BRITISH ARE STORMING VIGOROUSLY THE LAST OBSTACLE TO LILLE

Infuriated Over the Lusitania Disaster, British are Fighting With Greater Vigor and More Fiercely Than Ever Before.

London, May 14.—Officers arriving from France tell that the British troops, infuriated over the Lusitania disaster, are fighting with greater vigor and more fierceness than ever before.

LAST OBSTACLE TO LILLE. "On the next sector, that of the Aubers ridge, the action has been of a quite different nature. Following around Armentieres and Houplines, both of which places are now under heavy bombardment, we were enabled to launch an attack upon the ridge, the last obstacle between us and the plains which lead to Lille, some five or six miles away."

SEEN THROUGH THE EYES OF A PERISCOPE ON A SUBMARINE

The photograph was made by placing a camera in front of the eyepiece of the periscope while the submarine was submerged and taking a time exposure.

BANNERS REMOVED

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, May 14.—The banners of the Garter of Emperor William of Germany and Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria were removed to-day from St. George's Chapel, Windsor, without ceremony. At the same time the banners of the King of Württemberg, the Grand Duke of Hesse, Prince Henry of Prussia, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and the Duke of Cumberland also were taken away. These are the Germanic sovereigns and princes whose names were yesterday ordered stricken from the roll of the Knights of the Garter, the famous English order instituted by Edward III. in 1348. St. George's Chapel was closed while the removals were being made.

BRITISH ARMY NEEDS MORE EXPLOSIVE SHELLS

Seriously Hampered All Attacks on the Enemy's Lines.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 14.—A strong plea for greater supplies of ammunition is made by the Times correspondent in Northern France. He attributes chiefly to the lack of an unlimited supply of high explosive shells the disappointing results of British attacks Sunday in the district of Fromelles and Richebourg. By way of contrast he records the fact that the French, who co-operated in a combined movement against the German lines, fired 275 rounds of high explosives per gun in one day, and levelled the German defences to the ground. The correspondent says: "It is important for an understanding of the British share in the weeks operations to realize we are suffering certain disadvantages which make striking successes difficult to achieve. Two armies, those of the Crown Prince of Bavaria and the Duke of Württemberg are still in our front holding at full strength lines, which are supported by formidable artillery and are not to be taken easily. Secondly, we are still suffering from the aftermath of the first gas attack at Ypres.

"At Fromelles and Richebourg we found the enemy much more strongly posted than we expected. We lacked high explosives to level his parapets. When our infantry gallantly stormed the trenches they found a garrison unharmed, many entanglements still intact and maxims on all sides ready to pour in streams of bullets. We were unable to maintain ourselves in the trenches won and our reserves were not thrown in because the conditions for success in assault were absent. "Until we are thoroughly equipped for this trench warfare we attack under grave disadvantages. If we can break through the hard outer crust of German defences we believe we can scatter the German armies, but to break this crust we need more explosives, more heavy howitzers and more men."

NOTHING LESS COULD BE ASKED.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 14.—Hardly any London morning papers have yet commented on the American note. The Chronicle, in a brief editorial, thinks that the unofficial forecast of the note should be received with reserve, but says if it is correct it shows that President Wilson is adhering firmly to the spirit of his original declaration with reference to strict accountability. "Nothing less," says the Chronicle, "could well be asked than a guarantee for the cessation of the illegal and barbarous submarine policy, and all turns on the degree of firmness with which the request is made. For that we must await the official publication."

PARKS BOARD COMMISSIONERS

Take Guests on a Tour—The Desirability of Acquiring Mohawk Park.

The Park Commissioners, with some guests, yesterday afternoon made a tour. Those present included Mayor Spence, Messrs. C. H. Hart, W. R. Turnbull, H. F. Leonard, A. K. Bunnell, E. L. Good, F. Cockshutt, T. H. Jones, E. L. Cockshutt, A. G. Montgomery, F. Frank, G. S. Matthews, T. E. Ryerson, S. P. Pitcher, Minshall, P. Graybill, William Glover, John Fair, J. J. Hawkins, and F. Unger.

Starting out from the city hall about three o'clock, the route taken was along the river dyke and through Agricultural Park out onto the Farmington Road. When the party reached the Bell Homestead, they were served with tea and dainty refreshments.

Then the commissioners examined the fine old orchard beside the homestead. The general opinion was that the trees should be pruned and taken care of, for it would greatly improve their appearance, and have a tendency to give the trees a longer life. Next by way of Hamilton Rd., Mohawk Park was reached. Riding leisurely through the old place, its fine natural beauty was evident every where. By steadily improving the park every year, the city could soon have one of the finest recreation grounds in Ontario. But the Street Railway Company's lease expires on June 1st, and the only way the city could get control would be to purchase the grounds.

A brief consultation was held at the park, and everyone expressed himself as being highly in favor of purchasing the fifty acres of park land. The cost would not be too great, and a few years, besides making a pleasure ground for the residents of the city, a very acceptable income would be obtained from the park. The municipal street railway company would also reap some of the profit from such a good investment. The grounds of the School for the Blind, and Wilkes' dam were also visited.

ROMANCE OF LUSITANIA.

London, May 14.—A romance of the Lusitania developed yesterday, when Engineer John Welsh and Miss Gertrude Nelson, a milliner, were married at Manchester, the home of the bridegroom. GOOD REWARD GOING.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 14.—Owing to the reported presence of German submarines in the Mediterranean, says Reuter's Athens' correspondent, the British legation has issued a notice through the local press offering a reward of $2,500 to anyone supplying information which will lead to their destruction.

A suggestion has been made from Montreal to the Minister of Militia that the mourning emblem worn by relatives of Canadians who have given up their lives at the front for the flag and for what the flag stands for, should be white instead of black.

SUMMARY

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 14.—For the first time in the past six months, the authors of the German and the French official announcement in the progress of hostilities find themselves in agreement. The German communication admits the fact of the more important of the claims made by General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief as to the great successes won by the French between La Bassee and Arras.

If this attack can be pushed home the consequences will be still more marked, in the opinion of British military commentators, who are claiming to-day that a little further advance by the French will open a conspicuous gap in the German line, a development which will necessitate the falling back of the Germans on a wide front. To the north of La Bassee the British are doing little more than holding their own, but at the same time they are keeping green the offensive. German engaged, troops who otherwise would be available against the French offensive.

In the eastern field the German forces in Galicia, who are said to number 1,500,000 men, are reported to be within twenty miles of Przemysl. The Russians would appear to be developing counter strokes both on the west Galician front and in Bukovina and they claim initial successes, but military men here are careful of committing themselves on the outcome of these activities pending further developments. The hint made by Lord Haldane of the possibility of conscription has been interpreted in some quarters as meaning there is now less confidence that the war will be over by fall and that the authorities are making all their dispositions in case another winter campaign is necessary. The resignation of the Italian cabinet has not surprised the general public, but well informed political observers think that this is only a move in the game and that the final development will be the advent of Italy on the side of the allies.

The opinion has been advanced, although without official sanction, that the king probably will reinstate the cabinet and that Premier Salandra will accept the king's judgment equivalent to a vote of confidence by the country.

Hungarian Minister Talks Very Plainly

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Budapest, Hungary, April 26 (Correspondence)—Count Albert Apponyi, the veteran Hungarian opposition party leader, former minister and president of parliament, who is personally widely known in the United States and Canada because of his lecture tour of four years ago, has received the correspondent of the Associated Press and discussed frankly not only the present war conditions in his country, but what the European struggle may bring forth. He is a thorough optimist.

"I see no reason why after this war some understanding of the Western European powers shouldn't come," he said. "We in Austria and Hungary have no serious points of conflict with England and France. Under the 1870 had to make an effort to regain her lost provinces from Germany, but she must now see that the attempt is hopeless. She has had the assistance of the strongest possible coalition which could be arranged to help her gain her desire, and is farther than ever from success. It would be possible, I think, after the war, to reconcile her to the loss of some concessions regarding the autonomy of Alsace-Lorraine and enable her to enter the new coalition. England, too would have to give up her aspirations to absolute naval superiority over all the rest of the world—to a dominance which would enable her to dictate the affairs of the world—and content herself with the position of the first naval power."

The Hungarian leader voiced a thought to which many high placed men of Germany and Austro-Hungary are giving utterance—that the next thing on the cards, after the war, would be some form of understanding between the two protagonists in the present struggle—England and Germany.

BRITISH ARE

Germans have brought up great masses of men, and they had apparently been concentrating in Lille.

ASSAULT ON TRIANGLE.

"Preceded by a terrific bombardment, our troops delivered an attack upon the famous railway triangle west of La Bassée, where embankments had been converted into a strong, efficient fortress. So strong have they made their trenches with concrete and iron plates that it was found our artillery had really made very little impression upon them. Even wire entanglements were pretty nearly intact.

"The enemy also resorted to stratagem. He left his two first lines empty of men and material under a heavy bombardment, which was therefore harmless, but he was waiting for our infantry in his third line. At the same time the now famous brick veritable nests of machine guns. Nevertheless we came very near carrying our point and had reinforcements been on hand would probably have done so.

"As it is, things are again pretty much as they were before, and we have not only inflicted heavy losses on the enemy but have taken numbers of prisoners. Between Saturday and Tuesday night we fired a million and a half rounds."

The correspondent of the Chronicle writes:

Not since the beginning of the war has there been in the western front a battle on such a scale as that now raging along the whole front from Ypres to Arras. One has to go back to the battle on the Marne for another great action with a front of over 60 miles. There are two principal centres of activity from which since Saturday our combined offensive has been in progress of development, to the north of the British center, which has little for its objective, and to the south, where the French center is aiming at Lens. On the whole the French had it perhaps easier, as they are not faced as we are with the almost impregnable fortress of Lille, packed with immense reserves of men and material. This may explain the difference of fortune that has gone rather in favor of our ally's part of the offensive than for us in the fighting of the last few days. At the present time the French attack is growing in weight and fury.

Enormous forces are massed between Arras and La Bassée, and we expect sudden and, perhaps, startling developments in this quarter. There is also sure to be a series of counter attacks on the part of the Germans, who will not reconcile themselves easily to the abandonment of Notre Lorette, the golden key to this part of the country.

It is certain that our rushes into the outskirts of La Bassée, repeated again and again with utmost brevity, has cost us terribly in loss of life. A detailed description has been given me of the methods to which the approaches to La Bassée were defended by the enemy. At most unlikely spots our men came upon battalions of machine guns. Machine guns once more played an important role as at Neuve Chapelle. In the defence of the town their number appeared to be unlimited. Each group of a few soldiers is provided with one of these terrible weapons; nevertheless, on no occasion during an attack which lasted two days was there the least sign of German shortage of ammunition. In this part of the line, trenches constructed under the walls of La Bassée are made not merely of cement, but are sheltered by steel plates against our artillery fire. Under such circumstances it is not surprising that our repeated attacks had to be paid for in numerous human lives.

TO USE PRUSSIC ACID.

The heroism of our troops in returning again and again to the assault of positions of such strength is beyond praise. When details are known it will make a glorious chapter in the annals of our army. Since noon yesterday, the battle seems to have diminished in intensity, but we are firmly holding the positions we have won.

South of Armentieres the British batteries continue to bombard with great success the German works established in front of Lille, and to render the positions of the German reserves massed in this district, very precarious. A lesson to be learned from the carnage of these three days is this: In the endeavor to repulse our attacks the Germans are making a supreme effort at this moment. They can and will be able to stem our rush to a certain degree by throwing their last men in front of our batteries, but the day is not far distant when the allies' reserves of men will exceed those of the enemy, and then an onward march will be irresistible. To-day the wind is blowing from the south and prevents the Germans from using their poison gases. I understand that they have been using lately a mixture of cyanogen and hydrogen, producing what is commonly known as prussic acid.

WITH MORTAL WOUND, LED MEN.

Guy de Cassagne, director of L'Autorité, who is a second lieutenant of reserve, is mentioned in the army orders for showing "great bravery and real contempt of death."

Although wounded in battle, he continued to lead his men until he was struck by a second bullet. At that time he was in command of his company, and so long as his strength held out he encouraged his men and held them onward. Feeling at length led them onward. Feeling at length that he was at the point of death, he declined to be carried to the rear, saying that he desired to die in Alsace. His last wish was fulfilled.

New York German Socialists demand peace at all costs—in America.

THE COURIER

Published by The Brantford Courier Limited, every afternoon, at Dalhousie Street, Brantford, Canada.

THE SITUATION

The violence of the conflict in Europe has naturally tended to keep public attention from events in Africa but General Botha has been pursuing his course there with efficiency and precision.

General Joffre is continuing his offensive movements with excellent success. Canadians, because of the natural centre of their interest in the British forces, have been quite apt to overlook the role which the French have been playing.

A CONDITIONAL ACCEPTANCE

The North Brant Liberal convention, which was called to select a candidate for the Dominion House, at a time when the local Liberal manipulators have been yelling that it would be a "crime" during the war, to take any course favoring of election, seems to have been a peculiar sort of affair.

The local Grit organ, during the course of an introduction in connection with the proceedings, is careful to say—

"John Harold, manufacturer, member of the firm of Sanderson-Harold, refrigerator manufacturers, will be the candidate of the Liberal party of North Brant should the Conservatives spring an election on Canada during war time."

The candidate, himself, during the course of his speech of acceptance, had this to say in the same regard—

"He accepted the nomination on the understanding that if an election was called for during the war, he would act as a candidate. If, however, the government came down and worked in harmony with the Liberal party and the people, a further convention would have to be called. He had other work to attend to—a good day's work for a man, and this work would have to be done."

This makes it clear that Mr. Harold will only carry the standard in the event of a "war election," and that barring such an appeal, the Liberals of the North Riding will have to look for somebody else.

As a matter of fact, election talk at this time has been mainly promulgated by the Liberals. The high-up wire-pullers in their ranks sought to heckle and harass the Borden Government at every turn in connection with war measures, even to the extent of moving an amendment, which was a vote of want of confidence. Then they sprung a carefully prepared graft campaign, and had their literature circulated. In Quebec, the local Liberal Legislature was put up to pass a resolution denouncing the exclusion of French as the language of instruction in Ontario schools—a matter which was none of their business—and Sir Wilfrid Laurier personally went to that province to see that candidates were named. The scheme of stampeding the Government failed. The graft charges failed almost altogether, and Sir Robert Borden, by prompt action, read two M.P.'s implicated out of the party, and took immediate steps to safeguard future operations. The Liberals have thus found that they sprung their election literature too soon, and that their wholesale calling of conventions has been premature. Right here it may be stated that no call went out from Conservative headquarters for a contest. The two Brants, in which nominating conventions have not been announced, are simply one illustration of this fact.

Meanwhile, the Liberals in this constituency, after much searching, have as yet been unable to secure a standard-bearer, while in the North Riding, it will be seen that Mr. Harold has only accepted conditionally.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The London Western Fair managers has issued literature for their Fall Fair. Look here! Give us a chance at some kind of a helping to summer weather first, won't you?

Mr. A. C. Hardy, son of the late Hon. A. S. Hardy, has accepted the Liberal nomination for the new Riding of Leeds. It was rumored that the Brantford stalwarts were after him, but they will evidently have to do some more digging.

King George has officially had the name of the Kaiser struck off the British roll of the Knights of the Garter. A hangman's rope is the decoration which he has rightly earned.

The note which President Wilson has sent to Germany is remarkably restrained, considering the great provocation. At any rate, after speaking of the authorities there as men who have previously had a high regard for decency, he puts it up squarely to them either to repudiate the acts of their murderous pirates as against American citizens, or else to admit that their devilish deeds were wrought by authority. He also demands such reparation as can be given, and guarantees for the future. Taken altogether, it is a pretty stiff document.

IF ANOTHER

the nation, the conditions under which the American people can continue to live, not on terms of friendship, but of international enmity, with the German nation."

The Times says: "It may be said that the note leaves no point of the controversy untouched and touches nothing as to which there is not convincing and conclusive."

"The President brings clearly into view Germany's way out. He is conciliatory to the point of clearly indicating the terms of a reply that will meet our demands. She may disavow the acts of her naval commanders, which he with great candor assumes to have been committed without orders or approval, and she is asked to prevent effectually the recurrence of such acts. It may be said that we have left to her a hard choice, and that "Can it be hard for her to disclaim the intent to carry on Maritime warfare, barbarously, in disregard of the laws of nations and of humanity. Will the great German nation confess that it is resolved to carry on an unjust and inhuman war? The choice is hard only if Germany makes it so. It is the great diplomatic achievement of the note that it puts upon Germany the choice, not only of what her reply will be, but of what is to follow."

"The Imperial German Government will not expect the Government of the United States to omit any word of any act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens and of safeguarding their free exercise and enjoyment."

"These are grave words, they are spoken with a full sense of responsibility. They carry to the German government the thought and purpose of 100 million people united in the realm among them by whose authority this utterance is transmitted to Berlin. All depends on Germany."

The Herald says: "The President has expressed the unanimous voice of the great American republic. Whatever may have been the apprehensions of the nation, stirred to its very soul by the greatest series of outrages ever perpetrated upon a neutral country, these apprehensions vanished with the perusal of the note cabled last night to Germany. It might have been stronger; it might have been weaker; it will serve Mr. Wilson has overcome the cabinet who are for peace at any price. He has lived up to the very best traditions of his character. In a document which makes no threat, but which with the greatest solemnity states the unalterable position the American Government has made a request on Germany which is susceptible of but a single meaning."

Most significant is the President's plain declaration that expressions of regret and offers of reparation will not satisfy if the practice of Germany's submarine warfare on neutral commerce and neutral ships is to continue. In other words, Germany must squarely back down on the position stated in its note transmitted by Ambassador Gerard this week; it must cease its wanton work of murdering neutrals, or the government of the United States will not be satisfied."

"Naturally the mind turns to consequences. The position of Washington, as it is generally understood, is that it will do nothing to invite war. If Germany takes offense at the president's note it may declare war upon the United States if it wishes. On the other hand, if the German reply does not fulfill the ideas of right as clearly expressed by President Wilson, then another bridge is to be crossed, because it will have been reached. And if another American ship is torpedoed, the only thing to be done will be to start the Atlantic fleet toward the war zone."

The Sun says the note is impeccably urbane, though not without little ironies, in its tone, friendly in spirit, resolute in its assertion of American rights and of the freedom of the seas.

"The President has spoken firmly. The country, supporting him as firmly, awaits without passion the German reply."

The World: "President Wilson's note to the German government cannot fail to satisfy the highest expectations of the American people. It is calm. It is restrained. It is courteous, but with a cold, cutting courtesy that gives added emphasis to every word. There can be no mistake whatever as to the intentions and purposes of the American Government."

The American says: "The President's note to Germany may be an epoch-making chapter in American history. Its possible results baffle imagination."

"The president's letter is undeniably vigorous, but it is possibly dangerous as well. The nation desired that its rightful demands should be laid before the German Government, but it did not anticipate that the president would go so far beyond the plainly and soundly rightful scope of those demands as to invite a rebuff."

"The statement of the offense, the insistence upon assurance, that the offense would not be repeated were wholly justified, but were all that were justified."

"But the president goes on practically to protest against the use of submarines by Germany, in the war that country is waging on British commerce."

"This offers Germany the opportunity to retort that so far as we are concerned the method of her warfare against England is none of our business."

The Boston Post says: "The note from the Government of the United States to the imperial government of Germany, is all that a grievous nation to the aggressor nation should be. In it is the voice of the American people at its finest and best. It is a powerful appeal to German sanity."

"The strong note of the President of the United States, setting forth the feeling of the American people in this matter is not merely in the interest of this country, but of all countries, even Germany herself. Were she to see this; were she to admit her mistake; were she to admit her misdeeds; were she to say that she would commit it no more, she would gain far more in the long run than the mere futile destruction of a comparatively few merchantmen could possibly gain for her now. We may still hope that a chivalrous and kindly race—when the war fever is not burning its heart and brain—does not approve the killing of women and children, even under the plea of military necessity."

BATTERY BOYS GIVE VERY GENEROUSLY

Courier Tobacco Fund Gets a Good Lift.

The Courier takes great pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of a box of tobacco and cigarette papers from the men of the 32nd battery, C. F. A. The boys at home are not forgetting their claims on service, and as they say "other units please copy."

Altogether we are in receipt of over 24 packets of sweet Caporal and four packets of Orinoco, two packets of Players, two plugs and many packets of cigarette paper. This looks good and another box should soon be ready for the front. It should not be lost sight of that a contribution in tobacco each week will only be a small thing to you and an exquisite pleasure to the other fellow across the water.

By the way, those corncocks we got in are anticipated. A soldier writing home says he would like a pull at a cob again, so unless the submariners sink the Courier Box of Smokes, he will get one soon.

Put a "cob" in the box. Cigarettes are the favorite with the convalescents, and a packet of papers and some tobacco keep a chap busy while his wounds are healing, rolling and enjoying. This is a fact. Watch pictures of the wounded.

YOUR LITTLE SHARE. The request for a smoke would also suggest a light, and a box of matches, a corncob and a packet of mixture is one man's share. Surely you fellows can afford 15 cents for this little gift.

Herbie Milligan, the five year old son of Mr. Milligan of North Cobalt, succumbed to terrible burns received yesterday while endeavoring to recover a ball from a hollow stump.

A letter received from Sergt. Robert E. Smith, injured in the Battle of Langemarck, stated that he was wounded in the left shoulder, but the injury will not keep him out of the fighting line more than a few weeks.

Comptroller Fortescue of the mounted police who has just returned from a visit of inspection in the west, reports that the police are experiencing no difficulty regarding the alien situation in the police districts.

The death of Mrs. Levasseur, wife of the proprietor of the Jubilee House, Rice Lake, is reported. It is stated that the deceased lady had been suffering for some time with heart disease and was found dead in her bath.

WAR PERILS DO NOT DAUNT NEW STEAMSHIP IN RUSSIAN SERVICE

THE CZARITZA

In future maritime annals there will be a select little fleet of passenger steamships that were hardy enough to make their maiden voyages in the dangerous conditions of war time, and not least among these will be the new vessel of the Russian-American line, the Czaritzza, which is expected to arrive in New York in time to start the return half of her maiden voyage on May 22. Better than her English sisters in this fleet, who have only to clear the danger zone about England to get clean away on voyages, the Czaritzza begins her term of Archangel and for the first week almost will be fraught with possibilities not always pleasant. The Czaritzza is the latest addition to the Russian-American line's fleet, which now comprises five fast twin screw vessels that maintain a regular fortnightly service between New York and Russia.

TERRACE HILL AMUSED.

The people of Grandview are not in sympathy with the police in the matter of forcing all cyclists to use the roads because many of the streets in that section, as well as on the city side of the line, are in a pretty rough state. Therefore, it is natural that they should smile at a little affair which occurred last night in the heart of the Hill district. A certain young man is known to have said he would "four" the police, so High Constable Ker of Kent County Constable Taylor last night lay in wait near the corner of St. George street for the intrepid rider. He was too sharp and saw them first, or at least in time, and increased his speed. The officers were to be outdone and having a chase and, drove furiously along St. George street, to catch him. So the chase proceeded along Grand St., Dundas St. and St. Paul's Avenue, until the cyclist arrived at the St. Paul's avenue turnstile over the G. T. K. tracks. Here with his wheel he was easily able to pass through, and make his way unmolested, while the units of the law found their course blocked, and had to make a circuitous detour which thwarted them in the pursuit. Many people witnessed the chase, which was both exciting and amusing. It is the talk of the Hill.

AUTO MISHAP

One Young Man Quite Seriously Injured.

Speeding along at about thirty miles an hour, just on the level stretch outside of Hamilton before the hills are reached, a Brantford party of automobilists came to grief when a tire flew off and the car somersaulted twice before it ended its wild course in a ditch, where it lay until brought back to the city this morning.

As a result of the smash, Tom Vine lies in the Hamilton Hospital, where he lies suffering from concussion of the brain, while the others were pretty badly shaken up, but escaped with nothing more than a few cuts, and bruises and a shock.

Harry Kipp, to whom the car, a Ford, belonged, was driving when the right rear wheel suddenly went down when the tire blew out, and before he knew what had happened he felt the car turning over. He fell out and the car with its human freight, went on to end up in the ditch.

When the little party, there were four of them, all young men, got together, they found that young Vine was seriously hurt. He was taken to the Hamilton Hospital, in a car which chanced along, and the other members of the group found the radial a safe means of transit.

The car, which is badly battered, was to be seen at Hoag's garage. The bonnet was smashed, the windshield crushed, lamps broken, tires deflated and the body wrecked. The only part practically undamaged was the engine. It will cost about $150 to put it back into shape. The injured boy was progressing well when the hospital authorities were asked as to his condition this morning.

3,638 CANADIAN FORDS IN APRIL

Ford, Ont., May 14.—During April 3,638 Ford cars were built at the Ford factory here, a mark that not only is far ahead of any other automobile production in Britain's Empire, but also ahead of any previous record of the Canadian Ford factory. In March 3,030 machines were turned out, the largest month up to that time, and the goal of 3,500 cars for April was set.

Every possible means of speeding up factory output was employed, and with the plant running at maximum capacity the April goal was not only reached but passed by 38 cars. The largest single day's output so far was on May 3, when 177 cars were shipped.

The bankruptcy is announced of Westminster Abbey, dealer in guns and pistols, Frant street New York.

KEEP YOUR BABY WELL. Mothers can keep their little ones happy and healthy by the occasional use of Baby's Own Tablets.

There is no minor ailment of little ones that the Tablets will not cure, and above all they are absolutely safe and positively no injury can result from their use.

Concerning them Mrs. Henri Huard, Kingston, Ont., writes: "There is no medicine I know of so good for little ones as is Baby's Own Tablets. They have certainly been of great service to me."

Hans Helle, who tried to place a bomb on a French ship at New Orleans, will be freed.

France, at a place called —, in Belgium. The last place we were at in France was —. It was the best place we had been. We had six days' rest and have just arrived here.

"It is not that I would ever believe unless they saw the ruins of the towns and villages. The place we are at now, the people have orders to be cleared out in twenty-four hours. There will be something doing at any minute. The poor things go along the road crying, with four, five and six children, and all with bundles. That is all they can carry from their homes, as the Germans had already started firing on the town."

"It was awful. Some had little babies in their arms. They said the Germans were awful. The first time they killed the women when they did not do what they wanted. Some women have not seen their husbands since the war started. They do not know if they are alive, prisoners or dead, nor do they know where to find them. I often think how thankful we ought to be, for it is not our homes and towns."

INTERESTING GAMES IN SOCCER LEAGUE

Leaders in Opposition With Tailenders, Fighting a Duel.

There is a good programme of soccer games to be played in the city to-morrow as a result of which the strength of the various teams will be tested and proved. In this regard the games are of special interest.

THISTLES V. P. S. A.
The leaders, Thistles have as their opponents the runners up in P.S.A. and this game will draw a large crowd. P. S. A. have cut a good figure so far and their record is only one point behind that of the Thistles. Both are looked upon as first class teams and the clash to-morrow will be the deciding factor as to which has the crown. Referee Elliott has the game in hand, and with the game which both teams are playing he should not experience much difficulty. The probability is that the Scots will land ahead in a small score.

TUTELA V. PARIS.
Tutela have a very interesting game at Tutela Park with the Parisians. Neither team has yet come across with last year's form and they are just now bringing their organizations up to strength. The Tutelians have got together somewhat and have earned the right to go further in the Cour-

Wood's Phosphodine.
The Great English Remedy. Tonic and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes new blood in old veins. Cures Nervous Debility, Mental and Brain, Worry, Insomnia, Loss of Energy, Palpitation of the Heart, Fading Memory. Price $1 per bottle, six for $5. One will please, six will cure. Sold by all druggists or mailed in plain pkg. on receipt of price. Non-patented medicine free. THE WOOD PHARMACEUTICAL CO., BRANTFORD, CANADA.

ier Cup and if they keep up the form displayed last week they should account for Paris to-morrow.

SONS V. HOLMEDALE.
At the reverse end of the league table is to be found the Sons and Holmedale. This very fact makes their meeting to-morrow full of interest, for the weakest team in the league will be there decided. The sons have not had a great deal of practice and they feel that they are only coming into their own now. Holmedale are equally sure that they have not yet justified themselves, and intend to make amends. There is no doubt that both clubs have lost some of their best players, and are making the best of the present stock.

The line up for to-morrow will be as follows:
Tutela team will be represented by C. Gore; McLeod, Alexandra; W. Gray, R. Vining, P. McLeod, F. Lund, A. Elliston, E. Charlton, J. Hiscock, and Frank Clark. Reserves, Davis, Lloyd, Jackson and Glanville Ground, Tutela; kick off at 6 p.m. All players are requested to be on hand at the King Edward School dressing rooms at 5.45.

HOLMEDALE TIGERS
The following is the line-up of the Holmedale Tigers, at Holmedale Park. All players and reserves are requested to take the 5 o'clock car for Holmedale. Kick off 6 o'clock sharp. Goal, W. Short; W. Johnson, J. McGrattan, S. Mears, E. Hamilton, capt., A. Baker, B. Plant, W. Smith, Thos. Howell, A. Johnson, B. Dixon. Reserves, F. Wright, Wallace and Cartwright.

A meeting of the Brantford and Paris Football Association took place Wednesday, and the usual routine of business was gone through. The attendance at the cup ties was very good, and the takings were also good for $7.20 was the amount taken at Tutela Park and $8.65 at Agricultural Park, making a total of $15.85 during the evening. The draw for the semi-final of the Courier Cup took place, resulting in the Thistles and Holmedale at Tutela Park and Tutela and P. S. A. at Holmedale, to be played on June 12th. The following players were released: T. Edwards, from Tutela, and R. Drudge, A. Clarke, G. Whitton from Paris.

THISTLE LINE-UP
Brantford Thistles play the P.S.A. in a Brantford and Paris League game on Saturday at Agricultural park. For the Thistles the following team will line up: Tigwell, Cook, Taylor, Maich, Stewart, Harrington, Vipond, Linn, G. Richardson, R. Richardson, W. Richardson, (capt.), Reserves, W. Johnson, A. Johnson, G. Ramsey, J. Maley, G. Lapsley. All players are requested to be at the dressing rooms at 5.30; kick off 5.45.

P. S. A. LINE-UP
The P. S. A. football club selected the following players to meet the Thistles on Saturday at Agricultural Park. All players are requested to be on the field at 5.30; kick off at 5.45 sharp. The team: J. Bee, Another, W. Hollands (capt.), Goodreid, J. Hollands, Biggs, Usher, Perrin, Bonner, Robus, Fisher, Reserves, Richards, White, Linesman, Len Howell. Dressing room at Agricultural Park.

FIRST FOOTBALLER WAS KILLED IN ACTIVE SERVICE

Pte. Keithley of S. O. E. Gave Up His Life.

A resolution of sympathy was passed at the Brantford and Paris League with the relatives of the late Pte. Keithley, who was killed in battle at Langemarck. Keithley was a popular member of the Sons of England football team, being one of their most valuable supports during last season. Always a gentleman, he played a clean game, and it was with general regret, and the best of good wishes that the club heard of his departure for the front with the first contingent. Therefore, it was fitting that his memory should be honored by the men who had, in life, found him a true son of Britain.

¶ I want to reach every man in Brantford and vicinity, and I want a chance to prove that I can save them from nine to twelve dollars by buying one of my Fit Reform Brand Suits NOW.

¶ And when I say that I can prove it I mean just that. Every man in this city who is at all observant knows that I handle only the very highest-class of ready for service clothes, same as in everything else.

¶ And every man knows that these suits are real good value when sold for twenty-two-fifty, twenty-five and thirty dollars. I'm going to move them, and at a sacrifice!

MEN, THINK OF IT!

During the next ten days you can buy any suit in my store that originally sold for twenty-two-fifty (and don't forget they were mighty good value at that price) for just

FIFTEEN DOLLARS

¶ There are also Suits that I have been selling for thirty dollars, but there's only a few left. Act quickly and you'll be able to buy one for

'nuff sed. I'm here to show you, if you're willing to be SHOWN.

¶ Just opened up a big shipment of Swell Shirts that sell from one dollar up to four dollars. Ask to see our guaranteed dollar shirt, has a detachable soft lounge collar, and is guaranteed for color, for fit and wear. My East window is a good shirt talker—let it talk to you!

¶ And Neckwear—my store is a garden of Summer Ties. For fifty cents I can show you the the kind only seen in the BIG CITIES.

¶ Bow or Batwing Ties—During the Summer months when you generally discard your vest, there's nothing neater than a BOW Tie. They come in all shapes from the wide Butterfly Bow for the young fellows to the more conservative shapes for the "stand patters"—fifty cents.

¶ Don't let your collar stock get low. I've all the smart, new kind for present wear. Soft lounge collars in point or cutaway shapes with the new colonial stripes or small figures, also plain white in laundered styles, stripes and piques, 2 for 25c and 3 for 50c.

¶ Leather Belts in greys, browns and blacks. The new Elastic Leather belt is a boon to the man who never wears suspenders, 50c, 75c and $1.00.

CHAPTER VIII.

TO all men come portentous moments, difficult moments, important moments. Loder had had his examples of all three,
but no moment in his career ever equalled in strangeness of sensation that in which, dressed in another man's clothes, he fitted the latchkey for the first time into the door of the other man's house.

The act was quietly done. The key fit the lock smoothly, and his first glance turned it without hesitation, though his heart, usually extremely steady, beat sharply for a second. The hall loomed massive and sombre, despite the modernity of electric lights.
It was darkly and expensively decorated in black and brown; a frieze of wrought bronze, representing peac-ocks with outspread tails, ornamented the walls; the banisters were of heavy ironwork, and the somewhat formidable fireplace was of the same dark metal.

Loder looked about him, then advanced, his heart again beating quickly as his hand touched the cold handles and he began his ascent of the stairs. But at each step his confidence strengthened, his feet became more firm until, at the head of the stairs, as if to disprove his assurance, his pulses played him false once more, this time to a more serious tune. From the farther end of a well lighted corridor a maid was coming straight in his direction.

For one short second all things seemed to vibrate about him; the certainty of detection overpowered his mind. The indubitable knowledge that he was doing Loder and no other, despite all armor of effrontery and dress, so dominated him that all other considerations shrank before it. It wanted but one word, one simple word of denunciation, and the whole scheme was shattered. In the absence of this word he almost wished that the word might be spoken and the suspense ended.

But the maid came on in silence, and so incredible was the silence that Loder moved onward too. He came within a yard of her, and still she did not speak. Then, as he passed her, she drew back respectfully against the wall.

The strain, so astonishingly short,
had been immense, but with its slackening came a strong reaction. The expected humiliation seethed suddenly to a desire to dare fate. Pausing quickly, he turned and called the woman back.

"The spot where he had halted was vividly bright, the ceiling light being directly above his head, and as she came toward him he raised his face deliberately and waited.

"She looked at him without surprise or interest. "Yes, sir?" she said.
"Is your mistress in?" he asked. He could think of no other question, but it served his purpose as a test of his value.

"Still the woman showed no surprise.
"She's not in, sir," she answered. "But she's expected in half an hour."
"In half an hour? All right. That's all I wanted." With a movement of decision Loder walked back to the stair head, turned to the right and opened the door of Chilcote's rooms.

The door opened on a short, wide passage. On one side stood the study, on the other the bed, bath and dressing rooms. With a blind sense of knowledge and unfamiliarity, bred of his description on Chilcote's part, he put his hand on the study door and, still excited by the omen of his first success, turned the handle.

Inside the room there was firelight and lamplight and a staid air of order. The realization of this and a slow incredulity at Chilcote's voluntary renunciation were his first impressions.
Then his attention was needed for more important things.

As he entered the new secretary was renewing a volume to its place on the book shelves. At sight of him he pushed it hastily into position and turned round.

"I was making a few notes on the difficult position of Knorrassal, he said, glancing with slight apprehensiveness at the other's face. He was a small, slim man, with few social attainments, ing—the antithesis of the alert Blessington, whom he had replaced.
Loder bore his scrutiny without flinching. Indeed, it struck him suddenly that there was a fund of interest, almost of excitement, in the encounter of each new pair of eyes.
At the thought he moved forward to the "Thank you, Greening," he said, "A very useful bit of work."
The secretary glanced up, slightly puzzled. His endurance had been severely taxed in the fourteen days that he had filled his new post.
"I'm glad you think so, sir," he said, hesitatingly. "You rather puzzled the matter this morning, if you remember." Loder was taking off his coat, but stopped in the operation.
"This morning?" he said. "Oh, did I? Did I?" Then struck by the opportunity the words gave him he turned toward the secretary. "You've got to get used to me, Greening," he said.
"You haven't quite grasped me yet, I can see. I'm a man of moods, you know. Up to the present you've seen my sack side, my jarred side, but I have quite another when I care to show it. I'm a sort of Jekyll and Hyde affair." Again he laughed, and Greening echoed the laughter, but Loder had evidently discouraged child larly.
Loder eyed him with abrupt understanding. He recognized the loneliness in the anxious, conciliatory manner.
"You're tired," he said kindly. "Go to bed. I've got some thinking to do to-night." He held out his hand.
"Greening took it, still half distrustful of this fresh side to so complex a man.
"Good night, sir," he said. "Tomorrow, if you approve, I shall go on with my notes. I hope you will have a restful night."
For a second Loder's eyebrows went up, but he recovered himself instantly.
"Ah, thanks, Greening," he said.
"That's I think your hope will be fulfilled."
He watched the little secretary move softly and apologetically to the door, then he walked to the fire and, resting his elbows on the mantelpiece, he took his face in his hands.
For a space he stood absolutely quiet, then his hands dropped to his sides, and he turned slowly round. In that short space he had balanced things and found his bearings. The slight nervousness shown in his burlesque sentences and overcautious manner faded out, and he faced facts steadily.
With the return of his calmness he took a long survey of the room. His glance brightened appreciatively as it traveled from the walls lined with well bound books to the lamps modulated to the proper light; from the lamps to the desk fitted with every requirement.
Nothing was lacking. All he had once possessed, all he had dreamed of, was now before him, but on a greater scale.
To enjoy the luxuries of life a man must go long without them. Loder had lived severely—so severely that until three weeks ago he had believed himself exempt from the temptations of humanity. Then the voice of the world had spoken, and within him another voice had answered with a tone so clamorous and insistent that it had outried his surprised and incredulous wonder at its existence and its claims.
That had been the voice of suppressed ambition, and now as he stood in the new atmosphere a newer voice lifted itself. The joy of material things rose suddenly, overbalancing the last remnant of philosophy he had reared.
He saw all things in a fresh light—the soft carpets, the soft lights, the numberless pleasant, unnecessary things that color the passing landscape and oil the wheels of life. This was power—power made manifest. The choice bindings of one's surroundings, the gratifying deference of one's dependents—these were the visible, the outward signs, the thing she had forgotten.
Crossing the room slowly, he lifted and looked at the different papers on the desk. They had a substantial feeling, an importance, an air of value.
They were like the solemn keys to so many vexed problems. Beside the papers were a heap of letters neatly arranged and as yet unopened. He turned them over one by one. They were all thick and interesting to look at.
He smiled as he recalled the very scanty man—envelopes long and bulky or narrow and thin, unwelcome manuscripts or very welcome checks. Having sorted the letters, he hesitated. It was his life task to open them, but he had never in his life opened an envelope addressed to another man.
He stood uncertain, weighing them in his hand. Then all at once a look of attention and surprise crossed his face, and he raised his head. Someone had unmistakably paused outside the door which Greening had left ajar.
There was a moment of apparent doubt, then a stir of skirts, a quick, uncertain knock, and the intruder entered.
For a couple of seconds she stood in the doorway; then as Loder made no effort to speak she moved into the room. She had apparently but just returned from some entertainment, for, though she had drawn off her long gloves, she was still wearing an exciting cloak of lace and fur.
That she was Chilcote's wife Loder instinctively realized the moment she entered the room. But a disconcerting confusion of ideas was all that followed the knowledge. He stood by the desk, silent and awkward, trying to fit his expectations to his knowledge.
Then, faced by the hopelessness of the task, he turned abruptly and looked at her again.
She had taken off her cloak and was glancing by the fire. The confusion

POTATO SCAB TREATMENT

Potato Scab, which causes corky looking patches on the surface of the tubers is caused by a fungus known as Opsona Scabies. The disease is thus transmitted by spores. While it does not injure the tubers it affects the sale and the skin being broken often permits other spores to enter.
The treatment which though simple is very effectual, is as follows:—

- 1. Rotate the crop.
- 2. Avoid Manure from animals fed

Washington, May 14.—The of the note from the United Government to the German Government transmitted yesterday by Ambassador Gerard at Berlin is presented this morning to the Foreign Office reads as follows:
"The Secretary of State to the German Ambassador at Berlin, Department of State, Washington, May 13, 1915.
"Please call on the Minister of Affairs, and after reading this communication, leave with a copy.

"In view of recent acts of man authorities in violation of can rights on the high seas, culminated in the torpedoing of the British steamship Lusitania on May 7, 1915, by one hundred American citizens
their lives, it is clearly evident that the Government of the United States and the Imperial German Government should clear understanding as to the situation which has resulted.

MORE GERMAN ATROCITIES

"The sinking of the British steamer Falaba by a submarine on the high seas, March 23, 1915, by a German submarine, was a crime which Leon C. Thrasher, an American citizen was drowned; the April 28 on the American Cushing by a German submarine torpedoing on May 1 of the vessel Culligh, a coast guard vessel, the result of which two American citizens met their

the Lusitania, a passenger steamer, on May 7, 1915, by
one hundred American citizens
their lives, it is clearly evident that the Government of
the United States and the Imperial German Government should
clear understanding as to the
situation which has resulted.

"Recalling the humane and enlightened attitude hitherto assumed by the Imperial German Government in international relations, and particularly with regard to the freedom of the seas; having learned that the German views and the influence in the field of international law, as always engaged the side of justice and humanity, and having understood the instruction of the Imperial German Government to its naval commanders to observe the laws of humanity in the conduct of their operations, and the fact that the Government of the United States was loath to believe—it can-bring itself to believe—that the so absolutely contrary to the practices and the spirit of international law, and the spirit of humanity, and the fact that the Government of the United States observed with growing concern and amazement.

"SEAS SACRED FREED
"It feels it to be its duty, to address the Imperial German Government concerning them with most frankness and in the hope that it is not mistaken in its belief that the Imperial German Government will correct the unfortunate imp-which have been created—state once more the position Government with regard to the freedom of the seas.
"The Government of the United States has been apprised that
the Imperial German Government themselves to be obliged extraordinary circumstances present war and the means of measures or such a warning to operate as in any degree breach of the rights of ship masters or of American bound on lawful grounds as nationalities; and that it is
the Imperial German Government a strict accountability for violation of those rights, international. It does not measures or such a warning question those rights. It is the contrary, that the Imperial German Government accepts as the rule that the lives of citizens, whether they be citizenship or citizens, or ations at war, cannot lawfully be put in jeopardy capture or destruction of an merchantman, and recognizing all other nations do, the ex-take the usual precaution of search to ascertain whether suspected merchantman is in flagrant violation of the laws of contraband of war under flag.

"SUB. WARFARE ILL-
"The Government of the United States, therefore, desires to attention of the Imperial Government with the utmost urgency to the fact that the object of their present method of attacking the trade of their enemies is practical impossibility of submarines in the destruction of commerce without disregarding
