M. Reid.

Col. Ponton said the area of the grounds and the building did not fill the requirements.

An equipped gymnasium also would be required said Mr. Deacon.

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

It tells how a dragon was shot through the chest with a shell which did not explode when the latter was hit, but later exploded killing a sergeant.

"I am glad to be back in Belleville the old town again," said he.

At present he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Sinclair, Victoria Ave. and is at Belleville. He will go on to Winnipeg to see his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Patterson. He is under six months' medical observation.

St. Andrews Night at Trenton

On St. Andrew's Night, Nov. 30th the 33rd anniversary of the Trenton and Murray Union St. Andrew's Society will be celebrated with a grand Scottish night and patriotic concert at Weller's Opera House, Trenton in aid of the Red Cross Society. The finest talent in Canada has been secured.

High Price for Cheese

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Cheese sold on Belleville Board today at 17-8 and 17-16. The board will meet again next Saturday. The amount of cheese boarded today was 800 boxes.

Market Report

(From Saturday's Daily.)

This morning's market bore indelible traces of the effect of the wet weather. The outside show was unusually small even for a stormy day, while the indoor market was only fair.

Hay with the scarcity, stiffened in price, $18 per ton being asked, only a couple of loads "volunteered" to come to town this morning.

In most lines prices looked firmer. Baled hay quotations remain at $16.50 but still the outlook is for higher.

Butter quoted at 33c to 35c today. Eggs were plentiful at 34 to 35c per dozen.

Pow! was plentiful at 90c per pair upwards. The opinion is expressed by wholesalers that the market will improve and that the holiday trade will be good.

Grain prices are stationary, though the market is better than for some time past.

The hide prices are unchanged, hides however are poorer in quality because of stabling.

The apple market is very firm. From 33 upwards is the wholesale price for apples in general. Northern Spies are worth $4.50 per barrel.

Potatoes today were lower, $1.25 per bag as against $1 per bushel last Saturday.

Meat cutting is increasing on the market. Beef had quarters-wholesale at 11.00 per cwt; pork at 12.00.

Live hogs are quoted at 8.90; spring lambs are worth 15c lb to the trade.

Honey is quoted at 11c to 13c per pound.

There was plenty of order "aboard" today.

Military Notes

A. R. Hewitt has been transferred today from the recruiting depot to the 80th Battalion.

The name of the Trenton young man who enlisted and loaned his auto to the recruiting staff of Belleville is Sgt. Wm. Ingham. An error occurred in Thursday's issue in the spelling of his name.

The orderly office of the 80th battalion has been supplied with a new rack for documents.

The following officers, who have been attached to the 80th Battalion for duty and instruction have been appointed to the 109th Overseas Battalion, to be organized at Lindsay, Lt. A. R. Fairburn, 41st Regt.; Lt. R. S. Cross, 47th; Lt. A. W. Aschline 14th; Lieut. W. Campbell, 15th; Lt. G. C. Faithful, 64th; and R. L. Barclay 41st Regt.

Owing to the inclement weather, the 80th battalion carried out its syllabus of the day in the armouries and on the drill ground.

The 80th battalion did physical drill at the usual time in spite of the rain.

Orderly officer on Sunday is Lieut J. H. Ait; orderly sergeant, Sgt. Krupnow; "B" Co.; orderly corporal, Corporal Blackburn; "B" Co.

Lieut. Bates is granted leave of absence until Tuesday next.

The Third Division will be laid out in eight areas.

There are now seven overseas battalions in the third division as follows—59th, Kingston; 77th Ottawa; 80th, Belleville; 93rd, Peterboro; 109th Lindsay; 190th, Lanark; and the 193rd, Durham.

The Standard says of conditions in Kingston:

"That several peddlers of whiskey are reaping a harvest by the sale of bottles to soldiers is the claim of a well-known officer, who while discussing the action of fining a man $300 at Belleville for selling liquor to an 80th man, stated that prosecutions here would also likely develop. The officer stated that it was a well-known fact that bottles were being distributed for a financial consideration and in fact several local men were getting fat on the job.

"The liquor dealers are out of bounds so far as soldiers are concerned and are not to blame in any way but individuals have and are making a practice of the illicit traffic. The military authorities state they will demand the maximum fine which is $500 on the first occasion."

Lieut. Huyoke, 33rd Battery, who is recruiting in Picton, has reported that he is meeting with success.

Capt. Hamilton, 33rd Battery and Lieut. O'Halloran, 32nd Battery, have returned to Kingston after a business trip to Belleville.

Four hundred miles is a long tramp but it did not dampen the enthusiasm of Harry Windish, an Englishman, who walked from Sault Ste Marie to Peterboro by train, where he enlisted with the 33rd Battery. According to his story he had been living in the United States and after deciding to go to the front sent his wife to England. The expenses ate up most of his money as he purchased a ticket from Montreal to the Sault and then commuted to walk to Toronto. At Coldwater a railway man hearing his story gave him a free ride to Peterboro and on arriving there he signed up with the 33rd.

It is no wonder that the men of the 80th battalion are hearty looking and their cheeks for they surely get a good bill of fare from the sergeant cook and his staff.

Three times this week for breakfast the men have had fried bacon, twice baked pork and beans, twice vegetable and once hamburger steak. Every morning besides they have bread, butter and coffee.

Vegetables and potatoes are served daily for dinner. The main dishes besides are pea-soup and roast beef, or chicken and either jam or cheese plain stew or Irish stew and vegetable soup, or pea-soup and baked fish. Fri-

S. S. Teachers Received Reports

A representative meeting of the teachers and officers of the Belleville S. S. assembled last evening in the Y.M.C.A. to hear reports of the Jubilee Convention recently held in Toronto. Rev. A. S. Kerr acted as temporary chairman in the absence of the president, Mr. A. E. Bailey. After reading and prayer by Rev. A. M. Hubby, the president arrived and gave a short address in which he highly lauded the work of the teachers and said that youth may be inspired with divine truth more than at any other age. He also referred to the effective work of Miss Hitchen, the secretary. A report on "Work for Girls" was given by Miss Nina Yeomans; solo, Miss Forman; report on Boy's Work—Mr. Jones; report and address on "Opportunities of Teachers during the Teen-Age"—Miss Forman. The roll call of the schools followed and "Echoes from the Convention" were given by Rev. J. N. Clarry and Rev. S. C. Moore. The banner won by the Belleville S. S. Association was presented by Miss Hitchen. Rev. Mr. Moore conducted a S. S. Conference which was taken part in by Rev. A. M. Hubby, A. E. Bailey and G. T. Woodley.

Body Has Not Yet Been Identified

Does Not Have Appearance of Member of Crew of Tug.

The body of the man found near Concession lighthouse several days ago with a lifebelt from the missing tug "Frank C. Barnes," round his waist, still remains unidentified at Miles Undertaking Parlors, College Street Toronto. A number of people whose relatives are missing, have viewed the body but so far it has not been recognized. The Canada Steamships Line is anxious to have the body identified as it is then hoped to be able to get some line on the fate of the tug. The corpse is that of a man between thirty and forty years of age the features of which have been slightly disfigured by the water but they are nevertheless recognizable. The man possesses a perfect set of natural teeth, while the smoothness of his palms indicates that he had not been employed in manual labor.

His presence on the tug, however, would be explained by the fact that it is not unusual for captains to allow men to work their way on board ships from port to port. The finding of a part of the wheelhouse of the ship has been confirmed by a wire from Oswego, N.Y. The wreckage was found a few miles from the lighthouse, which is about seventy miles from where the man's body was found.

Soldier Marries Indian Maiden

More than usual interest was attached to a wedding ceremony in the George Street Methodist Church parsonage Peterboro, this week, when Rev. R. G. Peever, B.D., united in marriage Pte. Joshua Blaker of the 33rd Battalion and Miss Susie Howard, both formerly of the Hiawatha Indian Reserve.

After the ceremony the band of the 93rd serenaded and escorted the happy couple to the armouries, where a presentation was made to them on behalf of the groom's comrades in arms.

The groom is a trombone player in the band, and is very popular. The gift, a beautiful clock, was presented by Sgt. Major Miller, to the accompaniment of rousing cheers for the newly weds. After congratulations had been extended, bride and groom left for a short visit to Hiawatha, the latter being given extra leave.

Khaki Club.

The Belleville Women's Rifle Club gave a musical evening on Wednesday last at the Khaki Club for the men of the 86th Battalion. Professor and Mrs. Wheatley who were in charge were assisted by Miss Higgs (violin), Miss MacDonald, Miss Walton, Mr. McKay and Mr. Cook. The men were very enthusiastic in joining in the choruses. Cake and coffee were served by the President, Executive and six members of the club.

BEAVERS NEAR OSHAWA

Mr. D. A. Valléau, Superintendent of Oshawa Railway has on his desk and proudly exhibits to all his comers a stump of a poplar tree cut down by the beavers at T. S. Edmondson's near Tooley's Mills. The residents, who represent Canada on its Coat-of-Arms, have very sharp teeth as is evidenced from the clear cutting of the stump. It is a puzzle to those in the know if this beaver colony has merely migrated in search of pasture ground or whether its members were those of a camp on this ground say, fifty years ago.—Vindicator.

MARMORA'S NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL.

On Monday the public school was reopened and the classes which have been held at the fair ground and in other halls moved into the new quarters. The new building appears to be meeting with the hearty approval of the citizens. The idea of having all the classes on the ground floor has proven to be better than was expected and has many advantages over a two-storey building. The class rooms are large with plenty of light and are attractively finished up. Each room has blackboards around three sides of it. The teachers' rooms and library are situated in the front of the building. If the grounds can only be fixed up next spring in a manner appropriate to the building the school corner could be made one of the show places of the village and one the citizens might well be proud of.

ADVERSE VOTE ON UNION

The vote on church union at Warkworth Presbyterian Church resulted as follows: Elders, for 1, against 5; communicants, for 12, against 110; adherents, for 3, against 13. This shows an increased majority of 21 more votes against union five years ago.

Mrs. Eleanor Ward, Everett Street is seriously ill, her condition is very precarious.

Why Germany Cannot Triumph

If Germany is not defeated in a series of pitched battles upon the western and eastern fronts she will be defeated by the process of attrition, just as the Southern Confederacy was defeated by Grant. Lee himself said that his own lines were worn so thin that they broke. They were not shattered; they collapsed. The time will come when the German armies will be outnumbered by two to one, and when they will be no longer able to replace killed or wounded men with reserves. Up to the present time the German, Russian, French and Italian armies have remained about the same size as they were a year ago. The French army is almost at the point where it will decrease in numbers. The British army has grown from 150,000 to more than one million. The Austrian army has begun to diminish. Within a few weeks it seems certain that there can be no further German increase; the reserves will be barely sufficient to fill the gaps of war, and the lines will be no longer able to hold their present positions. They will begin to contract; while the armies of the Allies will continue to expand. It is merely a question of time when the Teutonic alliance will be outnumbered two to one.

Man Power of the Nations.

Writing on this subject in the New York Tribune, Mr. Frank Simonds calculates the original man power of the warring nations, their losses and the general military situation next Spring or Summer. In countries where the armies are raised by conscription it is estimated that one-tenth of the population is fit for military service. Germany, therefore, could supply 6,750,000, Austria 5,000,000, Italy 3,500,000, France 4,000,000 and Russia 17,000,000. Great Britain has raised about 3,000,000 under the voluntary system. In other words, the Central Powers had 11,750,000 available soldiers, as compared with 27,500,000 of the Allies. He makes no calculation regarding the Turkish, Serbian, Belgian and Bulgarian armies, for allowing for the half-million men the British have available for this theater of war, the rival forces are about equal.

Slowly Approaching Defeat.

Germany knew from the outset, of course, that her only hope of winning against these odds was to defeat her enemies separately, to conquer France and force her to make peace before Russia got fighting and then to wheel upon the Russians. This plan has utterly failed. It is essential to remember that neither side could use at first all or even half of its numbers. If the whole man strength had been hurled into the firing line there could have been no reserves, and the armies would have grown smaller every day. As a matter of fact, the German armies have numbered between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 for the past year; the armies of Russia about 2,000,000, and of France about the same number.

Half German Armies Gone.

It has been calculated by the French Government that the net German losses a month, that is, the number of men permanently eliminated by death, capture or disablement, amount to 250,000. If this calculation is correct Germany would have lost 3,750,000 out of her total 6,750,000 leaving her now with 3,000,000 soldiers, or something less than the number which, it is generally believed, has been the average figure for her active armies during the war. In that case the German armies have already begun to shrink. According to calculations made by British experts, Germany loses up to Nov. 1 amounted to about 3,000,000. Germany's own claims indicate a loss of 2,400,000. The only material difference in these figures for the purpose of this article is that, according to the French figures, the German decline has already begun, according to the British figures it will begin about the New Year, and according to the German figures it will begin next summer.

The Inevitable End.

Of course the other warring nations have lost in about the same proportions to the number of men engaged, the Russians and Austrians probably more. Taking the British method of calculation, Mr. Simonds finds that on April 1, 1916, Germany will have armies of 2,300,000 men, the French will have 1,550,000, while besides the diminishing French army will be a British force of 1,000,000, and reserves capable of supplying all the casualties, as well as another half-million men for service against the Turks or wherever they may be needed. This, too, is exclusive of all volunteers from the Dominions and colonies. In other words France and Britain would have between them on the western front armies greater than the whole of the German forces left in existence. Austria would have 1,200,000, Russia 2,000,000 all the men she can handle, with reserves to keep up this strength for years, and Italy

MACHINE GUN Turned on Patrol

Trooper Murray Patterson of Portage La Prairie who was welcomed to Belleville yesterday afternoon by the 80th battalion and citizens in official and private capacity, this morning told a representative of The Ontario Times his experiences.

Enlisting at Portage La Prairie in the 18th M.R. when war broke out, he went to England with the first contingent. There the cavalry joined the Royal Canadian Dragoons. Trooper Patterson being in "A" squadron, he went over to France from England without horses about May 3rd and there we were going to strengthen the first division at Ypres and that we would get our horses later. But we did not. There is very little opportunity for cavalry.

"We saw about two weeks in the trenches before I was hit. For myself I saw very little experience in the trenches. We were put in a hot corner to work as infantry at Festubert." This engagement which lasted from May 18 to May 29 was a fierce one as far as shells were concerned, but there was no gas. "I was not at Ypres but boys who were there said there was no comparison between the shelling at Festubert and that at Ypres. The Germans at Festubert did not seem to know when to stop.

"There was not a great deal of creeping around the first and second lines as things were too hot. The Germans were only a hundred yards away and at one time were right into the communication trench, a little distance from "A" Squadron. I was out with a reconnoitering patrol on the night of May 24th about nine o'clock. There were four of us, and we were not out of the trench more than five yards when a machine gun was turned on us."

Trooper Patterson's left leg was struck by a bullet, which shattered the bone leading to the ankle. He taken into the trench and at midnight was taken out. He has had two operations on it since and expects to have another one. Mr. Patterson believes he will recover the use of his ankle although now he is unable to walk any weight upon it. By way of Rouen and Havre he went to England, staying in the Royal Military Hospital at Devonport until August 8th, whence he was removed to Shorncliffe Hospital. There he remained until Oct. 15th and then went to Shorncliffe barracks. He left England on Nov. 5th, arriving with a party of 840 soldiers at Quebec on Nov. 14th by the Metropolitan.

Trooper Patterson's three companions on the patrol escaped without accident. "The Germans threw bullets around promiscuously. You don't know whether they are firing at you or not. Often as you are marching along the road you hear the rattle of a machine gun. They often fire a belt or two to see if they can get anything."

At the front he saw Captain O'Flynn and Ponson and the Belleville boys in the infantry and artillery.

Suffered Severe Fracture to Hip

Mrs. John Fair, 75 years of age fell down stairs at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. A. Moffatt of this city, sustaining a severe fracture of the hip. The accident occurred about five o'clock last evening. She tripped in some manner at the top of the stairs and falling to the first landing to catch the banister and then fell all the way down to the bottom. Mrs. Moffatt hearing her screams ran to assist her and found her mother lying at the foot of the stairs suffering intense agony. By procuring assistance they managed to get her up on a couch near by and hurriedly summoned a doctor who advised her immediate removal to the hospital by ambulance. There everything that was possible was done to relieve her suffering, and she is doing as well as could be expected considering her age and the nature of her injury.

Enlists and Loans Car to Recruiting Staff

One young man in Hastings County is willing to make a double sacrifice, not only by giving himself to fight his country's battles, but also by loaning free of charge his automobile to the local recruiting officers. For the use of the staff in getting from place to place this man is W. T. Tughran, of Trenton. He is a young man who has been in the automobile livery business for some time. He came to Belleville and enlisted this morning and was transferred to the 80th. Then he put the touring car at the disposal of Capt. Bilecker and Capt. Ponton. Lieut. Wallace, Sergt. Douch and Sergt. Sandford of the local depot.

Letters to The Editor

Belleville, Nov. 17th, '15
Editor of The Ontario,
I am sure your many readers are greatly interested in the appeal being made on behalf of the Home Guard by Mr. J. F. Walls and Mr. W. C. Mikel in your recent issues, and no doubt successful results will ensue from your appeal, for there are few men who do not realize the great danger with which the Empire is now threatened. The Right Hon. David Lloyd George, when chancellor of the British Exchequer, made the following statement that "We are fighting Germany, Austria and Drink and so far as I can see, the worst of these three is drink." He knew what the war meant and he knew also what the liquor traffic does. He spoke with patriotic feeling for the welfare of the Empire he was serving so loyally and well. His words have echoed round the globe and fostered military experts and private citizens vie with each other in their efforts to bring law into right relationship with the evil that has been so forcibly denounced. And who among us would dare to challenge the truth of the statement as made by Lloyd George, and yet of the 5000 males of whom Mr. Mikel speaks as many being eligible for training in the Home Guard the great majority of these are seemingly indifferent to the ravages of this greater evil, the evil of the Liquor Traffic.

Auto Struck Bike On Front Street

Percy Cleveland, riding a bicycle on upper Front street near the Kyle House was struck by Lt.-Col. Marsh's auto driven by chauffeur a few minutes after six last evening. The bicycle was badly smashed, the rider fortunately escaping serious injury. One version of the story is that the driver of the auto was not to blame.

Death of Mrs. James McHenry

On Sunday, Nov. 14th death claimed for its victim one of the most highly respected residents of Richmond in the person of Mrs. James McHenry, born in Sidney in the year 1849 and living all her life in the vicinity of Trenton and Richmond. Mrs. McHenry had endeavored herself to every one by her charity and her lovable disposition. Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves two sons, Daniel of Lonsdale and John at home. A brother, Mr. Thomas Downs lives in Toronto; a sister, Mrs. Ann McHenry lives in Chelyenne, Wyoming; another sister, Mrs. George Reddick at Chatham, and another, Mrs. J. K. Walsh at Sheridan, Wyoming. The remains of the late Mrs. McHenry were buried at Marysville. Rev. Father McGeough officiating. The pall bearers were Mr. Philip Shannon, Mr. Bluff, Mr. McCarton, Mr. Killoran, Mr. Finnegan and Mr. McCarton.

Miss Mabel McPherson of Sidney visited her friend, Miss Rose Bellay on Tuesday. Mrs. George Dafeo of Harold is spending a week in the city visiting friends.

So Says Capt. Ponton About Capt. G. Richardson.
(Kingston, Ont.)
Capt. R. D. Ponton is resting in the General Hospital, feeling quite comfortable. He will have to remain quietly in bed for several weeks while the healing process goes on. When I am home I will have two good legs to walk with," remarked the sturdy young officer. He is greatly pleased with the attention given him by the doctors and nurses. He occupies room 16 in the Empire Wing. "I have been through French and English hospitals," he said, "and they have nothing on you for care and attention in the Kingston Hospital."

Drowned While Deer Hunting

Bancroft, Nov. 16—Arobie Kidd, son of Walter Kidd, the well-known hunter of the Burleigh road, Hastings county, was drowned at Bell's Lake, Cardiff township, about 11 miles from here, on Saturday. While at dinner the unfortunate young man and his brother, Wetz, saw a large buck in the lake and took after it in a very frail canoe. In mid-lake the heavy waves swamped the boat. The one brother reached an island in an extremely exhausted condition, but the other sank 50 yards from shore. Great sympathy is expressed locally for the father, whose home is a winter resort of the hunting fraternity, and a large party are dragging the lake for the body, which has not as yet been found.

To Graft Skin on Lieutenant's Arms

Lieut. Donald McCargar who was burned in the destruction of a tent on Barriefield some time ago is making satisfactory progress, considering the terrible nature of his burns. On his arms skin grafting is necessary. While the muscles were affected by the burns, the doctor says there is every indication that Lieut. McCargar will regain their entire use. Miss Theda McCargar, a young sister of the unfortunate officer, has gone to Kingston and is now in the General Hospital to make a plucky sacrifice to assist her brother. It was expected that she would yesterday undergo an operation to have skin removed to be grafted upon her brother's arms. The operation however was not performed yesterday but will take place today or in the course of a few days. Miss McCargar's willingness to undergo this ordeal is equalled by that of her younger brother who desired to submit to the like operation for his brother's sake, but he will not be allowed to do so on account of his tender age.

Death of Mrs. W. Storey

The death occurred very suddenly Monday as a result of heart trouble, of Mrs. Storey, widow of the late William Storey, at her home, Hampton Court, Avenue road, Toronto. The late Mrs. Storey was born 67 years ago at Holyk, Scotland, the daughter of Robert Leok, and had lived in the northern section of Toronto for over 40 years. She was a member of the Bloor street Baptist Church and had also attended the mothers' meetings in St. Paul's Anglican church for 26 years. Four sons and four daughters survive. They are Messrs. W. J. Robert, George and Charles Ernest; Mrs. Thomas Jickles; of Bloomfield; Mrs. J. Green, of Leimbrun Mills; Mrs. T. A. McKinley and Miss Marie Storey, of Toronto. Mr. Willie Rummels of Harold was a guest at Jas. Bailey's recently.

Military Notes

Major Gillespie who has charge of cadet corps says that prospects for a Line cadet cadet would be excellent in the division as there are 118 corps with a total of 4,000 cadets.

Although it is understood that 3,000 men are required for overseas mechanical transport corps no request for men from this division has been received.

At the suggestion of the St. John Ambulance Association, all units of the Canadian expeditionary forces are to receive instruction in first aid work before being sent overseas. The proposal in general outline is that three to five competent instructors selected by the provincial councils of the association, will be appointed for each division or military district. They will have the rank of sergeant, and wherever a unit is being trained an instructor will be sent. The training will embrace such subjects as first-aid, hemorrhages, insensibility, artificial respiration, bandaging, and methods of carrying the wounded. The appointments will be made within the next ten days.

Major Gardner at Barriefield stated that while no official word had been received it is understood that forty of the men involved home on the Mississippi will be sent to this district to recuperate.

Private G. S. Welsh of Moira and J. E. Reddick of Trenton were transferred from the local recruiting office to the 80th Battalion.

It is expected that recruiting for the 130th Lennox Battalion, of which Major de Hestel is O.C., will commence immediately.

Frank A. Robertson, Trenton, has enlisted under Major Stroud, Kingston, so that he will be able to go overseas with his brother in the squadron, R.C.H.A.

Private J. McKay at present employed on the paymaster's staff of the 80th Battalion has been appointed sergeant in "D" Co., Picton from the 1st Inst.

The following men of the 80th have been appointed acting sergeants:—Private G. N. Wilkin, whilst employed in Napanee canteen; Private N. A. Burnie, whilst employed in Picton canteen and Private F. J. Scott in Belleville canteen.

The 80th Battalion is on a route march this afternoon into the country along the fine highways of Hastings.

Capt. Watson, adjutant of the 80th proceeds to Picton today on Battalion business.

A number of the officers, N. C. O.'s and men of the 80th went to Stirling and held a recruiting rally. Thence they have gone to Hoard's.

The strictest scrupulousness in dress on the part of the men of the 80th is desired, especially in regard to buttons, shoes, great coats and belts. The regiment is composed of an excellent body of men, whose pride will show in their personal appearance when they are walking out in town.

Bayonet exercises are an interesting feature of the drills this morning on the Armouries lawn. The officers of the 80th were given careful instruction at Barriefield by Sergt.-Major Cuthbert and are now able to impart that knowledge to the men under their charge.

The following men have been appointed as fire picket in addition to the Pioneers who are always available in case of fire. (A) Co.—Privates H. Brown, P. Bowie, A. Fuller, B. Munns, W. Foster, L. Rosenberg, J. Baker, J. Pecor. (B) Co.—Privates J. Chant, T. Cook, F. Hardaker, L. Houlihan, R. Krigerson, F. Hladesh, B. Hudson, J. R. Jennings.

HEATHENISH CONCEPTIONS OF GOD IN CHRISTIAN COMMUNITIES

Editor The Ontario.—
Dear Sir,—Your strictures on some things which lately appeared in your columns concerning Divine retribution in the hereafter were exceedingly well put and most needed. The writers seem to have an entire misconception of the terms suffering or pain or punishment, they evidently conceive of punishment inflicted by a human court of justice as on a par with a retributing from the infringement of Divine law which rules the material and spiritual universe. Punishment as a penalty for wrong doing inflicted by a human agency is an entirely arbitrary thing which has no natural connection with the deed committed, whereas under the Divine order pain is the effect of wrong doing, here cause and effect are in the nature of things established by the immutable law of God which is unchangeable as to His intelligent creation, were it otherwise, uncertain or fluctuating, we could not be treated as reasonable beings. The constancy of law is the unerring guide for the advancement of intelligent creatures toward a higher sphere of existence. St. Paul said "The law is a schoolmaster to bring us to Christ," to right living according to His life and example, but surely this law is not arbitrary such as a schoolmaster might punish a child for doing wrong. God is presented to us in Christ as a God of love, He loves and prizes all His creatures though they know or unknowingly, grievously err. "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." These who talk glibly of God punishing His creatures here or hereafter represent Him as a vindictive tyrant and would logically lead to devil worship. Pain arising from the infringement of nature's laws is for man's good and for nothing else than for his good. If we did not feel pain by wounding our flesh or feel regret and pang of conscience for lying or ingratitude, the race could not long exist, we would destroy ourselves by our actions and perish utterly. Jesus said to His disciples "I have many things to say to you but you cannot hear them now but you shall know hereafter." Here He told of the advancement of knowledge. Since that light has arisen upon us in the material world in every direction. Then the earth was believed to be the center of the universe, the sun and stars revolving around it, but a comparative few years ago, to mention this conviction and belief. In this religious doctors condemned men to

EX-ALDERMAN ROBINSON WOULD LIKE TO BE INFORMED BY PASTOR RUSSELL

Editor of The Ontario:—
Dear Sir:—In The Ontario of Oct. 26th, a letter of mine appeared in which I presented some expositions in reference to the word "Devil" as found in the Bible. In doing this I made some comments on the teachings of Pastor Russell and his Bible students in relation to this subject, particularly as to their belief concerning Lucifer (Isaiah 14). Since my letter appeared I have been reading an article of Pastor Russell's, which appears in The Watch Tower of Oct. 15th, (Mr. Russell's magazine) giving an exposition of "Our Lord's Temptation in the Wilderness," from which I clip the following: "Jesus knew Satan—He knew that Satan was Lucifer, who had rebelled against the Divine Government, and who was imprisoned on this planet. When Satan appeared to Jesus, we may be sure he tried to appear as an angel of light, and to pretend that he wished to be on God's side, and that he now wished to co-operate with God. But Jesus knew that His power was not given Him for the purpose of sustaining His life, and He would not yield to the temptation. "Therefore Satan next took Him to a high mountain—this was in the spirit of their minds—and showed Him how he—Satan—was 'the prince of this world' and all the kingdoms thereof. And he said, 'You see, then, that I have the power to help you. Can you afford to be without such assistance?' I am in sympathy with you. You will save mankind and deliver them all from death. Instead of your having to suffer, as God's plan is, we will work together, and you shall not have to suffer. But first, you must acknowledge me. That was the way I started out. I wanted to show what kind of a kingdom I could set up. I said, I will ascend into Heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God; I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north; I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the Most High. I will have an empire of my own. I advise you to come in and share with me. I will give you all the glory you could ask. I intend to be a prince of this world. Do you not see that everything is in my hands?" "But in these temptations Jesus conquered. And the victory was so complete that Satan thought it not worth while to tempt Him again! He thought that if he could not move Jesus when He was on the verge of starvation, it was of no use to try any further. So he never made another attempt, so far as the record goes."

Now, Mr. Editor, the writer desires to get some information in relation to two or three features contained in the above; and no doubt some others of your readers will be similarly interested; and therefore, I trust that Pastor Russell or some one of his International Bible Students will be kind enough to furnish the desired information asked for in the following questions: First, Where is the Bible proof that Jesus knew that Satan was Lucifer? Second, Where is the evidence that the adversary that tempted our Lord had rebelled against the Divine Government and was imprisoned on this planet? Third, Please mention the portion of Scripture which states that the "prince of this world" is the devil or Satan of popular belief, or of the Pastor Russell teaching. Fourth, What authority has Pastor Russell for putting the words of Isaiah 14: 13, 14 into the mouth of Satan, when God's inspired prophet represents the king of Babylon as making use of the language in these verses? Any one reading this chapter without prejudice cannot help but come to this conclusion if the reader is at all clear in intellect. Now, Mr. Editor, when we find a man professing to expound the Bible for the benefit of mankind, as Mr. Russell does, making such a glaring mistake and misrepresentation, as is intimated in the latter of the above series of questions, must we not logically come to the conclusion that it is quite possible, yes, even probable, that his teachings may contain other erroneous ideas or doctrines? A. Robinson.

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich.—"I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong."—Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Trio of Varsity Men Take Aviation Course

Out of the middle and confusion into which the affairs of the local aviation corps have developed, there is shaping a more definite understanding at least as far as a few Varsity men are concerned. W. Lang, second year year, Vic. Ric, Rose, of second year U.C., and Bill Duggan, an Arts graduate of last year, among others, are practically sure of sailing for England this month to take up a course in aviation. A semi-official notice has been given that the first draft will go on November 28th.

Mr. W. Lang is a son of Professor Lang of Victoria and was successful both in his studies and in sport, having played on Victoria Mulock rugby team. He was a Certificate A man in the C.O.C. and it was for this account that he was admitted to the first draft. Bill Duggan, who is well-known in University circles, was president of last year's tennis team and took an important part in student affairs of the University. As there are a number of graduates besides those mentioned, Varsity will be well represented in the first draft.

Wedding Bells.

SHANNON—MEAGHER.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Charles' Church, Read, at 8.30 Wednesday morning, Nov. 17, when Lucy, youngest daughter of Mr. Catharine Meagher was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Thomas H. Shannon, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Shannon, Kingston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. V. Meagher, brother of the bride. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Dennis, was becomingly arrayed in a travelling suit of field-mouse grey broadcloth with hat to match. They were unattended. After the ceremony they motored to Belleville where they took the train for Detroit and other western points. They wish them bon voyage in their journey through life.

Police Notes.

Samuel Manning and Herbert Keller, strangers, accused of having been drunk, were discharged yesterday on the magistrate's order.
A hand bag containing two purses and a total of $18 or $20 was found and later claimed by Mrs. Sing.
A prayer book has been found with the name inside "Maggie O'Brien."
Mrs. Weese, Cedar Street, bought two bags of potatoes on Saturday at $1.25 per bag. She reports they have not been delivered.

Former Sidney Resident Dead

The people of the village of Warner, Alta., were much shocked and grieved to learn of the sudden demise of one of their oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Jas. H. Smith who passed away at his late residence, Warner on Monday, Nov. 1st, at the age of 75 years, 5 mos. Interment took place in Lethbridge Cemetery on Thursday, Nov. 4th.
Mr. Smith was born in 1840 in the fourth concession of Sidney, where he spent the greater part of his life. In 1904 he moved to Regina, and from thence in 1908 to Warner.
Being of a bright amiable disposition, he was revered and loved by all who knew him. In religion he was a Methodist and was a staunch supporter of temperance.
Besides his sorrowing widow, he leaves to mourn his loss, one son and four daughters. C. F. Smith, Lethbridge; Mrs. David Marshall, Warner; Mrs. C. H. Ketcheson, Davidson, Sask.; and Mrs. B. J. Hamann, and Mrs. Jas. A. Allin, Stoughton, Sask.

Shannonville Red Cross Society

The Ladies of the Red Cross Society of Shannonville held a very successful tea and shower recently in the A.O.U.W. hall. The people responded splendidly in donating gifts suitable for Xmas boxes to be sent to the boys in the trenches.
Sixty individual Xmas boxes valued at $1.00 each, 40 pairs of socks, sixteen day shirts, and other articles were packed and delivered at Belleville to be enclosed with goods being shipped from there by the Ladies of the Patriotic Society.
The Ladies of the Society with the assistance of Mr. A. Marks and Mr. Jas. Little also collected $120.00 to increase the amount $150.00 voted by the Tyndinanga Council for the British Red Cross Fund.

"Vot Tae Meet The Kaiser."

Frae North tae South, frae East to West,
Auld Scotland she sends o' her best,
For she'll ne'er see her freens oppressed,
By tyrants like the Kaiser.
The highland men the lowland men,
All Scottish men o' every ken,
Their services tae justice len',
They're out tae meet the Kaiser.

Swiftly they answer to the call,
Shoulder tae shoulder, pal to pal,
They gang abroad tae cast a squall,
At the feet o' the Kaiser.
The highland men, the lowland men,
All Scottish men o' every ken,
Their services tae justice len',
'Twill gae hard was the Kaiser.

GERMAN LANGUAGE IN BELLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Spirited Debate at Board of Education as to the Teaching of German—School Management Committee Will Deal With Problem.

The place of German in the Belleville High School was the main feature of the debate at last night's meeting of the Board of Education. Considerable correspondence was laid on the table a letter from Mr. C. M. Reid on the subject of the number of periods devoted to the study of the language of the Germans.
Principal MacLaurin's communication explained that in the upper school four hours per week were devoted to German and two and a half to French in the middle school five hours per week are given to German and seven to French. In the lower, French has five hours and German 3 1/2 not taught.
Col. Ponton was strong in his denunciation of the conditions which gave the study of German more time than that of French. A teacher might be more proficient in German unconsciously prefer to teach that subject.
He moved that the teacher and principal be instructed to give at least equal divisions of time to French and German.
Mr. O'Flynn said the option was French and German or some other study. German needs more study than French for proficiency. The department makes certain requirements and the scholars have to pass the examinations set by the department.
Principal MacLaurin said throughout the whole school the same amount of time was devoted to German and French. Very few are taking the German language this year. In the upper school there are some pupils who are not proficient in German and some of the spare periods outside of the timetable are devoted to German in order to coach these pupils.
In the upper school five hours per week are given to German and seven to French. In the lower, French has five hours and German 3 1/2 not taught.
No one would be more delighted than me, said Mr. Reid to see German eliminated. He thought Mr. O'Flynn's attitude was the correct one. Mr. Wims said although he desired to see German banished for ever, and all Germans driven out of the country yet he would not be so unwise to do anything that would injure the pupils.
Mr. O'Flynn moved, seconded by Mr. Elliott that the whole matter be referred to school management. The motion carried unanimously. A report will be brought in at next meeting.

MANY MORE DEER KILLED IN ONTARIO THIS SEASON

Total, it is estimated, may exceed 20,000, a Great Increase Even Over Last Year.

It is the opinion of travellers returning from the north that the slaughter of deer in Ontario this year will surpass any figure attained since game laws were first enacted. An unusual number of hunters crowded the northern woods, and the season has been a good one.
While there are as yet no returns to the Fish and Game Branch, it is stated that many more licenses were called for this year than in any previous season and that the issuing of these licenses by local agents has been brisk.
Approximately 14,000 licenses are issued annually, but this gives little indication of the number of deer killed as fully 75 per cent of the holders is estimated, fail to get there deer.
Past estimate place the number killed in a season at 15,000 or higher. Last year the number was substantially increased owing to the extension of the season until December 15th for settlers.
This year, however, it is expected that fully 20,000 deer, and possibly a much greater number, will have been killed at the conclusion of the season.
The increase is stated not to be entirely due to this extension of the season for settlers, however, sportsmen from every part of Ontario this season seem to have taken an unusual interest in game hunting.

Pleasant Evening at Marchmont Home

On Saturday evening a few friends were invited up to Marchmont Home to enjoy a very pleasant surprise entertainment given by the "Sniggle" family, four girls and two boys. This entertainment was given in aid of the Red Cross Society. Mr. Drummond acted as chairman and very ably filled that position. In his remarks he said, "The cause of our coming here tonight is a good one, and the word Red when broken up might stand for the following. The letter R might stand for Rescue, E. for Everready, D. for deserving, and we all know what the cross meant.

The program was a good one. Anthem—"Little Jack Horner"—by the Sniggle family.
Recit.—"One, Two and Three"—Miss Crusty Sniggles.
Tableaux—"A Scotch Fishwife"—"After Business Hours"—"Red Cross Nurse."
Recit.—"You're Old Father William"—Mr. Methusalem Sniggles.
Solo—"The Land of I Dunno Where"—Miss Apple-Cider Sniggles.
Interval—The selling of all kinds of candy, very daintily done up with red paper and white ribbon. (Music)
Tableaux—"Carrying the clothes to the wash"—"A Flower Girl"—"Women's Rights."
Recit.—"The Lark and the Rook"—Miss Apple-Cider Sniggles.
Charade—The audience was asked to guess the word which was acted in three parts. Mrs. Connor guessed the word which was "mendicant." This charade was certainly very instructive and interesting.
Recit.—"It"—Miss Jehosaphat Sniggles.
Song—"A Bee"—By Misses Crusty and Jenima Sniggles.
Then followed a series of Mrs. Jarley's Waxworks, and by her wonderful ingenuity, these figures performed all kinds of things. The figures represented were as follows:—Queen Elizabeth, Little Bo-peep, Queen of Hearts, The Piper's Son.

After two and a half's entertainment, we were all agreed that the "Sniggle" family were a very talented family. They had gone to a great deal of trouble, and great credit is due Miss Jehosaphat Sniggles for the way she conducted this very fine entertainment. Their parents should be proud of them all, and a great future is before them. They realized $5.00 and it gives the "Sniggle" family much pleasure in handing over this amount to such a noble cause.

Boys Found Flask and Drank Whiskey

One of the saddest sights ever witnessed on Belleville streets was that on Saturday night about eleven o'clock in the vicinity of Chatham street—four boys drunk, their ages being 9 years and upwards.
The police investigated and as a result had to bring one of the lads to the station, so weak was he. He had been staggering all over the sidewalk. Some boys who were helping them home got frightened and ran away. The police finally saw the others home.
The boy who was dead drunk was attended by Dr. Yeomans at the police officer's request for it was feared he might die. The physician had the youngster taken to the hospital at once so critical was his condition. There he remained all night and in early morning sneaked away from the institution in his night gown and by travelling along Herchimer avenue managed to get home.
The four boys had found a flask of whiskey on Bridge street where it had been hidden by someone and they drank its contents. The one boy got more than the others and while they were intoxicated, they did not show the effects of the liquor as he did. This morning the four were up in Children's Court before Magistrate Masson and were given a severe lecture. The magistrate told them they had no right to remove the liquor from the place where it was found, and was illegal.
The boys who obtained to be helping the others home were also before the court and were given a severe rating for keeping such late hours.
The lads were warned and the Children's Aid Agent will keep an eye on them.

Revive the Jaded Condition.—When energy flags and the cares of business become irksome, when the whole system is out of sorts and there is general depression, try Farnielee's Vegetable Pills. They will regulate the action of a deranged stomach and a disordered liver, and make you feel like a new man. No one need suffer a day from debilitated digestion when so simple and effective a pill can be got at any drug store.

Fowl Supper at Cannifton

The fowl supper and concert in Cannifton proved most successful. The Methodist church had the function of their auspices. About four hundred and fifty were in attendance. Tables were laid and supper served in the Orange Hall. The spread was deeply enjoyed, for it was a magnificent one in which the ladies won much praise. A programme was presented in the church, Mr. W. D. M. Shorey of this city being in the chair. Addresses were given by Mr. Shorey, Rev. P. M. Wilson, Rev. S. A. Kemp, Enterprise and Dr. J. A. Faulkner. The Pleasant View orchestra rendered some music and Mr. Gaseley of Belleville played cornet solos. Other numbers of the programme were given by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Bell, Miss Gunn, Mrs. Aiken, Mr. Stillman Gay, Mr. B. Martin, Miss Stubbs, Miss McCullough, Miss Mills, Miss Reid and Mr. Honeywell.

All Ontario Club Bars to Close at Eight

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS EXPRESS OPINION THAT THEY WILL ACT VOLUNTARILY

Confidence prevails in the minds of the Ontario License Commissioners that all club bars in Ontario will be voluntarily closed at 8 o'clock. Chairman J. D. Flavell and Commissioner Dane of the Ontario License Board, who paid a flying visit to the Parliament Buildings after their session at Barrie, told the press that they were very hopeful of the board's request being generally complied with. As to banquets and suppers, the Chairman of the License Board said commensurate would rule. They trusted to a bona-fide carrying out of the regulation, but there was no intention to sweep the tables of bottles and glasses sharp at 8 o'clock where a dinner is in progress. "We have no desire to pursue a policy of persecution," added Mr. Flavell. "There may be one or two clubs in the province that have not gone on record yet," said Mr. Flavell, "but they are cases where we have not got into touch with them."

OBITUARY

PAUL S. COONEY.

Mr. Paul S. Cooney passed away at his home at Ivanhoe at the age of 57 years. Up to the time of his illness he was a faithful worker in the Methodist church. For the past year he has been a great sufferer but was very patient. He will be much missed by his many friends. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and two sons, Charles W. and E. Earl, of Ivanhoe; also two brothers and three sisters, Adam Cooney, of Stirling; Jacob Cooney and Mrs. L. Keene, of Madoc; Mrs. A. Runnalls, of Harold; Mrs. J. Williamson, of Stockdale. The funeral service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Bick, at Bethesda church, interment taking place at White Lake Cemetery.—North Hastings Review

GADSBY'S LETTER

OTTAWA, Nov. 17.—Time is taking its revenge on the Borden Government. The sins of its youth are coming home to roost. Pontius Pilate, it will be remembered, could wash his hands of his troubles, but the Borden Government finds it not so easy to be free of its early indiscretions. For instance, there are the Nationalists with whom the Conservative party formed a league in 1909 to divide Quebec and defeat Laurier. The gospel of the Nationalists in 1915 was that the Naval Service Act was a thinly veiled plan of England's to drag Canadians from their homes and send them as cannon meat to the seven seas. Of course one of the objects of the act was to enable us to defend our own shores and make it largely unnecessary to send Canadian armies to Europe to defend our shores from that distance, as we are doing now in Flanders, and elsewhere. But the Nationalists did not see it in that light and closed their eyes to the truth. The eyes of many are as yet shut, in which respect their eyes resemble the mouths of their leaders at Ottawa who ceased shouting as soon as they took office. However, there is no doubt that there are now a few of the Nationalist leaders and most of the Nationalist followers believed what they preached. At least one leader was sincere enough to imagine that the Conservative party would keep its promises and that the Nationalist doctrine would be represented by something more than four Cabinet Ministers, three of whom could be trusted to put the soft pedal on, when a Cabinet portfolio was the inducement. He was in hopes that Nationalism would be an article of the party creed. When this did not turn out as Mr. Monk wished and expected, he renounced his office, resigned all honors and titles, and withdrew from public life. Thus did Mr. Monk show himself, the one faithful, true man in that rollicking band of place hunters who called themselves the Nationalist leaders.

The party arrangements in the House of Commons made room for Mr. Blondin, he who would have shot holes in the Union Jack, and as Deputy Speaker he voted with as much joyousness for these Dreadnoughts to be furnished by Canada to England, as he had spoken previously on the hustings against a navy for Canada furnished by herself. It is hard to see just where the nationalism is in that vote of Mr. Blondin's, but he seemed able to reconcile it with reason and his expressed opinions, as did also Messrs. Pelletier, Nantel, and Codrere who were ministers in the Crown and felt their position keenly, even more keenly than they did their previous convictions. As a matter of fact the Government could at all times depend on the vote of the Nationalist members of the Cabinet. If the Government had asked them to vote for a conscript army to be sent overseas to conquer China in a Canadian navy handled by present men they would have done so quite cheerfully. Moreover, they would have made a virtue of it by explaining that they did it from a sense of duty to their high office. Come what may, the Nationalist leaders would stick to the ship of state as long as there was a dollar in the hold. As it was with the Nationalist leaders in the House of Commons, so it came to be with the Nationalist rank and file. For a time there was a disposition among seven or eight of the younger and more very members, as urged by Mr. Severyn to stand up for more or less glorious principles and make a fight of it, but wiser counsels prevailed, and when a Cabinet shift lifted Mr. Severyn into the position of Deputy Speaker, the last ounce of starch was taken out of that pocket revolution. As time went by the Nationalist leaders and followers in the House of Commons were asked to swear on their principle after another, all of which they did quite cheerfully, knowing that they were on the sunny side of the fence and that there must be a

An Initiated Family.

It would seem to be a fashion in the Knollys family to derive Christian names from initials. Major "Frank" Knollys, who has died from wounds received in the Dardanelles, got his nickname from his initials, his full name being Frederick Roger Alexander Nicholas Knollys. His cousin, Mrs. Allan MacKenzie, who was Miss Louvina Knollys, derived her name from the first letters of the names of the three Princesses, Louise, Victoria, and Maud.

Why Do Not Girls Have Pity on Young Officers?

"If some of our Toronto girls don't show a little more sense, some of our boys will soon be as hard pressed as the proverbial Prussian officers," remarked the maiden aunt of a young lieutenant the other day. "You know it's all very well for girls to be proud to be escorted around by a fetching young officer in uniform. But do they ever stop to think just what a drain it must be on the resources to those said young officers when their charms ensnare some giddy young thing of the present day. Of course girls are thoughtless or they would think that a young lieutenant's pay will not last long on a two-dollar theater tickets, little dinner, afternoon teas, and flowers. Yet that's what some of our girls expect. How many of them ever stop to think that many young Canadian officers cannot afford to keep up the traditional gaiety of British officers with huge family fortunes behind them. Let the girls remember that many of our very finest young officers were men who were heroes enough to renounce good salaries in order to accept the meagre position of a lieutenant's pay. And while it will be the last person to have them imitate one of them, still I think some of the girls might be a little more thoughtful than they are in trying to have a good time."—Toronto Telegram.

The Call to Arms!

By Capt. A. Ketterson, Chaplain of 80th Battalion.

Hear the clarion call of duty
Coming ringing o'er the sea;
'Tis the call of dear old Britain,
She is calling you and me.

Hear the tramp of armed soldiers,
And the beating of the drum;
As our gallant boys they march away,
To fight the barbarous Hun.

To fight and die in Freedom's cause,
That British love so dear;
To face both shell and bayonet,
With hearts that know no fear.

They stand as heroes every man,
In the trenches wet and cold;
Yet still they fight and nobly die,
Like warriors true and bold.

"Your King and Country need you!"
And shall you a coward be?
Then join the ranks and forward march,
And cross the deep blue sea.

And stand beside those noble men,
Who, too, have heard the call,
And left their homes and loved ones dear,
To fight where brave men fall.

Breezes From Foxboro.

On Saturday evening the Foxboro folks turned out in their usual enthusiastic manner to watch two of their soldier boys Private Jack Bell and Private Eugene Lake. The boys were carried on the shoulders of their friends and deposited on the platform of Gowsell's hall. The band was in attendance and provided very enjoyable music. Addresses of a patriotic nature were given by the Rev. Mr. Goodwill, Rev. Mr. Jones, Rev. Mr. McLeod and Dr. J. A. Faulkner, while Dr. D. W. Faulkner occupied the chair. The Rev. Mr. Goodwill and the Rev. Mr. McLeod then came forward and presented Private Lake with a wrist watch on behalf of his friends and Mr. F. P. Sine performed the same ceremony to Private Bell on behalf of the band of which he has been a member for some time. Foxboro is very proud of her soldier boys who have enlisted from our village and feels that she is doing her bit and will still do more for the dear old mother land.

I wonder does any one know how hard the ladies of Thurlow are working these days for the Red Cross, organizing Red Cross Societies and getting ready to make up garments for our wounded boys at the front, soliciting the men for their subscriptions for the Red Cross fund (which is their part of the work to give) and just but by no means the least, preparing for a monster bazaar in which it is expected all Thurlow and also the sister townships will attend. One has only to look at the bills to see what is doing. The bazaar is the afternoon of Nov. 25th with a grand tea meeting and concert in the evening at Foxboro. The whole thing is on such a large scale that it will take both churches to accommodate the affair. Your correspondent only wishes that space would permit to tell what is being done and also going to be done but if the readers come to the bazaar in Gowsell's hall and also attend the tea meeting and concert they will be greatly enlightened as to the work done and have a most enjoyable time.

In connection with the bazaar several contests have been planned and splendid prizes will be given. The list of prizes is as follows: Bean contest, the prize to be a beautiful brass jardiniere donated by Dr. J. A. Faulkner. Cake contest, 1st prize a live caserole donated by Mrs. J. A. Faulkner; 2nd prize, berry spoon donated by Mrs. I. B. Gay. Selling tickets, 1st prize a cut glass bowl donated by The Stroud Tea Co. of Belleville; 2nd prize a valuable bottle of perfume donated by J. S. McKeown druggist of Belleville. Dressing Doll contest, 1st prize, glass salt and pepper shakers with silver tops, donated by Mrs. C. A. Gardner; 2nd prize a high glass jelly dish donated by Mrs. J. C. MacFarlane.

Judge Annals $69,339 Will

Being satisfied that Isaac Moody was not in a fit mental condition when he made his will disposing of an estate of $69,339 on 14th April, 1914, two months before he died at the age of 90 after three paralytic strokes, Mr. Justice Hodgins has dismissed an action by the National Trust Company asking that the will be admitted to probate. The will was disputed by Albert and Alf Moody, son and two daughters, Mrs. Harriet Allan and Mrs. Elizabeth Robertson and undue influence was alleged on the part of some other members of the family. His Lordship held that there was no evidence of undue influence having been exercised. In regard to the contention that deceased could have made the will in a lucid interval his Lordship says: "Evidence on this point must be clear and there is no such testimony submitted to satisfy me. The criticism of the will is, I think somewhat justified. The testator devoted a considerable amount to charities in which he had shown no interest and it cannot be forgotten that he omitted certain members of the family who might naturally be included."

In the annual will bequests of $1,000 each were left to the Institute for the Blind at Brantford, the Ontario School for the Deaf, Home for Incurable Children and Gravenhurst Sanitarium.

In the Supreme Court of Ontario

Sexsmith vs. McMah. This action was tried by a jury before Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, at the sittings here. The plaintiff, a resident of Tyndinaga, sues the defendant for damages for malicious prosecution and arrest. The plaintiff an old and respected resident of the county, was charged by the defendant, who resides in Lennox and Addington, with having stolen a bull and included it in a shipment of cattle which he was making to Toronto purchasers from Napanee. Mr. Sexsmith was honorably acquitted at the trial and now seeks reparation for the injury to himself and family and character through a charge being made, as he alleges, without reasonable or probable cause. Many witnesses were called on both sides, and the learned Chief Justice reserved judgment. Northrup and Ponton for plaintiff; McCarthy, K.C., J. English, and E. J. Butler for defendant.
