SUBS INVADED ENGLISH CHANNEL

Attempt Made to Close That Thoroughfare Failed Dismally

By Courier Leased Wire. New York, Oct. 5.—The New York World this morning publishes the following special cable from London, dated October 3: Although the fact is not known in England, not having been mentioned by any of the newspapers, the Germans last week sent all available submarines to the English channel. The object was, of course, to close the channel for once in accordance with German boasts. But the British navy was quick to deal with this menace, although the channel had been closed to passenger traffic for a few days.

WAR SUMMARY

London.—On the Somme front, the capture of nine 3-1-2 inch German guns is reported. London's official statement speaks only of artillery for every means to be used to cure the downfall of the chancellor with the suggestion that Admiral Von Tirpitz should succeed him.

The new Connaught tunnel which pierces Mt. Macdonald in the Selkirk Range is a marvellous engineering feat. The tunnel was cut through five miles of solid rock and saves miles of snowsheds and curves. Photo shows the entrance to the tunnel with the mountain in the background.

GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS STRIKES TERROR TO HEART OF THE ENEMY

Germany Hears With Alarm that the Russian Commander-in-Chief is Bound For Dobrudja Front—His Pressure There Would be a Threat Against Bulgaria and Constantinople

By Courier Leased Wire. New York, Oct. 5.—A cable to the Herald from London says: Most alarming of all the news recently published in Germany is the report, received through Stockholm, that Grand Duke Nicholas had left Trebizond for Odessa to proceed to Kieff and thence to go to the Dobrudja to take command of the armies driving south through Bulgaria toward Constantinople.

ONLY TWO DAYS MORE OF BOOSTER PERIOD—LARGEST AND THE BEST VOTE OFFER

Your Friend Will Help You if You Explain the Difference to Them What a Subscription Means to You Now and at the Last Part of the Contest

With only two more days remaining of the "Booster Period," the best offer of the entire contest, a real, live, energetic candidate can, without doubt, tell whether he or she will be a prize winner of one of the eleven grand prizes given away by The Daily Courier. You, no doubt, wonder how and why we can say the above, but it is self evident if you get in at the business you can before Saturday night you will get the big votes on subscriptions. And with these big votes you will see that it will not take many subscriptions to get over a million votes.

FOOD PROBLEM IS DIFFICULT

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Oct. 5.—Great difficulty is being experienced in provisioning Berlin, according to the Socialist newspaper Vorwaerts of that city, as quoted by Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent. The potato supply is said to have been stopped during the last few days, the interruption being attributed to lack of field laborers. The decrease in the milk supply is the object of anxious discussion by the authorities. The newspaper names many of the large milk dealers who have discontinued their consignments to the city, owing to the shortage and also to the fact that small quantities the profit has been slight. According to the information there has been a great rush to the soup kitchens, which now distribute 34,000 portions daily.

HUNS STARVE THE BELGIANS

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Oct. 5 (New York Sun cable)—Famine is at the doors of Belgium because of the requisitions of the Germans on the conquered population, according to The Times' correspondent at Lausanne. Meat is practically unobtainable, he says, and butter very scarce. Potatoes have not been seen for some time and prices are becoming impossible. Coffee is $1.50 a pound; chocolate $2.40; cocoa $3.00, and sugar 72 cents. The almost total disappearance of sea fish and the excessive cost of meat have made mussels a popular food.

BURFORD FAIR BEAT ITS OWN PREVIOUS RECORD

Over Seven Thousand People Were in Attendance - A Notable Display in all the Various Classes

There is only one event of the kind which can beat the Burford Fair in this county, and that is the Burford Fair itself. The trick was handsomely done yesterday, when the high water mark of three years ago was greatly exceeded. The weather was perfect, in fact hand-picked, and crowds poured into the village from all sections of this and other counties by auto, and train and rig, and any other way they could get there. Receipts showed an attendance of over 7,000, and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The crowded grounds presented a most animated sight and the event proved as usual one great re-union between city and country folk.

Still too crippled to walk, Mr. J. H. Fisher, M. P., was present in his auto. He could not mingle among the crowd according to his custom of other years, but his car all afternoon was the centre of a continuous reception and his many friends did their best to have his right arm also placed in a plaster cast.

Mr. W. F. Cockshott, M. P., was also on the grounds, greeting his many friends and supporters.

The exhibits were of a noteworthy nature both in the matter of quantity and quality.

Horses constituted a very large entry, particularly in the roadster and carriage classes. There was a total of 219 contestants. There were also 24 ponies. Cattle entries were double the number of last year. Sheep, lambs and swine were up to the average.

The Ladies' and Fine Arts Departments constituted a splendid array, as also did the Dairy and Provisions section.

Roots, vegetables and fruits were slightly below the average number, accounted for by unfavorable weather conditions during the growing season.

The horticultural exhibits were large and particularly fine.

The Children's Department contained a very large number of exhibits and attracted the most attention of any of the displays in the main hall.

The grand stand was jammed to witness the judging of horses and live stock, and the Gait Kiltie band rendered a very fine program indeed. It is most gratifying to an excellent musical organization.

The Courier Contest Auto was on exhibition and the car attracted much admiration.

Both sides of the roadways were lined with booths and stalls, the grounds, at the sides were also filled with them and likewise a large field opposite.

Mr. Fred Miles, the genial secretary, was on the job as usual, right up to the minute in everything, and he was ably backed by Mr. C. F. Saunders, the assistant secretary. The Directors and Lady Directors were also most energetic.

The officers of the Fair this year were:

Honorary President, D. G. Hamner.
 Honorary Vice-President, W. S. Wiener.
 Honorary Second Vice-President, G. P. Everett.
 President, D. H. Secord.
 First Vice-President, R. R. Taylor.

SAVE YOUR HAIR AND BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DANDERINE"

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fash, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else asserted, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

THE SITUATION

On the Macedonian front some splendid successes are recorded. The Serbians have swung across the Cerna river, and have advanced upon the mountains which are near Monastir. Already they have recaptured a large section of Serbian territory, including seven towns. At the same time the French and the Russian forces have advanced nearer to the defences of Monastir, on the West and the British forces on the Struma front are likewise making excellent progress. The outcome is the encircling of Monastir whose fall may be confidently expected.

In the Balkans the foe has recorded only one success. Von Mackensen's forces having driven the Roumanians who were invading Bulgaria, back across the Danube. On the other hand the Russians and Roumanians forced back Mackensen's lines at various points and captured more than one thousand prisoners, while the Roumanians have dealt another severe blow in Transylvania to Von Falkenhayn's army.

In the Somme, the French have cleared Eaucourt of the Huns, and have taken strong trenches and three hundred prisoners, and the British have also improved their position.

The Russians continue their big drive upon Lemberg and have chronicled fresh gains.

The Courier has more than once pointed out that although beaten, the Teutons are not yet by any means licked, with the chances yet in favor of the best part of two years to complete the job. In this regard, Gen. Sir William Robertson, chief of the Imperial Army staff, during the course of a speech which he made yesterday, said that while the Allies were winning "slowly but surely," he wished to solemnly impress the need for men in the army and in the munition factories alike. He had a serious word of warning to utter and it should be heeded.

"We are not justified in expecting to win the war unless the service of every man and woman in the country be utilized to the fullest extent. We must be under no delusion as to the end or probable duration of this great struggle. We must be prepared to continue for a time which cannot at present be estimated."

"In fact, we must prepare for the worst while we hope for the best. We have adopted in theory the principle of national service. We must see that we want more men, and we want them now, and eventually we shall want all who can be spared."

This message is not alone to Great Britain, but also to Canada and all the other Overseas Dominions.

THE Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN

There is no better influence for good, in this or any other community, than that exercised by the Y.M.C.A. It is not so many years ago that George Williams, at a gathering of a few men assembled in a small room, launched this great movement, whose activities from this very small beginning, have now become world-wide. The institution is primarily for the uplift of boys and young men, and the development of that moral and Christian fibre which means so much, not alone to the individual but also to the community and the very nation itself. The vast amount of good which the Y. M. has thus accomplished cannot be computed, not only during "the piping times of peace," but also in periods of war, as at present. In fact it is the general testimony that the Y.M.C.A. is to-day on the firing lines, one of the greatest factors for good and for public service.

For every reason, all classes of citizens should give every hearty support to the local branch, to increase membership and financial aid alike. One of the features emphasized is that $6 will pay the fees for a lad of from 15 to 17 years; $4 from 12 to 15; and $1 from 8 to 12 years, and subscriptions so designated are devoted to a membership for worthy youths who cannot afford the outlay.

There is no more important work in the whole land than the making of good citizens, and Brantfordites, as a duty to their own younger generation, and to future generations, will do well to extend the present campaign very hearty and unstinted support.

THE BRANTFORD FAIR

This annual event has become a recognized County institution. Unlike Topsy, it didn't just grow haphazard, but back of the success which is now on a permanent basis, there has been hard and intelligent work, and very keen care and foresight.

It is an excellent thing, through the medium of this splendid institution, to have city and county folk enjoy this annual foregathering, apart altogether from the educative and the stimulating value of the exhibits in the various classes.

Hats off to the Brantford fair management, and all concerned in any way therewith.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Those students in Montreal who tore down recruiting signs and afterwards had a clash with the police, need a good stiff dose.

The annual meeting of the Brantford branch of the Woman's Patriotic League, told the story of a splendid work, most capably carried out in every detail.

The official statement shows that since July 1st, on the Somme front, the British have taken 26,735 German prisoners and caused twenty-nine divisions (250,000 men) to be "withdrawn, exhausted or broken." The "ice cold haberdashers" know how to make things warm for the foe.

A negress has been lynched in Georgia. This does away with the claim that such things are only for one crime.

"Dis chicken committed suicide and I was the pall bearer" said a colored gentleman in a New Jersey Court. He will mourn for the bird during ten days in jail.

Informal expressions of regret on the part of Great Britain have been received by the State Department relative to the seizure at Hang Kong of American-owned goods. Assurances already have been given in response to a vigorous protest that no more such seizures will be made.

THE PURPLE EMPEROR

Dear me! You'd think a boy tumbled through the end of an opera glass into an enchanted forest of daisies would keep away from the opera glass, wouldn't you? Especially when he knew that in it dwelt an elf with lens eyes that shrank him up to the size of a fly. But not so Jan. Still another time Jan permitted the opera glass elf to tempt him into running through the golden tunnel. It happened this way, Jan took the opera glasses out of the bureau drawer and sure enough there was the elf, peeping out, alive and ready for mischief.

"The Purple Emperor wants you to come and visit him," he said. Jan remembered the splendid winged king in purple velvet and amethysts. But not trusting the elf whose eyes were so wicked and glossy he looked a little doubtful.

"He rules a wonderful purple kingdom at the end of the opera glass!" said the elf. "He told you didn't he? He rules the kingdom of the Purple Flower Fairies."

Jan's eyes grew very big. And—well, I might as well tell you! He did precisely what he'd done before. He ran through the golden tunnel. There beyond the window-lens by the forest of daisies, Daisy Fairies were dancing gleefully around the trunk stems and in their midst was the Purple Emperor with his magnificent jewel set wings flashing beautifully in the green air. He was willing to take Jan to the Purple Kingdom on one condition. He must promise never to ask again. A mortal could go but once to the Purple Kingdom unless he agreed to stay forever.

And so Jan climbed upon the back of the Purple Emperor and off they went, winging their way to the Purple land. And such a land! The grass was wistaria petals—the moon a violet. The trees were lilacs stood on end. The drops of dew seemed to be amethysts like the jewels in the King's wings. The lakes and waterfalls were violet perfume. As for the beautiful flower fairies they all lived in caves of iris, wore pansy velvet gowns and were pretty busy, making the fairy flower petals that dropped now and then upon the ground purple shadows such as we see at twilight near the mountains.

Every fairy had an aeroplane with purple wings, and the King told Jan that, if he ever found a butterfly that mortals call the Purple Emperor, named, if you please, after himself, to be very kind to it. It was likely a fairy aeroplane escaped from Purple Land.

I wish I could tell you more, but what I know, I know from Jan, and Jan at this point fell into a pot of twilight shadows and went fast asleep. And the kind-hearted Purple Emperor had to fly through the golden tunnel with him and drop him in his bed.

Confidence, Optimism and Determination in W.P.L.

Annual Meeting of Women's Patriotic League Reviews Once More Noble Part Played by Women in Present War and Promises More for Future.

Capable Officers of last Season All Re-appointed to Act Once More, and Future of the League Is of the Brightest.

Confidence, optimism and determination, the keystones of the local Women's Patriotic League were never more clearly in evidence than yesterday afternoon when with a very large and enthusiastic attendance the second annual meeting of the league was held. The session comprising the submitting of reports reviewing in full the year's work, the election of officers, all those of the last year being re-appointed, and the discussion of plans for the work of the league during the coming year.

The Red Cross Prayer, read by Mrs. W. C. Livingston, president of the league, served to open the meeting at 4.15, following which the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, as were also a number of accounts of the "White" of the last annual meeting of the league.

Thanks for Socks. A letter from Lt.-Col. Smith, of the Pioneer battalion, conveying thanks to the ladies of the league for their donations of socks to the pioneers.

President's Report. In her address as president of the league, Mrs. W. C. Livingston likened the league to the British army, now after two years, thoroughly organized and prepared to bear their share in the burdens of the Empire at such a time as this. Thanks were extended to the officers and members of the league, for their hearty co-operation and their efforts for the cause of the war. Mrs. Livingston reviewed the work done by the league for the British Red Cross Fund and the general work of the year, including the reception of the 15th Battalion, the Christmas gifts sent to the front, the organization of a First Aid class, the addresses for the Serbian and Mademoiselle Lidy Hotel and Mrs. Pankhurst, the tea served in the L. E. and N. cars, for the benefit of the French Secours Society, the farewell to the Misses Sheppard and Powell, who have gone overseas as nurses, the capacity of thrift and economy having been inculcated through the medium of the press, a collection of waste paper had been made through the aid of the 12th Battalion, whose men, upon leaving the city, received the same donations as had the 15th, which departed since that time. Thanks were extended to Miss Taylor, for her able work in the capacity of recording secretary. Collectors of clothing and other gifts for the suffering in the Northern Ontario fires. Thanks were extended also to the press, to the Brantford Laundry, the Hampel Box Co., and the Loyal Order of Moose, for their assistance and co-operation with the Women's Patriotic League.

The Secretary's report expressed thankfulness for woman's ability to take a part in the burdens of the Red war. The donations and other patriotic institutions were enumerated in full, as well as the gifts to the soldiers leaving the city. Field hospitals had been given to the 125th and 215th battalions, and a presentation made to Lt.-Col. Colquhoun, of the 4th Battalion, home on furlough. Through the collection of waste paper, a sum of $700.00 had been realized for the league.

Finance Committee. The report of the finance committee recommended the acceptance of the resignation of Miss Taylor, who for the past two years had officiated most capably as recording secretary, but was now desirous of availing herself of another offer of employment. Thanks were extended to all the members for their hearty co-operation in the affairs of the league.

In the period ending December, 1915 a sum of $86,000 odd had been received for the Red Cross fund; for the first six months of 1916, $33,000 odd, and for the months of July, August and September, 1916, well over $8,000.

Treasurer's Report. Both receipts and expenditures of the league were shown by the treasurer's report to have been more than doubled for those of the previous year. The total receipts totalled $111,000 odd; expenditures, principally donations and gifts to the patriotic institutions already named—$11,272.29, with a balance of $16.69 on hand.

Red Cross Committee. Mrs. R. H. Reville, convener of the Red Cross committee, reviewed her report for the work done in collecting for and donating to the Canadian and British Red Cross funds, and tendered her resignation from the post of convener.

Surgical Committee. Mrs. Tilley, convener of the surgical committee, reported upon the activities of that branch, and the supplies sent to hospitals in England and at the front.

The success of the campaign of paper collection was reported upon by Mrs. Sutherland, who urged the saving of other articles, such as rags, bottles and old iron.

First Aid. Miss Raymond submitted the report of the First Aid Committee, reviewing the classes held in that branch of work. Out of 36 novices who wrote upon the examination, 35 obtained certificates, as did also the full class of 33 in Home Nursing. Found Party for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund held at the Children's Shelter on August 4 last, the result being a most satisfactory collection of staples and $80.15 in cash, all of which was sent on to the fund. Arrangements were being made to have Mr. Lacey, a noted Canadian cartoonist of Montreal, give an entertainment in the Opera House on Nov. 15 next, reviewing the history of the war in cartoons. Mrs. Kerr read a letter from the Belgian Fund, acknowledging receipt of the donations.

Tribute to Mrs. Livingston. On the motion of Mesdames Nelles and Brewster, all the reports were accepted as read. The business of the league for the year being thus completed, and the officers all voted by their holders, Mrs. Cummings Nelles took the chair for the appointment of officers. A hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Livingston, the retiring president, was tendered upon the motion of Mrs. Marquis and Mrs. Nelles, the latter paying very high tribute to the work accomplished by Mrs. Livingston.

Officers Re-appointed. Mrs. Strong submitted the report of the Nominating Committee, recommending the re-appointment of the past year's officers. Mrs. Strong was appointed convener of the Serbian Relief Committee in place of Miss Carlyle, who desired to be relieved of her duties. It was also found necessary to appoint Mrs. R. H. Reville, re-elected from the Red Cross committee, as convener of the association. A vote of thanks, in appreciation of Mrs. Reville's work was tendered.

Plea for Co-operation. Following the election of officers, Mrs. Livingston took the chair once more, and after thanking the gathering for the honor paid her, made a plea for the same co-operation between all the members of the future as that which had existed in the past, and suggested the discussion of plans for the coming year.

Will Unite. It was decided in future to hold the meetings of the Women's Patriotic League and the local branch of the Council of Women in conjunction with each other.

On Friday, October 13, Mrs. Plumtree, secretary of the National Council of Women, will deliver a lecture in Victoria Hall, attendance at which was urged by Mrs. Livingston on the part of all members of the W. P. L.

Mrs. W. conveyed to the gathering the request of the National Council of Women for three hundred Christmas stockings for the front from the women of Brantford, two hundred for the soldiers and 100 for nurses.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the Brantford Laundry for the work done free of charge for the W. P. L.

Thanks were also tendered to Mrs. Feldcamp for the donation of a piece of embroidery to Mrs. Eleanor Cutcliffe for a contribution to the league, and to the Loyal Order of Moose, who had obtained for the Red Cross fund a portion of the receipts taken in by the Kennedy carnival during its stay here in August last.

Farewell to Duchess. A letter containing the farewell gift to the Duchess of Connaught, a donation to the Duchess of Connaught Prisoners of War fund, was handed, having been sent from the headquarters of the Canadian National Council of Women. It was decided to notify the affiliated societies of Brantford concerning this prospect.

Thanksgiving Dinner. The matter of providing a Thanksgiving dinner for the 215th battalion was also broached before the close of the meeting, an appeal having been issued to the women of Brant county through the medium of the press.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents. Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Affairs Quiet With the 215th

Peace and quiet have prevailed around the 215th headquarters on George Street, for the past few days, no recruits having been attested nor any deserters sent back to camp.

Quite a stir was created yesterday by the announcement of the surprise Thanksgiving dinner to be tendered to the boys of the 215th battalion by the residents of Brant county. Full arrangements have been completed at the local depot, by Pte. Tutt, who is in charge, for the reception of contributions.

Yesterday afternoon, Ptes. Tutt, Hodge, Mead and Humble motored to Burford for the purpose of securing a few recruits if possible, and also to canvas for donations toward the dinner. Their visit was a failure as far as securing recruits, but the generosity of Burfordites promised well for a large contribution toward the one hundred and fifty roast chickens and pies.

They intend visiting Mt. Pleasant this afternoon on the same mission, and expectations are for as hearty and successful a reception as they were tendered in Burford.

PUBLIC MEETING WILL BE OCT. 17TH

Date Fixed for Open Gathering for Semi-centennial Celebration.

On Tuesday, October 17 next, the plans and projects of the temporary committee in charge of arrangements for the celebration of Canada's semi-centennial anniversary upon July 1, of next year, will be submitted to the public at a public meeting to be held on the evening of that date in the city council chambers.

Such was the decision reached last evening at a meeting of the temporary committee. Little business of importance beyond the fixing of the date for the public meeting was transacted, the project of holding a field day for the school children of the county on the same occasion as that of the other celebration being once more discussed and favored by practically all present. It was introduced by Mr. H. H. Powell, of the Board of Education. Another matter which elicited discussion was whether to confine the celebrations to one day or to extend them to a period of probably three days, comprising Sunday, July 1, when special services would be conducted in the city's churches, and Monday and Tuesday following, when the civil celebrations would be staged. Although the general consensus of opinion was in favor of a three day celebration, as in nearly every way more desirable, no definite action was taken until after the public meeting on October 17. In addition to the projects of the temporary committee, a tentative list of officials and committees in connection with the celebration ceremonies will be submitted for ratification to the public at this meeting.

CAPTAIN ANDREWS

Has Withdrawn from the 215th Battalion, Will Devote All His Time to School for the Blind.

Capt. W. Norman Andrews, of the 215th Battalion, has tendered his resignation. The Educational Department, at Toronto, desired him to devote his full time instead of half time, as heretofore, to his duties as Musical Director at the School for the Blind, and he was consequently reluctantly obliged to take the step mentioned. Capt. Andrew did exceedingly valuable work in connection with 215th both in the matter of recruiting and as an officer, and the members of the Battalion, of all ranks, deeply regret his withdrawal, as he had made himself not only exceedingly efficient, but also very popular. The Conservatory of Music will still continue, with Mr. Thomas taking charge in the day time.

Under the new regulations, Mr. James, the musical scope at the Institution is to be greatly enlarged, including the introduction of a new organ, the formation of a pupils orchestra and also a pupils band with a bandmaster.

To The Editor

A HOME WANTED
To The Editor Courier:
Dear Sir,—We have on our list the name of a soldier, who was with the 125th Battalion, whose wife died suddenly, leaving a new born baby, while he was on his way overseas. This child has been ill ever since its birth, and we have experienced a great deal of difficulty in having it properly taken care of. We were fortunate in catching the soldier as the boat was sailing, and he has been transferred to the 215th battalion.

Our committee is putting forth every effort to find a home for the little child, and we thought that if you would make mention of the case, through the columns of your paper, some person might come forward and offer to take care of the child. We would appreciate it if you would give these facts publicity in your paper.

Yours truly,
H. T. WATT,

Music and Drama

At the Grand
"A Pair of Queens," the biggest comedy success that New York and Chicago have had in many years, and which is announced for an engagement at the Grand Opera House Tuesday, Oct. 10th, has as one of its authors Otto Hauerbach, the man who wrote "Madame Sherry," "Three Twins," "High Jinks," and several others of the biggest musical and comedy hits of the past ten years. Mr. Hauerbach has injected much of his humor in "A Pair of Queens," and New York and Chicago enjoyed it even more than that playwright's former successes. When "A Pair of Queens" appears here in the near future, local playgoers will see a production which taught Chicago how to laugh during a wonderful run of over twenty weeks at the Cort Theatre.

At the Colonial
"Battle of the Nations," as presented by the Andrews Company at the Colonial last night contained many funny situations and kept the audience in good humor from the rise of the curtain until the fall of the same, proving itself a fitting and pleasing comedy for the clientele of the popular Colonial, and should be greeted with capacity houses for the balance of the current week. The waste paper basket in some offices is emptied once a day, sometimes twice a day. Besides scraps of paper and envelopes it usually contains many circulars addressed to the man who seldom opens them.

There is no waste publicity in CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING. NEWS FROM SIMCOE

Teachers' Convention Meets
There—Telephone Dispute Receives Hearing.

FALL FAIRS
(From our own Correspondent.)
Simcoe, Oct. 5.—The trouble over the dispute between the Port Rowan Telephone Company and the patrons of the same was argued before the commissioners at the court house here to-day, commencing at 10 o'clock.

The company asking authority to raise the rates.

The county teachers are in session to-day and to-morrow here. The principal lecturers and their subjects are:

Chas. L. Spain, Asst. Supt. of schools, Detroit, (a) The Problem of Teaching Spelling; (b) Oral vs. Silent reading; (c) Measuring Progress in Arithmetic by means of Standard Test.

Geo. O. McMullan, B.A., B. Paed., Hamilton Normal School; (a) Agriculture in public schools; (b) Geography.

W. M. Townsend, Municipal Civics, Corporal Morley Knowles of the 133rd, till recently in the profession of the Port Rowan, is home on last leave from camp, and will, as president, occupy the chair.

There is no mention of the super-annuation address. The programme announces that Mr. Purcell, of the Lyric picture show, has promised a special line of films for the occasion which will be interesting and instructive. The announcement on the boards for to-night is "Vivian Martin in Stronger Love."

Pte. Geo. McCarey of the 133rd batt., from Waterford, called to-day to report that he had deserted from his battalion. Pte. McCarey is a young man, but he enlisted before the 133rd was dreamed of.

The customs returns at the port of Simcoe for September were $22,116.15, and for September, 1915, $2,407.32. The inland revenue for the first half of Sept. ult., was $2,574.23 as against $1,280.02 for the full month in 1915.

What is opening a meat shop at J. A. Calder's old stand, Robinson street.

Dr. Burt was in Melbourne yesterday, judging horses at the Fair there.

Dr. Eaid was judge of light horses at Tillsonburg yesterday.

Mrs. Chas. E. Euid, will judge domestic manufactures at the Courtland Fair to-day.

The Rebecca Lodge will banquet all members of the local L.O.O.F. lodge in khaki at 8 o'clock to-night. The Norfolk hospital from Camp Borden reached Simcoe shortly after one o'clock to-day, bearing the main body of the 133rd and pulled through to Port Rowan, dropping contingents along the way. The mounts of Mrs. Jackson, Innes and Burch, and Captain's Heath and McDowell, were brought over by Pte. Garland.

Bettie, the infant daughter of Pte and Mrs. John Wm. Norman, who died on Monday, was buried to-day at Oakdale.

Mrs. Wyatt, Waddle, is able to be about again after a serious illness.

Mr. Frank Norman, C.P.R. agent and telegrapher, at Jackson's store, has been obliged to take a month's rest to recuperate. Mr. Norman has had an exceedingly heavy business in hand for some months.

Mary Smith, of Waterford, was the third Smith to arrive at the gaol here in succession, under sentence. Magistrate A. M. Tobin gave the woman six months for desertion, not from any battalion, but from her four children. Her husband is with the 133rd and is, we are told, a good soldier. Mary's separation allowance will go to the children.

The teacher's convention, coming as it does, gives many of the children an opportunity to spend their time with "daddy" on his last leave before going overseas.

Some of our citizens consider that it is quite as proper to give a horse a work-out on the track on Sunday morning as it is to play golf on Sunday afternoon.

Tilsonburg, Oct. 4.—The agricultural fair to-day received a good patronage. The weather was ideal. The hall exhibits were hardly up to the mark—an evidence that the women are practicing economy during war time. There was not a strong exhibit of cattle, possibly due to the preference of the farmer and his sons to ride to the fair in the car.

The strong feature of the show was the horse exhibit. There were many entries in almost every class, and the awards were pretty well handed out.

Chas. E. Earl, of Simcoe, was on the light breeds, and Pat Farrell, the Woodstock veteran, carrying eighty years, had charge of the heavy stock, and is still able for the work as in years past.

Whitted Played, Ankle Broken

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—It was learned to-day that George Whitted, left fielder of the Phillies, broke a bone in his left ankle yesterday afternoon when he tripped on a pop bottle while chasing a fly ball in the first game between Philadelphia and Boston. Despite the injury Whitted played all through the double-header. In the second game he hit a home run and a single.

Barry May Yet Play

Boston, Oct. 5.—Manager Carrigan, of the Boston Red Sox, put his men through a light workout yesterday afternoon on Braves' Field, where the world's series games in this city are to be played. The squad was divided into two teams and ten innings were played. All the regular pitchers were sent in to work for an inning or two and batters were given plenty of opportunity to hit the ball in order to accustom the fielders to judging fly balls in the sunlit spaces and the shadows of the park.
Captain Barry was second-baseman of one of the teams, but his injured hand is still weak, and it is not believed that he will figure in the world's series. Jarvin, who had been at second in Barry's absence, is expected to play the position.
To-day a team of Red Sox players go to Worcester, where they will play a game with the Philadelphia American League team for the benefit of the Memorial Fund for John H. Gaffney, a former National League umpire.
Press headquarters for the world's series will be open at the Hotel Lenox, in Boston, Friday afternoon.

EVERYONE TALKS BUT M'GRAW

League and Team Officials
Do Not Believe Giants Threw Games.

New York, Oct. 5.—There was much conversational excitement in the baseball world yesterday. The only man who kept quiet was the man who started all the talk—John J.
McGraw, the stormy petrel of the big leagues. Everybody connected with the game had something to say yesterday about McGraw's remarks concerning the playing of the Giants against the Brooklyn club Tuesday, except McGraw. He did not make his appearance at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon when his club defeated the Dodgers, or rather the Dodgers' results, and second string men, in the third game of the series. The score was 7 to 3, and it was a dull, listless affair, almost as listless as the game on Tuesday which caused McGraw to walk off the field, and issue the declaration which set the world of sport by the ears.
"I'm through with them for this season," said McGraw, in that declaration, and apparently he is. Charley Herzog, the club captain, was in charge of the Giants yesterday. The race being all over, Wilbert Robinson rested up most of his regulars for the opening of the world's series in Boston Saturday.
It was reported that McGraw had left town, but this could not be confirmed. He was seen last night after it had received circulation enough to cause a terrible stir, but he said he had nothing to add to the remarks he made at Ebbets Field after the game.
The members of the National Commission, which is the governing body of baseball, are all in New York to make arrangements for the world's series, and are fully aware of the McGraw incident. It is not likely they will take any action in the matter, however.

Ban Johnson Speaks
Ban P. Johnson, president of the American League, and one of the commission, says that the affair is up to the National League, and not to the National Commission, anyway.
Johnson rarely overlooks an opportunity to swat the rival league, and he swung this one right from the floor yesterday.
"If they (the National League) are not big enough to handle it, they should go out of business."
That was not all that Ban said—not by any means. He put much harshness in his accents in speaking of John J. McGraw. Only recently, John J. McGraw and Ban Johnson smoothed out the corrugations of a difference that began back in the time when McGraw jumped Baltimore and the American League, and they were again friends.
Now—well: Personally speaking of McGraw's statement, says Ban, "I think it was an outrage, and had it occurred in the American League there would have been something done."
Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati Club of the National League, and spare man of the National Commission, was at the Waldorf to-day, but he declined to do much talking about the McGraw matter.
"This is the first time I had ever heard of this incident," he said. "At first I thought it was a joke."
"Do you still consider it a joke?" he was asked.
"No, I believe it was a fool act,"
he said.
Herrmann declined to say whether the National Commission would act at the meeting in Boston on Friday, but John H. Tener, president of the National League and the third member of the commission, does not think the matter will be presented to the high court of the game.
"I have not talked either with Manager McGraw, Secretary Foster or with any of the members of the New York Club about the stories in the morning papers, which intimate that the Giants' deliberately laid down," said the former Congressman and Governor of Pennsylvania.
"McGraw's action means simply that the wild Irish in him rose to the top when he thought his athletes were not doing their best."
Tener was present at the game in Brooklyn yesterday. He is an old-time ball player and is supposed to be more or less of a judge of ball playing.
"Personally, I believe every man was fighting tooth and nail to win,"
he said.
Harry N. Hempstead took a stenographer in hand to-day and had quite a bit to say.

SISTERS THREE

In another moment she was inside the gunsmith's shop, and Gaston had shut the door between themselves and the crowd. The old man put her into a chair and was regarding her with eyes that shone with pride and delight.

"Eh, Master Gaston, but you be a filthy maid!"

Then Gipsy began to laugh. With her this was the natural rebound from a period of strain and tension. She looked up into the dark, gloomy face of the tall man beside her, and something of Audrey's whimsical humor seemed to look out of her soot-brown eyes.

"I don't seem aware of it if you have."

"Eh, but it were a foine shot—that it were! Clean through the heart of he! I saw it'd bin afool to try! But the mad, her took the gun and shot un clean dead. I was fair mazed to see it! Eh, but if somebody hadn't done it, you widden be standing there so big and bold, Master Gaston!"

Gipsy stood up, arranging her hat and tilted curls with deft feminine touches, in spite of the fact that she had just been playing a man's part in a scene of extreme excitement.

"My father taught me to shoot. He said he must have a boy, and the only boy of us had died as a child, so he took me instead. I've shot at a mark from being quite a little girl, and for years I used to go out with the guns when we had our shoots. I can shoot with a rifle too, and with almost any gun. It's no credit to me, I was just taught."

"And I suppose you've been big game shooting, and think nothing of grizzlies or lions or tigers and that sort of small fry. A mad wolf is nothing to you?"

"Mad! Was he mad?"

"I heard so. It was all over the place this morning, that a wolf had gone mad and escaped. We were going to organise an armed search-party for the brute, when all of a sudden he was in the midst of us."

"A mad wolf!" Gipsy blanched a little, realizing the imminence of her own peril afresh. She had read of mad wolves in Russia, and the horror of the narrative might have been yet. "A mad wolf—and you knew it—and did what you did?"

Gaston very slightly shrugged his shoulders.

"The gun wasn't loaded, else I'd have shot the brute. One had to do something."

"Most people were content with shouting and yelling."

"Fools! They ought to have known that only made things worse. The brute might have kept on the skulk if they had not scared him by all that row. After that he was bound to try for something or somebody."

"I think I had better be getting home," said the girl. "My sisters might perhaps hear some rumor about a wolf at large and be anxious about me."

"I'll get your horse around to the other door in the back street," said Gaston; "you'll not be so bothered there by admiring spectators. And if you will give me three minutes I will order mine around from the Elton and see you home."

Gipsy appeared her lips to decline this offer of escort, but already Gaston had turned on his heel, and the girl for almost the first time in her life, experienced a sensation akin to that of nameless, nervous fear.

She realized that on the whole she would not object to company on her homeward ride. It would be strange company in truth; but then, were not the circumstances strange indeed.

Her enemy had suddenly become her champion; and then she had turned the tables once again and had acted champion for him. Somehow it made the whole situation strange and complicated. Gipsy felt as though all her ideas had turned topsy-turvy with her; but she tried to set them in order—to grip her emotions and get them under control. Never had she been more glad of her skill with a gun than she was to-day. It would have been simply wonderful for words if she had done all that for her and she had not been able to help or succor him. As it was the account was pretty evenly balanced between them. On things could never be quite as they were before.

That Gipsy felt through every fibre of her being as she put her foot in Gaston's hand and felt the strong upward swing he gave her to lift her to the saddle. The next minute they were riding away side by side, taking the least-frequented route from the town, and, though they did not altogether escape a few ovals from isolated groups standing about, the chief excitement now centred about the corpse of the great gray wolf.

The story of the prowess of Gaston and Gipsy was already reaching vast dimensions. With a twist of his grim-set lips he caused her by two or three items of information which had cutted, and the girl's clear laugh rang out more than once, albeit Gipsy was not quite herself. Her nerves were throbbing in a fashion quite strange to her, and her queer little thrills kept running all through her body, somewhat like those which she felt were agitating the frame of Viking, who started at every sound, snorted and paused before rounding each corner, and who tested her horsemanship pretty shrewdly to-day—a thing she could very well understand.

Gipsy saw that Gaston was scrutinising her and her horse, and more than once she saw that his left hand moved her way, as though ready to be laid upon her bridle-rein should Viking suddenly seek to bolt and break away.

"He's got the jumps pretty badly, poor chap," the young woman observed, with a smile that was less grim than usual, "and no wonder either! He's a lot of blood and breeding in him, and that makes for nerves. I wonder why he didn't stampe with the rest? You never can reckon on horses. It's either cut and run—or they stand like a rock and nothing will budge them. I've seen horses in a burning stable. It's a thing one doesn't wish to see most, especially when one's out for the money."

"I've seen them to rush back into the blazing building again to their death. One can't understand it, but so it is."

Gipsy rode on for a little while in silence. Then she spoke with quick vehemence.

"You saved my life—or Viking's—or both! I want to thank you for that."

"You needn't, for you saved mine afterwards, and we can cry quits as a matter of fact, don't think you were in danger, apart from what your horse might have done when he breasted him by the throat. I think he was going to spring for that."

"When you rushed out and grappled him with your bare hands."

"Do you call these my bare hands?" Gipsy held out a thick dogskin riding-glove.

"But against the teeth of a mad wolf!"

"Well he didn't get a chance with his teeth—you stopped that. I've had tussles before, but this with wild things before, I've been in tight corners before, but I'll tell you one thing—I wasn't clear a bit that in that crowd of yelling yokels there would be a single fellow man enough to take a gun and shoot the brute without shooting me. We don't bring up our youngsters as they were brought up once—handy and resourceful and courageous. We make 'em soft and nabby-pabby, and then we wonder where all the good sort have gone who used to be of some use. So I wasn't clear what was going to be the end of it unless old Treynana himself tried a pot shot, and he's bit old and shaky, though a fine chap in his way. He knows plenty about his guns, but I don't think he's used them much of late himself. However, there was one person here capable of doing the job, and that's all that really matters."

He looked at Gipsy and she looked at him, and a red flush dyed her face. Something in the look of those dark sombre eyes of his stirred a feeling in her which was new and bewildering. As though in self-defence, wildering. As though in haste she spoke out in tones.

"Perhaps you think that if I were a nice girl I should tell you that after to-day we would renounce our right of way through your plantation and that you could lock up and chain the gates as soon as you like, but I'm not going to do anything of the kind, so you need not think it!"

"I had not thought it, thank you," he answered, with a coolness which was somewhat exasperating, "and I have not the least wish that you should be a nice girl."

"Thank you; I suppose you mean to say that a girl who rides cross-saddle and shoots wolves with a gun never could be nice—is scarcely a girl at all, in fact."

"I don't know that I thought it out like that. All I said was that I did not expect you to be anything different from what you were—at least, that was what I meant."

"It was not exactly what you said though I dare say it comes much to the same thing. Of course I quite understand, I know what men are about, girls who do the same things as they do, and perhaps do them as well or better."

"Perhaps you heard what old Treynana said as we left his shop, did you? 'I'll be hanged if the women don't be as good as we at most kind of work!' So you have least one admirer behind you at Rockho."

Was he laughing at her? Gipsy's face flamed, though she laughed because she could not help it.

At this moment they came to the parting of their ways. There were the bridal path leading to the Crag and the wide road which would take him to his own home.

"Good-bye," she said, "and thank you—for everything!"

And, without waiting for other farewell or offer of escort, she set Viking at a long, smooth canter over the soft path and with a wave of the

Major Ashton Coming Home

Returning home through illness, Major A. N. Ashton will arrive very shortly in this city, according to an Associated cable received this morning, in which Major Ashton's name was given among a list of officers who have sailed for Canada. Major Ashton left Brantford with the 36th reserve battalion, under his brother, Lt.-Col. E. C. Ashton; he later received command of the unit, and after it had been completely broken up and drafted to the front, he himself was a short time ago transferred to France, where he was wounded about a month ago.

Music and Drama

The Grand

The most of friends and admirers which the sparkling comedian Albert Brown made for himself in "The White Feather" will no doubt be on hand to greet him when he appears in a sister piece "The Black Feather" is from the pen of the veteran Canadian dramatist W. A. Tremayne, author of many successes in past years and was especially written for Mr. Brown. Though he has provided for the latter a role somewhat similar to Kit Brent in which the actor delighted many thousands of Canadians last year, the story and action of the piece are entirely different. It is a comedy of war diplomacy, with an undercurrent of intense emotion and deals with the troublous days in London just prior to the outbreak of the war. Dick Kent (Mr. Brown's role) is the son of a diplomatist, and a member of the secret intelligence staff of Great Britain. For the purposes of his profession he poses as an idler. As such he is keeping watch on an Austrian countess and a German count who are using their best endeavors to get, at the private messages of the British foreign office, agent, the Berberian crisis. It so happens that the sweetheart of Dick has a weak brother in the service on whom the foreigners prey and at times it looks as though this boy would bring ruin and disgrace on his whole family by his indiscretions. The incidents by which Dick Kent saves the situation and wins the girl of his heart into the bargain are replete with humor, emotion and excitement. The play is very efficient cast, and this Mr. Brown promises. It will consist of actors with thorough training in English methods. He himself will have an opportunity to show that deft legitimate humor and brilliance of style for which he is famous.

The Brant.

Rex Beach's greatest story, "The Ne'er-Do-Well," filmed by the Sells PolySCOPE Company, will be presented by Manager E. Moule of the Brant Theatre to all lovers of high class film drama, next week.

This wonderful film play is in ten acts and made in the Panama Canal Zone, where a company of selling players reappeared in order to secure realistic atmosphere.

An all-star cast including Kathryn Williams, Wheeler Oakman, Eugene Bessner and other stars appear. Beautiful tropical scenery abounds together with unusual sights along the Panama Canal. There is not a dull moment in this extraordinary production which is a worthy successor of "The Spotters."

REV. MR. JEAKS DELIGHTFUL "BRANT"

Chaplain of the 58th Battalion, gave an address "Brantford to Ypres." Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., occupied the chair in a very happy manner and in a stirring opening address, briefly drew upon some phases of the war. He spoke of Mr. Jeakins as a minister who is a militant not alone in the cause of the Master, but also on behalf of the Empire. He had already done some good and had signified his desire to go back and do more. All class citizens were deservedly proud of the rev. gentleman.

Rev. Mr. Jeakins on stepping forward, was greeted with long sustained applause. He spoke without notes and his address was not in any sense of the conventional lecture type. It partook of the conversational tone and throughout, most entertainingly delightful.

The speaker first of all referred to the experiences of anyone going to the front as wonderful and beyond the power of tongue to adequately portray. All Canada should feel a thrill of pride in their men folk were accomplished for the cause of Empire, righteousness and God. The 58th Battalion had arrived at Plymouth on Dec. 28th last and after three months at Bramshott Camp, departed on the 29th for France. The order to march had been slated for 3 o'clock in the morning. It was characteristic of the military power that there was no time limit, men marched, night or got up at unearthly hours, just as they were told. They landed at a British port on the coast— he could not give the name. Then at dawn they were split up in packet boats to cross the channel which was very stormy. One could have accumulated all the battalions, but they were split up that in the case of submarine, other disaster, the whole regiment would not perish. He ventured opinion that 99 per cent. of officers and men were very ill, and they were bitterly cold as there were fires, or any other heat, they tried to rest on the top deck, two waves dashing over him to a change of mind.

landing at Havre they were to march three miles to billets. weather was raw, and the road and towards the end of the route snow storm was encountered on the east. On arrival they saw Tents in the front were with a joke and a smile, and boys said to each other, "Well would come!" (Laughter) They stayed there 24 hours and then they took train, or more properly a conveyance. The men, number of fifteen or twenty, packed in box cars, and the
